Mother visits hostage; More fighting seen

By The Associated Press

The mother and stepfather of the youngest American hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, defying President Carter's ban on travel to Iran by Americans, met alone with her son today during a five-hour visit to the embassy, Radio Tehran reported. It was the first visit by a relative allowed by the militants since they seized the mission 170 days ago.

Meanwhile, campus violence continued for the fourth day today as a crowd estimated by witnesses as numbering in the thousands outside Tehran University and students threw stones at each other. The area was littered with injured, witnesses said. Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr issued warnings against further violence.

Barbara Timm and her husband, Kenneth, of Oak Creek, Wis., visited with her son, 20-year-old Marine Sgt. Kevin Hermening, during the time they were in the embassy, the radio broadcast said. A militant spokesman inside the Embassy said by telephone the meeting with Hermening lasted one hour and no Iranian officials were present. The spokesman said Mrs. Timm also talked with Iranian officials while at the embassy.

The Timms returned to their hotel after the visit, which visit took place after the couple had toured a Tehran cemetery where Iranians killed in last year's revolution are buried.

"Today we have decided to permit the stepfather and mother of the hostage to visit him," a spokesman for the militants said in announcing permission for the reunion with Hermening. Asked whether Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini approved the visit, he said, "Of course."

On Sunday a spokesman for the militants said they decided against allowing families of the hostages to visit the captives but might reconsider if asked by Khomeini, the leader of the revolution that ousted the shah 15 months ago.

Later Sunday, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh told a news conference Khomeini was in favor of letting the hostages' immediate families visit them. And Radio Tehran said Bani-Sadr and Ghotbzadeh had sent a written request to the militants to let Mrs. Timm visit her son.

Hermening and 49 other Americans were seized Nov. 4 in a bid to force the U.S. government to send Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi back to Iran for trial. Three other Americans were taken hostage in the Foreign Ministry and remain there.

Mrs. Timm arrived in Tehran Saturday in defiance of Carter's ban on travel to Iran by all Americans except journalists. Relatives of three other hostages also were planning to go to Tehran this week, according to a group in Lawrence, Kan., that arranged Easter services for the captives by three U.S. clergymen.

Another American who defied Carter's travel ban was comedian-social activist Dick Gregory, who arrived in the Iranian capital Saturday. Rock Newman, a member of the Howard University staff who also is in Tehran, said Gregory hoped to meet with Khomeini and the hostages and was fasting while he waited.

In the wake of a weekend of campus unrest that witnesses said left one person dead and many injured, Bani-Sadr issued a statement today saying "any assembly or the instigation of violence inside or outside the universities will be considered counter-revolutionary acts," according to the official Pars news agency.

Pars reported that Bani-Sadr added "Any gathering or attack on political centers outside the universities will be regarded as a plot against the revolutionary government."

The clashes at Tehran University were described by witnesses as between pro-government and leftist students opposed to the regime's decision to purge the schools of anti-Islamic ideology.

The ruling Revolutionary Council closed universities until Tuesday in an effort to halt the violence, and Radio Tehran reported that Islamic societies and associations of Moslem students asked the council to dissolve the present university system.

Khomeini told chanting supporters outside his home that he backs demands by Bani-Sadr and the council that political party headquarters on universities be closed and anti-Islamic elements be purged.

"I ask the young people not to resist," Khomeini said. "If they resist I will say to the nation what is their final duty in relation to those people who resist."

Meanwhile, Khomeini's revolutionary regime was beset with more fighting in rebellious Kurdistan, continuing unrest on the university campuses and the threatened loss of much of its vital oil revenue.

The 28th army division in Sanandaj, the Kurdish rebels' capital in northwest Iran, said its troops were being fired on at the officers' club, the radio and TV station and the airport. It warned people in those areas to flee, Radio Tehran said.

Kurdish rebel sources reported 60 government troops and rebels were killed in fighting Friday and Saturday in the town of Sagher, 90 miles northwest of Sanandaj, and 10 civilians were killed there Sunday.

Iran stops shipment of oil to major Japanese traders

TOKYO (AP) — Iranian authorities today ended oil shipments to Japan because the six major Japanese oil traders refused to accept a $2.50 price increase, said a spokesman for one of the companies, the Mitsubishi Corp.

The National Iranian Oil Co., the government oil monopoly, informed all six that its Kharg Island loading port would no longer supply them with oil because they had refused the demand to raise the per barrel price to $35, the Japanese Broadcasting Corporation reported.

The Mitsubishi spokesman said the Iranian oil company had refused to authorize the loading at Kharg Island of a tanker chartered by Japanese company.

On Saturday, Iranian Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar was quoted by Tehran Radio as saying Iran would not sell oil to any nation that refused its prices. He also told a news conference Iran had recently signed oil contracts with Eastern European countries at the demanded prices.

The Japanese government, which said it had advised the oil companies to reject the price hike for purely economic reasons, today repeated its opposition to paying more for Iranian oil.

U.S. officials, told over the weekend of reports in the Japanese press that the companies would reject the prices, said they would welcome such a decision as an important step in ending the Iran hostage crisis.

Cuba, Costa Rica to negotiate

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Cuba wants to negotiate directly with Costa Rica over evacuation of the 10,000 Cubans still trying to leave Havana via the Peruvian Embassy, a Foreign Ministry official here said today.

The Costa Rican government sent an official request to Cuba on Sunday offering permanent residence to all the would-be exiles who wanted to stay in Costa Rica and appealing for resumption of the evacuation flights Castro had cancelled. Costa Rica is expected to decide today whether to send a negotiator to Havana.

Costa Rica made its offer after Castro insisted the refugees go directly to the countries taking them in instead of to the Costa Rican staging point. In its offer, Costa Rica did not rule out the possibility the exiles could leave for other countries if they chose to do so.

Foreign Ministry official Carlos Aguilar said Cuba had not said resumption of the flights would be allowed. "At least they didn't say no," he said.

A Cuban communique said "Costa Rica cannot utilize the flights programmed in its statement to us April 20 (Sunday) because it has no agreement with the Cuban government," Aguilar said.

Castro did not lift the ban he imposed Friday, but he did allow 32 of the would-be exiles to fill empty seats on an Iberia Airlines flight from Havana to Madrid.

Since most of the Cubans who crowded into the Peruvian Embassy's grounds two weeks ago want to go to the United States and flights between Havana and Miami would be difficult to arrange, Costa Rica offered to give the refugees temporary haven until asylum could be arranged.

After about 700 had been flown to San Jose and half of those had been flown on to Peru, the Cuban government barred the use of Costa Rica as an intermediate stop.

When Costa Rica made its offer, the Foreign Ministry said in a statement. The doors of Costa Rica remain open for all those who seek a corner in the world wherein to fulfill their aspirations of liberty and peace without taking into account their origin, ideology or color of their skin.

We will allow them to stay here but they can also go to other countries if they want to," said one Costa Rican official.

In addition to Peru, which has agreed to accept 1,000, and the United States, which has said it will take up to 3,500, Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, Ecuador, Spain and Sweden have offered to accept some of the Cubans. Today's new refugees were well-come to Madrid by Cuban residents of the city who carried anti-Castro placards. The new arrivals said when they prepared to board the plane at Havana's airport, some lost all objects of value they carried. "The women," a refugee said, "were even stripped of their earrings by Cuban authorities; they took away everything from us and wouldn't let us take anything out of Cuba." A first group of 53 Cuban refugees arrived in Madrid three days ago.

Aguilar said there were indications Castro would allow flights from Havana to Miami. But he said he thought that would pose legal problems for the United States.

Costa Rica had said it could afford to resettle only 300 of the Cubans on its territory, but Aguilar said contributions from foreign governments and private sources would allow the nation to accommodate up to 10,000.

Soldiers 'on side of the people'

West impressed by actions of new Liberian government

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — A soldier pointed his loaded submachine gun at the taxi on the highway from the airport into Monrovia, and the car screeched to a halt.

The soldier explained politely that he just wanted a lift into the city. He took the clip out of his Israeli Uzi and handed the gun to the taxi's passenger to reassure him.

"We soldiers are on the side of the people," he said. "Liberia is a new country now we've got rid of the old guard."

Big Spring man released on bond in shooting death

BIG SPRING — Robert Mesker of Big Spring is out on $50,000 bond in connection with the Saturday night shooting death of his brother, William H. "Billy" Mesker, also known as Steven Allen Martin.

A spokesman for the Big Spring Police Department said that around 9:53 p.m. Saturday, police received a call about a possible shooting.

Officers went to 1812 Main St., where they found Billy Mesker, 35, with bullet wounds in the right chest and in the upper left chest.

Mesker was taken to a Big Spring hospital, where he later died.

According to the police spokesman, the two brothers apparently got in an argument, which ended in Billy being shot.

Police say Mesker was shot with a .38-caliber revolver.

Bond for Robert Mesker was set by Peace Justice Lewis Hefflin display an intense personal loyalty to him.

Liberia, Africa's first independent republic, was founded 133 years ago by freed American slaves. Until Doe's coup, political and economic life was dominated by their descendants, who made up only 3 percent of the 1.5 million people. Doe is the first chief of state without an American ancestor.

The 18 enlisted men who stormed the executive mansion and assassinated President William Tolbert now make up the ruling People's Redemption Council. Several have received big promotions, although Doe did not promote himself. Staff Sgt. Thomas Quowonka became a brigadier general and commander of the armed forces. All the council members are from the Krahn tribe, a small minority group in northeastern Liberia. But diplomats say Doe intends to broaden the tribal base of his regime.

The largely civilian cabinet includes three holdovers from Tolbert's government, two of them American Liberians.

The bodies of Tolbert and 27 others, killed during the coup, were shoveled into a mass grave by a bulldozer on the outskirts of Monrovia while a hostile crowd screamed insults and hurled stones at the bodies. Twenty-two other former high-ranking officials are on trial on charges of "high treason, rampant corruption, misuse of public office and gross violation of the civil and human rights of the Liberian people."

The defendants are not allowed defense attorneys, and there is no prosecutor. The accused men appear before the military court one after another to be interrogated by the five members of the tribunal. All heard so far have pleaded innocent. A soldier records the proceedings on a typewriter.

The principal defendant, former Justice Minister Joseph Chesson, defiantly asserted that there was "not a scintilla of evidence" against him. The typist turned to the prisoner and said, "How do you spell scintilla?"

Several of the accused men put all the blame for the widespread corruption and abuse of power on Tolbert. Former Foreign Minister Cecil Dennis said he warned the president he was violating the constitution. P. Clarence Parker, the treasurer of the True Whig Party, said "Tolbert and all his family were crazy, and the entire country was subjected to insanity."

The government newspaper, the New Liberator, appealed to the new regime "to exercise restraint with regard to capital punishment for political offenses."

eye, and two other Irish troops were murdered.

Haddad maintains the Irish troops are sympathetic to Palestinian guerrillas and allow them to operate in the U.N. zone. The U.N. denies the charge.

The 6,000 U.N. troops moved into the volatile strategic region above Israel's northern border two years ago to replace Israeli forces that occupied southern Lebanon to drive out Palestinian guerrillas who returned there after the Lebanese civil war.

Though the U.N. Security Council ordered the force to take control of all Lebanese territory south of the Litani River, the withdrawing Israelis turned over a narrow border strip to Haddad, a former Lebanese army officer who shared the Israeli aim of keeping Palestinian guerrillas out of the area and proclaimed his territory "Free Lebanon" in defiance of the Lebanese government in Beirut.

Israel provides Haddad with weapons and supplies and pays his soldiers. Hundreds of Lebanese living in his enclave work in Israel. The major appears regularly in the northern Israeli town of Metulla for news conferences arranged by Israeli liaison officers.

The close cooperation has provoked frequent denunciations from Arab states who accuse Israel of violating Lebanese sovereignty, and appeals from Western countries and the United Nations to Israel to stop Haddad from clashing with the U.N. forces.

Israeli officials admit their government is embarrassed by Haddad, but they give no indication that it might reduce its support of him.

"Haddad is not an Israeli puppet," said one official who asked that his name not be used. "He's the head of a people in great danger as a result of terrorist intentions to take over all of south Lebanon. It's in our political and moral interests to save the lives of the Christians in south Lebanon."

Israel continues support of Haddad troops

EDITOR'S NOTE: Portions of this dispatch were changed on orders from the Israeli military censor.

By MICHAEL PRECKER

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Maj. Saad Haddad's Christian militiamen in southern Lebanon are embarrassing allies for the Israeli government. But it continues to support them because they are a deterrent to Palestinian attacks on northern Israel.

U.N. peacekeeping troops are locked in a deadly confrontation with Haddad's forces for control of three Lebanese villages. One Irish soldier died last week after being shot in the

On the campaign trail: It 'may be' Kennedy

By DAVID ESPO

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, like any other presidential contender, hears himself introduced frequently in public as "the next president of the United States." But doubt was introduced into the statement as Rep. Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa., introduced Kennedy on Sunday. Addressing more than 1,000 cheering people at a shopping mall outside Philadelphia, Kostmayer welcomed the Massachusetts senator, saying, "We admire the courage and the conviction and the compassion which he has brought to this long, and for him, this sometimes personally difficult campaign." Then Kostmayer, who has remained neutral in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, used his best booming voice to introduce Kennedy as "the man who may be the next president of the United States." Kennedy, trying to control his laughter, stepped up to the microphone, and said, "Well, Congressman Kostmayer, who may be re-elected as your next congressman...."

For months, Kennedy has been traveling around the country criticizing the nation's largest oil companies for the way they invest their profits. He regularly tells his audiences that Mobil Oil Corp. used some of its profits to buy Montgomery Ward Department stores. "And I ask you," he has said before audiences from coast to coast, "how much oil do you think they're going to find drilling in the aisles of Montgomery Ward." Recently there's been a new twist to Kennedy's old story. Appearing before audiences in Pennsylvania over the weekend, he added, "Montgomery Ward said it's going to stop all home deliveries because they said the price of gasoline from Mobil Oil has gone up too high."

Agnew says he resigned in fear; Haig aide calls story 'preposterous'

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro Agnew says he resigned the nation's No. 2 job more than six years ago because he feared for his life from a top aide to then-President Richard Nixon. His story, however, has been labeled "preposterous" by a spokesman for Gen. Alexander Haig, who allegedly made the veiled death threat claims, according to Francis L. Murphy, a spokesman at United Technologies Corp. in Hartford, Conn. Haig became president of the corporation after a stint as commander of NATO forces. It "was so preposterous he wouldn't comment on it," Murphy said. Agnew resigned and pleaded no contest to a tax evasion charge Oct. 10, 1973. His plea was part of a bargain that allowed him to avoid indictment on extortion charges while he was governor of Maryland and executive of Baltimore County. Agnew, who lives in Rancho Mirage near Palm Springs, Calif., is currently in Saudi Arabia on business, and his spokesman could not be immediately reached for comment.

