Taxes for schools may go down for some payers

By SUSAN TOTH Staff Writer

Midlanders who have claimed the homestead exemption allowed by the Tax Relief Amendment will see an overall reduction in their school taxes next year, despite the six-cent tax to enact next Tuesday.

Only two of the 15 people in the audience spoke at a Tuesday public hearing on the proposed tax rate in-crease from $1.20 to $1.26 per $100 valuation. Midland school district board of trustees held the hearing in the Administration Building. Using property valued at $50,000 as an example, à homeowner claiming the $5,000 school tax exemption would see a 5.5 percent reduction in his school taxes next year from $450 to $425.25, according to Don Ferguson, business manager for the school dis-

This car thief got a surprise

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -Jason the boa constrictor has not been seen since the night Lawrence and Alice Olivieri took him for a ride July 28.

As the reptile waited for his owners in the back seat, the Olivieri's car was stolen.

Olivieri advised the culprit via radio and television to "use caution, as there is a scared, live, 41/4-foot boa constrictor" somewhere about.

Two days later, the vehicle was found abandoned. The Olivieris beat the bushes, but did not find their snake.

Coast Guard scouring coast

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) - Vacationers surfed, swam and basked in the warm South Texas sunshine, apparently undisturbed by a Coast Guard counterattack against an invading oil spill.

Coast Guardsmen assembled a sophisticated array of equipment to scour southern Texas beaches soiled by tarry globs of crude from the world's worst oil spill, and to block oil now in the Gulf of Mexico from coming ashore. Gift shops reported a run on nail polish remover and other solvents used to remove the tar from the feet of beachcombers. But hotels were filled and Ralph Thompson, executive vice president of the island's tourist bureau, said: "We don't have a serious problem here.'

Stiff winds that pushed the slick toward Texas diminished Tuesday, stalling the advance of the several weeks off crude from a runaway Mexican well.

Reconnaissance flights over the Gulf detected several oil patches south and east of Corpus Christi, said Carl Posey of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

It was not known whether those sheens came from a 2-mile-wide, 6-mile-long slick that was seen bobbing in warm waters southeast of Corpus Christi. Earlier in the day, Environmental Protection Agency spokesman Roger Meacham said there was a "distinct possibility" the oil in the Gulf could damage the sensitive coastal ecology from Texas to

NEW YORK (AP) - Oil well troubleshooter Red Adair said today it will be four or five weeks before divers are able to control the runaway Mexican well whose leaking oil is washing up on the Texas coast.

Adair, interviewed from Houston on the NBC-TV "Today" program, said it is hoped that two relief wells being drilled nearby will soon relieve pressure pushing oil from the blown-out well. He said one is now 2,600 meters down, and the other 1,900 meters

"I've seen a lot of blowouts similar to this, but what makes this job particularly tough is (that) it's making so much oil and gas and it's in 170 feet of water," said Adair.

Texas Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said Tuesday he was told it might take six weeks to drill the relief wells. After touring a section of the coastal area where tar balls washed ashore on Tuesday, Hobby said he believes Gov. Bill Clements will consider declaring it a disaster area. "Chances are very good that long-term ecological damage can be avoided," Hobby said, "but we are going to see some very dirty beaches. It will look terrible, but they can be cleaned up without lasting damage...it will take a lot of effort and a lot of said Continental spokesman Jack Gregory.

None of the 34 passengers aboard Flight 253 was hurt, Gregory said. The flight originated in Houston and was bound for Tucson, Ariz., with stops in Midland-Odessa and El Paso, he said.

"He had a malfunction in his landing gear," Gregory said. "He had to go around a couple of times to see if he could correct it, and so he ended up making an emergency landing at the El Paso International Airport. Gregory said the landing was "lopsided," but he gave the pilot credit

"His airmanship was excellent because he brought that thing all the way down and the wing didn't touch until he almost stopped and it came to rest on the flaps," Gregory said.

The damage to the plane was not immediately determined.

'The plane has some damage, but we won't know what extent or what caused it until we get it into a hangar," Gregory said.

A Continental Airlines spokesperson in Midland said this morning that 22 passengers boarded the flight at Midland Regional Airport late Tues-

The flight departed Midland at 11: 13 p.m. Tuesday and arrived in El Paso at 11:37 p.m. (MST):

Fires still burning in five dry states

Weary but dogged, firefighters are looking to the skies for a break from strong winds and high temperatures as fires burn out of control in five dry Western states, roaring across thousands of acres of timber and range land.

"There's no force on Earth powerful enough to cope with what we've seen," said Gordon Stevens, fire boss on one of the biggest blazes, the Mortar Creek fire in Idaho. "Nature will just have to do her thing first."

Smoke from that blaze, which Stevens said "will rank with the greatest fires in recent memory," darkened the sky more than 100 miles away at Yellowstone Park on Tuesday, and state officials said the huge firefighting effort was taxing Idaho's diesel fuel supply.

From a bustling headquarters in Boise, Idaho, fire bosses were calling reserves from as far away as New England to battle 15 fires out of control in Idaho, Oregon, Montana and Wyoming.

At least 135,000 acres of forest and rai National Weather Service forecasts for the next few days held little hope for rains to help douse the flames: The Interagency Fire Center, a federal agency that coordinates and supplies firefighting manpower and equipment around the country, has mobilized a force of 4,500 - including 2,500 Forest Service firefighters, hundreds of Indians from reservations across the West and the Idaho National Guard. "Some of them have been out there since July 26th. They can't go on much longer and we've got to pull them out," fire information officer Barry Wirth Despite the effort, the fires, sometimes whipped by 30- to 35-mph winds, raged on.

