Carter may ask for registration

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, in what would be an abrupt reversal of administration policy, is said to be considering asking Congress to authorize peacetime registration of draft-age youths.

Administration sources said Tuesday they believed the proposal came from within the White House staff.

It comes amid unrest abroad, manpower problems in the military and a renewed defense orientation on Capitol Hill.

White House officials declined comment Tuesday night.

It was not known whether Carter would accept the proposal or include it in his State of the Union address to Congress tonight, said the sources, who asked not to be identified.

White House officials said in July that the administration "is opposed to registration," contending "it is not necessary to impose this burden on our nation and its youth."

All branches of the military fell short of recruitment goals for fiscal 1979, for the first time since the draft ended in 1973. But Defense Department officials concerned with manpower problems said Tuesday that the Pentagon had sent no staff papers recommending a renewal of registration to the White House.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown

told Congress last summer. "We don't propose to go to registration, let alone the draft, until we are convinced that other methods won't do the job."

But senior military officers, particularly Army generals, have said peacetime registration is necessary to insure the nation enough military manpower to fill out regular forces in an emergency.

These officers, noting that the Army National Guard and Reserve are below strength and largely unprepared for early deployment, have said U.S. security could be threatened if the country lacked effective standby draft machinery in the event of a Soviet attack on Western Europe.

Some Army officials have estimated that without peacetime preparation and revival of the Selective Service System, it would take about seven months from a standing start to obtain the first trained and deployable draftees.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said Tuesday the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan has revitalized the defense mood in Congress and brought talk of renewing the draft.

"I have a feeling this will be a security-minded Congress," Byrd told reporters.

O'Neill said he believes there is growing national support for restoration by Congress of a peacetime draft to strengthen the nation's defenses.

He added he would support such a move if Carter and his military advisers "think we need it."

Byrd said he personally favors a return to registering young people in case the draft is restored in some emergency.

But congressional sources, who asked anonymity, said there is no indication Carter will propose renewing the draft in a report on the subject he is to send Congress by Feb. 9.

Congress asked for that report after the House rejected a proposal last year to renew draft registration.

In a related development, an Associated Press-NBC News Poll indicates that public support for spending more on U.S. defense and the military has jumped dramatically to the highest level in a decade as the crises continue in Iran and Afghanistan.

Those polled said the objective of increased defense spending would be to gain military superiority over the Soviet Union.

The poll also indicated two out of every five Americans think a war involving the United States is very likely in the next three years — the highest level of fear found by the AP-NBC poll since the question was first asked three years ago.

The renewed support for a bigger military budget marks a historic reversal in American opinion. From the early 1970s and the Vietnam war until a month ago, there has been consistent sentiment for cutting defense spending.

Anti-abortionists march 45,000 demonstrate in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police estimated that 45,000 men, women and children took part in a march to the nation's Capitol to protest a Supreme Court abortion decision issued seven years ago.

Tuesday, the anniversary of the decision, also was marked by anti-abortion gatherings at state capitols in Columbus, Ohio, Lansing, Mich.,

St. Paul, Minn., and Bismarck, N.D. and pro-abortion events in Harrisburg, Pa., and Austin, Texas.

The Supreme Court ruling prompting the demonstration held that under the Constitution the government has no say in a woman's choice to have an abortion during the first three months of her pregnancy.

Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan sent a message of support to the marchers in Washington saying he prefers to use the legislative process to outlaw abortion but would support an amendment to the Constitution "as a last resort."

The Washington demonstration was carried out in a cold rain.

City to purchase clinic to house health agency

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Midland City County Health Department is being kicked out of its location in Midland Memorial Hospital.

But that doesn't mean it will be out in the cold when the Feb. 1 deadline arrives.

Midland City Council approved Tuesday issuing Certificates of Obligation amounting to $302,602 to purchase Western Clinic, 501 Andrews Highway, as its new site for the Health Department. This means the department finally has a permanent home of its own.

Voters last September gave thumbs down to a bond issue amounting to $750,000 to construct a new building for the Health Department. Shortly after that rejection, city officials heard that Western Clinic was going up for sale, checked it out and decided to buy the building.

And not long after that, the hospital gave notice the Health Department would have to relocate because of the hospital's renovation and planned construction of the Permian Basin Allison Cancer Therapy Center.

The city must advertise for two weeks its intent to sell the C.O.S., said City Manager James Brown.

Citizens protesting it must sign a petition during that period and present it to the council. If there is no objection from taxpayers, the council moves ahead with selling the C.O.S., Brown explained.

Chief Sanitarian Jewel Smith said the clinic is "the most ideal situation we could come up with."

The building needs only a small amount of painting and rehabilitation. Otherwise, Smith said, everything needed is there. Furnishings in the lobby, examining tables and lab equipment is being left behind for the Health Department.

"It has plenty of examining rooms, several doctor's offices and a nice waiting room," he added. "We in the Health Department are overjoyed. This couldn't have worked out better for us."

The department will be able to move into the new facility Feb. 15. The city will pay rent on it until April.

When the purchase will become final, said the city manager.

For more than 20 years, the city and county have been paying rent to Midland Memorial Hospital for space in the bottom floor on the east side to house the Health Department.

In pushing for approval of the September bond issue, city officials said hospital space had become too small to meet demands of the department. Even though taxes wouldn't have been raised to pay off the bonds, claimed city officials, taxpayers turned down the issue.

City of Midland promises residents a rose garden on Texas Avenue

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Two years ago when the Midland City Council decided to construct a new Central Fire Station in Crier Park, it promised neighboring citizens something unique would be done with the area not needed by the building.

On Tuesday, the council promised those people a rose garden.

Joy Butts with Midland Rose Society laid out her plans before the council and requested the city only go halfway this year in getting the garden started.

But the council, impressed with the idea, went whole hog and authorized the Parks and Recreation Department to dig all the beds, install the watering system and pour concrete sidewalks for the entire park this year.

MIDLAND ROSE GARDEN will be located directly in back of the fire station building, facing on Texas Avenue, Mrs. Butts said. She represented Midland Rose Society which is backing the venture.

The garden will consist of numerous beds of various types of roses. Sidewalks will be wide enough for handicapped persons in wheelchairs. And certain sections will have roses — those with the strongest smell — planted for visually handicapped persons, she said.

There will be benches and trellises covered with roses. And an open area will be designed for wedding cere-

Soviets report U.S. buzzing

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass said today "radio messages are flowing in" reporting U.S. military aircraft are buzzing Soviet merchant ships.

The agency quoted Captain Mikheyev of the merchant ship A. Chirikov as saying "in the sea of Japan an American plane flew 25 meters (82.5 feet) from the ship."

Captain Klepov of the merchant ship Yasnorsk is quoted as saying "in the Korean strait American pilots provocatively buzzed the ship for an hour."

The agency then said it went for comment to Alexander Kasbura, deputy director of the Far Eastern Shipping Co. He said:

"The buzzing of Soviet ships by American military planes is obviously pre-planned. This is a clear violation of international regulations concerning safety of shipping."

"Practice shows that that country's military planes intensify such provocative actions whenever the U.S. Government creates a conflict situation in some part of the world."

monies, she explained.

After the garden has been planted and is thriving, the city could hire a part time person — "a handicapped or retired person would be perfect" — to look after the garden, Mrs. Butts suggested.

One company is giving 300 rose bushes to the project, and commitments for other items have come from other persons, she told the council.

COUNCILMAN G. Thane Akins reminded other members of the commitment made by the council when it chose Crier Park for the fire station site, despite protests from neighbors. The panel then approved a motion to

U.S. attempting to contain Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is engaged in a flurry of diplomatic activity, involving a range of ideologically diverse countries, aimed at containing the impact of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The initiatives, not all directed at nations friendly to the United States, include a series of sensitive diplomatic missions.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, officials said, will visit Pakistan sometime during the next two weeks to discuss the possibility of a multi-national effort to bolster that country's defenses.

Diplomatic troubleshooter Clark Clifford will go to India next week to assure Prime Minister Indira Gandhi that the proposed U.S. military buildup of Pakistan is designed for Pakistan's defense and not to tip the regional power balance against India.

Under Secretary of State David Newsom will travel to Romania this Saturday to reassure Romanian authorities of American support for Romanian independence. Romania, like Afghanistan, has a long border with the Soviet Union, and the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan has heightened fears in Romania about its own security.

These missions are coupled with a continuing U.S. effort to win foreign support for President Carter's proposed global boycott of the Summer Olympics in Moscow or transferring the Games to another site if the Soviet troops are not withdrawn from Afghanistan within one month.

The United States also has been engaged in an intense effort to persuade its European allies not to undercut U.S. efforts to punish the Soviet Union through a partial grain embargo and other economic measures.

Perhaps the most difficult challenge to American diplomacy involves Iran. The administration has sent a series of signals to Iranian authorities in recent days that, once the Americans being held hostage in Tehran are freed, the United States is prepared to cooperate with Iran in resisting any Soviet effort to expand its influence from Afghanistan southward into the Persian Gulf region.

The Soviet intervention of Afghanistan has placed the Soviets within striking distance of the Persian Gulf and the administration believes the United States and Iran share a common interest in keeping Soviet influence away from that strategic area.

On the other hand, the administration has said the United States must move ahead with economic sanctions against Iran if there is any hope the American hostages, now in their 81st day of captivity, are to be released unharmed.

One official, who asked not to be identified, said an American decision not to impose sanctions would enable the Iranian militants occupying the U.S. Embassy to claim they had forced the United States to back down.

Thus, the official said, the administration is prepared to impose sanctions jointly with its Western European allies although it is not clear when, or how extensively, the sanctions will be applied.

Other officials said the administration is looking for a package of sanctions that would clearly signal American displeasure but which would not lead to the disintegration of Iran or permanently alienate Iran from the United States.

Combined with this diplomatic balancing act is a simultaneous U.S. effort to expand its military capability in the region by securing access to military facilities in friendly countries. These include Kenya, Somalia and Oman.

For Pakistan, the United States is proposing a $400 million aid package to which a number of NATO countries are being asked to contribute, officials said. In addition, the officials said they are hopeful Saudi Arabia will agree to shoulder a portion of the cost.

Olympic boycott gets support

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's call for a possible U.S. boycott of the Moscow Summer Olympics is winning broad and rapid support in Congress.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee hastily called hearings today on a resolution to back Carter's stand, hoping to win House approval before Carter's State of the Union address tonight. Robert J. Kane, president of the United States Olympic Committee, and Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher were scheduled to testify.

Without waiting for a formal vote, nearly a dozen senators and House members have urged the boycott as one reaction to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

"A dozen years of detente have been wiped out by a single act of international cannibalism," Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said in a Senate speech.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicted as the 96th Congress started its second session Tuesday that the boycott will be only one response by Congress to the Soviet drive.

They predicted Congress will increase U.S. defense spending, approve aid for Pakistan to defend its Afghanistan border and at least talk about bringing back the draft in America.

"There's a (public) mood out there that we've got to be prepared for conventional skirmishes," O'Neill said. "There is a realization that we can't stop World War III on the basis of what we have now."

The House Olympics resolution would urge the U.S. Olympic Committee to honor Carter's request to that the U.S. not participate in the Moscow Olympics if Soviet troops are not out of Afghanistan in a month.

If the Soviet troops aren't out of Afghanistan by the deadline, Carter wants the U.S. committee to seek transfer of the Games out of Moscow, or cancellation. If those moves fail, the president wants athletes from the U.S. and other nations to not participate.

The House resolution says "the Soviet invasion endangers independent countries neighboring Afghanistan and endangers access to a major source of the world's oil supplies."

George Who? Bush's persistence pays dividends in Iowa

By ROBERT M. ANDREWS

George Bush... happy at victory

"People still hurt my feelings by saying George Who?" says George Bush. But enough of the voters came to know Bush — and apparently like what they saw — to give him an upset victory over Ronald Reagan in the Iowa Republican straw poll.

Bush decided early on, when he began his dogged campaign for the 1980 GOP presidential nomination, that he had White House credentials. He summed up his task this way: "I've got the qualifications to be president. My problem is that people don't know about them."

So Bush became the "resume candidate," reminding his audiences across the country that he had been a two-term congressman from Texas, ambassador to the United Nations, national chairman of the Republican Party during the worst months of Watergate, first head of the U.S. Liaison office in Peking and director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

He also paid a lot of attention to precinct, county and state campaign organization. And he displayed a shrewd knack for exploiting his rivals' weaknesses, and his own strengths.

In Iowa, for example, Bush, 55, deftly played the issue of Reagan's age. Reagan, former California governor and the overwhelming Republican front-runner in the Iowa polls, is 68.

Before television cameras, Bush grunted and sweated his way through a callisthenics class in Concord, N.H., shortly before the Iowa balloting and said: "We're not doing this to emphasize Reagan's age. We're just letting the world see what great shape George Bush is in."

Then, in an irresistible aside, Bush added, "Just to be fair, I hope they invite Governor Reagan to the same class next week."

It is New Hampshire, site of the first state primary on Feb. 26, where Bush is focusing his attention.

Before flying there today to start campaigning in earnest, he confidently predicted that the field of nine Republican candidates will be narrowed to two — himself and Reagan — by the March 18 primary in Illinois.

He was born George Herbert Walker Bush in Massachusetts on June 12, 1924, the son of a wealthy New England family with deep Republican roots. His father was Prescott Bush, a Republican U.S. senator from Connecticut.

After his graduation from Yale University, Bush moved to Texas and eventually founded an oil development firm. He won a seat in the House of Representatives from Texas — the only elective office he ever held — but then lost a bid for the Senate.

Bush hitched his political star to Richard M. Nixon, and survived the scandals that drove Nixon from office in disgrace.

Today, he believes his varied background in business and public service is "going to be turned into monumental assets." Already, Forbes magazine has endorsed Bush for president, saying he has the experience and ability for the job.

Bush, who says the United States is entering "the most dangerous decade in the past 40 years," favors a tough, aggressive foreign policy. He once said that under certain circumstances the United States might be justified in intervening in the affairs of other countries as a "moral" decision.

He said Sunday he favored supporting Moslem rebels in Afghanistan against Soviet forces by working "quietly through friends" in Pakistan.

Domestically, he says he would work for a $20 billion tax cut, greater defense spending, a balanced budget and slashing the inflation rate to 1 percent through reductions in federal spending.

Bush clearly was looking to Iowa to give him a dramatic dose of public exposure and his campaign a burst of momentum. "You get a good bounce in life and then one event feeds on the other," he said recently.

Iowa was his first good bounce.

Firemen prepare an injured tuna fisherman for treatment as $7 million fire burns in background on seiner in San Diego Bay. Engine explosion is blamed for the fire which injured six men.

Tuna boat fire hurts six

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An explosion and fire aboard a tuna seiner, touched off when an auxiliary engine blew up, injured two firefighters and four crewmen and caused an estimated $7 million in damages, officials say.

The stubborn fire swept into the hold of the 1,200-ton Mariner which was being readied near the Coronado Bay Bridge on Tuesday for sea this weekend.

Almost 100 firemen battled the blaze which came close to tanks loaded with diesel fuel, aviation fuel and ammonia stored to refrigerate tuna. It took two hours to put the fire out.

Two firefighters were overcome by ammonia fumes. Four others were hospitalized, all but one with minor injuries, after emergency treatment on the dock of the Bumble Bee Food Co., owner of the ship.

The seiner's engineer, Frank Mangiapani, was in stable condition under treatment for burns and head cuts. Officials said a piece of metal hurled by the blast hit Mangiapani, 50, on the head. "Frank was down below with the rest of us," said one of 17 crewmen on the big fishing boat. "He was hit in the head and burned pretty bad."

Another crewman, who asked not to be identified, said he and his partner felt the explosion but could not escape because flames blocked their way.

"For a few seconds, we were trapped in the hold and we could see the fire spreading toward the aviation gas," he said. "For some reason, the flames over the scuttle (door to the hold) subsided. I guess they were following the path of the aviation fuel that had spilled alongside the ship."

"That's when I pulled the hold door closed tight, so the carbon dioxide wouldn't fill the hold. If that had happened, we wouldn't have been able to breathe."

Later they were able to re-open the hatch. "When we saw the opening, we got the hell out of there," he said.

The cause of the engine explosion was not determined immediately.

Batla, 14, of St. Lawrence showed the grand champion and reserve grand champion pigs with his cross-breed swines, which competed in a field of 177 Duroc, Hampshire, Chester White, other crossbreeds and other pure breed (OPB) swine.

The grand champion pig, a heavy-weight gilt, weighed 238 pounds, and the reserve champ weighed in at 231 pounds.

Lopez of Garden City showed the grand champion steer, a 1,100-pound exotic heavy-weight calf. His brother, Jose Lopez, showed the reserve champion steer. Nine calves were entered in the show.

Danetta Schafer showed the champion finewool lamb, a heavyweight, and Susan Pate exhibited the reserve champion finewool lamb, which also was a heavyweight.

The champion medium wool lamb, a heavyweight, was shown by Miss Pate, and Crystal Overton showed the reserve champion, a lightweight.

Staci Wilkerson's lambs won both champion and reserve champion places in the crossbreed category. The champion was a heavyweight, and the reserve, a medium weight.

Ninety-two lambs, including 42 fineweols, 30 crossbreeds and 20 medium-wool lambs, were entered in the show.

Midland man arrested

A 23-year-old Midland man is in custody in connection with the attempted theft of an adjustable valve valued at $2,437.50.

According to police, Waymon Lewis Baker, an employee of Memco Machine and Supply Inc., 3101 W. Front St., was working late Tuesday night. He went outside to check the supply of acetylene and saw a man straddling the valve and apparently attempting to pick it up, Baker told officers.

When Baker asked the man to accompany him back into the store, the man turned and ran, reports said.

Baker told police he attempted to chase the man, but couldn't catch him and returned to the store to call police. Baker said he also checked around the store for parked vehicles and found one he did not recognize behind the store among boxcars near a railroad spur.

As police arrived, a man entered the vehicle behind the store and left. Police stopped the car at the intersection of McGarvey and West Front Streets. The man in the car was identified by Baker.

Jackson wants rule enforced on diplomats

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., called today for the United States to enforce rules that ban Soviet diplomats from some U.S. cities unless American diplomats are allowed to visit dissident Andrei Sakharov in the closed Russian city of Gorky.

He indicated that the diplomats have often been able to get around rules that ban them from some U.S. cities and said that in one case, the Soviets were allowed to observe an American missile site.

Jackson said such a ban would be a show of "reciprocity" against Tuesday's banishment of Sakharov, an outspoken nuclear physicist, from Moscow to Gorky.

Jackson made his comments in an interview on ABC's "Good Morning America" program.

Escapee was awaiting parole

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — Donald McDennald, who escaped from the state prison here, seemed like the best possible security risk — he had already been granted a parole.

Warden Roger Crist said the 25-year-old McDennald was eligible for release anytime he got a job, and prison personnel were scheduled to take him to a job interview in two days.

McDennald was last seen about 8 a.m. Tuesday at his job in the prison dairy and a thorough search turned up no trace of him, the warden said. Crist said prison personnel knew of no reason for McDennald to escape.

"It doesn't make sense, I know, but that's apparently what he did," the warden said. "We've had it happen at least four times before that people had paroles and just left."

McDennald entered the prison Aug. 9, 1978, to serve a five-year term for theft.

Volunteers begin JA fund drive

About 150 volunteer fund raisers for Junior Achievement of Midland, Inc., met today in the Midland Hilton for a continental breakfast to kick off this year's Junior Achievement annual fund drive.

The three-week drive is expected to reach a goal of $66,700 in donations from local business enterprises.

Bill Barnes, chairman for the 1980 drive, said the goal has been increased from last year's amount because operating costs for the Junior Achievement Business Center continue to escalate as normal maintenance and improvement programs are planned.

"Support comes from large and small businesses," Barnes said, "as well as professional people and individual executives. Contributions, which are tax deductible, are used to pay permanent staff salaries, purchase equipment and educational materials and maintain the business center."

The chairman explained that fund drive workers have been divided into 25 teams consisting of six members each under five division chairpersons: Hooper Sanders, Paul Henderson, Joe Kloesel, Janice Hailey and Jack McMillan.

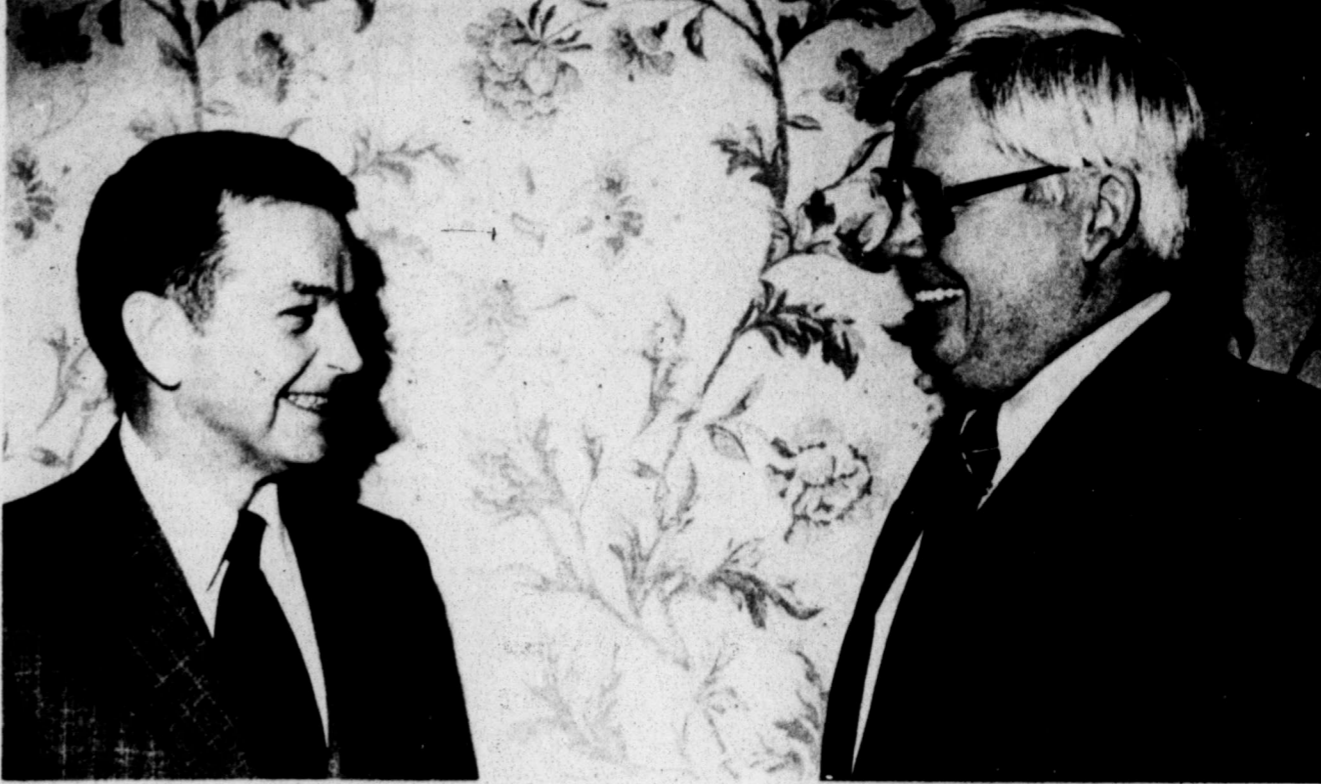

The JA board of directors will hear the initial report on campaign results Feb. 4. The final drive report will be due Feb. 14.

Persons wishing to make a donation to the campaign may mail or bring checks to Junior Achievement, 2311 Elizabeth St., Midland, 79701.

Also speaking to the breakfast crowd was two-year JA member Mark Cox. He is also manufacturing vice president of the Junior Achievement company Plantec, sponsored by Union Texas Petroleum Corporation.

Gary Peterson, executive director, provided a short film to illustrate successful soliciting techniques.

