Quitaque's Fighting Panthers and Pantherettes won all three games played since last report.

Saturday afternoon, as a part of the Darrouzett Girls Clinic, the Pantherettes took on the Friona High Squads and came out with a 56-50 win in a game that was not as close as the score would indicate.

Tuesday night the local teams drove over to Hedley for a pair of games and won both of them.

The Pantherettes won 70-16 in a game that saw the entire squad in action, the reserves chalking up more playing time than the starters.

The Panthers had to fight for their lives before coming out on top of the Owls by a 65-42 margin.

Six Amendments On Saturday Ballot

Saturday, November 11 is Veteran's Day across the Nation. Here in Texas it is also election day as voters go to the polls to vote on six new proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. There are a few political races here and there but here in Briscoe County only the amendments will be voted upon.

Voting will take place at the City Hall here in Quitaque and the polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. Bert Grundy is the election judge.

Saturday, Nov. 11 the voters of Texas will decide on a Constitutional Amendment that concerns the future of state-supported higher education.

Amendment 6 seeks to alter a section of the 1876 Texas Constitution to allow non-elective state officers and employees to serve on State and federal advisory boards and committees.

The Constitution currently prohibits such appointments by stating that officers and employees of the state cannot hold more than one office of "trust, honor or profit." The provision will still not allow state officials to hold two bona fide and salaried offices.

Much of the contract research being conducted by the federal government is guided by personnel serving in an advisory capacity. With no representation by the members of Texas' public institutions on these boards, the state is placed at a serious disadvantage. The state loses millions of dollars by not obtaining such contracts, and research, and federal grants.

Appointments to the various advisory boards can greatly help faculty members keep abreast of developments within their fields.

Approval of Amendment 6 also would benefit Texas' state-support-

FLOMOT TEAMS SPLIT GAMES WITH MCADOO AND ESTELLINE

Flomot split basketball games with McAdoo last Friday night in a doubleheader played at Flomot, Longhorns losing to the Eagles, 61-73, while the Flomot girls beat the visitors 38-37. Bill Tidwell led the winners with 32 points.

Sue Gilbert popped the nets for 21 points to lead her team to a 1-point decision over the McAdoo girls.

Tuesday night the Flomot teams hosted Estelline High in a pair of games and split those also, the boys whacking Estelline 68-50 behind a 31 point output by George Calvert. The Flomot girls were outscored by the Bearettes, 52-45.

Monty Longbine had 12 points to lead Estelline. Flomot held 12-3 at the end of the first period and increased it to 36-22 at half-time.

Cherri Rapp scored 36 points to pace the Bearettes to their win. Pam Morris scored 12 points to lead Flomot.

The Flomot boys are now 3-3 for the season and the girls have won 4 and lost 2.

The Flomot teams journey to Girard Friday night for a pair of games and Tuesday night the Flomot boys will go to Estelline. The girls are not scheduled to play.

ed colleges and universities by allowing employees of government agencies, NASA scientists for example, to accept appointments as part-time faculty members and consultants.

Amendment 6 does not allow a person to be paid for holding both offices. It does permit an individual to accept per diem and allowance for his secondary appointment. And, all such appointments must be approved by the State Legislature.

Another amendment to be voted on and which will receive favorable vote from many is Amendment No. 3. The new Constitutional Amendment will be voted on November 11 will give the people of Texas an opportunity to show their appreciation to the many veterans of Texas for the time spent in the service of their country. Veterans of Vietnam have not had an opportunity to buy land in Texas, along with other veterans who fought in World War II and the Korean War. It would include any veteran who served from September 1940 to the date of formal withdrawal of troops from the present armed conflict in Vietnam. All veterans who entered the service from Texas and are presently living in Texas would be permitted to purchase under the program. All those who have moved to Texas and have resided in Texas for at least five years prior to making application to purchase under the program would also be eligible.

Consider these and all other proposed Constitutional Amendments to be voted on Saturday. Vote your convictions on these matters—but vote!

