Congressman Rogers Hopes No Change In Cotton Skip-Row Legislation

Washington, D. C. (Special) — Congressman Walter Rogers said today he was encouraged by developments in the campaign to prevent any change in skip-row cotton planting rules. "But the battle is a long way from over," he said.

Congressman Rogers has taken a leading role in Congress in opposing a proposed Department of Agriculture rule change altering the way that cotton planted in skip-row patterns is measured for cotton allotment purposes. Under the proposed rule change, a part of the non-cotton land would be considered cotton acreage.

"There are three very encouraging developments to report," Congressman Rogers said. He listed them as follows:

1. Chairman Harold Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee advised Congressman Rogers that the Department has given assurance that no final action on the skip-row proposal would be taken until the Committee has held hearings on cotton legislation. "Further, Mr. Cooley has agreed to explore the whole matter of a skip-row rule change during the hearings, as I and Congressman George Mahon had asked," Congressman Rogers said.

2. In its report accompanying the agricultural appropriations bill, the House Appropriations Committee stated, "In the opinion of a majority of the Committee the adoption of such changes would be a definite step backward, since it would result in a failure to fully utilize the results of extensive research in this area."

3. Farm organizations, Congressman Rogers noted, are unified in their opposition to a change in skip-row rules and have made their views clear to the Department of Agriculture and to Congress.

Odell Johnston Dies In Lake Accident

This community was shocked and saddened Wednesday afternoon when sudden death struck again.

The hour was about 4:45 when word was first brought to town that Odell Johnston had drowned in Holmes Creek Lake. The word spread quickly and everyone hoped that it was just a rumor or that it wasn't that bad. However, it was soon verified as fact. Odell Johnston was dead.

His body was recovered from the water less than an hour after he went down and although artificial respiration was given for some time, it was to no avail.

Odell, his wife Josie and their son David, and Josie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Thomas of Silvertown were at the lake together. All were on the bank with the exception of Odell, who was out in the middle of the lake in his fishing "rig," a plastic affair that fit around him much like an inner-tube and supported him in the water. He also had on a pair of swimmers rubber flippers. He was probably about 50 yards from the others, when Mr. Thomas slipped on the moss-slippery bank and fell into the lake. Josie jumped into the water to help her father and they called for Odell to come help them. He of course got out of his fishing rig and started swimming toward them. Observers said that he suddenly went down and never came up. Meanwhile Josie had gotten herself and her father out of the water. By the time help came and he was found, it was too late.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the First Baptist Church here.

The pastor, Rev. Bill Curry, will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Al Jennings, pastor of the Methodist Church here.

NEW "FROSH" ENTERTAINED

Thursday night, May 21, following the Eighth Grade Promotional Exercises, the new Freshman Class and its sponsors were honored with a party held in the backyard of the O. R. Stark home.

The yard was decorated with hanging lanterns, potted geraniums, and other colorful flowers. The refreshment table centerpiece was a large cake in the shape of a diploma, bearing each class member's name.

Ice cream sundaes were served from a lazy susan and lemonade was served with the cake and sundaes.

Coach Ted Schwarz directed the group in many games. One of the most funny games was "California Baseball". The object of this game is to pass an orange along a line from chin to chin without using the hands and the funniest part of the game was seeing a short person trying to pass the orange to a taller person and vice-versa. The games were enjoyed by all.

Those present were David Brunson, Debbie Brunson, Barbara Chandler, Oliver Clark, Larry Farley, Dewayne George, Karen Hamilton, Barry Johnson, Clemente Leal, Billy Jack Loudermilk, La Donna Matthews, Jo Beth Merrell, Jimmy Monk, Lynn Payne, Johnnie Pointer, Sherry Stark, Kay Turbfill, Coach and Mrs. Ted Schwarz and family, Jarrell Rice, speaker at the graduation ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Herrington. Everyone at the party seemed to thoroughly enjoy the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cobb of Wichita Falls spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Cobb and Janice. They were here to attend the Commencement Exercises. Janice was a member of the graduating class.

