President Carter, in a speech on Friday denouncing Soviet intervention in Afghanistan said his administration would delay opening of apy new American or Soviet consular facilities. The Kiev and New York facilities apparently fall under that category.

The Kiev group was described as an advance party that has been working for two years to prepare for possible creation of a full-fledged consulate general's office.

The Kiev mission does not grant visas for Soviet citizens as it would have when the consulate general's office would have been in full operation.

The Soviet mission in New York, not to be confused with the Soviet delegation to the United Nations, also is listed as an advance party, preparing for the opening of a Soviet the CAB said.

Family fun park coming

Developers expect to be open by summer

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

When summer arrives, Midland residents shouldn't have far to go to find some water for cooling off and playing games

T.J. Melton III, and Associates Inc of Midland has started construction of Wild River Canyon, a water-oriented family fun park on the west side of Midland.

Plans for the park were to be presented to Midland City Council at 3 p.m. today.

Listed as Lot 1, Block 8 of Westgate W. Princeton Ave., which puts the 12-acre site between Idlewilde Drive and Holiday Hill Road.

Wild River Canvon - as the fun park will be called - will be located in a man-made canyon and divided into recreational areas for persons of all ages, according to a spokesman with the firm. Central features include a river ride, which consists of water running down a hill in three separate chutes. The rider lies on a rubber raft and splashes down a 300-foot hill into a landing pool.

A one-acre swimming lake will have two separate T-bar rides, inner tube rides, rope walks and a water volleyball court. Also included will be separate lakes for catfish fishing, bumper boats and a scenic canal for paddle boats.

Other features will be a children's playground, outdoor movie amphitheater. Can-American race cars, game arcade, a miniature golf course and three food concessions. Visitors can get an overall view from a quarterscale train with a track encircling the developed by the Melton corporation. Associated with the project is L.W. Lee grid coach

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

Gil Bartosh, athletic director of the Midland Independent School District, has raided the college coaching ranks for the second time in less than a week this time to fill the head football coaching vacancy at Midland Lee.

Spike Dykes, 41, accepted the Lee assignment late Monday after a brief stay in Midland, according to Bartosh. Dykes comes to Midland from Starkville, Miss., where he has been an assistant football coach at Mississippi State University under Emory Bellard, former San Angelo and Texas A&M University head coach.

Bartosh filled the Midland High vacancy Saturday by naming former Northern Illinois University head coach and 1962 University of Texas All-America selection Pat Culpepper as the head man of the Bulldogs.

Dykes, who is no stranger to District 5-4A football warfare after coaching stints at both San Angelo and Big Spring, will officially become the head coach after today's formal meeting of the Midland school board. Dykes told Bartosh that he would be ready to assume his duties at Lee Jan. 15. Culpepper is expected to arrive in Midland within the next 10 to 12 days.

"Spike is an outstanding football coach with a great coaching record,' Bartosh noted Monday night. "He is a great on-field general and possesses a great deal of football knowledge. He is also a great coach of fundamentals and he is a disciplinarian. I think the kids will like him. And I believe that both local schools have fine coaches that they can be proud of and that was our major objective when we started

"Dykes comes to the district highly recommended," said Dr. James Mailey, superintendent of the MISD. "We are indeed fortunate in securing a man of Dykes' experience in both coaching and administration.'

Dykes will be given a three-year contract at around $30,000 a year, the same as Culpepper.

In effect, Bartosh has replaced himself with the appointment of Dykes to the Lee position. Bartosh was the head coach at Lee for the past two years before being elevated to the athletic director's job in December.

Dykes has racked up an impressive 58-28 high school head coaching record at four Texas schools - Coahoma, Belton, Big Spring and Alice. He was also athletic director at each of the Dykes also brings with him a great deal of college coaching experience after serving as an assistant at Texas. University of New Mexico and last year at Mississippi State. He also has been an assistant coach in the high school ranks at Eastland, Ballinger and San Angelo.

Dykes graduated from high school in Ballinger in 1955 where he was a three-sport letterman in football, basketball and track. He earned the bachelor's degree in socal studies at Stephen F. Austin State University in 1959 where he also played football.

Dykes entered the coaching ranks in 1959 as an assistant football coach at Eastland and then moved to Ballinger in 1960 as an assistant under Bob Wright, who is presently an administrative assistant at Texas

In 1962. Dykes became an assistant for the first time under Bellard at San Angelo, and it was there that he got

New building planned downtown

Architect's rendering of proposed Empire Plaza building.

The Tall City construction boom that ran unbridled throughout 1979 on the way to a record-setting year that saw more than $90 million in construction permits issued, got a big boost for 1980 this morning.

The HBF Corp. announced this morning it will, in conjunction with First Savings and Loan Associaion, construct Empire Plaza, a major downtown office building.

The announcement was made by Larry Bell, president of HBF.

The 12-story office will be located on the northeast corner of the intersection of Wall Avenue and Pecos Street, immediately west of First Savings and Lone. The Plaza will add more than 180,-

000 square feet of office space to downtown Midland. "The Plaza will be built to fill an expanding need for prestigious office space in our city," Rell said

The first three floors of Empire Plaza will surround a glass atrium and lobby area, complete with a central fountain and hanging greenery. Although portions of the ground floor also will be used as offices, most of the Plaza's first three floors will enclose 90 executive parking spaces.

An additional 240 parking spaces will be available to Empire Plaza tenants and visitors two blocks away at Indiana Avenue and Pecos Street.

The upper nine floors will be ser-y viced by high speed elevators from the lobby and all three floors of park-

The entire Empire Plaza building is designed for top energy efficiency. Special insulation, reflective thermopane glass, and sophisticated mechanical systems are designed to allow maximum confort at low energy demand levels.

Peters and Fields Architects designed the structure.

HBF Corp. has developed, secured financing for, constructed, leased, and managed some of Midland's finest buildings, such as One Marienfield Place, San Miguel Square and the HBF Building.