The Mortar Creek fire along the Middle Fork of Idaho's Salmon River covered at least 50,000 acres by midday Tuesday. The fire was burning along a 62-mile perimeter and crews had cut fire lines through only four miles of the roadless wilderness, Stevens said.

In eastern Idaho, the month-old Gallagher Peak fire reached 57,000 acres, although its advance was stopped on the northern end.

Odessa man abducted from his trailer home

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A 21-year-old Odessa man was abducted from his trailer house late Tuesday when he came home after picking up his wife from work, she told Odessa po-

Capt. Larry Lindley of the Ector County sheriff's department said the wife of Michael Todd Franks, 21, said Franks picked her up about 41:30 p.m. Tuesday from her job as a clerk. When they arrived home, all the lights in their trailer home were out and someone grabbed him as they walked in the front door, she said.

She fled next door to call police, and the assailant forced her husband into Franks' white-over-grey pickup truck and drove off, she said.

About four hours later, two men in a pickup truck stopped to get gasoline at a service station in Abilene, and one of them asked the attendant to call the police and tell them he had been kidnapped. Then they drove off. Officers think the man may have been Franks.

The couple's small child was left sleeping in the house when Franks went to get his wife, she said. The child was unharmed and apparently slept through the incident, Lindley said. The officer said a rear door appeared to have been forced open in the trailer home.

Lindley said no money or furniture appeared missing, and it was unclear what the motive for the abduction

Midlander, 3, becomes a citizen

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

Many of us never appreciate what it takes to become an American citi-

For a 3-year-old Midlander, the dream many Americans take for granted was fulfilled Tuesday.

In a 35-minute ceremony, Jeremy John Garlington and 23 fellow human beings became American citizens. For Jeremy and his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Garlington III, 3618 Sinclair Ave., becoming an American is the culmination of a two-and-a-half year process.

The Garlingtons were wanting to adobt a baby while they were living in Virginia. Apparently, Gordon and his wife, Shirley, decided to adopt a child from Mexico. According to Garlington, they wanted a child from Mexico because his wife is half Hispanic. After consulting with an international adoption agency in Chicago, they were told about an infant in Mexico who was available for adop-

The Garlingtons flew down to Mexico City to pick up their child. At the time, Jeremy was three months old. Once back in the United States, the Garlingtons had to go through the old process where a person has to be in the United States for two years before he can become a naturalized citizen. The new law now allows for children born outside the United States to immediately become citizens if both parents adopting the child are American citizens.

Yesterday, the long process for the Garlingtons came to an end.

The ceremony was conducted in the U.S. District Courtroom of the George Mahon Federal Building in Midland. Twenty-four persons of 10 different nationalities revoked their old national allegiance and pledged their loyalty to United States. Most of the people petitioning for naturalization were from Mexico. Others were from Argentina, Jordan, the Phillipines, Vietnam, India, Iran, China, Korea and Germany

During the ceremony, Judge D.W. Suttle took favorable notice of the young Garlington's age and enthusiastic response in becoming an Ameri-

U.S. Magistrate Michael Cunningham explained to the new Americans the duties, responsibilities and privileges of U.S. citizens. Noting that our system is not perfect, he said the freedoms which are protected by the government reveal the genius of our system.

Afterwards, an American flag which was flown over the Capitol in Washington, D.C. was presented to Jeremy from U.S. Rep. Kent Hance in recognition of the occasion.

When asked how he felt about being an American citizen, Jeremy shyly replied, "Great". New Americans are not given to much talk.

But in time he will grow to understand and appreciate that freedom which allows him and all Americans to say "Great".

Hands off Ireland, Britons tell U.S.

'Things are bad enough'

LONDON (AP) - Protestant leaders in Northern Ireland and most of the British press denounced New York Gov. Hugh Carey's plan for a three-way meet ing in the United States on the embattled province. "Hands Off," said the Daily Express. "Things in Ulster are bad enough without American politicians trying to get into the act."

The paper accused Carey and other Irish-American politicians like Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of interfering in Northern Ireland to woo the millions of U.S. voters of Irish descent.

The storm blew up on Monday when Carey, following a visit to Britain and Ireland, announced plans for talks in New York on the future of Northern Ireland, the British province where 2,000 persons have been killed and more than 21,000 wounded in 10 years of Catholic-Protestant conflict.

Carey said Britain's minister for the province, Humphrey Atkins, and Irish Republic Foreign Minister Michael O'Kennedy had agreed to his suggestion, and the British-Irish-American talks were tentatively scheduled for September.

Atkins said Tuesday that he agreed to consider a U.S. visit, but "at no time was there any question of 'negotiating' the future of Northern Ireland at such

"The political future of the province is a matter for negotiation between Her Majesty's Government, the Parliament at Westminster and the people of Ulster," he said after outraged Protestant leaders in the province demanded assurances that Britain does not plan to barter on Ulster's future.

Among Protestants unanimously denouncing the Carey initiative was the Rev. Ian Paisley, who said: "If Mr. Atkins is going to open negotiations with people outside Northern Ireland, then he is heading for trouble. The future of Northern Ireland is absolutely no business of Americans."

He's not really dying so he's suing doctor

* CHICAGO (AP) — Harry Perry says he was just living from week to week. He couldn't look to the future — he thought he didn't have one.

Now, after believing for almost five years that he was dying of leukemfa, Perry, 53, has found out that he never had the often terminal

Perry, who lives in north suburban Schaumburg, says he should never have paid thousands of dollars for chemotherapy treatments, refused to remarry, quit a job, and generally spent almost five years depressed, lonely, and waiting to die.

And he has filed a $200,000 suit against the doctor and the hospital who he says told him he had leukemia in 1974.

'I definitely would have lived my life differently," Perry said Tuesday. "I've lost five years of my life. I was told I had a terminal disease. He (the doctor) said, 'live a normal life.' But you don't live a normal life."

