George Meany, a gruff-talking plumber who rose to become the single most powerful force in the American labor movement, died Thursday at age

85, two months after his retirement as the only president the AFL-CIO ever had. (AP Laserphoto)

Longtime labor boss George Meany dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigar-chomping George Meany, the indomitable leader and sharp-tongued symbol of the American labor movement since the 1950s, is dead at 85.

Death came late Thursday at George Washington University Hospital, barely two months after deteriorating health forced his retirement as the only president in the AFL-CIO's 24 year existence.

The former Bronx plumber, who became one of the nation's most influential private citizens during his

Related stories, Page 9A

57-year labor career, had been hospitalized on Sunday for treatment of a painful buildup of fluid in his legs.

His condition worsened Thursday afternoon and he was transferred to the hospital's intensive care unit, according to Meany's spokesman, Albert Zack.

Meany's three daughters were with him when he died at 9:55 p.m. EST. Death was attributed to cardiac arrest, said Zack.

Mr. Labor, as Meany was known for three decades, had been confined to a wheelchair with arthritis since last spring, when he injured his knee in a golfing accident. The injury frequently left him in severe pain and his health deteriorated rapidly after that.

Having outlived most of his contemporaries, he grew despondent last March following the death of his wife of 59 years, Eugenia, and lost the drive to regain his strength, said close friends and aides.

The son of a 19th century Irish-American union leader, Meany never finished high school. But he used his keen mind, uncanny political instinct and dominating personality to unite a fractious labor movement and hold most of it together for a quarter century.

Using the 14 million-member American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations as his base, Meany became one of the most effective lobbyists in Congress, the self-appointed adviser to eight presidents and a key broker in Democratic Party politics.

With the merger of the AFL and CIO in December 1955, he ruled as the unchallenged spokesman for the American labor movement.

He presided over the labor movement during a period of relative labor peace and unprecedented prosperity for organized labor. Healthy wage gains pushed union members into the mainstream of the American middle class; the unions, their violent organizing struggles behind them, had joined the establishment.

Critics within the labor, however, complained that the movement under Meany had grown too complacent and conservative because of its success. Union membership failed to grow during the Meany era because of a lack of AFL-CIO interest in organizing the unorganized, particularly minorities and women, the critics charged.

Although Meany's authority over the AFL-CIO did not diminish as he advanced in age, some labor leaders grumbled in recent years that he was losing influence with the White House, Congress and the public.

For a decade, he spurned suggestions that he retire. It was only when his health failed that he decided to step down last November as AFL-CIO president to be succeeded by his protégé and personally selected heir, federation Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland.

From his wheelchair, a gaunt and pale Meany bade a tearful farewell to the AFL-CIO at its biennial convention.

He was known as the Honest Plumber early in his career because of his record of scrupulousness and his straightforward dealings with the mighty as well as the meek.

Throughout his public life, he was a loyal defender of the American economic system who fought to make it work more to the advantage of working Americans.

Some attack Soviets in U.N., but not Afghans

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Japan, China and Colombia attacked the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan in the U.N. General Assembly emergency debate, while the new Afghan government installed by the Russians defended them.

The United States and the Soviet Union were scheduled to speak today.

Speaking in the first session of the debate Thursday, Japanese Ambassador Masahiro Nisibori called on the Soviet Union to withdraw its troops immediately from its Central Asian neighbor and let the people of Afghanistan "solve their internal problems by themselves."

"The present crisis bears tremendous political implications, jeopardizing international peace and security and threatening the stability of the region," said Nisibori. "The Soviet actions in Afghanistan contravene international law and justice, and we find the use of force in these actions particularly deplorable."

Chief among the "internal problems" to which he referred is a rebellion by Moslem tribesmen which broke out after the Afghan communists seized control of the government in Kabul in April 1978. Despite a change of government last September, the rebels were reported to control at least half the country, and last month the Soviet government sent thousands of its troops into Afghanistan, engineered another change of government and deployed its forces around the country to help the new government put down the rebellion.

Chinese Ambassador Chen Chu accused the Soviet Union of "flagrant and massive military aggression and intervention against Afghanistan" and charged that "Soviet social-imperialism is the most dangerous source of a new world war."

Colombian delegate Indalecio Lie-

vano charged the Russians with an "arrogant abuse of power" that threatens other small nations with "a return to the law of the jungle in this era of nuclear weapons."

The Afghan delegate, Shah Mohammad Dost, asserted that "the so-called situation in Afghanistan is entirely an internal matter and poses no threat to peace in the world." He charged that the assembly special session was a throwback to "the dark days of the cold war" since it was convened under a 1950 resolution providing for recourse to the assembly when a veto blocked Security Council action.

Dost said his government requested

Soviet military aid to help defend it against attacks by "imperialists," the position taken ever since the coup Dec. 27 by the Russians and the new government.

Third World countries are expected to introduce a resolution in the next day or two calling for withdrawal of the Soviet forces from Afghanistan, and the United States and its allies are reported confident that the 152-nation assembly will approve it.

The Soviet Union on Monday vetoed a similar Security Council resolution which was supported by 13 of the other 14 council members. The Russians could not block a council resolution asking for the emergency assembly debate because it was a procedural vote in which the permanent members' veto did not apply. But the assembly can vote no punitive action if the Russians ignore its call to get out of Afghanistan.

Livestock show to open Sunday

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Some 200 Midland County youngsters in 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters will be exhibiting some 400 cattle, lambs, sheep and swine in the annual Midland County Livestock Show Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in the Midland County Exhibit Building off U.S. Highway 80 East.

"It looks like we're going to have some real quality in everything," said Midland County Agent Charlie Green, "and it looks like we're going to have the largest number of exhibitors and the largest number of animals since I've been here and that's been 30 years."

Green, who became the Midland County agent in 1949, figures that livestock shows, geared for young people in 4-H and FFA, have been held here since the late 1920s. However, fat stock shows were held in Midland early in the 1900s, he said.

The show is jointly sponsored by the Midland County Livestock Association in cooperation with county agricultural extension agents, vocational agricultural instruction in the school system and 4-H Clubs and FFA chapters countywide.

Calves, including steers and heifers, lambs, sheep, and swine will be exhibited in the show this year, and Rusty Jones, president of the livestock association, expects a unusually high turn out of pigs.

"We'll have more animals than we had last year — at least more swine will be shown this year," said Jones. He said the market is low on swine, and pigs are more affordable for the youngsters than are higher-priced cattle, and are easier to feed, groom and generally take care of than are lambs, sheep and calves.

Dirt has already been brought into the exhibit building in preparing for the show. Pens will be set up Saturday.

Afghans riot in protest of Soviet intervention

PUL-I-CHARKHI, Afghanistan (AP) — More than 800 Afghans, shouting slogans against the Soviet Union and Afghanistan's Marxist regime, stormed through the main gate of a prison here today and freed at least 12 inmates from two cell blocks. Two persons were killed when authorities quelled the riot.

It was not immediately clear whether Russian or Afghan troops fired what sounded like short bursts of automatic weapons to end the uprising about 15 miles east of the capital city.

Later, an Afghan officer stood over the two bodies just outside the main gate of the prison and shook a fist in the direction of a Russian tank crew. Western reporters were led away at gunpoint.

The incident apparently stemmed from the crowd's disappointment about the number of political prisoners set free.

About 3,000 Afghans gathered outside the high-walled prison compound to receive relatives they thought were being released. But only about 125 prisoners were freed, causing an uproar in the crowd.

A teenaged boy grabbed the jacket of an Afghan officer and with tears streaming down his face, shouted: "Where's my father, my brother?"

Tax appraisal board is officially organized

By BILL MODISSETT
Staff Writer

Members of the Midland County Tax Appraisal Board were sworn into office Thursday afternoon, although their duties are limited at the current time.

142nd District Judge Perry Pickett administered the oath of office to Gil Thompson, representing the Midland Independent School District; Fred Wright Jr., Midland College; Walter B. Holton, Midland Hospital District; Donald Lea, Greenwood school; Charlie Welch, Midland County; and Joe Nuesse, the city of Midland.

Following the swearing-in ceremony, Thompson was elected chairman and Nuesse was elected the board's secretary.

Thursday's meeting, the board's initial gathering, was called by County Attorney Leslie Acker who explained that the law creating the appraisal board, passed during last year's Legislature, didn't specify how the board was to begin operation.

So, Acker said, he took it upon himself to call the meeting, since the law specified he was to serve as legal counsel for the board.

During the half-hour meeting Thursday, the board also voted to hold future meetings when called by chairman Thompson or a majority of the board. The board plans to meet in the Commissioners' Courtroom on the second floor of Midland County Courthouse.

The next meeting has been scheduled for sometime in March. By law the board is required to meet Oct. 1 of each year.

One of the reasons for the scarcity of meetings during this initial year, Acker told the group, is a lack of operating funds and a lack of business

Gloomy picture painted

Congressman comments on world crisis

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Hostages held in Iran will be released, but not for several months, U.S. Rep. Kent Hance predicted Thursday while on a visit to Midland.

Hance, a Democrat elected two years ago to represent the 19th Congressional District, painted a picture of the U.S. and the world today in shades of gray with black thunderclouds building in the distance.

Considering the Iranian situation, U.S. dependence on Middle East oil and Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, this country is closer to war than it has been for several years, he said.

Getting the American hostages in Iran released may take as long as eight or nine months, Hance said, drawing a parallel between this situation and the incident in 1968 in which North Korea seized the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo.

"THE NO. 1 PRIORITY is to get the hostages out with their safety intact and not do anything to cause any harm to them," the congressman said.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's government is tottering on the edge in Hance's opinion. "He's only a temporary ruler and has a temporary government. Someone will come to the front and take over."

Those "students" holding the hostages actually are PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization)-trained terrorists, he added.

The congressman outlined a plan he suggested to President Carter, but which wasn't followed.

"I suggested a naval blockade of Iran," he said. "We wouldn't let any ships in or out of Iran. It would have brought them to their knees in 30 days."

"You deal from strength," he said. "We could have shown more strength in the Middle East with such a maneuver, and it would not have gotten us into war."

U.N. peacekeeper in Mideast retires

JERUSALEM (AP) — Ensis Sillasvuo, the Finnish general who sat atop the Middle East power keg for 12 years as commander of U.N. peacekeeping forces in the region, retired today to a cattle farm in his native Finland.

The 57-year-old Sillasvuo left the U.N. command 22 years after he took his first Mideast assignment with the U.N. peace force in the Sinai Desert. He is best remembered for chairing the cease-fire talks between Israel and Egypt after the October 1973 Mideast war, the first direct, public negotiations between military officers of Israel and an Arab country.

Those talks, held in a tent at the kilometer-101 signpost of the Cairo-Suez road in the Egyptian desert, paved the way for the shuttle-diplomacy mission by then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger who arranged two troop disengagements between Israeli and Arab forces.

From his command post in the old British mandate headquarters on a windswept Jerusalem hilltop, Sillasvuo commanded U.N. peacekeepers in Sinai, the Golan Heights and in southern Lebanon. He also headed the U.N. peace force on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

A U.N. spokesman said Sillasvuo would not be replaced as Coordinator of Mideast Forces, a post created in 1975.

The general, who officially ended his last tour on Dec. 31, was praised in an editorial in the English-language Jerusalem Post. Sillasvuo "leaves behind him a rich record of impartial justice and of genuine cooperation in laying the foundations of durable peace," the paper said.

Bill Creager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nance G. Creager, has been awarded the A. Henry Sara-nec Legal Scholarship. The scholarship was established to help Midland graduates with their college educations and to encourage the pursuit of legal studies.

Firefighters busy all night with two calls

Midland firemen had a busy night, responding to two major fire calls.

At 11:05 p.m., firemen responded to a call in the county on State Highway 348, a half mile south of Interstate Highway 20, on burning oil storage tanks.

On their arrival, they found the tanks and an oil sludge pit burning. The tanks were destroyed.

Firemen used 3,800 gallons of water to extinguish the fire, and returned to the station at approximately 1:15 a.m.

At 4:16 a.m. firemen were called out once again for a house fire at 3007 W. Louisiana.

Firemen found the house blazing upon their arrival and used 100 gallons of water to put out the flames.

The house, occupied by Matt Bailey and owned by Tom Craddock, received heavy damage.

Firemen returned to the station at 5:54 a.m.

Causes of both fires are unknown.

New chamber prexy

Ray Moudy has assumed the presidency of the Midland Chamber of Commerce for 1980, and congratulations and all best wishes certainly are in order for this long-time civic leader.

Moudy, who was elected at the chamber's December board meeting, is president of Citizens Savings and Loan Association. He succeeds Joe Kloesel in the chamber position.

Moudy has served the chamber of commerce in various capacities over a period of years. He has been a director of the organization since 1975, and was a vice president in 1976. He has served the last two years as treasurer. He also is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Leadership Midland Program and the Objectives for Midland Advisory Committee for the chamber. He is a director and member of the executive committee of the Midland Industrial Foundation.

He has been a director of the Midland County Chapter of the American Red Cross for 13 years, and also is on the board of United Way of Midland.

He is a past director of the Permian Basin Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society, trustee of the Firemen's Relief and Retirement Advisory Commission of the City of Midland, and the Midland County Library Advisory Board. He is a veteran member and past president of the Downtown Lions Club.

It is evident that he has managed to stay busy in civic and service club affairs, tackling his varied assignments with enthusiasm and determination. And it would appear that this experienced civic leader will be even busier in the coming months as Midland continues to forge ahead at a faster and faster pace in all areas of community progress and development.

He is fortunate in having a top-caliber team of capable, enthusiastic officer associates with whom to work. Larry Bell and Jim Crowder Sr. are vice presidents and Bill Malone Sr. is treasurer for 1980. Fred Tyler is executive vice president.

The new directors of the chamber are W.L. Barnes, Joan Baskin, Charles Fraser, Walter Hall, Bill Hickey, E.M. Miller, John Neill and Allen K. Trobaugh.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce remains in capable hands as it enters the 1980s.

Loophole of loopholes

Congress passed legislation last month to prohibit members of the House and Senate from converting unspent campaign funds to their personal use. Cases have come to light where retiring representatives have taken well-stocked campaign treasuries with them into private life.

Money contributed to political campaigns should not wind up in an office-holder's pocket. The new law provides that members of Congress who leave office with a balance in a campaign fund must turn it over to some other political committee or donate it to charity.

That's fair enough, but it turns out that the bill contains a loophole wide enough to accommodate the entire membership of the present Congress. The new law will apply only to members elected in the future. Current members will be governed only by the self-imposed rules of their respective houses of Congress. While the Senate rules forbid personal use of campaign funds by former senators, the House rules are silent on the subject.

Rep. Frank Thompson, the New Jersey Democrat who heads the House Administration Committee, offers a lame excuse for why the House insisted on exempting current office-holders from the new ban. He knows of a number of House members who have more campaign money stashed away than they ever expected to spend, and their support was needed to get the political reform bill through the House.

If it is going to be wrong for future members of Congress to take unspent campaign funds with them into retirement, it is just as wrong for present members of Congress to do so. Mr. Thompson says he may propose a new bill this year to withdraw the ridiculous exemption for current members. We hope he does so, and that Congress is embarrassed enough to pass it.