According to a copy-right article by The Writers Bloc, a group of freelance writers based in New York, Agnew makes that contention in his new book, "Go Quietly... Or Else." The story was published by the Sunday Baltimore News American. Haig, who is recovering from open-heart surgery in Florida, laughed when told of Agnew's

Candidates pursue Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ronald Reagan campaigned with a Republican rival turned ally, George Bush said he has the makings of a GOP comeback, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy insisted that his Democratic challenge is neither divisive nor done, as candidates and proxies hunted votes on the eve of the Pennsylvania presidential primary. Vice President Walter F. Mondale campaigned for the absent President Carter, asking Pennsylvanians to "get everyone out there voting and give this president a chance to continue serving our nation." Kennedy has spent 12 days campaigning for the pivotal Pennsylvania election, drawing sizable crowds but shying away from any forecast of the outcome on Tuesday. The pollsters rate Carter the favorite. Kennedy vowed that defeat would "absolutely not" lead him to quit the race.

"I'm vain," Reagan said. "I'd like to win the beauty contest." In that case, he added an election-eve campaign swing. Baker endorsed Reagan at a rally in suburban Springfield, then joined him for election-eve campaigning that will take them across the state to Pittsburgh. Baker said the endorsement had nothing to do with the possibility that Reagan might choose him for the vice presidential nomination. He said he is not a candidate for vice president, but added that if he were asked to run, "of course you would do that, any active Republican would do that." Reagan wouldn't discuss vice presidential prospects. "I refuse to let myself even think on that subject until I am much closer to 998," he said. Bush said only 29 percent of the Republican delegates have been chosen so far, and insisted he still can turn the campaign around. "I'm more electable, and I've got to prove it," he said. In the Democratic race, Carter gained delegate strength at weekend caucuses in Minnesota, Oklahoma and Virginia. He now has 946 of the 1,666 votes it will take to win the Democratic nomination. Kennedy has 477. The Pennsylvania delegation will be the third largest at the Democratic National Convention, and the Carter camp also sees the state as an arena in which Kennedy could be virtually eliminated by defeat.

Reagan, Carter gain strength

By The Associated Press

Front-runners Ronald Reagan and President Carter added to their delegate strength at Republican and Democratic skirmishes over the weekend. Reagan swept the GOP state convention in Alaska on Sunday, gaining all 19 of the state's delegates to the Republican National Convention. He also scored victories in Nevada and Minnesota, but former U.N. Ambassador George Bush beat him in Maine. Carter won delegates in Minnesota and maintained his popularity in Iowa, Oklahoma and Virginia. The Alaska convention in Anchorage selected the Reagan delegates after Gov. Jay Hammond "ate" the words he said recently in declaring that the former California governor was an "unsuitable" candidate who couldn't win. "Lacking a heaping plate of crow, I will now do the next best thing and eat those words," he said in opening the state convention. Carter won 12 delegates to the Democratic convention in three Minnesota district caucuses. One delegate went to Kennedy, and five who were uncommitted. In all, Minnesota will send 75 delegates to the national convention. Carter picked up 22 delegates to Kennedy's 11 with all of Iowa's six congressional district conventions reporting Saturday. The president opened his re-election campaign in Iowa three months ago with a convincing 2-1 victory over the Massachusetts senator in precinct caucuses. In Oklahoma, Carter came away with 24 of the 29 national convention delegates chosen Saturday. Kennedy got three and two were uncommitted. Another 13 national delegates will be selected next month. Carter got 14 of the 17 delegates selected in Virginia, with Kennedy picking up three. In all, Virginia will send 64 delegates to the national convention, and the president is expected to get at least 59. Carter picked up one additional delegate Saturday in Mississippi, where 32 national delegates were selected. He already had 31 of the delegates going into the convention and made it a sweep by picking up the lone uncommitted seat. On the Republican side, Reagan overpowered Bush at the Nevada GOP state convention in Reno, where a pro-Reagan slate of 17 national delegates was selected. The delegates are bound for the first two GOP national convention ballots by the outcome of the May 27 Nevada presidential preference primary, which Reagan is expected to win easily.

Long Distance. It's the way to get things done. Today.

Losing 38 pounds took me back 11 years to my pre-baby figure.

Nancy Hutchins knows babies can bring a little something unexpected into your life: extra pounds. Weight that's tough to get rid of when you're busy caring for children—cooking for them, nibbling at the food they don't finish. By the time she'd had two babies, her weight had really become a problem. She was up to 151 pounds, more than her 5'6" frame could handle. "My husband was too kind to say anything outright," Nancy says, "but he started dropping quiet hints like, 'You don't really need to eat that, do you?'" Although she realized she had to do something soon, she wasn't sure what. When she heard about Pat Walker's from a friend, she was skeptical. Could it possibly work for her?

The easy way to exercise
Nancy discovered that Pat Walker's is not a put-on-your-leotard-and-let's-exercise place. Pat Walker's exclusive passive exercise unit, called Symmetricon, requires only that you lie back and let it do the work. As it tones, tightens, and smoothes your body, you have the sensation of a gentle, pleasant workout.

Privacy is the rule
Nancy especially liked the privacy of Pat Walker's. Because you don't work up a sweat, street clothes are perfectly comfortable and suitable. So you don't have to wear a leotard, or reveal your figure flaws to a roomful of other women. From your consultations about sensible eating habits with Pat Walker's professional counselors to your sessions on the passive exercise unit, every aspect of your reducing program is conducted in complete privacy. You're a special and valued patron at Pat Walker's, not a school girl in a gym class.

Results tell the story
Before long, Nancy was a believer. "When I began to notice how big the waistlines in my clothes were getting, I really got excited! I started out a size 14, and now I'm a 7. And let me tell you, I just love buying new clothes. My husband doesn't even complain when I buy another new dress—he likes me so much!" Now thirty-eight pounds and 52½ inches (total) smaller than she was, Nancy Hutchins is delighted with her new look. You'll like yours, too.

The best way to find out what Pat Walker's can mean to you is to make an appointment for a free, no-obligation consultation at a Pat Walker's salon. We'll tell you in detail about the entire program... how much you can lose, how long it will take, how much it will cost. And we'll treat you to a session on the Symmetricon unit, so you can see how relaxing it is. Come on. Call us. As Nancy Hutchins says, "If Pat Walker's can do it for me, they can do it for you!"

Salute to volunteers

Alexis de Tocqueville, a Frenchman who toured the United States during the 1830s, obviously was struck by the unique spirit of voluntarism in this country.

Of that spirit of voluntarism he stated, "These Americans are a peculiar people. If, in a local community, a citizen becomes aware of a human need which is not being met, he thereupon discusses the situation with his neighbors.

"Suddenly a committee comes into existence. The committee thereupon begins to operate on behalf of the need and a new community function is established."

He concluded by noting, "It is like watching a miracle, because these citizens perform this act without a single reference to any bureaucracy or any official agency."

It's true that voluntarism is at the heart of the democratic process. It also is true that the United States is a nation of volunteers. According to Census Bureau statistics, there are more than 37 million volunteers in this country.

Those 37 million people — 17 percent of the people in the United States — contribute in great measure to the success of various projects. In fact, the value of their service is estimated to be worth $68 billion in a single year.

The volunteers of today take every shape, form, color and size imaginable. They are a diverse group from the business world, homemakers, students and retirees — all using their skills and talents for the betterment of the quality of life in their respective communities.

In Midland, volunteers serve many organizations, such as the chamber of commerce, the Cancer Society, service clubs, Midland Memorial Hospital, the schools and the United Way and its 19-member agencies.

More than 1,000 volunteers are involved in the annual fund-raising campaign conducted each fall by the United Way here in Midland alone.

There are boundless opportunities for Midlanders to volunteer to serve the community and to help maintain the quality of life, and healthy balance of business, government and voluntary organizations.

During the 1980s, voluntarism will face a challenge unlike any encountered previously. The test will be to see whether voluntarism can adapt and change in order to respond to the changing needs of society.

Voluntarism will meet that challenge and will continue to promote that sense of community sharing that we all hold so important.

This week is National Volunteer Week. It's time to recognize and to appreciate the many contributions made to the Midland community by the volunteers living here.

A hearty "well done" to all of them.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, April 21, the 112th day of 1980. There are 254 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 753 B.C., tradition has it that Rome was founded by Romulus.

Also on this date: In 1509, Henry VIII became king of England.

In 1836, Texans led by Gen. Sam Houston defeated the Mexicans in the battle of San Jacinto, assuring the independence of Texas.

In 1966, Surgeons in Houston, Texas, made the first implant of an artificial heart in a human.

In 1967, the late Soviet dictator Josef Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, arrived in New York, after seeking political asylum in the United States.

Ten years ago: The House Judiciary Committee voted to investigate charges brought by some members seeking to impeach Supreme Court Justice William Douglas.

Five years ago: South Vietnamese

President Nguyen Van Thieu denounced the U.S. as untrustworthy and resigned after 10 years in office.

One year ago: Thousands of Americans fled their homes as floods hit Texas, Mississippi, North Dakota and Minnesota.

Today's birthdays: Britain's Queen Elizabeth II is 54. Actor Anthony Quinn is 65.

INSIDE REPORT:

Dangerous U.S.-West Germany split holds consequences

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

BONN, West Germany — The alarming decline in relations between the U.S. and West Germany at a time Washington desperately needs help from its strongest ally was dramatized in a sharp question by a U.S. congressman to top political leaders here at a private dinner one night last week.

"What we want to know is, what are you prepared to do for us right now, in the next 10 days?" asked Missouri Democratic Rep. Robert Young in a refreshing departure from the veiled language of diplomacy. In less direct form, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt has repeatedly been asked the same question by President Carter, by U.S. diplomats here and by leaders of the conservative Christian Democratic Union running against Schmidt in the October election. The question symbolizes a subtle transformation from a quarter century of interlocking intimacy between the U.S. and West Germany to a certain distancing resulting from Carter's flawed leadership, geography, Bonn's fear of Moscow and its self-absorption.

Schmidt's hedging is beginning to anger even some of his own leaders in the ruling Social Democratic Party. Indeed, West Germans of all persuasions find themselves today steeped in gloom mixed with genuine fear. For behind the public approaches hurrying across the Atlantic between Carter's men in Washington and Schmidt's suspicious policy-makers here, West Germany, in the words of a key Schmidt lieutenant, is "deeply, deeply worried." It sees the shadow of Soviet might, compared to that of the West, enlarged to its greatest dimension since World War II. It sees peril for an investment of 10 years in detente that has yielded enormous economic profit and partly bridged the two Germans.

"Of course we will back the U.S. in Iran and Afghanistan," one Schmidt foreign policy adviser in West Germany's relations with Eastern Europe told us. "But you should limit your problems in the Middle East to the Middle East and not bring them to central Europe."

Such wishful thinking recalls the first three years of Carter's own self-deception about the U.S.-Soviet struggle. But even Carter finally accepted linkage after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, compelling the president to shelve his cherished

SALT II treaty. The reluctance of Schmidt's government to do the same hints that at least some leading politicians in his inner circle, despite vehement denials, believe that Bonn's investment in detente and its thriving economic business with Moscow and Eastern Europe have become more important than playing follow-the-leader with Washington.

During haggling over their joint statement after Schmidt's Washington visit last month, the German chancellor fought for a paragraph committing Carter to "maintain the framework of East-West relations." But last week, Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser who is suspiciously viewed here, strongly implied to the American Society of Newspaper Editors that it would not be "seemly" to conduct "business as usual with the Soviets when Afghans are dying by the thousands under the force of Soviet arms." That infuriated Schmidt insiders. Carter's own tough talk to the editors was received with only slightly less hostility.

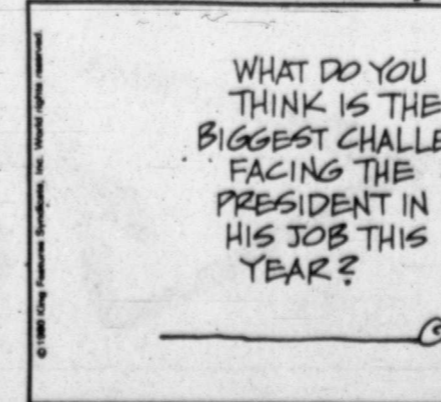

The split between Bonn and Washington will not begin to cure just because Schmidt in the end acceded to economic and political pressures against Iran (which he will) and goes along with the Olympics boycott (which he will). That Schmidt could show such public resistance to Carter on Iran — a crisis that as yet has not even directly involved Moscow — forbodes far deeper conflicts over future

Soviet moves with a direct East-West connection.

Compounding the mutual reproaches between Carter and Schmidt is the fact that both are waging re-election campaigns. Having been left in the dust before by sudden Carter swerves in the road, Schmidt is contemptuous of Carter's alliance leadership. But more than that, he fears that dumping detente, the policy that came out of the womb of his own party, would be political suicide in his own election campaign.

So the deeper impact of the Carter-Schmidt estrangement has by no means been felt as yet. Although their two countries will surely survive the current storm, there is not the slightest doubt here that worse lies in the future.

Soviets may be building Cuban missile sites

WASHINGTON — The latest intelligence information gathered by U.S. surveillance satellites and other sources has confronted the Carter administration with the alarming possibility that the Soviet Union is once more preparing nuclear missile sites in Cuba.

The introduction of nuclear missiles into the Russian-dominated island 90 miles from Florida took the world to the brink of war in 1962. That time, the Kremlin backed down in the face of a determined stand by President John F. Kennedy.

But the Soviet leaders have obviously decided that Jimmy Carter is a president who can be pushed around. His sorry performance last October — when he marched up the hill and back down again over the presence of a Soviet combat brigade in Cuba — coupled with his ineffectual handling of the Tehran hostage situation, may have convinced the Russians they can flout the Monroe Doctrine with impunity.

This changed attitude of the normally cautious old men in the Kremlin lends urgency to U.S. intelligence analysts' attempt to figure out the intended use of several large holes the Russians are digging near the Cuban city of Matanzas. Are they an innocent feature of a suburban housing development, or underground silos for nuclear missiles aimed at the United States?

CIA sources have told my associate Dale Van Atta that the holes are "strikingly similar" in size, shape and construction to those that house nuclear missiles in the Soviet Union. Other agency analysts are not so sure, theorizing that the holes could be part of housing construction or similarly peaceful projects.

The experts who lean toward the view that the holes are missile sites are the same ones who argued — correctly — that the Soviet brigade identified last year was a combat unit.

Jack Anderson

In support of their interpretation, these analysts point out that the construction near Matanzas, and particularly the Russians' involvement in it, are being protected by unusually strict security. The secrecy extends to the point of barricading the road that leads east from Havana to the construction area.

The mystery of the Matanzas holes is just one more ominous development in the Soviets' increasingly bold military presence in Cuba. In recent months I've reported a number of disturbing intelligence discoveries from Cuba:

— There are already two airfields on the island that can accommodate the Russians' Backfire bomber, and runways at a third field are being lengthened to the required 9,000 feet. A Defense Intelligence Agency report last year warned that the Soviets may send a detachment of the nuclear bombers to Cuba in 1980.