Mrs. Jack Cheatham took her mother, Mrs. Wiley, to Memorial medical attention Tuesday morning.

Arrangements are under the direction of Quitaque Funeral Home. Interment will be in Rest Haven Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be O. R. Stark, Jr., J. B. Baird, Buster Chadwick, Murry Morrison, Pete Blankenship and Ross Herrington.

Honorary pallbearers will be the boys who were in Sammie Johnston's graduating class of Quitaque High School. They are: James Starkey, Lee McDonald, Johnny Helms, Bob Saul, Robert Phelps, Joe Seay, Lonnie Cagle, Dellis Monk, Charles Barrett and Pete Durham.

Odell Francis Johnston was born July 25, 1923 at Texola, Oklahoma, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Johnston. Death came at about 4:30 p. m. Wednesday, May 26, 1965. He was 41 years, 9 months, 1 day of age. He had been a resident of Quitaque for 39 years of his life. He attended the public school here.

He was married to Josephine Thomas of Silvertown at Enid, Oklahoma, November 2, 1942.

A World War II veteran, Odell served his country for more than 3½ years, both in the States and in Japan. He was an automotive mechanic while serving with the armed forces.

Odell and his family came to Quitaque following his discharge from service and has been associated with his father in the well drilling business.

He was elected as a school trustee in March.

He is survived by his wife of the home; two sons, Sammie, a student at West Texas State University and David, of the home; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace O. Johnston of Quitaque; one sister, Mrs. John Kyle of Amarillo; his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Johnston of Lefors; two nephews and a niece and other relatives and many friends.

FLOMOT SCHOOL'S PREPARING TO MOVE TWO HOUSES TO CAMPUS

The Flomot School District is preparing foundations for two five-room houses from the Exell Helium Plant near Masterson, Texas. As these houses become vacant they are offered to schools at a nominal cost for teacherages.

Under the present program the houses are turned over to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The Texas Surplus Property Agency of San Antonio serves as middle men in the transaction.

The houses are expected to be on campus in a couple of weeks, and ready for occupancy for the 1965-66 school year. In years past the Flomot schools have lost excellent teachers because of the lack of housing.

but were tardy a time or two and could not be given the perfect attendance. Percentage-wise the high school classes' averages daily attendance were as follows: Freshmen, 97.42; Sophomores, 97.58; Juniors, 99.5; the Seniors had a 98.56 daily average attendance.

Dr. Edwin Kajihiro, head of the Biology Department at Wayland College delivered the principal address, giving the graduates some challenging ideas for the future, stating that "Hard Work is the Key to Success." He cited a number of very successful people of the past and present and told of the way in which they become successful—at years of hard work and "stickability."

Bruce Price, President of the Board of Trustees, presented the diplomas to the graduates.

Supt. Mason, who has been fighting a bout with hepatitis, was on stage for the ceremony, made a few comments after the diplomas were handed out. Mr. Mason stated that he and this year's graduates had one thing in common—they started out in QHS the same year.

properly prepared. After plants start growing, heavy survival depends on an ample supply of food and water and a pest-free, disease-free existence.

Flowers need the most food just as growth starts and again as they start blooming. Your dollar goes further if you apply several light applications of fertilizer instead of stuffing the same amount of food into one or two yearly feedings. Like people, plant roots use only a certain amount of food in a given period. Then the rest of it leeches away and becomes unavailable.

Most plants need an inch of water every week to keep them growing properly. Moisture dissolves the food and carries it down to the roots where it's taken up and distributed through the plant. Rains, of course, may do the job for you, but generally every year there are periods when gardens put out an SOS for water.

Pruning diseased growth helps to halt the spread of disease. Pruning excess growth lets in sunshine and promotes good circulation, making healthier plants and reducing the places insects can hide and multiply. By cutting down on their breeding places, you'll be able to control them more effectively than trying later to wipe out their millions of offsprings.