NEEDLE IN THE HAYSTACK

A CHANGING WORLD: The Veterans Administration: 'A mess'

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Columnists like this one from time to time denounce waste in welfare, food stamps, other benefits presided over by the onetime Health, Education and Welfare Department — but somehow most of us have treated lightly concerning the Veterans Administration.

As a veteran of a couple wars with great affection for the military, it is not pleasant to go after the VA — and knowing the retribution that is part of government it may not be profitable to me when the time comes for VA help in medical care.

Nonetheless, the way the VA spends $6 billion on hospital care, $12 billion on a few of its other programs (it is the fourth biggest spender in the government), is shabby in the least. One would think that with 200,000 employees, it could administer its programs with greater equity and skill. It apparently cannot. Its whole bureaucracy is a mess.

When, a few weeks ago, a St. Albans, Vt., man held a church congregation hostage with his rifle because he was frustrated over poor VA medical treatment of Vietnam War problems, he was wrong. But, he certainly did illustrate vividly the failures of the VA.

While we denounce fraud in welfare and other social programs, little is said about fraudulent payments made out month after month by the VA in disability pensions to veterans of several wars. This veteran is saddened and angered frequently to hear other vets boast about their disability benefits, when at the same time they are working at the most vigorous kind of laboring jobs. They boast about what they are doing — and the VA is too busy or too lazy to stop this stealing from American taxpayers.

At the same time that it tolerates fraud in disability pensions, the VA is guilty of cruel neglect of the Vietnam veterans. After crowing for several years that these brave men were adjusting to civilian life in fine fashion, the VA is now faced with the facts of a government study in which it was involved showing that 40 percent of those veterans suffer major emotional difficulties such as alcoholism and narcotics abuse, and 75 percent complain of nightmares, marital problems and employment difficulties.

The VA sought to suppress this report but it has been pried loose by the Vietnam Veterans of America under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.

The list of abuses, failures and neglect goes on and on. Just one more: The VA itself has just found out, and belatedly, that at the VA Medical Center in New York, surgery

CHARLEY REESE Purpose of federal aid is to enact federal control

ORLANDO, Fla. — Eventually, anybody who is a conservative will always get asked the question, "Okay, smart mouth, how would you cut the federal budget?"

Well, as the politicians say, I'm glad you asked that question. Let me say at the outset that all tax dollars come from the same pockets. The significance of that fact is that when you talk about reducing the federal budget, you are not talking about reducing available wealth, but merely about redistributing existing wealth.

In other words, if you cut the federal budget $90 billion, you haven't taken $90 billion out of circulation, you have merely left it in the pockets of the people who earned it in the first place.

With that little preface, I would propose to abolish the Department of Education and end all federal aid to education. It has never made sense from an economic point of view to take dollars from Hometown pockets, ship them to Washington, and return them to Hometown in the form of federal aid. It's kind of like shipping your daughter off to a convent school and her ending up in a brothel instead. The dollars that come back are different than the dollars that left.

For one thing, they are smaller, having shrunk by the administrative process, and for another, they return draped in federal controls. That, of course, is the purpose of federal aid — establishing federal control, not aiding anybody. It's very important to understand that principle. The purpose of federal aid is to establish federal control over social decisions. And it works.

Anything the states and communities wish to do in terms of education they would be free to do. It is simply not necessary to involve Washington in the process.

Secondly, I would propose to eliminate all federal welfare payments. Here again the principle is the same. Each state or local community can set any standards it wants in terms of distributing public aid money. There is no valid reason to involve the federal government.

Next, I would propose to abolish the Department of Energy, which has since its inception energetically consumed billions of tax dollars and inhibited the development of energy sources. There is no reason for the federal government to involve itself in the free market. What the federal government should be doing, it's not doing and that's buying oil for its strategic reserves. We should have a three-year supply on hand for military and government use in an emergency. We don't even have a year's supply.

To continue, I would propose to abolish all commissions and miscellaneous groups that are providing studies or grants for studies or endowments for the arts. The number of federal grant programs is ridiculous, almost as ridiculous as some of the alleged studies and alleged arts they subsidize. Totally unnecessary, all of them.

I would then propose to abolish the Environmental Protection Agency and to repeal the laws upon which it thrives. States can regulate their own environments and if there is need for interstate cooperation, then the separate states can form their own agreements.

What has occurred in our country, surreptitiously and under the guise of good intentions, has been the destruction of the republican form of government and the substitution of an all powerful central government. That is about the dumbest mistake a free people can make.

That's why the federal government can't do its proper job: conduct foreign policy and provide for the national defense. It's too busy doing that which properly belongs to the states.

It's no mystery why some people want an all powerful central government. If you lust to run other people's lives, it's a heck of a lot easier to get control of one government than it is to control 50. You know, the one neck, one rope bit.

A flat $1,000 a piece from 220 million Americans would provide the federal government with $220 billion a year which should be more than enough to conduct foreign policy and provide for the common defense. Social security and medicare should be funded separately and operates as a real trust fund with the proceeds invested in the private segment to earn interest and dividends.

Efficient and sensible government is possible, but to get it we must stop being federal aid junkies and return to the Constitution.

INSIDE REPORT:

More blundering in the Persian Gulf noted by columnist

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

KUWAIT — Angry U.S. diplomats throughout the Persian Gulf spent Christmas in lonely chanceries with pet dogs while their "evacuated" families were home in the states, symbolizing this harsh fact: U.S. prestige in the Arab world is lower than at any time since the late 1960s.

It is not just that diplomats miss their wives and children, needlessly sent packing by official panic in Washington after the U.S. Embassy in Pakistan was sacked. They feel it is a gratuitous insult to friendly, predictably safe Arab nations (similar to Iran and Pakistan only in being Moslem) that fits Washington's general mishandling of policy in this region.

While Arab leaders in the oil-rich gulf were offended by the evacuation of U.S. dependents, they were more seriously dismayed when the U.S. reacted against Ayatollah Khomeini by freezing Iranian assets. During a three-week reporting trip through the gulf, leaders of many countries described both events to us as the conduct of a frightened man who punches himself in the nose when faced with adversity.

What's more, even before the Iranian crisis those nations did a slow burn over President Carter's appointment of Sol Linowitz as Mideast negotiator. Linowitz is seasoned and expert in diplomacy, but the fact he is a prominent American Jewish layman tells the Arabs Carter will not apply pressure to separate Israel from its West Bank conquests and establish a Palestinian homeland.

Evans Novak

li settlements on the West Bank after Camp David sours U.S.-Arab relations east of Suez. Add to this what is perceived as a shaky U.S. reaction to the hostage crisis, and the oil states are not about to endanger themselves by firm links to Uncle Sam. That is particularly true of the small, conservative, ethnically diverse, militarily weak, immensely rich emirates of the gulf — such as Kuwait.

This was reflected by Sheikh Salem Sabah al-Sabah, a member of Kuwait's ruling family and minister of defense, in an interview with us. While Western in orientation, the cultivated Salem is not happy with policy shaped by Washington in response to the hostage crisis.

"I think they (the U.S.) displayed nervousness," he told us, criticizing evacuation of dependents. As for freezing Iranian assets, Salem declared: "It was childish. You hit me, and I'll hit you back." Pro-Western Arabs, contending pressure on the dollar from Iran could have been discounted by the world's central banks, were amazed at Carter's snap reaction without understanding implications for future investment of Arab oil revenue.

Kuwait officials were particularly unhappy over the evacuation, considering their ability to keep an anti-American demonstration of Iranian immigrants far from U.S. Embassy gates Dec. 1. But if there was some faint pretext for removing dependents from Kuwait after that single demonstration, there was none whatever in Qatar, Oman, Abu Dhabi, Dubai and probably Bahrain. Only frantic efforts by State Department Arabists kept the order from applying to — and seriously offending — Saudi Arabia.

U.S. diplomats throughout the region risked careers by protesting, in repeated telegrams to Washington, the ignorance behind the evacuation order. But these professionals sadly acknowledged the underlying U.S. problem in the Arab world is policy toward Israel that will remain unchanged at least through 1980.

For U.S. diplomats and Arab leaders, the Linowitz appointment confirmed that fact. Mohammed ibn Mubarak al Khalifa, Bahrain's foreign minister, had privately complained to the U.S. that Arabs could not take Robert Strauss seriously as Mideast negotiator because of his religion. When Strauss was replaced by Linowitz, he advised Washington to consider his previous protest duplicated. In this climate, sympathy for the U.S. plight in Tehran is diluted. Sheikh Salem voiced suspicion to us that Washington might have engineered the hostage situation to justify U.S. military intervention. It was a view we heard repeatedly from Arabs.

The gulf oil states are not inclined to be helpful. After privately promising to increase oil production, Abu Dhabi is reducing it. Its neighboring emirate, Dubai, is selling on the spot market. Kuwait sets the style: less oil, higher prices. Kuwait wants no part of a U.S. military presence and refused, as a U.N. Security Council member, to back sanctions against Iran.

It is understandable. Kuwait is menaced at home and abroad: at home by 300,000 immigrants from the Palestinian diaspora and by Kuwaiti youth deploring military service when so much money is to be made; abroad by revolutionary regimes in Iran and Iraq, by Soviet troops pouring into Afghanistan and by the growing Soviet naval presence. Given such adversity, Persian Gulf Arabs hesitate to rely on a far away power whose response to pressure is sending home wives and children of its diplomats.

Former Alabama governor to undergo minor surgery

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace is planning to undergo minor surgery Jan. 15 at a Montgomery hospital, Wallace spokesman Elvin Stanton says.

Stanton said Thursday that the surgery is designed to clear up a skin irritation problem on Wallace's hip that was caused by prolonged pressure.

Wallace has been confined to a wheelchair since a 1972 assassination attempt while he was campaigning in Maryland for the Democratic nomination for president.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, suffering from progressive lung and kidney failure, remained in very serious condition today at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, hospital officials said.

Douglas, 81, was admitted to the hospital on Christmas Eve with pneumonia.

Philadelphia cheerleader killed in auto-truck crash

PAOLI, Pa. (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles fans' favorite Liberty Belle cheerleader, Cheryl R. Frey, has died in a car-tractor trailer collision in Chester County, state police said.

Authorities said her southbound compact car collided with the truck in the northbound lane of Route 202 in East Whiteland Township early Thursday.

Mrs. Frey, 25, of Kenilworth, was one of two new Liberty Belles cheerleaders for the National Football League team selected at a pre-season audition in April 1979.

In two Philadelphia newspaper polls, Mrs. Frey, dubbed "Cheerful Cheryl," was voted the fans' favorite.

"It's a great loss to all of us," said Caroline Cullum, the founder of the Liberty Belles.

"All of my girls and all of those in the Eagles organization are very, very sad. It's so tragic when someone so young, so spirited, so vibrant and in love with life is taken," she said.

"It's a great tragedy for such a lovely young lady to have her life wiped out," said Eagles' Public Relations Director Jim Gallagher. "We are just very saddened."

Mrs. Frey's car was struck in the left lane of the four-lane divided highway and was pushed about 30 feet by the truck, coming to rest against a guard rail, investigating troopers said.

She was pronounced dead at Paoli Memorial Hospital at 2:28 a.m. Police said the driver of the truck, Leon Butler Jr. of Sadsburyville, Chester County, suffered only minor injuries.

At the time of her death, Mrs. Frey was employed by a law firm in Kenilworth. She also had been a successful saleswoman for the United Biscuit Co. in Reading, Miss Cullum said.

'50s rock'n'roll composer Williams found dead from apparent suicide

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Larry Williams, composer of such 1950s rock'n'roll hits as "Short Fat Fanny" and "Bony Moronie," is dead, apparently of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, coroner's and police spokesmen said.

Williams, 44, zoomed to the top of the record charts in 1957 with his two best known compositions, then faded into obscurity after his last successful record, "Dizzy Miss Lizzie" in 1958, and his arrest on narcotics possession charges in 1959.

Singer Little Richard sang "Precious Lord" at Williams' funeral, which was held Thursday with burial later at Inglewood Park Cemetery.

Williams' body, with a gunshot wound in the head, was found Jan. 2 by his mother, who was worried that she hadn't heard from him and asked a locksmith to let her into his Laurel Canyon home.

Mondale, Kennedy clash over grain embargo issue

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) — The partial U.S. grain embargo against the Soviet Union is dominating the headlines in Iowa and touching off the most acrimonious controversy of the 1980 presidential campaign.

Two old friends, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Vice President Walter F. Mondale, clashed Thursday over the embargo issue, which Kennedy clearly hopes will give him an edge in this farmbelt state's precinct caucus Jan. 21.

Most Republican candidates also are criticizing Carter for the embargo — to the consternation of four conservative political organizations.

Campaigning in Iowa on behalf of President Carter and himself, Mondale said that by opposing the embargo, Kennedy was pursuing "the politics of the moment." Mondale said presidential candidates had to choose between the politically safe course and the patriotic choice.

Kennedy's first response, in Springfield, Ill., was low-key. Asked about Mondale's remarks, Kennedy said, "I would certainly reject that suggestion."

But when he landed at the airport in Omaha, Neb., enroute to nearby Council Bluffs, Kennedy was ready with a sharper response.

Speaking in measured tones at a news conference, Kennedy said, "I don't think I or the members of my family need a lecture from Mr. Mondale or anyone else on patriotism."

The Massachusetts senator added: "I have too high a regard for Vice President Mondale to question his decency or his loyalty or his patriotism."

Kennedy recalled the days when he and Mondale served in the Senate together and were among the opponents to U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

"As one who took strong dissent to the war in Vietnam and was joined by the vice president in that dissent, I'm used to the suggestion that unless we conform to administration policy one might make the point that someone is somehow unpatriotic," he said.

In campaign appearances in every section of Iowa this week, Kennedy has concentrated his fire on the grain embargo, calling it a decision that will hurt American farmers and taxpayers more than the Soviet Union. California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., another Carter challenger, also has been critical of the embargo.

Carter ordered the action last Friday in retaliation for the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Campaigning in Waterloo, Iowa, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Thursday: "Those in agriculture are raising sharp questions about the record of the Carter administration in agricultural policies. They are doing so because that record does not demonstrate an understanding of farmers' problems or, for that matter, much concern over those problems."

Reagan and most of his fellow GOP presidential contenders have been specifically critical of the grain embargo, a stance that has left the leaders of at least four conservative political groups disappointed.

"We don't understand the Republican presidential candidates," said Paul A. Weyrich, director of the Committee for Survival of a Free Congress. "They are putting their careers in the Iowa caucuses ahead of the national security. We are disappointed in them."

Joining Weyrich in that assessment were the leaders of the Conservative Caucus, the National Conservative Political Action Committee and the Moral Majority.

The groups said they were aiming their criticism at Reagan, Sens. Howard Baker and Robert Dole, Rep.

Philip Crane, former CIA Director George Bush and former Texas Gov. John Connally.

The conservatives cited Rep. John Anderson as one Republican who has been courageous enough to support Carter's embargo.

