Carter to make Soviets 'suffer'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is formally setting in motion a series of measures against the Soviet Union in retaliation for what he calls "the greatest threat to peace since the Second World War."

Carter said Tuesday night that these measures will make the Soviet Union "suffer," but he acknowledged they probably will not force the Kremlin to withdraw its forces from Afghanistan.

Speaking to about 100 members of the House and Senate invited to the White House for a report on the situation in Southwest Asia, Carter said there was nothing the United States could have done militarily to block the Soviet action.

Carter admitted that the retaliatory waters would be limited to 75,000 tons, compared with an expected catch this year of 435,000 tons.

—The adoption of licensing controls on the sale of agricultural exports to the Soviet Union and the suspension of licensing for high technology items. The latter action could affect the sale of $155 million in U.S. manufactured goods for which export license applications are pending, Commerce Department officials said.

The suspension of the sale of 17 million tons of grain to the Soviet Union has prompted a chorus of protests from Republican presidential candidates who claim that the administration is asking the American farmer to bear the brunt of its anti-Soviet measures.

Carter admitted that the retaliatory measures were aimed principally at influencing future — and not present — Soviet behavior but said that Moscow's intervention nonetheless posed a threat to American security interests.

measures were aimed principally at influencing future — and not present — Soviet behavior but said that Moscow's intervention nonetheless posed a threat to American security interests.

If the Soviets suffered no adverse consequences, they would have been tempted "to move again and again until they reached the warm-water ports" or gained control of world oil supplies, Carter said.

The day after the Dec. 27 Soviet-sponsored coup in Afghanistan, Carter had compared the Soviet action to the Kremlin's use of armed force to put down uprisings in Hungary in 1956 and in Czechoslovakia in 1968.

But Tuesday, he said the intervention in Afghanistan was cause for greater concern because the target was a non-aligned state rather than nations that had long been in the Soviet sphere of influence.

Carter explained the rationale for his cutbacks in Soviet-American commercial and diplomatic ties this way:

"We hope that we have laid down a marker and let them (the Soviets) know that they will indeed suffer now and in the future."

Tuesday's measures included:

—Formal notification to the Soviets that they will not be allowed to open a planned consulate in New York and a directive that the 17 officials assigned to staff the consulate are to be sent home expeditiously. The Soviets also were informed that the United States will not open a consulate in Kiev and that the seven officials assigned there will be withdrawn.

—A directive to the Soviet airline Aeroflot to limit its roundtrip flights between the United States and the Soviet Union to two a week. Aeroflot had been allowed four such flights in summer weeks and three weekly the rest of the year.

—The dispatch of three Coast Guard cutters to Alaskan waters to enforce limitations on Soviet fishing in U.S. waters. Carter had announced Friday that the Soviet catch in U.S.

In response, the administration announced Tuesday a boost in government support rates for wheat and corn. The wheat rates were pegged at $2.50 a bushel from $2.35 while corn supports were boosted to $2.10 per bushel from $2. This supplements a series of other actions already announced.

In addition, State Department spokesman Hoddling Carter said there is "hardly a sector of American society" that is not arguing it should be exempt from the costs of the administration's retaliatory program.

He said critics of the program have tended to separate one aspect of the package and attack it as if it stands alone. Rather, he said, the package of U.S. actions — affecting farmers, businessmen and scholars interested in cultural exchange — should be viewed as a single unit.

One of the congressmen invited to the White House, Rep. Michael Barnes, said afterwards that Carter's remarks about the gravity of the situation were "acceptable political hyperbole and an effort to galvanize the international community in a way that didn't occur in the aftermath of the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia."

Barnes, a Maryland Democrat, quoted the president as saying that by the time the United States was able to bring the issue of the Czech invasion before the United Nations the "international furor had died down" and support for any concerted action had waned.

In Washington, Rep. Charles Wilson of Dibold, Texas, says the Afghanistan situation has pushed U.S. Soviet relations back to the Cold War era.

"I think that we just have to face it, that we're right back to 1946 and weakness on our part can only make it worse," the Texas Democrat said at a news conference.

He called for U.S. support of Afghan rebels "to the best of our ability" by supplying them with arms through the government of neighboring Pakistan.

Stanton man dies in fiery accident

GREENWOOD — A 31-year-old Stanton man died near Greenwood early this morning as the result of a fiery accident only minutes from his home.

Victor Vance Schoonover of Stanton died about 4 a.m. when his 1978 International tanker truck loaded with crude oil went out of control, overturned, started burning and exploded, according to Department of Public Safety officials. The accident occurred on County Road 120, just past the intersection of FM 1379 and about one mile south of Greenwood school. A spokesman for Scurlock Oil Co., owner of the truck, said Schoonover had just picked up a load of crude oil 12 miles south of Midland on State Highway 349.

"From the direction he was headed, he was probably going to the house," the spokesman said. Schoonover lived on County Road 120.

Officials at the scene said the truck was capable of carrying 190 barrels of crude oil, and Schoonover had 180 barrels at the time of the accident.

A spokesman for the DPS said Schoonover crossed FM 1379 and a tenth of a mile later he lost control, hit a pile of dirt and overturned.

Schoonover was found outside the truck cab, although a fire department spokesman said the body was burned beyond recognition. It was unknown this morning whether he died as a result of the accident or explosion.

Two fire units were called to extinguish the fire. A fire department spokesman at the accident said the fire was out by about 5:54 a.m., using a high light water mixture.

"We began with a 1 1/2 percent light water mixture, but it wasn't strong enough. We finally used 3 1/2 percent and got it out," he said.

He also said firemen called the Terminal (Midland Regional Airport) fire station for a protein foam previously used by the fire department but none was available.

"I didn't think there would be. We haven't had any for a long time, but I thought we might still have some," the spokesman said.

Assistant Fire Chief James Roberts said the fire department currently uses aqueous film-forming foam, or light water. Several years ago, a protein foam, similar to soap suds, was used by the department.

The truck and cab were completely burned.

Senior citizens center approved

Council OKs specs for $221,000 facility

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Remodeling the abandoned Circle Drive Fire station into a senior citizens center will cost the city of Midland about $221,000.

But Midland City Council approved Tuesday specifications for remodeling the building and advertising for bids.

The architect's plans show that a circular drive at one side will be added, as will smaller rooms. Inside the building will be a main room with a stage, kitchen, offices, a ceramics room, an area for a kiln with rest rooms and snack areas.

Sale of bonds to begin some projects was approved by the council. The March 1 sale will include $3 million in general obligation bonds for street improvements, $1.85 million for improvements to the water system and $2.65 million for an expansion to the sewage treatment plant.

In conjunction with that sale, bids will be accepted on work to the sewage treatment plant. John Lowe, director of utilities, said cost of the project has been estimated at $3.4 to $3.6 million.

"If it (bid) is higher than that, then there are things we can take out to drop the price," Lowe said. Starting the project in April still should allow enough time for construction before the current plant becomes overloaded, he added.

Although only $2.65 million in bonds will be sold for the project, Robert Massengale, director of finance, said the city has some funds to add to the amount until remaining bonds can be sold next year.

A contract with Harry Hill, architect for Midland Regional Airport, was approved for work in repairing the building's damage incurred during a fire recently. The council was advised it may have some trouble with the insurance company in getting payment for the work. But the council decided to authorize Hill and his firm to get started on the repairs.

Creating a Transportation Commission and naming its members was deferred until Jan. 22. John Ingram, president of the MidTran board, suggested the six members already on the board remain while two City Council members and an at-large member are added.

Completing detail work to get Mid-Tran started is on schedule, and plans still call for a Feb. 4 rolling date, according to Ingram.

Brochures which listed rate schedule and other information about Mid-Tran were distributed to council members.

Within city limits, subscription service for a month is $18. This includes a round trip each weekday (such as to and from work). Dial-a-ride will cost 75 cents per person, or 25 cents for handicapped people. Subscription service will be available during the hours of going and coming from work. Dial-a-ride hours will range from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

For subscription service, interested persons may purchase monthly passes at Chamber of Commerce, 211 N. Colorado St.; Teraco Inc., 2080 Commerce Drive; Midland City Hall, 300 N. Loraine St.; and Texins Association, located at Texas Instruments in the Midland Regional Airport area.

In other action, the council urged further study of fees to be charged out of town residents for use of Parks and Recreation Department facilities, adopted the 1979 building code and 1978 electrical code and reviewed more plans for relocating the Pilska airplane at Midland Regional Airport.

Oil workers' strike won't effect prices

HOUSTON (AP) — Refiners affected by a walkout of more than 20,000 Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union members in Texas and Louisiana say there will be no short term effect on consumers.

The union, with more than 60,000 members nationally, stopped work Tuesday in a dispute over higher wages and an improved medical plan.

Plants in Texas and Louisiana produce seven million of the nation's daily output of 17.4 million barrels of oil.

"As far as the consumer is concerned, we would expect, certainly on the short term and possibly on the long term, that they will see no effects of this strike," said Bill Gibson, a spokesman for the Shell Oil refinery at Deer Park.

Supervisory personnel started taking control of the plants throughout the area Tuesday when the strike started and in most cases the transition was smooth. Wayne Tiller, a spokesman for Amoco Chemicals, said the plant was under full operation by supervisory personnel one half hour before the scheduled 4 p.m. strike.

"They got their transition over with early," Tiller said.

'Objectives for the Eighties' to be formulated

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

More than 200 Midland citizens will begin meeting this week to formulate "Objectives for the Eighties," the second time such a program has been undertaken by the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

The program, chairmen and task forces were to be released today by the chamber during a news conference.

Charles Priddy is chairing the project. A similar format used during the first objectives program in the late 1960s will be followed, he said.

The task forces and respective chairmen are: local government, Ernest Angelo Jr.; economy, Douglas Henson; education, John Redfern Jr. and Moak Rollins; housing, Ray Moudy; urban design, Craig Eaton; spiritual concerns, the Rev. Robert Boynton Smith; cultural concerns, Paula Cahoon; recreation and entertainment, Betty Sumner and Mickey Cappadonna; health and welfare, Dr. Ralph Greenlee and Dr. Durwood Clader.

In announcing the chairmen, Priddy said they were selected because of their involvement in those aspects.

Each chairman has selected committee members to give input on what they feel goals for Midland should be in the 1980s. The first step for these groups will be to write an essay covering the background of that area.

Next, 100 conferees will attend a retreat March 14-16 in the Inn at the Turtle Creek in San Antonio. They will leave on a flight Friday afternoon.

Objectives for Midland — The 80's work for two days in discussion sessions to hammer out the final objectives and return to Midland on Sunday afternoon.

Priddy said half the conferees will come from these task forces. The other half will be made up of other people in the community.

"We want input from the entire community, not just a portion of it," Priddy said.

He recommended people telephone the chamber office to recommend persons they feel should be a conferee. Or they may write to Objectives for Midland, P.O. Box 1890, Midland, 79702.

These conferees will be selected by Feb. 8.

Planning and direction of the program is the responsibility of the Advisory Committee consisting of Bill Blakemore, chairman emeritus; Priddy, chairman; Douglas Henson, vice chairman; and Guy McCrary, executive director.

Other members are Martin Allday, Winston Barclay, Decker Dawson, Harrell Feldt, Bob Griffith, John Grimland Jr., Thornton Hardie Jr., Joe Kloesel, Sid Lindley, Tony Martin, Bill Thomas, Allen Trobaugh, George Veloz, Wilbur Yeager Jr. and Louann Rogers.

The timetable devised by this committee calls for discussions to begin this week; conferees selected by Feb. 8, task force discussions completed by Feb. 25, essays finished on March 3, the retreat on March 14-16, with a copy of the objectives to be published April 4.

Neighborhood meetings will be held April 14-25 and the revised objectives and essays should go to the printer May 9.

A budget of $85,000 has been estimated for the program. Priddy said financial support for the community-wide project is expected to come from individuals, businesses and civic organizations.

What in the world is an "actuary?" — Mrs. K. L.

According to the American Council of Life Insurance, an actuary is the technical expert in the mathematics of insurance.

He or she calculates premium rates, benefits, employee benefit costs, pension plans, annuity programs and every other type of insurance product in the country, both for private industry and government.

To become an actuary requires many years of education, training and work experience, and, not surprisingly, there are fewer than 10,000 actuaries in the world.

What do apartment renters do about this situation without moving?

Last July hail damaged the roof. Since then, water pours in the light fixtures in the kitchen, and there are leaks in the living room, bathroom and bedrooms.

Tile is ruined in the kitchen and dining room, and the carpet ruined in living room and closets.

Roofing men came and worked a couple of days and left. Now we have more leaks in our apartment.

It's dangerous and frustrating to live in these deplorable conditions and still pay rent. Last week all tenants' rent went up. They said it is due to maintenance cost. What can be done? — B.C.

ANSWER: You evidently have had no satisfaction from the apartments' manager. Why don't you contact Jetta Shoemate, president of the Midland Apartment Association, 694-6460, and see what could be done?

My husband pays child support for his 16-year-old son from a previous marriage.

If his son marries now, before his 19th birthday, would my husband still be required to pay the child support?

Also, is it true my husband's ex-wife doesn't have to change her last name even though she has remarried? — Mrs. R.P.

ANSWER: The State Bar of Texas says that if your husband has agreed in writing to continue to pay support despite the marriage of the child, or if the divorce decree specifically states that he must do so, payments must continue until the 18th birthday.

The decree may specify that payments stop on emancipation. The answer should be found in the precise words of the support order.

Secondly, a woman is no longer required to take her new husband's last name when she marries. Therefore, your husband's ex-wife can retain the name that she had at the time of her marriage.

School trustees postpone change in '81 graduation requirements

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

The Class of '81 got a reprieve Tuesday from the Midland school board.

School trustees agreed at their regular meeting to push back for one year the addition of a free enterprise course to the already-high graduation requirements.

Board members had added the course requirement as an afterthought in a back-to-basics flurry last June when they also restricted senior privilege — the practice of allowing seniors with enough credits to graduate to leave campus after only four classes instead of the normal six.

After hearing a report on the effect their ruling would have on students — and costs to the district — trustees agreed to defer the requirement for next year's seniors.

Seniors graduating after 1981, however, will have to take the course.

Requiring the course next year, school district staff members explained, upset three-year plans for graduation drawn up in the ninth grade for more than 300 students in the high schools. Those students already had planned to take six courses — many of them all honors classes — and would have to drop one to make room for free enterprise.

By moving the requirement back a year, students affected by the new ruling would have known about it throughout the three years of high school and could plan to take it without making last-minute changes.

Since few seniors have taken the course so far, another drawback to requiring the course next year — aside from the increased number of seniors who might not graduate because they failed free enterprise — was the cost of hiring more teachers to handle the extra 1,000 seniors thrown into the social studies departments by the rush to fill the requirement.

Giving students three years to take the class would relieve that last-minute crush, officials said.

Students may be exempted from taking the course by passing an advance placement exam, an option many students might choose, according to Dr. Doug Brown, assistant superintendent.

Free enterprise education is part of several classes from the second grade up, Brown said. Extra emphasis is started in the eighth grade, and the Project Business program offered to some students in the ninth grades as a joint project of the school district and Junior Achievement gives them an extra grounding in the American economic system, he noted.

Board members Tuesday also approved the hiring of "Spike" Dykes of Starkville, Miss., as head coach at Lee High School.

Dykes will replace Gil Bartosh who was promoted to Athletic Director earlier this year when Sam Cox asked to be reassigned for health reasons.

The board also approved the appointment of Edwin Nixon as assistant athletic director. Nixon will deal primarily with scheduling and business management activities, according to Schools Superintendent Dr. James Malley.

Nixon, 52, has been with the Midland schools for 30 years, the last 28 as cross country and track coach at Midland High School.

In other business, trustees got some unexpected good news on bids for audio-visual equipment.

Slack sales and end of year inventories added to reduce expected costs for the equipment, which will be used throughout the district, by about 30 percent, school officials said.

Trustees had budgeted $57,199.25 for the purchases, based on estimates and inflation factors. The low bids totaled only $43,225.04.

The reduced costs came from increased competition in bidding, the desire to reduce inventories at the end of the year and slack audio-visual sales last year, officials explained.

The school board also renewed the appraisal contract for mineral deposits in the district with Pritchard and Abbott and renewed its service fee with Texas Association of School Boards.

The board also agreed to change the date of its next meeting to Jan. 24 at 1:30 p.m.

Automobile tune-up course slated to be taught at Midland College

A six-week short-course in automotive tune-up begins at Midland College Jan. 19. Offered through the Department of Community Services headed by James Bramlett, the course is designed to acquaint students with general testing equipment and the procedures for tuning car engines.

"We are holding these classes on Saturday for the convenience of those who are unable to participate during weekdays," Bramlett noted. "Classes will meet between 9 a.m. and noon."

Limited to 15 students, the course will be taught by Ernest Beck, and the fee is $22.

Those interested in taking the course should preregister now in room 156 of the MC Administration Building. The office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays including the lunch hour.

Students should report to room 156-A 15 minutes before the start of the first class.

More information may be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

Two men charged with gun conspiracy

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men have been released on personal recognizance bonds after being charged in a conspiracy to buy machine guns and silencers.

One of the men, William S. Brooks, 59, said he understood the weapons were to have gone to the Iranian government.

The FBI said a third man charged in the case, Reza Sedigh, 43, is being held in Washington on misdemeanor complaints of making telephone threats to do bodily harm to Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and an aide.

Brooks, an official of an oil storage tank manufacturing firm, and Michael H. Colton, 33, a heavy equipment operator, appeared Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate H. Lingo Platter on the conspiracy warrants issued in New Orleans.

The New Orleans complaint alleges Brooks, Colton and Sadigh conspired between Oct. 12 and Nov. 28 to obtain the machine guns and silencers in violation of the 1968 Gun Control Act.

Colton, the complaint charges, met with a federal undercover agent in New Orleans and Slidell, La., to negotiate acquisition of silencers and all three men later met with the agent in New York to talk about the purchase of guns that could be modified to use silencers.

The complaints allege five types of guns, including four equipped with silencers, were later examined in Metairie, La., and test firings were held Nov. 25 in Louisiana.

Tax appraisal group to meet here Thursday

The initial meeting of the Midland County Tax Appraisal District will be held at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the Commissioners' Courtroom at Midland County Courthouse.

Memorial Foundation board of governors at the foundation governors' annual meeting Tuesday afternoon in the hospital cafeteria.

Elected to serve on Midland Memorial's board of trustees were Dr. Brent Blonkist, John C. Dorn, Robert Bledsoe and Mrs. James H. Purvis. Dorn was re-elected to serve another four years with the hospital's trustees.

The governors also elected Mrs. Frank Thompson and Watson La Force Jr. to serve on the board of governors for a four-year term. Dr. E.R. Mickle and Pomeroy Smith were selected as honorary governors for the foundation.

Travis Herd, president of MMH board of trustees, reported construction for the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center has begun at the east side of the hospital. Completion date for the facility was tentatively set for March 1981.

Some applications for director of the cancer facility have already been received, Herd announced.

Midland Memorial Hospital Administrator Wayne Ulrich reported the fiscal events that occurred during the year of Oct. 1, 1978 to Sept. 30, 1979.

Total revenues for that year were $10,740,814 whereas expenses were $11,060,455, he said.

The administrator blamed the $339,631 deficit on the $704,669 Medicare discounts, the addition of the new data processing unit and employment of monitor technicians for the hospital's critical care unit.

Concerning funding for the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center, Ulrich said more than $47,000 has been donated in addition to the $2 million donated by Helon Y. Allison. He said he believed none of the cancer center's total cost of $3,496,814 would have to come from taxpayers.

The board of governors concluded the meeting by approving the actions of the hospital's trustees.

The Midland Memorial Foundation owned the hospital before creation of the Midland County Hospital District in 1977. The group now serves as a fund-raising and support group for the hospital.

Frank Redfern

LAKE MOHAWK, N.J. — Frank J. Redfern, 69, of Lake Mohawk, N.J., and Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., brother of John J. Redfern Jr. of Midland, died Tuesday in Florida after a brief illness.

He had been associated with his brother in business for many years. He was a senior vice president of The New Jersey Bank and president of Barn Hill Nursing Home.

Other survivors include his wife, two sons and six grandchildren. The family requests memorial be made to Midland Memorial Foundation, P.O. Box 1747, Midland, or to a favorite charity.

Retired Justice W.O. Douglas 'very seriously ill': hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Justice William O. Douglas, the champion dissenter who served the U.S. Supreme Court longer than any justice in history, is "very seriously ill," hospital officials say.

Douglas, 81, is receiving intensive care at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where he was admitted Christmas Eve suffering from pneumonia.

His physician, Douglas Steinweg, has said Douglas is suffering from "progressive lung, renal and kidney failure." Steinweg was quoted Tuesday by Supreme Court spokesman Barrett McGurn as saying the multiple complications "stem from right lower lobe pneumonia."

Hospital spokesman Peter Esker said Tuesday, "Mr. Douglas is very seriously ill. That's our most serious designation."

Esker refused to say whether Douglas had lapsed into a coma, saying such information would have to come from the former justice's fourth wife, Cathy. She was not immediately available for comment.

