Reno police, left, make one of more than 100 arrests early Tuesday when New Year's revelry turned to rioting in the downtown area. Property damage in the downtown area was described by officials as "extensive." (AP Laser-photos)

100 detained in New Year's eve rioting in downtown Reno, Nevada

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Police have released nearly all of the more than 100 persons detained following a New Year's Eve riot in which at least 18 persons were injured and businesses vandalized.

About 10,000 revelers had streamed onto city streets to welcome the new year. Trouble broke out shortly after midnight Tuesday and rioters ran amok for three hours, police said.

Police Lt. Charles Nearpass said there was some looting and "extensive" property damage caused by as many as 4,000 rioters. Some of the rioters even chanted anti-Iranian obscenities.

Most of those detained by police were placed in civil protective custody for a few hours and were released later in the day. But at least five others faced misdemeanor or felony charges ranging from fighting to battery with a deadly weapon, inciting riots, and possession of stolen property.

Seven officers were hurt but none had to be hospitalized. Local hospitals reported treating 11 riot victims. All but one were released. An unidentified man was listed in serious but stable condition at St. Mary's Hospital.

A pawnshop was looted and damaged. A barber shop, a small restaurant, offices and some casinos had broken windows, Nearpass said. But large casinos in the immediate riot area had all their windows intact. Police had cordoned off main casino entrances in the riot area.

Windows of many cars were smashed, including windows of several police cruisers and two paddy wagons. No total damage estimate was immediately available, although the pawnshop reported a loss of about $20,000 in goods.

"They just went crazy ... they were acting like animals," pawnshop manager Dennis Mack said in describing how rioters poured into the shop, stole guns, jewelry and other items, and broke out windows.

Party politics warming up

GOP head raps Carter's Iran policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party rivalry in the 1980 presidential campaign has warmed up with Republican National Chairman Bill Brock saying President Carter's policy on Iran is aimed at fooling the American people.

His Democratic counterpart reacted by accusing Brock of taking advantage of a delicate diplomatic situation in a way that could give the appearance of national disunity.

The GOP leader said Carter's only real policy in handling the Iranian crisis is "a policy of deception." Brock accused the president of failing to develop a foreign policy that would "discourage a repetition elsewhere of the barbaric actions taken in Iran."

In a statement Tuesday, Brock also said ratifying the SALT II treaty with the Russians after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan is "unthinkable."

Elaborating on the statement in an interview today on ABC-TV's "Good Morning, America" program, Brock said Carter has practiced deception by speaking of "the policy of patience."

"But patience is not a policy," he said. "It's a non-policy, it's a policy of weakness, it has gotten us into trouble around the world."

Brock said Carter "has demeaned our national defense, weakened this country internationally, insulted our allies and brings treaties to the Senate asking for further arms negotiations with the Soviet Union in the face of all that's happened with Soviet actions throughout Africa, throughout Southeast Asia, throughout the Middle East, the disruption that they fomented in Iran and now an outright invasion of Afghanistan."

In his statement Tuesday, Brock stressed he was not withdrawing from the joint statement he and Democratic National Chairman John White issued a month ago to illustrate American solidarity in support of Carter's actions to free the hostages held in Tehran since Nov. 4.

Saying "the unity of the American people is not now in question," Brock said that despite broad public support Carter has not developed a policy that would protect American interests and prestige.

"Moreover," he said, "it is increasingly evident that Mr. Carter's policy of patience is a policy of deception. Its purpose seems to be to make the American people believe we have a policy appropriate to the multiple crisis in the Mideast, and to conceal from them the extent to which the policies of the Carter administration and the Democratic Congress have diminished our security and credibility."

White today characterized Brock's statements as undisciplined, unfortunate and unhelpful.

Angry Iran mob raps Waldheim as shah's friend

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A crowd of angry demonstrators protesting U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's mission to Iran forced him to cancel a public appearance today after he and Prime Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh met for three hours of "satisfactory" talks on the U.S. Iranian crisis.

Some 1,000 chanting demonstrators waited in vain at a building across the street from the Foreign Ministry. Waldheim was to have gone there to meet more than 100 persons who said they had been crippled and tortured by agents of the deposed shah's regime, but he stayed in his hotel room instead.

The demonstrators carried poster-sized photographs of Waldheim shaking hands with the ousted shah and kissing the hand of the shah's twin sister, Ashraf. "Waldheim's visit is a blow to our revolution," they chanted.

Tehran radio said Ghotbzadeh described the outcome of his talks with the U.N. leader as satisfactory. "Waldheim has realized for the first time that Iran is extremely firm over its position," it quoted him as saying.

After the meeting Waldheim said, "We had an exchange of views over the hostage crisis." Ghotbzadeh told the secretary general at the end of their session, "Your ideas have helped," but did not elaborate.

As the American hostages began their 60th day as captives of militants at the U.S. Embassy, Justice Minister Ayatollah Mohammed Beheshti, first secretary of the ruling Revolutionary Council, said at a morning news conference that Waldheim's fact-finding mission could lead to a "wise solution to the present crisis," but said such a development would not come during the secretary general's visit.

The Iranian government, meanwhile, moved part of its estimated $13 billion in foreign accounts from banks in Europe to other nations as a precaution against possible U.N. sanctions, said Ali Mavi-Rad, head of overseas finances for Iran's central bank. He did not say how much was moved.

In Tabriz, capital of the northwestern Azerbaijan region, members of the Azeri minority's political party announced the release of nine Revolutionary Guardsmen who had been taken hostage in a clash with party members last Thursday.

The Azerbaijanis are a Turkish-speaking minority seeking a degree of self rule in the region. The guards' release came after the party received a letter bearing the seal of their spiritual leader, Ayatollah Mohammed Kazem Shariat Madari, urging them not to harm fellow Moslems, the party members said.

Waldheim told Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's foreign minister and others on his arrival Tuesday. "I hope to find the means and the ways to solve the crisis." But he added, "You cannot expect from such a first visit to solve immediately all problems. You have got to be realistic."

He cited U.S.-Iranian relations, "the grievances of the Iranian people in relation to the previous regime," and the seizure of the U.S. Embassy and its staff among "the very serious problems that will have to be discussed if the way can be paved for the solution of the crisis."

Ghotbzadeh reiterated before Waldheim's arrival that he considered the secretary general's visit a fact-finding mission only, to hear Iran's case against the United States and Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, and not one of mediation and negotiation. Although Waldheim said he had information indicating Khomeini would receive him, there was no indication from officials in Tehran that this would happen.

Meanwhile, the students who seized the U.S. Embassy on Nov. 4 reiterated their unchanging position — that the hostages would be freed only if President Carter returned the shah to Iran for trial. They said they would not talk with Waldheim unless Khomeini told them to and that he would not be allowed to see any of the captive Americans.

The government TV service coupled its pictures of Waldheim's arrival on a split screen with an amputee and two dead children it said were victims of SAVAK, the shah's secret police.

"This is a New Year's gift offered by the TV staff on the occasion of Mr. Waldheim's arrival," the announcer said.

The U.N. Security Council gave Waldheim a new mandate Monday to try to win the release of the hostages — put at 50 in number by the State Department, 49 by their captors and 13 by three U.S. clergymen who visited them over Christmas. But if he fails to get them freed by Jan. 7, the council will meet then to vote on a U.S. resolution now being drafted to impose limited sanctions against Iran.

Soviet troops reported locked in bitter combat

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Soviet troops are reported locked in bitter combat with Afghan rebels northwest of Kabul, Western European diplomatic sources said today.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said casualties were heavy on both sides, and that the Soviets were using sophisticated MI-24 helicopter gunships against rebel strongholds in the province of Bamian.

There also were reports the Soviets were battling regular Afghan Army units still resisting last Thursday's Kremlin-engineered coup that ousted the late president Hafizullah Amin.

The reports, however, could not be independently confirmed. Afghan officials were refusing to allow Western reporters outside the capital city of Kabul. They deported 13 journalists today.

In addition to the fighting in Bamian, under rebel control for several months, sources said there was fighting north of Kabul in the western city of Herat, where at least 60 Soviet troops were killed in an uprising last March. The city was believed quiet today, however.

Asian and Western diplomatic sources said the Soviets moved into Herat by plane the same day they struck in Kabul, launching the coup installing Babrak Karmal in power.

Russian troops were airlifted Monday to Jalalabad across the border from Pakistan's Khyber Pass, to secure the strategic city, said an Afghan official who said he took part in operation.

Karmal, a former ambassador to Czechoslovakia with close ties to the Kremlin, appeared on television Tuesday night for the first time since the coup.

There had been speculation that Karmal, who had been living in Czechoslovakia following his ordered recall in July 1978 had not yet arrived in the country.

During a half-hour speech, Karmal denounced Amin as a puppet of the United States and as a CIA, and he pledged sweeping liberalization of Afghan life.

Karmal, who was introduced by a Moslem clergyman, also promised to "respect the sacred principles of Islam," in a gesture of conciliation to the Moslem rebels who have declared a "holy war" against the Marxist regime.

Karmal's speech began with the opening lines of the Koran, the Moslem holy book, and included statements of support for "the national, Islamic, anti-imperialist" revolution in neighboring Iran.

In Karachi, Pakistan, the English-language newspaper Dawn quoted informed sources in Islamabad, Pakistan, as saying the Soviets were on the move in mountainous northeastern Afghanistan to clear pockets of guerrilla resistance.

Soviet troops are engaged in a massive anti-guerrilla movement in the provinces of Nuristan and Kunar, which border the Chitral district of Pakistan and where the Soviets suspect the Moslem guerrillas are operating, the paper said.

Up to last week's Soviet-led coup in Afghanistan, the two provinces were inaccessible to Afghan government forces, the report said.

Gold price soars to $562 an ounce

LONDON (AP) — Gold soared to $562 an ounce by noon today in the biggest advances ever seen in a single day's trading.

Gold was up $37.50 an ounce and silver jumped $8.

The buying fever was attributed by dealers to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and the continuing Iranian crisis, making the world appear less safe than it has for years.

It's all times like these that the world's big investors head for precious metals to protect their assets.

"There's no limit in sight," said one London dealer as gold hit $562 at noon.

Monday gold closed here at $524.50.

Silver rose to a record $40 from 32 at Monday's close. Copper, tin, lead and zinc prices also climbed sharply.

"It's very, very difficult to see anything turning this market now — there's a distinct lack of sellers," said a dealer at Sharp Pixley Ltd. in London.

"The problems in the Far East are making everybody go for precious metals. Silver has nearly doubled in the last month," he said.

The biggest buyers of gold bullion during the 1979 boom were Mideast oil producers.

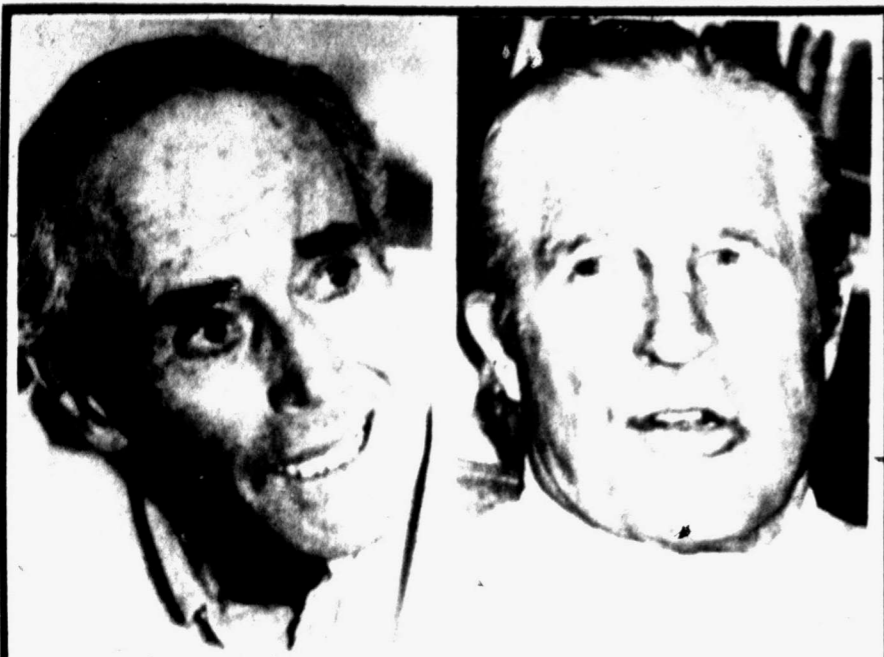

To put today's gold advance in perspective, it was recalled that the metal sold for just $35 an ounce for some 30 years before 1970.

When President Nixon took the United States off the gold standard in 1971, the price began a climb that saw it break through the $200 barrier in the summer of 1978, $300 a year after that, $400 last Sept. 28 and $500 last week.

The price more than doubled in 1979, gaining $298.125 in London.

Henry Fonda George Romney

Names in the News

DENVER (AP) — Henry Fonda will be honored by the American National Theatre and Academy tonight as part of the week's opening festivities for the newest part of the Denver Center for the Performing Arts.

Fonda's tribute, which will include a banquet at the Denver Country Club, will be the seventh such award by the ANTA. Past recipients included Helen Hayes, Rosalind Russell and Fred Astaire.

The ceremony will follow a performance of Moliere's "The Learned Ladies."

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Following up on his assessment of ERA supporters as "moral perverts," former Michigan Gov. George Romney says the legislation will "legitimize" homosexuality.

Romney is a member of the Mormon church, which opposes the Equal Rights Amendment. Last month, he labeled its supporters moral perverts.

"Surely this resolution and its supporting statements are designed to legitimize sex and social relationships other than those that form the basis of divinely ordained marriage, parenthood, family and home," he said in a letter printed in Tuesday's Deseret News.

To become law, the ERA must be approved by 38 states. The ratification deadline is June 30, 1982. To date, the amendment has been approved by 35 states, but five have since rescinded approval.

Baby severely burned in 'rite'

NEW YORK (AP) — A malnourished 20-month-old boy was severely burned when he was put into a heated oven in an apparent rite of exorcism, authorities said today. They said his mother and grandmother were being questioned in the case.

Firemen entering the first-floor apartment in a Harlem housing project late Tuesday night reported finding the boy lying on a bed with second- and third-degree burns over 90 percent of his body. His mother and brother were naked, authorities said.

Deputy Fire Chief Bertram Jacobs said firefighters had been called to the scene by neighbors who said they heard chanting and smelled smoke coming from the apartment.

A pile of burning clothes in the bathroom was extinguished quickly, Jacobs said, but further investigation revealed scraps of clothing on the kitchen stove and small pieces of flesh in the oven.

The child, Leon Justice, was first brought to St. Luke's Hospital and then transferred to the Burn Unit at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. His condition was said to be serious.

er, identified by police as Patricia Abraham, 25, "was more upset about us trying to keep her from leaving the building than about the child."

"She told me something about playing with matches," Jacobs said. "Well, a 20-month-old child doesn't go playing with matches."

