NEWS IN BRIEF

Candidacy told

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) -Barry Goldwater announced for a fifth U.S. Senate term Friday with the same tough talk that lost a presidential bid for him in 1964 but won the hearts of conservatives across the country.

"I'm getting on in years, I guess - 71," Goldwater said at a news conference on the back lawn of his hilltop home in suburban Paradise Valley. "I won't try to touch as many bases as I usually try to.'

But the Republican senator left few subjects untouched as he answered questions for 30

He declined to single out President Carter as responsible for the 50 hostages held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov.

"Every president since Eisenhower is responsible" for the impression that "the United States can be kicked around by every little dinky country in the world," Goldwater said.

Bodies recovered

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) - Search parties have found the bodies of all nine people aboard a Haitian commuter plane that crashed in a storm in a remote mountainous zone of northern Haiti, the airline's director said Friday.

The bodies were taken to Cap Haitien, 18 miles north of the site where the nine-passenger plane crashed on Wednesday.

Two of the dead were Americans, four were Irish, and three, including the pilot, were Haitians, according to Marc Ashton, airline director. The four Irish citizens had previously been reported to be Americans from a Maryland suburb of Washington.

Ashton said the cause of the crash was not yet known, but it took place as the plane, a Britten Norman "Islander", flew through heavy clouds, rain, and unstable air currents on the 40-minute flight over Haiti's rugged mountains from Port-Au-Prince, in the south, to Cap Haitien, on the north coast.

Reports ordered

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - A Circuit Court judge Friday ordered an attorney for Elvi: Presley's estate to turn over copies of the Presley autopsy report to the entertainer's former physician and the state Board of Medical Examiners.

But Judge James Tharpe placed the report undey a protective order to prevent public disclosure.

Attorneys for Dr. George Nichopoulos asked Tharpe to order D. Beecher Smith II, the Presley estate lawyer, to produce copies of the autopsy report. They said they needed the documents to prepare for their client's Jan. 14 hearing before the state Board of Medical Examiners.

Nichopoulos is accused of indiscriminately prescribing painkillers, amphetamines, barbituates and sedatives to Presley and 15 other people. If convicted, he could lose his medical

Move may 'cost'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - A move to abolish the nation's last "winner-take-all" presidential primary may cost Ronald Reagan more than 60 GOP convention delegates from his own

State officials say a petition drive apparently has gathered enough signatures to put an initiative on California's June 3 ballot to carry out the shift away from "winner-take-all" balloting in the Republican primary.

Supreme Court hasn't hurt press, guest says

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

Arenowned authority on constitutional law, B.J. George Jr., told members of the Midland County Bar Association Friday that recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions involving the news media have taken away no established first amendment protec-

George, visiting professor of law at Baylor University, was in Midland to address the bar association on the topic of "The Supreme Court, the Press and the First Amendment.'

After reviewing several court decisions in recent years which the press has labeled detrimental to its news gathering and reporting abilities, George said, "Our country is one of a minority which value and protect a free press. One cannot criticize those who speak for the media in advocating ever-increasing concern over the need of citizens to know

'Nevertheless, considered singly or as a body, the Supreme Court decisions in recent years have taken away no established first amendment protections," George added.

The professor said the court "maintains a valid balance between the need for an aggressive investigating press, on the one hand, and the claims of criminal defendants to fair trials and of libeled persons to have re-

George told the lawyers that if the positions advocated by the media had been uniformly accepted by the court. one might very legitimately raise the question, 'Who then watches over the guardians?"

Courts, George said, stand ready to guarantee the proper first amendment rights of the media, but they also "serve to protect citizens and, on rare occasions, public figures against excesses on the part of newspapers, magazines, broadcasters and their employees.

George added in his conclusion that 'this...is the balance actually struck through the present Supreme Court jurisprudence.

A 1979 high court decision which stated, essentially, that a judge has the right and the power to close a judicial proceeding to the public and the press has been largely misread, according to George.

That decision has been widely criticized by the nation's media. But, George said, "the right to public trial is that of defendants - not the public and not the media."

Carter's action meets support

ic congressional leaders expressed strong approval of President Carter's trade sanctions against the Soviet Union Friday night, but some farm state representatives complained their constituents will have to bear most of the costs.

Some of the early reaction had a partisan bite as several Republicans contended the president resorted to half measures and did nothing to make a real impression on the Soviets or cause them to pull their military forces out of Afghanistan.

But the president also was praised, mostly by Democrats, for a measured, prudent response which drives home the seriousness with which the Soviet invasion is being taken.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who is challenging Carter for the mocratic presidential nomination, said he had no quarrel with "the obvious steps the president has taken." But he offered strong general criticism of Carter's foreign policy.

"I believe that Jimmy Carter is becoming a crisis president," Brown said. "I think the lack of a coherent policy in the world has contributed to the emboldening of the Russians to take this naked aggression.'

There was no immediate reaction from Carter's other principal Democratic rival, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Some legislators said any serious political opposition will be defused by the president's promise not to permit disruption of the domestic grain market by his refusal to ship an agreedupon 17 million tons of feed grains to Russia. Others disagreed, lsaying the president's proposals in that area will prove ineffective.

Some congressmen said the president's announcement of a partial embargo on grain sales coupled with a halt of technology exports and other economic sanctions constitute an important test of the willingness of America's allies to cooperate with similar sanctions against Russia. "It is my hope that our allies will support these measures," said Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia.

"Free nations should stand united in condemning the Soviet Union for its flagrant behavior," Byrd said. "I would also hope the so-called non-aligned and Third World countries would now be shocked into seeing the Soviet Union through other than rosecolored glasses."

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., ranking GOP member of the Foreign Rela tions Committee, said the response of the allies "will determine the willingness of the United Stares to continue to take risks vital to maintain world peace and order in the common interest of all and not just look after itself

Complaints from farm state representatives were bipartisan.

Chairman Thomas Foley, D-Wash., of the House Agriculture Committee said embargoing grain sales is not an effective method of countering the Soviet military intervention.

"It would be totally unfair to single out farmers to bear the cost of a national policy action," Foley said. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Escalating their demands and threats, the Moslem militants holding the U.S. Embassy called on Iranian authorities Friday to hand American diplomat L. Bruce Laingen over to them and threatened to punish one of their hostages, an Air Force veteran of Vietnam, for "war crimes."

They said that because Lt. Col. David M. Roeder, a pilot who flew combat missions in Vietnam, would be among the defendants at a mass "spy" trial, they would invite Vietsection delegate to the American Bar namese representatives to take part.

As usual, however, the student militants set no date for such a trial, apparently still holding it as a trump card in their showdown with the United States.

Their toughened stance followed the sudden departure from Tehran of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, whose 64-hour mission to free the 50 or so American hostages was marred by angry demonstrations and his failure to meet the one man whose word could be decisive - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The new demand for U.S. Charge d'Affaires Laingen - who is under protective custody at the Foreign Ministry - could be the opening shot of a power struggle between the militants and Iranian officials.

It came as new anti-Khomeini violence was reported in two Iranian cities — Azerbaijani dissidents seized the government broadcasting station in Tabriz, and militiamen battled with an anti-Khomeini mob in the ayatollah's headquarters city of Qom, where nine persons were reported injured.

The official media blamed the violence in Qom on supporters of Avatollah Mohammad Kazem Shariat-Madari, a Khomeini rival who is revered by the ethnic Azerbaijani dissidents as well.

