NEWS IN BRIEF

Ships boycotted

HOUSTON (AP) — Two ships at Port Houston are not being loaded because of an International Longshoremen's Association decision to boycott Soviet vessels.

"There is a general feeling the flag is being trampled on around the world," said Buddy Raspberry, president of the ILA's South Atlantic and Gulf Coast District.

He said "nobody is taking any action," so the union boycott was put into effect.

The two ships affected, the "Belgorod" and the "Yasnoi," were scheduled to receive loads of vegetable oil and corn before the shutdown occurred.

There was no indication Friday what action might be taken by the two Soviet vessels.

Port pact signed

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A $350 million "super tanker" crude oil terminal planned for Pelican Island is still several steps away from becoming a reality.

Officials from Galveston Wharves and Pelican Terminal Corp. Thursday signed a 30-year agreement to undertake the project, which calls for deepening Galveston channel by 16 feet to accommodate tankers of 250,000 tons or more.

But the project, which will receive final approval from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, must also survive an April 5 vote by Galveston residents that would limit tankers to 80,000 tons.

Painting stolen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "The Traveling Salesman," an original Norman Rockwell painting valued at $60,000, was stolen from the Norman Rockwell Museum here, police said Friday.

Painted in 1945, the 11-by-14-inch picture was discovered missing at closing time Thursday, according to authorities.

'Flight' planned

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A television that simulates flight conditions went on the fritz Friday, but space agency officials said it would be fixed in time for another mock voyage by the space shuttle Columbia.

The Columbia was scheduled for a simulated takeoff at 10:30 p.m. CST Friday, about a day after it made a fake trip astronaut John Young called "fantastic."

Young and Navy Cmdr. Robert Crippen were slated to be at the controls again, said Kennedy Space Center spokesman Rocky Raab. The flight was delayed 90 minutes because of the television monitor, which shut down during a simulated orbit Friday morning.

High school burns

LEONARD, Texas (AP) — Fire swept through the Leonard High School Friday night and left only aging brick walls standing as a monument to 55 years of education in the three-story structure.

Volunteer firefighters from Leonard, Trenton, Celeste, Bonham, Savoy, Tom Bean and Whitewright battled the blaze that had threatened to involve the nearby elementary and middle schools. There were no reports of injuries.

Douglas 'serious'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas battling progressive lung and kidney failure, remained in very serious condition Friday at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, hospital spokesman Peter Esker said.

U.S. request for sanctions is postponed

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council postponed any action on America's request for economic sanctions against Iran during a Friday night meeting that lasted only five minutes.

Diplomatic sources said a message had been received from Iran's Foreign Ministry and the council adjourned until 5 p.m. CST Saturday after the brief meeting.

The public session had been delayed for more than five hours because of the message. The sources said the message to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim apparently asked for a delay on any council action until after Iran's presidential election on Jan. 25. They said it also may have offered new hope for negotiations to free some 50 American hostages held by Iranian militants since Nov. 4 in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry agreed to the postponement "despite our serious doubts" it would lead to any meaningful results.

In his speech to the council, McHenry reaffirmed U.S. demands for the unconditional release of the hostages.

"We insist, and we shall continue to insist, on the unconditional release of the hostages. They have already suffered too much for too long," he said.

America has declared it will press for a vote on sanctions in an effort to gain the release of the hostages. The Soviet Union has indicated it will veto any such action.

The council had scheduled a private meeting at 3:30 p.m. EST, but it was delayed for informal consultations. The 15-member council then went into a private meeting at 8:30 p.m., opened the public session at 9:17 p.m. and adjourned at 9:22 p.m.

French Ambassador Jacques LePrette, council president for January, said it was decided during the closed session to put off the vote because of "new facts" to consider. The diplomatic sources said a message had been received by Waldheim from Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh through the Iranian mission to the United Nations.

The message, which the Iranians transmitted to Waldheim orally and which they reportedly did not want put in writing, was termed "one step forward" by Western sources.

It asked the United Nations to recognize the legitimacy of Iran's demands for the extradition of the former Shah of Iran and his money, sources said.

They said it was unclear what Iran was offering in return, but said it would not be the hostages' freedom.

One diplomat, who asked not to be named, said Iran's message asked non-aligned countries to urge postponement of a vote on the U.S. appeal.

McHenry told reporters he had received "no communication in terms of a piece of paper" and that he did not expect one.

He said he had received "oral comments" during the afternoon and "we decided to pursue them."

Militants seize Panama's embassy in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Some 50 left-wing militants took over the Panamanian Embassy Friday and seized seven hostages, authorities reported.

Among the captives were Panamanian Ambassador David Perez Ramos, Costa Rican Ambassador Alejandro Alvarado Piza, and Costa Rican Charge d'Affaires Santo David Lopez.

The invaders identified themselves as members of the February 28 Popular League. They said they seized the embassy to press for the release of six league members arrested during a Dec. 18 clash with national guardsmen in a labor dispute at a nearby coffee plantation. They also are demanding information about six other league members who allegedly disappeared after the fight.

Perez Ramos told reporters who were allowed inside the embassy that the occupation was peaceful. He said he personally asked Defense Minister Jose Guillermo Garcia to withdraw two armored cars and about 50 guardsmen who ringed the building following the takeover.

Jose Carlos Guillermo Argueta, a spokesman for the embassy invaders, said they were prepared to remain in the embassy "indefinitely." There was no evidence the group was armed but he said "we have a system of self-defense." He added the six league members arrested last month began a hunger strike Friday in prison.

Rioting, fighting reported in Afghanistan cities

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of angry Afghans shouting "Russians Get Out" stormed a prison 15 miles outside Afghanistan's capital city of Kabul Friday in a bid to free relatives held as political prisoners by the Soviet-backed government. One civilian and one Afghan soldier were killed.

Reports reaching Karachi, Pakistan, said heavy fighting was continuing around the eastern Afghan city of Jalalabad, near the border with Pakistan. A guerrilla leader told Pakistan Press International that 50 soldiers were killed in fighting there Thursday. The guerrillas also claimed to have shot down a Soviet bomber.

The reports could not be independently confirmed. At the United Nations, Soviet Ambassador Oleg Troyanovsky accused the United States and China of "heating up the so-called Afghan situation" but predicted East-West detente would survive.

Addressing an emergency General Assembly meeting on the Afghan subject, Troyanovsky said: "The Soviet Union intends to steer a course of peaceful co-existence and detente, convinced this will overcome all barriers and will ultimately once again become the prevailing trend in international affairs."

However, U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said during an interview in Washington that American measures taken in retaliation for the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan "are not a passing thing," reasoning that the Soviets must be made to understand "aggression will not be rewarded." Other Carter administration officials, who spoke on the condition their names not be used, on Friday described the Soviet military campaign in Afghanistan as "extremely brutal" and said the Soviet "goal seems to be to exterminate those who oppose them."

The official Chinese Communist Party newspaper, the People's Daily, meanwhile, predicted the Soviets would "continue to use 'detente' as a shield and its strength as a backing and strive to achieve its objective of expansion without entering into a war."

The General Assembly meeting was expected to continue at least through Saturday, when the United States is scheduled to speak. The emergency session was called after a Soviet veto blocked action on the Afghan issue in the Security Council.

The Soviet Union has poured up to 100,000 troops into Afghanistan since Dec. 27, when it helped stage a coup against the government of Hafizullah Amin, who was subsequently reported executed.

There since have been reports of fighting throughout the Central Asian nation, where Moslem Afghan guerrillas have been waging a holy war against a succession of three Marxist governments that have ruled the country since April, 1978.

The Soviets are believed to control the main highways and cities throughout the mountainous landlocked country surrounded by Pakistan to the east and south, Iran to the west and the Soviet Union to the north. Afghanistan and China also share a very small border.

The call to conservation.....

By RICHARD BILL

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese are being asked to live in cooler homes and drive their cars slower. Store owners are to turn off their lights at night. Electric companies are being rewarded if they switch from oil to other fuels.

These are measures included in a new energy-saving package approved by the Japanese government to cut this nation's oil consumption by seven percent, because of anticipated cutbacks in oil supplies.

Temperatures in homes, offices, hotels and stores are to be set at 64 degrees Fahrenheit. Offices and stores are to have their lights turned off by 10 p.m. Restaurants, cabarets and bars, which line the streets of Japanese cities with neon signs, are being asked to close by midnight.

Maximum speeds of 31 mph for cars on city streets and 50 mph for vehicles on expressways will be enforced.

If these measures seem severe, officials warned, their next requests will be even more drastic, including a ban on the use of privately owned cars in major cities.

"In effect, what we're doing is introducing rationing to Japan," said Seichi Kondoh of the Natural Energy and Resources Agency. "These measures are severe but necessary."

The government said it expects "100 percent cooperation" from the people, although the measures aren't compulsory. Sunday gas rationing, in effect for a year, is 99 percent effective, officials say.

The latest measures, adopted in response to sharp increases in oil prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, are part of a series to help this highly industrialized nation, 99 percent dependent on imports for its petroleum needs, through the 1980s.

Japan is the world's largest importer of oil after the United States, with 70 percent of its needs supplied alone by the Middle East.

The new steps go into effect immediately. Combined with steps taken earlier, the government hopes to reduce significantly the nation's surging fuel import bill that leaped from $23 billion in 1978 to an estimated $35 billion last year. In oil terms it represents a saving of 125.8 million barrels out of the 1.76 billion barrels that Japan imports each year.

Electricity and gas companies are seeking approval to boost power rates 60-70 percent to offset soaring oil prices. This is one development, the influential ministry of international trade and industry says, that is certain to bite into people's lifestyles.

Another measure is an end to all television broadcasting at midnight, meaning a saving of electricity, although minimal in terms of overall consumption. Late night TV consists mostly of films.

The measures were approved by the ministerial council for promotion of general measures on energy, headed by Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira.

The council agreed that oil conservation was necessary to keep Japan within an oil import ceiling of 5.4 million barrels a day this year set by the International Energy Agency as well as to attain the country's projected 4.8 percent economic growth rate target for fiscal 1980.

"It is too early to say how these measures will affect the economy but we're keeping our fingers crossed that they will have a great impact," said an official of the economic planning agency, who declined use of his name.

Oil refiners expressed grave concern over the OPEC members' failure to set limits for future prices, saying they are certain to raise prices further.

"Refiners will be driven into a tight corner," said Kozaburo Araki, director of Idemitsu Kosan Co. He said OPEC's failure to agree on a 1980 pricing structure means an era of crude oil prices of more than $30 a barrel.

Japan's oil industry is worried that its 100-day reserve stockpile could dwindle sharply over the next few months unless Japan can gain new assurances of stable supplies. "When OPEC screams, Japan bows," said one oil source.

The government will instruct electric companies to shift from oil to nuclear fuel, liquefied natural gas and coal, and call on other energy dependent industries to use coal.

Companies that shift to fuels other than oil would receive favored financial treatment, officials said.

Castro takes control of key Cabinet jobs

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Fidel Castro of Cuba assumed personal control of key ministries Friday and made numerous changes in his Cabinet in an apparent attempt to gain firmer control of his economically troubled country.

A Cuban news agency Prensa Latina dispatch from Havana said Castro took personal control of the defense, interior, public health and culture ministries and appointed key aides to the ministries of economy, transportation, communications and industry.

Prensa Latina gave no specific reason for the moves, but said some governmental agencies had not been effective in recent months.

The dispatch said "Cuba's internal problems in recent months reflect administrative deficiencies and show symptoms of weakness in the discipline of some working sectors."

The news agency report said "In spite of different difficulties, Cubans have succeeded, over the past 21 years of efforts, to consolidate an economic, political and social system without parallel in Latin America and which has presented numerous examples of sustained success."

Prensa Latina said the president's brother, Raul Castro, first vice president of the council of ministers, will aid Castro in the running of the interior and armed forces ministries. Raul was previously listed as head of the defense ministry.

The dispatch said that Castro, in addition to having his brother as an adviser, will also have a number of new ministers to aid him.

The shake-up brought in new ministers of justice, industry, sugar production, education, agriculture, state, labor, safety and social welfare, foreign trade, light and heavy industry and tourism, Prensa Latina reported.

Prensa Latina said the shake-up marked a new era and was designed to prepare the nation for new labor legislation, taking into account resolutions adopted at the last session of the People's Assembly. There was no elaboration.

It said there soon would be a new distribution of responsibilities of the executive members on the executive council, but again it did not elaborate.

Although no specifics of new goals were mentioned, Cuba's economy has been in trouble for years, and it depends heavily on economic aid from the Soviet Union.

The Prensa Latina dispatch said a new economy minister had been named, and identified him as Idalberto L. Guevara.

Other new ministers identified by Prensa Latina included: Justice, former President Osvaldo Dorticos; basic industry, Joel Domenech; sugar industry, Diocles Torralba; education, Jose R. Fernandez; foreign trade, Ricardo Cabrisas; light industry, Manuel Miyares; heavy industry, Jose Fernandez Cuervo Vincent.

The dispatch said Arnaldo Milian y Osmany would be minister of agriculture and also serve as secretary of the council of ministers and of its executive committee.

Honda plans Ohio facility

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Honda said Friday it plans to build an automobile assembly plant near here capable of turning out 10,000 cars a month. It would be the first U.S. plant built by a Japanese automaker in the United States.

The statement came at a time when the U.S. industry is suffering from declining sales and is cutting back production. Ford Motor Co. announced on Wednesday it will permanently close an assembly plant in Los Angeles.

Another foreign manufacturer, West Germany's Volkswagen, is building its popular subcompact Rabbit in Pennsylvania.

Honda President Kiyoshi Kawashima said his company plans a $200 million assembly plant that will employ about 2,000 workers. He said construction would start before year-end on a 260-acre site adjacent to the Honda motorcycle plant six miles from this central Ohio city.

