Hijacker will switch planes

SEATTLE (AP) — A man claiming he had a bomb in his briefcase seized a Northwest Airlines 727 jet on the ground Friday afternoon at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport and demanded up to $600,000 and two parachutes, authorities said.

Four hours later, at 5:30 p.m. PDT, the hijacker released all 50 passengers, the FBI said, and 30 minutes after that he agreed to switch to another plane, said FBI negotiator Ron Beiner.

Beiner said the man agreed to switch to a four-seat, single-engine plane after FBI agents convinced him he would risk his life and the lives of the crew if he jumped from the jet. The smaller plane was to be flown by one of the Northwest pilots, said Beiner, trained in handling hijack

More than seven hours after the 727 was seized, a single-engine Cessna arrived and the hijacker was reported preparing to transfer to it.

The man also agreed to release a stewardess as a gesture of a good faith, Beiner said.

The hijacker, who was not identified by authorities, was described by passengers as about 20, of medium build, wearing blue jeans, an Army fatigue jacket and aviator-type mirror sunglasses.

He "seemed very serious at the beginning but as time wore on he relaxed," said passenger Jim Crall, 35, of Los Altos, Calif.

The man earlier told negotiators he intended to parachute from the plane with his money, similar to the action of the man identified only as Dan Cooper, who disappeared over southwestern Washington in 1971.

At various times, the hijacker demanded different sums of money. ranging up to $600,000.

"I'm not crazy," the hijacker said by radio after the passengers were released. "I don't want to talk no

"If I get that small plane and parachute, these people (remaining on the plane) will be set free and can go home to their children," he said.

Remaining on the 727 were a threeperson flight crew, a flight attendant and an off-duty pilot, Northwest said. The airport remained open to other flights during the negotiations.

At about 4: 30 p.m., the hijacker had set a three-hour deadline for action on his demands, but did not say what would happen if the deadline was ignored, Beiner said. The deadline passed without incident.

The man was in the cabin of the 727, which was parked on a ramp leading to a runway, said Dennis Feldman, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman.

"I work for a man and the thing I do, I kill people for a living," the man said by radio as he talked with

The man said he was not going to surrender until his boss was killed, but the boss was not identified and he did not explain why he wanted him killed.

The man also said he owed people money.

Before the agreement to switch to a smaller plane, the parachute request appeared to indicate the man planned an airborne escape in the style of Cooper, who parachuted into southwestern Washington from the rear stairway of a Northwest 727 in 1971.

Bond rejected in ax murder case

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) - Candace Montgomery, accused in the ax slaying of family friend and church member, was jailed Friday after the presiding judge refused to accept her bond.

A spokesman for the Collin County sheriff's department said Mrs. Montgomery, 30, was jailed about 3 p.m., after District Judge Tom Ryan refused to accept the $100,000 bond posted on June 27.

Mrs. Montgomery surrendured to authorities on June 26, hours after a warrant was issued for her arrest in connection with the brutal June 13 slaying of 30-year-old Betty Gore, who was struck at least 15 times with a

Mrs. Montgomery was freed after posting the bond.

Neighbors found Mrs. Gore's mutilated body in the blood-spattered utility room of her home. Her sobbing 1-year-old daughter was discovered unharmed in a bedroom.

Mrs. Montgomery was babysitting for the Gore's 5-year-old daughter on the day of the murder.

Eruption feared at Mount Hood

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - Increased seismic activity under Oregon's Mount Hood sent scientists scurrying Friday to determine whether a second Cascade Range volcano was signaling an eruption.

Mount Hood, 50 miles east of Portland, Ore., and 60 miles south of Mount St. Helens, has been quiet except for wafting steam since 1865. But in the last four days, 50 earthquakes have been detected under the mountain, prompting the U.S. Geological Survey to plant additional instruments on the volcano.

"Hood has not done anything in a long time, we're not sure what to expect," USGS geologist Tim Hait said Friday.

The quakes were centered four miles below the volcano, Hait said. Scientists will be watching to see if the quakes rise closer to the surface a possible indication that molten rock is rising in the volcano.

The quakes at Mount Hood had some similarity to those that rocked Mount St. Helens a week before its initial March 27 eruption, Hait said, but he said there were also differences.

There was a dramatic increase in the number of quakes on Mount St. Helens before it erupted, which has not been noted on Mount Hood, Hait

New trial date set for Clayton

HOUSTON (AP)— The first four persons to be indicted in the FBI undercover operation Brilab, including Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton, are to go on trial in a Houston federal court Aug. 18. U.S. District Judge Robert O'Conor set the new trial date after a hearing Friday.

The trial was to begin July 21, but defense attorneys said they needed more to listen to the hundreds of hours of tapes the prosecution used in its presentation before the federal grand jury.

Also scheduled for trial in August are L.G. Moore, a Houston labor leader, and two Austin attorneys - Randall B. Wood and Donald W.

