Queen's illness diagnosed

Hostage has multiple sclerosis

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) - Freed American hostage Richard Queen is suffering from multiple sclerosis, a disease of nerve degeneration whose symptoms first appeared during his captivity in Iran, a doctor at the U.S. Air Force hospital here said today.

Dr. Jerome Michael Korcak told a news conference that the 28-year-old former vice consul at the American Embassy in Tehran will return to the United States "in the next few Queen, released last week because of ill health after 250 days as a hostage, "will resume his duties as a foreign service officer as soon as his health permits," Korcak said.

"Mr. Queen developed symptoms of the disease in December 1979 while he was held hostage in Tehran," Korcak said. "His symptoms during the past eight months have included numbness and abnormal sensations in his upper extremities and some difficulty with balance associated with nausea

"Mr. Queen's physicians have every hope that he will be among that group of patients with mild and transient manifestations of the illness,' Korcak told reporters at the sprawling U.S. base.

"There was no indication that the (U.S.) embassy occupiers worsened his condition," the doctor said, adding, "They (the Iranian militants) were very forthcoming." He did not

In New York, a spokesman for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society said it was "very likely" that the stress of captivity may have helped set off Queen's multiple sclerosis at-

But the spokesman, Bard Lindeman, emphasized that current theories hold that the infectious agent probably enters the body years before symptoms appear, so that "the supposition is that it would have surfaced

Korcak described multiple sclerosis as a disease of unknown cause, the effects of which vary very widely from patient to patient. Webster's Dictionary describes it as "a chronic disease in which there is scattered demyelination of the central nervous system: it is characterized by speech defects, loss of muscular coordination, etc." Demyelination is the destruction or damage of the fatty tissue that surrounds nerves and helps them

21 killed, 35 injured in nursing home blaze

MISSISSAUGA, Ontario (AP) -Twenty-one people were killed and 35 injured in a nursing home fire that spread rapidly through the top floor of the three-story building where most of the chronically ill patients were housed, police said.

Initial reports indicated a careless smoker was responsible for the fire, but there was no official ruling on the Authorities said most of the victims died of smoke inhalation and extreme heat. "The smoke was very heavy and there was considerable flame and a tremendous amount of heat," said ocal Police Chief Douglas Burrows.

The fire broke out on the third floor of the Extendicare Ltd. nursing home shortly after 9:30 p.m. Monday, and fire trucks were on the scene in about two minutes. But Fire Chief Gordon Bentley said by the time his men got there, the flames had spread across the entire third floor.

'Either the fire went undetected for a considerable length of time or spread very quickly," said Bentley. However, he said the 202-room

Don Shurman, vice president and general manager of Extendicare, was asked why the least ambulatory patients were on the top floor.

"There are various philosophies on how to segregate patients, there is no sure right or wrong way," he replied. 'Some say the most mobile should be on the first so they have access to the outside and can enjoy it.'

Shurman said it was the worst tragedy in Extendicare's history. He said monthly fire drills are held in all the homes during which the staff sets a fake fire and then responds. They don't always evacuate the building in the drills, he said.

The worst nursing home fire in Canadian history killed 38 people. It occurred in December 1969 in Notre-Dame-du-Lac, 125 miles northeast of Quebec City. Witnesses said that fire swept through the three-story wooden building in a few minutes.

Bush may be Reagan's pick

DETROIT (AP) — With everything going his way on the Republican convention floor, Ronald Reagan's search for a winning vice presidential running mate intensified today, with signs pointing toward George Bush as the leading prospect.

Reagan also met with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment in a dual effort to smother the only flickers of controversy at this carefully scripted convention.

After he met with top Reagan advisers, Bush told the California delegation that "I believe this party is more unified than at any time in history. ... And I believe that under Governor Reagan we are going to see that sort of respect for the United States that everyone wants."

After his session with Reagan, Kissinger told reporters he did not discuss the possibility of joining a Reagan administration

'The only discussion we had was on substantive issues of foreign policy," Kissinger said. He called Reagan's foreign policy views "compatible" with his own.

While there was hardly a ripple of public controversy at the convention sessions on Monday, the first of four days of meetings in Joe Louis Arena, some prominent party figures expressed disagreement with the conservative cast of the party platform to be presented to the delegates for approval tonight.

Betty Ford, former first lady, said in an ABC television interview today that platform planks dropping endorsement of the Equal Rights Amendment and supporting a constitutional ban on abortions were threatening to carry the party toward the sort of election disaster that Barry Goldwater suffered as the GOP nominee in 1964.

"We're treading on dangerous ground just like 1964," said Mrs. Ford, a strong supporter of ERA. "... I hope we correct some of these

In an earlier appearance on the CBS Morning News, Kissinger sidestepped a question whether he agreed with the platform's opposition to the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union. The arms limitation pact, strongly opposed by Reagan, is stalled in the Kissinger replied that "at this moment the big problem in national defense is catching up with the Soviets." Then he added that "I support the many directions of the platform."

Kissinger was on Reagan's guest list today along with former President Gerald R. Ford, ERA supporters and, quite likely, some of the men mentioned as leading his list of vice presidential possibilities.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post quoted an unnamed Reagan intimate as saying the candidate was "90 percent of the way toward choosing' Bush as his running mate.

Speculation about Reagan's vice presidential choice remained the favorite sport at this convention.

The highlight of the opening day occurred Monday night when Ford received a warm emotional welcome from the delegates and pledged that "this Republican is going to do everything in his power to elect our nominee to the presidency of the United States.'

It was Ford's 67th birthday and when he finished speaking and cheers had died down, the delegates sang "Happy Birthday" to the former president.

On the floor after the Ford speech, William Casey, Reagan's campaign manager, said a Reagan-Ford combination "would be a great ticket."

But Ford has made it clear he would not accept the vice presidential nomination and Casey said he doubted there would be any effort to try to draft Ford.

Kissinger was interviewed Monday night on CBS and when asked if he thought he might be offered his old job as secretary of state in a Reagan administration, he replied that "I have no expectancy one way or the

Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana, one of the opening day speakers, said that he had not been invited to any meeting with Reagan, but that he had been asked for material to supplement the personal and financial data the Reagan staff had requested from several vice presidential prospects.

The deadline was drawing near for a decision from Reagan who will receive the presidential nomination from the convention on Wednesday night. He is expected to make his choice late that night and announce it at an 11 a.m. news conference on Thursday.

While Reagan pondered, others lobbied. Gov. William Milliken of Michigan, who had supported Bush for the presidential nomination, now is boosting the former U.N. ambassador for the second spot on the ticket.

Betty Boop runs as 'anti-frownie'

Bowman didn't want to be left out of all the excitement.

So before he went into the convention headquarters Plaza Hotel for a bit of celebrity watching, he pinned onto his shirt a piece of cardboard on which he'd written: "Official Pass. I Live Here. Admit Bearer.'

Bowman was one of thousands of people out Monday on Jefferson Avenue between Joe Louis Arena and the futuristic Plaza, where Ronald Reagan is staying. That stretch of the street has become a promenade where Republican delegates, Detroit residents and all kinds of others ogle each other and street vendors to souvenir beer mugs.

At an information booth, volunteer Dorothy Ferguson says, the three most common questions are: "What's going on today? Where do I find my bus? Where can I get a button like yours?" (Hers carries the official slogan: "Detroit Loves A Good

Three die in Houston bowling alley shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — The bowling alley had been robbed just the night before, so four young people volunteered to spend the night and guard against burglars. When they were seen again, three had been shot to death execution-style.

Investigators said they hoped the lone survivor of the bloodbath - a teen-ager who was shot in the head could give them a clue to help track the killers. Investigators speculated that robbery was the motive for the bloody break-in. About $800 was taken from a cash register near the bodies, police said. The four were apparently told to lie on the floor and then each was shot "Hate," said Betty Rappe, a bowling alley employee and friend of the victims. "That's all it could be.

Police identified those killed as Stephen Allen Sims, 25, assistant manager of Fair Lanes Windfeyn Bowling Center in northwest Houston; Tommy Lee Temple, a 17-year-old employee of the alley; and Temple's girlfriend, Arden Alane Felsher, also 17.

Gregory Garner, 18, also an employee, was in critical condition following the shootings and authorities said he may lose an eye. Garner's father, Ira, found the bodies early Monday when his son called home for help, unable to speak

Deputy constables Tom McGinnis and Charlie Smith, both running for constable in the Nov. 4 general election, were authorized to act as constables. The two men will be completing the term of longtime constable Jack Merritt, 76, who died June 11.

The National Weather Service predicts a high for Wednesday at 100, with the low tonight dipping into the lower 70s. Winds will be from the south, at 10 to 20 miles per hour tonight and Wednesday.

Although most Midlanders will agree the temperature was far from the comfort level, Monday's high of 98 fell far short of the record high of 107, set in 1933. The low Monday night was just five degrees above the record low of 64 set in 1960, at 71.

ERA supporters gather in Detroit

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS

DETROIT (AP) - About 11,000 backers of the Equal Rights Amendment demonstrated outside the Republican National Convention Monday as GOP delegates supporting the ERA vowed to make a final effort to add the amendment to the party's platform.

The march, swelled by lunch-time crowds, extended for several blocks as it moved through downtown Detroit to the convention center.

The chanting, sign-carrying men and women shouted, "Hey, hey, what do you say? Ratify the ERA" as they

Some carried placards that read "Abort Reagan," "Wake up GOP it's 1980," and "ERA — a people's

The demonstrators were led by a group of prominent, moderate Republicans, including Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, Senate minority whip; Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Ma.; Reps. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., William Green, R-N.Y., Pete McCloskey, R-Calif., and Jim Jeffords, R-Vt.; and Helen Milliken, wife of Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken.

Detroit police estimated the crowd at 11,000 although organizers of the march put the number at 12,000 to 15,000

Speaking before the pro-ERA march, Green said he was seeking majority support from six state delegations so he can move to have the platform opened for an amendment endorsing the ERA. Last week, the Republican platform committee, dominated by conservative backers of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, dropped the party's longtime endorsement of a constitutional amendment guaranteeing equal rights for women.

"It's an uphill fight," Green said. "I don't want to pretend to you that we have them (the six delegations) lined

John Leopold, a Hawaii delegate who led the effort to keep ERA in the Republican platform, was even more pessimistic, saying "I don't think there is any hope of the language being changed in the plank."
Meanwhile, Reagan, the party's expected nominee, planned a meeting on Tuesday morning with nine Republican women who support ERA. The women hope to convince Reagan to soften his opposition of the proposed amendment.

Edwin Meese III, Reagan's chief of staff, said that Reagan did not deliberately exclude men from the session, but that "the principal people who wanted to meet with him were women.

Meese told repoerters that the intention was to keep the session a 'small, intimate gathering.'

Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women and an organizer of the pro-ERA demonstration, said Reagan already was being hurt among voters because of the party's platform stand.

"I think this convention has hurt him on this issue without question," she said. "It gave a signal to a lot of people about how extreme he and his supporters are. There is no question in my mind that this for many people is the final straw."

Ms. Smeal also said a GOP platform without an ERA endorsement would remove any chance that Reagan could win her organization's endorsement.

The demonstration began shortly after the convention was formally convened Monday morning.

Before the demonstration began, Republican ERA activists told reporters they were dismayed at seeing their party abandon a stand in support of a Equal Rights Amendment first taken in 1940.

