Iranian officials threaten allies' oil supplies

By The Associated Press

Iranian officials today threatened to bar oil exports "forever" to countries that join the U.S. sanctions against Iran and urged the second expulsion this year of American reporters in Tehran. Unofficial reports listed as many as 21 killed in a fourth day of violence on campuses in Iran

The oil threat came as America's European allies were reported to have decided on strong diplomatic and economic measures against Iran in an effort to support U.S. efforts to gain release of the American hostages in Tehran. Sources at the meeting of Common Market foreign minis ters in Luxembourg said there had been no agreement on a timetable for implementing the measures. One proposal before the ministers called for a ban on imports of Iranian oil.

Iran's official Pars news agency quoted Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinfar as saying that if "certain countries joined in the U.S. economic sanctions, Iran would not sell them oil They would be blacklisted forever and would never get Iran's oil." *

Iran would produce less oil "to the benefit of future generations," Moinfar was quoted as saying

According to Pars, Moinfar said

Iranian foreign currency reserves had climbed from $10 billion to $15 billion in the last year so there was 'no need to export oil.

Meanwhile, Iran's foreign press chief, Abolghassem Sadegh, accused U.S. news organizations of distorting the news and said he will recommend the government expel American reporters. He suggested that one U.S. news agency remain to "provide the direct link with the United States." Iran last expelled all U.S. reporters on Jan. 18, but most were allowed to return about six weeks later.

Sources in Europe-said the allies' boycott may be announced today at Common Market ministers in Luxembourg. They said in addition to the oil ban, the allies would agree to an arms embargo and reductions in their diplomatic staffs in Tehran and Iran's diplomatic staffs in Europe.

A total trade embargo and break in diplomatic relations would follow on May 15 if the Iranian government did not take steps to free the 53 Americans held captive in the Iranian capital since Nov. 4, the sources said.

These things are the least we can do for a friend in need," a British official said. "America is our ally and we want to help. This is something that has to be done even if it doesn't work.

Similar action was expected from Japan, whose foreign minister, Saburo Okita, was on the sidelines in Luxembourg and told reporters:

Our policy is very close to the EEC (European Economic Community) and it's very important to maintain solidarity with the U.S.

With the world oil market glutted by over-production of about a . illion barrels a day and oil the Iranian revolutionary regime's only source of income, an embargo by its major customers should be devastating for Europe currently imports about 650,000 barrels of Iranian oil daily; President Carter banned imports of about a million barrels daily by the United States on Nov. 21, and Japanese imports of about 530,000 barrels daily were suspended Monday because the Japanese refused to meet Iran's demand for an increase of $2.50 raising the price to $35 per barrel.

The United States is expected to help the Japanese and Europeans make up any shortages caused by the boycott. But U.S. officials say the industrialized world has 500 million barrels of oil stockpiled, equivalent to

Rally, end of line: Pennsylvania vote important factor

By WALTER R. MEARS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Pennsyl vanians chose their presidential candidates today in a primary election that could mark the beginning of rallies or the virtual end of the line for Sen Edward M Kennedy and Republican George Bush

Both down, but both vowing they wouldn't get out, Kennedy and Bush campaigned into election eve in the battle to stall the leaders, President Carter and former California Gov Ronald Reagan

Kennedy said he hoped to run strong, although "I think it's an uphill battle." White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the Pennsylvania primary was "pretty tight and Bush campaigned into primary day with news conferences tailored for television in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. He said that he, better than Reagan, could lead the Republican ticket "to victory from the local to the national level" in the fall T've got a good feeling" about the outcome in Pennsylvania, Bush said, but that a defeat would dnot prompt him to quit the race "It's gotten to a point where people are saying Rea gan has it all wrapped up," he said. "I don't believe it But Reagan said he was confident of capturing a majority of Pennsylvania's 83 delegate votes at the Republican National Convention The dele gates were chosen separately and were not bound by the popular vote

The polls opened at 7 a.m. EST and closed at 8 p.m.

Voter turnout was reported heavy on a sunny, mild election day Party and polling officials in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Wilkes Barre all said early balloting was surprisingly high, and a final turnout of perhaps as much as 50 percent of the state's estimated 5.1 million registered Dem ocrats and Republicans was predict-

The Democratic primary appor tioned 185 delegate votes in line with the popular vote in the 25 congression-

Carter already has 947 of the 1,666 delegates it will take to win the Democratic nomination. Kennedy has 475

While aides to the Massachusetts senator acknowledged that victory was a must to keep alive his mathematical chance of overtaking Carter, Kennedy himself said he would cam paign on in any event

He said he would "absolutely not" withdraw before the Democratic convention in New York chooses the party nominee in August

Reagan said if he were in Bush's position, he'd have to consider withdrawing now. But the former U.N. ambassador said, "I'm going to fight right to the end. I'm just not going to quit

Reagan now has 411 delegate votes. with 998 needed to win the GOP nomination. His aides said they would add at least 50 in Pennsylvania. Bush has 96 delegates and Rep John B Ander-

The Republican system left open the possibility of a split decision: Bush could win the preference vote and lose the delegation to Reagan.

The Democratic ballot listed Kennedy, Carter, an uncommitted line and former California Gov. Edmund G Brown Jr , who withdrew from the race too late for his name to be dropped

On the Republican ballot are Reagan, Bush, campaign dropouts John B Connally and Howard H Baker Jr. and three minor candidates

Baker, the Senate Republican leader, came to Pennsylvania to endorse Reagan and campaigned with him through election eve

Kennedy campaigned from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh on Monday, urging Democrats to "give Jimmy Carter a surprise on primary day He told a lunch hour rally that filled

a downtown Philadelphia intersection a Pennsylvania defeat would force Carter to abandon his stay at-home campaign strategy and come "out of the Rose Garden

Carter has said he won't take the road politically while the American hostages remain captive in Tehran. He said the outcome in Pennsylvania wouldn't change that

'I say it's time to say to every citizen of Philadelphia, to every citizen of Pennsylvania - no more American hostages, no more high interest rates, no more high inflation, no more Jimmy Carter," Kennedy cried, in a voice hoarse after 13 days of Pennsylvania campaigning.

Vice President Walter F Mondale Carter's stand-in campaigner, said the administration has been trying to offer Iran "an honorable way out" of the hostage crisis but now is trying to get the allies to disrupt Iran's commerce "to really turn the screws in a peaceful way

Bush spent 14 days and nearly $1 million in campaign funds in his quest for a Pennsylvania comeback, and was still at it on election day.

Prison board urged to postpone site purchase

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Two state legislators and Starr County Judge Blas Chapa today asked the State Board of Corrections to forget about - or at least postpone - the proposed purchase of a border farm for a new maximum security prison

Rep. Hector Uribe branded the prison board the "Bad Neighbor Commission" for its failure to tell Starr County officials about the possible deal.

hours before the prison board was to consider the purchase, Uribe, D-Brownsville, and Rep Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice; joined Chapa in listing arguments against the pur chase of La Casita Farm

The prison board was to meet at 3 p.m. The Approval Board which must review land purchases for prisons had a meeting set for 3:30 p.m.

The Texas Catholic Conference came out against the proposed prison Monday. A prisoners' lobby also opposes the land purchase.

'We would be importing 3,000 felons from the rest of the state and putting them on Mexico's doorstep," said Uribe. "Our friends to the south would have to question our sincerity and our concern for improved relations

Uribe said it makes no sense to build the prison where it is not wanted. He said phone callers from Culberson and Anderson Counties said they would like to have the prison on available land in their areas.

'Why should the state ignore one community that wants the prison just to force itself on another community that obviously does not want it?' Uribe said

Chapa said the sale would cost his county about $6,000 in taxes. The Rio Grande City Independent School District also would lose about $20,000 in taxes if the 5,292-acre farm became state land and was taken off the tax rolls.