Although Kawashima said at a news conference in Tokyo that the decision to build the plant had been made, Honda's U.S. office in Gardena, Calif., issued a statement saying a "feasibility study" regarding the Ohio plant "entered the final stage" and that it appeared Honda "could begin construction" by the end of the year.

An American Honda Motor Co. spokesman, Fred Mackerodt, called discrepancies between the Tokyo and U.S. statements "a misunderstanding." He first said he did not know which was correct but later said he believed the U.S. statement was right.

Honda officials in Japan said major components of the cars would initially be shipped from Japan. An Ohio official said in the long run, "we expect that parts used there would be bought in Ohio."

Ohio officials welcomed the Honda announcement, noting the state lost a bid two years ago for the Volkswagen plant now operating at New Stanton, Pa.

In Detroit, General Motors Corp. said "Honda's construction of a plant in Ohio will aid the nation's economy and provide new employment opportunities in the United States." Other American companies had no immediate reaction.

Another Pacific storm reported moving toward hard-hit regions

By C.W. MIRANKER

High winds lashed Colorado, Utah, the Dakotas and Wisconsin Friday, whipping up newly fallen snow, cutting visibility and closing many highways.

In Wisconsin, a 128-mile stretch of Interstate 94 was closed from Millston to the Minnesota border, as glare ice and drifting snow made travel impossible.

High winds hit North

By The Associated Press

High winds buffeted North Dakota, the lower Great Lakes region and the lower Ohio Valley Friday. Light snow and high winds spread over the northern Plains, and snow fell over the central portions of the Plateau and the Rockies.

The New York and New England coasts also were whipped by winds. Temperatures at midday ranged from 16 degrees below zero in Cutbank, Mont., to 82 degrees in Fort Myers and Melbourne, Fla.

The national weather forecast for Saturday called for scattered showers and thundershowers over the Gulf Coast and Florida. Rain was expected to continue along the West Coast, changing to freezing rain and snow over the western Rockies. Snow also was predicted in New England.

Temperatures in the northern part of the upper Mississippi Valley and northern and western Great Lakes region was expected to reach only into the teens. Across northern sections of the Rockies, readings were expected in the 20s and 30s.

Temperatures to reach into 60s

Touche of light sleet and mist which fell over Midland late Friday afternoon weren't omens of impending harsh weather — at least not right away.

In fact, weather should be relatively warm today and Sunday, said the weatherman.

Temperatures under partly cloudy skies should be in the low 60s today, drop to near 40 tonight and rise into the upper 60s Sunday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

The light mist and sleet which teased the area between 5:04 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. were hardly discernible.

"It's that sort of thing you could sense, you could feel, but it really wasn't there" to speak off, said the weatherman. The moisture went on the weather service record books as a trace and was the first recorded moisture for the year.

Heavier patches of sleet and mist were falling Friday night to the east and southeast — at Stanton, Big Spring and Big Lake.

Friday's high temperature was 60 degrees, and the overnight low was 35. Record temperatures for the date are 78 degrees for the high in 1935 and 5 degrees for the low in 1963.

Winds today should be southwesterly at 15-25 mph and decrease to 10-15 mph tonight.

Private Mass planned for labor leader Meany

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's leaders Friday mourned the death of George Meany as a giant who shaped American society and world opinion as "Mr. Labor" for a quarter-century.

"George Meany was an American institution," President Carter said after the death Thursday night of the 85-year-old labor patriarch, who resigned just two months ago as the first president of the AFL-CIO. Meany's health had been deteriorating for months.

"George Meany... was one of the greatest forces of our time for social justice and freedom," said Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

"A giant has fallen," said Labor Secretary Ray Marshall. "George Meany was my friend and a giant for American labor." Sen. Edward Kennedy said in Iowa, where he was campaigning.

LANE KIRKLAND, who succeeded Meany barely two months ago as president of the 14 million-member labor federation, hailed his long-time mentor for forging "the strongest, the most independent, the most democratic labor movement in the world."

"His legacy is the AFL-CIO itself," a grim-faced Kirkland said as he read a short statement to reporters.

The Soviet news agency Tass called Meany "an apologist of the capitalist system, a rapid anti-communist," a description that Meany would surely have accepted with pride. Meany vigorously opposed communist influence in labor movements around the world.

A PRIVATE requiem Mass will be celebrated at Tuesday morning at St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral here, with burial at Gate of Heaven Cemetery in suburban Silver Spring, Md. Meany's body will lie in the lobby of AFL-CIO headquarters Sunday and Monday for public viewing.

The cigar-smoking, blunt-spoken former plumber from the Bronx who put a bickering labor movement together in 1955 and held it together for the next 24 years, died at 9:55 p.m. EST Thursday at George Washington University Hospital.

Meany was admitted to the hospital Sunday for tests and treatment of a painful buildup of fluid in his legs. About nine hours before his death he was rushed to the intensive care unit because of a sudden drop in his vital signs. Death was attributed to cardiac arrest.

He had been confined to a wheelchair with arthritis since last spring, following a golfing accident, and was frequently in severe pain. His health worsened rapidly after that, forcing him to retire last November as the only president of the AFL-CIO since it was founded in 1955.

Close friends said Meany grew dependent on the death last March of his wife, Eugenia, whom he had married 59 years earlier. He seemed to have lost his vigor for life and desire to regain his strength, the friends said.

MEANY'S REMARKABLE labor career spanned 57 years. The last dozen years were marked by calls, many of them from younger unionists of a different era, for him to step down. But Meany had no use for retirement while his health was good.

Aides said they were not surprised that his death came so soon after he bade an emotional farewell to the AFL-CIO at its biennial convention

Extended forecasts

Monday Through Wednesday

West Texas: A little cooler mid week. High Monday in the lower 60s north to mid 70s south cooling into the mid 50s north to near 70 south by Wednesday. Lows in the lower 30s north to mid 40s south.

North Texas: Partly cloudy. Unseasonably warm Monday and Tuesday. Turning cooler with scattered showers Wednesday. Highest temperatures in the low and mid 70s. Falling to near 60 northwest on Wednesday. Lowest temperatures near 40 northwest. Mid and upper 50s southeast.

Meany never finished high school, but used his forceful personality, shrewd political instincts and keen intelligence to forge a merger of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations under his unchallenged leadership in December 1955.

From then on, the American worker was symbolized by the gruff, heavily Bronx-accented voice of George Meany.

He used the AFL-CIO as his base for winning a broad range of pro-labor legislation, advising eight presidents on social issues and foreign policy, and molding Democratic Party politics.

THROUGHOUT HIS CAREER, the son of an Irish-American union leader established a clear penchant for frankness over diplomacy, political pragmatism over ideology, organization over innovation.

An unflinching support of the American capitalist system, Meany fought to make the system give workers a better shake. In the process, he was at times both friend and foe to the nation's political and business leaders. No one was immune from his sharp tongue, including presidents.

During his tenure, organized workers achieved unprecedented prosperity that allowed them to join the ranks of the American middle class economically. But critics complained that the labor movement's prosperity came at the expense of declining membership and dynamism.

His outspoken views against the Soviet Union, in staunch defense of Israel and on other foreign policy matters won him international attention as well.

DOZENS OF TRIBUTES poured in Friday from political, business, labor leaders and others who worked with him over the past half-century.

"Working men and women around the world will mourn his loss," said Carter, who had tangled frequently with Meany over economic policy.

"He changed the shape of our nation for the better in hundreds of ways, great and small, through the force of his character and the integrity of his beliefs," the president said.

"Like seven of my predecessors, I was privileged to benefit from his straightforward counsel."

Kirkland said American workers, "whether they carried a union card or not, considered George Meany their spokesman, and he was." And in every country ruled by dictators, he said, "George Meany was hated by the oppressors because he was a beacon of hope for the oppressed."

GOV. HUGH CAREY of Meany's home state of New York ordered all flags on state buildings flown at half-staff Friday.

Jewish leaders hailed him for his defense of Israel and his fight against anti-Semitism. "The Jewish people, like the nation and the world, are bereaved," said Maxwell E. Greenberg of the Anti-Defamation League and Nathan Perlmutter of B'Nai B'rith, the Jewish service organization.

Born Aug. 16, 1894, in the Harlem section of New York City, Meany began his labor career at the age of 28 in 1922, when he gave up plumbing to become business agent of his union local. From there he rose to president of the New York State Federation of Labor in 1934, national secretary-treasurer of the AFL in 1939 and president of the AFL in 1952.

Texas trucker comes to rescue, fights off woman's attackers

CANTON, Texas (AP) — Dick Cockrell is just one of those guys who can't leave a lady in distress.

The burly ex-Marine, now a truck driver for Kroger grocery stores, spotted a woman and her two children screaming for help as three men dragged them into a car at a roadside park near here.

"She was screaming her head off, but nobody was doing anything," said the soft-spoken Cockrell. "When I walked up, she said, 'Please help, and that's all it took.'"

Cockrell said one of the men, carrying a knife, said, "You ———, don't worry about what's going on here, just get your — in the truck and go on."

"I went for him first...I could feel his jaw break," said the 32-year-old trucker. "They taught me a long time ago where to hit a man to break his jaw."

Then a second man came at Cockrell.

"He caught me on the left side of the face with a punch.

"Hell, I'm 245 pounds. It didn't knock me down. He threw a second punch, but I backed off and caught his fist in my hand, then I use my left hand to pop his elbow (break his arm)."

About then, the attacker with the knife reached up from the ground and stabbed Cockrell in the leg.

"I took it (the knife) away from him and broke it. I stepped on the blade and pulled up on the handle. It wasn't a very big knife."

Cockrell's said the third man by then "seemed only half interested after he saw what was going on. I kicked him in the groin."

Cockrell said he tried to calm the woman, Mrs. J.C. Allen, when he noticed one of the men trying to escape in the car.

So Cockrell just whacked him again, then yanked the key out of the ignition and tossed it away.

The man with the broken arm "was yelling that he was going to sue me and crying out for the crowd to help him," Cockrell said. "The guy with the broken jaw was crawling around on the ground like a dog and the third guy was groaning and checking to see if all his parts were still there."

"I hate to say it, but I kind of enjoyed seeing him roll on the ground, yelling and screaming after what they did."

"I did enjoy every minute of it...I told them that I come through there three times a week and if they wanted some more of it, just hang around."

Mrs. Allen, wife of Marine Staff Sgt. J.C. Allen, said she and her children were in the family car following her husband in a trailer as they moved to Camp Lejeune, N.C., to San Francisco.

Mrs. Allen pulled off to let her 6- and 7-year-old daughters use the restroom Tuesday evening, but her husband did not see them and drove on.

Cockrell said Mrs. Allen told him the men said they were going to rape her and threatened to rape her daughters.

"He saved their lives, I know he did," Allen said. "He should receive some recognition for what he did. There were a lot of people around the rest area and he was the only one to help."

Cockrell said he escorted the woman to Dallas, and radioed truckers down the road to locate her husband.

"When he stopped with my family, he didn't talk about what happened," Allen said. "He just said, 'Here's your family. Follow me and I'll take you through Dallas.'"

Cockrell said he called Tyler police, who told him the park was under the jurisdiction of the Van Zandt County Sheriff's office, but he didn't call the sheriff.

"I figured they (the three men) would be long gone anyway," he said. "And so what if you do call the cops. Some judge would just let them off with a hand-spanking and tell them not to do it again. So you might as well whip their — before you send them to court."

As six siblings celebrate, sextuplets born in Italy

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) - Friday provided a humdinger for those who take note of infrequent happenings in unusual numbers: Six babies were born to a woman on the sixth anniversary of the birth of six infants to another mother.

A 28-year-old woman who had taken fertility drugs gave birth here to sextuplets and doctors said the infants, four boys and two girls, had an "excellent" chance of surviving.

Rosanna Cavigli Giannini of Bibbiena, outside Florence, gave birth by Caesarian section in the 35th week of pregnancy. The babies, weighing between 2.2 and 4.4 pounds each, were named Linda, Letizia, Giorgio, Francesco, Mario and Roberto, a brief hospital statement said.

The births of the Giannini sextuplets occurred on the exact date that the Rosenkowitz sextuplets, also four boys and two girls, were born in South Africa six years ago. The six Rosenkowitz children are the only other set of sextuplets believed alive in the world.

A family friend said the Gianninis had expected sextuplets because "they had all sorts of tests before, including an X-ray examination."

Reporters and photographers were barred from the hospital and medical and family sources declined to answer reporters' questions. A hospital official said the family had requested silence because it signed an exclusive right to a magazine "to take care of the big family."

The mother is a secondary school teacher, the father is a clerk in an import-export firm.

It was the second multiple birth in Italy in six months. On Aug. 16, Pasqualina Chianese, a Naples housewife who had taken fertility drugs, gave birth to octuplets, two months prematurely. Six died within two weeks. The two surviving girls, Silvana and Anna, left the hospital late last year. Both weigh about seven pounds and are doing "very well," according to a family source.

In Cape Town, the Rosenkowitz sextuplets celebrated their sixth birthday Friday with separate cakes decorated with cartoon characters depicting their own personalities.

Their parents, Colin and Susan Rosenkowitz, have hired an advertising firm in Johannesburg to explore U.S. television commercial jobs, as well as local publicity photos for the group.

Mooyen Lee, a spokesman for the ad company, said that despite "the money-making potential" of the children, efforts would be made to ensure they did not feel exploited.

"It cost a lot of money to raise eight children and then six of them have to have everything at the same time," Miss Lee said.

"It cannot be denied that the famous children have a big publicity value. We just must ensure that they do not get the feeling that they are in a cage in a zoo," she said.

Miss Lee said a South African lawyer had been in New York for the past four months investigating TV opportunities for the family. The children, named Elizabeth, Grant, Emma, Jason, Nicky and David, attend three separate schools.