— Our spy satellites over Cuba have sent back pictures of a suspicious-looking building at Punta Movida, near Cienfuegos. It closely resembles the Soviets' nuclear missile storage and maintenance sheds in Eastern Europe. Some intelligence analysts caution, however, that the Cienfuegos construction, which includes a railroad line to the naval base at Punta Movida, may be simply part of a nuclear power plant the Russians are building there.

CHARLEY REESE

Jimmy Carter eating dirt because of Iran decision

Some of my colleagues in the column writing racket are pot-shooting the President on the Iranian crisis, saying that what he just did he should have done at the beginning.

Well, that's a bum rap. I despise President Carter for sound reasons and I have never been shy about stating them, but to the best of my knowledge, I've never bum-rapped him. I criticized him for causing the Iranian crisis but not for the way he's handled it.

The reason is this: the day the terrorists took our people hostage, Carter had to make an either-or decision. Whatever he decided would determine everything which followed.

The decision was this: try to save the hostages' lives or save American honor at the expense of the hostages' lives. Those were the only alternatives. Carter chose to save their lives.

Now I think that was the wrong decision, but it's kind of hard to fault a man for wanting to save 50 lives. The instant Carter chose that objective, he himself became a hostage to Khomeini and to all the other crazies in Iran.

In such a situation, the terrorist has the upper hand. He has your hostages. He has a gun pointed at their heads. If you don't want him to pull the trigger, you have to dance to the tune he plays.

That's why I think Carter's original decision was the wrong choice. The only way to deal with a hostage situation is to write them off and go hell-for-leather after the terrorists. You never negotiate, though you may pretend to while you prepare your attack. I believe in the long run you will save more lives by discouraging the practice.

But, on the other hand, if you want to save the hostages and make that your primary objective, then you have to do exactly what Carter has done. Given his original decision, he's done well. He's tried every angle you can think of and eaten a lot of dirt and he deserves credit for it.

Unless you are willing to have taken the responsibility for sacrificing 50 lives, you have no right to criticize his handling of the situation.

What's sad is that he has just about run out of options. A couple of months ago, I wrote that eventually the value of American honor would outweigh the value of American lives and we are just about at that tip-point.

If you want to criticize, criticize the Japanese and West Europeans. The American taxpayers re-build their countries. To this day, Americans have their lives on the line in their defense. But will they suffer a little inconvenience to help free our hostages? Do frogs sing opera?

Man, does that make me angry! Here we are committed by treaty to suffer the horror of a nuclear war in their behalf and these jerks won't move a finger to help us.

They are lucky the man in the White House is a yes-boy for the international banks and multinational corporations. A truly independent President, concerned only about the United States, would now realize that an alliance with greedy cowards is no alliance at all and start ordering American troops home from Europe.

Every stinking war in this century has been a European war or a product of a European war, and it's about time we stopped being a chump for Europe and Japan. As far as I'm concerned if they are too cheap and stingy to provide for their own defense, the Soviet Union can have them. In the age of the missile, it doesn't make any difference anyway.

As for the Iranians, we should give them an ultimatum. We should tell them they have seven days to release the hostages, and if they don't, Iran is going out of the oil business. No blockade, no invasion; just bombs. And if they kill the hostages, we'll nuke Tehran and call it even.

Carter naturally will do none of this. He will eat European and Japanese dirt, too. Well, I give him credit for being soft-hearted and I hope, for a change, we get lucky.

Mark Russell says

It seems that just before a primary, a cheery announcement comes from the White House — such as, "Boy that Bolivia has joined us in our boycott of Russian dressing, tensions will ease."

Or perhaps President Carter would hold a press conference at sunrise on the day of a primary to announce that he is inviting all the auto workers laid off at Ford and General Motors to the White House for a box supper.

Or a radio commercial saying — "Good morning, Pennsylvanians — before you vote today, just remember who was President when Pittsburgh won the World Series last year."

On primary day in Michigan, the voters might be reminded that in the past three and a half years not one battalion of Canadian tanks rolled across the border into Detroit.

Californians, on their primary day, will be reminded that since its state is so important — the MX missile sites will be located in Nevada and Utah.

Jack Anderson reports that President Carter has been doing a lot of praying lately. How does Anderson know? Is there a leak in heaven?

Academy Award winner Sally Field started her career in the '60s as TV's "Flying Nun." She had to relinquish the title when Mother Teresa was given an air travel card.

Klansmen held in shooting

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The NAACP is resisting calls for violent retaliation after police charged three Ku Klux Klansmen with the weekend shootings of four black women, an NAACP leader says.

George Key, Chattanooga chapter president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Sunday that it will press for justice in the courts against the three men, one of whom staged a meeting between the two groups last month.

Bill Church, 23, of Chattanooga, and two other men, both identified as Klansmen, faced a hearing today before a City Court judge. Police charged each of the men with four counts of assault with intent to commit murder after Saturday's shotgun attack from a speeding car on the four women as they left a downtown night-spot.

Police said that Church, who identifies himself as imperial wizard of the Justice Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Larry Payne, 26, and Marshall Thrash, 30, all from Chattanooga, were jailed on $40,000 bond. A police source said Payne and Thrash are members of Church's group.

The shootings came two weeks after Key broke off talks with the Klan group. Four representatives of each organization — including Key and Church — met March 21 in the NAACP office to discuss common economic problems.

The meeting, which began only after the Klansmen removed their robes at Key's insistence, was peaceful. They later appeared on a TV talk show, but Key then canceled future talks because Church's group was not chartered as a Klan organization.

Two of the four Chattanooga women, shot as they left a nightspot in a predominantly black downtown section, were treated for pellet wounds and released. Two others remained at the hospital in fair condition Sunday, officials said.

Police said two crosses were burned at a railroad overpass two blocks from the shooting scene at about the time of the attack. Police spokesman Bob Gill said Sunday investigators had not linked the arrested Klansmen to the cross burnings.

Key said in a telephone interview that he had calls after Saturday night's shootings from people urging retaliation. "I had phone calls all the way from people urging me to be a little Napoleon and lead a rally to those wanting an eye for an eye," he said.

No violence at Klan-Nazi rally

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Guns were out but no violence was reported as some 50 Klansmen and Nazis gathered for a weekend rally in a Johnston County field, authorities say.

National Nazi Harold Covington had predicted that as many as 300 persons would attend the rally, called in support of 14 persons arrested after violence at an anti-Klan rally last year. But he claimed success despite the small turnout.

"Well, the press is jumping up and down with glee telling everyone how our rally was a flop. They are wrong," said Covington in a taped telephone message on the party's "White

Black girl wounded in Georgia

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Outraged by the wounding of a 9-year-old black girl, blacks promised another rally in this racially troubled community to show "they're fed up," a local leader said.

Constance Folsom was wounded Saturday night by a shotgun blast fired into a mobile home just hours after a black protest, authorities reported. Two white men were charged about 45 minutes after the shooting.

The child was listed in fair condition today at the Medical Center of Central Georgia in Macon.

The shooting came two weeks after blacks and whites clashed in an incident blacks said was led by white law officers, and blacks "are getting fed up with it," said John Martin, local president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

U.S. needs forces in Mideast: Begin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin says the United States is out of range for reacting to a crisis and should station military forces in the Middle East and "in every region where there is a possibility of Soviet expansionism."

In an interview taped before he left Washington last Friday, the Israeli leader said "if you want facilities in our country, we shall put them at your disposal. I would recommend it to the (Israeli) government."

The interview was broadcast Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

"You know, you should see the map," Begin said. "Now, the Soviet Union is in Afghanistan, and through Baluchistan, they can reach the Indian Ocean in no time, and there is no force to stop them. Iran itself could become a communist state with the Tudeh Party, the best organized group... waiting."

Quakes rocking volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — As gray clouds and rain shrouded Mount St. Helens over the weekend, small and moderate earthquakes regularly rocked the peak every few hours.

The largest quake Sunday, measuring 4.7 on the open-ended Richter scale, shook the mountain at 11:20 a.m., said Don Leaver, a University of Washington seismologist.

As many as nine other moderate quakes sent spasms through the mountain on a day of a slight, but insignificant, increase in seismic activity. The usual rattle of small earthquakes also continued, Leaver said.

A quake measuring 4.9 was recorded Saturday afternoon, the third quake of that magnitude since the 9,677-foot volcano began erupting March 27 for the first time in 123 years, according to UW geophysicists.

How much savings is enough?

Ask the place that knows

"We just got married and are planning to buy a house and start a family. We want to start a savings account, too. But we're wondering how much to save each month?"

"This is, of course, a personal decision that depends on your income and lifestyle. But there are some rules of thumb for the 'average' family. Try to put between five and ten percent of your monthly income (after taxes) into a regular savings account. (Hint: consider an automatic savings plan so you're not tempted to spend.) Let this account build up until you have three to six months of your salary (after taxes). Keep this amount in a regular savings account as a cushion against emergencies, but let the build-up continue. From time to time, 'skim off' any excess and put it into a higher yielding certificate of deposit. This money, then, can be used to finance your home, send the kids to college, etc."

Valley site for new prison questioned

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State prison officials, who meet here Tuesday to consider buying a Starr County farm, have done a poor job of finding the best possible site for a new prison, according to an aide to Gov. Bill Clements.

"I feel that not all sites were considered equally. This is just a personal opinion," said Jim Kaster, the governor's legislative liaison. The prison board's motive in considering the Valley site is also being questioned by a prison reform lobby.

The State Board of Corrections meets in emergency session in the Capitol at 3 p.m. Tuesday to consider buying La Casita Farm, a 5,282-acre tract on the Mexican border. The Approval Board that must also decide on the purchase meets a half-hour later.

Clements is a member of the Approval Board. Kaster served as a state representative from El Paso from 1971 to 1978. He said Sunday that prison officials considered sites near Van Horn and Dell City within the past two years.

However, the officials gave only passing consideration to the West Texas areas; although they might have been able to find cheaper land, Kaster said.

"For instance out there at Van Horn there is a lot of state-owned land that wouldn't cost anything. There are big vegetable farms and lots of water," he said.

The General Land Office has appraised La Casita at $7.5 million. Kaster said prison officials gave up on West Texas after they decided a prison there might be too far from families of prisoners from the larger cities.

"But if you take a map you find it's about the same distance from Dallas-Fort Worth to Van Horn as it is to the Valley. It's a little closer to the Rio Grande Valley, but not that much," he said.

Kaster and Clements have not discussed the prison site, he said, but added he plans to talk to a governor's aide who is working on the matter.

Prison board member Harry Whittington of Austin said the Valley long has been considered the best site for a new prison.

"And they made all arguments fit that site," said Kaster. "You know you can get state-owned land a heck of a lot cheaper than you can get it from individuals."

Charles Sullivan, executive director of Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants, Sunday said a Valley prison would lack two important ingredients for rehabilitation.

Sullivan said the inmates would be far from their families and would not get training for jobs they could pursue outside prison.

"Stoop labor will dominate the unit," he said of agricultural field work. "This is certainly not an employable skill for a person who will return to Dallas, Houston or San Antonio. There are no jobs picking cotton in the major cities."

Sullivan charged prison officials are more concerned with vegetable production than helping convicts.

"This shows they've clearly become the Department of Agribusiness, rather than the Department of Corrections," he said.

Leon County residents unite, oppose nuclear waste facility

LEONA, Texas (AP) — Usually, Leon County is a pretty quiet place. But when a Houston company announced it was going to store nuclear waste there, some of Leon County's 9,000 residents got mad.

After a hastily called community meeting at the Red Onion Coffee Shop here, Mayor Louie Thompson presiding, residents formed a committee to oppose the plan.

Last week, Nuclear Sources and Services Inc. said it had bought an abandoned warehouse on Interstate 45, near this east-central Texas community about halfway between Dallas and Houston.

NSSI said it was going to store toxic materials discarded by hospitals and industries in the nation's largest cities — including radioactive wastes from X-ray and cancer treatment programs.

"Dallas and Houston are just making a dumping ground of Leon County," said Postmaster Ima Ray Watson.

Saturday, about 75 residents had gathered at the proposed site in eastern Texas to demonstrate against the plan.

"If it's not dangerous, why don't they keep it in Dallas or Houston?" one young man asked.

Company officials were not immediately available for comment.

The storage facility has dominated conversation at the Red Onion, one of the town's favorite gathering spots, since residents read about NSSI's plans last week. The talk led to organization, and a five-member steering committee was formed to try to stop the plan.

Citizens joining the cause included two city council members, two attorneys, a school principal, the school board president, a local newspaper editor and several ranchers and their families.

Many were irritated that they were not given more notice.

Rocky Flats Coalition planning civil disobedience protests later

Demonstrators listen to Peter Yarrow, formerly of the group Peter, Paul and Mary, during an anti-nuclear rally this weekend at the Rocky Flats

Nuclear Weapons plant near Golden, Colo. The plant produces plutonium components for nuclear weapons. (AP Laserphoto)

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Some members of the Rocky Flats Coalition say they will return to the nuclear weapons plant or another federal facility this summer to hold civil disobedience protests similar to those that sparked mass arrests in 1978 and 1979.

But civil disobedience was not a part of this year's weekend protest, now an annual event. Protesters did not return for the sit-ins that followed two earlier protest rallies.

Instead, they held workshops on nuclear disarmament.

Demonstrations in August would mark the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II. Protesters said a federal building in Denver could be the target or demonstrators could return to Rocky Flats, where plutonium components for nuclear warheads are made.

"You can't really plan these things, but I hope to be back here in August," said former Pentagon analyst Daniel Ellsberg before he addressed a legal rally Saturday that attracted at least 10,000 persons to Rocky Flats.

In 1978, a total of about 170 persons were arrested on Jefferson County trespassing charges. In 1979, about 270 persons were arrested and convicted on a federal trespassing charge. This year, organizers hoped to attract more support by eliminating the disobedience.

The Colorado State Patrol and Rockwell International Corp., which operates Rocky Flats for the Department of Energy, estimated the crowd at just over 10,000. Organizers of the rally claimed 18,000.

The protesters, dressed in T-shirts and cutoffs, spun plastic discs and flew kites during the speeches. To one side, a group of Rockwell employees filmed the gathering and mugged for cameras with flamboyantly dressed protesters.

Barry Commoner, presidential candidate of the Citizens' Party, called Rocky Flats "a symbol of the nation's need to march toward nuclear disarmament."

Republican presidential candidate John Anderson, an Illinois congressman, sent a message that "we need to reduce a potential threat of nuclear war through stabilizing our economy, reducing our energy dependence and implementing a clear and consistent foreign policy." The statement that did not address the issue of closing or converting Rocky Flats.

A telegram from Democratic presidential contender Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said, "We must commit ourselves to holding the nuclear arms race and ending the spread of nuclear weapons technology." He did not specifically address Rocky Flats.

Faculty cheating may have increased scores

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Cheating by some faculty members in the Kansas City school district could have prompted dramatic increases in student scores on an eighth-grade basic skills test last month, according to a published report.

