Carter expects Olympic panel to OK boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter says he expects the U.S. Olympic Committee will go along with his call for an American boycott of the Summer Olympics in Moscow if the Soviet Union has not withdrawn its troops from Afghanistan by Feb.

METRO EDITION

Carter has no legal authority to dictate a boycott and the U.S. committee will meet next weekend in Colorado Springs, Colo., to consider the president's request.

Carter outlined his proposal Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press." Asked afterward if he thought the U.S. committee would abide by his request, he said, "I think so."

Carter, intensifying his attempts to punish the Soviet Union for its intervention in Afghanistan, called on the International Olympic Committee to boycott the Moscow games or transfer them to another site if Soviet troops are still in Afghanistan a month from now.

By The Associated Press

Afghanistan's seven rebellious Moslem factions are reported trying to unite for a holy war against the Soviet occupation army. Radio Tehran reported that an official of the Afghan Islamic Organization in the Iranian capital told it discussions were under way among the rebel groups to form a single guerrilla front.

"The Afghan revolutionaries' duty is to expel the Soviet forces from Afghanistan through jihad (holy war), not through negotiations," the official reportedly said.

The Moslem rebels in Afghanistan are divided along tribal lines. They have been fighting their own separate wars since the first communist coup in April 1978 and were reported to control half the country or more. But the necessity for unification and coordination became apparent last month when the Soviet Union sent as many as 100,000 troops into Afghanistan to crush the rebellion and support the coup that eliminated President Hafizullah Amin and replaced him with Babrak Karmal, a more pliable Rus-

Pentagon sources in Washington said the fighting since the Soviet intervention has been fiercest in the northeastern part of Afghanistan, bordering the Soviet Union, Pakistan and China. The sources in Washington said the Soviets may need 5,000 reinforcements there to make up for Afghan army defections to the rebels. More Soviet troops were landed at-Kabul airport over the weekend, according to American reporters expelled by the new government.

The Kabul correspondent of Prensa Latina, the Cuban news agency, reported that an Afghan official told him "strong contingents" of Afghan troops were moving to the 50-milelong Chinese border because "for several weeks suspicious troop movements have been detected on the Chi-giving Andrews County to El Paso Congressman Richard White in a trade that would allow White to give up his voters in Ector County. By adding some other counties, this would allow Midland and Odessa to go into the same congressional district.

Unfortunately, such a neat, simple swap probably will be difficult to

A report on the progress of redistricting from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's office, mailed to the Texas congressional delegation, shows that an expected "ideal district" for 1981 (when the Legislature redraws district lines) will have a population of 518,-

That prediction is based on the expectation that Texas will have a total population of 13.5 million - with the state due to gain two congressional districts for a total of 26

Total population growth for the 1970 to 1980 period is expected to be in excess of 20 percent, but the average congressional district will grow by only some 10 percent, from 466,000 to 519,000.

Firefighters scramble Sunday afternoon ignited when she attempted to start the car.

McNeill was not injured in the fire, which cal short. The blaze also did minor damage to Exact data from the 1980 census, however, even at the county level, won't be available until early 1981 and the Legislature is expected to have the data needed for redistricting available with only some two months left in its regular 140-day session. That session will start in January.

Projected figures show District 19 is expected to have a population growth of 59,000 or 13 percent, putting it at 2 percent over the expected "ideal," with 12,000 more people than needed.

Hance's home county, Lubbock, is expected to increase from 179,295 in 1970 to 214,100 in 1980 - an increase of 34,805 or 19 percent.

At present, District 19 includes the counties of Lubbock, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Cochran, Hockley, Yoakum, Terry, Gaines, Andrews, Martin, Midland and parts of Ector and Dawson. It adjoins four other districts: 16, White's district, and 21, Tom Loeffler of Hunt, to the south; 17, Charles Stenholm of Stamford, to the east; and 13, Jack Hightower of Vernon, to the east and north.

Fire department officials blamed the blaze,

which destroyed the car, on a possible electri-

Swap could make districts 'ideal'

But redistricting isn't that simple

Stenholm and Hightower both must add population - 22,000 and 12,000 respectively - to meet the "ideal" projections. White, due largely to the growth of El Paso County (some 82,-700) and Loeffler, who now takes in part of Bexar County (with an estimated 152,000 additional population), must get rid of 39,000 and 109,000

Bexar County's growth is exceeded only by Harris and Dallas counties, with 501,000 and 180,000 respectively.

Harris County's expansion virtually assures that it will receive a new cogressional district - so that the drawing of new district lines around Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio becomes of great importance not only to those areas but to the West Texas region as well.