Junior Achievement, the nation's oldest youth economic education program, is a non-profit organization founded with the objective of teaching American youth the principles of the American free enterprise system.

Discussing plans for the Junior Achievement fund-raising campaign are Bill Barnes, left, a JA board member and president of Orloff Corp., and Paul Henderson, president of the local JA chapter and division operations manager for Exxon. Representatives of more than 100 businesses who help sponsor JA attended a breakfast this morning for the campaign which hopes to raise more than $66,000 by Feb. 14. (Staff Photo)

Panamanian ambassador denies reports that shah under arrest

By The Associated Press

Panama's ambassador to Washington said he was authorized to "categorically deny" a statement today by the Iranian Foreign Ministry that deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was being held by Panamanian authorities in preparation for his extradition to Iran.

In other developments: Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary leader, canceled all appointments for 15 days because of fatigue and a mild illness, his office in Qom announced. The statement said his doctor had advised rest for the 79-year-old Khomeini, who was in the holy city of Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran.

The Moslem militants holding 50 American hostages and the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for 81 days accused one of the hostages, Barry Rosen, of having tried as embassy press officer to manipulate Iranian news media to work against the Khomeini government. In a television broadcast Tuesday night, they also accused Mansoor Rohbani, editor of Tehran's leading morning newspaper, Bamdad, of having cooperated with Rosen by agreeing not to publish anti-American articles.

Iran warned the United States if the deposed shah is not extradited for trial in Iran, "this will create new problems in the Middle East." Tehran radio reported in a dispatch monitored in Kuwait. The statement also called on European countries to reject U.S. demands for the imposition of sanctions against Iran.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry, in an announcement carried by the official Pars news agency and on Tehran radio, claimed the deposed shah was in the custody of Panamanian authorities. Later, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said he had received a phone call from Panama president Aristides Royo early in the morning, Tehran time. "The Panamanian president will definitely announce the news to the press at the first possible opportunity," Ghotbzadeh was quoted as saying in the daily newspaper Kayhan.

"He told me over the telephone that in fact at that very moment the shah has been placed in detention by Panamanian security forces and a court will be set up as soon as the extradition request arrives in Panama," the foreign minister was quoted as saying.

That was denied by Panama Ambassador to Washington, Carlos Lopez Guevara, in a telephone interview with The Associated Press in New York. "Everything is quite normal in Panama today and I don't know the reason or the sources for the Iranian report because there is nothing to it."

He said he had just spoken by telephone with top government officials in Panama City and that he was authorized to "categorically deny" the Iranian statements. "We have granted the shah asylum. And under the basic rule of asylum he will never be returned to any country where there is the death penalty."

"This is ruled out — we have granted him asylum and we will stick to it," Lopez Guevara said. President Royo could not immediately be reached for comment.

extension to refurbish the old Belmont Apartments in south Midland. His first time period ends in early February. Because he is doing the work himself, Peacock asked for another 18 months to finish the remaining apartment buildings.

The auditor's report, reviewed and accepted by the council, revealed Midland to be in excellent financial shape.

A HIGH-SPEED CHASE scene may be filmed in the Tall City sometime this spring. The City Council said it would support a project by Schick-Sunn Classic Productions to film such a scene in Midland as part of the "Hangar 18" movie to be produced in Big Spring.

Plans for upgrading a street and building a new road and taxiway were approved by the council and will be advertised for bids on the $2 million set of projects.

Included in the plans is rehabilitating Midkiff Road from Illinois Avenue to Golf Course Road, estimated to cost $1,121,085. The second part is constructing a taxiway at Midland Regional Airport to a new Flight Service Center now being built. The third part will be pouring a new access road to the airport.

The council also approved preliminary plats for A Street Community Center and City View Acres and advertising for bids for a sign at Midland Center and landscaping around the center.

Attorney for 'witch' claims man's rights were violated

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — Defense attorney Travis Shelton says law enforcement officers violated Loy Dean Stone's rights when they searched his property without telling him a teen-age girl had died or advising him of his rights.

Four law enforcement officers testified Tuesday that no one read Stone his rights on Halloween 1977 after Roxanne Casa, 15, was slain while sitting in a pickup in Stone's driveway.

Stone, 50, and his wife, Louise, are charged with murder in the shotgun slaying and both have pleaded innocent. Mrs. Stone, 49, was granted a separate trial.

The Stones are high priests in the Church of Wicca, a witches' group that believes in reincarnation and psychic powers. The Stones say they do not believe in Satan.

Castro County Sheriff Granville Martin and Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper Jackie Gunnels testified they asked Stone to hand over a shotgun when they arrived at his home near Dimmitt in the Texas Panhandle.

Then Martin said he left all five of his deputies and Gunnels at the house to "protect the property." Meanwhile, he went into town to obtain consent to search forms, which the Stones signed, and a search warrant that he never used. Stone was arrested three days later.

Shelton confronted Martin with an affidavit he had signed to obtain the search warrant. In the affidavit Martin stated he believed Stone or Mrs. L.E. Stone — Stone's mother who lived next door — had fired the fatal shot.

"This is a clear violation of the Miranda rights of Mr. Stone," Shelton said.

Martin said he had not read Stone his rights because he "wasn't under arrest."

Odessa, 19, held in deaths

ODESSA — A 19-year-old Odessa is in custody here in lieu of $15,000 bond on charges of involuntary manslaughter. Odessa police said they expect to file additional charges today.

Francisco Aguado Andrade of 815 Gulf St. in Odessa was charged in municipal court late Tuesday afternoon in connection with the deaths of Jose Ramiro Salas, 27; his wife, Maria, also 27; and their 5-month-old daughter, Yadina.

The Salas family died in the early morning hours Tuesday when a car rammed through the wall of their bedroom at 910 S. Jackson St.

The accident occurred between 2:30 and 3 a.m. It was reported to police at 5:12 a.m.

Police said the vehicle involved apparently jumped the curb, knocked down 16 feet of chain-link fence in front of the Salas residence and continued through the front yard to strike the house, coming to rest in the bedroom and knocking one bedroom wall into the bathroom. The driver of the vehicle apparently left the scene on foot, according to reports.

On arrival, police were notified that someone might be under the car. Firemen lifted the vehicle and found the Salas family underneath.

Panel preparing list of grievances

IDABEL, Okla. (AP) — Members of Idabel's black community, saying they are treated unfairly by local authorities, have appointed a committee to air their complaints following a wave of violence that left two persons dead and four wounded.

More than 100 persons met Tuesday at the First Baptist Church, where they named a committee to compile a list of their complaints for presentation to the mayor.

Among those who spoke at the emotionally charged two-hour meeting was the father of the 15-year-old youth whose death triggered Sunday night's bloodshed and vandalism.

"All we want is justice and peace," said Henry Johnson.

Johnson's son, William Henry, was found shot to death early Sunday behind a nightspot that catered to whites. The rampage that followed resulted in two deaths and approximately $100,000 in property damage.

William Rose, director of the Oklahoma Human Rights Commission, in Idabel to monitor the situation, told the church crowd, "The first issue to the black community is the shooting that started the problem."

Earlier, District Attorney Don Shaw said the man charged in Johnson's slaying, Anthony DeShazo, 29, of Horatio, Ark., was arraigned Monday night on a charge of first-degree murder in the home of District Judge Gail Crayter. Shaw said DeShazo is being held at an undisclosed location pending court proceedings. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Feb. 12.

"We intend to have the preliminary right here (Idabel) and he will appear," said Shaw.

County Commissioner plans to make bid for re-election

Incumbent Midland County Commissioner Jack Leonard has announced he will be a Democratic candidate for re-election this year.

Leonard, who filed Tuesday, is completing his first term as commissioner of Precinct 3, having been elected in November 1976.

"As county commissioner this term, I made every effort to be available to the people of my precinct and to meet their needs whenever possible," Leonard said in making his announcement. "If re-elected to the office, my intentions as county commissioner will be to make the decisions and do the job that is most beneficial to Midland and its residents."

Saying he has been labeled conservative in his views, Leonard noted that "partisan politics is not of much interest to me. I am interested in what Midland and the people of Midland need and want.

"I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks for the support you have shown me these past three years as well as for your future support."

The 56-year-old commissioner added that "through a 'common sense' attitude I will be a man of the people and for the people."

A native of Mena, Ark., Leonard

has lived most of his life in Midland. He was a farmer and rancher prior to his election to the county commissioner and still maintains farming and ranching interests.

He and his wife, Evelyn, have two children at home, Rusty and Shelby. They also have three other children, Ellis Smith, Jimmy Leonard and Debra Leonard.

Midland businessman plans to seek Place 4 on council

Steve Davidson, 31, announced today his intention to file for Place 4 on the Midland City Council.

That position is held by G. Thane Akins who announced last week he will run for mayor.

Ronnie D. Lynch has formally announced his candidacy for Place 4. Woodrow Bailey has unofficially said he is considering seeking the post.

Davidson, a Midland businessman and civic leader, is engaged in oil and gas investments. A lifelong resident of the Tall City, he serves as president of the Midland Jaycees. He is active in the Leadership Midland program, is a member of Objectives for Midland local government task force and has participated in numerous community and charitable activities.

In announcing his candidacy, Davidson said, "Midland has experienced tremendous growth over the last seven years. With this growth has come the need for new leadership that will accept the challenges Midland faces in the Eighties."

'Windfall profits' oil tax battle now centered on expiration date

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $227.3 billion "windfall" tax on the oil industry is nearing the end of a long grind through Congress. A big question now is when the tax should expire.

The bill passed by the Senate would phase out the tax sometime in the 1990s — depending on how quickly world oil prices rise. Most of the tax voted by the House would be permanent.

"The Senate is not going to yield on the termination date," Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate conferees, cautioned the House delegates Tuesday. He urged the House to return today with a compromise offer.

House conferees contend a permanent tax is justified because the oil industry will continue to collect a "windfall" so long as foreign oil producers set artificially high prices for petroleum.

Senators say the tax should be allowed to die as soon as its purpose is accomplished: Reducing the oil industry's "windfall" resulting from ending price controls on U.S. crude oil and using the tax money to finance a national energy program.

The conference committee also must decide how much of the proceeds from the tax should be earmarked in the bill for an energy program and for helping lower-income Americans cope with rising fuel costs.

The Senate-passed measure includes $25 billion worth of tax incentives for individuals and businesses to conserve energy and to switch from oil to other fuels. The House bill contains no spending at all.

The committee hopes to wrap up all action on the tax package this week. That probably would result in final congressional action on the measure by about Feb. 6.

President Carter recommended enactment of a new tax to take back from the oil industry a part of the nearly $1 trillion consumers will pay in higher fuel costs in the 1980s as a result of his decision to end price controls on U.S.-produced crude oil.

The figure set by the conferees would, when combined with existing state and federal taxes, take close to 80 percent of that "windfall" from the industry.

The tax would take from 30 percent to 70 percent — depending on where, when and by whom the oil was discovered — of price increases above current levels.

The biggest obstacle to final action on the "windfall" tax was removed Tuesday when the conference committee agreed on a formula to require independent segments of the oil industry to pay $22.5 billion of the $227.3 billion tax during the 1980s.

The Senate bill would have taxed independents — which drill 95 percent of the nation's exploratory oil and gas wells — only $1 billion. The House favored a $7 billion levy on that segment of the industry.

In reaching that compromise, the conferees also agreed to a reduced tax on oil found in 1979 or later. The aim of the lower tax is to encourage more exploration and production.

Here are major elements of the compromise tax:

The major oil companies — the giants that produce, refine and retail — would pay a 70 percent tax on any price increase above $13 a barrel for oil discovered before 1973. Their "stripper" oil, which is from wells averaging 10 barrels daily or less, would be taxed at 60 percent of prices above $16.

Oil found in 1979 or later would be taxed at 30 percent above $16.55. The same rate would apply to "heavy" oil, a hard-to-pump type found mainly in California, and to oil recovered by such costly "tertiary" techniques as chemical injection.

The 12,000 independents — which explore and produce, but don't refine or retail oil — would pay a 50 percent tax on oil found before 1979. Their stripper production would face a 30 percent levy. Any production by an independent above 1,000 barrels a day would be taxed at the full rate paid by the major companies.

The conference agreed that independents — including landowners who lease their property to such oilmen — would continue to benefit from the oil depletion allowance even on their "windfall" earnings. This lets such a producer or landowner escape federal income taxes on 22 percent of his or her oil income.

Chicago teachers may walk off jobs

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's public school teachers may walk out if the school board goes ahead with a plan to cut the school year by three days and save $10.5 million, their union leader says.

If the board goes ahead with the cost-cutting move without consulting the Chicago Teachers Union, "we'll do what we always do when they don't consult us. That means we don't work," said CTU President Robert Healey.

The proposal is "a one-time, gimmicky, illegal breach of our contract," he said.

Healey spoke at a news conference Tuesday, the day teachers were supposed to get the pay due them Friday. Plans to pay the teachers — but not other school employees — fell through as leaders of other employees' unions threatened walkouts if the teachers were paid and their members were not.

The board had intended to pay the teachers and teachers' aides Tuesday and distribute paychecks to the others as the money became available. There are about 48,600 employees, 23,000 of them teachers.

Board President Catherine Rohrer said Tuesday the board did not have enough to pay even the teachers, but added they probably will be paid "by the end of the week."

Healey had said teachers would refuse their checks, saying "our position is we want everybody paid or nobody paid." Leaders of other unions were outraged by the partial payment plan.

"It's crazy, it's unfair, it's illogical," said John O'Gara, president of the school Lunchroom Employees Union. "What are our members? Second-class citizens?"

The school board was unable to raise the needed $40.5 million to meet last Friday's payroll. Mrs. Rohrer declined to say how much money the school board has on hand.

The problem is a result of the city's failure to pass a bill to borrow $225 million and relend it to the school board. Part of that money was to have covered the $40.5 million payroll last week.

Gov. James R. Thompson has refused to make an advance of $37.2 million in state aid for use in meeting the payroll despite City Council approval of an "ordinance of intent" saying it plans to make the loan.

The teachers union has threatened to shut down the school system Monday, the start of the second semester, if members are unpaid.

Failure by the school board to pay its employees last Friday marked the third time in six weeks they had not received paychecks on time.

Pentagon officials continue efforts to increase pay raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's campaign to hold the line on military pay raises is being undermined by top Pentagon officials who are lobbying on Capitol Hill for increases.

The Defense Department's top manpower officials said Tuesday that increases in pay and allowances might help stem the loss of experienced servicemen, who are leaving the service in search of more money.

On the one hand, Robert B. Pirie Jr., the Pentagon's manpower chief, said the official position of the department is that it opposes giving service personnel a 3.4 percent wage boost on top of the 7 percent increase they received last year.

However, Pirie and the manpower officials of each branch of the armed services made it clear that their personal views do not match the administration's position. They testified before the Senate Armed Services manpower subcommittee.

Pirie and officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force said they would favor legislation that would deny pay increases to the lowest-ranking personnel, but instead would boost pay and allowances for senior enlisted personnel, warrant officers and middle-grade officers.

The officials — including Army Lt. Gen. R.G. Yerks, Navy Vice Adm R.B. Baldwin and Air Force Lt. Gen. A.P. Iosue — said they hoped some way could be found to help lower-ranking personnel, as well.

Lt. Gen. Edward J. Bronars, the Marines' manpower chief, was alone in favoring across-the-board increases for all ranks.

Pirie said the 1981 budget that Carter will unveil next week will contain "substantial increases" in bonus money to spur recruiting efforts and re-enlistments.

Carter opposes additional pay increases, Pirie said, because they would violate the administration's wage guidelines and add $880 million to the administration's budget.

The Senate is scheduled to vote within the next two weeks on a proposal by Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., for a 3.4 percent increase for all service personnel, in addition to the 7 percent wage boost last year. Armstrong said the proposal, retroactive to Jan. 1, would cost taxpayers $472 million.

The proposal was killed in the Senate last year on a 44-43 vote.

Pirie, Yerks, Baldwin and Iosue said that instead of the Armstrong proposal they favored legislation sponsored by Sen. John Warner, R-Va.

It would target the 3.4 percent increase to enlisted persons in the pay grades of E-4 through E-9, to warrant officers and officers in pay grades of O-3 through O-5.

In addition, it would authorize a variable housing allowance to help persons living in high-cost areas, and additional funds to increase reimbursement for moving expenses. Warner said the bill would cost $675 million in fiscal 1980.

U.S. must stand up

A decision by the U.S. Olympic Committee to not send American athletes to this year's Summer Olympics in Moscow would be a most difficult one.

President Jimmy Carter has asked the committee to take that action if the Soviet Union has not withdrawn its troops from Afghanistan by Feb. 20.

The U.S. Olympic Committee will meet Jan. 26-27 in Colorado Springs, Colo., to consider the president's request along with possible options.

Reaction to Carter's request has been varied. But the decision isn't his to make and he knows it. Carter has no legal authority to dictate a boycott of the Olympics.

Examining the issue of whether to send an Olympic team to Moscow this summer, it's first apparent that such a decision should not come from the United States government. For the government to officially make such a decision would be in effect acknowledging that the Olympics are a political forum, leading eventually to the demise of the games.

In theory the Olympics are designed to be a politically free sports arena — an arena for athletic competition. The camaraderie of the Olympics should bring nations and peoples together as one.

In reality, however, that hasn't been the case. Political overtures have pervaded the Olympics in the past.

During the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, for example, Adolph Hitler used the games as the backdrop for his own political rantings and ravings.

If you delve into the record books of that year's competition you'll discover that numerous American Olympians made their marks despite the political trappings of that event. But was it worth it? Hitler used the Olympics for his own purposes, eventually drawing the world into World War II.

Needless to say, America's athletes could accomplish the same feats this year. Again, would it be worth it?

Certainly a decision not to send athletes to Moscow this summer would not dampen the Soviet Union's thrust to dominate the world. Such a gesture would be merely a slapping of their wrists, so to speak.

Would it be fair to the athletes?

Certainly not. The athletes have trained long and hard, enduring hours upon hours of grueling self-discipline and training just to prepare themselves for this year's competition. In another four years most of the athletes undoubtedly will be too old to compete.

We can sympathize with the athletes. It's tough to follow a dream only to see it dashed in the last few hours before its culmination. But more important is the principle in this case.

Moving the Olympics to another site, as Carter has suggested, probably would not even provide a solution. Moscow is the official site for this summer's games. If the games were moved to another site this summer, whose names would go in the record books? The athletes who competed in Moscow? The ones who competed elsewhere?

Carter's attempt to drum up support for a decision to move the games out of Moscow may well prove to be one of the most effective tools the United States — and the world — has for expressing displeasure over the Soviet Union's bullying ways.

The athletes must realize that the principle, in this instance, takes priority. The games must take a backseat to the United States' concern for peace throughout the world.

All freedom loving people must be willing to stand up and tell the Soviet Union that it will be held accountable for its actions in today's world.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Soviet invasion shattered Carter

WASHINGTON — On New Year's Eve, an abashed President Carter admitted to ABC-TV that he had been taken in by the Soviets, that Kremlin czar Leonid Brezhnev had lied to him. "My opinion of the Russians has changed more drastically in the last week," he said, "than even the previous two-and-a-half years."

This is the story of the education of Jimmy Carter, taken from top-secret documents and eye-witness accounts.

It's the story of a decent but limited president engulfed by unlimited responsibilities, not the man of iron will and resolute decision he seeks to portray. But it is also the story of an evangelical president who desperately wanted to reach out and communicate with his Soviet adversaries lest the horrors of the past be repeated.

He eagerly sought a face-to-face meeting with his Soviet counterpart. Once alone with Brezhnev, the president believed his own Christian good will would prevail. He hoped to appeal to the man's better instincts; then together, they would remove the incendiaries from where the powder kegs were kept.

In an exchange of private letters with the Soviet leader, Carter expressed his desire in early 1977 for a summit meeting to advance detente. But Carter was continually put off; the Kremlin tried to use his eagerness for a summit meeting as a negotiating point, seeking concessions in return.

Undeterred, the president returned to his Cabinet on Nov. 21, 1977, that he was "attempting to cooperate with the Soviets on a number of fronts." He had appealed to Brezhnev to use moderation, said Carter, in dealing with the Middle East. He told the Cabinet, according to the secret minutes, that his appeal had "some effect."

As an example of this moderation, Brezhnev delivered a stockpile of military hardware to Ethiopia, including jet fighters, tanks and artillery. Then he flew in Cuban troops as surrogates to man the equipment. This gave the Soviets a military bastion directly across the Red Sea from the fabulous oil fields of Saudi Arabia.

The Ethiopian caper, the president ruefully acknowledged to the Cabinet that the Soviet-American relationship "was not as good as it should be." His national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, briefed the Cabinet on what he called "a pattern of deterioration."

But Carter didn't let the subjugation of Ethiopia dampen his enthusiasm for detente. He assured the Cabinet on March 6, 1978, that he would not link an arms settlement "to the Soviet presence in the African horn." He reported happily that "progress was being made" in the SALT II negotiations and that he expected to resolve "the last three or four issues" personally with Brezhnev.

Scarcely four months later, Brezhnev delivered a humiliating slap in Carter's face. The president made a personal, private appeal to the Soviets to release the celebrated Jewish dissident Anatoly Shcharansky, who had been accused of spying for the

ART BUCHWALD Shopping for a compact is no 'small' endeavor

WASHINGTON — Do you want to know why automobiles are not rolling these days? I'll tell you why. I was looking for a car the other day to replace a gas guzzler I was unhappy with.

My first stop was at the Banzai dealership.

"I want a small car, comfortable, that won't use up too much petrol."

"Then the Banzai is for you. It has everything a big car has but you never have to fill the tank."

"I understand," the salesman said, "but I think you ought to know the 1980 Brustein XLD has had eight recalls so far, and we're still in January."

"I didn't know that. Was it in the papers?" "They keep things like that out of the papers. It seems if you have to stop for a red light, the seatbelt can give you a hernia. If you're looking for something hernia-proof then you should get a Banzai with a sun roof."

I told him I'd be back. I went across the street to inspect a Hara-Kiri Sword. I told the man that a friend of mine had just bought a Sword and seemed happy with it. But I wasn't sure whether I wanted a Sword or a Banzai.

"The Banzai's a very good car," he said, "except the transmission keeps falling out of it. Apparently the people who made it give their workers sake instead of coffee when they take a break. Banzai workers are drunk all the time, except when they're out on strike."

I thanked him for the information on the Banzai and told him that although I planned to look at other cars I would probably wind up buying a Sword.

The next showroom I went to displayed the Achtung 489. The salesman told me each Achtung was guaranteed to give 35 miles to the gallon, and the doors could be removed and made into a bed. He asked me what other automobiles I had looked at.

I told him the last one I liked was a Hara-Kiri Sword.

"Do you have a family?" the man asked.

"Yes," I replied, "why do you ask?"

"Nothing," he said. "I just returned from a funeral of a family that had been driving a Hara-Kiri Sword. I still haven't gotten over it. The police said the steering wheel came off as they were parking in a shopping center. God, that family had so much to live for."

"That couldn't happen to an Achtung?" I inquired.

"I wouldn't be selling them if it could," he said, wiping the tears from his eyes.

I don't want you to think I just looked at foreign cars. My next stop was to check out a compact Stars and Stripes Zipper. The salesman took me for a drive in it. He drove past an auto dump filled with wrecked and crushed cars.

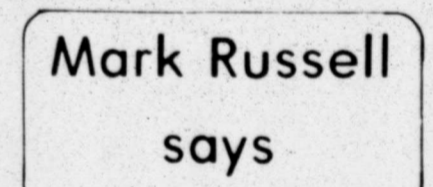

"It's full of 1978 Achtungs," the man said.

"Why?" I asked.

"No resale value," he said. "The only reason a dealer will buy them back is for scrap."