Some teachers say that district officials encouraged what some faculty members thought was improper assistance to students by changing the way the state test was administered this year, the Kansas City Star reported in a copyright story Sunday.

The teachers also said district officials applied heavy pressure on staff members to raise scores. The pressure was so great that some school administrators and teachers thought they might lose their jobs if their students did not score better on the test than they did last year, the teachers told The Star.

The newspaper said it conducted interviews last week with more than two dozen counselors and teachers in six of the district's 10 junior high schools.

The cheating allegedly occurred on the Missouri Basic Essential Skills Test, which includes sections on mathematics, language and reading and government and economics. It is designed to measure whether eighth-grade students can apply academic skills to everyday life.

District officials said 37.3 percent of the students tested passed all three sections of the test this year, compared to 29.2 percent in 1979.

When asked about the charges, Wayne Dotts, assistant superintendent for secondary education, said he saw nothing wrong with teachers helping students interpret test questions and select answers.

"I hope they helped them during the test," said Dotts. "The test is a learning situation."

Dotts, however, later said his statement represented only his personal philosophy of education. As a district official, he said, he couldn't condone teachers helping students select answers. Officials are uncertain about the extent of the irregularities in the administration of the test, said district spokesman David Burket.

Abortion fund pleading heard by Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress cannot constitutionally trade off the health and lives of impoverished pregnant women to protect fetal life, a New York attorney representing the poor told the Supreme Court today.

"The preference for fetal life, at the expense of maternal life and health, is irrational," Rhonda Copelon of the Center for Constitutional Rights said as she urged the court to order federal welfare payments for medically necessary abortions for the poor.

But Solicitor General Wade McCree argued that Congress was well within its rights in denying payments through the Medicaid programs for all abortions except in pregnancies endangering the mother's life or resulting from rape or incest.

The funding restriction, he contended, "is rationally related to a legitimate government interest in preserving potential human life and encouraging childbirth."

Both advocates and opponents of abortion assembled on the court's marble plaza in quiet demonstrations of their views as the arguments over legal and constitutional issues were presented to the justices.

The arguments came to the court when the government and other defenders of the federal law restricting abortion funding appealed trial court rulings in New York City and Chicago striking the statute as unconstitutional. The government has resumed funding all medically necessary abortions for the poor pending the Supreme Court decision.

McCree argued essentially that, regardless of one's position on abortion, Congress had authority to decide the government should not pay for the procedure.

Cleveland schools in court

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Ohio Board of Education, which once called federal court proceedings a "collateral side-show" to integration, is going to court today for hearings to determine if it is liable for the intentional segregation of Cleveland's public schools.

U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti is trying to resolve an issue that has been pending for more than six years and on which he has twice ruled.

A finding of liability would mean the state would have to share in the costs of integration and in planning and implementing the court's orders. The Cleveland school budget for 1980 includes about $25 million in desegregation-related expenses.

A lawsuit seeking to desegregate Ohio's largest public school system was filed before Battisti in December 1973. At that time, there were 145,000 pupils in the district, 57 percent of them black. Today, there are about 90,000 pupils in the Cleveland public schools, about two-thirds black.

On Aug. 31, 1976, Battisti found the state and Cleveland school boards liable for intentionally segregating Cleveland schools. The matter was returned to him by an appeals court, however, to make sure the ruling complied with U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

The state argued that any constitutional violations were solely the result of actions by the Cleveland school board and that it (the state) lacked the power to assign students, hire faculty or select school sites.

Mormons fight ERA

MIAMI (AP) — Florida legislative candidates who opposed the Equal Rights Amendment got thousands of dollars in a last-minute campaign by Mormon Church leaders, The Miami Herald says.

Church sources said leaders hoped to raise at least $10,000 for each candidate in the final 17 days before the 1978 election, according to a story published Sunday. The sources in the Salt Lake City-based Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints estimated at least $60,000 was contributed.

"It is our hope that nothing was done illegally," said Jerry Cahill, chief spokesman for the church. But, Cahill said, "things undoubtedly were done that on review shouldn't have

Mary Lou Cassidy will provide a dose of amusing Bombeck perspectives when she reviews the best seller by Erma Bombeck, "Aunt Erma's Cope Book," for Lunch Bunch noon-timers Tuesday.

Mary Lou, well-known from her many theater roles and humorous book reviews, is a longtime worker with the Midland Community Theatre, and was part of the theater's company that performed "An American Dream" in 1965 at the Amateur Theatre Festival in Monaco.

She received her doctorate degree in law from Texas Tech University at Lubbock, and is a member of the Stubbeman, McRae, Sealy, Laughlin and Browder law firm.

Lunch Bunch is a series of varied programs sponsored by the Friends of the Midland County Library. It meets each Tuesday through May 27 at 11:45 a.m. at 206 S. Colorado St. The public is invited to attend and bring lunch; coffee is provided by Luby's Cafeteria.

Last Tuesday, the Midland High School Choir, directed by Don McCartney, entertained with a musical treat to help Lunch Bunchers forget tax deadlines. Laughter with a barbershop quartet, award winning classical numbers, soothing songs and the rollicking tunes of the 50s gave brown baggers a delightful earful of spring joy. The amendment, designed to prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex, has yet to be ratified in Florida and is several states shy of the number needed to make it a part of the U.S. Constitution.

The campaign began less than a month before the election, when church President Spencer W. Kimball issued a letter calling ERA a "threat to the moral climate of the future" and declaring its defeat a goal of the church.

Fiandaca favored for his timeless designs

Copley News Service

BOSTON — The acceptance of Fiandaca could have been predicted. His timeless designs are classic, simple and elegant for the investment clothes buyer.

Now the Massachusetts couturier designer is a darling of another set — the personalities. Joan Kennedy, Natalie Wood, Raquel Welch and many other clothes-conscious women in the news are wearing the Fiandaca label (pronounced FEE-AHN-DAH-CAH).

Only six months ago the 38-year-old designer gave his first formal showing in New York. His second will be later this month (April 28). Meanwhile, he and partner Gary Longtine have tramped the entire collection across country to Suite 101 in Beverly Hills, where movie personalities, including Lola Redford, Tina and Nancy Sinatra, Audrey Meadows, Stephanie Mills and Mrs. Hal Wallace attended his showing. That trip alone netted the Fiandaca salon $96,000 in orders for his new fall creations.

Back in Boston the energetic, fourth-generation artist-designer is difficult to meet with. He is busy creating part two of Joan Kennedy's campaign clothes. For the most part she has selected classic, understated styles.

Secretaries Week luncheon slated

Secretaries across the nation are observing Secretaries Week with the theme "Secretaries are Forever!"

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. has proclaimed the week of Sunday through Saturday as Secretaries Week in recognition of the secretarial profession. The proclamation states that secretaries today are accepting vital responsibilities and are performing important roles in commerce, industry and government. Also, that professional development should be stressed to remind the secretary of benefits from continued education and to remind the employer that he will gain a better qualified secretary.

The focus of the special observance is to recognize the contributions professional secretaries make in both the private and public sectors. All business and industry is requested to join in giving due recognition to this group. According to Ann Michele, International President of National Secretaries Association (NSA), secretaries are becoming a rare breed. She says, "The secretarial shortage is an uppermost concern of business today. Statistics indicate that approximately a quarter of a million secretarial positions are available, but that many are not being filled. In order to attract applicants for these vacancies, employers must recognize that today's secretaries are trained professionals. Also, students must be made aware of the excellent opportunities for advancement that are opening up in a vital field where the most jobs exist."

The Permian Chapter of the NSA (International) will celebrate the 29th annual observance of Secretaries Week at a luncheon Thursday at the Midland Hilton. All secretaries and their bosses are invited to attend. Membership in NSA is not required.

Lewis G. Mosburg Jr. will be the luncheon speaker. His topic will be "Economics for the Career Woman."

Mosburg, a lecturer and writer in the fields of tax shelters, oil and gas and real estate, is a senior partner in the Oklahoma City law firm of Mosburg and Berry. He also has 50 other books to his editing and writing credit.

Mosburg, a frequent lecturer at the Permian Basin Graduate Center in Midland, received his BA and LLB degrees from the University of Oklahoma.

The Secretary of the Year, Florene Anderson, will be honored, and the Boss of the Year will be announced at the luncheon.

Reservations may be made by calling Pat Beck at 683-2832 by Tuesday.

Family Life Week observance to include three-day seminar

Junior League of Midland, Inc., in conjunction with "Family Life Week," is sponsoring a "Family Life Seminar" Tuesday through Thursday at Theatre Midland.

Keynote speaker for the seminar will be Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, an internationally known child psychologist.

Agency leaders involved with the family have been invited to participate in the three-day workshops. Leading the workshops will be experts from Texas, Oklahoma and Arizona, whose specialty is in dealing with family life. A brochure of family services offered in Midland, along with tapes to be made of each seminar leader's speech, will be made available to the public by the Junior League of Midland, Inc.

Bettelheim will speak twice Tuesday. His topic will be "Concrete Suggestions for Improvement of Interpersonal Relationships Within the Family Structure" from 9 to a.m. and "How to Restructure the Family to Meet Today's Needs" from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. His speeches are open to the public.

Goals of the seminar include educating the community to existing resources available to satisfy family needs, aiding in strengthening family relationships and in developing parenting skills and explaining and promoting the responsibilities of parents as advocates for their children.

All city agencies, churches and organizations touching the family in any way also are invited to participate in the seminar.

nals. His articles have appeared in The New Yorker, The Scientific America, Commentary, Parent's Magazine and Ladies Home Journal.

Co-sponsors of the Family Life Seminar are The First National Bank, March of Dimes, Joe L. Ault Jr. Memorial March of Dimes Educational Fund, Midland Association of Churches, St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, First United Methodist Church, Western State Bank, First Savings and Loan Association, The Midland National Bank, Commercial Bank and Trust Co., Midland branch of the American Association of University Women, Metro Bank and Citizens Savings.

And Texas National Bank, Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, St. Ann's Catholic Church, Midland Junior Woman's Club, St. Mark's United Methodist Women of the Church, Gibraltar Savings, Midland Chamber of Commerce, First Presbyterian Church, United Way of Midland and Midland City Council of PTAs.

New light bulb has made debut

Question: When does it make financial sense to spend $10 or $12 for a new kind of light bulb instead of 85 cents or so for the traditional, filament bulb?

Answer: When the more expensive bulb lasts 5 to 7 times as long and provides up to 70 percent in energy savings over the ordinary, incandescent bulb.

Consumers will be able to choose between inexpensive, conventional bulbs and new, expensive but super-efficient bulbs by mid-1981 when several, new fluorescent-based bulbs that screw into standard bulb sockets are introduced to the American market.

General Electric has already announced that a super bulb is in development. And now North American Philips Lighting Corp. (Norelco) has surprised the home-furnishings industry by producing an actual bulb. The Philips bulb, developed in Europe by its parent, N.V. Philips, Netherlands, went on sale in the predominant worldwide 220-240 voltage this April. Company officials said the bulb in a 120 volt form (the predominant voltage in the U.S.) would go on sale in the U.S. in 1981.

Philips expects to show the bulb to American retailers at the January, 1981 national housewares show in Chicago. The bulb, which looks similar to a regular filament bulb and screws into ordinary lamp sockets, should be in retail stores by mid-1981. It is expected to sell for about $12 in wattage equal to 40, 60, 75 and 100 watt incandescent bulbs. Slightly larger than regular bulbs, the Philips bulb fits many existing fixtures as the company demonstrated at a New York showing recently.

At the same time, the company showed samples of a new, miniature, four-inch tubular fluorescent bulb and fixture. The new lamp, which Philips executives claim is 25 percent more efficient than the screw-in bulb, cannot, however, be used with conventional lamps. It will be marketed to lighting-fixture manufacturers and should result in the introduction of a greater variety of compact fluorescent lamps for home applications, said the executives.

Although the possibility of significant energy savings might seem unlikely on an item which, individually, consumes minimal electricity, Stephen Tumminello, president of the Philips lighting subsidiary in Hightstown, N.J., pointed out that approximately four billion filament bulbs are used each year throughout the world.

DEAR ABBY RX for marriages: mates be lovers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Thirty years and six great kids ago, my wife, like MAGGIE, was a "never-before-mass-gal." She also believed that sex was dirty and sinful.

An old priest put a stop to all that nonsense. He pulled a book from the top shelf of his library and handed it to my wife with instructions for her to call him after every chapter. He also instructed me never to let two weeks go by without bringing my wife a rose.

When the kids were little, our family doctor wrote on a prescription pad, "One weekend, every six weeks, get a sitter for the kids, buy a bottle of wine, check into a motel with your wife, and treat her like a hooker. And don't say you can't afford to. You can't afford NOT to."

Today our children are educated, well-adjusted and independent, and I am left with a lovable, exciting wife. Thank you, Father Joe and Doctor Bob! — CHRISTIANS SHOULD BE LOVERS

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to referring to bullfighting as "the brutal, bloody business of torturing animals for sport and entertainment." This is your own personal opinion, and you have no right to tear down something you don't understand. And you obviously didn't research the subject or you wouldn't have told the young woman that since bullfighting is illegal in U.S., she would have to go to a country where it is legal to be trained as a bullfighter.

I am an ex-lady-bullfighter who received two years' training in the U.S.

After I retired from bullfighting, I became very much involved in humane work, and believe me, I should have stuck to bullfighting. I am the president of Feline and Canine Friends, Inc. — dedicated to the humane treatment of animals, and this is the most heartbreaking work in the world.

The cruelty that man imposes on animals is unforgivable. Laboratory animals are tortured and caged until the only peace they know is death. Do you think about what animals must endure so you can walk in leather shoes? Or when you eat baby veal? Or wear a fur coat? Check it out, if you have the nerve. — ROSE H. IN ANAHEIM

DEAR ROSE: What you say may be true, but does man's inhumane treatment of other animals justify man's inhumane treatment of the bull for sport, entertainment or ART?
DEAR ABBY: My father was 72 when he died last month. He had an operation, after being in surgery for over four hours he died on the table, so I would say the operation was a failure, wouldn't you?

Well, his doctor had the nerve to send us a bill for the surgery. Abby, do you think a doctor should be paid for an operation that failed? — HIS DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes. The doctor put forth as much skill, effort and time on an operation that failed as he would have for an operation that succeeded.

After thought pays off for Donna Horton White

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Donna Horton White says she only decided to play in the $100,000 Lady Citrus Open because her family would be in the gallery.

She'd had a cyst removed from her hand a few weeks ago and it was still tender. But she played the pro-am Wednesday and felt all right, so she decided to stick it out. Her husband and parents, after all, would be here from West Palm Beach to watch.

On Sunday, White birdied three straight holes and overcame a nervous finish to pick up her first victory in four years on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

"I never would have been able to stay at home, knowing they were playing a tournament only a few miles away," White admitted after finishing with a 9-under-par 283.