The deputy chief continued: "If they had left the baby in the oven we might have completely overlooked it. We make a pretty complete search anytime there's a fire, but you don't go looking for a child in an oven."

He said, "The people in the hall were pretty sure there was a rite of some kind" going on.

Taken into custody with Ms. Abraham was her mother, Lushia Abraham, 56, said to be wearing a nightgown when firemen arrived. Homicide detectives said the women were being questioned.

Found naked in the apartment with the mother was her son, Vance, 8, police said. Further information about what was done with the older child or about the father of the children was not immediately available.

Complaint filed against teens

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Two teen-agers shot a couple to death because they wanted to collect insurance and inheritance money to buy new high-powered cars, authorities claim in a criminal complaint.

The complaint, filed in San Jose Municipal Court, alleges that Clarence Johnny Garcia, 19, and Todd Martin Gjevre, 15, had plotted for nearly two weeks to kill Gjevre's parents so they could purchase a Pontiac Trans Am, a Dodge Charger, another car and possibly a new home.

Garcia was arraigned Monday in Municipal Court on two murder charges and a conspiracy charge.

Deputy District Attorney Bob Masterson said Garcia and Gjevre both have been charged with conspiracy and the murders of Gjevre's mother, Sandra Kay Gjevre, 36, and stepfather, Ernest Blair Gjevre, 43.

Under California law, Gjevre will be tried as a juvenile.

Police discovered the victims' bodies last week in the backyard of their home.

The complaint claimed Gjevre and Garcia had discussed the killings since mid-December so they could get the proceeds of insurance policies and assets willed to Gjevre to buy automobiles. The scheme was Gjevre's idea, the complaint stated.

Each victim was shot several times and evidence indicated they tried to flee from their home, police said.

The youths buried the bodies, according to the document, and fled the scene. They were captured after a two-hour chase near the California-Nevada border.

Space heater may have caused deaths

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Officials say an unventilated space heater may have caused the deaths of four persons, including two children, and left a fifth person hospitalized in poor condition.

James Bernard Satterwhite, 14, discovered the four bodies Tuesday and found his mother unconscious after he climbed through a window at his mother's one-story frame house because he was unable to rouse anyone inside.

Bobbie Fay Satterwhite, 30, was rushed to the hyperbaric chamber at Brooks Air Force Base's School of Aerospace Medicine, where she was listed in poor condition Tuesday.

"We found a small gas heater burning in the living room. It should have been ventilated outside, but it wasn't," said arson Capt. Dan Davila.

The victims were identified as Roy T. James, 33, Guadalupe Rodriguez, 23, and her two children, Lisa, 7 months, and Bonnie, 3.

Davila said Mrs. Satterwhite probably survived because she was on the floor. He explained that heated gas rises.

Unions to seek large wage increase in '80

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor contracts affecting more than 3.8 million of the 9.4 million workers covered by collective bargaining agreements expire in 1980, according to Labor Department estimates.

With inflation running at a 13 percent annual rate and a recession expected in 1980, large wage boosts and increased job security are expected to top labor's demands.

Although President Carter's 1979 guideline limiting pay raises to 7 percent a year is generally viewed as too low in the face of current inflation, administration inflation-fighters hope to dissuade unions from pressing demands to catch up fully with inflation.

Government economists contend that such large raises would only lead to still more inflation.

National contracts affecting 60,000 oil refinery workers, 316,000 steel and aluminum workers, 550,000 telephone company employees, 41,000 longshoremen and 66,500 aerospace workers are among those up for renegotiation during the year.

Many of those talks could result in strikes, labor relations experts say. The first major walkout could come as early as next week, when the first year of an oil industry contract expires with the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

Robert F. Goss, president of the oil workers, faces a Jan. 8 strike deadline for reaching a pattern settlement with the oil industry on 400 separate contracts that cover 60,000 of his members.

The oil industry is highly automated, and the companies say a strike would have no short-term impact on fuel supplies.

Later in the year, the success of the United Steelworkers' unique no-strike bargaining arrangement with the basic steel industry, called the Experimental Negotiating Agreement, will be tested as the two sides replace three-year contracts that expire in August.

Under the agreement adopted in 1977, the union and industry will submit unresolved issues to arbitration. This year's bargaining, however, is expected to be tougher than anticipated because of steel mill closings and worker layoffs caused by increased sales of imported steel.

The largest single contract expiring in 1980 is the Bell Telephone Co. agreement with the Communication Workers of America. It runs out in August and covers 500,000 workers. Also expiring in August is a contract covering 50,000 electrical workers at Bell's manufacturing arm, Western Electric.

Other major contracts expiring this year include:

—American Airlines and 12,500 ground-crew members of the Transport Workers, in March.

—East Longshoremen's Association, in September.

—Aircraft makers and 56,600 members of the International Association of Machinists and 9,900 members of the United Auto Workers, in October.

Statistical Abstract 'mirror of America'

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the price of a thick paperback book, the U.S. government can and will supply answers to millions of questions most Americans never thought to ask.

Things like which animals are on the endangered species list, whether men or women are more likely to wear contact lenses and how much money various groups of workers make.

In addition to a new section on threatened and endangered wildlife species, other new tables in this year's edition of the "Statistical Abstract of the United States" have titles such as "coffee, aspirin and sleeping pills — users and non-users" and "credit card usage by family characteristic."

In short, the book tries to be, as one reviewer once wrote, the "mirror of America." This year's edition, released Sunday, is the 100th to be put out by the federal government.

Among the tables, charts and essays in the 1,057-page volume, one finds that:

—Five million of the 7 million contact lens wearers in the United States in 1977 were women.

—In 1978, the highest average hourly earnings among U.S. production workers went to coal miners ($9.53), blast furnace and steel production workers ($9.41) and petroleum refinery laborers ($9.32).

—Nuclear power stations produced 12.5 percent of the nation's electricity in 1978.

The facts and figures cover topics from agriculture to banks, education, health, income, parks, population, trade and transportation. There also is a chapter on similar data from foreign nations.

Copies of the abstract for library or home use are available from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Unusual Setting Trick

By Alfred Sheinwold

The average player might look at the West cards in today's hand and consider the king of clubs the only card worth a second look. That's not the way it turned out when the United States won the world championship in Rio de Janeiro last October. South ruffed the first spade, drew trumps and led a club. If West played low, South would finesse with the ten. That finesse would lose, but South would later get the rest of the clubs to make the slam with ease.

BLOCKS CLUBS

As it happened, U.S. expert Edwin Kantar put up the king of clubs on the first round of that suit. Now Italy's Arturo Franco could get only one club trick. Whenever declarer won dummy's club trick he could take only one diamond finesse. It was therefore "correct" to lead dummy's jack of diamonds, but East covered with the king, and West eventually took the setting trick with the lowly nine of diamonds.

Indian campaign sees new issues

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and reports that the United States will sell arms to Pakistan are getting some last-minute attention as the Indian election campaign ends.

Afghanistan "as soon as possible." Singh also criticized the expected supply of U.S. arms to Pakistan, Afghanistan's eastern neighbor and India's traditional foe.

Gandhi has the best chance of winning the election because of the issues she is campaigning on — shortages, rising prices and the breakdown of law and order since her 1977 defeat.

"We will face a very grave situation" unless the United States reverses its decision, he said during a campaign tour.

After eight years, convicted bomber to be paroled soon

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Karleton Lewis Armstrong, an anti-war activist convicted of planting a homemade bomb that killed a University of Wisconsin researcher, will be freed after nearly eight years in prison, his lawyer and family say.

Armstrong's attorney Sarah O'Brien, confirmed Tuesday the U.S. Parole Commission's decision. She said her successful plea for parole was based on Armstrong's good prison record of the past three years, his elderly parents' ailing health and the change of the country's mood toward the Vietnam era.

The parole commission approved the parole Friday. Ms. O'Brien said Tuesday that Armstrong was not informed until New Year's Eve.

Stephen said he rejected the Russian "excuse" that the Afghan government requested the Soviet intervention. He said the test of Soviet intentions would be how long the forces stay.

1980 Easter Seals poster child 'fair' after shooting

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The 1980 poster child for the Easter Seals Foundation was in fair condition at a San Antonio hospital today after she was shot in the head during a New Year's celebration, authorities said.

The girl, a paraplegic suffering from a congenital spinal cord condition, was selected as national poster child for 1980 for the Easter Seals campaign at a convention in Philadelphia in November.

Armstrong was charged with planting a bomb in a stolen van that damaged UW's five-story Sterling Hall and killed Robert Fasnacht, 33, doing research work in the pre-dawn hours.

The Foreign Ministry called in U.S. Ambassador Robert F. Goheen Monday to ask him about U.S. national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski's statement in an interview Sunday that the U.S. government is prepared to resume the sale of weapons to Pakistan because of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Police said 8-year-old Jeanette Alvarado, daughter of Helen Alvarado of San Antonio, was shot in the head while watching fireworks outside the home of her grandmother early Tuesday.

A member of the family said late Tuesday they are not able to determine if the girl will be able to carry out a planned schedule of personal appearances throughout the nation this year.

His state sentence was eventually reduced to 14 years after two other fugitives in the case, David Fine of Wilmington, Del., and Armstrong's brother Dwight Armstrong, were given only seven-year terms.

Japan says British led way in Iranian oil price deal

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN
The Washington Post

TOKYO — Japan agreed to negotiate for Iranian oil at the premium price of $30 a barrel only after two British companies broke the line first, government sources said Tuesday.

The Japanese government insists it stuck by its bargain with the United States on buying Iranian oil until it learned early Monday that the British companies had decided to pay $30 per barrel.

They identified the two firms as British Petroleum and Shell.

American officials hoping to hold down prices paid for Iranian oil as part of their squeeze play on that country were described as displeased with the reported negotiations in Tehran. But it was not clear whether they would regard it as a price breakthrough large enough to merit protesting to the two importing countries.

The U.S. officials agreed that, on the basis of reports from Tehran, the Japanese had kept a promise not to buy Iranian oil at higher-than-normal prices until the British oil companies had agreed first to negotiate for $30 a barrel oil.

As part of an international pressure campaign to free American hostages, the United States has asked allied countries not to weaken its own embargo of Iranian oil by contracting for purchases at abnormally high prices.

Japan was strongly criticized by the United States because some of its companies bought spot Iranian oil in Europe last month for up to $44 a barrel. Since then, however, Japan's position has been to support American pressures, thereby endangering its own prospects of purchasing large quantities of Iranian oil this year.

It has promised to support the American stand so long as European countries also do so.

Last Saturday, the government's powerful Ministry of International Trade and Industry advised Japanese oil company representatives to be prudent in negotiating with Iran for anything above the new normal price of $28.50.

But early Monday, the ministry, citing the reports on the two British companies, advised Japanese negotiators it would sanction purchases for about $30 a barrel. American officials were promptly notified of the switch in an apparent effort by the Japanese government to avert new criticism in Washington.

A Japanese official said Tuesday that word of the

But no precise dollar amount was set as too high and it was not clear Tuesday whether the $1.50 premium would be regarded by the United States as enough of a price breakthrough to warrant formal complaints.

Some other OPEC countries such as Algeria and Libya were reported Tuesday to be raising prices well above $30 while others, such as Iraq and Saudi Arabia, were keeping their new prices below that level.

Caught in a squeeze between the United States and Iran over the hostage issue, Japan has been nervously toeing the American line in the past two weeks, fearful that its role might cause Iran to cut off all oil supplies.

Between 10 and 12 percent of Japan's oil imports last year came from Iran and the negotiations in Tehran had originally been designed to win a 30 percent increase in those supplies this year.

Government sources said that the agreement to negotiate at $30-a-barrel had evolved from a special meeting between Japanese Ambassador Tsutomu Wada and the Iranian oil minister, Ali Akbar Moinefar.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

British firms' negotiations had been received from authoritative sources in the British government.

It was understood that U.S. Officials had asked Japan and European countries to prevent payment of any price much higher than the $28.50 fixed by Iran after the recent meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries Caracas.

Its 22,282,560 common shares are held by approximately 20,000 shareholders of record and will begin trading on the New York Stock Exchange (symbol VLO) on Jan. 2, 1980.

Valero Energy is made up of one of the largest intrastate natural gas pipeline systems in the U.S., several smaller Texas gas pipelines, and a gas utility division in South Texas. The company's total pipeline system of about 8,000 miles sells one out of every four cubic feet of gas marketed in Texas and about one out of every 100 cubic feet of gas sold throughout the world.

Gas processing plants operated by Valero Energy extract propane, butane, ethane, and other natural gas liquids.

These liquids are marketed to refineries as fuel and to petrochemical plants for use in manufacturing petrochemicals.

Valero Energy services the entire state of Texas except the Panhandle region. Its customers include most of the state's large municipalities, utilities, and large industrial firms. Part of its gas also is sold in the interstate market.

Bill Greehey, Valero Energy's president and chief executive officer, in a letter to stockholders says creation of Valero Energy is "only a beginning."

"Management intends to move forward as quickly as possible to meet what we know are some key needs," Greehey says. "Among these needs are the need to offer stockholders a competitive return, the need to provide customers a stable supply of energy at competitive prices, and the need to provide producers a strong and reliable market for their gas."

Greehey says growth will be important to the new company in meeting these key needs. Part of the growth will come from expansion of the company's pipeline network, "which probably has the broadest deployment of any pipeline system in the state; whatever new gas becomes available, we want to make sure that we have good access to it for the benefit of all who depend on company gas."

Growth also will come in the company's non-utility operations, Greehey says. An example is the recently announced plan to expand the company's gas-processing capabilities through investments in more-efficient technology and construction of new facilities. Valero Energy also has begun work on a $43-million gas-storage facility and is putting together an exploration and production staff.

Greehey expects Valero Energy to play an important role in the country's efforts to solve the problem of the approximately 20 percent shortfall between total energy consumption and total energy production in the U.S.

"I do think that Valero Energy has a useful and productive role to play. We have a lot of experience in dealing successfully with problems, and we have some good tools to work with which we are going to improve. I believe we have a positive contribution to make."

Valero Energy was formed under terms of a settlement agreement between its former parent company, Coastal States Gas Corporation, an their customers. The plan called for each Coastal States shareholder to receive one share of Valero Energy common stock for each Coastal share held.

Carter's oil price decontrol program underway; marginal oil not included

By JOHN M. BERRY
1980, The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Still another large oil price increase began to take hold in earnest this New Year's Day but it did not come from OPEC; it was decreed by President Carter.

Carter last spring ordered the gradual removal of price controls from oil produced in this country.

The main part of that process begins Tuesday.

Before it is over in October 1981, it will cost consumers at least 10 cents and possibly 15 cents a gallon more for gasoline, home heating oil and other petroleum products. In 1980, it will cost nearly as much as the last price increases that OPEC just promulgated.