The official Pars news agency reported, meanwhile, that "insurgents" from Iraq crossed Iran's western border in Kermanshah province and clashed with Iranian militiamen. Five of the interlopers were killed. and four militiamen were wounded, it

Tensions between Iraq and Iran have flared into border clashes repeatedly in recent months. But anti-Khomeini Kurdish guerrillas also have operated in the area of Friday's

Both the demand for Laingen and the militants' declaration that Roeder should be judged for war crimes will be considered at the regular meeting Saturday night of the ruling Revolutionary Council, Foreign Ministry spokesman Ebrahim Mokalla said.

Laingen, the senior U.S. official in Iran, was not at the embassy when the militants seized it Nov. 4. He has been at the Foreign Ministry since then, along with embassy political officer Victor Tomseh and security chief Michael H. Holland.

The ministry has rebuffed previous demands by the militants that it hand over the 57-year-old Laingen.

In a broadcast statement Friday, the students said they need Laingen for "necessary explanations of espionage documents" they claim they have discovered at the embassy.

The militants have said repeatedly they will put their hostages on trial as "spies" unless the exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, currently in Panama, is returned to face charges of mass murder and corruption. Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh has generally sought to soften this threat of trials, however, and the students acknowledge that any such proceed-ing must be decided on by the author-

A correct reading, he said, of the Carter will push for increase in housing subsidies, sources say say President Carter will support a 20 percent increase in subsidized housing units during the coming election year, reversing a three-year decline declined during each year of the in housing subsidies for the poor.

"The reversal of the decline may very well have been political," said one lobbyist, who fought for the change as part of an organized campaign by the politically influential housing lobby.

Sources inside and outside the government said Friday that in the budget for fiscal 1981, beginning Oct. 1, President Carter will request budget authority of $32 billion for subsidized housing, up from $26.7 billion this year. He will send the budget to Congress later this month.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sources 250,000 housing units. If Carter's request is approved, 300,000 units will be funded in 1981, these sources said.

The number of subsidized units had Carter administration from a high of 380,000 in 1977, a development that had angered the politically influential housing lobby.

The decision represents a victory for officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the housing lobby. Sources said the president's Office of Management and Budget initially sought to cut housing funds to $24.9 billion.

"This is clearly an election-year decision by the administration not to make more trouble for itself with powerful interest groups," said one lobbyist, who declined to be identi-

Some 40 public interest groups and lobbying organizations met over breakfast Dec. 11 to fight the proposed OMB cuts. On Dec. 13, nine representatives of the group met with Vice President Walter Mondale and chief White House domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat. Among those represented at the meeting were: the National Association of Home Builders, the National Housing Conference, the Low-Income Housing Coalition, the Urban League. the AFL-CIO, and the National League of Cities.

Carter will propose that 60 percent of the subsidized units be new construction, rather than existing or rehabilitated programs. This year new construction makes up 66 percent of the subsidized upits. OMB had sought a 50-50 split.

'Spring' weekend forecast for area

The weatherman is predicting a spring-like mid-winter weekend for the Permian Basin. Mostly fair skies and warm afternoons are on tap for Midlanders through Sunday, according to the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

High today should be in the mid-60s with the overnight low expected to be in the mid-30s. High Sunday should be in the upper 60s.

Winds should be from the southwest at 10-15 mph.

Friday's high was a pleasant 67 degrees, just short of the record high for the date of 70 degrees set in 1948. The overnight low was recorded at 29, well above the record low of 2 degrees

"Many people are lulled into a false sense of security because they believe rabies doesn't happen in cold weather. Well, it's not so," Smith said. Health department workers "spent

Afghanis protest Soviet intervention

By The Associated Press

Afghanis outraged at Soviet military intervention in their homeland demonstrated in four U.S. cities Friday, in protests that ranged from a flag-burning to a silent vigil.

In Washington, D.C., the Soviet Embassy was besieged by marchers, some trying to push past police

In Omaha, Neb., sign-carrying Afghanis, many of them students, demanded freedom for their homeland during a rally.

In downtown Dallas, 35 Afghanis held a midday protest which attracted some hecklers who dispersed when they learned the demonstrators were not Iranians

In New York, more than 100 Afghanis and Moslems from Pakistan and Turkey denounced the Soviet move into Afghanistan in a noisy demonstration at United Nations Plaza.

Several of the protesters ripped and burned a Soviet flag before heading to the Soviet Mission, where pacifist groups were holding a silent vigil.

At a mid-Manhattan news conference, the Anti-Bolshevik Bloc of Nations urged President Carter to recall diplomats from all Soviet-bloc nations, order diplomats of those nations to leave the United States, suspend trade agreements with those countries, halt American travel there and call a summit meeting of world

The protest in an Omaha city park attracted 60 sign-toting demonstrators, including a few Americans, who listened to speeches before cheering as a Soviet flag was torched.

In the nation's capital, several marchers scuffled with police in an apparent attempt to break through police lines at the Soviet Mission. However, the demonstration was kept more than 500 feet from the embassy, which is located in downtown Washington.

The march, conducted in a snowstorm, began in Lafayette Park across from the White House. Police estimated that the size of the demonstration, which included some American sympathizers, at about 250 peo-

The marchers carried signs saying "Russia is the devil of the world" and depicting caricatures of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Chanting in both English and the Afghan language, the demonstrators shouted "Death to the Russian invaders," "Death to Brezhnev" and "God is great.'

Stopped by police about 1½ blocks from the embassy, the demonstrators tore and burned Soviet flags. One man threw a Russian flag on the street and stepped on it.

At one point, several demonstrators pressed against the police line in an apparent effort to get closer to the embassy. However, polipe pushed them back. There were no arrests.

Police also rejected a request by the marchers to send a child to carry a list of demands to Soviet diplomats. The demands included withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan and an end to Barbrak Karmal's Sovietbacked regime

Later in the day about 500 Islamic students, chanting "Long Live Khomeini," and denouncing both U.S. and Soviet "imperialism," conducted a separate march to the Soviet embas-

"Soviet pigs, get out of Afghanistan," read one sign. "No East, No West — Just Islam," read another.

A spokesman for the first demonstration group, Mohammad Safa, said the marchers particularly hoped to show "the developing countries... that Russia is the only aggressor in the world today.'

Safa, a professor at Southeastern University in Washington, predicted that Afghani Moslem rebels would prevail against Soviet troops. He noted that Alexander the Great, Genghis Khan and the British had all failed to subjugate Afghanistan, a rugged, mountainous country,

More armed insurgents arrive at Rhodesia's cease-fire points

DELTA ONE RENDEZVOUS POINT, Rhodesia (AP) - Nearly 5,-000 heavily armed insurgents tramped into camps like this one Friday and more were streaming in after a midnight deadline for Patriotic Front guerrilla forces to report to cease-fire points under the truce in the Rhodesian war.

An informed Commonwealth source said the British, who masterminded the truce in the seven-year war, view the guerrilla turnout as a "remarkable achievement." In the British view, according to this source, "the mechanics of disengagement and assembly have gone well." He refused to be identified. Observers said it seemed unlikely any operations would be launched following the deadline against guerrillas who haven't reported in, unless the insurgents cause trouble.