She started the day a stroke behind Jerilyn Britz, who double-bogeyed twice on the front nine of the Rio Pinar Golf Club to fall out of contention. White opened a three-stroke lead with birdies on the 12th, 13th and 14th holes.

But after White bogeyed the 172-yard 16th hole, defending champion Jane Blalock, playing ahead of the winner, birdied the 450-yard 18th to finish with an 8-under-par 284.

White parred 17, but hit her second shot on the 18th behind the trap. She managed to reach the green with her third shot and two-putted for a par-5 to take the $15,000 winner's check.

"If I described how I felt now, I'd start to cry," said the winner's mother, Faye Horton, who went to work as a bookkeeper to help support her daughter.

Tom Watson ...still the winner

Watson's margin shrinks

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Jim Colbert was saying all the right things, all the gracious things. "The best player in the game won this tournament," Colbert said. "There is no question about that."

But unknown to Colbert there was a very considerable question about the margin of victory in Tom Watson's front-running defense of his title in the Tournament of Champions.

While Colbert was speaking, that margin was being trimmed from five shots to three. Watson was assessed a 2-shot penalty after he had completed his final round Sunday. It merely changed his score from 71 to 73, his total from 274 to 276, his winning margin from five shots to three.

It was only an exercise in arithmetic. In no way did it change the outcome of the tournament. But it could have.

"If I'd been leading by one, it would have changed things," Watson said. "I wouldn't have won."

The penalty arose from some television-related advice Watson passed on to Lee Trevino during their final-round play. Trevino was struggling, Watson told him, on the 13th hole, that he was playing the ball too far forward in his stance.

Herman Mitchell, Trevino's caddy, was wearing a live television mike. NBC announcers heard the comment and rather casually passed it along to the viewing audience as a sidelight, an illustration of how players aid each other.

But it's illegal. A viewer in Ojai, Calif., telephoned to question the legality.

Jack Tuthill, Tournament Director of the PGA Tour, questioned Watson about it in the scorer's tent. Watson readily admitted he'd done it. And he was penalized two shots.

"I was wrong. I wasn't thinking," Watson said. "I violated the rules. It's a violation of the advice rule. I accept the penalty. The rules are there to be followed. I violated them. If I'd been leading by one, if it had changed the outcome of the tournament, I still would have accepted the penalty."

Even with the penalty, Watson won easily. He started the day in front, stayed in front and finished in front.

It was the third victory of the season for the man who has been the game's outstanding performer the past three seasons. It marked the fourth time since 1978 that he'd made a successful title defense.

The 21st victory of his career was worth $54,000 from the total purse of $300,000 and boosted Watson past Arnold Palmer and into third place on the all-time money-winning list behind Jack Nicklaus and Trevino. He now has $201,325 for the year, $1,872,958 for his career.

SPORTS IN BRIEF Pfeil wins at Tallahassee

GOLF—Mark Pfeil survived bogeys on two of the last three holes to finish with a 71 for 11-under-par 277 total and a one-stroke victory in the $100,000 Tallahassee Open. Bill Rogers carded a third-round 69 and a final-round 74 as the golfers played two rounds due to Saturday's rain.

Mark Lye shot rounds of 68 and 70 to tie Rogers for second, one stroke back. Bob Murphy and Bobby Cole finished at 279, 9-under-par on the 7,027-yard Killdeer Golf and Country Club course... Massimo Mannelli of Italy shot a 72 for an 8-under-par 276 total to win the Italian Open Golf Championship. Mannelli finished five strokes ahead of Britain's Ken Brown and John Bland of South Africa, who tied for second at 281.

TENNIS—Top-seeded Gene Mayer defeated unseeded Brian Teacher 6-3, 6-2 in the final of the $175,000 Jack Kramer Open tennis tournament... Top-seeded Martina Navratilova scored a 5-7, 6-3, 6-2 victory over sixth-seeded Hana Mandlikova in the final of a $100,000 WTA tournament at Amelia Island, Fla.

BOWLING—Wayne Webb, who started the day in third place, defeated Gary Dickinson 219-194 to win the prestigious $150,000 Tournament of Champions, his fifth PBA title.

PRO FOOTBALL—A new National Football League Players Union, rivaling Ed Garvey's Players' Association and aimed at ousting him from power, has been formed. Mike Trope, a well-known player agent and the new union's principal organizer, confirmed the details to The Associated Press and, in the process, accused Garvey of major irregularities regarding the 1977 approval of the players' collective bargaining agreement.

AUTO RACING—Richard Petty swung into the lead early in the race and breezed to an unchallenged finish in winning a 250-mile stock-car race at the North Wilkesboro Speedway. Benny Parsons challenged Petty throughout the race and was running in second place when Parson's Chevrolet blew its engine less than 10 miles from the finish. Parsons was black-flagged by NASCAR officials and he wound up in fifth place.

Harry Gant, in a Chevrolet, took second place, one lap behind Petty in the 400-lap race on the 1/2-mile banked track. Bobby Allison, in a Ford, was third, and Cale Yarborough finished fourth in a Chevrolet.

HORSE RACING (Saturday)—Eagle Toast, $8.60, scored a front-running victory over Daranstone in the $100,000 added Golden Gate Handicap at Golden Gate Fields... Weber City Miss, $9.20, beat Denim Gal in the $32,900 Hilltop Stakes at Pimlico... Doing It My Way, $12, finished six lengths ahead of Powerless, and Conga Miss, $9.20, beat Century Type by two lengths in the two divisions of the Sixty Sails Handicap at Sportman's Park... Cheating Arthur, $13.60, beat Ed's Desire by 4 1/2 lengths in the $27,350 Gettysburg Handicap at Keystone... Ben Fab, $4.60, beat Creamette City by 1 1/2 lengths in the $25,000-added Olympic Handicap at Gulfstream... Flos Florum, $10.40, held off Cerada Ridge by 1 1/2 lengths, and Sugar and Spice, $3.60, beat Nice and Sharp by 3/4 lengths in the two divisions of the $62,650 Ashland Stakes at Keeneland...

Sabres expel Black Hawks

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Buffalo Coach Scotty Bowman can't be sure which team his Sabres will face in the National Hockey League playoff semifinals. But he couldn't be sure about which team he'd rather play.

After his Sabres had eliminated the Chicago Black Hawks with a comeback 3-2 triumph Sunday night, Bowman said: "It would mean a lot to me personally if we play Montreal — not because I used to be their coach, but because of the great talent and history they have."

"It would really be something for us to shoot for."

Right now, it's something the Canadiens are shooting for as well. Montreal, which lost the first two games of its quarterfinal against the Minnesota North Stars at home, has rallied to tie that series with consecutive victories — the latest a 5-1 decision in Bloomington, Minn., Sunday night.

Having regained their scoring touch, the Canadiens seem just as eager to join Bowman's Sabres in a semifinal shootout.

"We're a team with a lot of pride," said Montreal goalie Michel Larocque, who backstopped the Canadiens' victory Sunday night. "It's a new series now. We are the champions. It is not over until the final game for us."

Canadiens 5, North Stars 1—Rejean Houle scored twice and Yvon Lambert added his eighth goal of the playoffs as Montreal downed Minnesota to square the series.

"It's back to brass tacks now," said Canadiens defenseman Larry Robinson.

Minnesota managed just one goal over its two home games. The North Stars were shut out 5-0 Saturday night and got only a goal from U.S. Olympian Steve Christoff in the Sunday contest.

Rangers 4, Flyers 1—Right wing Ron Duguay scored three goals for the first time in his playoff career, center Phil Esposito added a goal and two assists and left wing Don Maloney had three assists as the Rangers stayed alive against the Flyers.

Two of Duguay's goals came on power play, ending a long string of New York frustration and Philadelphia success during Rangers' manpower advantages. New York had gone all 15 of its power plays without a goal against Philadelphia, and the Flyers had survived their last 30 penalties, dating back to their preliminary round against Edmonton.

Duguay, however, scored just six seconds into the first New York power play of the night.

"That first goal was important for two reasons," said Esposito. "It was the first time in the series we got the first goal and it was our first power-play goal."

Snakes, gators get Kern in end

BOSTON (AP) — Hey, Jim Kern, maybe 40-year-old Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox is more dangerous than snakes and alligators — at least on the baseball field.

Kern, the American League's "Fireman of the Year" with the Texas Rangers, got off a witty line Friday after walking Boston's Fred Lynn to pitch to slugger Jim Rice in the ninth inning.

"Pitching around Lynn to get to Rice is like jumping out of a boat full of snakes into water filled with alligators," Kern said after preserving a Texas victory by getting Rice to ground into a game-ending force.

"When the count ran to 2-0 on Lynn, we decided to put him on intentionally," Kern explained. "I wasn't pitching around Lynn. I wanted to reduce a count to 0-0."

Kern allowed only three hits in an unusually long job of 5 1-3 innings until he walked Rick Burleson with one out in the 11th inning of a 5-5 tie Sunday. Burleson then raced to third on Lynn's line single off the left field wall.

Texas Manager Pat Corrales strolled to the mound to talk to his ace reliever. It was agreed to walk Rice intentionally and try to get Yastrzemski to hit into a double play. The strategy backfired. Yaz ripped Kern's first pitch into right field for the game-winning run in Boston 6-5 victory.

"I was very surprised when they walked me because they had gotten me out easily in my three previous times at bat." Rice said. "It showed the old man (Yaz) no respect, also."

"When I walked up there, I thought they'd bring in (Sparky) Lyle," Yastrzemski said. "When they didn't, I was looking for a fast ball all the way. When they walked Rice, it gave them more options, a play at the plate or any base."

"I couldn't take any chances in that situation," Corrales said of the intentional walk. "You really can't play for a double play, but I knew that if we didn't get one the game was over. Kern had good stuff, but they had a couple of breaks."

Tom Burgmeier, a 36-year-old left-hander, picked up the victory, his first decision of the season. With two saves, he suddenly has blossomed as Boston's ace in the club's 5-4 record.

Burgmeier bailed out reliever Dick Drago of a one-out bases-loaded jam in the seventh inning. Then he blanked the Rangers on just two hits the rest of the way.

Incredible Bird sinks 76ers

BOSTON (AP) — Billy Cunningham sat and frowned as he studied the statistics sheet, a piece of paper the Philadelphia coach hardly needed to identify the flying object that had done such damage to his team.

"It was Larry Bird, plain and simple," said Cunningham. "He hit shots that were just incredible. He was out at the three-point line, coming off screens and burying everything he shot."

Bird, Boston's brilliant rookie, connected on 15 of 30 field goal attempts, scored 31 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead the Celtics to a 96-90 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday, tying their National Basketball Association playoff series at one victory apiece. The next two games of the best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals will be played in Philadelphia Wednesday and Friday nights.

"We had to win today," said Bird, who was still besieged by newsmen in the Boston locker room an hour after the final buzzer sounded. "Our backs were to the wall. If we had lost and gone to Philadelphia two down, it would have been very tough to come back."

So, faced with what at last approached a must-win situation, Celtics Coach Bill Fitch changed his strategy a bit. He kept his reserves anchored to the bench and went with his starters for as long as possible. Bird and center Dave Cowens played 46 minutes apiece, Nate Archibald 42, Chris Ford 40, Cedric Maxwell 38.

"It's the playoffs," Fitch explained. The Celtics didn't build much momentum Sunday, but they did do enough to win. They dominated the first half, taking a 53-38 lead with 2:37 left in the second period behind 21 points by Bird. A 12-1 Philadelphia spurt made the halftime score 54-50, and three baskets by Sixers center Darryl Dawkins tied it at 62-62 with 6:21 to go in the third period.

But Philadelphia couldn't get a basket for the rest of the quarter, was outscored by Boston 12-2 and could come no closer than the final six-point margin. Julius Erving led the Sixers with 24 points, while Maxwell contributed 17 points and 15 rebounds for the Celtics.

Sonics tackle Lakers Tuesday

SEATTLE (AP) — After escaping burial over the weekend, the defending National Basketball Association champion Seattle SuperSonics don't have much time to pat themselves on the back.

The Sonics, who won the Western Conference semifinals Sunday with a 98-94 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks, face the Pacific Division champion Los Angeles Lakers in a best-of-seven playoff series which

Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed in quiet trading today, as Wall Street worried about how severe the economic downturn will be.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which fell 28.45 points last week, edged up .51 to 763.91 in the first two hours of trading.

But declining stocks outnumbered gainers by a narrow margin in New York Stock Exchange trading.

Among actively traded issues, Texas Utilities was up 1/4 to 18 1/2 and American Telephone and Telegraph moved up 1/4 to 50 1/2.

Recession fears have grown in recent weeks, with some economists suggesting the downturn may be considerably worse than the mild recession forecast by President Carter.

Auto stocks were lower in early trading. Ford fell 1/4 to 22 1/2. Chrysler dropped 1/4 to 5 1/2 and General Motors was down 1/4 to 40 1/2.

McDonald Douglas, which reported lower earnings for the first quarter, slipped 1 1/2 to 32 1/2.

Oil stocks with Canadian interests were strong. Mobil was up 1 1/2 to 69 1/2 and Standard of California rose 3/4 to 66.

The NYSE's composite index of common stocks rose .02 to 57.23 as Big Board volume totaled 10.19 million shares by noon EST, compared to 12.81 million shares at the same point in the previous session.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .25 at 235.97.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Take medication as doctor orders

Dear Dr. Solomon: Whenever my doctor prescribes medication, he gives me instructions such as to take it with meals, or before meals, etc. What difference does it make how I take the medicine as long as I take it?

— Joe

Dear Joe: Taking medication is a lot more involved than simply taking medication. The food you eat can make medicine work faster or slower, or even keep it from working at all.

Many foods contain chemicals or additives that may make some drugs practically useless, while certain combinations of food and drugs can actually be dangerous.

The way in which food and drugs interact depends on the amount of medication prescribed and the patient's age, size, and the specific medical condition.

When food is present in the stomach and intestines, the effectiveness of a drug may be enhanced or diluted because of the time it takes for it to travel through the gastrointestinal tract to the point where it is needed.

One way in which food affects the way medication works in the body is through its influence on the drug's rate of absorption into the bloodstream.

Ordinarily, food delays absorption. For example, milk should never be used to wash down a tetracycline capsule since calcium interferes with the absorption of tetracycline.

Similarly, carbonated beverages may cause drugs to dissolve in the stomach instead of in the intestines, where they can be absorbed into the bloodstream more quickly.

To prevent adverse food-drug reactions, be certain to follow your physician's instructions about when to take medication, and what food or beverages to avoid during the time you are on the drug.

Motorcyclists hospitalized

Three people were admitted to Midland Memorial Hospital Saturday night and Sunday night after the motorcyclists they were riding were involved in accidents.

At 11:50 p.m. Saturday, Tommy Kent Howell, 38, of 1001 W. Dakota Ave., was riding his motorcycle south on Terrell Street. Rollin Gunter Jr., 38, of Box 3274, County Road 120 East, was a passenger on the motorcycle.