Queen reunited with parents

Freed hostage's doctors 'optimistic'

chard Queen, appearing "euphoric," flew from ic" after his flight to freedom. Tehran to the care of Swiss and American doctors in Zurich and had an emotional reunion with his parents early Saturday.

"We are overwhelmed," his father, Harold Queen, said after the 50-minute reunion at the Zurich University Clinic. "Richard is not as we have known him when we last saw him a yer ago. He needs treatment, but we are confident.'

Both he and his wife Jeanne looked tired and strained following the meeting.

Preliminary tests at the Zurich clinic indicated the 28-year-old vice consul was suffering from a neurological problem involving some lack of coordination and a stiffness in his left arm, U.S. officials said. "The doctors are optimistic, they are quite optimistic, and that's the most important thing," the elder Queen said. "But it was a highly emotional Queen's father and U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland Richard Vine said they had no word from doctors to confirm Swiss television reports that Queen would undergo an operation Saturday for an aneurysm in the brain. An aneurysm is defined in medical texts as a sac of blood formed by the enlargement of a weakened artery.

The U.S. officials said a more definitive report on the freed man's condition could be made later

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said in Tunisia he welcomed Queen's release, and echoed Carter's hope that the others would be freed But the Tehran authorities gave no sign of any softening in their stand on the 52 Americans who still remain captive in Iran. Khomeini, in fact, unleashed a new denunciation of the United States, accusing it of seeking to "trample Islam underfoot" through conspiracies aimed at his regime. Iran's prosecutor general, Ayatollah Seyed Karim Mousavi Ardabili, told reporters in Tehran that

GOP openly courting labor vote

DETROIT (AP) - Republican platform writers delivered a wilting criticism of President Carter and the Democrats who control Congress, saying "America is adrift" under their leadership. It was part of the preamble of the GOP's 1980 campaign document, approved unanimously in committee on Friday. At the same time, Republican strategists looked beyond rhetoric to the fall campaign and openly courted the labor vote that treaditonally goes lopsidedly Democratic.

The GOP platform committee was preparing an entirely new plank, to be added early next week, calling for tax breaks for Americans who buy U.S.built, fuel-economical cars and for foreign automakers who construct assembly lines in the United States.

That proposal, designed to battle the high level of unemployment in the U.S. automobile industry, came after top GOP leaders met Friday for breakfast with United Auto Workers president Douglas Fraser.

Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas said he would offer the new plank Monday when the panel meets to formally deliver the document to the GOP convention.

The platform committee completed work on the 1980 platform by adopting a preamble harshly critical of foreign and defense policy under the Carter administration and the Democratic congressioal leadership.

"Never before in modern history has the United States endured as many humiliations, insults and defeats as it has during the past four years - our ambassadors murdered, our embassy burned, our warnings ignored, our diplomacy scorned, our diplomats kidnappped," said the introductory section.

The platform preamble cited "unparalled unity within our ranks" and said the Republican party, under Ronald Reagan, could "make America great again.

'America is adrift" and headed toward "one of the most dangerous and disorderly periods in history," it said, adding: "In ultimate humiliation, millitant terrorists in Iran continue to toy with the lives of American diplomats.

The proposed platform, closely reflecting Reagan's views on both foreign-policy and domestic issues, calls for sharply higher defense spending, a broad tax cut and efforts to strengthen the family. It also stresses the need for new tax breaks and government deregulation to stimulate domestic energy production.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, the committee chairman, said the platform clearly reflects "a rightward move in this country.'

"I think there is a conservative swing in this country and I think that's reflected in our platform," he said. "It's even reflected in the travail within the Democratic party

Tower said he could think on no instance in which the finished platform differed from positions advocated by Reagan, the prospective GOP nominee.

Following Friday's breakfast meeting, Fraser - A Democratic supporter of Carter's challenger, Sen. Edward Kennedy — said Republicans have "got the issues" in 1980 and predicted that a large number of his union's members will vote for Rea-

Two hours after the GOP meeting with UAW leaders, Dole showed up at the platform session waving the new proposal urging relief for the auto "We want the working people of this country to know that there's every reason to vote for our candidate - not just for president, but for House, for Senate and for local office," Dole said. "We want the working people to know we understand their prob-

His proposal would encourage the production of energy-efficient cars in the United States by providing tax breaks of some form for those who buy them; it would also provide financial incentives to foreign automakers willing to set up plants in the United States and use U.S. labor.

Reagan won't pick Laxalt, Washington newspaper says

lems.'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ronald Reagan has decided against choosing his national campaign chairman, Sen. Paul Laxalt, as his running mate, according to published reports here.

The Washington Post, in Saturday's editions, said Reagan ruled out Laxalt for the Republican vice presidential nomination on grounds of regionalism and party unity

Laxalt, the junior senator from Nevada, was often mentioned as a leading possibility for the vice presidential nomination. He will deliver the speech nextWednesday night placing Reagan's name in nomination for the presidency at the Republican National Convention in Detroit.