"I'm afraid that our party has a made a profound mistake and sent a signal to the women of our country that they (the platform drafters) probably did not understand the ramifications of," said Jill Ruckelshaus, now a member of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

She said by failing to take a stand favoring ERA, the party was hurting its ability "to attract women when it holds up a standard that is not acceptable or attractive to 52 percent of the population.

Driver faces daring dilemma

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) - For a few harrowing moments, Pat Russell faced a seemingly hopeless situation: jump and risk electrocution or stay put and risk burning to death.

The 26-year-old Russell found himself in the situation Monday when the dump truck he was driving struck an overhead power line at a rural construction site just north of Duluth.

The resident of Twig, Minn., was backing the truck, its dump box raised, when it caught the power line. About 7,000 volts surged through the truck, igniting its tires. Pungent smoke boiled into the cab and flames licked the sides of the truck near the gas tank. If he tried to jump, Russell could be electrocuted. If he remained in the cab and the gas tank exploded, he could be burned to death.

"We told him to stay in there, we asked him to trust us," said Bill Yax, assistant chief of the Kenosha Township Volunteer Fire Department.

Russell sweated it out inside the truck for more than 25 minutes on an already steamy afternoon while Yax and other firefighters tried to contain the electrical fire with dry chemical extinguishers.

"He was a little worried the tank would explode," said co-worker Steve Baublitz, 24, who was operating a bulldozer nearby when Russell's truck smacked the line.

A Minnesota Power & Light Co. worker was summoned to clip the sparking power line.

"He was in more danger from the (gas) tanks exploding than from the electricity," said MP&L troubleshooter William Erickson. "Even if the tires had burned away and the truck became grounded, Russell likely would have been all right it he stayed put."

The lines burned down before Erickson could cut them. Once the lines were cleared from the truck, Russell was helped from the vehicle. He was shaken and had inhaled some smoke, but otherwise was un-

"He was pretty white when he got out," Baublitz said. Russell was given oxygen and taken to a friend's house to rest. Added Yax as firefighters hosed down the smoldering truck: "He's a

Emergency response to be tested

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - A "major shortfall" in state and local response to last year's nuclear accident at Three Mile Island will be corrected during a simulated emergency this week, officials say.

"The kind of information that we passed down to the counties was not sufficiently thorough," Oran Henderson, chief of the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency, said Monday. But Henderson said local officials will receive the information they need

- on such things as radiation levels and evacuation plans - through the revised state response plan.

The plan will be tested Wednesday in an eight-hour drill that involves 18 state agencies, seven counties, two towns and two hospitals. The simulation, set to begin at 6:30 a.m., revolves around a series of simulated emergency developments at the closed power plant, where the nation's worst commercial nuclear accident occurred last year. Henderson said the exercise, while planned around hypothetical mal-functions at Three Mile Island, applies to the entire state. This is a test of the machinery that would be employed in the event of an accident at any one of our nuclear facilities," he said. Future drills will be conducted at Beaver Valley, Peach Bottom and eventually at plants under construction at Berwick and Limerick, he Federal and state officials will observe this week's exercise, which has been in the planning stages for five months. A critique is scheduled for two days after it is completed. In addition to five counties near the crippled Three Mile Island plant, the drill involves Lycoming and Union counties in their roles as host counties for potential evacuees. Despite debate last year over the feasibility of an evacuation, Hender-

Midland firefighters answer variety of calls on Monday

A bedroom fire at 602 S. Mineola St. about 4 p.m. Monday was probably caused by an electrical short, according to Central Fire Department

The fire in the onestory home of Mrs. James McAffe apparently started in a bed and spread to a bedroom wall. However, the seven firefighters contained the single-alarm blaze in less than 30 minutes.

Another fire occurred shortly after 3:30 p.m. Monday on County Road 1216S. Insulation wire apparently started the blaze which spread to grass and trash in the area. Firefighters controlled the fire in about 25 minutes.

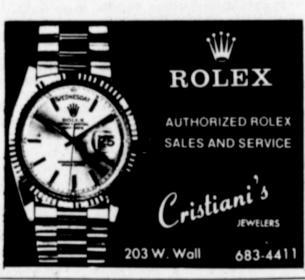

Two automobile fires Monday evening kept firefighters busy. In the 2800 block of N. Midland Drive around 7 p.m., Terah Harris, 415 E. Pecan Ave., watched his 1972 Opel become engulfed in smoke. Reports land firefighters battled indicate the fire began as a backfire through its carberator. The car wiring was heavily damaged, according to reports.

A second car fire around 10 p.m. occurred on Highway 80 about a half mile west of OIME. Assisted by the Odessa Fire Department, Mid-

In other matters, the fire departments transported persons to Midland Memorial Hospital on six medical calls and responded to two major accident calls, transporting individuals in each accident to MMH.

Anderson's name will be on ballot

By LEE JONES Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Independent presidential candidate John Anderson and the little-known Libertarian Party met Texas' deadline Monday for submitting petitions for places on the Texas ballot.

But the Citizens Party, whose presidential candidate is Barry Commoner, didn't make it, announcing it could gather only 15,000 of the 23,698 signatures needed to put a third party slate before the voters.

Anderson's Texas supporters presented Secretary of State George Strake petitions bearing 80,057 signatures - but about 20,000 will be eliminated because they are unaccompanied by voter registration num-

As an independent, Anderson needed 41,719 signatures, almost twice as many as a third party.

The Citizens Party said it might sue to wipe out Texas' tough petition requirements, and Libertarians - who paid hired help an average of 50 cents per name to collect signatures — also were unhappy about it.

Libertarians, led by presidential candidate Ed Clark, turned in petitions they said contained 60,000 signatures, far more than they needed.

Anderson's Texas chairman, Houston lawyer Sam Guiberson, brought his candidate's petitions in the red and white "Vanderson" used in the that petitions met Texas' requirements but said he would try to finish validating them sooner than that. He said his staff would pull a 1 percent sample and make sure voter registration numbers were correct and also verify that signers did not vote in the Republican presidential primary.

Strake has interpreted state law as prohibiting persons who voted in the GOP primary — but not Democratic primary voters - from signing Anderson petitions. Attorney General Mark White says Democratic voters also were barred from signing.

Democrats are expected to sue to block Strake's certification of Anderson, whose candidacy is expected to drain away Texas votes from President Carter but have little effect on Ronald Reagan.

Anderson might face another legal hurdle if he is certified for the Texas. ballot. He has not chosen a running mate but had to list one on his Texas application, so Milton S. Eisenhower Ike's brother — was listed. Guiberson said Texas courts have not ruled on whether independent presidential candidates may change running mates.

Strake, a Republican, had some kind words for Anderson's petition campaign. "It was an important indication that Texans feel they not only have the right to vote but can petition to get their man on the ballot," Strake

Kennedy warns against U.S. turn to 'Reaganism'

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the Republican Party ready to nominate Ronald Reagan for president, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is offering a grim prediction of what four years of 'Reaganism" would mean for the country

"You know the Reagan philosophy," the Massachusetts senator told the International Union of Police Associations on Monday.

With great fervor and few specifics, Reaganism promises to turn out the lights in Washington, roll back the federal budget and wind down the federal government.'

Kennedy, still hoping for a miracle that will make him the Democratic presidential nominee, coupled his blast at Reagan with his standard warning that his own party must offer a real alternative if they expect to retain the White House this fall.

"In 1980, we must not bend to the wind of Reaganism - or sail in Reagan's wake. For then we will surely finish behind in the race this fall," said Kennedy, who flew to Washington from his home on Cape Cod to deliver the speech, and flew back again immediately afterwards.

The speech was in keeping with Kennedy's recent pattern of campaigning as he maintains his longshot challenge to the president. The Massachusetts senator has spent much of the last several weeks on Cape Cod, surfacing every couple of days for a speech, designed to keep his name and his candidacy before the public. Carter, formerly a chief target of Kennedy's campaign rhetoric, was not mentioned by name in the address to the police association.

Instead, Reagan and the convention nominating him for president were the new villians.

"We will hear flights of oratory at the Republican Convention assailing the federal budget," Kennedy declared. "But if they ever get their platform off the ground, its planks will come crashing down on you and other hard-working, middle-income

Americans." "Their orators will proclaim that we can spend billions more on overkill and pay for it by slashing billions from essential domestic goals," he said. "Will they make deeper cuts in revenue sharing and aid to states and cities? Will they take it out of health

Stop the profiteers

The tragedy that unfolded over the July Fourth weekend and the week following in an Arizona desert points up the need for action on the problem of illegal entry to the United States.

JAMES N. ALLISON (1902-1975)

It has now been determined that at least 13 Salvadorans died in the scorching sand of Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument desert while making their way toward Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Details of the deaths of the Salvadorans were horrifying. Responsibility for the deaths of the victims, it seems, lies with the "coyotes," the men who profit by illegally smuggling foreigners to this nation.

Key to judging candidates: character — not experience

A friend of mine suggested recently that if I were writing a technical manual on the operation of a tractor I'd find a way to slip in a few words of criticism of President Jimmy

He's probably right, not that I dislike our commander in chief personally, but he is, for sure, the worst president in the history of the repub-

At least I am consistent. Way back in 1976 when my big city journalistic cousins were writing profound analyses about the new kid on the political block, I warned my readers that James Earl was a liar, a liberal and an opportunist. If anything, I understated my case.

There is a simple key to understanding politicians that a lot of famous and well-paid folks have yet to find. That key is to realize that the oath of office is not a magical incantation that can transform a saint into a scoundrel or a scoundrel into an angel.

Winning a political race does not alter the candidate. Whatever he was before the vote was counted, he remains after the inauguration. I suppose some people are fooled by campaigns. In a campaign, everything a candidate does and says has been pre-calculated to give a predetermined impression. This premeditated deception works because most journalists are lazy.

I was able to predict accurately Jimmy Carter's performance as president because I went to the trouble of locating people who knew him before he became a presidential candidate. He has done as president exactly what he did as governor and as a state senator and as a small businessman.

Jimmy Carter was never the poor boy his campaign fiction portrayed. He was, by the standards of Plains, Ga., the town's rich kid the other boys beat up. Even in 1976, when he was cooking fish and playing softball for the benefit of network television reporters, he had a net worth nearly two times larger than Jerry Ford's and regularly socialized with the likes of David Rockefeller.

The campaign image created for Jimmy Carter was a deliberate deception of the American people. Carter has always been a person who would brazenly say anything which would help him achieve his goal with no regard for the truth. He is energetic, disciplined and ruthless but he is not compassionate, he is not courageous, he is not honest, nor is he well-intentioned.

That is important to understand because the 1980 image being constructed for his re-election campaign is of a kind, honest well-intentioned man whose problems were the result of his inexperience. A campaign image is a carefully constructed argument. They are saying his mistakes were due only to inexperience. He has gained experience. His expected opponent, Ronald Reagan, has no expe-

If you analyze Carter's mistakes, you will see for yourself that they do not result from inexperience, but from his character. Lies, vacillation, demagoguery, concessions to the Soviets, decisions to cancel or delay defense weapons systems are not mistakes of inexperience.

The mortal conflict betwee United States and the Soviet Union has been the single most important task of every president since 1945. Carter has handled our end of that conflict disastrously. The point is nobody who aspires to be president can honestly claim ignorance of the nature of that conflict or of the nature of the Soviet Union after three decades of it dominating not only our government but our private lives as well.

Yet Carter and his image-makers would have you believe that he just didn't know how bad they were until Afghanistan. If a majority of American voters buy that baloney, than after 204 years we will know at last that Hamilton was right and Jefferson was wrong. People are too dumb to govern themselves.

