Cutter and tanker collide

At least six dead, 17 still missing

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — With six crewmen known dead, divers today searched the shattered hull of a sunken Coast Guard cutter for 17 others missing following a nighttime collision with a tanker just outside Tampa Bay.

While 27 crewmen were rescued after the 180-foot cutter Blackthorn collided with the 605-foot oil tanker S.S. Capricorn late Monday, one was found dead shortly after the accident and divers recovered five more bodies this morning.

"As time goes by the hope grows less," Coast Guard Capt. Marshal Gilbert said at a late morning briefing. "But we still hope there may be an air pocket (inside the hull) and we might find someone alive."

Gilbert said the divers had to battle poor visibility and Divers received no response earlier when they tapped the cutter's hull from the outside. They're gone," said one shivering survivor. "The guys that are down there are gone."

treacherous currents in the 50-foot deep water where the Blackthorn went down.

"The divers are finding the situation very difficult," he said. "The Capricorn is aground nearby; there's a current and it's difficult to operate in an area where the ship is aground."

Gilbert said the cause of the accident had not been determined. He said weather on the bay at the time was "good, with visibility six to eight miles and a light wind. There was no significant weather problem."

He said the commander of the Blackthorn, Lt. Cmdr. George J. Sepel, had not discussed the collision with Coast Guard officers.

But Sepel, who was reportedly on the bridge with his executive officer at the time of the accident, issued a statement praising rescuers.

The tanker was identified as a New York-based tanker registered to the Kingston Shipping Co. Inc. of New York. The 24,000-ton ship had made frequent trips to Tampa Bay ports, officials said.

Members of the Tampa Bay Pilots Association said the ship was loaded with heavy fuel oil and was bound for a Florida Power Corp. generating station near St. Petersburg.

The Coast Guard at first said 53 crewmen were believed aboard the Blackthorn, but later revised the number to 50.

The 27 men plucked from the water immediately after the accident were taken to Tampa Bay area hospitals. Six were soon released, 18 were being released at 9 a.m. and three were hospitalized — two in fair condition and one, fireman apprentice Donald M. Brooks, 21, was in intensive care with possible salt water in his lungs.

Divers received no response earlier when they tapped the cutter's hull from the outside.

"They're gone," said one shivering survivor at a makeshift medical center on shore. "The guys that are down there are gone."

It was not known what caused the collision, which occurred in calm seas and under clear skies. None of the tanker's cargo spilled, but the fuel oil leaked from the cutter.

Authorities had varying opinions about the prospects for finding anyone alive trapped inside the cutter.

"All these people are under shock, and it would be hard for them to last very long," said Coast Guard spokesman Lance Jones.

"From what we understand, it went down real fast," Hutchins said of the Blackthorn, which was steaming for its homeport in Galveston, Texas, when it sank. "It could leave a good air pocket in there, so the chances could be good."

No injuries were reported to the 30 crewmen aboard the Capricorn, owned by Apex Marine of New York. Officials also said that none of the tanker's more than 150,000 barrels of fuel oil spilled after the collision which occurred at 8:20 p.m. EST.

The Blackthorn, in service as a buoy tender, had been in drydock in Tampa for 30 days, while the tanker was headed into Tampa Bay.

Skies were clear and seas were calm when the ships hit less than a mile west of the Sunshine Skyway Bridge connecting St. Petersburg and the Bradenton-Sarasota area.

"It rolled and straightened up," an unidentified survivor said. "Then it started rolling again and it started to go over. I could see the people sliding off. There was nothing to hold on to. I couldn't believe how cold it was in the water or the stink of the fuel."

Canadians help six Americans slip out of Iran

By The Associated Press

Six American diplomats who hid for 12 weeks at friendly embassies in Tehran have slipped secretly out of Iran under cover of false Canadian passports, State Department officials said today.

Canadian sources in Ottawa said the Canadian Embassy itself had harbored U.S. diplomats since the Nov. 4 takeover of the American Embassy, but the U.S. sources refused to name the other embassy or embassies involved, citing the possibility of reprisals against those embassies.

Canada unexpectedly shut down its Tehran mission Monday and withdrew Ambassador Ken Taylor and three persons described as embassy staff members. The Canadian Embassy is 200 yards down the street from the U.S. Embassy.

The Washington officials, who asked not to be identified, would not give the identities, jobs or whereabouts of the six newly escaped Americans.

The diplomats were outside the U.S. Embassy when it was seized by Moslem militants and were able to find shelter in friendly embassies until this past weekend, when Canada issued them false passports and got them out of Iran, the American officials said.

Among those who avoided capture Nov. 4 were the highest-ranking U.S. diplomat in Iran, Charge d'Affaires I. Bruce Laingen, and two top aides. They have been in "protective custody" at the Iranian Foreign Ministry since then, and apparently were not involved in Monday's reported escape.

The militants still hold some 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy and continue to press their demand for return of the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran.

The officials in Washington said today the six escapees did not account for the discrepancy between the number of hostages the State Department has said are in the embassy — 50 — and the number counted by American clergymen who visited the hostages at Christmas — 43.

The Canadian government decision to shut down its embassy surprised the Iranian government.

Canadian Foreign Minister Flora MacDonald cited security concerns for the decision, but the Iranian Foreign Ministry issued a statement today saying it was still seeking further clarification from the Canadians.

"We have done our best to protect them," Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said in an interview with a Tehran newspaper.

A number of Western diplomats in Tehran interviewed by a Western reporter also had expressed surprise at the Canadian decision to shut down the embassy.

Miss MacDonald said Monday the embassy would not be reopened until the American hostages were released.

Iranian radio and television, which is directed by the Moslem clergyman closest to the U.S. Embassy militants, fired a new shot today in its dispute with Iran's new president, accusing him of overstepping his authority when he vowed to "purge" the broadcast operation.

It was a further sign of a potential clash between President-elect Abolhassan Bani Sadr and the Moslem militants at the embassy. Since winning last Friday's election, Bani Sadr has made clear in his statements that he will not tolerate a rival power base in the militants.

The state radio reported new violence in restive Azerbaijan, meanwhile.

"Irresponsible armed elements" attacked an army unit marching outside the Azerbaijani city of Salmas, killing a sergeant and wounding two others, Tehran Radio said in a broadcast monitored in London.

Many ethnic Azerbaijanis in north-west Iran oppose the all-powerful rule of revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and seek greater local autonomy. They have clashed repeatedly with the central government's forces.

After the election, Bani Sadr accused the state-run radio and TV of "malpractice, bias and enmity" toward him during the campaign.

Senate ready to urge complete Olympic boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate stood ready today to urge all Americans, not just athletes, to boycott the 1980 Summer Olympic Games in Moscow.

A Senate resolution, tying an Olympic boycott to the continued Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, also calls for the Summer Games to be moved permanently to Greece and the Winter Games to be given a permanent home in a neutral nation, perhaps Austria or Switzerland.

In floor debate following unanimous approval of the resolution by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Monday, a former Olympic gold medal winner, Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., told the Senate the resolution might improve — and would not destroy — the Olympic movement.

Bradley, a member of the American Olympic basketball team in 1964 and a former star for the New York Knickerbockers professional basketball team, said a decision by the United States to pull out of the Moscow Games is fully justified.

Chilly weather grips Midlanders

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

At least for today you can forget anything the Chamber of Commerce has ever said about Midland's "quality of life" enhanced by the mild weather conditions.

Transplanted northerners probably to a familiar sight today with freezing drizzle and a slippery coating of ice on the roads.

And Midlanders, unaccustomed to these weather conditions, tried to control their pirouetting vehicles which were dancing their way down the streets this morning. Traffic on Big Spring Street was jammed for numerous blocks, vehicles skating down the street bumper to bumper.

City sanding crews weren't called out on the job until this morning. Midland Police traffic division said 24 accidents had been reported by 9 a.m., most of them minor. Odessa police just said they had "a bunch."

The State Department of Highways and Transportation has had crews out since Monday night sanding interchanges and overpasses on Interstate 20.

The weatherman has given West Texans no hope of relief before Thursday. According to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport, a travelers' advisory will be in effect tonight and Wednesday.

Chance of precipitation tonight and Wednesday stands at 20 percent, he said. Continued cold with fog will combine for a chance of freezing drizzle for the next 24 hours at least.

According to the weatherman, we only missed the warm air by 1,000 feet. "This is an over-running condition," he said, explaining that cold air is coming in from the north while warm air from the Gulf is blowing in right on top of the frigid blast.

Precipitation is being created by the warm air, but by the time it falls through the cold air, that moisture becomes freezing drizzle, he said.

"If you want to feel some warm air, just go up 1,000 feet," the weatherman quipped.

Getting up there may be a problem. Airplanes at Midland Regional Airport have been grounded, nor can flights land, said a spokesman at the airport.

Southwest Airlines reported its first two morning flights have been canceled. And Continental Airlines said there was too much ice on the runways and its flights have passed over Midland. Continental's first two flights today also have been canceled.

High Wednesday should be in the low 30s, said the weatherman. High Monday was 46 degrees, a bit cooler than the record high of 79 set on that date in 1950. The mercury should dip down to almost 20 tonight. Overnight low today was 23 degrees, still warmer than the record 2 degrees set in 1948.

The freezing weather conditions extend on a line from the northern edge of Big Bend to Texarkana, said the weatherman.

Area towns reported ice and slippery driving conditions, although no area roads had been closed and few accidents reported.

Industrial development gets boost

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

Midland's industrial development potential got a shot in the arm Monday when Midland County Commissioners approved issuing tax-free bonds to fund new or expanding business in the area.

The bond money and potential users will be coordinated through the Midland Industrial Development Corporation, a non-profit organization that will screen potential applicants before a request for funding is presented to the county.