Perry filed the suit against Dr. Arthur B. Dupee, an Arlington Heights blood specialist, and the Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

Efforts to reach Dupee and the hospital's administrator were unsuc-

Perry said that when he entered the hospital and took bone marrow tests early in 1974 for a leg ulcer, he had no reason to doubt the diagnosis of leukemia, though he never felt ill.

After being told he had leukemia, Perry said, he quit his job as a parts manager for an auto dealer. Later, he began working as a cab driver and as a bartender at a local American Legion.

Perry, who had been divorced about four years earlier, said he couldn't think of remarrying. "I couldn't do that to anybody. And there's the grief it causes your family.'

He took a room by himself in a Barrington home. He drank heavily. 'I was just living from week to week.'

Years of chemotherapy made him feel "a little sick," Perry said. When he finally entered the Great Lakes Naval Hospital last October, he was "really in bad shape," partly because of an ear infection, he said.

Perry said that's when the hospital began running tests and determined he didn't have the disease.

Since October, he has remarried and bought a house. He quit taking treatments for leukemia, and he says he feels great.

But does Perry believe his new diagnosis? "I think they (the Great Lakes Naval Hospital) were rather thorough in their testing," he said. "There were so many tests. And I feel great. "Definitely, I do believe it now."

The Federal Aviation Administration, announcing the four-year program Tuesday, said it will upgrade 86 satellite airports with electronic landing aids, automated weather-reporting equipment and improved runways, taxiways and aircraft parking

More stations will be open Sunday

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association reports more service stations plan to be open Sunday than at any time since it began weekly fuel reports in early May.

The Texas Division of AAA said Tuesday its survey of 415 stations also showed better gas availability on weekday and Saturday nights.

Gasoline prices rose an average of less than one cent a gallon the second consecutive week, but full-service premium recorded a new high of 94.2 cents, compared with 93.9 a week

DC-10 warning equipment urged

ROSEMONT, Ill. (AP) — Additional equipment to warn pilots of stalls, which the Federal Aviation Administration has recommended for the DC-10, would not have prevented a crash that killed 273 persons, a federal official says.

However, Hugh Waterman, chief of systems and equipment for the Federal Aviation Administration's Western Region, testified Tuesday that the FAA proposals should be put into effect to increase public Waterman was testifying during a National Transportation Safety Board hearing into the crash on May 25, the nation's worst air disaster.

Officials have said a stall contributed to the crash of American Airlines Flight 191 at Chicago O'Hare International Airport. The DC-10's left engine and mounting pylon pealed away from the wing when the plane was taking off.

The FAA has proposed that an additional "stickshaker" be installed to warn a pilot when the plane loses enough speed and lift to approach a stall, and that computers used to sense the position of lift devices on the plane's wings be programmed to get readings from both wings instead of just one.

The "stick-shaker" causes the pilot's control column to vibrate when the plane begins to go into a

And the wing devices, called slats, are metal extensions on the front part of each wing which provide extra lift for takeoff.

"During the re-evaluation (after the crash) we noted that with two stall-warning systems installed, the left computer received information only on the left slats," Waterman said. "The right-hand computer received information from the right inboard

Testimony predicted Monday

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The presiding judge in the second murder-for-hire trial of Cullen Davis has predicted that testimony against the Fort Worth industrialist will begin Monday

State District Judge Gordon Gray said testimony will start Thursday if defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes finishes questioning prospective jurors Wednesday. But Haynes said he probably would take two more days to complete defense queries.

Haynes, who questioned 11 prospective jurors Tuesday, faces at least 12 more before a jury can be seated. After a panel of 32 potential jurors is qualified, prosecutors and defense attorneys will strike 10 each. The remaining 12 will hear the case.

Davis is accused of plotting the contract murder of State District Judge Joe Eidson, who was presiding over the millionaire's stormy divorce from Priscilla Davis. The judge - who participated in a bizarre series of events leading to Davis' arrest - escaped harm. Davis later was granted a divorce by another judge.

Davis' initial murder solicitation trial in Houston ended earlier this

Haynes has made Davis an active participant during defense questioning of jurors, frequently becokoning his well-known client to his feet and asking prospective veniremen to study his appearance. During questioning, Haynes has repeatedly asked jurors if Davis' appearance "strikes discord in your mind, in your heart." One prospective juror Wednesday answered, "I may be a little envi-

"Maybe you should clean your glasses," Haynes joked.

Intervenors testify against TESCO

AUSTIN — Intervenors in Texas Electric Service Co.'s $88 million rate hike case began presenting testimony against the rate increase Tuesday. A Public Utility Commission spokesman said the PUC staff concluded its portion of the case Tuesday morning after a full day Monday of testimony concerning rate design. The intervenors, including the cities of Fort Worth and Kermit, Tarrant and Midland counties, Citizens for Fair Utility Regulation and other cities, counties and organizations, are attempting to prevent the $88 million hike in total revenue proposed by TESCO. The PUC staff recommended during its testimony that TESCO only receive a $27.16 million increase in base rates. The hearings in the case have been continuing for more than a week and are expected to continue at least through Friday, the spokesman said. Odessa woman released from jail

ODESSA — A 32-year-old Odessa woman was released from jail Tues-day after she was charged Monday with attempted murder and unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Odessa police arrested Martha Greathouse Daniels Monday in connection with a shoooting incident which occurred in an Odessa restaurant parking lot, police reported.

Angela Dawn Weigant of Odessa told officers that she and her two children were shot at about 4:25 p.m. Monday. One of the bullets struck an outside rearview mirror of a car owned by Janice Zorn of Odessa, potice said.