This government-granted price increase became an issue last year between Carter and Congress. It was to recover part of the proceeds from decontrol that Carter proposed his "windfall profits tax" on oil, still pending in a House-Senate conference.

The price increase also has become perhaps the leading issue between Carter and his top challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Kennedy regularly blasts the president for driving up further the energy prices that are already the bane of the economy.

Carter defends his decision, mainly on grounds that the higher prices are necessary to deter consumption, also because they will allow the government to dismantle a cumbersome regulatory system that seriously has distorted the American oil market.

His aides also ask this question in regard to Kennedy: how would the senator deter consumption, if not through higher prices. Most experts say the only realistic alternative is to limit use by law, which means some form of rationing. Kennedy so far has stopped well short of that.

Today, U.S. oil producers are getting about $125 million a day less than they would if there were no controls. About 6.9 million of the 8.5 million barrels produced each day are still subject to controls.

Calculating the exact cost to consumers from decontrol is an exceedingly complex job involving assumptions about world oil prices, profit margins at refineries as well as the corner gas station, and the normal decline in production from older oil wells.

The White House announced Monday that Saturday Carter signed an executive order delaying the second, smaller step in decontrol of oil from so-called marginal wells until Congress completes action on the oil tax. Most of the oil from such wells was decontrolled last June.

A top White House aide called the minor delay "a shot across the bow" of Congress to remind the conferees that decontrol and the tax are, in fact, linked even though decontrol already is underway.

Several White House and other administration officials stressed, however, Carter has no intention of backing away from decontrol no matter how much political heat the president gets from Kennedy or other sources.

Once the latest OPEC price increases are fully reflected in the prices of crude oil reaching the United States, some administration energy experts believe the average cost of crude to U.S. refiners will be in the neighborhood of $32 a barrel.

In comparison, so-called lower tier domestic crude oil — essentially oil from wells discovered before 1973 — will be selling for about $6.80 a barrel this month. Upper tier oil, mostly that discovered since 1973, will go for about $14.50 a barrel.

In other words, lower tier oil is selling for about $25 less than uncontrolled oil, and upper tier is about $17.50 less.

Of course, when Carter decided last April to begin the decontrol process — something his economic advisers had been urging for some time — the gap between those prices and world prices was far smaller. In April, U.S. refiners paid an average of less than $16 a barrel for imported oil, not including transportation. That was only about $3 a barrel more than the upper tier price in those days, and about $10 more than the lower tier price.

The enormous increase in that gap is due to the surge in world oil prices, including the increases announced last month beginning with a $6 a barrel boost by Saudi Arabia. In one sense, the OPEC hikes have sharply increased the ultimate cost of decontrol.

But it would be wrong to blame all of the coming increases in U.S. crude prices on decontrol. The average price of upper and lower tier crude was already going up 10 percent a year under controls. And about 17 percent of U.S. production was already free of controls, coming either from stripper wells — wells producing less than 10 barrels a day — or from government-owned naval petroleum reserves.

Under executive orders issued during 1979, all oil coming from wells drilled since Jan. 1 is free of controls. According to Department of Energy estimates, about 200,000 barrels a day of that oil is now being produced.

In addition, about 750,000 barrels a day has been moved from the lower tier to the upper tier classification because of partial decontrol of marginal wells. Other amounts of oil was switched from one tier to another under other decontrol provisions.

As of Tuesday, however, 4.6 percent of all upper tier oil will be decontrolled each month between now and October 1981. In February, 9.2 percent of all upper tier oil can be sold for the market price, and so on.

Since lower tier oil is moving to the upper tier at a rate of about 3 percent a month, some part of the cheaper oil will, in effect, go all the way from $6.80 to $32 a barrel this month.

By one estimate, the part of decontrol beginning Jan. 1 will increase the total cost of crude oil to U.S. refiners by about $29 billion between now and the end of the decontrol period. Should world oil prices shoot up again, the figure would be higher.

Economists virtually have been unanimous in urging that domestic crude prices be allowed to rise to world levels. Controls, they said, encourage more consumption and, by lowering the average price of petroleum products, give OPEC more leeway to raise its prices for crude.

Furthermore, artificially low prices for U.S. crude has delayed investment in alternative forms of energy such as solar and synthetic fuels from coal, they argue.

With controls, different barrels of oil carry very different legal price tags. This has led to some selling of lower tier oil as higher-priced upper tier or even imported oil.

Since different refiners normally would end up with quite different average costs for crude oil, an elaborate system of payments among refiners had to be set up to try to maintain a competitive balance.

Getting rid of all this, however, will be expensive to oil consumers. Administration officials, backed by most economists, are convinced firmly it's worth it.

Oklahoma posts prices

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Posted prices of crude oil reached a new high Monday in Oklahoma at $34.50 a barrel.

Cities Service posted the top price per barrel for sweet crude and $32.50 for sour crude, which has a higher sulfur content. The previous high was $32.50 for sweet crude.

Cities Service's price is retroactive to Nov. 1 and also applies to portions of Arkansas, Kansas and Texas.

Census-taking in '80

Census-taking will be very much in the limelight in 1980, and the results of the head count certainly will have a direct bearing on the political front.

Texas legislators already are keeping an eye on the census possibilities as they talk redistricting.

The results of the 1980 census will tell the 1981 Texas Legislature how legislative and congressional districts should be changed to accommodate a 15 percent increase in population and a shift from rural and central city areas to the suburbs.

This, of course, is of tremendous significance to all Texans.

It is reported that some legislators think the 1981 legislature will give big city lawmakers the edge when it divides up the 150 state House seats, 31 state Senate positions and 24 congressional seats after the census.

On the other hand, there is a feeling that the century-old dominance of rural legislators over their big city brethren will continue.

Anyway, census questionnaires will be mailed on March 28 to 90 percent of Texas households. Door-to-door counts will be made of the 10 percent not reached by questionnaires. It is said that where forms are not mailed back, the Census Bureau will collect the information door-to-door.

And the bureau has promised it will furnish the necessary information for redistricting to the legislature by April 1, 1981.

From then until regular session adjournment at the end of May, the legislators will be engaged in reshuffling legislative and congressional districts.

A House Study Group, in a special report, has indicated that Texas' population grew about 15 percent — from 11,198,655 to 12,830,000 — between 1970 and 1977. If this growth is projected into redistricting plans, it would mean that House districts with more than 15 percent gain would gain representation.

Texas legislators will have their work cut out for them in 1981.

FBI containment bad

It was bitter news to hear that the gathering of domestic intelligence by the Federal Bureau of Investigation has so deteriorated that some cities in this country are "off limits" to the President of the United States.

The presence of the chief executive cannot be risked in such cities because there just isn't enough current information about violence-prone groups and individuals. His safety cannot be guaranteed.

This situation is commented upon in a new book by Mark Felt, second in command of the FBI when Patrick Gray was its director — during the Watergate investigations.

Felt states that the phasing out of FBI domestic intelligence investigations, after the Watergate troubles, has seriously affected all law enforcement and compelled the Secret Service to recommend to President Carter he stay away from certain locations.

The former associate director is to go on trial this month on conspiracy charges involving the Weather Underground. He is accused with Edward Miller, former FBI intelligence chief, of violating the civil rights of friends and associates of the Weather Underground by wire taping, break-ins and other forms of surveillance.

And because of this situation, there will be those who say his book is self-serving, but that is not the problem at hand. It is becoming more and more important to have intelligence on terrorist groups that threaten our leaders, our nation and our way of life.

It's apparent that the FBI — once rated as the top federal bureau composed of G-men, who couldn't be bribed and followed the letter of the law — has fallen on bad times.

The bureau's image was damaged by revelations of acts and orders by its late director, J. Edgar Hoover, and by poor judgment of its leaders during the Watergate investigations.

But still, over the long haul, the bureau has a brilliant history as a no-nonsense group of crime fighters, the kind of men most Americans want out there keeping an eye on those who would overthrow our government by violence.

Investigative restrictions on the bureau that result in barring our president from going, as he is needed, to the various cities in this nation border on the criminal, and they should be modified.

TIME AND TIDE

CHARLEY REESE

The Middle East is where Western Civilization began

ORLANDO, Fla. — A year ago I was at the Church of the Nativity which is built over the stable where Christ was born in the town of Bethlehem. It is just south of Jerusalem in the West Bank and it was cold and raining that day. The roof of the church leaked.

Actually, the church is divided into three sections, each in the custody of a major Christian denomination. The Protestants, being late arrivals in the Holy Land, are left out in the cold literally. They get the courtyard for a Christmas Eve service.

Bethlehem is an Arab city now and all of this Christian activity takes place under the protection of Jewish soldiers. The Arabs in Bethlehem are by a narrow margin Christian. They have refused to annex an adjacent refugee camp and extend city services to their Arab brothers because these particular brothers are Moslems and that would tip the balance in the next city election to the Moslem candidates.

The Arab guide was gushing in his praise for the kindness and generosity of the Israelis. The Israeli colonel who was in the group smiled. He is a Sabra and has lived among the Arabs all of his life. He was at Kfar Etzion in 1948 and he remembers how the Arabs who came for free medical aid at the clinic came back one day and butchered the nurses. He is not as impressed by Arab rhetoric as American diplomats and journalists.

The Middle East is where Western

Charley Reese

Civilization began, where all civilization began if you believe the Bible. This one inhospitable little region has produced three of the world's five major religions. It may, in one of those great ironies, also be the place where the end of Western Civilization begins. It is certainly a bomb in search of a fuse.

If you look at what's happened since Jesus was born and at what might happen in the near future, you might well wonder if the business about peace on earth and good will toward men isn't just a piece of sky pie. There hasn't been much of neither since that night in Bethlehem.

When I was a kid that bothered me a lot. It seemed clear to me then that either God had fallen down on the job or else had a mean streak. That seemed to me the only possible explanation for all the misery and evil in the world. I suppose every kid faces the same question at some point.

For what it's worth, I finally realized that preserving the flesh is not God's business. That's our job. He is not going to stop anyone from fighting or killing, much less take sides in our petty disputes. He has given us volition, so that we can decide to fight or not fight; he has ordered the universe and given us a mind with which to understand it so that if we discern the rules and follow them, we can have both peace and health. But he is not our personal valet. The worst thing you can say about God is that he fixed it so we can get what we think we want.

I'm breaking my own rule in writing this. I don't usually write about my personal beliefs for the simple reason that nobody is interested in them. Nor am I trying to peddle them. What I am trying to do is to share with you during this Christmas season the way I cope with all the bad news we print during the year.

You see, if you can believe in God and in the eternal nature of the universe, then you understand that on a cosmic scale nothing really bad can ever happen to you. If you don't, which is to say that if you believe your fate and your body's fate are one in the same, then I'm afraid the news is very bad indeed.

God is concerned with the eternal and our bodies are depreciating assets. God does not care whether we adopt a long term depreciation schedule or a short one. I doubt if he cares if we blow up the planet. It's only a small one and he has lots more.

I wouldn't bet two cents on the chances of peace on this earth and I don't think Jesus would either if he were around today. After all, he was a very shrewd observer. Bethlehem was full of swords in his day and now it's full of rifles.

But if you read his words, he wasn't talking about that kind of peace. The kind of peace he was talking about is still available, always will be, is free for the asking, and is absolutely immune to even nuclear attack. That's something to celebrate.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Did Shah manipulate U.S. policy?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Out of the Iranian cesspool, an ugly question has bubbled to the surface: Did the Shah of Iran use his oil billions to manipulate American policy?

Sources close to the deposed shah tell me he used to operate a subterranean system of graft, kickbacks and payoffs that extended from his palace guard to some of the mullahs who now oppose him. The same sources claim his foreign policy, too, was based on bribery, graft and manipulation.

A startling array of prominent Americans were on his gift list. His man in Washington, Ardeshir Zahedi, dispensed envelopes stuffed with cash, Persian rugs, expensive jewelry, Longines watches, cans of caviar, bottles of champagne and the services of prostitutes. For top officials, there were even juicier enticements. Consider these conflicts of interest:

CASE NO. 1 — The shah, seeking money to finance his dreams of empire, became the driving force behind the astronomical leap in oil prices. Saudi Arabia, however, offered to block the ruinous 1974 price rise if the Nixon administration would intervene with the shah.

Top secret documents show that the administration's foreign policy star, Henry Kissinger, was responsible for blocking any interference with the shah. So with Kissinger's connivance, the great oil gouge began.

Soon the oil billions began pouring into the shah's coffers, much of it by way of the Rockefeller-run Chase Manhattan Bank. The shah also bestowed other multibillion-dollar benefits on the Rockefeller interests ranging from oil deals to real estate ventures.

It's no big secret that Kissinger came to prominence through the Rockefeller route. His biographers, Marvin and Bernard Kalb, describe him as "one of the crown jewels in the Rockefeller diadem." After guiding U.S. foreign policy for eight years, Kissinger returned to the Rockefeller fold where he is now advising Chase Manhattan on foreign investments.

CASE NO. 2 — William Rogers was secretary of state when the decision was reached to build up the shah as protector of American interests in the Persian Gulf area, rather than face the difficulties of having the United States look after these interests more directly.

Rogers joined in the process of arming the shah to the teeth, flattering him to the ears and commiserating with him over his revenue problems in bankrolling the vast responsibilities Washington had encouraged him to undertake.

Within three months after Rogers left the State Department in late 1973, he turned up as a director of the shah's Pahlavi Foundation. Rogers' law firm was also retained by the shah.

CASE NO. 3 — No American ambassador could have been more solicitous toward the shah than was Richard Helms. As ambassador to Iran during the crucial 1973-77 period, Helms behaved as if he were representing the shah, rather than the American people.

In one classified cable, he urged the State Department to "tidy up as much as possible anti-shah elements in U.S." before a visit from the shah. Helms also asked whether an anti-shah newspaper in Washington could be closed down. The department's lawyers replied that the paper was protected by the First Amendment.

When Helms finally resigned as ambassador, he told colleagues at the embassy that he was leaving "to make some money." Not long afterward, he quietly opened a consulting firm in Washington for the ostensible purpose of serving as a "go between" for foreign interests seeking to do business in the United States. He called his firm "Safer," the Iranian word for "ambassador."

His biggest spending client — you guessed it — was Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi. One of Helms' assignments was to find a suitable state for the shah in the Virginia countryside. Helms submitted appraisals of five palatial, multimillion-dollar estates. This message was received about one of them: "I think the shah would really enjoy this estate," with a description of the antique and classical furniture.

CASE NO. 4 — Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., a power on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, became one of the Senate's most stalwart champions of the shah. After the shah was ousted and condemned to death by the new revolutionary government, Javits helped push through a Senate resolution assailing the shah's death sentence.

This Senate resolution, according to Iranian sources, helped to persuade Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini that the United States was unalterably committed to the shah, thus heightening the distrust and hostility that precipitated the Iranian crisis.