Reagan and Laxalt have been friends since they were governors of neighboring states in the 1960s. Their conservative political views are very close The newspaper said Laxalt was Reagan's first choice for his running mate.

But it said he was ruled out on pragmatic grounds. An unidentified source reportedly said of Laxalt: "In many ways, Laxalt is like a younger Reagan and from the same region. He brings nothing to the ticket that isn't already there."

The weather elsewhere

Guess what? Forecast calls for some more of the same

Looks like more of the same weatherwise for Midland and most of West Texas this weekend: hot and dry. Days will be fair and sunny today and

No rain is in the extended forecast through Wednesday of next week. It will soon be a month without any rain

Temperatures today and Sunday are expected to be in the upper 90s, with a low of 70 expected for tonight. Winds will be light and southerly today, 10-20 mph.

Friday's high was only 98 degrees, although it may have seemed hotter. The record for July 11 was set in 1964 The record for July 11 was set in 1964, when temperatures here rose to 106 degrees. The record low for today was set in 1936 at 55 degrees.

Overall it's probably a good day to head for the pool to find some relief from the heat. Be careful with the sprinklers on the lawn, though. The water bills for last month's beginning of this heat wave will be out soon and they are expected to be almost as high as the temperatures.

Vermont nuclear power plant closed

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) - Fearing that a small leak could worsen, officials of the Vermont Yankee nuclear power plant decided to shut the reactor down Saturday to repair the leak and conduct tests ordered by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

"Right now, it is only a whisp of steam," plant spokesman Steve Stoll said Friday. "But it is the type of thing that could get worse."

The leak was first noticed Thursday when radiation monitors showed a slight increase in levels within a dry well which surrounds the reactor. The reactor was lowered to 70 percent power, allowing technicians to enter the well to investigate the leak's

Stoll said officials found the leak to be caused by poor packing in a re-circulation valve, and returned the plant to full power until they decided when to make repairs

Officials initially decided to wait until the plant conducted a test shutdown ordered by the NRC on Monday to determine why a similar plant in Alabama would not shut down on command two weeks ago. Twentythree other plants were also ordered to undergo the test shutdown during the next two weeks.

But Stoll said officials decided to make the repairs and conduct the NRC-mandated tests this weekend. "If we waited and the leak got worse, we might have to make two shutdowns," he said. "We thought it best to get it all over with."

He said the plant would conduct the first test shutdown at 8 a.m. Saturday, make the repairs and then conduct a second test shutdown. He said the plant should be back to full power on Monday.

The weekend shutdown will mark the third outage for Vermont Yankee in the past month.

The reactor closed June 13 to replace a valve that was leaking thousands of gallons of radioactive water into the containment area. On June 17 a drain valve failed, tripping an auto-

TMI venting complete, company official says

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - The remaining radioactive krypton gas was vented from the Three Mile Island nuclear plant Friday, complet-ing the first major step in cleaning up the facility since it was contaminated by the nation's worst commercial nuclear power accident 15 months ago.

Meanwhile, an anti-nuclear coalition said it would continue its legal action against the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for allowing the venting to take place.

'At 9:30 a.m. we terminated the venting process," said Robert Arnold, senior vice president of the Metropolitan Edison Co.

About 43,000 curies of the radioactive gas were released from the crippled nuclear plant during the 14-day Arnold said about 40 curies were released during the final hours of the purge. The total release was about 14,000 curies less than the 57,000 anticipated. He said the higher estimate was made initially because safety judgments were at stake.

"The 43,000 figure was more consistent with what we expected from what we think happened," he said, referring to the March 28, 1979 accident that crippled the plant.

A brief manned entry into the dank, radiation-drenched containment building is scheduled within a month, Arnold said. But he said the lower than expected krypton gas content should not be considered an indication that the accident caused less damage to the reactor than had been be-

"It (the lower krypton content) doesn't confirm that we'll find what we think, but it certainly doesn't conflict with it," he said.

Arnold, who lived with his family in a trailer near TMI during the venting, said he is relieved the process went off as planned and off-site radiation monitoring was accomplished "without any real glitches.'

"The monitoring was reliable and it confirmed the forecast that any exposure would be very, very low," he said.

Final figures from Metropolitan Edison Co., the plant operator, indicate off-site skin doses totaled 4.34 millirem - less than the 5 millirem limit set by the NRC. The two-week purge resulted in an accumulated offsite whole body dose of .044 millirem, far below the 15 millirem NRC limit.

Although the venting is finished, an attorney for members of the TMI Legal Fund said his clients will not drop their cases.

One lawsuit asked the NRC to postpone venting for a 30-day public comment period. The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington, D.C. has said it will hold a hearing on the case in September.

"We'll find out in September whether the NRC broke the law or not," said Rob Hager of the Christic Institute, a public interest law firm in Washing-

"If we succeed in showing that they did, it will be interesting to find out what kind of relief the court will give us," he added.