A stroke suffered New Year's Day 1974 eventually forced Douglas' 1975 retirement from the nation's highest court. For the past six years, the once-avid outdoorsman has been confined to a wheelchair. Until the last month, however, he kept writing and spent several hours each week at the Supreme Court office maintained for him.

Douglas was 40 when he was appointed to the court by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1939. His 36 1/2 years on the bench were filled with controversy and marked by 500 dissenting opinions.

16-year-old pleads innocent on stabbing death charges

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — While police sought other suspects, a 16-year-old black student pleaded innocent to a charge of murder in the stabbing death of a white classmate.

The student, who was not identified because of his age, pleaded innocent Tuesday to the charge stemming from the death of 17-year-old Anthony M. Colosimo. The student was ordered to undergo psychiatric testing.

Colosimo died after a fight Monday among three whites and three blacks at Cambridge Rindge & Latin High School. At least one school official called the incident "racially motivated."

The school, the only public high school in this city of 100,000 across the Charles River from Boston, closed Monday in an attempt to head off any further trouble among the 2,900 students.

The juvenile was placed in the custody of the Youth Service Board by Judge James J. Nixon of the Cambridge District Court, and the case was continued until Jan. 18.

Meanwhile, another white youth injured in the fight, 18-year-old William Graham, was in critical but stable condition at Cambridge Hospital with a stab wound. Graham was a graduate of the high school.

Alice Wolf of the School Committee said officials hoped to open the school Thursday. She said the decision probably would be made today after a discussion with student leaders about security arrangements, including the posting of police and weapons searches.

But school administrators recommended reopening Jan. 16 to keep students at home during Colosimo's funeral Friday and the Martin Luther King Jr. Day holiday Jan. 15.

"The key to peace in the school will be a meeting Saturday between black student leaders and white students from East Cambridge," said School Superintendent William C. Lannon, who said earlier that the fight appeared to be racially motivated.

Former clown Jack Thum dead of cancer at age 54

CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Thum, a clown who gave his farewell performance in October on a day named in his honor by Mayor Jane Byrne, died early today after a two-year battle with cancer. He was 54.

His doctors had told Thum he probably would not live past the coming spring, but Thum replied, "I'm gonna fight it and I'll fight it as long as I can — maybe I'll get a year."

Thum, brought up as an orphan, and his wife, Shirlee, raised 36 children from broken homes. They had a daughter, their only child, and their 15-year-old granddaughter will carry on as "Jackie The Clown." She had been working with Thum since she was eight.

For 23 years, Thum played the clown at benefits, club meetings and at hospitals. In July 1978, doctors told him lung cancer had spread out of control.

"I'm going to spend the time I have left making people laugh, like I always have," he said then. "And I want to go out laughing. As a kid I spent 17 years alone. No one came to visit. No one made me laugh. I decided at 19 that I would make laughter my life's work."

Several weeks ago, Thum entered Mount Sinai Hospital for further treatments as the cancer spread throughout his body.

Mrs. Byrne declared Halloween "Jack Thum Day," and in his hospital room, his wife made up his clown face with grease paint, applied his red, bulbous nose, and helped him into his baggy clown suit and big shoes.

Then they wheeled him to the stage of the hospital auditorium where he gave his last performance to an audience of 400 children.

Funeral services will be Friday.

All-electronic computer developer dies

AMBLER, Pa. (AP) — Dr. John W. Mauchly, a co-inventor of ENIAC, the first all-electronic digital computer, has died at the age of 72.

Mauchly, who died Tuesday, was a former head of the physics department at nearby Ursinus College, where he was working when he decided he needed a high-speed computer for a project on weather analysis.

Realizing the speed problem could be solved by electronics, he began experimenting with equipment he purchased himself. In 1941, he joined the staff of the Moore School of Electrical Engineering at the University of Pennsylvania. Mauchly wrote a proposal in 1942 describing a computer, and received an Army Ordinance contract to build it. The first all-electronic computer, ENIAC, for Electronic Numerical Integrator and Computer, was completed and dedicated in 1946. Funeral services were scheduled for Friday.

Carved out of what once was a caliche pit, Wild River Canyon will be a family fun park developed in west Midland by T.J. Melton III and Associates. The 12-acre tract will include a swimming lake, miniature golf course, a river ride with rubber rafts splashing down chutes, playground and fishing area.

Exciting, unusual project begun

Midland will soon have amusement park

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

"It's the most exciting project I've ever been associated with," said T.J. Melton III. And it may be one of the most unusual projects undertaken in Midland. Wild River Canyon, a recreational park-lake area, was outlined Tuesday by Melton before Midland City Council as part of a request to remove the 12-acre tract from the fire district.

Planning began last fall, and the actual digging out began recently, he added. People will enter the park through a main building which will have a game arcade and food stands. They can pay for going to one attraction or buy one ticket for all attractions.

Rail companies propose merger

NEW YORK (AP) — The Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads, joining a merger brought on by the belief that energy problems will be good for the rails, have proposed a nearly $1 billion marriage that would create the nation's largest railroad in terms of revenues.

Street analyst, Graeme A. Lidgerwood of Kidder Peabody. Both have been consistently profitable. The Union Pacific's basic main lines connect Salt Lake City to both the Pacific Northwest and Los Angeles, and then extend east to Omaha, Neb. The Missouri Pacific operates in a 12-state area bounded by Chicago, Omaha, El Paso and New Orleans.

Merger would have little effect in West Texas

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer Tuesday's $1 billion dollar proposed merger of the Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads would have little effect on the Midland-Odessa-Big Spring area, according to local Missouri Pacific Railroad officials.

Officials noted it is too early to evaluate the possible benefits and disadvantages as a result of the merger. However, they reacted favorably toward the possible marriage of the two rail lines. Approval of the merger must come from stockholders of the two companies, said Willard Shultz, divisional public relations director for the Missouri Pacific. The merger will be completed when the Interstate Commerce Commission approves the action, he added.

Long, bitter strike anticipated

150,000 walk off jobs at British Steel Corp.

TEESSIDE, England (AP) — From furnace to factory heads, both sides in Britain's first national steel strike in 54 years are digging in for a long, bitter shutdown.

The walkout by 150,000 employees of the debt-ridden, nationalized British Steel Corp. is on by eight days old, but already scuffles are breaking out and pickets are being arrested. Supplies of some kinds of steel are running short. Layoffs are beginning, and British industry as a whole is threatened.

The strike is also the first major confrontation between the unions and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. It is the first test of her hard-line, laissez faire labor policy, leaving both public and private companies to go it alone in union negotiations with no prospect of an 11th-hour bailout from the government to stop a strike.

The Iron and Steel Trades Confederation is considered among the least militant unions in Britain, and there is little gloating among the pickets at the Teesside Works here in east Yorkshire, the heartland of British steelmaking.

"I've never liked strikes in the first place, but it's dog-eat-dog in Britain and we've got to stay out," said Michael Swash, a 25-year-old steel pourer with a family of three and mortgage payments as he warmed his hands at a coal fire outside the giant Redcar blast furnace complex.

Many of the men's fathers, grandfathers or great-grandfathers worked the mills, for the industry has long been known as a "family affair." Swash is proud that he is on a first-name basis with his plant manager and that "hundreds of blokes" remember his dad.

"The steel industry has always been a happy industry," said Jim Moffatt, a management spokesman. "There's always been great spirit among the men."

But the strike is souring that spirit. Union leaders have vowed to step up their round-the-clock blockades at private steel works to make sure that new supplies don't get through. On Tuesday, five pickets were arrested for scuffling in Sheffield outside the gates of a private firm.

Pickets in the ports are stopping longshoremen from unloading steel from France, West Germany and America.

The British Iron and Steel Consumers' Council, a management group, claims most companies have between two and six weeks' supplies on hand. But certain categories of steel are reported scarce, and small steel firms may have to shut down.

Ductile Steels in the West Midlands on Tuesday announced the first layoffs of the dispute because of the effects of picketing. Hadfield's, a private steel company in Sheffield, warned that picket action could drive it to close permanently. The strike threatens a new recovery plan at British Leyland because the problem-plagued auto giant depends on British Steel for 80 percent of its steel.

British Steel turns out 85 percent of the steel produced in Britain, but its performance has been getting worse every year. Though it sells at prices higher than other countries, the firm has been losing close to $2 million a day, according to its chairman, Sir Charles Villiers.

While sympathizing with the firm's plight, union leaders were appalled at Villiers' initial offer of a 2 percent wage increase at a time when the inflation rate is around 17.5 percent.

The strike began Jan. 2, and negotiations collapsed Monday. In the final round, the union demanded a 13 percent increase, but the company said it could afford only 8 percent and 4 percent more after local productivity deals were clinched.

Wages for production workers average about $220 a week, and the company's last offer would have meant between $33 and $44 more.

"There is no alternative as I see it to a long, difficult and bitter strike," said Len Murray of the union coordinating committee.

The strike is all anyone talks about in the struggling towns around the Teesside Works, wherever the steelmen and their families gather in pubs, shops or on street corners.

Many have not seen a paycheck since before Christmas and don't know how they will get through a long layoff. The workers are not getting strike payments from their union, a sore point with many pickets who are draining their savings.

Teesside sells its steel to construction and shipbuilding enterprises, a market that in recent years has been hit hard by competition from Japan, France, West Germany and Korea.

The Redcar complex boasts Europe's biggest blast furnace, an $880-million piece of technology that opened in October to help cut the competitive advantage of foreign producers. Its construction saved hundreds of workers from being laid off, and now a skeleton safety team is keeping it "banked down" at minimal temperatures to reduce the time required to get it back into operation when the strike ends.

"It's capable of producing 100,000 tons of iron a day and it's not producing an ounce. Now isn't that a bloody shame," said management spokesman Moffatt. "And the longer the strike drags on, the bigger the danger that the furnace will go cold and never start up again."

"It's our lifeline," said Jerry Finnegan, a craggy-faced, 36-year-old slinger whose father worked in the mills. "If that furnace goes down, it's finished and we're finished."

Names in the News

CINCINNATI (AP) — An arrest warrant has been issued for Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt, who a spokesman says is hospitalized at an undisclosed location for chronic pain and drug addiction.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Robert Kraft issued the warrant and revoked a $27,000 bond Tuesday after Flynt and his attorneys failed to appear for a hearing to determine the status of various pornography-related charges pending against Flynt.

A lawyer came to the hearing to ask for a continuance, but said he did not represent Flynt or the magazine.

Flynt is charged with disseminating material harmful to juveniles in connection with the distribution of a 1977 pamphlet on war and a 1978 pamphlet on child abuse. An additional charge of pandering obscenity is also pending from his sale in 1978 of Hustler in Hamilton County.

Flynt was paralyzed from a gunshot wound received March 8, 1978, during his pornography trial in Georgia.

In Los Angeles, Jan Rogers, spokeswoman for Flynt, said he was in a hospital for treatment of chronic pain and drug addiction. She declined to disclose the name of the hospital.

She quoted Flynt as saying that because of his medical problems, he was excused from a court appearance in Columbus last year in a libel suit filed against him. "This further shows the prejudice that I have always pointed out about the Cincinnati courts," Ms. Rogers quoted Flynt as saying.

"We will never move these cases unless we get off first base," said Arthur Ney, assistant Hamilton County prosecutor.

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Singers Frank Sinatra Jr., B.J. Thomas and Fabian are being sued by Harrah's for allegedly not paying their bills while entertaining at the hotel's two clubs in Lake Tahoe and Reno.

The suit said Sinatra owes $4,556 in hotel, restaurant and telephone bills charged in 1976 and 1977. It said he has paid only $691.

Harrah's says Thomas owes $3,982 from 1977 and Fabian, $2,858 for the same year.

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet ballet star Alexander Godunov defected in the United States, where he said he would be free to express his artistic talents, but his post-defection debut came some 2 miles from the Berlin Wall in a city ringed by Russian troops.

Godunov, who left the Bolshoi Ballet last August in New York, received a 15-minute standing ovation Monday night from the sell-out crowd at the Deutsche Oper. Godunov danced the male lead in "Giselle."

Godunov's first U.S. performance has been delayed due to labor problems at the American Ballet Theater. He said he was re-negotiating his contract with the company and still hopes to dance with it.

NEW YORK (AP) — For Beverly Sills it was a "dream come true" — a touring opera company where young gifted performers could gain invaluable experience from performing the same work — "La Traviata" — two or three times a week.

Miss Sills, the general director of the New York City Opera, announced Tuesday the creation of the National Opera Touring Company.

The company of 36 singers and 27 instrumentalists will begin the tour Oct. 5 in New York, make its way through the Midwest and close in Los Angeles.

Miss Sills said the company, which is budgeted for five weeks in the fall and three weeks in the spring, hopes to give 40 performances during its maiden tour.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Orchestra Music Director Lorin Maazel will miss 11 concerts and remain confined in bed for four weeks with mononucleosis, orchestra spokesman David Levenson says.

Levenson said Tuesday that the 49-year-old musician, in his eighth season with the orchestra, was ordered by his doctor to rest until Feb. 1.

Maazel, who will assume the post of director of the Vienna State Opera in 1982, is expected to return to Severance Hall for a Feb. 3 concert. Guest conductors and Yoel Levi, the orchestra's conducting assistant, are to fill in for concerts Maazel will miss.

Selection of jury continues in trial of Plainview 'witch'

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — Attorneys today attempted to narrow the field of 31 prospective jurors to the final panel that will determine the fate of a self-professed witch accused of the Halloween 1977 slaying of a 15-year-old girl.

State District Judge John Thomas Boyd severed the trial of Louise Stone, also a self-professed witch, from the case of her husband, Loy Dean Stone.

The judge granted the severance after the list of prospective jurors had been narrowed to the 31 that will be individually questioned today.

The defense had asked for separate trials, saying the Stones had a right to be tried individually. Boyd said Mrs. Stone will be tried at a later date.

The Stones have been charged with murdering Roxanne Casas on Oct. 31, 1977. However, the Stones have claimed they never heard the shots fired at a pickup in which the teenager and three friends were riding.

The trial has been delayed twice while prosecutors searched for several witnesses who apparently "got scared" and fled the area.

One witness is a former Department of Public Safety chemist, who reportedly examined the alleged weapon.

The chemist, Glenn Johnson, was located last week near Denver, Colo., Castro County District Attorney Jimmy Davis said they did not know whether he would be brought back to Texas to testify.

Another key witness, Arthur Herrera, driver of the pickup, was located shortly before the trial began.

Tensions in the small conservative Panhandle community prompted Boyd to move the case to Plainview, 43 miles away. About 60 persons have been subpoenaed to testify.

In early October 1977, the Stones, who belong to the Church of Wicca, appeared on an Amarillo television station to announce a witchcraft seminar. Two weeks later, on Halloween night, traffic on Easter Road near their house was thick with horn-honking, yelling teen-agers.

The sheriff already had been called to the Stones' house once that night to chase away carloads of cruising teen-agers, but had left when Herrera and his passengers drove into the Stones' gravel driveway.

As the pickup turned around in the driveway, two shotgun blasts hit the bed of the truck and the passenger window, striking Miss Casas.

Swiss pilot, federal flight examiner die as plane crashes in Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Swiss pilot trying for a multi-engine rating and the federal flight examiner assigned to test him died when their twin-engine plane crashed and burned just south of Meacham Field.

The four-seat Piper Apache, registered to Pilots County Club Inc., heeled over and smashed into a home.

A 1-year-old boy in the house received minor burns, federal officials said.

The dead men were identified as Peter Witschi, the pilot, and Ernie Dullea, a Federal Aviation Administration flight examiner. Witschi was making touch-and-go landings at the city airport, trying to get certified to fly multi-engine aircraft.

By FLOYD NORRIS

NEW YORK (AP) — Shooting pictures is getting a lot more expensive, and rising silver prices is the reason.

Eastman Kodak Co., the world's largest film producer, says it will raise film prices by as much as 75 percent later this month to compensate for the sharp increase in silver prices.

The increase comes on top of one imposed in October and replaces one announced two weeks ago, before the latest leap in silver prices.

"What we have done is to revise the previous increases to reflect the even higher prices of silver," said Henry J. Kaska, a Kodak spokesman.

As a result of the increases, the retail price of a 12-exposure roll of Kodacolor II color print film, size 110, will rise from the current $1.86 to $2.15.

A 35mm roll of Kodachrome slide film, with 20 exposures, will rise from $4.95 to $6.20.

The price of silver, $6 an ounce a year ago, had risen above $18 by early last month, then soared to almost $40 after the first of the year. On Tuesday, it slipped back to $31.91 in trading on New York's Commodity Exchange.

Silver is a key component of the photosensitive emulsion on film. Kodak uses 50 million ounces of silver a year.

There were no price increases for photo printing papers, which also use silver, Kaska said.

The price increases are in suggested list prices, but retailers are free to charge either higher or lower prices. They are to take effect Jan. 26.

Kodak is by far the largest producer of film and its pricing actions are often followed by smaller producers, who are also feeling the pinch from rising silver prices.

The largest price increase came in phototypesetting papers, used by many newspapers. They rose 75 percent because they are relatively heavy users of silver, Kaska said.

The Kodak increases were disclosed to dealers on Tuesday but not publicly announced. Kaska confirmed them in response to an inquiry from a reporter.

The new price list replaces one announced Dec. 26, which also was to take effect Jan. 26. In many cases, the increases are twice as large as had been planned. Phototypesetting paper, for example, was to rise by 35 percent.

Most film bought by amateur photographers — for movies, color prints and slides — had been slated to rise by 7.5 percent. Now it will rise at least 15 percent and as much as 25 percent. Rolls of black-and-white film will rise between 25 and 35 percent, instead of 7.5 percent.

The increases are even steeper in the bulk rolls frequently bought by professional photographers. Those rolls were to have risen by 20 percent in color and 30 percent in black-and-white. The new figures are 30 percent and 50 percent.

Gold price 'retreats'

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices retreated on world bullion markets today and one London dealer said the gold rush had simply "run out of steam."

The U.S. dollar held firm on foreign exchanges.

After soaring more than $100 an ounce in the first week of 1980, gold has declined sharply from a peak of $673.16 a Troy ounce in Hong Kong on Monday and record 650-dollar levels in Europe and America.

By the close of trading in New York Tuesday the price had fallen to $602.50.

In Hong Kong today, the metal dropped $36.13 from Tuesday's level to close at $595.45.

And when European markets opened, gold was trading at $602 in London and Zurich.

One London dealer quoted a median $599, as the price slipped below $600.

"Prices are simply easing down in much quieter trading," said one bullion dealer. "Activity's not all that great so you probably couldn't assume that a lot of people had lost money after buying last week. They're probably holding on in hopes the price will go up again."

Silver was trading today at $33 a Troy ounce, from $33.38 late Tuesday.

The dollar was mostly steady, although sharply lower against the Swiss franc.

"A lot of people are staying out of the market awaiting new developments from the Mideast and Afghanistan," said one money dealer.

Mid-morning dollar rates in Europe, compared to late Tuesday:

Frankfurt—1.7183 West German marks, down from 1.72.

Zurich—1.5573 Swiss francs, down from 1.5787.

Paris—4.0250 French francs, down from 4.0275.

Iowa's caucuses soon to put presidential derby on road

By WALTER R. MEARS

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A Republican presidential candidate is urging Iowa voters to turn out in such massive numbers that they will convert their neighborhood political meetings Jan. 21 into the equivalent of a primary election.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California has asked Democrats who don't support him for president to declare themselves uncommitted at those precinct caucuses.

The record indicates that a good many Democrats might choose that course, although not necessarily because Brown wants them to. Those are two of the quirks in a presidential contest that is not quite an election.

Iowa's competition will, by the most optimistic estimates, involve no more than one out of 15 registered voters.

But it is first. A week from Monday, come blizzard or January thaw, Iowans will stage the opening contest of the 1980 presidential campaign at Democratic and Republican meetings in 2,531 precincts. Some of those caucuses will draw scores of people; some will draw only a handful.

But all of them will count — at least on the Democratic side — and for the first time it will be possible to score officially the competition among President Carter, Sen. Edward M.

Kennedy and Brown. The Republican caucuses, which will test Ronald Reagan and the half-dozen candidates trying to catch him in the race for the GOP nomination, are not binding. The results will be only a straw poll of Republican sentiment.

Were they held in March, after the primary election season has begun, the Iowa caucuses would be no more than a sideshow, worth the attention of a few campaign lieutenants, but nothing for the generals to worry about.

The calendar magnifies the competition here, a fact not lost on the Iowa Legislature, which has written into a law a requirement that the caucuses be held at least two weeks before the first primary election of the camaign year. "No place in the United States will you find more leverage residing in the hands of the citizens of a single state than you do in the State of Iowa," said Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., one of the Republican contestants. "Far more than in 1976, the people of Iowa will have a profound impact on the choice of the next president of the United States because it is here where the early momentum will be developed, where the sorting-out process will begin in both parties."

Actually, Iowa had plenty of clout in 1976, as the state where Jimmy Carter's campaign took off and came to national notice. Carter didn't really win in Iowa in 1976; he ran second to the uncommitted vote of Democrats who weren't ready to pledge themselves to any candidate. But he did beat all the other candidates in what was then a crowded Democratic field.