Commercial and Farm Reseal Loan Program Announced

Wheat, corn, sorghum, soybeans, oats, and barley from the 1967 crops which are under price-support loans in commercial storage, will be eligible for loan extensions (reseal) before the respective crop loans mature in the spring and summer of 1968, it was announced October 26, 1967 by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Farm storage loan will also be available, subject to the approval of the State ASC Committee. Decisions on resealing of current crops are normally made near the end of the marketing year. This early announcement will permit better advance planning by farmers and should strengthen prices.

All farmers who are eligible for price support on 1967 crops will be eligible for reseal in commercial storage or farm storage if approved for the State. Storage costs accruing during the reseal period will be paid by CCC. These payments will be made to farmers who provide farm storage or who prepay warehouse storage charges for the extended period. If warehouse charges are not prepaid, CCC will make these payments for the extended period direct to the storing warehouseman. Payments by CCC to the warehouseman will not relieve producers of their obligation for warehouse charges which accrued during the initial loan period.

Secretary Freeman, in making this announcement, declared, "I think it's much better to establish conditions under which commodities can be carried over into the next marketing year with farmers owning the grain, on their farm, in their cooperative elevators, or in privately owned facilities—than to have the commodities forced on the market or delivered to CCC. This action can materially strengthen prices in the year ahead. For the first time, it gives farmers in many areas a practical opportunity to use reseal.

For many years, USDA has offered reseal privileges for certain commodities stored on the farm. This program has been used as an aid to orderly marketing, especially when production exceeded expected utilization or when market prices were weak. Extension of the reseal program to commercial storage facilities will give more farmers a chance to plan long-range marketing and avoid lower prices during times when the markets are overloaded.

Tenant farmers who could not build their own storage can now place their commodities under reseal there.

Because the overwhelming grain surpluses from prior years have been eliminated by or acreage diversion programs since 1961, many grain elevators now have adequate storage space available.

The State ASC committee determines whether an on-farm reseal program will be conducted in its State.

The commercial reseal program will be available to eligible producers in all areas.

Producers may redeem reseal commodities at any time and dispose of such commodities as desired.

Under the 1967-crop reseal program, price-support loans on stored commodities will be extended beyond the 1968 maturity dates until called. CCC retains the option to call reseal loans at any time the stocks are needed.

Storage rates on the 1967 crops now eligible for reseal loan extensions will be announced later and will be available at State and county ASCS offices. Farm storage charges paid by CCC will be comparable to that paid under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement for CCC stocks and stocks under commercial reseal.

PROTECTIVE HEADGEAR REQUIRED BEGINNING JANUARY 1, 1968—All motorcyclists and their passengers will be required by law to wear safety approved headgear whenever riding a motorcycle after the first of January. Headgear meeting Texas Department of Public Safety standards must bear a manufacturer's identification sticker on the back and reflective material on the sides (as shown in the photographs). A list of approved headgear may be seen at any police department, sheriff's office, Department of Public Safety office, or stores retailing motorcycle headgear.

AUSTIN — Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety today reminded motorcyclists that the requirement of wearing safety approved headgear becomes effective January 1, 1968.

"Standards have been established," Garrison said, "and many manufacturers have submitted their products for testing. Those which meet the standards have been approved and lists of approved headgear may now be seen at any DPS office, police departments, sheriff's offices and at stores retailing headgear."

Garrison added the reminder that both the operator of a motorcycle and any passenger must wear the approved headgear.

Approved headgear can be identified by the manufacturer's identification mark on the back of the helmet. Each helmet will also have a minimum of four inches of reflective material on each side.

Firefighters Fought More Than Fires

As dangerous as home fires can be today, consider the plight of the American living about 125 years or so ago. The odds were against them all the way.

Their first problem was the telegraphic fire alarm box on the corner. It was locked. To prevent false alarms, the key to the box was kept in a nearby store.

Then there was the fire department.