As the truce entered its eighth day, Saturday, more than 12,000 guerrillas were reported in the camps, said Allan Percival, spokesman for the British monitoring force. The gates of the camps were to be kept open until 5 a.m. Saturday

The British estimated there were 15,000 guerrillas in the country, but the Rhodesian army, the party most likely to complain about a low turnout of guerrillas, had put the figure at only about 12,000. At this camp 100 miles east of the Rhodesian capital of Salisbury, one of the guerrilla officers, "Comrade Marcos," was still concerned. Glancing at dozens of fellow guerrillas dozing under mango trees in the sweltering African heat, he asked the question that was on everyone's mind: "There are many more in the bush who haven't had time to get here. What happens to them?"

Insurgents not reporting by mid-night risked being branded as criminals. Rhodesia's new British governor, Lord Soames, has the power to order them hunted down. But the British mood remained optimistic Friday night, and the showing here supported their predictions of an 11th-hour flood of guerrillas.

"We've had to send for more buses," said a sun-burned corporal, a member of the British-led Commonwealth truce force

On Friday afternoon, three buses carrying 130 guerrillas of the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) arrived at this camp in the hilly countryside. In the surrounding mud hut villages, more than 150 guerrillas wearing Chinese-made uniforms lay dozing and chatting in clusters of four or five, their weapons at Every few minutes three or four heavy packs and ready to drop from exhaustion after forced marchzs of four or five days. Comrade Marcos, who refused to give his rank but obviously was asenior officer, pointed to the north and east and said, "There are hundreds here in time, because they can't cross the rivers. Asked about the hundreds who did manage to cross the rivers and arrive here, he said, "There are big rivers and there are small rivers." He denied that many guerrillas were resist

Joy Adamson killed in lion attack

'Born Free' writer devoted life to conservation

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Conservationist Joy Adamson, whose book "Born Free" about Elsa the lioness wakened millions to the plight of vanishing wildlife more than 20 years ago, was attacked and killed by a lion in the Kenya wilderness, police reported Friday.

Police and close friends said Mrs. Adamson, 69, was mauled about dusk Thursday as she walked unarmed and alone 100 yards outside the tent camp where she was conducting another experiment in returning tame big cats to the wild — this time using leopards.

Ellis Monks, an associate of Mrs. Adamson in conservation projects, said she habitually took an evening stroll in the bush and, after more than 40 years of close contact with predators, did not think it dangerous. He said Mrs. Adamson's killer was probably a lion, since lions had been seen in the area, but that an attack by a leopard could not immediately be ruled out.

Monks said Mrs. Adamson's assistant, Kenyan Peter Morson, and three others in the camp heard no sounds of an attack, but went to look for her when she did not return from her walk. He said they found the body with cuts on one arm and the chest.

Although unarmed, she may have been carrying a walking stick that she used after breaking a kneecap re-

Funeral arrangements were incomplete. Mrs. Adamson had said she wished to be cremated.

She and her husband, George, a retired game warden, had no children. They were married in 1944, seven years after she arrived in Kenya. They spent most of their time

In a tribute made public in Geneva, The World Wildlife Fund said Mrs. Adamson made "a great contribution to public awareness and concern" for wild animals. It said "Although her main focus was on the wildlife of East Africa, her activities benefitted wildlife everywhere and her loss will be felt worldwide."

In London, fund spokeswoman Janet Barber described Mrs. Adamson's death as "extremely sad," adding "Joy Adamson contributed a great amount to convincing human beings that they could live with animals and develop unique relationships. Her work with lions has done a great deal to increase our overall understanding of wild animals."

In each of her wild animal rehabilitation projects, Mrs. Adamson took a tame female, bred the female to produce a litter, gradually returned it to the wild and carefully observed the animal's relation with herself and wild animals in the area.

Before her death she had almost tation project that was similar to her pioneering studies with Elsa, the lioness of "Born Free," and Pippa, a cheetah.

During the past year and a half, Mrs. Adamson had been at Shaba, 175 miles north of Nairobi. She had successfully bred Penny, a tame female leopard, with a wild male.

In 1937, she journeyed to Kenya on a vacation. She said later she immediately "fell in love" with "all this wonderful country, the real life," and established-permanent residence here. During her first ten years here, After marrying British-Irish George Adamson, the two of them devoted themselves to rehabilitating wild animals born or raised in captivity for a return to life in the wilds. Mrs. Adamson set down their experiences in many books, illustrated with her own photographs or paintings.

These included the international best seller, "Born Free," about their training a pet lioness, Elsa, for survival in the bush and open fields of Kenya's Meru National Park. All income from the books, their motion picture adaptations, and the song 'Born Free" went into the Elsa Wild Animal Fund. This fund financed conservation and education-in-conservation projects.

During a visit to the United States in 1974, Mrs. Adamson said "People don't want to hear that there is famine in the world. You mention this and people think you are a crank. But we have overbred to the extent that we can't feed our population. Animals are our next hope of survival if we will learn from them.

Born Joy-Friederike Victoria Gessner in Troppau, Austria, she spent her early years frequently accompanying the gamekeeper on her family estate, where deer and foxes roamed.

She had two previous marriages, which ended in divorce, to Victor von Klarwill, an Austrian, in 1935 and to Peter Bally, a Swiss, in 1938.

Many of her more than 4,000 paintings of indigenous flora, fauna and tribal life hang in the National Museum and the State House in Nairobi. Color plates of 32 of them, along with many drawings, illustrate her book "Joy Adamson's Africa."

Elsa, the famed lioness of "Born Free," was adopted by the Adamsons in Jan. 1956, after Adamson had killed its mother in self-defense in Kenya. They rehabilitated Elsa for freedom, training her to hunt and kill other

DBC trustees lay down rules

DALLAS (AP) — Trustees of Dallas Baptist College have laid down a requirement that faculty members and staff must subscribe to newly drawn up "Articles of Faith," affirming that the entire Bible was "verbally inspired by God."

College President W. Marvin Watson says all but about a dozen of the 128 faculty and staff have signed. He did not indicate what would be done about the others, but said he would "visit with them." Several have objected to the new Southern Baptist "Faith and Message" standard, adding "verbally" to the way in which the Bible is said to be inspired,

Clements predicts capping of runaway Mexican well

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill south when the currents reversed last summer. Clements said Friday he expects the Ixtoc I well in the Bay of Campeche to be capped within two to Texas beaches was "hogwash," but acknowledged weeks - but he's making no promises. that the currents would change.

Houston well control specialist Red Adair also said Friday that a large derrick barge loaded with cementing equipment to kill the well is "about 75 percent finished.'

The Brown & Root barge, the George R. Brown, should be ready for departure next week with an additional five days' towing time to the well site,"

The offshore well has been spewing oil into the Gulf of Mexico since June 4, and the sticky residue has stained beaches in Mexico and Texas

Clements, speaking to Corpus Christi civic groups, said his latest information came three days ago from oil service companies at the well and not from Pemex, the Mexican national oil company

Pemex officials could not be reached for comment on the governor's remarks.

Clements and Adair said two wells being drilled were close to intercepting the Ixtoc I. Adair said the 'A well" was seven meters from intercepting the Ixtoc shaft and the "B well" was 14 meters away. "We'll be able to hit it," he said.

"Once they (Pemex workers) complete the second well, they'll bee able to cement it and kill it,' Clements said. "This is only a progress report. I cannot give you any solid assurances, but they are doing all they can to stop it.'