In either case, it appears likely that the West Texas centers of Lubbock and Midland-Odessa could be grouped into the same district.

Midland County's estimated population is 76,900, an increase of 11,467 (or 17.52 percent) while Ector County is shown as 107,800, an increase of 15,140 (or 16.34 percent).

That would mean about 120,000 voters would be needed in combination with those three counties to bring Hance's district up to the 519,000 figure. That can be done easily with the counties now in District 19, with additional counties left to be shifted to the Stenholm and Hightower districts. In any event, Lubbock County ap-

Potter County shows an estimated growth of only 2,689 (or 2.97 percent) to 93,200 while Randall County shows a growth of 15,515 (or 28.79 percent) to

That would result in a need for some 142,000 population apart from Lubbock, Randall and Potter counties, which could be made up from the more rural counties, and leave Midland and Ector counties to be joined with others to the east and south.

It will be choices such as that which will result in much pressure - from incumbent congressmen, area residents and multitudes of special interests - which will create the pressurecooker atmosphere which accompanies redistricting efforts.

And while Hobby's report and its projections are still highly speculative, it should be a sure bet that the material will be looked at very carefully by the congressmen to whom it

Tapes of Super Bowl delivered to embassy

By The Associated Press

A radio broadcast of Sunday's Super Bowl football game was delivered to Islamic militants at the U.S. Embassy today on the understanding it would be played for the American hostages, now in their 79th day of captivity.

Radio reporter Alex Paen, of radio station KMPC in Los Angeles, passed the militants taped cassettes of the game through the embassy's iron gates after receiving assurances they would be given to the hostages.

The tape of Sunday's game, in which the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Los Angeles Rams 31-19, was fed to Paen by telephone earlier in the day from the Los Angeles station.

In an interview outside the embassy gates, Paen said he was confident the tape would be passed on to the hostages. Only a handful of curious Iranians watched from outside the main embassy compound gate, where thousands used to gather to chant anti-American slogans.

T've been told several times they would play the tapes for the hostages and the students have kept their word in the past," he said.

"If they didn't want the hostages to hear the game, they wouldn't have received the tapes." He said commercials and half-time events had been deleted.

Paen said he had also delivered several letters and Christmas cards and a personal message from the wife of one of the hostages.

The radio reporter has been in Tehran for two months. In December, he delivered some 3 million Christmas cards sent to the Americans from the United States. Paen was granted special permission to stay in Iran and deliver the tape although American journalists were ordered out of Iran last week. He said he plans to return home Tues-The arrangements to make the

In another development, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said today Iran's "own borders are in danger" because of the presence of Russian troops in neighboring Afghanistan and pledged Iranian aid to end the Soviet intervention.

Ghotbzadeh, a candidate in Friday's presidential election, did not say what kind of aid Iran would offer, according to a statement carried by the official Pars news agency.

But he hinted Iran would offer support for the Afghan Moslem guerrillas who are resisting the Soviet troops sent into Afghanistan in late Decem-

In Bonn, the West German Defense Ministry denied German newspaper reports that the Soviets were reinforcing their troops in Central Europe because of Tito's condition.

"A strengthening of Warsaw Pact troops in Central Europe or unusu-

'We are Tito's, Tito is ours," a chorus of Bosnian children sang before the announcement of the operation on the government television

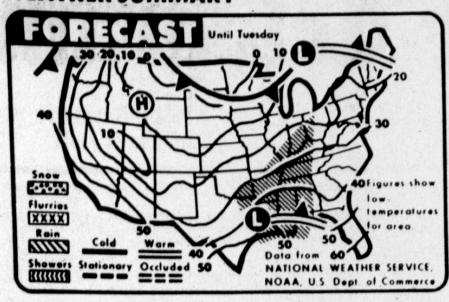

The operation was performed at a hospital in the northern city of Ljubljana where Tito had been undergoing treatment since Jan. 2 for arterial blockage in his left leg.

Tanjug, the official news agency, reported: "Today at noon the left leg of President Tito was amputated because of heavy damage to the arteries which brought stoppage of circulation and speeded up devitalization of tissue of the leg and jeopardized life." The announcement did not say how much of the leg was removed. The amputation had been expected since the doctors announced last Monday that surgery performed the day before failed to restore circulation to the lower leg.

Carter to release program for '80

WASHINGTON (AP) - During the next 10 days, President Carter will reveal to the American public his blueprint for domestic and foreign programs in the fourth and most crucial year of his term in office. The president was to make public a 70-page statement of his domestic programs and priorities later today. He makes his State of the Union address to Congress on Wednesday, followed by his proposed 1981 budget Monday and his annual economic report early next week.