A vehicle driven by Jimmie Lee Tyler, 27, of 1507 Butternut Lane was eastbound on Florida Avenue, turning onto Terrell. The motorcycle and car collided at the intersection.

Howell was admitted to Midland Memorial Hospital with a broken kneecap. Gunter was admitted with a broken neck, according to a Midland Memorial Hospital spokesman. Both were listed in satisfactory condition this morning.

At 7:19 p.m. Sunday, Robert Jose Hignojos, 19, of 1506 E. Garden Lane, was eastbound on New Jersey Avenue. A van driven by Santos Francos of 1210 S. Dallas Ave. was westbound on New Jersey. The van made a left turn and the van and Hignojos' motorcycle collided at the intersection of New Jersey and Dallas.

Hignojos was listed in satisfactory condition with a back injury this morning in Midland Memorial Hospital.

Deaf woman makes story of Cinderella become real

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Deaf since birth, 5-foot-2 Gerri Ehrlich has beaten some big odds in the city known as the "Green Felt Jungle."

Believed to be the only deaf "21" dealer in Las Vegas, the bubbly 26-year-old brunette has cranked a closed society.

"It's a Cinderella story," said her mother June, who taught both of her deaf daughters to speak.

"I never dreamed it would ever happen," said Gerri, who overcame an incredible string of setbacks before landing a job at one of the largest casinos in Las Vegas.

Through lip-reading, she communicates with players at her table, most of whom seldom detect her handicap. "Once in a while there are complaints that I don't answer all the questions, but after the pit boss explains to them, they're very understanding," she said.

Her struggle began at birth, with nerve deafness. At age 1 1/2 she almost died of arsenic poisoning when she accidentally swallowed a rat pesticide. Three years ago, when she decided to become a dealer, potential employers rejected her because of her hearing handicap.

"I went through a lot," said the hazel-eyed native of West Van Nuys, Calif. "It takes a lot of energy out of you to become something."

But, she said, "I'm a fighter. I don't feel I'm handicapped."

Instead of isolating herself from the public, Gerri tackled her challenge head-on. But the demand for a deaf dealer in a city that employs 45,000 dealers, 300 new ones per day, was limited.

"She picked a hard way to go," said her mother. "Las Vegas is a tough town to break into."

Making a meager living while working two jobs at a deaf school, she enrolled in a dealing school and went job hunting.

After encountering considerable resistance because of her hearing problem, she finally got a job at one of the smaller downtown casinos.

"I flunked my first two auditions. I'd get so nervous. That job meant so much to me. But the people at the Hilton have been just great to me," said Gerri, who, with the help of a special hearing aid, can distinguish words. "I can hear music, but not the words. I love disco because it's got a beat I can hear."

Richard search at the Hilton have been just great to me," said Gerri, who, with the help of a special hearing aid, can distinguish words. "I can hear music, but not the words. I love disco because it's got a beat I can hear."

Pair of oil discoveries potential

Oil discoveries have been completed in King and Hockley Counties.

Taubert, Steed, Gun & Medders of Wichita Falls No. 3 S. B. Burnett Estate "WM" was completed as a Strawn discovery in King County, 17 miles southeast of Guthrie.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential of 207 barrels of 36-gravity oil and no water, with a gas-oil ratio of 150-1, through perforations from 5,346 to 5,360 feet. The pay was acidized with 500 gallons.

Total depth is 6,020 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented at 6,020 feet.

The lower Strawn was topped at 5,266 feet on ground elevation of 1,681 feet.

Other tops include the Palo Pinto reef, 3,150 feet; Twin Peaks sand, 5,172 feet; Caddo, 5,683 feet; Caddo conglomerate, 5,810 feet, and Mississippian, 5,820 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from south and 2,200 feet from east lines of section 12, block F, H&TC survey and one location west of the Anne Tandy (conglomerate) field.

HOCKLEY OPENER

Texas Crude Inc., of Fort Worth No. 1-20 Fowler was completed as a lower Clear Fork discovery 3.5 miles northeast of Levelland in Hockley County.

On 24-hour potential test, the strike finished on the pump for 11 barrels of 28.9-gravity oil and 61 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,912 to 7,141 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 195-1, and the pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons.

The pay was topped at 6,744 feet on ground elevation of 3,493 feet. The Tubb was topped at 6,582 feet and the lower Clear Fork at 6,744 feet.

Total depth is 7,990 feet, 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom, and the plugged back depth is 7,148 feet.

Wellsite is 467 feet from north and west lines of labor 20, league 730, Abner Taylor County School Land survey.

ANDREWS WELLS

Mobil Producing Texas & New Mexico Inc., No. 3 University Texas Leas has been completed in the Magutey (Atoka) field of Andrews County, 11 miles east of Andrews.

The well finished for a daily flowing potential of 22 barrels of oil and no water, through a 14/64-inch choke and perforations from 11,838 to 11,858 feet after 7,000 gallons of acid and 10,000 gallons of fracture solution.

The gas-oil ratio is 3,136-1, and gravity of the oil is 46.2 degrees.

Total depth is 12,640 feet, 5.5-inch pipe is cemented at 12,640 feet, and hole is plugged back to 11,980 feet.

A re-entry of a former Wolfcamp well, it is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 7, block 8, University Lands survey.

It is the second Atoka producer in the multipay field.

The Block 6, North (Devonian) field in Northeast

Andrews county gained its third well with completion of The Hanley Petroleum Inc. of Midland No. 1-5-12 University "B".

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 120 barrels of 40.1-gravity oil and two barrels of water, through perforations from 12,631 to 12,635 feet.

The flow was gauged through a 5/64-inch choke, and the pay was acidized with 250 gallons. The gas-oil ratio is 17-1.

Location is 670 feet from south and 2,203 feet from west lines of section 12, block 5, University Lands survey and 18 miles northeast of Andrews.

BORDEN PRODUCERS

Coquina Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 J. B. Slaughter is a new well in the Dunigan (Ellenburger) field of Borden County, 11 miles northeast of Gail.

The second Ellenburger producer in the field, it finished on the pump for 22 barrels of 39.6-gravity oil and 134 barrels of water, from open hole at 8,786-8,807 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 91-1.

The well is 1/2 mile northeast of the other Ellenburger well and 2,173 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of section 21, block 30, T-6-N, T&P survey.

A re-entry project, it formerly produced from the Stawn and from the Ellenburger.

The Dunigan (Strawn) field gained a new well with completion of Energy Reserve Group Inc. of Midland No. 1 W. A. Waddell.

Operator reported a daily pumping potential of 87 barrels of oil and 93 barrels of water, through perforations from 8,441 to 8,447 feet after a 500-gallon acid treatment. Gravity was not reported. The gas-oil ratio is 451-1.

Total depth is 8,750 feet, seven-inch casing is set at 8,736 feet and hole is plugged back to 8,664 feet.

The strike was topped at 2,640 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 20, block 30, T-6-N, T&P survey and 12 miles north of Gail.

A re-entry project, it formerly produced from the Ellenburger and Strawn.

Laguna Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 W. E. Everett is a new well in the Aplark (lower Spraberry) pool of Borden County, four miles southwest of Gail.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential of 48 barrels of 41-gravity oil and 64 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,418 to 6,557 feet after a 3000-gallon acid treatment and a 60,000-gallon fracture job.

Gas-oil ratio is 1,916-1.

Total depth is 9,047 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 8,769 feet. The plugged back depth is 6,759 feet.

The Spraberry was topped at 5,606 feet on ground elevation of 2,416 feet. Other tops include the Yates at 1,540 feet, San Andres at 2,750 feet, Glorieta at 4,060 feet, the upper Clear Fork at 4,313 feet and the Dean at 6,900 feet.

Location is 1,703 feet from north and 1,222 feet from east lines of section 17, block 31, T-4-N, T&P survey.

10 West Texas counties get locations for wildcat tests

Wildcat operations have been announced in Lubbock, Kent, Irion, Schleicher, Terrell, Tom Green, Fisher, Stonewall, Runnels and McCulloch counties.

Mesa Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 Anderson will be dug as a 6,500-foot wildcat in Lubbock County, 1.5 miles east of Lubbock.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 5, block 1, Stilson Case survey, abstract 440.

Ground elevation is 3,160.9 feet.

KENT RE-ENTRY

Lobo Oil Corp. of Snyder No. 1-37 Spres is a re-entry operation in Kent County, 10 miles southwest of Clairemont.

It is 833 feet from south and 933 feet from west lines of section 37, block 4, H&GN survey.

Operator will cleanout and deepen to 7,450 feet. The project was drilled by Prudential Minerals Exploration Corp. and abandoned at 6,968 feet in May 1979.

IRION PROJECTS

A new wildcat and a re-entry wildcat were reported in Irion County.

Brushy Creek Drilling Co. of San Angelo No. 4-1 Reva McMillan is to be dug as a 1,750-foot wildcat four miles east of Mertzon.

Drillsite is 700 feet from north and 3,400 feet from east lines of GC&SF survey No. 28.

The site is 1/2 mile northwest of a temporarily abandoned project and 3/4 mile northeast of the MIM (San Angelo oil) pool and separated from it by a 1,706-foot failure.

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. of Midland announced plans to re-enter the discovery well of the Turkey Feathers (Wolfcamp) field of Irion County and plug back to 6,899 feet for wildcat tests in the Canyon at its No. 1-1896 Sugg.

The field has no other producers.

The project is 660 feet from north and 650 feet from west lines of section 1896, a Winnan survey.

The strike was completed from the Wolfcamp through perforations from 5,670 to 5,892 feet.

It is two and one-quarter miles north of the Lucky Canyon, East (Canyon oil) pool.

SCHLEICHER WILDCAT

Miller Brothers Oil Corp. of Allegan, Mich., will dig No. 1-44 Upron as a 5,200-foot wildcat in Schleicher County, 16 miles southeast of Christoval.

It is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 44, block H, GH&A survey.

The site is two and five-eighths miles west of the one-well Upton Ranch (Canyon oil) pool and separated from it by depleted producers.

TERRELL TEST

William Perlman of Houston announced location for an 8,000-foot wildcat in Terrell County, 20 miles south of Sheffield.

Scheduled as No. 1-6 Marjorie Canon Brown, it is 1,473 feet from south and 1,052 feet from east lines of section 6, block 1, TCRW survey. Ground elevation is 2,421 feet.

The drillsite is 1.5 miles north of Ellenburger production and 2/5 miles north of Wolfcamp production in the Brown-Bassett field.

This is the second time this application has been filed, the first time in November 1978.

TOM GREEN AREA

NRM Petroleum Corp. of Midland No. 1 XQZ "C" is to be drilled as a 6,250-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, 3.5 miles north of Knickerbocker.

Location is 7,602 feet from south and 192 feet from east lines of German Emigration survey No. 807. Ground elevation is 1,964 feet.

The project also will be tested in the XQZ (Palo Pinto oil) field pay. It is one location east of that production.

FISHER RE-ENTRY

Theron Vaughan of Midland will re-enter and deepen to 3,500 feet the former James Schattel & George Poe No. 1 Carl Crews, a failure in Fisher County one mile northwest of Eskota.

The project, 1/2 mile south and slightly west of the Neill, South (Odom lime) field, is 700 feet from north and 1,850 feet from west lines of James Vaughn survey No. 294. The old total depth is not available.

The Neill, South (Odom lime) pool produces at 5,696 feet.

STONEWALL TEST

Mile Childers of Abilene No. 3 Droke has been staked as a 4,200-foot wildcat in the depleted Droke (Caddo lime oil) pool of Stonewall County, eight miles northwest of Hamlin.

Drillsite is 2,999 feet from south and 2,634 feet from east lines of section 117, block 1, H&TC survey.

The Droke field produced at 5,856 feet.

RUNNELS WILDCATS

James K. Anderson Inc. of Dallas spotted a pair of wildcat in Runnels County.

No. 1 Carr "D" is to be drilled to 4,300 feet three miles southeast of Winters.

It is 1,002 feet from the most southerly north line and 2,312 feet from the most westerly west line of J. M. Young survey No. 8. Ground elevation is 1,855.

Location is 5/8 mile northeast of Gardner production in the Winters field and one location northeast of a 4,547-foot dry hole.

ANDERSON NO. 2 CASEY

Anderson No. 2 Casey is a 4,100-foot wildcat 10 miles northeast of Winters and 1,500 feet northwest of the depleted

Whil-Whar (Morris sand oil) pool. It also is 1/2 mile northeast of the Tom Chuck (Morris gas) field and one location southwest of a 4,188-foot failure.

Drillsite is 2,000 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of Wharton County School Land survey No. 516. Ground elevation is 1,899 feet.

MCCULLOCH TRY

Galli and Yeager of Midland No. 1 John Cox is a 2,500-foot wildcat in McCulloch County, five miles northeast of doole.

Location is 467 feet from north and 1,200 feet from west lines of Peter Holzhauser survey No. 1290.

It is 1/2 mile south of the Stacey-Grant (Strawn gas) field and two and one-eighth miles east and slightly north of the two-well Wallope Creek (Cross Cut gas) pool.

West Texas field wells report potential tests

Coquina Oil Corp. of Midland No. 1 ARCO-fee, a reentry project in Crane County, has been completed as the ninth well in the Lyles, East (Clear Fork middle) field of Crane County, eight miles northwest of McCamey.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential of 26 barrels of 40-gravity oil, plus-11 barrels of water, through perforations from 3,202 to 3,208 feet which had been acidized with 500 gallons.

The old total depth is 3,641 feet and the plugged back depth is 3,250 feet.

The well, a former Tubb producer, is 1,700 feet from northeast and 2,100 feet from northwest lines of section 25, block 35, H&TC survey.

CROCKETT WORK

The Adams Baggett Ranch (Canyon sand gas) pool of Crockett County gained a new well with the completion of Blue Ridge Oil & Gas Exploration Inc., Detroit, Mich., No. 26 A. Phillips (originally reported as 26-C Phillips).

The well, 3/4 mile northwest of other Canyon sand gas production, finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 3,200,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 5,247 to 5,491 feet after 2,000 gallons of acid and 220,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and 3,960 feet from west lines of section 26, block 000, GC&SF survey and 24 miles south of Ozona.

The Howard Ward, Northeast (Queen gas) pool of Crockett County gained its fifth Queen producer with completion of James L. Lamb Jr. of Midland No. 4-39 Todd.

The well finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 560,000 cubic feet of gas per day, from open hole at 710 feet, where 5.5-inch casing is set, and the plugged back depth of 1,131 feet.

The well is 16 miles northwest of Ozona and 1,800 feet from south and 2,240 feet from east lines of section 39, block WX, GC&SF survey.

It is one and seven-eighths miles southwest of the closest Queen gas well.

Phenomenon may turn industry wheels

By TOM LACEKY

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — When this century ends, a phenomenon that once puzzled astronomers may be harnessed to power our lights and turn the wheels of industry.

Whether it does could depend largely on tests to begin this fall at a government research plant just outside this mountain-ringed copper-mining city. That's where scientists are assembling a coal-fired generator based on the infant science of MHD, or magnetohydrodynamics.