Clements said Pemex has been waiting for the second directional well to be finished before they cement the first one

Spokesmen for the Senate Resources and Energy Committee were unable to confirm the information. Federal environmental officials have been quoted as saying underwater currents would reverse again in the early spring and bring back the oil pushed

The managing director of the Nigerian National Petroleum Corp. denied Friday that Nigeria is boosting the price of its crude oil to nearly $35 a barrel, a move Libya already is reported to have taken.

But a U.S. oil company source, who asked not to be identified, said he was "extremely skeptical" of the denial.

In a report carried in Lagos by the News Agency of Nigeria, the oil company's managing director, Festus Marinho, reiterated his country had increased the price of its crude to only $30 from its former $26.27-a-barrel level.

Nigeria is the second largest overseas supplier of oil to the United States, behind Saudi Arabia.

ODESSA - By now, everyone is quite aware the Midland Lee Rebels aren't going to have many cakewalk victories this season. If nip-and-tuck is your bag, you'll love the Rebels. And after Friday night's exciting 50-49 District 5-4A road victory over a pumped-up Odessa High outfit. there's not a Rebel fan alive with any fingernails left to chew

Leading by a comfortable eight points midway through the fourth quarter, Lee saw that cushion evaporate as the Bronchos scratched to within one point twice. And the Red Hosses nearly came away with a victory had Rayford Wright's prayer shot from midcourt at the buzzer

A pair of free throws by Tim Walker with 17 seconds remaining proved to be the measure of victory for the Rebels as they grab a 1-0 district mark while increasing their overall record to 11-8, including three straight victories. Also, according to Lee coach Paul Stueckler, an Odessa High team has not beaten the Rebels

Waitz betters indoor record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Norway's Grete Waitz was timed in 8 minutes, 51 seconds for 3,000-meters, bettering the listed world's indoor record for women, at the Runner's World Classic Friday night. But a mistake by meet officials made it doubtful that she will receive official recognition for the time.

Her winning time was announced as 9: 15.1, well over the record of 8: 57.6 set by United States runner Jan Merrill in 1978, but it was determined after the race that there were 21 laps run instead of 20, the proper number. The 8:51 time was strictly an unoffi-

Waitz, a world record holder at several distances, including the marathon, pulled away from the field early in the race and lapped several competitors. Merrill was second in 9: 32.2 for the odd distance.

Bill Green, one of America's brightest young track stars, nipped Trini-dad's Mike Solomon in the men's 500 meters, another of the early events in the first major U.S. indoor meet of this Olympic year. The University of Southern California freshman from Palo Alto, Calif., was timed in 1:04.7, Solomon in 1:04.9.

In the shot put, former world record holder Al Feuerbach won with a toss of 65 feet, 1/2 inch. LaMont King of the Tobias Striders won the 300 meters in 35.1, with Olympian Millard Hampton second in 35.5.

"I thought Odessa High played a good game," said Stueckler of the crew that now stands 0-1 in district and 4-12 overall. "They scrapped us

Walker, who's tenacity seems to infect his teammates, was a whirling dervish. Stueckler lauded the senior swingman and also had kind words for Lane.

"Tim Walker had some good passes and did a good job on defense. And I thought Norris Lane did a good job on the offensive boards. He made a couple of crucial steals, too.'

But, as Stueckler also said, it was a team defensive effort for the Rebels. 'We changed the defense in the second half for more pressure," said Stueckler. "When we knew we couldn't win the game offensively, we thought we could do it defensively."

Odessa High, behind Danny Cru-

zan's four-point binge, staked an early 4-0 lead, but that was whittled away quickly as the Rebels nabbed a 15-14 first quarter lead.

The Rebels kept the lead through most of the second quarter until sturdy Mike Cobb, who led all scorers with 19 points, canned a short jumper with four seconds left that squared things at 25-25.

Lee's full court press was responsible for keeping the Red Hosses scoreless for nearly four minutes of the third quarter. During that drought, the Rebels manufactured a 33-27 ad-

Midland edges Permian, 78-70

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

If the District 5-4A basketball opener between the Midland High Bulldogs and the Odessa Permian Panthers at the Chaparral Center Friday night is any indication of things to come in this storied basketball loop, then things could get down right exciting before it's all over.

The Bulldogs, the defending 5-4A champs, won easily enough, 78-70, but Permian showed a scrappy never-say-die approach that could spell some heartaches down the road for all other 5-4A teams concerned. This league has some talent and every night out is going to be an experience.

MIDLAND HIGH coach Jack Stephenson was one of the first to see that the road to another champion-ship for the Bulldogs would be a tough one as he makes his maiden voyage through 5-4A as a head coach, "Permian can really shoot the ball and they have a fine club. I just don't see how anyone can go undefeated in this league this year like Midland High did last year. However, now that we have that first one under our belts, I hope someone can go

"As far as our effort is concerned, I'm pleased. We are 19-4 on the year now and not many people can say that and we are 1-0 in district. At this point, you just take them one at a time and we will take a win any way we can get it. That's what it is all about

THE BULLDOGS showed a high powered threepronged attack with three players soaring above the 20-point figure. Herbert "Magic" Johnson led the way with 22 points, including a couple of "Stuff It and Like It" dunks while Anthony "Showboat" Carroll tallied 21 points while giving the two-point sign to the crowd on each of his seven shots from the field. Carroll would have had more, but he hit only seven of 13 from the charity line. Perry Bolger secred 20. 13 from the charity line. Perry Bolger scored 20, however, and took up the free throw shooting slack with 10 of 10. And Darrin Matlack scored 10 points while playing brillantly on defense.

The Bulldogs looked as if they were going to blow this one open early as they roared to a 17-6 lead with :08 left in the first period, but Permian came storming back to knot the score at 31 and 33 late in the first half as Brad Kerley and Scott Wynne carried the hot hand. Kerley, who had 18 points and who is one of the class players of the loop, fouled out of the game with 6:19 left and that could have been the biggest blessing of the night. It wasn't long afterwards when Midland was back to a 12-point lead at 70-59 on two free throws by Johnson.

WYNNE ENDED up with 21 points, but had to carry too much of the load for the Black Cats. Duane Adams hit for 19, 13 of them coming in the final period to keep Permian from sinking until near the end of the game.

One can not let this game go by, however, without mentioning Permian's B. D. Massey. He scored only four points, but the scrap iron 5-3 flea knows no fear. He found himself guarding 6-10 Johnson underneath in a double team zone defense. Massey didn't always win, but he didn't take any prisoners either. Permian is now 11-8 on the season and 0-1 in loop

Things didn't go quite as well for Coach Eddie Shirley's junior varsity. The Bullpups dropped a 17-63 decision to Permian. The Bullpups won the JV -4A crown last year with only one loss.

Scott Armstrong led Permian with 19 points while Mark Wooley had 14 and Smith 13. Steve Henry led he Bullpups with 16 points while Steve Miller added 2. Justin Morett 11 and Mike Velasco 10. The Bullpups, however blew a big lead in the game and hen tried to pull it out in the final moments, falling hort and to 16-3 on the season.

The Midland High sophomores, now 8-1, rolled to n 80-42 win over Permian as Jim Gunnels hit 19 oints and Ray Parker 16. Scott Louderback had 4 and Pat Dixon added 11.