The bonds — which will be limited only to $10 million per applicant with no ceiling on the number of possible businesses approved — will not affect the county tax rate, commissioners noted.

The bonds will be backed solely by the property of the companies which receive the funding, according to Precinct 1 Commissioner Durward Wright.

The bonds also will not affect the county's total indebtedness or its bond rating, he said.

The Midland Industrial Development Corporation will work closely with the Chamber of Commerce, Midland Area Sales Team and other organizations to bring industry to the area, according to Grant Billingsley of the Midland chamber.

The industrial development bonds, which are used in 47 other states, were approved for the first time by the 66th Texas Legislature, Billingsley said.

Use of the bonds will give Texas an additional advantage in attracting new business and allowing current industry to expand, he said.

While some 30 other areas in the state have already approved use of the bond funding, Midland is the first county in West Texas to do so, Billingsley said.

In other business, commissioners gave permission for Texas Electric Service Co. to use the County Exhibit Building as part of TESCO's disaster plan.

The permission was granted pending the approval of the county's civil defense coordinator, since commissioners weren't sure the building did not have another use designated in the city-county disaster plan.

TESCO plans to use the building as a second operating center to house extra workers brought into the area in the aftermath of a major disaster such as a tornado.

Explaining the commissioners' position on the building use, Wright said they had no objection to TESCO's request. "But it could be of considerable embarrassment to everyone if we did have a disaster and they started putting people out there (as part of the city-county disaster plan) and you started rolling men in there too," he told the TESCO representative.

Commissioners also agreed to look into participating with the Texas Association of Counties for reciprocal liability insurance.

The new insurance plan could save the county 80 to 40 percent on its liability insurance costs, according to Commissioner Wip Brown.

Defendant testifies in theft trial

Midland pipe broker Billy E. Martin testified during his theft over $10,000 trial that the pipe he sold in January 1979, to Mr. and Mrs. Neb Higgins could be used as drill pipe, but that it had acquired a "bad reputation" in the Permian Basin area.

Rebutting earlier testimony by Higgins that the pipe had no value except as structural steel, Martin testified he knew of at least three offers to purchase the pipe.

Filmmakers fight winds of rumor

BIG SPRING — The wind was briskly whipping everything not tied down.

But the main set, Hangar 18, was stable and unruffled.

Inside, carpenters were hammering away, and welders were lighting torches and bonding metal to metal in bringing a mystery to West Texas.

Just to the north and past the air control tower at Big Spring Air Industrial Park, Bill Cornford and Daxson Thomas were, unlike the unmovable hangar, somewhat ruffled by problems which they would solve. That's their job as the vanguard for the filming of Sunn Classics' movie, "Hangar 18," a mystery about an unidentified flying object.

Cornford is Sunn's associate producer; Thomas is production manager.

"Bill and I are sort of the nuts and bolts (of the production)," said Thomas. "We try to keep our fingers on all of it, so that they get all that they want. Sometimes they do; sometimes they don't."

The they just happen to be Charles E. Sellier Jr., executive producer of the $3.5 million film, and Henning Schellerup, film director.

And Cornford and Thomas are doing their darndest, despite the fickle and gusty winds and the cold, to make sure the bosses are pleased when five weeks of filming starts Feb. 19 if "The Lord's willing and the winds don't rise," quipped Thomas.

And they have their problems — from selecting the 2,000 extras among townspeople to getting the space-age sets realistic looking.

They're also searching for an already-crashed airplane for a sequence in the film.

"When you talk about crashing a twin-engine airplane, a Learjet, the costs go up," allowed Cornford. Sunn Classics, whose parent company, Schick, which pioneered the injector-razor blade, has its own Learjet but isn't going to crash it for any dramatic effect. That's for sure.

They can "dig up" a wreck of an old airplane for the after-crash scene, but they can't control wind.

"Everything around here could change, and in 10 minutes, it could be dead still," said Thomas. "We're not used to this flat country."

Sunn Classics, which taunts its productions with the logo "For a Brighter World," is headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah. The company's production is up in the mountains and among trees, which serve as wind breakers.

Sunn Classics doesn't claim to be a major cinema company with a record of Oscars, though it's "still in the ball park," noted Cornford.

Sunn has produced such theatrical films as "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams," "In Search of Noah's Ark," "Beyond and Back," "The Lincoln Conspiracy," and the feature film "The Bermuda Triangle." Television film credits include "Greatest Heroes of the Bible," "Mark Twain's America," and "Classics Illustrated."

In truth, said Thomas, Sunn is "one of the largest" producers of prime-time movies and features for television.

"It's sort of surprising us, because we don't think of ourselves as Hollywood," he said. "Hollywood doesn't think of us as Hollywood."

"Have you read any reviews?" jested Cornford.

The film's three principal actors have not yet been announced but will be after the script has gone through its metamorphoses and the contracts speaking parts will be in the film.

But the production's biggest problems — for now — are getting the sets, including the UFO, readied and keeping rumors quelled.

"The sets on this show are enormously expensive, because of the electronics involved," said Thomas, who also noted that the production, which started out nowadays run up a $30 million bill or more. "It doesn't take no time to eat up $3½ million."

And the production staff killed those false rumors about a Big Bang on the set at the former Webb Air Force Base here.

"The rumor got around that we were going to blow up the hangar," said Thomas. "That almost scared the city to death."

"...And the man who owns the airplanes" out here, tacked on Cornford.

Historian says McArthur accepted illegal 'gift'

BOSTON (AP) — As Japanese invaders closed in on Corregidor Island in 1942, Gen. Douglas MacArthur illegally accepted $500,000 from an ailing Philippine president facing exile, a researcher claims.

President Manuel Quezon, who died of tuberculosis in the United States in 1944, issued an executive order on Jan. 3, 1942, giving MacArthur and three of the general's aides a total of $640,000, said Dr. Carol M. Petillo, a Boston College historian.

In an interview Monday night, she said she uncovered a copy of the order while researching her doctoral dissertation. She also found a U.S. War Department letter to the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York claiming that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of War Henry Stimson knew of the transaction.

Based on her reading of the 1938 edition of the U.S. Army Code of Conduct forbidding U.S. officers to accept gifts, Ms. Petillo said she believed MacArthur's acceptance of the money was illegal.

According to the executive order, Quezon ordered the money transferred from the Philippine treasury to the personal bank accounts of MacArthur and his staff members "in recognition of outstanding service to the Commonwealth of the Philippines."

MacArthur died in 1964. Ms. Petillo did not name the staff members.

From 1935-41 MacArthur served as commander of the armed forces of the Philippines, then a semi-autonomous U.S. commonwealth. Roosevelt appointed MacArthur commander of U.S. forces in the Far East in July 1941, six months before Japanese attacks at Pearl Harbor and Clark Field in the Philippines plunged the United States into World War II.

The general moved his headquarters to Corregidor, a fortified island in Manila Bay, after the Japanese overran Manila on their way to conquering the Philippines. Quezon also moved to Corregidor.

MacArthur was under orders from Roosevelt to get Quezon to safety to establish a government in exile. But he initially opposed the move, claiming the 64-year-old president was too ill to make the journey.

Ms. Petillo discovered the executive order in the papers of the late Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, who was MacArthur's chief of staff. She said she had found no other explanation for the payment other than the "recognition of outstanding service" mentioned in the order.

But she noted that MacArthur decided to let Quezon leave Corregidor after the order was issued. Quezon and his family fled on a U.S. submarine in February, about the time the money transfer was confirmed by radiogram from the War Department, she said.

MacArthur slipped away for Australia in March, and the remaining U.S.-Philippine forces capitulated May 6.

"There are many layers to the story and to call the money a bribe would be simplistic," said Ms. Petillo. "I couldn't be sure that Quezon was conscious of such a thing. He was under a tremendous strain and suffering from tuberculosis. President Quezon could have believed he was acting in the best interests of his countrymen, as perhaps he was."

She speculated Roosevelt and others in Washington overlooked the transfer to ensure the general's cooperation in fighting the Japanese. "We needed a hero," she said.

Ms. Petillo and other historians said there have been rumors linking Quezon and MacArthur in business deals.

Youth testifies in 'witch trial'

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — A Dimmitt youth said he told his friends on Halloween night of 1977 "this can't be the place" where "devil worshippers" lived because he recognized it as a place where his mother bought eggs for more than a year.

Carlos Garza was Monday's final witness in the murder trial of Loy Dean Stone, a 50-year-old self-professed witch on trial for the shotgun slaying of a 15-year-old girl who was crowded with Garza and three other teen-agers in a pickup truck that pulled into the Stone driveway.

Garza said the five youngsters left a Halloween carnival in Dimmitt about 7:45 p.m. after the victim, Roxanne Casas, asked the others "if we would go with her riding around."

The fatal shooting occurred about an hour later. Stone's wife, Louise, also is charged with the shooting, but her trial was severed from that of her husband's.

Garza said he didn't know where they were going, only that they were going out looking for "devil worshippers." Garza said Miss Casas said she and some other friends had been out there before and had been shot at.

When they got to the Stone property, Garza said, he realized he had been there before.

"This can't be the place. My mother used to buy eggs here," he said he told the others.

"We pulled in there and sat for a minute, and Arthur (Herrera, the driver) said '...let's get...out of here.' The shots came in and they killed her," Garza said. They weren't in the Stone's driveway more than 30 seconds, he added.

The shooting prompted a furor in the Dimmitt Hispanic community, and the trial was moved to Plainview, 45 miles southeast.

Lena Mae Elmquist, a clerk in the A&M Gun Shop in Hereford when Stone bought a shotgun, said he made the purchase on Oct. 14, about two weeks before the shooting.

