THE FARMER SHOULD BE HOME PLOWING INSTEAD OF MESSING AROUND IN WASHINGTON

by George R. Colvin predictions that have been made about the American farmers, by the powers that be, have not turned, out that way. You know about Spring, the flowers, birds and bees. That was when the farmers would leave Washington; they would be home plowing and planting. True, many of them have, but some have been in Washington. The ones at home may not have been'producing all that much with their plowing. No one knows how many thousands of acres of wheat have been plowed up or grazed out. Under the present program if a farmer has futures or wheat in the granery, the best way to make money is not to grow any more at present.

On April 3, the conference committee on the Talmadge-Dole bill was to meet. Mr. Bergland, according to some sources, has promised to come up with something better. He could have already done something a long time back. Quitaque farmers were in Washington come Monday morning, April 3. Many farmers and businessmen have given liberal contributions, but each man is still having to pay a large part of his own expenses. Trips to Washington don't come cheap these days. Many people not farming have given donations of their own free will and accord. They are appreciated, and that is a good moral builder for the men. If any good comes out of the tills concerning farming, they will probably be labeled inflationary. Hogwash. Balderdash. Did putting 3.2 billion dollars of the taxpayers money in the World Bank cause inflation? Does paying 25% of the United Nations expenses cause inflation? Does our tremendous welfare program cause inflation? Does six million dollars for a guided missile cause | HUNTS inflation? KETCHUP From all the screeching coming out of Washington, you would think the economy would be turned upside down if the farmer got HUNTS $5.00 for a bushel of wheat. Just ruin the economy. We consumers had better get ready to pay more for bread, and that without wheat going up. May have gone up this INSTANT last week, check. There has been a lot of talk about Parity recently, but few people really understand the term. Parity is simply a measure of farm buying power. Here is an example of Parity that demonstrates what has happened to farm buying power in the last few years.

In 1973 a popular size and brand of diesel tractor was selling for $14,189 and that same year cotton was selling for 65c per pound. It took 43 bales of cotton to buy the tractor.