Glossbrenner said the closing of the farm would take away jobs in the impoverished county. Chapa said La Casita has 150 permanent employees and hires 600 people in harvest sea-

Crime link charged in Chicago police

CHICAGO (AP) — As allegations of political misconduct and crime syndicate influence in police affairs swirled about City Hall, two top aides to Mayor Jane Byrne who figured prominently in the charges have abruptly resigned.

Aides William Griffin and Michael Brady announced their resignations Monday night after a weekend of charges that politicians with alleged syndicate connections had forced or prompted the demotions of three top police officers

A leading independent alderman said Chicago is in "a situation that's bringing our government to a standstill." Martin Oberman said the charges amounted to "a major crisis in government.

Meanwhile, the chief county prosecutor said two of the three officers former acting Police Superintendent Joseph DiLeonardi and former Deputy Superintendent William Duffy had asked to testify before a Cook County grand jury that will investigate the charges.

The two officers and former Deputy Superintendent James Zurawski were demoted in an internal shakeup last week headed by the new police superintendent, Richard Brzeczek.

In addition, State's Attorney Bernard Carey said Monday that he will ask Griffin and Brady to appear before the jury. He said that if necessary, his office would subpoena the U.S. Attorney Thomas P. Sullivan said he would join with the Justice Department Strike Force on Organized Crime and local authorities in examining the allegations.

The Chicago Tribune reported that DiLeonardi, Duffy and Zurawski had accused Griffin and Brady of fronting for politicians with mob connections in trying to control sensitive police about what we might be doing against the mob." Duffy said In a written statement, Griffin and

"I was dumped because of paranoia

Brady denied any wrongdoing and said they had "acted with the utmost integrity and honesty."

The men said they were "shocked" to read DiLeonardi's allegation that they pressured him to demote Duffy, one of the police department's experts on organized crime.

DiLeonardi said Griffin and Brady asked for Duffy's demotion at the request of 1st Ward Democratic Organization figures who thought Duffy was harassing them. The Tribune said the organization is dominated by the crime syndicate.

Griffin and Brady said there was a "misunderstanding" over the conversation in which they allegedly asked DiLeonardi to remove Duffy and said "it is apparent from Capt. DiLeonardi's remarks that there were conversations between him and Mayor Byrne at which we were not present nor made aware of." They did not elaborate.

They also complained of reduced access to Mrs. Byrne and said it had become "increasingly apparent to us that we no longer enjoyed the confidence of the mayor.

They said their lawyers would contact the state's attorney's office and offer cooperation in any investigation. Oberman said he would talk with fellow alderman and see if the City Council could launch an investigation or take some other action to resolve

"Our City Council has an unfortunate habit of whitewashing matters concerning the mayor," Oberman re-

Mrs. Byrne, meanwhile, remained silent on the resignations. Earlier, she called the controversy a "squabble" and described herself as "clean as a whistle.

"I will willingly go before a grand jury," Mrs. Byrne said.

Gordon Liddy's insult

As unthinkable as it seems. Wa tergate burglary mastermind G. Gordon Liddy is revelaing details of the scandal era that undoubtedly will reshape the thinking of some Americans about high ranking government officials.

Liddy, released from prison in 1977 after serving 52 months for his role in the Watergate incident. stands to make a good sum of money for a book he wrote about the scandal.

It is not only the revelations contained in the book that should alarm Americans, in our opinion, but also the fact that an ex-convict can and will profit from his illegal activity.

There should be little doubt in anyone's mind that Liddy was guilty of the crimes for which he was convicted.

In fact, his book reportedly details plans for other crimes which never took place, including killing newspaper columnist Jack Anderson and dropping LSD into Daniel Elisberg's soup at a dinner

That such crimes could even be contemplated by government officials boggles the minds of average citizens who believe in and support law and order.

Some might point out that Liddy has paid his debt to society and now should be able to earn a living even by capitalizing on his prior activities.

We don't think so.

What Gordon Liddy and the rest of the Watergate hoodlums - and hoodlums is an appropriate word - tried to do to this nation was horrifying. Had they succeeded, chances are freedom as we know it might not exist today.

To let them reap profits from the book or movie rights about their crimes is an insult to the law-abiding people of this nation.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND Prosecutor behaving like defense counsel

WASHINGTON - Arthur H. Christy was appointed special prosecutor to investigate charges that Hamilton Jerdan sniffed cocaine at the Studio 54 nightclub in June, 1978. But so far he seems far more interested in side issues than in determining whether Jimmy Carter's White House chief-of-staff broke any more like Jordan's defense counsel than his prosecutor.

Now he's found a new target - and it's still not Hamilton Jordan. Christy has been interrogating witnesses about possible contacts with me and other reporters. He has repeatedly warned the witnesses not to speak to newsmen, whom he characterized as sly rascals who are "not to be trusted." Above all, he wants to know the source of my columns and other news

Dr. Buscaglia preaches the wonder of living

I saw a genuine phenomenon re-cently. In my wicked past, I was for a time an advance man and flack for politicians and in my reformed present I do some speaking and hear a lot of speeches. I know how very hard it is these days to get a crowd to turn out for anything except entertainment or The phenomenon I experienced was lecture by Dr. Leo Buscaglia. If I told you that a California educator with an Italian name was coming to town to deliver one lecture, that his appearance would not be advertised, that the tickets would be sold only at the local college - what kind of crowd would you expect? If you guessed nearly 3,000, you'd be right and that, in this day of stay-at-home-and-stare, is a phenomenon. Buscaglia walked into a standing ovation and rhythmic chants of, "We love you, Leo!" When he finished speaking, he was mobbed by people who wanted to hug him.

I know national politicians who would have died in their chairs from intense envy. It's too bad they weren't there. They might have learned something before they croaked.

What produces all of this affection for a man who says, "Don't follow me, I'm just human like you...I don't have any answers...nothing I'm going to say is original or new?

Indeed, Buscaglia doesn't say anything new or original. He doesn't even promise a free ride. He talks about death, grief, despair and loneliness as well as about joy, love, compassion and fun. He offers no ten easy steps to fame and happiness.

What then is his magic? It is the man himself. At last, here is an hon-dio 54 incident, as well as the private notes of reporters who worked on it.

When ABC resisted, there was discus-

What the politicians could learn from a Buscaglia lecture is that people recognize and respond to genuine honesty and genuine compassion and having found those two qualities do not demand pat answers to every conceivable problem.

The politicians could learn that people are tired of being used. People are crying out, "Doesn't anybody in this country care about me as just me even if I'm not a customer, a consumer, a market, a voter, a client, a dues paying member, or an excuse for a federal grant?"

And that's why he can draw 3,000 people without press agents, advertising, advance men, promoters and horn-tooters. The word just spreads by word of mouth like magic

In the age of tinsel, make-believe, phoniness and imagery, Leo Buscaglia is the real thing. His message is simple: love life, love yourself, love others. It's not the self-indulgence of hedonism he preaches but the appreciation of the magic and wonder of life and of the uniqueness and value of each individual human being. It is not the escape-from-reality of cults and drugs but the courage to embrace life with all its pain and joy.

I hope you have the opportunity to experince this man. If you do, you'll probably join the crowd in shouting, 'We love you, Leo!"

Kennedy turning economy's woes into political plusses

AND ROBERT NOVAK

Whether Mr. Carter can get the

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. - In the crowded lobby of Genetti's Best Western Hotel an hour before Sen. Edward M. Kennedy addressed a raily in Wilkes-Barre's Public Square a half block away, the growing political danger to Jimmy Carter was laid Sam Bianco, head of the local Central Labor Council, was complaining to fellow Democratic politicians about President Carter's budget cuts in the midst of an economic downturn. No matter that Carter political operatives have assured Bianco that Luzerne County's 4,000 government (CETA) jobs will not be lost. He does not believe them:

Bianco is, at least institutionally, a Carter man (because his union, the International Ladies Garment Workers (ILGWU), have endorsed the president for re-election.) This adds significance to Bianco's comment after hearing Kennedy's rally speech which thrashed Carter on economic ground as more Republican than Democratic. "Man, was I surprised," the union official told us. "I didn't think he (Kennedy) could give that good a speech."