44-year-old Midland man among ten indicted by jury

A 44-year-old Midland man accused of the Jan. 3 aggravated rape of a Midland woman was indicted Wednesday by the Midland County Grand Jury.

The indictment on a charge of aggravated rape returned against William Benjamin Logue, 3811 Anetta Drive, was accompanied by two counts of burglary at night with intent to commit theft.

He remains in jail in lieu of posting $50,000 bond.

The rape was reported to the Rape Crisis Center about 3 a.m. Jan. 3. The center then notified the Midland County Sheriff's Department.

The woman reportedly told officers she was given a ride by a man from Odessa and they stopped about 1 a.m. on County Road 1211 just west of Midland.

She said the man started hitting her about the face and shoulders with his fists and then assaulted her. The woman was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital for numerous bruises to her head.

Logue was arrested at his residence later that day.

The grand jury also returned indictments against nine other individuals.

David Hensley, P.O. Box 3653, and Allan David Digennaro, 109 W. Wadley Ave., Apt. 25, each were indicted on a charge of theft over $200 but less than $10,000. Hensley remains in Midland City Jail in lieu of posting $7,500 bond. Digennaro is free on $3,500 bond.

James Allen Joiner, Route 5, Box 858, was indicted on a charge of burglary of a habitation. He is in the county jail in lieu of posting $5,000 bond.

Timothy Allen Pendergrass, 4726 W. Illinois Ave., was indicted on a charge of forgery by making. He currently is free on $5,000 bond.

The names of five others indicted by the grand jury were not available.

Water district's deliveries 8 percent below estimates

BIG SPRING — Water deliveries to area cities in 1979 almost equaled the totals for the previous year. But sharp reductions to oil companies and industries pulled deliveries of the Colorado River Municipal Water District 8 percent below 1978 figures.

Production figures released by the CRMWD showed that municipal deliveries stood at 13,603,331,200 gallons for the year or 176 million under estimates.

Wet mid-year months and an abnormally wet December caused the municipal demand decline, water district officials indicated.

Because surface supplies were cut off from oil companies, their deliveries were off sharply. The 2,647,080,248 gallons they took was 1,244,012,534 less than the previous year.

Decline in surface deliveries was 528 million gallons for the year. Texas Electric Service Company was cut off from the Ward County well field supply at mid-year with the result of a loss of 528 million gallons to district production.

Oil companies took 175 million gallons less production from brine wells for secondary recovery and three major operators dropped 51 million gallons. All others were about the same or showed gains, district officials said.

Total deliveries for the year amounted to 16,250,411,443 gallons, down 1,420,200,884 gallons or 8.04 percent from 1978.

During December, the district delivered 800,211,000 gallons to cities, 156,604,964 to oil companies and industries, a total of 956,815,964, little less than 10 million gallons than the December 1978 figure.

Comedian Jimmy Durante takes 'slight turn for worse,' sources say

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Jimmy Durante, 86, suffering from a form of pneumonia, took a slight turn for the worse Friday at St. John's Hospital, where he was reported in fair condition.

Joseph Lucero, a hospital spokesman, said Durante was admitted to the hospital Tuesday with pneumonitis.

Durante had been listed in satisfactory condition early Friday, but that listing was changed to fair later in the day, hospital spokeswoman Chris Thomas said. She said Durante's condition had worsened "somewhat."

Durante, whose career spanned vaudeville to television, retired in November 1972 after suffering a stroke that left him partially paralyzed.

Diabetes association opens regional office in Midland

A new office of the American Diabetes Association has been opened in Midland. Previously, the nearest association office was the North Texas Affiliate in Dallas.

The Midland office will be run by Steve Owen, West Texas regional representative. Owen said he hoped that by having an office closer to the surrounding chapters they could become more effective with advice and information readily available.

Eventually, Owen said, he plans to use the office as a distribution center for pamphlets, books, posters and other information related to diabetes.

The job of West Texas regional representative will entail working with the board of directors in each of the individual chapters and with the committee chairmen on such topics as patient and professional education, public education, fund raising and publicity.

Chapters of the American Diabetes Association are in Midland, Odessa, Big Spring, San Angelo, Lubbock and Abilene.

More information may be obtained by calling 682-0314 or by going by the new office at 2209 N. Big Spring St., Suite J in Midland.

Judge says he'll rule later on third move in Bundy trial

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A circuit judge kept trying to seat a jury Friday in the kidnap-murder trial of Theodore R. Bundy, saying he'll rule later on a motion to move the trial for a third time because of heavy pre-trial news coverage.

Circuit Judge Wallace Jopling heard from news executives of area radio and television stations, from the author of a survey and from Bundy's attorneys during a 2 1/2 hour hearing on a motion for a change of venue.

After the hearing, Jopling and the lawyers began interviewing a new panel of 12 jury candidates. But, by day's end only 11 remained tentatively seated. Twelve jurors and two or three alternates are needed to try the case.

The 33-year-old Bundy is on trial for the February 1978 kidnap-murder of 12-year-old Kimberly Leach of Lake City. The trial already has been moved twice. The judge first moved it out of Lake City to nearby Live Oak in northern Florida.

But Jopling failed to seat a jury in Live Oak and moved the trial to Orlando.

Bundy also drew widespread attention last July when he was convicted and sentenced to death for the grisly murders of two sorority sisters at FSU. That trial was moved from Tallahassee to Miami because of pre-trial publicity.

Prosecution and defense lawyers used preemptory challenges Friday to remove two mothers from the jury panel.

Ruth S. Minor of Ocoee was unseated when she said her daughter attends Lake City Community College and another daughter used to go to Florida State University. Also eliminated as a potential juror was Ida Walls of Orlando, who said of the defendant: "I feel very sorry for him, just like anyone in that position."

During the hearing on the motion for a change of venue, University of Central Florida professor Phillip Taylor reported that a survey he conducted showed that 98 percent of 333 people interviewed in Orange County know Bundy at least by name.

"The people (responding to the survey) perceive there's about a 50-50 chance he could receive a fair trial," Taylor said.

The survey also showed that most respondents did not recognize the name of young

Kimberly Leach, who disappeared in February 1978. Her body was found weeks later under a hog shed near Live Oak.

News executives detailed the stories their stations have carried on Bundy, but said to a man that none of the stories had been designed to alter public opinion about Bundy.

In a statement, Bundy claimed massive publicity about his current trial and the double-murder convictions in Miami has "infected the general state of mind of the Orange County community with prejudice, bias and preconceived opinions."

The motion was accompanied by 259 newspaper articles on Bundy from the Orlando Sentinel Star and copies of 68 photographs of the defendant published in the newspaper.

Suit against Ford dropped; Firm agrees to pay lawyers

DETROIT (AP) — A lawsuit accusing Henry Ford II of accepting kickbacks and squandering company money on himself is being dropped, Ford Motor Co. announced Friday night. The company said it was paying a total of $200,000 plus expenses of $30,000 to attorneys for the shareholders who brought the suit. The two law firms will split the amount.

Garwood hearing to resume Jan. 29

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Military prosecutors, in a surprise move, said Friday they had finished their presentation at a hearing to determine whether Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood will be court-martialed on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam.

The move by prosecutors came after 10 witnesses testified at the hearing and statements from an 11th person were introduced as evidence. It appears to leave only defense cross-examination of some witnesses before the hearing concludes.

But that cross-examination will not begin until Jan. 29, with the recess giving both sides time to prepare.

A Vietnamese refugee named Le Dinh Quy, a former South Vietnamese soldier who was captured by the communists and encountered Garwood in prison camps, had been expected to testify and he was at Camp Lejeune Friday, according to base officials.

But prosecutors did not put Quy on the stand or introduce into evidence any written statements from Quy.

"I wish to hell I knew what's going on," said Dermot Foley, Garwood's civilian attorney. Foley said he had expected Quy to testify Friday.

Prosecutors gave no reason for their move, with prosecutor Maj. R.J. Maren announcing that the government "concluded its presentation of live testimony" at a hearing session Friday that lasted less than three minutes.

Foley speculated that prosecutors may not have offered Quy because his testimony may have done no more than duplicate previous testimony.

Prosecutors presented seven former prisoners of war and three other Marines in hopes of convincing Maj. T.V.B. Hamilton Jr., presiding officer at the hearing, that there is enough evidence to court-martial the 33-year-old Garwood.

There was testimony from some witnesses that Garwood talked of using a bulldozer to urge American soldiers to lay down their arms, that he lived with communist guards instead of in the squalid prisoners' compound, that he carried guns and occasionally guarded other Americans and that he claimed to be a lieutenant in the North Vietnamese army.

Garwood's defense is based on the contention that many American prisoners cooperated with the communists out of fear, but that only Garwood has faced prosecution. Garwood disappeared while serving as a jeep driver near Danang in 1965 and returned to the United States last year, claiming he had been a prisoner for nearly 14 years.

When the hearing resumes on Jan. 29, Foley plans to cross-examine three former prisoners of war who testified for the prosecutors earlier but were not questioned by the defense.

One of those firms is headed by Roy Cohn, a well-known New York lawyer involved in many celebrated cases who also represents Benson Ford Jr. in his suit against family members.

The other lawyer involved is Alan M. Pollack, also of New York.

The announcement said both sides had agreed "not to continue in Michigan courts or elsewhere." In New York, Cohn said he was "satisfied with the settlement," and noted that Ford is no longer the chief executive officer of the company.

A New York court threw out the suit on the grounds that it belonged in Michigan. That dismissal was upheld last September by a New York appeals court.

The plaintiffs had sought damages of $50 million. Henry Ford II is chairman of the company founded by his grandfather in 1903.

In original filings, amendments or other court documents, the plaintiffs had accused Henry Ford of the company of:

—Taking a $750,000 kickback from Canteen Corp. in return for food concessions in Ford plants.

—Taking a $2 million payment from the wife of Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos in return for putting a plant in the Philippines that eventual lost $50 million.

—Planning to bribe an Indonesian general to win a $30 million contract.

—Sending a company plane around the country carrying wines, cigars and food for his personal use and even shipping a fireplace owned by a close friend, Kathleen DuRoss, on the plane.

—Improperly paying company money to Ms. DuRoss.

—Spending company money in a "gross waste" for apartments in New York and their lavish furnishings.

When the case arose, Henry Ford called a news conference and denied any wrongdoing. He said his lawyers advised against holding the news conference.

He repaid to the company $34,000 on an $80,000-a-year apartment in New York's Hotel Carlyle for use by members of his family between 1970 and 1977.

The company statement Friday night said, "The company and the defendants ... have denied, and continue to deny, those charges."

New jury panel called in 'witch' murder trial

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — Two more prospective jurors were chosen Friday in the murder trial of Loy Dean Stone, bringing the week's total to 13. Another panel of 140 was called for Monday morning, however, in case 32 prospects could not be selected from the original group of 247.

The final panel of 12 jurors will be picked from the group of 32.

Defense attorney James Doores said Friday he expected the trial to start Tuesday or Wednesday.

Stone and his wife Louise, both self-professed witches, are charged with the shotgun slaying of a 15-year-old girl on Halloween 1977. Mrs. Stone will be tried later.

Roxanne Casas and four of her friends were turning around in the Stones' driveway near Dimmitt, in the Texas Panhandle, when two shotgun blasts rang out. Roxanne was killed and two other teen-agers were injured.

Mining prospector Harold Stewart, a leader in the Sagebrush Rebellion by westerners fed up with federal rules for land use. (Washington Post Photo by Margot Hornblower)

Ex-steelworker leads 'Sagebrush Rebellion'

By MARGOT HORNBLOWER
The Washington Post

The sign over the door of his modest home reads: "You Are Now in Utah—Set Your Watch Back 20 Years."
Harold Stewart, 59, prefers to live in the past. When he thinks of the present, he literally trembles with fury. "I'm one of the silent majority that's damn tired of being silent," he says. "I'm just aching for a revolution."
Stewart's revolution is the Sagebrush Rebellion, a loose, populist movement of westerners who want to ride the federal government out of their lives.
A steelworker turned prospector, Stewart has staked 6,000 mining claims on federal land in southern Utah. He owns two "cats," two chain drills and a wagon drill with which he works some of his claims. Other claims are leased to Exxon and other companies, and bring in an irregular but sufficient income to support a wife and five children.

In the old days, it was pretty easy. He'd look at a federal geological map, pick a spot that looked favorable, search the records in the county courthouse and, if no one had staked it, he'd pay his five bucks to the county clerk and go up and plant his four-by-fours in the earth.
"Before," he says, "you could locate a claim and mine it and if you made anything, it was yours."
"Before" means before the federal government, embodied in the Bureau of Land Management, began to enforce new regulations requiring bonding, reclamation and the registering of all claims with the federal government.
"Those gosh-darn crazy ecologists!" Stewart fumes. "We miners make a little rathole you can get a wheelbarrow into. We don't move any hillsides. Now the government's come up with these new rules. Who's going to lend a miner $200,000 for a bond? You can't even borrow enough for a quart of wine."
Because of the 1976 Federal Land Policy and Management Act requiring registration of claims, Stewart says, "I'm going to lose thousands of claims because I haven't got the money to file with the government. It would cost me $30,000 to record my claims — $5 each. I'll have to go on welfare."