Plunger Duster

ers with higher pressure are your answer. These range from slide pumps that use separate or attached containers (some of them rollabouts) to the power sprayer on wheels. For gardeners seeking the most versatile equipment, a small power sprayer provides effortless, high pressure spraying at a moderate price.

The most important offensive action against pests and disease is to lay down a protective barrier of chemicals before the culprit attack. The National Sprayer & Duster Association suggest that by using a multi-purpose insecticide-fungicide spray or dust every other week from early spring throughout the growing season, you can control most garden pests.

Confused about whether to spray or dust? Either does a good job, but each has advantages. That's why most knowledgeable gardeners like to do some of each. The enticement to dusters is that they're light, easy to carry, always ready to use—the dusts require no mixing or measuring.

Typical is the gardener who carries a lightweight duster along on his trips to the garden. A small plunger duster is handy for quick spot control. It operates intermittently, discharging dust on each forward stroke and puffing it accurately onto individual plants. Fan-operated dusters broadcast dust in a continuous cloud. They come in several hopper sizes.

Dusting should be done in the morning or evening when the air is calm and dew is on the plants. Moisture helps dust cling to leaves. The idea is to obtain a light, uniform coating by shooting the dust up through the foliage, letting it settle, and then giving a touchup shot from above.

The better sprayers and dusters have extension tubes and adjustable nozzles or orifices to direct the pesticide up, down, or anywhere between—extending your reach right into the center of plantings— from a normal standing position.

Many gardeners prefer spraying because it usually costs less, it's easier to get complete coverage, and there is less drift. Spray forms a protective coating that sticks longer on leaves and bark, even through a light shower or two. Best time to spray is in the cool part of the morning before it becomes windy and hot.

Much outdoor garden spraying is residual; applying spray drop-lets to wet all plant surfaces. You can cover plants thoroughly by having enough pressure to swirl the spray through the foliage and by varying the direction and angle of the spray. The pesticide either contacts insects directly or coats the surfaces on which the bugs crawl or feed.

For a few plants, a hand sprayer does nicely. But most gardeners prefer one with a bit more capacity, such as a compressed air sprayer. These are available in several tank sizes from 1½ to about 4 gallons. Most include an adjustable nozzle for directional control and an all-purpose cone tip that adjusts from fine to coarse spray. Many include a fan tip, too, for flat-surface spraying on lawns or walls to attain even coverage from 20 inches or less. Rolling carts make it easy to transport a full tank of spray about the grounds.

Hose-end sprayers are convenient for spraying lawns with insecticides and fertilizers. Attached to the garden hose, such a sprayer operates by sucking a concentrated liquid chemical from a container and discharging it mixed with water from the hose.

To penetrate dense foliage and reach farther, hydraulic spray-

When it comes to spraying or dusting fruits and vegetables, there are certain restrictions. Pesticides specifically recommended for edible plants should be used. And it's important to follow the manufacturer's instructions of discontinuing the control program for a certain number of days before harvesting.

FLOMOT SCHOOL PREPARES TO MEET LIBRARY STANDARDS

For a school system to be accredited there must be at least one person on the faculty with six semester hours of college preparation in library science from an approved institution.

Miss Ava I. Humphreys resigned so late in August of 1964 that the Flomot Board of Education was unable to hire another teacher with library training.

At the May 14 called board meeting the Board officially requested that Supt. A. J. Barron go to summer school to meet that standard. The closest college approved to offer library science is North Texas State at Denton or East Texas State at Commerce. Supt. Barron hasn't stated definitely which school he will attend.

MORE THAN 15,000 EXPECTED TO ATTEND BAPTIST CONVENTION

Dallas (Spl.) — More than 15,000 Baptists from throughout the nation are expected here June 1 - 4 for the Southern Baptist Convention to conduct the business of the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

The convention will consider proposals to participate in a proposed North American Fellowship with seven other Baptist organizations; to limit the term of the convention president to one year; and to adopt a record $21.8 million budget.