Hager said the NRC skirted the 30 days' notice requirement by deciding there was no significant hazard to consider and waiving a public hear-

Pope real inspiration to Brazilians; Visit leaves doubt of fast changes

By BRUCE HANDLER Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) - Pope John Paul II inspired tens of millions of people of all classes during his 12-day pilgrimage through Brazil. Hut a close look at the more than 50 proclamations he made during his journey leaves doubts that his visit will produce any fast changes in this underdeveloped part of the world.

During the exhaustive Brazilian 7,500-mile journey his longest and most extensive since assuming the papacy two years ago — the pope left behind m any encouraging words but few prospects for immediate ban is widely flouted by Catholics.

In Brazil, John Paul stood by his conservative or middle-of-the road positions on church participation in temporal affairs - a stance he already had outlined in earlier trips abroad. But he also pleaded for greater social justice in this South American nation where extreme poverty lives beside the rewards of 20th-century progress.

THIS ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF social problems, combined with the pontiff's magnetic personality, made him a hero to all kinds of Brazilians from Helder Camara, the internationally known liberal archbishop of Recife, whose enemies label him the "red bishop," to an ultraconservative lay Catholic organization known as "Tradition Family and Property," which holds big street demonstra-tions against alleged Communist infiltration in the church.

Even white-robed followers of African-inspired voodoo cults, who nominally are Catholics but who tend to believe more strongly in spirit religions, let themselves go - temporarily - and hailed John Paul as "our king."

The pope insisted on viewing some of the scenes of poverty that are the most negative and humanly depressing aspects of this superficially well-off Third World colossus.

THE DELIRIOUS SHOUTING, chanting and singing of the pope's praises erupted in practically all 13. cities he visited, but as the last of the cheers died out some skepticism began to surface about what the pontiff had accomplished here.

"John Paul is an able politician," said Luis Inacio da Silva, Brazil's most important labor union figure. Silva - known to his admirers as "Lula" - was the It was the highest ever leader of assemblyline workers in grimy auto plants on the periphery of Sao Paulo, the nation's biggest city, until the military-run regime summarily removed him because of a strike.

CARDINAL AVELAR BRANDAO Vilela of the church-filled city of Salvador, generally is regarded as a political moderate. He described the pope's Brazil pilgrimage this way: "The pope spoke freely But he did not take sides with the government or the opposition, nor with the conservatives or progressives. And it's stupid to think otherwise.

Cardinal Eugenio Sales of Rio, has quietly defended political prisoners and other enemies of Brazil's 16-year-old military regime, in a spiritual style that meets with John Paul's standards. He said, "People who think the pope's visit here will lead to a confrontation between the church and the government are President Joao Figueiredo, the ex-general who leads Brazil's government and who says he will return the nation to democratic rule, declared that the pope's words in his country "affected me deep-But the president did not promise any new political, social or economic changes as a result of John Paul's visit.

IN FORTALEZA, BRAZILIAN clergymen opened their religious congress with a document that criticized the government for allegedly not doing anything to eliminate social, economic and even racial disrimination. But the farthest the pope would go on the issue was to hold an unusual off-the-record meeting with the dissatisfied prelates.

Later he restated: "You are ministers of the Gospel. As bishops, you are forbidden from every-thing that might look like political partisanship."

Catholics, Lutherans congregate to celebrate Augsburg Confession

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - About 3,000 Roman Catholics and Lutherans packed the cathedral, singing the great hy mn of Protestant-ism's 16th century reformer Martin Luther, "A Mighty Fortress." A Catholic-Lutheran clergy procession of about 100 was led by six bishops of both traditions.

"Doesn't it feel great?" observed Lutheran theologian William Lazareth. The Lutheran-Catholic congregation applauded long

"IT'S ALMOST TOO GOOD TO BE true," said Msgr. James F. Rigney, the Catholic pastor.

This was the scene at Manhattan's St. Patrick's Cathedral on Sunday, June 22, one of scores of ecumenical affairs going on in many communities and nations this year, marking the 450th anniversary of a document intended to heal the impending rupture in Christianity, the Augsburg Confession of 15 30

But instead of healing — in the political tensions of those times the irenic document formalized the rift between Protestantism

THE CONFESSION, SOMETIMES CALILIED the "Protestant Magna Carta," became the foundational credo of the Reformation and still remains the central statement of faith of the world's 70

However, in the contempoary atmosphere of inter-church dialogue and fusing of insights, an official international Roman Catholic-Lutheran commission says:

"The contents of ... the Augsburg Confession in large measure ... can be regarded as an expression of common faith.

SEVERAL CATHOLIC THEOLOGIANS have suggested that it could be accepted by Catholicism in basic content Reconsidering the confession, Catholics and Lutherans "have discovered that they have a common mind on basic doctrinal truths," says the joint international team of scholars. The scholars say it "reflects as no other confession does the ecumenical purpose and catholic intention of the Reformation" and "points the way to a confession of our faith here and now, with Catholics and Lutherans no longer divided. The 20,000-word confession, made up of 28 articles of basic

Christian beliefs, was drawn up at the request of the Holy Roman Emperor Charles V for emerging Protestantism amicably to state

IT WAS PREPARED BY LUTHER'S scholarly colleague, Philip Melanchthon, moderate in tone, aimed at showing Protestants were not heretical, but pointing to abuses in the church needing to be reformed.