Joint solar energy project site remote

By KEVIN M. KELLEGHAN

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The mountain hamlet selected by a U.S.-Mexico joint project for the country's first solar energy community is so remote that planners describe it as "a place you can't even get to on horseback."
The village of Ajuchitlan, tucked away from the 20th century in mountains hot as a blast furnace less than 100 miles south of this capital, near Cuernavaca, will be a model for isolated villages to use solar energy to pump water and generate electricity.
"You get there first by car, then four-wheeled vehicle, then on horseback and finally on foot up rocky cliffs," Robert Wilcox, science attache at the U.S. embassy told The Associated Press. "Electricity wouldn't reach there until the next century."
Ajuchitlan is so remote that families cannot afford delivery of kerosene to run a generator or burn lamps. Villagers cook with firewood, but trees are getting scarce and far away. Clothes are laundered on stones at a stream. Bedtime is soon after sunset.
The plans for the village are being drafted at the U.S. Department of Energy while negotiators discuss the cost.
The joint project begins, literally, with getting there. "Mexico is providing the road and bridge,"

Wilcox said. "The U.S. will provide the design and the hardware."
He said a meeting will be held early next year to approve the design and cost. Solar installations for the village can be completed in less than 15 months after the agreement is signed.
Although there are several methods to take advantage of the sun's energy, Mexico selected the cheapest and least complex. The sun provides the power needed to drive pumps to supply water for homes and irrigation and to drive a generator for electricity.
A key element is water below ground.
"There are water deposits in the subsoil of northern desert areas at about 30 to 90 feet that can be pumped for use in homes, agriculture and cattle raising," a study shows.
"Use of that water will determine the development of tourism in Baja California, for example. Solar plants are vital to cattle raising. During the 1974 drought in northern Mexico, lack of water cost $10 million in lost cattle."
The sun's heat boils butane gas which drives a water pump, also driving a simple generator for electricity. One kilowatt of electric energy produced by this solar plant will cost $7,700 over 20 years, about the cost of operating a refrigerator. The same kilowatt produced by an internal combustion pump would cost $72,000.
"It costs $25,000 to build each mile of road in the Mexican desert to get to these villages," said a member of one agency involved in the project. "Solar energy installations need no roads because there is no fuel delivery nor spare parts to replace."
Nor is maintenance required. One untrained watchman opens a valve at daybreak, shuts it at dusk. He wipes porous tiles occasionally. Solar batteries can store energy for cloudy days. Only 3 percent of the butane fuel evaporates every year.
Solar energy will provide the village with drinking and irrigation water. There will be a waste disposal system, or waste can be recycled for fertilizer.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE Mexican Standoff

By Alfred Sheinwold
Early in the world championships held last October in Brazil, Italy and Taiwan went out of their way to achieve a Mexican standoff in the hand shown today.
Vito Pittala bid two clubs on the South hand to see if his partner could bid hearts. West foolishly doubled, hoping to suggest a club opening lead if North became declarer. North redoubled to show good clubs and to punish West.
South took West's queen of clubs, cashed the top spades, ruffed a spade, took the red aces and then made dummy's ace and ten of clubs for eight tricks and a score of 710 points.
South could have scored more but was happy with his actual 710 points until he discovered that one of his teammates, playing the West cards at the other table of the match, had gone down 700 points on a contract of two clubs doubled. Would it be cruel and unusual punishment to make those West players form a partnership and play together?
DAILY QUESTION
Partner bids one trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold ♠ 9 8 2 ♣ K 2 ♢ K 9 ♠ K J 9 8 6 3 ♠ What do you say?
ANSWER: Lead three no-trump. With 10 points of your own you know that the combined count is 26 to 28 points, enough for game in notrump but probably not enough for game in clubs.
Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed No. 10 envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

Carter favors $3 billion in gasohol production loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter on Friday proposed a $3 billion loan program for businesses to produce alcohol for fuel — $2 billion less than the Senate has already approved. He set targets for expanding the use of "gasohol" over the next two years.

Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's domestic policy adviser, said the White House was not submitting legislation proposing the $3 billion, 10-year alcohol production program, but was pressing the plan in a congressional conference committee considering energy legislation.

He said the Senate had adopted a $5 billion program of alcohol production loan guarantees, but there was no such provision in the House, and this was the first time the White House was throwing its influence behind such a program.

Asked why the administration was proposing less than already approved by the Senate, Deputy Energy Secretary John C. Sawhill said the $3 billion was a "generous" amount.

Earlier administration proposals for an energy development corporation included $1 billion to support construction of large-scale alcohol production facilities.

In the White House statements, Carter proposed the additional $3 billion in loans and loan guarantees to aid construction of small and medium-sized facilities to produce alcohol and other fuels from plant and animal matter.

However, while administration officials indicated earlier that some of the grain embargoed for shipment to the Soviet Union would be used in making gasohol, statements issued by the White House that announced the new program did not specify the embargoed grain would be used.

Eizenstat said in explaining the program that the administration was not earmarking grain withheld from the Soviet Union, or setting up any specific grain reserve, for alcohol production.

"Gasohol" is a fuel composed of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent ethyl alcohol — ethanol. It can be used in cars requiring unleaded gasoline.

The White House said the nation was producing about 80 million gallons of ethanol per year for fuel at the end of 1979, enough only for limited, local marketing of "gasohol."

"We will quadruple current 'gasohol' production capacity by the end of this year," said Carter's statement.

"During 1981, we should be capable of producing ethanol at an annual rate of 500 million gallons — more than six times the current rate."

While Carter's main new proposal was the long-range loan program, his two-year targets were supported by a new emphasis within the administration and by incentives already enacted or under consideration in Congress.

The White House said the Agriculture Department will include production of farm commodities for alcohol production as "a major objective of agricultural policy — alongside the production of food, feed and fiber."

Ethyl alcohol has been selling for about $1.62 per gallon, so blending it in a one-to-nine ratio should make "gasohol" around five or six cents more costly per gallon than unleaded gasoline, which has sold at about $1.10 per gallon.

Sawhill told reporters he had taken another small step to aid "gasohol," by contacting Exxon and Gulf oil companies about their announced refusal to accept the use of their own credit cards for purchases of gasohol under other brand names; Sawhill said Gulf has reversed itself and agreed to honor the credit cards, while Exxon was "reviewing" its policy.

He was asked about a similar refusal to accept credit cards for gasohol by Texaco, and said he was not aware of such an announcement but would look into it.

Explaining Carter's new long-range emphasis on gasohol, Eizenstat said the 500 million gallons of alcohol a year targeted for mid-to-late 1981 could be blended with 10 percent of the anticipated supply of unleaded gasoline.

Production of that much alcohol would use the equivalent of about 5 million tons of grain, which might include some of the corn no longer needed for export to Russia, or any other usable agricultural product.

Energy Department spokesman Les Daly said recently that the administration would like to see 10 percent of the nation's production of 44 billion gallons a year of unleaded gasoline be made as "gasohol."

"Gasohol" would be a replacement for unleaded gasoline, rather than leaded gas, because the alcohol, like lead, serves as an octane booster. Therefore it is more practical to use alcohol in unleaded gasoline.

Gasoline availability 'tightens'

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association reported Friday that Texas gasoline availability tightened considerably as prices jumped by about 6 cents a gallon the past month.

The AAA said availability has declined to the lowest level since the end of the summer.

"But current supplies are certainly ample to meet the greatly reduced demand typical of the winter months," a spokesman said.

A survey of 398 service stations indicated the number of stations operating on Sunday has declined from 44 to 38 percent since November and the number operating after 8 p.m. weekdays has dropped from 38 to 30 percent.

Hardest hit, the AAA said, are metropolitan areas. Less than one-third of the stations in Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, and San Antonio reported Sunday operations.

Only 10 percent of the Houston stations operate after 8 p.m., compared with 17 percent in Dallas-Fort Worth and 36 percent in San Antonio.

For statewide price averages, only self-service regular had failed to pass the $1 a gallon mark.

Current full-service averages were 102.7 cents for regular, up from 96.5 in December, 106.3 for unleaded, up from 100.1, 108.0 for premium, up from 101.8, and 108.9 for premium unleaded, up from 101.9.

Self-service averages were 99.8 cents for regular, up from 93.9, 104.0 for unleaded, up from 98.1, 105.2 for premium, up from 98.8, and 107.5 for premium unleaded, up from 100.6.

The diesel fuel average had increased from 100.4 to 105.1.

El Paso had the lowest prices for five categories, 100.0 for regular and 99.5 for unleaded full-service and 95.7 regular, 101.9 premium, and 99.4 unleaded self-service.

McAllen had the lowest full-service premium average of 104.8, while Corpus Christi had the lowest for diesel fuel at 99.1.

The highest full-service averages were 104.0 for regular in Midland-Odessa, 111.1 for premium in Austin, 107.4 for unleaded in Beaumont-Port Arthur.

McAllen had the highest self-service averages, 102.1 for regular, 109.0 for premium, and 106.0 for unleaded. Beaumont-Port Arthur also was 102.1 for regular, Austin 109.0 for premium.

The highest diesel average, 107.4, was in Beaumont-Port Arthur.

After two years, court says wrong man convicted

DALLAS (AP) — The wrong man was convicted of a robbery two years ago and the Dallas County District Attorney's office is just now willing to correct the error.

"I'd like to think it's the only time this has ever happened," District Attorney Henry Wade told the Dallas Times Herald in a copyright story, "but we'll never know that. I hope that it's the one one we ever have. I've read about it happening elsewhere, but never here. We're doing the only thing we can do, dismiss the whole thing."

Two years ago 21-year-old Billy Stiff, a convicted burglar, vainly protested his innocence as he was tried, convicted and sentenced to 50 years in prison for the armed robbery of a pancake house. At the time, he had plea bargained with prosecutors for a five-year sentence for pleading guilty to three other robberies. However, he kept insisting he did not rob the International House of Pancakes. Wade's office decided to prosecute him on that robbery.

Eighteen months ago, after Stiff was already in prison, Brad Finch confessed to the robbery. Wade and State District Judge James Zimmerman, who presided over Stiff's trial, joined the man's defense lawyer, Melvyn Bruder in asking the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to return the case to Zimmer's court. There the judge says he will set aside the jury's conviction and cancel the prison sentence.

The action comes after two years of legal motions, lie detector tests, further state investigation of the crime and a review of the trial testimony, the Times Herald reported.

A transcript of the trial testimony shows that one of Wade's prosecutors, former Assistant District Attorney Jan Potts, had to coach both the victim and the lone eyewitness to the robbery before they could identify Stiff from the witness stand.

The state based its case solely on the testimony of Gloria Crowder, 19, the waitress on duty when the robbery occurred, and Gus Ayers, a lumber salesman from Nacogdoches who witnessed the robbery from a booth 15 feet away.

When Miss Crowder and Ayers were called upon to identify Stiff at his trial, neither was able to do so without coaching from the prosecutor.

Here are excerpts of testimony Miss Crowder gave while the jury was out of the courtroom:

Prosecutor: Now, I will ask you to look around the courtroom and I will ask you if you see the person in the courtroom who robbed you on that (robbery) date?

Crowder: No.

Prosecutor: Okay, I will ask you to stand up and look very closely around the courtroom, at everybody in here.

Crowder: No.

Prosecutor: Do you see the person sitting at the other end of the counsel table from me?

Crowder: uh huh (yes).

Prosecutor: Okay, now looking at that person that is sitting down there, aside from his hair, does that appear to be the person that robbed you?

Crowder: Yes, ma'am, except for the...he doesn't have the facial hair like he did before.

Prosecutor: let the record reflect, please, I was indicating the defendant, Billy June Stiff. Okay, may I ask you again to look at the person we have referred to before and I will ask you if that is person who robbed you....

Crowder: I don't believe it is.

Prosecutor: Huh?

Crowder: I believe it is.

But when the jurors filed back into the courtroom, they heard none of Miss Crowder's earlier doubts. Both she and Ayers, who also had trouble identifying Stiff under questioning outside the jury's presence, were able to point out Stiff without hesitation.

More Hope

Comedian Bob Hope will welcome such stars as Tom Watson, the PGA Tour's leading money-winner last season, to the 21st annual Bob Hope Desert Classic, presented on NBC Saturday, Jan. 12 and Sunday, Jan. 13.

Producer Larry Cirillo will be programming some new "looks" into the 1980 telecasts. Cirillo, who in 1976 initiated the modus operandi in which commentators follow the players from tee to green and report the course throughout each round, has developed some intriguing feature concepts to supplement the network's stroke by stroke coverage.

Chaps finally fall, 87-82

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

BIG SPRING — The plot was as simple as a Gilligan's Island rerun: The torrid shooting Midland College Chaparrals controlled the first half, the run-and-gun Western Texas College Westerners dominated the second half. And alas, Western came away with an 87-82 victory Friday night in the ABC Classic, and in the process likely solidified their position as the nation's top-ranked junior college basketball team.

IT WAS billed as a showdown between the first and seventh rated juco clubs in the country, and the contest of unbeaten, featuring incredible play above the rim by both teams, was just that, as each coach readily agreed.

"It was a heckuva game," said disappointed MC coach Jerry Stone, whose outfit is now 15-1 for the season. "They got a couple of baskets right at the end and that's what did it."

"We thought before this game we were gonna win it and we'll be playin' 'em again," added Stone. "We're not hangin' our heads. I'll bet ya $1 we'll come back tomorrow (Saturday at 7 p.m. vs. Howard College in the final round of the tournament) real tough."

"I'll tell you," said Western boss Nolan Richardson, "I've got a much better impression of Midland College after that game. They're tremendous."

Richardson said the turning point for his team came just prior to the end of the first half. "Right before the half, I thought the momentum went to our side. And when momentum changes, you've got to use it to the best advantage."

WESTERN'S DAZZLING swingman Paul Pressey took game scoring honors with 24 points, 20 of which the silky smooth sophomore pocketed in the final 9:20 of the first half. Also, powerful 6-foot-8 sophomore Greg Stewart netted 18 for the Westerners while active guard Phil Spradling added 11 and muscular forward David Brown collected 10.

Deadeye Robert "Disco" Tate led MC with 22 points while hulking freshman Kevin "Ham" Willingham played a fine game and chalked-up 16 points. Also, freshman Charles Johnson had 11 and Tim Shelby 10. And Kenneth "Big Time" Young, who fouled-out with 5:37 left in the contest, scored nine points and played a super all-around game.