Ms. Daniels' car was stopped and police found in her car a pistol, four spent rounds of ammunition and two live rounds, according to the reports. Peace Justice Virgil Lumpee set bond at $12,000.

Tar not deterring vacationers

By KEN HERMAN

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) - For the Marshall Lutons of Tulsa, Okla., a little tar on the beach does not ruin the vacation they planned for four months - it just puts a little "dent" in it.

We're still having a good time...even though we have to clean up a little more," said Reba Luton, Marshall's wife.

The Lutons and their four young children were among the thousands of tourists on this South Texas Island who Tuesday discovered more clumps of tar than usual on the beach and in the water. Officials believe the sticky substance is the first trace of a massive Mexican oil spill that has been drifting north since June 3

"It's definitely different than it was here last year," Luton said. "We're kind of reluctant to go out and get it all over us.'

But the suntan oil on the faces of the children was proof that the Lutons were not overly concerned about the oil. Even 12-year-old Marshall Jr., who said cleaning off the oil was "too much trouble,", admitted he'll head back onto the sand and into the surf the first chance he gets.

"All it's really meant to us is that we came down a day earlier to get some swimming in before the oil came," Luton said, adding that the family has gone through quite a bit of nail polish remover in its battle with

The scattered clumps of oil did not seem to deter many tourists on the packed island.

They swam, surfed and sunned less than 50 feet from where a beach cleanup crew had turned its efforts to hauling a large vacuum truck that had bogged down in soft sand.

In a county park on the northern end of the island it was a routine summer weekday despite the dotted line of oily residue left by the morning tide. Some said it was not as bad as they had seen it in the past. Others said it was worse. Mary Mielas, who works in the hotel where the Lutons are staying, said business in the gift shop is brisk - especially for a product guaranteed to remove even the most persistent of oil. "But in the summer we always have tar. When it's hot it stays on the sand. When it's cooler it goes back into the sea," she said. "They're visiting and they're buying. No one's worried about a little But Mrs. Mielas was upset about reports of blatant profiteering. She proudly pointed out that the shop had not raised its $1.25 price tag on the tar

"I hear some of them are selling it for $2 now. Where there's a flood or where there's a fire there's always some wise guy.

Back on the southern tip of the narrow island, tourist official Ralph Thompson waited to answer one more reporter's questions.

"I think the island is being unduly persecuted," said the executive vice president of the island tourist bureau. But even Thompson admits there may be a serious problem if the oil coats the local beach like it did in

Mayor vows to stop KKK

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) -Mayor Emory Folmar has vowed to stop Ku Klux Klansmen from parading into Montgomery this weekend unless the group obtains a parade permit.

At a City Council meeting Tuesday, Folmar said he had heard that klansmen plan to march into Montgomery at the end of their trek from Selma along with path of a 1965 civil rights

The public assembly ordinance pro-

Bundy's attorney asks continuance

LAKE CITY, Fla (AP) - An attorney for convicted murder Theodore Bundy says emotions are too strong for his client to be fairly tried here next month for kidnapping and killing a 12-year-old girl.

Attorney J. Victor Africano of Live Oak, Fla., has asked in a motion for an indefinite continuance of the trial now set for Sept. 17. Circuit Judge Wallace Jopling set a hearing on the motion for Friday.

Bundy, who was convicted and sentenced to death for killing two university coeds, is expected to be brought here for the hearing from the Florida State Prison near Starke.

Odessa man among Benstsen's nominees for federal judgeships

ODESSA - Odessa attorney Lucius D. Bunton is one of four Texans whom Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has recommended to President Jimmy Carter to fill four federal judgeships in the federal court's Western District of Texas.

In addition to Bunton, 55, Bentsen recommended State District Judges Clyde Federick Shannon, 36, and Hipolito S. Garcia, 53, both of San Antonio, and U.S. Magistrate Harry Lee Hudspeth, 43, of El Paso.

Bunton is president-elect of the State Bar of Texas and is to became the bar's president in 1980.

Bentsen said that more 50 individuals were considered for the recommendations and that the four men selected were the result of "a careful merit selection process" over the past several weeks.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation will make background checks on the four men before their names are forwarded to President Carter for nomination. Carter is to submit the names to the Senate for hearings before the Judiciary Committee before a final vote. The four judgeship openings came Probabilities that the four will be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate are high, as recommendations by the state's senator rarely are challenged. An aide to Bentsen said the nomina-

Once confirmed, the four new judges will meeting with the two other Western District judges - William Sessions of El Paso and Jack Roberts of Austin — to decide who will become the administrative judge.

Bentsen said "complete integrity" was the No. 1 requirement for any potential nominee for the judgeships. Bunton, who has lived in Odessa since 1959, is past president of the Ector County Bar Association, is a

Two more Odessans in custody

Midland police arrested one man and placed a second juvenile in custody Tuesday in connection with the Sunday night stabbing of police officer Terry Lowe at a Midland nightclub, officials said.

Humberto Jimenez, 17, of Odessa was arrested on a warrant about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in Odessa, police said. He subsequently was charged with deadly assault on a police officer. Bond was set at $50,000.

An Odessa juvenile was placed in custody about 3:40 p.m. Tuesday in Odessa, police said. The juvenile is a 16-year-old male, according to offi-

The arrest of Jimenez and taking the juvenile into custody brings the total number of persons held by the police in connection with the case to four. All four of those are Odessa residents.

Hugo Garcia Bernal, 17, of Odessa was charged Monday with deadly assault on a police officer in connection with the case. He remained in the Midland City Jail today in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Bernal was arrested Sunday night at the scene of the stabbing.

A 16-year-old juvenile taken into custody Monday currently is being detained in Culver Youth Home. A detention hearing for the youth was held Monday afternoon.

Police today said there is a "strong possibility" there will be more arrests in the case.