It was a last attempt at reconciliation, and feelings ran high as Protestant and Catholic princes and theologians met in Augsburg for the imperial diet and the two-hour reading of the confession. Its purpose "is to bear witness to the faith of the one, holy catholic and apostolic church," says the joint Catholic-Lutheran analysis. "Its concern is not with peculiar doctrines nor indeed with the establishment of a new church, but with the preservation and renewal of the faith in its purity - in harmony with the Ancient Church and the Church of Rome - and in agreement with the witness of Holy Scripture."

BUT IN THE RIVALRY OF THAT era, the confession did not accomplish its objective, the ensuing negotiations breaking up over secondary matters, such as administering both wine and bread in Holy Communion.

Luther himself, who was not present, being forced to remain in Wittenberg for safety after being declared an outlaw at the previous Diet of Worms in 1521, later wrote: "Even if we cannot attain peace, we have this advantage before God and the world that we openly confessed our teaching and sought peace. ... What God and our descendants have to say about that, only time will tell.' CONCERNING LATTER PORTIONS of the confession opposing "abuses in the church" of that time, the joint Catholic-Lutheran team says changes have occurred that "essentially remove the grounds" for the criticism. In the confession's deepest intention, it could be accepted by Catholicism, says Germany's Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, But since the "moment of hope" was not realized in 1530, he adds,

"Can we not now take up again that offer of hope and give a new opportunity to the chance that history offered then?" 'Be patient," advises New York's Archbishop Cardinal Terence Cooke concerning potential unity, "but not too patient."

Basketball player hears the sound of different drummer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some athletes spend their off-seasons fishing, hunting or just resting their tired bodies. Others work in brokerage firms or other offices, paving the way toward a career they can turn to when their playing days are done.

But there are some who choose to give of their time and talent to those less privileged than themselves. Many do it on their own, often receiving little recognition - but great sat-

One of these is Mike Glenn, a 24year-old reserve guard of the New York Knicks, who spent this past week conducting the first Mike Glenn Basketball Camp for the Hearing Im-

"It's something I've always wanted to do," said Glenn, whose hearing is normal but who has had a long-standing relationship with the deaf. "Since deaf people, who have been an intricate part of my life, have often been overlooked in our noisy and fastpaced society, I decided to hold a basketball camp strictly for my very special friends.

'The progression was natural," adds the 6-foot-3 Glenn, a sharpshooting veteran of three seasons in the National Basketball Association who averaged 5.9 points in less than 11 minutes per game last year.

"My father was a teacher and basketball coach at a school for the deaf in Cave Spring, Ga., and I went to work with him a lot. I learned to communicate at an early age, and gradually I started signing (using sign language) and talking with the

Although Glenn, an academic All-America at Southern Illinois who is working toward a masters degree in business administration, has had little formal training in teaching the deaf, he has spoken before dozens of organizations and schools for the deaf around the country.

He notes that the deaf can adapt easily to the demands of basketball, since the crowd noise forces players to communicate with each other by use of hand signals and other gestures. He said he would not be surprised if within a few years a deaf player made it to the NBA. Glenn says he derives great satisfaction from his relationship with the deaf, and is happy to help them in any way he can.

"I'm in a profession they really respect, so maybe I can help because of my position," he reflected. "But some of them are my best friends. At times the NBA can be rough, and it's comforting to know you have people pulling for you.

"I feel a responsibility toward them because I've been publicized. But the deaf have been very special in my life. I love these people, and I want to continue this."

Texas hitting stops Yankees

Reggie Jackson's towering 440-foot three-run homer chased Matlack in the seventh and the Yankees scored another run in the eighth on Rick Cerone's second double and Willie Randolph's RBI single that cut the Texas lead to 9-8.

The Yankees got 14 hits, including six doubles.

Dodgers tame Astros, 3-2

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A week ago in Houston, veteran Joe Morgan of the Astros slugged a ninth-inning homer off Steve Howe to send the game into extra innings

Friday night, Howe faced Morgan again with the tying run at third, and this time he struck him out to preserve the Dodgers' 3-2 victory over the Astros, moving them two games in front of Houston in the National League West.

"I definitely feel we can do the job," Howe said of the Dodgers' youth-oriented bullpen. "When the manager calls down to the bullpen, he

Carpenter says Phils not involved

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — State officials have contacted Philadelphia Phillies players and their wives in connection with a criminal investigation of persons not employed by the club, Phillies' president Ruly Carpenter said Friday night.

His statement referred to news reports earlier this week linking team members with an investigation into the illegal prescribing of amphetamines by a Reading, Pa., physician.

"Each individual interviewed co perated fully and was assured that he or she was not suspected of any criminal involvement," Carpenter said in a five paragraph statement read by team public relations director Larry Shenk.