"If we had not gotten the attention that focused on us this early, in 1975 and 1976, Jimmy would probably not be president now," said Rosalynn Carter, in town to campaign for her husband's renomination.

Republican candidates paid little attention to the Iowa contest last time, but they are paying plenty now. Indeed, neither party ever has seen the kind of campaigning, advertising and canvassing the candidates are staging in the race for 1980 caucus votes.

"It is important and indeed it is vital that the outpouring of participants in the Iowa caucuses on Jan. 21 be so large that it becomes the functional equivalent of a primary," Baker said.

No one thinks that will happen, but officials of both parties believe the intense campaigning will lead to turnout substantially larger than last time. Even so, the voters who participate will represent a small fraction of the Iowa electorate.

Democrats guess their caucuses may draw 50,000 to 60,000 participants this time, up from 38,000 in 1976. Carter won the support of 28 percent of the Democrats who showed up for the 1976 caucuses.

The low-key Republican competition last time drew 22,000 participants. Republicans think as many as 40,000 people may take part in the 1980 caucuses.

Valley Forge battle raging

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — There was never an actual battle in these rolling hills, where George Washington and his army spent the grueling winter of 1778. But today a fight rages in the national park commemorating Washington's stay.

The Washington Memorial Chapel, an Episcopal Church and patriotic shrine, is trying to evict the Valley Forge Historical Society and its museum and gift shop, which have shared the chapel since 1918.

"They (the congregation) are trying to make it all a church," said Meade Jones, who heads the historical society.

The chapel's rector, the Rev. Shelton Smith, and his congregation of about 500 contend they need more space for a growing membership. They say the society museum's collection of artifacts largely duplicates displays set up in recent years by the National Park Service.

Negotiations by both sides have been fruitless.

The church has offered to build the society a "basic" $75,000 building in the woods behind the memorial. Society members called it a "Quonset hut down by the men's privy."

Legislature goes back to school

By TERRY GOGGIN

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Workmen have been scrambling for months to prepare the deserted red brick building in downtown Jackson for the thousands who will meet in its rooms and huddle in conferences in its halls. The Mississippi Legislature is going back to school.

When the gavels bang Tuesday for the opening of the 1980 session, the old Central High School will be the focus of Mississippi's government. Lawmakers will occupy the building for three years as the capitol one block away undergoes a $11.2 million restoration to its 1903 grandeur.

Bill Gartin, secretary of the Senate, said some former Central students are now legislators or capitol employees — and have found their new quarters unsettling.

"Some of them remark in jest that they feel like they're going back to school," Gartin said. "It's along the lines of having an eerie feeling, like they're being sent to the principal's office."

The 122 members of the House will meet in the school auditorium. Upstairs, the 52 senators will conduct business in what used to be the library and adjacent rooms.

The Legislature purchased the school for $1.2 million, and spent another $1.2 million to remodel it. Paint cans and office furniture littered the halls as the deadline neared, but legislature officials said almost everything would be in working order for the opening day of the four-month session.

"We don't anticipate problems other than people walking over each other," said Bud Thigpen, director of the House Management Committee.

The unfinished business includes the building's only elevator, which has not yet arrived to fill the waiting shaft.

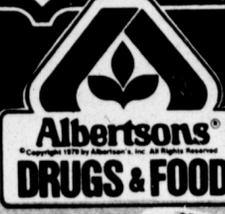

Because the school is on the National Register of Historic Places, architects were under strict guidelines on what exterior changes they could make. The new elevator shaft protrudes into one of two courtyards.

"I'm pleased with the way it turned out," Thigpen said. "But it might not look too good to the man off the street."

Renovation didn't include central air conditioning, so small fans have been installed in the walls to cool interior offices that lack windows.

But the school, which closed less than five years ago as its constituents moved to the suburbs, was in reasonably good shape, needing little more than lighting, sound systems, rearranged walls and a level floor in the auditorium for legislators' desks.

Merited recognition

Congratulations and all best wishes are in order for Sam E. Hilburn of Midland, who recently assumed the high office of Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Texas, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons.

In this most important position, Sam Hilburn heads the thousands of Masons who are enrolled as members of the hundreds of Masonic Lodges across the Lone Star State.

It was most fitting that the Worshipful Grand Master was honored by hundreds of Masons from the Midland vicinity and far beyond at a banquet held here Saturday night.

It was a tremendous and most successful event, honoring as it did a gentleman devoted to Masonry, who had advanced through the chairs of his home lodge and on through district, region and statewide levels to become the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

His fellow Midlanders justly are proud of Sam Hilburn and his outstanding achievements in the Masonic Order.

Hilburn also is active in affairs of Midland's St. Luke's Methodist Church and is a former chairman of its official board.

He is an independent oil operator.

His home lodge is Midland Masonic Lodge No. 623, of which he is a life member.

Here's wishing for Sam Hilburn a most rewarding and highly successful year in his Most Worshipful Grand Master position.

Investigation overdue

The Veterans Administration hasn't won any good-conduct medals for its handling of the Agent Orange controversy. And no wonder. The VA has been reluctant to investigate the suspected connection between exposure to this chemical defoliant widely used during the war in Vietnam and a variety of physical and psychological maladies reported by veterans.

According to the recently released General Accounting Office report on this subject, compiled exclusively from Pentagon records, thousands of U.S. Marines were exposed to Agent Orange during combat operations. Additional thousands of Army troops may also have been exposed but Army records were too disorganized and incomplete to permit a definitive finding.

The point is that the same records studied by the GAO have been available to the Veterans Administration for years. Yet the VA never stirred itself to examine these records to determine who might have been exposed to Agent Orange. That information would have enabled VA health investigators to contact affected veterans and begin studies to determine the effects, if any, of their exposure.

Instead, the records lay unexamined until Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., requested the GAO probe last May. It is also significant that the GAO findings contradict the Pentagon's contention that U.S. troops were always kept out of defoliated areas until the toxic chemicals dissipated, usually within four to six weeks. We know now that such was not always the case.

Sen. Percy, distrusting the VA, has asked the Department of Health and Human Services to conduct its own investigation of Agent Orange's side effects on humans. And the senator has also suggested that the VA and, or the Department of Defense notify veterans from units known to have been exposed to Agent Orange. These are appropriate suggestions.

A vigorous investigation of Agent Orange and its effects on exposed veterans is long overdue. And should this highly toxic defoliant be connected to any of the health problems reported by exposed veterans, the Veterans Administration has a clear obligation to provide whatever medical care is necessary.

A CHANGING WORLD: Malaysia fully deserves its 'bad rap'

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

KUALA TRENGGANU, Malaysia — Before departing for this troubled Southeast Asian nation, this reporter was asked to observe the handling of Vietnamese boat people in an effort to determine whether the criticism level at Malaysia in the West was fair or a "bad rap."

Three incidents in rapid order near this major east coast city on the South China Sea provide answers that come through loud and clear.

In the first, a fragile boat with 89 refugees seeking to land near here was pushed out to sea by predominantly Malay villagers with an ingrained hatred for Chinese. The result: all 89 drowned.

In the second incident, another boat with 114 refugees from Hanoi's communism, was towed out to sea at high speeds by power boats owned by local fishermen. The speed was too much for the refugee boat in heavy seas. The result: all 114 refugees drowned.

In the most recent incident, the locals behaved just a bit better. A smaller boat with 125 refugees sought to land along the coast south of here but smashed into rocks and capsized under the scrutiny of Malaysian army forces for considerable time but even as the boat capsized and 35 occupants drowned, the soldiers did nothing to help survivors struggling ashore, some carrying dead comrades. As one U.N. observer here (there are many in this area) noted, "Why didn't the soldiers go out to help the boat when it was wobbling in the rough seas?"

What all of this proves, of course, is that Malaysia has done very little to dispel the bad reputation it has developed in handling of the unfortunate boat people.

It has said flatly that few of the some 50,000 who have landed here will be accommodated on a permanent basis. It was very slow to help 38 starving Vietnamese just found, along with 10 skeletons, on one of the many uninhabited islands off the coast.

Malaysia has set up a refugee camp on Bidong Island, about 50 miles offshore. The camp is financed 50 percent by Japan (which prefers to spend money here rather than accept refugees back home) and 50 percent by the United Nations, whose funds mostly provided by the United States, Australia, Canada and West Germany.

Administration of the camp is a mess. Food, medicines, clothing and other supplies are shipped from abroad to Kuala Trengganu — and then the expected occurs. They are supposed to go by boat and barge out to Bidong, but substantial amounts never reach the refugees. Malaysia is no different than any other Southeast Asian nation, and thus, there are rip-offs, sales via the black market and other thefts of the precious cargo destined to help the refugees survive in a hostile environment.

Malaysians are quite bland consid-

ART BUCHWALD Afghanistan? Art already has too much on his plate

WASHINGTON — Rowly, the columnist who works across the hall from me, came into my office the other day and said, "What are we going to do about Afghanistan?"

I was still trying to recover from the holidays, so I told him frankly, "I'm not ready for Afghanistan. I still haven't figured out what I'm going to do in Iran."

"But Afghanistan is more serious than Iran. There are 50,000 Soviet troops there. It's the first mass movement of the Kremlin's military might since Czechoslovakia."

"I'm aware of that," I told him. "But I'm not up to dealing with Afghanistan until I find out where the hell it is."

"So you're not going to take it seriously?"

"I didn't say I wasn't going to take it seriously. I said I wasn't going to take it at all. No one told me to keep an eye on Afghanistan. I need time for these things. Give me another month and then I might tilt one way or the other."

"A month could be too late. We have to do something about it now!"

"President Carter has warned Leonid Brezhnev in the strongest terms that the United States takes the dimmest view of the Soviet troops being sent there. I should think that would take care of the matter."

"Words aren't enough. We're going to have to take some sort of action."

"I'm not ready to take any action,

Art Buchwald

Rowly. There is just so much a person in my position can do."

"Don't you realize that the invasion of Afghanistan by the Soviets is a dagger thrusting at the heart of Iran?"

"The way I feel about Iran these days, I wish someone would stab it."

"And it would change the entire balance of power in the Middle East."

"I'm not a dummy, Rowly. Everyone knows that. But I have enough on my plate right now. Carter is going to handle this one alone. I'm sure he's up to it."

"But the Russians installed their own puppet in the capital and killed their other puppet. Their intentions are to destroy the Moslems in the country and make Afghanistan a satellite of the Soviet Union. Are you going to stand by and allow this act of naked aggression?"

"Rowly, you know how I feel about naked aggression. I was one of the first people to speak out against it long before it was fashionable. I will put my record of anti-naked aggression against anyone in this country. At the same time, I have to deal with one crisis at a time. I can't spread myself too thin."

"I'm sorry you feel this way about it," he said. "I was hoping you would at least have a solution to this one — no wonder Carter says there is a malaise in the country."

"Rowly, when it comes to Afghanistan, I don't believe I'm the only one who is turning out. I've spoken to dozens of people and not one of them knows what we should do about Afghanistan. Even my own brother-in-law, who has a solution to everything, had a blank look on his face when I mentioned the coup in Kabul."

"That's it then," he said, "you're just going to sit in your office reading the comics while Afghanistan goes down the drain?"

"If you think it will do any good," I told him, "I'll ring a church bell on my way home."

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

INSIDE REPORT: Big John Connally-Strom Thurmond-Barry Goldwater axis

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Whispered advice from Sen. Barry Goldwater to Sen. Strom Thurmond that the Republican Party must nominate a "strong" and vigorous presidential candidate played a role in Thurmond's endorsement of John B. Connally in South Carolina's March 8 Republican presidential primary.

Also quietly advising Thurmond, the Southern Republican patriarch, to take a personal hand in the primary was Sen. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma. Both argued that Reagan's age (68) casts doubts on whether he could lead the West during the most critical period since World War II. In fact, Goldwater has been torpedoing his fellow-conservative's presidential ambitions for a dozen years.

Thurmond's aides were surprised when he decided to endorse Connally. Former White House aide Harry Dent, Thurmond's closest political adviser for two decades, warned Thurmond that many South Carolina Republicans felt Connally would be a heavy political load to carry in view of Reagan's popularity. But, backed by private encouragement from Goldwater, Thurmond's mind was made up.

CHANGE FOR CIA

The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan is diminishing the vengeful mood in Congress against the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), with one major change all but certain: the end of a CIA "charter" to limit the agency's freedom of action.

Another change gathering surprising support on Capitol Hill would end the absurd system that compels the CIA to clear all clandestine operations with eight congressional committees. Such widespread distribution of the agency's innermost plans and operations makes secrecy a joke.

Behind the switch is the Soviet worldwide offensive. Even anti-CIA legislators have noted that when the U.S. is accused of offending a Moslem state, retribution against American Embassies is swift. But when Moscow mounts an outright invasion of Moslem Afghanistan, not a single Soviet Embassy is seized.

The reason: Soviet agents control "the street" in such places as Tehran and Kabul, using undercover agents schooled in manipulating mobs. Since the CIA's hands were tied in 1975, the U.S. cannot compete.

TAX CUT FEVER

Despite the White House decision not to include a tax cut proposal in the budget message, the prospects for congressional passage of tax reduction in 1980 are exactly 100 percent — with a high probability that President Carter will sign the final version.

The question is not "whether," but "how big." Rep. James Jones of Oklahoma, leading the Democratic tax cut strategy, is pushing for a relatively modest $20 billion package in the House. That would not enable ordinary taxpayers even to keep up with inflation. Republicans will press for a much bigger tax cut that would tempt a Carter veto.

After much discussion within the White House, it was decided not to publicly outline the kind of bare bones, Jones-style tax bill the president prefers on grounds it might snowball into something bigger. But Democrats in Congress fear that Carter will let Republicans get ahead of him as chief tax cutter, much as he did in 1978.

RAIDING NEW YORK

While the headlines play on the Iowa caucuses and the New Hampshire primary, Republican presidential hopeful George Bush's operatives have waged an undercover campaign to steal New York's big presidential convention delegation away from front-runner Ronald Reagan.

Since New York shut out Reagan in 1976 and thereby delivered the Republican nomination to Gerald Ford, the state has been a prime target of Reagan campaign manager John Sears. He has succeeded admirably, lining up much of the party organizational leaders with more to come if Reagan wins in Iowa and New Hampshire.

But Bush political operative David Keene (a Sears aide in 1976) has been hard at work undermining Sears' labors. As a result, he has lined up key delegates both in New York City and upstate. Keene is telling Republicans elsewhere — particularly in Iowa — that some 40 percent of Reagan's New York strength has been eroded.

Mondale uses visit to announce San Antonio grant

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Carter-Mondale campaign forces very much want to impress South Texas' thousands of Mexican-American voters in 1980.

Vice President Walter Mondale didn't hurt anything Tuesday with heaps of praise for the area's ranking Hispanic political leader and the announcement of an $18.8 million federal grant earmarked for San Antonio's huge Hispanic community.

Mondale came here to keynote a fund-raising, testimonial luncheon for U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, a staunch Carter supporter.

He took the opportunity to announce what he said was one of the Carter administration's largest Urban Development Action Grants. He then praised some of Carter's economic accomplishments to the crowd of about 2,000 Gonzalez supporters.

The grant is aimed at revitalizing a predominantly Mexican-American neighborhood near downtown San Antonio. Mondale explained that the city would use the funds to buy 100 acres and lease the land to a private Hispanic developer. That would create some 1,700 new jobs, he added.

The vice president then defended the timing of the announcement after a reporter said critics might claim the incumbent administration is using such grants to secure political support.

"I refuse to be bound by a rule that says we can only announce bad news," Mondale said. "The grant has been in the process for some time. I'm absolutely certain that if those that criticize us ever get in the White House...they'll do exactly the same thing."

Mondale also said the Carter administration helped create thousands of other jobs. Since Carter took office, new jobs have been created for 38,000 San Antonians, 718,000 Texans and a total of 9,000,000 Americans, the vice president said.

He then pointed out that Carter had trimmed a $67 billion budget deficit by more than half.

Local political leaders considered Mondale's visit the informal kickoff for the Carter-Mondale campaign in South Texas. The trip was paid for by Gonzalez campaign funds.

Campaign strategists for both Carter and his chief Democratic challenger, Sen. Edward Kennedy, say they consider South Texas's Hispanic vote to be crucial in 1980 — as it proved to be in 1976.

Gonzalez has been a Democratic congressman and political leader of this predominantly Mexican-American city for 19 years. He faces only token Socialist Workers Party opposition in 1980.

Gonzalez had invited Carter to the luncheon, but the president has refused to campaign outside Washington during the crises in Iran and Afghanistan.

Mondale harshly condemned Iran for holding American hostages and the Soviet Union for its "brutal invasion" of Afghanistan.

"We demand and we expect the return of those hostages unharmed, now," he said.

Carter's Iowa campaign carried on by 'surrogates'

By ANN BLACKMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Carter tends his campaign fires from Washington, his friends and members of his family, White House staff and Cabinet are burning up the campaign trail in such places as Storm Lake, Guthrie Center and Ankeny.

With Iowa's Democratic caucuses less than two weeks away, the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee is concentrating its efforts on the state where Carter scored his first real victories in his 1976 presidential bid.

This time around, Iowa is the scene of the first real contest between Carter and his Democratic challengers, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

From official Washington, White House press secretary Jody Powell attended a fund-raiser in Ames last month. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland arrived in the state Tuesday for four days of receptions for farmers in Storm Lake, LeMars, Atlantic and Council Bluffs. Education Secretary Shirley M. Hufstetler plans to campaign with first lady Rosalynn Carter in Des Moines next week. And Labor Secretary Ray Marshall is scheduled for appearances Jan. 14 and 15.

The president's mother, "Miss Lillian," son Chip and sister Ruth Carter Stapleton also are out in force.

Rosalynn will be the main drawing card for receptions in such places as Jefferson, Urbandale, Ankeny and College Chapel this week.

Chip was the star at a luncheon Tuesday in Logan and planned to meet with civic leaders Wednesday at Perry High School.

Ruth Stapleton; Joan Mondale, wife of Vice President Walter F. Mondale; and Muriel Humphrey, wife of the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, join Rosalynn this week for a series of coffees in Sioux City, Guthrie Center and Perry.

The main goals of the Carter-Mondale team are to pick up delegates and hold onto the title of front-runner, which Carter wrested from Kennedy last month.

Ironically, Carter surged ahead of Kennedy in the polls not by visiting Iowa but by staying home to keep watch on the Iran crisis.

And the Carter team can hardly conceal its glee that their man, criticized for months as lacking in leadership, is finally being perceived as "presidential."

Not surprisingly, Kennedy backers are fuming that while Cabinet secretaries are off campaigning, taxpayers are paying their salaries.

Two weeks ago, Kennedy supporters charged in a lawsuit that Carter's aides are trying to buy his renomination with federal money. The federal court suit seeks injunctions against the alleged misuse of money and asks that the government be reimbursed for salaries and expenses of federal officials allegedly doing campaign work.

Tim Smith, legal counsel to the Carter-Mondale committee, said this week he is confident that "if history is a guide, the case will be dismissed."

"It's a traditional form of litigation brought by challengers to the incumbents," he said. "Its aim is harassment, and in that, they're partially succeeding."

An example of such complaints in the past was one against President Gerald R. Ford in 1976, and one of those who signed it was then-Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss, who is now chairman of Carter's re-election campaign.

Carter's campaign press secretary, Linda Peek, said the committee reimburses the government for travel expenses when federal officials campaign but that salaries for Cabinet secretaries are neither reimbursed to the government nor doctored.

Cabinet secretaries earn $69,630 a year and do not accrue leave or vacation time.

"They may be exempt from leave, but that doesn't mean they can't get away on...an occasional non-government business trip," said a committee source who requested anonymity.

The source added that taxpayers could only complain "if someone totally neglected the department and didn't put in a helluva lot of time in the official position — and that's hardly been the case."

Even those who monitor campaign laws for the government concede that it's difficult to distinguish between official business and politics.

"There's a fine line drawn between official government business and diverting into the political arena," said Federal Election Commission spokesman Fred Eiland. "If someone has official business, as far as the FEC is concerned, time engaged in politics has to be reimbursed."

"But," he added, "it's a matter of judgment."

Chicago's school employees to be paid, council decides

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's public school employees are getting paid in full.

On a unanimous vote, the 46 members of the city council on Tuesday approved a $50 million plan to pay the 48,600 teachers and other employees, who missed two paychecks as the school system searched for cash.

Under the plan, worked out in weekend meetings among bank, school and government officials, the city will borrow half the $50 million from banks and the other half from labor unions, then use it to buy notes from the school system. The system has been unable to borrow money since its credit rating dropped in November.

The school board missed $41.5 million payrolls Dec. 21 and Friday. The employees got one set of checks Monday, after the state loaned the school system $50 million. The second set of checks was to be issued today.

However, a number of aldermen said they were frustrated by a lack of information and assurances from the school board.

"We don't have the vaguest idea of why we're doing this except that if we don't, we know the teachers won't be paid," said Alderman Martin Oberman. "We are forced to give money to the very people who mismanaged the board in the past."

Meanwhile, lawmakers convened in Springfield today to consider measures which would allow the city to sell $225 million of tax anticipation warrants — notes backed by expected tax revenue. To provide the tax backing, the Board of Education's tax levy would be cut and the city's increased.