In other developments Thursday: —Treasury Secretary William Miller announced that Baker and Crane would get Secret Service protection starting today. Bush, Connally, Dole and Brown are expected to be assigned guards shortly.

—The League of Women Voters invited Carter, Kennedy and Brown to debate in New Hampshire on Feb. 19, one week before the Democratic primary in that state. There was no immediate reaction from the candidates, but a spokeswoman for the Carter campaign said the president would consider the request. Brown and Kennedy are considered certain to accept if the president does.

—The Justice Department filed written arguments against a request that high Carter administration officials be required to file depositions on an emergency basis in a suit filed by Kennedy backers. The suit claims the president's subordinates are trying to buy Carter's nomination with federal funds. The department said any emergency was of the Kennedy backers' own making since they did not file their suit until Dec. 28.

—A copyrighted poll in today's Des Moines, Iowa, Register shows Reagan dropping sharply in popularity among Iowa Republicans while Carter has overtaken Kennedy among Democrats.

Midland's Reagan panel named

Names of members on the Midland County steering committee for the Ronald Reagan for President campaign have been announced.

Robert Monaghan, Republican district committeeman and regional chairman of the Reagan campaign, said the Gallup Poll released Sunday shows Reagan — without Ford running — would win 47 percent of the GOP voters.

Looking at other top contenders for the Republican nomination, John Connally and Howard Baker each received 12 percent while former Midlander George H.W. Bush pulled in 8 percent of the voters.

Monaghan also pointed out that 60 percent of the State Republican Executive Committee are supporting Reagan and their names are on a state leadership list.

Midlanders on the local committee include G. Thane Akins, Mrs. Ernest Angelo Jr., Dr. Louis B. Barkley, J.C. Barnes Jr., Carlton Beal Sr., Mrs. Dan P. Black, Fritz W. Breckenridge, Rusty Buckingham, A.J. Cain, Wesley Chalfant, Ford Chapman, M.G. "Pete" Crain, Steve Davidson, Phillip D. Dunford, Jay E. Floyd, Mrs. John A. Freeman.

Tass critical of Meany

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency said today that George Meany was a "rabid anti-Communist."

In its report on the American labor leader's death, Tass said:

"G. Meany was known as an advocate of the concept of 'peace among classes' and an apologist of the capitalist system, a rabid anti-communist who was against the establishment of contacts between the trade unions of the U.S.S.R. and the United States."

The quotable Meany

WASHINGTON (AP) — Throughout his long career, George Meany was rarely without a colorful barb or ready retort. Some samples:

Showing a union president's young son his office, only a block from the White House, Meany pointed out his window to the executive mansion. "Do you know why my office is here?" he asked. "Because the people of this country need me to watch whoever is living there."

To Jimmy Carter, when he was preparing to debate Gerald Ford during the 1976 presidential campaign:

"Governor, when you debate him tonight, don't think of him as the president of the United States. Think of him as just a congressman from Grand Rapids. That's all he is and that's all he'll ever be."

In 1971, President Nixon's labor secretary, James D. Hodgson, said Meany was "out of step" with American workers in criticizing Nixon's wage-price freeze.

Meany's response: "I don't pay much attention to the secretary of labor. After all, when you have a problem with the landlord, you don't discuss it with the janitor."

When the Ford administration complained about American longshoremen boycotting shipments of grain to the Soviet Union in 1975, Meany told reporters, "foreign policy is too damn important to be left to the secretary of state."

In 1953, Teamster Union President Dave Beck (whose union Meany later expelled from the AFL-CIO for corruption) lectured the federation on how to invest its funds. Meany, exasperated, told Beck: "You're a good businessman. You belong in the business world, not the labor world."

Invited to the French Embassy in 1955 to muffle his criticism of continued French colonialism in Tunisia, Meany listened to an expert enumerate the reasons why Tunisia was better off under French rule.

Asked if he had any questions, Meany said: "Just one, when are you fellows going to quit kicking the Tunisians around?"

Meany once attended a seminar on economics, but disagreed with the professor conducting it. When the man finished, Meany asked, "What are you a doctor of?" Economics, the man said. Meany replied, "Oh, from your questions, I thought you were a dentist."

Meany, again on economics: "Of course I'm not an economist, a fact for which I give thanks every night."

On ideology: "Ideology is baloney."

When a man mentioned to Meany in 1970 that America's workers seemed to be getting younger and younger, Meany shot back: "They are like hell getting younger and younger. I'm not getting younger and younger and I'm still working."

Meany called 'towering figure'

By The Associated Press

Words like "giant" and "towering figure" were a common theme running through reaction to the death of labor leader George Meany.

From politicians and statesmen to the rank-and-file labor leaders he led for 57 years, Meany was lauded as a man who stamped his ideas on the face of organized labor in the United States.

President Carter said Meany was "an American institution" who "changed the shape of our nation for the better in hundreds of ways, great and small, through the force of his character and the integrity of his beliefs."

"Like seven of my predecessors, I was privileged to benefit from his straightforward counsel," Carter said.

"A giant has fallen and freedom has lost a friend," said Labor Secretary Ray Marshall. "I have lost a dear and wise adviser and we have all lost a great American, a man of deep compassion, conviction and strength. He leaves a legacy to all of us of a better, more decent and equitable society. Working people throughout the world live fuller, safer lives today because of George Meany."

Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, who was associated with Meany as special counsel to the AFL-CIO in the late 1950s, characterized his former boss as a "towering figure on the national scene. His death is a grave loss to the workers of America and the free world."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., campaigning for the presidency in Iowa, said, "George Meany was my friend and a giant for America's labor. He was a great American and all of us will miss him."

The reaction was even more personal for some of those closest to Meany over the years.

"I feel like I've lost my grandfather," said Allen Zack, who succeeds his father, Albert, today as chief spokesman for the AFL-CIO. It was a dramatic coincidence that the elder Zack, who had been Meany's spokesman for 22 years, retired today.

"In the time of midgets in public life, he was a giant," Allen Zack said. "He was one of the best known and most beloved public figures you could find."

Douglas Fraser, president of the United Auto Workers, said, "The American labor movement owes a great deal to the courage and the tenacity of George Meany. He spent his life seeking economic dignity for working people."

William Lindner, president of the Transport Workers Union, said, "Working men and women of America have lost a great leader and spokesman."

New York Gov. Hugh L. Carey announced that all flags would be flown at half-staff on state buildings today in Meany's memory. "He was a New Yorker who never forgot his home state, a man of deep religious faith, and he was a great American," said Carey. "I was privileged to be his friend."

Michael Mann, director of the AFL-CIO region covering New York, New Jersey and Puerto Rico — the organization's largest — said Meany "was a blunt man of total integrity whose dedication to the trade union movement was exceeded only by his love of America."

William Robertson, executive secretary of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, called Meany "an inspirational leader for the entire labor movement. He brought us integrity and was what we termed a 'labor statesman.'"

Dr. David Hyatt, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, said Meany was a "courageous pioneer of the American labor movement... a man for the people and of the people. His dedication to equal opportunity and equal justice for everyone is a legacy that is unsurpassed."

Meany's career at-a-glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the highlights in the 57-year career of George Meany, the former AFL-CIO president who died Thursday at the age of 85:

1922: He is elected to his first full-time union job — business agent for his Plumbers local in the Bronx for $60 a week. He never wields a wrench for pay again.

1934: He is chosen president of the New York State Federation of Labor. During the next year, he wins passage of a record 72 pro-labor bills, including the nation's first unemployment insurance law.

1939: He becomes secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor and comes to Washington, a move that changes life in the nation's capital for the next four decades.

1952: He is elected president of the AFL upon William Green's death. He solidifies power by taming opponents, expels corrupt unions and looks toward reunifying the labor movement.

1955: He helps guide the merger of the AFL and Congress of Industrial Organizations, which broke away in 1935. CIO President Walter Reuther agrees to let Meany become the federation's president.

1957: He expels the AFL-CIO's largest affiliate, the Teamsters, for corruption. For the next 22 years, he bars the union's return.

1964: He engineers passage of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act

— the section that bars discrimination in employment. It is, perhaps, his greatest legislative accomplishment.

1968: Reuther leads his United Auto Workers out of the AFL-CIO because of a growing feud with Meany, who never realizes his cherished goal of a fully united labor movement.

1971-72: Meany backs President Richard Nixon's Vietnam war policies but rages over Nixon's wage-price controls, calling them anti-worker. Nixon says Meany is out of step with his members, and the AFL-CIO president's public standing is at a low point. Meany also draws the ire of liberal Democrats for staying neutral in the 1972 election rather than supporting George McGovern over Nixon.

1974: He becomes the first national figure to call for Nixon's impeachment and admits he was wrong to support the Vietnam war.

1978: Despite a big Democratic majority in Congress and a Democratic president the AFL-CIO helped elect, he fails to win passage of a bill to "reform" the nation's labor laws. It is viewed as a big setback and a sign of Meany's declining influence.

1979: Six months after becoming crippled by arthritis, he announces through his designated successor, secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, that he will not seek a 13th two-year term.

President's statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the text of President Carter's statement, issued by the White House press office, on the death of George Meany:

George Meany was an American institution. He changed the shape of our nation for the better in hundreds of ways, great and small, through the force of his character and the integrity of his beliefs. His strengths were the strengths of the American labor movement: courage, practical idealism, compassion and an unshakable commitment to human dignity and human rights.

Above all, George Meany was a patriot. He expressed his love for our country by fighting to make it a better place in which to work and live. He came out of the building trades and in a lifetime of public leadership, he never stopped building. He left America a freer, stronger, more just society than he found it.

George Meany's enduring monument will be the united free trade union movement he helped create and led so long and so well. But his vision of labor's role was a broad one and his life's work also served millions throughout the world who never held a union card. He was an enemy of totalitarianism in all its forms, a fighter for social justice at home and abroad and a friend of freedom everywhere.

George Meany was a counselor of presidents who never lost the common touch. Like seven of my predecessors, I was privileged to benefit from his straightforward counsel.

London man beats record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Only astronauts and cosmonauts have circled Earth faster than David Springbett, but only the 41-year-old London insurance executive changed vehicles five times en route.

Springbett smashed the Guinness Book of World Records mark for circling the globe on scheduled airlines by more than nine hours and returned to Los Angeles International Airport on Thursday, just 44 hours and six minutes after he departed.

In addition to beating the 53-hour 34-minute scheduled airlines record set in 1978 by three Australian journalists, Springbett also surpassed a 45-hour, 19-minute circumnavigation record set in 1957 by three B-52 bombers that were refueled in flight.

"I guess I'm the fastest ever within the atmosphere," said Springbett, arriving here with only two hours sleep over two days. Astronauts have orbited the Earth in about 90 minutes.

Springbett credited the 1,400 mph British-French Concorde, which flew from London to Singapore Wednesday, with helping him set the record. He also credited a Scandinavian Airlines flight from Bangkok, Manila and Tokyo with helping to cut more than an hour from his 46-hour goal.

Arriving in Tokyo ahead of schedule also allowed him to catch an earlier Pan Am flight to Honolulu.

He said a doctor pronounced him "in great shape" after the trip.

"The doctor said my blood pressure was up very slightly. But that could be due to giving interviews for the last half hour and shaking a lot of peoples' hands."

Springbett, with his arm around a stewardess, was asked how he felt. "To tell you the truth," he chuckled, "I am feeling very randy."

Springbett changed planes five times during the trip that took him from Los Angeles to London, Bahrain, Singapore, Bangkok, Manila, Tokyo and Honolulu as a first-class passenger. He flew economy class on the last leg to Los Angeles.

IRA man gets asylum

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A former member of the Irish Republican Army who claims he would be killed if he is sent back to Great Britain should be given political asylum in the United States, a federal administrative law judge has ruled.

Judge Chester Sipkin of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said Thursday that Peter McMullen, 32, was not subject to deportation to the Republic of Ireland.

Sipkin's ruling is subject to review and possible appeal to the Board of Immigration Appeals, said INS regional Director David Ilchert.

Ilchert said the INS would continue to study the possibility of deporting McMullen — a native of Northern Ireland and a citizen of both Great Britain and Ireland — to England or some other country.

England has sought his extradition to face charges of attempted murder in two alleged bombings of British military installations.

Teh jailed for '79 riot

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Police said today that one of Taiwan's leading dissidents, Shih Ming Teh is in prison, but denied rumors that he was secretly tried and executed.

Shih, 38, a former magazine editor, is in custody and awaiting trial on charges he incited an anti-government riot Dec. 10, Taiwan's garrison command said. No trial date was set, they said.

A government official, denying the rumor of Shih's execution, said, "We are a constitutional country run by the law." Another official called the rumor "hogwash."

Police have accused Shih of being the ringleader of a demonstration by 400 dissidents that turned into a riot in the southern city of Kaohsiung. He eluded police who raided his home three days later but was caught earlier this week.

Ms. Piatelli abducted

ROME (AP) — Three masked gunmen kidnapped the 27-year-old daughter of Italian men's fashion king Bruno Piatelli after knocking her out with chloroform, police said.

The pistol-wielding abductors grabbed Barbara Piatelli Thursday night as she stepped out of her car in her apartment garage, dragged her into their black sedan and sped away, police said.

Miss Piatelli, and her mother had left her office in downtown Rome in Miss Piatelli's car about 7:30 p.m. and arrived at their cooperative apartment in the fashionable Flaminio district about 30 minutes later, police said.

Government to ask for Olympic boycott?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has concluded that it does not have the power to enforce an American boycott of the Olympics, casting doubt on U.S. ability to employ that sanction against the Soviet Union.

The most President Carter could do would be to ask for a voluntary boycott by athletes and spectators on grounds the Games should not be held in Moscow while Soviet troops are in Afghanistan, officials said Thursday.

Speaking on the condition that they not be named, the officials acknowledged that Carter would be unlikely to ask for such a boycott unless there was certainty his call would be heeded.

With such support appearing unlikely at the moment, the administration has decided to adopt a low-key policy of keeping the idea of a boycott alive and waiting to see how events in Afghanistan and elsewhere affect public attitudes, the officials said.

"We are opposed to the infusion of politics, national or international, into the worldwide Olympic movement," United States Olympic Committee spokesman Bob Paul said Thursday.

Individual athletes have voiced similar sentiments. "A boycott seems to have no value at all," said Al Oerter, four-time Olympic discus champion, who is making a comeback this year in hopes of winning a fifth gold medal at age 44.

Even if American athletes and officials supported a voluntary boycott, the Carter administration would want to be assured of support from other Western nations before proposing it, officials said.

It would be a propaganda victory for the Soviets if the United States isolated itself among the nations of the world in refusing to attend the Games on moral grounds. The implication would be that those nations that did participate approved the Soviet action. Thus far, only Saudi Arabia has announced a boycott because of the Afghan invasion.

Mario Vasquez Rana, president of the Mexican Olympics Committee, warned Thursday that if the United States boycotts the Moscow Games this year, it can expect a similar boycott of the 1984 Olympics, scheduled to be held in Los Angeles.

He said Mexico would participate in those 1984 Games even if there is a boycott this year in Moscow, but suggested many other countries probably would not.