There are three major items on the agenda, but several other key issues could possibly come up from the floor of the convention during miscellaneous business periods.

The issue of race relations is almost sure to come up during the meeting, convention observers say, possibly in the form of a motion or resolution or in convention speeches.

Some outspoken Baptists from deep South states have clamored for abolishment of the denomination's Christian Life Commission which presented recommendations last year on commending churches for acceptance Negro members, but most of the top convention leaders doubt the possibility of this coming up from the floor, or of such a proposal's getting far if introduced.

The Mississippi Baptist Convention meeting last November, for example, adopted a resolution opposing the Christian Life Commission, but defeated a section in the resolution which called for the commission's abolition.

Controversy over alleged "ballot stuffing" during voting at the convention in Atlantic City last year probably will not come up during the Dallas meeting, although a proposal to create a "credentials committee" to register the elected "messengers" (delegates) will be introduced.

The Baptists will vote on program descriptions of work carried on by two convention agencies — the Sunday School Board and the Brotherhood Commission, in addition to voting on the record $21.8 million Cooperative Program budget for 1966.

A committee named to study the convention's possible participation in the North American Baptist Fellowship organization will recommend support for the Fellowship. Last year the SBC voted first not to participate; then reconsidered and voted for a one-year committee study with a recommendation to the Dallas meeting.

Second reading on a constitutional amendment to limit the SBC president's term to one year will come up. The proposal was approved last year, but must be adopted in Dallas on second reading before going into

Green Thumb Tips

Most seeds do not come up overnight, although a few, like beans seem to. The seeds of most annual flowers take between a week and three weeks to germinate, so don't be in a rush to replant a row.

The precise length of time it takes seeds to sprout depends on many conditions such as air, temperature of the soil and moisture in the soil. All of these must be just right.

All vegetables are gluttons for fertilizer. It has been said that most gardeners could produce twice as much in half the space if they would give their plants sufficient fertilizer. Directions as to quantity to use are on the package. Read them.

Do you know the secrets of growing beautiful morning glories? There are two. Nick the seeds with a file before you plant them and select a place with poor soil to do the planting. Good, rich soil makes the plants grow vine and leaf rather than produce flowers.

Heavenly Blue is the most popular morning glory but there are many other varieties. Pearly Gates is a beautiful white, Scarlett O'Hara a bright rose-red.

If you didn't get around to fertilizing the lawn in March, do it in April or even May. Just think of all the leaf blades you are going to cut from the grass all summer. How can it make the growth needed if it is starved?

Single or double flowered portulacas will provide brilliance in that hot, dry place where nothing else will grow. They furnish a carpet of color that is hard to beat. All it takes is a packet of seeds and the planting — no further care.

Parsley and chives are necessities in every kitchen for flavoring, for garnishing. If there's a small clear area outside your kitchen door, plant a few seeds of each of these useful vegetables and have them handy to harvest.

Pretty pastel color schemes for the garden are achieved by planting Cleome Pink Queen next to salvia Blue Bedder, or heliotrope with pale yellow dwarf marigolds. It's best to plan color schemes, pastel or otherwise, before you plant seeds.

Remember that snags now, come in numerous heights, from 6 inches to 2½ feet tall — helpful to know when choosing varieties.

Most of the daytime sessions of the convention will be devoted to business actions, with evening sessions featuring inspirational messages and missions-emphasis programs.

The main convention begins Tuesday evening, June 1, and continues through Friday, June 4, at the Dallas Memorial Auditorium.

Numerous pre-convention meetings will begin Monday morning, May 31, including the SBC Pastor's Conference meeting at Market Hall, and the nationwide Southern Baptist Woman's Missionary Union Convention at the Memorial Auditorium. These and other related meetings end Tuesday afternoon just before the SBC gets underway.