Money generated by those steps would enable the school system to operate past Jan. 18, when the next regular payroll is due.

The Legislature will also consider bills putting tax funds in an escrow to retire long-term bonds and creating a financial control board, with taxing powers, to oversee school spending.

Organizers of the plan say the school system could sink into trouble again if snags develop in the progression of the plan. One potential stumbling block is a likely court test of the legality of a financial control board. Such a suit would probably be taken immediately to the Illinois Supreme Court, and the organizers of the plan say a ruling would be needed quickly.

Once created, the financial control board could sell long-term bonds which would provide operating funds for the schools beyond April.

At least three persons die as storm rocks Hawaii with strong wind, rain

HONOLULU (AP) — At least three persons died when strong winds and heavy rains lashed the Hawaiian Islands, damaging some homes and disrupting electrical service and communications.

Some flights were canceled at Honolulu International Airport and Honolulu harbor was closed Tuesday because of heavy rains and high tides, authorities said.

Two men died in the crash of a light plane in the stormy weather, and an electrician was killed while working on a broken line at a transformer, police said.

One of the hardest hit areas was Pacific Palisades outside Honolulu, where about 45 homes and a dozen cars were damaged by strong winds, police said.

The plane crash occurred at Koko Head, a 642-foot mountain on the edge of Honolulu, authorities said. The plane had left the airport here with a cargo of newspapers and bread for the island of Molokai. Because of heavy rains and wind, the pilot had turned back to Honolulu when the plane smashed into the side of the ocean-side mountain.

On the island of Oahu, more than 100,000 homes and business places were without electrical power for several periods during the day, including much of Honolulu.

Grain futures market again open with new support prices

CHICAGO (AP) -- Trading on the nation's grain futures markets is resuming today following President Carter's decision to raise grain support prices in an effort to help farmers hurt when the government cut exports to the Soviet Union.

Carter's decision, announced Tuesday, was an effort to soften the decline in prices that was expected as trading resumed at commodity exchanges in Chicago, Kansas City and Minneapolis.

The action raised support levels for wheat and corn but left them well below the market prices that prevailed Friday, the last day futures markets were open.

The administration also acted to encourage more farmers to withdraw their crops from the market, by raising the price formula for its grain reserve program.

Carter's decision to halt shipment of 17 million metric tons of grain to the Soviet Union to show disapproval of Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan roused fears of plummeting crop prices. Some analysts estimated farm income would decline by $4 billion.

But the boost in crop support levels, coupled with government purchases of grains, is expected to restore at least half that income, and possibly more. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Ben Williams put the cost to the taxpayer at $2.5 billion to $3 billion.

The embargo had other, widespread effects. While grain futures markets were closed Monday and Tuesday, those for cattle were open.

Prices of most cattle futures dropped, reflecting a widespread conviction that grain needed to feed cows will cost less in coming months.

The suspension of trading affected only futures markets, where contracts for delivery of commodities at a specific price and time are bought and sold. But cash transactions quickly dried up because futures markets are relied upon to set the price.

Lower grain and cattle prices could help ease the burden on American consumers, at least for a while. But they also could throw into question farmers' plans to plant another 12 million acres of wheat and corn, thereby reducing supplies in future years.

Meanwhile, on Wall Street, stock prices of major farm equipment makers have dropped, reflecting the belief that farmers with dwindling incomes will not buy new tractors.

"The impact of this partial embargo could have tremendous repercussions all over the grain pipeline from producers to export markets," said one grain trader.

Thousands of calls poured into a hotline at the U.S. Agriculture Department set up to answer questions about the government's decision to buy up nearly 14 million metric tons of corn and wheat earmarked for the Soviet Union. By mid-afternoon Tuesday, the six telephones had a backlog of 15,000 calls.

In announcing the resumption of grain trade, James M. Stone, chairman of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, said the panel is ready to intervene should market conditions make it necessary.

But for the time being, he said, "market participants have had time to assess the impact of the embargo.... On the basis of the facts before us now no necessary purpose would be served by a further suspension of trading."

Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, called the crop support increases "totally inadequate to offer farmers reasonable protection" from market price declines.

The actions boosted the price support level from $2.35 to $2.50 per bushel for wheat and from $2 to $2.10 a bushel for corn. Wheat for delivery in March was trading Friday at $4.45 a bushel and corn at $2.84 a bushel.

Farmers participating in the program are allowed to borrow up to those amounts on their crops. They can later repay the loan and sell the crops at market prices or they can default on the loan if prices are depressed, allowing the government to take the crops.

Under the reserve program, farmers participating in federal acreage programs receive government payments to store grain, thus keeping it off the market and boosting prices.

Reserve grain can be released for sale, if a farmer chooses, after prices reach a specified level. The new release price formula for wheat was raised Tuesday to $3.75 a bushel, up from $3.29. Wheat had been selling at $3.85 a bushel at the farm.

Corn's release price also was raised, from $2.50 a bushel to $2.63 a bushel. Farm prices had been averaging about $2.37.

At the Port of Sacramento Tuesday, the Russian freighter Karamzin takes on a load of corn destined for the Soviet Union. The loading has stirred interest in the California port, since President Carter has ordered a halt in future grain sales to the Russians following their invasion of Afghanistan. (AP Laserphoto)

Dawson county to stay 'dry'

By ED TODD Staff Writer

LAMESA — Voters in the Ackerly and Sparenberg areas in southeast Dawson County on Tuesday gave a resounding thumbs down to legalize beer sales in Justice of the Peace Precinct 2.

The vote was 184 against and 83 in favor. The last time this sector of Dawson County was wet was in the late 1910s when Prohibition took effect.

The defeat, 3-to-1 at Ackerly and 2-to-1 at Sparenberg, was the third "no to booze" in three tries since 1976 by the pro-wet element.

"I believe it says 'no,'" commented County Clerk Billie Bingham, who recorded the vote tally.

The Rev. Jim Ray Mosley, Ackerly's Baptist minister who led the temperance campaign to stay "dry," today said he and his followers were "very gratified about it. It took a lot of money and effort," primarily through newspaper and radio advertising and telephone calls to encourage registered voters to vote.

"Our people didn't tell them how to vote, but to go to the polls," the Rev. Mosley said.

Church-going people in the Ackerly-Sparenberg areas largely are evangelical — Methodist, Baptist, Church of Christ — and "are a group of people who are Bible oriented," he said.

The pastor said his predecessor, the Rev. Don Long of Wink, had led the fight against similar elections in the precinct in 1976.

"The support came from everywhere," he said. "It was a pretty strong show for a 'no' (beer or liquor) in Dawson County."

"We're eventually going to go down," the minister speculated, "but we're going to fight." He said the "concerned citizens" in the precinct, and not he, "need the accolades" for defeating the issue.

Israel Ybanez, leader of the pro-wet faction, could not be reached for comment.

In Ackerly, at the junction of four counties, the vote was 126 against the legalized sale and off-premise consumption of beer and 45 for. At the other voting poll at Sparenberg, the no-booze vote was 49 and yes vote was 24.

Fifty-nine percent of the precinct's 451 registered voters voiced their sentiment, noted Dawson County Judge Leslie C. Pratt. The precinct covered about a fifth of the county.

Only absentee balloting favored beer sales: 14 to 9.

Similar issues were twice defeated in 1976. Before that, in 1934, a countywide wet-dry election turned out in favor of the teetotalers. The county has been dry since World War I.

In April 1976, voters defeated the proposal by 179 to 118. And in the following December, the issue died 162 to 101.

Each "go wet" proposition was defeated by 61 votes in 1976.

Tuesday's election was called by the Dawson County Commissioner's Court for Justice of the Peace Precinct 2 after the court was presented a petition by Ybanez. The petition bore 90 names, including 70 names which were valid according to the voter registration list.

The closest "wet" towns to Lamesa, Ackerly and Sparenberg are Big Spring, Midland, Odessa and Lubbock. Nearest to Lamesa is Big Spring, which is about 40 miles away.

Storm drops 30 inches of ice, snow

By The Associated Press

A Pacific storm lashed northern Oregon with snow and freezing rain today, closing all Portland schools, stranding motorists and leaving at least 26,000 homes without electricity.

The storm also shrouded Washington with up to 30 inches of snow and ice.

Hardest hit was the east Portland area, in the foothills of the Cascade Mountains.

Interstate 80N through the Columbia Gorge to eastern Oregon was closed, and many motorists were stranded in the community of Hood River, covered with about 4 feet of snow. A group of motorists at Mult Nomah Falls State Park along the highway were rescued by deputies in snowplows.

While the Portland area was nearly paralyzed by ice in the downtown and snow in the east, Salem, 50 miles to the south, reported only rain.

The snow, which came in the second major storm of the winter, began falling Monday, and continued today. Weather service officials predicted another cold front was headed for the coast with snow and freezing rain.

Hazardous road conditions were responsible for at least one traffic death in Washington, and officials said one woman was raped when she stopped to help a snow-bound motorist.

Women hopeful over approval of nation's first test-tube baby project

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — In Rhode Island, Linda Grimes was overjoyed. Sarah Smith of Virginia Beach cried with happiness. Both are hoping to bear test-tube babies now that the nation's first such laboratory has been given a green light by Virginia health officials.

Mrs. Grimes and Mrs. Smith are among seven women who have undergone initial testing for the project, which was approved Tuesday by state Health Commissioner James Kenley.

The president of the Tidewater chapter of the Virginia Society for Human Life, a right-to-life group, promised to fight the project in court, although state officials of the society said its board of directors had not decided yet on such action.

Although ethical and moral objections have been raised to the procedure — technically known as in-vitro fertilization — Kenley said he based his decision solely on legal guidelines for establishment of a new medical service.

The health commissioner said he had decided, after five months of hearings and studies by state and local health agencies, that the $25,000 laboratory at Norfolk General Hospital would violate no state or federal law. The laboratory will be sponsored by Eastern Virginia Medical School.

Kenley refused to comment on his decision, but his letter to hospital and medical school officials said he expected the lab to help not only Virginians but "other Americans as well."

"We're ready to go ahead now," said a happy Dr. Jack Rary, chief of the genetics laboratory at the medical school. "The only thing we need to do now is get the laboratory completed in the hospital."

Those most elated with the news, however, were women who see the project as their only hope of bearing children.

"I'm just overjoyed," said Mrs. Grimes, 33, of East Providence, R.I., adding that she plans to leave for Virginia in about two weeks.

"It seems to me that it's almost a constitutional right that anyone who wants to do this be allowed to."

Bob Smith of Virginia Beach said his wife Sarah, 33, cried at the news. "It sent chills up and down my spine," Smith said.

Opposition to the project has upset him and his wife, he said. "We're just hoping everything can proceed smoothly from now on."

But Charles P. Dean Jr., president of the Tidewater chapter of the Virginia Society for Human Life, promised action to stop the project.

"There is a lot of pressure against it. And a lot more is mounting," he said. "This isn't the end of it."

Dr. Mason C. Andrews, chairman of the medical school's obstetrics and gynecology department, said doctors hoped to attempt the first pregnancy in March.

The program should be able to accommodate about 50 women a year, he said, adding that the doctors have received about 2,500 applications since the project was first announced in November 1978, a few months after the first test-tube baby was born in England.

The procedure is only for women who are infertile because of blocked or damaged Fallopian tubes. Under the process, an egg is removed from the woman, fertilized in the laboratory with the husband's sperm and reimplanted in the woman's womb.

New ERA strategy is suggested to Carter for ratification assist

Chi Omega sorority alumnae chapter in Midland hosted a party for local college actives, pledges and their mothers. From the left are Kathleen Gilles, pledge, North Texas State University; Ashley Hulsey, pledge, University of North Carolina; Beth Welton, pledge, Southwest Texas

State University; and Susan Tighe, the University of Texas at Austin. The event was held in the home of Miss Tighe's mother, Mrs. Charles Tighe, 1509 Princeton St. (Staff Photo)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is being advised to make a major speech on the proposed Equal Rights Amendment as part of a new high-profile campaign to increase the administration's role in the ratification drive.

The President's Advisory Committee for Women, in a report being delivered officially to Carter today, also suggests that the administration use influential go-betweens in states that have not ratified the amendment to pressure state legislators to vote for it.

In addition, the group wants no administration official to travel to an unratified state without speaking about the ERA, which would outlaw discrimination based on sex.

In essence, the committee is asking the White House to begin a ratification drive similar in scope to its past effort to win support for the strategic arms limitation treaty.

The administration's campaign for SALT II, since shelved because of Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, was an all-out effort. Carter mentioned the treaty in practically every speech, and a different group of business and community leaders was invited to the White House each week for a SALT briefing that ended with a request for them to go out and lobby.

The advisory committee, which Carter appointed to counsel him on women's affairs, recommends that ERA be given such a high priority that "every time you open your mouth to say hello something also comes out about the ERA," according to Suone Cotner, executive director of ERAmerica.

Carter, who asked for the report when he met with the committee in October, has shown a willingness to work harder for ratification of the ERA since some women's groups and a political opponent, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, have criticized his handling of the issue.

The National Organization for Women announced last month that it would not endorse Carter for re-election, partially because he has not paid enough attention to the ERA.

If Carter accepts the recommendations in the report, it will signal a tactical switch from working with women's groups in the ratification effort to taking a leadership role.

The ERA has been approved by 35 states, but five have since rescinded their approval. The validity of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide. For a proposed amendment to become part of the Constitution, 38 states must approve it. Under an extension passed by Congress, the ratification effort has 2½ years left.

Carter has said flatly that "in 1980, we are going to ratify the ERA." Others say that may be too optimistic.

"If I were being very candid, I would put more hopes on 1981," Lynda Johnson Robb, chairwoman of the committee, said Monday.

The report outlines what the president, his Cabinet and his family can do in each unratified state, according to Ann Ramsey of Boston, a member of the committee.

"He told us in October that he would do whatever we asked," said Ms. Ramsey.

Eastern Star hosts School of Instruction in Andrews

ANDREWS — Midland and other chapters in Section 8 of the Order of the Eastern Star will host a School of Instruction Thursday at the Andrews Masonic Lodge, 301 NE Second St., beginning at 8:45 a.m.

Activities for the workshop, "Happiness is a Smile Given," will begin with a "Miles of Smiles" salad supper at 7 p.m. today in the Andrews County Civic Center.

The session will be opened Thursday by Billie Glover of Andrews, Deputy Grand Matron, District 2, Section 8, who will invite the 15 participating chapters of the section to enter.

Kathy Johnston, Worthy Grand Matron, Grand Chapter of Texas, of Farmer's Branch will be in charge of the school. She will instruct in areas of ritual, constitution, laws and legal code given by Gladys Jarred, District Deputy Grand Matron of Pampa.

Beulah Speer of Abernathy, Grand Examiner of District 2, will give examinations for proficiency certificates during the day.

A banquet with the theme, "Happiness is a Smile Shared," will precede a fraternal visit of the Worthy Grand Matron and honoring the Worthy Grand Patron of Texas, Leslie G. Burnett of Beaumont.

Members and guests from throughout the state are planning to attend. Section 8 chapters hosting the event are located in Midland, Andrews, Big Spring, Coahoma, Crane, Garden City, Goldsmith, Lamesa, Odessa, Seminole and Stanton.

Aid given to children

ANSONIA, Conn. (AP) — New neighbors of five Florida children orphaned by a holiday-season highway crash have come to the youngsters' aid with nearly $2,500 in donations.

Donations began coming in soon after news accounts told of relatives' problems in getting the Hartman children to Connecticut.

Their parents, William and Lydia Hartman, died in a crash Dec. 26 as they were driving home from work.

Now living with their grandmother and step-grandfather, Anna, 12, William, 7, Jennifer, 6, and Edward, 5, have entered schools here. Donna, 3, has not yet started school.

"The response to our appeal is overwhelming," said Police Chief Paul E. Schumacher Jr., who has headed the fund-raising drive.

Unwed mother receives New Year's baby prizes

LITCHFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An unwed mother was awarded the prizes in the annual New Year's baby derby after the infant's father came forward. And the editor of the town's newspaper says he hopes the issue is closed.

Dave Jackson, managing editor of the Litchfield News-Herald, said $200 worth of clothing, gift certificates and meals were awarded Monday to 17-year-old Theresa Cooper.

Miss Cooper gave birth to Michelle Marie, at 11:47 a.m. New Year's Day, making the baby the first delivered in the area in 1980.

But a furor erupted when word got out the prizes wouldn't be awarded because the mother was unmarried. The high school senior and the baby's father, Robert Parks, 20, said they would come forward and demand the prizes if they weren't offered.

Jackson said the paper's initial stand on the matter drew national attention. The switchboard at the paper in the Southern Illinois city of 7,200 was flooded with phone calls from "reporters as far away as the East Coast and the major networks," Jackson said.

The paper's announcement of the probable winner was delayed, he added, because "The hospital doesn't release announcements of births with one parent named." He said the paper reviewed its initial stand and decided to award the prizes if the father came forward.

Parks and Miss Cooper did so on Monday, Jackson said. The couple has another child, 15-month-old Jason. Jackson said Parks, a painter, told him the couple plans to be married "when Theresa finishes high school."

Jackson said the rules of the baby contest, which the newspaper has sponsored for 46 years, might be changed in the future, "to avoid something like this again."

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In response to JERI OUT WEST, who wondered how many couples who really love each other sleep apart: We've been married for 34 years, and for the last 17 years we have had twin beds. There is nothing like it for comfort and total relaxation. We're able to turn every which way without worrying about kicking one another, or breathing in each others' faces.

He likes the blankets on. I like them off. If he has a cold, he can keep the cold germs in his own bed. And when it comes to intimacy, we manage nicely. One twin bed is big enough for both of us. — I LOVE MY HUSBAND ALHAMBRA

DEAR ABBY: What has sleeping got to do with lovemaking? Nothing whatsoever! If I didn't get my rest I would be a lousy lover. That's why the little woman and I sleep in separate bedrooms. She snores up a storm. — ARTHUR IN ARIZONA

DEAR ABBY: Sleeping apart is really great. I meet a lot of new girls that way.

My wife stays on her side of town, and I stay in the other 95 percent of town! — LARRY IN COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I'm 33 and my husband is 35. He's always been a very restless sleeper, and gets up several times during the night to make notes or read. (He says he gets his best thinking done at night.) The only way I can get any sleep is to sleep in another room, which I do.

Believe me, it hasn't hurt our love life. Our children are 10, 7, 6, 4, 2 and another is on the way! — SLEEPS APART BUT GETS TOGETHER

DEAR ABBY: We've been married for 37 and love each other. For years we slept together — or, I should say, tried to sleep together. He's a big man who sleeps spread-eagled. He also snores like a sawmill. I wanted to sleep next to him because I enjoyed the closeness and pillow talk and, naturally, the lovemaking, but once he fell asleep he assumed the spread-eagle position and started to snore. I would poke him in the ribs to make him turn over, which disturbed HIS sleep. This went on for years until I decided to move into another bedroom — the smartest move I ever made. — CATHY OUT WEST

Every morning about 4:40 or 5 a.m. my wife comes into my bedroom and crawls into bed with me. We do our cuddling and lovemaking for about an hour and then she goes back to her own bedroom. — NO NAMES IN FLORIDA

DEAR ABBY: Thank heavens for Jeri's letter. I thought I was the only person who can't sleep in the same bed with someone else. When my wife and I are houseguests, and the guest room has a double bed, I take my pillow and sleep on the floor.

My wife sleeps diagonally across the bed, changes positions every five minutes, hogs the blanket and kicks like a kangaroo.

I love her but I just can't sleep with her. No name, please, as I am well-known in town. — "THE JUDGE"

DEAR ABBY: JERI OUT WEST should buy a king-sized bed. She'll never know there's anybody else in the same bed.

I married an athletic sleeper. I used to spend my nights getting out one side and walking around the bed to get in the other side. I hardly ever got a good night's sleep. Seven years ago I discovered the king-sized bed, and am sorry I didn't discover it 28 years sooner. — MRS. A.: ARCADIA, FLA.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, January 10, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Ray Bolger, who shares today's birthday with you, is another prime example of Capricorn longevity and success. He'll continue his high energy level this year and so will you. You may have to put up with frustration at work, but personal joys and achievements will more than compensate. Romance is more exciting than in recent past. Family relationships are highlighted. Some positive factors may develop in financial picture mid-year.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be patient and you will move ahead. Tough decisions may be in order. Spending has to be put on realistic basis or savings could be jeopardized.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Developing new contacts is top priority, career-wise. A very attractive individual will intrude on your thoughts, making it difficult to concentrate at times.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expect an active day and deal with problems and roadblocks one at a time. Holiday bills could be much higher than you remembered when you put credit card to work.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Seek companionship of cheerful friend. If an older person is prying into your life, act swiftly to stop further intrusion. Evening brings good news.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Careful approach to work pays off. A new love may argue or, if already married, difficulties may trigger impulsive action. Either way, keep a cool head.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stick to routine more. Beat boredom by lurching with fun-loving friend. Do not be offended by constructive criticism. Advance career by letting go of losing proposition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Stroke of luck at midday makes business advances possible. Take responsibilities seriously—your boss will be impressed. One-to-one conversation with old friend gives you new outlook.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Ability to act under pressure is highlighted. Take the lead in business situations—you benefit, so will others. Program spending so that luxuries, as well as essentials, may be allowed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A good day for handling domestic problems. Reorganization at work can bring new responsibilities. Spend money on wardrobe to advance career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Use tact with superiors to overcome personality differences. Your surplus of energy will impress a younger person. Love blossoms in late evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Focus attention on work—personal effort impresses influential person. Use caution in accepting and giving advice in afternoon and early evening. Make use of leadership today.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Seek advice of former teacher, business associate who has your best interests at heart. Phone conversation is illuminating. Mystery and allure surround romance.