Vice President Mondale said Thursday in Des Moines, Iowa, that he personally feels the 1980 Games ought to be moved to Montreal or Munich, sites of the 1976 and 1972 Games.

Mondale's idea would have to be approved by the International Olympic Committee, which has already voiced its intent to go ahead with the Games in Moscow.

But officials said if the Mondale statement kept debate over a boycott alive, it would have served its purpose.

Meanwhile, the State Department insisted Thursday that it is "very pleased" with the response of American allies to President Carter's campaign to use economic sanctions in retaliation for the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Western European allies, Canada and Australia have given assurances that they will not try to sell the Soviets grain to make up for the 17 million tons that the United States is withholding from the Russians.

President Carter announced the embargo on shipments of grain to the Soviets last week, but has drawn criticism from other presidential candidates who have said American farmers will be hurt and the Russians will buy grain elsewhere on the world market.

But the State Department spokesman said U.S. allies will take appropriate steps to make sure that they do not make up the shortfall with extra sales to the Soviets.

Rebel leaders blast U.S. at meeting in Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Revolutionaries from 14 countries are meeting in Tehran to decide what they have in common while blasting the United States, the deposed Shah of Iran and the Camp David agreement that brought peace between Israel and Egypt.

The Iranian militants who seized the American hostages in Tehran 10 weeks ago are sponsoring the seven-day-old gathering of international liberation movements.

Young troopers from Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary guard patrol the steel fence ringing the meeting hall at the old Imperial Hotel, renamed the Hotel Ghods, or Goodness, by the new regime. They carry Israeli-made Uzi submachine guns, presumably taken from the Shah's arsenal after his overthrow last January.

In the hotel ballroom, about 50 delegates sit at long tables listening to speeches recounting the histories of their struggles, and denouncing imperialism, colonialism, Zionism, racism, as well as "criminal and world-devouring America." The speeches are translated into Persian, the Iranian language, as well as Arabic and English.

The ballroom walls are hung with posters of Khomeini and quotes from his speeches. State television crews have been video-taping the sessions, which get prominent play on the nightly news.

The delegates, including two women, have at least one thing in common. They want to change the world, quickly and radically.

One delegate said the aims of the unprecedented gathering are to expose American imperialism, to understand Iran's revolution, to exchange ideas on running liberation movements and to present a united front for oppressed peoples.

The meeting appeared to hit a snag Thursday when the convention's deputy chairman, Walid Wazir, a top commander in Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, prepared to read the final communique. One delegate objected, demanding open debate on the document.

Somalia, Sudan may get jet fighters from China

WASHINGTON (AP) — China may provide some jet fighters to strengthen Somalia and Sudan, two African nations once friendly to the Soviet Union, U.S. intelligence sources say.

Representatives of Somalia and Sudan, which bracket pro-Russian Ethiopia, were reported to have visited Peking separately last month to wrap up deals for Chinese-manufactured F-6 jet fighters.

American analysts say the Chinese move seems part of a long-term effort by the Peking government to counter Soviet influence in Africa. They doubt it is in response to Russia's invasion of Afghanistan. The sources asked not to be named.

Sextuplets born in Italy

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Rosanna Cavigli gave birth to sextuplets today in a Florence hospital and doctors said the four boys and two girls had a good chance of surviving.

The infants were in good health and weighed between 2.2 and 4.4 pounds each at birth, the hospital announced.

Mrs. Cavigli gave birth in the 35th week of pregnancy, doctors said. It was not immediately known whether she had taken fertility drugs. Her age and other details were not immediately available.

Although as many as 10 children have been reported in multiple births this century, the highest number surviving has been six — sextuplets born to a South African woman in 1974.

Octuplets were born last August in Naples, Italy, but only two of the eight survive.

Miniatures on display at library

A collection of military miniatures is being displayed at Midland Public Library during this month.

The display case is located to the left of the south entrance to the library.

John Deats, owner of the collection, has been collecting toy soldiers since a child. His first soldiers came in a Ben-Hur set he received for Christmas at age 7. Many of the soldiers, made of rubber, plastic and metals, have been hand-painted by the collector.

"I believe that a childhood interest in toy soldiers can lead to a later desire to learn more of history. Military history can, in turn, serve as a gateway to further study of societies — for instance, their economies, values and levels of technology," said Deats.

In the upper right hand side of the display case is an assortment of soldiers from different eras. Included are an ancient Greek warrior, mounted English knights made in England, crusaders made in France and 15th Century archers from England.

Contemporary soldiers from England include a palace guard, soldiers from the Queen's cavalry and a Bee-feater. Three soldiers from Wales — Officer of the Life Guards, a Highlander and a Piper — also are shown on this same shelf.

On the bottom right shelf are intricate German castles made of paper and constructed by Deats and his wife, and medieval warriors in a battle scene.

The entire bottom left of the case consists of a detailed scene of the Battle of Waterloo. All of the soldiers, Prussian, English and French troops, were made in England and painted by Deats. As a backdrop to this battle scene are plaques made by Mary and Annabeth Deats, mother and sister of Deats. The plaques depict prints of famous paintings of the same battle.

The top left shelf holds plastic tanks, "the specialty" of Deats, head librarian at Midland County Library. They are all modern battle tanks from NATO countries and Russia, including the Stalin, Leopard, M-103 and Centurion.

Mary L. Cassidy to review book

Mary Lou Cassidy will review Erma Bombeck's newest book, "Aunt Erma's Cope Book" for American Association of University Women members and their friends at the annual guest night dinner.

The event is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Coors Hospitality Room, Highway 80.

Midlanders are familiar with Ms. Cassidy from her many theatre roles and humorous book reviews. She is a longtime member of the Midland Community Theatre and can be remembered in Stagnasia of TV fame. She was a member of the Theatre's company that took the play, "An American Dream," to the 1965 Amateur Theatre Festival in Monaco. There Ms. Cassidy played the role of an 86-year-old woman. She has also been program director for KNFM radio.

She received her doctorate degree in law from Texas Tech University and is now a member of the firm of Stubbeman, McRae, Sealy, Laughlin and Browder.

Members may make reservations for the dinner by calling 682-5647 by Friday.

Designers blast off with futuristic fashions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Blending punk rock, Star Trek and California dreamin', the West's wildest new designers have blasted off a futuristic fashion package to take women through the '80s — or outer space.

They predicted the far-out designs would be in the American woman's wardrobe by spring.

"In these clothes, when a woman enters the room, people's mouths will drop to their knees," said designer Gregory Poe.

There was some jaw-dropping at the California Fashion Mart on Thursday as models paraded in plastic dresses, ballooning parachute-fabric pants and silicone earrings which made it seem the wearer had horns growing out of her ears.

Poe calls the earrings part of a "playful look" in clothing. "I want women and men to be able to play with what they're wearing," said the 23-year-old designer who wore billowing black pants and red boots with pointed toes.

The punk rock look — short-cropped hair, exaggerated makeup, sinister colors — inspired Elsa Lesso of Zoe whose entire collection was stark black with touches of white.

"You pick things up from the street, from punk rock, and transfer it to high fashion," said Ms. Lesso who wore a black billowing fur jacket over black leotards.

Her designs included a strapless pedal-pusher jumpsuit, the biggest, bulkiest, baggy pants yet and T-shirts which plunged open down the back.

"No one could really wear these clothes to their job," conceded Ms. Lesso. "They're for fun."

The outer space mood landed in styles by Marlene Stewart whose bright red, pink and purple jumpsuits were padded, raised or rolled at the shoulders, zipped tight to the neck and decorated with lightning-bolt appliques.

Ms. Stewart even designed miniature lavender space suits for two attention-getting models. Monica Lee and Christina Parmelli, both 10 years old, wore heavy makeup and moved seductively in spike heels, added a dash of decadence to this fashion future-vision.

Blazing combinations of pink, purple and green showed up in outfits by Pamela Dewey. Toppings, Beatrice Ferrara, Chenault and Construction Co. Some models wore sunglasses to cut the glare.

Doctors warn of freezing to death

NEW YORK (AP) — With fuel prices soaring and temperatures plunging, doctors are warning of the danger of freezing to death in chilly houses and apartments.

The number of persons who die of hypothermia — literally too little body heat — has been rising since 1974, the year world oil prices started to climb. The condition is especially dangerous for the very old, very young, mentally infirm or chronically ill.

Hypothermia can strike some people when room temperatures are only as low as 65 degrees, doctors say. And even if a victim is discovered and rewarmed, there are a variety of potentially fatal complications including heart problems and pneumonia.

"People who live in low-income, substandard housing are especially vulnerable," said Dr. John L. Roglieri, head of the emergency room at Presbyterian Hospital, where doctors and nurses staged a demonstration Thursday of how to treat hypothermia.

The number of freezing deaths nationally hovered around 400 a year in the early 1970s, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. But when fuel prices began to rise, deaths rose too, from 348 in 1974 to 634 in 1977, the most recent year for which data are available. The death rate for persons over 65 doubled in that time.

But Dr. Nicholas Rango of Barnard College said the death statistics understate the problem.

"When a person dies of cold, and the body is not discovered until later, it is unlikely that cold will be recorded as the cause of death, especially if there is some other underlying condition," he said.

Rango said hypothermia can worsen a number of chronic conditions like heart, kidney and lung disease, and causes a variety of still poorly understood physiological damage.

DEAR ABBY

Abby becomes sitting duck

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your non-answer to the grandmother who refused to babysit for free except in cases of emergency. She asked how YOU handled the babysitting problem, and you said, "I have no sitting problems because my grandchildren live 2,000 miles away. But if they lived in the same town, I'd have to draw straws with the other grandmother because she loves to sit. Bless her."

That's easy for you to say, Abby. Living 2,000 miles away, you're not likely to be called upon to babysit.

Instead of making her feel guilty, you should have told NO SITTER that she had every right to refuse to be an unpaid sitter. — LET DOWN IN DENVER

DEAR LET DOWN: I plead not guilty to laying a guilt trip on NO SITTER, but judging from the hate mail I received, you weren't the only one who misunderstood me.

Read on: DEAR ABBY: Nuts to you with your answer to the grandmother who told her daughter-in-law not to count on her to sit for free while Mom and Dad went off gallivanting.

I raised my children, and I expect them to raise theirs. Oh, I'd help out in an emergency, but they know they can't just ring me up to come over and mind the kids, or dump them on me anytime they have a notion to.

When my children were little, my husband and I went only to places we could take the kids, or we stayed home. My children were MY responsibility to raise — not my mother's. — JUNE IN STRONGSVILLE, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Who are you trying to kid? You say you would love to babysit with your grandchildren but they live 2,000 miles away. Boy, are you ever safe! Somehow you just don't strike me as a babysitting kind of grandmother. With all the work you have to do writing your column and running around the country making speeches, when would you have time? — CYNICAL IN SENECA, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I'm the mother of four children under 10, and here's the way I feel about asking my mother to babysit. I think she owes it to me. Yes, that's what I said. I was the oldest of seven kids, and I missed out on plenty of fun because my mother made me stay home and take care of my little brothers and sisters. (She used to tell everybody she had a "free, built-in babysitter.")

My mother was hardly ever home when I was in my teens. She didn't have to be gone, she was mostly just out having a good time. Mom has arthritis now and can't dance anymore. It's hard for her to get around, so she's available for sitting when I need her, which makes it nice for me. I really don't feel one bit guilty asking Mom to stay with my kids. I sure stayed with hers enough. — MY TURN IN MEMPHIS

DEAR ABBY: I raised my five children without any sitters because we couldn't afford them. Now that they have children of their own and can afford to hire sitters, that's what they do.

I don't want a babysitting job, with or without pay.

Grain mart shows signs of stability

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices on Midwest commodity exchanges are showing the first signs of stability since President Carter partially embargoed shipments of grain to the Soviet Union.

A burst of foreign buying provided a late recovery Thursday, while in Washington, U.S. officials insisted they were "very pleased" with the response of American allies to the decision to withhold 17 million metric tons of grain and soybeans from the Soviets.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Western European allies, Canada and Australia had given assurances that they will not try to sell the Soviets grain to make up for the amount embargoed by the United States.

The Argentine government, however, said it would not participate in the boycott.

Commodity brokers said they were both surprised and heartened by the recovery, which stemmed a price slide following Carter's announcement of steps to retaliate for Soviet moves in Afghanistan.

"There was very heavy commercial buying in all areas, primarily due to the exporters," a long-time broker said.

Several large exporting firms were reportedly buying contracts for delivery late this year and early next year for China, Brazil and some European countries.

Most traders said they did not expect the market to rally as much as it did because of the glut of grain in the domestic market from the embargo.

Prices of wheat, oats and corn still closed sharply lower Thursday. On Wednesday, the first day trading was permitted after Carter's announcement, prices tumbled the daily limit set by exchanges within the opening seconds and effectively halted trading for the day.

Prices of corn, wheat and oats again plunged the limit at the opening of trade Thursday, but brokers said the low prices triggered buying interest and trading quickly resumed.

Under exchange rules, futures contracts can not go lower than the stated limit in a single trading day but trading resumes if there are buy orders above that.

At the close of trading Thursday price of soybeans rose on the Chicago Board of Trade to $6.31 1/4 a bushel for January contracts, up 18 1/2 cents. Wheat, corn and oats closed down, but not as far as they had been earlier in the day. March wheat was down 10 1/4 cents to $4.15 1/4 a bushel, March corn was off 9 cents to $2.65 1/4 and March oats were 6 cents lower to $1.42 1/4 a bushel.

In other developments: —The head of the West German dock workers' union was quoted in an interview published today as saying his members will not unload Soviet vessels that have been refused at American ports due to a boycott by U.S. longshoremen at East Coast and Gulf ports.

—Longshoremen continued to load corn onto a Soviet freighter in Sacramento, Calif., today despite telephone threats to blow up the ship and kill the longshoremen's union president.

—A senior agriculture official raised the possibility that the government, which has promised to buy huge quantities of corn and wheat destined for the Soviet Union, might sell the contracts rather than take delivery.

FBI investigates mine report as Soviet ship takes on corn

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Corn poured into a Soviet ship early today as the FBI investigated threats to kill a longshoremen's union chief and the Navy hunted a reported mine in the ship channel.

The threats by anonymous callers apparently were made in reaction to the loading of the Soviet freighter Karamzin with 20,000 metric tons of yellow feed corn after President Carter's ban on such exports in light of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. The shipper said the deal was made last year and is not affected by the ban.

The president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union Local 18, Eddie Holland, said he moved to a relative's house in another city Thursday after two persons — in five calls Tuesday and Wednesday — threatened to kill him and burn his house unless the loading stopped.

Holland said the FBI had contacted him about the calls, and Nick O'Hara, assistant special agent in charge of the Sacramento FBI office, said he was trying to determine if the FBI had jurisdiction.

Dock workers represented by the New York-based International Longshoremen's Association have refused to load at East Coast, Gulf Coast and inland ports ships bound for the Soviet Union. But Holland's union, the San Francisco-based ILWU, says it disagrees with the ILA's decision.

U.S. may not take actual grain delivery

WASHINGTON (AP) — If prices recover, the government may not take actual delivery on all of the grain President Carter embargoed from shipment to the Soviet Union after all, says a senior Agriculture Department official.