Taken together, the four documents will detail the president's goals for 1980. Carter also is expected to use them to put the best possible face on his presidency in an election year.

Looking relaxed and confident, the president started his fourth year in office Sunday by appearing on NBC's 'Meet the Press' program.

He later traveled to Camp David to spend the night.

Carter is thought by many of his opponents to be vulnerable in his handling of the nation's economy during the past three years. Inflation has worsened and a recession is expected to occur in 1980.

But the president made clear in his television appearance that he plans to stay on the offensive on economic issues as much as possible.

He said he had been successful in reducing unemployment, which he described as "the prime threat to the country" when he took office, and contended the worsening inflation rate was almost entirely the fault of higher oil prices decreed by oil-exporting nations.

"All of the increase in inflation, for The record low was a cold, cold 5 practical purposes, since I have been In the rest of the West Texas area, in office, has been directly attributthe weather is cloudy with a light able to the increase in oil prices,' mist. However, Big Spring reported Carter said. about .10 inch of rain Sunday.

Many economists would dispute that the rising inflation rate can be blamed totally on oil prices, however. They have singled out other causes an increase in Social Security taxes, rising farm price supports and an increase in the minimum wage.

The nation's unemployment rate was 5.8 percent last month, down from 7.9 percent when Carter took office. Inflation, on the other hand, increased to about 13 percent last year, up from 4,8 percent in 1976, the year before Carter took office.

Carter directed some criticism at Congress, saying he had been "working with a Congress that sometimes acts too slowly.

But he acknowledgd that many problems remain. "We are struggling with these very difficult and complicated questions I think need to be pursued further, hopefully in a second term for myself," he said.

Carter's major domestic initiative for fiscal 1981, which begins next Oct. 1, will be $5 billion program to strengthen literacy among jobless youths. Carter has said previously it will be aimed at providing 3 million poor youths with sufficient education to enable them to find and hold jobs.

Administration sources have said Carter also will support a 20 percent increase in subsidized housing for the poor for fiscal 1981. If approved by Congress, it would authorize an increase in the number of subsidized housing units from 250,000 this year to

Carter previously has said he will ask for a major increase in defense spending for fiscal 1981 to $157.5 billion, a 5.5 percent increase over fiscal

Room also must be found in the 1980 budget for several billion dollars Carter says will be used to buy grain from American farmers that was to have been sold to the Soviet Union. The grain is being withheld in retaliation for Soviet intervention in Afghan-

The budget itelf is expected to total $615 billion with a deficit of $15 billion, down from the expected 1980 deficit of $35 billion.

But Carter's budget and domestic proposals may be more notable for things that may not be included. For

-He will finally have to acknowledge he has been unable to meet his 1976 campaign commitment of a balanced budget by 1981.

-The budget will not include a tax cut that is often standard in election

-He is expected to emphasize the need to restrain government spending and hold down inflation, although he may hold out the prospect for a tax cut later in the year.

-He is unlikely to propose a rollback in the major Social Security tax increase now scheduled for 1981

-For the first time in several years, there will not be a major new initiative with respect to energy.

And on Sunday, Carter demonstrated again the ability of a president to capture attention when he appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press." He urged a boycott of the Summer Olympics in Moscow and defended the policies pursued during his three years in the White House.

Unless the Russians pull their forces from Afghanistan within a month, the president said, "neither I nor the American people would support the sending of an American team to Moscow. Carter's chief rival for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, was also on nationwide television Sunday.

On ABC's "Issues and Answers," he said he would support an Olympics boycott, but called that proposal and of grain sales to the Soviets "symbols" and added, "I don't think symbols are a substitute for an effective foreign policy."

The third man in the Democratic race, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, campaigned briefly in the state, mostly to get himself an invitation to join Carter and Kennedy in a debate. But the debate was canceled and Brown has since urged his supporters to back uncommitted slates.

The intense campaigns waged in both parties are prompting predictions that the turnout could be double that four years ago, when Democrats gave Jimmy Carter his first big boost toward the White House.

In 1976, 38,500 people attended the Democratic caucuses and about 22,-

000 Republicans went to theirs. Even if those figures double, they would be far short of party registration totals, which show 528,518 registered Democrats, 462,899 Republicans and 560,348 independents. At the Republican caucuses, a straw poll will be taken to determine presidential preference but the results will not bind the delegates.

The Democrats will select delegates committed to candidates or to voting uncommitted. They will be apportioned according to the sentiment at each caucus.

The caucuses in each of the state's 2,531 precincts will elect delegates to county conventions. The process moves through congressional district meetings to state conventions in June, where the state's delegations will be chosen for the national party conventions in July and August.