Friday night for two points in a 78-70 win

The Dallas Cowboys were ushered out of the playoffs last week by the Los Angeles Rams, 30-6, back in October, which, as it turned out, was the Cowboys' high-water mark for the season.

After the rout of the Rams, Dallas stood 7-1 for the season and was virtually conceded a spot in the Super Bowl for the fourth straight year. But after Oct. 14, things began to deteriorate for Dallas and the rest of the vear became a struggle.

Dallas has experienced midseason slumps in the past, but always recovered to breeze into the playoffs. No one thought it would be any different this time, despite overwhelming, yet ignored, evidence to the contrary. That, we suppose, is a tribute to the reputation of the Cowboys' organization. No one really took their troubles that seriously.

The losses were awesome when one looks back...Jethro Pugh, Too Tall Jones, Charlie Waters, Thomas Henderson for starters, enough talent, that if lost by any other team, would have turned it into a tailender.

Dallas perpetuated the myth by rallying from the 31-21 Philadelphia debacle, which was the crowning blow in a run of four losses in five games, to win the NFC East Division. And after what Roger Staubach and company did to the Washington Redskins on the season's final day, who could doubt that the miracles would last forev-

So when the Rams, hurting much of the season themselves and employing what amounted to a rookie quarterback Vince Ferragamo, pulled out a 21-19 victory in the final two minutes. No one was prepared for

Was there anyone who doubted that, with 1:39 left, Dallas wouldn't take the kickoff to within field goal range, at the very least. If there was a worry, it had to be that too much time was left and a score too quickly would allow the Rams time to retaliate.

The shock that Houston's gallant Oilers are the only Lone Star representative in the National Football League playoffs still hasn't completely sunk in, but it will come Sunday's playoff telecasts.

Dallas has been to NFC finals and Super Bowl so often that some suspected the right came with the playoffs.

Still, looking back on what has happened to the Cowboys this year, it may be that in winning the division, they accomplished more than some of their predecessors who reached, and won, the Super Bowl. There's no way this club should have won the division title on the talent left, which perhaps just disproves what critics have been saying about the team for years. It has no emotion, the players, coaches and management are just a massive bank of computers. A totally impersonal operation.

What the Cowboys achieved this year was as much by emotion as ability.

INTERESTINGLY, the NFC results have been somewhat bewildering. This was the year that the East was to the NFC what the Central division is to the AFC. With perennial powerhouse Dallas challenged by Philadelphia and Washington, not to mention a late-starting New York Giants club, it appeared that the NFC East would produce the Super Bowl representative. The lament was that Washington, probably better than either of the other division winners, was left out in the cold.

The NFC Central, once labeled the Black and Blue division, in recent years has become the pink frill division while the NFC West has been and, seemingly, once again this year was a study in mediocrity.

So what happens? Philadelphia beats Chicago's Bears in the wild card playoff game, but only because the Bears committed Hari Kari in plain view of 60,000 fans. Tampa Bay, which staggered into the playoffs, had relatively little difficulty doing to the Eagles what the Bears should have done a week earlier.

What happened to the Cowboys against the Rams had already been reviewed. So, Tampa Bay and Los Angeles, the teams deemed least likely, wind up playing for the NFC title...which, with either Pittsburgh or Houston waiting in the wings, doesn't seem that important. But of course, folks had the same feeling about the Bucs and Rams when the NFC playoffs began.

Pastorini promises victory

By BRUCE LOWITT

PITTSBURGH (AP) - It wasn't too long after Houston's surprising victory in sunny San Diego that the Oilers' quarterback began thinking of the chilling prospect of playing once more for a championship in the tundra known as Pittsburgh.

"We'll win this one, even if we have to find a secret way to hold onto a wet, frozen ball," Pastorini said, half-jok-

It may not be a joke at all. There's a very good chance that, like last year at this time, snow will cover Three Rivers Stadium as the Oilers and Steelers battle for the American Football Conference title and a berth in the Super Bowl.

"We won't let the weather be a factor," Pastorini said, reflecting on for visiting teams. The Steelers have last year's title game, when the sleet and slush befouled Houston's plans, helped the Steelers reel off 17 points in the last 52 seconds of the first half and propelled them to a 34-5 victory. Terry Bradshaw, the Pittsburgh quarterback, isn't buying Pastorini's claims. He thinks the weather will be a definite factor, especially since the Oilers don't have to contend with it in "When you get this far, you need every edge you can get and we'll take the home-field advantage," Bradshaw said. "It doesn't snow in Houston. If it snows here, that's an edge we'll take."

McKay says Bucs feel no pressure

By DAN SEWELL

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Coach John McKay put his young Tampa Bay Bucs through their final full practice Friday before Sunday's National Football Conference title game, and said he didn't detect any signs of

"I told my team after practice: You're so loose you look like a goose, just don't play like one and lose,"
McKay said. "I guess that's poetry."
McKay said his upstart team, accused of choking during a late season three-game losing streak, has "gotten over the biggest hurdle - that's winning the Central Division. I think that gave them a lot of confidence and they still have it.

The enthusiasm of the fans and the enthusiasm of the young players is carrying us right now," McKay said. McKay conceded that his team will be going against a Los Angeles Rams team full of experienced veterans. 'But we've got players of our own who have been in big games. This is the biggest thing about our inexperience in that the players don't have a point of referral," McKay said. "I can go over to Charley Hannah (converted to offensive tackle this season) and say, 'Charlie, remember how you did this last year?' And then he says, 'But coach, I was playing defense last

Mckay SAID he won't change his normal game weekend routine this week, explaining that "overcoaching is a bugaboo with a lot of coaches" in important games.

"I will play golf this afternoon, I will not look at any more pictures (game films), I will not burn the midnight oil, and I will get my beauty sleep," McKay said. "I'll meet with the team once and give them some sage words of advice - that will last about 34 seconds."

McKay, wearing a bright pink golf sweater and smoking his familiar stogie, was as relaxed and jovial at his news conference as Bucs players have been in interviews all this

McKay was asked how he assessed his team's chances of winning the division before the season.

I'm open, I'm open.' You have eight "My original statement was, and get this for posterity, was that any-body can win the Central Division. Even somebody who's not in the division could win it if they wanted to," he replied. McKay, who has guided the Bucs to the highest point ever reached by a fourth-year franchise, said he decided to rely on the draft and young players after studying case histories of past expansion teams.

"A lot of them traded for quality players who were over-the-hill and won three or four games ... When you do that you're getting players the other teams want to get rid of." he said. McKay added that because his team has built through the draft, "We will be a much stronger football team three years from now, because these young players will have experi-

McKay, who traded away draft rights to Earl Campbell, said he would have picked Williams, the 17th player chosen in the 1978 draft, ahead of Campbell.

"We had to have a quarterback, that's the big thing. I think he's the best quarterback to come out in several years," McKay said.

McKay was asked if he felt that Williams, a star at Grambling, had been passed over by other teams because he is black.

"I think that would be a poor comment on our society if it were true," McKay said. "Most of the teams who didn't pick him won't be playing Sunday. I would have taken him if he was Chinese — tall Chinese.

McKay said the additions of Hannah, rookie guard Greg Roberts and tight end Jimmie Giles have greatly improved the offensive line.

"We had people who are no longer here, and truthfully, people who are no longer playing football (on the past Bucs lines). I get most of my plays from Scholastic Coach magazine, but they never work for us because you always needed somebody to block somebody."