I liked the Zipper until the manager of the Rawhide dealership told me the ashtroys on it were wired into the electrical system and every time you put a cigarette out you got a shock. The people at the Hurricane showroom said the Rawhide's bumpers tended to fall off when it snowed, and the Grunt car dealer said the Hurricane had never been able to make it through a pothole without both axles breaking.

I decided the hell with it. I'll stick to my old Dowdy until I can find a new car that somebody has something nice to say about. Truth in advertising is one thing, but what's going on these days between competing automobile dealers is ridiculous.

Here are some late developments: Star 1 is dropping 8 million copies of the Reader's Digest over New Hampshire.

Rumor is that Jack and Jill magazine has investigative reporters crawling all over Martha's Vineyard.

NICK THIMMESCH

Boycotting Olympics is merely throwing marshmallows

WASHINGTON — Lately, my liberal friends have rushed by me, swords raised, crying, "Get the Russians!" My, oh my. McGovern ribbons still fade on their bureau tops. Memories of vigor in the Cuban missile crisis dance round in their balding heads. Now they want the United States to boycott the Olympic Games in Moscow.

Nick Thimmesch

I must confess that I am fond of these temperamental ideologues, much as a father loves an errant child. You can be sure that the same sort of liberals who screamed that Vietnam was a civil war and that Soviet-supplied Hanoi really meant no harm, now suffer tiny broken veins in their eyeballs over the Russians' despicable behavior.

It's not the liberals alone who demand that the United States stay out of the 1980 Olympic games, scheduled for Motherland Russia. Much of the populace of whatever political persuasion is leaning toward the boycott idea, which means that President Carter follows.

It seemed orchestrated, the Carter Administration's proposal that we cut out of the big games just to show the Soviets how tough we are. First, Vice President Mondale — whose job is to beat the drum quickly for Carter everywhere — a ratta-tat-tat — urged that the Olympics be moved from Moscow to a cleaner climate.

Next, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance weighed in with the heavy diplomatic granite, carefully propounding the view that the U.S. should not participate, considering the current unpleasantness in Afghanistan. Then White House Press Secretary Jody Powell allowed that the President was thinking that way, too.

Muhammed Ali, being a good anti-Communist Moslem, an Olympic Gold Medal winner and chairman of Athletes for Carter, said he was 100 percent for the boycott. Muhammad Ali, as his countless opponents will testify, is not to be taken lightly.

What Carter has here in the Iranian and Soviet relations crisis is a kind of furnace which needs stoking almost every day. The hot, smoky boiler-room is no fun, and causes him sweaty hard work ("who makes the ship go?" cries the hairy ape), but it also boosts the thermometer on popularity rating. So now Carter stokes it with Olympic boycott threats.

Well, it is up to the U.S. Olympic Committee, not the President of the United States, to decide matters like boycotts. Two weeks ago, this committee voted to "resist political intrusion into the games." The International Olympic Committee strongly opposes any changes for the games, and other than Saudi Arabia, not exactly an athletic kingdom, there is no nation willing to quit the Olympics.

Now Bob Mathias is no Russia-lover or parlor pink. He was decathlon champion at the 1948 and 1952 Olympic Games, and a rightward Republican congressman for eight years. He says it is "regrettable" that "politicians, pundits and those attempting to save the world are using the Olympic Games as a whipping boy."

Mathias points out that the International Olympic Committee, representing 60 nations, unanimously chose Moscow for 1980, and also chose Los Angeles for 1984. While the Soviets violate human rights and are wrong to be in Afghanistan, Mathias says, they have not violated the provisions of their 1980 Olympic contract. He says if the U.S. pulls out, the Communist world will cry "poor sports," so "I say let's beat them at their own game."

I'm with Mathias and Julian Roosevelt, a member of the IOC, who says, "the patriotic thing to do is for us to send a team over there and whip their ass."

Rather than a boycott, if President Carter wants to whip the Soviets' ass in a more meaningful way, he could go on television and push for, say, reinstatement of the draft, deployment of the B-1 bomber, the cruise missile, Pershing missile and neutron bomb, not to mention cutting off the flow of U.S. technology to the Soviet Union.

The President was too easy on the Soviets and other Communist regimes during his first two years in office. Now he is trying to get tough, only they won't blink. It will take a determined, long-term policy of firmness to make believers out of the Moscow gang.

Threatening a boycott amounts to tossing marshmallows at the Kremlin walls in Red Square. Putting American youth into uniform and thereby putting the American people into a more resolute frame of mind, would do far more to convince the Russians we mean business. So would moving on weapons the Soviets don't like.

This enemy always seems 10 feet tall (20 feet in these inflationary times) to some people. The Bolsheviks should be understood as a wrong-headed lot living in a landlocked expanse where democracy never even glimmered. Oh, they had a weekend of it once with the Kerensky government, but that's all.

The way to eyeball the Soviets is to remain strong all along, not just around a crisis, or during an election year, or when the McGovern-for-President ribbons fade. So, on to the 1980 Olympics, Moscow Bolsheviks and all. Our athletes are not afraid, why should the rest of us be?

Michigan wants EPA to have jurisdiction of nuclear waste dumps

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state attorney general has asked the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to assume jurisdiction over chemical and radioactive waste dumps in Michigan linked to Velsicol Chemical Co.

Attorney General Frank Kelley on Tuesday asked the EPA to step in after reviewing a state investigation of Velsicol dumps near Breckenridge and St. Louis, Mich.

The EPA said it would reply promptly, Kelley said.

"This is ... primarily a federal law problem best addressed in a federal court with federal regulatory personnel from the EPA and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in the lead role," Kelley said.

"Should the state go to court, we could spend years disputing the state's right to enforce federal radioactive licensing laws and permits."

Materials dumped at the two central Lower Peninsula sites came from the defunct Michigan Chemical Co. — manufacturer of the fire retardant PBB accidentally mixed with livestock feed distributed statewide in 1973 and lingering in Michigan's food supply.

Michigan Chemical's St. Louis plant was closed in September 1978 when the company was acquired by Velsicol.

Velsicol confirmed recently that 300,000 pounds of low-level radioactive waste from Michigan Chemical were buried at the Breckenridge site from 1968 to 1972. All the necessary state and federal permits needed then were obtained, Velsicol said.

According to Kelley, non-radioactive chemical residues on Velsicol property include materials already subject to federal government regulation.

The state Department of Natural Resources will continue to gather information on the dump sites and will work with the EPA to determine what action is needed to protect the public, Kelley said.

Discovery of the chemical and radioactive leftovers has spurred complaints from both citizens and lawmakers and fears from some researchers that the radioactivity might be linked to disease.

Rock concert survivors testify before committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Survivors of last month's Riverfront Coliseum stampede in Cincinnati have told a state Senate committee they are convinced that the late opening and insufficient number of doors for a concert by "The Who" caused the Dec. 3 tragedy.

They testified Tuesday night before a Commerce and Labor Committee hearing on the stampede, during which eleven persons died of asphyxiation after they were knocked down by fans swarming to get into the coliseum to claim unreserved seats.

Debra Shumate, who arrived at the Coliseum at 3 p.m., five hours ahead of the scheduled 8 p.m. starting time, said she was fortunate enough to be near one of the doors, and got in within 10 minutes after they were opened at 7:20 p.m.

But she said she was being crushed by the crowd and was "in extreme pain" an hour before that. She said she tried to get out of the crowd but couldn't.

"People were screaming at the tops of their lungs 'Why don't they open the doors?' I couldn't imagine why they wouldn't open them."

Mrs. Shumate and others testified at the first hearing on a bill by Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-Cincinnati, which would outlaw festival, or unreserved, seating at rock concerts.

However, Mrs. Shumate, who said she has attended many such concerts, said she does not know if the festival seating at the concert "had anything to do with the tragedy."

Aronoff's bill, aside from requiring reserved seats, designates that local police require enough doors to be open to insure public safety.

He said that while Cincinnati has passed several ordinances as a result of the fatal stampede, "this is not the preventive medicine I feel is necessary in the state."

Sen. Michael Schwarzwald, D-Columbus, said he believed the entertainers want to delay opening of doors so the crowd will be sure to be "hyped up" when it is time for the concert to start.

Dino Santangelo, an Rhoten trial verdict due

A five-man, seven-woman jury was expected to reach a verdict in the case of Robert Jay Rhoten, 21, 3200 Travis Ave., today after final arguments from attorneys.

Rhoten was arrested Nov. 1, 1979, and charged with the unlawful possession of methamphetamine.

Jury selection and testimony in the case began Monday in the 238th District Court of Judge Vann Culp.

The judge was expected to read the charge to the jury and hear final arguments beginning at 9 a.m. today.

Some really hot movies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A smoky blaze fueled by 150 reels of adult films destroyed five businesses in a commercial building as it sent clouds of smoke billowing over downtown San Francisco.

The three-hour blaze caused an estimated $250,000 damage Tuesday and left the building "pretty close to a total loss," said Deputy Chief Emmet Condon.

Arson investigator Fran Alianza said an investigation was to begin today to determine the cause of the fire which started in the basement of an adult bookstore in the Tenderloin District.

One fire worker, who was assisting firefighters with their breathing equipment, reportedly suffered a heart attack and was taken to a hospital. A policeman was treated for smoke inhalation, but otherwise there were no further reports of injuries, said Jim Flanagan, a watch commander for the San Francisco Police Department.

Along with the book store, an adult movie theater, a liquor store, a pizza restaurant and a luggage shop were lost to the flames, Flanagan said.

Firefighters wore oxygen masks as a precautionary measure following reports that stored chemicals — including a nitrate-based purported sexual stimulant — and acetate films stored in the book store were emitting toxic fumes.

However, Condon said the actual amount of toxic fumes was minimal.

Condon said ventilation was very poor in the building and the stored films created a lot of smoke, making it difficult for firefighters to see.

About 30 residents were evacuated from the nearby Olympic Hotel after the fire broke through the neighboring roof. Hotel Manager Mario Ordano said 5 feet of water seeped into his basement, putting the elevator out of use.

Utilities scrap nuclear plant plans

CLEVELAND (AP) — Five Ohio and Pennsylvania utilities are scrapping plans for the construction of four additional northern Ohio nuclear power plants which are already in the design stage.

A delay also was announced in construction at two sites where nuclear plant construction has begun.

Soon after the announcement by the utilities late Tuesday, at least one Ohio anti-nuclear power organization was claiming a victory. Don Schlemmer, president of the Western Reserve Alliance, said, "This proves the anti-nuclear forces were right all along, and it shows that their (the utilities') decisions are based solely on economics."

The estimated cost of the projects was $7.3 billion, said the companies of the Central Area Power Coordinating Group — the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., the Toledo Edison Co., the Ohio Edison Co., the Duquesne Light Co. of Pittsburgh and the Pennsylvania Power Co.

A year ago, CAPCO utilities began studying ways of expanding the capacity to generate electricity.

The decision canceled plans for two 1,260-megawatt units at the proposed Erie nuclear plant at Berlin Heights, Ohio, and for two additional 906-megawatt units at the existing Davis-Besse plant near Port Clinton.

Both locations are between Cleveland and Toledo and construction was planned for the mid-1980s.

The CAPCO statement explained that the planned construction was canceled because of "uncertainty of eventual cost."

But CAPCO said construction will continue, on a schedule delayed by 12 to 36 months, on two units at the Perry nuclear plant, which is under construction near North Perry, Ohio, east of Cleveland, and on a nuclear unit at the Beaver Valley plant at Shippingport, Pa.

"The political and regulatory uncertainties affecting the future construction of nuclear plants has intensified following the accident at Three Mile Island," said a statement issued by CAPCO. They referred to a 1979 accident at a nuclear plant in Pennsylvania which released radioactive gases into the air.

CAPCO companies, which serve 2.5 million customers, have invested up to $200 million in planning and other preliminary work for the terminated projects.

MIDTRAN DOOR-TO-DOOR BUS SERVICE FOR MIDLAND STARTS FEBRUARY 4

What is MIDTRAN?

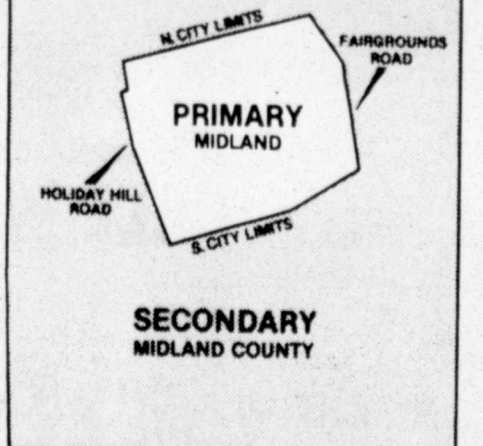

MIDTRAN is shared-ride public transportation for Midland. It will take you from your door to your destination. It is funded in part by the City of Midland, the State Government, the Federal Government, private contributions, and revenue from fares charged.

MIDTRAN will have seven mini-buses that carry 12 to 20 people in air-conditioned comfort. Two are equipped with wheelchair lifts. A central dispatcher will control all buses by two-way radio.

How does it work?

- A. Subscription Service to and from your job

The Ride

Pickup
The MIDTRAN bus will come to your curb at the scheduled time, and will honk twice. Please be ready, you are sharing your ride with other people so don't keep them waiting.

Fare
Present your pass or deposit the correct fare in the box. THE DRIVER CARRIES NO MONEY, and can only give change in tickets.

Boarding
Drivers are not allowed to assist. Carry only packages you can handle. Handicapped helper rides free with paid handicap fare.

Drop-Off
The bus will let you off at your destination. In the downtown area and at shopping centers, there will be several convenient stopping points marked by signs. These same stops will serve as pick-up points for return trips. SMOKING IS NOT ALLOWED ON MIDTRAN BUSES.

Cancellation or Delay
If you must cancel or delay a scheduled pickup, please call as early as possible.

Allow Time
Other people will be using MIDTRAN. You may make several stops before arriving at your destination, so plan for a slightly longer ride on the bus than you would expect in a car. MIDTRAN is new and will try to serve your transportation needs as best as it can. It is not possible to anticipate everything so we may have to alter our schedule or policies to meet the needs of most of the people.

WORLD BRIEFS

Sakharov will speak despite banishment

Andrei Sakharov

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei Sakharov's family vowed the Soviet Union's leading dissident will still get his message to the world despite his banishment from Moscow to get him away from Western reporters.

"He was only concerned about us in those last minutes. He had no 'last words' for the world — but you'll hear from him again, I assure you," said Liza Alexeyeva, one of the family members who saw the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize winner and his wife put aboard a plane and flown off to Gorky Tuesday.

Miss Alexeyeva quoted Sakharov as saying a prosecutor told him the reason he was being sent to Gorky was "so you wouldn't have contact with foreigners." Gorky, 250 miles east of Moscow, is a major industrial city of 1.3 million that is off-limits to foreigners because military equipment is produced there.

Sounds of war shake city

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Bomb blasts and machine-gun bursts shook San Salvador during the night after a gunfight left an estimated 20 dead and 80 wounded during a mass demonstration against the country's three-month-old junta.

Hospital officials said one of the wounded in Tuesday's demonstration was journalism student Bruce Yeager of Seattle, Wash. He was shot in the leg.

Seven powerful bombs exploded within 20 minutes late Tuesday night, and three of them damaged the Italian Embassy, a shopping center and the Hyatt Hotel.

Police said they did not know where the other four bombs were detonated, no injuries were reported from the blasts. Leftists put the bodies of 13 victims from Tuesday's march on the steps of the metropolitan cathedral.

Irish mourn Maguire, selves

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The suicide of Anne Maguire has shaken the people of Northern Ireland who thought after 10 1/2 years of bombing, shooting and bloodshed that they were immune to shock.

In mourning the woman whose loss of three children gave rise to the Peace People movement, Catholics and Protestants mourn themselves, locked in a cycle of hate whose casualties go far beyond the official death toll.

A neighbor found 34-year-old Mrs. Maguire in a blood-soaked armchair in her home in a Belfast suburb Monday. Beside her lay a carving knife and electric garden shears.

"She died of a broken heart," said Ciaran McKeown, a leader of the Peace People.

"I suppose this is a sad illustration of how the troubles continue to affect people," said the Rev. John Murray, a Catholic priest who was called to the home. "After people who have lost someone drop out of the news, the public tend to forget about them, but their lives continue to be nightmares."

More than 2,000 people have died in Northern Ireland's political-religious war involving militant Protestants, British and Northern Irish security forces and the mostly Catholic Provisional guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army, which seeks to tear the Protestant-majority province away from Britain and unite it with the predominantly Catholic Irish Republic.

Marcos alleges U.S. plot

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos' government says it has uncovered another plot against it, this one involving plans by a U.S.-based organization to buy firearms for anti-Marcos forces.

The presidential palace said the San Francisco-based Movement for a Free Philippines planned to use contributions to buy ArmaLite rifles, the equivalent of the military M-16, for shipment to anti-government elements.

The alleged plot is the latest in a series of schemes the government says have been hatched against Marcos.

The palace announcement released Sunday said the latest plot, agreed to at the group's convention in San Mateo, Calif., last September came to light when a copy of it apparently fell from the pocket of a cab rider identified as a "balikbayan," or overseas Filipino.

Soviets may be using nerve gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources say there are indications the Soviets may have used death-dealing nerve gas against anti-Marxist rebels in five areas of Afghanistan.

The sources, who declined to be identified, said the evidence is not conclusive enough to permit an open accusation by the United States.

But they said U.S. intelligence specialists give credence to descriptions provided by a number of Afghan refugees, including a defecting army officer.

This development comes less than a week after U.S. intelligence sources told The Associated Press the Soviet army had brought chemical decontaminating equipment into Afghanistan.

According to the new reports, the gas apparently was contained in bombs dropped from airplanes. The bombs were said to have burst in the air, spewing the gas in vapor form.

This vapor caused vomiting, breathing difficulties, bowel eruptions, blindness, paralysis and then death, the sources said. There was no estimate of the number of deaths.

U.S. specialists said the effects, as described by the Afghan refugees, correspond to known results from a Soviet nerve agent called Soman. They believe the same kind of nerve gas was used against Laotian tribesmen resisting communist forces in Southeast Asia.

One intelligence report suggests the lethal agent was used against Afghan rebel tribesmen as early as last August or September in the Panjshir Valley northeast of Kabul. Russian advisers were serving with the Afghan army at that time, although the full-scale Soviet army movement into Afghanistan did not come until late last month.

Sources said the other four incidents reportedly occurred last week near Faizabad and in Takhar Province, both in northeast Afghanistan where rebel resistance has been stiff, in Bamian Province, west of Kabul, and near Jalalabad, which lies close to Pakistan.

In telling the AP about sightings of Soviet chemical decontamination equipment in Afghanistan, U.S. specialists suggested it might be used to clean up affected areas so they could be occupied by Soviet or Afghan government troops after a gas attack.

Gen. David Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told Congress about a year ago that, under Soviet military doctrine, "the basic principle is to achieve surprise by using massive quantities of chemical agents against unprotected troops or against equipment or on terrain to deny its use."

U.S. intelligence sources said the Soviet troops in Afghanistan are equipped with FROG battlefield missiles, which they said can be used to hurl chemical warheads as well as either high-explosive or nuclear weapons.

Cairo's ex-friends want deposits back

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a serious threat to the shaky Egyptian economy, Saudi Arabia and several other Arab nations are demanding the return of up to $4 billion in bank deposits, which they say the Cairo government has frozen.

Egypt is in such a shaky financial condition, say American sources, that it cannot afford to repay the money, which was deposited before Egypt signed its separate peace with Israel, a move that angered Cairo's former benefactors.

Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the others have complained to the International Monetary Fund, headquartered in Washington, that Egypt has frozen the deposits and asked for help in forcing payment.

"It's a rather ticklish issue," said one U.S. source. "Egypt can't pay; the Saudis are pushing."

The United States, which finds itself in an awkward position in the dispute, is trying to stay out in hopes the IMF can find a solution.

Dobrynin, Vance meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin are talking to each other again, but as usual are playing it close to the vest about the nature of their discussions.

State Department officials refused to discuss a meeting between the two Tuesday evening beyond saying the session lasted almost two hours.

It was their first meeting since the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan and a resulting plunge in U.S.-Soviet relations.

COPING WITH YOUR INCOME TAX

Only one out of 47 returns audited

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1979 tax returns.

By GLENN RITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax audit. It has an ominous sound, but long odds. In the past, the Internal Revenue Service says only about one taxpayer in 47 has been audited each year.

The IRS checks about 1 of every 66 people earning below $10,000 a year.

Middle-income taxpayers, however, have a 2.4 percent chance; people earning more than $50,000, an 11.4 percent chance.

A computer will decide who is investigated and who isn't, and more than likely it will be attracted to the most unusual deductions or the most significant tax changes from last year.

Generally, to protect yourself, keep tax records at least three years. That's the time in which the IRS must start its investigation.

Short of the shock from an audit is the embarrassment following a dumb mistake. The IRS says the most frequent errors are: Forgetting to sign your form; failing to enclose the W-2 form or other statements detailing your wages and salary; and omitting your Social Security number.

To avoid mistakes and lessen the chances of an audit, make sure to report all income correctly and take only the deductions you can justify.

Here is a list of what income should be reported: — Wages, salaries, bonuses, commissions, fees, tips, and unemployment benefits.

— Dividends, although up to $100 can be excluded for an individual, and up to $200 for a couple filing jointly.

— Earned income from sources outside the United States.

— Interest received on U.S. Savings Bonds, but not interest on state and municipal bonds.

— Profits, rents and royalties.

— Earnings and interest from savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks, credit unions and similar institutions.

— Income from pensions, annuities and endowments after deducting the contributions you made to your own pension fund.

— Alimony receipts and separate maintenance payments. — The value of prizes and awards, plus gambling income.

— Refunds of state and local taxes if they were deducted in a prior year.

Major income items that aren't taxed include: Social Security benefits, welfare payments, some disability retirement payments and other benefits, workman's compensation benefits, child support, dividends on veterans' life insurance, and gifts, money or other property that you inherited.

There are several basic rules for which tax form to use.

You can file the 1040A short form if your total income is $20,000 or less as an individual or $40,000 or less as a couple filing jointly. In addition, your income cannot include items other than wages, salaries, tips and unemployment benefits. And you cannot earn more than $400 each in interest and dividends.

You must use the 1040 long form if you itemize deductions.

The IRS estimates that about 96 percent of all taxpayers will be able to figure their taxes by looking at tax tables in the booklet rather than having to do complex arithmetic.

That's a key reason that the number of people turning to professional tax preparers is down 20 percent in two years.

One rule that should come as no surprise: You must file your return no later than midnight, April 15.

If you encounter problems meeting the deadline, you can seek an extension by filling out Form 4868.

TV stations cancel show; Object to commercials

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A Mobil Oil Corp. spokesman today said he was "shocked" that three television stations canceled a six-part TV series because they objected to Mobil commercials.

"That's censorship," said Herbert Schmetz, Mobil's vice president for public affairs. "That smacks of thought control." WFSB-TV, a CBS affiliate owned by Post-Newsweek Stations Inc., announced Tuesday it had cancelled the scheduled broadcasts of the six-part series "Edward and Mrs. Simpson." It cited a company policy of its parent corporation prohibiting advertisements containing "advocacy of positions on matters of public importance or concern."

The Mobil advertisements, the station said, contained messages supporting deregulation of big business and opposing such measures as the "windfall profits" tax.

Post-Newsweek stations in Detroit and Jacksonville, Fla., also cancelled the series, WFSB said. But a rival to WFSB, WVIT-Channel 30, with studios in West Hartford announced plans the same day to air the series.

TAX TIPS

Breaks available to senior citizens

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles provided by the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

There is some important news for senior citizens filing their federal income tax this year. Several tax breaks are available to those who qualify.

Elderly Americans can reduce their taxes through "Tax Credit for the Elderly."