It is to be noted that Creation was done systematically, which brings up the old question, "which came first the egg or the hen?" That we shall never know! Creatures came last, but which was first: they air they breathed or the food they ate? Genesis 1:8-11.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Reagan advisers have questionable ties

DETROIT - As evidence of his well-heralded gift for picking expert advisers, Ronald Reagan has chosen an erstwhile publicist for former Portuguese colonial interests - a registered foreign agent - as his chief foreign policy aide.

Two others on the Reagan foreign policy team are current or former registered agents representing Israel. Two more Reagan campaign aides have been identified as agents for the Taiwanese government.

Reagan's top foreign policy mentor, Richard V. Allen, was briefly a member of Richard Nixon's National Security Council. He fostered the impression that he was a Ph.D., and liked to be called "Dr. Allen." When it turned out that his doctoral thesis for the University of Munich had not yet been accepted, he reluctantly took a downgrading to just plain "Mr. Allen."

Allen abruptly departed the National Security Council in 1969, sources told my reporters Lucette Lagnado and Joe Spear, because of a personality conflict with Dr. Henry Kissinger (a genuine Ph.D.). Allen was later accused of having pressured the Grumman Corp. for contributions to Nixon's 1972 campaign, a charge he denied when called before a congressional subcommittee. Allen's Portuguese connection began in 1973 when he registered as a foreign agent for a trade association known as the Overseas Companies of Portugal. This was a consortium of major Portuguese companies with major investments in the then colonies of Angola and Mozambique. The consortium paid Allen $60,000 a year to promote its interests. The companies hoped to persuade Americans - or at least Congress - to support the Portuguese dictatorship's determination to hold onto its increasingly restive African colonies. One of Allen's projects was a "foreign visitors program," which netted, among others, Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill., and his wife, who took a trip to Portugal, Angola and Mozambique in 1974.

Allen's efforts were in vain. The dictatorship collapsed in 1974 and the Portuguese empire crumbled, as did the business consortium that had propped it up.

The other former or current foreign agents in the Reagan camp are Uri Ra'anan, who represented Israel in the United States from 1959 to 1964; Rita Hauser, a New York attorney who is still a registered agent for Bank Hapoalim of Israel; Michael Deaver and Peter Hannaford, who are registered agents for the govern-

Footnote: Allen confirmed that he was an agent for the Portuguese consortium and he was not a Ph.D. saying "I can't help what people call me." Ra'anan said he wasn't really a foreign agent, because at the time he was a diplomat and an Israeli citizen. Hauser, Deaver and Hannaford confirmed their status as foreign agents.

sis to face Jimmy Carter - the Tehran hostage situation - until the hostages are freed. Monday-morning quaterbacking would be a disservice, he feels. In general, Ford, knowing what a backbreaking job the presidency is, has been reluctant to criticize Carter's handling of the office. In addition, he and Carter have established a cordial relationship, though they meet infrequently. But from those who are privy to Ford's thinking, I have pieced together a "What if?" list of the ways he

- Foreign policy: Ford blames much of Carter's trouble on the president's vacillation and confusion, his failure to act decisively as Ford himself did in the Mayaguez incident. Firmness and quick action, he feels, should have been shown on the Soviet brigade in Cuba, the Iranian crisis and the Afghanistan invasion.

- Economy: Ford would not have chosen an anti-inflation course based on creating unemployment, and would have cracked down on foreign imports that cost American jobs.

- Politics: Ford finds especially distasteful Carter's habit of milking every situation for political advantage. He would not have linked the hostage crisis to the campaign with a "Rose Garden" strategy, and would never have sniped at Cyrus Vance publicly.

- Congress: Ford deplores Carter's bungled relations with Capitol Hill, citing in particular the polarization over the Panama Canal treaties, which he feels he could have

GAME PLAN: Here's how John Anderson hopes to win — that's right, win - in November: He will choose a prominent Democrat to join him on the independent ticket. Heading Anderson's list are two

New Yorkers, Gov. Hugh Carey and Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan. If he can't persuade either of them to bolt the party temporarily, he may try Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado or retiring Sen. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

If Anderson succeeds in netting a Democratic running-mate, he'll campaign on a unity ticket, promising to appoint members of both parties to his Cabinet. This strategy; Anderson feels, will counter the criticism that he's destroying the two-party system.

BIBLE VERSE

And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains. Rev. 6; 14,15.

Negative tone of GOP platform blamed on tradition

Tower proved a strong committee Novak chairman, keeping much tighter control of the platform process than Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa did in 1976. But Tower stubbornly rejected pleas by Dr. Martin Anderson, Ronald Reagan's top agent on the platform, had several subcommittee chairmen to agreed to one compromise that came make public the platform's early close to endorsing ERA without actually taking that step. But conservadrafts. They always had been kept secret in the past, and Tower (whose service on Platform Committees tives on the committee would have no

Nevertheless, Reaganites claim the hand of the Anderson campaign was felt inside the Platform Committee. They charge that the women's rights lobbyists who work up the atmosphere to make a fight unavoidable intended to keep the issue hot in De-troit in order to hurt Reagan and help Anderson.

A footnote: President Carter's oneday visit to Detroit inadvertently eclipsed publicity about ERA and abortion. But once the president left Detroit, the bad news returned to front pages.

KEMP VS. HELMS

Efforts by Rep. Jack Kemp of New York to use the Platform Committee proceedings as a booster for his vice presidential prospects got some unintended help from an unusual source: Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina.

Actually, friends of Helms were still pursuing his long shot campaign for vice president. Tom Ellis, Helms' closest political adviser and campaign manager, had long planned to bring a minority platform report to the convention floor as a vehicle to publicize Helms. To this end, Helms clashed with Kemp inside the Platcampaign to show he is no far-out conservative. Kemp consistently took the moderate position against Helms, for example favoring free trade over protection. "It's easy to come over as a moderate when you have Jesse to your right," one Kemp insider said.

GOP VS LABOR

Rep. Jack Kemp only partially succeeded in his backstage efforts to keep the Republican platform free from its usual labor-baiting.

Seeking to "put behind us any tendency to emphasize our differences with labor." Kemp privately submitted a revised labor plank to the Plat-form Committee. Some of what he proposed was adopted, but he failed to remove the usual reaffirmation of the Taft-Hartley law's section 14(b), which permits state "right-to-work"

However, conservatives who wanted the platform to endorse a national "right-to-work" law (banning compulsory unionism) also failed. Reagan aides talked them out of submitting the amendment, which would have spawned an epidemic of laborbaiting in the committee,

WANT ADS reduce selling costs, boost selling power. 682-6222 Majority interest in 12th largest bank to be sold

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Majority interest in Crocker National Bank, the nation's 12th largest, will be sold to a British bank, a Crocker official

Ward Stevenson, Crocker's senior vice president, said final arrangements for the sale were reached late Monday between officials of Crocker National Corp., the bank's holding company, and Midland Bank Ltd. of London, England's third largest bank with assets of $47 billion. Under the agreement, Midl and would acquire 51 percent of Crocker's stock by buying $495 million in new common stock from Crocker, or 31/2 million shares at $90, and tendering another 61/2 million in existing shares at book value, subject to approval by both banks boards and stockl solders and U.S. banking authorities.

Midland will pay no more than $50 a share for the 6½ million existing comm on shares, Stevenson

The bank sale will not be c ompleted until after the tender offer is made, which could take as long as 12-15 months, he said. Crocker, California's fourth largest bank, has assets totaling $16.9 billion and 370 branches in "The significant thing is that we get the proceeds of 31/2 million shares right off the bat, as soon as the existing stock is tendered," Stevenson said. "The key is the infusion of capit al to Crocker.'

The New York Stock Existange suspended trading of the San Francisco-base d bank holding company's stock Monday after Crocker officials said they would have an announcement. Rumors were widespread that a European bank had purchased more than half the stock. Midland was among several poteritial buyers. Others included Dresden Bank of Germany, the world's eighth largest bank, and the Deutsche Bank of Ger-

Last week, Crocker's stock traded heavily, closing Friday at 36%, up 3%, on a volume of 146,000 shares. At one point, it traded for a 52-week high of 36%.

Federal grand jury investigating bank BALTIMORE (Al?) - A federal grand jury is investigating the National Bank of Washington and alleged interference in its affairs by the United Mine Workers, the Baltin nore Sun reported today. Subpoenas were issued last week for numerous bank records of loans and other internal transactions, sources told the newspaper. An unidentified, spokesman for the capital's third largest bank confirmed that NBW had received a subpoena from the U.S. attorney's office in Washington, the Sun reported. "Counsel has been instructed to co-operate with the authorities," the spokesman said, adding that the bank would have no comment at this time. "As far as I know, the union is not aware if it (the subpoena)," sai d Eldon Callen, a spokesman for the

Sources said the investigation centers on question able practices that include the issuance of millions of dollars of loams allegedly made under the influence of the coal miners union, which owns three-quarters of the bank's stock, the Sun said. The bank is already under scrutiny by federal and internal examiners

A team of federal bank examiners is finishing an investigation of the bank's practices for the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, which regulates national banks.

The N'B'W also is in the midst of an internal investigation, prompted by its discovery that Ronald Nathan, its general counsel who helped in the election of current union leaders, allegedly had failed to disclose his investment in a gas well venture to which the bank had loaned money.

The internal inquiry, directed by a committee of the barnk's board and staffed by lawyers from a Washington firm, began last spring. The lawyers have interviewed dozens of bank officials, former bank officials, union officers, NBW customers and gove rnment officials.

He is my brother

We who have been made holy by Jesus, now have the same Father He has. That is why Jesus is not ashamed to call

For He says in the book of Psalms, "I will talk to My brothers about God My Father, and together we will sing His praises."

At another time He said, "I will put My trust in God along with My brothers." And at still another time, "See, here am I and the children God gave Me."

Since we, God's children, are human beings-made of flesh and blood-He became flesh and blood too by being born in human form; for only as a human being could He die and in dying break the power of the devil who had the power of death.

Only in that way could He deliver those who through fear of death have been living all their lives as slaves to constant dread

We all know He did not come as an angel but as a human being-yes, a Jew.

And it was necessary for Jesus to be like us, His brothers, so that He could be our merciful and faithful High Priest before God, a Priest who would be both merciful to us and faithful to God in dealing with the sins of the people.

For since He Himself has now been through suffering and temptation, He knows what it is like when we suffer and are tempted, and He is wonderfully able to help us.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Gun control linked to suicide rate

Dear Dr. Solomon: A few weeks ago we heard the shocking news that a friend of ours had committed suicide by shooting himself. Dr. David Lester of the Stockton State College, Pomona, New Jersey, and Ms. Mary Murrell of the University of Pennsylvania, studied the relationship between a state's gun control laws and its suicide rates. ### Three-day jazz festival returns to Newport

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) - Festival Field is long gone, but promoters of a major three-day jazz festival this weekend hope to revive the spirit of the fabled Newport jazz and folk concerts of the 1960s.

"It's time to get people to start thinking every summer about jazz in Newport again," said Paul Bilsky, vice president of Banzini Brothers, the festival promoter.

"The second we heard that Rhody Productions didn't have a site for their Newport festival, we started calling every jazz agent in the world. It wasn't too hard to get them to agree to a date in Newport.'

The original Newport Jazz promoter, George WESTWOOD Wein, took his operation — and the legal right to the name - to New York in 1971 after disturbances marred several of the annual summer concerts. When the field where the concerts had been held became part of the Newport Bridge area, promoters seeking to revive the jazz shows met mixed success at other sites in town.