District Attorney Jimmy Davis indicated the state's case will continue at least through this afternoon.

Previous testimony indicated the Stones had complained they were being harassed and vandalized by area youngsters. They had appeared on an Amarillo television program earlier in the month.

The Stones, both high priests in the Church of Wicca, have pleaded innocent. Members of the church said they do not worship the devil. They do believe in witchcraft, reincarnation and psychic phenomena, they said.

Deficit bigger than expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress began reviewing President Carter's proposed 1981 budget today, the director of the Congressional Budget Office said the government is facing a $14 billion deeper deficit this year than had been expected.

Alice Rivlin told the House Budget Committee that the deficit for fiscal 1980 could soar to $44 billion, compared with the $29.8 billion red-ink figure projected in the budget approved by Congress last year.

The budget office also reported that federal spending will exceed the 1980 budget ceiling by about $12 billion. Congress approved a $547.6 billion spending limit for fiscal 1980, which began last Oct. 1.

"CBO now estimates that federal spending growth will accelerate in 1980 and that the budget deficit could exceed the second concurrent resolution by $10 billion or more," Mrs. Rivlin said.

She said the higher spending and deficit figures are likely because of higher-than-expected interest costs, higher inflation and higher farm price supports resulting from the Soviet grain embargo and a bumper U.S. corn crop.

The new budget office projections could force Congress to pass a third 1980 budget resolution this spring. However, that would reopen last year's lengthy battle over spending priorities and the size of the deficit.

Meanwhile, reaction to President Carter's 1981 budget and its emphasis on military spending was generally favorable, although some Republicans chided the president for failing to balance the 1981 budget as he once pledged he would.

Stacy Dam hearing to be held Thursday

BIG SPRING — Judge Herman Jones will hear arguments Thursday in the appeal of opponents to the Stacy Reservoir permit awarded to the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The hearing will be in district court at Austin. Defending the permit will be the State of Texas represented by Tim J. Brown of the attorney general's staff, along with Frank Booth of Austin and Jim Wilson of Houston. They claim the permit issued by the Texas Water Commission after a year-long hearing was proper and legally correct.

The defendants challenge the idea that unappropriated water is the remainder when all permits and certified filings on record are subtracted from the estimated yield.

Opponents, led by the Lower Colorado River Authority, argue there are only 3,000 acre feet of water remaining, whereas the permit is for 113,000 acre feet annual diversion.

They challenge projected growth figures for the upper basin and Permian Basin areas, saying there will be no demand for the water. In addition, they argue the Stacy project is a way of transferring West Texas water shortage woes on the lower basins.

They will argue the TWC erred in not requiring approval of an operations manual before the permit was issued.

Police search for man who stuck up grocery

Police are looking for a black male, 18 to 25 years of age, who reportedly robbed a grocery store at gunpoint Monday night. An undetermined amount of cash was taken.

At 9:25 p.m., police were notified of the robbery at J.L. & Sons Grocery at 1822 E. Pecan.

According to the clerk on duty at the time of the robbery, the man entered the store, pointed a pistol at her head and escorted her to the cash register. He then told her to open the register. When she did, he allegedly removed all of the cash from it, police reports said.

The man fled the store on foot. He was wearing a blue and white ski mask, a gray-green coat, green Army-type pants and tennis shoes, the clerk told police.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

Pitching a Curve

By Alfred Sheinwold

In a Mixed Pair event the typical male expert tries to hornswoogie his female opponent. Such tactics helped Los Angeles experts Mike Smolen and Juanita Skelton win the North American Mixed Pair Championship in Cincinnati last November.

Smolen pitched a curve when he bid one heart, trying to steer the opponents away from what he guessed was their best suit. If doubled, he would run to diamonds. As a result, South got to an inferior game in spades instead of an untouchable game in hearts.

SOUTH'S PROBLEM
When West led two high diamonds South had a problem. At rubber bridge she would discard a heart, on the second diamond, saving her trumps to cope with the probable 4-2 trump break. In tournament play, however, she had to try for as many tricks as other North-South experts would make at four hearts.

South therefore ruffed the second diamond, fished with the queen of hearts and drew three rounds of trumps. When the trumps failed to divide evenly South had no play for her contract.

ANSWER: The orthodox bid is three or four diamonds. If you want to throw a spitball by bidding one heart you must remember that spitting into the wind is a dangerous pastime.

Stop, smell the roses

Work already is under way on a project that, when completed, truly will give Midlanders the opportunity to "stop and smell the roses."

Midland City Council a week ago quickly and decisively gave the go-ahead nod to Midland Rose Society's plans for a rose garden directly behind the new fire station building in the 1500 block of West Texas Avenue.

From all indications, the rose garden will be a beautiful addition to the city. Design of the rose garden is intended to make it accessible and enjoyable to the visually handicapped, also.

The garden will feature benches and trellises covered with roses and an open area designed for wedding ceremonies.

Midland Rose Garden will be a welcome addition to the landscape of the West Texas Avenue area. Midland has many natural features that have made it the progressive, dynamic community it is today. Unfortunately, physical beauty was not one of the attractions Midland received, although there is a form of beauty to be found in a country where the setting sun meets the level plains.

Midlanders have attempted to beautify the city to some degree, but it isn't an easy task. To be successful, a beautification program needs the support of numerous residents.

The Midland Rose Society is to be commended for its interest in helping to beautify Midland. That interest should spur many more individuals and organizations to action.

The society is planning a truly professional rose garden and has called in professional help in planning it.

In addition to diligent efforts of the rose society, Midland City Council deserves credit for its commitment to the project, illustrated by rapid approval.

According to rose society members, the day following council approval members of the city Parks & Recreation Department already were at the rose garden site beginning work.

But even more assistance is needed by the Midland Rose Society. Additional funds will be required to maintain the garden as an area of perpetual beauty. Donations of money are tax deductible, the society says, and offers to work in the garden will be appreciated, too.

The Midland Rose Garden will be an area of beauty in the city of which all Midlanders can be proud. It deserves our full and enthusiastic support.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Who's running the show in Moscow?

BY JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — There are whispers in Moscow that the Afghanistan invasion was forced upon the aging and ailing Soviet leader, Leonid Brezhnev, who was simply too weak to resist.

This would be a foreboding development for the world; it could mean that the Kremlin has fallen under the control of hardheads who are willing to use raw military power to expand the Soviet empire.

Their most likely objective would be the Persian Gulf — the oil heartland that pumps the industrial lifeblood to the western world. This could lead to the most dangerous confrontation in history, with bristling nuclear weaponry on both sides.

It is difficult to discern what goes on in the murky depths of the Kremlin. The leaders who inhabit it are dark, bulky forms who enter and leave in black, curtained limousines. Their deliberations are unwatched and unchecked by the 263 million people they govern.

Our intelligence agencies, nevertheless, have succeeded in catching fleeting glimpses inside the Kremlin. On occasion, they have even intercepted the private conversations of Soviet leaders.

From top-secret intelligence reports and from the analyses of top U.S. Kremlinologists, I have pieced together an account of what has been going on behind those forbidding Kremlin walls.

There is general agreement that Brezhnev — against the opposition of the hardheads — had staked his leadership on detente. The showdown came in 1972 when Brezhnev invited then-President Richard Nixon to Moscow for a summit meeting.

Kremlin leaders try to hide their disputes behind an opaque front, but Brezhnev later confided to the party faithful that Nixon's visit had not been opposed. Relates a top-secret report: "In discussing the Central Committee meeting of May 1972, which approved President Nixon's visit despite the course of the war in Vietnam, Brezhnev hinted that there was opposition at this 'turning point'..."

The opposition flared up again after Nixon mined Haiphong harbor, trapping 12 Soviet cargo ships inside a ring of explosive charges. The hardheads angrily demanded that the summit meeting be canceled.

But Brezhnev is described in the intelligence analyses as "a consensus politician" who has been able to balance the rival factions against one another. He succeeded in quieting the uproar.

In the final poll of the Politburo, only the Ukrainian party leader, Pyotr Shelest, would not be appeased. He growled that Nixon would not be welcome in the Ukraine. "I will not shake the hand that has been bloodied in Vietnam," he reportedly declared.

Brezhnev turned to Vladimir Shcherbitsky, another Ukrainian, who ranked below Shelest in the Politburo. "Do you agree with Comrade

CHARLEY REESE Media has limitations in reporting the news

ORLANDO, Fla. — A guy wrote the other day and asked me what my qualifications were. He said some people think I'm "protecting the public interest" and he said he thinks this is not always the case.

Well, he's wrong. It is never the case.

With the 1980 elections upon us, it's just as well that I clear the air about the role of the press. It is not to protect the public interest. It is not even to discover truth if you want to get technical about it.

The press is a business. We are in the business of selling a product which is a newspaper, a magazine or a broadcast. To sell our advertising space and time, we must attract readers and viewers. To attract them, we publish or broadcast news.

News is not necessarily what's true. If I am reporting on an interview with a politician, my sole concern as a newsman is to report accurately what he said. What he said may be all lies, but it is not the function of a news reporter to make that judgment. It is a function of columnists although some choose not to exercise it and to remain essentially reporters.

Political campaigns are covered like a sporting event. Most political reporters are sophisticated about the mechanics of campaigning and they have a strong tendency to judge a politician strictly on the basis of his political skills. For example, they will see as a success a president who can get his legislation through the Congress, even though the legislation itself may be the worst thing since the plague. Some of them may even recognize how bad the legislation is but they do not see that as their function. It is their job to tell you what happened; it is up to you to decide if what happened is good or bad.

The press is also subject to conformity. Why not? The press as an institution is made up of human beings. A person doesn't like to go to a party wearing evening attire when everyone else is dressed casually and no editor likes to wake up and discover that every other newspaper in the country chose an entirely different set of stories for their front pages.