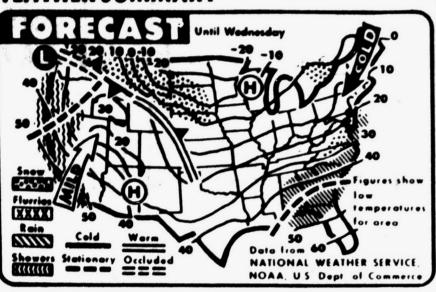

Other important examples of HBF Construction's work in Midland include the Petroleum Club now under construction, the Marathon Oil Building, Midland Chamber of Commerce Building, RK Petroleum Building, and expansion of The First National Charles Martin, president of HBF Property Management, who will lease and manage the building, said approximately 60 percent of Empire Plaza has been leased and we anticipate contracts for a 100 percent leased project prior to construction completion.

Construction work is scheduled to begin in the near future. Bell estimated the building will be ready for occupancy by mid-1981.

1980 re-election bid announced

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Sam Hall, D-Texas, has issued a formal announcement of his candidacy for re-election in 1980

In a statement released Monday by his Washington office, Hall said he based his philosophy on "balancing the federal budget, getting govern-ment off the back of the American people and providing a national defense second to none that hasn't happened since he left. In fact, Big Spring is currently on a 36-game losing streak in District 5-4A. Dykes had two 6-4 records while coaching the Steers.

From Big Spring, Dykes moved to Alice as head coach in 1970 before beginning a seven-year run as an assistant coach in the college ranks. He joined Darrell Royal at Texas in 1972 as an assistant coach. During his five-year stint at Texas, Dykes helped develop such stars as Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell, Outland Trophy recipient Brad Shearer and All-America kicker Russell Erxle-

In 1977, Dykes moved to the University of New Mexico as an assistant coach and worked with Bartosh, who was also there at the time as an assistant. While at New Mexico, he worked with former Midland Lee quarterback Brad Wright and recruited in the West Texas area. Dykes then rejoined Bellard for the second time in his career in 1979 at Mississippi State. It has been less than a month since Bartosh was given the go-ahead to recruit head football coaches at both Lee and Midland High. The two vacancies opened on Dec. 11 when the Midland school board elevated Bartosh to athletic director and decided not to renew the contract of Dennie Hays, who was head football coach at Midland High for the past two years.

Waldheim, Laingen met in Tehran

Sources say Iranians arranged meeting

NEW YORK (AP) - Secretary General Kurt Waldheim met secretly last week with L. Bruce Laingen, the top American diplomat in Iran, during the U.N. chief's mediation mission in Tehran, ABC-TV reported

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Laingen and two embassy aides — political officer Victor Tomseh and security chief Michael Holland - have been in protective custody at the Iranian Foreign Ministry since Moslem militants seized the U.S. Embassy and dozens of American hostages Nov. 4. The three were not in the embassy at the time of the takeover.

ABC reporter John Scali, who cited unnamed sources in Washington for the information, said the meeting between Waldheim and Laingen was arranged by Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh to demonstrate that Laingen was being treated pro-

Ghotbzadeh kept the meeting secret from the embassy militants, who have demanded that the Foreign Ministry hand Laingen over to them for questioning, ABC said.

The report said Waldheim found the

The secretary-general's 31/2-day mission to Iran ended with no signs of major concrete progress toward resolution of the crisis.

Laingen, in touch with Washington by telephone, has been an important liaison between the U.S. government and Iranian officials throughout the

In Tehran, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini decided to go into seclusion at the end of the week, closing his doors to all visitors for 15 days amid mounting communal violence. He asked that demonstrations be cancelled Wednesday in Qom, and revolutionary guardsmen there were stopping and searching suspicious cars.

The office of the 79-year-old leader of the Iranian revolution said he was very tired and beginning Saturday would rest at his home in Qom, the Shiite Moslem holy city 100 miles south of Tehran.

The announcement came after a day of demonstrations and bloody clashes between religious and ethnic factions in nearly half a dozen cities. There were demonstrations by tens of thousands of Turkish-speaking Azer-baijanis in Tabriz, mounting tension in Sanandaj, the capital of Kurdistan; another killing in the Persian Gulf town of Bandar Langeh, where between 41 and 56 people were killed during the weekend, and 11 persons reported killed elsewhere.

The revolutionary prosecutor's office warned against "counter-revolutionary" demonstrations in Qom on Wednesday, a Shiite holy day and said all suspicious cars entering Qom were being searched.

At the U.N. headquarters in New York, U.S. Ambassador Donald McHenry expressed determination to seek sanctions against Iran in line with a Dec. 31 resolution committing the Security Council to action if the hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran were not released by Jan. 7.

The deadline passed and the hostages were spending their 66th day in captivity today. U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, reporting on his recent visit to Iran, told the Security Council council sanctions would stiffen the resistance of the students occupying the embassy to freeing their prisoners, but McHenry said: "It is necessary for the international community to clearly express its view on the continued defiance of the council by Iran."

However, there was no indication when a resolution calling for sanctions would be submitted to the council. There was also speculation that the Soviet Union would veto the resolution in retaliation for the punitive measures taken against it by the U.S. government because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. The students have said repeatedly they would not release the hostages until Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was returned to Iran to stand trial for mass murder and corruption.

The demonstrators Monday in Tabriz, the capital of Azerbaijan, set fire to the offices of Khomeini's revolutionary committee in the city because the committee had been arresting supporters of Ayatollah Mohammad Kazem Shariat-Madari, Iran's second-ranking religious leader. He is the religious leader of the Azerbai-

Advances winning battle with cancer By NEIL SOLOMON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I know a cure for cancer has not been discovered vet, but I wonder whether the survival rate for cancer patients has improved over the years. Do you have information on this? - Vicki

Dear Vicki: Fifty years ago, fewer than one out of every five patients with cancer was alive five years from the time treatment was started; today, almost one of every three patients is alive five years after the diagnosis. The five-year survival period is considered a measure of cure. This progress is attributed largely to major advances in diagnostic and treatment techniques, as well as greater awareness on the part of the

Dear Dr. Solomon: My gynecologist performs Pap test routinely at my annual examination. Is this necessary when I have no symptoms or problems of any kind? - Mrs. K.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Early detection of cancer is essential for successful treatmement. There are no symptoms in early stage cancers, and by the time symptoms appear, valuable treatment time has been lost. That is why the Pap test is so valuable.