This year the Banzinis have scheduled evening concerts from Friday through Sunday at the 8,500seat Fort Adams State Park, located across Newport harbor from the downtown.

quarter of a million dollars from Libya, Billy Carter, brother of the president of the United States, is officially a foreign agent for the radical Arab government

By signing a consent order agreeing to register Monday, President Carter's outspoken younger brother resolved a civil suit by the Justice Department and avoided any legal penalties or fines.

While denying any wrongdoing, he revealed that he has received $220,000 from Libya as partial payment on a $500,000 loan he said he requested in return for his services during the past two years.

The registration statement said Billy Carter isn't currently involved in any activities on behalf of Libya and has none under consideration.

In a complaint filed in U.S. District Court, the government said Billy Carter "undertook a propaganda campaign" for Libya in this country and acted in a variety of ways "to promote Libyan foreign policy objectives."

The younger Carter was unavailable for comment Monday, and White House officials said President Carter would have no comment.

At the Republican National Convention in Detroit,

DEATHS

Thomas Lawson

Thomas Michael Lawson, 19, of 1401 Community Lane, died Monday morning in an Odessa hospital following a 35 foot-fall from a drilling rig.

Services will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church with Dr. Daniel Vestal officiating. Burial will follow in Midland.

Lawson was born April 12, 1961, in Denver, Colo. He moved to Midland in 1975 from Tulsa, Okla., and graduated from Midland High School in 1979. A sophomore student at Baylor University, he was working during the summer with OIME. He was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T.M. Lawson of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Ben Blalock of Waco, and Kelly Lynn Lawson of Houston; and a grandfather, Glenn O. Young of Sapulpa, Okla.

Memorials are requested to be directed to the First Baptist Church, or the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, or the New Life Ranch in Siloam Springs, Ark.

Shah's health has taken sudden turn for worse

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's health has taken a sudden turn for the worse, a leading Egyptian newspaper said today. Spokesmen for the exiled Iranian monarch disputed part of the account, but one acknowledged that a 'serious" situation could develop.

The new problem is an infection in Pahlavi's left leg, the spokesman

The semi-official Al Ahram newspaper said his "temperature rose suddenly" Monday night and reached 102.2 degrees Fahrenheit, indicating "there may be another abscess" like the infection that forced his hospitalization and subsequent surgery last

Mark Morse, a spokesman here for the ex-monarch, told The Associated Press today that he had just spoken to Pahlavi's physicians and they said his temperatures had not gone higher than 100.4 degrees.

Morse said the doctors told him

Tension brewing behind GOP '

solidarity, a winter of discontent - or at least a few icy showers - may be brewing for the Republi-

Not that the Grand Old Party is about to be fractured. But a series of issues - from women's rights to farm prices - are causing tensions and strains in what is being touted as a unified Republican convention. Conservatives are unhappy with the platform's stance on relations with China and are warily watching Henry Kissinger as the former Secretary of State sidles up to Ronald Reagan at a meeting today.

Moderates and Liberals are irate about deletion of support for the Equal Rights Amendment and the anti-abortion plank. Some farmers are disappointed that the platform does not support parity — a concept Reagan once admitted he didn't understand. Anti-nuclear energy backers are upset over the pro-nuclear stance taken by the platform committee. And both conservatives and moderates are nervously awaiting the decision by Reagan, due to be formally anointed as the Republican standard-bearer Wednesday night, on whether his running mate will be a philosophically compatible conservative or a party-broadening moderate.

In addition, Republicans associated with the liberal wing once commanded by the late Nelson Rockefeller are uncomfortable at a convention dominated by conservatives. And supporters of Rep. John B. Anderson, who abandoned his Republican bid to seek the presidency as an independent, are acutely aware of their persona non grata status.

But even delegates most disenchanted with the platform soon to be adopted by the Republican National Convention say they'd rather be a little chilly toward Reagan and his ideas than frozen out for four more years by Jimmy Carter.

So, despite the undercurrents of tension, the Republican convention is likely to emerge as a model of solidarity when compared to the upcoming show by Democrats fractured by the challenge to President Carter by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachu-

Led by party stalwarts such as Senate Minority Whip Ted Stevens of Alaska, Sen. Charles Mathias of Maryland, and and Reps. William Sedgwick Green, Margaret Heckler and Pete McCloskey, about 11,000 advocates of the ERA marched in protest of that stand Monday.

And some ERA supporters say they will attempt to line up enough support to bring the issue to the floor Tuesday, although they concede their chances are from the Republican Party's historic commitment to the rights of women and minorities.

But the anti-abortion plank, which says only persons opposed to abortion should be appointed as federal judges, also is stirring up some dissent. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., Monday called that stance 'the worst plank I have ever seen in any platform in the Republican Party."

The Connecticut delegation voted Sunday to back an effort to overturn the anti-abortion plank.

Conservatives, who have been jockeying for months for position to influence Reagan's choice of a running mate, have stepped up the intensity of their campaign. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a leader of the conservative forces, announced Monday he will run as a candidate for that position - a move that could put new pressure on Reagan to accept a conservative other conservatives say no orchestrated attempt to running mate.

DETROIT (AP) — Behind the summer show of slim. The Ripon Society, a group of moderate Re-olidarity, a winter of discontent — or at least a few publicans, called the platform a "shocking retreat American Conservative Union, says conservatives will support Helms if Reagan selects a moderate as his running mate — and particularly if Reagan selects Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., for the post.

Bauman says he could accept George Bush, the former United Nations ambassador and a one-time presidential contender, for the post. But other conservatives say they would oppose Bush. And some groups such as the Conservative Caucus oppose even the most-often-mentioned compromise candidate. Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind.

Conservatives also are closely watching attempts by Henry Kissinger to play a role in the formulation of foreign policy. One conservative operative suggested reporters watch for a "spontaneous outbreak" of booing when Kissinger is introduced for his speech to the convention Tuesday night. But

Thomas Lawson

Thomas Michael Lawson, 19, of 1401 Community Lane, died Monday morning in an Odessa hospital following a 35 foot-fall from a drilling rig.

Services will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church with Dr. Daniel Vestal officiating. Burial will follow in Midland.

Lawson was born April 12, 1961, in Denver, Colo. He moved to Midland in 1975 from Tulsa, Okla., and graduated from Midland High School in 1979. A sophomore student at Baylor University, he was working during the summer with OIME. He was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T.M. Lawson of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Ben Blalock of Waco, and Kelly Lynn Lawson of Houston; and a grandfather, Glenn O. Young of Sapulpa, Okla.

Memorials are requested to be directed to the First Baptist Church, or the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, or the New Life Ranch in Siloam

Shah's health has taken sudden turn for worse

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's health has taken a sudden turn for the worse, a leading Egyptian newspaper said today. Spokesmen for the exiled Iranian monarch disputed part of the account, but one acknowledged that a "serious" situation could develop. The new problem is an infection in Pahlavi's left leg, the spokesman

The semi-official Al Ahram newspaper said his "temperature rose suddenly" Monday night and reached 102.2 degrees Fahrenheit, indicating "there may be another abscess" like the infection that forced his hospitalization and subsequent surgery last

Mark Morse, a spokesman here for the ex-monarch, told The Associated Press today that he had just spoken to Pahlavi's physicians and they said his temperatures had not gone higher than 100.4 degrees. Morse said the doctors told him they had taken a blood sample from Pahlavi's leg in a routine test and that the area had become inflamed.

"I don't want to get into the medical business, but I understand it is possibly a borderline abscess," Morse said, adding that a decision on whether to lance the inflammed area if it develops into an abscess might have to be made in "a day or two.

In New York, another spokesman for Pahlavi, Robert Armao, said in a television interview he had been in touch with Egypt by telephone and 'by normal standards, the doctors tell me, it is not very serious, but in the shah's condition, his weakened condition, it could be a serious mat-

Asked whether the doctors were concerned for Pahlavi's life, Armao said, "At this point, no.

Al Ahram said Pahlavi's condition was "delicate. It's not a desperate situation, but the doctors are anxious and are taking all precautions.

Tension brewing behind Go

icy showers - may be brewing for the Republi-

Not that the Grand Old Party is about to be fractured. But a series of issues - from women's rights to farm prices - are causing tensions and strains in what is being touted as a unified Republican convention. Conservatives are unhappy with the platform's stance on relations with China and are warily watching Henry Kissinger as the former Secretary of State sidles up to Ronald Reagan at a meeting today.

Moderates and Liberals are irate about deletion of support for the Equal Rights Amendment and the anti-abortion plank.

Some farmers are disappointed that the platform backers are upset over the pro-nuclear stance taken by the platform committee.

And both conservatives and moderates are nervously awaiting the decision by Reagan, due to be formally anointed as the Republican standard-bearer Wednesday night, on whether his running mate will be a philosophically compatible conservative or a party-broadening moderate.

In addition, Republicans associated with the liberal wing once commanded by the late Nelson Rockefeller are uncomfortable at a convention dominated by conservatives. And supporters of Rep. John B. Anderson, who abandoned his Republican bid to seek the presidency as an independent, are acutely aware of their persona non grata status.

But even delegates most disenchanted with the platform soon to be adopted by the Republican National Convention say they'd rather be a little chilly toward Reagan and his ideas than frozen out for four more years by Jimmy Carter.

So, despite the undercurrents of tension, the Republican convention is likely to emerge as a model of solidarity when compared to the upcoming show by Democrats fractured by the challenge to President Carter by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachu-

The GOP platform plank on ERA, a stance that rescinded 40 years of backing for the proposed Constitutional amendment to guarantee that women have rights paralleling those of men, has emerged as play in every game, YMCA spokesmen said. the most controversial issue in this relatively uncontroversial convention.

Led by party stalwarts such as Senate Minority Whip Ted Stevens of Alaska, Sen. Charles Mathias of Maryland, and and Reps. William Sedgwick Green, Margaret Heckler and Pete McCloskey, about 11,000 advocates of the ERA marched in protest of that stand Monday.

And some ERA supporters say they will attempt to line up enough support to bring the issue to the floor Tuesday, although they concede their chances are from the Republican Party's historic commitment to the rights of women and minorities.

But the anti-abortion plank, which says only persons opposed to abortion should be appointed as federal judges, also is stirring up some dissent. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., Monday called that stance the worst plank I have ever seen in any platform in the Republican Party.'

The Connecticut delegation voted Sunday to back an effort to overturn the anti-abortion plank.

Conservatives, who have been jockeying for months for position to influence Reagan's choice of a running mate, have stepped up the intensity of their campaign. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a leader of the conservative forces, announced Monday he will run

Howard Baker, R-Tenn., for the post.

Bauman says he could accept George Bush, the former United Nations ambassador and a one-time presidential contender, for the post. But other conservatives say they would oppose Bush. And some groups such as the Conservative Caucus oppose even the most-often-mentioned compromise candidate, Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind.

Conservatives also are closely watching attempts by Henry Kissinger to play a role in the formulation foreign policy. One conservative operative suggested reporters watch for a "spontaneous outbreak" of booing when Kissinger is introduced for does not support parity — a concept Reagan once as a candidate for that position — a move that could his speech to the convention Tuesday night. But admitted he didn't understand. Anti-nuclear energy put new pressure on Reagan to accept a conservative other conservatives say no orchestrated attempt to embarrass Kissinger is likely.

Thousands believed killed or wounded in Soviet attacks

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Many thousands of Afghan villagers and guerrillas are believed to have been killed or wounded in retaliatory Soviet air and ground attacks on 50 to 60 villages around Kabul in the past two weeks, a diplomatic source reports.