This is especially true of the Washington press corps which is relatively small and close-knit with a very definite hierarchy of big bears, middle sized bears and little baby bears. The New York Times and Washington Post and the networks are big bears and the rest tend to take their cue from them.

If, for example, the Post and Times agree that politician A's showing in the Iowa caucus is important, it is very likely the three networks will say it is important and what little bear wants to disagree with five big bears? Furthermore, the situation is complicated by the interplay of media influence and events. If the Times and the Post and three networks say politician A's showing in Iowa is important, then it becomes important because they all said it was.

Finally a great deal of political news is just propaganda. When a politician calls a news conference, he does so because he has some specific goal in mind, something he wants to say. Sometimes an important figure will grant an exclusive interview or invite a select few in for a briefing. They know they are being used but they want the story and they want the prestige of being part of the elite who hobnob with important people. Well, the way you pay the chit is to report the news that was prepared for you.

The American press is the best there is and we do serve the public interest often as a by-product, but it is very important that you understand our limitations.

My personal value as a columnist is a product of my limited ambition. Having once worked in the circle of national politics, I have chosen to remove myself. I am living where I want to live and doing what I want to do. Therefore, I have no chits to pay and I am free of peer pressure.

The disadvantage of that choice is that I have no inside information to report; the advantage is objectivity and perspective. As for being right, I can only claim to be honest; only the pope and the New York Times claim infallibility.

Mark Russell says

Anyone who tells you the mood of America is gloomy hasn't met anyone who works for the Ajax Aircraft Carrier Co. or the Amalgamated Destroyer Works.

A lot of people are happy with the current situation these days but the poor things can't show it.

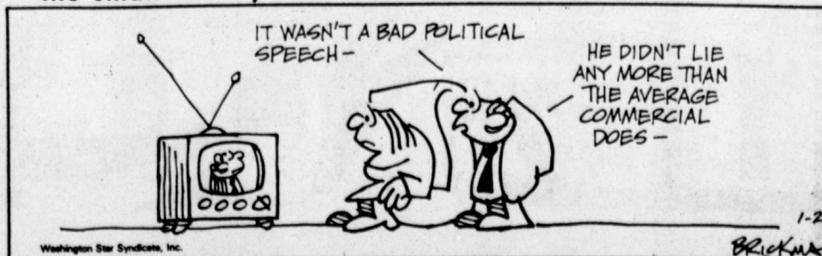

The situation is also good news for Jimmy Carter. Whenever some foreign crackpot insults him, Carter goes up a notch in the polls. The Republicans should start a fund to bribe foreign crackpots into insulting them.

Whenever some wise guy asks Jody Powell if the ayatollah is the campaign manager, Powell has to look serious.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1980. There are 337 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 29, 1900, the "American League of Baseball Clubs" was organized in Philadelphia. The National League had been in operation for years.

On this date: In 1737, Thomas Paine — who wrote the revolutionary pamphlet "Common Sense" — was born in England. In 1949, Britain granted de facto recognition to the new state of Israel.

In 1963, the French vetoed Britain's request for entrance into the European Common Market.

In 1972, an FBI agent at New York's Kennedy Airport shot and killed the hijacker of a jet en route from Los Angeles.

Ten years ago, Syrian jets roared over the Israeli port of Haifa, shattering windows with sonic booms. It was the first such raid in three years.

Five years ago, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat concluded a three-day visit to France, announcing Cairo's purchase of Mirage jet fighters.

Last year, President Carter commuted Patricia Hearst's seven-year bank robbery sentence after she had served 22 months.

Today's birthdays: Victor Mature is 64. John Forsythe is 62.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan campaigners preparing for a bloody battle

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

NASHUA, N.H. — An exhausted, ecstatic George Bush rushed from Des Moines and morning-after victory interviews over national television to New Hampshire and a world he had not faced before: huge but skeptical crowds, Ronald Reagan actually on the scene and hard-nosed enemies who take him seriously.

No sooner had Bush's stunning win in the Iowa caucuses been confirmed than Reagan's New Hampshire operatives sent word west: He must campaign heavily here or suffer a second — perhaps fatal — defeat. Reagan's previous promise of eight more days in the state was promptly doubled to 16. What's more, his operatives here are ending glacial disdain of Bush, substituting personal attacks.

How well Bush will adjust to this new world was put in doubt by his early performance as Reagan's Iowa conqueror. Obviously tired, he did not maintain his dynamic pace and cooled off voters who had come to be convinced. With Reagan on the scene campaigning, it will take more than that to win here.

Bush's post-Iowa euphoria was buttressed by telephone calls to his campaign offices around the nation from bandwagon leapers. The most prominent new ally: respected South Carolina party war horse Harry Dent. But to confirm his breakthrough from the Republican pack, Bush needs at least a strong second in New Hampshire's Feb. 26 primary.

Former Gov. Hugh Gregg, Reagan's astute 1976 campaign manager, has painstakingly built a statewide organization for Bush that includes many erstwhile Reaganites and seems superior to Reagan's present apparatus. But organization counts for less in New Hampshire's primary than in Iowa's caucuses, and Gregg has fretted about Bush's anemic voter identification.

Evans

Iowa's triumph ended that problem, as shown by the crowd generated here the next day by the man who last year gave hour-long speeches to a dozen voters. As one of the mid-winter's biggest snowstorms began, over 200 voters attended a Walpole reception. Two hours later, 1,200 (many braving treacherously icy roads) jammed into Keene State College's student union. Every seat was taken the next morning at a chamber of commerce breakfast in Nashua.

The exhausted candidate was admittedly not his best at Keene State. But even after a good night's sleep at Gregg's home in Nashua, he seemed distracted by his new eminence. In Iowa, he delivered Reaganite pronouncements on economics and foreign policy more forcefully than the current Reagan; his triumphant return to New Hampshire reverted to the fence-straddling that has plagued moderate Republicans.

The breakfasting businessmen in Nashua came to be impressed and left disappointed by Bush's repetition, imprecision and refusal to take a hard position on issues ranging from child day care to nuclear power; the room cooled when Bush declared he didn't know enough to have an opinion on the Seabrook, N.H., nuclear power plant.

A consulting engineer from nearby Amherst before hearing the speech told us he had reduced the field to Reagan and Bush, but planned "to cement my choice for Bush today" because of "better experience and more smarts." After the speech his Yankee verdict: "Too much waffling. It's back to Reagan."

Bush cannot stand many such performances, considering what is being planned for him inside a shabby frame house in a rundown Manchester residential neighborhood. That is Reagan's state campaign nerve center run by Jerry Carmen, a veteran New Hampshire political practitioner famed for tough tactics.

Carmen, who long ago made clear he would not abide Reagan proconsuls sent by national headquarters (as was done in Iowa), insisted on Reagan's doubled exposure here, beginning Sunday. Furthermore, there will be no "imperial candidacy" on the Iowa model; he has scheduled questions-and-answers for every stop plus long hand-shaking sessions on the New Hampshire model (though Carmen opposes Reagan joining a multi-candidate debate).

Reagan will presumably stick to his 11th commandment against speaking ill of another Republican, but that does not bind Jerry Carmen. The campaign's thrust will question whether George Bush is fit to be president or is the finished product of expert public relations. Carmen contends that Bush, having broken out of the pack, deserves close scrutiny.

The focus of this assault is Bob Goodman, a Bush television consultant who is credited by Carmen with having transformed Bush's personality. On the day Bush arrived from Iowa, he and Goodman were bludgeoned on page one of the Manchester Union-Leader by publisher William Loeb (an ally of Carmen) and by Loeb's new feature writer, ex-Gov. Wesley Powell (renowned for prolific shedding of Republican blood over a generation).

Gregg welcomes the assault of his arch-enemy Loeb, but that conflicts with memories of what the Union-Leader did to Nelson Rockefeller, Edmund Muskie and, most recently, Phillip Crane. From the gentlemanly caucuses of Iowa, Bush has entered the bloody primary battleground of New Hampshire where Reagan's men know his diluted myth of invincibility cannot withstand another setback.

WORLD BRIEFS

Sakharov demands right to speak out

MOSCOW (AP) — Banished human rights activist Andrei Sakharov once again defied the Kremlin's efforts to silence him, charging the Soviet government with violating his "basic right to receive and disseminate information" and challenging it to put him on trial before the world.

"I am prepared to stand before a public and open court. I do not need a gilded cage. I need the right to do my civic duty as my conscience dictates," the 58-year-old nuclear physicist said in a statement relayed to reporters Monday by his wife.

Sakharov, who won the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize for his fight for human rights in the Soviet Union, was taken from his Moscow apartment last week and exiled to Gorky, an industrial city of 1.3 million people 250 miles east of Moscow that is off limits to foreigners because military equipment is manufactured there.

Three killers to hang

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A chaplain, a doctor and several police and prison officials were to be the only witnesses for three convicted killers condemned to die at the gallows in Her Majesty's Fox Hill Prison.

The men were condemned to die one after the other this morning. They were to be manacled, hooded and led into the death chamber, fitted with a noose and placed over a trap door sprung by an anonymous executioner.

Late Monday, the Advisory Committee for the Perogative of Mercy rejected last-minute pleas to spare Charles Dickenson, 21, Winsette Hart, 23, and Vernal Storr, 26.

"There has been no change in arrangements for the hangings," a committee spokesman said.

Dickenson was convicted of the October 1977 rape-murder of 19-year-old Desiree Dalville of Freeport, Bahamas. Hart and Storr were sentenced to death for the 1977 murder of Cedric Cleare, 60.

The last person hanged here was an American, Michiah Shobek, who was executed in October 1976 for the slaying of New York accountant Irwin Bernstein in January 1974.