The Pap test will detect signs of early cervical cancer with an accuracy of 95 percent, and it can also reveal pre-cancerous conditions. It is a simple and completely painless procedure, and one of medicine's major diagnostic achievements.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My daughter (age 14) has been menstruating for a little over a year. For the past few months, her menstrual periods have been accompanied by severe cramps and diarrhea. I never had this problem and wonder if it indicates some abnormality in her reproductive system. - Mrs. D.H.N.

Dear Mrs. N.: It has been estimated that painful menstruation (or dysmenorrhea) is experienced by about half of all adult women. Of these, 10 percent are believed to be incapacitated for at least several hours each Dysmenorrhea may be either primary or secondary. A diagnosis of primary dysmenorrhea means the condition is not related to any underlying disease. Many girls first experience the pain and discomfort associated with the condition from six to 12 months after they start menstruating, about the time ovulation first takes place.

Primary dysmenorrhea may be associated with bloating, backache, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, nervous tension and fainting episodes. The length of time pain is experienced generally varies from several hours to two days.

Dysmenorrhea is said to be secondary when it is related to some underlying problem, such as an infection or

Salute to Joe Kloesel

Midland and Midlanders owe a sincere vote of thanks to Joe Kloesel who has just rounded out his term as president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Joe Kloesel, an energetic, determined and most effective civic leader, seldom if ever says no when asked to accept a community service assignment. He has an uncanny way of getting things done, and it was in this effective, productive manner that he led the 55-year-old Midland Chamber through one of its greatest years of achievement.

Its projects, activities and accomplishments were many and varied in 1979, but one of the achievements of which it and Midlanders generally are most proud was the erection of the fine, new Midland Chamber of Commerce Building at the corner of Main and Texas streets.

There has been no let up, however, in other areas of chamber activities, such as industrial development, public transportation, energy matters, housing, retail trade and regional shopping center expansion, air transportation, highway matters, agriculture, legislative affairs and conventions. If any area of public service has been neglected, we are not aware of it.

Joe Kloesel is a master when it comes to organization, and when this is matched with his superb leadership qualities, achievement is unlimited.

Kloesel, however, hasn't limited his civic activities to the Midland Chamber. He is a past chairman of the Midland Area Sales Team, a member of the executive committee of the Industrial Foundation of Midland, Inc., district vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, vice president of the Texas State Chamber of Commerce, and immediate past president of Junior Achievement of Midland, Inc., among other things.

And on top of all that, and holding top priority, of course, is his position as president of Drilco Industrial Division of Smith International Inc.

The Tall City is fortunate indeed in having men of Joe Kloesel's caliber who are willing to serve in such positions of responsibility and leadership in community affairs.

Congratulations to Mr. Kloesel on a banner year as president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, and all best wishes in the

The 1980s will be logical consequences of the 1970s

ORLANDO, Fla. — It is a tradition among those of us who are lucky enough to get paid for doing what most people do for free on street corners and at water fountains to prophesy on the future and to reflect on the past at the turning of a year.

At such times, I'm reminded of an angry reader who once asked, "What qualifies you to write a column?" I replied, honestly, that what qualifies me is the fact that my boss told me to do it. Indeed, that and luck are the chief qualifications of most of our tribe.

I don't like prophesying because it

I don't like prophesying because it is a no-win proposition. I once prophesied that a certain now-forgotten politician would run second and he ran fifth. Being wrong hurts. On the other hand, I also prophesied that Jimmy Carter would be the worst president in American history. Being right can hurt, too, if you love your country.

Next to prophesy and reflection, newspaper people love labels. The only institution which loves labels more is the army. The army labels tangible things like buildings, doors and latrines while the press labels intangible things like the passing of time and generations. It's a practice I try to avoid.

The 1970s were nothing more than the logical consequences of the 1960s. There is a lead time in the affairs of people that is long but inexorable. Effects follow causes as surely as sunsets follow sunrises.

For that reason, the 1980s will be the logical consequences of the 1970s and for that reason, I am not especially enthralled by the prospects. I have read that we can look forward to great advances in science and technology, but I doubt it. Many of the people who will be in science and technology in the 1980s are the same ones who achieved the great decline in SAT scores. The lousy education of the 1960s and 1970s will begin to tell in the 1980s. I don't expect many breakthroughs from cum laude graduates who can't spell cum laude.

We have spent the 1960s and 1970s disarming while the Soviet Union has spent the same time expanding its military power to the maximum of its ability and resources. Therefore, the 1980s will be, to say the least, not dull.

We can't overcome 20 years of wrong decisions overnight and so at least through 1985, assuming our politicians make the right decisons now, we will live in an excessively dangerous world.

We shall also live in an inflationary world. The pols have accumulated three-quarters of a trillion dollars in public debt and they will clip the coin to pay it off. That scenario, to use a fashionable word, has usually ended disastrously, but it's not easy to predict when the collapse will come.

I believe, too, that before the 1980s are over either the Soviet Union or the United States will no longer be a world power. Perhaps neither. A common mistake of government planners is to project the future as a straight-line continuation of the present. I suppose that is because they took statistics instead of history.

What our timid politicians choose to call competition between the Soviet Union and the United States cannot, however, continue indefinitely since neither one has that kind of staying power. The clock has about run out on this game which has already lasted over 60 years and there will soon be a resolution.