He said one village in the Ghazni area, about 90 miles southwest of Kabul, was flattened by a Soviet air and ground attack and "60 insurgents were killed or wounded and 1,000 villagers were killed or wound-

He said on July 1 the Soviets attacked the village of Aab Darrah in Kabul Province with helicopter gunships, infantry and armor, leaving 26 civilians and 12 rebels killed or wounded.

On July 4, he said, Soviet MiGs and troops attacked other villages in Kabul Province, including Gorbut, Lalandar, Tange-e-Shayedan, Goldiei, Farzar, Tup-Darrah and Shanhadarra, and the attacks are con-

The source also said there has been a marked increase in Soviet air traffic into Kabul in the last four days, with as many as a dozen Russian transports landing daily during daylight hours in addition to the continuing nightly supply flights.

The source, an Afghan area specialist with close contacts in the Afghan capital, said Monday he estimated the casualty toll in the Afghan villages in the thousands because reports of the attacks came "so frequently and regularly."

There was no independent confirmation or estimate of casualties among the Soviets, who poured some 80,000 troops into Afghanistan seven months ago to battle Moslem rebels opposed to the commu-

WILL THE NEXT MODEL-ING SUPERSTAR come from

Some call it 'the chance of a lifetime.' Others say it's a real life 'search for Cinderella.' "But whatever you call it, you've got to say it's exciting," says June Sparks, Merle Norman studio owner from Midland. "It's an opportunity for some young woman to step into the shoes of Suzy Parker, Lauren Hutton and Farah Fawcett."

A worldwide search for a young woman whose face most typifies the beauty and fashion "Face of the 80's" was recently launched by Merle Norman Cosmetics and Ford Models Inc. The "search," which begins in the United States and will end in Monaco in September, is expected to uncover scores of beautiful young women.

A two-year Ford Model agency contract, valued at $50,000, goes to the young woman a jury of fashion experts identifies as having the "Face of the 80's." Eileen Ford, who has been picking faces for her agency for years, says the women she's looking for will have "wide-set eyes, a straight nose, nice full mouth, definite chin and a very long neck. She'll also have knees that are high up from the ground and a slender, very exercised body." The search is open to all women from the ages of 16 to 21, married or single, who have or have not had professional modeling experience.

To enter the U.S. search, applications can be picked up at the Merle Norman Studio in Midland. The deadline for submitting applications is July

Two MHS classes join for reunion

The Midland High School Classes of 1954 and 1955 will hold a joint reunion

Registration will be held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Aug. 2 at the Midland Youth Center. Activities will shift to the Midland Country Club for a social hour at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and then to country 'n' Western dancing.

Those wishing additional information on the reunion may telephone Lavonne Bell Johnson, Class of '54, at 694-8687 or 694-3688

Ann Beauchamp Hicks, Class of '55, is chairman of the reunion committee. Others on the committee are Larry Clark, Class of '55; Tommy Johnson, Class of '55, and Ms. Hicks, Class of '55.

From the looks of the four laughing ex-students of Midland High School, the 1950s apparently afford happy-days memories. Finalizing plans for the Aug. 2 reunion of MHS Classes of 1954 and 1955 from

Heat wave still blanketing South

By C.W. MIRANKER Associated Press Writer

As the skyrocketing death toll topped 600 in the nation's three-weekold heat wave, police in Atlanta blared warnings over loudspeakers urging people to leave home for cool shelters and an army of Red Cross volunteers in Kansas City delivered fans to the poor and elderly languishing in Missouri's deadly heat.

Missouri's governor placed the National Guard on alert and declared a state of emergency Monday as the state's heat-related deaths mounted to 131

"Missourians are suffering and dying," said Gov. Joseph Teasdale, who is seeking $5 million to $8 million in federal aid to provide fans for the poor and old.

Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton also declared a state of emergency as hundreds of miles of highway buckled and melted and farmers assessed cattle and crop losses in the millions of dollars. He has requested $11.7 million in federal aid for the highway in Arkansas, and in an unusual weekend accident, a Little Rock girl was burned when she was sprayed with water from an outdoor hose that had been in the sunlight, doctors said. The death toll in 16 states that have sweltered in unrelenting heat stood at 614 Tuesday, according to an unofficial count by The Associated Press.

Heat and drought have killed millions of chickens in Arkansas and Florida, where citrus crops also are showing signs of stress. In West Texas, cattlemen are selling herds early as pastureland bakes. And without rain, the Illinois corn crop may be stunted, agronomists say.

As the mercury in Kansas City reached 109 degrees Monday - above 100 for the 13th time in 15 days - Al Cohn, a 25-year Red Cross veteran, and his partner, Larry Widener, drove door-to-door delivering fans.

"We've been in some houses that are so hot that I just can't believe people are staying there," Cohn said. 'They're sealed up. Their windows and doors are shut. Old people don't want to leave their homes, their cats and dogs. And they're afraid someone will break in. They just don't want to leave and you can't force them.

Since the distribution program began Friday, about 1,000 electric fans have been donated to the Red Cross and Salvation Army and some 300 have been delivered.

One Missourian who got a fan Monday was Willie Haney, a 72-year-old widow who lives alone with her dog and keeps her windows shut for fear of burglars. "I've never had heat like this before in my life," she said.

Another fan went to Ernestine Serell, who lives in a small frame house with her 15-month-old son, her mother and four brothers and sis-

Her baby has "been breaking out with heat bumps," Mrs. Serell said, and everyone in the family "has been getting sick and throwing up" because of the heat.

In Georgia, where 45 people have died in the heat, officials declared a state of emergency in Macon, Floyd County and Valdosta, where the temperature was 108 degrees Monday.

"I have never seen it so hot before in my life," said Moudie James as she lay on a stretcher at the Macon Coliseum, where some 150 people sought refuge from the heat. "I didn't have no way to keep cool. My fan had done run hot. It wasn't putting out anything but hot smoke. I'll celebrate my 72nd birthday this Thursday, the good Lord

Woman to be tried on charge of conspiring to kill witness

TITUSVILLE, Fla. feared for her safety.

AP) — Priscilla Brad- The couple continued liv-(AP) - Priscilla Bradford, accused with two other women of killing her husband with a frying pan, was going to court today to face ous domestic charges of plotting to kill a prosecution witness.

Jury selection was scheduled in Brevard County Circuit Court for the trial of Mrs. Bradford, 36, on charges of conspiracy to murder and solicitation to murder. Janice Gould, 34, and Joyce Cummings, 18, are to be tried separately on the same charges. The three women have pleaded innocent to all charges.

The three also are charged with first-degree murder in the March 28 death of Dr. John Bradford, 53. The optometrist owned an optical laboratory in nearby Melbourne, where the defendants worked. Prosecutors say the conspiracy charges stem from an alleged scheme the women concocted in jail to arrange the slaying of Tracy Smith, 21, a fellow employee and key state witness.

Ursula Mattox, 32, was serving time for writing bad checks when the three women were locked up at the Brevard County Jail. Miss Mattox said they approached her about hiring someone to kill Ms. Smith.

Police said they later recovered instructions, allegedly written by Mrs. Bradford, for paying a hit man. On May 15, police say they watched the mothers of two of the defendants drop off $2,-000, according to instructions, at a local restaurant. Neither mother was charged.

Mrs. Bradford had filed for divorce on Feb. 15, after four years of marriage, saying she ing and working together, but Melbourne police records show numerdisturbance calls from their home. On the day of the slaying, Bradford's countersuit for divorce arrived at the Brevard County Courthouse Mrs. Bradford "had attacked, hit and beaten and threatened to kill respondent (Bradford)," it stated. "Respondent is in fear of his life." Police said that on March 28, the doctor was beaten in his kitchen with a 12-inch cast-iron skillet, two apothecary jars, a bar stool and an antique cast-iron bottle capper — a device for capping home brew. The bottom of the skillet had popped out and split into seven pieces when officers found it.

Depositions allege that the slaying was wit-nessed by Mrs. Bradford's 14-year-old daughter, Eden. The girl told prosecutors that at one point, her mother allegedly handed her the bottle-capper and said, "Keep hitting him! Anywhere!" Bradford was struck 15 times and his jaw broken twice, said pathologist Dr. James B. Adamson, and died of asphyxiation after his tongue blocked his airway.

Miss Gould and Miss Cummings, who had been swimming in the Bradfords' pool, said they acted in self-defense with Mrs. Bradford after Bradford allegedly grabbed the bottle capper and said he was going to kill his wife.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Actress Barbara Stanwyck, who shares your birthday, is known for both guarding her privacy and responding with great sensitivity to the needs of her friends. Be alert to new career, business opportunities and you can more than just cope with a rocky economy. Relatives will rally around in times of joy as well as stress, and there could be great excitement within the family circle as the result of certain romantic developments. Stick close to home around the winter holidays and work harder at developing your artistic talents.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Decisive action pays off. Higher-up is impressed by new take-charge attitude. Be careful what you say or do around sensitive loved one. Listen carefully.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tensions lessen at work and productivity increases. Express ideas as clearly, concisely as possible. A candid talk clears the air. Loved one's problems are not as simple as they may appear.

LOS ANGELES — In a move that could make it the first Arab country to own a substantial part of a large U.S. oil company, Kuwait has offered to purchase nearly 12 million common shares, or 14.6 percent, of Getty Oil Co. for $982 million, the Los Angelesbased company said Monday.

The $82-a-share offer, made through the Kuwait Investment Organization of London last Friday, would be the largest single Arab investment in a publicly held U.S. company.

The Kuwaiti government organization would become the second-largest holder of Getty stock. At present, the largest block of stock - 38.7 percent - is held by the Sarah Getty Trust Fund.

The offer was made to the estate of J. Paul Getty and is subject to the completion of a stock purchase agreement with the estate. The offer represents all of the remaining 11,970,340 outstanding shares of Getty's Getty died June 6, 1976. The Sarah Getty Trust Fund is named after his mother.

In a tersely worded statement, Sidney R. Petersen, Getty Oil's chairman and chief executive officer said: "Our preference would be to see that block of stock more widely distributed. We don't think it is in the best long-term interests of our other stockholders to keep those shares off the market."

The executors of the Getty estate, Title Insurance & Trust Co., and Ronald and Gordon Getty, met here Monday to consider the offer.

"We're still at the stage of asking a lot of questions and I HAVE NO IDEA HOW LONG IT WILL TAKE FOR US TO COME TO A DECISION," SAID William Bell, a vice president of Title Insurance Co., the parent company of Title Insurance & Trust.

Bell said that for approval of the offer, only two out of the three executors must agree to the stock purchase. "But in a decision of this magnitude I think we would want unanimous agreement," he added.

Morgan Stanley & Co., New York-based investment bankers, is representing the Getty estate and a New York law firm reportedly is representing the Kuwait organization. Morgan Stanley refused to comment on the offer.

Last April Morgan Stanley represented the Getty estate when it sold 4 million shares in a public offer-

It was unclear why Kuwait, which has a surplus of $40 billion, wanted to make the investment in Getty. Until now, most of the Arab money invested in the United States has gone into real estate.

"For an Arab country to invest in an oil company here would be like bringing coal to Newcastle," said Michael Goodwin, an international economist in the Department of Commerce's office of foreign invest-

The Kuwait organization issued a statement in London saying the government of Kuwait wanted the Getty stock "as a portfolio investment and has no present intention to acquire control of the company.