Grain embargo 'a useless move'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — President Carter's proxy campaigners are defending his Soviet grain embargo in Iowa corn country, where rival candidates for the White House call it a useless move that will only penalize the farmer.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland acknowledged the president's move will make Carter's lot more difficult in Iowa, where Democrats declare their presidential preferences in precinct caucuses Jan. 21.

With a bumper corn crop overflowing Iowa grain elevators, the partial embargo Carter ordered in retaliation for the Soviet move into Afghanistan is becoming a dominant issue in the campaign.

"Why is it that we lurch from crisis to crisis?" Sen. Edward M. Kennedy asked, campaigning Tuesday in Ames. "And why is our response a grain embargo that will be a heavy burden on the farmers of Iowa, a heavy burden on the taxpayers of this nation and will not, I believe, discourage Soviet expansionism in Afghanistan?"

Kennedy told a farm audience in Perry that as president "I would not embargo grain." He later modified that to say that he does not believe grain exports should be embargoed in peacetime.

The Massachusetts senator also suggested that Carter had reneged on a 1976 campaign commitment not to impose grain embargoes. "When I've made a commitment, I've kept it," Kennedy said.

First lady Rosalynn Carter, urging Iowans to unite behind her husband, said the president had not gone back on his word. She said Carter had promised not to impose an embargo for economic reasons but had reserved that possibility if national security demanded it.

Bergland, who began his campaign mission as Mrs. Carter ended hers, noted that the programs under which the government will buy up to $2.25 billion of the grain means that all American taxpayers will share the cost of the embargo against Russia.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was due in Iowa on Thursday to spend three days campaigning for the president, who has said he cannot leave Washington because of the crises over Afghanistan and the captivity of 50 American hostages in Iran.

Those crises dominate the campaign in Iowa and in New Hampshire, where the first state primary election of 1980 will be held Feb. 26.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., facing Carter and Kennedy in both Democratic tests, called for an immediate congressional investigation into how the United States got into the hostage situation, which began when Iranian militants invaded the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4.

Brown emerged from a State Department briefing in Washington to say that his questions had not been answered and to demand an inquiry that he said would "disclose...the responsibility of Jimmy Carter."

Campaigning in Iowa, Brown has been saying that the president should have withdrawn U.S. diplomats from Tehran before admitting the deposed shah to the United States for medical treatment.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said it would be up to Congress to decide whether such an investigation should be launched.

In Nashua, N.H., Republican Ronald Reagan said Carter did not respond swiftly enough to the seizure of the hostages. "All of the things our government has done during the past three months should have been started in the first 24 hours," he said.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., one of a half dozen Republicans trying to overtake Reagan in the race for the GOP nomination, said in Concord, N.H., that he had no criticism of Carter for admitting the shah — and added that in the same situation, he would admit Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. "I feel a human and compassionate concern for anyone who requires medical treatment," the Tennessee senator said.

Republican John B. Connally, who first accepted and then denounced the embargo, said in Council Bluffs that the embargoed grain might be sold in other markets with a U.S. push for overseas sales.

Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan makes a point Tuesday during an address to the Southern New Hampshire Association of Commerce and Industry in Nashua, N.H. The former California governor criticized President Carter for not acting soon enough against Iran following the taking of American hostages. (AP Laserphoto)

Reagan supporters to discuss Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A group of officials of the Ronald Reagan campaign will hold a series of news conferences Thursday and Friday to announce Reagan's key organization in Texas, Ernest Angelo, Midland, state chairman, said Tuesday.

The group will be in Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio on Thursday and in Beaumont, Tyler and Longview on Friday.

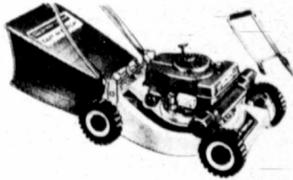

Angelo said those accompanying him on the trip would be Andy Carter, national director of field operations for Reagan; Rick Shelby, regional political director of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas; and Steve Dougherty, executive director of the Texas Reagan for President Committee.

UAW leaders vote to help Chrysler

ROMULUS, Mich. (AP) — The survival of Chrysler Corp. is now up to its workers as well as its banks.

The Chrysler Council of the United Auto Workers on Tuesday endorsed contract reductions that, with earlier concessions, amount to a three-year forfeiture of $4,500 per worker, most of it in reduced time off.

Only five of the 256 delegates present opposed the recommendation to ratify the new contract, according to UAW President Douglas Fraser.

Fraser said he had expected more dissent and was "very optimistic" that workers would ratify the agreement. But, he added, "You can't rest on your oars yet."

The council is made up of officers from 93 locals embracing 184 bargaining units in 65 cities. Canadian representatives were absent, having declined earlier to share the new concessions.

Chrysler, the 10th largest industrial corporation in the United States and employer of 110,000 UAW members, is trying to arrange loans under $1.5 billion in guarantees signed Monday by President Carter. The company expects to report a loss of $1 billion for 1979.

As a requirement for the guarantees, Congress made Chrysler's union workers give $462.5 million in contract concessions. The UAW share is $446 million, of which $203 million was given already.

About 90 percent of the additional benefit to the company comes from the elimination of 17 paid days off scheduled for 1981 and 1982 under the contract approved in October. The rest comes from delaying wage increases and dropping a pre-Christmas bonus.

The union is mailing a letter to all Chrysler members, something it had not done in last fall's ratifications at any of the auto companies, saying its signers "strongly urge you to exercise your democratic right to vote on the agreement."

The letter was signed by Fraser; Mark Stepp, vice president for Chrysler matters; and Joe Zappa, chairman of the negotiating committee.

The letter said that had the union "any option other than to make these concessions, your negotiating committee would have refused."

"We cannot assure that Chrysler will return to health in the future with absolute certainty," it said. "We can be certain, though, that unless the modified contracts are ratified, Chrysler will be gone and so will Chrysler workers' jobs."

United Auto Workers' President Douglas A. Fraser gestures while explaining the union's endorsement of a contract summoning workers to give up $4,500 each, most of it in time off, to help reflate struggling Chrysler Corp. UAW Vice President Marc Stepp looks on. A total of 256 delegates from 93 unions in 65 cities attended the meeting in Detroit. (AP Laserphoto)

Whoops: $3 million sent to Michiganders by mistake

DETROIT (AP) — About $3 million in federal funds aimed at helping low-income Michigan residents pay winter heating costs has been sent to people who don't pay heating bills, state and federal officials say.

State figures show that nearly 15 percent of those who received the $177 checks live in adult foster care facilities or homes for the aged. Under both arrangements, residents pay no extra charge for heating bills.

State and federal officials said owners of the homes cannot force residents to turn over the money from the energy assistance check.

The checks are part of the $1.35 billion federal program passed by Congress last November to help low-income people meet rising energy costs.

Officials said a total of $19.7 million was sent to 112,000 Michigan residents who receive Supplemental Security Income benefits under the Social Security Administration. They said checks were in the amount of $177 per recipient.

State figures show 14,031 Michigan SSI recipients live in adult foster care homes, while 2,819 live in homes for the aged. Under both living arrangements, room and board is covered in the resident's monthly SSI check and there is no extra charge for heating bills.

In Michigan, energy assistance checks were sent to all SSI recipients except those in nursing homes.

"This is a huge boo-boo on the part of the federal government," said Joyce Sylvester, who runs a home for 13 mentally handicapped men in Antrim County.

"Those checks should be recalled by the federal government. They don't have any heating bills to pay. These checks are supposed to be for heating bills, not an allowance for them to spend on candy and pop. I don't care if I get it or not. I just don't think taxpayers ought to have to pay for this."

Robert J. Peterson, Detroit manager for the Social Security administration, said agency officials in Washington believed it would have been too costly to check which SSI recipients had fuel bills to pay.

"With the exception of those SSI recipients in nursing homes, the checks were mailed regardless of the individual's responsibility for paying utility bills. It is true that in some cases, the checks will not go to energy costs," Peterson said.

Philip Michael, the state Department of Social Services official coordinating Michigan participation in SSI, said that other SSI recipients include disabled children, rooming house and hotel residents and people living with relatives who are not responsible for their own heating bills.

The program has caused "chaos and confusion," said Robert Stein, general counsel of the statewide Association of Residential Care Facilities which represents about 2,800 adult foster care homes.

Grand jury in Big Spring indicts Californian in connection with assault

BIG SPRING — A 27-year-old California man was indicted Tuesday by a grand jury here in connection with the Dec. 3 assault of another man outside Big Spring.

A spokesman with the Sheriff's Department here said Richard A. Carriker, who listed a Los Angeles, Calif., address, was charged with aggravated robbery with serious bodily injury.

A 17-year-old, Timothy Randall Lee of Erie, Pa., was no-billed by the grand jury and released Tuesday, the spokesman added.

According to the sheriff's official, the driver of the truck picked up two hitchhikers in Abilene. When they got to Big Spring, the two hitchhikers attempted to take the pickup. But the driver fought back and allegedly was injured by the other two men.

The driver still is listed in serious condition, the spokesman added.

Ostomy group to meet Sunday

Patty Beskit, R.N., head nurse of clinical nutrition, Department of Internal Medicine of Scott & White Clinic and Hospital of Temple, will be the speaker at the January meeting of the Midland-Odessa Chapter of United Ostomy Association, Inc., at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium of Odessa's Medical Center Hospital.

Miss Beskit, a 1976 graduate of the University of Akron's College of Nursing, received a bachelor's degree in nursing and has done work toward a master's degree on allied health education. She will speak on the subject of "Diet of the Ostomy Patient."

Mrs. Ernestine Adkins of Odessa, chapter president, will preside at the meeting.

The chapter's territory is made up of the 20-county area adjacent to Midland and Ector counties.

Carter's pay group in agreement to allow larger salary increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's Pay Advisory Committee has agreed to a higher voluntary wage ceiling ranging from 7.5 percent to 9.5 percent, but several points must be resolved before the panel recommends the new standard to the president.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department's chief economist says the nation "must expect to experience a recession" this year due mainly to fast-rising oil prices. And the Federal Reserve Board reports American consumers increased their debt by $2.4 billion in November.

The voluntary pay standard currently in the president's anti-inflation program was established in 1978, when a 6 percent inflation rate was forecast, and generally allows a 7 percent pay increase.

Consumer prices rose by more than 13 percent in 1979, however.

Before formally voting on the new standard, the advisory committee must develop ways to determine which workers fall into which part of the proposed range.

The committee also agreed Tuesday, pending a final vote, that escalator clauses in wage contracts be based on an assumed 7.5 percent inflation rate, rather than the current 6 percent figure.

Commerce Department economist Courtenay M. Slater, addressing a marketing meeting Tuesday in Richmond, Va., said the nation's economy probably grew at an annual rate of 2 percent to 3 percent in the last three months of 1979.

But she said, "The forces making for recession are still with us," and predicted a 1980 downturn "moderate in its depth" and "relatively brief." The economy will begin growing before the end of 1980, she said.

One held in kidnap of girl, 2

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — A 21-year-old woman, charged with abducting a two-year-old girl from a Parker, Ariz., hotel last November, has been arrested and is being held on $50,000 bail.

The child, Lucrecia Martinez, who was found in a car in downtown Salinas Saturday, was scheduled to be flown home today by the agriculture company that employs her parents.

Eleanor Jean Campos, 21, was arrested Tuesday by FBI agents and the Salinas police and held at the Monterey County Jail. She was charged with the Nov. 27 kidnaping in a federal complaint filed in Yuma, Ariz., on Dec. 17. She is to be arraigned before a U.S. magistrate today.

U.S. woman held on drug charges

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish authorities have arrested a young American woman on drug charges less than two weeks after freeing another one on bail.

Police arrested 28-year-old Barbara Livingston of Northport, Mich., and two other women in a raid on a house in Istanbul, in which they found five ounces of heroin and 11 pounds of hashish.

Miss Livingston, Carmela Ponti of Italy and Helena Anastasia of France, were charged with selling drugs. The narcotics were found in the French woman's house, said Attila Aytok, chief of the Turkish Narcotics Department.

The three were brought to a jail in Ankara, Turkey's capital, but no date for court hearings was set.

In her defense, Miss Livingston told police she had been invited to the house to watch television and knew nothing about drugs, Aytok said.

He said a Turkish man caught with hashish in his possession in Ankara led to the capture of the women. The man pointed to a house in Istanbul, occupied by the three, as the place where he purchased the narcotics and police raided the house and discovered the drugs, Aytok said.

Aytok said Miss Ponti had once spent four months in an Italian jail on drug charges.

Loretta Dooley, 18, of Tracy, Calif. was released on bail here Dec. 27, after five months in prison awaiting trial on charges she had one-third of an ounce of hashish in her possession.

She was released on bail and returned home after a judge found there was no evidence she intended to sell the hashish.

Turkey, U.S. agree on defense

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish and American negotiators reached agreement on a new defense cooperation pact today, a Turkish Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

The contents of the agreement were not immediately known, but the conclusion of the talks indicated a major hurdle in past negotiations, the scope of U.S. military assistance to Turkey, was overcome.

The Turks had been demanding $500 million in military equipment yearly, over a period of five years, and an equal amount in economic assistance.

Informed sources said assistance to Turkey in the coming year could be up to $1 billion because of the crisis in Iran and Afghanistan.

The Turkish government today extended for 45 days a temporary arrangement under which the U.S. military installations in Turkey operate.

However, the new pact establishes long-term status for the American bases and lays down the basic principles of U.S.-Turkish defense cooperation.

Visit only nets anti-Soviet words

PEKING (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown's visit to China is producing little more than words to counter the effect of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

China has the longest border of any nation with the Soviet Union, but its deputy chief of staff, Wu Xiquan, said it plans no military action in response to the Soviet move.

Though Senior Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping told Brown their two governments should respond to the Russians in a "down to earth way," Wu said China at this time wants to isolate the Russians internationally.

What the Chinese fear most is that the Soviets will consolidate their position in Afghanistan and then move on neighboring Pakistan, a nation with which Peking maintains close ties.

The Chinese say the Kremlin plans not only to menace Pakistan but to thrust south to the Persian Gulf where it could strangle the oil routes to the Western industrialized world.

French ship saves 103 refugees

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A French freighter rescued 103 Vietnamese refugees who drifted for eight days in the South China Sea in a flimsy boat whose engine failed, a French Embassy spokesman said today. The refugees said six other ships passed before the freighter Tourville picked them up Saturday.

The French government said it would let the refugees settle in France.

Islanders try for independence

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — A tribe of 2,500 South Pacific islanders is trying to create an independent country on 2.2 square mile Ocean Island, 250 miles southwest of Tarawa.

The Banaban people, now part of the new Gilbert Island nation of Kiribati, migrated from Ocean Island in 1946. Now they want to regain control of the island, open a deep sea fishing facility and attract tourists.

Banaban leader Tebaiti Tawaka said talks with Kiribati officials would begin next month.

'Kramer vs. Kramer' leads balloting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Kramer vs. Kramer," an emotional drama of the fight between a mother and father for custody of their small son, has captured eight nominations to dominate contenders for the 37th annual Golden Globe awards.

The Hollywood Foreign Press Association awards often are a bellwether for the Academy Awards, which are announced later in the year, and early sentiment has indicated a sweep for "Kramer vs. Kramer." The nominations were announced Tuesday and the awards will be presented Jan. 26.

The Columbia picture received nominations in the categories of best dramatic film and best screenplay and was nominated for best actor, Dustin Hoffman; supporting actress, Jane Alexander and Meryl Streep; supporting actor Justin Henry (also nominated as New Star of the Year); and for its director-writer, Robert Benton.

The Golden Globes, unlike the Oscars, are divided into categories of drama and comedy-musical.

The nominations include:

—Motion picture drama: "Apocalypse Now," "The China Syndrome," "Kramer vs. Kramer," "Manhattan," "Norma Rae."

—Motion picture comedy-musical: "Being There," "Breaking Away," "Hair," "The Rose," "10."

—Actress, drama: Jill Clayburgh, "Luna"; Lisa Eichhorn, "Yanks"; Sally Field, "Norma Rae"; Jane Fonda, "China Syndrome"; Marsha Mason, "Promises in the Dark."

—Actor, drama: Dustin Hoffman, "Kramer vs. Kramer"; Jack Lemmon, "China Syndrome"; Al Pacino, "And Justice For All"; Jon Voight, "The Champ"; James Woods, "The Onion Field."

—Actress, comedy-musical: Julie Andrews, "10"; Jill Clayburgh, "Starting Over"; Marsha Mason, "Chapter Two"; Shirley MacLaine, "Being There"; Bette Midler, "The Rose."

—Actor, comedy-musical: George Hamilton, "Love at First Bite"; Dudley Moore, "10"; Burt Reynolds, "Starting Over"; Roy Scheider, "All That Jazz"; Peter Sellers, "Being There."

—Supporting actress: Jane Alexander and Meryl Streep, "Kramer vs. Kramer"; Kathleen Beller, "Promises in the Dark"; Candice Bergen, "Starting Over"; Valerie Harper, "Chapter Two."

—Supporting actor: Melvyn Douglas, "Being There"; Robert Duvall, "Apocalypse Now"; Frederic Forrest, "The Rose"; Justin Henry, "Kramer vs. Kramer"; Laurence Olivier, "A Little Romance." —Director: Hal Ashby, "Being There"; Robert Benton, "Kramer vs. Kramer"; James

Bridges, "China Syndrome"; Francis Ford Coppola, "Apocalypse Now"; Peter Yates, "Breaking Away."

Young Maverick

Ben Maverick (Charles Frank) is hired by a railroad tycoon to be the one-man Missouri & Southern Railroad poker team, and his first and only match is against an 80-year-old Indian chief who learned to play poker as a scout with the U.S. Cavalry, on "Young Maverick," airing Wednesday, Jan. 9, on CBS.

Norris McBurney, chairman of the board at M&SRR, wants to open a new route through Indian land. The Nee-Hay-Cho-Pah tribe refuses to sell him the right-of-way, but their chief offers to put up the land as his stake in the poker game. Maverick's only worry is that the game be on the up-and-up for the Indians' sake.

Oman creates conservation plan

By ELIAS ANTAR

MUSCAT, Oman (AP) — "One of the first things the sultan asked me to do was to look into the matter of the oryx," said Ralph Daly, the Sultan of Oman's adviser for the conservation of the environment.

That was back in 1974 and the start of an ambitious environmental program in this largely desert country at the south-eastern corner of the Arabian Peninsula. It is all the more unusual because, in this part of the world, rulers are more interested in oil and power politics than in the Arabian oryx, the mouse-tailed bat or the blue pansy butterfly.

Qaboos Bin Said, bearded and turbaned, rules Oman as an absolute monarch, much as do the sheiks and kings in neighboring countries. But the sultan, 39, is also a graduate of Sandhurst Military Academy in England and believes in rational development. "God has given man dominion over the other living creatures upon the earth," Qaboos wrote in a foreword to a special report by the Journal of Oman Studies. "They are a vital part of his master development plan for us. We therefore ignore them, misuse them or destroy them at our peril."

Daly and the sultan's interest in his country's environment came together in 1974, when Oman's oil-financed development boom was well under way. "The sultan called upon me to come around and I did," Daly recalls. "He wanted to know more about the flora and fauna, and he wanted to set up an office to organize them."

Daly, a Scotsman from Glasgow, is not a trained scientist. Now 55, he spent most of his life as a British political officer in former dominions and protectorates such as the Sudan and Aden. "But I've always been a bird-watcher and interested in science," Daly said.

Working on a $300,000-a-year budget, Daly has already sent two expeditions into the wilds of Oman, which cataloged insects, reptiles, mammals and flowers. He has also set up an area where about 300 tahrs, dun-colored mountain goats found only in Oman, can be protected from the Bedouins' high-powered rifles and four-wheel-drive jeeps.

Another project recorded the breeding of sea turtles on Masirah, an island off southern Oman where some 35,000 turtles are believed to exist.

Now, Daly is ready for perhaps the most significant project to date, the reintroduction of the Arabian oryx into the deserts of Oman, where the last known wild animals were wiped out in 1972. The oryx, mentioned in the Bible, is a kind of antelope with scimitar-like horns. The last known oryxes were abducted and killed by raiding parties from nearby countries in 1972. Oryxes meanwhile have been bred in Phoenix, San Diego and Los Angeles zoos, Daly said, and 12 animals will be introduced into the reserve early in 1980. It is hoped that within a year they can be released into the wild.

One of the problems Daly has to deal with is to persuade Bedouins not to kill desert animals for meat, as they have since time immemorial.