While many senior citizens do not consider themselves "elderly," the fact remains that they are eligible for the credit offered to persons aged 65 or older. Single persons 65 and older can reduce their taxes by as much as $375 while married couples can qualify for a $562.50.

Because it is a credit and not a deduction, this amount is subtracted directly from taxes owed. Qualifications include U.S. citizenship and prior taxable income. In fact, if you are under 65, retired and receiving taxable income, you are also eligible for the credit.

In cases where eligibility is uncertain due to age requirements, the IRS explains that, for federal income tax purposes, a taxpayer is 65 on the day before his/her birthday. A taxpayer whose 65th birthday fell on Jan. 1, 1980 can file as if he or she were 65 during 1979.

And did you know that the premiums you pay for Part B of Medicare are deductible if you itemize? One half of the premiums up to $150 is deductible outright.

These and other questions concerning your 1979 tax return will be answered in the Taxpayer Education program. This public service course, sponsored by the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants and the Internal Revenue Service will be offered Feb. 5 and 7 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Allison Fine Arts Building at Midland College and at Wilkerson Hall, Room 108, Odessa College.

To register for the program, send your name, address and location preference to Taxpayer Education, Box 870, Midland 79702. Registration fee is $1 per person or $1.50 per couple. The mailing deadline is Feb. 1. You may also pick up registration forms at the Administration Building, Room 156, Midland College.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Opponents Are Human

By Alfred Sheinwold

The man who esteems his fellow creatures is admirable but not a good bridge player. Give me a partner who thinks the opponents are only human and lets them prove it.

South won the first trick, drew two rounds of trumps and went after the diamonds. When that suit didn't break favorably South had to give up a spade and a club.

NO HURRY

There was no need to play the diamonds in such a hurry. South should take two top trumps, cash the other top heart and then give West his trump trick.

West cannot tell whether to return a club or a diamond. The club return would be fatal if South held K-J or K-10; the diamond return, if South held Q-10. From West's point of view, the club lead is twice as risky as the diamond lead. If West happens to return a club, South has lost nothing. He can still try the diamonds. In the meantime he has given West his fair chance to get egg over his face.

Does Iowa turnout signal new trend?

By EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The record turnout at the Iowa caucuses could signal a turnaround in the years of decline in Americans' participation in choosing their president, but experts say it is still too early to make that judgment.

More than 200,000 Iowans crowded into neighbor's kitchens, high school gyms and meeting halls Monday night to talk and vote in the kickoff for the process of electing a president this year.

Party officials said the more than 100,000 Democrats and 100,000 Republicans were a record for the caucuses, the first step in a long process that eventually leads to the selection of delegates to both party's national conventions next summer. In 1976, 38,576 Democrats and 20,253 Republicans went to caucuses in Iowa.

But the heavy turnout for the Iowa caucuses may not indicate a trend.

"I don't think you can tell from just one event," said Curtis Gans, of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, a private group that follows the trends in voter turnout.

"I'd need to see a lot more," added Walter Dean Burnham, a professor at MIT and a recognized expert on American political history. "I'd like to see some primary totals."

Nonetheless, the turnout in Iowa is in contrast to the steady declines in participation in presidential and congressional elections for at least the past two decades.

In 1976, only 54.3 percent of those over 18 cast ballots in the presidential election won by Jimmy Carter. That was the lowest turnout since 1948. In the 1972 election, the turnout was 55.4 percent.

A similar pattern has been taking place in congressional elections in years when there is no presidential race. Only 35.2 percent of those over 18 voted in the 1978 congressional elections, the lowest turnout since 1942.

Gans, Burnham and others have warned that declining participation in elections threatens to undermine the democratic form of government as more and more potential voters reject any connection with the process of selecting the nation's leaders.

The tremendous surge in Iowa may be a one-time thing, experts said.

In telephone interviews, both Gans and Burnham pointed to the intense media attention focused on Iowa this year, the intense competition in both parties, and the foreign crises facing this country as possible explanations for the turnout.

"Iowa had no real importance last time around (in 1976)," Gans said. "This time Iowa was in the same position as New Hampshire was in 1976."

New Hampshire's primary, traditionally the first in the nation, has usually gained added attention and importance because of its position as the first test among candidates.

Focus shifts to New Hampshire

By TIM AHERN
Associated Press Writer

George Bush says a victory in the New Hampshire primary would put him well on his way to winning the Republican presidential nomination — and Ronald Reagan may intensify his campaign there after losing to Bush in the Iowa caucuses.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he faces a must-win situation in New Hampshire after he was soundly beaten by President Carter in Iowa.

The campaign focus has shifted to New Hampshire, the New England state whose February primary, traditionally the kick-off for the long race to the presidential nominations, was upstaged by this year's intense campaign in Iowa.

Bush arrived in New Hampshire Tuesday night to campaign for the Feb. 26 primary and told a news conference in Keene that a win in New Hampshire would mean "there'll be absolutely no stopping me."

Asked if a victory would give him a lock on the nomination, Bush said, "I'd come close to saying that."

Reagan, who was criticized for limiting his personal appearances in Iowa, said he will reassess his New Hampshire schedule.

"I'm going to go all out in New Hampshire," he told a Los Angeles news conference Tuesday.

But Reagan refused to call the Granite State crucial to his candidacy. "I can't see any primary as being fatal," he said.

In Iowa, Reagan was considered the front-runner, but was beaten in the Republican straw vote caucuses by Bush, 32.8 percent to 26.7 percent.

"If I had to lose one, I'm glad it was a straw vote and not a primary," said Reagan.

Kennedy, meanwhile, lost by a 59 percent to 31 percent margin to Carter, who never made a campaign appearance in Iowa because he said he was busy in Washington with crises in Iran and Afghanistan.

In Washington, Kennedy called the race "a long road. It's a 15-inning fight and maybe it's the first round."

But the Massachusetts senator agreed that he can't afford to lose the second round in his home territory, including the Maine caucuses Feb. 10.

Asked if he has to win in both Maine and New Hampshire, Kennedy said, "Yes."

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, acknowledged the difficulty of beating Kennedy on the New Englander's home ground.

Kennedy, said Powell, "will be in a position in New Hampshire in the last few weeks to dump large numbers of people and organizational help in there that we simply will not be able to match."

Bush said his Iowa win boosts him out of the pack of Republican hopefuls, "but they will be after me, howling and yowling at my heels."

One of those hopefuls, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, said his third-place finish in the Iowa straw poll was "pretty much what I predicted." He called Reagan and Bush the front-runners in New Hampshire, but noted, "New Hampshire has a pleasant habit of devouring front-runners and I hope it continues that way."

In fourth place among Republicans in Iowa was former Texas Gov. John Connally, who said, "It may be that this is the very springboard I have been looking for." He explained that he thinks Reagan backers will turn to him instead of Bush.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, who finished last among the seven Republicans in Iowa, said he will decide in a few days whether to remain in the race.

While the Republicans were wondering who would be the nominee, they kept their sights trained on Carter. They released the latest catalog Tuesday outlining the GOP assessment of Carter's record in keeping his 1976 campaign promises.

The book costs $9.35, up from the $7.50 price of 1977. The increase is due, the GOP says, "to Mr. Carter's failure to keep promise No. 28." That promise, the party says, was a Carter pledge to try to keep the inflation rate to 4 percent or less during his first term.

The book says Carter made 667 promises as a candidate and has broken 277 and kept 130. The others, it says, are "either unkept, unkeepable or unverifiable."

Kennedy stepping up battle

By DAVID ESPO

WASHINGTON (AP) — By his own word, it looks like New England or bust for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential campaign. And New England is where he'll be for most of the next five weeks, campaigning.

The Massachusetts senator is seeking to play down his defeat to President Carter in Iowa's precinct caucuses, insisting at a union convention Tuesday that he, not Carter, would wind up with the Democratic presidential nomination.

But asked afterward whether his decisive loss in Iowa means he has to beat Carter in their next two encounters — Maine's caucuses Feb. 10 and New Hampshire's primary election Feb. 26 — Kennedy had a one-word reply: Yes.

Only a few weeks ago, a Kennedy loss in New England would have been virtually unimaginable, with even Carter campaign officials conceding the Massachusetts senator success in his own political backyard. But Kennedy press secretary Tom Southwick said both New Hampshire and Maine now appear to be very close contests.

"We're going to work as hard as we can in New Hampshire and Maine," Southwick said early Tuesday after Kennedy conceded defeat in the Iowa caucuses.

Kennedy makes his first post-Iowa campaign trip beginning Friday. He will concentrate his campaigning in New Hampshire and Maine, with a stop in Providence, R.I.

Kennedy told reporters he expects to do better in New England than he did in Iowa. And Maine Gov. Joseph Brennan, an early Kennedy supporter, predicted the senator will defeat Carter in Maine.

Vermont and Massachusetts, two other New England states, hold primary elections March 4. The battleground then shifts to Carter's native South, an area where the president is expected to run up a string of primary victories over his challenger.

New names on ballot

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The names of a little-known Democrat and two Republican presidential aspirants have been added to Florida's March 11 presidential primary ballot, completing the list of candidates.

Secretary of State George Firestone completed the ballot Tuesday after he and the six-member Presidential Candidate Selection Committee considered petitions from nearly a dozen little-known candidates who wanted their names on the ballot.

The committee voted unanimously to put Richard Kay of Cleveland, Ohio, on the Democratic ballot. Kay filed a lawsuit against Firestone after the committee skipped over his name when it made its first selections earlier this month.

"It's hard to make a judgment for any of them," said state Senate President Phil Lewis, one of the committee members. "But Mr. Kay — at least he has some kind of program across a number of states. The rest don't have any kind of news coverage."

In addition, the panel added Los Angeles economist Ben Fernandez and former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen to the Republican ballot.

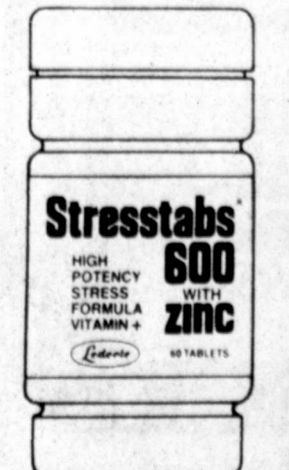

Earlier this month, the committee limited its selection to the so-called major candidates who have received extensive press coverage.

They were President Carter, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. on the Democratic side.

For the Republican ballot the committee chose former California governor Ronald Reagan, former U.S. Treasury Secretary John Connally, Reps. John Anderson and Philip Crane, both of Illinois.

Ralph Anspach, the economics professor who invented the game Anti-Monopoly, is the winner in the latest turn of the judicial wheel and vows the game will be back in production in a few days. He's pictured in Berkeley, Calif., where he said: "We'll be in New York with Anti-Monopoly in time for the Toy Fair in February." (AP Laserphoto)

Anti-Monopoly game will be returned to market

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The man who invented Anti-Monopoly, the parlor parody legally crushed two years ago by the makers of Monopoly, says the game is going back into production following a favorable court decision.

And to make sure Parker Brothers, the makers of Monopoly, know he is back, Ralph Anspach said he would dig up 40,000 Anti-Monopoly games today from a dump near Mankato, Minn. General Mills, owner of Parker Brothers, buried them after a federal court decided the game infringed on the Monopoly trademark.

The games — which Anspach was ordered to surrender after the ruling — have been moldering underground for some 2½ years, so Anspach does not expect to salvage much. He said the dig was "symbolic," adding that Parker Brothers would be billed $75,000 for the buried games.

Attorneys for Parker Brothers declined comment on the case.

"We'll be in New York with Anti-Monopoly in time for the Toy Fair in February," said Anspach, a 53-year-old economics professor. Manufacturers use the fair to introduce their new products.

The 1977 trademark decision and subsequent injunction against production of Anti-Monopoly was reversed last month by the 9th U.S. Court of Appeals, which ordered the suit back to federal court for a new ruling.

The appellate panel said the lower court had ignored a doctrine of law that says the trademark is lost and invalid if consumers use the term Monopoly to denote primarily the product rather than the producer.

The appellate court said the issue was whether Parker Brothers succeeded in efforts to keep the Monopoly name from falling into the public domain. The final determination will be made by U.S. District Judge Spencer Williams, whose decision was reversed.

A jubilant Anspach said the appellate court all but ordered the lower court to find him the ultimate winner in the trademark battle, so he feels he is legally justified in resuming production of Anti-Monopoly.

"There is no more injunction," said Anspach. "We're going to dig up the 40,000 Anti-Monopoly games buried after the first decision."

Anspach said 419,000 Anti-Monopoly sets were sold before production was ordered halted.

In Monopoly, an immensely popular board game that has sold 80 million sets worldwide since 1935, the point is to corner the market on properties by buying and selling real estate.

Anti-Monopoly parodies that game. Its players are "trustbusters" who win points by breaking up monopolies.

Blacks, whites brawl in Massachusetts school

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — More than 5,000 students were returning to classes at Brockton High School under heavy security today as authorities tried to reassure black parents their children were safe.

Five persons were arrested and 18 students were suspended Tuesday after a fight between whites and blacks over a doughnut triggered scuffles outside the school.

Officials said about 150 white students, some screaming racial insults, paraded outside the school buildings while 75 black students huddled in a cafeteria until they could be evacuated.

"There were some significant racial and emotional overtones," said Dr. Thomas J. Whalen, Brockton's school superintendent.

He said a beefed-up security force would be on hand at the school today, with officers riding student buses. In addition, pupils were ordered to carry their identification cards and were to be restricted inside the school's four buildings.

School authorities scheduled a meeting tonight with representatives of Brockton's black community to assure them of the safety of the school, Whalen said at a meeting of the school board Tuesday night.

Brockton High, located in a mill town of 89,000 in southeastern Massachusetts, has about 5,700 students, 4 percent of them black.

Whalen said the incident began before school opened when "a black and a white girl had a scuffle over a doughnut. A black boy and a white boy joined them."

About two dozen police officers helped school security officers and faculty disperse the group outside. Two buses were driven behind the school building to evacuate the black students. White students also were escorted to buses taking them home.

One black youth was charged with assault and battery on a police officer. Three white students and one black were charged with creating a disturbance. Most of those suspended, Whalen said, were under previous suspensions.

Whalen said he spoke to several students who said "they felt the incident was a spillover from the killing at Cambridge Rindge and Latin School. It got played up in the media. Kids pick up on things like that."

The Cambridge high school was closed for a week when a white student was stabbed to death and another critically wounded Jan. 7 in a lunchtime fight.

New device improves atomic clock

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Scientists have developed a new type of atomic clock they say would not lose a second over 3 million years.

The clock uses a maser — a device similar to a laser which uses microwaves instead of light — to excite molecules whose vibrations are counted to measure time.

Researchers at Johns Hopkins University announced Tuesday they had developed the clock to use in experiments for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Previous atomic clocks have used crystals to excite the atoms and are affected by noise, Rueger said.

The maser, an acronym for Microwave Amplification by Stimulated Electromagnetic Radiation, is not bothered by noise.

Israelis withdrawing from Sinai

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli army staged a parade today in the center of the Sinai Peninsula to mark its withdrawal from strategic zones that have been the scene of fighting in two Mideast wars.

Egypt regains control of the important 5,800-square-mile desert zone on Friday according to the timetable in the Israel-Egypt peace treaty, signed last March in Washington by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The military parade included tanks, armored personnel carriers and a flyover by Israeli air force jets.

The zone being evacuated includes the Mitla and Gidi passes, which Israeli forces took in the 1956 and 1967 wars.

The passes, still littered with rusting military wreckage, are the main approaches from western Sinai close to the Suez Canal to the level desert plain that abuts Israel's Negev Desert.

On Friday, a change-of-command ceremony will be held as Egyptian rule returns to a line from Ras Muhammad on the Red Sea at the southern tip of the peninsula to El Arish on the Mediterranean. Ras Muhammad is about 200 miles to the south.

The next withdrawal will be in 1982. Until then, Egypt will control more than two-thirds of the peninsula, which is the land bridge between Africa and Asia.

Taken all together, the Sinai desert is 23,000 square miles, or 230 miles long and 150 miles wide. It is bounded on the east by the Gulf of Aqaba and on the west by the Gulf of Suez. With a very hot and dry climate, Sinai is sparsely vegetated. Limestone quarrying and oil drilling are the main economic activities. The 7,500-foot-high Mount Sinai, where the Bible says Moses received the Ten Commandments from God, was among a parcel of the Sinai returned to Egypt last year, and President Sadat has said he wants to build there an inter-denominational house of religion. The Alma oilfields in the Gulf of Suez, Israel's only substantial petroleum source, were also returned under the six-phase Sinai withdrawal.

Iranian student claims victimization by patriotism

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An Iranian student has told police he was asked to take part in an alleged scheme to pass forged checks for the good of his country.

"They appealed to my patriotism, they talked me into it for the good of Islam, my country and my leader," police quoted Gholam Reza Pakyari as saying following his arrest Monday.

Pakyari, a 23-year-old student at Texas Southmost College, was charged with trying to pass a forged check and jailed in lieu of $20,000 bond.

The student said persons in Houston asked him this summer to open a bank account and deposit the questionable checks, said Brownsville police detective Tony Hess.

Sen. Jones joins Gov. Clements' critics

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The head of the powerful Senate Finance Committee joined critics today of Gov. Bill Clements efforts for an across the board 5 percent cut in state employees.

"His whole approach bears about as much resemblance to statecraft as sitting backward on a runaway horse does to horsemanship," Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, told a news conference. "The seat is elevated and the field of vision is broad, but there is no sense of direction, no real control, no insight into the power one rides."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who sat through the news conference, said he seconded everything Jones said. However, Hobby said he did not have anything to add.

"The process of legislative control of state spending has served Texas well over the years, and Governor Clements flies in the face of that process," Jones said. "It makes no distinction between those agencies and programs that might in fact need trimming, and those that are growing and making efficient, productive use of their personnel."

He said among the agencies that would be hurt most by the mandatory personnel cut would be the Mental Health and Mental Retardation department, the Texas Youth Council and the Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Jones, who has just announced as a candidate for a third term, said Texas taxpayers, as well as state employees, would be "much better served by an ongoing deliberate approach to funding our state than by off-the-cuff scattershooting."

Surviving spouse does not always get entire estate

When a spouse dies, the surviving partner does not, contrary to popular belief, automatically assume ownership of the entire estate, Bank of America notes in its latest Consumer Information Report.

"Financial Transitions for the Widowed" is the 24th in a series of money management and personal financial planning reports issued by the bank. Copies are available without charge at all Bank of America branches.

In community property states, income earned during a marriage is owned equally by the couple. However, the deceased spouse's half may be disposed of by will.

"If there is no will or if an executor isn't named in the will, it may be necessary to file a petition with the probate court to probate the will or administer the estate," the report says.

The court will require a breakdown of an estate's assets, giving their present value, date and place acquired, value when acquired and form of ownership.

Some assets, however, are not considered part of the community property, the report states. For example, property held individually by a surviving spouse before a marriage or received as a gift of inheritance during a marriage remains separate.

Additionally, the report points out, "If you and your spouse owned your home and other possessions as joint tenants, then ordinarily this property passes to you outside probate."

Access to funds in bank accounts shared with a spouse or maintained separately also is affected by inheritance tax laws and California probate guidelines.

According to the report, a surviving spouse as joint tenant or named beneficiary can transfer or withdraw only up to $30,000 from joint tenancy or informal trustee accounts. For larger amounts, a special consent to transfer form must be obtained from the county treasurer or state controller's office.

If an account is in a deceased spouse's name only and the estate is being settled through probate court, funds could be frozen. However, if the estate is small and qualifies for distribution through summary probate, funds may be released, but the same rules regarding a consent to transfer apply.

The report discusses procedures to collect insurance and other benefits, and to file tax forms. It also outlines steps to take when revising credit accounts and property records.

Title to property held jointly by a couple may be transferred into the surviving spouse's name alone, the report states.

With a jointly owned home, it will be necessary to record a certified copy of the death certificate, an affidavit-death of joint tenant form and a release from the state's Gift and Inheritance Tax Division with the county recorder's office.

If stocks and bonds are registered in both names, a tax clearance form from the county treasurer or state controller's office together with a certified copy of the death certificate should be presented to a bank officer or a stockholder. The documents and securities will be forwarded to the transfer agent for the corporation requesting re-issuance.

Transfer procedures on motor vehicles depend on how title is held and how the estate is being settled.

Resolutions humorously examined by speaker

"Brave New Year — Resolutions, That Is" was examined delightfully by Joan Baskin at the January meeting of the Permian Basin Geological-Geophysical Auxiliary at Ranchland Hills Country Club.

With the help of such writers as Jean Kerr, Nancy Stahl, Erma Bombeck, Ogden Nash, Phyllis McGinley and Ann Landers, Mrs. Baskin discussed resolution making and how to make them and break them — or how to make them so painless there's no need to break them. Mrs. Cary Geron and Mrs. Bill Isom were co-chairmen for the meeting, assisted by hostesses Mrs. Bill Hollingshead, Mrs. Jim Storrie, Mrs. Gerald Calhoun, Mrs. Robert Pervinsek and Mrs. Sherman Allenson.

Guests included Patsy Gordon from The Midland Reporter-Telegram, Dora Clark, Linda Curtis, Janna Ross, Mrs. A. Gerdner, Mrs. Beth Hamilton and Mrs. Ora Causey.

The membership prize was won by Mrs. James Hartman.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Jack Jordan, chairman, Mrs. Steve Blaylock, Mrs. A.E. Simmons, Mrs. Robert Frazier, Mrs. Cary Geron, Mrs. Kenneth Freeman and Mrs. Jerel Pierce was elected. They will report at the next meeting slated Feb. 14 at Midland Country Club, a luncheon and musical review.

Women interested in joining the auxiliary may contact Mrs. Will Green at 697-4203 for membership information.

Weddings

MECHLING-KNOUS

JACKSONVILLE — Helen Melissa Mechling and Kenneth Paul Knous, both of Jacksonville, exchanged wedding vows at 6 p.m. Dec. 29 in the Craft Baptist Church in Jacksonville with the Rev. W. Paul Knous, grandfather of the bridegroom, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Kathryn Morton Mechling of Jacksonville, formerly of Midland, and the late Howard Mechling.

The bridegroom's parents are William O. Knous and Shirley Wilkins, both of Jacksonville.

Rona Hall was matron of honor, and maid of honor was Marge McSwain. Bridesmaids were Karen Matthews and Pam Corbell. Laura Morton, cousin of the bride and bridegroom, and Cheri Morton, cousin of the bride, were flower girls.

Bill Knous was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Tim Halki, Billy McDonald, and Sylvester (Pete) Chancellor. Ushers were Billy Knous, Keith Morton and John Morton.

The bride is a student at Lon Morris College in Jacksonville where she is a member of Alpha Rho Tau and the Rho Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa.

Mrs. Kenneth Paul Knous

The bridegroom attended Jacksonville College and is in traffic management operations of the United States Air Force and is a licensed minister serving as associate pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church in Jacksonville, where the couple will live.

Georgia Senate again rejects ERA

ATLANTA (AP) — The Equal Rights Amendment broke out of a Georgia Senate committee for the second time in five years to meet the same floor defeat dealt the controversial amendment in 1975.

Following the Monday afternoon vote, however, an ERA proponent had predicted the Senate Tuesday would vote to reconsider the proposed constitutional amendment and that some votes might be changed during the night.

Despite lobbying from the White House, occupied by former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, the Senate defeated the resolution to ratify the ERA by a vote of 32-23. The state constitution requires 29 yes votes for ratification.

In Boise, Idaho, meanwhile, Federal Judge Marion Callister ruled Monday that members of Congress will not be allowed to intervene in an Idaho lawsuit over the ERA.

The ERA, which would outlaw discrimination based on sex, must be ratified by 38 states by June 30, 1982, to become part of the Constitution. The original deadline of March 22, 1979, was extended by act of Congress.

The ERA has been approved by 35 states, but five have since rescinded approval. The validity of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide.