Bomb rips Syrian Embassy

PARIS (AP) — A bomb ripped through the ground floor of the Syrian Embassy in Paris this morning, killing one person and injuring eight, three of them seriously, French police said.

One of the seriously injured was a pregnant woman, the officials said. The identity of the person killed was not immediately revealed, but seven of the injured were embassy personnel and the eighth was a woman passerby.

The blast occurred about two hours before the arrival from Damascus of Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam. He is to meet President Valery Giscard d'Estaing Wednesday before going to Strasbourg to address a meeting of the Parliamentary Assembly of the 21-nation Council of Europe.

Delegation to go to Pakistan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-level delegation of U.S. officials is preparing to fly to Pakistan for security talks in the wake of the Soviet military intervention in neighboring Afghanistan.

The delegation will include Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher and, according to The Washington Post, Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser.

The group will leave Thursday. The Post reported in Tuesday's editions. It also reported that a military delegation, led by Assistant Secretary of Defense David E. McGiffert, would leave this week to follow up with technical discussions.

Yun Po-sun, not jailed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The Seoul garrison commander today exempted South Korea's only living former president and a noted Quaker leader from prison sentences imposed for holding an anti-government rally in November.

Former President Yun Po-sun, 82, and Hahn Suk-hun, a 77-year-old Quaker leader, had been sentenced Friday to prison terms of two years and one year, respectively.

They apparently were spared prison because of their age. Both had been free while their sentences were being reviewed.

The garrison commander upheld prison sentences ranging from one to four years imposed against 16 others in connection with the rally. He reduced two sentences from two years to one and exempted two other defendants from one-year prison terms.

Yun and 17 others were convicted for holding an anti-government rally billed as a wedding ceremony at the downtown YWCA auditorium on Nov. 24.

Troops alerted to repel stars from border

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Cambodian troops will be on the alert to repel a group of Western celebrities, including folk singer Joan Baez, who plan to cross the border next week to deliver supplies to the starving, Phnom Penh Radio said today.

Ms. Baez, a one-time anti-war protester, will be among more than 150 entertainers, politicians and others who plan to deliver 20 truckloads of supplies across the Thai border into Cambodia beginning Feb. 5. She also plans to give a benefit concert in Bangkok.

Chevron energy report:

1980 OIL SUPPLIES— NOT A BARREL TO SPARE.

America's energy situation is in a delicate balance between supply and consumption.

If we can maintain the balance, America should have an adequate supply of fuel for 1980. Motorists should have enough gasoline, if used carefully, truckers enough diesel fuel, and homeowners enough heating oil.

But we could lose our balance. Continuing political unrest in the Middle East could cause a reduction in our nation's oil supply. Considering our heavy dependence on foreign oil, this could cause shortages here at home.

And in 1980, we can't expect increased domestic oil production or alternate energy development to tip the balance in our favor. But we are optimistic that continuing large investments will result in new sources of domestic energy for the future.

Consumption levels could also tip the balance. An increase in oil consumption would have a very negative effect. So, strong conservation efforts, which proved effective in 1979, will be more necessary than ever this year.

Therefore, we must accelerate our efforts to find new sources of domestic energy, and continue to conserve the energy we have.

Thank you for listening.

'The Schnozz' dies at age 86

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jimmy Durante, the brash, raspy-voiced comic who joked and sang his way to fame at the expense of a huge nose, died today. He was 86.

The death early this morning was confirmed by a nursing supervisor at St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica, where Durante was admitted Jan. 7 for treatment of pneumonia, a form of pneumonia.

It was not known whether any members of the family were with Durante at the time.

The famed "Schnozzola" was one of show business' most beloved personalities. Durante's fractured song-piano-joke routines, including his trademark "Inka Dinka Doo," were a show business staple for 64 years. A stroke in November 1972 left him partially paralyzed and forced him to retire from show business. Two years later, he was honored at a tearful appearance before the Bananshees in New York.

Durante artfully combined wild clowning, outrageous characterizations and pathos. He was a leading star on radio and in early television. He made nearly 30 movies, but he was most successful in those involving his old routines. He ended his radio and television performances with "Good night, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are." He once confided that he was referring to his first wife, who had died.

He remained active in show business, playing regular engagements in Las Vegas and making guest appearances on television until his stroke in 1972. He was left partially paralyzed in the left arm and left leg and was confined to a wheelchair.

Israel rejects proposals for Palestinian autonomy

By The Associated Press

Israel today rejected Egypt's proposals for Palestinian autonomy, saying they were not acceptable as a basis for negotiation. U.S. officials admitted the two countries' positions were "diametrically opposed" and said America was starting to play a more active role in the talks.

Special Mideast envoy Sol Linowitz was to arrive in Israel later today for talks with Prime Minister Menachem Begin after meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Cairo. There, Linowitz said he was optimistic the two countries could agree to an autonomy plan by the May deadline set under their peace treaty.

A U.S. official travelling with Linowitz cautioned that in the next few months "I predict sharp exchanges, moments when it looks like the negotiations are stuck at dead center, moments of apparent deadlock when no progress seems possible. All this is part of the game," added the official, who declined use of his name.

He said Linowitz will try to establish contact with Palestinians in the occupied territories, but had received no direct encouragement that they will agree to meet him. Linowitz had heard indirectly "that if we move forward enough, the Palestinians are going to find it hard not to become involved" in the autonomy talks, he said, but would not give details. The Palestinians have so far refused to join the negotiations.

Assad moves closer to Soviets

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Beseet by nagging domestic terrorism and fearful of an Israeli attack without Egypt to help him, President Hafez Assad is moving Syria closer to the Soviet Union despite the Russians' unpopularity in Afghanistan. Assad, leader of the Arab opposition to the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, declared his "eagerness to deepen cooperation with the Soviet Union" Monday after a four-hour meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

DEAR ABBY

Girl friend's gifts are rapped

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How do I go about telling the girl our son dates to please stop buying our family expensive gifts for every occasion? It embarrasses us to accept them since we can't afford to reciprocate.

She comes from a very large family, and because she gave everyone in our family she ever said hello to a Christmas gift last year, my son felt that he had to do the same for her family. (He is still paying for them.)

For Valentine's Day she gave me a present and also my husband. On Mother's Day, another one, and she's not even engaged to our son. She even found out when our birthdays were (mine and my husband's and the other children's, even the grandparents!) and the presents come.

I have no objections to her exchanging gifts with my son, but I wish she would leave the rest of his family alone. So, what should I do? — TOO MANY GIFTS

DEAR TOO MANY: Ask your son to tell the young lady that he appreciates her thoughtfulness and generosity but prefers that she discontinue the gift-giving to the members of his family.

State cancer crusade chairman addresses board

Texas State Crusade Chairman Juandelle Lacy of Midland told the board of directors of the Midland Unit of the American Cancer Society that ACS scientists used the words "very promising" in describing cancer treatment experiments with the drug interferon.

She said the scientists were quick to add that another two or three years experiments were necessary before they would know if interferon was a successful drug in treating cancer.

Mrs. Lacy said she spoke with the ACS scientists recently at the kickoff of the national cancer crusade for 1980.

She said Dr. Frank Rauscher, ACS senior vice president for research, voiced high optimism about the society's pioneering study to discover if the natural drug interferon has anticancer activity.

"The answer is definitely 'yes' — we have succeeded, but we still have two or three years of intensive research yet to do," said Dr. Rauscher, according to Mrs. Lacy.

Mrs. Lacy challenged the Midland board members to join her Club 2000. She said the club is her personal project to raise $2,000,000 from across Texas for interferon research through the Cancer Society. Each member of the club will either contribute or collect $1,000, she said.

Mrs. Lacy said high costs — about $50,000 per year per patient at present — have held back interferon experiments. She said most experiments with the drug to date would not have been possible had not certain hospitals donated their facilities. She named MD Anderson in Houston as one.

Mrs. Lacy said the scientists related the high cost of interferon to its being a drug produced by the human body. The ACS scientists reported recent research promises low-cost production of interferon in the future, and she called recent investments in interferon research by the major pharmaceutical firms "another promising sign."

Members of the Midland board of the Cancer Society made reports on recent activities. Local crusade chairman Ken Callaway reported details in preparation for the 1980 crusade in Midland.

And if that doesn't do the trick, send her thank-you cards for the gifts, and let it go at that.

DEAR ABBY: You suggested that it might be a good idea to invite someone who might be alone to spend Christmas with your family.

I am a widow, and my children and grandchildren all live far away and can't be here for the holidays. I work, so it's impossible for me to visit them. Being ALONE doesn't mean being LONELY, Abby. I have received three invitations so far, and I would much rather spend Christmas Day alone than to accept any of the invitations.

Why? Well, with my limited income, I can't buy gifts for the whole family, or even for the hostess. Second, while the invitations are sincere and well-meant, nobody considers how I am to arrive at their home for the meal.

Third, the meal is usually set for late afternoon, and it is well into the dark of the evening before I can leave and I don't want to go home alone at night. (It's rude to eat and run.)

So I will decline all Christmas dinners, and spend Christmas resting up and eating what and when I want.

If some kind soul knows that an older single person is alone and lonely, transportation to and from the dinner should be provided. — STEADY READER

DEAR READER: Of course, it's too late for Christmas 1979, but it would be well to remember your words for all of those special occasions in 1980.

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you in her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby in care of this newspaper.

Labor Day? scheduled

Labor Day in January?

Members of the Communications Workers of America, the Carpenters Union and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of the Texas AFL-CIO will collect funds in Midland Thursday as a Labor of Love for the March of Dimes.

Union members will be at various downtown intersections, as well as union plant sites, collecting donations from Midlanders to help in the fight against birth defects, our nation's leading child health problem, reports Francis Abernathy, Labor of Love project chairman.