But by involving the illiterate Bedouins as gamekeepers and trackers, Daly said, this attitude is slowly changing. More important, Daly is trying to educate schoolchildren — and in some cases government ministers — on the benefits of conservation.

It could be lights out for federal building

ATLANTA (AP) — It may be lights out in the Richard Russell Federal Building if Uncle Sam doesn't pay his electric bill.

Georgia Power Co. and the General Services Administration are at odds over the proper rate the GSA should pay for electricity in the building. And a spokesman for the Georgia Public Service Commission, called in by the GSA to resolve the dispute, says the utility has threatened to cut off service to the building if the federal agency doesn't pay up. The argument has continued since last spring when the building opened and unpaid bills are piling up. Neither the GSA nor Georgia Power will say exactly how much is owed, but the utility wrote the federal agency

Aug. 17 and claimed GSA owed $194,000 for five months of electrical service. Georgia Power sources said Monday the GSA has made some payments on the bill. At issue is a cheaper rate schedule which Georgia Power uses for federal or state facilities. The rate schedule says it is applicable "to large federal, state and municipal agencies and institutions, at a single point and through a single meter, for redistribution."

Sister to receive inheritance

TRENTON, N.J., (AP) — Inheritance rights denied two young men who fatally beat their father cannot be transferred to any children they may have, a state appeals court has ruled.

Instead, the pair's trust fund money will go into an account for their sister, who was not connected with the death, a three-judge Appellate Division of Superior Court panel said Monday.

The decision was made on an appeal by executors of the estate of Stanley Nochenon of Livingston.

Court records said Nochenon's sons, Glenn and Gregg, beat their father with a cast iron aquarium leg, then hit him with a ball peen hammer during an argument.

Gregg, then 20, pleaded guilty to manslaughter charges in the 1975 slaying. Glenn, then 15, was processed as a juvenile and the records sealed.

New Jersey civil law says children cannot inherit from a parent if they were involved in a killing, making them legally dead for the purpose of inheritance. Nochenon's will provided a three-way split in his estate, giving trust funds to his sons and married daughter, Debra Cohen.

It also provided the trust funds to go to his children's offspring if the sons and daughter died before the payment dates.

A Superior Court ruled Gregg's money was forfeited to his sister, but continued Glenn's inheritance on grounds he "aided and abetted" the older brother during the fatal argument.

Diverse field nominated for Grammy Awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Doobie Brothers and Rickie Lee Jones made dazzling debuts and Donna Summer and Kenny Rogers were distinguished repeaters in the nominations for the 22nd annual Grammy Awards.

After a decade of togetherness but no Grammy nominations, the Doobie Brothers hit it big with their "Minute by Minute" album Tuesday with bids in six categories — record of the year, album of the year, best pop performance by a group and, for brother Michael McDonald, two songs of the year and a best arrangement accompanying vocalist nominations.

Miss Jones, whose debut collection of streetwise songs was released early last year, was nominated for best new artist, best female rock performance for "The Last Chance Texaco" and best female pop performance for "Chuck E.'s in Love," which also earned her a song of the year nomination.

In the most diversified performance of the day, the sultry Miss Summer — who won a Grammy last year for "Last Dance" — was nominated in three performing categories: pop, rock and rhythm and blues. Her "Bad Girls" album was nominated for album of the year and her recording of "Hot Stuff" for best disco record.

The silvery bearded Rogers, who won a Grammy two years ago for "Lucille," won heavily on "The Gambler" with nominations for record of the year, album of the year and best male country performance.

The National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences 4,500 members will vote on a staggering 336 nominees in a record 58 categories, including four new ones in rock, and one new category each for disco and jazz-fusion. The Feb. 27 awards ceremonies will be televised from Los Angeles by CBS.

The nominations in major categories:

Record of the year: "After the Love Has Gone," Earth Wind & Fire; "The Gambler," Kenny Rogers; "I Will Survive," Gloria Gaynor; "What a Fool Believes," The Doobie Brothers, and "You Don't Bring Me Flowers," Barbra Streisand and Neil Diamond. Album of the year: "Bad Girls," Donna Summer; "Breakfast in America," Supertramp; "52nd Street," Billy Joel; "The Gambler," Kenny Rogers, and "Minute by Minute," The Doobie Brothers.

Song of the year: "After the Love Has Gone," "Chuck E.'s in Love," "Honesty," "I Will Survive," "Minute by Minute," "Reunited," "She Believes in Me" and "What a Fool Believes."

Best new artist: Blues Brothers, Dire Straits, Rickie Lee Jones, The Knack and Robin Williams.

Best female pop vocal performance: "Bad Girls," Donna Summer; "Chuck E.'s in Love," Rickie Lee Jones; "Don't Cry Out Loud," Melissa Manchester; "I Will Survive," Gloria Gaynor, and "I'll Never Love This Way Again," Dionne Warwick.

Best male pop vocal performance: "Da Ya Think I'm Sexy," Rod Stewart; "52nd Street," Billy Joel; "Sad Eyes," Robert John; "She Believes in Me," Kenny Rogers, and "Up on the Roof," James Taylor.

Best pop vocal performance, group: "Breakfast in America," Supertramp; "Lonesome Loser," Little River Band; "Minute by Minute," Doobie Brothers; "Sail On," Commodores, and "You Don't Bring Me Flowers," Barbra Streisand and Neil Diamond.

Best pop instrumental performance: "An Evening of Magic," Chuck Mangione; "Manhattan" film score, Zubin Mehta and the New York Philharmonic; "Music Box Dancer," Frank Mills; "Rise," Herb Alpert, and "Theme from Superman," John Williams.

Thursday at 8 p.m. in the theatre lobby, and will be soliciting donations to finance a planned spring concert at Lincoln Center in New York City. (Staff Photo)

Weekly Nielsen ratings give CBS 'prime' slot

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS, banking once again on a strong Sunday night lineup, won the networks' weekly ratings competition and edged even closer to front-running ABC in their race for first place for the season to date.

CBS' success in the week ending Jan. 6 came with help from the pro football playoffs — or without it.

Ratings on prime-time programs are determined by the A.C. Nielsen Co., but the networks themselves figure the weekly averages.

For the most recent week, CBS and NBC included in the ratings the tail end of CBS' broadcast of the National Football Conference playoff game between Los Angeles and Tampa Bay, as well as the post-game show, while ABC choose to ignore the sports programming.

Counting the game and the post-game program, CBS had the five highest-rated shows — and the three most-watched if you take ABC's list. If the game and the post-game show aren't included, CBS' "60 Minutes" is the week's top program, followed by "Dallas" and "Alice." All but "Dallas" air Sunday night.

CBS, in any case, finished the week with a rating of 20.2 to 19.7 for runnerup NBC. ABC's rating ranged from 18.8 — CBS' figure — to 19.1 — ABC's.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.2 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

The rating for the football post-game show, No. 1 for the week with the runnerup portion of game second, was 35.5, with "60 Minutes" third at 32.5.

Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 35.5 percent saw the sports program, and 32.5 percent watched at least part of the newsmagazine.

It was CBS' third No. 1 finish in a row, and the network's sixth in the last eight weeks. NBC finished second for the first time since the week ending Nov. 25.

Both CBS and NBC maintain ABC's lead for the season so far is two-tenths of a ratings point — 19.3 to 19.1. ABC says the margin is greater, 19.4 to 18.9.

NBC's best effort for the week was the Orange Bowl football game between Oklahoma and Florida State, eighth in the ratings, though the 19th place finish for the three-hour premiere of its newest dramatic series, "Skag," was encouraging to the No. 3 network.

CBS scored, meanwhile, with a new series of its own, "Knots Landing." The initial episode in the series, a spinoff from CBS' successful "Dallas," was 14th in the ratings.

The week's five lowest-rated shows included two news programs — NBC's "Prime Time Saturday" in 58th place and a CBS News special, "The Energy Crunch," 59th — and three movies — "Stunts Unlimited" on ABC, No. 60, "Orca" on CBS, No. 61, and "The Master Gunfighter" on ABC, No. 62.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

NFL Championship Post-Game, with a rating of 35.5 representing 27.1 million homes, NFL Championship Game, 33.3 or 25.4 million, "60 Minutes," 32.5 or 24.8 million, "Dallas," 27 or 20.6 million, and "Alice," 26 or 19.8 million, all CBS; "Eight is Enough," 25.8 or 19.7 million, ABC; "Dukes of Hazzard," 25.7 or 19.6 million, CBS; Orange Bowl, 25.1 or 19.2 million, NBC, and "Three's Company," 24.7 or 18.8 million, and "Mork and Mindy," 24.3 or 18.5 million, both ABC.

The next 10 programs: "Benson," ABC; "The Jeffersons," CBS; "Fantasy Island," ABC, and "Knots Landing," CBS, tie; "Barney Miller," ABC; "Taxi," ABC, and "Real People," NBC, tie; "Charlie's Angels," ABC, and "Skag," NBC, tie, and "Sinatra: The First 40 Years," NBC.

'GWTW' slave 'Prissy' chasing Greyhound

WASHINGTON (AP) — The actress who played the slave Prissy in the 1939 movie "Gone With the Wind" has filed a $300,000 suit against Greyhound Bus Lines, alleging that she was falsely accused of being a pickpocket.

Butterfly McQueen, 68, said in the suit that she was waiting at the Greyhound terminal in Washington on April 7 when two private security guards accused her of stealing and demanded to see her bus ticket.

When she refused to produce the ticket until they showed her their badges, the two guards pushed her to the floor and held her until police arrived, Miss McQueen said.

"It was absolutely the most embarrassing thing that has ever happened to me," the actress said in an interview with The Washington Post.

Bert says career zooming now

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Bert Parks, America's first cause celebre of the 1980s, says his career is zooming since he was fired as host of the Miss America Pageant.

"My God, man, I thought here you were with another job offer and I was going to have to turn you down," the 65-year-old Parks said when he answered the telephone at his Hollywood, Fla., home.

Meanwhile, Albert A. Marks Jr., the pageant chief who canned Parks, says he is considering four men to sing "There She Is" to the next Miss America in September. He refused to identify the prospects, but ruled out a number of possible hosts whose names have been making the rounds.

Show can't go on, noDa, noDa

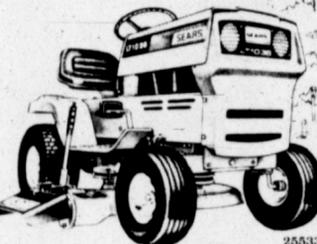

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The show must go on — but not without the sets and costumes.

So although the touring cast of the hit Broadway comedy, "Da," including star Barnard Hughes, was here in time for Tuesday night's opening at the Curran Theater, the performance was called off because the scenery, costumes and props were stuck in a Rocky Mountain snowstorm.

Instead of putting on the play, Hughes and the other actors greeted first-night ticketholders with a champagne party in the theater lobby.

Rated Purple Pack blasts Big Spring

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

It was a cake walk Tuesday night for Midland. Coach Jack Stephenson's state-ranked Bulldogs, stormed to an easy 84-40 rout of the Big Spring Steers in a District 5-4A basketball game in Chaparral Center.

Midland, ranked third in the state in Class AAAA circles, zoomed out in front by a score of 23-9 at the end of the first period and led at halftime, 51-21 to chalk up its 20th victory of the season in 24 games, but more important, brought its league mark to 2-0.

STEPHENSON USED 12 players and all got into the scoring column with Herbert Johnson paving the way with 16 points. Anthony Carroll was next with 13 points while teammates Justin Morett and Steve Henry followed with 12 each.

Mustangs, Greenwood bag area cage triumphs

Andrews, Crane, McCamey, Reagan County and Greenwood took basketball victories Tuesday in boys games. Crane took a 69-64 victory over Class AAA Pecos while McCamey opened District 6-A play with a 54-38 victory over Iraan's Braves.

McCamey was led by B.R. Terry's 13 points as the Badgers were bringing their season mark to 6-7 and loop reading to 1-0. Iraan, meanwhile, is 0-1 in 6-A play. Iraan won the girls game 41-27 while in the girls JV game, McCamey won 38-21.

Greenwood's girls also won Tuesday night, downing Monahans, 45-26. Lisa Mobley had 16 points for Greenwood. Monahans won the JV contest, 25-22.

free throws and hit 33 field goals while the Steers hit 12 of 15 charity tosses. The Bulldogs jumped out in front, 10-0 before the Steers finally scored with 4:10 left in the first period and that basket was made by Rubio.

Midland made it a clean sweep for the evening in winning both the sophomore and junior varsity games. In the sophomore contest, the Bulldogs posted an 87-61 victory with Scott Louderback and Jim Gunnels paving the way for Coach Eddie Shirley's five with 21 and 20 points respectively.

Bishop rips cords as 'Cats whip Lee in overtime game

SAN ANGELO — Charles Bishop was a one-man wrecking crew Tuesday night.

Bishop ripped the cords for 26 points with one big field goal the key in overtime here Tuesday night to lead the San Angelo Central Bobcats to a 65-62 victory over the Midland Lee Rebels in a District 5-4A basketball game.

It was the second straight overtime game for the Bobcats who lost to Abilene Cooper, 62-56 in overtime last Friday.

Bishop was the only Bobcat in the double figures as he connected on eight field goals and 10 free throws to pace the Concho Cats to their 14th win against eight losses and evening their 5-4A reading to 1-1.

The loss, meanwhile, for Lee, gives Coach Paul Stueckler's scrappy crew a 1-1 loop reading and 11-9 season mark going into Friday's game with co-leader Cooper in the Chaparral Center on the Midland College campus.

Lee got good scoring from three players with Dabby Rabb paving the way with 16. Tim Walker and Tim Fisher followed with 14 and 13 points for the Tall City team which saw a lead fade in the final period.

The Rebels took a lead of 49-37 into the final period, but the Bobcats roared back to outscore Lee, 23-11 in the final eight minutes to send the game into overtime with the score 60-60.

CENTRAL (65) — Bishop 8-10-26; Hayes 4-4-8; Cranford 4-6-8; Rossman 2-1-3; Breeze 1-0-2; Diebitz 4-4-8; Cox 2-4-4; Miller 2-4-4. Totals: 27-11-68.

Aggies' inside game too much for surprising Tech

Texas Tech held the league's second-leading scorer to 2 points, but that wasn't enough in the Red Raiders' battle with Texas A&M for the undisputed Southwest Conference basketball lead.

The win, which came despite the bad night by top scorer Vernon Smith, put the Aggies alone atop the standings with a 3-0 record. Texas A&M got good inside play from 6-11 sophomore Rudy Woods for the second game in a row. In other games Tuesday night, Scott Hastings 23 points gave Arkansas a 70-58 victory over Texas Christian. Brad Branson poured in 25 points and SMU made 32 free throws in a narrow 78-72 decision over Baylor, and John Danks' torrid early shooting pushed Texas to a 99-73 rout of Houston. The Aggies, the only home team to win Tuesday, are alone at 3-0, although Arkansas is also unbeaten at 2-0. Texas and Texas Tech are 2-1, Rice 1-1, Houston and SMU 1-2, Baylor 0-2 and TCU 0-3.

Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf agreed. "Vernon Smith just had an off night, but Woods played his second straight good game. We got a lot of defensive help inside from Rudy, Claude Riley and Rynn Wright. We always want to get the ball inside, and we did a lot of it in this game," Metcalf said.

Draft reveals nobody wants to play for A's

NEW YORK (AP) — It was one thing when star players left Oakland's sinking ship searching for greener pastures anywhere else as free agents. But as a sign of how far down the A's have gone, high school and college players — amateur free agents — are now saying they want out of Oakland even before they have a chance to get there.

Tuesday's secondary phase of the amateur draft, which was for players picked before but still unsigned, was a re-auction of former Oakland selections. On the first round, nine of the 26 picks were once chosen by the A's, including the No. 1 selection.

The Boston Red Sox took advantage of Oakland's past failure, opening the secondary phase by choosing Juan Bustabad, a slick-fielding shortstop from Miami Dade North Community College.

Henry Owens, Juan's brother-in-law. "What's his phone number?" Finley barked. "I don't know," Juan said. Click went Finley's phone.

Kaline, Snider elected to Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielders Al Kaline and Duke Snider were elected to the Hall of Fame by the Baseball Writers Association of America today.

Snider, 53, who starred for the Dodgers in Brooklyn and Los Angeles, was elected in his 11th year of eligibility. A total of 385 ballots were cast by 10-year members of the BBWAA, with 289 representing 75 percent needed for election. Kaline received 340, or 88 percent of the vote, and Snider, who fell 16 votes short of election last year, had 333, or 86 percent.

Spring training isn't that far away, and for members of the hapless New York Mets, workouts are starting quite early. Among the Mets getting an early start on things was pitcher Pat Zachry, who went through his routine recently at Shea Stadium. (AP Laserphoto)

Taiwan struggles for Olympic life...

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Taiwan's legal battle to keep its past Olympic status yet still participate in this year's winter and summer games at Lake Placid and Moscow finally reached the courts Tuesday.

Taiwan's lawyers urged a Swiss judge not to enforce "a total loss of identity" on the island's sportsmen.

"No country has ever had to suffer this kind of treatment," Swiss lawyer Alain Wurzbarger told a Lausanne court, referring to a demand by the International Olympic Committee that Taiwan change its Olympic name, flag and anthem to make way for Mainland China's re-entry into the Olympic movement.

Such treatment, Wurzbarger argued, violated the Olympic charter and would make Taiwan alter statutes it had guarded dearly since the communist take-over in 1949.

Accusing the IOC of "bowing to the demands of Peking," Wurzbarger told court president Pierre Bucher that since the IOC ruling, "the flag of Taiwan has fluttered peacefully at sporting events in several countries."

The 4½-hour hearing followed a request by the Taiwan Olympic Committee for a "provisional measure" in the Swiss courts allowing Taiwan to compete at Lake Placid and Moscow under former conditions, thus temporarily setting aside the new IOC formula for Peking's participation.

No decision was taken in court, with lawyers on both sides predicting it would be at least another 48 hours before Bucher makes a ruling on Taipei's request and in doing so possibly eliminates any chance of Peking's athletes taking part in the Olympics for at least another four years.

Francois Carrard, counsel for the IOC, said that to grant Taiwan's request would constitute a "catastrophic precedent" for the Olympic Games.

The IOC, he stressed, had tried in every possible way to bring athletes from both Chinas into the games and that the Taipei request had to be judged on merely political grounds. He said that to allow the Taiwan National Olympic Committee to continue to use the flag and anthem of pre-revolution China would have "grave consequences for the future of the IOC."

If Bucher were to grant the provisional measure, Carrard said, the decision would be "immediately exploited worldwide."

If Taiwan, and not the mainland, were to compete, Carrard added, other states might also consider pulling out of the event.

...while in America some consider Summer Games pullout

By SHIRLEY POVICH
Special to The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — In 1977, the mayor of Moscow proclaimed his nation's pride in the International Olympic Committee's decision to have the Soviet Union host the 1980 Games. Vladimir Promoslov said, "It is a welcome recognition of the Soviet Union's notable contributions to the promotion of peace and international friendship."

Recently, the Soviets made their latest "contribution," as Soviet tanks, attended by a committee of 50,000, paid a call on the folks in bordering Afghanistan.

But President Carter said in a speech last week that it was not the act of a good neighbor, an angel of peace. He said it was an outright armed invasion by the Soviets and contemptible, and the United States was taking a very serious view of it. He would crack down on the Soviets in many ways, and one possibility was that the United States would pull out of the 1980 Moscow Olympics and ask other nations to do the same. And that's what the United States should do: pull out of the Olympics. It would be no great cause for heartbreak. The games aren't as important as self-perpetuating Olympic officials think.

THE OLYMPICS HAVE long been overrated as a festival of international harmony that would make the whole world just peachy in future years. The Games have bred more ill will than good will. Their image of friendly strife is a hoax and the amateurism of the athletes, particularly in the Soviet bloc, a complete sham.

Olga Korbut was bankrolled by the Soviet Army. Their super weight-lifter, Vassily Alexeyev, used to get $1,500 from the minister of finance for every record he broke, and one night he broke eight.

The 1936 Berlin Olympics were used by Hitler as a showpiece to glorify the Nazi party, with displays that exceeded all previous pageantry. He had already invaded the Rhineland, was meddling in Spain and had Austria and Czechoslovakia in mind. The Olympics were supposed to give him some kind of international dignity.

And now 44 years later, the Games are being given over to another totalitarian tyranny, which already has begun to get its dissenters off the Moscow streets and into hiding, while trying to showcase itself as a worthy member of the family of nations.

They should have called off the 1972 Olympics at Munich if masked Arab terrorists climbed the fences at dawn, snuck into the Israeli compound with Soviet-made guns, and murdered 11 Israeli athletes. But at a memorial service the next day in the huge Olympic stadium, the late Avery Brundage brushed off the shocking massacre of Israelis with a mere 28 words in a long speech that in the main defended his position on the attempt to oust Rhodesia from the Games. The Olympics must go on, after a one-day hiatus, he ruled in the best tradition of obsessed Olympic chiefs.

ON THE LAST DAY of those Olympics the Soviets won the basketball gold medal by browbeating timid officials into putting two more seconds onto the game clock after the United States team walked off the winner in regulation time.