"The officials from the Commonwealth requested that none of the details of the interview, including the identities of the individuals interviewed, be disclosed at this time," Carpenter said in the statement issued shortly before his team met the Chicago Cubs in the last of a twogame series.

Amphetamines, commonly known as "uppers," are stimulants.

First reports of the amphetamine investigation said eight Phillies' players were involved, but only four were named. They were shortstop Larry Bowa, third baseman Mike Schmidt, first baseman Pete Rose and outfielder Greg Luzinski.

Still another report included the names of pitchers Steve Carlton, Randy Lerch and Larry Christenson. All have issued denials or refused to

The reports angered both club officials and the team. Some of the players have refused to talk with reporters — even about baseball — because of the adverse publicity.

Phillies' Manager Dallas Green said he thought his players had been treated unfairly by the media, but said he did not believe the reports had any effect on their performance.

M-Cubs sweep pair from Shreveport

SHREVEPORT - The Midland Cubs are back on the beam again, getting great pitching and timely

They swept a Texas League doubleheader from the Shreveport Captains Friday night, winning 1-0 and 8-1.

Paul Semall and Chuck Rogers both went all the way on the mound for the Western Division-leading Cubs while Tom Grant, Gary Krug and Joe Hicks provided the muscle as Midland took a 2-1 lead in the five-game series with a single game on tap tonight, an open date Sunday and the finale of the series on Monday night before moving on to Jackson Tuesday for a fivegame set with the Mets.

In the opening game, Grant powered a home run in the top of the fourth inning off loser Jeff Stadel while Semall, in chalking up his fourth mound win against only one loss, threw a neat five-hitter in going the distance.

Krug and Hicks gave Rogers the hitting he needed to win his first game in a Cubs uniform as Midland was getting good mileage with six hits off a pair of Captain hurlers.

Krug knocked in four runs with a pair of two-run doubles while Hicks smacked his 12th homer of the season in the top of the sixth inning to add a little icing to the cake.

Midland pitchers have now gotten complete game performaces in five out of their last six games and the Cubs have won eight out of their last

In tonight's fourth game of the series, Midland will send Randy Clark (6-4) to the mound while Shreveport, in trying to even the series will call upon either Glen Fisher (6-7) or Pat Alexander (0-0).

Consistent Alcott has midway lead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Amy Alcott, saying she strives for consistency, fired her second consecutive one-under-par 70 Friday to take the midway lead in the U.S. Women's Open golf championship.

Barbara Moxness, a co-leader after Thursday's opening round, fell four strokes off the pace after she birdied four holes and bogeyed four others, including a double-bogey on 17.

A field of 150 players, 49 of them amateurs, were entered in the 28th annual U.S. Women's Open, a $140,000 72-hole event which is to continue through Sunday at Richland Country

Alcott, 24, of Santa Monica, Calif., bogeyed two holes on the front nine but finished the round with three birdies and a 25-foot putt on No.18 to turn in another par-breaking perfor-

"The key to my round today — like yesterday — was consistency," the sparkling brunette told reporters after entering the clubhouse. "You've got to hit a lot of fairways and greens and avoid three-putting. "I'm taking my birdies and running like a bandit," she said. "They don't come easily out here."

"Here" refered to Richland's par-71, 6,229-yard layout.

Sandra Post carded a 68 Friday, the lowest round of the tourney, to give her a 147, seven strokes off the pace. With $130,000, Alcott was the second-leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour going into the Open. Despite having won last week's LPGA Mayflower Classic at Noblesville, Ind., Alcott said she doesn't consider momentum much of a factor in her "I've forgotten about last week," she said, "I play each shot as it comes. I'd just like to play well today and the next day." Moxness, meanwhile, blamed her putting for dropping her out of the share of the lead. "I think this was my worst putting round in quite a while," she said. "I actually four-putted one hole - 17 to get a double-bogey.' Sharing 144 with Moxness is Penny Pulz, who carded a 72 Friday to remain in strong contention. Pulz said she'll have to keep up the pace if she's to catch Alcott. "The room for error is none out there," Pulz said. "You have to have a tremendous mental game. "I think with Amy Alcott playing so well, I will have to stay one or two under. If I can stay in that position, it could be a real squeaker Sunday." A crowd estimated at 3,800 watched defending champion Jerilyn Britz post a 78, giving her a 156 at the halfway point, 16 strokes off the

The leading amateur at the midway point was Judith Oliver of Sewickley, Pa. She combined rounds of 75 and 76 for a 151, 11 shots behind the leader.

Kratzert paces GMO field But Streck, Pohl aren't far back

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Bill Kratzert, a consistent money-winner but without a PGA tournament victory since 1977, shrugged off stiff crosswinds Friday to drill a 66 and take a 1-stroke lead midway in the Greater Milwaukee Open.

Kratzert stood at 11-under par 133. Breathing down his back in another par-breaking frolic over the 7,010yard, par-72 Tuckaway Country Club Course were Don Pohl and first-round leader Ron Streck.