Some industry sources said that Kuwait's primary interest in Getty might reflect the company's exploration and production activities in the so-called neutral zone that runs along the border between Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Both Saudi Arabia and Kuwait enjoy equal rights to the resources in the zone, which are estimated at 6 billion barrels of crude oil reserves. At present, Getty produces 66,000 barrels of oil a day from three fields in the zone.

In the last couple of years, the OPEC countries have also begun to try to enter the refining and marketing side of the oil business.

'Kuwait is trying to build up its downstream capabilities and Getty offers the marketing and management capabilities," Ms. Goodwin said.

Getty is an integrated oil company with operations in exploration, refining and marketing in 30 states. In 1979 it earned $604 million on revenues of $5.12 billion. On news of the offer, the price of Getty stock jumped from $79.75 to $81.25 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Kuwaiti government has made other investments in the United States through the Kuwait Investment Corp., including the $7.4 million purchase in 1974 of a 10,000-acre island off the coast of South Carolina. The island is now being developed by Kuwait at a total cost of more than $600 million. The Kuwaiti corporation also has extensive real estate holdings in Atlanta.

In 1978, the investments made by OPEC countries in the United States made up only $325 million of the total foreign investment in this country of $40.8 billion. About $200 million of that OPEC investment was in real lution last year.

TUESDAY, JULY 15, 1980 MHMR to get continued funding

FORT STOCKTON - The Permian Basin Regional Quail Run Subdivision in Ector County. Planning Commission Board of Directors approved a resolution to the Department of Health of Human Resources for continued funding for the Midland Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center Friday when it met for its monthly meeting here.

Midland's MHMR is requesting $154,613 from HHR, as well as other funding including $309,818 in for second year funding of Comprehensive Commustate funds, $67,740 in local funds and $155,000 from

The Midland MHMR Center presently offers 12 basic services as required by public law 94-63: outpatient, emergency, partial care, consultation and education, children's services, services to the elderly, transitional living services, alcoholism services, drug abuse services, assistance to the courts and follow-up services.

One new program to be offered by the Midland center soon is the screening and referral of employees of area businesses. Industries in Midland will be able to contract with MHMR to screen for employee problems and refer these employees to services to January 1981 to be Kermit. The Tolbert Corporation's proposed Quail Run Subdivision for western Ector County will include 29 lots to be developed on 15 acres. The homes are to range in price from $40,000-$60,000.

The Northgate Subdivision proposed for Midland is to be located in the southeast corner of the Holiday - An application from W.H. Tolbert Corp. of Hill Road/County Road 60 intersection. The Northproval of the feasibility analysis for the proposed proved lots of the 79-acre area. An adjacent parcel of 36 acres is also under the developers' control and is planned for an apartment/retail trade area.

Fort Stockton's application to HUD is for $500,000 for funding of a second year of a three-year $1.5 million comprehensive Community Development Block Grant (CDBG). The southeastern section of the city, composed primarily of low/moderate in-come families, is the target area for refurbishing. The $500,000 figure breaks down as follows: $20,000 for the demolition of approximately 20 substandard structures; $355,000 for making loans/grants available for the rehabilitation of substandard housing; $75,000 for relocation payments and assistance for approximately 10 families; and $50,000 for administrative costs.

Reeves County's application to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation is for the purchase of two transportation vehicles. The county is requesting $15,960 from SDHPT, to be matched by local funds of $3,990. The vehicles will be used to transport elderly and handicapped citizens to medical services, elderly nutrition programs and sheltered workshops. Low-income persons will also be provided transportation to food stamp purchasing areas and other nutrition sites.

Pecos County Community Action Agency's application to SDHPT is also for two vehicles and is also a request for $15,960 to be matched by $3,990 in local funds. The vehicles are also to be used for elderly and handicapped transportation.

Militants publish interview of hostage

By The Associated Press

The Iranian militants holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran have published a purported interview with one of their American captives, Thomas Ahern, 48, of Fond du Lac, Wis., in which he admitted being a CIA deposed shah's secret police. agent and named two high-level Iranians among his

The account published in the Tehran newspaper Azadagan said Ahern, a State Department employee who has been accused previously of spying by the militants, told an interviewer he had four Iranian contacts who provided him with details of the Iranian revolution including "information about individuals ... information about Kurdistan ... and brief reports about the leadership and morale in the armed forces. According to the report, Ahern named two of his

Scandinavian countries who was jailed in Iran last October for allegedly cooperating with the CIA, and Khosrow Qashqai, who was elected to the new Majlis (Parliament) but has been barred from taking his seat because of accusations that he served the

The press report said Ahern also implicated Rear Adm. Ahmad Madani, another elected member of the new Majlis who has also been blocked from taking his seat. Ahern was quoted as saying Qashqai discussed the possibility of publishing a newspaper with Madani, and the questions attributed to the interviewer implied that the paper was to have U.S.

Qashqai and Madani were elected to the Majlis as members of the National Front Party, one of the few non-religious factions still allowed to function in Iran. They have been under increasing pressure from the Moslem fundamentalist majority in the parliament because of their comparatively moderate position on the American hostages.

The Parliament has been empowered to decide the fate of the 52 remaining hostages, who began their 255th day in captivity today. However, there has been no reliable indication when the parliamentary debate on the captives will begin, and most members of the Majlis are already said to favor trying the Americans as spies.

Meanwhile, a doctor disclosed today that former hostage Richard Queen is suffering from multiple sclerosis, a chronic disease that attacks the central nervous system. Queen has been undergoing tests at the U.S. Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany. He was freed by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the Iranian revolution, last Friday after he became ill and was hospitalized.

Suzuki chosen to succeed Ohira

TOKYO (AP) - Zenko Suzuki, a skilled negotiator and backstage mediator of political squabbles, was chosen president of Japan's ruling Liberal Democratic Party today, succeeding the late Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira.

Suzuki, 69, will be the LDP candidate for prime minister when the lower house of the new Diet, the Japanese Parliament, meets Thursday. He is certain of election because his party controls 287 of the 511

A meeting of LDP members of both houses of the Diet named Suzuki party president, unanimously endorsing a decision of the party elders.

The vote ended a month of maneuvering following the death of Ohira June 12. Suzuki, a longtime Ohira aide who was chairman of the party Executive Council, emerged from relative obscurity to take over Ohira's party faction. With the elevation of more powerful factional leaders blocked for one reason or another, he became the compromise

Suzuki told the party meeting he would "work for unity and harmony within the party." He said in a speech Monday that he would give priority to national defense, energy, social welfare and ridding the government of deficit financing. He is not expected to veer from the conservative course set by the LDP in its control of the government since 1948 strongly pro-business with close economic, political and military ties with the United States. The party has moved toward the U.S. position that Japan should boost its defense budget from the current 0.9 percent of the Gross National Product to help contain Soviet military expansionism. Suzuki, the son of a well-to-do fisherman, graduated before the war from the Agriculture Ministry's fisheries college. After working with a fishery cooperative and a year of military service at the end of the war, he was elected to the Diet as a Socialist in

He switched to the ruling conservatives two years later to improve his chances of getting disaster relief funds for his district after a typhoon. A member of the Diet ever since, he has been minister of posts and communications, chief cabinet minister, minister of health and welfare and most recently minister of agriculture, forestry and fisheries.

Cheering nation celebrates birthday of Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (AP) - Crowds cheered, church bells rang out and the sun shone today on Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, on her 80th birthday.

The mother of the reigning monarch, Queen Elizabeth II, rode in a horse-drawn carriage from her old home at Buckingham Palace, down the tree-lined Mall to a thanksgiving service for her at St. Paul's

Later, the Queen Mother led the royal family onto the balcony of Buckingham Palace to receive the acclaim of thousands of loyal British subjects.

They sang "Happy Birthday," gave her three cheers and raised a rousing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" before the royals retired behind the balcony's glass doors for an official birthday lunch.

Defying a St. Swithin's Day forecast of yet more rain in a horribly wet summer, royalty-loving Britons trooped into town and waited for hours, wrapped in blankets and shrouded in raincoats, for a brief glimpse of royalty going by. They were rewarded with sunshine, the glitter, gleam and clip-clop-clop of escorting mounted guardsmen in breastplates, and the queen mother's famous smile.

"She is a perfect lady. You feel she really cares about people," said one of those watching, Jane McKenzie, 56, who spent more than $120 on train tickets, taxis and food to London from her home in Bernard Bran, 74, was the first outside the cathedral at 5: 10 a.m. "This is a very happy day for me to be able to say my thanks to the Queen Mother, who has given us so much joy," he said.

In the cathedral, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Rt. Rev. Robert Runcie, said the Queen Mother made every British citizen feel part of a family where common interests and kinships exist beneath and beyond all divisions and conflicts.

"Royalty puts a human face on the operations of government and provides images with which the people of a nation can identify and which they can love," Runcie said.

Britain honored her with Queen Mother garden parties and balls all over the country, a gala performance by the Royal Ballet, a rose walk named for her in St. James's Park and her picture on a postage stamp in one of her characteristic flowered hats.

NL West becomes heated four-way dog race

By The Associated Press

Don't look now, but suddenly there are four teams in what was supposed to be a three-way race in the National League West.

The streaking San Francisco Giants are the party of the fourth part. They won their seventh consecutive game Monday night, defeating the Cincinnati Reds 5-3 and evening their record at 43-43, the first time they have been at the .500 mark since July 3, 1979.

The Giants also became the first team in the 10-year history of Riverfront Stadium to sweep a four-game series from the Reds in Cincinnati. Not since a series in Philadelphia in May of 1975 had the Reds been swept in a four-game

San Francisco is only six games out of first and trails third-place Cincinnati by one-half game. The front-running Houston Astros lost to the Atlanta Braves 2-0 but maintained their half-game lead over Los Angeles when the Dodgers were beaten for the third time in a row by the San Diego Padres, 6-3. In the only other NL contest, the Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged the Philadelphia Phillies 13-11.

The Giants aren't doing it with mirrors but rather with some new young pitchers. The starters — and winners — in the last three games have been Bill Bordley, Allen Ripley and Alan Hargesheimer, who allowed one run and five hits in five innings in his major league debut Monday night.

"The only time I really had any doubts was in the second inning when I lofted a couple of bad pitches to both Johnny Bench and George Foster," the 23-year-old right-hander said. "Both of them just missed by a small fraction. I knew I was lucky that they didn't force me out of the Jack Clark got the Giants started in the first inning with his 17th home run of the season. In the fourth, Cincinnati starter Charlie Leibrandt issued two-out walks to Joe Pettini and Johnnie LeMaster, who both scored on Mike Sadek's double. Hargesheimer then blooped a double behind first base, scoring Sadek to make it 4-0. LeMaster doubled in the sixth and scored on an error for the final San Francisco run.

Hargesheimer, who is only in his third year of pro ball, knows he probably will go back to the minors after some injured pitchers return from the disabled list.

"Realistically, when Vida (Blue) and Randy (Moffitt) return, they will probably send me back to Phoenix for more polishing," he said. "I won't be heartbroken. I know that my big days are ahead of me."

Braves 2, Astros 0 Knuckleballer Phil Niekro, pitching despite a bruised elbow, hurled a two-hitter and struck out 11 as the Braves ended a five-game losing streak. Niekro, who was hit on the right elbow while pitching batting practice before Saturday night's game, yielded only a third-inning double to Houston pitcher J.R. Richard and a leadoff single by pinch-hitter Joe Morgan in the ninth. Richard, who recently complained about a tired arm, allowed only one hit but left after 31/3 innings with what was described as an upset stomach.