Callister denied a petition from 79 congressmen seeking to join a lawsuit filed by state officials and legislators in Idaho, Washington and Arizona challenging the extension of the ratification deadline.

The suit also seeks to force the federal government to accept the action of five states, including Idaho, rescinding approval.

The congressmen said they wanted to join the lawsuit to defend their vote extending the ERA ratification deadline.

Secretary of Year announced

Florene Anderson has been presented the Secretary of the Year award for 1980 by the Permian Chapter of the National Secretaries Association. She was presented the SOTY plaque by Sharon Taylor, 1979 recipient, at a meeting in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Ms. Anderson has been employed with Watson and Cox Oil and Gas Co. since 1977. Prior to this, she worked for Banner Resources. She attended Gainesville, Texas, High School, Gainesville Junior College and Draughon's Business College at Dallas, as well as Midland College. Her activities with Permian Chapter include serving as recording secretary, vice president, treasurer and corresponding secretary. She also has been chairman of the contact committee and a member of the scrapbook committee. Ms. Anderson is a member of the First Christian Church, Midland Desk and Derrick and Lioness Club. Speaker for the Jan. 8 meeting was Sue Stephens, president of the board of directors of the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Children. Her talk was entitled "Till Death Do Us Part." Ms. Stephens was an instigator for the Texas Council of Family Violence and is a charter member of the group. The next meeting of the Permian Chapter, NSA, will be at noon Feb. 12 in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Award nomination deadline nears

The deadline for nominations for the sixth annual Woman of the Year award for Midland Altrusa Club, Inc., is near.

Midland clubs and organizations have until Feb. 4 to return the forms for their nominees to Beverly Dyer, community service chairman, or Myrtleene Bearden, club president. It is emphasized that individuals may nominate as well as groups. The requirements for being Woman of the Year include having achievements "more people oriented" instead of ones focused just on club work and job performance. Past recipients of the award were: Mrs. John Reid, Mrs. Jack Samples, Mrs. James Mims, Mrs. E.A. Culbertson and Mrs. Jack Glenn. The 1980 winner will be announced at a dinner slated Valentine's Day, Feb. 14. For more information, please call Mrs. Bearden at 684-6901 or Mrs. Dyer at 683-5555.

Elderly thespians take the spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — It was "Some Enchanted Evening" for a group of octogenarians at The Jewish Home and Hospital for Aged when they presented a musical adaptation of "South Pacific" recently. It was the fourth annual show offered by the Kittay House Chorus and Players, whose average age is 86. Kittay House is an apartment residence for 300 self-reliant elderly.

Grass skirts, sailor suits and other costumes were designed by Esther Bialo, 89, who supervised their construction by others in the elderly group.

Nellie Forbush was played by Kittay Hoernig, making her stage debut at the age of 81, and Morris Weiss at 89 resumed his career as a leading man, singing the role of Emile De Becque.

Committees and their members are program, Mrs. Steve Odom and Mrs. Gene Marshall; finance, Mrs. Jack Stanley and Mrs. Bob Warfield; Annual Day, Mrs. Herman King, Mrs. Roy Murphy, Mrs. James Bozzell and Mrs. Bob Connor; scrapbook, Mrs. Henry Anderle; 4-H, Mrs. Ted Triplitt; publicity and club hostess, Mrs. James Lindsey; yearbooks, Mrs. Bob Bell; service, Mrs. Bill Sewell and Mrs. Ted Triplitt; photography, Mrs. George Horst and telephone, Mrs. John Adkinson, Mrs. Jacob Pritchler and Mrs. Henry Anderle. Mrs. Bill Waller was elected council delegate and Mrs. F. C. Stickney was elected as club nominee delegate to the district meeting of extension clubs to be held in April at Monahans. Sharon Hillis, Midland County Extension Agent (home economics) attended the meeting and Mrs. Stickney won the door prize.

The club met again at 9:30 a.m. today in the Fellowship Hall at the Wilshire Park Baptist Church, with Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Marshall serving as hostesses.

DEAR ABBY

Husband's fridge habits frosting her

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about a problem that is perplexing to me. My husband is absolutely perfect in every respect except for one habit that I cannot seem to break him of:

Instead of throwing out empty food containers after he has emptied them, he puts them back in the refrigerator! I can't begin to tell you how many empty cartons, bottles and cans I have found in the refrigerator.

No amount of scolding, pleading or nagging seems to help.

He offers no explanation for this screwball behavior. I think he's too lazy to walk to the trash can on the other side of the kitchen.

Can you, or your readers, offer any kind of a solution so that I can have a perfect husband? — FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You're crying with a loaf of bread under each arm and an empty ketchup bottle in the refrigerator. If a man must have but one flaw in an otherwise flawless character, I can think of none so harmless, inoffensive and easy to forgive as your husband's. Cherish this paragon of virtue. He's a candidate for sainthood!

DEAR ABBY: My problem may be unusual, but no more so than some of your other mail.

I am a mature young woman, and my problem concerns my height. I am 5 foot 4 inches and very slim. I would normally be quite happy with my height, but my dream has always been to be a top-notch fashion model, and I need to be 4 or 5 inches taller to qualify.

Do you know of a doctor who would be willing to give me hormone shots to make me grow? If so, I would also like to know about possible side effects, fees, etc.

I respect your advice, and trust your judgment. — EAST COAST MODEL

DEAR MODEL: I consulted an endocrinologist. He replied, "If she is a normal, healthy, fully-developed young woman, hormone shots would not help. And no ethical physician would treat her with the promise of adding to her height."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are not up on all the social graces, and we want to know what is proper:

When a man and woman are seated and an elderly lady approaches them and introduces herself, are both the man and woman supposed to stand? Or just the man? What if the elderly person were a man? — NO NAMES, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAMES: When an elderly person of either sex approaches a younger couple, both the man and the woman should stand — out of respect to age, not sex.

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to ANGRY IN SAN MATEO, you wrote that "love generates love."

The late Martin Luther King Jr. showed us that hate generates love, too. In his "Stride Toward Freedom" (New York: Harper & Brothers, 1958), he wrote:

"I can only close the gap in broken community by meeting hate with love. If I meet hate with hate, I become depersonalized, because creation is so designed that my personality can only be fulfilled in the context of community... When I love, I restore community..." — ARTHUR H. PRINCE

Are your problems too heavy to carry alone? Unload on Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to Abby in care of this newspaper.

Tejas Garden Club has election of officers

Officers for the Tejas Garden Club were elected at a meeting in the home of Mrs. John P. Williams, 2223 Western St.

New officers are Mrs. J. Keith Somerville, president; Mrs. Richard Stovall, first vice president; Mrs. Joe D. Meroney, second vice president; Mrs. Joe Feagan, reporter-secretary; and Mrs. Harvey Henderson, treasurer. They will be installed at the May meeting.

In business, the club voted to plant a chinaberry tree at the Girl Scout Building, 901 W. Dengar Ave., in observance of Arbor Day.

David Larsen, landscape architect from Tom's

Tree House, spoke on "Landscape Design for the Area." He stressed the importance of maintenance during the winter months. He also gave members ideas to improve yards.

Mrs. Somerville will represent the club at the District I spring meeting in Amarillo March 18-19. She also announced the garden tour will be March 20.

when the club will tour gardens in Fort Stockton.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. John P. Williams and Mrs. J. D. Dillard.

Next meeting is 9:30 a.m. Feb. 7 in the home of Mrs. Harry Krist, 2504 Cuthbert Ave.

The program will be on house plants.

Prince Albert

John Ehrlichman

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Prince Albert of Monaco, one of the world's richest men and most eligible bachelors, rode to school this week on a bus.

The 20-year-old son of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace arrived Monday in New York after spending time with his family in Monaco.

On Tuesday, he left town from the Port Authority Bus Terminal to resume classes at Amherst College in Massachusetts.

While in New York, he stayed with his mother's best friend, Vera Maxwell, who gave him a farewell lunch Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Carter Spann says he's enjoying all the attention he's getting now that he's out of prison — and says he will make the most of it.

President Carter's nephew, who spent 20 of his 33 years in jail or reform school, was paroled Dec. 24 after serving nearly four years for armed robbery. During taping of a segment of ABC's "Good Morning America" program for airing today, Spann said prison offered him security, but he isn't going back.

"I was as locked up as a person could be," he said. "I was kept in a cell 23 hours out of 24, because I am a relative of the president."

But, Spann said, he really enjoys the attention he gets as Carter's nephew. "And I intend to capitalize on it." He said Carter didn't mind if he used his name to earn a living.

LONDON (AP) — As soon as Queen Elizabeth II changes the ancient statutes, Eric Anderson will become the first Scottish headmaster of Eton College, the prestigious 540-year-old prep school.

The school's statutes dictate the headmaster be a member of the Church of England. Anderson is a member of the Church of Scotland.

Anderson, 43, said after his appointment was announced Tuesday that he attends Church of England services 50 Sundays a year and "if you were allowed membership of two churches as you are allowed two credit cards, I would be in the clear."

Eton, for which annual tuition is $7,200, was founded by King Henry VI in 1440. Many prominent Britons — including 26 members of the Conservative government — are "old boys" of Eton, which currently has 1,272 boarding students and a long waiting list.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is accepting bids on a helicopter pad at Key Biscayne, Fla., built in 1969 for then-President Richard Nixon.

The heliport, which has not been used since Nixon left office in August 1974, was built at a cost of $432,173, including $15,000 paid for the site on Biscayne Bay near the former Florida White House.

The General Services Administration announced the sale Tuesday, saying sealed bids would be opened Feb. 20 in Atlanta.

Bids for less than the property's assessed value will not be accepted, but that value will not be disclosed in advance, said GSA.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The State Bar of California has accepted the resignation of John D. Ehrlichman, a former domestic counselor to President Richard Nixon and convicted Watergate conspirator.

Ehrlichman, who had been suspended from law practice in the state since 1975, submitted his resignation as a bar member last Aug. 11, with bar disciplinary charges still pending against him.

He signed a stipulation in November to terminate the bar's disciplinary proceedings unless he should seek reinstatement. Last Friday, his resignation was accepted.

Ehrlichman was convicted in 1975 on charges of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury stemming from the cover-up of the break-in at the Democratic National Headquarters in the Watergate office complex in Washington, D.C.

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Jane Byrne has something in common with President Carter and the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini — she's the target of a Michael McCormack poster, suitable for use as a dart board.

The poster is 17-by-24 inches, and superimposed on Mrs. Byrne's smiling face are five bright red concentric circles. McCormack, vice president of Dale Press, said 10,000 of them are being printed as Chicago's schools grapple for financial security.

"I personally like her," McCormack said. "But we received so many requests for it that we simply didn't have a choice.... A lot of school teachers have called. And some people who lost their city jobs have ordered 10 or 20 of them."

The $2 poster can be used at "target ranges, the bottom of bird cages or as a floor mat," he said. "It is also suitable for framing."

Teamsters win 'round one' in ongoing fight with Aeroflot

By LEE GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — In one corner, a Russian employee of Aeroflot, the Soviet state airline. In the other, a Teamster, member of local 732.

Between them, a portable ticket counter, the prize in a tug-of-war fought at Dulles International Airport outside Washington as passengers checked in Tuesday night for a flight to Moscow.

Who won? "We won," said William Ferchak, the Teamsters representative.

The Russian wound up turning a trash can on end and processing passengers from his makeshift counter.

The scene, hardly typical of what international travelers usually encounter, was another round in the union's continuing battle to disrupt Aeroflot flights into and out of the United States.

Teamsters, Ferchak says, are "frustrated" at the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

So when the Soviet plane landed Tuesday, the Teamsters, working for Pan American World Airways, refused to unload it, handle baggage or ticket passengers. Pan Am normally takes care of such business of Aero-flot's three weekly flights to the United States.

"We told Pan Am management that if they took over, we'd walk out," Ferchak said. "And we said we'd walk off if they used Pan Am equipment."

So Aeroflot employees scrambled to handle the jobs themselves, leading to, among other things, the tug-of-war over the portable ticket counter.

Finally, two hours and 10 minutes late, the Soviet jetliner took off for Moscow, with 20 members of a U.S. boxing team among the passengers.

"We got together and decided to stop these airplanes," Ferchak said of the Teamster action, which was similar to previous work stoppages at New York's Kennedy International Airport.

The delay, Ferchak indicated, is just the beginning.

"We haven't asked others (unions) yet," he said. "But we will reach out and find more ways to pressure them."

He didn't say exactly what would be done when future Aeroflot flights arrive — but he hinted strongly that an expanded boycott could include those who have the crucial job of refueling the big jets.

Panel suggests new wage guides

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel formed to advise President Carter on a new set of voluntary wage guidelines is suggesting a range of 7.5 percent to 9.5 percent — with the expectation that pay raises in 1980 would average about 8.5 percent.

The Pay Advisory Committee adopted its recommendations Tuesday.

The new guidelines, if approved by Carter, would replace a 7 percent guideline adopted by the administration for 1979, the first year of the program.

The proposed new guidelines contain several exemptions allowing employees to win wage increases of more than 10 percent a year and still be considered in compliance with the voluntary program.

Violators of the existing guidelines have been criticized publicly by government officials. Otherwise, the only penalty is possible loss of federal contracts.

Business members on the committee argued for a single 8.5 percent guideline figure. The range, within which individual contracts would be bargained, was adopted in deference to labor members on the board.

"Settlements or wage determinations in the normal circumstances should be expected to average about the midpoint of the range (8.5 percent)," the committee said.

But it noted that increases of less than 7.5 percent might be called for in some instances — based on factors such as industry practices, competition or ability to pay — and that wage increases could exceed 9.5 percent in cases involving "productivity improvements, acute labor shortages, gross inequities or undue hardship."

In addition, workers who receive cost-of-living wage adjustments could obtain increases above 9.5 percent under the new guidelines.

The committee adopted the guidelines on the assumption that inflation in 1980 would at the least show no worsening from the 13 percent rate in 1979. If the inflationary outlook changes, the committee said it would make additional proposals "as appropriate."

Meanwhile, two of the nation's top financial advisers said Tuesday that mandatory wage and price controls would not work to end inflation in the long run.

"I really do not think they are helpful in the

Harris County pay hikes don't match guidelines

HOUSTON (AP) — Ignoring federal guidelines, Harris County Commissioners Court members have granted county employees a $7.8 million, 12 percent pay increase that will take effect March 1st.

"Last year we didn't give county employees nearly enough of a pay increase to keep up with the cost of living," Harris County Commissioner Bob Eckels said Tuesday.

"This year we are attempting to make amends," Eckels said.

About 600 county employees had asked for a 15 percent pay increase this year or $150 per month, which ever was higher. Employees received a 7 percent pay hike last year.

situation we have now or foresee," said Paul A. Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

"We don't have the authority," said Alfred Kahn, President Carter's chief anti-inflation adviser. "They don't really solve the problem."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Children need good breakfasts

Dear Dr. Solomon: My grade school son refuses to eat a good breakfast. How important is a good breakfast and do you have any good tips on what I could give him? — Mrs. A.G.

Dear Mrs. A.G.: A good breakfast gives your child the get-up and go to start the school day. It's the first chance the body has to "refuel" for the day. And it's hard for anyone to concentrate when hungry.

If your child has a nourishing breakfast, he or she is more likely to be alert throughout the morning.

Wake up appetites! Instead of traditional breakfast foods, wake up morning appetites by trying a wider variety of wholesome foods. For example: For a main dish on a hot day serve cottage cheese and fruit. On a cold day, try a cup of hot soup made with low-fat milk.

With breakfast, you can get a good start by including foods from the basic four food groups. Here are just some examples of the variety of choices available:

1 — Fruit-vegetable — Fresh or frozen unsweetened fruit such as oranges, grapefruit, strawberries, melons, cantaloupes; fruit salad; sweet potatoes, and 100 percent grapefruit, orange or tomato juice.

2 — Bread-cereal — Use whole-grain, enriched or fortified products — bread, toast, rolls, dry cereal, English muffins, hot cereals like oatmeal, bran muffins, French toast, pancakes.

3 — Milk — Low-fat or skim milk, or milk substitutes such as low-fat yogurt, low-fat cottage cheese, low-fat milk-based soup, low-fat frozen yogurt, low-fat yogurt or low-fat cottage cheese with vegetables and fruits; dairy and grain combinations such as cereal and milk.

4 — Poultry-fish-meat — Poultry without skin, fish, lean meat; or vegetable protein dishes like cooked dried beans; peanut butter. Remember only two daily servings from this group are recommended.

Rushed in the morning? Get a head start the night before — set the breakfast table and make the orange juice or other breakfast foods. Try making finger foods such as peanut butter sandwiches. Or set aside leftovers for breakfast — chicken drumsticks, stewed fruits, fruit cup or milk-based soups.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Why are vegetable gums added by food processors to many products? Are they a health hazard? — Lee.

Dear Lee: Vegetable gums are used as thickeners and stabilizers to produce a uniform texture in foods and improve their appearance. They work by absorbing water, and they prevent evaporation and deterioration of other ingredients, such as are used in cakes and puddings.

Some vegetable gums do have the potential for causing allergic reactions in susceptible people. However, for most people they pose no apparent hazard.

Most stabilizers and thickeners are natural carbohydrates. Gelatin and pectin are two which are commonly used in the home, as well as in commercial food processing. Gelatin is made from the bones and other parts of animals, and pectin — which is added to jams and jellies — is made from citrus rind.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Which has more fat, granola or corn flakes? — Mrs. G.M.

Dear Mrs. G.M.: Granolas contain a lot of fat compared to other cereals like corn flakes.

Other nutritious foods like milk and fruits. Whichever cereal you choose, serve it with low-fat or skim milk. This cuts down on fat without losing other nutrients found in whole milk.

Cabbie loses mayoral bid

DALLAS (AP) — Cab driver Tom Gibbons was not elected mayor of Dallas, which is not particularly surprising since his campaign slogan was: "I don't want to win."

Gibbons invested very little time and almost no money for the election Saturday against incumbent Bob Folsom.

He still polled nearly 25 percent of the vote, surprising considering his background — which included no politics and several arrests for commercial obscenity charges.

"Most of my votes are anti-Folsom votes, rather than pro-Gibbons votes," he admitted.

Gibbons' campaign, he said, was to be a forum for airing his complaints about the judicial system.

Before he drove a cab, Gibbons worked for some Dallas peep shows and adult book stores. His arrests and convictions in connection with those activities raised his anger about the justice system.

He admits he was angry the day he filed to run against Folsom, but not angry enough to want to be mayor.

"Maybe, just maybe, if I hadn't said in the beginning I didn't want to win, I could have gotten more votes," he said, adding, "I still don't think it (a victory) would have been right. I just didn't have the confidence I could handle the job."

Mexican praises Clements for his oil spill position

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Alfonso Martinez Dominguez of Nuevo Leon, Mexico, says Gov. Bill Clements established himself as a "good friend of our country" by refusing to blame Mexico for the offshore oil spill last year.

Clements said Martinez Dominguez's trip here Tuesday — the first state visit by a governor of Nuevo Leon to Texas — would be followed by visits by the governors of three other northern Mexican states.

Clements visited the four states — Nuevo Leon, Coahuila, Tamaulipas and Chihuahua — in 1979.

"We will have other visits in the not distant future and on a continuing basis," Clements told a news conference.

He added that Martinez Dominguez would come to Texas again soon to look at recreational and amusement areas.

The news conference at the Lorenzo de Zavala State Archives and Library Building climaxed a day in which the two governors toured the Capitol and the Lyndon B. Johnson Library, ate lunch on the University of Texas campus and met privately for about an hour.

In welcoming ceremonies in the Senate chamber, Clements said he hoped the meeting would show Washington how to treat foreign neighbors as equals.

Martinez Dominguez responded by stating he would never forget that Clements had stood by Mexico during the outcry over the Mexican oil spill that flowed onto Texas beaches.

Clements proclaimed Tuesday as "Texas-Nuevo Leon Friendship Day," and Martinez Dominguez said he would see that a similar resolution is adopted in his state.

A 19-gun salute and standing ovation from some 500 spectators greeted Martinez Dominguez's arrival.

Young children waved small Mexican flags from the balcony, and the Mexican governor waved back.

"I am hopeful that these meetings and discussions between the people of Texas and the people of Mexico will serve as an example to our leadership in Washington of the need and benefits of dealing with our neighbors in a setting of respect and equality," said Clements in a speech translated into Spanish.

"Our two great nations have shared a border for many years, but that is no longer enough in this turbulent world of ours," said Clements. "We must also share a respect for each other as equals and we must work to strengthen each other and to strengthen our bonds, for such bonds will serve both nations well and provide both with a brighter future."

In a speech translated into English, Martinez Dominguez said Mexico had "recovered from the economic crisis we went through some years ago" and would try to double its industrial capacity within the next decade. Nuevo Leon will reach that goal within six years, he said.

The Mexican governor said he would "never forget" that when "many voices condemned our country" because of the Bay of Campeche oil spill in June "the voice of Gov. Clements arose and was heard and stated his friendship."

At the news conference, Martinez Dominguez was asked what impact Clements' refusal to blame Mexico for the oil spill had had in Mexico.

Martinez Dominguez described the spill as an accident that might have occurred anywhere and said Mexicans thought Clements' "understanding and friendly voice... his great common sense... was a sign of friendship... The impact in Mexico has been favorable, and we consider Gov. Clements a good friend of our country."

Last year Clements repeatedly rejected the idea of the United States suing Mexico for property damages because of the oil spill. He helped start the firm whose leased oil-drilling platform was involved in the spill.

Clements told the news conference direct communication had been opened between the state agencies of Texas and Nuevo Leon in the areas of culture, travel, communications and agriculture.

Press Secretary Jon Ford said Clements also had agreed to transport deer from the Hill Country to replenish herds in Nuevo Leon.

Asked about possible economic aid to Nuevo Leon, Martinez Dominguez said his state had not requested such aid.

He said, however, Mexico wanted to buy "a great amount" of grain from the United States because a drought in 1979 had reduced Mexico's supplies by 25 percent.

Asked about a possible international bridge connecting Colombia, Nuevo Leon and Texas, Clements said, "I favor any kind of communication between Mexico and the United States that will further the liaison between our states."

He said from Brownsville to El Paso, "we have more than one need in this regard... I've made it known to everyone who will sit still and listen."

Martinez Dominguez said "we are working towards" such a crossing.

Asked if he had any proposals regarding illegal aliens entering the United States from Mexico, Clements said he and three other border state governors had agreed "it is wrong for the traffic in illegal aliens to continue."

Mexican workers crossing the border "should be documented," Clements said, "and given a proper work visa" that would enable them "to be legal and totally mobile."

The two governors exchanged gifts at their luncheon, with Martinez Dominguez giving Clements a black leather saddle and whip and Clements giving the Mexican governor a portrait of a steer.

Looking at the whip, Clements quipped, "He (Martinez Dominguez) is more sensitive to my problems than I thought. It's symbolic of how I'll have to ride the Legislature into shape."

Less pork, chicken for Russians

Partially because of grain embargo, Carter says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration says there will be less pork and chicken on Russian tables this year because of the partial U.S. grain embargo, but some senators think American farmers will be hurt the most of all.

"As far as I'm concerned the president pulled out his six-shooter and shot the American farmer in the foot and said, 'Russia, take that,'" Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, said Tuesday.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., added, "I don't think (Soviet Premier Leonid) Brezhnev or the military commanders will go hungry. The embargo punishes the wrong people."

But Carter administration spokesmen defended the embargo Tuesday before the Senate Agriculture Committee and a Banking subcommittee on international finance.

And in a report to Congress, President Carter said the embargo will cause "a significant reduction in USSR meat production."

"The restrictions can reasonably be expected to bring home to the Soviet leaders that they cannot act as they have in Afghanistan without paying a significant price," Carter said.