I am not, as you might think, a pessimist, but I don't believe in disconnecting your brain every time it sends you signals you don't want to hear. Human nature does not change. Nothing important ever happens by accident. Almost everything that does happen is foreseeable because of the law of cause and effect. When we don't foresee some event, it's usually because we willfully refused to look at the facts.

Finally, as the Roman stoics pointed out, both past and future exist only in memory and imagination. We exist in the eternal present and it's in the present that we construct both the past and the future. What we will one day remember and what we may reasonably expect depends on what we do and are now.

That's why I think the 1980s will hold no surprises.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Some chains that bind are costly

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — No one whose memory is reasonably intact needs to be told that the prices of certain food staples went zooming last year.

Coffee drinkers have been roasted by a 28 percent price rise since last May. Shoppers paying more than $2 for a gallon of milk or a pound of butter at year's end remember that milk was $1.80 and butter $1.50 at the beginning of 1979. And beef prices jumped over the moon, from an average of $1.48 a pound to $2.31.

After a richly deserved tongue lashing from President Carter last summer, most of the nation's food retailers scaled down their assault on the American family's budget, and the overall cost of food rose only 2.5

percent over the past six months.

But this easing off followed a ninemonth period when the nation's big grocery chains raked in money hand over fist — a reaction, ironically, to the president's voluntary price guidelines. While most were simply taking advantage of the generous guidelines, some weren't satisfied with even that officially approved bonanza.

According to confidential documents of the White House Council on Wage and Price Stability, a variety of food firms across the country temporarily exceeded the liberal voluntary guidelines either deliberately or from carelessness.

Here's a list of food firms that were fighting on the wrong side in the war on inflation: International Multifoods Corp. of Minneapolis; Bluebird Inc., Philadelphia; Alexander and Baldwin, Honolulu; Affiliated Food Stores Inc., Dallas; Giant Foods, Washington, D.C.; Associated Grocers of Colorado Inc., Denver; Hy-Vee Food Stores Inc., Chariton Iowa and Liggett Group Inc., Montvale, N.J.

Not surprisingly, the grocery chains' profits jumped in the nine months between October 1978, and July 1979. An internal Agriculture Department report calculated that the net earnings of the 14 biggest chains were 28 percent higher than for the same period a year earlier.

"Even the financially troubled Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. (A & P) experienced relatively good performance during the first three-quarters of the (voluntary guidelines) program year," the report noted, while the net earnings for the huge Safeway chain were up 15 percent.

"These findings lead us to conclude," the agriculture analysts reported, "that the financial position of the 14 firms, taken as a group, have improved significantly during the period covered by the anti-inflation effort"

The basic problem is centered in what the food industry calls "gross margin standard" — a percentile markup by the food chains on the price they pay for their products. This system, approved by the federal guideline writers, allows a grocer to add on the same percentage of overhead margin every time the cost of a particular item goes up — even though his overhead may go up only a little or not at all.

Thus, a $25 markup on a $100 case, say, of canned soup, sets the rate — 25 percent — at which he can mark up future orders of that canned soup. If the price to the grocer subsequently goes to $200, he can add on $50 in markup, even though it's highly unlikely his handling costs will have doubled. The rest becomes profit.

"The percent gross margin standard has apparently not served as a constraining influence on food chain earnings," the report concluded with bureaucratic understatement. What it means in plain English is excessive prices on supermarket shelves.

Footnote: The firms named weren't officially cited for violations because they made a successful effort to comply after being warned, a White House official told our associate Tony Capaccio.

PURLOINED PIPELINE: A corruption-riddled program that was supposed to guarantee the United States a billion barrels of oil in safe storage by December 1982, has already cost the taxpayers millions of dollars. But the goal of a ready reserve of oil, to be used in case of the kind of cutoff we now face in the Middle East, has been a good idea gone bad from the beginning.

The Strategic Petroleum Reserve, a program set up by Congress in the wake of the 1974 Arab oil embargo, was supposed to cost about $7 billion. Now, however, congressional sources tell me the tab is more likely to approach an astronomical $40 billion, a good deal of the overcharge caused by unbelievable bungling.

The skyrocketing cost of the oil-re-

The skyrocketing cost of the oil-reserve program echoes the runaway bill for another federal oil project—the Trans-Alaskan pipeline. The original estimate for that exercise in government profligacy was $863 million. The final bill ran to $13.7 billion.

Interestingly, both projects involved the same two free-spending private firms, Banister Continental of Edmonton, Canada, and Ralph M. Parsons Co. of Pasadena, Calif. I exposed some of the shameful waste in the Alaska pipeline project more than three years ago. Massive quality-control problems cost millions to correct, but it didn't stop the government from hiring Banister and Parsons for the oil-reserve boondoggle in Louisiana a few-years later.

The Louisiana scandal involves a 62-mile, 36-inch pipeline to transfer federal oil reserves from Weeks Island to St. James, La. The price was to be $27 million — $85.50 a foot — with completion set for January 1979. Parsons and the Gilbane Construction Co. of Providence, R.I., got the contract, and brought in Banister as a subcontractor.

By December 1978, the government terminated Banister's contract—after paying the company $16 million for 13 miles of pipeline. An internal memo from the House subcommittee on Energy and Power listed a number of flagrant violations during the eight months of Banister's boondoggle. Some of the violations—like buying unneeded equipment—were just like those the company had committed in Alaska.

Public television has funded a survey which concluded that the favorite form of relaxation in this country is watching television. Gee, and I thought it was bullfighting.

Paying for this startling revelation is comparable to giving someone money to tell you that human beings derive a certain pleasure from sex.

It seems a waste of money if you spend it on a survey which tells you what you already knew. Better to discover that when it comes to relaxation, most folks prefer collecting antique Tasmanian collar buttons than watching the tube.

The only solution is to integrate public television with commercial television. For example, on "Diff'rent Strokes," little Arnold could explain the windfall profits tax to MacNeil and Lehrer.