Kennedy, a self-confident platform performer bearing little resemblance to the bewildered candidate of three months ago, now is able to exploit economic bad news. That is the essence of why he may well defeat Carter in today's Pennsylvaina primary and why the president's men are growing uneasy about what lies

Novak Kennedy is no oratorical stylist. Nor does the substance of his speeches offer new ideas or insights. But whereas he stumbled across Iowa in January seemingly with nothing to say, he now roars across Pennsylvania preaching the old-time Democratic religion of economic salvation through governmental intervention.

The political impact is seen here in the Wilkes-Barre and Scranton region, supposedly "Kennedy country" because of John F. Kennedy's 1960 victory margin. In fact, Kennedy pollster Peter Hart two months ago found a Carter lead of better than 20 percentage points in this congressional district.

The Kennedy turnaround came only after times became bad enough (11.5 percent unemployment here). Then voters could concentrate hard enough on what he is saying to put aside, at least temporarily, thoughts of Chappaquiddick — perhaps more difficult here because the Kopechne family lives nearby. Thus, in Public Square, Kennedy evoked cheers when he compared Carter's economic policy ("high interest rates and unemployment") to McKinley, Hoover and Nixon, and declared "It's time to say enough."

Kennedy's basic line in Pennsylvania makes not the slightest concession to any doubts about the old liberal verity of economic health achieved through government spending. In a day when fealty to the goal of a "balanced budget" is nearly universal among politicians, those words do not escape Kennedy's lips in Pennsyl-

Campaigning in Philadelphia, Kennedy has pounded relentlessly on the theme that Carter "has turned his back on the cities of this country." The Carter balanced budget with its spending cuts is reviled by Kennedy, particularly in pressing for black votes. Interviewed by influential black journalist Chuck Stone over television in Philadelphia, Kennedy said the president "instead of cutting back aid to the cities, should cut back" on oil drilling tax deductions. Such hammering on New Deal economics does not generate the emotion evoked by his two brothers. He could not fully rouse the big crowd at Public Square here. The night before in Philadelphia, he could not win either applause or complete silence from party regulars, gabbing and drinking red wine at their annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner. Some of Kennedy's most important supporters in Pennsylvania privately criticize the exaggerated tremulous tone he sometimes affects and other recurrent fits of playfulness. His more sophisticated backers here only shrug shoulders at his simplistic bigspending prescription for the econ-

But such critics did not hear Kennedy in the early weeks of the campaign, whispering in Iowa and shouting in New Hampshire without a coherent theme in either state. Whatever his economic philosophy lacks in rationality, it has created a buoyantly self-confident Kennedy who sees not only successive vic-tories, but an epidemic of defections by Carter delegates.

Kennedy's rising optimism is but-tressed by testimony from politicians such as Sam Bianco, the nominal pro-Carter labor leader who perceives a strong Kennedy trend - but only if the president does not emerge again as national leader in time of crisis. "The people around here," Bianco told us, "are very patriotic." Bad news internationally has helped the president so far. But bad news economically threatens to ruin him in Pennsylvania and could do the same

Americans observe 10th Earth Day emphasis

WASHINGTON (AP) — From a sunrise service at the Jefferson Memorial in the nation's capital, where the Jefferson Memorial to observances in a thousand environmental leaders of today read selections cities and towns across the land, Americans today celebrated Earth Day '80, the 10th anniversary of the nation's environmental awakening.

Organizers hoped that by day's end more than 3 million people would participate in activities to recognize gains in the last decade and to spur lagging interest in the environment at a time when energy and the economy may have eclipsed ecology on the public's priority list.

from environmentalists of the past including Margaret Mead, Henry David Thoreau, and E.F. Schumacher, author of "Small is Beautiful."

Byron Kennard, chairman of Earth Day '80, said he also wanted to pay tribute to the "motley crew" of radical students and activist housewives who staged the first Earth Day a decade ago.

"Here's to the mavericks, the dissidents and the cranks without which no social movement can long The day began with a sunrise service at the endure," Kennard told the crowd of less than 200.

Many of today's activities mirrored events of the first Earth Day, when thousands of Americans picked up trash along roadsides, waded into polluted rivers to cart out garbage and participated in environmental teach-ins.

This year, hike, bike and jog-to-work rallies and solar home tours were added to demonstrate pollution-free answers to the energy crunch

In New York, organizers arranged to have several blocks of the Avenue of the Americas closed to cars for a giant, day-long fair expected to attract up to 250,000 peo ple.

But mention "Earth Day" now and it conjures up visions of thousands of students cleaning up litter, recycling tons of materials and demonstrating to save the planet's ecological life.

That day was April 22, 1970. Then 25, Hayes hung up his pursuit of a program in law and public policy to take on the challenge of being national coordinator ("We didn't believe in hierarchical titles like 'director' then") of the teach-in that came to be called Earth Day. There was a staff of one person, and there was no budget.

Hayes went on to head Environmental Action, a Washington lobby, and the Illinois state energy office. Later he joined the Worldwatch Institute, a Washington think tank.

Last July, Hayes was appointed director of the federal government's Solar Energy Research Institute in Golden, Colo., the largest group of solar researchers in the world. At 35, Hayes is the youngest person ever to direct a national laboratory. In interviews on recent trips to SERI's parent organization in Kansas City, Midwest Research Institute, he reflected on a decade of environmental ups and downs and looked ahead. We have seen a fundamental shift in the economic picture," he said. "From the premature aging of shingles on a rooftop to black lung, the deleterious effects of pollution are now considered part of the price tag.

to spend $5 to stop $10 worth of damage. But we're not willing yet to invest $9 to stop the same damage, even though it makes economic sense.' The first Earth Day benefited from a national emotional swell as Americans started noticing belching smokestacks and polluted water and began to cast a wary eye toward industrialization, he

But environmental progress brought increasing technical considerations. Ways had to be found to identify and measure the dangerous substances in the cloud of smoke or the murky water.

"The spirit of the movement has in some instances been displaced by the need to do the hard work, the calculations involved," said Hayes. "When we started, we were trying to fundamentally, dramatically improve the quality of life. In some instances, we succeeded far beyond what we expected. But in others, we have failed to do much.

An example of success, Hayes points to controls on pollutants dumped into rivers by industrial plants. But in areas like recycling, little has been done, he said.

In many ways, Earth Day marked the end of America's environmental ignorance. Just eight months later, the Environmental Protection Agency was set up and, after years of inaction, Congress passed the landmark Clean Air Act. The membership of the previously little-known Sierra Club dou-

market rallies

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market soared in heavy trading today, rallying from the two-year low it reached on Monday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 20.90 to 780.03 by noontime.

Gainers outnumbered losers by close to a 5-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts said the surge of buying stemmed in part from a favorable bulletin on the market outlook by investment advisor Joseph Granville of Holly Hill, Fla. Cover your short sales market to turn up," the bulletin said. Blanchard Granville, Joseph Granville's son and vice president of the advisory firm, declined to disclose further details. "Some technical analysts felt that the market was ready to turn," said Daniel J. Murphy at Oppenheimer & Co. "Once it did, momentum fed on momentum. Murphy also noted that the 1.4 percent rise in the consumer price index reported this morning for March, while hardly qualifying as good news, was smaller than many Wall Streeters feared it might be Texaco climbed 3/4 to 341/4.

Consumer prices rise sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose a steep 1.4 percent for the third consecutive month in March, eroding the buying power of all Americans but insuring a higher "catch-up" raise for Social Security recipients, the government reported

Although gasoline and fuel oil price increases slowed somewhat last month, food and clothing prices surged and home ownership costs continued to rise sharply, the Labor Department said.

As a result, prices in the first three months of the year rose at a near-record annual rate of 18 percent. Carter administration officials have said they do not expect inflation to slow much below this double-digit pace before mid-year.

Prices last year went up 13.3 percent.

The latest inflation report means that the nation's 35 million Social Security recipients will get a hefty 14.3 percent increase in their benefit checks starting in July to make up for the dent inflation has made in their buying power.