They went on and the Games finished in an armed camp atmosphere. Four years later at Montreal security was so heavy it seemed a war was about to begin, rather than another Olympics.

Meyer says politics have no place in games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Debbie Meyer, once the queen of the world's swimmers, has seen the best and the worst of the Olympic Games, yet feels that the great international sports spectacle should be kept free from government interference.

"Unless you have given the better part of your life to the Olympic movement, as I have, and unless you have actually lived in the Olympic Village, you shouldn't be too quick to make a decision on the boycott idea," says the dimpled heroine of the 1968 Games.

"Once you're inside the gates, there is a whole new attitude. There are smiles and handshakes and camaraderie. No matter what language you speak, there is communication — it's eye contact.

"You forget politics. All the international boundaries are down. Ideological rivalries are forgotten. If it were left to the youth of the world, there would be no wars."

Debbie, 27, of Hayward, Calif., won three gold medals in Mexico City, where days before army troops were shooting down students in the streets. The Soviet Union had just invaded Czechoslovakia.

FOUR YEARS LATER at Munich, as a part-time journalist, she saw the West Germans strive to erase the memory of Adolf Hitler and for 16 of the 19 days stage the most pleasant and relaxed Olympics of all time.

They festooned their streets with pastel colors instead of nationalistic flags, while security police moved through the Village like Miami Beach vacationers in their white flannels and blue blazers — not a gun or stick in sight. Then the Arab terrorists moved in on the Israelis in an ugly adventure that left 16 people dead and almost resulted in cancellation of the Games.

"I'm glad they didn't cancel them," Debbie said. "The Israelis, most of all, would have insisted that they go on. You can't let the Games become hostage to violence. That way, you lose everything."

Debbie can speak with authority. The Olympics have taken up most of the years of her young life — first as a competitor, winner of 19 national championships and setter of 20 world records in freestyle swimming, then as a part-time coach, commentator, advisor to the U.S. Olympic Committee and now good will ambassador for one of the corporations sponsoring the U.S. Olympic effort.

The company is Life Savers, Inc.

SOON WITH FIGURE skater Dorothy Hamill she will launch a multimillion dollar campaign for U.S. Olympic funds.

"We're going to dump 91,650 packages of gum drops and candy on Lake Placid for the Winter Olympic athletes," she said. The sweet tooth has no international boundaries.

Meyer, who recently married swim coach Doug Reyes, was born in Haddonfield, N.J., daughter of a soup company plant manager, but with her family moved to Sacramento, Calif., at the age of 12. There she took up swimming.

"My schedule was back-breaking," she said. "I had to get up at 6 in the morning, train for three hours before going to school, get out of school at 2, train some more, go home for dinner and then hit the books.

Sickly Blues hand Los Angeles a dose of their own medicine

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Kings, who lead the National Hockey League in power-play goals, got a dose of their own medicine from the St. Louis Blues.

St. Louis got power-play goals from Tony Currie, Brian Sutter and Mike Zuke Tuesday night, then added insult to injury when Larry Patey scored a shorthanded goal to highlight a 6-3 victory over the Kings.

"We've been working very hard on the power play in every practice for weeks — with no results," said Zuke, who also had two assists. "We moved the puck better tonight as a unit."

The Kings, meanwhile, had a six-game unbeaten streak snapped and dropped into a first-place tie with Montreal in the Norris Division.

"Right now, the entire penalty-killing unit is struggling so much that when we take a penalty, it's almost a mental block and an automatic goal," said Los Angeles Coach Bob Berry. "We got effort from about five guys tonight. It's disappointing, too, because I don't think St. Louis played that well."

They played well enough for Coach Red Berenson.

"Statistics show that we're one of the worst power play units, but apparently our hard work and practice these last few weeks finally paid off," said Berenson, whose Blues are better than only one other NHL team (Hartford) on the power play.

In the other games Tuesday night, the Colorado Rockies tied the Boston Bruins 2-2, the New York Islanders blanked the Vancouver Canucks 3-0 and the Atlanta Flames blanked the Winnipeg Jets 2-0. In an exhibition, the Washington Capitals and Moscow Dynamo tied 5-5.

Kings' goalie Ron Grahame feels his teammates can learn something from the St. Louis penalty-killing unit, which is the second-best in the league behind Boston and has allowed only 18 power play goals while being shorthanded more than 130 times.

"I don't think we're aggressive enough," Grahame said. "We don't seem to move like the other teams."

Currie scored again and Mike Crombeen had a goal for the Blues. Dave Taylor, Marcel Dionne and Randy Manery scored for Los Angeles.

Rockies 2, Bruins 2
Late goals by Craig MacTavish and Rick Middleton pulled the Bruins even with Colorado, leaving Rockies Coach Don Cherry unbeaten against his former charges. Cherry, who left the Bruins during the summer to join the Rockies, guided Colorado to a 5-3 triumph in Boston on Dec. 2.

Lanny McDonald and Randy Pierce tallied for the Rockies.

Islanders 3, Canucks 0
Bryan Trottier and Mike Bossy scored first-period goals and Duane Sutter added a second-period goal on a breakaway to power New York while Glen Resch made 32 saves for his first shutout of the year.

Flames 2, Jets 0
Ken Houston and Bill Clement scored goals and Pat Riggin stopped 27 shots to hand Winnipeg its eighth shutout loss of the season.

Legislators fight to make boxing safer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two legislators said Tuesday they would introduce a bill to require the wearing of protective headgear and 10-ounce boxing gloves in all professional boxing matches in New York State.

State Sen. Franz Leichter and Assemblyman G. Oliver Koppell, both New York City Democrats, said the legislation was needed to "avoid the deaths and injuries now plaguing the sport."

All boxing programs in the state were suspended last month after a state investigation of the death of middleweight boxer Willie Classen.

Koppell, D-Bronx, said the legislation "is the middle of the road," between those who want to abolish the sport altogether and those that want to see it made safer.

BOTH LEGISLATORS noted that headgear and 10-ounce gloves are used in amateur boxing and should be used in the pros because "it serves no good purpose to have one man knock another senseless."

Head gear is not worn in all amateur competition, for instance the Olympics.

Professional boxers presently use 8-ounce gloves in matches in New York State.

Classen, 28, received four hard right-hand punches to the head in the ninth round of a Nov. 23 fight at Madison Square Garden, and many people believe the fight should have been stopped then.

However, Classen came out for the 10th round and received three more hard rights to the head and lapsed into unconsciousness.

AFTER THE INVESTIGATION the State Athletic Commission, which supervises both boxing and wrestling, ordered all doctors and referees to take a one-day neurological training course.

Athletic Commission member Floyd Patterson has said the 10-ounce gloves would provide more protection but voiced opposition to the headgear, noting it would "take away from the excitement of boxing."

"I think wearing headgear would kill boxing. I don't see it as a good idea," the former heavyweight boxing champ added.

Golf enters 1980 in need of a hero

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

PALM SPRINGS — Like a lot of American financial institutions, pro golf heads shakily into the '80s with one eye on the ball and the other on a stock ticker that portends a massive recession.

Golf's problem is not the Ayatollah, petroleum stocks, Russia, or even foreign imports. Golf needs a Golden Bear, a Slammin' Sam, a Hawk, or an Arnie's army.

As the 1980 tour kicks off down here at four desert courses, an era seems to have come to an end.

Golf, you see, is an epoch sport. There was the epoch of Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Bobby Jones. Then there was a precipitous decline in interest until the epoch of Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Sammy Snead. Then a decline until the golden epoch of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, when television discovered that golf sold more luxury goods with a 14 share of the rating than some shows with a 42, because the people who could buy Thunderbirds and home freezers would rather watch putts on TV than pitchers or passers.

BUT NOT EVEN A corporation executive with a 2 handicap at Oakland Hills wants to watch Mark McCumber beat D. A. Weibring. He'll buy the goods, or even sponsor the show, to see Ben Crenshaw beat Jack Nicklaus. Or vice versa. But not to see them beat Artie McNickle or Ron Streck.

Nicklaus may take the game with him when he goes, some people believe. No TV show, which is what golf is, can exist without a star. Unfortunately, you can't write one into this show. The extras keep lousing up the script.

When you look down the list of money winners and see Jack Nicklaus 71st from the top — way down in the low-rent district with guys like Lindy Miller, Jim Thorpe and Mark Lye — that's like seeing Barrymore playing a doorman, Helfetz fiddling at a barn dance, or Horowitz playing piano in a fancy house.

Nicklaus has done another thing to lessen the allure of the modern player. Nicklaus was "major" oriented from the start: Jack won tournaments like the Philadelphia Whitemarsh or Doral almost by accident. He would be tinkering with his game to get it ready for the masters, PGA, or the Open at the time. Jack considered everything west of the "majors" to be Bridgeport. Still, he won 60 of these off-Broadway tournaments, which led Chi Chi Rodriguez to the classic observation that "Nicklaus became a legend in his spare time."

NO ONE KNOWS QUITE how "major" tournaments became major. But, when Jack Nicklaus came along, he had little interest in winning, say, the Joe Garagiola-Tucson open because he thought succeeding generations might not know what the hell that was. But, he reasoned they would always be able to pick the British Open out of a crowd. Also the likelihood was slim it would ever become the "Sammy Davis Jr. Greater British Open." So, he put a label of unimportance on the transitory, workaday tournaments, the whistle stops of the tour. He couldn't stay awake for the likes of Penascola Open, or the insurance company or stock-ticker opens.

You see, Jack had started his pro career with two majors already in his bag. The U.S. Amateur has been a major since Bobby Jones won it — although now it is a second-rate tournament, running a poor second at that to the modern-day NCAA tournament.

The first pro tournament Jack won was a major. In fact, it was the major — the Open.

Jack also won five Masters, a tournament which has been major only the last dozen years or so, when the relaxed rules let the touring pros in and no longer restricted the field to the last British Walker Cup team and guys who won the Open back in the wooden-club era.

The British Open has been difficult to win because of conditions of the courses. Or the weather. But not because of the field. Until recently you could win the British Open if you could beat Max Faulkner. Lots of people could do that.

But what golf needs now is an attitude that a guy who wins a lot of tournaments can be as big a star as the one who simply wins ones that

Jack Nicklaus finds himself tending to many other things besides golf lately, one of which is skiing. As the 1980 PGA tour begins, many question whether Nicklaus' appeal on the links is at the high level it once was. (AP Laserphoto)

Nicklaus did.

SAM SNEAD NEVER WON an Open. But he won 84 other tour events, give or take one or two. Sometimes, Sam won as much as $1,500 in winning one of those tournaments. Sam looked at the dollars they put up, not the antiquity of the event. Sam's idea of a major was a tournament that paid the rent and had enough left over to put in coffee cans in the backyard. Sometimes, a major was a two-man event to Sam — between Sam and somebody he should have been giving strokes to but didn't.

A rule of thumb is hard to come by. Maybe five tour victories should equal one major. It is undeniable that many regular tour tourneys are as hard — or harder — to win than many majors. The Masters got won regularly by mere tour players once they got admitted to the green coat aristocracy. The PGA does not have that blue-ribbon a field and, until recently, was held mainly on rapid-run golf courses.

The Bob Hope Desert Classic here this week will have a former President of the United States in the field, more captains of industry than a Republican convention, and a field that may contain the new Nicklaus. But it won't have the original — nor will it have Tom Watson nor Lee Trevino.

But it will pay the winner $50,000, and the Eisenhower Medical Center a million or so, and a guy can't win 85 tournaments or catch Sam Snead unless he wins ones like these — regularly.

Miller's been from the top to bottom

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — It was a relaxed and confident Johnny Miller who surveyed the bleak, barren hills and rolling sand dunes. "It's nice to be back in the desert," said the man who — in his days as golf's golden boy — scored such incredible successes in the Arizona and California deserts.

But that last American tour triumph was four long years ago in this tournament, the Bob Hope Desert Classic, which begins a five-day run Wednesday.

Since then the career of the young man who dominated the game — reaping Player of the Year honors, setting money-winning records and scoring standards, casually taking British and U.S. Open crowns, winning titles with monotonous regularity — hit the depths.

BUT NOW, after four years of puzzling, perplexing struggle, golf's most mysterious slump may be over.

"I'm playing, from tee to green, as good or better than I ever have," Miller said before a practice round for the $304,500 event that kicks off pro golf's venture into the decade of the 1980s.

"I'm putting just average. But it's fun again. It's no fun going out there and hacking around. That's no fun at all. But now I feel like I can dominate a golf course again, just go out and dominate the course even if I'm not putting good."

"I'm looking forward to the season."

Two good, strong 1979 performances are the key to his revival.

He shot a 63 on the tough No. 2 course at Pinehurst and eventually went to a playoff before bowing to Tom Watson in the Hall of Fame Classic late last year.

"I don't know whether I'm ready to win," he said at the time. "I'm not sure it would be good for me. I want to rebuild slowly, take it one step at a time, first start playing good, then get in position to win, then win."

Some two months later, when he was ready, he won.

That was in the Lancome Trophy event near Paris.

IT WAS HIS first victory in four years. And it could have marked the turning of the corner in Miller's comeback.

"I needed to win something," he said. "You think you can do it, but you don't really know until you actually do it."

"Now I know I can win. I know I'm playing good, maybe better than ever."

He will test that ability against a field of 128 other pros in one of the game's most demanding tests of patience. They'll play one round over each of four desert courses, each day with a different team of three amateurs, before the field is cut for the final round of pros only at La Quinta.

Texan Crenshaw corrals "All Americans" meet

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw birdied five of the first six holes, sinking four putts of 20 feet or more, en route to a 6-under-par 66 that won the 18-hole "Day with the All-Americans" golf tournament Tuesday.

Crenshaw hit 17 greens at the Canyon Country Club and used 29 putts, carding six birdies and no bogeys to tie Johnny Miller's course standard of 66, recorded in the same tournament last year.

The event, with former college All-Americans participating, is a fund-raiser to provide college golf scholarships. A total of 61 such scholarships have been provided during the nine years of the tournament.

Mike McCullough was second with a 67, while a group of six — Dave Hill, Mark McCumber, John Cook, Lanny Wadkins, Larry Ziegler and Mike Reid — tied at 68.

Bryant gets respect of Irish as USF wins

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Notre Dame was beating the San Francisco Dons under the backboards, treating Bill Cartwright's former understudy with a minimum of respect.

"The coach told me at halftime that was my house, that I live in there and shouldn't let anybody else in," the Dons' 7-foot Wallace Bryant said later, discussing how he helped turned things around in the second half Tuesday night as USF roared to a 67-59 victory over the seventh-ranked Fighting Irish.

Bryant scored two points in the first half, when Notre Dame out rebounded the taller Dons 25-16. The Irish settled for a 30-30 halftime standoff, however, making just 13 of 33 field goal attempts.

Notre Dame didn't get off as many chances to score in the second half, partly because Bryant blocked so many shots. The Irish finished the night with an embarrassing total of 22 turnovers and a 39 percent field goal shooting mark in the loss which made their record 7-2.

IT WAS NOTRE DAME'S first game since their 86-80 loss to Kentucky on Dec. 29.

Only three other members of The Associated Press Top Twenty were in action and all came away winners, although two had close calls.

Louisville, the No. 11 team, routed St. Louis 94-65 in a Metro Conference game while No. 14 St. John's, N.Y., edged Princeton 44-42 and No. 20 Georgetown, D.C., withstood a late rally by St. Joseph's, Pa., and prevailed 62-53.

Bryant, the sophomore who stepped into the starting center job when All-American Cartwright went from college basketball to the pros, scored 11 of his 13 points in the second half. He totaled 13 rebounds and six blocked shots in the victory which improved unranked USF's record to 11-2.

The Dons held a 31-21 rebounding edge in the second half.

"Our front line isn't as big as in the past few seasons, but we've done well against big teams. We've played the Russians and UCLA this season," said 6-5 forward Tracy Jackson of Notre Dame.

"In the second half, when we had that bad spell, USF took advantage. We didn't make any shots from the field and we couldn't make our free throws, either."

Notre Dame led 50-46 with eight minutes remaining, but USF then outscored the Irish 11-0, going ahead to stay at 51-50 on a jump shot by Mike Rice with 6½ minutes remaining.

"They had us down, but once we got over the top, we got a lot of confidence and kept it going," said Coach Dan Belluomini, who has only one senior on his USF squad.

"I thought we were a year away. Maybe not," he added.

SUBSTITUTE FORWARD John Hegwood who, like Bryant is from Gary, Ind., not far from Notre Dame, led the Dons with 14 points. Bryant and guards Quintin Dailey and Billy Reid had 13 each.

The game's top scorer was Notre Dame guard Rich Branning, with 15 points. He was the only Irish player to shoot better than 50 percent (7 of 13) from the field, but he made one of four free throws and the team was a poor nine of 19.

Darrell Griffith scored 24 points for Louisville and three teammates also were in double figures as the Cardinals, 11-2, crushed St. Louis. Griffith also handed out seven assists while Louisville's full-court press forced St. Louis into 25 turnovers.

"It seemed like everything we did turned out right," said Coach Denny Crum. "We forced them out of the slow-down type game they wanted to play. We did a good job on the press and forced them into a position they're not used to running that offense from. When you get ahead of a team, it's awful hard for them ever to catch up playing slow."

ST. LOUIS COACH Ron Ecker called the Cardinals "an excellent team" and said they "seem to be playing with a lot of enthusiasm right now. And when you have that, basketball can be an awful lot of fun."

Frank Gilroy put St. John's, 10-1, in front of the Tigers 38-36 with 4:24 to play. Gilroy and Bernard Rencher then hit both ends of 1-and-1 opportunities in the final 42 seconds after the lead changed hands 21 times.

Georgetown let St. Joseph's slice a 32-18 halftime deficit to 45-40 with 8½ minutes left but that was the closest the Hawks could come. Craig Shelton led the winners with 14 points.

Aaron Strayhorn's 20-foot jump shot at the buzzer gave Hawaii a 78-76 Western Athletic Conference overtime victory over San Diego State.

Dave Niles scored 27 points, 19 above his average, as Detroit connected on 40 of 60 shots and handed Marshall its worst home setback in five years 101-77.

In a women's game, the University of the District of Columbia got 41 points from Alice Butler, the nation's No. 3 scorer, and swamped Mt. Vernon College 143-11.

Harney plans pro golf tour

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Paul Harney will start a new pro golf tour to compete with the PGA, and he hopes to stage 40 tournaments, each with a $300,000 purse, in 1980.

Harney, who once starred on the PGA tour, will call his enterprise the Grand National Professional Golf Tour.

"I've been dreaming about this for 10 years," he told the Boston Herald American. "There's a tremendous need for a second major tour. Most (of the pros) have told me this is too good to be true."

Harney, who operates his own golf club on Cape Cod, says he has 400 entries for the week-long qualifying tournament at the Tropicana Country Club in Las Vegas, Nev. next month.

The first $300,000 event, he says will be held there March 17-23 and Harney claims a tentative list of 30 other sites, most in cities not visited by the PGA.

Nine tournaments will be played overseas. None of the events will be tele-and each will put up an additional $4,500, thus the Feb. 11 qualifier will become a post-$500 entry-fee. The 250 lowest scorers will make up the first tour the profits, medical insurance and a retirement plan.

Some loose sallies in our conversational alleys

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Samuel Johnson, the great lexicographer, defined the essay as "a loose sally of the mind; an irregular undigested piece; not a regular or orderly composition."

The next step, of course, is the column, which is a regular if not necessarily orderly composition of undigested pieces and loose mental sallies.

Since I began this tri-weekly assault on the public's patience two years ago, all sorts of undigested pieces have been rattling around in the rarified air between my sideburns in search of some sort of orderly composition.

Quite often these loose sallies of the mind are lost for indefinite periods, perhaps forever, like that maverick RCA satellite at large somewhere in the cosmos. Then I travel down to our nation's capital and all the undigested bits and pieces of information that I have been collecting come in handy.

The Washington cocktail circuit is a marvelous conversational tracking station for the spare hardware of the mind, those ever orbiting odd-ball facts and statistics that can, when boldly employed with complete lack of sequitur, make one the life of the party.

"Carter might not be always right," you deftly drop into one of those conversational voids that happen at every Georgetown gathering, "but don't forget, Babe Ruth struck out 1,330 times."

It's a fact. One that should make people turn around and take notice. Undigested bits of banality like that give the guests something to chew over.

"Talk about being accident prone," you interject, when no one is talking about it. "The Europa Hotel in Belfast has been awarded 28 bomb damage claims by the British government since the Irish troubles resumed and the manager made the Queen's Honor List one year for keeping the place open."

So what? You ignore such rudeness, of course, and add: "While on the same subject, whatever became of Steve Dembrowski? You know, that second baseman at Fairleigh Dickinson University whose specialty was getting hit by pitched balls. When last I checked, he had been hit by 95 pitched balls in 144 at-bats and was getting all kinds of major league offers like that midget Bill Veeck hired one year in St. Louis."

Loose mental sallies of this sort can gain one the reputation of being a great conversationalist.

The trick of course is to be nimble and be quick, jumping in whenever there is a conversational opening with total disregard for what has gone before.