Monies collected from the AFL-CIO union project will be used for public and professional health education, research, medical services in perinatal and genetic medicine and community services.

January is March of Dimes month across the nation and Thursday commemorates the birthdate of Franklin D. Roosevelt, founder of the March of Dimes. The project also serves as a memorial to George Meany, former AFL-CIO president, who devoted much of his life to ensure quality, both on the job and at birth. Meany served on the board of trustees for the March of Dimes.

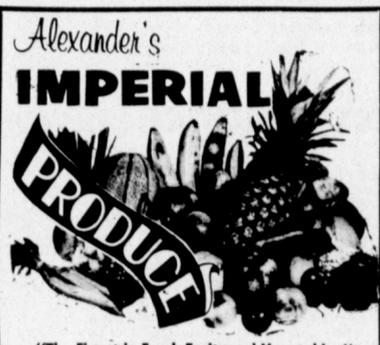

It is significant that labor's involvement with the March of Dimes contributed to the victory over polio, just as their involvement will greatly enhance the fight against birth defects.

Doctor admits career is on balance

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Like every other recent law school graduate, Jack Lee is feverishly studying for next month's bar exam. A career hangs in the balance, and he admits he's worried.

But the similarity ends there. Dr. Jack Lee was one of San Antonio's leading eye surgeons for 30 years before he retired three years ago to become a lawyer. He also happens to be 65 years old.

"I can't afford to fail the bar exam at my age," said Lee. "I'm getting too old. Time is running out. If I'm going to accomplish my goals, I need to get on with it."

"Plus, it would be very embarrassing. What would I tell my six grandchildren, not to mention my three sons?" he added. "Don't believe any law school graduate who tells you he's not worried about passing the bar exams. Yes, I'm worried."

"Law school was not easy for me. It's just as hard as medical school. I wasn't at the top of my class. I was right in the middle. I'm just thankful I wasn't at the bottom."

At this point, you no doubt think Dr. Jack Lee took leave of his senses three years ago when he took the St. Mary's University Law School entrance exam and abandoned his lucrative ophthalmology practice.

But there were a variety of circumstances three years ago that combined to land Lee in the St. Mary's freshman class.

First of all, Lee was getting on in years, and he was determined to retire as a surgeon while he was still accomplished and respected. "I didn't want to stay past my prime and be an old, decrepit liability," he said.

Then there was the divorce from his wife of 36 years. "There was no other man or woman or anything like that. We just drifted apart," he explained. And there were the often bitter battles between the medical and legal professions, usually centered around malpractice suits. Lee said he was never sued, but had plenty of fellow doctors who were. The bitterness troubled him.

Mix all that with a lifelong fascination with the law, and energetic Dr. Jack Lee was a law student.

His family, fellow doctors and patients were supportive, but some would jokingly tell him he had gone crazy. "I think they were half-serious," he quipped. He also got a great deal of support from his new classmates — most of whom were 40 years younger.

"The first day at registration, the young fellows were kind of worried about what to call me. There had been a little publicity about my decision, so they knew who I was. But they didn't know what to call me," Lee recalled. "I said, 'Why don't you just call me Jack?' So they did."

"I asked for and received no special treatment. I didn't do anything any other student didn't do. Many of them did it better," he said. "I made a lot of friends and opened a whole new life. That was important, particularly after my divorce."

Lee intends to become a medical-legal consultant, working with lawyers at the secondary level in insurance, workmen's compensation and medical malpractice cases. He said he would not directly take any cases, entering one only when asked by another lawyer.

AT WIT'S END

No more 'Mr. Nice Guy'

By ERMA BOMBECK

Anti-smoking crusaders have stopped being Mr. Nice Guy.

Remember how they used to suggest rather politely that smoking causes cancer, emphysema, harmful effects to your unborn child, damage to the lungs of people around you who inhale and early death?

Well, that was a bedtime story compared to a new threat. A University of Louisville researcher has announced smoking decreases your sexual desire and your ability to make love!

Childish scribbles are form of art

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Red scribbles on paper. A purple dog. A doll with a broken arm.

It may not sound like art to most people, but art therapist Robert Rice says it definitely is art.

"We don't expect 2-year-olds to talk in complete sentences, and we shouldn't expect kids to make pictures that make sense to us. But we do expect it, all the time," said Rice, who holds a master's degree in clinical art therapy.

Children see the world in their own special ways and draw it that way too, Rice said. Parents who want children to draw "right" aren't letting them express their own feelings.

"To a child, 'My drawing is me.' If parents don't accept a drawing for what it is, the child may not feel accepted either," Rice said.

Children learn to walk and talk in stages. They learn to draw that way too, Rice said. "Until they are about 4, most children are more interested in how it feels to draw than in making a picture adults will recognize. They like the feel of scribbling."

Pictures come after the scribbles, he says. "We reinforce children's sounds by making sounds along with them. We can do the same by letting children scribble and praising them for it."

As children learn to talk, Rice said, they will name their scribbles. "It doesn't matter whether it looks like a dog to you," he said. "To your child, it's a dog. So call it a dog."

If that doesn't clear the air... nothing will. Several couples were discussing it the other night and Mayva said she didn't understand the logic behind it.

Her husband, Jim, wanted to know which part she didn't understand — smoking or sexual desire.

Jill said she thought the theory had a lot of merit because she noted a change in her own desires when she quit smoking.

Her husband, Ralph, looked shocked and said, "You never told me. When did you quit smoking?"

Paula said she thought the reported increase in sexual desires after giving up cigarettes was a bunch of garbage. She thought it was "just something to do to keep your mind off smoking like chewing gum or snacking."

I personally didn't see how smoking diminished sex drives because there was nothing more romantic in this world than to see Humphrey Bogart inhale, flip a cigarette into the darkness, and exhale through his nose.

My husband told me to get the chip dip.

When I returned, Sally's husband, Dan, was saying, "I never wanted to give up cigarettes because I'd put on weight. I needn't have worried. Sally put on the weight."

That's when his wife, Sally, announced she was three months pregnant. As they drove away, they had His and Hers bumper stickers. His read, "I QUIT." Hers read, "I KNOW."

Anti-smoking crusaders may just have a backlash on their hands.

Camomile has strong scent

Copley News Service

The dried flowers of the camomile plant have a strong scent and a bitter taste.

For centuries, camomile has been used as a home remedy. The crushed leaves of the plant are brewed as a tea. It's non-addictive, yet has the ability to work in your system as a natural relaxant and sedative.

It is said by those who use it that it will bring on drowsiness, calm your nerves, and let you get a full night's sleep without dreaming. Chinese herbalists, who are famous for their concoctions of herbs of the natural types, say that it works every time.

His school no longer meets

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Gray-haired and slightly stooped, F.L. Wilkerson is a craftsman from a school no longer in session.

Wilkerson, or "Mr. Lum" as he's called by co-workers, is 69 "or thereabouts" and is master machinist for the Memphis Fire Department, his employer for 25 years.

He began learning his trade when he was about 10, helping his father repair wagons and other farm equipment near Ashland, Miss.

"Yep," Wilkerson said, "he'd get onto me right smart if I didn't do something the way he told me."

Fire Director Robert Walker said, "I don't think there is anything he can't make. You can take him anything and in a couple of days he'll have it repaired or a new one made."

"We have a lot of equipment in the fire department that's no longer manufactured, and if we can't get a part, he makes one."

Wilkerson professes a "pretty good" knowledge of arithmetic — necessary for some of the intricate jobs he's called on to perform — even though his formal education is limited.

"We lived seven miles from Harrison School and they came by in a mule-drawn wagon to get us," he said. "When the roads were bad, they didn't come, and those old wagons really tore up the roads. Then they got a T-model truck and half the time they didn't come at all after that."

And what does Wilkerson do with his spare time? Tinker, of course, and his favorite pastime is working on a 1946 automobile.

At the urging of his son, Wilkerson replaced the car's original engine years ago. Even then, he used an engine he found in a junk yard and rebuilt.

"Really wasn't much wrong with the first engine," he said. "It didn't have but about 350,000 miles on it, but it was leaking a little oil out of the back bearing."

The machinist said he had just about gotten the "new" engine broken in. "I guess there's a little more than 200,000 miles on it," he said.

Kuwait, others hike crude price

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwait announced today a $2 increase in the price of its crude oil price — from $25.50 to $27.50 per barrel. Iraq, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates were also making similar $2 hikes, the official United Arab Emirates news agency reported.

The Kuwait increase was formally announced in a statement by Oil Minister Sheikh Ali Khalifa Al Sabah, who said the new price was retroactive to Jan. 1.

He said the move was "in conformity with the principles of equity and fairness in pricing among oil producing states."

The UAE news agency said the increases by the other three oil producers were also retroactive to that date. There was no immediate confirmation from officials in Iraq or Qatar.

Representative prices for the three countries in effect before today's reported increase were: Iraq, $25.96; UAE, $27.56; Qatar, $27.42.

The increase by the Arab oil producers on the Persian Gulf followed a $2 hike announced by Saudi Arabia over the weekend, which raised the Saudi price to $26 per 42-gallon barrel.

Today's announcement marked Kuwait's second oil price increase in a month. The previous increase, of $4.50 per barrel, came last month in the wake of the winter meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Caracas, Venezuela, where the cartel failed to agree on a uniform pricing policy.

The influential Middle East Economic Survey said in a special issue Monday that the Saudi increase was designed to bring Saudi prices into line with those of the moderate group of oil producers like Kuwait.

Instead of aligning prices however, the Saudi move appears to have resulted in a leapfrogging action, at least as far as Kuwait is concerned.