The benefit increase, based on the rise in prices in the first quarter this year compared with the first quarter of 1979, will boost the average retiree's check $41 to $330 a month, the Department of Health. Education and Welfare said.

Benefits also will be adjusted for the 4.1 million aged, blind and disabled people who receive Supplemental Security Income. In a companion report released today, the Labor Department said inflation continued to cut deeply into the earnings of the nation's workers. A 0.9 percent increase in average hourly earnings in March was more than offset by inflation and a drop in the hours worked, leaving workers with inflation-adjusted weekly earnings 0.7 percent below the February level. At the same time, spendable earnings - what a married worker with three dependents has left after Social Security and federal income taxes — dropped 0.8 percent last month. It was the 10th consecutive decline, pushing workers' buying power nearly 8 percent below the level of March 1979.

Patrick Jackman, a Labor Department economist, said that although overall prices went up in March as much as in January and February, the underlying causes were different.

"There were still substantial increases in energy products last month, but there was some deceleration," he told a reporter. "The 'problem areas' were food, which went up 1 percent, and mortgage interest

Jackman added that "I don't think for the next couple of months it is likely we will have any substantial decline in the Consumer Price Index." Fuel oil prices rose 2.8 percent last month, follow-ing increases of more than 5 percent in both January and February. Gasoline prices, meanwhile, went up 3.9 percent in March, or only about half the rate of increase in the first two months this year. The report gave these breakdowns:

FOOD: Prices in grocery stores and restaurants rose 1 percent in March, following two months of almost no change.

HOUSING: Home ownership costs went up 1.6 percent last month after accelerating 1.4 percent in each of the two preceding months. "Home financing costs rose 4.5 percent, reflecting an increase of 3.9 percent in mortgage interest rates and 0.4 percent in house prices," the report said. CLOTHING: "Higher-priced spring and summer wear items" were blamed for the 2 percent rise in apparel costs last month. Clothing costs had risen 0.9 percent in January and 0.6 percent in February. TRANSPORTATION: The increase in overall transportation costs dropped to 1.7 percent from percent in February, as increases in gasoline and other petroleum product prices slowed. MISCELLANEOUS: Medical costs rose 0.9 percent in March, down from February's 1.5 percent rate. But entertainment costs went up 1.3 percent last month, compared with 1.2 percent in Febru-

Price increases in the last three months have occurred at a compounded annual rate of 18.1 percent, the report showed. This is second only to the 21.6 percent record annual rate set in the three months ending in February 1951, according to Labor statistics dating to 1947.

The Consumer Price Index for urban consumers stood at 239.8 in March, meaning that a marketbasket of goods that cost $100 in the 1967 base-period cost $239.80 last month.

The figure was 14.7 percent higher than the index in March 1979

A companion index - and the one on which the Social Security increase was based - shows prices changes for urban wage earners and clerical work-This index stood at 239.9 in March, or 14.6 percent higher than in March 1979. Anticipating today's figures, Robert Russell, director of the president's Council on Wage and Price Stability, warned that prices are likely to increase 1.2 percent or more per month through June before the inflation rate slows markedly. Although inflation for the first part of 1980 is running at an annual rate of around 18 percent, the Social Security cost of living adjustment is based on the change from 12 months ago — thus the somewhat lower increase: If inflation were to continue at current levels for another 12 months, the July 1981 adjustment would be about 18 percent.

A-1 can re-do furniture without disrupting office

Bill Moler has spent 32 years finishing furniture, and has all the knowhow and skill to do a proper job of it. The last twelve years have been spent right here in Midland.

Either wood or metal furniture can be restored to a handsome, like-new finish by A-1. Prices range from $150 for a standard, wood office desk to approximately $400 for a large, executive desk.

Formica tops are installed if requested. Free estimates are made. Whole floors of file cabinets. desks, and such can be done by working overnight and weekends. Exclusive in this area, the electrostatic process used by A-1 for metal furniture is amazing. The article to be painted is given a negative charge and the paint, a positive charge. The atomized spray is pulled onto the metal surface, and is "plated" on. The electrostatic force is so powerful, it actually "pulls" on the paint around corners! There is no spray, fogging, or drift as with conventional spray guns. Absolutely neat and clean! Call Bill Moler at A-1 Office Furniture Refinishing, phone 683-8181.

Americans saving less money

ceeded deposits by $940 million at the nation's savings and loan associations last month, indicating that Americans are saving less money, according to the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

The drop also means more bad news for the housing industry, a league statement said Thursday. New savings deposits account for much of the money savings and loans have to lend to home buyers, said liam B. O'Connell. The league statement said the March loss, combined with weak January and February savings gains, resulted in the savings and loans' worst first quarter savings data since During the first three months of 1980, savings associations showed an increase in deposits of only $1.3 billion. That is nearly 88 percent less than the $10.1 billion savings gain reported for the first three months of 1979, the statement said.

"The first quarter figures dramatically reaffirm what we have been

CHICAGO (AP) - Withdrawals ex- saying for months - that inflation is making it difficult at best for most Americans to save," O'Connell said. The league said savers are continuing to shift funds from lower to higher rate accounts. Passbook savings are declining and balances in market rate certificates are increasing, it said.

The league also reported that mortgage lending at savings associations declined 27 percent last month compared with March, 1979. Mortgage loans totaled $5.5 billion last month, it

That data is "a clear indication that the housing market will remain depressed for some months to come,' O'Connell said. Savings associations are the nation's primary source of home mortgage loans. -

The U.S. Department of Commerce on Wednesday reported that housing starts in March totaled just 1.04 million, their lowest monthly rate in nearly five years.

The month-to-month decline of 22 percent reportedly was the largest single month drop in housing starts since 1960.

Flying: It's as much a matter of luck as airborne skill for Big Spring flyer

BIG SPRING - In the air, R.E. "Bob" McClure is as quick and agile as a falcon, but on the ground he sometimes stumbles.

His busted right thumb gives testimony to that. It got caught in a popping propeller.

"I was lucky," McClure said nonchalantly as he was getting ready to fly for the Nth time. "I could have stuck my head in the pro-

As he recounted the incident, McClure had his big crop-duster loaded for a heavy early-morning run. But the engine wouldn't "catch" from the cockpit; the starter's shaft just broke.

So, he did what any good, barnstorming-hearted pilot would do to get the engine running and the airplane flying. He climbed down from the cockpit and put his ingenuity to work.

"I got a rope and tied it to the pickup truck, so it (the Ag-Cat) wouldn't roll when I got it started" by making contact with the prop. With the airplane secure, McClure grabbéd hold of the blade and gave it a whirl; the engine rarely starts on the first spin. And he, obviously, wasn't ready when it fired right off. "The damn thing never fires the first time," but it did. And his aching thumb was busted in three places, which he found out a few days later. In the meantime, he had a job to do — dusting — and he did it with his usual flair.

But the busted thumb, though still mending, was in the past, and he had other things to do - flying.

The wind was whipping up pretty briskly on this day when McClure took to the air to fly over some oilfields, farm land, Lake Thomas, Colorado River and much of the run-off area for Lake

"Well, I'm afraid it's going to be rough; it's windy," the pilot said, as the engine on the Cessna Skylane II roared and the craft took to the air from the Big Spring Airport.

The plane was still gaining attitude when McClure turned to his passengers and remarked wryly: "If you don't like this flying, you better get out now."

Nobody budged, but looked outside like eagles searching for

The wind was buffeting the small craft like eddies bouncing around a sea-faring craft. But McClure, who's got loads of dry humor to pass around, glanced to his passengers.

"I wish you would sit still back there," McClure jested. "You keep moving around." But it was the wind that was wrestling with the airplane From above, McClure overlooked the terrain and the farmland where he does much of his crop-dusting. "I hate like the devil to spray down there; you can't believe the power lines" and the hordes of oil-well pump jacks over the countryside. About 11/4 hours after McClure had lifted off, he was returning to his home port.

"This part always scares me - the landing."