He said the embargo of 17 million metric tons of wheat and corn will bring about "a major reduction in the availability of livestock feed" in the USSR and that, in turn, will lead to the cut in Soviet meat supplies.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland predicted there will be chicken shortages in the Soviet Union by the spring and pork shortages by summer.

Also, he said "our guess is they will not reduce their cattle herd" in order to provide more beef in the short run. He said the administration anticipates the Russians will have to dip into reserve grain supplies to feed pigs and chickens.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., chairman of the banking subcommittee, said the embargo was hastily imposed. Stevenson said he was worried that other nations will make up the missing grain supplies. He said the next move the U.S. could then make would be more embargoes against those unidentified nations, which would lead to further problems in the American economy.

Commerce Secretary Philip M. Klutznick and Bergland maintained that American allies are cooperating with the trade reduction and won't sell more corn, wheat or substitute products to the Russians.

Without providing specifics, Klutznick said the U.S. "will take appropriate measures" against nations that step up grain exports to the USSR.

The administration received backing from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who noted President Carter's 2-1 defeat of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in Monday's Democratic Party caucus in Iowa, a major farm state.

"The president won a smashing victory, even bigger than expected," he said to McGovern, who testified against the embargo.

McGovern answered by saying "farmers tend to rally around the president in an international crisis."

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., a loser in the Iowa Republican caucuses and an embargo opponent, also noted the Iowa vote.

"The voters in Iowa expressed support for the embargo, as I understand it," he said. But he also urged the administration to do more to protect the farmers, arguing that they are bearing most of the burden of U.S. retaliation against the Soviet Union.

Carter announced on Jan. 4 the embargo of 17 million metric tons of U.S. corn and wheat that the Soviets were to get this year. But he allowed a shipment of 8 million tons under a 1975 agreement.

Congress has 30 days to exercise a veto over presidential export controls. But there was practically no mention of that idea as Congress reconvened Tuesday.

Instead, embargo critics said they want to ensure that farmers don't suffer and that the embargo's impact isn't wiped out by added exports from other nations.

It is expected to cost taxpayers more than $3 billion to pay for loans to farmers and to buy up the grain that was ticketed for the Soviet Union.

Richard Gilmore of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace testified that the money may prove to be windfall for a handful of grain exporting companies holding contracts for sales to Russia. "It will be virtually impossible to avoid rewarding some companies which least deserve it," he said.

His tongue led to his arrest

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — A man hospitalized because part of his tongue was severed has been charged in connection with an attack on a 74-year-old woman, who told authorities she bit off a large chunk of her attacker's tongue.

Robert E. Richards, 24, of East St. Louis, was charged Monday with home invasion and attempted rape. Authorities said he remained in Community Hospital in good condition Tuesday.

Judy Cates, assistant St. Clair County state's attorney, said the victim told authorities the man broke into her house over the weekend and attempted to rape her at knife-point.

The attacker tried to kiss his victim but fled after she bit off part of his tongue, Mrs. Cates said.

The victim placed the severed piece of tongue in a napkin and gave it to police. They reported that surgeons reattached it after Richards reported to the hospital later Saturday.

Wanted to be with dad

GARLAND (AP) — Ten-year-old Michael David Miller said he was lonely and longed to be with his father.

Tuesday he turned on a tape recorder at his home, told of his loneliness and desire to be with his father.

Authorities said the boy then took the same pistol his father had used to take his own life less than two years ago and shot himself in the head.

Robert Miller, 35, the boy's father, used the Debate looms in House on 200 water schemes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $4.3 billion smorgasbord of water projects before the House offers everything from an attempt to defeat ice on the Great Lakes to a project that would move the water intake pipe at Springfield, S.D.

The bill authorizes almost 200 projects, many of them backed by individual congressmen and opposed by conservation groups.

But while environmentalists, including Congress' Environmental Study Conference, concede the bill will win final passage, they promise to debate how the list was drawn.

One congressman, Rep. Robert W. Edgar, D Pa., filed 184 proposed amendments and threatened to bring them up one-by-one on the floor. The Carter administration told House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Tuesday that the bill likely faces a veto if passed in its present form.

The bill was scheduled to reach the House floor this afternoon. Because of the president's State of the Union address tonight, final action was not expected until at least Thursday.

The measure authorizes construction projects around the nation for such things as flood control, improved harbor navigation and shore erosion controls. Including feasibility studies and updates of earlier projects, there are almost 200 separate items, which the Congressional Budget Office estimates will cost $4.3 billion.

Now Tennessee authorities planning to encourage stills

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — What Tennessee has tried to discourage for years — stills in farmers' back yards — would be encouraged in the interest of gasohol production by legislation approved by a House committee.

Under the proposal, Dickson gasohol promoter Don Hall said, farmers could fire up their stills and their product, 150-proof alcohol, could be picked up "like a milk route."

Hall, who says he has a federal gasohol permit, said he could run the farmers' alcohol through an anhydrous distillery to make it 200-proof. It then could be mixed with gasoline to make gasohol, a mixture of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline, to fuel cars designed for unleaded gasoline.

The committee approved legislation by Rep. Shelby Rhinehart, D-Spencer, to allow farmers to set up registered stills. The location of the still would be listed with the county clerk and the farmer must color the alcohol as soon as it is distilled.

Unlike other gasohol bills before the Legislature, including one proposed by Gov. Lamar Alexander, no fee would be charged. "It's intended, I hope, as a pilot project for the farmer in Tennessee to get into gasohol production," Rhinehart said.

RINGING THE BELL

With BOB TIEUEL

We would like to take this means of thanking our bellringers who for a number of years have been with this column through the pages of the West Texas Times, a black-oriented newspaper published in Lubbock for nearly 20 years. The West Texas Times has closed its doors forever and the publisher, Norman Williamson, told me the other day that he felt that "I have paid my dues," and that he wished to thank all of those who supported our efforts during "our years of publication."

Our new bellringer club in Lubbock now will originate in the offices of The Lubbock Digest, a black-owned and operated newspaper that has been going strong for three years and located at 510 East 23rd Street in Lubbock. The publisher-editors are T. J. Patterson and Eddie P. Richardson. And those of you who have time left on your subscription, we will give you The Digest for the remainder of your subscription time.

THE CONGRESSIONAL (U.S.) Black Caucus recently announced that guidelines would be used throughout black America to measure all presidential candidates but that the caucus would not endorse any particular candidate. This should be good news for Republicans over the nation. The caucus also called on candidates to support:

- (a) A program to increase the number of blacks in the federal work force, particularly in the higher Civil Service levels;
- (b) Full funding of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program;
- (c) An expansion of government housing programs for low- and moderate-income families and the elderly and handicapped;
- (d) Legislation to honor the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. with a national holiday, and
- (e) Increased economic assistance to African countries.

DEAR BOB: The plight of the private church-related college grows darker every day. The other day Bob McKittrick of the Lone Star Gas Co. of Dallas said Bishop College owed more than $300,000 in water, light and gas bills and that if HEW does not fund the college, Bishop is through. And there are others facing like problems. What can we do? Is there a way out? — Mrs. T.H. of Dallas.

To Mrs. T.H.: Watch for our reply here soon. Bob.

FOOTNOTE: We urge all black churches, organizations or individuals who are planning observances this year of Black History Month (February) to send us details at once so we can put it on our calendar. February is also Brotherhood Month, sponsored each year by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. As in past years, this department will donate to a number of libraries in the Permian Basin literature and information on the contributions of the American black to our culture.

College enrollment drop predicted

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — College enrollment will shrink 5 to 15 percent during the next two decades, producing a "Golden Age" for students as colleges scramble to attract them and tailor courses to their tastes, the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education predicted Tuesday.

While faculty and administrators struggle to cope with the "demographic depression" of the youths of traditional college age, students "will seldom if ever have had it so good on campus," the council said. "The difficulties of others can only redound to their advantage. This may well become their Golden Age."

The council said it was "quite likely that the nation's 3,000 colleges and universities would suffer a downward drift in quality, balance, integrity, dynamism, diversity, private initiative and research capability."

But the panel said that was not inevitable and it discounted the fears of some educators that the 1980s and 1990s will be "a dark age" for higher education.

"Becoming somewhat smaller is, we believe, compatible with becoming ing somewhat better," said the council in its final report entitled "Three Thousand Futures: The Next Twenty Years in Higher Education."

"No demographic disease of epidemic proportions will sweep over all higher education during the next 20 years," said the report. The disease "will be selective; some institutions will die from it; nearly all will be affected by it...and all will need to take some precautions."

The council, chaired by Clark Kerr, is winding up its business after issuing more than 100 reports on higher education since 1967 under its aegis and through a predecessor group, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education. Its work will be continued by a related group, the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Census Bureau figures show the number of 18-to-24-year-olds will fall 23 percent by 1997. But the council forecast that drop will be cushioned by increasing college enrollment of adults, women and minorities, and a lowering of the 40 percent college dropout rate.

It said college enrollment actually is likely to grow 10 percent in the Southwest and West and 5 percent in the South, while falling 10 percent in the East and Midwest.

Students will be "more nearly the center of attention on campus during the next 20 years than in the past 10," it said.

"They will be recruited more actively, admitted more readily, retained more assiduously, counseled more attentively, graded more conscientiously, placed in jobs more insistently, and the curriculum will be more tailored to their tastes."

Aggies defeat Hogs, claim 1st in SWC chase

By CHARLES RICHARDS
AP Sports Writer

Texas A&M stands alone at the top of the Southwest Conference basketball race, and by Coach Shelby Metcalf's standards, the Aggies are standing pretty tall.

"This may be our best team ever, defensively," Metcalf said after his team put away Arkansas, 45-39, Tuesday night to claim sole possession of first place in the SWC race.

"But it's too early to say who's going to win it. This is not the Iowa caucus," Metcalf said. "Our defense is carrying us right now."

In other games Tuesday night, Texas Christian surprised Houston 71-69 and Southern Methodist escaped Rice, 85-83.

Texas A&M led Arkansas most of the game. But the Aggies committed four turnovers, allowing the Razorbacks to fight back from a 24-20 halftime deficit to tie the game and finally take a four-point lead.

But with his team leading 35-32, Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton got too vocal in protesting the officiating, and A&M closed the gap to 35-34 on a pair of free throws on the technical midway through the second half.

The Aggies got the ball out of bounds after the free throws, and Vernon Smith scored after a rebound to put Texas A&M ahead to stay.

After getting a couple of more free throws, the Aggies went into a four-corner stall with 7½ minutes to play. Arkansas guard Scott Hastings fouled out, and the Aggies cruised in for the win.

TCU's victory over Houston was the first time in four seasons the Horned Frogs have pulled off back-to-back SWC wins. In beating SMU Saturday, TCU won its first road game of any kind since 1976.

"I'd be in the wrong profession if I didn't think it was because of good coaching," Houston coach Guy Lewis said in praise of TCU's Jim Killingsworth.

Deckery Johnson got the winning basket for the Horned Frogs when Larry Micheaux was called for goaltending on his layup with 43 seconds to play. Trailing 70-69, Houston stalled the next 40 seconds but missed its final shot, and TCU made a free throw to wrap up the triumph.

SMU, whose head coach Sonny Allen is under fire for the team's mediocre performance, came from behind at the end to nip Rice.

Brad Branson won it with a turnaround jumper from the free throw line with 6 seconds to go, but was almost the goat. SMU had the ball and an 82-81 lead with 12 seconds to go, but Branson signaled for a time out when the Mustangs had trouble getting the ball thrown in bounds.

Texas, after trailing by 10 early in the second half, took a 38-36 lead with 10 minutes to play. But freshman Jay Shakir came off the bench to trigger a second-half rally that put Baylor ahead again to stay. Shakir hit 10 of his 14 points down the stretch as Baylor pulled away.

Fisher scores 31, but Rebels lose

ABILENE — The Abilene Eagles overcame a 31-point performance by Midland Lee's Tim Fisher here Tuesday night to post a 72-67 victory over the Rebels in a District 5-4A basketball game.

The victory for the Warbirds evens their 5-4A record at 3-3, the same as Lee and the Rebels are now 13-11 on the season going into their big showdown with the Midland Bulldogs Friday night in Chaparral Center.

Besides Fisher's 31 points, teammate Tim Walker chipped in with 10 more points for Coach Paul Stueckler's crew.

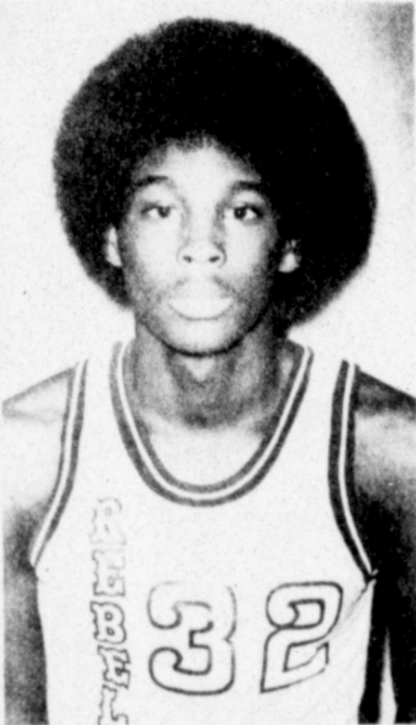

Adam Burch and Jeff Hof led Abilene's attack with 18 and 14 points as Lee took a first period lead of 15-12. It was 30-29 in favor of Abilene at half-time and 49-45 going into the final period in the Key City team's favor.

In the junior varsity game, Lee took a 72-51 victory over Abilene's JVs with Randy Pepper, Darius Barry and Alvin Dunson leading the attack with 14, 16 and 11 markers. Ken Brown was just out of the double figures for Lee with eight points.

Boilermaker back suspended

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — David A. Hill, a junior defensive back, was suspended from the Purdue football team because he lacked the required number of academic hours, school officials announced Tuesday.

But Purdue President Arthur G. Hansen said Hill, of Pasadena, Calif., had no knowledge of documents which falsified his academic record. Hansen added the school had been victimized.

Hansen said erroneous academic records submitted to Purdue before Hill enrolled indicated he had received academic credits for courses Hill said he had not attended.

The contents of these documents were apparently unknown to Hill, as well as to any member of the Purdue administration, Hansen said.

"At this point it would appear Purdue as well as the Big Ten has been victimized by some unknown person or persons," Hansen said.

Pack foils Coog stall

Midland, Permian tied for first in 5-4A

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

The Cougars stalled, but the Bulldogs played it cool and calm.

Coach Jack Stephenson's Purple Pack kept pace with Odessa Permian in the first half of the boys District 5-4A basketball race Tuesday night in taking a 40-32 victory over stalling Abilene Cooper in the Chaparral Center.

While Midland was winning its fifth 5-4A game against one loss, so was Permian in turning back the San Angelo Central Bobcats, 85-65 in Odessa.

Midland and Permian share the first half lead with the finales coming Friday night when the Pack takes on Midland Lee's Rebels and the Black Cats battle Odessa High's Bronchos.

COOPER CAME into Midland minus their 6-foot-10 senior center Woody Martin who was dismissed from the team by Coach Marc Case.

"It was something I had to do since he had no discipline and it is a shame, because of his great potential. Woody just had not played as well as he did for me two years ago when he was a sophomore," Martin transferred to Abilene Christian High School last year and was again approved to play in 5-4A by the District Committee back in August.

With Martin gone, Cooper decided to go to the stall and it paid off for three quarters before the poised Bulldogs pulled out the victory. It was 14-14 at the end of the first period and Midland took a halftime lead of 22-20 and when both teams only scored two points each in the third period, the score was 24-22 in favor of the defending 5-4A champions going into the final eight minutes.

Cooper held on to the ball for nearly three minutes after Anthony Carroll hit a key basket with 5:42 left in the third period to give the Pack a 24-20 lead, but Ken Henry, who tallied 14 points for the Cougs, hit a shot with three seconds left to trim the lead to two points after three quarters.

MIDLAND TOOK a 26-22 lead when Darrin Matlock, who had 12 big points, hit a basket with 6:32 left in the game. The Cougs cut the lead to two again — 26-24 on a bucket by Reggie Cruse, but the Pack came up with four unanswered points for a 30-24 advantage with 4:28 left on baskets by Matlock and Johnson.

It was Johnson's slam-dunk with 3:36 left that seemed to do in the Cougars for a 32-26 MHS lead as the crowd went wild. The 6-9 junior drove down the middle, getting away from 6-5 Alvin Jenkins for his patent slammer and this turned the momentum.

And after Johnson's big basket, Henry missed a pair of free throws and with this, the crowd sensed that the Pack was going to win its 23rd game of the season in 28 outings.

Carroll calmly hit a pair of free throws for a 34-26 lead and then Perry Bolger also cashed in at the charity line for a pair of points and a commanding 36-26 lead with 2:12 left.

That seemed to do it as all the closer the Key City team was going to come after that was the eight-point deficit. The loss gives Cooper a 3-3 5-4A mark in the first half and an overall season record of 11-9 going into its game with Abilene Friday night.

Johnson poured in 14 points for Midland coupled with Matlock's 12 points and his best performance of the season while Henry was the only Cougar in double digits with his 14 markers.

MIDLAND'S BULLPUPS also won, beating the Cooper junior varsity, 74-65 in the preliminary contest. Mike Velasco and Preston Robertson fired in 14 points each while Don Sharnowski added 12 more to give the Pups a 24-3 season record under Coach Eddie Shirley.

MIDLAND (40) — Johnson 7-0-14; Bolger 0-5-15; Matlock 4-4-12; Carroll 1-4-4; Hickey 1-1-4; Mackey 0-0-0. Totals: 13-14-40.

COOPER (32) — Henry 5-4-14; Stuard 2-2-5-6; Williams 0-0-2-0; Cruse 3-0-1-6; Houston 0-0-1-0; Miers 1-1-4; Jenkins 1-0-1-2. Totals: 12-8-15-22.

Without Martin, Cooper goes to stall

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

As everyone knows by now, Abilene Cooper's 6-10 Woody Martin is no longer with the Cougars as a basketball player. Cooper coach Marc Case made a decision earlier this week to give Martin his walking papers.

Some say that either Case or Martin had to go, and we all know who wins out in a situation like that.

And with the decision, the Cooper Cougars marched into Chaparral Center Tuesday having to face a powerful Midland High team without their quote, "star". Teams are supposed to shiver with fear when Martin's name is mentioned.

What happened at Chap Center Tuesday was almost predictable. The Cougs went into the old stall game from the first tick of the clock. And the game was brought out the largest show of emotion yet generated this season in District 5-4A. The fans went wild. If the stall is supposed to be dull and boring, you would have a hard time proving it from the fan reaction Tuesday.

In short, Cooper was outmanned from the beginning and they knew it. Case is no dummy.

Midland High won the game 40-32.

"We had to play the type of game we felt we could best win with," Case said. "It's really that simple. After the turmoil of the past week (the Martin dismissal), we knew we couldn't come to Midland and run with them. Our kids are down a bit and we just couldn't afford to get blown out of the gym. We have Abilene High Friday and this was a road game and we are still facing the second half of the season. It was important for us to do well.

"I know I can never run for mayor of Midland after that game," Case joked. "Midland High's crowd helped them. The fans stayed with them and it was a hostile crowd for us. I thought my kids played well under the circumstances. We didn't win, so I guess you can say the stall didn't work. Still, I hope this helps our kids. We didn't get blown away. We had to do something to keep our morale up, and I've never had any political ambitions anyway."

Midland High coach Jack Stephenson was not caught completely off guard by the stall tactic used by the Cougars.

"I think our kids are pretty well prepared for anything when a game begins," Stephenson noted. "But when we learned today (Tuesday) that Martin wasn't going to play, it hit me that they might pull a stall game. So we visited with our kids before the game and worked on it some."

"A good stall game is hard to play against, but I think our kids handled the situation well. The important thing to me in the game was that when we really needed a basket, someone stuck it in the hole."

"One thing we have going for us this year is that we don't have anyone on our team that the opposition can sluff off on. Everyone can score when they have to. I think we showed that against Cooper. This was a big win for us."

District 5-4A basketball seems to be one continuous string of surprises, but this is one surprise that the Bulldog players hope they don't see again.

Guard Pat Hickey said, "Coach (Stephenson) said they might pull something like that, but I didn't like it. I don't like to play a game that way."

Post Anthony Carroll stated, "We like to run and make things happen. That stall stuff drives you crazy because it's too slow."

But it must be noted that the fans really got into this one and that made it all worthwhile. Anything goes in District 5-4A basketball, and it must mean war because there isn't much love.

Wenzel claims 2nd slalom race

MARIBOR, Yugoslavia (AP) — Liechtenstein's Hanni Wenzel won her second slalom race of the season today to surge ahead in the World Cup standings with 282 points.

Her times for the two heats were 40:92 and 37:19 for a total of 78.11 seconds — the two fastest runs of the day. Wenzel has won the two previous slaloms here.

Perrine Pelen of France was second and Austria's Annemarie Moser-Proell took third.

Pelen clocked a total time of 78.73, while Moser-Proell finished at 78.98.

Moser-Proell now trails Wenzel by 42 points in the World Cup standings. Switzerland's Marie-Theres Nadig is third at 170 and Pelen is fourth with 163.

Nadig does not compete in slalom races and therefore has practically given up her chances to be a serious competitor for the World Cup.

Abigail Fisher of South Conway, N.H., was fourth with 79.28.

Switzerland's Erika Hess was sixth with 79.34.

Ray Meyer bemoans lack luster play of No. 1 DePaul

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

"We played our usual game," said DePaul Coach Ray Meyer. "We get up on somebody and then die."
And still win ... and win ... and win.

The nation's only unbeaten major college basketball team made it 16 in a row Tuesday night but, like most games for the Blue Demons since they became No.1 last week, it wasn't easy.

This time, Mark Aguirre scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead DePaul to a 57-54 road victory over Alabama-Birmingham. The Blue Demons stretched a 23-22 half-time lead to 15 points midway through the second half but UAB chopped it to 48-46 with 4:34 remaining. It was 54-52 with 35 seconds left before DePaul wrapped it up on a free throw by James Mitchem and two by Aguirre.

DEPAUL WAS ONE of only three teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty to see action Tuesday night. The others had it much easier — seventh-ranked Louisville trimming Marquette 76-63 and No.9 St. John's, N.Y., whipping Manhattan 88-64.

For a team that received all 57 first-place votes in this week's AP poll, DePaul isn't making any big claims. Just the opposite, in fact. After all, since becoming No.1 the Blue Demons have beaten Lamar by two points, Maine by 14, Louisiana State by five and UAB by three.

"When we had to play, we played," Meyer said. "We're still not a great team and I don't know how long we are going to be in this lofty position because we're going to lose eventually. Right now we're toying with fate."

Nah, never in doubt, said Aguirre. "We were never concerned when it got close because we knew we could play when we had to play," he said. "I never felt the pressure, even when they cut the lead to two points. We knew we had to come through and we did."

Louisville Coach Denny Crum won his 200th game when the Cardinals, paced by Darrell Griffith's 23 points, pulled away from stubborn Marquette in the final eight minutes to notch their 14th triumph in 16 starts.

Marquette led 41-40 with 12:24 left but Pancho Wright put Louisville in front with an 18-footer from the corner and baskets by Rodney McCray and Wright made it 46-41. It was all downhill after that.

"Basketball is a game of spurts and the right one came along for us tonight," Crum said. "We made a lot of silly errors, but we didn't lose our poise when the going got rough."

Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds said Louisville had "more poise and more balance" than last year's club.

WAYNE MCKOY triggered a game-opening 15-4 burst with seven points and St. John's breezed past Manhattan for its 13th consecutive victory and 15th in 16 games. The Redmen opened a 29-11 bulge en route to a 43-29 halftime lead as McKoy scored 13 of his 17 points before the intermission.

"We played good defense in the opening part of the first half and then let up a little," said Coach Lou Carne-secca. "Then we came back and played well in all aspects of the game in the second half. It was the type of game that enabled us to work on the things that got us this far."