"I didn't want Phil to pitch because I didn't want to hurt him," said Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox. "But it's hard to say no to Phil. He wants to play so badly and he told me he was okay."

"It took a couple of minutes to convince Bobby to let me pitch, that was all," Niekro said. "In the seventh inning I felt a little pain, but really nothing before. In the first inning I was just testing my arm."

Atlanta got a run offlGordy Pladson in the fifth when Jeff Burroughs reached base on third baseman Enos Cabell's fielding error, stole second and scored on a double by Bruce Benedict. Bob Horner's 12th home run made it 2-0 in the seventh.

Padres 6, Dodgers 3 Gene Richards collected three hits and scored three runs and Ozzie Smith drove in a pair of runs with a single and a double as the Padres completed a three-game sweep and made it five of six over the Dodgers in San Diego this season.

"They played like the 1927 Yankees against us," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda. "I'm not at all pleased, but the pennant wasn't decided

Steve Mura survived a three-run Los Angeles third inning to finish with a six-hitter and record only San Diego's fourth complete game this year. The other three belong to Randy Jones, who pitched shutouts on May-

Pirates 13, Phillies 11

Dave Parker's two-run ninth-inning homer, his second of the night, gave Pittsburgh the victory in a game that featured 36 hits and saw 35 players pressed into service. Tim Foli opened the Pittsburgh ninth with his fourth hit, a single. Parker, who hit a two-run homer in the third inning, then drove one over the right field wall, his 12th homer of the season. It came off Ron Reed, one of 10 pitchers used in the 31/2-

Pete Rose's seventh-inning bases-loaded single had driven in a pair of runs that gave the Phillies an 11-10 lead. But the Pirates tied it in the eighth on a single by Lee Lacy, a walk to pinch-hitter John Milner and an RBI single by pinch hitter Ed Ott.

Texas' Team (the Houston Oilers) must feel that they deserve as much recognition as America's Team (the Dallas Cowboys). After all, the Oilers have spared no expense to proudce a new weekly magazine, Oiler Report, which is not much different than the successfully packaged Dallas Cowboys Weekly.

When something is successful, you can always count on an imitation to hit the market. Now that the Dallas Cowboys Weekly has reached a circulation of around 80,000, why should the Oilers be left on the outside looking in? It's a great way to sell your product while making a few bucks on An 80,000 circulation is not just hayfeed either. For this type of team publication, that's more than just good public relations. These two publications are the only ones in the NFL owned and operated by the clubs themselves. You can expect to see many more if their success continues, and there seems to be a big market.

And at least one Midland product is in on the ground floor of Oiler Report ald prove to be to his young career. Rick Holster, a 1970 graduate of Midland High, is the associate editor of Oiler Report.

Rick graduated with a degree in communications from the University of Houston before becoming community relations director for the Houston Hurricane soccer team. He had done some writing with Kick Magazine where Oiler Report publisher Rick McMillen saw his work. Holster was asked to join the new venture, and will have a weekly column in Oiler

"We only have three editions off the press, but we have had a tremendous reception to our product," Holster said in a Monday press conference in Odessa, which was held to acquaint West Texas with the new weekly publication. "We have 10,000 subscribers already, and will probably have 2,000 more by the time our next issue comes out.

"Of course, the Cowboys' weekly is the top model in the country right now and we are trying to emulate that publication. But there will be differences and we hope to go them one better. We also hope to eventually reach an 80,000 circulation like the Cowboys have.

The Oiler Report has been advertising in major sports publications and Holster reports that there are subscription requests coming in from all over the world in places like Finland nd England. "Naturally, the bulk of our readers will come from Texas, eastern New Mexico, southern Arkansas, southwest Louisiana and Oklahoma," Holster said. "The reader response has already exceeded our expectations, but the advertisers have really responded. We planned for a 32-page tabloid, but it sold out in a week and we had to go to 36 pages. Then we had to go to 40 pages and our next issue will be 52 pages when camp opens in San Angelo. It's already the largest weekly of its kind."

Oller Report will be different in some respects from the Cowboys' efforts. Holster says the Oiler weekly will use its own staff to produce stories, but there will be two features weekly from top free lance magazine writers. The Dallas weekly uses local media people for the most part.

"We think our publication is more attractive graphically than the Cowboys weekly, and we have some of the top free lance writers around. We have tried to stay away from using the local media for a fresher approach," Holster said.

It will be interesting to see how objective Oiler Report will be over the long haul with this type of setup. There could be critisism coming since the publication will be almost totally a house organ for the Oilers. The way they handle controversy could make or break the new endeavor.

One thing the two publications have in common, however, is the cheerleader centerfold. After all, success is

KC's Wilson makes Baltimore pay

By The Associated Press

Baltimore starter Scott McGregor's biggest mistake might have been inducing Kansas City's Willie Wilson to ground out in his first at-bat. In his next four trips to the plate, Wilson reached base and scored in the Royals' 12-4 rout of McGregor and the Part of the reason behind the outburst Monday night was Wilson's last visit to Baltimore

"I went 1-for-12," Wilson recalled, "and then, the first time up, I hit a weak ground ball and I thought it was going to continue.

That got me to thinking that I might as well be aggressive and swing the bat. I think that relaxed

It may have relaxed Wilson, but it virtually paralyzed the Orioles.

"He has exceptional speed, so they have to play in," explained Royals Manager Jim Frey. "When he gets on base, he's a stolen base threat. He goes from first to third on any kind of base hit. He's hitting the ball stronger this year, getting more extra base

"I got on base, but the other guys got me in," added Wilson. "I don't remember ever being on base that much against this team in a long

In the three-game series, Wilson was eight-for 16 and helped the Royals collect 31 hits over the last two games. He leads the American League with 122 hits and is among the league leaders with a .322 batting average, 40 stolen bases and seven

"For a week or 10 days before the All-Star game, we were scratching for runs," said Frey. "But we started hitting in Detroit just before coming here. You get some chinkers and bloopers and then some guy hits a line drive and that gets it all started."

"The pressure they put on the de-fense is phenomenal," Baltimore shortstop Mark Belanger said of the Royals, who lead the league with 93 stolen bases.

U.L. Washington added a two-run homer to the Kansas City attack.

A's 6, Angels 4

Rickey Henderson hit a three-run homer and Rick Langford pitched his 11th consecutive complete game to help the A's beat the Angels for the 10th time in their 13 games this sea-

Henderson's homer capped a fourrun fifth inning and chased California starter Bruce Kison from his first start after a month on the disabled list with nerve troubles in his elbow.

Yankees 7, White Sox 6 A pair of New York pinch-hitters helped beat their former team as the Yankees downed the White Sox. Oscar Gamble's two-run homer in the eighth inning tied the game and Jim Spencer's two-out, ninth-inning single scored Reggie Jackson with the game-winner.

The late-inning burst completed the Yankees' comeback from a 6-1 deficit and gave New York a sweep of the three-game series.

"If you're going to be a contender, those are the games you have to win,' said Yankees Manager Dick Howser.

Spencer's single scored Reggie Jackson, who had reached first on a force play, then had stolen his first base of the year.

Tigers 12, Red Sox 4 Detroit raked five Boston pitchers for 18 hits - three each by Rick Peters, Richie Hebner, John Wockenfuss and Tom Brookens - in routing the Red Sox. Every starter had at least one hit for the Tigers, including a two-run homer by Al Cowens, to hand Boston starter Mike Torrez his 10th loss in 14

The highlight for the Red Sox came in their four-run sixth, when Tony Perez hit his 337th career home run and raised his lifetime total of runs batted in to 1,424 to replace Hall of Famer Joe Cronin in 28th place on the all-time list.

Rangers 4, Indians 2 Pinch-hitter Rusty Staub, mired in a 5-for-30 slump, cracked a two-run double to highlight a three-run seventh inning and lift Texas over Cleveland.

Buddy Bell extended his hitting streak to 18 games for the Rangers. Brewers 6, Blue Jays 4

Robin Yount's three-run homer with one out in the ninth inning gave Milwaukee its victory over Toronto.

Jim Gantner and pinch-hitter Charlie Moore singled prior to Yount's blast over the right-field fence for his 14th homer of the year and the Brewers' third of the contest.

Gorman Thomas hit a solo shot in the second inning and Ben Oglivie added a two-run homer in the third. Mariners 8, Twins 5

Bruce Bochte hit a two-run double, Dan Meyer hit a two-run homer and Juan Beniquez added a solo shot to the five-run Seattle fifth inning that carried Seattle to its victory over Minnesota.

The triumph snapped a four-game losing streak for the Mariners, a sixgame winning streak for the Twins and a personal six-game losing skein for Seattle's Rick Honeycutt, 8-7.

Shreveport stops Cubs

SHREVEPORT - Jim Wojcik's two-out single in the bottom of the 14th inning carried the Shreveport Captains to a 4-3 victory over the Midland Cubs Monday night in a Texas League game.

The Cubs win the series 3-2 and move on to Jackson tonight to open a five-game series with the Mets, who swept five games from the El Paso Diablos. The Mets polished off the Diablos, 7-0, Monday to complete their five-game sweep. Midland enters the series with Jackson with a two-game lead in the Texas League West over Amarillo, who also lost Monday. The Cubs have won nine of their last 11 games heading into Jack-

Being official scorer in Texas League has its drawbacks

decisions

A smoldering memory in the back of my mind was rekindled recently by an article in The Sporting News. The story dealt with official scorers for major league baseball games, focusing primarily on those non-baseball beat writers who now perform the task.

There are, according to the piece, 15 non-members of the Baseball Writer's Association of America, currently doling out hits, errors and earned

The move away from using BBWAA members as scorers began last year, when players suddenly became silent with writers, who they felt had statistically slighted them.

Then, there was more than one sports editor who wondered aloud about conflict of interest. Will a local sports writer go out of his way to make sure hometown pitcher gets a no-hitter? Or will writer knowing player "D" needs a hit to win the batting championship, oblige with a gimme if a close play arises?

And, of course, what are the long-range ramifications if writers "A" score plays opposite the way players "B" and "D" see them? Well, the results can be catastrophic. Kingman, Carlton, Hendrick and the rest of the Silence is Golden bunch are living proof that tight lips can sink the ships of sports writers and, perhaps more importanly, those of

But the problem potentially goes deeper than the majors, and it could move into the bowels of baseball - the minor leagues, including the

A textbook incident in the scorer vs. player controversy arose about two months ago while I was working a TL tilt between Midland and El After the game, I visited the Cubs clubhouse to interview the winning pitcher. But before I was able to ask my first question, I was cornered by a Midland player, a young man who seemed more angry than Eddie The player's name is unimportant, but what's vital is his batting average at the time resembled the mean annual income of a worker in one of those postage stamp-sized countries.

"How come you gave me a hit and then changed it to an error?" he asked in a way proving he was no Dale Carnegie graduate. Explaining I had ruled the muffed routine grounder an error all the way and that the scoreboard operator had put a hit up by mistake seemed

But nooooo. Mr. Anemic Batting Average was bent on straightening out nasty Mr. Scorekeeper's book.

First, he tried the if-I-can't-get-a-break-at-home-where-can-I-get-one routine, which is about as original an idea as putting toothpaste on a toothbrush. The implication is I'm supposed to feel sorry, break down and give him a hit, because at every other ballyard he's getting the shaft from villainous scorers determined to keep him in the minors.