A news story out of Austin says that a $250,000 foundation to honor former Texas Department of Public Safety Director Wilson E. "Pat" Speir is being put together by some of the state's wealthiest and most politically involved persons.

The foundation will provide funds for scholarships for needy and educationally qualified children of DPS personnel.

This is a marvelous gesture and a wonderful, far-reaching manner of honoring one of the state's and nation's best and most favorably known and most competent law enforcement officials, who retired his DPS post at the end of December.

Pat Speir, who headed the 49-county Midland Region of the Texas DPS for a number of years before assuming his state director role, has many friends here and throughout this section of West Texas. He was a member of the Midland Rotary Club and was active in other civic affairs while residing in the Tall City. He and Mrs. Speir were honored at a reception held here recently,

NICK THIMMESCH

1980: A good year to debate the U.S. role in the world

WASHINGTON — The Iranian crisis and the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan should push us to a reassessment of what role the United States should play in the world.

An election year is a good time to make such a decision. The citizenry could stand some rousing arguments over our defense budget, how we define who are friends and enemies (and how we should treat them) and how aggressive our intelligence forces should be.

Operating a democracy is not easy

Operating a democracy is not easy. A chicken farm is probably much simpler. There is jingoism and hawkishness in the air. Suddenly, as if we were in the throes of the Fifties' cold war again, strategists fuss over regional maps, consult scholarly works on Islam and ponder the balance of forces between the U.S. and the U.S.R.

But then there is also the Rev. William Sloane Coffin telling us to be kinder to the Iranian revolutionaries so that they will release the hostages and go back to producing more petroleum for our insatiable cars. President Jimmy Carter admits that he is only now understanding the Soviets. And there are some folks who think that all those greeting cards and vigils are going to move the Iranian terrorist-students into releasing our people.

The holidays are behind us, so now come the bills of January. So, too, come Republican presidential aspirants and an assortment of hawks in both parties, informing Mr. Carter that the people are becoming impatient over Iran, and that something better be done soon. John B. Connally demands that the United States set a deadline for release of the hostages. Sen. Henry A. Jackson is undoubtedly pleased that the SALT treaty has been put aside.

Alas, it is time for the clear-eyed to take a look. Nuclear war is out, but what to do about the gathering brutal, irrational forces in the developing world? Do we hold their hands, as Rev. Coffin recommends, sing solidarity songs with them as Andy Young would like, or client them as Jim Abourezk does?

Without killing so much as a flea we should decide who our friends and enemiees are. Now a friend and ally is a nation which is on our side. It might not measure up to the human rights standards of the Americans for Democratic Action or the early Carter Presidency, but neither will it burn our Flag, smash our embassies or hold our people hostage.

We might hope that South Korea, Pakistan or Saudi Arabia might one day become as democratic as other such friends as, say, Israel, Luxembourg or Japan, but we needn't go nuts if they don't. We must learn the difference between authoritarian states who aren't. Lately, we've been too hard on our allies and too easy on our enemies. Among the latter are the Soviet Union, Vietnam, North Korea, Cuba and, for the moment, Iran.

Enemies take advantage of democracies. Way back in 1922, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover protested that while the United States made enormous grain shipments to the U.S.S.R. to relieve starvation, the Bolsheviks exported their own food in order to buy machinery. The ways haven't changed. The Soviets love to borrow production circuits from our innocent pocket calculators for use as guidance computers in missiles. During detente, Soviet missions learned a great deal about U.S. technology and are using it now. We learn little from them.

According to a paper read at a

According to a paper read at a recent conference of the Institute for Contemporary Studies, American exchange students in the Soviet Union typically pursue such matters as "Marriage Patterns in Russia and U.S.S.R., 1897-1975," "The State and Economy in Catherinian Russia" and "Professionalization of Russian Psychiatry, 1860-1911." Their Soviet counterparts in the United States got "Photoelectric Phenomena in Semi-Conductors," "Solid State Electrochemical Thermodynamics." and "Research in Digital Automatic Control and Diagnosis."

trol and Diagnosis."

More? The United States builds an amazing, portable "Red-eye" missile. The Soviets acquire it through a Scandinavian nation. Its technology was used in the very SAM missiles which destroyed U.S. aircraft in Vietnam and Israeli planes in the 1973 war. The Soviets don't need spies, only easily duped nations and willing U.S. companies.

The United States is democratic and soft enough to allow its citizens, like Rev. Coffin and Jane Fonda, to work on behalf of the enemy during war (Vietnam). We are mindless enough to scream against Iranians, but never question where our gasoline comes from. Should we blame NBC for paying the Soviets upwards of $100 million for rights to cover the 1980 Olympics or U.S. farmers for selling wheat to the strapped Soviets? Probably not.

Is it hopeless for a fat democracy like ours to survive in a world where nice-guy nations are becoming quite scarce? No, our democratic system allows a great flow of creative energy, and also the free will to make decisions about which Americans are honorable, in terms of the national interest, and which aren't. We must sensibly determine how to protect ourselves, and how to let the bad actors in the world know in advance that we will tolerate only so much. It is a good year for such debate.

DEAR ABBY

Could virgin have misconceived her pregnancy?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an avid reader of your column, and feel that you do much to help our teenagers. However, in a recent column you stated that a girl can become pregnant without 'going all the way.' You even printed a letter from a girl who claimed she was a virgin when she was married, but she was seven months pregnant! How can this be? A pregnant virgin? You can't be serious.

I am a 55-year-old grandmother, and I have no idea how a girl can be pregnant and still be a virgin. If your statement baffles me, a

AFTRA: VISA TV strike imminent

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, which represents 40,000 television and radio employees, says it is preparing for a strike because of a stalemate in contract talk with the big three broadcasting networks.

Hundreds of AFTRA members performing for American Broadcasting Co., National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia Broadcasting System, or their owner-operated television and radio stations, have been working without contracts since Nov. 16.

A strike would halt work on soap operas and various other programs and pull personnel from newsrooms, a union spokesman said.