If the prices are right and "another person, another firm" can use the grain, the government might sell the contracts instead of taking actual delivery, Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist and policy analyst, said Thursday.

In any case, the government still is committed to buy nearly 4 million metric tons of wheat and about 10 million of corn.

Because actual sales totaling only about 21.6 million metric tons had been disclosed at the time of Carter's order, however, the government will buy the grain companies' contracts for the difference between that amount and the 8 million being allowed to go to Russia.

If market prices recover, as he has predicted they will, and corn at some point is worth more than the $2.40 a bushel at the farm — the price last Friday before Carter issued his embargo order — Hjort said it might be possible to find a buyer for the grain without having to take actual delivery.

Embargo prompts USDA to reduce export forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has reduced its estimate of U.S. grain exports this year by 9.5 percent because of President Carter's order suspending huge shipments of wheat and corn to the Soviet Union.

An analysis Wednesday showed that U.S. exports of wheat and feed grains, mainly corn, are now expected to be about 98.8 million metric tons. Before Carter ordered a suspension of shipments to the Soviets, those exports were projected at 109.2 million metric tons.

But the figures showed that even without the big Soviet orders, U.S. exports of wheat and feed grains will be up sharply from last season's 92.7 million metric tons and still will be at record levels.

Carter suspended the sale to the Soviet Union of about 17 million metric tons of corn and wheat that had been expected to be delivered in the 1979-80 year, which will end Sept. 30.

The report said part of the canceled sales will be made up by increased shipments to other countries, including prospects for larger corn sales to Brazil and Mexico.

Assuming a favorable impact of actions to help protect farmers — including the government's purchase of suspended grain contracts with the Soviets — the report indicated no change in projected farm prices of corn and wheat.

'Rockford' fan angry over 'filing' of show

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lucius couldn't believe his eyes. He threw down the newspaper in disgust and whined, "Did you read that? Did you read that? Did you read that?"

The offending story began: "TV Private Eye Jim Rockford solves his last case as NBC's 'The Rockford Files' ends its six-year run..."

My pal Lucius, television connoisseur, "Rockford" fan and loafer of the first degree, fairly trembled at the news. "This is too much," he said, turning away, mumbling.

For a fellow whose steady job has been parking cars at the Rose Bowl, Lucius takes life very seriously. He was shaken by the atollah's outrages and frightened by the Russian intervention in Afghanistan. But "Rockford" leaving the air, this was a frontal assault on the Lucius soul.

I can sympathize with Lucius on this one. "Rockford's" last night, tonight, is one to be grieved. Television loses a lot in Jim Rockford.

Will 'Bear' maul 'Peacock's' plans?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Peacock meets The Bear. It is possible, I suppose, that the Kremlin did not consider NBC's 1980-81 prime time schedule when drawing plans for the Afghanistan intervention. In any event, the march of Red army onto Afghan turf could well ruin Fred Silverman & Co.'s neat plans for a happy future.

The linchpin of NBC's recovery plan was a successful 1980 Moscow Olympics. The design, like television itself, was simple, with a beginning, middle and end:

NBC would spend lots of money to buy the Olympics, use the event as a promotional tool for its 1980 fall schedule, and parlay its investment to the No. 1 position in the ratings race. It worked for ABC in 1976 and, given Fred Silverman's record, figured to work for NBC in 1980.

Unfortunately for NBC, Russia's historical imperatives were not figured into the scenario. Russia gets this occasional urge to visit the sea. Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan sit between the Soviet Union and the Arabian Sea. Russia went into Afghanistan.

This complicates things for NBC. President Carter has threatened to boycott the Moscow Olympics and has urged other nations to follow suit. Saudi Arabia, which likely isn't happy over the prospect of Russians in the Persian Gulf (also easier to get to from Afghanistan than from Russia), has already announced its intention to boycott the Games and is asking its friends to join in.

The British Commonwealth may boycott, and other nations, as well.

This bodes ill for the Moscow Olympics, and, thus, for NBC. If President Carter calls for a boycott it's quite likely that the U.S. Olympic Committee would oblige. And without U.S. participation, NBC is left with damaged goods.

If the U.S. drops out, NBC might drop its plans to cover the Games.

The network has insurance that would cover most of its financial loss (the Moscow Olympics cost is estimated at somewhere over $150 million right now), and the 152 hours of planned Olympic coverage from July 18 to Aug. 5 could be filled with regular programming.

But the value of the Moscow Olympics as a promotional tool is incalculable. Under Silverman, the network has learned to appreciate the value of on-air promotion. The hope was that viewers glued to Summer Games would become familiar with the NBC prime time lineup after a barrage of promotion spots.

Texas judge says no filming

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A state judge has indicated he will not allow CBS' "60 Minutes" to film the testimony of a Dallas psychiatrist during the upcoming capital murder trial here of a 20-year-old man.

Officials of the television show had asked State District Judge Mike Machado for permission to film the testimony of Dr. James P. Griggon as part of a segment on the importance of expert witnesses in criminal trials.

CBS News Producer Stephen A. Glauber told Machado in a letter that the segment would focus on Griggon.

Assistant District Attorney Larry Souza contended Wednesday that the filming would be a distraction to the jury and possibly prejudice the case against Alan Johnson, who is charged with fatally stabbing 14-year-old Joni Foster in her home last February.

Machado said he agreed, but asked the prosecutor to put his objection in the form of a written motion before ruling.

Johnson's attorney, Allan Manka, said he would not object to filming in numerous capital murder cases about whether defendants are inclined to further violence. Griggon has testified.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Too Many Goodies

By Alfred Sheinwold

If you were a normal child you found too many goodies in your stocking on Christmas Day, and if you were a good child you gave some of them away. You were never stingy, like today's declarer.

East took the king of spades and returned a spade to the queen. South led a heart, losing the king to the ace, and back came a spade to the ace.

South blithely led the ace of clubs and the eight of clubs to the king. Suddenly, he wasn't so blithe.

NO COVER

South went to dummy with a heart and led the ten of clubs, but East coldly refused to cover with the jack. Declarer could therefore make only three club tricks. Down two.

South should begin the clubs generously by leading dummy's ten to the king. Next a club to the ace, discovering that West cannot follow suit. South is then in position to lead dummy's eight. When East plays low, South overtakes with the nine, winning five club tricks and the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one heart, you respond two clubs, and he bids two diamonds. The opponents pass. You hold: ♠ K 6 3 ♥ A J 9 ♦ Q 8 2 ♣ J 7 4. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

North dealer Both sides vulnerable

NORTH ♠ A J 9 ♥ K Q 10 ♦ A 10 9 5 ♣ A 10 8

WEST ♠ 10 8 5 4 2 ♥ 8 6 3 2 ♦ K J 7 ♣ 5

SOUTH ♠ Q 7 ♥ 7 5 4 ♦ 6 4 3 ♣ K Q 9 6 2

North East South West 1 0 Pass 1 NT Pass 3 NT All Pass

Opening lead — ♠ 4 for an immediate raise to two hearts you "manufactured" a club response, planning to show the heart support next. Since you promised about 10 or 11 points when you bid two clubs, it is not necessary to jump to three hearts now.

Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed, No. 10 envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90063.

Another round of gas price boosts heads for consumers

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers who were just getting used to the last round of gasoline and heating oil price increases are being hit with another series of boosts.

Reacting to decisions by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise crude prices, most major oil companies in recent days have posted wholesale price boosts of as much as 6 cents a gallon on top of last month's increases of 1 to 6 cents a gallon. The increases are likely to be passed along by retailers to consumers.

According to the industry publication

Lundberg Letter, the average U.S. retail price of a gallon of gasoline was $1.0463 in December, the latest month for which figures are available. That compares with $1.0167 a month earlier and 67.11 cents in December 1978.

December's gasoline consumption was about 8 percent lower than that for December 1978, the newsletter said.

Retail heating oil prices, meanwhile, have risen to about 82 to 94 cents a gallon this month from a national average of 53.7 cents a year ago.

The estimate is derived by adding what sources say is a typical 15 cents-a-gallon retailer's markup to current wholesale prices on the East Coast, a major heating oil market.

One oil industry source believes some heating oil prices could fall by as much as a nickel a gallon later this winter. The source, who asked not to be identified, said the drop may result as high stockpiles of heating oil here and abroad are sold quickly to make room in refiners' storage tanks for summer gasoline supplies.

Heating oil use is running 5 to 10 percent behind last year's levels as rising prices have spurred conservation efforts and boosted conversions to natural gas and other fuels. Warmer-than-normal weather here and abroad also has kept heating oil stocks high.

In the latest round of increases, Exxon USA, the nation's largest gasoline marketer, raised wholesale gasoline prices 3 cents a gallon to an average of 76.6 cents for regular. Home heating oil rose 3 cents to an average of 68 cents.

Field work announced

Energy Reserve Group, Inc. of Midland will re-enter and clean out to total depth of 8,450 feet, the No. 1 W.A. Waddell, former dual Ellenburger and Strawn opener and now depleted.

Operator will attempt to test the Strawn pay of the Dunigan multipay, 1/2 mile southwest of Strawn production, 12 miles north of Gail.

Location is 2,640 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 20, block 30, T-6-N, T&P survey. Old records show location to be 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 20, block 30, T-6-N, T&P survey.

EDWARDS EXTENDER FINALS

Arapaho Petroleum Inc. has finalized a two-mile northeast extension to the Campanero (Canyon) field of Edwards County, with the completion of the No. 8 Denman Moody, 5.5 miles northwest of Rocksprings.

Operator reported a calculated absolute open flow of 5,200,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 2,309 to 3,347 feet.

The producing zone was acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 31,000 gallons.

Total depth was reached at 4,100 feet, with 4.5-inch casing set 3,939 feet. Plugged back depth is 3,931 feet.

Location is 1,034 feet from north and 1,021 feet from east lines of section 60, block 12, GC&SF survey.

UPTON PRODUCER

Joy Petroleum Corp. of Midland has completed the No. 1-28 University, 1/2 mile northeast of production in the Flat Rock (Spraberry) field of Upton County, seven miles east of Rankin.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 31 barrels of 38.9-gravity oil and 15 barrels of water, through perforations from 7,380 to 7,390 feet.

Perforations were acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons. Gas-liquid ratio is 806-1.

Drilled to 7,423 feet, 4.5-inch casing is set on bottom.

Location is 2,198 feet from north and 1,763 feet from east lines of section 28, block 3, University Land survey.

Discovery reported

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland announced a significant gas discovery from the Mogygy Sands in the Lake Arthur area of Vermilion Parish, La.

The Adobe No. 1 Macdonell Estate was perforated from 17,455 to 17,460 feet and flowed at a daily rate of 10 million cubic feet of gas through a 10/64-inch choke with flowing tubing pressure of 12,000 psi.

Adobe owns 38.75 percent working interest in the well with other interests owned by Traverse Corp. et al., Traverse City, Mich., with 45 percent and Quest Exploration & Development Co. et al., Houston, with 10 percent, along with Jones-O'Brien Inc. of Shreveport, La., who owns an after payout interest.

Adobe has an average payout working interest of 23.25 percent in the 6,000 acre block surrounding the discovery.

Cotton well completes

HOUSTON — Cotton Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of United Energy Resources, Inc., Houston, and Dawson Exploration Inc. tested gas and condensate in a recently completed 9,978-foot wildcat in Jefferson County.

The Dawson Exploration, Inc., No. 1 Burrell well was completed through perforations ranging from 9,640 to 9,646 feet. Results of the completion test indicate calculated absolute open flow to be 52,000,000 cubic feet per day. The well flowed at a rate of 3,232,000 cubic feet per day and 201 barrels of 45.2-gravity condensate per day with a flowing tubing pressure of 6,321 psi on a 10/64-inch choke. Shut-in tubing pressure was 6,547 pounds. Cotton Petroleum owns a 1/2 interest in this well while Dawson Exploration is the operator and has the remaining working interest.

Offshore port may be built in stages

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Casey had threatened to quit but says he will not do so as long as there is a "glimmer of hope." Texas can build an offshore crude oil terminal for use by super-tankers.

The project, said the chairman of the Texas Deepwater Port Authority, is too important to the state's economy for the 2.5 million barrels a day facility to be abandoned.

Casey's remarks prompted no debate Thursday and directors of the authority quickly voted unanimously to continue its feasibility studies even though indicated oil company support has been far below expectations.

The state agency now will explore the possibility of building the terminal 26 miles south of Freeport in stages but without changing the ultimate daily capacity goal.

After hearing Casey's recommendations, Sherman Fricks, Austin, said he was not ready to throw in the towel.

"And I'm not sure we even have the authority to quit," Fricks said. "Oil companies and their wisdom move in strange ways and somebody is going to build this thing."

When the Department of Transportation authorized a license last August, the authority hoped to have on hand by Jan. 1 company use agreements covering 1.4 million barrels a day, the level needed for underwriting an overall $1.125 billion in tax free revenue bonds.

"We have non-binding agreements for seven companies for only 550,000 barrels a day," Casey said Thursday.

"Do we quit or explore other methods? I say we've spent too much time to quit."

Casey said the efforts should continue "as long as there is a little light."

"I suggest we bring the seven companies back and check with the Department of Transportation on the feasibility of building the terminal in increments with the final goal still 2.5 million barrels a day," he said.

Casey said the current overall construction cost estimate is $843 million. He told newsmen, however, that starting with two mooring buoys instead of four as had been planned would boost overall costs.

Both Casey and Gerald A. Jackson, general manager, had said in October they would resign if the necessary use agreements had not been received by Dec. 31.

Casey said Thursday he had changed his mind. Jackson did submit his resignation but it was rejected.

"I'll stay as long as there is a glimmer," Jackson said.

Seadock Inc., a consortium of private companies, had planned to build the port but bowed out after such major backers as Exxon, Gulf, and Mobil withdrew while terming some provisions of the DOT license as onerous. Seadock had spent about $25 million but later agreed to sell its engineering plans and other data to the state agency for $11 million.

CRMWD boosts fixed rate for member cities

BIG SPRING — Monthly fixed charges of the Colorado River Municipal Water District to the member cities were set at $307,768 Thursday by directors, an increase of $19,234 over the 1979 rates.

The distribution of increase ranged from 8.26 percent for Odessa to virtually an unchanged rate for Snyder, according to water district officials.

Most other rates are geared to those of member cities.

Midland and Stanton, for example, will pay a rate of 45.36 cents per thousand gallons in 1980 — the rate Odessa paid in 1979 — plus a differential of 3.227 cents per thousand gallons.

Directors applied $600,000 of oil company revenues to modify rates to the cities. This helped hold the line although electric power costs will go up by $467,274 if the same amount of water is pumped in 1980 as was the case last year, water district officials indicated.

Monthly fixed charges are apportioned to member cities in the ratio that their deliveries bear to the total estimated expense of the district, plus a factor for distance from Lake J.B. Thomas. Actual rates per thousand gallons cannot be computed until the end of the year because they are based on fixed charges plus six cents per thousand gallons delivered.