Back in 1974, the senator's wife, Marion Javits, quietly signed on as a $67,500 public relations consultant to Iran Air. Confidential papers show that the shah's aides considered this a cover for a pro-shah lobbying effort. The papers note, among other political observations, her husband's "great influence" in the Senate.

The papers indicate that the shah shelled out $507,000 to the senator's wife. This not only is far more than she acknowledged receiving, but she also disclaims knowledge of any intent to use her as a lobbyist. She looked upon her work for the shah strictly as cultural and commercial, she said. But she resigned after the press exposed her financial ties to the shah.

Footnote: Both Rogers and Helms had "no comment." Kissinger denied that the Rockefeller-shah financial ties ever influenced his foreign policy judgments. He had no knowledge of their business dealings, he said at the time of the 1974 price negotiations.

INSIDE REPORT:

Iraq's Baathist socialists no longer outlaws of Arab world

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

BAGHDAD, Iraq — In the Middle East's political realignment forced by the Camp David accord, Iraq's hard-bitten leftist leaders are reaching for domination over the Persian Gulf's conservative oil monarchies — a profound shift in the power balance of this vital strategic region.

Baghdad is no longer a backwater, and Iraq's Baathist socialists are no longer outlaws of the Arab world, fortified financially by fabulous oil revenues and ideologically by Baathist dogma of Arab unity, the Iraqis have partially achieved leadership over kings, sultans, emirs and sheiks on the Arabian peninsula. As for the future, Iraq's leaders consider these hereditary regimes rich, soft and unlikely to endure.

The rise of Iraq has been intensified by Iran's disappearance as a coherent political and strategic force. But the heart of Iraq's new eminence is Camp David. Instead of being isolated for rejecting the Israeli-Egyptian accord, Iraq has replaced Egypt as the Arab pacesetter.

That new dominance distresses U.S. officials, who refer to Iraq's leaders as "a band of thugs" and contend their centralized socialist bungling has been redeemed only by bountiful oil money. Yet, it is U.S. sponsorship of Camp David that not only freezes U.S.-Iraq relations but enables Iraq to expand its influence. President Saddam Hussein, the Iraq general who this year added titular to longtime actual power, would like to assume the radical Arab leadership exercised in the 1960s by Egypt's Nasser. He may have an older role model: Saladin, reputedly born in the same town as Saddam Hussein. Just as Saladin expelled European Christian crusaders, so does Iraq's strongman seek to extinguish Western "imperialist" vestiges — especially Israel.

Evans

This has enabled Baghdad to supplant Cairo in Arab leadership. But the new collaboration with the gulf states in rejecting Camp David is not viewed as permanent by Iraq. "We now have Arab 'solidarity,'" Tariq Aziz, a deputy prime minister and leading Baathist theoretician told us, "but this is not Arab 'unity.' That will come when all the Arab states have similar political, economic and social systems."

Since Iraq obviously will not copy Saudi Arabia and the gulf emirates, Tariq Aziz wants them to be "similar" to Iraq. How? "By internal forces," he replied, quickly adding that Baathist socialists in these countries will be helped by Baghdad.

Baathist socialist — revolutionary but anti-communist, Islamic but radical — is backed by Iraq's 300,000-man, Soviet-equipped armed forces, now the area's strongest. Despite Iraq's "solidarity" with the Arab neighbors, Baghdad is viewed with concern by the hereditary states. Kuwait, rich and weak, particularly worries about unsettled Iraqi border claims.

Worry they might, considering the historical determinism privately expressed by one influential Iraqi in describing the gulf states, including Saudi Arabia: "These are weak regimes. They live on the surface of life. They are so rich that, really, they are abnormally rich. They cannot survive this way." Iraq, wielding a dynamic ideology, exudes a political self-confidence lacking in the gulf.

Iraqi officials point to differences between using oil revenue to finance private London spending sprees or to subsidize Arab revolution. Thus, while gulf states cut back oil production, Iraq's leaders want no reduction (though technical factors may slightly cut levels here).

Iraq's oil reserves, second only to Saudi Arabia, are a trump card against Egypt's chronically ailing economy. The Baathist slogan here: "While Egypt needs the Arab world, the Arab world does not need Egypt." Iraqi officials chortle that Egyptian immigrants pour into the prosperous

USS Forrestal arrives in Naples to transfer 6th Fleet officers

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Forrestal dropped anchor in the Gulf of Naples today while a second carrier, the nuclear-powered Nimitz, prepared to head off to the Indian Ocean, Navy sources said.

The Forrestal, part of the Atlantic Fleet, had recently visited Marseilles, France. The sources said the presence of the two carriers here allowed transfer of 6th Fleet officers not making the trip to the Indian Ocean.

Twentieth Century-Fox Studios names Sherry Lansing productions, president

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sherry Lansing, senior production executive for the movies "China Syndrome" and "Kramer vs. Kramer," is the new productions president at Twentieth Century-Fox.

The appointment of Ms. Lansing, 35, to the position was the latest in a series of top level changes at Fox since the departure of Alan Ladd Jr. as president of the film division last July.

Alan Hirschfeld, the company's vice chairman and chief operating officer, announced the move Tuesday, saying Ms. Lansing will be responsible for the production and development of all Fox feature films worldwide.

She replaces Sandy Lieberman who resigned last month. Lieberman was a vice president when Ladd resigned, and took over many of his responsibilities.

Hirschfeld said that Ms. Lansing "brings to us an ability to attract and relate to the creative filmmakers who are so critical to the success of a major studio today." She will report directly to Dennis C. Stanfill, Fox's board chairman and chief executive officer.

Ms. Lansing recently left Columbia Pictures after serving as senior vice president of production since 1978. She had joined the company as vice president of production in November 1977.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hired her as an executive story editor in 1975 and she became vice president of creative affairs in 1977.

Earlier, Ms. Lansing was employed by a theatrical agency and taught English, math and drama in the Los Angeles school district.

Rotterdam blaze kills 11

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Fire gutted a three-story house in Rotterdam early today, killing 10 relatives and a boarder, police said.

The dead were a woman, her two daughters and their six children, a nephew, and a man who lived by himself on the first floor of the house.

Police said rescue efforts were hampered by treacherous ice on the roofs of adjoining houses.

The cause of the fire was under investigation.

'60s 'voice of the astronauts' John A. 'Shorty' Powers dead

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Lt. Col. John A. "Shorty" Powers, known as the "voice of the astronauts" in the 1960s, was found dead in his Phoenix home, police said.

A former Korean War bomber pilot, Powers bought an old house three months ago and was remodeling it. Police were attempting to locate relatives.

Powers, 57, was Air Force public affairs officer at Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center in Houston from 1959 to 1963.

Texas traffic toll far below estimate

By The Associated Press

At least 29 persons have died on Texas roads and highways since the grim holiday count began, but the total was still far below the Department of Public Safety estimate for the 102-hour period that ended at midnight Tuesday.

DPS officials, using statistics from past years and current trends, predicted 56 persons would be killed on Texas highways during the holiday weekend.

The DPS put every available trooper on duty and emphasized keeping drunken drivers off the roads, said DPS spokesman Richard Grimmett.

A final count on the total number of Texas highway fatalities was expected before sometime today.

U.S. road deaths exceed predictions

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents during the four-day New Year's weekend took 477 lives — a toll exceeding advance estimates by the National Safety Council.

The highest toll for a New Year's weekend of the same length was 481 in 1969.

The safety council had estimated 360 to 440 persons might die on the nation's streets and highways between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday.

During a non-holiday weekend of the same length at this time of the year, 480 deaths could be expected, the council said.

A year ago, 355 people were killed during a three-day holiday period.

The record New Year's weekend toll was 564 during a three-day weekend in 1965.

James Wigfall of Odessa puts the finishing touches on a display for the Odessa College merchandising department. Wigfall is a full-time student at OC and makes all of his own clothes.

Full-time college student also a merchandising major, tailor, model

ODESSA — James Wigfall is a busy young man.

When he is not in class at Odessa College, where he is a fashion merchandising major, James is designing and making clothes, modeling, setting up displays, planning style shows and laying the groundwork to establish his own tailoring business.

The Houston native came to Odessa for a family reunion, liked the area, and decided to stay.

"I had attended two other colleges and had served in the Army as a medic before coming to Odessa," says James, who now is active locally in the Army reserves. "I sewed while in the service and actually became the company tailor. When I got out, I knew I wanted to go into fashion and management."

His sewing abilities began long before he was in the service. James started making his own clothes when he was in junior high school. "I was the baby of the family, and I got tired of hand-me-downs," he smiles. "By the time the clothes got to me, the fashion had gone out of them."

He began taking adult tailoring classes and college courses in sewing and design. The young tailor also learned much on his own by sewing every chance he could.

He now makes all of his own clothes.

"I have found making my own clothes to be a savings," he comments. "I can invest up to $25 in a suit that on the market would cost at least $75 to $100."

With his basic skills firmly established, James spends his time concentrating on quality and originality of design. And the clothes he makes have been appraised at market value.

"Right now I am trying to specialize in three areas — alterations, touch-ups and personalized tailoring — until I can get through school and go into business fulltime," he says.

He prefers designing clothes for women because "there is more flexibility in women's fashions."

But he also designs and makes clothes for men, school clothes for teenagers and organization uniforms, such as church choir robes.

Through his classes, James is learning how to set up a business.

He's named his operation "J-Wig & Company," and he's already taking steps to establish fabric and equipment contacts.

His list of "satisfied customers" also is growing.

He enjoys his fashion merchandising classes, where, in addition to regular class participation, he models with other students each month as part of a student activities program, designs and sets up mannequin displays.

plays for the fashion merchandising department, and is planning a style show to be scheduled later this month or in the spring.

James plans to earn an associate degree in fashion merchandising at OC, which is a two-year program headed by Carole McCarter.

Some 18 daytime and evening fashion merchandising and management classes are scheduled for the spring.

Stacking cards makes good curve for sanding coming out. — Ms. L.L. I.

By AL CARRELL

Maybe you've been dealt a sanding job that involves a curved surface. If it's a long curve, like along a table top, you need to have a sanding block that can conform to the desired shape or you may end up with more curves than you want. Here's a possible ace-in-the-hole. The edge of a deck of playing cards can be made to conform to the curve. With sandpaper wrapped around the deck and by holding it very tight, it will maintain the desired shape for sanding. In fact, if you're ever caught in a gin game while you're supposed to be working in the shop, you can claim that the cards were really for sanding.

Dear Al: My workbench is not built into the wall, and consequently there is a gap between the wall and the back of the bench. That gap seems to attract every small part that I drop. I solved the problem with leftover foam-type stick-on weatherstripping. I just stuck a strip along the entire length of the back of the bench. It's right at the top. When the bench is pushed against the wall, there is no longer a gap and no longer a trap for tiny parts. — H.K.

Dear Super: Did you know that a little dry Portland cement powder will remove rust from metal? Just put some on a dry cloth and start rubbing. It really works. — R.P.

A SUPER HINT — Many hoses are held securely in place by hose clamps. One type of clamp is a heavy wire that has a pair of tips sticking up. It can be held open by squeezing these tips. The wire has enough spring to clamp around the hose when the tips are released. Sometimes, you have to install a hose in a tight place such as when connecting an automatic dishwasher. If these are the only type hose clamps you have on hand, here's a trick. Use the vise-grip pliers to hold the clamp open, but leave enough access to the tips to wrap wire around them to hold the clamp open. Twist the wire so it'll hold, and remove the pliers. With the clamp open, it can be slipped over the hose. Then when the hose is in place, reach in with wire snips and clip the wire, and it will release the clamp to do its thing.

Dear Al: I know you claim to have somewhat less than green thumbs when it comes to growing things, but here's a super handy hint for your readers. When I transfer all my plants in for the winter, the pots allow the water to carry some of the dirt through the drainage hole in the bottom. This causes problems with the surfaces below. To prevent the dirt from coming through the hole, I remove the plant and dirt. My trick involves the use of a discarded nylon stocking. I just tie a knot in the toe after pulling the toe out through the bottom. The knot must be big enough so it can't be pulled through, but not so big that it can't be smashed flat by the weight of the pot. The upper part of the stocking is wadded into the bottom, and the dirt and plant are added. The nylon allows for good drainage, but will prevent soil from

Put sparkle in kitchen

Copley News Service

Q. I've remodeled my kitchen for an open look throughout my home. Living room, dining room and kitchen will blend from one area into another. I have sleek-lined furniture in the living and dining areas now and would like to keep to that general feeling in the kitchen.

What sort of ideas could you suggest for the kitchen so it will blend well and be a part of the rest of the house? — W.C.B.

A. If you like chrome furniture and glass, as I would imagine from your explanation, why not repeat the same materials in your kitchen?

Designer Jack Denst did in a kitchen that sparkles with decorating drama. Denst mirrored the lower portion of the kitchen base cabinets and covered the work area in natural, off-white marble. Inset in the marble slabs are a sleek, smooth cooktop and a stainless steel sink. He used a plain, off-white simulated marble vinyl tile for the floor and plexiglas murals on the walls.

He also created a mirrored bar which swings up into the roof of the adjoining patio — especially pleasant during benign weather. When the bar wall swings down into place, the mirror reflects a space-age kitchen.

Q. Our master bedroom has natural wood parquet floors that are beautiful and walls that I have just had painted an old gold shade. What colors would you suggest for the room besides gold and brown?

I'd like quite a bit of rich color in the room which is very traditional. The furniture is antiques white Italian-styled. I want to buy a rug for part of the room where I will have a sitting area with perhaps two lounge chairs and a table. Also I will need draperies and a bedspread. — E.E.

A. You might like to use light brown and a soft coral as contrasting colors with the old gold of your walls and off-white of your furniture. You might use a light brown plush area rug for your sitting area. Two matching lounge chairs in a soft coral damask might be elegant.

Bedroom furnishing tips

AP Newsfeatures

Getting your own bedroom the way you want it is difficult enough. Imagine the difficulty of furnishing a bedroom to please a different person every night.

This seemingly unenviable job is no problem at all to interior decorators who specialize in hotel work. As one of them, Moya Manassero, explained recently, "The way a hotel room looks is largely determined by the amount spent and the image the hotel management wishes to create."

And the amount of money spent on a room, added Ms. Manassero, is directly based on how much it costs to rent each night. "It's a cut-and-dried affair based on percentages and financial questions," she said. Some rooms, the typical ones, cost about $1,500 or $2,000 to put together. Some are as much as $6,000 to $7,000.

When it comes to creating a practical and liveable bedroom, home decorators could do worse than follow the example of hotel room decorators. Irrespective of decorative style, all correctly done hotel bedrooms provide for all the functions likely to occur in a bedroom.

There must be a comfortable bed and a place to sit down and relax as well as general light and a light to read by in bed and at a desk, if there is one in the room.

"I like to provide three-way switches so that the level of light can be varied. And I also like to provide for a lighted closet and access switches that are easy to find," said Ms. Manassero.

sero, president of Corri-gan Designs Inc. of New York.