Kuwait's production currently averages 2 million barrels a day, compared to 9.5 million for Saudi Arabia, the largest supplier of oil to the United States.

Industry analysts said the Saudi increase was likely to raise the price of gasoline and home heating oil by about two cents a gallon on the average in America.

They also said the Saudi hike might prompt other oil exporters, including Nigeria, to raise their prices as well. Nigeria currently sells its oil for about $30 a barrel. However, in the past its price has been in line with Libya's, whose high-quality oil sells for $34.

Standby rationing plan won't guarantee enough gasoline

By MIKE SHANAHAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's standby gasoline rationing plan would take seven to 21 months to put into effect and even then, would not guarantee adequate gas all over the country, Energy Department officials say.

Providing an advance look at the rationing plan that will be submitted to Congress next month, Administrator Hazel Rollins of the Energy Regulatory Administration said Monday that the "quickie" plan were invoked, she said, Americans would have to have the coupons to buy gas. She said the coupons could be picked up at financial institutions or local and state government agencies, but did not spell out details, such as what documentation a motorist would need to obtain coupons.

One idea under consideration for such a "quickie" plan would let motorists buy more gas once their coupons ran out — but at a different pump where it would be heavily taxed and thus would cost much more.

Similarly, the long-term rationing plan would allow coupons — yet to be printed — to be sold at whatever price a seller could get on the open market, the so-called "white market." Each owner of the nation's estimated 125 million cars would be identified by computer and sent ration checks that could be turned in for free gas coupons.

Unused coupons could be sold to drivers who want more than their allocation. Assuming the current price of gas is $1.10 per gallon and an estimated price per coupon is $1.60 on the "white market," the total per gallon cost of gas would rise to $2.70, Ms. Rollins said.

Ms. Rollins said once cleared by Congress and put into effect, the long-term rationing scheme would be the most complicated government program ever. "It would pale beside Social Security because of the number of pieces of paper which would be flowing," she said.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

that rationing wouldn't necessarily mean adequate supplies.

And she told a Senate Energy subcommittee that, if a rationing system becomes necessary, much of the gas purchased by motorists will double in price when the cost of so-called "white market" rationing coupons is counted in.

Ms. Rollins said the average American motorist uses about 60 gallons of gasoline monthly. Under the administration's rationing plan, she said, consumption would be reduced to about 40 to 42 gallons monthly.

At least three members of the subcommittee, noting the fragility of the oil supply line to the Middle East, said gas rationing should start now.

"I think it ought to be implemented now," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. Similar comments were made by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., and Lowell Weicker, R-Conn.

Ms. Rollins said her department is working on a "quickie" rationing plan intended to meet a sudden disruption in imported oil.

That would be in addition to a much more complex and expensive rationing plan which requires approval of Congress. Ms. Rollins said President Carter will likely send the long-term proposal to Congress by the end of February.

In the meantime, she said, "events in the Middle East" have precipitated work on an emergency ration plan which would make use of millions of rationing coupons printed in 1974 and stored in Colorado. But those coupons have no serial numbers and there is a risk they might be counterfeited, she said.

Union Texas well finals

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. has completed a confirmation well in the Dominion (Silurian) field of Terry County, three miles north of Seagraves.

The new oiler, No. 2 Sara Bullard, is the third well in the field and one location northeast of the discovery.

On a 17-hour potential test the well flowed 460 barrels of oil and no water, through a 10/64-inch choke.

Completion was through perforations opposite the Silurian from 13,314 to 13,326 feet. The pay was acidized with 3,000 gallons. The gravity of the oil and the gas-oil ratio were not reported.

Union Texas No. 1 Sarah Bullard discovered the field.

No. 2 Sara Bullard is bottomed at 13,391 feet, and 5.5-inch casing is cemented at total depth.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 81, block DD, John H. Gibson survey.

Union Texas completed its No. 1-81 ODC early in January as the field's second well. It is 1/2 mile north of the discovery well.

Arco earnings show gain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Atlantic Richfield Co. said its 1979 earnings increased 45 percent over last year and announced a 21 percent dividend increase and two-for-one stock split.

Arco President Thornton Bradshaw said Monday that net income for 1979 was $1.2 billion, or $9.48 a share, a 45 percent jump over the $804.3 million, or $6.60 a share, reported for 1978.

Bradshaw said the company's directors have approved an increase in the annual dividend from $2.80 to $3.40 a share and planned to ask stockholders to approve a two-for-one stock split in May.

He said net income for the fourth quarter was $343 million, or $2.78 a share, a 54 percent increase over the $222.6 million, or $1.82 a share, reported in the fourth quarter of 1978.

Revenues for 1979 were $16.7 billion, Bradshaw said, up 31 percent from the $12.8 billion reported in 1978.

Wow! Chaps take a casual victory

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

No one had to yank anyone from the edge of a sheer precipice or pull a bound and gagged victim from a rail as a runaway locomotive roared down the track. For a change the Midland College Chaparrals just went out and won big, tarring and feathering Clarendon College, 97-72, to delight of 1,300 Fan Appreciation rooters at Chaparral Center Monday night.

The win gave MC an 8-1 Western Junior College Conference record and left the nationally ranked Chaps 19-2 for the season while Clarendon sagged to 0-9 in WJCC and 3-17 for the year.

After the Chaps jumped to an 8-0 lead, the scored was tied at 14 and 18, but by half MC had raced off to a 48-32 lead, holding CC without a field goal for one six minute, 10 second stretch, and ran off nine straight points to lead 57-32 early in the second half.

Clarendon (72)—Lindsey Lewis 6-2-14; Javier Marquez 3-2-0-4; Rapel Scott 4-2-3-10; Albert Gomez 1-1-2-3; Barry Kirk 8-3-4-21; Michael Black 2-0-0-4; Ronnie Berryman 2-0-1-4; Rodell Brooks 9-4-0-4; Redell Bruston 1-0-2-2. Totals—27 18-12-72.

Johnson with 12, Kenneth Young and Raleigh Freeman with 10 each. Barry Kirk scored 21 for Clarendon, hitting six of nine from the floor in the final half.

The Chaps return to action Thursday against South Plains College in Levelland, starting the second half of the WJCC schedule.

Bulldogs shake 5-4A backslide...

Martha Meroney's long range bombs in the third quarter and Margaret Christian's consistent scoring pace helped end a four game losing streak for the Midland High girls at the MHS gym Monday as the Bulldogs defeated Odessa Permian, 54-45.

Midland, down by 10 in the first half, came out strong in the third period as Meroney got hot from the top of the key and her three long distance baskets gave Midland its first lead of the night at the 3:19 mark of the third quarter at 30-29. The score was tied at 32, but MHS got unanswered buckets by Jana Trolinder, who had 11 points; Meroney long distance again; and Sandra Rock, who had six points despite still being bothered by a bad ankle.

The victory leaves Midland High at 1-2 in the second half 5-4A girls chase and 17-9 on the year. Permian is 1-2 and 12-13.

"You don't know how good it is to win again," MHS coach Jane Young said after the game. "We got off to a slow start, but Sandra (Rock) played well and we were able to get out of the zone defense."

Christian led all scorers with 17 points and her seven in the first quarter was the only thing to keep Midland from sinking early.

Permian was led by 13 points from Jana Davis, who fouled out, and Myrna Smith with 12.

ODESSA — Midland Lee finally experienced a little agony of defeat Monday night, as the high-flying Rebel girls were grounded, 45-43, by the Odessa High Bronchos in a District 5-4A game.

Lee led 24-20 at intermission, but was outscored 14-6 in the third quarter, a turning point in the important clash.

Leisha Watkins scored 13 points to pace Lee while guards Judy Taylor and Tanna Parrish added 12 and nine, respectively.

In other 5-4A warfare Monday, Abilene High, fueled by the one-two punch of Karen Washington and Debra Grant, scuttled Big Spring, 53-42, while San Angelo trimmed Abilene Cooper, 50-42.

Tech drops heartbreaker; Aggies stomp 'Cougs

By CHARLES RICHARDS
AP Sports Writer

Uh-oh. As if things weren't bad enough for the also-rans behind Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference basketball race, 6-foot-11 sophomore Rudy Woods went on a rampage Monday night.

The Texas A&M center scored a career-high 31 points and dominated the backboards as the Aggies finished the first half of league play with a perfect 8-0 record.

Texas A&M whalloped Houston 92-79 to keep their one-game edge over Arkansas, which nipped Texas Tech 71-69 on Mike Young's 16-foot jump shot with 2 seconds left in overtime.

In other SWC action Monday night, Ron Baxter's 21 points led Texas past Rice 87-76 and Terry Teagle's 24 points guided Baylor past Texas Christian 85-73.

Houston started out strong against A&M, forging an early lead behind the shooting of cousins Robert and Kenneth Williams, who finished with 22 and 20 points respectively.

But Woods took charge, and the game was tied 40-40 at the half. By then, Woods already had 10 rebounds and 17 points. The Aggies quickly took a 10-point lead in the second half and cruised in.

"This was Rudy's best game. He's an all-America," said A&M coach Shelby Metcalf. "We got hot in the second half, and all six of players who saw action in the second half were outstanding."

Houston coach Guy Lewis bemoaned the fact his team had to resort to outside shooting after both Cougar forwards fell victim to fouls early in the second half.

"Like I've said before, you're not gonna win with outside shooting. You have to get some inside, and they (A&M) don't allow you much inside. They manhandled us like everyone else," Lewis said.

"I think there's no doubt about it. A&M is the best in the league. If I had to play it over, I don't know what we'd do differently."

Texas Tech was working for a final shot in overtime against Arkansas, but the Razorbacks fouled David Little with 37 seconds left and the score tied, 69-69.