Exxon plans record energy investments in 1980.

This year, Exxon plans to invest more than $6.6 billion worldwide in new energy projects.

Most of the money ($6.1 billion) will be spent to find, develop and distribute new supplies of oil and natural gas.

The remainder of more than $500 million will be spent to provide additional energy from other sources, such as coal and uranium.

For the past ten years, Exxon's worldwide energy investments have totaled 1½ times as much as its profits.

Exxon's outlook is for steadily growing expenditures in the years ahead.

Use tax dollars wisely

When does "a good thing" become "too much of a good thing" and turn into something that's counterproductive?

Take, as an example, California's now famous Proposition 13, authored by Howard Jarvis. That tax reduction method set a new trend and resulted in the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations terming 1978 "The Year of the New Populism."

Spurred on by California's example, taxpayers throughout the nation began to organize similar tax reduction movements. Legislatures in several states responded to the growing movement by cutting personal income taxes and sales taxes to some extent.

That isn't necessarily a bad thing. Certainly taxpayers should not be overburdened by exorbitant, unfair or unwise taxes.

On the other hand, however, the services that the residents of any state enjoy are funded by the tax dollars the taxpayers furnish. In some instances, taxpayers pay for services they never receive the benefit from. That's the American way - sometimes we tify.

California voters, now, are looking at another tax reduction method, a June 3 proposal that would cut personal income taxes in half. According to news accounts, the cut in taxes would result in a $5 billion loss to the California treasury.

CHARLEY REESE

Reasserting our values important to success

ORLANDO, Fla. - The key to understanding what is happening to us is to realize that we as a nation are not dealing with the world on a moral basis and that we haven't been doing that for many years.

It may seem strange to some that morality has anything to do with geo-strategic politics, but it really has everything to do with it. Your morality provides the framework for all of your decisions.

There was a time when the United States and especially its leaders were moral. We believed in individual freedom and we made no apologies for that. We believed in the value of each individual human life and we made no apologies for that. We believed in honesty, both public and private; in frugality and in hard work.

When public issues arose, we made our decision on the basis of our morality. In orther words, we would ask ourselves, will this decision promote freedom, respect for life, honesty, frugality and productivity.

It was at the precise point where our leaders no longer believed in those values (they still occasionally pay lip service) that things began to go wrong.

No man or group of men can function without a set of moral values so when you discard one set, you automatically replace them with another set even though you choose not to define and identify them explicitly.

Let me give you an example. At the end of World War II, there were some 600,000 people who had defected from the Soviet Union. The Soviet tyrant, Joseph Stalin, wanted them back. They were in our custody

The decision to help Pakistan brought up the sticky problem of mol-

Therefore, we had a decision to make. We knew that if we returned those people, they would be killed or imprisoned. If our leaders at that time had been moral men, they would have told Stalin: look, all men, including these are free. It is their decision and we will respect their

Sadly, our leaders did not say that. They chose to sacrifice the lives of 600,000 people in order to placate Stalin. In one of the most shameful episodes in American history, American soldiers forced these people at gun-point onto trucks and delivered them to Stalin. Many of them committed suicide. It became known as Operation Keelhaul and it was so disgraceful that it was kept from the American people for a long time.

Our leaders had changed. They were now valuing other things higher than human life and that is why, in my opinion, we have failed since World War II to even contain communism, much less defeat it. Our leaders adopted the communist morality, but lack the communist ruthlessness and dedication

Instead of making decisions on the basis of liberty and respect for the individual life our leaders have been making decisions on the basis of short-term benefits, like what promotes business or avoids conflict. Those values inevitably lead to ap-peasement of evil and that is exactly what we have been doing for 30

It is no surprise then that so many people in the world today look upon us as cynically as they do the communists. In terms of moral values, there is no difference between our leaders and theirs, though our leaders have gone to great lengths to keep up a

No leader who had the traditional American morality would have signed the Helsinki Agreement which officially recognizes the Soviet colonization of Eastern Europe and the Baltic States. A moral American would have said, "We may lack the means to free those people but we will never condone their slavery.

No moral person would even suggest dealing with the PLO, for to do so reflects the belief that political goals have a higher value than respect for human life.

No moral leader would propose, as a solution to the Vietnamese refugee problem, that the Vietnamese put them in prison or kill them rather than allow them to flee.

I believe that if you will pursue this line of thought, you will see that all of our problems - the increasing collectivization of our economy at the expense of liberty and the continued appeasement of communism - are logical consequences of a shift in American morals from our tradition-

I believe that if we re-assert the values of liberty and respect for individual life, we will triumph but if we refuse to do this, we will fall.