The CRMWD supplies all of the water needs of Odessa, Snyder, Stanton and Big Spring, most of Midland's water requirements, and also contracts to supply specified quantities to San Angelo and Robert Lee.

After several years as a pilot and instructor, he was assigned to Notre Dame University as a Naval ROTC instructor. He did graduate work at Notre Dame, including study of the Russian language.

During his 23 years of military service, he handled a variety of administrative and operational assignments. His last two duty assignments were as Air Operations Department Head at the Naval Air Station in Agana, Guam, and in Corpus Christi. He retired as a commander.

During his assignment at Corpus Christi, he completed his graduate work and received the master of science degree from Corpus Christi State University.

Iowa outguns Buckeyes, but loses, 77-71

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Iowa had four more field goals and 15 more rebounds than Ohio State, but the Buckeyes had six more points. So what happened? "We were more selective in our shooting in the second half," said Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller, "and that was the difference." Thus it was quality, not quantity, that resulted in a 77-71 college basketball victory for the third-ranked Buckeyes over the 12th-ranked Hawkeyes Thursday night. It was also free throws. Ohio State had 17 while Iowa only managed three. It was a hard-earned victory for the Buckeyes, considering that the Hawkeyes held a 48-33 rebounding advantage. Commenting on the free throw situation, Iowa Coach Lute Olson said: "We're a team that goes to the hole a lot. That's unusual for us to shoot so few free throws." In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, No.7 Notre Dame defeated Tulane 79-59; No.9 Oregon State registered a 77-72 victory over Arizona; No.10 Purdue beat Illinois 74-66 and No.19 Indiana edged Michigan 63-61 in overtime. Clark Kellogg and Carter Scott combined for seven free throws in the final two minutes to highlight Ohio State's victory. Led by Kellogg, Scott and Herb Williams, the Buckeyes rallied from a 10-point deficit early in the second half. Rich Branning scored 18 points and had seven assists to lead Notre Dame past Tulane. Reserve center Gil Salinas scored only six points and fouled out with 11:38 remaining, but he sparked a Notre Dame rally that put the Irish ahead to stay. "He was the guy who won the game for us," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said of Salinas. "We had to do some things with our bench tonight because of a lack of offense early in the game. Tonight our bench came through." Ray Blume scored 22 points and Steve Johnson had 19 to lead Oregon State past Arizona. The teams battled on even terms most of the way, with the lead changing hands 31 times. The Beavers finally took the lead for good with 3:46 remaining on a Johnson stuff shot. Drake Morris hit nine free throws in the final three minutes and Joe Barry Carroll chalked up 27 points to pace Purdue over Illinois. The Boilermakers took the lead for good at 57-55 on a Carroll hook shot with 4:53 remaining. The Boilermakers helped their cause by shooting nearly 52 percent from the field (29-of-56). And Purdue had only three turnovers in the second half after recording 12 in the first. Purdue hosts Michigan in Big Ten action Saturday and then goes against undefeated Syracuse in a nationally televised game Sunday. Steve Bouchie scored a career-high 20 points and Ray Tolbert added 18 to pace Indiana over Michigan. Tolbert's tip-in shot put the Hoosiers on top to stay in the overtime period and the 6-9 junior guard widened the margin to four points a half minute later on a pair of free throws. Elsewhere, Mark Hall scored 22 points, including five in overtime, to spark Minnesota past Wisconsin 82-76; Brian Gibson scored six of his 14 points in the final two minutes to help Northwestern defeat Michigan State 65-61; Lewis Lloyd collected 38 points and 10 rebounds as Drake walloped Southern Illinois 116-91; Mickey Dillard and Larry Brown combined for 46 points to trigger Florida State to a 74-69 triumph over Memphis State; Keith McCord scored 27 points and Larry Spicer added 16 second-half points to power Alabama-Birmingham past South Florida 92-83 and Mike McKay's 20 points led Connecticut over Boston College 83-71. Also, Leroy Stampley sank a jump shot with 16 seconds left to give Loyola of Chicago an 81-80 victory over Creighton; Jack Washington's 21 points led Western Kentucky past Akron 92-58; Hawkeye Whitney scored 16 points to pace North Carolina State past Maryland 67-62; Kurt Nimphus collected 37 points as Arizona State drubbed Oregon 103-77; Rich McElrath's 21 points led Utah State past Fresno State 78-65; Terry Adolph hit a 10-foot jumper with 34 seconds left and West Texas State held on to beat Tulsa 84-82; Mitchel Anderson's 28 points powered Bradley past Wichita State 67-66 and Les Henson scored 22 points as Virginia Tech trimmed New Orleans 89-61. James Tillman's 38 points led Eastern Kentucky past Austin Peay 86-79; Ronald White collected a career-high 27 points in Furman's 88-74 victory over Tennessee-Chatanooga; Albert Jones hit a slam dunk and added four free throws in the final minute of overtime to lift New Mexico State past Indiana State 83-80; Don Vaughn scored 10 points and put on a splendid passing show to spark Washington over Stanford 81-59; a 23-point performance by Bruce Collins led Weber State to a 77-60 victory over Montana State; UC-Santa Barbara defeated Fullerton State 80-67 behind a 26-point performance by Tom DeMarcus; John Stroeder scored 19 points and grabbed 12 rebounds as Montana stopped Idaho State 77-54 and Gary Wilson's free throw proved to be the winning point as Texas-El Paso edged Colorado State 67-66 in overtime.

Midland nips AHS in 49-45 thriller

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

Pressure free throw shooting by Lucy Miller in overtime sparked the Midland High girls to an exciting 49-45 victory over Abilene in the MHS Gymnasium Thursday night. It was a great come-from-behind effort for Coach Jane Young's girls who kept battling away before finally forcing the District 5-4A game into overtime. In the overtime, Midland outscored the Eagles, 8-4 to bring their league record to 3-2, the same as the Key City team. Abilene's Tracy Hubbard, a fine inside shooting left-hander, poured in 25 points, but it was the determined play of the entire Midland team that gave them the victory. MILLER HIT four-out-of-four free throws in the overtime period and wound up with 10 points and teammate Sandra Rock added a field goal and pair of free tosses and wound up with 16 points on the night. Also in the double figures for the Bulldogs was Margaret Christian with 16 points, but her most important basket of the evening came with nine seconds left in regulation time when she scored from close in after missing two previous shots. The third follow-up went in and the game then went into the three-minute overtime.

THE VICTORY gives MHS a season record of 15-9 while Abilene is now 12-8 with the defeat. Abilene took a first period lead of 16 of 11, mainly on the shooting of Hubbard as she scored 12 of those 16 points in the initial period. Midland was able to close the gap to 25-23 at halftime with Christian hitting three big field goals in outscoring the Eagles, 12-9. The third period was a slow one for both teams as they only managed to score six points each, making it 31-29 in favor of Abilene going into the final eight minutes of play. Rock put Midland in front with 1:58 left in the game on a layup, 38-37, but Abilene scored two quick baskets by Shirl Payne and Hubbard for a 41-38 advantage with 1:44 remaining on the clock. Miller hit a free toss with 44 ticks left to make it 41-39 and then Christian's bucket with nine seconds left made it 41-41 and Abilene was unable to get another shot off before the buzzer sounded. ROCK HIT a 12-footer at the offset of the overtime period and Miller calmly sank two free throws to give Midland a 45-41 lead with 1:20 left. And then Miss Miller stepped up to the free throw line for two more attempts and sank both for a 47-41 lead with 1:11 left. Abilene stormed right back on baskets by Rachel Barrera and Hubbard to cut the lead to 47-45. Hubbard's basket came after she stole the ball on an in-bounds play by the Bulldogs.

MIDLAND ICED the game on Rock's two charity tosses with 26 seconds left for the final 49-45 reading. Coach Linda Jolly's Midland junior varsity also took a thriller, beating the Abilene JVs, 31-28, in the preliminary game. Rosetta Christian led the way with 10 points while Connie Caton added seven. High for Abilene was Terry Coppelstone with 17 points. Midland plays San Angelo Central next Monday at the Chaparral Center on the Midland College campus in its next outing, both in junior varsity and varsity contests.

Lee assumes role of spoiler tonight

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

Coach Paul Stueckler's Midland Lee Rebels can play the part of spoilers tonight in Midland College's Chaparral Center. The Rebels take on co-leader Abilene Cooper and 6-foot-10 Woody Martin in a District 5-4A game. Cooper and Midland High's talented Bulldogs currently lead the 5-4A race with 2-0 records while Lee is 1-1 after dropping a 65-62 overtime decision to San Angelo Central's Bobcats on the road Tuesday. WHILE LEE and Cooper square off here tonight on the MC campus, Midland takes on the Abilene Eagles in the Key City. Abilene, like Lee is 1-1, but the Warbirds have been known to be mighty tough on their home floor. Lee, San Angelo, Odessa Permian and Abilene all stand 1-1 to trail the Bulldogs and Cougars in what could be the best 5-4A chase in years.

Permian's Brad Kerley, a 6-6 senior, leads the league in scoring with 52 points in two games. He ripped the cords for 34 points Tuesday night as the Panthers took an impressive 88-76 win over Abilene in Odessa. The Black Cats try Big Spring tonight and the young Steers share the 5-4A cellar with Odessa High's Bronchos with a 0-2 reading. OHS takes on San Angelo in the other 5-4A contest. Central's Charles Bishop is the No. 2 scorer with 51 points and an average of 25.5 points per game. Next comes Cooper's Kenny Henry and Scott Wynne of Permian. Henry is scoring at a 23.5 clip and Wynne is averaging 22.0 per league outing, the same as Abilene's P.W. McGee. MIDLAND HAS a sparkling 20-4 season record and is ranked highly in the two state Class AAAA polls. Playmaker and guard Perry Bolger is slowed down by an ankle injury for the Pack and is questionable for the Abilene game. He is scoring 14 points per game in 5-4A competition. Anthony Carroll is also hitting in the double figures for the Bulldogs in league play with an average of 17 points per game. Lee has three players - Tim Fisher, Tim Walker and Danny Rabb all in double figures. Fisher is averaging 14 points while Walker 13 and Rabb 11.5. Preliminary junior varsity games start at 6:15 p.m. with the varsity tipoffs set for 8 p.m.

Lee girls alone at top

ABILENE - Midland Lee's girls have taken over first place in the District 5-4A basketball race. Coach Shirley Stephenson's Rebels downed the Abilene Cooper Cougars, 53-50 here Thursday night to move into first place with a 4-1 reading. Paving the way for the Tall City team were Gale Wilson and Leshia Watkins with 18 and 13 points, respectively. A big third period in which Lee outscored Cooper, 17-8, brought them from a halftime deadlock of 25-25. Cooper came back to outscore Lee, 17-11 in the final period, but it still was three points too short. The Cougars are now 2-3 in District 5-4A play with the loss. Cooper got a 23-point performance from Rene Morgan, but she was the only one in the double figures for the losers who stand 10-9 on the year. Lee is 17-6 on the season going into its next game with Big Spring in Big Spring on Monday. Cooper won the junior varsity contest by the score of 58-50.

Commitments make Super Bowl game a necessary evil

By FRANK LUKSA
Dallas Times Herald

Because of various longterm commitments — hotel reservations, television schedules, Rose Bowl rental, etc. — the NFL is going ahead with Super Bowl XIV. It will be staged as scheduled Jan. 20 in Pasadena and will feature Pittsburgh dusting off the Los Angeles Rams, after which the Steelers' roster is to be cast in bronze and given Hall of Fame rites.

Or so goes knee-jerk reaction from near and afar. Seldom is heard an encouraging word on the Rams' chances of avoiding being blisters. The Rams, it already has been written, dined on their 9-0 NFC Championship victory over Tampa Bay just to qualify as later sacrificial victims to the Steelers.

And yet...

The 1975 Pittsburgh world champions, the ones who beat Dallas 21-17 in Super Bowl X, lost only two regular-season games. One of them was to Los Angeles, 10-3.

The 1978 Pittsburgh world champions, the ones who beat Dallas, 35-31, in Super Bowl XIII, also lost only two regular-season games. One of them was to Los Angeles, 10-7.

So when Fred Dryer, the Rams' defensive end, was asked Sunday in Tampa Bay how he liked LA's chances against Pittsburgh, he fired back in some defiance.

"As good as anybody's," said Dryer. "I've played against those guys before. We beat em in LA, shut 'em out in LA (actually the 10-3 game). Yeah, they are the best offense going. And if Bradshaw is hot, it'll be a long day. But we've beaten them before."

ROGER STAUBACH, the Cowboys' passer, has played five games against the Super Bowl XIV finalists within the last year. He faced the Rams in the '78 NFC Championship (28-0), then in regular season (30-6) and in a recent divisional playoff (19-21). Encounters with Pittsburgh took place in SB XIII (31-35) and last October (3-14).

Like the majority, Staubach favors the Steelers but not in runaway fashion.

"I think the Rams have a pretty good chance, although Pittsburgh's certainly the team to beat," he said this week. "LA's an excellent defensive team — as good as anybody in the NFL when they're all healthy. That will keep you in any game."

"It just depends on what their offense does. They'll have to get some big plays. But I don't think Pittsburgh will move all over the field on the Rams. I don't believe Pittsburgh's played a defense as good as the Rams. Matter of fact, I don't think anybody in the AFC plays defense as well as the Rams."

"What LA has to get over, though, is the feeling of, 'Hey, it's great to be in the Super Bowl!' It's not great unless you win it. Lose and it's a bigger letdown than any other game. But to have that kind of foresight is kind of tough the first time there."

"The Rams do have enough defense to pull off an upset. I'll still be difficult. At least that is my observation as a non-participating member," said Staubach, quite dryly.

What the Rams don't have enough of, the smarts maintain, is offense. If you can call it a defensive push, then Pittsburgh rates a conspicuous edge at skill positions with Bradshaw and the receiving tandem of Lynn Swann and John Stallworth. LA's counterparts, Vince Ferragamo, Billy Waddy and Ron Smith, are of lesser quality.

"I don't think there's any question Pittsburgh should win," says Danny Reeves, the Cowboys' offensive coordinator. "Both have excellent defenses, but I think Pittsburgh's offense is a lot better."

"I don't see any way that Pittsburgh will let LA run and I don't believe the Rams' passing game is that good. Ferragamo won't have all day to throw like he did Sunday."

REEVES' opinion carried more clout than usual Monday as he went about collecting a pair of $10 bets from fellow assistants. Reeves, you see, had wagered that against Tampa Bay, the Rams wouldn't score a touchdown.

But it didn't stop LA from winning with brilliant defense that included one starter — Jack Youngblood — playing with a fractured leg. Against Dallas, it was Ferragamo, the alleged weak link, who wound up throwing three touchdown passes. This is a team that has survived the drowning death of its owner, a family feud in which the owner's son was fired by his stepmother, injury to its starting quarterback and both wide receivers, a head coach rumored to be fired any day since September, a record that once lapsed to 4-5, and home attendance that not only dwindled but turned hostile over the franchise's lame duck status.

"People call me and say, 'What's going on?' And I'd say, 'I don't have enough time to tell you... besides, I don't know,'" Dryer said. "All I know is that there were times when everyone was told George Allen would show up or that Don Shula's on his way from Florida. Then, the next thing you know, we're here."