"We should have known Vietnam was a losing proposition," you suddenly interpose while everyone else is talking about Iran, "when Saigon Warrior lost the Kentucky Derby by 72½ lengths in 1971. Or was it the Epsom Derby, I never can remember which?"

No one else will remember either, which gives you a splendid opportunity to change the subject.

"Go ahead and call Cyrus Vance a figurehead," you protest, even though no one has called him that. "Figureheads were important in the days of the clipper ships. Sailors who couldn't read knew which ships to report to, and in a busy harbor like New York or Liverpool, bargemen delivering supplies to the various ships picked them out of the fog by their figureheads. They were considered a good omen, too, so maybe every ship of state ought to have a respected figurehead."

The more tedious fact, the more bold must be your conversational thrust.

"Ma Bell's got some chutzpah asking for a rate increase," you intone when the phone rings somewhere as it always does in the middle of a party. "Do you know this past Christmas weekend alone more than 19 million Americans called long distance to wish their friends and relatives the best of the season?"

No Washington cocktail party can qualify as such without some reference to the energy crisis. "Why does OPEC still price oil by the barrel?" you suddenly ask anyone trying to make his or her way to the bar. "No one buys oil by the barrel anymore. Actually, a barrel is 31½ gallons. Maybe it's because they have us over a barrel, huh?"

The sly little jest keeps you from appearing pretentious, so that you can add: "Speaking of which, Exxon's 'North Slope,' our biggest American tanker, is over three football fields long and can carry 1.1 million barrels of crude."

Dazzling footwork is needed to carry this sort of thing off. Float like a bore, sting with a statistic, always moving in, bouncing off the walls, keeping out of the corners and not getting hemmed in at the bar.

Crime is sure to come up, and modern life styles. Be ready to parry any conversational punch with a jolting odd fact.

"My cop friends tell me," you establish yourself quickly as a person with intimate police sources, "that New York's toughest precinct, the 41st up in the South Bronx, is called 'Fort Apache' because of the high homicide rate in the neighborhood and the hostility toward the men in blue, while the 6th precinct, which deals with crimes passionelle among Greenwich Village's gay community, is known as 'Fort Bruce.'"

Opening jabs like "few people realize" or "I wonder how many people know" provide the opening for a haymaker statistic with a ponderous payload on the order of "according to the U.S. census bureau there are now 11.6 million children in single parent homes in this country ..."

Or, "speaking of Handel," and who was? "His 'Messiah' was once performed at London's Crystal Palace by a 460-piece orchestra and a chorus of 2,765 voices."

Think of that. And while they are, get ready with your next statistical stunner for the quick conversational K.O. The mind boggles and reels, as always happens when loose sallies in our conversational alley find a target.

Woods to head Art Institute

CHICAGO (AP) — James N. Wood, the director of the St. Louis Art Museum, has accepted a similar post at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Wood, 38, was appointed Monday as the 100-year-old museum's first director since Charles C. Cunningham left in 1972. He is expected to take over the job about May 1.

"I think the '80s are going to be very good for the Institute," said Wood, who met Monday with the museum's board of trustees. "I was first approached a year ago and was flattered but had to turn down the Institute ... because of commitments here in St. Louis."

"About a month ago, I was contacted again and said I would like to consider it."

The direction of the museum had been handled by John Maxon, vice president of collections and exhibits, who died in 1977, and since then by Institute President E. Laurence Chalmers Jr.

Oil spill planners in huddle

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — U.S. Coast Guard officials and government scientists were to meet today to discuss strategy for a possible return of the Mexican oil spill they fought last summer and fall.

Capt. Gerald Hinson, on-scene coordinator of the federal anti-spill team, called the closed meeting after reports the oil could reappear by late spring if the belligerent Itxoc 1 well is not capped soon.

Officials of Pemex, the Mexican national oil monopoly, dispute predictions of a spill repeat by Dr. John Robinson of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Robinson said currents in the Gulf of Mexico will change probably in March and could draw oil floating offshore back onto Texas beaches.

Gov. Bill Clements has said observers at the wellsite tell him the run-away flow should be under control within two or three weeks.

But the Coast Guard is taking no chances. Coast Guard Lt. Harry Vaughan said $6.5 million has been spent or earmarked for oil containment and cleanup and $500,000 remains under a congressional appropriation.

"If they don't cap the well, we'll have to ask for another million," he said.

Vaughan said he viewed the well this summer and has checked videotape taken weekly of the scene this winter.

"It looks the same to me as the amount (of oil) coming out this summer," he said.

Pemex says it has reduced the daily flow from 30,000 barrels to 2,000 barrels. But U.S. officials testifying before a congressional committee say the figure could be as high as 50,000 barrels.

City due two better rail signals

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission has approved an $8.55 million program to improve railroad warning signals at 119 locations in Texas, including two in Midland.

The projects are part of the 1980 Federal Railroad Signal Program, which includes installation and modernization of signals at railroad crossings with state-maintained highways, city streets and county roads.

The projects were selected on a priority basis.

The Midland projects include the intersection of the Missouri Pacific Railroad with Terrell and Lee streets. Total cost of the projects is $150,000.

U.S. quotas frustrating immigration of thousands from Chinese mainland

PEKING (AP) — Thousands of Chinese-Americans now trying to get their relatives out of China after 30-year family separations have a new frustration: China is ready to let them go, but U.S. quotas are full.

"We get 10 to 20 letters a day and one or two visits a week from people who are very concerned. It just rips your heart out," said a U.S. Embassy official, who asked not to be identified.

"Almost all the cases involve an aged person," he added. "We realize the immediacy they feel. They worry that the (Chinese) government could change its policy or that they won't be able to see their relatives before they die."

Tops on the priority list right now are married children of U.S. citizens, and spouses and unmarried children of Chinese granted permanent residency in the United States. Their applications have been on file more than three years.

The backlog is six years for brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens.

A BIG REASON for the overall backlog is that the annual quota of 20,000 immigrant visas for China must be shared by all applicants who were born in China, whether they apply in Taiwan, Hong Kong, mainland China or abroad elsewhere. Those born in Hong Kong have their own quota.

The U.S. Embassy in Peking did not formally open until last March 1, which is also when the two governments implemented their policy on easing family reunions.

Formerly, visas for those from mainland China were processed in Hong Kong — for those who could get there. Files on about 6,000 applications for immigrant visas, covering about 15,000 people, recently were transferred to Peking, the official said.

Four or five immigrant visas a week are issued now, he said, but the number is expected to increase considerably once notifications reach the 15,000 applicants whose files were in Hong Kong that they now can follow them up in Peking.

It is more simple for those who just want to visit. They get exit permits from Chinese authorities then line up at the U.S. consulate in the morning. Chances are good that they can be on their way the next day, the official said.

He said more than 6,000 non-immigrant visas were issued in 1979, including 715 in October.

ABOUT 30 people line up each of the four mornings a week on which visa applicants are interviewed. Many, having traveled to Peking from far away Chinese cities, already are carrying their bags for their flight to America.

Every afternoon, the consulate handles visas for 20 to 25 Chinese who are going to the United States under exchange student programs sponsored by the Ministry of Education and other official organizations.

A deluge of applications is expected when the new consulate in Canton begins handling non-immigrant visa applications in the next month or two, and immigrant visas by April or May.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Choose lunch menus for dietary balance

Dear Dr. Solomon: I heard you say on television that lunch is an important meal and you should have something from each of the five food groups you recommend. Could you please publish the various lists? — Mrs. B.L.

Dear Mrs. B.L.: Here's a handy guide for mix-and-match lunch ideas. Keep it in sight on your refrigerator door. For a balanced lunch, choose at least one item from each group.

- Fruit/Vegetable
 Fresh fruits like apples, bananas, cherries, grapes, melon wedges or balls, orange wedges, peaches, pears, pineapple, juice packed canned fruits, 100 percent fruit juice.
- Raw vegetables like carrot sticks, cauliflower, celery sticks, cherry tomatoes, green pepper rings, zucchini circles, 100 percent tomato or vegetable juices, hot vegetable soup.
- Bread/Cereal
 Enriched, whole-grain or fortified products like bagels, biscuits, breads — oatmeal, raisin, wheat, corn tortillas (wrapped around a sandwich filling), hamburger or hot dog buns, matso, Middle Eastern pocket bread (pita bread), rye crackers, soda crackers.
- Milk
 Buttermilk, lowfat milk, skim milk, milk substitutes, lowfat yogurt (with fresh fruit), lowfat cottage cheese (with fruit or juice packed canned fruit), cream soup made with skim or lowfat milk, milk-based custards or puddings.

you calories plus nutrients. So you can help your children stay on the healthy track by watching:

What they eat: Filling up on sugary, high-fat and high-calorie snacks and desserts doesn't leave room for more nutritious foods. Salty snacks also encourage a thirst for drinks like sugary sodas. Snacking on sugary drinks and sticky sweets also helps promote tooth decay.

How much they eat: Have you ever nibbled on a snack while watching television and wondering how the food suddenly disappeared? Snacking can become an unconscious habit of nibbling on food without really tasting it and without being really hungry. This can lead to overeating and overweight. By helping children build sound eating habits now, they'll be less likely to have weight problems later on.

Make snacks count: Lowfat milk drinks, fruits, vegetables, whole-grain and enriched breads and cereals can be simple to serve and low in sugar, salt and fats. They also provide bulk, energy and many of the essential vitamins and minerals a growing child needs.

Poultry/fish/meat/beans
 Chicken or turkey (no skin), chicken salar, canned fish (packed in water), meat loaf (with lean ground beef), roast beef (lean), Lean stew (skim the fat), other good protein sources, baked beans (with lean ground beef), peanut butter and banana sandwich.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Are snacks and desserts bad for children? — Mrs. A.A.

Dear Mrs. A.A.: As long as they don't replace nutritious foods or add unneeded calories, snacks or desserts aren't "bad" for children (or adults). But there are some snacks and desserts which give

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE
The Killing Lead

By Alfred Sheinwold

Only six teams were eligible to play in the world championship won last October by the United States. Today's hand was played at six tables in one of the early rounds, and five experts picked the killing lead.

See if you can pick West's best lead. Study the bidding, but try NOT to look at any hand but West's.

You should deduce from the bidding that South has long, solid diamonds and may well take nine tricks if he gets the lead early enough. You may have to take five tricks on the run.

NEED LESS
 Hearts are unlikely to provide five tricks unless partner turns up with five hearts to the ace-king. You need less in clubs, since you may get five fast club tricks if partner has as little as four to the ace.

Five experts led a low club and beat three notrump. One defender played safe (?) by leading a heart. At that table, of course, South easily took the first nine tricks.

DAILY QUESTION
 Partner bids one club, you respond one heart, and he then bids two hearts. The opponents pass. You hold: ♠ K 4 3 ♥ Q 10 9 8 6 4 3 ♦ K 10 8 4 3 ♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2. What do you say?

Viets intimidated U.S. prisoners into cooperating, ex-POW says

Chicago police take a suspect identified as Louis Garcia from the scene of a shootout which occurred after two armed robberies on the city's Northwest Side. Five persons died and four were injured as a result of the confrontations. (AP Laserphoto)

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — American prisoners of war in Vietnam were intimidated into cooperating with their captors by being told "if we died that day, nobody would know," a former POW has testified during a military hearing for Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood. Army Warrant Officer Francis Anton took the stand Tuesday as the hearing resumed to determine whether Garwood will be court-martialed on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam. "I hesitate to refer to him at the time I knew him as a POW," declared Anton, who encountered Garwood, now 33, in the communist prison camps of Vietnam. Before a two-week holiday recess, Anton and other former prisoners testified last month that Garwood lived outside the prisoners' desolate compound, ate better food than other POWs and carried weapons. Garwood's lawyers on Tuesday quizzed Anton, who is now stationed at Fort Dix, N.J., in hopes of showing that Garwood was merely one of many prisoners who cooperated with the communists out of fear. Anton conceded that he and other Americans followed the orders of the communists, including writing an anti-American letter under threat of starvation. "Did you cooperate?" asked defense attorney Dale Miller. "To an extent, yes," replied Anton, explaining that POWs wrote the letter but refused to follow the communists' orders to admit to killing civilians and raping women. The letter was written, Anton said, after the communists "hinted to us we were in the jungle and nobody knew we were there ... If we died that day, nobody would know." But, Anton declared, Garwood's actions showed that he either cooperated with the Vietnamese voluntarily or he was "the greatest actor in the world." "There was no way in the world he could have perpetrated this thing without telling somebody," Anton said. Garwood, a 19-year-old jeep driver from Indiana when he disappeared near Danang in 1965, returned to the United States last March. He contends he was captured and held prisoner for nearly 14 years. Lt. Col. John Studts, Garwood's commanding officer in Vietnam, testified earlier Tuesday that Garwood disappeared after taking a jeep out on a purported driving assignment to Danang. Studts, now stationed at the Naval War College in Newport, R.I., said he felt at the time Garwood had taken an unauthorized absence but he listed him as missing to "give the benefit of the doubt." Anton, 36, described in agonizing detail the struggle for survival in the camps and the way American prisoners were psychologically pitted against each other by the communists. Anton quoted one POW who died in Vietnam as telling other prisoners, "Don't tell me anything you don't want the Vietnamese to know ... this is a jungle and we're all in it."

Married mom and son barred from contact

STAFFORD, Va. (AP) — A woman and her son, reunited in 1977 after he grew up in a foster home, have been barred by a judge from any new contact for 10 years — because they married each other. Jean Marie Lillie, 42, of Stafford County and her son, Marine Pvt. Christopher Lillie, 20, were convicted in November of incest. Stafford County Circuit Court Judge J.M.H. Willis sentenced them on Monday to five years in prison but suspended the terms on condition of 10 years good behavior. They were ordered not to meet or communicate with each other during that time. Willis also ordered both Mrs. Lillie and her son to undergo psychiatric counseling. Both went as they left the courtroom. Lillie and Mrs. Lillie admitted during their trial that they had sexual relations. An exchange of love letters between the two was introduced as evidence. Lillie testified at their trial that he considered his mother "a girl friend, a wife, a companion," didn't think of her as his "real mother" and would like to continue their illegal relationship. Incest is a felony in Virginia carrying a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison. Willis told the Lillies the purpose of the sentences levied Monday "is to help you correct the wrong situation you find yourself in." Mrs. Lillie, who has a first-grade education, sought probation and promised "not to see Chris again." Her son, who is stationed at the nearby Quantico Marine Corps base, asked for leniency. He said he was told he could remain in the military if the sentence were less than a year. "If I get a year or more in jail, my career will be terminated," he told the judge. A spokesman at the Quantico base said Tuesday that Lillie's commanding officer must forward a report of misconduct to Marine Corps headquarters. After that, he said, a final decision will be made on disciplinary action or dismissal. Under questioning by Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Charles Sharp, Lillie conceded it would be impossible for him to have a mother-son relationship with Mrs. Lillie.

One charged in Chicago in four shooting deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — One of two men allegedly involved in the holdups of a grocery and a tavern that left four people dead was charged early today with murder in one of the shootings, police say. The girl, Denise Oszkandy, later was freed and was in good condition. "They probably would have killed the little girl, too, if the police hadn't rescued her," said Nimrocks. Police said one of the alleged gunmen, Regelio Llaguno, 29, was killed in an alley. Llaguno fired once before he was hit by 18 shots fired by the police, authorities said. His alleged accomplice, Garcia, was captured after being shot in the hand as police closed in. Killed in the grocery store robbery were William Pagan, 43, his wife Aida, 38, and Juan Jimenez, 38. A store clerk, Miguel Hernandez, 40, was seriously wounded. About 20 minutes later, police said, the child's mother and a bar patron were wounded in the robbery that ended in the death of Ms. Mroz. Five persons, including a police officer, were injured and a 10-year-old girl was taken hostage during the robberies, police said. The girl, Denise Oszkandy, later was freed and was in good condition. "They probably would have killed the little girl, too, if the police hadn't rescued her," said Nimrocks. KKK may 'light a cross or two' in midst of Seadrift's tension

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ku Klux Klansmen say they will return to the fishing village of Seadrift and perhaps "light a cross or two" to press demands for an investigation of the slaying of a fisherman at the height of tensions between Texans and Vietnamese. Seadrift was torn by violence last summer but there had been no incidents recently, and Calhoun County Sheriff A.P. Lacy said Tuesday he was worried by the news of another possible KKK visit. Grand Kleagle Gene West of San Antonio said about 30 Klansmen would go to Seadrift on Jan. 19 to press for a federal civil rights investigation. "There won't be any official rally, but we might light a cross or two down there," he said. Seadrift crabber Billy Joe Aplin, 35, was shot last August in a dispute with a Vietnamese refugee over fishing customs in the tiny town 90 miles up the coast from Corpus Christi. Vietnamese boats and residences were firebombed after the slaying. Nguyen Van Sau, 21, and his 20-year-old brother Nguyen Van Chinh, were charged with murder, but were acquitted last November by an all-white jury in Seguin. Defense attorneys contended the shooting was self-defense. The brothers have left the state for an undisclosed location, but dozens of Vietnamese have remained in Seadrift to fish San Antonio Bay and work at a crab processing plant. Some KKK representatives visited the town last month on a "fact-finding" mission. West said three KKK groups have been formed in Seadrift since Aplin's slaying, and estimated 70 residents have joined the organization.

Man kills mom, wounds officer, then gives up

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A 31-year-old man, apparently depressed over personal problems, killed his mother and seriously wounded a policeman before surrendering to an officer who assured him God would forgive him, police say. Police charged David Brady, 31, with criminal homicide and two counts of criminal attempted homicide after a six-hour standoff that ended at noon Tuesday when State Police Maj. Roy Titler recited the 23rd Psalm to him. "Dear God, dear God, get this stuff out of my head," Brady, a brass worker, shouted as he left the second-floor apartment. "I felt sorry for him," Titler said. "If we wanted to kill him, we could have. But we don't do things like that." Armed police stood guard in the yard of the frame house as Titler tried to talk Brady into dropping his gun and coming down. "The first thing you ask for is forgiveness ... The Lord hears everybody, David. The Lord lives. You know it as well as I do," Titler said during his 90-minute plea. "You're only telling me church words," Brady shouted back. But he gave himself up after Titler, prompted by another state police official, began reciting parts of the 23rd Psalm. Police had climbed a ladder at about 9:30 a.m. and found the body of Brady's mother, Mildred, 63, in a bathroom. Randy Garman, 23, an Elizabethtown police officer who responded to the first report, was admitted in serious condition to Lancaster General Hospital with a gunshot wound to the head. Police said the shooting began about 6 a.m. Doris Pack, who was identified as Brady's girlfriend, escaped early in the siege. "From what we gather, the man was depressed," said Elizabethtown police chief Anthony Meridionale. "It was a combination of personal problems and health problems and working problems." He said Brady was an epileptic and was divorced. After a hearing before District Justice Harold Greiner, Brady was remanded to the Lancaster County Prison without bail. A hearing was set for Jan. 17.

Chef held as hostage

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A former kitchen helper was booked on aggravated kidnapping charges after a gunman burst into a posh New Orleans restaurant and held the chef hostage for an hour, police said. About 20 diners were rushed from the restaurant, but no one was injured. Police said the chef overpowered the gunman when the man put down his gun to light a cigarette. A police SWAT team armed with rifles surrounded the Sazerac restaurant in the Fairmont Hotel, and a special hostage negotiating team was being set up when the gunman was overpowered. Lt. Gary Kessel identified the suspect as Edward Trepagnier, 27, a former kitchen helper who had been fired, apparently after arguing with another restaurant employee.

Coast Guard talks spill strategy

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — If runaway Mexican oil returns to Texas waters this spring, efforts to fight it would resemble the battle against last summer's onslaught, says a U.S. Coast Guard official.

Recent survey flights show oil safely away from Texas below a line extending from Tampico, Mexico. Although the meeting today was closed, Hinson and others scheduled an afternoon news conference.

DALLAS — Dorchester Gas Corp. has reported an oil discovery in Campbell County, Wyo. The well, the Dome Petroleum Corp. No. 1-31 Dome Lane Ranch Federal, is pumping 422 barrels of 27-gravity oil per day from perforations between 8,619 and 8,623 feet in the Minnelusa formation.

Money may be needed at some gasohol pumps

NEW YORK (AP) — Filling up with gasohol at some oil companies' service stations means paying in cash. Exxon Corp. and Gulf Oil Corp. don't make or sell gasohol, although some of their affiliated stations sell other brands of the blend of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline.

Some wholesalers and farm cooperatives, mainly in the Midwest, buy gasoline and alcohol, combine them and sell them to independently owned service stations. The major oil companies require those stations to mark gasohol pumps to indicate that the fuel is not the oil companies' brand.

Heavy bidding pushes U.S. crude oil price close to $40

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a sudden surge of bidding, oil companies have pushed the price of oil produced by the federal government close to $40 per barrel, the Energy Department said Tuesday.

in the December auction would average about $5 per barrel. Glasgow agreed that high bids by the companies might encourage the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise its official prices, which could then stimulate still higher company bids in the competition for tight supplies, continuing the upward price spiral.

While bids could be rejected on technical grounds, Langencamp said the 1976 Naval Petroleum Reserve Production Act requires that the oil be sold to the highest bidder and does not allow the department to limit the price.