The MHD process generates electricity by forcing hot gas through a magnetic field.

Millions of dollars and years of study have gone into MHD research at laboratories in the United States and the Soviet Union. Here, the U.S. Energy Department will try to pull the science together and develop the technology to prove MHD's commercial potential.

DOE-financed research directly related to the Butte project also is being conducted at two plants in Tullahoma, Tenn. The second phase of the project, to start in 1986, calls for construction of an MHD pilot plant about 10 times as large as the test facility now being built here. DOE expects to spend $2 billion in the 1980s to develop the technology and says it will take 20 years to develop commercial-scale MHD plants.

Scientists believe MHD plants should be more efficient than conventional fossil-fueled generators that extract only about 35 percent of the energy from coal and natural gas. MHD plants should be able to raise power plant efficiency to 55 percent or more, they say.

The increased efficiency would allow the nation to stretch its vast supplies of coal and MHD plants should produce less air pollution.

MHD's greater efficiency is possible because heat from the fuel would be used twice. Gas from the combustor would first be shot through the magnetic field of an MHD generator to produce electricity, then would heat the boilers of a conventional steam plant.

In a conventional generator, electricity is produced by revolving a conductor, such as a coil of copper wire, inside a magnetic field. In the MHD process, pulverized coal is heated, seeded with potassium salt and the super-heated gas becomes the conductor.

Richard J. Ross, head of MHD research at Montana State University, says the process had been observed by astronomers studying sunspots. Those explosions on the sun's surface blow superheated gases through the sun's magnetic field, producing electricity.

The DOE is spending $72 million this year for the work at Butte and at the two facilities in Tullahoma.

A General Accounting Office report called MHD a "promising but relatively unproven technology," and urged more testing before a decision is made to design a pilot plant. Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., denounced the report as "more of the same garbage of going slow that has delayed the MHD development program for years."

But enormous technical problems must be solved to develop MHD. For instance, researchers say an MHD combustion chamber is not unlike a rocket engine. Components must be developed to withstand both 5,000-degree temperatures and the supersonic speed of the gas.

And while the gases inside are super-heated, devices to extract the electricity must be super-cooled to achieve maximum efficiency.

The Butte plant is a year behind schedule. But the major components are here, including a 140-ton magnet. Initial tests are expected to produce about 5 megawatts, less than 200 all-electric homes would use. Related research will continue at the Tennessee facilities — one will test the efficiency of several MHD designs and the other will test MHD components on a scale 10 times as large as at the Butte plant, but for only seconds.

The Soviet Union, using natural gas instead of coal, has already built a pilot plant five times the size of the unit here and plans a commercial-size plant — 500 megawatts — in 1984. Coal presents more technical problems than natural gas, but the U.S. is concentrating on coal because of supply.

William Perlman of Houston announced location for an 8,000-foot wildcat in Terrell County, 20 miles south of Sheffield.

Scheduled as No. 1-6 Marjorie Canon Brown, it is 1,473 feet from south and 1,052 feet from east lines of section 6, block 1, TCRW survey. Ground elevation is 2,421 feet.

The drillsite is 1.5 miles north of Ellenburger production and 2/5 miles north of Wolfcamp production in the Brown-Bassett field.

This is the second time this application has been filed, the first time in November 1978.

Tom Green Area NRM Petroleum Corp. of Midland No. 1 XQZ "C" is to be drilled as a 6,250-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, 3.5 miles north of Knickerbocker.

Location is 7,602 feet from south and 192 feet from east lines of German Emigration survey No. 807. Ground elevation is 1,964 feet.

The project also will be tested in the XQZ (Palo Pinto oil) field pay. It is one location east of that production.

Fisher Re-Entry Theron Vaughan of Midland will re-enter and deepen to 3,500 feet the former James Schattel & George Poe No. 1 Carl Crews, a failure in Fisher County one mile northwest of Eskota.

The project, 1/2 mile south and slightly west of the Neill, South (Odom lime) field, is 700 feet from north and 1,850 feet from west lines of James Vaughn survey No. 294. The old total depth is not available.

The Neill, South (Odom lime) pool produces at 5,696 feet.

Stonewall Test Mile Childers of Abilene No. 3 Droke has been staked as a 4,200-foot wildcat in the depleted Droke (Caddo lime oil) pool of Stonewall County, eight miles northwest of Hamlin.

Drillsite is 2,999 feet from south and 2,634 feet from east lines of section 117, block 1, H&TC survey.

The Droke field produced at 5,856 feet.

Runnels Wildcats James K. Anderson Inc. of Dallas spotted a pair of wildcat in Runnels County.

No. 1 Carr "D" is to be drilled to 4,300 feet three miles southeast of Winters.

It is 1,002 feet from the most southerly north line and 2,312 feet from the most westerly west line of J. M. Young survey No. 8. Ground elevation is 1,855.

Location is 5/8 mile northeast of Gardner production in the Winters field and one location northeast of a 4,547-foot dry hole.

Anderson No. 2 Casey is a 4,100-foot wildcat 10 miles northeast of Winters and 1,500 feet northwest of the depleted

Whil-Whar (Morris sand oil) pool. It also is 1/2 mile northeast of the Tom Chuck (Morris gas) field and one location southwest of a 4,188-foot failure.

Drillsite is 2,000 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of Wharton County School Land survey No. 516. Ground elevation is 1,899 feet.

MCCulloch Try Galli and Yeager of Midland No. 1 John Cox is a 2,500-foot wildcat in McCulloch County, five miles northeast of doole.

Location is 467 feet from north and 1,200 feet from west lines of Peter Holzhauser survey No. 1290.

It is 1/2 mile south of the Stacey-Grant (Strawn gas) field and two and one-eighth miles east and slightly north of the two-well Wallope Creek (Cross Cut gas) pool.

Friendly Foes

On an island paradise, even a cop and two private detectives can be friends, as proven by (left to right) Dick Rambo, Donna Mills (the cop) and Steve Marchuk, but that friendship could prove to be deadly in "Waikiki," a world premiere on ABC's "The ABC Monday Night Movie," Monday, April 21.

A friend calls on the expertise of two private detectives, one an easy-going Californian, the other, a street-wise New Yorker, to defend her son who is accused of the "Canefield" murders that have alarmed Oahu. After the real murder suspect is rescued, he escapes, and once again the island is left unprotected.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, April 22, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Those born today work hard to achieve the success they enjoy. Actors Jack Nicholson and Eddie Albert are two stars who celebrate this birthday with you, and like them, you face a variety of new challenges in 1980. Make some smart choices now and you will surge ahead! Sudden career change is possible, and any new opportunities for travel should be fully explored. Your highly independent nature leads you to be most choosy when it comes to romance. You need to feel certain that mate, spouse won't try to clip your wings!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Associate sheds light on that which had been shrouded in darkness and mystery. Finish old project before embarking on new one. Gains you make today have long-reaching effects.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some undercurrents you sense at office or place of business could worry you. Probe deeper. Troublemaker may soon be unmasked! In romance, take the initiative for a change.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Trust an old friend's advice when it comes to deciding whether or not to tell what you know. You are too close to a situation to see it clearly. Mate, partner needs your encouragement now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Look for support, backing from co-worker of opposite sex. Money matters require more thought before you decide on any major commitments. Reread contracts, documents.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You have an air of authority that serves you well in business situations. Try not to act too sure of yourself when dealing with romantic partner. Be patient with family member who seems ultra-sensitive now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You assume new responsibilities and plan for the future. Look through wardrobe tonight to see what is really needed—a new outfit or a whole new look. Advice from relative can be most helpful in financial arrangements.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Associate is apt to be more informative today than he or she realizes. Pool resources to promote progress and boost profits. Friend can play critical role in your professional success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov.

21): Work procedures could benefit from being modified slightly. Someone is likely to do you a big favor today, though you may not realize it at the time. Though your schedule is pleasantly busy, take time to help a new acquaintance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): In property matter, you have chance to negotiate excellent deal. Travel could prove profitable. Use tact in resolving any domestic difference with mate, spouse. Show your love in tangible ways.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some interaction with a neighbor is indicated. Be good sport about changing plans to accommodate another's schedule. What you ask for now, you will probably get.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Renewed activity in financial area could boost income considerably. New associate is likely to play key role now. Take care of important paperwork and return all phone calls.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be very cautious when loaning or donating money. Investigate before pledging support for new project. Friend can be helpful in securing financial backing but there are strings attached.

Program fits new 'theory'

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — While watching the new "Stockard Channing Show" for the third consecutive week, it occurred to me that the show was a lot like my bedroom wallpaper. I didn't particularly like it, but I didn't dislike it enough to change it.

Much of prime time television is that way, and for reason: ABC, NBC and CBS don't want you to like their programs as much as they want you to endure them, to allow a program to just be there in the room with you, like relatively inoffensive wallpaper.

The LOP (Least Objectionable Program) theory, former NBC programming executive Paul Klein called it. Television has become part of the passive environment in most American homes, so the aim is to come up with the least objectionable television, programs people won't be moved to change.

Program ratings, upon which the entire commercial TV industry turns, don't measure viewers in a literal sense, but numbers of sets that happen to be tuned to various stations. Which leads to a sort of programming double-negative. It's not what is watched so much as what is not NOT watched that matters.

S-H" or "All in the Family" or "Barney Miller," shows with genuine wit and punch and occasional daring, there are a dozen "Bensons" or "Angles" or "Stockard Channing Shows," programs whose chief asset is that they won't drive you away.

"The Stockard Channing Show" has going for it its star, an accomplished actress whose face delivers more comedy than the script. There is also an inoffensive so-star, Ron Silver, who makes the best of what he is given.

Going against it is a style that is not really a style at all, but a formula.

la. Stockard plays a single lady; Silver is a single man. He is a TV consumer rip-off reporter. She is his assistant, Susan. He puts her down a lot. She rebounds a lot.

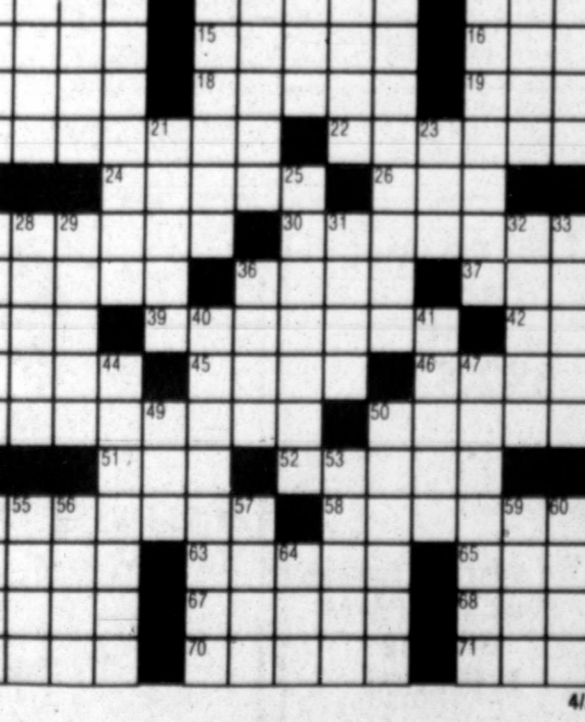

They have a dumb secretary and a boss who is a loud-mouthed simp. The stories come off the conveyor belt like so many fenders and headlamps.

In one episode, Susan is sent by Silver to a shady talent agency in the hope of catching the crooks red-handed (after all, yuk-yuk, if the guy says she's got talent, he's GOTTA be a crook, right?).

These are signs that try men's souls

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — The tarpaulins are coming off the yachts in the boatyards. Folks are busy painting up and cleaning out their summer cottages. New roadside restaurants and fast food chains are getting set for the coming tourist season.

So the time has come for money-tight communities to consider once again my proposal, offered every spring, for a nuisance tax on people who wear down the public's patience with licky-sicky, cloying cute names for their boats, bungalows or businesses.

Passing a boatyard just off the Interstate in this old seafaring town the other day, I saw a lady bold as brass painting the words "Sacred Scow" on the stern of a powercruiser. Nearby two kids on a scaffold were scraping the bottom of "O Bhey," which is really scraping bottom. And an old man in a braided captain's cap was up on a stepladder doing the bright work on "Blue Laws Repealed," which carried a dinghy named "Audited Again."

It's a wonder one of those nuclear subs heading up the river to Groton didn't fire a salvo from its turret gun, if they carry such weaponry, as a pre-emptive strike in favor of sanity in sign painting.

The next boat yard up the line cried out even more for some kind of punitive taxation on polluting Long Island Sound with intolerably coy boat names. A weekend sailor who insists on calling his fiberglass skiff "Miss Demeanor," just because he or his wife happens to be a lawyer or a peace officer, ought to be made to fork over 50 bucks for committing a premeditated act of public ennui. Names like "Free Bee," "Pop's Folly," "Never Mist," "Happy Daze," "Yawl Welcome" and "Booby Hatch" should be assessed in triple digits.

For grosser offenses, like christening a boat "Gay Rites" or "Men's Lib" or "Schmoe's Ark," the Coast Guard should be empowered to tow the offending craft out to the nearest naval gunnery range for the next available target session.

Seaside cottages called "Dune and Out," "Plumb Broke" and "Booze and Snooze" might be called to the attention of the Air National Guard for a little bombing practice in the national interest, along with restaurants that call themselves "The Pompos Potato," "Steak Out" and "The Veal and Wine-skin" or any similar idiotic combination.

Watching the $1.98 Beauty Show the other night on the tube convinced me that there are revenues to reap in the nuisance name area from the entertainment field. I seem to recall a contestant who called herself "Sheila Blige" and another who went by the name of "Lols de Lovely."

Down in New Orleans the billboards outside the bistros on Bourbon Street in the French Quarter advertised a number of prima danseuses with handles like "Erin No Bra" and "Deedee DeCuppe," which cry out for some sort of contribution to the city coffers for promiscuous press agency.

One of the burdens of living in a tourist mecca like New Orleans is that the ordinary citizen is long inured to suffering the eyesore signboard sights of saucy soubriquettes chosen by generations of strippers who came to fame here. Think of the tax dollars lost in not putting a lien on titles like "Candy Barr," "Blaze Starr," "Wildcat Frenchie" and "Lily, the Cat Girl."

But even Boston, the hub of our culture, has had to put up with such barefaced banality on bawdy billboard and leering marquee. In my Harvard days, I recall auditing life classes in the edyssiast's art at the Howard Athenaeum, better known as "The Old Howard" (or as the seminars were called in the Harvard Crimson: Skin I and Skin II) and encountering such artists as Norma Vincent Peel, Paddy Wagon, Vecky Va Voom, Anne Howe, Yolanda Yummy, "Tex Ranger and Her Twin 45's" and "China Doll."

Such perversions of the language in the name of show biz even now taxes my sense of the classical unities, although I must admit that the penultimate performer among those just mentioned certainly lived up to her billing.