The warning of a possible strike was issued here Monday by Sanford I. Wolff, national executive secretary of the union, as negotiators for both sides met in Los An-

Pete Rozelle sides with Orr on controversial no TD call

NEWYORK (AP) — Side judge Donald Orr apparently made a correct call by denying a Houston touch-down in the Oilers' 27-13 loss to the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday, according to National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

After viewing films of the National Football Conference title game, Rozelle said Monday that Houston's Mike Renfro appeared to be juggling the ball as he stepped out of the end zone after catching a pass from Dan Pastorini. The play occurred late in the third quarter with Pittsburgh leading 17-10 and the Oilers eventually had to settle for a field goal.

'A thorough check of NFL films, showing different angles than those available to television, indicates that there was a definite question of possession," Rozelle said. "Our rules state possession is as necessary to having both feet in bounds."

Renfro came down with both feet in bounds, as required, but Orr, after hesitating for a few seconds, called it an incomplete pass. The call was upheld after all seven officials con-

Not only did Renfro argue the decision, but Dick Enberg and Merlin Olsen, the NBC-TV commentators, insisted the officials blew the call.

"No question about it, it was a touchdown," Enberg said. "I don't think he saw the play," Olsen added. The NFL film, in a front view, showed Renfro catching the ball over his shoulder and holding it in the crook of his right arm. As he stepped out of bounds, he tried to shift the ball to his other arm to secure it.

"From the vantage point of this film, it is reasonable to see how Orr made the call," Rozelle said. "He didn't appear to have possession until he was out of bounds.

The TV replay showed only back and partial side views of the catch. "The TV broadcasters are so positive." Rozelle said. "They make an arbitrary judgment. Then the print media picks it up and you have a big rhubarb. I wish they would be more moderate until there is a chance to view all the films. 'We don't say our officials don't occasionally make a mistake, but their percentage of being right is very high. We have found that TV cameras are not all-seeing. Quite often, the location of the camera can produce an erroneous effect, or not show the play at all. Cameras, like human beings, are not infallible.'

Steeler win still tainted

Pittsburgh's Steelers nailed down an unprecedented third straight National Football League championship by beating the Houston Oilers Sunday, but the only question remaining is whether the Steel City bullies could have done it without their only special version of the "12th

The Steelers' victory, as it seems to be in all playoff games against Texas teams, always seems to be tainted with controversy that comes in stripes...and in the minds of some of the victims, that should be behind bars.

LAST YEAR in the Super Bowl, it was the tangled legs of Pittsburgh wide receiver Lynn Swann and Dallas defensive back Benny Barnes. Both had their eyes on a Terry Bradshaw pass and wound up on the ground in a pretzel of legs. The official quickly ruled interference and the Steelers went in for the touchdown that turned the game around.

It isn't confined to Texas teams. Oakland has never gotten over the Immaculate Conception pass with which the Steelers pulled out a lost cause against the Raiders in a playoff game back when Pittsburgh first emerged from a lifetime of doldrums to become a dominant force in the NFL.

It kind of set the pattern for Steeler games have come to pass since.

THE LATEST incident has Houston Oiler fans seething. It came Sunday when a touchdown pass from quarterback Dan Pastorini to wide receiver Mike Renfro, that would have tied the score at 17, was ruled incom-

Don Orr, the "culprit" in the eyes of Oiler diehards, and those who feel Houston got derricked, ruled that it was no catch. He said even though Renfro got both feet on the ground, he was juggling the ball went he went out of the end zone.

Replays show that as Renfro hit the ground, one arm shot up in the air, even while he was on his back, signifying No. 1 or whatever he might have been signifying. Now that's a pretty good trick if a receiver is juggling the ball.

Who knows what might have happened if the Oilers had scored the touchdown instead of settling for a field goal.

FRANKLY, the opinion here is that the Steelers would have come back to win anyway, but you never can be sure. The unfortunate part is that the Steelers continue to benefit from questionable calls and it's a team so loaded with talent it doesn't really need anybody's help. In this case, even some of the Steelers expressed resentment that the controversial play tainted the the win. They'd have seen Houston get the touch-

In the minds of most folks outside the Tampa Bay and Los Angeles areas, Sunday's game was this year's Super Bowl, although Pittsburgh will be required to play an "exhibition" in Pasadena on Jan. 20.

Los Angeles and Tampa Bay played in another game Sunday and the winner was elected, or sentenced, to fulfill the exhibition assignement. Los Angeles won 9-0 in that lacked something. One witness said, "It was like watching two guys fish...for

Wilson and Watkins were just too much to overcome as Lee took a first period lead of 11-9 and never trailed

McDivitt was the only bright spot for the Bobcats who came into the game with a 2-1 5-4A reading, the same as Lee. While Wilson and Watkins were leading the Lee attack, teammate Judy Taylor wasn't far behind with eight points, and she hit some keybaskets in the second half with two field goals coming in the final period when Central finally woke up to outscore the Tall City five.

McDivitt was the only Bobcat girl in the double figures while Phylis Scott managed to score eight points as the determined Rebel defense shut down th rest of the Bobcats.

CENTRAL TOOK the preliminary junior varsity contest to the tune of 35-31. Jeanie Bryant led the way with 12 points while Melinda Holenburger and Kellie Watson led Lee's attack with eight points each. Lee faces Abilene Cooper in San Angelo Thursday in it's next outing with the junior varsity game set for 6:15 p.m. and the varsity tipoff at 8

Cagers follow form, but...

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

If one looks too quickly at the District 5-4A basketball standings after Friday night's first round action, it's easy to say that things are proceeding according to form. But that can be

Midland High, Midland Lee, Abilene Cooper and Abilene High all took opening night victories. All four were supposed to, but in some cases it wasn't as easy at it looked. Abilene Cooper, picked to finish second in a close race with Midland High, defeated San Angelo, 62-59, Friday but they had to go two overtimes with the Bobcats to turn the trick despite a 30-point performance by 6-10 Woody Martin and 20 more by Kenny

IT WASN'T supposed to be that close. And Midland Lee had to scrap every inch in a narrow 50-49 win over Odessa High. Tim Fisher had 15 points and Tim Walker added 12 to save the day.