Elsewhere, Daryl Moreau scored 27 points on 11-of-12 shooting from the floor to lead Tulane past Southwestern of Memphis 87-82. Eddie Lee got 18 of his 20 points in the second half as Cincinnati trounced St. Louis 71-57. Pop Wright scored 32 points and Lewis Lloyd added 29 as Drake outlasted West Texas State 112-105 in a Missouri Valley Conference game and

Fan dies at game

NEW YORK (AP)—The father of a St. John's University professor was pronounced dead on arrival at Queens General Hospital after suffering a heart attack prior to the start of the St. John's-Manhattan game Tuesday night.

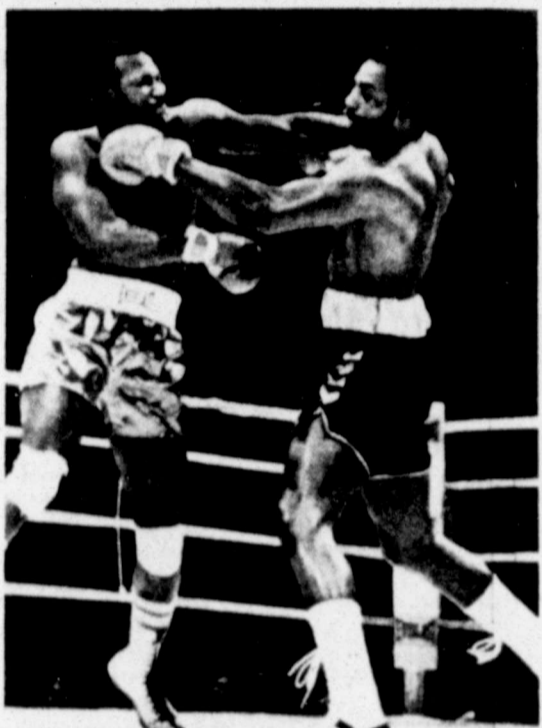

James Hannam, 78, was attended to by the student trainer of the Manhattan team and a doctor who was attending the game before being removed from Alumni Hall by a paramedic team.

Sunday's Super Bowl game on CBS was seen by 35,330,000 American homes — the most ever for any television show — Nielsen's preliminary estimates indicated. According to the Nielsen figures, the game had a rating of 46.3 and a share of 67. That means 46.3 of all American households watched the game and two-thirds of the sets in use were tuned to Super Bowl XIV. The game ranked behind Super Bowl XII (47.2) and XIII (47.1) and was the seventh highest show of all time. Super Bowl XII between Dallas and Denver in 1978 had the highest rating — but there were fewer TV homes then, which explains how this year's game could have been seen in more homes than any other show...

Permian, OHS post wins

Odessa Permian and Odessa posted District 5-4A basketball victories Tuesday night as the Panthers gunned down San Angelo, 85-65, and OHS took a narrow 48-44 victory over the hapless Big Spring Steers.

Owls, Devils, Ponies capture basketball wins

Reagan County, Rankin and Andrews took basketball victories Tuesday night as several area games were postponed due to bad weather conditions on the highways.

Reagan took a 39-28 victory over Wall and Andrews chalked up its 23rd victory of the season against two losses with a 71-62 non-district victory over the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes.

Donald Williams was the only Owl in double figures with 16 points as Reagan was bringing its season record to 18-5 and district mark to 4-0, according to Coach Barry Voss.

Andrews was sparked by Jerry Alinez who flipped in 21 points while Pepe Lucio was high for the Tors with 22. Lamesa is now 14-6 on the year.

Rozelle fines Bud Grant

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — According to a report in the Minneapolis Tribune, Minnesota Vikings Coach Bud Grant has been fined $2,000 by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle for his remarks following the Vikings' game with the New York Jets last fall.

Grant complained to the New York media after the nationally televised 14-7 loss that an official had used vulgar language to Minnesota players on the bench.

"The fine ... was for making a statement after the New York Jets game (Oct. 15) that the officials swore at our bench," Grant told columnist Sid Hartman. "Beyond that, I don't have anything to say."

Permian shares first place with Midland High in the race with a 5-1 reading and Mojo got good scoring punch out of Brad Kerley, Scott Wynne, Duane Adams and B.D. Massey. Kerley, the league's leading scorer, connected for 28 points while Wynne added 24. Adams and Massey followed with 16 and 10 as the Panthers were bringing their season record to 16-7.

Charles Bishop led the Bobcats with 26 points. Junior Cobos, Mike Cobb and Rayford Wright led the Bronchos with 15, 11 and 10 points, respectively as they were handing the Steers their sixth 5-4 loss in a row. Big gun for the Steers was James Doss with 13 points.

Permian (65) — Massey 5-10, Leonard 1-02, Mac Donald 1-02, Wigley 1-12, Kerley 9-10-28, Adams 7-2-16, Wynne 9-4-21. Totals: 23-19-45.

Flyers' rookie suspicious of mates

By The Associated Press
The stories are legend. Never let a hockey player fall asleep on a plane; he'll wake up with his head covered with shaving cream ... or his tie cut in half ... or his shoes stolen and filled with an airline meal or two.

Philadelphia goalie Pete Peeters, though a rookie, has heard these tales. So he wasn't taking anyone's word for it when word came to the Flyers' dressing room he had been named to play for the Campbell Conference team in the National Hockey League All-Star game.

"Some of the players wanted to shake my hand," he said Tuesday night. "They wanted to celebrate my being selected to the all-star team. But I wouldn't shake, because they are always pulling tricks. I thought they were pulling my leg."

They weren't, and neither were the members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association panel that voted Peeters to the team. Counting Tuesday night's 3-1 triumph over the St. Louis Blues, the 22-year-old Peeters is unbeaten in his 22 lifetime NHL games, with 17 victories and five ties.

Five other Flyers were named to the Campbell Conference squad: Bill Barber, Brian Propp, Reggie Leach, Norm Barnes and Jim Watson.

Al Hill broke a 1-1 tie with five minutes left in the first period.

Islanders 2, Canadiens 1—Billy Harris capped a two-on-one break with Wayne Merrick by scoring at 10:32 of the second period to snap a tie and give New York its fifth consecutive triumph over the defending NHL champions.

Rick Chartraw gave Montreal a 1-0 lead at 1:19 of the first period, but Bryan Trottier tied it by converting Mike Bossy's pass on a power play — extending to 12 his streak of games in which he has had at least one goal or assist.

Guy Lafleur had a 16-game scoring streak snapped as the Canadiens suffered their first loss after six consecutive triumphs.

Rockies 5, Canucks 3—Two goals by Lanny McDonald highlighted a four-goal Colorado third period and gave the Rockies their first victory since Dec. 31. Randy Pierce and Mike Gillis also scored in the final period for the Rockies, who extended to eight games the Canucks' winless streak.

Maple Leafs 4, Flames 2—Terry Martin rapped the rebound of a Borje Salming shot past Atlanta goalie Pat Riggin at 9:10 of the third period to snap a tie and carry Toronto past Atlanta.

Capitals 5, Jets 4—Robert Picard scored his second goal of the game with 3:15 remaining, capping a Washington comeback and helping the Capitals snap a five-game winless streak by handing the Jets their 13th loss in 15 games.

Berlin '36, Moscow '80, study in similarities

By STEVE JACOBSON
Newsday

It's such a nice, dreamy ideal, this Olympic concept that sports are not politics and politics are not sports. There are men of good will who spend their lives defending that concept, and some of those men are even on the United States Olympic Committee. They sincerely would like us to believe with them in the beautiful tales of ancient Greece, when wars and killing paused to let one man run faster than another in glorious pursuit of a laurel wreath.

Too bad that concept does not apply any more, if it ever did.

These men of good will sincerely believe that there is no relationship between the fact that Soviet Russia has imposed its will on Afghanistan with 100,000 troops and the fact that Moscow is scheduled to be the site of the 1980 Summer Olympic Games. Nor, they believe, should any relationship be drawn.

They recoil at the thought that President Carter chose, as he cut back grain shipments and embargoed technical aid, to raise the possibility that "continued aggressive actions" would endanger American participation in the Olympics.

They believe we can do "business as usual" and participate in the Olympics — short of open warfare endangering American athletes — just as we did in Berlin in 1936. Some of them draw a distinction between the circumstances of this Olympiad and that. Some even believe it was right that we went to Germany in 1936, even though the Nazis' plans were abundantly clear.

"They must remain apolitical," Don Miller, executive director of the Olympic Committee, said. But, he conceded, "We would have to be very naive not to know there has been political involvement." He is proud that the American Olympic movement has managed to maintain itself in the private sector.

IT'S IMPOSSIBLE for me to imagine that the Holocaust or Hitler's flaming destruction of Europe could have been averted by boycotting the Berlin Olympics. And I can't imagine the Soviets withdrawing one platoon from Kabul, if it didn't suit their purpose, in order to preserve American participation in the Moscow Olympics. Sports aren't that important.

But we must consider that for the host nation, the Olympics are an enormous advertising campaign, both to the world and to itself. The Nazis did agree to suspend their Jew-baiting for the period of the Olympics, and American pressure did result in one Jew being included on the German team. The Nazis then conducted their celebration of themselves. The official film, "Olympia," now considered among the finest portrayals of sports ever recorded, performed its indoctrination purpose for the German people, with Germany as the winner of the most medals.

"Hitler's success as a whole is inconceivable without the application of the contrived festivity that enveloped Nazism from beginning to end," Richard Mandell, associate professor of history at the University of South Carolina wrote in "The Nazi Olympics."

Whatever validity there may or may not be in that evaluation, the United States went along with the festivity, even contributed to it. Jews were not permitted access to practice facilities and certainly not to Olympic trials. And the then-secretary of the U.S. Olympic Committee, Frederick Ruben, observed: "Germans are not discriminating against Jews.... The Jews are eliminated because they are not good enough as athletes."

THERE WAS interest in an American boycott in 1936, but it never gained strength. For one reason, Avery Brundage, then and for many years afterward president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, was a founder of the Nazi-sympathizing America First Committee.

"In retrospect, we should have gone," Don Miller said. "I feel Jesse Owens made a great contribution to debunking the Nazi master-race theories."

Owens, whose blackness was repugnant to the Nazis, won five gold medals. The fifth was in the 400-meter relay. Sam Stoller and Marty Glickman were supposed to run legs in that relay, but the night before the race were replaced over Owens' objections that he was tired and they deserved a chance. Stoller and Glickman were Jewish, and evidence shows that they also would have won easily.

"The blacks already had embarrassed Hitler," Glickman said a few years ago, and Brundage "didn't want to see his face rubbed by two Jewish boys on that team." There was no debunking there.

THE RUSSIANS, too, are cleaning up their image for the world. School children who regularly barter Russian items of value with American tourists for chewing gum are being warned by some teachers that the gum will be infected. Lists are being compiled of dissidents, such as Jews who have applied for emigration, and many will be kept out of sight.

The U.S. Olympic Committee has obtained a promise that Israel will be permitted to compete as any other country. Any officially promoted incident is unlikely. There were none in Berlin, either.

"There are distinctions," argues Ed Williams, a member of the 82-member Olympic Committee as chairman of the Athletes Advisory Council. "It could be argued that the International Olympic Committee put its stamp of approval on the exclusion of Jews by competing in Berlin, knowing full well a segment of the population was being excluded. This is very different from what is happening today; no similar group is being excluded."

What the Soviet Union will do in its advertising campaign is display to the world a benevolent face that does not exist, and U.S. participation will promote it. So will American telecasts.

Without the United States and American tourists, Moscow could not have the Olympics as planned. The loss of grain and petroleum and computer technology would hurt. Losing credibility as a real Olympic competition would hurt, too. The Russians have an Olympian investment in facilities and prestige, as the Nazis did.

An American boycott would be a painful loss to athletes who have worked for years toward an Olympic effort. Athletes are without politics, which can generally be observed over any Olympic Village pool table. But a Free World Olympics could be organized. There are sites available, if not for this summer then for next summer. At best, that would be unfortunate.

If the United States pulled out of the Moscow Games, that would surely jeopardize the 1984 Games scheduled for Los Angeles. And if the 1984 Games were canceled, then the entire Olympic movement that has been building since 1898 might be destroyed. Few treaties between nations have endured as long. That would be too bad, but then the Olympics may have grown too big, anyhow.

Adams gains golf spot

SAN DIEGO — Midland's John Adams has qualified for his first professional tournament of 1980 and will be in the field of golfers for the Andy Williams San Diego Open beginning Thursday.

Adams, a former Midland Lee golfer and still a resident of the Tall City, fired a 70 early this week to win a berth in the San Diego tourney. Adams qualified for several tournaments last year, but is not exempt from qualifying on a weekly basis.

Dallas eyes NHL Flames

TORONTO (AP)—Dallas is searching for a National Hockey League franchise and appears interested in acquiring the established Atlanta Flames, if the team becomes available. "We're actively pursuing the relocating of an NHL team to Dallas in time for next season," said Jack Beckman, manager of the new $25-million, 18,000-seat arena being completed in the Texas city.

Beckman said in an interview Tuesday that he has talked with Flames owner Thomas Cousins, "but really, we're not in a position to delve into specifics at this point."
Cousins recently gained complete control of the Flames after foreclosing on his minority partners.
The Flames have averaged about 9,700 fans a game, 12 per cent less than last year, and may lose as much as $1 million this season.

However, Cliff Fletcher, Atlanta vice-president and general manager, said Cousins is not yet ready to sell the team, though he is aware Dallas Mayor Bob Folsom and representatives of the Texas arena have approached Cousins.
"Mr. Cousins knows Mr. Folsom on a personal basis," Fletcher said. "I think they're just inquiring about the availability of pro sports franchises—looking for tenants for their building."
Construction of the Dallas arena should be finished in April and Beckman said he believes an established NHL franchise would make money in the building.
"If we can relocate a competitive situation, our surveys indicate a very healthy market," he said.

JIM MURRAY Russians are coming, U.S. to close Disneyland

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate

In a letter to the editor of a newspaper the other day, a subscriber wrote that he had "a terrible dream."

He said he dreamt the Russians invaded Cuba, took over the Guantanamo Naval Base and took 50,000 Marines hostages. Then, a joint Soviet-Cuba force landed at Ft. Lauderdale and proceeded up the coast of Florida. And President Carter took to the air to announce that if the Russians continued on their present course, it would pose a grave threat to world peace and he was going to take drastic countermeasures. He was going to close Disneyland.

It has been suggested that Carter's response if the Russians took back Alaska would be to cancel the World Series. When the Bey of Tripoli, Rasuli, and the Barbary pirates took a U.S. citizen named Perdicaris hostage in the early 1900s, Teddy Roosevelt called out the Marines and trumpeted "Perdicaris alive, or Rasuli dead!" Wags say Carter would say "Perdicaris alive, or no more Davis Cup."

IT IS a matter of record that the most decisive step the President has taken in a series of international crises lately is to threaten to boycott a track meet. Other nations facing a potential casus belli, put the army, navy or marines on alert. We put our 200-meter relay team on alert.

If the Russians don't get out of Afghanistan, we're going to take our ball and go home. If that doesn't work, what do we do then — hold our breath?

I have to think, if this is our diplomatic trump card, we're in a whole bunch of trouble.

The President appears about to scuttle the Olympic movement. But is he going to save Afghanistan? Anyone who thinks that gets a free bag of peanuts.

We have now taken up hostages of our own — the hundreds of athletes who have been training and working diligently at great sacrifice for years for the Olympics. Cannon fodder. We don't dare throw in the Marines; so we throw in the shot putters, decathletes, swimmers and rowers.

Why are we suddenly so outraged at Ivan's despotic behavior? He sent in the tanks to crush Hungary — and we went off singing to the Melbourne Olympics with him. In 1968, the streets of Prague were still red with the blood of brutally oppressed Czechs, and Soviet tanks still rumbled through Wenceslaus Square as we played games with the Russians in Mexico.

WELL, THIS time the Games are in Moscow. This time we will teach Ivan a lesson.

No one teaches Ivan anything. From the time he cynically made a pact with the devil himself, Adolph Hitler, and gave the green light and became co-architect of the concentration camps in Poland, he has shown a complete disregard for what the world thinks.

The Russians will pull out of Afghanistan, once a sufficient stable of puppets have been restored. They always do. By midsummer they will probably have convinced the world it was just a simple training exercise for the Red Army, which got confused at the border.

The Soviet aims extend beyond the shot-put ring, the high-jump pit or the crossbar. Lenin said it years ago: "International imperialism disposing of the might of capital cannot coexist with the Soviet Republic. Conflict is unavoidable, and here is the greatest task of the Russian revolution, its greatest historical task, that of provoking International Revolution."

You notice he didn't say anything about track meets. But he would be glad to know his main adversary's leader thinks they are proper choice of weapons in this ultimate duel. The Soviets are afraid you're going to send the tanks in, not keep the 20-kilometer walkers out.

Winners in four out of eight fights at Pecos in their last outing, the Midland Boxing Club will enter 25 boxers in the four-day tournament at Odessa's Floyd Gwinn gym starting tonight.

Midland boxers will be entered in the 45-pound, junior high and high school football divisions as well as the novice and open divisions. Leading this year's team are Emelio Menchaca, defending Golden Gloves champion; Felix Munoz, junior Olympic champion; Armando Jimenez; Sugar Ray Jackson, Gilbert Cervantes, Emanuel Esquivel, Cal Neatherlin and Eddie Elliott, fighting in the Open 175 pound class.

Boxers debuting in the football division will be Chris Parker, 152; Bill McFarland, 120; Benny Long, 115; Jerry Collazo, 109; Felix Hall, 160; Kevin Tarver, 158; Clyde Smith, 185, and Rob Watson, 187.

The Midland boxers are pointing toward the Junior Olympic Tournament to be held in Midland in April. Winners will advance to a three-state regional meet.

Anyone interested in participating in the MBC program may contact Donny Thompson at the Midland Boys Club, Monday through Friday.

Celts sign Pete, but Bulls pistol hot

By The Associated Press
The Boston Celtics signed Pete Maravich but it was the Chicago Bulls who were hot as a pistol Tuesday night. The Celtics, battling the Philadelphia 76ers for the best record in the National Basketball Association, announced the signing of free agent Maravich shortly after Pistol Pete watched them defeat the Houston Rockets 112-106. The Bulls, on the other hand, had all the weapons they needed in shooting a team record 70 percent from the floor in trouncing the Detroit Pistons 145-131.

Rickey Sobers and David Greenwood scored 26 points apiece as the Bulls rolled up their highest point total in four years. The Bulls and Pistons set a Chicago Stadium mark by scoring 92 points, 50 by Detroit, in the fourth quarter.

The Celtics think Maravich may give them the edge they need in their scrap with the 76ers. Unfortunately, the 31-year-old Pistol no sooner signed than he said he planned to go on the injured list until he recovers from a "slightly pulled groin muscle."

Cowens made nine of 10 shots before leaving with a jammed ankle with Boston in front 67-53. The Celtics built it to 77-55 before the Rockets began their comeback.

Kings 101, Hawks 89—Bill Robinson and Ernie Grunfeld came off the bench to spark the Kings. Robinson scored a season-high 28 points while Grunfeld added 18. Kansas City has won 18 of its last 25 games while the Hawks dropped their fourth straight.

Jazz 127, Bucks 122—Ben Poquette and Adrian Dantley split 12 Utah points in overtime where the Jazz made it that far when Ron Boone canned a pair of free throws with six seconds left in regulation time. Dantley led all scorers with 36 points and Boone finished with 20. Spurs 129, Clippers 109—George Gervin and James Silas teamed for 55 points and newly acquired John Shumate added 16 for San Antonio. Shumate, obtained from Houston last week for Billy Paultz, also grabbed 10 rebounds, blocked three shots and had three steals.

Cavalliers 114, Bullets 91—Mike Mitchell scored 25 points, reserve center John Lambert added a career-high 18 and the Cavalliers never trailed in handling the Bullets their fifth consecutive loss.

Rams led to slaughter almost turned tables

Listening to Pat Summerall and Tom Brookshier on TV and reading the post-game accounts, the feeling seems to be unanimous that the Rams were awesome in defeat. And it's hard to disagree, especially since most of the pregame gambling was not so much whether the Rams would win or lose, but whether they'd even show up.

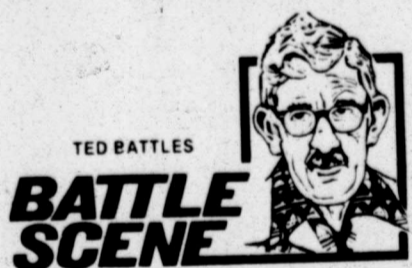

For a while, the Steelers played as though in a state of shock at the "surprise" appearance Los Angeles Rams in the Rose Bowl Sunday.

Reviewers called it a moral victory for the underdogs. Others opined that with a bit of luck, the Rams could have won. But when all is said and done, the Steelers, after all, did win by the point-spread determined by those who make a living at such things.

After listening for two weeks to her husband's forecast of an impending rout that would make the Minnesota Vikings' Super Bowl appearances seem like barnburners, the Mrs. watched the first half and observed it looked like the 1919 World Series all over again.

Actually, the Los Angeles Rams were a pleasant surprise to those portenders of impending doom. They not only showed up, but turned it into one of the better Super Bowl contests, even though the Steelers' 31-19 final margin did beat the 10 1/2-to-11 points gamblers were giving Los Angeles.

In fact, from the Rams standpoint, the difference could be traced to two plays...the Jack Lambert interception of a Vince Ferragamo pass to short-circuit a late LA drive when the Steelers were still catchable and the dropped interception by Nolan Cromwell, with nothing but the San Gabriels to stop him, in the third quarter at a time when the Rams were nursing a 19-17 lead and visions of upset were dancing merrily in their heads. They would have been more than just visions if the one-time Kansas quarterback had run that one into the end zone.

Instead of naming him MVP and raving over his second half bombs to Lynn Swann and John Stallworth, Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw would have spent post game interviews explaining away four interceptions and defending his IQ.

That's how close it was, close enough to offer some solace to the disappointed Dallas Cowboys, who probably had some misgivings about sending the fourth best team off to represent the NFC in the Super Bowl. But the Rams did prove that at the season's end, at least, they quite probably were not only a worthy, but the best NFC representative.

For the deeper students of the game, the telltale giveaway as to the Rams ultimate fate came early in the fourth period when running back Wendell Tyler carried the ball on successive downs and didn't have to leave the game. As long as Wendell took an "injury" leave of absence after each carry, the Rams were doing fine. But when Wendell stopped upchucking, you knew the Rams were in trouble.

The Rams blew it in more ways than one. If they had won, they could have enjoyed the luxury in post game interviews of describing the Steelers, "As a good little AFC team that could maybe finish ahead of Atlanta and New Orleans in their division. And they really surprised us. After all, you know we've only lost to them once in 16 games."

Midland to host national music competition

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Staff Writer

Many Texas colleges, universities and secondary schools will be represented by students participating in the 18th annual National Young Artist Competition in Midland this weekend.

The competition, sponsored by the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale, will be held Friday and Saturday on the campus of Midland College. Members of the Midland Symphony Guild will be in charge of all phases of the event.

The preliminary auditions Friday and Saturday, and the finals on Saturday evening in the Midland College recital hall, will be open to the public free of charge.

According to Mrs. James Stimmel, general chairman of the 1980 competition, 77 students have been accepted for participation in the NYAC, one of the largest and best-known events of its kind in the nation. The contest is divided into two categories, college division and secondary schools division.

The college segment is divided into woodwinds, strings, piano and voice categories. Secondary segment is composed of woodwinds, strings and piano categories.

A breakdown of student registrations reveals that 14 students will be competing in college strings, 19 in college piano, 12 in college woodwinds and 13 in voice.

In the secondary schools division, there will be 14 students competing in piano, four in strings and one in woodwinds.