He lowered the plane's flaps for a smooth and safe landing on the runway that was streaked with hundreds of tell-tale tire marks. "A lot of 'em are mine."

The aircraft was flared for a landing, which was slow in coming; for the longest, McClure flew the aircraft about two feet off the landing strip. "Saves a lot of taxling," he said, just after the plane ceased to be airborne.

"Well," he said, "I think we lucked out again," as the airplane landed safely.

Back in his office at his Trans-Regional Air hangar, McClure talked a bit about flying - his love. He has flown about any and everything flyable - from puddle-hopper to the DC-3, B-17 and on to corporate jets. Recently, he just got checked out in the Gates

Hot winds drive forest fires

By C.W. MIRANKER Associated Press Writer

Whipped by unseasonably hot, dry winds, forest fires blackened thousands of acres of rain-starved woodlands in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Michigan as temperatures climbed into the 90s

Minnesota and Wisconsin imposed emergency re-strictions on outdoor burning, and North Dakota Gov. Arthur Link proclaimed an emergency disaster situation because of the heat and dryness, banning open fires, trash and brush burning. There have been no serious injuries reported in the

"It is extremely dry. We've got some of the worst conditions they ever have up here — dry soil, gusty winds, high temperatures, and we are expecting 90 degrees Tuesday," Ron Holcomb, spokesman for Wisconsin's Department of Natural Resorces, said

A huge fire in north-central Minnesota — 8 miles long and 1½ miles wide — destroyed an estimated 7,000 to 8,000 acres, six farms and two saw-mills, forcing residents of Philbrook and area farms to flee their homes. The blaze was "partially con-trolled" late Monday night, said Department of Natural Resources spokeswoman Karen Kelley.

Gov. Al Quie sent 125 National Guardsmen to bolster the ranks of firefighters and help with evacuations. The blaze also threatened Motley, population 351, and Staples, a town of 2,755 residents.

About a dozen fires were still burning in northwestern Minnesota, including a blaze that claimed 700 acres of Norway pines on the Red Lake Indian Reservation and a 2,000-acre fire on the White Earth Indian Reservation.

About 25,000 acres burned over the weekend, and 242 fires were reported since Friday, Ms. Kelley said. Some 43,000 acres of forest and brush have been blackened since the first of the year.

"The majority of the fires are caused by man, including one that started when a guy tried to brand his horse," Ms. Kelley said. "The majority are caused by people burning leaves, rubbish or whatever. They have a small fire and it takes off on

DEAR ABBY

Husband forces split decision

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 14 months and a problem came up that has me completely baffled.

Last night my husband told me that I had to make a choice between him and Nan, my girlfriend. Abby, Nan has been my best friend all through school. She stood up for me at my wedding, and I stood up for her at hers. We are as close as sisters, and I can't see ending our friendship just because my husband doesn't like her.

He refuses to give me any reasons. He just says it's

Knowing that my husband didn't especially care for Nan, I've never asked him to socialize with Nan and her husband in the evenings. I see Nan only during the day when my husband is at work.

So what is your advice? Don't suggest talking to him. I have, and he walks out of the room.

DEAR BAFFLED: I don't know how old your husband is, but he has a lot of growing up to do. Tell him that unless he gives you a better reason for insisting that you end your friendship with Nan, you pi intend to continue it. And if he would actually terminate your marriage on such flimsy grounds, either he is looking for an excuse to do so, or something is wrong with HIM

DEAR ABBY: I am a recently widowed younger woman who is in the process of moving to another town due to a job transfer. One of my best friends (female) is also a part-time realtor. The bidding: South West North East Dble. Pass 1 0 3 NT Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: Jack of ♡...

Here's a chance for you to test your theoretical and analytical skill. Study the bidding and play of this hand and then decide who, if anyone, erred and why.

Declarer won the opening lead and tested clubs by cashing the ace and king. When West showed out on the second round, declarer shifted his attention to diamonds, leading the king from his hand. West won the ace and, in an attempt to knock out dummy's entry to the diamonds, switched to the king of spades. Had declarer grabbed the ace, he would have been defeated. But he made the expert play of allowing the king to win. He won the spade continuation in his hand, drove out the queen of diamonds and made his contract in comfort with an overtrick.

Now it is up to you to determine how many, if any, bridge crimes were committed in the bidding and play. These are our findings. Although West's takeout double is perhaps a trifle light in terms of point count. it meets with our approval.

The hand does have the ability to play in the other three suits, and if West doesn't get into the auction now, he may not be able to do so later. North's decision to bid one diamond is another matter. Don't include us among those who say that a bid over a double is a sign of weakness. If North had been very short in clubs and afraid that one club might be left in for penalties, that would have been another matter. But he has mild club support for South, and a bid of one diamond doesn't have any preemptive value. He should pass.

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer on Markets Page

West was guilty of the biggest crime of all. He could have defeated the contract by simply refusing to win the king of diamonds. His subsequent defense was a noble effort to atone for his previous error, but it was too little. too late. If South held three diamonds, the contract was probably always going to make, since it was a moral certainty that declarer held the queen of spades, and the ace of spades could not be driven out in time to shut out the diamond suit. As the cards lie, if West allows the king of diamonds to win the first tricks in the suit. declarer will be an entry short to develop and run the

'Up With People' to perform May 1

People" friends are in Midland, they will be going to be performing at the Chapparal Center, Thursday, May 1, at 7:30 o.m. You can get your tickets for $6 at the Lee or Midland Youth Cen-

You won't want to miss this opportunity to see this famous group that performed here last year, and at the Super Bowl in January. They'll have you dancin' in your chairs, and hoppin' down the stairs.

But "Up With People" is a whole lot more than a whole lot of music! Along the way, they enrich the lives of people in such places as hospitals, pris-ons, schools, and elderly peoples' homes. In Midland they will be performing at Midland and Lee High Schools, and other community projects.

These students travel together for an entire yar. The cast coming to Midland represents students from 11 different countries and has traveled to Canada, Mexico, Belgium, Holland, and many American states. The "Up With People" organization has existed since 1968, and has included over 4,500 students from over 30 different countries.

The cast performs more than just music. They also have educational opportunities where they set up, and strike the equipment, handle promotion, interviewing, meetings with government officials, and important businessmen of the communimay refer to the NGPA as the Natural Gas PAPERWORK Act of 1978. Mountains of paperwork stem both from regulatory excess in filing requirements and in the number of notices issued by well and facility operators, their co-owners and investors, and the gas producers.

agencies are yet unable to avoid delays inherent in paper processing.

Resultant delays in collection and disbursement of funds are a burden to producer and taxpayer. THE FIRST STEP TOWARD paperwork reduction is identification of the separate paper processes and resulting accounting burdens produced from each filing. In December, 1978, FERC released the final version of Interim Regulations, which established that only one producer

THE NGPA IS AN accountant's nightmare. The quantity of paper files being accumulated staggers the storage capabilities of most firms. FERC's interim collection filing is making a shambles of gas-income accounting in larger, more complex joint-ventures. The nightmare is this: Payment distribution interest changes every month for every owner

THE NATURAL GAS Policy Act of 1978 is one of the most complicated pieces of legislation ever enacted by Congress. This incredibly complex law-45 sections covering 66 pages of fine print, plus a 67-page addendum to explain the previous 66-has now been in effect 16 months. Although some of the miles of strangling red tape have been unwound, that remaining is choking efforts to increase the nation's gas supply.

PRODUCERS, INDIVIDUALLY, and collectively through trade associations, should work actively to focus FERC's attention on this continuing problem.

Cuban exiles bring refugees to Florida

U.S. State Department chastised their journey, Cuban exiles from Florida picked up about 40 Cuban refugees at a port west of Havana and brought them to Key West to await their families.

Crewmen from the two boats that returned Monday - the Dos Hermanos and the Blanchie III - said they got a friendly reception at the Port of Mariel.

At least one other Cuban exile boat from Florida was believed to have left Mariel with refugees from the mobs at the Peruvian Embassy in Havana. But the whereabouts of most of a flotilla of 50 boats that left Miami for Cuba on Saturday were unknown.