Comfort underfoot, in the form of carpet, and draperies or other window coverings that keep out light, as well as appropriate heating, cooling and ventilation also are provided. How the windows are treated depends on whether or not there is a view as well as on whether the windows open.

Ore carrier finally sinks

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — Only a light sheen of oil remained on the water's surface when the capsized ore carrier Lee Wang Zin plunged without warning to a 1,000-foot-deep grave at the bottom of the Gulf of Alaska, officials say.

There still was no trace of 28 missing crew members when the 741-foot freighter, being towed to a spot 70 miles off the southern tip of Alaska, suddenly sank to the bottom Tuesday 23 miles west of Dall Island. The cause of the sinking was not known.

The Coast Guard had planned to sink the ship, which spilled 100,000 gallons of fuel when it overturned Christmas Day off Canada's Queen Charlotte Islands in a violent storm. The huge freighter was en route from Prince Rupert, British Columbia, for Japan with a load of iron ore.

The bodies of two of the ship's 30 Taiwanese crew members were found before the search for survivors was halted.

Personnel aboard the Salvage Chief, which had the Lee Wang Zin in tow, and the accompanying Coast Guard cutter Munro said the ship went down in about a minute. The only thing left when she disappeared beneath the waves was a sheen from what Coast Guard spokesman Phillip Franklin called a "minimal amount of oil."

The Coast Guard had planned to take the freighter to a point 70 miles west of Dall Island and use either shells from the Munro's five-inch gun or explosives to rip open the hull and send the ship plunging more than a mile and a half to the sea floor.

After the Lee Wang Zin overturned Dec. 25, she drifted north and an estimated 100,000 gallons of oil fouled the fish-rich waters of Dixon Entrance, between Alaska and British Columbia, and bays and inlets of Alaska's Clarence Strait.

The ship beached at Kendrick Bay on Prince of Wales Island, and commercial diver Del Hansen made a perilous trip into the ship in surging water to see if any of the crew had been trapped alive. He found no bodies, and no signs of life.

The Coast Guard then made plans to move the vessel into deep water and send it to the bottom.

Rescue work under way after quake in the Azores

PONTA DELGADA, Azores (AP) — U.S. airmen worked with Portuguese troops, police and civilians in rescue and relief operations today after a major earthquake devastated the Azores island of Terceira.

Disaster relief teams from the U.S. Air Force's Lajes base on Terceira reported 52 Portuguese killed and more than 300 injured in the quake Tuesday afternoon, which measured 7 on the Richter scale. But the Azores regional government in Ponta Delgada reported 29 confirmed dead by early Wednesday, including 25 on Terceira and four on the island of Sao Jorge.

There were no American casualties, and damage to the base was minor, the Air Force said in Washington.

Damage was heavy elsewhere on Terceira, the second largest of the 10 Portuguese islands in the mid-Atlantic. Damage was also reported in more than half the villages on Sao Jorge, and lesser damage was reported on the islands of Pico and Faial.

About 70 percent of the houses on Terceira were reported destroyed. The old quarter of Angra do Heroismo, the island capital, was wrecked. Some churches and public buildings collapsed. Electricity and water were cut off in many areas. An official spokesman in Ponta Delgada said an estimate of 300 injured was "not exaggerated. There could be more in the end."

The Portuguese air force began flying in relief supplies, and the navy ship Jacinto Candido ferried medical personnel and supplies from Ponta Delgada to Angra. President Antonio Ramalho Eanes flew from Lisbon to the islands early today, accompanied by medical teams and supplies, military health officials and bedding.

Police, volunteer firemen and military personnel started clearing roads, sifting the rubble for bodies and setting up aid stations. U.S. medical teams assisted the staff at Angra Hospital, and the U.S. Air Force was providing blankets and other supplies.

The president of the regional government, Joao Mota Amaral, declared three days of mourning in the islands and appealed to the 292,000 islanders to remain calm.

It was the worst quake in the archipelago since the 1950s. The U.S. Geological Survey's Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said it occurred along the eastern edge of the North Atlantic Ridge, a north-south line in the Atlantic Ocean where two great crustal plates are pulling apart.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one whole number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.

An earthquake of 6 on the scale can cause severe damage, while a quake with a reading of 7 is a major quake capable of widespread heavy damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated at 8.3 on the scale.

Police search for robber who held up 7-Eleven wearing and demanded money. The clerk said he gave the robber some cash, and the man fled the store on foot.

Midland police this morning were looking for a man in connection with an alleged armed robbery of the 7-Eleven Food Store, 911 S. Big Spring St., early today of an undetermined amount of cash.

Police had no suspects in custody early today.

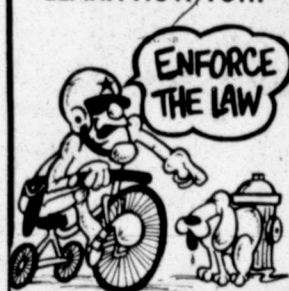

The robbery was reported by Ricky Lee, 2905 W. Louisiana Ave., a clerk at the store.

The robber, armed with a sawed-off rifle or shotgun, was described as 20 to 21 years of age, 5 feet 10 to 5 feet 11, thin build with blond hair covering his ears and clean shaven.

He reportedly wore an Army-type overcoat and a brightly flowered welder's cap, the clerk said.

Lee told police the man came into the store about 12:24 a.m. today, pulled a sawed-off shotgun or rifle from underneath the overcoat he was

Many changes in official Washington in past decade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1970s are history now and anyone who needs reminding of how much has changed in official Washington in 10 years has only to pick up a Congressional Directory and see who was holding power a decade ago.

There were a lot of familiar names in the executive branch. Richard M. Nixon was president and Spiro T. Agnew was vice president.

William P. Rogers was secretary of state, though there was a growing suspicion that foreign policy was being made in the White House by the president and his national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger.

The No. 2 man in the State Department was Elliot L. Richardson, who soon would become secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. From HEW, Richardson moved on to the top job in the Pentagon.

Little did he know that he would be best remembered for his departure from a third Cabinet post, attorney general. Richardson was fired after he refused to dismiss Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

The Arab oil boycott was three years away. There was no energy committee in the Senate or Department of Energy in the administration. If anyone suggested there would be a shortage of oil or that Americans would pay anything close to $1 a gallon for gasoline, no one bothered listening to such prophets of gloom and doom.

Southerners were firmly in control of the Senate except for the elected leadership. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., was the majority leader and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was the majority whip. Kennedy got the job by ousting Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, who was having personal problems.

Soon, Kennedy would have personal problems of his own and lose the leadership post in January 1971, to Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia was the senior member of the Senate and chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Other powerful Southerners included Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Agriculture Committee; John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee; John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of Banking; Long, chairman of Finance; J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of Foreign Relations; John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of Government Operations; James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of Judiciary; and B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., chairman of Rules.

Ten years later, Long and Stennis are the only Southerners holding committee chairmanships.

There were 57 Democrats and 43 Republicans in the Senate. Sen. Harry F.

Byrd Jr. of Virginia was still a Democrat. He's since become an independent.

Among the Democrats, 31 of the 57 are gone. Twenty-nine of the 43 Republicans are no longer senators.

There never have been many women senators, but the one who served in 1970, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine was the senior Republican on the Armed Services Committee.

One thing that hasn't changed: There were 100 senators and 435 members of the House of Representatives in 1970, the same as there are now. But staff aides employed in the House and Senate numbered about 12,000 in 1970 and more than 18,000 now.

Some people rarely in the news in 1970, who would make headlines before the decade ended were:

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, who was leader of the Republican minority in the House.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., who ranked in the bottom half of the Senate in seniority.

Jimmy Carter, who was elected governor of Georgia in his second try for the

In other action, the board will review financial status of the housing authority. Mrs. August Wenck, board member, will discuss status of a home rehabilitation program.

Indira Gandhi tries comeback bid

NEW DELHI (AP) — All attention focused on former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's comeback bid as campaigning for India's parliamentary elections went into the final week Monday.

Mrs. Gandhi, defeated in a 1977 landslide that reflected popular protest over her 1975-77 emergency rule, has been running a high-priced reelection campaign focusing on the alleged incompetence of her successor, former Prime Minister Morarji Desai.

Balloting by India's 361 million eligible voters starts Thursday in about half of India's election districts, with the remainder to vote on Sunday. First results are expected Sunday night.

One bi-weekly Indian newsmagazine predicted today that Mrs. Gandhi will win a decisive victory and recapture the prime ministry. The magazine, India Today, said her Indira Congress Party would capture 291 seats in the 529 lower house of Parliament, the main legislative body. More than 4,600 candidates are running.

However, most analysts see the Indira Congress Party running in a dead heat with the Janata Party headed by Jagjivan Ram, leader of the Untouchables, the lowest Hindu caste and one of the nation's largest voting blocs.

Both Mrs. Gandhi and her controversial son Sanjay are expected to win parliamentary seats in districts they lost in the 1977 Janata landslide.

Some analysts predict Mrs. Gandhi's party will win a plurality in Parliament but fail to gain the outright majority.

India Today said its forecast was based on a survey of 8,441 voters conducted by a market research firm in 206 villages across the country. The magazine, which had been sharply critical of Mrs. Gandhi's emergency rule, said her victory "would not be a triumph of any ideology, since she represents none, but rather a triumph of her ability to convince a weary electorate ... that she is the only leader capable of solving India's intractable problems."

Rising prices, shortages of necessities such as kerosene, sugar, diesel oil and electricity, and a breakdown of law and order have enabled Mrs. Gandhi to steer attention away from the 19-months of emergency rule that brought arrests of thousands of her critics and forced sterilizations in a population control project.

Nonetheless, both Ram, 71, and caretaker Prime Minister Charan Singh, 77, the clear underdog in the three-cornered race, are telling voters that the main issue is democracy versus dictatorship.

Pope condemns European missiles

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In his strongest criticism to date of the installation of new nuclear missiles in Europe, Pope John Paul II condemned the buildup and warned of the "terrible nightmare" of nuclear war.

The recent decision "to pile up many means of destruction in the cradle of civilization has forced the people to look toward the future with anxiety," the pontiff said in a New Year's Day audience Tuesday. "They could destroy the fruits of this rich civilization ... reducing cities and villages to a pile of rubble."

The pope did not name any countries, but Vatican sources said he was referring to the new Soviet missile buildup and the resulting decision by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to allow the stationing of new medium-range American nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

Ireland reports first dead

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The first fatalities of 1980 in the war in Northern Ireland were two British troops accidentally killed by other British forces and a 16-year-old girl in a car that failed to stop at an army checkpoint.

Security officials said soldiers apparently mistook Lt. Simon Bates, 23, and Pvt. Gerald Hardy, 18, for IRA guerrillas Tuesday while setting up a trap outside a village in south Armagh County, a stronghold of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing.

The girl was shot Tuesday night when the car in which she and a youth were riding went through a checkpoint in West Belfast. The boy was wounded.

China reforms legal system

PEKING (AP) — New laws reforming China's legal system and providing for free legislative elections have gone into effect.

The measures approved by the National Peoples Congress in July went into effect New Year's Day. While a majority of China's 960 million people are believed to favor the new laws, some bureaucrats, law enforcement officials and politicians are resisting their implementation.

One of the major changes in the penal code is a narrowing of the catch-all charge of counter-revolutionary activity. Persons can no longer be charged for expression of opinions but must commit an act aimed at overthrowing the socialist system or the government.

The new election law requires more than one candidate for each post, provides for secret voting and permits non-Communist candidates.

Italian socialist leader dead

ROME (AP) — Socialist leader Pietro Nenni is dead of a heart attack after a political career that spanned seven decades. He was 88.

Nenni led Italy's Socialist Party from 1949 to 1969 following 40 years of struggle against fascism and Italian colonialism. He was foreign minister in 1946-47 and an ally of the Italian Communist Party until Soviet troops crushed the Hungarian revolt in 1956. Breaking then with the Communists, he brought his party into a center-left alliance with the ruling Christian Democrats.

Nkomo, Mugabe planning return

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Patriotic Front guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe plan to return to Rhodesia this weekend after seven years of self-exile in which they waged a bloody war against the Salisbury government.

Mugabe's spokesman in Salisbury, Enos Nkala, said his chief would return Saturday from his headquarters in Mozambique.

Nkomo is to return Sunday, the guerrilla leader told a news conference at his headquarters in Zambia. Both Nkomo and Mugabe are expected to run on separate slates in the February elections for a new black-majority government paving the way for independence from Britain.

Nkala said Mugabe wanted to get to Salisbury quickly "because of problems" in the cease-fire that went into effect just after midnight Saturday.

British-commanded Rhodesian forces on Tuesday killed seven of 10 guerrillas who attacked a white-owned farm. It was the first major clash of the truce.

But the "problems" mentioned by Nkala apparently involve getting the estimated 15,000 to 30,000 guerrillas from their hideouts in the bush to 16 assembly points in Rhodesia by this Friday, as required by the settlement signed in London Dec. 16.

Nicholas Fenn, chief spokesman for British Interim Gov. Lord Soames, said Tuesday that British officials were worried that the number of guerrillas reporting to the assembly points "was not rising fast enough."

Firemen Tuesday remove charred bodies from the rubble of a Chapaïs, Quebec, reception hall, following a fire. At least 42 persons died when the over-crowded reception hall burst into flames during a New Year's Eve party. A young man has been arrested.

The remains of most of the fire victims lie wrapped in plastic on the floor of the Chapaïs, Quebec, municipal garage awaiting transfer to nearby Chibogamau, where authorities will try to identify the victims. The blaze was Canada's worst since 1938. (AP Laserphotos)

At least 42 dead in fire at Quebec

CHAPPAIS, Quebec (AP) — A young man was arrested after a fire at a Lions Club New Year's Eve party killed at least 42 revelers. "It is definitely a criminal matter," police said.

The 21-year-old was toying with a cigarette lighter near Christmas decorations that burst into flames near the club's entrance, survivors told investigators.

Constable Rene Fortin of the Chapaïs municipal police told reporters he did not know when the charges would be lodged. The suspect was not immediately identified.

Police said many of the bodies were stacked against a rear door of the club, the Opemiska, and that 50 other partygoers suffered serious burns and smoke inhalation as the fire roared through fir branch decorations.

Police said there were approximately 350 persons in the club when the fire broke out about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday. Thirty children lost parents in the blaze, and one family lost five relatives.

One of the survivors, Norman Bedard, said when the fire broke out many of the guests continued dancing. Then there was panic, and people fleeing through the blazing front door "were like walking torches as their nylon clothing burned," he said.

Another survivor, Luc Marceau, 24, said he saw several men try to put out the fire with a portable extinguisher and that when he realized they weren't going to succeed, he fled with his girlfriend.

Outside he tried to help the injured. "I saw a girl on the snow. She had no hair, no clothes on. She called, 'Luc, help me.' I had to ask her name because I didn't recognize her. It was someone I had gone to school with."