Of All-Pro defensive end Lee Roy Sellmon, McKay said, "I don't think he weighs 260, but he may have at birth. He's a house. If he had a chimney you could sell him.'

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) - A classic air-ground battle was shaping up for today's East-West Shriners game, but West Coach LaVell Edwards admits it may not be settled in the first three quarters. "In the fourth quarter we'll try to win the ballgame. We'll go with whoever's doing well," the Brigham Young University coach said Friday, leaving little doubt the West's fate was linked to it's considerable passing fortunes.

"I think that's a pretty good assumption," Edwards said when asked whether the star-filled game stacked up as a passing-rushing encounter. In BYU's Marc Wilson and Stanford's Turk Schonert, the West has two of the top passers in the nation

this year. Edwards said Wilson would start, but he guaranteed both quarterbacks would see plenty of playing

But despite a strong aerial squad, Edwards understands both sides of the argument on whether a passing team or a rushing team has an advantage when two teams are filled with stars - including a stable of running backs on the East team and there is little preparation time. He's taking nothing for granted.

"Generally it might be a little ea-sier to throw the ball," Edwards said, 'but it all depends on the blocking. If you have a mismatch, if the offensive line for one team is a lot stronger than the other team's defensive line, then it's an advantage to run the ball, because the defense can't do anything. It can't blitz, or stack its linebackers, or move into gaps (because of the rules established before the game).

If size in the line is a key, the East offensive line outweighs the West by an average 258-250, but the East's defensive line is 13 pounds per man heavier than the oposition's at 263-East Coach Charlie McClendon of Louisiana State University said he hasn't decided on a starting quarterback, but he has his choice of two experienced in the the running-oriented option offense, Bill Hurley of Syracuse and David Woodley of LSU. McClendon said Hurley and Woodley would probably alternate throughout

'We know that you can't move the ball consistently just on the ground," McClendon observed, noting the team has not ignored its passing practice.

But for his running game, McClendon will be calling on the talents of Vagas Ferguson of Notre Dame, Perry Harrington of Jackson State, Mike Guman of Penn State and Frank Mordica of Vanderbilt. "I assure you this now," McClendon said, "coaches, players - we're going to give our left arm to win. That's one thing about atheltics. If you play marbles, you're going to play to

Texas Tech-Houston clash in SWC battle

By The Associated Press

All nine Southwest Conference basketball teams will be in action Saturday, with surprising Texas Tech tied for first place. Thursday's opening round of SWC play produced few surprises, other than the Tech win. The Aggies had to struggle for a 69-63 over TCU in Fort Worth, with forward Vernon Smith providing most of the firepower. A&M's 6-11 center Rudy Woods captured just one rebound in the game and scored but 11 points.

Arkansas had little trouble with SMU, breaking a three-game losing string with strong inside shooting and complete domination in rebound-

Hockey to play big role in Winter TV

By FRED ROTHENBERG

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) - Hockey, which hasn't been successful on network television, will have a major role in the success of ABC's coverage of the Winter Olympics from Lake Placid next Febru-

Two-thirds of ABC's 51 hours of Olympic coverage will come in prime time, and hockey and figure skating are the only nighttime events. They are scheduled throughout the Games on alternate evenings.

The United States is expected to have a good shot at three gold medals in figure skating, the glamor event of the Winter Olympics and an excellent vehicle for ABC's personality profiles and star gaz-

But hockey may be something else.
"The U.S. hockey team is particularly important to us," said Jim Spence, senior vice-president of ABC Sports. "It's esssential to have exciting telecasts up front." "Clearly if the United States lives up to its hockey potential we will have more hockey," said Roone Arledge, president of ABC News and Sports. "People watch things in the Olympics that normally have nothing to do with their normal interest in Arledge is the force behind ABC winning the broadcast rights to the last four Olympics. He will be on the scene producing the coverage here, something he hasn't done with a sports event since he added news to his responsibilities two years ago.

Jim McKay, as much as part of the Olympic experience as the torch and the rings, will also be here — at his old stand, the anchor booth. He began playing the Olympic Walter Cronkite in 1960 in Rome for CBS before turning it into an art form for ABC.

"My job is to give an overview and find a personality for the Olympics,' McKay said this week during an ABC press tour of the Lake Placid facilities. "For me, Lake Placid is really to some extent Grovers Corners, an Our Town situ-

But there is nothing small scale about ABC's presentation plans for February. ABC will have 109 cameras covering the nine Winter Olympic disciplines. With temperatures that can reach 40 to 50 below, ABC had to solve some serious logistical problems.

"All the equipment had to be winterized," said Joe De Bonis, general manager of ABC's studio and field operations. "That meant we had to put insulated blankets on the cameras and collapsible tents over the camera platforms. We built heaters into the lenses, otherwise they'd freeze.

"Once the cameras are turned on they won't be turned off until the Games are over, unless they have to be moved, because we are afraid of condensation.'

De Bonis says he'll have 25 cameras on Whiteface Mountain, site of the men's and women's Alpine skiing. Each skiing event has a different course, so every day the cameras will be picked up and dropped into postion by helicopters.

The cameras on the ski jumps will stay put, but rest assured that the cameraman De Bonis assigns to the top of the 90-meter event, 300 feet above the ground, will rush inside when the shooting's over.

'We had two volunteers for the top ski jump position," De Bonis said. "We know how cold it can get up there, so we'll outfit him with the warmest clothes available. For that position I needed my best long lens man because he'll be doing beauty shots of Lake Placid besides the ski jumping. And he had to be strong physically and unafraid of heights."

ABC did the World Cup ski races here last March and tested its camera positions on the mountain, but the camera cable used then had to be completely pulled out for fear the bears, porcupines and raccoons would munch through them. ABC now has 50 miles of cable, all above ground, on Whiteface Mountain.

Another problem ABC faces is that. as host broadcaster, it must supply the world feed, too.

"We've never had this international pressure before," said Chuck Howard, vice-president of program production for ABC Sports. "If we don't deliver to the world broadcasters our pride will be hurt. But it could also hurt our international relationships for our Wide World of Sports

The world feed consists of pictures of every competitor and every competition, but no American announcers. ABC will supplement its international coverage with special cameras and its own announcers.

Frank Gifford and Bob Beattle will do skiing; McKay from the studio, and Dick Button from the rink, will do figure skating; Al Michaels and Ken Dryden will do hockey; Keith Jackson and Sheila Young Ochowicz will do speed skating; Chris Schenkel and Art Devlin will do ski jumping; Bill Fleming will do cross-country; Curt Gowdy (on loan from CBS) will do the bobsleds and Jim Lampley will do the Flyers extend their National Hockey League record unbeaten streak to 34 games with a hard-hitting 5-3 triumph over the New York Rangers. Rick MacLeish had given Philadelphia a 1-0 lead with a 15-foot shot at 17:33 of the first period and, while Bobby Clarke was serving a cross-checking penalty at 2:38 of the middle period, Bridgman outfought defenseman Dave Maloney for the puck

nods in pro playoffs

execs veto replay of controversial judgement calls

By NANCY SCANNELL The Washington Post

The Pittsburgh Steelers might have reversed their 20-17 loss to the Houston Oilers Dec. 10 if a referee had not flubbed an onside kick call which millions of television viewers could clearly see was wrong.