To say the very least, however, it just wasn't the same hustling MC team on the floor in the second half that it was in the opening session. Simply, the Chaps were flat, especially in the early and late going.

AFTER LEADING 47-46 at halftime, MC fell behind for the first time in the game at 19:40 on Patterson's short jumper. What followed was a frantic dogfight that saw the lead change hands 15 times.

For the record, five of the advantages were held by MC, although they could never pull away by more than one point.

BUT STEWART'S basket at the 5:50 mark gave Western the lead for good as the closest the Chaps got in the final moments was two points at 2:29.

Incredibly, in the first half MC, bolstered by a tight man-to-man defense and remarkable shooting accuracy, owned two 12-point cushions, not to mention five eight-point bulges. But that was before the soaring Pressey, Franklin Bennett and Freddie

Davis went to work to trim the Westerners' halftime deficit to one point.

When all was said and done, talk got around to the business of rankings. "Yeah, I think we should stay right there," said Stone, whose team, if anything, suffers from a lack-of-identity crisis. "Maybe we oughta move up a little. Maybe we oughta be second. I'm just as proud of this team now as I was two hours ago."

Said Richardson, "I don't really care about the rankings. But if we're number one, then they should be number two."

Larry Nelson captures lead in Hope Golf

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Larry Nelson, the No. 2 money-winner in golf last season, carded a 7-under-par 65 and established a 1-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the weather-troubled Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Nelson, second only to Tom Watson with $281,022 in earnings last year, had a 135 total, 9 shots under par, in the $304,500 event that required two days — including a rain interruption — to complete the first round. The 90-hole tournament is a full day behind schedule and now is set to end on Monday.

ANOTHER DELAY was threatened Friday, but the steady, overnight rains turned to a cool drizzle during the day.

Nelson, a two-time winner last season, birdied three holes in a row in his effort at Eldorado, the best round of the tournament.

Although he didn't know it, however, it was his birdie on the final hole that lifted him a single stroke in front of former NCAA champion Scott Simpson, who shot a 67, also at Eldorado but about two hours later than Nelson. Simpson was second alone at 136.

Craig Stadler, Mac McLendon and Victor Regalado shared third at 137. Regalado had a 67 at Indian Wells, McLendon 67 at Eldorado and Stadler 68 at Bermuda Dunes.

Butch Baird, Mark Hayes and Doug Tewell were next at 138. Baird shot 68 at Bermuda Dunes, Hayes 69 at Eldorado and Tewell had a no-bogey 68 at Indian Wells.

Defending champion John Mahaffey had another 70, this time at Eldorado, and was in a strong position at 140.

Arnold Palmer, still the gallery favorite at age 50 and gunning for a sixth Hope title, birdied his last hole at Eldorado for a 71 that left him at 141.

JERRY PATE and Keith Fergus, two of the three men who shared the first round lead, also were at 141. Each had a second-round 73. Rookie Bob Proben went from his opening 68 to a 77 at Indian Wells and was well back at 145.

The format for this unique event calls for the pros to play one round on each of four courses, each day with a different three-man team of amateurs, before the field is cut for the pros-only final round at La Quinta.

Nelson's remarkable effort came only a couple of weeks after his right hand had been removed from a cast.

"When they took the cast off, I thought my career was over," he said. "I couldn't move the hand at all, couldn't move the wrist back. It was kind of scary."

HE SAID the hand had been immobilized to treat some tendons that were torn in a tournament three years ago and have bothered him.

Since the cast has been off, Nelson said, "I've been hitting everything dead right. I really didn't expect to play well at all this week."

But the soft-spoken Nelson, who didn't take up the game until he was 21, played very, very well. He birdied four of five holes in one stretch over the back nine, three of them coming on 12-foot putts and the other with a wedge to four feet. He closed it out with a birdie four on the 18th hole, flipping a 9-iron within six feet of the cup.

Bulldogs first in 5-4A race

ABILENE — The Midland High Bulldogs took over sole possession of first place in the young District 5-4A basketball season here Friday with a firm 66-57 victory over the Abilene High Eagles.

With only three rounds of action gone, Midland High stands alone at the top of the 5-4A heap with the league's only perfect mark of 3-0. Midland Lee's, 52-51, conquest of Abilene Cooper Friday helped the Bulldogs take charge of the loop.

Four Bulldogs scored in double figures to pace the victory. Darrin Matlock had a big night for the Bulldogs with 16 points while Herbert "Magic" Johnson connected for 14. Guard Perry Bolger hit for 14 and Anthony Carroll added 13 to the cause.

P. W. McGee of Abilene High led all scorers with 22 points, but he was the only player in double figures for the Eagles.

The victory shouldn't hurt the Bulldogs' No. 3 ranking in the coaches poll or its No. 11 ranking in the Fort Worth Star Telegram poll. The Bulldogs now own a 21-4 season mark to go with its 3-0 loop reading. Abilene High fell to 1-2 and 9-11 for the year.

"I can't really say anything bad about any of our players," MHS coach Jack Stephenson said after the game. "We are really pleased to be alone in first, and we are happy that Lee was able to get a big win too. We played as well as we had to play and that makes me happy. Abilene has a fine team and it was a good victory for us. We just have to be happy right now and play them one at a time. We start looking at San Angelo now."

Midland High got off to a shotgun start by capturing a 20-10 lead at the end of the first period and led 36-24 at the half. Midland High continued to dominate in the third period with a 16-15 edge for a 52-39 margin. Abilene had an 18-14 edge in the final period, but the damage had been done.

Midland High travels to San Angelo Tuesday to face the 1-2 Bobcats. The Bobcats have been in two overtime games and a one-point loss to Odessa High Friday.

Cranes soar

CRANE — Crane's resurgent Golden Cranes opened the District 7-AA basketball season with a bang Friday night, defeating Ozona 79-51.

Greg Lewis funneled home 26 points to pace the Cranes, 1-0 and 5-15, while Julio Carrasco added 19 and Wayne Chisum 14.

Fred Garza led Ozona with 28 points.

The Cranes return to action Tuesday with a non-district test against Alpine.

Rebels stun Cougars, 52-51

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

The Midland Lee Rebels went bear hunting without a stick at the Chaparral Center Friday night, and when they came out of the bushes, the Rebs were still wearing their coonskin caps — Davey Crockett style.

Another legend has been born. Actually, it wasn't a bear the Rebels were stalking, but when you face Abilene Cooper in a District 5-4A basketball game with 6-foot-10, 250-pound plus Woody Martin on the floor, the image is not far from wrong. Still, it was Lee's no name Rebels who prevailed, 52-51, to move back into 5-4A contention and again in control of their own destiny.

THE REBELS battled from behind almost the entire contest, and ironically, it was pop-gun guard David Keys, one of the smallest men on the floor at 5-10 who turned the tide and pulled out the victory with a last gasp shot.

Trailing 51-50 with 34 seconds left, Lee set up the offense and worked for the open shot. Keys got the call with 14 seconds left, but he missed a bomb from outside. The ball kicked off the boards to Lee, and Keys again was fed the ball and this time he connected with seven seconds left to produce the final margin of victory.

"Yea, I missed that first one, but I had confidence on the second shot. The second one was a little short, but it went in and that's what counts," Keys stated after the game.

"We didn't have a play that was necessarily designed to go to David, but we just wanted to take a good open shot in that situation. We have two or three shooters that we have confidence in. Still, I'm glad David got the shot because he is a pressure shooter," an elated Lee coach Paul Stueckler said.

MARTIN, a giant playing among mere mortals, pumped in 29 points, but he was not the dominating force that most expected against the Rebels. He had to work for just about everything he got and Lee's 6-5 Brent Sanders did a whale of a job keeping Martin cornered. Martin will score his share of points against any team, but Sanders was not intimidated by him.

"Brent played the best game of his life as far as I'm concerned," Stueckler said. "It was one of the big keys to our victory."

The Rebels are now 2-1 in loop play, only a game behind sole leader Midland High, and 12-9 on the year. Cooper fell to 2-1 and 9-7.

The Rebels played catchup most of the way, but had grabbed a 31-30 lead with 5:10 left in the third period on a top-of-the-key bomb by Tim Walker. However, Cooper reeled off eight straight points for a 38-31 lead, their largest of the night, with 2:35 left in the period. The Rebels seemed hopelessly doomed at that point as they went cold from the field.

But Keys, who had scored only two points heading into the final quarter, got hot and hit four from the field and two free throws down the stretch, including his game winner, to come out with 12 points, high for the Rebels.

WALKER HAD 10 points in the contest and Danny Rabb hit for 10 more as did Norris Lane. Sanders had a meager two points, but he had his work cut out defensively and he did the job he was sent to do against Martin.

Lee fell behind by five points in the first period, 15-10, but knotted the score at 24 before the half. Cooper seemed to take control of the contest in the third period with a seven point lead, 38-31, and the Cougs led by seven three different times in the fourth period before Keys got his gunning touch.

Cooper's Kenny Henry, a classy guard, hit for 12 points, but he was the only other Cougar in double figures. Henry and Martin seem to be too much of Cooper's offense and when they can't hit for a lot of points, the Cougs are in trouble. Martin and Henry scored all but 10 of Cooper's points.

Odessa schools romp to District 5-4A victories

Odessa schools captured District 5-4A victories Friday night as Odessa Permian walked over Big Spring, 76-53, and Odessa High nipped San Angelo by a narrow 52-51 margin.

Permian is now 13-8 on the year and 2-1 in loop action, tied with Midland Lee and Abilene Cooper for second place in the first half standings. Big Spring fell to 5-15 and 0-3 for the year. The Steers are the only team left in the loop that has not won a league game.

Odessa High is now 5-13 and 1-2 while San Angelo is 14-9 and 1-2.

Brad Kerley led Permian with 23 points while Scott Wynne had 14. Reggie Doss led Big Spring with 17

LSU coach presumed dead in plane crash

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Six weeks after a year-long search brought Robert "Bo" Rein to head the Louisiana State University football program, the Southeastern Conference school must begin a new search.

And the somber task couldn't come at a more inopportune time — six weeks before the national date begins for signing recruits.

TO WHOM the university would turn to fill the sudden vacancy was uncertain Friday.

Athletic Director Paul Dietzel, who hand-picked Rein to replace fired Charlie McClendon, briefed the LSU Board of Supervisors on the situation Friday, discussing possible options.

Afterwards, Dietzel said the nine-member executive committee would meet Saturday to get an update on the situation. He said he would make a recommendation at that time.

"It's a very difficult circumstance, of course, but we'll have some kind of recommendation," he said.

Rein, 34, was returning Thursday night from a recruiting trip to northern Louisiana when the private plane in which he was a passenger tried to avoid heavy thunderstorms by flying northeast. It never turned back toward Baton Rouge, however, and mysteriously flew all the way to the Atlantic Ocean before crashing 120 miles off Virginia. Rein and the pilot, Lewis Benscotter, were presumed dead.

Rein was hired Nov. 30 to replace McClendon, the winningest coach in LSU history, and had put together a staff and signed 19 preps to letters of intent.

Thursday, he had visited Fair Park

all-state center Alvin Burns in Shreveport.

BURNS SAID Friday, "I really would have loved to have seen the man coach, to see if his performance proved he was a good man. He came straight out and didn't beat around the bushes with you."

Several paths were open to filling the head coaching spot.

Immediately, speculation turned to McClendon, the Tigers' head coach for 18 years. His 1979 team finished 7-5, including a victory in the Tangerine Bowl.

In New Orleans, McClendon said it was a valid question — but not the time to ask it.

"It must be answered later," he said. "The time will come when something has to be worked out. LSU has a most regretful situation."

THERE ALSO was talk that Dietzel — who took LSU to the national championship in 1958 — would move in as interim coach, but that appeared unlikely.

In selecting McClendon's successor, Dietzel had insisted on a proven head coach, ruling out any of the assistants on McClendon's staff or assistant coaches at other schools.

If the tragedy forces Dietzel to change his criteria, the door could be opened to former LSU assistant Lynn Amedee, quarterback coach at the University of Tennessee, and Jerry Stovall, a former assistant under McClendon and now administrative assistant to Dietzel.

SHOULD DIETZEL elect to carry on with the 11-man staff assembled by Rein, those closest to the program say that Jon Mirlivich, offensive center and guard coach and Rein's administrative assistant, would be the likely selection.

Another possibility was Al Masella, another administrative assistant on Rein's staff.

With the exception of two holdovers — Bruce Hemphill and Sam Nader, who were retained to head the junior varsity program — and highly successful Louisiana prep coach Otis Washington, Rein's staff consisted of assistants who were, or had been, on Rein's staff during his four years at North Carolina State.

Staff members said Rein was close to signing several other prized prep players, including some of the most sought-after in the South.

The first date for prospects to sign national letters of intent is Feb. 20.

Peers, players shocked over death of LSU football coach

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — His peers and prospective players admired the style of Bo Rein, even though he had yet to coach a football game at Louisiana State University.

"In a conversation only two days ago, he said something which endeared him to me," said LSU Chancellor Paul Murrill.

"He said, 'Contrary to what seems to be the prevailing notion, I don't believe that it is necessary to compromise your personal integrity or your institutional integrity in order to be successful in modern intercollegiate athletics.'

"I am utterly stunned by this bizarre tragedy, which has taken the life of Bo Rein," said Murrill. "All of us at LSU are in a state of shock. In the short-time he has been with us, I have been most impressed with this young man."

Rein was presumed dead Friday after the plane in which he was a passenger crashed into the Atlantic Ocean off Cape Charles, Va. The aircraft was pushed more than 1,000 miles off course by severe weather on Rein's return from a recruiting trip to Shreveport, La.

"A strange feeling came over me," said Shreveport teen-ager Alvin Burns in describing how he felt when he learned of the crash. "I really would have loved to have seen the man coach, to see his performance proved."