A list of about 15 people thought to have been present at the Sunday night stabbing is being used by police to aid in further investigation, officials

Several Midland youths Sunday had driven to Odessa and met with the El Barrio gang there, Midland police said Tuesday. Later Sunday, members of both parties returned to Hogan Park in Midland.

From there the group went to El Rancho Grande, 409 E. Scharbauer Drive, where a disturbance occurred between the parties, according to po-

Lowe and Officer Al Chitwood were summoned to the scene and found the youths in two separate groups outside the nightclub, officials said.

When Lowe apparently attempted to make an arrest, he was reportedly jumped by the others. During the scuffle, Lowe was knocked down and stabbed, officials said.

Carter to seek lower food prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter plans to meet with meat packers, food processors and retailers to try to persuade them to lower consumer food prices, the Council on Wage and Price Stability says.

Alfred E. Kahn, the president's chief inflation adviser and chairman of the council, said in a statement Tuesday that "it is time for the American consumers to begin to realize the full benefit of decreased prices

He called on food "middlemen" to take a hard look at their profit margins, and said "the president will be meeting with leaders in the industry to discuss this problem.

major contributor to inflation in the first half of 1979 before they were outpaced by energy price increases.

Texas police chief may not be able to protect refugees

SEADRIFT, Texas (AP) - This tension-ridden South Texas fishing village of 900 remained under a late night curfew today in the wake of violence following the death of a Seadrift fisherman who was slain following a fight with Vietnamese refu-

Seadrift Police Chief Bill Lindsey said his two-man police force would be hard-pressed to protect the refugees that have remained in the village. Billy Joe Aplin was killed following an argument with his Vietnamese counterparts about their placing their crab traps too close to

"We heard there had been some threats of trying to run them out.
They said they didn't really know what to do. They said they didn't know what was going on. They've wanted to go out to their jobs again, but someone told them there could be someone out there waiting for them,"

The chief said it would be impossible to give the Vietnamese complete protection, particularly in the Gulf, where his force lacks jurisdiction.

The Vietnamese were given fishing jobs after a Maryland crab-processing company set up operations here three years ago. Townspeople soon began complaining about how they ignored local customs by putting their lines wherever they wanted.

Aplin pulled up their traps two weeks ago and complained to Lindsey when a group of angry Vietnamese surrounded his boat.

Last Friday, Aplin was killed after he had a confrontation with the Vietnamese, who told Lindsey that the fisherman provoked the incident. One 21-year-old refugee is jailed on a murder charge and his 20-year-old brother is being held as an accomplice.

Army clashes with revolutionary guards

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Army officers and enlisted men clashed with revolutionary guards in northwestern Orumiyeh to protest the execution of an army colonel and an army sergeant, and an undetermined number of persons were wounded by gunfire, press reports said today.

The soldiers were incensed over the executions Tuesday and staged protests within the military garrison in Orumiyeh, the reports said.

The demonstration spilled out into the city, leading to clashes with revolutionary guards. Several shots were fired until order was restored and the troops returned to their base, the press reports added.

The colonel and sergeant were convicted by a revolutionary court of complicity in the murder of protestors during demonstrations against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, whose regime was ousted in February by the revolutionary forces of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's Shiite Moslem lead-

Mohammad Haghu, governor general of West Azerbaijan province, of which Orumiyeh is the capital, blamed the strife on the revolutionary court. He said the court president, who reportedly fled the city fearing for his safety, was "an inexperienced youth of 25 who took things into his own hands and hurried the executions," the official news agency Pars reported.

Two months ago troops in the Kurdish city of Kermanshah stopped an Islamic tribunal from carrying out the death sentence against a corporal by keeping him under guard within the garrison for protection. The government has never given any indication how the problem was resolved.

In other developments:

-A prominent Tehran businessman was shot and critically wounded by two unknown men who shot him in the back from a passing motorbike as he drove to work from his home in a fashionable suburb, Pars said. Hours after the shooting, a caller telephoned a Tehran newspaper and said the shooting of the businessman, Ahmad Lajevardi, president of the Behshahr industrial group, was the work of the Forghan" group, which has taken responsibility for other shootings and acts of terrorism.

-Iranian political parties criticized a controversial press law that led to the closing Tuesday of the Tehran newspaper Ayandegan. One major group, the National Democratic Front, called on "all free political parties and groups to rise up against this kind of action, now and voice their objections to the Iranian people and throughout the world." The press law calls for the indefinite suspension of publications critical of the government or Iranian religious leaders.

-Khomeini issued an appeal on state radio, asking Iranian workers to end strikes and sit-ins so that the battered economy can be improved. Strikers "favor the enemy and foreigners," Khomeini said. "All classes of people must be united to rebuild what previous governments have destroyed.

-Revolutionary firing squads executed four more men in three cities today, including Orumiyeh, raising the total put to death by Khomeini's special courts to 389 since the February revolution.

Radio Tehran said the former police chief in Babol, northern Iran, Col. Mahmoud Kashi, and one of his policemen, Feysolah Falah-Moqadam, were executed there. Their crimes were not specified.

Pars said Okhof Kaab Kheiri was put to death in Khoramshahr for murder and armed robbery and an unidentified man was shot in Orumiyeh for adul-

Former supporter out to 'dump' Carter

By DAVID POWELL

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - For four weeks, Sergio Bendixen, a member of the Democratic National Committee, has been on the telephone and on the road working to dump Jimmy Carter as the party's 980 presidential nominee.