Little, Tech's best free throw shooter, missed the first of a 1-and-1 free throw, however, and Arkansas grabbed the rebound.

Arkansas worked the ball and got it to Young, who took two steps and put up a shot from the top of the circle with only 2 seconds left on the clock.

Tech's Kent Williams had made a 40-footer with 8 seconds left in regulation to send the game into overtime, and Young had missed a 40-footer at the buzzer.

"I don't feel bad. It was just a great basketball game," Tech coach Gerald Myers said. "They have beaten us here four straight years now, and the last three have been on clutch shots at the buzzer."
The win raised Arkansas' record to 8-1 and dropped Tech to 6-3.

Life in the Top 20: Not easy for Syracuse coach Jim Boeheim

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

Don't try to tell Syracuse's Jim Boeheim about life in the Top 10. He knows. It's tough enough just being there.

Boeheim, who has compiled a 91-15 record in just over three years as head coach, saw his Orangemen climb two notches to the No. 4 position in The Associated Press college basketball poll Monday behind unbeaten DePaul, Oregon State and Kentucky, respectively.

"Being in the Top 10 is really a double-edged sword whether you're No. 1 or No. 10," Boeheim said. "Since we've got there, everybody we play has been shooting for us. But being in a top position also has a way of giving our players confidence."

Confidence is something Boeheim's players have in abundance. Their 17-1 record is evidence of that.

But that's only half the struggle this season. Luck could be the deciding factor in college basketball.

"I can think of 10 teams that could win the national championship," Boeheim said, adding that Syracuse is in his list. "There's really no dominant team."

DePaul might be the exception.

The Blue Demons walked away with the top spot in this week's poll, collecting all 61 first-place votes and a perfect score of 1,220 points in the voting by a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters in easily outdistancing runnerup Oregon State.

But DePaul also had its problems last week. The Blue Demons struggled to a 57-54 victory over Alabama-Birmingham and prevailed in a high-scoring 105-94 triumph over Evansville.

Oregon State, second on almost every ballot, piled up 1,144 points maintaining the No. 2 spot while Kentucky, ranked fifth a week ago, replaced Duke in the No. 3 spot this week with 988 points.

Syracuse was next with 911 points — seven more than No. 5 Duke and 11 more than No. 6 Ohio State.

The poll was conducted before Monday night's action which saw top-ranked DePaul whip Creighton 84-73; No. 2 Oregon State sneak by upstart Stanford 18-16; 10th-ranked Louisiana State surprise No. 3 Kentucky 65-60, and No. 9 St. John's crush Niagara 87-63.

Slowdown backfires; Beavers nab 18-16 win

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Oregon State, ranked No. 2 nationally, turned the tables on Stanford Monday night, neutralizing the Cardinals' game-long stall to take a 18-16 victory in a Pacific-10 Conference basketball contest.

Early on, the Cardinals set the pace — limiting their moves to the basket, controlling the ball and carefully looking for holes in the OSU defense. Stanford didn't score until five minutes into the game, and the teams ended the half tied 12-12.

Oregon State was led by Mark Radford who hit for six points, while Stanford's Doug Marty shot a game-high eight points.

OSU again took the lead early in the second half, but Stanford rallied to tie the score 16-16 with 10:25 remaining. Less than a minute later, OSU forward Wayne Allen scored what proved to be the winning points with a layup.

Oregon then stalled, keeping control of the ball while the fans fidgeted until there was 1:34 remaining. Stanford got the rebound on a missed OSU free throw and the Cards worked the clock down to 19 seconds when they called a time out.

The ball was inbound to Marty who shoveled it inside to forward Bryan Welch at the free-throw line. But Welch was called for traveling on his aborted shot and OSU got the ball, maintaining control until the buzzer.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Vaccination can't hurt

Dear Dr. Solomon: This may sound silly, but I can't recall if my oldest child (I have three) has been vaccinated against measles. He once had German measles, but I don't think he ever had measles. Should he be vaccinated? — Mrs. J.N.

Dear Mrs. N.: Your son should be vaccinated. Even if he has already had the measles vaccine or has had the disease, the vaccination will not do any harm. Failure to immunize, on the other hand, could have serious consequences.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband has become something of a jogging nut. He started off slowly enough, gradually working up to longer distances. Now he has decided to train for marathon running, and I'm afraid the guy will kill himself in the effort. During some of the hot, humid weather we had last summer, although he came close to collapse at times, he insisted on going out every day. He claims that even though he sometimes finds it painful, the exercise is strengthening his heart. I wonder if anything that puts that great a strain on his body can actually be healthy. — Mrs. K.C.

Dear Mrs. C.: It was assumed for a long time that long-distance running provided almost certain protection against heart attacks, but experience has modified this view. Even in a trained person with normal coronary vessels, running under conditions of excessive heat and humidity can cause the heart to be damaged.

Joggers who find themselves straining to complete the course every time they go out should check with their physicians to make certain they are not doing themselves more harm than good. Since heat-stroke has been known to cause extensive cardiovascular damage, your husband may not be doing his heart a favor by insisting on ignoring the way he feels when weather conditions are extreme.

Dear Dr. Solomon: The list of ingredients on packaged foods often includes "artificial flavoring." What does this mean for the consumer? — Mrs. H.L.

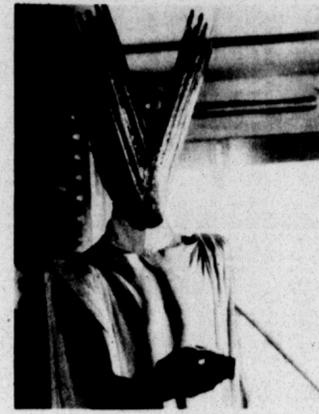

Dear Mrs. L.: Flavors constitute the largest single category of food additives with 1,700 substances, both natural and artificial. Most flavors are synthetic because they are cheaper and are able to supplement scarcer natural flavors. They are generally manufactured after and analysis of the chemicals present in a natural flavor, which are then synthesized in a laboratory.

Any food product that contains flavorings must list them on the label. If they are artificial, that must be stated, too.

Although not as controversial a subject as color additives, some flavors have been prohibited because of their threat to health. The Food and Drug Administration banned safrole, which was once widely used in root beer, because it caused liver cancer in rats. Similarly, coumarin, an anticoagulant drug, previously was used in a number of flavorings including imitation vanilla, but was banned because large amounts could cause hemorrhaging.

TAX TIPS

Energy-minded improvements can earn you IRS tax credit

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 12th in a series of tax tip articles provided by the Permalan Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

A lot has been said lately about tax savings for individuals who installed energy-saving equipment in their home. Here's what the law says:

Tax credits for 1979 on residential energy expenditures are available for expenses incurred Jan. 1, 1979, through Dec. 31, 1979.

Qualifying energy conservation materials can gain you up to $300 tax credit, provided by the Energy Tax Act of 1978. In addition, a separate credit not to exceed $2,200 is available for installation of certain renewable energy source expenditures.

Qualifying energy conservation materials include insulation, storm doors and windows, caulking, weather-stripping and certain heating system modifications designed to conserve energy. Renewable energy source expenditures include those which use or transmit solar, wind or geothermal energy to heat, cool or provide hot water for a residence.

Energy tax credits can only be claimed on Form 1040, Form 5695, Energy Credits, should be used to compute the credits and attached to the tax return.

If you have any questions regarding credit eligibility, contact your local IRS office.

These and other questions concerning your 1979 tax return will be answered in the Taxpayer Education Course, a public service course

Feb. 5 and 7 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Allison Fine Arts Building at Midland College and at Wilkerson Hall, Room 108, Odessa College. The course is sponsored by the Permalan Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants and the IRS.

To register for the program, send your name, address and location preference to Taxpayer Education, Box 870, Midland 79702. Registration fee is $1 per person or $1.50 per couple. Mailing deadline is Friday, Feb. 1. You may also pick up registration forms at the Administration Building, Room 156, Midland College.

INCREDIBLE?

Isn't it incredible that the U.S. oil industry—the richest and most profitable industry in the world—won't provide the full cost of adequate health care benefits for its wage earning employees?

This is a principal reason that we—approximately 55,000 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, AFL-CIO—are on strike against 100 oil, petrochemical and pipeline companies in this country.

We work in oil refineries, petrochemical plants, marketing terminals, oil fields and on pipelines throughout our nation.

The reason we are on strike is simple: we are seeking a much-needed wage increase, a fully paid, adequate health care benefits plan with dental and prescription drug coverage, and additional vacation time.

Oil and petrochemical workers are highly skilled. Much of our work requires constantly changing hours and exposure to dangerous substances. Our shifts rotate from days to evenings to the midnight shift.

Oil workers are usually on the job while other people are sleeping or enjoying weekends and holidays. Our social life schedule is totally out of tune with our neighbors. Family relationships must accommodate to our irregular working hours.

As employees in this highly profitable oil industry, who must work under these special conditions and in this hazardous work environment, we feel we are entitled to good medical coverage for ourselves and our families.

Companies in other industries far less profitable than the U.S. oil industry already are providing fully paid health care benefits for their employees. Workers in the auto industry, the rubber industry, the pharmaceutical industry and the steel industry have fully paid health care plans. So do telephone company employees and retail clerks... and many, many others.

Yet the U.S. oil companies refuse to agree to this widely accepted principle of paying the full cost of health care.

Each of us has experienced the constant increases in the price of gasoline and heating oil. Oil company profits as a result have soared, in most cases into the triple digit range in 1979. Isn't it incredible that the U.S. oil companies are still denying their American wage earning employees an adequate, fully paid level of benefits?

We solicit your support of our strike and appreciate your understanding.

And remember: because of high levels of worker productivity, any strike settlement we make will not be responsible for any perceptible increases in the price of petroleum products.