Next, and this is the real clincher, he said, "I won't forget this." It's assumed by that he meant either: a.) I had made his all-time hit list (which left me relieved), or b.) He wasn't going to talk to me (could I be

Surely, this was an isolated incident, and it doesn't mean every official scorer gets a special welcoming committee each time he or she goes to the lockerroom

At some TL outposts, the scoring duties are manned by non-journalists. A check with the TL office in Little Rock revealed five of the league cities used scorers not affiliated with media. Only Midland, Amarillo and Arkansas utilized sports writers. Texas League teams "set their own criteria" for who will score games, said a spokeswoman at the league office, adding she had received no complaints about scoring.

So, for the moment anyway, you can score it Texas League 0, Aggra-

Richard's ailments puzzle Bill Virdon

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston's J.R. Richard, who reputedly has the deadliest fastball in major league baseball, sat in front of his dressing room cubicle, eating fried chicken and meatballs.

Earlier Monday night, Richard had left Houston's game against Atlanta after 31/3 innings, complaining of an upset stomach. The Astros eventually lost the game

2-0 on a two-hitter by Atlanta's Phil Niekro, pitching despite a bruised "I ate a hamburger before I came to the game. That must have been what did it," Richard said. "I started feeling nauseated about the third inning.' It was the latest chapter in the intriguing mystery of Richard's health problems. In 17 starts this season, Richard has left 10 games complaining of various ailments. Monday night's stomach episode was a new one. Richard told some officials last weekend that he needed 30 days rest to recover from what he called a tired arm. Richard, 10-4, and the starting pitcher for the National League in the All-Star game was not scheduled to pitch Monday night.

Richard decided to pitch, however, after team physician Dr. Harold Brelesford told a pre-game news conference that two examinations had failed to find any physical problems with Richard's arm.

J.R. might be suffering some slight muscle fatigue," Brelesford said. "But Dr. (Frank) Jobe (who examined Richard on Friday) suggested perhaps it would be best for J.R. to miss one turn.

But missing one turn is far from 30 days rest.

Brelesford said neither he nor Jobe suggested 30 days rest. Richard said he mentioned the 30 days rest.

Why? he was asked. "Because I felt like it," he said.

Richard walked slowly to the mound to start each of the first four innings Monday night. He appeared to have trouble seeing signals from catcher Luis Pujols, and prior to the fourth inning it appeared he was not going to take the mound.

Astros Manager Bill Virdon had to prod Richard.

"I didn't know if he was going out," Virdon said. "I asked him if he was going out and he said 'Yeah." Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox also noticed something was amiss with Richard.

"He was throwing super, but he was acting a little funny on the mound," Cox said. "He couldn't seem to see some of the signs.'

Virdon said he didn't know the next step in the mystery.

"But we're definitely going to have to have a talk now," Virdon said.

By this time Richard had finished his chicken and overcome his upset stomach, leaving behind mamy unanwsered questions about his and the Astros future.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Minnesota Vikings reserve quarterback John Reaves has been spared commitment to a mental health facility, but both a doctor and a judge say he should still seek psychiatric help.

During a 15-minute hearing Monday, Hillsborough Circuit Judge Benjamin Sidwell rescinded an order to commit the 30-year-old National Football League player after a psy-chiatrist said Reaves need not be confined. Sidwell last week issued the emergency ruling ordering psychiatric observation on the basis of three sworn affidavits from friends of Reaves saying he was battling alcohol and drugs and was a danger to himself and others.

Reaves had been in hiding for five days, eluding sheriff's deputies who were trying to take him into custody. He appeared in the judge's chambers flanked by three attorneys. No mention, however, was made of drugs or of his whereabouts during the last

Afterwards, Reaves said he was relieved and pleased at the outcome and anxious to get back to Minnesota for the Vikings training camp.

Mike Lynn, the general manager of the Vikings, planned to meet with Reaves and his attorneys today to discuss the former University of Florida star's future with the club. Lynn has suggested Reaves report to camp earlier than the July 31 opening date for physical training and recommended treatment, according to attorney Tom MacDonald.

Sidwell made his decision revoking the commitment order after Tampa psychiatrist Gary Arthur testified that Reaves is competent.

Arthur told the judge he gave Reaves a mental status exam Sunday and felt certain there would be no further outbursts of irrational behav-ment that Reaves threatened to kill her husband.

"Mr. Reaves had been on a binge or a tear," said Sidwell, referring to the affidavits. He warned the athlete he couldn't hide under fame and called him a "highly visible symbol of our city." Although Sidwell revoked the order, he retained jurisdiction of the case and asked that he be kept informed of Reaves' progress while under psychiatric care.

Last season, Reaves was the Vikings' second-string quarterback behind Tommy Kramer. But he didn't play a single down. Coach Bud Grant has since added rookie Steve Dils from Stanford and veteran Mike Livingston from Kansas City.

He is confident his recent problems won't endanger his career.

"I'm too good a player," Reaves

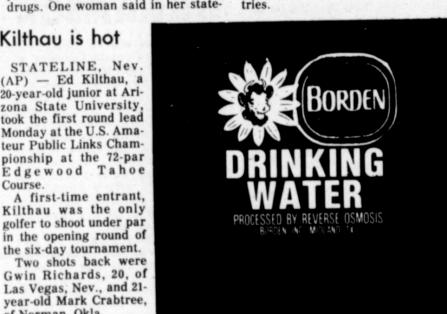

He still has a marijuana possession charge pending in county court with a hearing set for July 31 on a motion to dismiss the misdemeanor charge.

Isenberg earns honor

Emory L. Isenberg, owner of Midland's Air Park Bowl, was recently elected regional vice president of the Bowling Proprietors Association of America at the association's convention in Las Vegas, Nev.

Isenberg will represent the Southwest Region, covering Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico. He will act for the association in membership recruiting activities. regional coordination and management functions for the affiliated local and state associations and the national headquarters in Arlington.

Isenberg, with 18 years of experience in the bowling field, will now join the association's executive committee. The BPAA, founded in 1932, is comprised of businessmen who collectively own over 4,000 bowling centers in the United States and foreign coun-

Cowboys run during tests

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) -Seventy-two rookies and free agents prepared for full dress workouts today at the Dallas Cowboys training site.

On Monday, the squad completed physical examinations and ran through speed and endurance tests. Tying for the lead in the 11/2 mile run were two free-agent receivers, Alabama's Roy Dean and Mike Hagen of California Lutheran College. Each covered the distance in 8 minutes, 37

Hagen, 6-foot tall and 175-pounds, is the spotlight player of the early portion of camp because he grew up on the California Lutheran campus and worked in the Dallas training camp from the time he was five years

He led the nation's small colleges in receiving in 1979. The fastest 40-yard run of the day, 4.48 seconds, was clocked by secondyear cornerback Wade Manning.

Oilers get extra rest

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) -Houston Oiler rookies and free agents got an extra day's rest today before formally beginning practice Wednesday on the Angelo State University campus.

The 71 rookies and free agents had been scheduled to begin workouts today but Coach Bum Phillips decided to wait.

All Oiler signees were expected to report on time with the exception of third round draft choice Tim Smith of Nebraska, who had not signed his contract Monday night.

Larry Muno, Smith's agent, said the wide receiver would not report to camp without a contract.

In addition to the new players, veteran quarterback Ken Stabler, Billy "White Shoes" Johnson, who missed planned to report with the rookies. Oiler veterans will report July 25.

Favorites have problems

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) -Two of the prime favorites, Lee Tre-vino and defending champion Seve Ballesteros, had their problems going into the 109th British Open golf championship which begins Thursday.

Trevino, who won in 1972, the last time this ancient event was played on the 6,926-yard, par 71 Muirfield golf links, was keeping an anxious eye on the weather.

"When I won here before, it was warm, really warm," said Trevino, bundled in layers of sweaters after a practice round in the cold, windy, sometimes-rainy weather. "I don't do that well in this weather," he said.

"I'm not a cold weather player, never have been. I don't like the cold. I can't get loose. I'm all tightened up. My back hurts. I miss too many shots in the cold because I'm not loose and I'm restricted by all the clothes you have to wear.

"And if you miss a shot here, miss a fairway or a green, it's a bogey. That simple.

"It's the toughest rough I've ever see at a British Open," Trevino said. He spread his hands about two feet apart. "Man, it's up to here," he said. But Trevino did not discount himself entirely.

"I'm playing as well as I ever have," Trevino said Monday. He's won twice this year, including his last start, has been second in three other tournaments and has collected almost $300,000 in prize money.

"I'm hitting the ball very, very well. And I'm putting better than I have in the past.

"If the weather turns warm, I have an excellent chance. If it gets about 15, 20 degrees warmer, I like my chances. Even if it doesn't turn warm, I've got a chance, but it's not

The long-range forecast is for "unsettled conditions" which often translates to cold, wind and rain.

"If it stays cold," Trevino said, "I like the long hitters, and the British players because they're used to playing in these conditions." He specifically mentioned Brian Barnes, Tony Jacklin and Sandy Lyle.

And Ballesteros.

'Seve's used to playing in the cold, too, and he's a long hitter. I'd like his chances," Trevino said. Ballesteros, however, was considerably less enthusiastic.

"Golf is a game of ups and downs," said the young Spaniard who added the 1980 Masters crown to the British Open title he won last year in England. "Right now I am bown. "I have no confidence. My swing is bad. My drives are bad, my irons are bad. I'm not comfortable over the ball. I don't have the feel. My game is not as good as I'd like it to be. The only thing good is the putting."

He admitted he was worried going into the defense of his title in the first

"When you don't play well, you the game's outstanding player also worry. I need to find something, the ranks among the longer hitters.

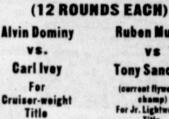

He's got a great chance.

Maybe not."

Acme Marketing will purify your tap water

Everybody is talking about the in- shops here and nation wide are using credible Home Spa water purifier, distributed localy and nationally by Tony Rogers, director and manager of Acme Marketing Associates located at 3103 East 31st in Odessa, Texas. It is no surprise the Home Spa with the activated charcoal filter is one of the most efficient, economical, portable and simple-to-operate water purifiers on the market today.

House plants, pets, and gold fish will thrive on Home Spa filtered water. The U.S. Public Health Service has established that ordinary tap water is hazardous to the health of humans, and contains chlorine, pesticide residues and other pollutants which could kill house plants, aquarium fish, and pets as well as people.

The Home Spa water purifier with the activated charcoal filter removes practically al of the chlorine, over 97 percent of the sulphates, nearly 99 percent of the rust, most of the algae, iron, turbidity, asterionella and al of the foul taste from well or tap water. All this for less than two cents per gallon. A free lab report is available on request from Acme Marketing. Call or write Tony Rogers.

Wine tainted with DBCP

Five million gallons of wine in vats and bottles are tainted with the cancer-linked pesticide DBCP and can't be sold, the California Department of Health Services reports.

The department said Thursday that Delicato Vineyards of Manteca, which ships less than 1 percent of all California wine, began recalling wine from the market this week, and the state later embargoed it.

But the state health director said there's no reason for the consumers of California wines to change their consumption patterns.

A spokesman for the family firm in the Central Valley, Tom Shephard, said the recall and embargo are an 'economic disaster" for the firm.

which produced about 16 million gallons last year.

Recalled from wholesalers were "a few cases" of Green Hungarian and Grenache rose, which state tests showed highest in DBCP, Shephard said. But most of those wines had long ago sold out.

Sheplard said state inspectors believe the DBCP was in well water used to spread the filtering material diatomaceous earth around the insides of vats by centrifugal force. The water was then extracted. Deeper wells have been drilled.

Shephard said the owners have hired their own consultants, James Montgomery Co. of Pasadena, to make more tests.