Bendixen, a liberal party activist, was among Carter's first supporters in 1975, when Carter was an obscure Southerner trying to make his mark in the presidential race by defeating former Alabama Gov. George Wallace in the Florida primary, a key test of a candidate's strength in the

But now Bendixen is running the Florida campaign to draft Sen. Ed-

"Since Carter went to the White House he has closed himself off except for a small circle," Bendixen said. "He's become more conservative. He's cut social spending and increased the military budget." Bendixen recently left the staff of Rep. William Lehman, D-Fla. But before doing so, he went to Washington for six months. "I got the feeling Kennedy was interested, that he did want to run, that everything he was saying publicly was just what any smart politician would say," Bendixen said. "I talked to some people who were close to Kennedy and his staff and I became convinced he would run if the political conditions in the country

So Bendixen, who says he met Kennedy briefly once in 1972, joined other fellow Florida Democrats unhappy with Carter in a drive to force

Kennedy into the race. Their immediate goal is a strong showing in the presidential straw ballot at the Nov. 18 state Democratic convention. To do that, they are trying to sweep the Oct. 13 county caucuses that will select about 890 of the 1,717 delegates for the state convention.

Estrogens may cause blood clots

BALTIMORE (AP) — Women given estrogens after childbirth to stop milk production run an increased risk of dangerous blood clots without gaining a significant benefit from the drug, a researcher here contends.

Dr. Jennifer R. Niebyl, an assistant professor of gynecology and obstet-rics at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, said estrogens reduce levels of an anti-clotting factor in the blood, increasing the body's tendency to form blood clots.

In a recent issue of the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Ms. Niebyl said the estrogens also fall short of preventing milk production and breast enlargement.

As a result of the study, she testified recently before a committee of the Food and Drug Administration, which decided to remove milk production suppression from the list of approved uses of estrogens

Ms. Niebyl and five other doctors studied a group of 50 women, half of whom were randomly assigned to receive estrogen, the other half a place-bo or blank pill.

New officers elected at a recent Newcomers Club of Midland luncheon at Midland Country Club are (seated) President Brooki Green and Vice President Sallie Kula. Standing are, from the left, Frances Huggins, third vice president; Nancy O'Brien, secretary; and Bobi Lloyd, second vice president.

life in Peace Corps

By ANN BLACKMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bea Alford, a 76-year-old grandmother from Santa Monica, Calif., is giving up her mobile home and Cadillac to enlist in the Peace Corps - for the sec-

She quit her $13,500-a-year job as a Peace Corps recruiter and will leave Friday for Jamaica to work with rural women, teaching them such things as hygiene, gardening and how to preserve food.

She is one of the oldest of some 330 Peace Corps volunteers over age 50 who are serving around the world.

'My son can't understand why I would give up a salary to do volunteer work," said Mrs. Alford, who has four children and 11 grandchildren.

"But I didn't like collecting material things and having to pay rent and stand in gas lines," she said. "Money was becoming important to me, and I didn't like that. I wanted to get away As a volunteer, she will receive a living allowance of about $100 a month. At the end of her tour, she will also get a read-justment allowance of $125 for each month she served.

In an interview, Mrs. Alford said her messages to the volunteers she has been recruiting for the last 10 years differ.

"I tell the young ones to give two years of their life, and old ones to add two," she said. "I try to make older people see they need to be useful. To be needed offers a new life."

Incentives for older Americans to sign up are that they still qualify for Social Security and that they often get more respect in foreign countries than they do in the United States.

Citizens of other countries 'sometimes find older people easier to approach," she said. "Older people can sometimes gain their confidence faster than younger ones."

The Peace Corps, started by the late President John F. Kennedy in 1961, now has about 6,400 volunteers, less than half the number of its peak years in the mid-1960s.

Mrs. Alford and her late husband, a carpenter with a cabinet business in Los Angeles, first joined the Peace Corps in 1964. He was 64; she was 62.

'We were getting to retirement age, but we weren't ready for the rocking chair," she said "We heard the Peace Corps was looking for carpenters, and asked if they'd take an old one. They said 'yes.'

The Alfords spent two years in English-speaking Belize in Central America.

At first they lived in a government house but found the local residents reluctant to come inside. So they moved into a thatch-roofed house with a dirt floor where the residents would feel comfortable dropping by. The only running water was in a river that flowed 100 yards from the house. Mrs. Alford did laundry there, scrubbing it on the rocks.

Mrs. Alford's husband died several years later of a heart attack, and last spring she decided to enlist again.

Grandmother finds 'useful' Load guarantees may be way of aiding Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP) - Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps says she leans toward federal loan guarantees as the most impartial way of helping the troubled Chrysler Corp., if the government decides to step in. She said it could take as long as another month for a decision to be made on whether to aid the automaker, which reported a loss of $207 million in the second quarter of this

Mrs. Kreps said in an interview Tuesday that granting Chrysler's request for $1 billion in special tax relief and a two-year waiver of the federal auto exhaust emission standards might not be fair to other auto companies

"I think you have to be careful, whatever you do, not to discriminate against other companies in that industry," she said.

Mrs. Kreps said that while the Commerce Department is involved in the decision on whether to aid Chrysler, the Treasury Department is the lead agency for developing the administration's position.

It is known there is considerable sentiment in the administration against Chrysler's request for the $1 billion in tax relief because, in part, of the precedent it would set. Mrs. Kreps raised the added objection that it would be favoring Chrysler over its competitors.

She also said it hasn't yet been established that Chrysler should get

"I think we just don't know yet," she said. "I think we ought to look at all the things Chrysler itself is doing and can do, and get a much better feel for what the long-range probability would be for a profitable enterprise if we made decisions A, B, C."

She said objections "could be overcome" if the government concluded aid would "restore the company to profitability" and save the 124,000 jobs that would be threatened in the event Chrysler went under. But she said there still "would be quite a difference of view if even then the government ought to get involved."