Marceau's 19-year-old brother Gilles, was trapped in side the club for a while. "The smoke kept dropping down from the ceiling," he said. "I didn't know what to do."

Gilles escaped through a fire exit at the front of the room, but his clothes were on fire. His face was blistered, his hair and beard were badly singed, and his hands, chest and shoulders had to be swathed in bandages.

Bernard Coulombe was in the hotel he owns about 100 yards from the club when one of the survivors staggered in, his clothes afire, and cried for help.

"I called the police, then went outside," Coulombe said. "The flames were spreading quickly, and there were a lot of people trying to get out through one exit door at the back."

He said the man who ran to the hotel "looked like he had been burned alive...there was not much skin left on his body and his clothes were still on fire."

"When the man stumbled in, somebody started ripping away the burning clothes and I put out the flames with my hands. What skin was left was hanging from his body and all his hair had been burned off, leaving him bald."

One resident said he saw a man throwing people to safety through a window of the club's kitchen, but then the man was trapped by flames and perished.

Chapaïs is a town of 3,000 about 310 miles north of Montreal. The Opemiska Club was owned by Falconbridge Canada Ltd., which employs about 800 workers at its copper mine here.

The party, an annual event, was open to all Chapaïs residents, with proceeds to go to various children's programs. It was Canada's worst fire since 1938 when 46 persons died in an inferno at a college in St. Hyacinthe, Quebec.

Tentative agreement reached in school strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bargainers confined to a hotel under court order reached a tentative agreement today that could end an 11-week-old Cleveland teachers strike.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Frederick M. Coleman announced the agreement shortly before teachers were to be back in class in accordance with another court order.

Because of the agreement, Coleman held in abeyance his back-to-work order until the 5,200 members of the Cleveland Teachers Union had a chance to vote on it. He said he hoped the agreement could be approved in time for a return to work Friday.

Teachers union president Eugene Kolach said his negotiating team would recommend acceptance of the pact. Details were withheld pending the vote.

Coleman's announcement of the agreement at a 7:30 a.m. news conference ended a lengthy bargaining session. The judge had ordered the entire school board and top union leaders confined to the Bond Court Hotel since New Year's Eve under instructions to keep at the bargaining until agreement was reached.

On Tuesday, Kolach had urged teachers to defy the back-to-work order unless a contract settlement was reached. Teachers had walked off the job on Oct. 18, disrupting classes for the 92,000 pupils in Ohio's largest school system.

School Board President John E. Gallagher Jr. said Tuesday that no progress was reported and the board has not changed the offers that were rejected by the teachers last week in a secret vote by mail.

Before issuing the temporary restraining order, which the school board had asked for on Dec. 3, Coleman asked both sides whether there was any change in their positions.

Board lawyer J. William Petro said the board "stands on its offer." Bernard Berkman, a union lawyer, said that following the "80 percent rejection" of the board's latest offer by the teachers, any further proposals would have to be presented to the membership.

W. Kenneth Evans, an assistant regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and Edward T. McMahon, a national representative of the service, both were sitting in on the talks.

Petro said during a break in the talks Tuesday that he felt like "a hostage" in the continuing stalemate. He refused to confirm or deny reports that the board has improved its contract offer.

The teachers last week rejected two alternate pay proposals, one which would have given them a 7 percent increase retroactive to Sept. 1, plus 9 percent next Sept. 1. The second proposal would have provided an imme-mediate 10 percent increase and another 10 percent Dec. 31, 1980.

The union is demanding pay hikes of 27 percent over two years.

Cleveland teachers' pay now ranges from $9,828 to $20,072 a year.

In Cincinnati, meanwhile, the board of education and school employee unions, with an assist from the City Council, reached a settlement hours before a midnight Monday strike deadline.

The board and union representatives agreed to a 37 percent raise over the next 2½ years. The agreement was facilitated by a $1 million "lease" from the City Council of some school facilities.

Chicago schools may be forced to close Friday

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago public schools reopen today after their holiday vacation, but they may close after Friday if no way is found to end their financial crisis.

Gov. James R. Thompson held out new hope for a solution to the schools' money woes during the New Year's holiday, asking unpaid employees and suppliers of the 475,000-student system to "be patient for a few more days" while officials attempt to hammer out a payment plan.

The 48,600 employees of the public school system already have gone home without their paychecks once and have threatened to walk out if they are not paid in full by their next payday, which is Friday.

Several suppliers of milk and bread to the schools have cut off deliveries because they have not been paid since early November, and several private bus companies hired to transport students have threatened to cut off service after Friday unless they are paid.

Thompson said Monday he hopes school employees will be paid on Friday, if only partially, and that a temporary solution to the system's shortage of cash can be assembled next week.

"It's my hope that the schools will not have to close," Thompson said. "Once they are closed, people lose hope and they dig in and become hardened in their positions."

Thompson said legislation is being drafted to enable the school board to get short-term loans, a development he said prompted his new optimism about the situation.

He added, though, that he would wait until later in the week before deciding whether to advance the school system $37.5 million in state aid to help meet the payroll of more than $40 million. Such advances helped the board get through two previous paydays.

Thompson has said the state will not lend the schools money if the banks and city government don't contribute aid as well.

Thompson said the General Assembly would have to pass two pieces of legislation when it reconvenes Jan. 9 to keep the schools from closing.

With that legislation passed, Thompson said, "we'll be a long way toward freeing up money from the banks."

Firefighters resume bargaining

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — After suddenly deciding to end their 12-day work slowdown, Kansas City firefighters were set to return to the bargaining table and their jobs today, providing the city with its first regular fire protection in five days.

UAW begins re-negotiation of contract with Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers' 13-member bargaining committee today tackled the job of reworking its three-year contract with the struggling Chrysler Corp. The union had hoped to avoid re-negotiating the national agreement, but the terms of a $3.5 billion federal assistance plan for the No. 3 automaker required it. Specifically, the UAW must trim nearly $260 million from the contract it gained last fall.

On Monday, UAW Vice President Marc Stepp, who heads the union's Chrysler Department, said "It's quite possible we could have a new tentative contract agreement in a matter of a few days."

Stepp believes a revised contract could be presented to a Jan. 8 meeting here of the union's 256-member Chrysler Council and thinks ratification could be completed by Jan. 20.

"It will depend on how much preparation time we need to fashion a new proposal that will comply with the requirements placed on us by the Chrysler aid legislation," Stepp said. Congress approved a Chrysler assistance plan shortly before the Christmas recess. The plan still awaits President Carter's signature.

The current UAW-Chrysler pact already grants the automaker an estimated $203 million in concessions compared to the accords signed with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.

Germann said firefighters would report for the 7 a.m. CST shift today, resuming the firefighting duties 700 National Guardsmen and 550 police officers took over last Thursday.

Germann said the union's executive committee voted unanimously during a five-hour meeting Tuesday to return to work and acknowledged that the threat of fines and jail sentences for contempt of court from the Jackson County Circuit Court prompted the decision.

The circuit court issued a temporary restraining order Dec. 24, calling for the firefighters to end the job action they began Dec. 21 after they reached an impasse with the city over contract negotiations.

The city sought contempt of court citations against 70 firefighters, including the union officers.

A hearing on the citations began Monday and was scheduled to resume today with 26 firefighters to appear.

Despite increasingly heavy pressure from the city — including firings and suspensions of firefighters and talk about rebuilding the fire department — the firefighters steadily escalated the job action.

Tuesday morning, at the height of a "sickout" they began Dec. 26, only 14 of the 190 firemen scheduled to work appeared.

The shortage of trained firefighters left seven of the city's 32 fire stations closed New Year's Day. Seventeen were manned by police and guardsmen while five were run by battalion chiefs and guarded by police. Only two stations were manned by firefighters. Fire facilities at Kansas City International Airport were manned by a private firm.

"We are ready to resume negotiations immediately, and we respectfully urge the city to join with us in negotiations to resolve the current impasse," John Germann, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters Local 42 said late Tuesday at a hastily called news conference.

Kansas City Firefighters

The president of the union representing Kansas City firefighters said members would return to work and the bargaining table, ending a 12-day work slowdown that left most firefighting duties to police and National Guardsmen.

John Germann, president of the International Association of Fire Fighters Local 42, said late Tuesday the union's executive committee voted unanimously to return to work.

Cleveland Teachers

The president of the Cleveland Teachers Union has urged members to defy a judge's back-to-work order and refuse to show up for classes today unless a contract settlement is reached.

Union president Eugene G. Kolach said Tuesday night "our legitimate request has not been met." The 5,200-member union has been on strike since Oct. 18.

Elizabeth, N.J., Police

Almost all of the 35 policemen scheduled to work this morning in this North Jersey community of 106,000 have called in sick as part of a protest of stalled contract talks.

Non-union officers have been working overtime and supervisory personnel have pitched in to keep the force running, said Deputy Chief Joseph Sheridan. The policemen's contract with the city expired Monday, and talks on a new one-year pact are scheduled to begin Friday, said Paul Partazana, president of Local 4 of the Police Benevolent Association.

End-of-year surge in prices boosts food bills 10 percent

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

1979 ended with a surge in supermarket prices that boosted family grocery bills to a level almost 10 percent higher than at the start of the year, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. The December increase was the second largest of the year, topped only by the January rise.

The AP drew up a random list of commonly purchased food and non-food items early in 1973 and checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1. The prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket bill increased during December at the checklist store in 11 cities, rising an average of 3.2 percent. The bill declined in only two cities — Dallas and Philadelphia — dropping an average of 1 percent.

ON AN OVERALL BASIS, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores increased 2.6 percent during December. That was more than triple the eight-tenths of a percent increase during November and was the worst monthly boost since January 1979 when the marketbasket bill went up 2.7 percent.

The AP check showed the marketbasket bill increased during nine of the 12 months of 1979; the only decreases came in February, June and October. Comparing today's totals with those at the start of the year, the AP found the average marketbasket bill at the checklist store rose 9.5 percent.

The food items on the list rose faster than the non-foods. When the non-foods were excluded from the totals, the marketbasket bill at the checklist store showed a 12 percent increase during 1979 — 2.5 percentage points larger than the boost for the foods and non-foods together.

Price fluctuations in the past year forced many Americans to change their eating habits. Beef prices soared, reflecting smaller supplies of cattle. Hog farmers, who can increase production much more quickly than cattle ranchers, boosted their output and many consumers switched from beef to pork.

PORK PRICES DECLINED or remained stable during much of the year, but the demand finally caught up with supply in December. The AP survey showed that the price of pork chops increased last month at the checklist store in nine cities.

Eggs — another popular substitute for beef — also continued to increase, rising in price at the checklist store in 10 cities during December. There appears to be little relief in sight. The Agriculture Department says food prices probably will rise at least 8 percent in 1980 and could go up by 11 percent if there are problems with the weather or if the general rate of inflation climbs faster than expected.

At this time last year, the USDA was predicting a 1979 increase in food prices of 6 percent to 10 percent. That prediction, however, was based on an overall inflation rate of 8 percent. The actual inflation rate was about 13 percent and the government now says that when all the figures are in, they will show a 1979 food-price increase of about 11 percent.

A LOOK AT THE OVERALL number of items in the AP survey showed more increases and fewer decreases during December than during November. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

Up	26.4	36.3
Down	18.1	13.2
Unchanged	52.2	46.7
Unavailable	3.3	3.8

The AP survey list originally included 15 items. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977, however, because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in another.

THE USDA MARKET BASKET issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It is used to keep track of changes in the proportion of the food dollar received by the farmer, wholesaler and retailer and does not correspond to actual family spending.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Here is a city-by-city breakdown of what happened during December:

ALBUQUERQUE: The marketbasket bill went from $18.10 to $18.67, up 3.1 percent. Pork chops, coffee, frankfurters, sugar, eggs, fabric softener, tomato sauce and milk all increased; only paper towels decreased. The other five items were unchanged.

ATLANTA: The total went from $18.03 to $19.05, up 5.7 percent. Chopped chuck, pork chops, paper towels, eggs, frankfurters and sugar increased; detergent decreased; everything else stayed the same.

BOSTON: The marketbasket bill went from $18.26 to $18.67, up 2.2 percent. Milk, chopped chuck, pork chops, eggs, detergent and tomato sauce went up; orange juice, fabric softener, coffee, frankfurters, paper towels, sugar and peanut butter went down; butter was unchanged.

CHICAGO: The marketbasket total for 12 available items went from $13.75 to $15.10, up 9.8 percent. Much of the increase was due to the fact that two items — pork chops and frankfurters — which had been on sale at the beginning of December had returned to their regular, higher prices by the end of the month. Sugar, chopped chuck, and eggs also increased. Only tomato sauce declined. Coffee and fabric softener were unavailable at the checklist store in the required size and brand. Everything else was unchanged.

DALLAS: The bill went from $19.20 to $18.98, down 1.1 percent. Increases in the price of chopped chuck, orange juice, eggs and sugar were more than offset by a sharp drop in the price of frankfurters. The remaining nine items stayed the same.

DETROIT: The total for 11 available items went from $14.33 to $14.70, up 2.6 percent. Pork chops, orange juice, coffee, eggs, tomato sauce, milk, franks and sugar increased; detergent decreased; paper towels and butter were unchanged; and chopped chuck, peanut butter and fabric softener were temporarily out of stock at the checklist store.

LOS ANGELES: The bill went from $17.10 to $17.47, up 2.2 percent. Chopped chuck, detergent, tomato sauce, milk and sugar increased; there were no decreases; everything else stayed the same.

MIAMI: The marketbasket total went from $18.13 to $18.44, up 1.7 percent. Chopped chuck, pork chops, butter, eggs, fabric softener, milk and hot dogs went up; detergent decreased; the other six items were unchanged.

NEW YORK: The bill for 13 available items went from $22.31 to $22.71, up 1.8 percent. Pork chops, paper towels, butter and sugar went up; eggs and peanut butter went down; fabric softener was out of stock at the checklist store; other items were unchanged.

PHILADELPHIA: The bill went from $19.51 to $19.35, down eight-tenths of a percent. Pork chops, eggs went up; butter, detergent and tomato sauce went down; everything else stayed the same.

PROVIDENCE: The marketbasket went from $18.28 to $18.54, up 1.4 percent. Chopped chuck and orange juice went up; butter and eggs went down; everything else was unchanged.

SALT LAKE CITY: The total for 13 available items went from $16.76 to $15.98, up 1.4 percent. Chopped chuck, orange juice, eggs, tomato sauce and frankfurters went up; paper towels and milk went down; pork chops were temporarily out of stock at the checklist store; the remaining six items were unchanged.

SEATTLE: The bill went from $17.37 to $18, up 3.6 percent. Pork chops, eggs, franks and sugar went up; chopped chuck and milk went down; everything else stayed the same.

Cardiac Cougs rescue victory

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

DALLAS — The University of Houston, Cotton Bowl and frantic finishes just seem to go together.