Pohl blazed the front side in 32, dropping 40-and 35-foot putts en route and came back in 35 for 67. Streck, who closed with a 33, included a string of three birdies in his round of 69.

The group at 9-under 135 included Howard Twitty, who did not make a bogey in carding 68; 40-year-old Miller Barber, who had four birdies on his finishing nine for 69; Jack Renner, with a 67, and Johnny Miller, putting cross-handed for a 67. Staying in contending position for the $36,000 top prize at 136 were Keith

Fergus, with his second straight round of 68; Hale Irwin with a 67; Jay Haas, 66, and Chi Chi Rodriguez, 68. At 137 were Mark Lye, Mike Morley, Fred Marti and Gibby Gilbert. Marti, who had a double-eagle Thurs-round while shotting 71. Among those at 138 was defending champion Calvin Peete.

Scott Simpson, coming off his first day, collected an eagle in his second

PGA tour win in the Western Open, was in a large bracket at 139.

Simpson, who could collect a $100,-000 bonus by winning the GMO because of the tournament committee's decision to award it to anyone who won both the Western and the Milwaukee, rounded out a 68 Friday with an eagle-2 on the 18th by sinking an 8-iron shot from 160 yards out. The cut Friday was at 3-under-par

141, the lowest on the PGA tour this year, leaving 71 players in contention. Among those failing were former U.S. Open titlist Andy North, Jeff Mitchell and Dave Stockton, a two-time GMO champion.

Kratzert's last victory was in the Greater Hartford Open. His best finish this year was a tie for second at Greensboro and he has won $100,267 this season, good for 24th in the PGA dollar derby.

One of Kratzert's most sensational shots came when he planted a 6-iron two feet from the cup on the fifth for one of his six birdies. Other birdies came on putts of 22, 20 and 10 feet.

Pohl, who missed the cuts in his last two starts - the U.S. and Western Opens - also had the greens tamed. He included birdie putts of 40 and 35

Miller, who dominated the tour scene for several years after winning the 1973 U.S. Open, was having such troubles that for the first time he started stroking the ball cross-handed Thursday.

"I did it again today and it's starting to feel more reasonable. But I never made anything over 14 feet," he said. "It's an extremely physical change. I had lost my feel putting the other way. I missed five or six birdies from 10 to 12 feet, and otherwise, I would have had a really sensational

NBC stunned

MOSCOW (AP) - The NBC television network says a demand for $15 million by the International Olympic Committee came as a complete surprise and claims that a presidential order forbids the network from paying the money.

On Friday, the IOC's Executive Board met in Moscow's palatial House of Unions and resolved to step up efforts to obtain the money from the network, which had planned to cover the 1980 Summer Olympics here until the United States decided to boycott the Games.

Monique Berlioux, director of the IOC, said the money was still owed from an original $35 million bid for rights to the Games - plus another $50 million for satellite equipment. Berlioux said $10 million would go the Moscow Olympic Organizing Committee and $5 million to the

Smith boosts Cards AL boxes

MONTREAL (AP) - Pinch-hitter Keith Smith doubled home a pair of runs to cap a four-run rally in the ninth inning that carried the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Friday

Trailing 3-1 after Gary Carter's homer in the sixth, the Cardinals chased Montreal starter Steve Rogers on successive singles by George Hendrick and Terry Kennedy before reliever Woodie Fryman, 3-4, yielded a single to pinch-hitter Bobby Bonds to load the bases with one out.

The Cardinals then scored one run on Ken Oberkfell's fielder's-choice grounder before Smith, who had been to the plate only three times this season, unloaded a double to left to score two runs. Right fielder Eliis Valentine's error on a fly ball by Garry Templeton allowed Smith to score the fourth run of Silvio Martinez, 2-3, who relieved starter Pete Vuckovich in the seventh inning, gained credit for the victory while John Littlefield got a save.

Home runs carry Reds

ATLANTA (AP) - Johnny Bench's two-run homer in the seventh inning and George Foster's two-run blast in the eighth carried the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves Friday night.

Bench's 13th homer of the season came off Braves starter Doyle Alexander, 7-4, after Dan Driessen had singled and stolen second.

Foster smashed his 11th of the season, over the right field fence off reliever Rick Camp following a double by Ken Griffey. Foster also knocked-in a run with a single.

Bench's homer enabled Mario Soto, 2-3, to record the victory in only his third start of the season. Soto gave up five hits, struck out 10 and allowed five walks before needing last-out relief help from Tom Hume, who gained his 13th save.

Giants trip San Diego

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Right-hander Ed Whitson didn't pitch like a National League All-Star Friday, but he didn't have to be at his best.