What's in a name? Well, Shakespeare aside, local tax collectors might take a leaf from the arrest blotter of the New York State Police.

Sometime back, troopers in the Port Jervis area aborted the business endeavors of a trio of roadside entrepreneurs who went by the C.B. call signs of "Tons of Fun," "Chocolate Kisses" and "Joy to the World" in luring truckers off Interstate 84.

C.B. handles — now there's a whole new field of uncontrolled rhetoric just begging for a tax bite. How many editors and publishers can with impunity be allowed to keep calling themselves "Ink Stained Wretch" over the Smoky-alert channel?

If a tax on intolerably tedious titles were enacted, some government restraint might be in order for cases of historically accredited hyperbole. Otherwise, the circus would never come to town.

When you went to all the trouble of training 10 polar bears to jump through flaming hoops, what else are you going to call them but (as the Ringling Bros. & Barnum and Bailey program does): "These snowy sovereigns from faraway frozen frontiers, 10 lowering titans of the tundra in an astounding array of ursine antics...?"

Which reminds me I got to repaint the sign "Hardscrabble House" on my fence before the rain (of abuse?) starts.

Poland remembers

WARSAW (AP) — Poland commemorated the 37th anniversary Saturday of the bloody World War II uprising against the Nazis in the Warsaw ghetto.

U.S. Ambassador William E. Schaefele was among those who laid a wreath at the ghetto monument to commemorate the 1943 Jewish uprising against Nazi occupation troops. The uprising ended May 16 in destruction of the ghetto area.

"Trybuna Ludu," the official Polish Communist Party newspaper, said the battle was a hopeless undertaking from the start but that it was a fight for "the elementary human rights to maintain human dignity."

Lee High wins big at Abilene

Midland Lee High School garnered first place in sweepstakes at the District 5-4A University Interscholastic League Literary meet held recently in Abilene.

Permian High School of Odessa and Midland High School followed in second and third places, respectively.

Lee High School winners are:

Julie Yates, fourth, and Eric Fryar, sixth, ready writing; Cindy Colander, third, shorthand; Julie Yates, third, spelling; Sherry Sullivan, fourth, editorial writing; Lori Westbrook, third, feature writing; Pete Marshall, second in newswriting and first in headline writing.

Other LHC winners are John Kimberly, first, and Deann Durfee, second, informative speaking; Kelly Osborne, first, and Jon Franke, third, persuasive speaking.

Second, third and fourth places in debate went to the teams of Marvin Moore and Kenny Johnson, Ernest Angelo and Paul Raymond, and Eric Fryar and Bobby Dawson, respectively.

Midland High School winners are:

Barry Fleming, first, and Dana Dury, third, newswriting; Mark Stanley, third, science; George Jackson, first, and Kevin Legendre, fourth, spelling; Ralph Kinney and Anthony Folger, first, debate; Randy Byrnes, third, poetry; and Phillip Coffield, third, prose.

Peanut scandal in Soviet Union

By SERGE SCHMEMMANN

MOSCOW (AP) — Scandals in the peanut and caviar trade demonstrate that the Soviet Union's communist leaders are having trouble with an old capitalist rule — where supply is scarce and demand is high, somebody's going to make a lot of money.

The peanut swindle, recently disclosed in the newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya, was based on the fact that peanuts purchased from official sources cost $1 a pound while nuts bought legally from private producers cost $3.40 a pound.

More than a dozen officials in various wholesale, retail and confectionery operations devised various means of buying peanuts at the low price, then sold them with falsified papers to other state agencies at the high price and pocketed the difference.

The peanuts often ended up on the black market and sold for still higher premium prices.

The operation was only a few months old when it was uncovered. But by then, the newspaper said, the conspirators had swindled the state out of more than $350,500.

The organizers of the peanut scam were sentenced to 15 years at hard labor and their property was confiscated. They were lucky. The maximum penalty for "economic crimes" involving large sums is death.

Rumors of a scandal in the fishing industry have circulated ever since the retirement of Fishing Industry Minister Alexander Ishkov in February 1979. Usually reliable Moscow sources said his departure from office was followed by as many as 200 arrests in the ministry and associated organizations.

Although there has been no official report, unofficial sources and Western diplomats say they have heard the swindle involved the export and local sale of caviar in mislabeled cans. The sturgeon eggs worth $30 a pound locally and more than 10 times that abroad were packed in cans labeled smoked herring that sold for less than $1 a pound.

The cans were sold as herring to exporters and restaurateurs who sold them as caviar and split the difference with the officials. The illegal profits on foreign sales went into Swiss bank accounts, according to the reports.

Such illegal operations are reported with increasing frequency in the government-controlled Soviet press. They reflect the fact that chronic shortages of consumer goods and especially of luxury items have spawned a vast black market, known to Western diplomats as the "second economy."

At the lowest level, prime meats or fresh fish reaching a Moscow shop are almost invariably saved for a friend or favored customer, often one who can provide goods or services in exchange.

Methodists sending regrets to Iran

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sentiment was building today at the governing conference of the United Methodist Church to send a message to Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini expressing regret for past Western imperialism and urging freedom for U.S. hostages.

It would be the first such gesture of reconciliation by a national Christian body.

After a Sunday of worship services, the 1,000 clergy and lay delegates began the last half of their 10-day quadrennial conference with a heavy docket of legislative proposals pouring out of committees.

A measure was recommended by a church-and-society committee, headed by Washington Supreme Court Justice James Doliver, calling on the 9.6 million-member denomination to appeal directly to Khomeini "in the name of God the merciful, the compassionate" — typical terms of Moslem prayer.

The move was suggested earlier by Bishop Dale White of Princeton, N.J., one of a group of clergy who visited the U.S. hostages last Christmas, and drew enthusiastic support from several other bishops and church representatives.

"It's a tremendous idea," said Bishop James K. Matthews of Washington, D.C. "The situation has become increasingly critical and something has to be done to move it before something worse happens."

President Carter has indicated military action may be a last resort, but the national Methodists gathering already has authorized a delegation to meet with him and urge "restraint, peace and reconciliation."

Bishop James Armstrong of Aberdeen, S.D., said the nation's mood has "become mean and bellicose" since the 50 Americans were taken Nov. 4, and that Americans need to understand the rage of Iranians against horrors perpetrated on them by the U.S.-backed shah.

However, Armstrong added that this does not excuse the extremes of Khomeini's conduct.

The Rev. Cecil Williams, a controversial San Francisco minister, told a meeting of women, homosexuals and ethnic groups that the hostage situation would end quickly if the U.S. admitted to its own sins in supporting the shah.

Addressing himself mockingly to Carter, a Southern Baptist, Williams said, "Carter — don't you believe in confessing?"

White's suggestion is that the church send Khomeini a "simple, Christ-like message of caring concern," saying, "We have heard the agonies of your people, their cries for freedom from foreign domination, from cultural imperialism, from economic exploitation. Let our people go! Let us start down the long hard road to reconciliation."

Earlier, on Saturday, the denomination overwhelmingly rejected an effort to tone down its stand against homosexual practice, reaffirming the traditional church position that: "We do not condone the practice of homosexuality and consider this practice incompatible with Christian teaching."

And Carter told delegates via film and recording that many of the decisions made in the Oval Office find their roots in the Sunday school. The special session was part of the observance of the 200th anniversary of the start of the Sunday school movement.

'Gold Plumbing' trial begins

MIAMI (AP) — The superintendent of the nation's fifth largest school district was going to court today for a trial that has aroused resentment in Miami's black community.

Superintendent Johnny Jones, a black laborer's son who became one of the nation's most influential educators, and high school principal Solomon Barnes will be tried separately on second-degree grand theft charges in the "Gold Plumbing Caper" case. They're accused of trying to use money from the Dade County School District to buy $9,000 worth of luxury plumbing fixtures.

Investigators say the fixtures, including a whirlpool bath, some with gold-plated trim, resembled those Jones wanted to put in a $121,000 retreat he was building near Naples, Fla. Jones has angrily denied any wrongdoing.

Both men were suspended by the Dade school board the day after their Feb. 21 indictment.

As the trial approached, however, Jones' troubles deepened: prosecutors filed three new felony counts alleging he extracted more than $70,000 in kickbacks through a home learning program for low-income children and tried to tamper with a key witness.

No trial date has been set on the additional charges. Jones is to be arraigned on those counts April 28.

The incident began when a plumbing supply company employee became suspicious of a school order for top-of-the-line fixtures. Payment was authorized through a fund controlled by Jones. Barnes, principal of MacArthur South, said he needed fixtures for a plumbing class he intended to start. The class did not exist.

Jones, 46, who shined shoes in his younger days, attended Bethune-Cookman College at Daytona Beach on a scholarship, did a hitch in the Air Force and taught high school in central Florida. Then he returned to school, becoming the first black man to earn a doctorate at the University of Idaho. He was named head of Dade County schools in May 1977, the first black to hold the job.

"I've been the first black in a lot of things," he likes to say.

Last year, he was approached by officials in Cincinnati and Chicago about heading their school systems, but he turned them down, he said, "Because I still have things to accomplish here."

His difficulties have aroused suspicion and resentment in Miami's black community.

The Miami Times, which calls itself the South's largest black weekly newspaper, said the state attorney's office here is tainted by a "get-Jones-at-any-cost racist attitude."

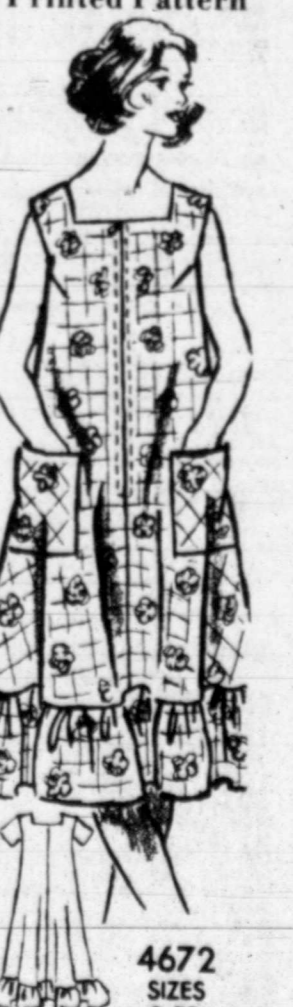

Dr. Marvin Dunn, a Florida International University psychology professor and black leader, said supporters of Jones probably view the latest charges as "a continuation of the effort to destroy him." But Dunn said he thought the black community in general was willing to take a wait-and-see approach.

FREE

A NON-NICOTINE, NON-TOBACCO SMOKE

THE SENSIBLE ALTERNATIVE

FREE is a new experience in smoking. After years of research, we have developed a non-tobacco smoke made from basically natural derivatives of wheat, cocoa and citrus plants. This unique blend, which resembles tobacco, produces a non-nicotine, ultra low tar brand that delivers a rich flavor and a light aroma.

THE ADDICTIVE DRUG, NICOTINE, IS NOT FOUND IN FREE

Naturally, since FREE has no tobacco, it has no nicotine. This is the primary benefit of FREE. The recent Surgeon General's Report indicates nicotine is a major cause of heart-related problems. Nicotine is also the addictive drug that helps keep smokers hooked on cigarettes. But FREE, with no nicotine, will let you smoke when you want to—not because you have to.

YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF

Now is your chance to break the nicotine habit, and still enjoy smoking. Switch to FREE and smoke only FREE for 10 days. The pamphlet inside each carton tells you what to expect concerning nicotine withdrawal. (For instance, did you know you can eliminate nicotine from your system within 72 hours?) At the end of 10 days, we feel you will like FREE better than your old brand. In fact, we think you'll find switching to FREE so worthwhile that you'll never risk smoking nicotine cigarettes again.

UAW ends longest walkout

CHICAGO (AP) — After nearly six months on the picket line, members of the United Auto Workers union today began returning to work on the early shifts at International Harvester Co. plants across the nation, ending the longest major walkout in UAW history.

At Harvester's operation in Canton, Ill., queues of jubilant workers began filing in shortly before midnight. "They're coming in and everybody appears to be happy," said a guard at the gate.

"I'm tickled to death to be going back," Jim Kegeris, a 37-year-old worker in Indianapolis, said Sunday. "I think a lot of guys are happy to be back. It's been a hard six months."

The return to work followed ratification of a new three-year contract with Harvester, the nation's second largest farm machinery maker. The contract was approved by a margin of about 4-1 in three days of balloting. Nearly complete unofficial returns showed 15,494 in favor and 3,877 against.

Only two locals — in Rock Island and in Shadyside, Ohio, — remained on strike after rejecting the contract over differences on local issues.

Harvester operations were shut down Nov. 1 when 35,000 workers walked off their jobs in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Texas and Minnesota. The strike, which reached its 172nd day on Sunday, surpassed a 117-day walkout against General Motors in 1945.

In Memphis, a company official said at least one day would be set aside to re-acquaint 1,800 workers at the plant and foundry with safety procedures that may have been forgotten.

Balloting on the proposed contract began Friday, the day after the company and union reached agreement on the settlement.

The contract includes a 3 percent pay raise each of the three years of the contract plus quarterly cost-of-living adjustments and improved pension benefits.

Harvester lost a bid to regain its authority to compel workers to work overtime. It also failed in an effort to win the right to re-assign pieceworkers who complete their quota during a shift.

"We won every issue we went after. It took us this length of time — 5 1/4 months — to get it, but we won every issue," said Mike Dulin, vice president of Local 988 in Memphis.

Archie R. McCardell, Harvester chairman and chief executive, said Friday the company would be back in full production "within a couple of weeks" and acknowledged the walkout had caused problems for the short term. But he said concessions by the union over work rules and other areas would compensate for the loss.

"We are in more debt, but it will cause some operating savings in the future," said McCardell. "The strike will end up as one of our best investments."

Harvester lost $222 million during the first quarter because of the strike and analysts predict the company will lose money this year. The walkout also took its toll on workers who lost about $9,000 each during the strike in lost wages.

Bill Greenhill, a Harvester spokesman, said the company would continue to work with the locals in Rock Island and Shadyside to resolve local differences which caused members to turn thumbs down on the agreement. Elsewhere, however, workers were to return to their jobs.

Jackson urges asylum for Haitian refugees

MIAMI (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson says he will urge Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to grant political asylum to the thousands of Haitians who have sought refuge in South Florida.

"This is no longer just a Miami issue — it's an international issue and the whole world must know about it," Jackson said Sunday.

The Chicago civil rights leader, who heads the self-help group Operation PUSH — People United to Save Humanity — said he had an appointment with Vance on Tuesday.

On both Saturday and Sunday, Jackson led more than 1,000 people — many of them Haitians — into the streets of Miami in a show of support for the refugees' bid for political asylum.

U.S. Immigration officials maintain the Haitians are economic, not political, refugee victims who come to the United States looking for better jobs than they can find in the poverty-stricken Caribbean homeland.

A record 975 Haitian refugees have reached South Florida in the past ten days, many of them aboard small, rickety boats, bringing the year's total to more than 3,000.