Last year, the Cougars blew a 22-point lead in the last half to lose to Notre Dame on the game's final play, 35-34. The shoe was on the other paw Tuesday as the cardiac Cougars, after falling behind 14-10 with 3:56 to play, stormed 66 yards in 13 plays to win 17-14 over Nebraska on a six-yard pass from quarterback Terry Elston to flanker Eric Herring with only 12 seconds left.

It marked the seventh time this season that the Cougars, who finished 11-1 and were declared the best team he has had in 18 seasons at Houston by coach Bill Yeoman, have won in the fourth quarter and sixth time they have come from behind to do it this year.

And four times, Elston, the junior bullpen specialist, has ridden to the rescue. It's also the second time Houston has won in the last 15 seconds.

In view of Elston's remarkable record, it's a wonder that Terry, who turned down feelers from Auburn and Alabama because they wanted to make him a defensive back, hasn't been starting in place of Delrick Brown, a star last year off the bench but not quite as effective this year as Danny Davis' starting successor.

"Quarterback is not like any other position," explained Yeoman. "If you have a senior who has paid his dues and you are winning, you don't jack around with the position."

Still, while Yeoman felt Brown had earned the right to start, the veteran Houston coach who has guided UH to three SWC titles in four years, is a solid Elston backer. "Elston is good enough to do anything he wants to do."

Elston came into the game in the second quarter and sparked the Cougars to a 7-7 tie and then directed the team the rest of the game. "Elston is stronger than Delrick and Nebraska left things open where Elston is strongest, so we stayed with him all the way," Yeoman explained.

Despite a 7-7 tie going into the final quarter, the first three periods were a good opportunity for bleary-eyed New Year's Eve celebrants to catch up on their sleep. It was a real Somnifex special that gave no hint of the kind of finish that would be provided the sun splashed fans in the giant saucer.

Kenny Hatfield's 41-yard field goal gave Houston a 10-7 lead and that appeared to be more than enough to beat a Nebraska team that still hadn't made a first down in the second half.

A John Newhouse fumble at the UH 31 gave the Huskers the opportunity to get back in the game and they capitalized on it when quarterback Jeff Quinn passed six yards to tight end Jeff Finn on a third down for the touchdown.

The score came after Nebraska's version of the "swinging gate" play produced a touchdown, but then was disallowed by the officials.

"I talked to the officials and explained it before the game and they said it was all right. But when we ran the play, they said that it wasn't continuous motion," said coach Tom Osborne of Nebraska.

Houston, however, had time to come back. On the winning TD toss to Herring Yeoman said, "I saw him juggling the ball in the end zone and I didn't know what happened." Yeoman said he knew something good happened when everybody started jumping around. Yeoman added, "The bad thing was that I was getting ready for the next play. Yes, now I know that it was fourth down."

In labeling this his best Houston team, Yeoman commented, "This team has played the toughest schedule and we've had the best record. This team was tougher and better in the big games and did what it had to do to win."

Comparing Houston with Oklahoma, the only two teams to defeat Nebraska this season, Osborne said, "Oklahoma probably runs better, but Houston just might be better defensively. I don't think there's that much difference between us, Houston, Oklahoma and Arkansas."

Nebraska scored first on a nine-yard run by Jarvis Redwine with 5:19 left in the first period after a 14-play, five-yard drive. Dean Sukup's kick made it 7-0. Quinn engineered the drive, completing three passes, the longest a 14 yarder to Midland's Junior Miller.

Less than three minutes into the second period, Houston had squared it at seven as Elston made his first appearance to take the Cougars 71 yards in seven plays. Terry gained nine, seven and eight yards and also threw a 27-yard pass to Lonell Phea. Elston took it the final eight yards.

The third period played like something Xavier Cugat might have proposed, the heavy rumba beat...three downs and kick. The only excitement was supplied by Nebraska's Dave Leigle, a 5-9 junior punt returner, who brought one back 40 yards and another 30. Unfortunately, the second was erased by a totally unnecessary clip.

Elston wound up the game as the outstanding offensive player and his statistics left little room for argument. He gained 87 yards rushing and completed nine of 16 passes for 119 yards, over 200 yards of Houston's total yardage.

Alabama stops Razorbacks, 24-9, and now sweats college poll results

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — For the third year in a row, Alabama is sweating out the vote in The Associated Press college football poll.

But if the Alabama and Arkansas players were doing the voting, there would be no doubt about college football's national champion.

"Alabama deserves to be No. 1," Arkansas quarterback Kevin Scanlon said after the second-ranked Crimson Tide trounced the sixth-rated Razorbacks 24-9 Tuesday in the Sugar Bowl.

"If you don't vote for them as No. 1, you've got to be crazy."

But Alabamians feel they have been burned enough times — including running up finishes behind Notre Dame in 1977 and Ohio State in this year's final regular-season poll — not to take anything for granted where the ratings are concerned. Still, there was unbridled joy in the Alabama team's hotel Tuesday evening after third-ranked Southern California edged top-rated and previously unbeaten Ohio State 17-16 in the Rose Bowl and fifth-ranked Oklahoma trimmed No. 4 and previously undefeated Florida State 24-7 in the Orange Bowl.

Arkansas controlled the third quarter, scoring on Scanlon's 3-yard pass to Robert Farrell to end an 80-yard drive following the kickoff, but Alabama stormed right back with a magnificent 98-yard, nine-play drive in the final period, ending in Steve Whitceded that "from what I've seen so far, I think we're No. 1." When the final gun sounded and Ohio State had lost, he said, "That's about as good as it can be for us next to a tie."

All Alabama can do now is await the result of The AP poll at 6:30 p.m. EST, tonight to see if the Crimson Tide has won its second consecutive national championship. If not, they will have to be content with a 12-0 record — Alabama's first perfect mark since 1966 — and a 21-game winning streak, longest in the nation as well as an Alabama record.

Alabama's Don McNeal fumbled the opening kickoff away at his own 25, but Arkansas had to settle for Ish Ordonez' 34-yard field goal. For the most part after that it was all Alabama. Major Ogilvie, named the game's outstanding player, scored on runs of 22 yards and 1 yard in the first period and set up Alan McElroy's 43-yard field goal with a 50-yard punt return late in the second quarter.

Ogilvie's first touchdown capped an 82-yard drive and the second, less than 3 minutes later, came after linebacker Thomas Boyd recovered a fumble by Scanlon at the Arkansas 22.

Arkansas controlled the third quarter, scoring on Scanlon's 3-yard pass to Robert Farrell to end an 80-yard drive following the kickoff, but Alabama stormed right back with a magnificent 98-yard, nine-play drive in the final period, ending in Steve Whit-

ceded that "from what I've seen so far, I think we're No. 1." When the final gun sounded and Ohio State had lost, he said, "That's about as good as it can be for us next to a tie."

All Alabama can do now is await the result of The AP poll at 6:30 p.m. EST, tonight to see if the Crimson Tide has won its second consecutive national championship. If not, they will have to be content with a 12-0 record — Alabama's first perfect mark since 1966 — and a 21-game winning streak, longest in the nation as well as an Alabama record.

Alabama's Don McNeal fumbled the opening kickoff away at his own 25, but Arkansas had to settle for Ish Ordonez' 34-yard field goal. For the most part after that it was all Alabama. Major Ogilvie, named the game's outstanding player, scored on runs of 22 yards and 1 yard in the first period and set up Alan McElroy's 43-yard field goal with a 50-yard punt return late in the second quarter.

Oklahoma's Billy Sims gets Orange Bowl yardage the hard way Tuesday night as he vaults over Florida State's Mark Macek (67). The Sooners thrashed the previously undefeated Florida State Seminoles, 24-7. (AP Laserphoto)

Sooners' early week worry was just a diplomatic ploy

MIAMI (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners kept saying all week long that they were worried about fourth-ranked Florida State, but after their convincing 24-7 Orange Bowl victory, the Sooners admitted they were just being diplomatic.

"I didn't want to go into it during the last week, because I knew the media would take it and play it up the wrong way, but we felt sure that Florida State couldn't beat us," quarterback J.C. Watts said.

"WE FELT the only way we would lose would be if we beat ourselves — making mistakes, putting the ball on the ground," he said.

"Man for man, they were better than we were," agreed FSU's All-American nose guard, Ron Simmons. "Their offense is extra tough, especially when you have excellent athletes like Billy Sims and Watts."

The Seminoles, 11-0 and playing in their first New Year's Day bowl, opened a 7-0 lead and had the ball at the Oklahoma 2 early in the second quarter before the Sooners erupted.

"I felt like we were just kind of dead through the first quarter. We knew we could move the ball against them. Over on the bench, I said, 'Let's get it going,'" said Watts, the game's most valuable offensive player after gaining 127 of the Sooners' 411 rushing yards.

HEBERT AND his defensive teammates held the Jordan-Woodham passing tandem, which combined for over 2,000 yards in each of the last two seasons, to only eight completions and 100 yards.

"They stopped the pass and their defensive line was good enough to stop us up front," Woodham said. "They had an excellent scheme."

"We had all the momentum going for us," Jordan said. "It's hard to describe what happened. When you get behind, you try all that much harder and make mistakes. You start pressing; I know I did."

Another Sooner senior — star running back Billy Sims — also ended his career appropriately. He gained 164 yards on 24 carries, and took a pitch from Watts 22 yards for the final touchdown.

"Billy Sims had another great game," Switzer said. "We're going to miss that. But we've got nine offensive starters returning next year, including J.C."

The fifth-ranked Sooners, playing their fourth Orange Bowl in the last five years (they won three), finished at 11-1.

FSU went five straight possessions without a first down. Wally Woodham replaced Jordan at quarterback late in the second quarter, but missed on his first five passes. After Woodham finally got the Seminoles moving in the third quarter, Hebert, who later added another interception of Jordan, made a diving grab of a Woodham pass at his own 22 to stop the drive.

Hebert, a senior, made only his second start at free safety. "Just a super day in the secondary," Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said. "Hebert probably should have been playing at the free safety position all along."

Hebert, who was moved from cornerback when Darrol Ray was hurt before the Nebraska game, said his three-interception game, an Orange Bowl record, helped ease a frustrating year.

"This is a good way to end," he said. "It's been a long year for me, not playing as much as I wanted."

Life at cage top isn't easy

By The Associated Press

If you think life at the top is easy, you haven't talked to Duke's Bill Foster or Kentucky's Joe Hall.

"I can't believe the number of situations we've been in this season," Foster said after watching his top-ranked Blue Devils post an 87-75 overtime victory over Cincinnati in the championship of the Iron Duke Classic last Saturday. It was Duke's third overtime win this season, including one over second-ranked Kentucky, and another over Boston College.

"Nothing comes easy these days, Foster added. "College basketball is getting closer and closer ... tighter and tighter."

THE ONLY thing that seems to come easy to Duke these days is being named No. 1 in the Associated Press college basketball poll. The Blue Devils were tabbed No. 1 on 44 of 57 first-place votes and received 1,125 points out of a possible 1,140 points in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters Tuesday.

Kentucky also had no problem in maintaining its No. 2 ranking. The Wildcats collected 10 first-place votes and 1,083 points. But the Wildcats had more than their share of woes last week.

First, starting forward Dwight Anderson quit the team for personal reasons. Then Hall, knowing that Notre Dame — ranked third last week — was coming to town, suspended starting center Sam Bowie and reserve guard Dirk Minniefield for unspecified training rules violations.

REMARKABLY, Kentucky defeated the Irish 86-80.

"I think discipline is more important than athletic ability, more important than anything else," Hall said. "It hurt to have those two players out for a game like this, but I had to do it."

A pair of unbeaten teams — DePaul and Louisiana State — both moved up a notch, taking over the Nos. 3 and 4 positions. The Blue Demons got the final three first-place votes and 960 points while the Tigers collected 921 points.

Once-beaten Ohio State moved up two pegs and took over the No. 5 position with 840 — 16 more than North Carolina, which held onto the No. 6 position. Then came Notre Dame with 742 points. Purdue, 694, and Syracuse, 671, remained in the eighth and ninth positions while unbeaten Iowa, which got 614 points, replaced Indiana as the final member of the Top 10.

Noll stops short of predicting victory

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Despite Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini's prediction of an Oilers victory Sunday, Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll says he won't be drawn into forecasting the outcome of the American Football Conference title game.

"I am not in the prediction business," said Noll. "I am in the competition business."

Houston and Pittsburgh, AFC Central Division rivals known for rough-house play, will clash at Three Rivers Stadium in a game that will decide a berth in Super Bowl XIV.

THE STEELERS and Oilers split during the regular season, with both teams winning at home.

But a key factor in the upcoming clash is the status of Pastorini and star running back Earl Campbell.

who were sidelined with leg muscle pulls when the Oilers upset San Diego 17-14 last weekend.

It was not expected to be known until sometime today whether they will play Sunday. Pittsburgh is not taking any chances and is preparing for them.

"I imagine the rest might help them, and they could well be ready to go," said Noll. "In fact, we expect that. That's the way we will go into the game."

The Steelers held a brief workout in frosty temperatures at the stadium early New Year's Day. Players donned warm-up pants and jackets and ran laps in the open air arena.

THE STEELERS are happy to have the homefield advantage, complete with thousands of fans twirling Terrible Towels and shouting DEEFENSE on cue from an electronic scoreboard.

Can the Oilers overcome the Steelers on their home turf, in possibly harsh weather?

"One thing I have learned in my short tenure in the National Football League is that it is never decided until the last out," said Noll. "That's what makes the game so interesting, the unpredictability."

NOLL SAID the Houston victory over San Diego provided inspiration for him and the Steelers.

"I like to see teams play real good football, inspired football," Noll said.

"I was excited by it. I think it kind of fired me up a little bit," said Noll, whose Steelers went out the next day and beat Miami 34-14 in their conference semifinal.

Might the Steelers be lulled into a false sense of security by the injuries plaguing Houston?

"You've got to be kidding," Noll told reporters.

"San Diego probably fell into that same thing. I hope we don't, and I don't think our football team will. We have a great deal of respect for Houston. We had it before they beat San Diego, after and still."

ALTHOUGH THE Steelers have taken the division title six years in a row, they've traditionally been tested by Houston — the only AFC Central team ever to win a game at Three Rivers.

In the last three years, the Oilers and Steelers have split their regular season games.

Most recently, the Oilers beat Pittsburgh 20-17 in Houston in the next-to-last game of the regular season.

"It was a close game," said Noll. "They were a physical football team, but we were physical too. And we'll probably be two physical teams again."

Tampa Bay's Selmon never thinks of losing

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "When we approach a big game," Dewey Selmon explains, "We say, 'Let's go out and win it this way.' We never think about losing it."

That, says Selmon, is how the Tampa Bay Buccaneers are approaching Sunday's National Football Conference title game against the Los Angeles Rams. At stake is a trip to Super Bowl XIV against the winner of the Pittsburgh-Houston American Conference playoff.