The way it's happened — basically against all odds and reason — you wonder if the Rams are destined to make more of their first Super Bowl than anyone suspects.

The North also had All-American and former Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims of Oklahoma on the roster, but he withdrew from the game and was replaced by Utah State's Rick Terros.

The South squad has only two first team All-Americans — offensive guard Greg Kolenda of Arkansas and defensive end Jim Stuckey of Clemson.

The South, which leads the series 15-12-3, features a pair of 1,000-yard runners, Joe Cribbs of Auburn and James Hadnot of Texas Tech.

Hadnot probably will see more action at tight end and will serve in a backup role as a runner to Cribbs and Steve Whitman, who scored top-ranked Alabama's clinching touchdown against Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

Grant said neither team would use sophisticated offenses because of the time element.

"We don't want it marred with fumbles and such," Grant said. "I'll guarantee you'll see a better game than you saw in the Hula Bowl last week."

Proben, Pate share lead in Bob Hope golf

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Realistically, rookie Bob Proben isn't even thinking about winning the $304,500 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic. But Jerry Pate is.

"I just want to have a good time and see where it takes me," said Proben, 25, whose 4-under-par 68 Thursday gave him a share of the rain-delayed first-round lead with the dangerous Pate and Keith Fergus.

"I'd certainly like to win. It would start the year off right," said Pate. "I didn't win a tournament last year. It's the first year since I've been a pro that I've gone through a year without winning. I had 10 chances to win. I think it's about time I started winning and winning consistently."

Pate, who won his first title in the 1976 U.S. Open, birdied his last two holes at Indian Wells, while the longshot Proben, who has cashed only two checks in his brief career, made three-putt bogeys on his last two holes at La Quinta. Fergus played at Eldorado.

The group at 69 included Gil Morgan, Tim Simpson, Mark Hayes, Lee Elder, Lindy Miller, Lon Nielsen and Craig Stadler. Nielsen and Craig Stadler were at Eldorado, Nielsen at Eldorado and the others at Indian Wells.

Howard Twitty's 70 was the best score at tough Bermuda Dunes. Johnny Miller, on a comeback from a long, puzzling slump, shot 73 there but withdrew from the recurrence of a chronic neck problem.

"I just scraped it around with a funky, manufactured swing," Miller said. "I'm so pleased with my game right now, I don't want to ungroove it."

Defending champion John Mahaffey finished off a 70 at Indian Wells with host Hope and former President Gerald Ford among his amateur partners.

Five-time Hope winner Arnold Palmer, now 50, scored a hole in one. Boston Red Sox outfielder Jim Rice was among the amateurs who watched Arnold hole a 150-yard shot with an 8-iron on the sixth hole at Indian Wells. He had a 70.

The five-day, 90-hole event, the kickoff tournament for the 1980 season, was thrown a day off schedule by heavy rains, which interrupted Wednesday's play. The first round was completed Thursday. The tournament now is scheduled to end on Monday — weather permitting. The forecast, however, called for heavy rains today.

The 128 pros switch courses each of the first four days, each day playing with a different three-man team of amateurs, before the field is cut for a pro-only finish at La Quinta on the final day.

"Basically, I felt I was playing pretty consistent golf," said Pate, who closed with a birdie-birdie flourish. He missed a 10-foot eagle putt on his 17th hole and made one from about 20 feet on the next one.

Proben, who had never before been east of the Mississippi River, had a 2-stroke lead until he three-putted for bogey on each of his last two holes.

But it didn't bother him at all.

"I was a little anxious getting it in," he said, "but I'm very, very happy. It's my first time in California, the first time I've seen the mountains, and I'm just having a great time."

Malone replaces Wilson in Senior

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Mark Malone of Arizona State has drawn the starting assignment at quarterback over sore-armed All-America Marc Wilson of Brigham Young in Saturday's 31st Senior Bowl football game.

"Malone has practiced every day and the other boy had a sore arm," said Coach Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings, who will direct the North team in the all-star game.

Grant said he took Wilson, who passed for 7,637 yards and 61 touchdowns during his career, to a doctor to determine whether there was an injury to his throwing arm and was assured he was all right.

Grant said he planned to use both quarterbacks about half the time in the game, set for a 12:30 p.m. kickoff before a sellout crowd of 40,000 and a national television (CBS) audience.

The South, coached by Ray Perkins of the New York Giants, will counter with Jimmy Jordan of Florida State at quarterback, backed up by Arkansas State's Gene Bradley, a pitcher in the Boston Red Sox minor league system.

Jordan threw for more than 4,000 yards and 39 touchdowns during his career while splitting the quarterback duties with Wally Woodham.

Malone, who ran 98 yards for a touchdown against Utah State, threw for just under 1,900 yards in his senior season and Bradley passed for just over 1,000 yards at Arkansas State last fall.

The North team also features two other All-Americans, linebacker George Cumby of Oklahoma and cornerback Mark Haynes of Colorado.

The North also had All-American and former Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims of Oklahoma on the roster, but he withdrew from the game and was replaced by Utah State's Rick Terros.

The South squad has only two first team All-Americans — offensive guard Greg Kolenda of Arkansas and defensive end Jim Stuckey of Clemson.

The South, which leads the series 15-12-3, features a pair of 1,000-yard runners, Joe Cribbs of Auburn and James Hadnot of Texas Tech.

Hadnot probably will see more action at tight end and will serve in a backup role as a runner to Cribbs and Steve Whitman, who scored top-ranked Alabama's clinching touchdown against Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

Perkins said he hopes the game will be a high-scoring affair and "it has potential to be high scoring because we'll throw more than we'll run it. It should be a good fan show and also let the players display what they can do."

Grant said neither team would use sophisticated offenses because of the time element.

"We don't want it marred with fumbles and such," Grant said. "I'll guarantee you'll see a better game than you saw in the Hula Bowl last week."

Connors, McEnroe react differently to roles of villain

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — The two best tennis players in the United States are left-handed, fiercely competitive, volatile, controversial and laden with talent.

One would suspect, at first blush, that they came out of the same mold.

Not so. Jimmy Connors likes the role of villain. He has nurtured it. He thrives on it. He pursues an adversary relationship with the establishment, public and the press. He wears the black hat with unceasing pride.

HIS YOUNGER counterpart, John McEnroe, at times can be equally demonstrative and obnoxious in the thick of battle. But it is a natural tendency, stemming from his junior jungle background and high-keyed intensity.

He is not mad at anybody — except sometimes himself and a situation where he feels he is not being given a fair shake.

"I don't want the crowd against me — I want people to like me," McEnroe says. "Sure, I do things on the court sometimes that brings criticism. It's not intentional. I get so involved in the match that I react quickly when things go wrong."

"In the Davis Cup, I was careful to control myself. I was playing for my country. It's different when you're playing for yourself. But I'm trying to change."

FANS WILL be watching the pair closely this weekend in the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters tournament at the Madison Square Garden, a sort of World Series and Super Bowl of tennis, bringing together the world's best.

To some buffs, Connors and McEnroe may appear to be the "Tantrum Twins." Yet, in many vital ways, they are as different as a keg of TNT and a spewing firecracker.

Connors, 27, is a feisty court brawler who has been spoiled almost from the moment he picked up a racket in Belleville, Ill., and was pointed for greatness by a doting mother and maternal grandmother. As a teenager, he was taken away from his home environment and transported to the West Coast to be honed and fashioned like some wicked blade of steel.

Bill Riordan, his early Svengali, saw the commercial advantages of turning his charge into a maverick. Connors became nastier than his pal, Ilie Nastase. The bucks rolled in. Jimmy's character never changed. McEnroe grew up in suburban Douglston, Queens. He survived the tough Eastern junior circuit and — bang — hit the tennis scene like a thunderclap, reaching the Wimbledon semifinals in 1978 at age 18.

Jimmy, while surging to Wimbledon and U.S. Open championships and No. 1 ranking, spurned invitations to play on the U.S. Davis Cup team. McEnroe leaped at the chance and set records in regaining the prized trophy for Uncle Sam in 1978 and successfully defending it in 1979.

McEnroe continues to wear his USA warmup suit as one might wear an American flag in his coat lapel.

An instinctive, natural player, the fuzzy-haired kid hurdled Connors to become America's No. 1 and the chief threat to Sweden's Bjorn Borg. McEnroe and Borg are tied at 3-3 in head-to-head competition and the Masters this week should set the tone not for just the new year but the new decade.

Relaxed and witty off the court,

"The Kid" is an intense assassin with a racket in his left hand. He is like a fractious race horse — edgy, always moving, anxious for the kill. He seals himself into an isolation booth of concentration.

When that concentration is broken — by a bad call or an outside distraction — he explodes. "I can't help it. I hate for anybody to take anything away from me," he says. "But I'm trying to check my temper."

No such repentance for Connors. He is a Smokin' Joe Frazier in white shorts — always on the attack. He runs. He grunts. He snarls. He literally leaps on every ball. Ball boys are in fear of him. Linesmen quiver when he erupts. He is the bane of the brass.

At his worst, he is publicly vulgar and profane. At his best, he treats the public and press with disdain, showing little class.

"They call me a jerk," he boasts. "If you're going to be jerk, you might as well be a No. 1 jerk."

Jimmy Connors enjoys his tennis role.

Borg outlasts Connors in classic

By ALEX SACHARE
NEW YORK (AP) — "Umpire Frank Hammond called it 'classic tennis,'" and as befits a classic, there was no real loser in the latest confrontation between tennis greats Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors.

Borg won the 2 hour, 37 minute thriller 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 Thursday night to clinch a berth in the semifinals of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters. Borg took the third-set tie-breaker 7-4, a fitting, pulsating climax for a match that had the crowd of 16,753 at Madison Square Garden screaming on every point.

"But I'm not out of this thing yet," said Connors. "I'm not going to roll over and die. You may see me back here in the finals Sunday."

Connors must beat Roscoe Tanner today to stay alive in the chase for a $100,000 first prize and the championship of the Grand Prix circuit. Both have 1-1 records in the round-robin portion of the tournament. Borg is 2-0 and assured of a semifinal berth even if he loses today's match against winless Jose Higueras.

In the other four-man bracket, top-seeded John McEnroe raised his record to 2-0 and clinched a spot in the semifinals by beating Guillermo Vilas 6-2, 6-3. Even if he loses to Vitas Gerulaitis tonight, he'll qualify for the semis under the tie-breaking formula being used in this event.

Gerulaitis evened his record at 1-1 by beating winless Harold Solomon 6-1, 7-6 Thursday. Vilas, also 1-1, plays Solomon today.

McEnroe may be the No. 1 seed in the rankings, compiled from performances in 1979 Grand Prix events, but throughout the late 1970s Borg and Connors were the heavyweights of men's tennis, with a rivalry to match that of boxers Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier. And the Borg-Connors match was by far the best of the first two days of the tournament — in intensity, in drama and in caliber of play.

"It was a great match," said Borg, who has now beaten Connors the last seven times they've met and who holds a 13-10 edge in their classic rivalry that dates back to 1973. "The drama was there, just like in our Wimbledon final of 1977, when Jimmy came back from 4-0 in the fifth set to tie it at 4-4."

"We've had the greatest matches of the last four, five years. Every time we go out we both give 100 percent. We play great points and great matches."

Thursday's clash was a fitting way to take the rivalry into the 1980s. "There definitely was a little excitement there," said Connors with a smile, savoring the memory.

Connors, the favorite of about three-fourths of the boisterous crowd, provided the excitement in the first set, hitting his powerful shots just inches above the net and attacking at every opportunity. Connors broke service in the fifth game, then clinched the set with a break in the ninth game.

"But I played a lousy game to start the second set," said Connors, and that was enough to get Borg rolling. Staying at the baseline and relying on his brilliant ground strokes, the Swede broke service four times in the second set to tie the match and rode the momentum of that charge to a 5-2 lead in the third set.

Connors, however, was not about to "roll over and die." He held his service, then scored a break when Borg committed four unforced errors. Connors held again, and suddenly it was tied 5-5.

It was at that point that the spectre of the "New York jinx" crept into Borg's mind. The four-time Wimbledon champion has never won a major event in New York, including repeated failures at the U.S. Open, and it has been suggested that this is more than coincidence.

"I was thinking then, 'Hey, it's happened before. I haven't played my best tennis in New York,'" admitted Borg. "Then I just thought, 'Take it easy, don't rush, don't think about 5-2 (and blowing the lead), just keep going.'"

Borg recovered to hold service, fighting off a pair of break points in a thrilling game that went to deuce three times. Connors also held, setting up the tie-breaker — tennis' version of sudden death.

"In a tie-breaker you've got to be very lucky and get off to a fast start," said Borg.

And that he did, winning the first three points and then building a 6-2 advantage. Connors won the first two match points with volleys, then hit a forehand wide to end the match.

As the crowd stood for one last, long, loud ovation, the gladiators met at the net and shook hands. But that was not enough, so Connors reached out and grasped Borg behind the net in a half-hug, a gesture that reflected the feeling between these two men.

"We've played some good matches in the past," Connors said, understating the impact the rivalry has had in the last half-decade. "This was a pretty good one, too."

"I have great respect for Jimmy and I think he has great respect for me," said Borg. "To beat him indoors, on this fast surface, here in New York, is a great win for me."

Golf? Color it gray except for Calvin Peete

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

PALM SPRINGS — Golf is the most proper of sports, downright stuffy. Gentlemen are required to wear articles of clothing going to and from the shower. Country clubs do not permit members to play bare chested even in the most steamy of summer days. Shorts are not allowed in the tonier older clubs.

Hogan never played in any color but gray and black. His shoes were one-toned. Jimmy Demaret shocked the game when he appeared in lavender slacks. Even Sam Snead wore a palmetto hat so nobody could see his naked head.

The players of the game are as conservative as the Union League or Mellon Bank. It's no accident it is the game of Republican Presidents, Harding, Eisenhower, and Ford. It appeals to the conservative mind, the rugged individualist.

Not surprisingly, the practitioners take on the protective dull coloration of the game. Color it gray.

It has not had its share of "characters." It is a game of character, not characters. Eccentrics don't break 80. Walter Hagen occasionally showed up on a tee in a tuxedo, but, when it was important, he wore knickers and a club tie like everyone else. Golf's reigning champion is usually as stolid and serious about life as the secretary of the treasury.

If you profile a golfer he's (1) blond (2) a graduate of Florida State or Houston where he majored in 1-irons (3) a guy who never lifted anything heavy or worked for a living in his life. He started playing at the age of 4 or 6, his father was a scratch player or a pro, and he was groomed to be a golfer at the family country club at a very early age, even being taken South in the winter. It's a game for methodical, contemplative, unhurried individuals. An under-par round must be engineered like a suspension bridge or a lobotomy.

INTO THIS setting, this monotone life, strode the Honorable Calvin Peete.

Calvin Peete is not blond. He's not even white. He doesn't wear grey and black, he wears diamonds in his teeth. His shoes might be lizard or mirrored. He smiles a lot. You look at him and you conclude he could be a lot of things, but not a golfer. At Royal Lytham & St. Ann's, they might let him play only nine holes. They've never seen a golfer with jeweled teeth before. They'd wonder what the servants would think.