The exiles went to Cuba without permission. 'This kind of effort ... only complicates things," Myles Frechette, head of the State Department's Cuban section, told the Miami Herald. "And bringing in illegal aliens is punishable

State Department and Immigration and Naturalization Service officials had planned to conduct interviews in Costa Rica over the next few weeks to determine who would be among the agreed to accept.

But exiles from Florida took things into their own hands. They said the Cuban government had told them they were welcome to pick up their relatives

"They said anybody who wants to go over by boat and pick up their relatives from among the refugees will be allowed to do so," said Patricia Vilaboa, whose husband organized the flotilla from Miami.

"Many boats are being readied," she said. "I just told them to wait for instructions.

The crews and passengers of the two boats that arrived Monday were interviewed by Customs and INS officials and released to members of Key West's Latin Chamber of Commerce. They spent the night in an old building on the Navy base here and were told to report to the INS regional headquarters in Miami later this week for processing.

The refugees allowed to leave Monday apparently weren't the group the crews had gone to pick up. The Miami Herald reported that Cuban officials inspected their lists, allowed five relatives to leave and then filled the BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - A booby-trapped car containing an estimated 66 pounds of dynamite exploded today about 50 yards from the suburban office of rightist Phalange Party leader Amin Gemayel. Four persons were reported injured.

A party spokesman claimed it was too early to tell whether the blast was directed against Gemayel, whose party fielded the largest Christian militia force during Lebanon's 1975-76 civil war against an alliance of leftist Moslems and Palestinian guerrillas:

The 32-year-old member of the Lebanese Parliament was not in his office when the bomb exploded. The blast came at a time when he normally would be driving to work.

Gemayel's younger brother, Bashir, lost his 18-month-old daughter in a similar car-bomb blast in Beirut on Feb. 23.

The party spokesman said Phalangist militiamen cordoned off the blast scene as the four injured pedestrians were taken to a hospital in the

Rodgers captures fourth Boston title

BOSTON (AP) - Bill Rodgers, one of the world's foremost distance runners, can mark down 1980 as a year of both bitter disappointment and personal triumph. The 32-year-old former school teacher trained months in hopes of a shot at Olympic Gold, but settled Monday for a third consecutive, and fourth since 1975, Boston Marathon championship.

"I'd rather be in the Olympics than anything, but I don't even know if I would have made the team," Rodgers said after becoming only the second runner ever to win the 26-mile, 385yard jaunt from Hopkinton to Boston's Back Bay three years in a row.

"That was the toughest race I've ever run in Boston," Rodgers said. "I was freaked out. I was drying (from dehydration) at the end. I ran real hard to make my breakaway (abo the halfway mark).

"My legs are real beat. It was a struggle just to get home. The crowd drove me. My legs started to go with eight miles left. It was pure willpower then. On the hills I gutted it out, getting cramps the last six miles."

Even while hurting, Rodgers was too much for the starting field of 5,400. which counted 3,663 men and 236 women among finishers in the official clocking period of 31/2 hours.

Marchel, making his first visit to Boston, was runnerup in 2: 13.20, out-duelling Ron Tabb of Houston after both had been put away by Rodgers about the halfway mark. Tabb was third in 2:14.48, followed by another Boston newcomer, Michael Koussis of Greece, in 2:16:03, and Paul Friedman of New Brunswick, N.J., in

Something's got to give today in the torrid second half of the District 5-4A

No less than five teams share first place with 2-1 readings with Midland High and Midland Lee leading the way along with surprising Odessa High, Odessa Permian and Abilene High. Abilene Cooper is right behind with a 1-1 mark and the Cougars have a makeup game Thursday with San

IN TODAY'S games, however, Midland High entertains San Angelo, Lee is at Big Spring while Permian takes on Cooper in Odessa and OHS is at Abilene High.

Midland Coach Tim Whalen will send junior righthander Mark Hewitt to the mound today against Central's Tod Fields. The Bulldogs lost to San Angelo in the first half of the race,

Lee, meanwhile, also seeks revenge against the Steers in Big Spring with Alan Koonce or Wade Cartwright set to throw. Big Spring took a 13-10 slugfest from the Rebs the first time around on the Lee dimamond and it was no fluke as it pounded out 18

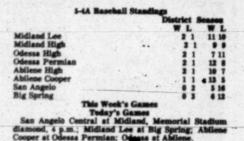

Midland and Lee both lost Saturday with the Pack dropping a 9-5 decision to Abilene and Lee a 5-3 decision to Cooper in Abilene.

JERRY ZACHERY continues to lead the Bulldog hit parade, both on the year and in 5-4A play. The gifted junior is hitting .439 in on the season and owns a .467 average in district play. On the year David Zarate is hitting .387 and .467 in loop play while Shawn Mowles is hitting .385 on the year and a robust .500 in 5-4A compethe last two league games with the flu, is hitting .367 on the year and .292 in district while Tracy Gann is hitting .364 and .324, respectively. Joel Castaneda, on a hitting terror in recent games, has climbed to .310 on the year and .391 in district while junior catcher Frank Garramone is hitting .317

FOR LEE, junior centerfielder Barry Corley is having quite a year. He is spanking the ball at a .430 clip in 21 games for the Rebs and owns a .467 district average. Jeff Hicks, another junior, is hitting .368 on the year and .417 in league play while Wade Cartwright is hitting .362 and .324.

Koonce, who not only pitches, but lays the outfield and sometimes first base, is hitting for a .318 average on the year and .290 in loop play while Robert Perez is hitting .371 in league play and .264 on the year. Catcher Tom Morrison is another, hitting better in 5-4A play with a .393 mark, but only .265 on the year.

Lee takes a 11-10 season record into its game today with Big Spring while Midland stands 9-9 on the year as it squares off with Central's Bobcats.

Cubs blow one in seventh to Sox

AMARILLO — Trailing 5-4 going into the seventh, Amarillo's Gold Sox erupted for five runs and a 9-6 Texas League victory over the Midland Cubs in the final game of the series here Monday night.

First baseman Gary Ashby hit a two-run triple and Doug Alvarez belt-ed a three-run homer, both blows off Cub reliever Kent Hunziker, during the winning rally. Alvarez, who doubled home a run in the fourth, had four rbi for the Sox.

The Cubs, losing four of the six games here, scored three runs in the fifth as Todd Winterfeldt singled home one run and Randy LaVigne hit a bases loaded double for two more runs. Then, in the sixth, Midland took a 5-4 lead when first baseman Joe Hicks belted his second homer of the season for two more runs. Gary Pickert, coming on in relief of starter Steve Fireovid, picked up his third win without a defeat while Mike Wright, who came in for starter Herman Segelke, hung around long enough to absorb his second loss.

Shortstop Dave Owen hit a two-out homer for Midland in the ninth.

a 4-3 10-inning loss. The Cubs head for El Paso and a six-game series against the alsostruggling Diablos, managed by former Midland manager Jim Saul.

Victory is a pain killer for Boston's O'Reilly

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) - Terry O'Reilly didn't have to say where he hurt. The answer was as plain as the swollen nose on his face ... and the stitching in his eyebrows and the shiner that gave his right eye the hue of an African violet.

The Boston right wing was so tired and so beaten up from four remarkably physical games against the New York Islanders, it seemed even the exertion of a simple smile would send him to a hospital.

"But we won," said O'Reilly. "That's a great pain killer. If we'd lost, I think they would have taken me out of here in an ambulance."

The Bruins won because O'Reilly set up Rick Middleton's goal with 20 seconds left in regulation, then scored at 17:13 of overtime to keep his team alive in the National Hockey League quarterfinals, 4-3. They won because 39-year-old goalie Gerry Cheevers, whose play makes fun of his birth certificate, made 13 difficult stops in

They won Monday night, as Captain Wayne Cashman put it, because "A lot of people gave up on us, but we never gave up on ourselves. We faced the fact that we weren't going to prove anything by quitting."