The students will be vying for approximately $7,000 in prize money to be distributed among winners and finalists. The prize money is contributed annually by Mr. and Mrs. D.A. Ross, Mrs. A. A. Bradford and Mrs. Raiford Burton, all of Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Noel of Odessa.

In addition, Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Fullinwider of Midland have contributed the Lara Hoggard Performance Awards given each year to performing winners in the competition. (The performing winners are those students selected to return here later in the season to perform with the Midland-Odessa Symphony in concerts in the two cities.)

Colleges and universities in the state to be represented with students this weekend include the following: West

Texas State University, The University of Texas (Austin), North Texas State University, Texas Tech University, Texas Christian University, Austin College, South Plains College, the University of Houston, Southern Methodist University, Texas A&I University, Sam Houston State University, Odessa College and The University of Texas at San Antonio.

Secondary schools represented include Amarillo High School, Anderson High School in Austin, Kenedy High School in Dallas, Hunts-School, Tascosa Highville High School and School in Amarillo, Good Permian High School in Shepherd Episcopal Odessa.

Urban League asks for balance between defense, domestic budgets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the National Urban League is urging the government to maintain a balance between defense and domestic spending despite problems like those in Iran and Afghanistan.

"I have no quarrel with a strong, lean defense posture. But I am seriously concerned that important domestic problems are being ignored in the process," Vernon E. Jordan, league president, said in remarks prepared for a news conference today.

"It is vital that approaches to inflation, energy and foreign policy be balanced by domestic initiatives that include full employment, real welfare reform, health, education and urban policies designed to bring about equality," he said.

"In this election year, I see no such a balanced approach," Jordan's remarks coincided with the league's release of a 297-page report called "The State of Black America 1980," issued one day after President Carter's annual State of the Union message to Congress.

In his written message, Carter said restraining inflation was his highest domestic priority but added: "We must pay whatever price is required to remain the strongest nation in the world."

The president outlined five domestic initiatives:

—A NEW PROGRAM to educate and train disadvantaged youths, making them better able to obtain and hold jobs.

—Reorganization of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and implementation of a "comprehensive" nuclear waste policy.

—A renewal of general revenue sharing.

—Speedy approval of standby gasoline rationing.

—A 10-year, $12 billion program to encourage conversion of oil-burning utilities to coal and other fuels.

The Urban League assessment offered no encouragement to the Carter administration, which garnered more than 90 percent of the votes cast by blacks in the 1976 presidential election.

Jordan also warned that any party or candidate who takes black voters for granted is making "a grievous error," because "the black voter, as he did four years ago, can have a decisive voice in this election ..."

HE SAID black voters should "not rush to judgment, but calmly and deliberately make the choices."

The Urban League report described voting as the most effective means available to blacks of forcing change. The league, a non-profit, non-partisan organization, does not endorse candidates.

Disagreements among blacks should not be interpreted as a sign of weakness, Jordan observed.

"The black community is not a monolith. It is united to the extent that all blacks know we do not enjoy equality and that we must continue to fight for our rightful place in the American sun," he said.

The league assessment portrays the 1970s as a bleak decade which saw the average black family's income fall from 60 percent to 57 percent of the average white family's income, a shrinkage in the black middle class from 12 percent of the black population to 9 percent, and an overall increase in the number of poor people.

JORDAN SAID that among the most disturbing occurrences of the last decade was the resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan, evidence that "racism, far from being dead, is alive and well in the American body politic." Five persons were killed at a demonstration in Greensboro, N.C., last November, and several Klan members were charged with their deaths.

Jordan also called on blacks and Jews to strengthen the ties that have bound them as political allies for decades. Those ties were strained by differences over affirmative action and over black involvement in the making of foreign policy after Andrew Young resigned as United Nations ambassador.

"The plain fact is that blacks and Jews have too much in common with one another to remain at odds," Jordan said.

Ex-wheat farmer, now astronomer, marks 50th stargazing anniversary following discovery of ninth planet

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifty years ago, a 24-year-old former wheat farmer peered far out into the solar system and electrified the science world by discovering a new planet.

Clyde Tombaugh named his discovery Pluto, after the god of the underworld.

"It was a big break for me," he recalled. "At the time I had no college education, only high school."

Tombaugh had studied the stars since he was 12, growing up in rural Illinois and later Kansas. When times got tough on the farm, he took a job at the Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz. It was there, early in 1930, that Tombaugh made photographic plates of the sky that confirmed Pluto's existence.

It was the discovery of a lifetime for Tombaugh and launched him on a long and productive career in astronomy.

TOMBAUGH, 74, now is professor emeritus of astronomy at New Mexico State University. He spoke with reporters in Chicago on Monday to mark the golden anniversary of his discovery.

Even now, little has been learned about tiny Pluto. Located some 2.7 billion miles from the sun, it meanders the frigid frontier of the solar system, taking 247 Earth years to complete one orbit of the sun. It is the ninth and outermost planet. But its lopsided orbit has temporarily swung it closer to the sun than Neptune.

In 1978, discovery of a moon of Pluto helped astronomers calculate that the planet has a mass of about one-fifth that of Earth's moon and a density comparable to water, leading many astronomers to suggest that Pluto may resemble a giant methane snowball.

The search for Pluto was started early in the 20th century by Dr. Percival Lowell, an American astronomer who had calculated the path of the planet Neptune. But he found slight irregularities in the predicted orbit of Neptune — perturbations that Lowell decided could only be caused by the gravitational pull of an undiscovered planet.

Lowell started work at the Flagstaff observatory in 1906 to find his "Planet X" by photographing and comparing identical sky sections.

There's more than one way to calculate inflation rate

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — What is the annual rate of inflation?

- a. 12.6 percent.
- b. 11.3 percent.
- c. 10.5 percent.

All three could be correct, depending on how inflation is calculated to reflect Americans' housing costs.

Officially, the government-measured inflation rate for the 12 months through last November was 12.6 percent, as determined by the Consumer Price Index.

But the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the government's official inflation-taker, issued five experimental housing cost measures on Monday that would have lowered the inflation rate by between 0.1 and 2.1 percentage points in the last year, had they been used.

The bureau said it will issue the alternative measures monthly in response to criticism that the agency's current method of computing housing prices and mortgage interest costs overstated 1979's true rate of inflation by one to two percentage points.

Bureau Commissioner Janet Norwood stressed at a news conference that the alternative measures are experimental, and that none would be incorporated into the CPI for at least several years.

"We have one CPI and we will continue to have one official CPI," she said, adding that the alternate measures of housing costs were being published only to encourage public discussion and to provide comparative inflation rates.

She added that while the alternate methods produced a lower inflation rate than the official measure for 1979, they might show a higher rate than the official measure for 1980. That is due to the way the different measures calculate mortgage interest rates, which soared in 1979 but are expected to decline in 1980.

The CPI is a monthly survey of price changes for a fixed list of retail goods and services, ranging from a house to a haircut.

The CPI has been the nation's official measure of inflation for 60 years. Today, it is used to adjust wages, pensions, Social Security checks and other benefits for more than 90 million Americans.

The index has attracted new attention — and critics in the Carter administration and Congress — in the last year because of the high inflation rate caused in large part by rapid increases in house prices, which have gone up at a 16 percent annual pace, and interest rates, which have risen at a 24 percent clip.

Figures for December 1979, due Friday, are expected to show a 13 percent inflation rate for the full year, the highest since 1946.

The CPI measures the cost of home ownership as if the purchase price of a house and all interest costs were paid entirely in the year the house was bought.

But the index does not assume that everyone buys a house each month, as many people believe. Rather, the CPI reports rising costs of home ownership based only on the 6 percent of Americans who actually purchase a home each year.

Mrs. Norwood said she favors changing the measure to exclude a house's appreciated value, which can produce a profit for the owner upon its sale.

One of the alternative measures calculates housing costs as if the owner were paying rent. The other methods exclude the appreciated value of a house in different ways, which vary based on whether interest costs are computed from current rates or on a 15-year average.

Mrs. Norwood said the main problem with the experimental measures is that reliable ways to collect needed data have not been found.

She added that if interest rates decline in 1980, as predicted, the current CPI measure will show a sharper drop from the 1979 rate of inflation than most of the experimental approaches.

In that case, she asked, "Will people want to change the home ownership component?"

Mayor Koch's 'John Hour' tactic was failure

NEW YORK (AP) — The mayor of New York is a publicity hound. That is to say, Mayor Edward I. Koch believes fear of publicity is often the best way to hound malefactors and troublemakers.

Most recently, he's sent a "Litter Lens Patrol" out to photograph unsightly sidewalks and unbagged refuse.

It's too early to tell whether publishing photos from this week-old campaign will embarrass litterbugs and make New Yorkers into compulsive sweepers and baggers.

But the New York Daily News said in an editorial, "It's a fine idea" and has been running some of the photographs.

Not so well received was Koch's last foray using the publicity flail — a much-ballyhooed radio "John Hour" designed to embarrass men convicted of patronizing prostitutes and to deter others from participating in the trade.

Tired of complaints that streetwalkers were turning once respectable neighborhoods into instant brothels, Koch said the names of convicted patrons would be turned over to the media.

Civil libertarians complained that Koch was taking the law into his own hand because he was dissatisfied with the penalties meted out by the courts.

"We yelled and we screamed about it," Dorothy Samuels, director of the New York Civil Liberties Union, recalled on Sunday.

The problem, she said, was that Koch was imposing an extra penalty beyond that ordered by the courts. And the publication of the names would punish innocent persons — the families of offenders.

Nevertheless, Koch pressed ahead and on Oct. 23 the names of nine men, ranging in age from 20 to 64, were printed in one New York newspaper and read over WNYC, the municipal radio station.

Sgt. Richard Klev, of the police department's public morals squad, said the program, while aimed at the streets, had an effect on patrons in houses of prostitution.

"Customers that we arrested during parlor raids were really concerned about having their name publicized," he said. "The first thing they would ask us after we raided the place was, 'This isn't going to be used on that John Hour thing, is it?'"

But the John Hour lasted only 1 minute and 55 seconds. It was never repeated.

Three months later, Koch concedes the campaign is "effectively dead." But he insists "I thought it was an excellent idea (then) and I still think it is."

The program failed, he adds, "because the news media — the editors — imposed their private morality on what would have been helpful to the public."

"The media never quite described to the public what it was intended to do," he says, explaining that its purpose was to "deter people who were considering roaming New York City streets to pick up prostitutes" in certain residential neighborhoods.

Mary Perot Nichols, WNYC station manager, says the John Hour "was newsworthy at the time but it isn't anymore...it just doesn't fit into our format."

Although Koch "suggested" that the station continue the "John Hour," Mrs. Nichols said "not a soul" complained when it was dropped and "that was the end of it."

Price of gasoline going up again — for third time

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline prices are going up again — for the third time this winter — and consumption has gone down.

Most oil companies have announced increases ranging from one to five cents per gallon in the cost of gasoline, citing rising world oil prices as the reason.

The fuel-price increases, along with improvements in auto mileage, are seen as the probable reasons for a recent decline in gasoline consumption of 7 to 10 percent from last year's levels.

Before the most recent round of increases, the average U.S. retail price of a gallon of gasoline was $1.094, up from about $1.05 in December and up by about 60 percent over the past year, the industry publication Lundberg Letter estimates.

The president of Shell Oil Co., John F. Bookout, last week said it was possible retail gasoline prices would hit $2 a gallon by late 1980 or early 1981.

But a spokesman for Standard Oil Company of Indiana said Tuesday "we don't think that's likely, barring some major catastrophe."

Spokesman Carl Meyerdirk said Indiana Standard — the nation's second-largest gasoline marketer which is more commonly known by its Amoco brand name — raised gasoline prices by 4 cents a gallon late last week.

But he said the company believes gasoline "prices should begin to level off" as December and January crude oil price increases by Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries members finish working their way through the industry.

Rather than a $1-a-gallon increase, Amoco sees closer to a 15-25 cents a gallon price increase for all of 1980, he said.

Among major oil companies announcing increases, Exxon Corp., the nation's largest gasoline marketer, said it raised wholesale gasoline prices by 5 cents a gallon in its third boost since Dec. 18. The move raised Exxon's average wholesale price for regular leaded gasoline to 81.6 cents a gallon, up 14 cents since mid-December.

Standard Oil Co. of California said Tuesday it is raising the price of all grades of gasoline by four cents a gallon.

The latest round of price increases was begun by third-ranked Shell Oil Co., which last week announced its second nickel-a-gallon boost of the month. Shell raised its price 3 cents on Dec. 21. Sixth-ranked Mobil Oil Corp. posted a 3-cents-a-gallon increase last week after raising prices by 3 cents 10 days earlier.

Among others, Gulf Oil Corp., ranked fourth among gasoline marketers, boosted gasoline prices by 3 cents a gallon last weekend, while Sun Co. Inc. raised gasoline prices by a penny Monday.

Many leading oil companies also have announced wholesale home-heating oil increases of 2 to 5 cents a gallon in recent days.

The gasoline and heating-oil increases were triggered by a round of price increases by OPEC that began before the cartel's last meeting in December and continued through early January. Some of the increases were made retroactive to November, however.

Exxon announces location for wildcat project in Scurry

Exxon Corp. of Midland spotted location for an 8,400-foot wildcat in Scurry County, surrounded by San Andres production in the Corazon field, one mile southeast of the Gloria discovery and lone producer in the Pennyburger field, 3.5 miles northeast of Fluvanna.

The No. 3-C Annie Martin is located 1,130 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 575, block 97, H&TC survey.

PECCOS RE-ENTRY

National Petroleum Corp. of Houston will re-enter and plug back to 1,750 feet for completion attempt as a wildcat at the No. 5 Eaton-SoCal, former wildcat failure drilled by Ambassador Oil Corp. as the No. 1 H.J. Eaton and plugged at 5,925 feet in 1972.

The explorer is 3/8 mile south of production in the Pecos Valley (High Gravity) field, which produces at 1-800 feet, 3/4 mile northeast of Devon production in the Thunderbird field and 1/2 mile west of the discovery well in the Dittman (Yates Lower gas) field, which produces at 1,658 feet.

Wellsite is 660 from northeast and southeast lines of section 37, block 3, H&TC survey, 11.5 miles southwest of Imperial.

MITCHELL PROBE

Sun Oil Co. of Midland has rescheduled the No. 8-A B. Anderson as a 7,400-foot wildcat, previously scheduled to 6,200 feet in the Mitchell County portion of the Jameson, North (Strawn) field, four miles north of Silver.

The explorer is surrounded by Strawn production and 1.75 miles southeast of Ellenburger production in the Jameson, North field.

Location is 1,973 from north and

ENERGY OIL & GAS

2,097 from east lines of section 230, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

SCHLEICHER EXPLORER

Newhall Land & Farming Co. of San Angelo filed application to drill the No. 1 Whitehead as a 5,000-foot wildcat in Schleicher County, 7/8 mile southwest of the depleted Judyvale multipay and two miles northeast of the Fortune (Strawn) field.

Drillsite is 1,980 from north and west lines of section 24, block H, GH&SA survey, abstract 904, 20 miles northeast of Eldorado.

LEA MORROW WILDCAT

Harvey E. Yates Co. of Roswell, N.M., will drill the No. 1 Young Deep Unit as a 12,900-foot Morrow wildcat in Lea County, 1/4 mile northwest of a 4,206-foot failure, 7/8 mile southeast of Pearsall (Queen) production, one and three-eighths miles northeast of Queen production and 2.75 miles northeast of Strawn production in the Young field.

Wellsite is 660 from north and west lines of section 10-18-32e, six miles southeast of Maljamar.

CRANE TEST STAKED

WJC Engineering & Management of Midland announced plans to drill the No. 1 Dawson, 3,800-foot project in the Wynne multipay field of Crane County, 1/4 mile northeast of upper Clear Fork production, 1/2 mile northeast of dual San Andres and upper Clear Fork production, one mile northeast of dual upper Clear Fork and Tubb production.

Drillsite is 467 from northwest and 330 from southwest lines of section 2, block 6, H&TC survey, 10 miles southwest of Crane.

MARTIN WELL COMPLETES

John L. Cox of Midland finished the No. 3 Mabee Ranch, seven-eighths mile south of production in the Lacaff (Dean) field of Martin County, 23 miles north of Midland.

Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 69 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 18 barrels of water, through perforations from 8,955 to 9,256 feet and from 9,463 to 9,840 feet.

The lower zone of perforations were fractured with 40,000 gallons, the upper zone was acidized with 5,000 gallons and fractured with 50,000 gallons. Gas-oil ratio is 665-1.

Drilled to 9,950 feet, 4.5-inch casing is set on bottom.

Location is 933 from north and 1,320 from west lines of tract 15, league 310, Farmer County School Land survey.

Iranian defends failure to pay Perot's firm

DALLAS (AP) — An Iranian government employee returns to the stand today to defend allegations that Electronic Data Systems failed to abide by the terms established in a $41 million contract with Iran's former ministry of health and social welfare.

Madjidmorzeyemi, manager of operations of Iran's Social Security Fund, told U.S. District Judge Robert Porter on Tuesday that EDS failed to provide a "functional ... direct, computerized national health care program" outlined in a 1976 contract between EDS and the Middle Eastern nation.

The Dallas-based computer firm, owned by multimillionaire H. Ross Perot, claims Iran breached the agreement by not paying for EDS' services for six months in 1978.

EDS is suing to collect the $23 million on the balance of the contract. Morzeyemi was one of three Iranian witnesses scheduled to testify in the lawsuit filed by EDS against Iran in February 1979. Security has been tight outside the courtroom, where Porter is hearing the case without a jury.

In September 1976, EDS contracted with the Iranian government to provide a data processing system for Iran's national health insurance, social welfare and banking services.

The company claims it lost $13.5 million in unpaid contract fees, $440,000 in unpaid expenses, $1.5 million for re-locating employees, $22.8 million in "lost profits for the remaining period of the contract," and $250,000 for lost and damaged property.

The Iranian government admits it has not paid the balance, but maintains the contract is invalid and unenforceable because it was illegally secured through promises of kickbacks to the now-deposed shah of Iran.

Morzeyemi noted during five hours of testimony Tuesday that the contract also was vague and caused problems when trying to define the scope of projects outlined in the agreement.

Defense attorneys entered portions of several depositions into the court record which centered around at least 10 meetings between Iranian government officials and EDS representatives from the summer of 1974 through May 1977.

Morzeyemi admitted he was allowed to see the contract several months before the Dallas-based corporation pulled out of the Middle East nation in January 1979.

"But by the time EDS had left, there still had been no definite or practical plan to implement a direct national health care program," he said.

Donald L. Case, a Dallas attorney representing the Iranian government, has cited three reasons why the contract was void: Iran's social security organization was a separate entity from the government, no bids were accepted for the contract and the Iranian government now is different from the one that existed when the contract was signed.

Three EDS employees working on the contract were arrested and imprisoned in Iran in late 1978. The men were rescued in February of 1979 by a commando team of EDS employees, funded by Perot. More than 11,000 prisoners were released from the prison when a mob stormed its walls.

Airline employees charged with thefts at D-FW Airport

DALLAS (AP) — Airline employees may be responsible for almost $1 million dollars worth of baggage thefts at the nation's largest airport during the past four years, a federal prosecutor said.

"FBI agents have recovered merchandise worth almost $1 million," said assistant U.S. Attorney Gerhard Kleinschmidt, after he secured indictments from a federal grand jury Tuesday.

"We don't know how many other items were taken, but it is apparent that massive thefts from freight shipments were taking place at the airport," he said.

The indictments name six former airline employees and a seventh man, accused in separate thefts totaling $250,000. The items taken range from a $39 pair of shoes to a $170,000 jewel shipment, according to the indictments.

One former Braniff Airways employee, who ran the air freight receiving office, was charged with mail fraud in connection with a $12,000 payment the airline made on a loss claim submitted on a race car engine.

The indictments name three other former Braniff employees, former workers for American and Delta airlines, plus a Farmers Branch businessman.

The indictments cover a wide range of alleged thefts. The largest single theft mentioned in the indictments occurred at Delta Airlines. Former employee William Cordell Abshire, 39, of White Settlement, is charged in the taking of a $170,000 shipment of diamond rings enroute to a Dallas jeweler.

Undercover FBI agents posing as thieves purchased some rings from Abshire, Kleinschmidt said, and used a search warrant to recover more than 500 rings from the man's home.

Delta officials said Abshire was fired after the theft was reported.

Two indictments name James Vern Cox, 33, of Dallas, former head of Braniff's air freight cargo receiving office at D-FW. Braniff officials said Cox resigned after the investigation began.

He is charged, along with two other Braniff employees, with stealing various pieces of electronic equipment, including the April 1976 theft of a weather radar system destined for a customer in Abilene.

The indictment further alleges he took a set of golf clubs being shipped from Nevada. That same indictment also accuses Andre Safford, 36, of Lewisville.

Cox, Safford and Don Ray Gibson, 25, of Grand Prairie, are charged with the June 1978 theft of 336 videotapes being sent from Tokyo to Irving.

A second mail fraud indictment names Cox and James David Ray, 37, of Dallas, with concocting a scheme to make it appear Braniff had lost a $12,000 race car engine, then submitted a false loss claim.

Kleinschmidt said Ray, operator of Off-Road Enterprises in Farmers Branch, had shipped the engine in November 1977 to Illinois, but the recipient refused delivery and it was returned.

Ray and Cox then removed the engine and filed the claim, he said.

Karl Pierre Knutson, 19, of Arlington, is charged with stealing a 9mm automatic pistol from a suitcase belonging to an agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

A fourth Braniff employee, Janet Lynn Day, 20, of Dallas, is charged in the September 1979 theft of a $39 pair of shoes from a passenger's suitcase.

Ice causes two minor accidents

Ice late Tuesday caused two minor accidents and one of those resulted in a third.

At 9:17 p.m., police responded to an accident in the 3300 block of North Garfield.

According to reports, Antoniet Amaya Soto, 34, of 316 Thornridge was southbound on Garfield when her car began to slide sideways down the curb lane. Christopher Lane Burt, 17, of Route 4 also was southbound on Garfield when the vehicles were in collision.

At 9:41 p.m., again in the 3300 block of North Garfield, police were busy once more.

Stephen Lynn Shaw, 30, of 3515 Seaboard slowed to avoid collision with the previous accident and was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Kathryn Amos Bates, 40, of 1011 Ward.

Only an hour later, at 10:40 p.m., in the 4400 block of West Cuthbert, another accident occurred.

Timothy Eugene Johnson, 24, of 602 Beckley was stopped at a stop sign on Cuthbert. Kimuel Marlene Shields, 17, of 3219 Storey was southbound on Midland Drive.

She attempted to turn on to Cuthbert when her vehicle slid on ice and was involved in a collision with the Johnson vehicle.

No one was injured in any of the accidents.

New street, division approved by MC trustees

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

A new access street to Midland College campus and creation of a new division were approved Tuesday by Midland College trustees.

A new two-way access road, if approved by Midland City Council, would be located in the north-west part of the college's campus across from Haynes Avenue.

Cost of the access road without curbs is estimated at $2,000 if curbs are included.

The trustees authorized the college to seek bids for construction of the road, in addition to asking the City Council for a right-of-way agreement.

Also included in the action was a request asking the city to delay construction of traffic signals at the Garfield Street entrance to Midland College.

Traffic congestion has been a problem for MC commuters during certain times of the day. Recently, the City Council rejected a request to open the Wadley Avenue entrance near Hillander School.

The fine arts division chairman post will be filled by Sept. 1, 1980, Dr. Langford said.

Trustees also approved an agreement to hold joint elections for college trustees with the city, school and hospital districts. At the Feb. 18 meeting, trustees will call for the election of new trustees April 5.

Candidates interested in filing for MC trustee positions must file applications by March 5.

Reports on the Learning Resources Center progress, Howard Hodge estate, findings of the Southern Association of Colleges Accreditation Self-investigating report and tax rolls were also considered and approved.