She said federal loan guarantees would seem to be the best solution "on the basis of my principle" that the government shouldn't favor one company over another. But she said "you have to look at what would help and what wouldn't help," and on that basis the loan guarantees might not be the answer.

The guarantees would amount to a federal commitment to repay loans that Chrysler would borrow from private sources, in the event it defaulted on the debts.

Mrs. Kreps said if the guarantees were given, they should be for loans "that would be repaid, loans that would, in effect, make a difference between being able to continue and not being able to continue.'

Any government help should be temporary, she said. "I don't believe anybody is trying to make a case for permanent subsidies," she added.

In other economic news Tuesday, the administration proposed to extend its voluntary wage and price guide-lines for a second year.

While no specific targets were set for wage and price increases in 1980, officials suggested a two-year guideline would be used for both.

Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said the recession now beginning will help cool the economy and allow the guidelines to work better.

Kahn also hinted that the federal government might try to penalize the automotive industry if it approves a new labor contract that violates the existing wage guidelines. He declined to go into any detail on possible penalties, saying only that the "auto companies are not totally independent of government."

During the interview, Mrs. Kreps made these other points:

-Proposed most-favored-nation tariff concessions for China will not be sent to Congress until after the SALT II treaty issue has been re-

Navy encouraged to 'test' territorial claims, report says

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - The Navy is planning to test territorial claims by some foreign nations that the Navy says inhibit its ability to move ships and aircraft, the Norfolk Ledger-Star

A new policy on the law of the sea instructs captains of the Navy's 450 ships and 5,000 aircraft to "go out of their way," in some instances, to contest territorial sea claims of more than 12 nautical miles, the newspaper said in Tuesday editions.

There are 28 nations that claim territorial limits beyond 12 nautical miles from their coasts. Defense Department records show that of the 131 independent coastal states, only 20 including the United States - still retain the traditional three-mile

There was no confirmation on the report from Navy officials or officials responsible for the United States' law of the sea policy.

The Ledger-Star said the Navy told captains in a recent memorandum: "In the future, there will be planned naval and air forces for the purposes of asserting U.S. rights in the face of excessive claims.

The paper said the memo required that ships keep detailed records of such transits or overflights, but that they should not "acquiesce to any requirements contrary to U.S. policy."

The newspaper quoted the memo as saying: "In certain instances, we must consider going out of our way to contest a claim. We must clearly avoid any irrational disposition of forces, but must ensure we are seen as unequivocably exercising our

The United States has been concerned in recent years about the claims of some nations that they have jurisdictional boundaries far exceeding traditional claims.

A spokesman said the Navy contends its freedom on the seas is challenged by such nations as Argentina and Uruguay in South America, Libya on the south coast of the Mediterranean, Burma on the Bay of Bengal and the Philippines in the South China

Those nations go beyond traditional economic or fishing zones, and in obtain permission before crossing

Argentina and Uruguay claim 200mile territorial limits and Burma and Libya have 12-mile limits.

And the chairman, Rep. Elliott H. Levitas, D-Ga., pointedly notes his panel is considering a request for $80 million to build new federal courtrooms throughout the country.

Levitas said Tuesday

he was not suggesting -"at this point" — bot-tling up the courthouse bill in his subcommittee. But he said he would like to see the issue of judges refusing to go along with the 78-degree order "cleared up."

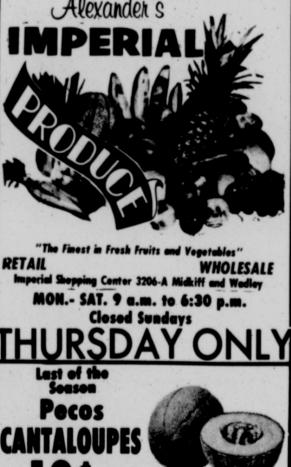

President Carter ordered air conditioners set no lower than 78 degrees in government and most commercial buildings as a way of saving

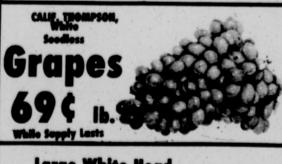

Levitas said the order "has been met with an astonishing and outrageous show of defiance from the federal judiciary."
"I would expect our federal judiciary to respect the law," he said in a statement.

Some federal judges have gone so far as to issue court orders threatening to hold government building managers in contempt of court for trying to carry out the president's directive, Levitas said.

He dismissed as "at least premature" reports in London newspapers that the cancer deaths of John Wayne and other actors may be linked to atomic bomb fallout on a 1954 film location in Utah.

"It's so early to run around and make these allegations," he said. "To say that the exposure that Mr. Wayne and others had caused cancer is just not certifiable. It's easy to make accusations but it takes a lot of time."

Injury jinx stares hard at Carl Yastrezemski

BOSTON (AP) - Carl Yastrzemski knows. His Boston Red Sox' teammates know. Just about everyone in baseball, including casual fans, It's no secret. The injury jinx is the biggest hurdle in Captain Carl's bid to become the first 400-homer, 3,000-hit player in American League history.

Yastrzemski, who will be 40 on Aug. 22, and his many followers received a big scare Tuesday the right forearm by Cleveland southpaw David Clyde in the Red Sox' 12-3 romp over the Indians.

However, Yaz escaped with a painful bruise, which, he hopes, cost him only a couple of times at

Happy that he had dodged a disabling injury, such as a broken arm or wrist, Yaz graciously absolved Clyde of any blame, even though the one-time Texas schoolboy phenomenon plate umpire Dallas was in a fleshy spot. Parks for hitting the Boston slugger. "I'm sure he wasn't throwing at me, not in that situation," Yastrzemski said after soaking the welt in ice. "I think it was a fastball that got away from him. He was trying to come inside on me and the ball drew a warning from hit me. Fortunately, it Clyde, still trying to prove himself in the major leagues at the age of 24, allowed only three hits, including Jim Rice's solo homer, in five innings. He walked Yaz in the second inning, then was tagged for a double by the Boston slugger in the fifth.