The Bucs returned to work today after a one-day New Year's break.

Selmon is the signal-caller for the defense that leads the National Football League. He's alert, quick at reading offensive patterns and a sure tackler. And he's confident.

He thinks attitude plus experience playing together have helped boost the Tampa defensive unit to No. 1.

"First of all they were good players, top players coming out of college," says Selmon. "Then once you've been alongside a player for two or three years you recognize he's more important than just a player. A respect and love grows and a feeling develops that the guys want to cover for one another."

In two years the defensive lineup hasn't changed.

"We aren't the individual players were two seasons ago," Selmon said. "We've developed unity. It's teamwork."

The Tampa defense leads the NFL in four categories: fewest yards allowed (3,949), fewest points allowed (237), fewest yards allowed, per detensive play (3.89) and fewest yards allowed passing (2,087).

Despite that record, Selmon says the Bucs will have to work even harder getting ready for a rematch against the Rams, who Tampa upset 21-6 last September.

"We can't relax against them," he said. "For two reasons. One, we played them before. And two, we beat them. You have to take them very seriously the next time around. They will be fired up. And you tend to gear yourself for a harder battle."

The Rams come to the game hungry. In the last five years they have reached the NFC championship game four times and come away empty-handed. They haven't won a national title since 1951 when they beat Cleveland 24-17 at home.

Los Angeles has already sampled revenge by upsetting Dallas 21-19 last Sunday to win a trip to Tampa. It was the Cowboys last year who knocked the Rams out of the conference race, blanking them 28-0.

Tampa reached the title game by beating Philadelphia 24-17.

"They want it and so do we," Selmon says. "We're both shooting for the same thing." Offensively, the Rams are potent with the running of Cullen Bryant and Wendell Tyler and the pass receiving of Billy Waddy.

Reserve quarterback Vince Ferragamo, subbing for the injured Pat Haden, will face a defense anchored by Selmon's baby brother, Lee Roy, an All-Pro defensive end and the NFL defensive player of the year.

Vilas, Jordan capture wins

MELBOURNE (AP) — Top-seeded Guillermo Vilas, of Argentina, defeated American John Sadri 7-6, 6-3, 6-2 Wednesday to capture the $362,000 Australian Open tennis championship.

Sadri earned himself a reputation as one of tennis' new "bad boys" following his semifinal victory over 35-year-old Australian Colin Dibley.

Sadri's game was studied with obscene language and gestures and at one point he smashed his racket on the court. After the match, Dibley described Sadri's performance as "garbage" and said he never played against a worse sport.

Sadri had already been fined $250 for obscene language and a hearing has been scheduled over his later actions in the match with Dibley.

Earlier in the day, Barbara Jordan captured the women's title in an all-American final, defeating 27-year-old Sharon Walsh 6-3, 6-3. The 22-year-old Jordan became the first American to win the singles crown since Billie Jean King in 1967. She also became only the third American to emerge victorious in the tournament, joining King and Maureen Connolly who won in 1952.

White battered, but not beaten hero

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Charles White threw up at the bench just before the game. Afterward, he appeared in the Rose Bowl's underground interview room, looking like Joe Frazier after the Battle of Manila.

A bandage covered an open wound on the bridge of his nose. His boyish face showed ugly bruises. He wheezed and coughed as if he couldn't get his breath.

He was the battered but not the beaten hero of the 66th Rose Bowl football game, his last-gasp dramatics giving the Southern California Trojans a 17-16 victory over No. 1-ranked, undefeated and untied Ohio State.

Professional scouts by the dozens came to the historic oval to look at the 6-foot, 185-pound Los Angeles native who had run for an astronomical 5,998 yards in his four-year career and had swept the Heisman Trophy from the 1978 winner, Billy Sims of Oklahoma.

They were filled with skepticism. "Too small for the pros," most of them said.

Tide given championship

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The University of Alabama was awarded the Grantland Rice national championship trophy for the second year in a row. It was announced Tuesday by the Football Writers' Association of America.

Association president Joe Doyle of the South Bend Tribune, said a panel of five sports writers selected Alabama and will present the trophy in the near future.

"He'll go in the first round of the draft but about midway down, 14th or 15th," said Gil Brandt, astute personnel director of the Dallas Cowboys.

"He's a fine player," acknowledged O.J. Simpson, one of the greatest of the impressive parade of line-splintering tailbacks to come off the Southern Cal assembly line. "But he needs to get with a team that won't have to use him on the first-down situation. He'd be great for the Steelers."

They came to critique the Heisman winner but they stayed to drool over a tall, leather-tough Ohio State quarterback, Art Schlichter, whom they can't touch for two years.

For 50 minutes, the gangling sophomore Houdini electrified the 105,000 crowd and countless TV viewers with his ball-faking magic and mighty arm, hitting on 11 of 21 throws for 297 yards and putting the Buckeyes ahead 16-10 with the clock winding down.

Then, with 5:21 remaining and Southern Cal backed up its 24, they handed the ball to White and said, "Okay, Charlie, you've done it in the past. You gotta do it again."

Whoosh! Like a lightning flash, over right guard for 32 yards. Whish, bam, bop, 28 more around end, red Buckeye jerseys strewn in his wake. Teammates pick up short yardage. Then back to White.

Three over right guard. Then five. Then two. The red shirts know he's coming, but there's nothing they can do. By now the ball is on the one. One more shot. White dives over for the touchdown.

Score: Southern Cal 17, Ohio State 16. Final victory. The guy who is too small for the pros had done it again.

Young boxer dies Tuesday

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — A 20-year-old boxer who died from head injuries he received in the ring "wanted to be a fighter and he went out a fighter," his manager said.

Tony Thomas of Spartanburg, S.C., died Tuesday afternoon, a week and a half after he was stopped in the fourth round of a bout, went to his dressing room and collapsed.

The cause of death was acute subdural hematoma, or a blood clot on the brain, according to Spartanburg County Deputy Coroner Smith Thomas. Coroner Roger Smith said no inquest is planned.

Thomas underwent emergency surgery at Spartanburg General Hospital after his collapse Dec. 22. He never regained consciousness.

"I feel real bad that he's dead," said Don White, local boxing promoter and Thomas' manager, after hearing of Thomas' death. But he added, "He wasn't a quitter and I'm not giving up or quitting either."

White said he is planning a benefit fight to help Thomas' family.

Malavasi guides Rams over hump

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His name is Ray Malavasi, and you can call him coach. Although there have been several reports published recently that members of the Los Angeles Rams will be calling him something else next year, his job seems safe.

If it isn't, especially after what happened last Sunday, something's wrong.

Malavasi and the Rams struggled through a rather unbelievable 1979 National Football League season, one rife with injuries, front-office problems and second-guessing of his use of personnel.

Yet the Rams won the NFC West championship for the seventh straight year, despite a subpar 9-7 record, and upset the Dallas Cowboys 21-19 to earn a berth in the conference's championship game for the fifth time in seven years.

Malavasi had more than a little to do with his team's win over the Cowboys. In fact, it seems clear that the Rams' second-year head man and his staff outcoached Dallas' Tom Landry and his crew.

A key factor in the game was the success of the Rams' defense against Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, who completed just 13 of 28 passes for only 150 yards. In many obvious passing situations, Los Angeles employed seven defensive backs, a maneuver which seemed to confuse the Cowboys.

Also, Malavasi stuck with quarterback Vince Ferragamo when it seemed like a better move might have been to bring in Bob Lee. The coach's patience paid off when Ferragamo fired a 50-yard scoring strike to Billy Waddy with 2:06 remaining to give the Rams their victory.

Next, Malavasi must match wits with John McKay, who has guided the Bucs to the NFC title game just four years after the team was formed. Tampa Bay was a joke during its first two years of existence before showing improvement in 1978 and coming of age this season.

Malavasi was named to coach the Rams when George Allen was suddenly fired in August 1978 after Los Angeles had lost its first two exhibition games. Under Malavasi, the Rams went 12-4 and reached the NFC title game but were beaten by Dallas 28-0.

Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom drowned last April 2 and was succeeded by his wife, Georgia. Among the printed reports has been one saying that Malavasi would be replaced by, of all people, Allen when the team moves to Anaheim next year.

One example of Malavasi's problems this year is the rather startling fact that all but one of his team's starters in the offensive skill positions against Tampa Bay didn't figure to be first-stringers prior to the season.

Ferragamo is replacing Pat Haden, running backs Wendell Tyler and Cullen Bryant are replacing Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti, and wide receivers Preston Dennard and Billy Waddy or Ron Smith are replacing Ron Jessie and Willie Miller. At tight end, Terry Nelson has been the starter all the way.

All of those listed above who were counted on to start are on the sidelines with injuries except McCutcheon. Malavasi promoted Tyler before the Rams' fifth game of the season.

Richardson stuns Spurs

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's nice to be the league leader in assists and steals," says New York Knicks guard Michael Ray Richardson, "but I'm not worried about individual statistics. I just want to help us win. There's no way we should be under 500."

The Knicks, led by their blossoming backcourt of Richardson and Ray Williams, played two superb quarters Tuesday night, and it was enough to beat the defenseless San Antonio Spurs 128-120. It was the Knicks' fifth victory in the last six games and brought them within one step of the break-even point at 20-21 as they reached the midpoint of their National Basketball Association schedule.

In the only other NBA game Tuesday night, the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the Washington Bullets 109-99.

Richardson had 21 points, 17 assists and four steals while Williams tied rookie center Bill Cartwright for team scoring honors with 27 points. Forward Toby Knight chipped in 21 points to offset San Antonio's high-scoring backcourt of James Silas and George Gervin, who had 34 and 33 points, respectively.

For years the Spurs have been criticized for playing ineffectual defense, and now Coach Doug Moe says the critics are right.

It's not too early to plan tax return

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Federal income tax forms are appearing in mailboxes along with post-Christmas bills, and employers soon will be handing out W-2 slips, signaling the approach of April 15.

The tax deadline may seem a long way off, but it's not too early to start thinking about your return — particularly if you expect a refund. The earlier you mail in the forms, the sooner you will get your money.

The first thing to decide is whether you want to prepare your own return. The Internal Revenue Service regularly reviews the forms in an effort to make them easier to understand, but studies show that many people still find the paperwork too confusing.

The IRS will do all the calculations for you if you use the short form — 1040A — or if your adjusted gross income on the long form — 1040 — is under $20,000 and you meet certain other conditions. In all other cases, however, you have to complete the return before you send it in.

If your financial life is relatively simple — if most of your income, for example, comes from wages and the tax has been withheld by your employer — you should be able to handle the job yourself.

If, however, you have complicated money matters by making a major purchase like a house, for example, or by getting married or divorced, you probably need help. (If you itemize deductions, the cost of the help usually can be deducted on the 1980 return you file in 1981.)

There are several sources of aid, including the IRS itself. You can call one of almost 60 toll-free IRS telephone numbers or visit one of the nearly 1,000 agency offices. There is no charge. As a general rule, the IRS will not actually fill out your return for you. IRS employees will, however, answer questions about the rules and regulations and can provide help with arithmetic problems.

There is no guarantee that the answers you get from the IRS will be correct. According to "Help: The Indispensable Almanac — 1980," an IRS survey found that the agency's tax preparers made mistakes on more than three out of four returns checked. A similar error rate was found for other experts, including professional and commercial tax preparers.

Remember: You are responsible for your return no matter who fills it in. If there are penalties, you have to pay them.

There are several types of commercial and professional tax preparers. The most widely used are the national tax services like H&R Block. Training programs vary widely and so do error rates. Ask about the educational experience of employees and whether the office is open throughout the year.

Local tax services are often part-time operations that open in February or March and disappear after April 15. They may be less expensive than national services, but they may not be available to handle complaints or problems after the filing deadline.

Certified public accountants — CPAs — have the most training and undergo the strictest testing. They are more expensive than tax services, with fees running anywhere from $25 an hour on up, but you may find them worth the price if you have a particularly complex return. Unlike commercial tax preparers, CPAs are allowed to represent you before the Internal Revenue Service.

By law, anyone who prepares your return for you must give you a completed copy of the return. He — or she — also must keep, for three years, copies of all returns or a list of taxpayers for whom returns were prepared. The copies or list must be available for IRS inspection. The preparer must sign all returns and must include on each one his identification number or that of his employer.

Beware of any tax preparer who guarantees you a refund in advance, suggests that you lie on your return, or tells you to sign a partially completed form. Be careful, too, of someone who offers you an "instant" refund: It is usually nothing more than a loan and you have to pay interest on it — often at a high rate.

Battling Spoilage

David Birney stars as a schoolteacher who organizes a farming community's battle to keep a power company from despoiling its land, in "Ohms." The new motion picture-for-television will be broadcast on "The CBS Wednesday Night Movies," Wednesday, Jan. 2, on CBS.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Picky eater may need doctor's aid

Dear Dr. Solomon: My father, who is in his 80s and lives with me, has become a very fussy eater. It is aggravating to see him sit at the table, picking at his food. I have tried preparing many of the dishes he used to like, but he no longer seems to enjoy them. Do you have any ideas I might find useful? — Mrs. S.D.

oneself. While they appear to be picky eaters, they actually are unable to manipulate their hands and utensils properly. These people need special help and careful food selection.

and can be used without the disadvantage of staining the patient purple.

Dear Mrs. D.: You do not indicate in your letter whether your father is under medical care. If not, I would suggest a complete physical examination by a physician, particularly one interested in gerontology.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine tells me wine is effective in killing viruses. I thought he was kidding, but he insists he's not. Is there anything to the claim? — Sid.

Some may still argue that the juice of the grape is therapeutic, but not because of any antiviral effect when taken internally.

Dear Sid: The answer is both yes and no. Grape juice and wine appear to have some antiviral effects when applied to a wound, but not when taken internally.

Two scientists from the Food Research Institute of the University of Wisconsin, Dean O. Cliver and Kenneth D. Kostenbader Jr., have found that grape juice activates several types of viruses, but only in a test tube. Ingested grape juice does not appear to provide any such protection.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I was delighted to read your column about the 9-year-old who was overweight and suffers from "numerous allergies." A friend passed me this column only today. In the column you said, "I've recently found that 70 percent of the overweight patients I treat for weight loss have an intolerance to one or more foods. Unless I find this food intolerance and treat it, they will not be able to take off weight and keep it off."

It is possible that your father's taste perception has changed because of an age-related decrease in the number of taste fibers. This sometimes leads to decreased food consumption and even malnourishment in older people. Once the reason for his fussiness is known, it may be possible to do something about it.

With tongue in cheek, the Concord Grape Association, which supported the study, says it does not recommend bathing wounds in grape juice or wine. Other local disinfectants are more effective and can be used without the disadvantage of staining the patient purple.

Thank you so much for passing this needed information on to the public. — William G. Crook, M.D., Tennessee.

Some older people who suffer from Alzheimer's disease may actually have a condition known as feeding apraxia, which interferes with the coordinated movements necessary for feeding