Even officials of the National Football League, while remaining neutral on the game's possible outcome, admitted publicly the referee had blown it after they watched films of the ABC Monday night game. "That guy (the official) may have made 200 calls this year, of which 199 were right," says Don Ohlmeyer, executive producer of NBC Sports. 'And so he blows one, and it probably cost Pittsburgh the game. But that's life. Nobody's perfect."

Ohlmeyer's comment is not directed so much toward the game and the muffed call as toward arguing against substituting television instant replays for referees' judgment calls.

AND HE is not alone. Dennis Lewin, director of production coordination for ABC-TV Sports, and Hal Classon, vice president of CBS-TV Sports for production and operations, agree that the camera's eye can be very deceiv-

"There are times when there's no way the camera can be wrong," says Classon. "If the camera sees both sides of the 50-yard line, and the ball went beyond it, then the ball obviously went beyond it. But if it only sees one side of the 50-yard line, then that's a little different

"Personally, I'd rather see the ref-eree call it myself. I think that's part of the game, and they do a heck of a job. They make very few mistakes, and it's human to make mistakes. Hopefully, the game stays human."

Lewin recalls another game when a player, en route to a 62-yard touchdown, "certainly appeared from our angle to have stepped out of bounds . . but I sure wouldn't go before a jury era shooting straight down the sideline — which we didn't have — to say if he was or wasn't out of bounds." The NFL studied the possibility of using instant replays to determine close calls, but rejected the idea.

"It would be a very difficult thing (for the NFL) to implement," says ABC's Lewin. "They'd have to have so many cameras in the ball park to ed)? How many times a game could you do it, and how long would it delay game?

'You could implement it," says NBC's Ohlmeyer, "but where do you draw the line? Do you start calling holding penalties because the isolated camera showed holding?"

'I don't know how the NFL can implement a system that would be fair and not unwieldy or mammothly expensive," says ABC's Lewin.

THE NETWORKS, to the average viewer, appear to have every angle covered - from the press box overviews to the minicams on the sidelines to the blimps hovering overhead.

But the cameras are not ubiquitous, and each network has its own style, one that may vary according to the game. ABC and NBC are similar in theory, if not in number of cameras deployed, while CBS has an entirely different philosophy about coverage.

For the average game, Classon says, CBS uses five or six cameras: two on the 50-yard line at the press box level, one high in the end zone, another on the sideline cart that moves up and down the field and a hand-held camera (or possibly two) for isolated replays and bench or fan reaction

Depending on which camera is actually showing the play-by-play action, any of the others might be used for isolated or close-up shots at the director's discretion. (Each network has this same flexibility).

NBC, which broadcasts seven or eight regional games a week, has one camera on the 50-yard line, one on each 20, one in the end zone, one on the sideline cart and one hand-held minicam. Depending on the game, Ohl-meyer says, NBC may supplement its coverage with another camera on the SECTI

"If you're on the 20-yard line and shooting head-on at the players, you don't really know where they're located on the field," says CBS's Classon, "unless you saw the yard line or were paying very close attention.

HONOLULU (AP) - The biggest attraction for the some 49,000 fans in the Aloha Stadium stands and the day's 34th annual Hula Bowl will no doubt be Heisman Trophy winners Charles White and Billy Sims.

But both White, who was given college football's prestigious honor for his efforts at Southern California this season, and Sims, who earned the title as a junior at Oklahoma last year, are

Lee JV earns third in Hobbs tournament

HOBBS - Coach Randall Smith's Midland Lee junior varsity squad turned in a solid performance with a third place finish in the tough Hobbs Junior Varsity Basketball Tournament, which concluded Thursday.

The Rebs got off to a quick start in the event, belting Hobbs 106-65 as Darius Berry flipped in 24 markers. Joining Berry as top scorers were Olen Smith and Alvin Dunson with 12 each while Kenneth Brown had 11 and Marty Walker, Leonard Williams and Gary Dickens got eight apiece

But in the semifinals, Clovis, N.M., defeated the Rebs 71-62. Although Berry funneled home 29 markers and Walker and Dunson added eight each, coach Smith said the difference was "they beat us at the free throw

Lee recovered quickly, however, and nabbed a hard-earned 58-56 victory against the Lubbock Coronado junior varsity. Walker meshed 13 points while Smith had 10 and Berry

Coach Smith seemed quite pleased with the play of his team. "We really had some people who put out a lot of hustle," he said, adding that every team member contributed to the Rebels' fine showing.

Bullpups gain semis of Odessa tournament

ODESSA - The Midland High Bullpups stormed into the semifinals of the Odessa Junior Varsity Basketball Tournament Thursday with a resounding 93-33 conquest of the Odessa Ector sophomores.

The victory catapults coach Eddie Shirley's bunch into today's 10:30 a.m. matchup with the Odessa High junior varsity at the Ector gym.

If the Bullpups win that one, they'll enter tonight's 8 p.m. championship game, If they lose, they'll play at 4: 30 p.m. for third place.

Mike Velasco paced the Bullpups with 22 points while Don Sharnowski notched 14, Wes Williams 13 and Pat Dixon and Preston Robertson 12

In other tourney action Thursday, Shirley's second squad, Midland Gold, dropped a 73-48 decision to the Odessa Permian junior varsity, Daryl Jones fashioned 10 points and Scott Louderback eight for Midland.

The Gold squad meets either the OHS sophs or Ector junior valuity at taking the game in stride. "I don't look at it as me against Charles White," Sims said. "I know

"This is a different type of game, a fun game. We don't even have a punt team," he said The two running backs were still on the mend from New Year's bowl games going into the Hula Bowl. But after Friday's final practice, game promoters said both would be in the East vs. West action.

Sims says having only three days rest from the Orange Bowl will definitely be a factor.

"I'm still sore after coming from Miami. I don't know how much I'll play," he said

White, who took a licking in his record-setting perforance in the Rose Bowl, was the final Hula Bowl player to arrive in town and looked weary from his bout with the flu. He still sports a large bandage over a deep cut on the bridge of his nose which took eight stiches to close, but said, "I'll be ready to play. Not everyone at Aloha Stadium will be looking to see White and Sims breakaway for those thrilling runs. For one, there's West defender Steve McMichael, an All-America tackle from Texas, whose job will be to stop Sims. "The key to stopping Sims is fast pursuit and gang-tackling," said the 6-foot-2, 250-pound Longhorn. "He's going to break some tackles but not all. I hope so, anyway."

While much of the attention has gone to White and Sims, they are not the only running backs in the game. East Coach Bo Sheembechler of Michigan also has Matt Suhey of Penn State, Iowa's Dennis Mosley and Joe Cribbs of Auburn. West Coach Fred Akers of Texas also has in his backfield Nebraska's I.M. Hipp, James Hadnot of Texas Tech and Gerry Ellis of Missouri.

WFBC president will host Midland branch opening rally

Robert Tilton, president of Word of Faith Bible College in Dallas, will host a rally to initiate the opening of a West Texas Branch in Midland. The session is planned for 7 p.m. Friday in Midland Theatre, 2000 W. Wadley Ave., and 2 p.m. Jan. 12 in Dayspring Christian Center, 100 W.

"Tilton is one of the most dynamic Bible teachers in America today, and is a living example of what faith will do in the life of a 20th century believer," said Tom Wood, director of the West Texas Branch.