Thursday, the LSU coach had met for the fourth time with Burns, a star center at Shreveport's Fair Park High School, and for the first time with Burns' parents.

"He was a good man," said young Burns. "He came straight out and didn't beat around the bushes with you. There was no hiding in the bushes. He would tell you what you needed to know."

Athletic Director Paul Dietzel, whose recommendation got Rein the job at LSU, said, "The shock of this tragedy is almost beyond comprehension. There is no way to measure the extent of his death. The loss is irreplaceable. The football staff has lost not only their head coach, but a dear personal friend. LSU has sustained a loss which will be sorely felt."

"It came as a tremendous shock," said Charles McClendon, whom Rein replaced as coach.

Gordon Dore, chairman of the LSU board of supervisors, joined the university community in sending condolences to Rein's family. He said a search would begin immediately to find a new coach.

"The university must continue to look forward and to continue about its business," said Dore.

Chiefs sign draft choices

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Chiefs of the North American Soccer League have signed their first and second-round draft selections, including the nation's No. 6 pick, to one-year contracts, Coach Dan Wood announced Friday. Terms of the contracts were not disclosed.

The Chiefs signed defender Bruce Savage, their first-round selection, who played at Miami Dade North Community College, and defender Charlie Shinn of Erskine College.

Erving sparks Bullets' victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving led six teammates in double figures with 23 points as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Washington Bullets 119-106 Friday night for their fourth consecutive National Basketball Association victory.

It was the eighth triumph in the last nine games and 18 of 22 for the 76ers, who led by one point at the end of the first quarter, increased it to seven at halftime and ran away from the Bullets in the second half.

Greg Ballard scored 31 points — his season high — as the Bullets lost for the first time in five games and failed in their effort to reach 500 for the first time since Nov. 24. Ballard's previous best was 27.

Philadelphia took a 19-18 lead with a pair of free throws by Maurice Cheeks with 1:10 left in the first period. The 76ers boosted their advantage to 11 on a driving reverse layup by Erving, who converted from the foul line to complete a three-point play with 3:29 left in the half.

Two free throws in the final seconds left the Bullets trailing 77-63 at halftime.

The closest Washington could get in the third quarter was six on an 18-foot jumper by Ballard with 10:38 left in the period. The 76ers led four times by as much as 16 points and were ahead 77-63 starting the final period.

Washington was never closer than 11 in the final period and trailed several times by as many as 21 points as Philadelphia turned the game into a rout. It was the third loss for the Bullets in Philadelphia, where the 76ers have won 19 of 22 games this season.

Celtics topple Atlanta, 100-93

BOSTON (AP) — Center Rick Robey, pressed into duty after veteran Dave Cowens was ejected for a fight with Atlanta's Tree Rollins late in the first period, scored 22 points Friday night in leading the Boston Celtics to a 108-93 National Basketball Association victory over the Hawks.

The victory boosted the Celtics' season home record at home to 18-1. It also avenged their Boston Garden loss, a 120-92 rout by the Hawks Dec. 5.

Cowens, 6-foot-8 1/2 and 225 pounds, and Rollins, 7-foot-1 and listed at 235, engaged in their slugfest with 2:37 left in the first period. Both landed solid punches before the fight was broken up and they were ejected from the game.

Robey, a sophomore pro from Kentucky, came on to lead Boston to its 32nd victory in 42 starts, the best record in the league.

The Celtics also got a lift from rookie Larry Bird, who — in Cowens' absence — played virtually the whole game and finished with 14 points.

Boston charged to a 54-43 halftime lead and was in no danger the rest of the way, despite 34 points by Atlanta's John Drew.

The Celtics led 82-66 after three periods. The Hawks closed within 88-81 in the sixth minute of the fourth quarter, but Boston pulled away on consecutive three-point plays by Chris Ford, Robey and Nate Archibald.

Cedric Maxwell had 15 points, M.L. Carr 13, Gerald Henderson 12 and Archibald 10 from the Celtics.

Other leading scorers for the Hawks were Eddie Johnson with 18 points and Armond Hill with 16.

"He was racing down the lane and he gave me an elbow," Cowens said when asked about the fight. "I couldn't let him get away with that."

Cowens, Boston's 31-year-old captain, sported a small cut above one eye. Rollins was unmarked.

Bird grabbed 13 rebounds. He also had five assists, four steals and three blocked shots.

Robey hit on six of 11 shots from the floor and all 10 free throws. He had 10 rebounds.

All 11 Boston players got into the scoring act as the Celtics hit on 37 of 86 field goal attempts and 33 of 39 free throws. Atlanta was 33 of 69 from the floor and 27 of 35 from the free-throw line.

Boston controlled the boards, grabbing 58 rebounds to 41 for the taller Hawks.

Portland posts win over Nets

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Center Tom Owens poured in 31 points Friday night, including Portland's first nine points of the fourth quarter, to lead the Trail Blazers to an easy 128-107 victory over the New Jersey Nets in National Basketball Association action.

Portland began its five-game Eastern road trip in grand style, taking full command of the game in the first quarter. Leading 14-7, the Blazers held New Jersey scoreless while tallying 10 points of their own over a stretch of 3:39 to take a 24-7 lead. New Jersey, which was paced by Mike Newlin's 28 points, could get no closer than 11 the rest of the way.

After Portland's first-period outburst, the Nets had a revival of sorts in the second quarter and managed to pull within 54-40 at the half. The Nets held Portland off the scoreboard for 43-32 minutes to narrow the deficit to 32-32 midway through the second quarter. But the Nets could get no closer.

After New Jersey closed the third quarter by scoring seven of the last nine points to close within 85-72, Owens took control. His offensive outburst upped Portland's lead to 95-78 and the outcome was never in doubt thereafter.

Nehemiah shatters meet mark

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Renaldo "Skeets" Nehemiah, the world's premier hurdler, set a meet record in his first start of the season by winning the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.01 seconds at the National Invitational Indoor track meet Friday night.

The 20-year-old University of Maryland junior had trained only three weeks prior to the meet on his home track because of an attack of bronchitis.

"I felt like an underdog," Nehemiah said. "I didn't have the proper preparation, and I was really starting over from scratch."

In beating Kerry Bethel of Fairleigh Dickinson, who won the event last week at the Muhammad Ali Games in Long Beach, Calif., Nehemiah bettered the meet record of 7.02 he set last year. He also holds the world indoor mark of 6.89. Bethel was timed in 7.05.

"I was very pessimistic going into the race," Nehemiah said. "I am only at about 55 or 60 percent. I started training for the season like a madman. Maybe my illness told me I was starting too soon."

Nehemiah was one of the three defending champions to repeat early in the program. Benita Fitzgerald of Tennessee won the women's 60-yard high hurdles in 7.8 seconds, and Maria Parsons of Morgan State repeated in a women's 60-yard dash at 6.98.

Defending champion Jerome Deal of Texas-El Paso finished fourth in the men's 60 yard by Ephraim Serrette of Fairleigh Dickinson in 6.22. John Christian of D.C. International was second Neville Hodge of Morgan State was third.

Columbia posts win in Ivy League opener

NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Mahoney scored 19 of his game-high 25 points in the second half as Columbia broke open a close game and defeated Harvard 85-63 in its Ivy League basketball opener Friday night.

After taking a 32-28 halftime lead by scoring seven of the last nine points of the period, the Lions, 5-4, turned the game into a runaway in the final 20 minutes with an incredible shooting performance, hitting on 18 of 21 field goal attempts.

Mahoney, held to six points in the first half, went 7-for-7 from the floor and 5-for-5 from the foul line in the second half. He was one of four Columbia players in double figures, joined by Richie Gordon with a career-high 19, Kevin Best (14), and Dave Westenburg (10).

Stingley blasts Tatum over controversial book

CHICAGO (AP)—"Football is a game. Life is a game. He's not playing fair at either one," said Darryl Stingley of Jack Tatum, the defensive back whose tackle left Stingley paralyzed and is described briefly in a controversial new book, "They Call Me Assassin."

"The bottom line is I feel sorry for the guy. I don't care if he sells a million copies of the book," Stingley said Friday in an interview.

On Aug. 12, 1978 in a preseason National Football League game between Oakland and New England, safety Tatum's tackle of Stingley left the Patriots' wide receiver paralyzed from the neck down.

Tatum describes that briefly in his autobiography. He also relates other incidents in which players he has hit were injured.

He said in the book that "I never make a tackle just to bring someone down. I want to punish the man I'm going after and I want him to know that it's going to hurt every time he comes my way."

Jack Sands, Stingley's attorney in Boston, said in an interview Friday that he wants Tatum banned for life from football. He said he sent a letter Thursday night to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle asking him to suspend Tatum indefinitely.

"I'm writing not only as Darryl's attorney but also in behalf of all Americans who are outraged" by statements in the book, Sands said. "His admission of his conduct strikes at the foundation of the integrity of the game," he wrote to Rozelle.

"Furthermore, by allowing him to continue his style of play, you will seriously erode all public confidence in the game of professional football."

Tony DeCello, Tatum's attorney in Pittsburgh, was quoted as saying he hasn't read the book but that he is "very, very sad and disheartened about this whole thing."

Tatum was quoted as saying the book is "pretty honest and basically true. Rozelle and his people know what goes on, so what can they say? This is the way the game is played."

Stingley, who lives in Chicago, said he feels "nothing at all" about the book. "Everything is after the fact."

But Sands said later Friday after talking with Stingley that "the whole thing about the book has caused him a lot of mental anguish. He was trying to put the incident behind him and now it's all brought up again."

"He resents the fact that Tatum and the publishers are trying to capitalize on this tragic incident," Stingley declined to comment on whether he felt Tatum should be banned from football but said, "The guy is really lost. He's being controlled by evil forces. What he needs more than anything is for people to pray for him like they prayed for me."

The book, he added, "is really like a slap in everybody's face. He says 'I'm being bad, what are you going to do about it?'"

"To me, everything is always better when nobody mentions him to me at all," Stingley said. "If this sells, all it means is there are more people in America other than Jack Tatum who are sick."

Stingley said he was reluctant to discuss the book because it would promote its sales. And, he said, "What does it matter what I think? I have a more pressing problem — to try to get more productive."

"I don't have anything to say for or against it (the book). I just really feel sorry for him. His attitude on life will really do him in and when the final judgment is passed by the Creator above, I'm sure he (Tatum) won't be as arrogant or cocky about what he says."

"It appears to me he doesn't have any respect toward life itself. Football is a game. Life is a game. He's not playing fair at either one," Stingley added. "Somewhere down the line, perhaps the mighty Rozelle himself might not be able to make the proper ruling, but the man upstairs, he will. It's not for us to pass judgment."

Rebels win

(Continued from 1B) The junior varsity contest as Cooper came out on top over Lee, 73-67. Lee had a nine-point lead in the first half, but in the last three minutes of the first half, Cooper ran to a 12-point lead for a swing of 21 points.

Lee JV coach Randall Smith said, "We beat them for 3 1/2 quarters but things got away from us right before the half."

SMITH WAS also disturbed that Cooper had 31 free throws to Lee's seven. Greg Duschkas and Stephen Brown led Cooper with 12 each while Alvin Dunson paced the Rebels with 14 points. Kenneth Brown had 12 and Morty Walker 10.

The Lee JV is now 2-1 in loop play and 12-5 on the year. Albin Cooper (11) Martin, 15-3-2; Henry, 4-3-12; Stuard, 3-3-2-4; Cruise, 1-0-2; Houston, 0-2-2-4; Totter, 21-0-1-1. Andrews won the junior varsity game, 53-52.

Waltrip ready to make new NASCAR start in 1980

By SHAV GLICK
The Los Angeles Times
RIVERSIDE, Calif. — Losing the Winston Cup NASCAR stock car racing championship in the last race after leading all season was a disappointment to Darrell Waltrip, but not for long.

HE OPENS the 1980 season Sunday as defending champion in the Winston Western 500 at Riverside International Raceway and to hear him talk, you'd almost think he — not Richard Petty — had won last year's championship. As it was, after frittering away a 229-point lead in midseason, Waltrip lost by a mere 11 points (out of nearly 10,000) after finishing eighth and Petty fifth in the Times 500, final race of the Grand National season.

"Disappointing, sure, but look at it another way," said the ever-confident Waltrip. "At the start of 1979 I set four goals for myself — to win the most races, to win the most money, to win the Winston Cup and to be named Driver of the Year. And three out of four ain't bad."

WALTRIP WON seven of 31 races (Bobby Allison and Petty were next best with five each), and had race winnings of $450,870 (Petty was next with $416,650 and for that was named Olonite Driver of the Year).

"This year I'm going for a sweep," said the brash young driver from Franklin, Tenn. "I'm serious. I feel the experience of 1979 will make me and the DiGard team much stronger in 1980. We had to learn from the experience. And besides, I don't think Richard Petty can have another year of racing luck like he had last year." After Petty dropped out of the season opener at Riverside with engine problems, he did not have another engine failure all season in 30 races and more than 10,000 miles of racing. Maurice Petty, Richard's older brother, built the powerplants.

Immediately after the Times 500, in which Petty drove aggressively and Waltrip conservatively, DiGard management fired crew chief, Buddy Parrott. About the same time it was rumored that Don Whittington, winner of the World Endurance Drivers championship, would drive a second DiGard car in selected Grand National races in 1980. However, Bill Gardner, DiGard chairman of the board, said "Don Whittington will not drive a DiGard team in NASCAR. And that is definite."

WHAT A difference a month makes on the DiGard team. Parrott, fired in November, has been rehired and will be running the No. 88 Gatorade Monte Carlo from the pits Sunday. And Whittington, who won the Times Six-Hours race at Riverside last April, will be in a second DiGard car, a No. 55 Monte Carlo.