So they didn't quit, even with 20 seconds standing between them and their earliest elimination in four sea-

"The Guy Up There' doesn't like us too often, but he did tonight," said General Manager-Coach Harry Sin-

With the season hinging on that last half-minute and Cheevers replaced by an extra attacker, a scramble developed in front of Bill Smith in the Islanders' goal. Suddenly, it seemed everyone near the cage was on his knees, and there was Middleton poking at the puck like Willie Mosconi heading the eight ball for the corner

That meant some extra work for the guy who runs the scoreboard. With Middleton's one desperate push at an O'Reilly rebound had come the end of a 3-2 New York lead built on two astonishing goals by Mike Bossy and one by Clark Gillies with 6:40 left in scored the tying run as Bob Watson grounded into a double play. In other American League action, Gorman Thomas hit a two-run homer in the 11th inning, giving the Milwaukee Brewers a 7-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Dave Stieb hurled a five-hitter, pitching the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals. Jon Matlack continued to battle back from elbow surgery with his third consecutive strong pitching effort, and Jim Sundberg smashed his second home run the season as the Texas Rangers defeated the Detroit Tigers

Dwight Evans doubled home the winning run in the eighth inning after Rick Burleson, Jim Rice and Carlton Fisk had homered, leading the Boston Red Sox to a 9-8 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

In the National League, John Candelaria tossed a six-hitter and Dave Parker and Lee Lacy each knocked in two runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Montreal Expos 7-1. Ray Burris and Neil Allen com bined on a five-hitter, and Joel Youngblood and Frank Taveras drove in key runs as the New York Mets beat the Philadelphia Phillies

Cincinnati's George Foster went 5-for-5, including his fourth home run of the season, and Ken Griffey hit a two-run double to power the Reds to a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros in the first of a three game showdown in

In a late NL game on the West Coast, Reggie Smith and Ron Cey slugged two-run homers in the first inning to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants. In the AL, pinch hitter Jeff Newman's tie-breaking two-run double in the ninth inning lifted the streaking Oakland A's past the Seattle Mariners 4-2 for their seventh consecutive victory. Oakland remains the leader of

Reeves may call Poke plays By RICHARD VINCENT

Dan Reeves, the Dallas Cowboys' masterful and innovative offensive coordinator, may find himself buried neck-deep in computer printouts this season if he makes the grade as the team's sole play-caller in the exhibition campaign.

Sports Writer

Reeves, in the Permian Basin Monday to speak at the Stanton All-Sports Banquet, said he plans to be calling the Cowboys' offensive shots in preseason, and if all works out well, he'll also be doing it during the regular

According to the handsome, 37year-old Reeves, Tom Landry, who usually picks the Cowboys' plays, will "spend more time on defense."

That's understandable, with some of the problems - both on and off the field - that bothered the defense last Reeves said if the defense can be shored up, "we can be a contender." But if there are question marks regarding the defense, there are certainly more than a few concerning the offense, particularly in light of Roger Staubach's retirement.

Reeves didn't say the Cowboy offense would be its same zesty self without Staubach, but he said, "We still have a lot of weapons." The heir apparent to Roger's throne, of course, is Danny White, the former Arizona State and WFL whiz kid who hasn't done bad with the Reeves, whose forte as a coach seems to be the quarterback position, said White should make the transition from back-up to starter with characteristic aplomb.

"He's been successful everywhere he's been," said Reeves. "I think he can do an adequate job at quarter-

What will it take, offensively, for the Cowboys to be a winner this year? "If we can take our offense and execute as well as last year, and if we can improve our running game, we could have an outstanding season," said Looking for help from the upcoming

Atlanta shocks prized Horner with demotion to minors

ATLANTA (AP) - Bob Horner, the Atlanta Braves slugger who left a college campus to become the National League's Rookie of the Year two seasons ago, made the All Star ballot Monday - then was demoted to the

"Bobby Cox called me and told me and if you think the shock's worn off, you're completely wrong," Horner told The Associated Press Monday night after it was learned the Braves' third baseman had been optioned to the club's Class AAA farm at Richmond.

"This is incredible," said Horner. "It's beyond incredible. It's something words can't describe, really."

Al Thornwell, the Braves' executive vice president who confirmed the move, said, "He was stunned, but on reflection, he shouldn't have been.

Horner, hailed as one of baseball's best young hitters following two excellent seasons, was mired in a 1-for-32 slump. He had only two singles in 34 trips, an .060 average, and failed to drive in a run as the Braves opened with a dismal 1-9 record. He also had committed six errors in nine games. and saw action only as a pinch hitter Sunday against Cincinnati after being benched by Manager Cox at the suggestion of owner Ted Turner. "He has 72 hours in which to report, but I hope he would report right away, in time for tomorrow night's ball game," Thornwell said. "I hope he'll be back within the next couple of weeks. Just as soon as he can regain his confidence, I hope he'll be back."

Horner, the nation's No. 1 pick in baseball's 1978 summer draft, joined the Braves in June that year after being named college baseball's Player of the Year at Arizona State. He never played a day in the minors, seeing action in 89 games and earning the NL's Rookie of the Year award when he batted .266 with 23 home runs and 63 RBI.

Despite a bitter contract dispute with Turner that kept Horner out of spring training in 1979, the 22-year-old slugger was even more impressive his sophomore season. He smashed 33 homers, had 98 RBI in 121 games and had a .314 batting average, fifth best in the league.

"OK, I've had 10 bad games," Horner said. "I've had 210 pretty excellent games for those people. If 10 games in my career determines whether I'm going to stay on the major league team or not, I can't Horner said he had a pulled muscle in his right arm, that his shoulder was tender and that he bruised a bone in his hand during spring

"I wasn't real healthy starting anyway," he said. "I don't know what they expect out of me, I really don't." Turner reportedly gave the Braves a tongue-lashing in a closed-door meeting following Sunday's 5-3 loss to the Reds, but Horner said the owner did not single him out. "Not specifically, no," Horner said. "Nobody was mentioned by name.

Nobody pointed any fingers. -"I don't know what went through his mind when he made the decision, but I know that Ted made the decision," Horner added. "I don't know why. If you can find an answer for me, I wish somebody would clue me in

Horner said he had a "million thoughts" going through his mind "and none of them make any sense."

"I'm confused, worried, baffled, a thousand emotions rolled into one. I Thornwell said after the clubhouse meeting between Turner and the players Sunday that "we have reached a breaking point with this team where something has to be done. We're going to shake the team Thornwell said a player will be recalled from the minors to replace

Horner on the roster, but he didn't know who it would be. The Braves probably will move one of two utility infielders, Chico Ruiz or Larvell Blanks, into the lineup tonight against the San Diego Padres.

Thornwell said he didn't know mechanically what problems Horner was having at the plate.

"He seems hesitant," he said. "He's not whipping the bat around Asked if he thought Horner was in shape, Thornwell said, "As far as I can tell, he is. It appears he may be a few pounds overweight."

Horner's agent, Bucky Woy, also had trouble believing the move. Woy, reached at his home in Irving, Texas, said, "I personally think it's

"I'll tell you one thing, they get your attention," Woy said. "They come up with some beauties. I thought the hatchet was buried and things were going to go smoothly."

Spurs go public with Gervin offer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs have offered unhappy George Gervin a new lifetime contract worth $5.1 million. But Gervin's agent says Gervin will demand to be traded if the Spurs don't drastically increase their offer.

Officials of the National Basketball Association team, stung by a "poor boy" image in the national media, revealed Monday that they had offered the three-time scoring champion the choice of the $5.1 million pact over 35 years or a 5-year deal worth $2.85 million.

"We have made what we consider to be our best offer," said Spurs President Angelo Drossos

"They're not even close," Gervin's agent, Pat Healy, said by phone from Tacoma, Wash., adding that Gervin seeks a minimum of $1 million per year for seven years.

"George wants to play out his career in San Antonio. But if their offer is irrevocable, George has no choice but to ask to be traded," added Healy. "He is the most consistent and proficient player in the NBA today. He is the best, so he should be the highest paid."