According to the Federated Insurance Companies of Owatonna, Minnesota, the first half of the 19th century was the heyday of volunteer fire brigades. The system was a colorful one, and remarkably effective. But it did have a few weaknesses.

In their struggle to be the first and the best at every fire, firefighters as well as the "crackers-and-cheese boys" who ran alongside every truck, were sometimes harder to control than the fires they fought.

Two brigades in New York, for example, were suspended after a free-for-all over the use of a fire hydrant. Two others got the same treatment when they fought over which would go first on a narrow street. They never did make it to the fire.

Occasionally a water hose was sliced or a tire flattened, and one or two firemen rushing into a building to rescue a victim were knocked out by other volunteers with similar intentions.

The incidents made for good stories at the lavish Firemen's Ball, but in 1853 the city fathers of Cincinnati decided this type of rivalry was not the most effective way to fight fires. They established the first permanent, paid fire department, and most other major cities followed suit during the next 20 years.

The idea of paying firemen had been tried on a small scale by Boston almost 200 years before, when bucket brigades proved ineffective against devastating fires.

But most American cities relied on their volunteer firemen. In 1793 Benjamin Franklin took the first step toward the glorious days of the fire brigades when he organized Philadelphia volunteers into a trained group, giving each man a specific assignment at the scene of the fire.

Prime consideration of the volunteer firefighter was always the honor and reputation of his company. But he had another incentive — also thanks to Ben Franklin in his capacity as founder of the first American fire insurance company. Like the English firm which it was modeled, Franklin's "Philadelphia Contribution for the Insurance of Houses from Loss by Fire" placed a distinctive metal "fire mark" on the buildings it insured.

Firemen soon learned that preventing total loss of a marked building meant rewards from the insurance company.

Today's firefighters are professionally trained. Their equipment is a far cry from the old hand-pumped water tubs used as late as the 1860's. And they aren't afraid of sabotage from another engine company at the scene of the fire.

But there's one part of the volunteer fire brigade's operation that might be viewed with a little more nostalgia. Job for the crackers-and-cheese-boys included keeping a plentiful supply of liquid on hand for the hard-working volunteers.

MEDICARE NOTES

Persons 65 or older who did not sign up in the first enrollment period for the medical expense part of Medicare may now do so through March 1968, according to Travis C. Briggs, Amarillo social security district manager said today.

Coverage for the late enrollees would begin July 1, 1968. This part of Medicare helps pay doctor bills and other medical services not provided under the hospital part of the law. Doctor's services are covered no matter where received — home, office or hospital.

The present monthly premium rate of $3.00, with the government paying the other half, will continue through March 1968. Before the end of 1967, the premium rate through 1969 will be announced.

Area residents who wish additional information about this or other parts of the social security law should contact the office at 1006 S. Adams in Amarillo, Phone DR 6-5151.

Additional information may be secured from the representative of the Amarillo office who will be in Silvertown at the Courthouse from 9:30 until 10:30 on the first and third Thursday of each month.

ton in Eriscoe County completely open and the killing frost having defoliated the remainder of the leaves, cotton harvesting is beginning to crank up over our area.

Based on 4,400 samples classed this last week at the Memphis, Texas classing office, the quality of the cotton showed 28 percent in the white grades, 69 percent light spotted, and 3 percent spotted.

The chief grades were 20 percent middling, 5 percent strict low middling, 9 percent strict middling light spotted 55 middling light spotted and 5 percent strict low middling light spotted.

Seventy percent of staple lengths ranged in the 15-16 inch range. The micronaire reading, which indicates the fineness and maturity of the cotton fiber showed 82 percent in the 30 point premium range of 3.5-4.9. Seven percent read 3.4 and below and 11 percent was 5.0 and above.

Pressley strength tests conducted in cooperation with the cotton Research Committee of Texas, reflected stronger fiber than last season. Seventy-five (75) percent tested 75,000 pounds per square inch and above, with 25 percent in the grouping 74,000 and below. It was of interest to note that 2 percent tested 100,000 psi and above.