Midland High won easily enough,
78-70, over Odessa Permian, but the Panthers showed some scary punch, enough punch, in fact, to keep everyone on their toes.

Abilene High had the only really easy victory with an 87-52 win over Big Spring. The Eagles had 13 players to score in that game, four in double figures. The Eagles are picked to finish fourth in the loop and after their district opener, but they now have eyes turning in their direction too.

So with all that in mind, we enter the second night of competition today while wondering how things will look when we wake up Wednesday morn-

MIDLAND HIGH will host Big Spring at the Chaparral Center at 8 p.m., and the defending champion Bulldogs should have little trouble maintaining their grip on first place if the first night's results are indications of things to come. However, it's apparent in this league that one shouldn't take anything for granted.

The Bulldogs are showing some scoring punch from Herbert "Magic" Johnson, Anthony Carroll and Perry Bolger. Johnson, by far the best junior in the league, hit for 22 points against Permian Friday while Carroll dumped in 21 with a showboat flare. Bolger hit for 20 points from his guard

The Lee Rebels have to be a little worried about their trip to San Angelo after the big game the Bobcats gave the Cougars Friday. And they must be working on ways to stop Charles Bishop, who connected for 25 points against Cooper. That contest also begins at 8 p.m. in San Angelo, and is one of the key games on tap since the Rebels will be fighting to maintain that lead.

THE OTHER key contest appears to be in Odessa where Permian hosts Abilene High. Both teams can score and this one could give the scoreboard a big workout. Abilene High, despite their big outing against Big Spring, must be a little apprehensive going into this one since the Panthers have three players in Brad Kerley (18 against Midland), Scott Wynne (21) and Duane Adams (19) who can score against anyone. Kerley fouled out with over six minutes to play against Midland and Abilene might not be so

Cooper is expected to be very strong against Odessa High tonight in their home 5-4A opener, but if the first night of action is an indication of things to come, nothing will be easy. Tonight should be another adventure for all concerned.

Tuesday's Games

Big Spring vs. Midland High at Chaparral Center,
Midland Lee at San Angelo, Odessa High at Abliene
Cooper, Abliene High at Odessa Permian. All varsity games at 8 p.m. JV games at 6 p.m.

SMU's Wagoner wants to play

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist's Charles Wagoner says he will work to overcome the injury that team physicians said brought an untimely end to the football career of the sensational freshman running back.

Team doctors have refused to give Wagoner medical clearance to play another season because his neck was broken Nov. 17 when he was tackled by two Texas Tech players on the opening kickoff at Texas Stadium.

"They said it, that I won't play football again, but I'm not giving up. I'm going to work at it for a year, lift weights and trys to build up my neck, then X-ray it again," said Wagoner.

Midland High storms past Big Spring

BIG SPRING - The Midland High girls jumped right back into the thick of the District 5-4A basketball race here Monday night with a 58-35 win over the Big Spring Steers.

Midland High is now 2-2 in the loop chase, only one game behind league leaders Midland Lee, Abilene High and Abilene Cooper, all owning 3-1 marks. The Bulldogs outscored Big Spring in every quarter to run to an easy, but important victory. Margaret Christian again led the Bulldog charge with 19 points while Jana Trolinder added 13 and Sandra Rock hit for 10 more. Eight Bulldogs got in on the scoring Walker led Big Spring with 13 points and Pam Banks added 10 to the losing cause. Big Spring is now 0-4 in 5-4A and is the only team out of the first half race.

Midland High will have their work cut out for them Thursday when they return to 5-4A action when they host Abilene High at 8 p.m. in the MHS Midland High got off to a fast start with a victory over Cooper, but lost two straight to Midland Lee and odessa Permian before coming back with a win over Big Spring.

For the Badgers, 5-7, "our biggest problem is we don't have any heighth." But Nabors insists his team, which gave Marfa a battle in the championship game of the Badgers' tournament, will be heard from.

In District 5-A, where league play has begun, the Stanton Buffaloes meet Whiteface tonight in what should be an important assignment for both teams.

Topping tonight's non-district docket is the Lamesa-Andrews game. Coach O. W. Follis' Golden Tornadoes bring an 11-4 reading into the tilt while Frank Bice's balanced Mustangs boast a gaudy 17-2 log. A victory would give Follis 803 career wins as he moves nearer the national prep record of 810 triumphs.

On Saturday, Ed Badger resigned as basketball coach of the University of Cincinnati. On Sunday, he reconsidered. On Monday, he returned to the job and celebrated with a victory. Badger received a hero's welcome from a screaming crowd of 7,357 who watched the Bearcats beat Memphis State 74-64 Monday night in a Metro Conference game. "Next to coaching the United States team to a victory over Russia in 1973 in Moscow, the crowd tonight was my greatest thrill," said Badger, who quit as coach of the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association in 1978 to come to Cincinnati.

Unbeaten Duke holds poll position

By The Associated Press

Unbeaten Duke held the top spot in the Associated Press college basketball poll for the fourth consecutive week Tuesday as up-and-coming De-Paul took over the No. 2 position and preseason favorite Indiana fell to No.

The Blue Devils, 12-0, were tabbed No. 1 on 48 of the 54 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters and received 1,073 of a possible 1,080 points. Duke, which posted a 73-44 victory over Colgate last Saturday and whipped Georgia Tech 55-42 last night, was ranked no

Owner Hugh Culverhouse obviously likes the McKay way. He announced Monday a five-year extension of McKay's contract as head aocah and vice president of the National Foot-

"It is my hope John will continue as head coach for many years to come. He's my coach of the year," said Culverhouse, a Jacksonville attorney who has fully supported McKay through the struggling start of the four-year-old franchise.