Healy said Gervin had rejected both of the team's offers 10 days earlier when talks broke down between Healy and Drossos.

Gervin, 27, currently has a $350,000per-year, non-guaranteed contract, which has three years remaining and pays him only a third of what at least four other NBA stars earn.

and, if things get too rough, enforcer Tom Brahaney of the St. Louis Cardi-Drossos agreed to renegotiate the contract after the season ended. But there was widespread speculation in the national media that San Antonio and the Spurs could not afford to keep a superstar like Gervin. Drossos then broke his own rules against revealing salaries by calling the unprecedented Monday news conference and outlining the team's two "For too many weeks, we have heard our franchise — and our city —

chastised as some kind of poor boy

"This may not be the greatest offer made to an athlete, but it is one of the greatest offers ever made to an athlete who has three years remaining on a binding contract at considerably less compensation," he added.

Reeves optimistic

NFL draft, according to what Reeves said, could be likened to the prospects of the American hostages leaving the embassy in Iran. "We don't have a choice until the third round," he said.

Still, he thinks the Cowboys need to search for linebackers, defensive backs and a punter.

With the Cowboys in either a playing or coaching capacity since signing as a free agent in 1965, Reeves said he would leave Big D if the right opportunity came along. "I would have to take a head coaching job," he said, "because that's what I want."

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

If He isn't God, who is He?

It was winter, and Jesus was in Jerusalem at the time of the Dedication. Celebration. He was at the Temple, walking through the section known as Solomon's Hall.

The Jewish leaders surrounded Him and asked, "How long are you going to keep us in suspense? If you are the Messiah, tell us plainly." "I have already told you, and you don't believe Me," Jesus replied. "The proof is in the miracles I do in the name of My Father. But you don't believe Me because you are not part of My flock. My sheep recognize My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me.

I give them eternal life and they shall never perish. No one shall snatch them away from Me,

For My Father has given them to Me, and He is more powerful than anyone else, so no one can kidnap them from

I and the Father are one."

Then again the Jewish leaders picked up stones to kill

Jesus said, "At God's direction I have done many a miracle to help the people. For which one are you killing

They replied, "Not for any good work, but for blasphemy; you, a mere man, have declared yourself to be God."

"In your own Law it says that men are gods!" He replied. "So if the Scripture, which cannot be untrue, speaks of those as gods to whom the message of God came, do you call it blasphemy when the one sanctified and sent into the world by the Father says, 'I am the Son of God'?

Don't believe Me unless I do miracles of God. But if I do, believe them even if you don't believe Me. Then you will become convinced that the Father is in Me, and I in the Father.'

Once again they started to-arrest Him. But He walked away and left them,

And went beyond the Jordan River to stay near the place where John was first baptizing.

And many followed Him. "John didn't do miracles," they remarked to one another, "but all his predictions concerning this man have come true."

And many came to the decision that He was the Twenty-four hour service stations are making a comeback and the price of one grade of motor fuel has actually declined since last month.

These are two unusual findings of a survey of 398 Texas service stations by the American Automobile Association which indicates sharply improved gasoline availability throughout the state and the most moderate price increases recorded since last fall.

Triple-A's monthly Fuel Gauge Report says that 8 percent of the stations surveyed are selling gasoline 24 hours a day, compared to 5 percent last month. More stations are now open around the clock than at any time since AAA began its surveys last May.

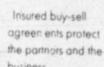

The survey shows that dies a fuel has dropped in price since mid-April, from 110.0 cents per gallon to 109.4. Gasoline prices increased from 1 to 2.5 cents per gallon, much below the 5½-cent average in-crease from February to March and the 8-cent boost between January and February. Average prices in Midland and Odessa for gasoline are now at 118.5 at full-serve stations or 111.4 at self-serve for regular, 122.7 for premium or 117.1 at self-serve, 121.6 for no lead or 115.8 at self-serve stations, and 105.6 for diesel. Current average full-service gasoline prices statewide are regular 117.8, unleaded 121.7, premium 122.6 and premium unleaded 126. Average self-service prices are regular 114, unleaded 118.4, premium

119.2 and premium unleaded 122.7 The survey showed that gasoline prices in El Paso for all grades are three to five cents lower than the statewide average. The common practice in that city of crossing the border to buy lower-priced gasoline in Juarez is thought to be the reason that El Paso has the cheapest gasoline in the state.

Mobil Corp. cracks down on credit customers

NEW YORK (AP) - Mobil Corp. has halted the issuance of new credit cards and will double the minimum monthly payments on its 6 million existing accounts, according to a company spokesman.

Other major gasoline marketers. including Exxon Corp., Shell Oil Co., Texaco Inc. and Gulf Oil Corp., said Monday they are studying possible credit policy changes.

Mobil, the nation's sixth largest gasoline marketer, stopped processing card applications April 1 and has told its 18,000 dealers to stop providing applications to customers.

Current Mobil cardholders will be allowed to renew their cards when they expire, but will face higher payment requirements this summer, spokesman John Flint said. Cardholders are being notified in their billing statements that minimum monthly payments will double to $20 from $10 on revolving charge accounts. The company provides revolving credit for purchases of items other than gasoline. Mobil has not set a date for the new payment rule to take effect this summer, Flint said, adding that it was drawn up in response to President Carter's call for a slowdown in the growth of consumer debt. Mobil is cooperating in the national anti-inflation effort, and suspending the issuance of new credit cards is a major factor in restraining the extension of credit," the company said in a letter to dealers. Oil companies as well as retailers, banks and other consumer lenders have re-evaluated their credit policies in response to actions last month by the Federal Reserve Board that made their credit operations more

The Fed said lenders who had at least $2 million in consumer credit on March 14 must place 15 percent of any additional outstanding credit in a Jerry Bradley said. non-earning account at the Fed. Because that account yields no interest, it becomes more expensive for the lender to provide credit.

Angina not heart attack

Dear Dr. Solomon: I live on one coast while my father lives on the other. He recently phoned to tell me he has been placed on medication after suffering an attack of angina; he says, however, that he has not had a heart attack. Is he confused or is there a difference between an anginal attack and a heart attack? - John Dear John: An anginal episode is not a heart attack, nor does it mean that the heart muscle has been damaged; however, some people do develop angina after a heart attack. During an anginal attack, the supply of blood to a part of the heart muscle is insufficient to meet its needs, as, for example, when an individual is engaging in some athletic activity or otherwise exerting himself. During a heart attack, the flow of blood to a part of the heart muscle is suddenly cut off or very seriously diminished by a blocked artery. Although angina and heart attack are not synonymous, the underlying cause, atherosclerosis (or hardening of the arteries), is the same in both. This means that the inner lining of the arteries has been narrowed by the deposit of fatty materials such as cholesterol, thus restricting the flow

Dear Dr. Solomon: My grandmother has started on a course of chemotherapy for cancer, and the treatment is making her very ill. In fact, she has threatened not to go for further treatments if she does not get some relief from the nausea she is experiencing. Her doctor has prescribed some pills, but they don't seem to be helping any. Do you have any suggestions about how she can relieve the nausea? -

Dear Ivy: Doctors as several medical centers are studying the effects of marijuana on patients receiving chemotherapy for cancer, and some say it appears to be helpful in controlling nausea and vomiting. Researchers at Duke Unversity, for example, have used the active ingredient in marijuana, tetrahydrocannabinol (or THC), on about 220 of these patients. According to Dr. John Laszlo, director of clinical research at the cancer center, the drug reduced or eliminated nausea and vomiting in about 75 percent.

The Duke University researchers originally became interested in the use of marijuana to control the nausea resulting from chemotherapy after discovering that some of their younger patients who admitted smoking marijuana did not experience the same degree of nausea and vomiting as did other patients. So far, no adverse side effects from the use of THC have been reported.

Since state laws differ in respect to the use of marijuana, it may or may not be available where your grandmother lives. In any event, you may want to discuss this with her physician to see if it is a possibility, or whether he is contemplating other steps to try to control the nausea.