The San Francisco Giants, for the second straight day, jumped to an early lead and held on while posting a 7-3 victory over the San Diego Padres and sweeping the two-game series. "There weren't that many balls hit hard off me," noted Whitson, 8-8, who was touched for 11 hits and three runs in seven innings. "I didn't have my best stuff, but there was no pressure with those runs." The Giants jumped to a 7-0 lead after four innings, Rennie Stennett collecting a two-run single in the second and a run-scoring single in the fourth. Johnnie LeMaster also had a two-run single for the "Those first few innings went so slow, Ed didn't have time to get loose," said San Francisco Manager Dave Bristol. "But I'll take those quick runs any-Padres Manager Jerry Coleman bemaoned the loss, saying, "I honestly thought we'd be much better at this stage than our record (34-49) indicates."

Easler's shot nips Mets

NEW YORK (AP) - Mike Easler hit his fifth home run of the season against New York - a three-run blast in the third inning - that lifted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets Friday night. Easler hit his 12th homer of the season following a double by Dave Parker and a walk to John Milner. The homer came off Craig Swan, 5-7, and enabled Bert Blyleven, 3-7, to record his second victory in three decisions against New York with relief help from Grant Jackson and Kent Tekulve.

Pittsburgh scored in the second when Easler led off with a double and came home on a one-out single by Ed Ott. New York got its first run in the fifth when Doug Flynn led off with single, took second on a walk to Jerry Morales, went to third on a long fly ball by Lee Mazzilli and scored when Frank Taveras hit into Claudell Washington hit his fifth home run with one out in the eighth for the other New York run. Mazzilli was held hitless in five at-bats, ending his 18-game hitting streak.

Phillies destroy Chicago

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Pete Rose hit three doubles and drove in three runs while Mike Schmidt collected two triples and scored twice, as the Philadelhia Phillies beat the Chicago Cubs 7-2 Friday night and tied the Montreal Expos for first place in the National League East.

While the Cubs were charged with only one error, a number of erratic fielding plays contributed to starter Lynn McGlothen's sixth loss in 12 decisions and a three-run rally against a pair of relievers in the Bob Walk, a 23-year old rookie, worked 6 2-3 innings and earned his fifth victory against no losses with the help of 21-3 innings of relief by Ron Reed. The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the third on Rose's

RBI double. They made it 2-0 in the fourth on a run-scoring squeeze bunt single by Larry Bowa. The Cubs rallied to tie in the sixth on consecutive run-scoring fielder's-choice grounders. Schmidt, who became the fourth player this year to hit two triples in one game, got his first in the sixth when Vail misjudged his high drive to right. Garry Maddox then delivered the lead run with a sacrifice

Cotton Bowl champion Houston Cougars have been picked in Texas Football Magazine's annual poll to again capture the SWC grid title... Americans won nine of 15 events at the meet, including Mac Wilkins in discus, Harvey Glance in 100 meters and Kate Schmidt in women's javelin...The meet was the first for the touring U.S. Olympic track and field team...

Security is being increased at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium in the wake of vandalism that left an obscene phrase burned into the infield grass...The city's Department of Parks and Recreation, which runs the stadium, has announced that uniformed police have started guarding the arena at night...Vandals defaced the field during the night of July 2... The Red Sox and the Orioles opened a four-game stand the following night, but the slur could not be disguised prior to the first game that was televised in Boston...

Group wants nuke route changes told

ATLANTA (AP) - A member of a citizens group says the federal government should announce what his group has learned - that a major route for shipping nuclear waste down the East Coast has been

William Reynolds of the American Friends Service Committee's Nuclear Transportation Project said Thursday the government's caution is not keeping information from terrorists, but from citizens who should be accident near their homes.

"If we can get this information, certainly a terrorist can do the same," Reynolds said in an inter-

A spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission would not say whether the route described by the AFSC and the Sierra Club's Radioactive Waste Campaign is actually being used. The spokesman declined to be identified.

Reynolds said the new route for waste taken from a research reactor at Chalk River, Ontario, to the federal government's Savannah River Plant near Aiken, S.C., has been verified by local officials and others along the

He said the old path, which followed Interstate 95 through eastern Virginia and North and South Carolina, has been replaced by a more westerly course through the Appalachian region. Reynolds said that route runs southward along Interstate 81 through Virginia and Tennessee, then through North Carolina on Interstate 40 and into South Carolina via Interstate 26.

Reynolds said several shipments have been made on the route since April, another is planned this week end and two or three others can be expected this summer.

Reynolds said the tracing was aided by North Carolina and Virginia laws requiring that state officials be notified of nuclear shipments passing through. He said the North Carolina records are open to the public. He said his group has been unsuccessful in attempts to get the NRC to disclose the route change. Reynolds said provisions for the agency's congressional funding in 1981 require that it disclose routes and amounts of nuclear material shipments.

The new rules will not go into effect for several months, and Reynolds said he fears they are not stringent enough.

"There's no public involvement in decisions on how or when the material will be shipped," he said.

He said changes in the Chalk River-Savannah River Plant route apparently were sparked by passage of federal laws two years ago banning nuclear shipping through densely populated areas. He noted that those rules have since been changed to allow such movements as long as the material is under heavy armed guard. .