The announcement came just after McKay guided the young Bucs to a National Football Conference title game. They were stopped short of the Super Bowl Sunday in a 9-0 shutout by the Los Angeles Rams.

McKay, 55, is in the last year of his initial five-year contract, reportedly worth about $1.5 million. He came to Tampa as head coach in the 1976

United Way campaign criticized

DENVER (AP) - United Way of America, the mammoth nationwide charity drive that raised more than $1.2 billion last year, is under attack for the way its 2,300 U.S. chapters raise and spend their Critics, chiefly a host of smaller philanthropic groups and health agencies that must compete for America's inflation-pinched charity dollar, are challenging United Way's historic monopoly on the cheapest and most lucrative form of fund-raising on-the-job solicitation and payroll deductions. They also take issue with United Way's image as the chief spokesman for American charity.

Dozens of advocacy groups — like the Sierra Club, the Gray Panthers, the National Organization for Women, Zero Population Growth and the National Black United Fund — also are clamoring for a share of Americans' largess.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Three hundred cases of beer on order for the Food and Drug Administration won't be used to quench anybody's thirst.

The agency plans to destroy 95 percent of the beer after testing the rest for nitrosamines, a chemical suspected of causing cancer.

Minute traces of the chemical were found in some beers in 1978 and later linked to the way brewers dried their barley malt.

Chester Gardner, a vice president of the U.S. Brewers Association, said Monday that brewers and malters have altered the drying process to keep nitrosamines well below the 5 parts per billion allowed by the FDA. FDA spokesman Wayne Pines said the agency has Pines said chemists at FDA's Bureau of Foods are expecting 300 cases of beer, but they will choose only one can or bottle from each case of 24 for the test. The equivalent of two dozen cases will be tested.

Scientists say decade to open doors

By ROBERT LOCKE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The new decade should see proof that science can finally duplicate the inferno inside the sun and tap the limitless energy of nuclear fusion, scientists say.

And now they must also learn whether the almosttamed force of the hydrogen bomb can generate electricity cheap enough and reliable enough to power America in the 21st century.

"Most people feel that a laboratory demonstration of the scientific feasibility (of nuclear fusion) will occur in this decade," said Andrew M. Sessler of the University of California's Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory.

He said at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that fusion fuel — a type of hydrogen called deuterium — "would come from sea-water, so we are talking about a potential source of energy that is really inexhaustible.

Fusion is the opposite of the nuclear fission — the splitting of atoms — that runs existing nuclear power

A fusion plant would produce energy by forcing the nuclei of light atoms to combine, or fuse together, in a process that releases tremendous amounts of energy. But the process only works at the incredible extremes of temperatures and pressures inside the sun.

Sessler and others said Monday it's a long way probably 20 years or more — from laboratory to power plant, and success is not a foregone conclusion.

"Determining whether a practical fusion power plant can be built is a matter over and above" the question of proving that the complex process will work in the laboratory, said David Paul of the Electric Power Research Institute, a center sponsored by the nation's

He said that because of rapid scientific progress in the past few years, "we have now gotten to the point where we have to start asking these practical ques-

"This sort of thinking is just starting to phase into the program because prior to this, it wasn't justified to do that ...," he said. "Now we are on the verge of doing momentous things."

Two major approaches are being tried, with en-couraging results, to achieve the conditions needed for fusion, scientists say. In magnetic confinement, energy is fed into superhot fuel that's bottled up inside magnetic fields. Inertial confinement uses such things as laser beams to compress pellets of fuel so violently that tiny thermonuclear explosions take place.

Magnetic confinement is leading the race, with proof of feasibility expected about 1985. But Sessler said, "I think both of these techniques are going to work.'

He said the United States currently is spending about $500 million a year to develop fusion energy and about $15 billion might be needed before it becomes commercially available.

But when compared with the $70 billion a year Americans spend on imported oil, he said, "the investment in fusion energy is not unreasonable."

Major gasohol producers don't agree on converting Red grain to gasohol

By DEBRA WHITEFIELD The Los Angeles Times

The nation's major gasohol producers Monday disputed an administration official's claim that 5 million tons of corn embargoed for shipment to the Soviet Union could be converted to gasohol this year under a new government program.

"I'd just like to know where the heck are they going to make the alcohol" from 5 million tons of corn, said Howard Hinton, manager of the industrial alcohol division of Midwest Solvents Co., diversified grain processor based in Atchison, Kan.

Hinton's doubts about the feasibility of such large-scale production of gasohol were shared by Richard Burket, a vice president of Archer-Daniels-Midland Co., of Decatur, Ill., the nation's principal producer of ethanol for gasohol.

"I don't think there's the capacity" even if expansion by several alcohol distilleries began immediately, Burket said. A more reasonable estimate is 11/2 million tons; not 5 million, he

ADM and Midwest Solvents are America's two leading producers of alcohol from corn for use in gasohol. Other U.S. alcohol distilleries are equipped to produce alcohol of a type suitable for gasohol, but do so sporad-

Gasohol is a mixture of nine parts gasoline and one part pure, 200-proof alcohol. It is a clean-burning substitute for unleaded premium fuel.

The debate over the gasohol numbers follows an announcement Sunday by Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher that some of the 17 million tons of embargoed grain would be used for a "massive increase (in) gasohol production."

The Department of Energy released details of the gasohol program Monday, including plans to raise the output of ethanol this year to 400 million gallons from the current 40 million gallons.

ADM's Burket said it would be possible to achieve the administration's 1980 target in 18 months at the earliest, and then only if the gasohol producers operating at capacity underwent major expansions, and if a number of other U.S. alcohol distilleries began producing ethanol earmarked for gasohol.

A distillery with a 35 million-gallona-year capacity, for example, would require a $50 million capital investment, he noted, and a producer considering such a large investment would insist on a guaranteed market. If such guarantees were secured, he said, it would take at least 18 months to build an alcohol distillery.