"Buddy is back and all systems are go," said Waltrip. "Nearly everyone said he was fired because we failed to win the championship, but that's not true. It was for other reasons and now they are resolved. I'm glad he's back. We accomplished a lot together and now there's more to accomplish. We want to erase some of those memories of last year." The worst memory is of losing a lap early in the Times 500 and dropping a lap behind the leaders — a lap Waltrip didn't make up that eventually cost him the Winston Cup.

"Our approach to the last race was all wrong," Waltrip said. "The blame doesn't belong just to me or Buddy or DiGard. It was a team decision to be cautious and we share the blame equally. We felt that Richard's good fortune had to run out and we approached the race apprehensively. Things had been going so right for Petty all season that we gambled something would happen to him, like all those things that happened in 1978 when he was driving just as hard and not winning. We realize now we should have gone out and done it (run hard) ourselves."

WALTRIP POINTED to an earlier disappointment at not being selected Rookie of the Year in 1973 as an example of how he has responded to adversity.

"That was probably a greater disappointment than this, being passed over (for Lennie Pond) after I knew I did a better job. It was the first time I had set a goal and attempted to accomplish something and, due to circumstances beyond my control, did not accomplish it. Looking back perhaps that was the best thing that could have happened because it made me more determined than ever to prove NASCAR made a mistake."

IN 1973 Pond drove 23 races and finished once in the top five (fourth in a short-track race at Bristol, Tenn.). Waltrip drove 19 races and finished twice in the top five (fourth in a short-track race at Bristol, Tenn.). Waltrip drove 19 races and finished twice in the top five, including a second to Petty on the superspeedway at Texas International.

"I think I've proved my point since then," he said emphatically. "The Olonite is the most prestigious and best award and winning it is the biggest accomplishment of my career. I'll match my record with his (Pond's)." Pond ranked 29th in NASCAR last year.

Winning half a million dollars in a year (Waltrip's total income reached $523,691 with the addition of post-season prizes such as the $10,000 Olonite award) and taking his place among the top stock car drivers has toned Waltrip down only slightly.

ON RICHARD Petty — "When I was a kid driving around Nashville my idol was Richard Petty. He was everything I wanted to be. When I started racing against him he no longer was my hero but he remained a driver, and a man, whom I admired and respected very much. I think he drove harder in 1979 than I had ever seen him drive because it meant so much to him to win again after what happened in '78 (Petty had a 44-race losing streak)."

On the Petty team — "I was tremendously impressed with the way they switched from Chrysler Products to General Motors when Chrysler couldn't get the job done. They had been racing Dodges and Plymouths for years and knew all there was to know about them but they didn't hesitate to make a move to another car. They didn't sit there and ride a dead horse. I learned a very important lesson from the Petty's right there."

On his own goals — "I would like to win more national championships than seven (Petty's record number), and a lot more races. I'm certainly not in this just for money. I'm tickled to death with my contract with DiGard but money is no substitute for winning. I want to win a lot more and I plan to start with Riverside. That will put me ahead in the 1980 Winston Cup points and I'd like to show I can stay in front all year this time."

On A.J. Foyt — "A.J. is the most versatile race driver in history and also the greatest who ever lived. He has a rare talent to be able to drive different types of machinery and drive it better than anyone else."

On driving in the Indianapolis 500 — "That would be backing up as far as I am concerned. This (NASCAR) is where it's at in racing."

Darrell wins pole position

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Hard-charging Darrell Waltrip nipped Cale Yarborough Friday in a close duel for the pole position in the NASCAR Western 500 race at Riverside International Raceway.

Waltrip, who finished just seven points behind Richard Petty in 1979 NASCAR competition, drove his Chevrolet Monte Carlo through his qualifying lap on the 2.62-mile road course at the average speed of 113.404 mph.

Yarborough was right behind in his Monte Carlo with a clocking of 113.333, while Petty was third at 113.248 and Bobby Allison followed with a speed of 113.201.

Raceway officials postponed the qualifying session for more than three hours as heavy rains, which have drenched the West Coast all week, continued throughout the morning and early afternoon hours.

The qualifying session finally began at 3:35 PST and track officials managed to get 25 cars qualified for the 37-car field for Sunday's 500-kilometer race before darkness closed the course.

"The track was in great shape," Waltrip enthused after earning the front row spot. "I think everybody was surprised how fast it dried off after all the rain we've had the last couple of days. It was tight and clean."

Muhammad Ali Athlete of Decade

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writers

Muhammad Ali, a boxing champion whose renown transcended the sport, has been named the Athlete of the Decade for the 1970s by The Associated Press.

"The athlete of the decade... better than anybody? I'm so honored," said Ali, no stranger to either honors or controversy.

Ali was a superstar during the 1960s — golfer Arnold Palmer was the Athlete of that Decade — when he won an Olympic gold medal and the world heavyweight championship. But he ended the '60s stripped of the title and in exile from boxing because of his conviction for refusing to accept military draft. He faced a five-year prison term.

HIS SELECTION as Athlete of the Decade was made by a panel of AP sports writers.

At the close of the '70s Ali was a retired champion, having won back the title twice, and was the most written about, talked about, argued about, photographed athlete in history. He was the acquaintance of kings and statesmen, champion of the underdog to some people, a loudmouth to others, a draft dodger to still others.

IN A DECADE when television really became king in the world of sports, Ali was a TV star. In a decade when sports purses, prizes and salaries soared, Ali grossed more than $45 million from fighting.

"I hope in the next 10 years I can do something equal in another field," Ali said in an interview. "Seeing what kind of new thing I can make happen now, that will be fun."

One thing Ali says won't happen in the 1980s, despite reports to the contrary, is a return to boxing.

"What do you think would happen if I came back?" Ali asked the interviewer. "It'd be tough and you don't have anything to prove," was the reply. "That's right," said Ali, who will be 38 next Thursday. "You said the word. I have nothing else to prove."

Whatever path Ali follows in the '80s, it is doubtful he can match the mark he made on sports in the last decade.

Sports in the '70s were peopled by many super performers.

PETE ROSE and Rod Carew batted their way to baseball superstardom, disdaining power in an age of power. O.J. Simpson dipped and darted his way to pro football fame and Tony Dorsett ran wild for the University of Pittsburgh. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Julius Erving and Bill Walton, hooked and soared and blocked in professional and college basketball. Jimmy Connors and Bjorn Borg served and volleyed their way to riches and attention in tennis. Chris Evert in tennis and Nancy Lopez in golf led a rapidly growing number of top women athletes.

FOR MANY, the decade was an extension of stardom begun in the 1960s — the likes of pitcher Tom Seaver, quarterback Roger Staubach, golfer Jack Nicklaus, auto racing driver A.J. Foyt and soccer star Pele.

But it was just another 10 years of excellence for hockey player Gordie Howe and Jockey Bill Shoemaker, who began their careers in the 1940s and were still going strong in 1980.

Howe retired early in the decade, came back to play in the now-defunct World Hockey Association and in 1979 was playing again in National Hockey League with the Hartford Whalers.

Shoemaker was approaching 8,000 winners — no other rider was close to that figure — as 1980 began.

But no one athlete had a tighter grip on the 1970s than Ali — people followed him and watched him... and he acknowledged many rooted for him to lose. His charisma and ability made him a major story in almost every year of the decade. Even the only three defeats of his 59-bout career seemed to add to his magnetism by raising the question — was he finished?

THE LOSSES to Joe Frazier, Ken Norton and Leon Spinks showed another side of Ali, who often taunted his opponents after he won.

When an aide tried to empty a hotel room full of media people after his loss-to-then champion Joe Frazier March 8, 1971, Ali said, "No, let them stay. I talk when I win: I gotta talk when I lose."

Following his title loss to Spinks in a major upset Feb. 15, 1978, a reporter told Ali, "Nice fight champ."

"I'm not the champ," replied Ali. "He's the champ. You don't have to call me 'champ' for me to be your friend."

"You knew how to lose," the interviewer told Ali.

"If you lose, you lose," replied Ali. He paused, then added, "I knew I'd come back."

Ali came back from exile, his loss to Frazier and his broken-jaw loss to Norton to regain the heavyweight championship by knocking out George Foreman and he came back from the upset by Spinks to outpoint Leon and become champion again — at least champion in the eyes of the World Boxing Association.

Ali's eighth-round knockout of Foreman in early morning hours in the African nation of Zaire Oct. 30, 1974, was one of four title fights he had outside the United States during the decade, and three of them especially underscored his worldwide popularity and mystique.

On the night of the weigh-in for the Foreman fight in Ali walked around the running track at the stadium in Kinshasa waving his arms as the crowd screamed, "Ali, booma-yay (Ali, kill him)."

People thronged to watch Ali train for his 1975 fights against Joe Bugner in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and against Frazier in Manila.

THOUSANDS OF people were at the airport to greet Ali at the Kuala Lumpur airport and one day he was literally trapped by admirers in a mosque.

Malaysia is a predominantly Moslem nation, and Ali was fond of saying he would beat Bugner because "Allah is in my corner." Late one night a non-Moslem taxi driver asked a passenger: "Do you think Allah really is in his corner?"

The third fight against Frazier — the "Thrilla in Manila" — was Ali's favorite. It was the most action-packed of the series, with Ali winning when Frazier failed to come out for the 15th round. It was a war and Ali admitted that he had wanted to quit after the 10th round "but couldn't because I am the champion."

But it was the Foreman fight that Ali considered his most important of the decade, although the fight that saved his career was his 12-round split decision victory over Norton Sept. 10, 1973 at Inglewood, Calif., about five months after he had been upset by Ken. Ali needed to win the last round to win the rematch. He won it.

Air Force gives $1 million check for MX missile plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force gave a $1 million check Friday to the Four Corners Regional Commission so that Utah and Nevada can develop state plans for the new mobile MX missile.

The MX, the next generation of America's intercontinental ballistic missile, will be housed within an area encompassing the two states when the system becomes operational, perhaps in 1986.

The states had expected the money, which was approved by Congress last November.

The $1 million is to be used by a bi-state MX task force "to initiate the planning that will be required on the state level to orderly plan for the development of the MX project," said Col. Jesse Ford, an Air Force spokesman.

The Air Force currently is developing an environmental impact statement for the project. President Carter is expected to determine the exact location of the complex, expected to encompass 25 square miles, sometime this fall.

The president ordered the development of the MX last June and in September decided to deploy it in a complex of shelters in the western desert. The missiles will be moved from shelter to shelter by truck to avoid Soviet detection.

Carter has said the new missile is necessary because the increasing accuracy of Soviet strategic missiles will soon make America's current ICBM, the Minuteman, vulnerable to attack in its fixed silos.

Guarded Treasure

What infinite pains we take to guard our valuable possessions! Yet not all our possessions can be given protection in a safe. What about the priceless treasure which each of us possesses — our eternal happiness?

To safeguard this great treasure, where can we go?

The answer lies in the Church. It gives us the combination that opens the door to our spiritual riches — the combination of faith and good works. The Church guards and guides us along the way that leads to the treasure — the way led by Jesus, our Savior. It invites everyone to join in service to God and to our fellowmen. In this way, we inherit new riches of the spirit that no man or circumstance can steal or destroy.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

10 denominations to meet at CCU

CINCINNATI, Ohio — When the Consultation on Church Union holds its special session here Jan. 22-24, it could be the initial step toward establishment of a common ministry by 10 divergent American denominations.

COCU will convene in the Netherland Hilton Hotel here in the 20th anniversary year of a movement which now involves churches with more than 20 million members.

This special session will follow by 10 months COCU's regular plenary session and it is expected to bring final agreement by the 10 delegates from each member denomination on the kind of ministry a united church should have.

An agreement would then be sent out to the individual denominations for their study and approval. Such approval would enable the churches to recognize each other's ministries and eventually develop and common ministry, one of the vital steps to full organic union.

Action here would be a significant milestone in the movement that began in 1960 with a proposal by United Presbyterian Church leader Eugene Carson Blake that his church and three others unite.

COCU struggled through the first decade developing a plan of union. Then, harkening to resistance from church people on the proposed structure, COCU began involving local churches in a variety of union experiments as well as dealing with various sociological barriers to union.

The kind of ministry a united church should have has been one of the thorniest issues. Now, it appears that theological agreement is near on a ministry of deacons, presbyters (pastors) and bishops.

Dr. Rachel Henderlite of Austin, a seminary professor, is the two-term president of COCU who will be at the helm during this month's special session.

Churches participating in the Consultation on Church Union are the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, the Episcopal Church, the National Council of Community Churches, the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the United Methodist Church, and the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

MAC making final preparations

Final preparations are under way this weekend for the 29th annual School of Christian Living, sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches.

The popular annual event will begin Sunday night in First United Methodist Church downtown, continuing there through Thursday noon.

The school, open to all residents of the city and surrounding area, will begin with a worship service and preview of courses at 7 p.m. Sunday. The first class sessions are scheduled for 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Another preview of courses will be held in the church sanctuary at 9:10 a.m. Monday, followed by class sessions from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The second series of evening classes will be held between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday.

Additional class sessions will be held Tuesday morning and evening, Wednesday morning and evening, and Thursday morning.

Classes to be offered in the school are as follows:

"The Sermon on the Mount," taught by Dr. Ralph Earle of Kansas City; "Religious Movements and Cults," taught by Dr. Joseph H. Fichter of New Orleans; "Living With Dying," taught by Dr. Charles E. Scott of Nashville, Tenn.; "Christian Meditations and Spiritual Growth," taught by Dr. Allen Whitman of Austin.

Fees for the school are $7 for individuals, $10 for family groups and $3 for students. Persons may enroll in the courses of their choice before the beginning of class sessions Sunday night and Monday.

Mrs. Paul Davis Jr., will serve as dean of the 1980 School of Christian Living. Mrs. Pat Baskin is registrar. Advisers for the school are the Rev. Sam Hulseley, the Rev. John Long, the Rev. Bill Hedrick and Betty Gilmore.