Calvin Peete didn't go to Florida State. Calvin didn't learn the game at pater's knee at Shinnecock Hills. Calvin never got a new set of clubs until he was a married man. Calvin thought a spoon was something you put in your coffee till he was 23-years-old.

Calvin didn't have to learn the game in the dark like Pete Brown and a lot of other black players. But Calvin's idea of a pressure putt was not one with Bob Hope's $50,000 writing on it, but one with Calvin Peete's $20 writing on it. Calvin didn't yearn to beat Jack Nicklaus, just the guy he had just pressed on the back nine.

Peete was pretty much overlooked by the golf team recruiters from Wake Forest, Florida or Houston. For one thing, he was a grade-school dropout. (eighth grade). With his 18 brothers and sisters from his father's two marriages, Calvin spent very little time with the country club set. When Jack Nicklaus was winning junior and amateur tournaments, Peete was picking corn at the family farm in Pahoke, Fla. In addition to his other handicaps, Calvin was nearsighted. He didn't seem to have much of a chance to par life, never mind the Augusta National.

"I was tricked into golf," he said as he sat out a rain delay at the Bob Hope Desert Classic the other afternoon after he had opened the tournament with a front nine 38. Some friends invited him to a clambake in Rochester, N.Y., in 1969 and suggested he join them in a round of golf first.

"I thought golf was a silly pursuit for a grown man. I couldn't understand anyone spending his whole life chasing a little white ball."

WITH HIS rented clubs, Calvin shot in the "low 200s" at first. He didn't even get a set of matched clubs till he was shooting 80s. "I didn't even know what a 'handicap' was," he grins.

A player who was black, and tied to a truck farm from childhood on, and nearsighted, thinks of a "handicap" as something other than just a number a club puts on you.

But underneath the diamonds and the tinted eyeglasses and inside where it counts, Calvin Peete is undistinguishable from Nicklaus, Hogan, Nelson or any other guy who makes his living putting. Even the diamonds are not really flamboyant. Calvin wore the gems for the soundest of capitalistic reasons, to promote sales.

"I was in the jewelry business, selling jewels at the time, and I had these diamonds left over, and I don't like rings on my fingers. So I decided to get them put in my teeth. I thought it was good advertising and would help people know there are lots of other ways to wear diamonds besides in rings."

The idea is not likely to spread to Mr. Tiffany or the DeBeers Co. But Calvin's customers were not the kind who look at velvet cloths full of stones behind a locked vault. Calvin's customers were the kind of people who thought diamond teeth looked swell — migratory farm workers.

Calvin used to trail the crop workers north from Florida to New England with his station wagon full of custom jewelry, nothing Elizabeth Taylor would stock up on, but, every pay night, Calvin did a steady business. After all, he stood behind his products. He had to. They were in his teeth.

Calvin taught himself golf the way he taught himself the jewelry business. Within a very few years, he was in with the Tiffanys of the game. He makes the Masters this year, the second black player in history to do so.

THREE TIMES he bucked the PGA Qualifying School, a 144-hole torture chamber in which 652 players compete for 25 places. Calvin made it on the third try.

Calvin became only the third black player in golf history — and the first of any kind wearing diamond-studded teeth — to win a regular PGA tournament event this year, the Milwaukee Open. He finished 44 places and $64,047 ahead of Jack Nicklaus for the year.

For Calvin Peete to win a tournament 10 years after he took up the game is fairly tale stuff. Most golfers are only 15 years old 10 years after they take up the game. Most other players are still trying to break 100 ten years after they take up the game. Calvin Peete is not only a diamond in the teeth, but a diamond in the rough.

"Golf is a patient game and I've got plenty of patience," he says. Ben Hogan would probably never wear diamonds anywhere. But underneath the glitter of the gems lurks the same calculating mind-machine, part gambler and part computer, that is every golfer. Calvin Peete is not too far from Calvin Coolidge. Still, no one is ever apt to ask "which one's Peete?" Particularly if he smiles.

Erxleben says he couldn't win

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Russell Erxleben says being a million-dollar No. 1 draft pick proved to be a no-win situation for him. The Seguin, Texas, native with the gaudy punting and placekicking numbers at the University of Texas was expected to lead the New Orleans Saints to the promised land of the playoffs.

"From the day I arrived at camp, I was the top draft choice, the million dollar kicker — the first one in the history of the NFL. And right there, that's something you just can't live up to. I had all the pressure riding on me ... I had nothing to gain by performing well and everything to lose if I didn't," he said.

Erxleben opened his pro career with a pair of missed, chip shot field goals and a missed extra point. From there the season went downhill as a leg injury and an ankle infection racked him up.

"SURE, I felt bad about not being able to go out and play. But the people of New Orleans had me doing things I couldn't really do. You can't tell them stuff like that, but that's the way it is," he said.

What was to be a glory year for Erxleben finally ended. He retreated to his two-story Austin home to contemplate 1980.

"I guess you can say I'm looking forward to the New Year — there isn't anything that could happen to me this year that was any worse than last year. That was one of the worst years of my life. It was like, 'If anything could go wrong for me, it will happen,'" he said in an interview.

Erxleben said his physical problems were preceded by the difficulties that rookies — even million dollar rookies — run into.

"When I went out the first time against Miami, I was just awed," he said of the preseason game in which he missed two field goals and an extra point. "I just saw them and said, 'these guys are Super Bowl champions.' I was truly awe-struck," he said.

FOUR WEEKS into the season a leg injury that plagued him during his junior season at UT ended his rookie season.

"Some people say to me, 'Russ, you've got it made. You're making all that money and you hardly had to work all season,'" Erxleben said.

Winfield wants bundle

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego outfielder Dave Winfield, who emerged last season as one of the top young talents in baseball, is seeking a 10-year contract worth $20 million, a newspaper reported Thursday.

According to the Los Angeles Times, Winfield is asking for an escalating contract that begins at $1 million a year and ends close to $3 million.

Last month, Nolan Ryan became the highest paid baseball player in history when he signed a $1 million-a-year package with the Houston Astros.

It figures, Redmen ride to New York's rescue

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

This is a modern-day fairy tale called, "The Basketball Team That Saved New York."

Its cast of characters includes an elf-like coach who calls himself, "The Italian Leprechaun," and it stars a group of energetic giants with nicknames like "Hollywood" and "Blue-Chipper" and flashy talents to match.

As the story goes, this bouncy "Italian Leprechaun" finds the magic combination and takes this group along the Yellow Brick Road all the way to the NCAA championship.

Sound too far-fetched? Not to Jud Heathcote, it doesn't.

"They're as good as any of the good teams in the Big Ten," says the Michigan State coach about the St. John's basketball team.

Heathcote has the scars to prove it, as the result of an 88-73 drubbing by Lou Carnesecca's Redmen in the Lapchick Tournament earlier this season. That was one of 10 victories in 11 games so far for St. John's.

"Definitely a Top Ten team," insists the coach of the defending NCAA champions.

So Carnesecca, who has worked so hard so many years to help restore college basketball to New York — a dying collegiate town since the early Fifties — finally has a chance to rebuild it all in one sweet season.

THERE ARE many who think that this is Carnesecca's best and deepest St. John's team, and that takes in a basketful of excellent teams.

How good are the Redmen? "It's a Final Four team," says Curtis Redding, the transfer from Kansas State who has been dubbed "Hollywood" for his flamboyant court manner. "It's a team that has a chance to go all the way."

The 6-foot-4 Redding was an All-Big Eight selection for two years and currently finds himself in a reserve role for St. John's, so that tells you something about the depth of this team.

REDDING IS one of many New York area players on the Redmen. In fact, that might be the vital point about St. John's. In years past, Carnesecca and other New York coaches had been losing the city's top talent to the UCLAs, North Carolinas and Indianas.

Now the good ones are staying home, like David Russell, a 6-foot-6 freshman from Bellport, N.Y., whom Redding refers to as "The Blue Chipper" for obvious reasons.

In the season's first month, Russell has shown uncommon ability that has stamped him with great potential.

"David can be one of the most exciting players ever to come to St. John's," says Carnesecca. "Another thing: He's a winner."

Bill Esposito, the longtime sports information director who has seen the best and the brightest at the historic New York school, insists that "Russell has the potential to be the greatest player in St. John's history."

And this year's group has the potential to be the greatest team.

Basilio not concerned about future of boxing

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Carmen Basilio, one of the legends of professional boxing, expresses no concern about the future of boxing.

The death of boxer Willie Classen after a November fight in New York City has sparked controversy over the safety of the sport and state officials have instituted new regulations governing ring physicians and referees at fights.

The controversy over the safety of boxing was intensified by the injury to boxer Charles Newell, who was in critical condition after being knocked out in a professional fight in Hartford, Conn., Wednesday night.

But Basilio, who held world championships in both the middleweight and welterweight classes in the 1950s, says conditioning is the best safeguard against injury for any fighter.

"Who is to say when or where there will be a fatality? Any extra exertion may be a factor. Football players die. You might get hit by a car. Only the Lord knows," said Basilio.

Afghan crossing not easy

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP correspondent Barry Shlachter and photographer Michel Lipchitz traveled from Pakistan to Afghanistan's capital the hard way, overland by car, truck and taxi. Here is a report of their trip and the Soviet and Afghan troops they encountered.

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — It was a rare sight — a traffic jam in this sparsely populated Central Asian country. This one was a three-hour-long snarl caused by Soviet tanks just outside Kabul. It was last in a number of delays for me and photographer Michel Lipchitz during a trip by car, truck and taxi through much of Pakistan, through the fabled Khyber Pass, on via a winding mountain road periodically threatened by rebel attack and into Kabul, the Afghan capital, after the Soviets carried out a coup on Dec. 27 and poured an estimated 100,000 troops into the country.

As we waited near Pul-i-Charkhi, 11 or 12 miles east of Kabul for the armor to pass, Soviet soldiers watched curiously from fortified positions on neighboring hillsides. Others in quilted jackets or long overcoats fingered rifles while standing along the roadside next to unarmed, expressionless Afghan army conscripts as the heavy Soviet armor finally rolled by.

Earlier that morning, at the dusty Torkham border crossing about 120 miles east of Kabul, there were no Soviets in sight. Neither was there an available taxi.

A herd of camels and battered Japanese pickup trucks were parked outside a tiny office where officials, wrapped in shawls against the chill, stamped our passports and welcomed us to post-coup Afghanistan.

After several fruitless attempts to get to Kabul by air, Lipchitz and I went by car from Isla-mabad, Pakistan, to Peshawar, at the foot of the Khyber Pass. Diplomats and colleagues warned that the road trip was not without its dangers. Twelve-year-old taxi brokers in Peshawar doubling as porters found us the most veteran-looking pickup truck possible, decorated with orange-painted flowers. Conspicuously and slowly, it drove us into Afghanistan, a landlocked country which means "land of the unruly." Armed with visas obtained in Islamabad, we crossed the frontier on Jan. 6.

From near the border it hardly seemed that anything had changed in 300 years, despite the recent years of coups and political chaos. Donkeys carried little boys and very big baskets of produce through dry, brown fields. Men huddled around braziers, their craggy faces framed with beards and loosely-wrapped turbans.

No women were seen. They stayed inside the high mud walls of compounds, in keeping with the age-old practice of purdah in this 99 percent Moslem country.

Jalalabad City, where I was jailed briefly following another coup 21 months before, was quiet. But residents reported a four-hour artillery bombardment during the night on Surkhrud, a village about 7 miles to the south, which had been seized briefly by rebel Moslem tribesmen fighting the Marxist government.

Abandoning our pickup — but not without argument, police mediation and inflated payment — we left the low-lying city by taxi and began the winding, 6,000-foot climb through the Kabul Gorge.

More striking than the Khyber, the gorge cuts through some of the world's most rugged terrain. The jutting rocks and pock-marked cliffs provide perfect cover for ambushes, such as the one in 1842 when the British survivors of an attack in Kabul were massacred despite Afghan assurances of safe passage.

At one of numerous checkpoints, an Afghan army officer shouted angrily at his men for permitting themselves to be photographed. One of the four conscripts half-heartedly rose to attention, then flopped down on a bench.

With a hand on the butt of an automatic pistol tucked under his belt, he demanded an explanation from us in booming Pashto, the Afghan language which we didn't understand even when it was spoken loudly.

Lipchitz asked the way to Kabul, in broken English and then in his native French, which infuriated the officer all the more. He quizzed our steadfastly silent but quaking taxi driver until, in frustration, he motioned us on with an obscene gesture. Our first Soviets didn't look like European Russians at all, but more like the inhabitants of the country they were occupying. They were soldiers from the Central Asian Tadzhik, Uzbek and Turkmen Soviet republics, standing guard on hills above the road, some smiling and carrying AK-47 rifles.

The heavy Soviet concentration was located at Pul-i-Charkhi, site of a large Afghan army base and a prison where hundreds of political prisoners happened to be released that day. Many Afghans clung to the sides of trucks and buses. Others sat in open car trunks.

A mammoth traffic tieup was triggered when dozens of Soviet tanks, trucks and armored personnel carriers moved against the Kabul-bound traffic. The jam was aggravated by Afghan police trying to line up four lanes of traffic on the two-lane road.

"No more free Afghanistan, Russians, Russians," our driver muttered under his breath after he pointed out dug-in Soviet positions.

The streets of Kabul were empty of Soviet troops when we arrived that same day, Jan. 6. However, when I accompanied a Western diplomat to the Interior Ministry that evening, European Russian soldiers, most of them blue-eyed and in their late teens, were guarding the inner buildings.

After the 11 p.m. curfew, we were told, Soviet forces from camps outside the city moved in openly to patrol the capital.

Impact of sanctions offset, says Moynihan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., said Thursday the impact of President Carter's sanctions against the Soviet Union have been all but offset by criticism from his political opponents.

If the president is to start a new get-tough policy with Russia, he said, he must begin by making high-level changes in the Carter administration.

Although Moynihan did not say so directly, he seemed to be hinting that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance should be replaced.

In a 26-page statement reviewing U.S. foreign policy, Moynihan said the Soviet Union has been pursuing a deliberate strategy of enveloping the oil fields of the Middle East in a giant pincer movement. He said the pincer has nearly been completed with the Soviet occupation of large parts of Afghanistan.

To making this policy credible, the United States must deploy the arms needed to do the job, the senator said.

He said that if the Soviet Union manages to use military intervention to bolster the position of the communist regime in Afghanistan, "then the clear possibility is that Yugoslavia is next."

"That is where a general war could begin, and that is why the United States and NATO must make explicitly clear what we will and what we will not accept," Moynihan said.

"We will not accept that the descent on Kabul was a dress rehearsal for the taking of Belgrade," he said. Moynihan said he was "shaken" by the harsh criticism from many Democratic and Republican presidential candidates of Carter's retaliatory trade embargo against the Russians. "I would almost dare to say that the effect of the minimal actions the president did take in the aftermath of the Afghanistan invasion was near to offset by the evidence that there would be those who would attempt to make him pay a political cost for doing so," Moynihan said.