JERICHO, N.Y. (AP) - Judy Rankin opened the 1979 Ladies Professional Golf Association tour with 25 victories to her credit over an 11year span. Her career earnings were a hefty $652,618. With the current schedule past the halfway mark, the 34-yearold veteran finds herself without a victory, despite the fact that she ranks ninth in total earnings with $72,287 after 17 stops on the circuit.

"I have been a threeround player all season.' smiled the 5-foot-3, 110pound blonde from Midland, Texas, following a practice session Tuesday at the Meadow Brook Country Club, where she is the defender in a $100,-000 Long Island LPGA event, which starts Thursday over the par-73, 6,460-yard layout.

Joe Paterno waves Eastern resurgence

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) - Joe Paterno believes there has been a tremendous resurgence of interest in football as played by Eastern colleges and univer-

No one has done more to further the cause of Eastern football than the Penn State coach and his Nittany Lions. Paterno cites the enlargment of stadiums such as is happening at Penn State.

And he notes that Penn State, which last year finished fourth in the rankings, plans to go nation-wide in the future to uphold the East Coast's honor. This year, the Nittany Lions will play Nebraska and in 1981 they will begin playing series with Alabama and Notre Dame.

"If we're going to have the East come alive again, some one had to step forward and take on the challenge. We decided to do that," Paterno said. "Besides, big games appeal to me.

"Of course, sometimes I like to kid that we're going to start these series with Alabama and Notre Dame the year after I retire."

One coach who shows no signs of leaving yet is Paul "Bear" Bryant, whose Alabama team was top ranked last football season.

Bryant and Paterno were at the College Hall of Fame here Tuesday on a promotional tour along with coaches John Robinson of Southern California and Joe Yukica.

"I want to coach as long as they feel I'm contributing," Bryant said. "But I don't want to wait and let the program run down."

Bryant declined to speculate about becoming the winningest coach in college football history.

He is already has more victories than any active coach and is third on the all-time list behind Amos Alonzo Stagg and 'Pop' Warner.

"Winning is not nearly as important as it used to be," Bryant said. "My goals now are I want to help the player be a better person.

"I also want everyone who ever worked at Alabama to go away feeling like he's a better person." Robinson's Southern California team, which finished second last year, has been picked by many

Running back Johnny Hektor of New Iberia, La., claims he refused to sign with LSU after receiving threats that his brother's parole would be revoked if he went elsewhere. (AP Laserphoto)

Hector turns down LSU despite possible threats

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Running back Johnny Hector says he won't ask the NCAA to look into an alleged threat to send his brother back to prison unless he signed to play football for Louisiana State Universi-

"As far as I'm concerned the issue is over," said Hector, who signed with Texas A&M after his brother told him of the incident.

"I feel there have been other cases like this in the past that haven't been brought up and I'm sure there'll be some in the future. As far as my family and myself are concerned ... it's dropped," the hotly recruited running back from New Iberia said Tues-

Hector disclosed last month that an anonymous caller had told his brother his parole would be revoked if Johnny chose a school other than Louisiana State, where he had signed a Southeastern Conference letter of intent.

William Hector was paroled last February after serving one year of a 3-year prison sentence for negligent homicide. A state lawyer said Tuesday he told

Louisiana State University about the alleged threat. But neither Richard Crane, a lawyer for the state Department of Corrections, nor LSU officials would fayette who asked a parole officer for William Hector's phone number.

"We are satisfied that no official employee of the university is involved," Athletic Director Paul Dietzel said. "Since the entire matter is based on allegations or hearsay, it would be inappropriate for us to discuss any names. There is no reason for us to pursue this matter. Any further inquiry in the Hector recruiting will be in the hands of the Crane said Tuesday he gave the findings of his investigation of Department of Corrections involvement to Dee L. Glueck, LSU assistant athletic director. He said the findings included the identity of the LSU supporter who requested William Hector's telephone number from parole officer John Defee.

Neither Crane, Glueck or Defee would identify the caller Tuesday.

"What Mr. Crane has given us is the name of an individual who allegedly called William Hector," Glueck said. "We have not determined whether or not the cvall was made. Until that time, we don't feel the name should be divulged. We have no reason to believe any recruiting violation oc-

"Again, the information we received is just the name of an individual. We have numbers of individuals all over who are calling young men and urging them to come to LSU. We have no information to substantiate that a violation occurred," said Glueck.

Manufacturer to inspect Munson's jet wreckage

CANTON, Ohio (AP) - Engines from the wreckage of a jet airplane that crashed, taking the life of New York Yankees captain Thurman Munson, were to be packed today for shipment to their manufacturer for inspection.

Edward P. McAvoy, an air safety investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said the examination will begin Aug. 14 at Pratt & Whitney facilities at Montreal. "If the engines had power, we'll have to look at other areas (to determine the cause of the crash), such as pilot technique," McAvoy said Tuesday.

The two survivors of the crash that killed the 32-year-old catcher last Thursday differed in their accounts of how the accident occurred, one saying pilot error may have been a factor and another saying the aircraft lost power. Munson died when his Cessna Citation twin-engine jet crashed short of the runway at the Akron-Canton Airport while he was practicing touch-and-go land-

"We were aware Mr. Munson had a very limited amount of pilot time (in the jet plane). He was still in the learning stage," said McAvoy. He said Munson had 37 hours flying time in the jet aircraft, compared with more than 600 hours time in propeller-powered

David Hall, 32, of Canton, who was flying as Munson's co-pilot, has told federal investigators that pilot error during the landing approach may have led to the crash.