Fort Worth to host 1980 TBEC

FORT WORTH — The 1980 Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference will be held Monday through Wednesday in Tarrant County Convention Center in downtown Fort Worth.

The conference is sponsored by the evangelism division of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Dr. L. L. Morriss, BGCT evangelism director, said the conference has been designed to provide warm-hearted inspiration and advice on evangelism and church growth for the 1980s.

Dr. Morriss said the conference theme is to be "1980 — A New Day For Evangelism." The five sessions of the conclave will center around 15 hours of preaching, singing and advice for reaching the lost for Christ.

Among featured speakers at the gathering will be the Rev. Adrian Rogers, pastor of Bellevue Church in Memphis, Tenn., and current president of the Southern Baptist Convention, and the Rev. Carlos McLeod, pastor of First Baptist Church at Plainview, who last November was elected president of the 2.2 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

MC to offer special bible course

A study course titled "Survey of the Old Testament" will be offered during the upcoming semester at Midland College.

Late registration for persons taking three courses or less at MC will continue through Jan. 29, said Dr. Jim Riddell, campus minister for Midland College. Riddell will teach the course which will have sessions from 11 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday throughout the semester.

Riddell said the course is planned to give the student a basic knowledge of the contents of the Old Testament, with special emphasis on its historic and geographic aspects.

The course serves as a foundation for study of the New Testament and is excellent preparation for Sunday school teachers, Bible study leaders and persons who simply want to know more about the Old Testament, Riddell pointed out.

Additional information on the course may be obtained by contacting Student Services at Midland College.

Dr. Thorpe to speak at Kelview

Kelview Heights Baptist Church, located west of North Big Spring street near Scharbauer Drive, will have Dr. Curtis Thorpe as guest speaker at its 10 a.m. Sunday service.

Thorpe is founding pastor of Temple Baptist Church in Odessa and is widely-known in this area as a preacher and inspirational speaker. The public has an invitation to hear the guest speaker Sunday morning.

Thou shalt not anger Wilma Belcourt

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Wilma Belcourt, the woman who pressured the Grand Forks, N.D., school system into posting the Ten Commandments in classrooms to comply with an obscure law almost as old as she, says she did it "just to fight" the American Civil Liberties Union.

Mrs. Belcourt got her fight. Her crusade has provoked a constitutional test of the 1927 law.

In July, four Grand Forks residents, three with children enrolled in district schools, filed a lawsuit in federal court, seeking to declare the law unconstitutional.

The ACLU co-signed legal briefs in the challenge along with Robert Vogel, a former state Supreme Court justice who says he took the case without charge "because I believe in the Constitution."

The state attorney general's office — defending the Ten Commandments as "a cornerstone of our legal and social system" — intervened in the suit, now under advisement by U.S. District Judge Paul Benson.

Mrs. Belcourt, 62, says she considers the ACLU "a Marxist organization" that "made me mad" when it tried to prevent students in Sioux City, S.D., public schools from singing religious songs in a Christmas program in 1978.

Mrs. Belcourt says she went looking for an issue and unearthed the forgotten

Ten Commandments law. Last spring she pushed and prodded the Grand Forks School District into displaying the document, as required by the law, "in a conspicuous place in every schoolroom."

Mrs. Belcourt, a Roman Catholic and self-described "born-again Christian," says the Ten Commandments have a "psychological benefit" for schoolchildren.

"Every morning I say, 'God, will you please protect our Ten Commandments law?'" says the former teacher.

Another result of her constant campaigning and community work was the Legislature's passage last year of a law requiring students to learn the national anthem before completing sixth grade.

Vogel, a law school professor at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, contends the Ten Commandments law violates the First Amendment guarantee of religious freedom.

"The people who made the Bill of Rights decided church and state should be separate for the good of both," Vogel said.

"There are many versions of the Ten Commandments, and if the state selects one of them, that prefers one religion over another and tends to disparage some religions."

Vogel says "it is simply not true" that English and American laws are based on the Ten Commandments, which the Bible says were given by God to the Hebrew leader Moses on Mount Sinai.

But Assistant Attorney General Murray Sagsveen argues that the Ten Commandments have a secular impact on "our whole legal and social system."

"The Ten Commandments are the earliest and first expression of the law, and how the people of the world felt toward the Ten Commandments has influenced all of our development since then," Sagsveen says.

"Our national heritage has primarily evolved out of a Christian environment. By displaying the Ten Commandments, we're merely recognizing this."

Sagsveen says only one other state, Kentucky, has a similar Ten Commandments statute. Kentucky's law, rather than requiring the document to be posted, permits its display in such public places as classrooms.

Just why the North Dakota law was passed is sketchy, but Sagsveen thinks it was probably intended to improve students' morals. One 1927 legislator said the bill may result in "less war and more peace."

Benjamin Ring, the suit's chief plaintiff, says he has no objection to public schools teaching moral codes, but he claims the law "singles out the Ten Commandments for special attention."

Nun gets new position as mayor of Dubuque

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Sister Carolyn Farrell came to the Mississippi River town of Dubuque 10 years ago to be principal of St. Patrick's Catholic Elementary School.

But an interest in local politics began to grow, and now the 44-year-old nun is the mayor of the community of 63,000.

Sister Carolyn, who was elected Monday by her fellow City Council members to the largely ceremonial, $3,000-a-year job, says she sees no conflict with her new position and membership in the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

"I think I'm committed to serving the people of Dubuque and I do not think being a nun changes that approach," she said in a telephone interview. "This is the way I can serve people. I have the time and the energy to do the job."

In Dubuque, which has a city manager form of government, the part-time mayor is elected by the five-member City Council. Traditionally, each council member serves as mayor for one year of the four-year council term.

This year, it was Sister Carolyn's turn, and the other members of the council elected her by a 3-1 vote. One member was absent and the negative vote came from Jim Brady, who has served seven years on the council but was never elected mayor.

Sister Carolyn, who works as the director of continuing education for Clarke College in Dubuque, said her involvement in politics began before leaving St. Patrick's in 1974.

"It's one of those things that kind of grows," she said. "After the changes in the church, I became more involved in local politics."

She chaired the Dubuque Civil Service Commission and the local Iowa 2000 committee, a statewide effort to predict the future and prepare the state for it.

During those activities, she kept saying, "We need a woman on the Dubuque city council. It came to the point where I had to either decide to run or to keep still. I ran and I came in first and I was the first woman to serve on the Dubuque city council," she said.

That was in November 1977, when she topped a field of six candidates vying for three positions.

Sister Carolyn said she has gotten support for her unusual role from the leaders of her order, while the officials of the Catholic church have been neutral. She admits a minority of the Catholics in Dubuque don't think it proper for a nun to be in politics, but said others have encouraged her.

She said her priorities during her term will be work on development of a freeway for Dubuque, downtown redevelopment and an industrial park for the city's west side.

Midland churches sponsoring series of motion pictures

A motion picture series, titled "Whatever Happened to the Human Race?" will be shown Jan. 18 and 19 under sponsorship of several church congregations in the city.

The showings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. each day in Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave., said Les Prellwitz, pastor of The Living Way of Midland.

Admission to the screenings will be free of charge, although a free-will offering will be collected, Prellwitz said.

"Whatever Happened to the Human Race?" consists of five one-hour episodes dealing with abortion, infanticide, euthanasia, humanistic thinking and the only real solution to man's problems. The series expresses intellectually, emotionally and artistically the questions and answers developed within.

Additional information on the screenings may be obtained by contacting Prellwitz at 697-7465.

Midland First Presbyterian Church gets Judy Congdon as new organist

Judy Congdon has joined the staff of Midland's First Presbyterian Church as church organist.

Miss Congdon, who comes to Midland from Pueblo, Colo., holds a bachelor's degree in music from Wheaton College in Illinois. She earned a master's degree in music, with a major in organ performance and minors in piano and music history, from the University of Colorado.

Miss Congdon held a special grant for music study in Germany, and gave several public recitals in Mannheim, Frankfurt and elsewhere. She served for a time as an instructor of piano at Wheaton College. Later she served as organist for an Episcopal church in Boulder, Colo., and was an instructor in organ at the University of Colorado.

FCC religious mail finally subsides

WASHINGTON (AP) — That prolonged flood of mail to the Federal Communications Commission about a religious issue that never existed has finally subsided.

It ebbed to a mere trickle of protesting letters in late 1979, reports the United Methodist news service, after previously running as high as 25,000 letters a day — a total of 12 million since mid-1975.

They were protesting a supposed petition by atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair to abolish religious broadcasting from the airwaves, although no such petition was ever filed.

Pemex crews still trying to stop Ixtoc I oil spill

By GARY R. PEDERSEN

CIUDAD DEL CARMEN, Mexico (AP) — Directly over the blowout, the normally blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico burble and boil, forced six feet into the air by the force of the escaping oil. A three-foot crown of flame tops the murky fountain.

On Thursday, Ixtoc I spewed 50,000 more gallons of rusty-colored crude oil into the Gulf, but Pemex, the Mexican oil monopoly, says the flow from the world's worst oil spill has slowed and the well may be sealed this month.

"The flow is now running about 1,000 to 1,500 barrels a day," said a top engineer from Pemex, which has lost more than 110 million gallons of oil since the well blew out last June 3. A barrel contains 42 gallons of oil.

This is not the first time Pemex has expressed optimism about stopping the well. And the company's flow figures have been questioned by U.S. experts.

In October, when Pemex said the flow had been cut to 2,000 barrels a day, U.S. scientists testifying before a congressional panel in Washington said the real figure was closer to 50,000 barrels. But U.S. officials say there is no independent way to determine just how much oil is spilling.

"One of the two relief wells is complete (and has reached the two-mile depth of Ixtoc's reservoir), and we are pumping in sea water. The other well should be completed within 20 days," said the engineer, who asked not to be identified.

Drillers hope that pumping sea water into the reservoir will equalize the pressure forcing oil out of the well, slowing the flow enough so they can cap Ixtoc.

Pemex has spent millions of dollars trying to stop the oil, but Americans under contract to Pemex say it is time — not effort — that has cut the flow.

"There is no doubt once both the relief wells are in, Ixtoc will be stopped, but the Mexican government can't claim victory. Ixtoc is just slowing down by itself," said one American, who requested anonymity.

Ixtoc obviously has slowed. Instead of surfacing in a turbulent 100-foot-wide circle, it has been reduced to a ring 40 feet in diameter. Instead of gushing more than 30 feet into the air, it rises about six feet above the surface, with flames burning perhaps three feet above that.

Cecil Parker II, a diver with Underwater Services of Corpus Christi, Texas, dove to Ixtoc's mouth last week. He said the slick is about six feet thick near the surface, considerably less than last year.

"I should have seen some dead fish there somewhere, but I didn't. I just can't figure it out," Parker said.

The well is still feeding a two-by-three-mile slick — located 55 miles from this shrimping village in the Bay of Campeche — and the slick is slowly moving westward.

"Pemex doesn't want to talk too much about Ixtoc because it thinks it is bad publicity," said a Texan working on a rig in the area. He asked not to be identified. "They're right, it does, and I'll bet they'll be more careful on the next hole."

The blowout is a sour note in an otherwise sweet find — an estimated 7.5 billion barrels of oil and gas. The treasure, however, is in the heart of one of the world's most famous shrimping areas, and damage to the fishing industry was one of the big fears when Ixtoc I blew.

Most American experts now say the ecological damage is less than was first feared, although Dr. John Robinson of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said last week that the spring shift in Gulf currents could bring more of Ixtoc's oil to Texas beaches.

Cleveland zoo meets money problems by renting grounds

CLEVELAND (AP) — Want to rent a zoo?

The Cleveland Metroparks Zoo, battling deficits and decay, is doing some different things — including offering all or part of the zoo for rent to businesses and social groups for special events.

"We rented the entire zoo grounds to the Ohio Recreational Vehicle Association to display their vehicles," Zoo administrator Michael N. Vitantonio said.

The fee for renting the whole zoo for one day is variable but could run $3,000 to $5,000, Vitantonio said.

Like the city itself, the zoo faces problems with deteriorating facilities at a time when revenues have been declining. And while attendance has dwindled, the lions and tigers and other exotic animals are growing older, and the care and feeding of keepers and animals alike are increasingly expensive.

Vitantonio, appointed last May, says the deficit has quadrupled over the last 12 years. He told the Zoological Society expenses this year will total $1.2 million, while revenues are projected at only $840,000, leaving a $360,000 deficit to be made up by the Metroparks system.

The administrator said one survey done for the zoo estimated it would take $2.2 million to stop the decay, "just to fix up existing facilities, repairing plumbing, electricity, heating and so forth."

The key to paring the deficit is attracting more visitors, he says. Although 1979's attendance ran slightly ahead of the previous year's, it was still below 1977.

With backing of the park board and help of consultants, Vitantonio launched a program aimed at cutting costs and boosting attendance.

The zoo, located on Cleveland's West Side, has been thoroughly cleaned. Dozens of trees have been removed to provide a better view of the animals, and rusty metal fencing has been replaced by open-style, lower wooden fences that add to the illusion of spaciousness.

A walkway is planned to connect the upper and lower portions of the sprawling zoo, and a moated run is being built for two cheetahs being imported from South Africa at a cost of about $5,000 each.

The cheetahs, billed as the world's fastest land mammals, are a gift from a private donor, who also is giving fencing and shrubbery for the exhibit area.

A restaurant is to be built next spring beside the cat building, and Vitantonio hopes this will be another source of new income.

There is also concern that the birds and beasts in the zoo are growing older, and Cleveland has only single members of many species.

For this reason, a breeding program is planned, to be implemented within three years. Vitantonio says the first emphasis will be on breeding gorillas, which he says sell currently for $60,000 a pair.