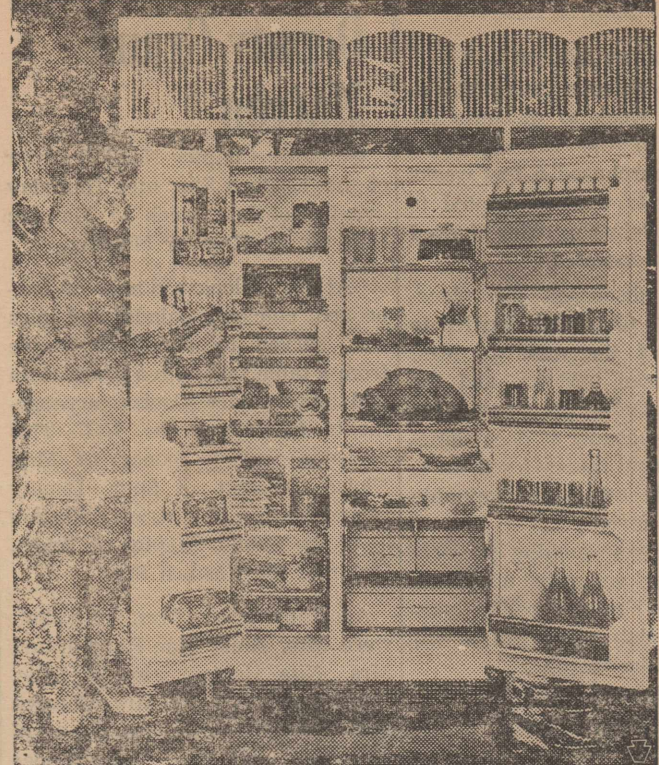

Average prices paid farmers for the main qualities selling with mike readings 3.5-4.9 were: Middling, 15/16, 20.00; Middling 31/32, 21.80; Middling Light Spotted, 15/16, 19.20; and Middling Light Spotted, 31/32, 22.15.

Cottonseed brought the farmers $55 to $57 per ton at most gin points.

Although these samples come from the entire surrounding, an indication can be made on the quality of the 1967 cotton crop

New Food Center 24 Two Appliances In The Space Of One

Compact side-by-side refrigerator-freezer combinations are making it possible for today's busy homemaker to conveniently and economically store large quantities of fresh and frozen foods. And this means fewer trips to the supermarket, plus the ability to take the full advantage of in-season food buys.

Hotpoint, for example, has introduced a new Food Center 24 which provides the homemaker the convenience of 24 cubic-feet of storage area in a compact cabinet which is less than a yard wide.

Actually, it is two appliances in one. It is a 15 cubic-foot frost-free refrigerator, and a nine cubic-foot freezer in a single cabinet which takes up no more space than either a separate refrigerator or upright freezer would have required just a few short years ago.

Designed to fit easily in the kitchen, the Food Center 24 stands 66 1/4 inches high to clear most overhead cabinets, and offers two or more cubic-feet of storage space than any other model available in a cabinet less than 36 inches wide.

The freezer can accommodate up to 314 pounds of frozen food, and the refrigerator features new adjustable cantilevered shelving which allows the homemaker to arrange and store food to suit her individual needs, and fancy.

from early grades, micronaire readings, and staple lengths.

indoor fire dangers rise. The home heating system is often at the root of the problem.
A thorough check of the heating system should be made even though it may have already been in operation. When it is pushed hard in cold weather, any weakness in the equipment or installation may show up with possible disastrous results.
Clean furnaces and heaters at regular intervals and keep combustibles away from them.

Do not place portable heaters in halls, doorways, or other spots which might block escape. Be sure heaters are away from curtains, clothes racks and other combustibles. Remember, all heaters that burn gas, oil, coal or wood (combustible materials) must be vented to be entirely safe.
And while you are checking I suggest that fire extinguishers also get attention. Be sure they are ready for use in case they are needed.