He began as a builder and designer of homes, Wood said. Tilton is pastor-director of Word of Faith Outreach Center, a fast-growing church in the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. Membership is up to 1,800

He also is president and founder of the college and Telecom Productions, a telecommunications company specializing in radio and television editing and production. He is an author and television personality.

The rally is open to the public at no charge. More information can be obtained by telephoning 682-9841 or 694-0353.

'Late vocations' in ministry ever-increasing occurences

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) - After years in other careers, people sometimes switch to the full-time Christian ministry. "Late vocations,"

And they've become an increasing occurrence in the United States and Canada. It means starting over, taking the theology and other courses to qualify, and often enduring financial setbacks to do it. But the call is heeded anyhow.

Two cases are Gladys Spurll and Don Campbell. Both live in Winnipeg, both are over 50 and both are studying to be priests in the Anglican Church of Mrs. Spurll, a divorced mother of six children, says she would have become a priest when a teen-ager if she had been born male.

She was stopped because the Anglican Church of Canada did not accept women into the priesthood until 1975, a practice also adopted the following year in a sister communion, the Episcopal Church in the U.S

Most major Protestant denominations earlier had began accepting women Campbell is a former business and accounting instructor at Red River Community College with a wife and three children who says the desire to become a priest "grew over a number of years." Despite their varying reasons for entering the priesthood, both Campbell and

The Anglican and United Church of Canada (a merger of Protestant bodies) are noticing an increase in the numbers of people who decide to enter the ministry late in life, often after a successful secular career.

"Certainly we are seeing more middle-aged and business or professional people who are interested in becoming ministers," says Rev. Harold Ritchie, past chairman of the United Church's interview board for ministerial candidates in Winnipeg.

Archdeacon David Crawley, convenor of the examining chaplain's board for the Anglican Church of Canada in Rupert's Land Diocese, agrees. "It's certainly pretty common in the church today. A parallel trend has been noted in the United States

The reasons a person who has had a full secular life may give for wanting to put on the priest's collar may vary, but the sacrifices are the same. Father Bryon Bjerring for example, a 37-year-old Anglican priest ordained two years ago, gave up a $30,000-a-year job as information officer with the

Manitoba Teachers' Federation. Bjerring now receives $9,000 annually, plus housing for his family provided

Church employees making attempt to organize for collective bargaining

By The Associated Press

American churches face a spreading movement of their employees to organize for collective bargaining, and a leading church labor expert says the churches must uphold the process to maintain their credibili-

Churches long have preached the right of union organization, he says, and it's now essential for them to affirm that principle in their own practices. Any attempts to circumvent it would undermine church efforts in behalf of justice "at all levels of society," adds Msgr. George G. Higgins of Washington, D.C., long-time Roman Catholic specialist in labor re-

Quoting a 1971 declaration of Catholicism's international Synod of Bishops. he says that for the church effectively to defend justice it first must be applied within the church herself."

Yet for many reasons, including the personal commitment of most church employees to serving Christianity, often at comparatively low pay, they've remained largely without group representation or contractual stipula-

This still is generally the case, making religious institutions one of the last major bastions of non-unionized workers.

NEW YORK (AP) - In the face of recent friction between blacks and Jews, a prominent Jewish leader has been invited to deliver the keynote address at an ecumenical service commemorating the life of the late black civil rights leader, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

His widow, Coretta Scott King, invited Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum. director of interreligious affairs of the American Jewish Committee, to be main speaker at the observance Jan. 15 at Ebenezer Baptist Church in

Tanenbaum, accepting the invitation, called it a "major gesture of friendship and reconciliation between responsible leaders of the black and Jewish communities." Tensions between the two groups arose after some black leaders sought talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization, which seeks elimination of Israel. It is believed the first time for a national Jewish leader to be invited to keynote the annual King observance. Tanenbaum, expressing hope the event may help heal "some of the strains" between blacks and Jews, said: "In a world in which there is so much human suffering and denial of human rights, in which an epidemic of dehumanization and fanaticism has developed, what binds Jews and blacks together is infinitely greater

Priests ask laicizing be resumed

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) - The Senate of Priests of Youngstown's Roman Catholic Diocese has called for resumption of the church process for laicizing priests.

They noted that there has been no word on the status of such procedures under Pope John Paul II, and in a resolution said "justice and charity" necessitated that the "process for the laicization of resigned priests be resumed immediately.

Applications of thousands of priests seeking return to the lay status were routinely approved under the late Pope Paul VI, but the new pope reportedly has held up action on an accumulating pile of such requests.

Church PR pioneer Stoody dead

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Ralph W. Stoody, a pioneer in the field of church public relations, died Dec. 30, at the age of 83.

He was the founding head of the communications department of the United Methodist Church in 1940 at the time northern and southern branches of the church merged.

One of the earliest full-fledged church public information operations, it was headed by Stoody for 24 years until his retirement in 1964. In his honor, the church set up its Stoody Journalism Fellowships, an annual $5,000 award for graduate study in journalism by a student interested in

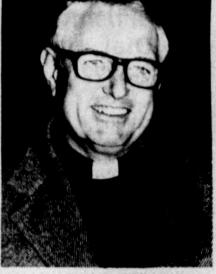

U.S. Christians asked to help

NEW YORK (AP) - Freedom of Faith, an ecumenical Christian organization working for religious rights, has appealed to American Christians for prayer and action in regard to five cases of violations of religious freedom

The cases cited were the sentencing to a labor camp of Baptist minister Ivan Antonov in the Soviet Union, banning of ecumenical organizations in an area of South Africa, the arrest of 200 Christian students in South Korea, interference in religious education of deaf children in Poland, and expulsion of a Jesuit priest, the Rev. James Carney, from Honduras.

Mooneyham now sees what 'daily bread' line can mean

MONROVIA, Calif. (AP) - It wasn't until Rev. Stanley Mooneyham became president of the Christian relief agency, World Vision, that he heard people pray "give us this day our daily bread" as if their lives really depended on it.

"They weren't mouthing platitudes; they were praying not to starve," said the 53-year-old director of the agency that sends doctors, supplies and missionaries into the most dangerous and needy areas of the world.

For several years, World Vision International personnel were alone in the South China Sea rescuing "boat people" fleeing from Vietnam - long before it became fashionable.

We put our boat the Seasweep out there in 1976 to prick the conscience of the world," said Mooneyham. Eventually the United States and other countries sent boats to rescue thousands who would have drowned or Bearing the knowledge that many more thousands could have been saved if nations had acted sooner, World Vision moved into Cambodia, where those dying of starvation and disease are numbered in the mil-We're not talking about an inconvenience, we're talking about people dying, right now, today," he says, emphasizing the urgency of getting food and medicine into the country despite diplomatic problems. Visiting the refugee camps, recalled Mooneyham in a recent interview, "I saw scenes that reminded me of pictures from Buchenwald, except this time I was seeing real flesh and blood. I'm not naive and I'm not new to suffering but this is far worse than the last days of Lon Nol." When the Lon Noi government fell to revolutionaries in 1975, World Vision left Cambodia. When he returned this fall, many of Mooneyham's coworkers, native Cambodians who had chosen to stay behind, were dead.

World Vision is an evangelical-Protestant, non-denominational organization started in 1950 to aid Korean war orphans. Its 1978 United States income was $39,317,641, with 20 percent for administration and fundraising.