INSIDE REPORT:

Mideast peace stance stirs trouble for John Connally

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - In another effort to end Jewish anger over his Middle East peace plan, John B. Connally spent two hours in an unannounced talk with Israeli Ambassador Ephraim Evron at the Palm Beach home of Max Fisher, a prominent Republican Jewish leader from Detroit, the day after Christmas.

Connally's Mideast proposals were bold and comprehensive but they were considered unfriendly by Israel and some American Jewish leaders. They have kept him in hot water with the American Jewish community ever since his Oct. 11 speech.

At the time, aides of the Republican presidential candidate were furious at alleged "leaks" from the Israeli Embassy here, adding fuel to the anti-Connally fires. The meeting with Evron, arranged by Fisher, gave Connally a chance to explain pro-Israeli parts of his Mideast peace plan and counter his critics. Connally also told Evron that he would make another major Mideast speech in the near future elaborating on his bold October speech.

A footnote: The sudden ouster of Sam Hoskinson, Connally's top issues operative, by the campaign's new superboss, Charles Keating, sent a shock wave through Connally's Arlington, Va., headquarters operation here last week. Hoskinson, who left President Carter's National Security Council staff to join Connally's campaign last spring, was the 13th cam-paign aide to be fired by Keating.

THE REAGAN CABINET

Front-running Royald Reagan and his Republican presidential campaign reached solid agreement on one post-election policy during their three-day, closed-door strategy session in Los Angeles last week: to bring conservative and moderate Democrats into a Reagan Cabinet and

All this, of course, depends on Reagan holding his lead position, winning nomination and then election next November. The Reagan operatives will push hard for a conservative coalition not only to help Reagan staff his government but to give him a shot at a working coalition-majority on Capitol Hill. Congress has heavy Democratic majorities in both houses today, a situation that the Republicans might substantially improve in the Senate but probably not in the President Carter's campaign operatives had a moment of fear - needlessly, it turned out - that Sen. John Culver of Iowa was going to deliver a last-minute endorsement of his Harvard buddy and close friend, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Culver has been studiously neutral in the Carter-Kennedy race. He worried the Carter camp when he bought statewide radio time the evening of Jan. 21 — coinciding with Iowa's important Democratic caucuses that will choose between Carter and Kennedy. What's more, Culver sent out letters urging each of the 2,510 caucuses to tune in the radio to hear him. Was he planning a dramatic 11th hour plea for old pal Teddy? Not a chance. Culver, facing a tough battle for reelection to the Senate has no intention of antagonizing Carterites (though nobody doubts his personal preference for Kennedy). Culver's Iowa staffers now have made clear that his radio message will urge support for his Senate campaign and certainly not choose sides for president.

Bogged down in a torrid election campaign, Canada's government has not yet given the U.S. the pledge Jimmy Carter has implied he already has: that Canada will not cash in on the U.S. grain embargo to the Soviet Union by upping its own sales to Moscow.

But despite lack of hard promise, the White House is convinced Canada will go along with Washington, as Australia — a third major grain exporter - quickly did. Until Feb. 18, when the Canadian election will be informal indications of Canada's intent to restrict its grain exports to current levels. A public pledge to go along with the U.S. could hurt the incumbent Progressive Conservative Party in the election.

GRAIN EMBARGO POLITICS

The usually even-tempered Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa was outraged when Republican National Chairman William Brock supported President Carter's Soviet wheat embargo.

It was not merely Brock's decision that rankled but the fact that it was reached without consulting senior Republican politicians from the farm belt - such as Bob Ray, the man who has governed Iowa for 12 years. Ray felt Brock undercut Republican presidential hopefuls, all of whom (with the exception of maverick Rep. John Anderson) have opposed the embarout confrontation, planned to telephone Brock in Washington with a piece of his mind.

Baggies are back and I've got 'em

AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) - "Baggies Are In and We've Got 'em," proclaim full page newspaper ads placed by several fashionable boutiques and department stores.

Well, I've had them for years, despite my wife's constant carping, so I must be in, too.

"Now don't tell me you're going to wear those baggy old trousers over to the Morrisons," she said to me only last night as we suited up for a soiree at the neighbors.

"Certainly, dear," I wanted to tell her, if I could have gotten a word for my wardrobe in edgewise, "the antifashion fashion is very fashionable these days." The comfortable amplitude of my old Army pink ripcord slacks may have me compared in some ill informed circles to a baggy pants burlesque comedian on the order of Mickey Rooney in "Sugar Babies," but Vogue magazine and others among the couture cognoscenti call it "the funky Annie Hall look." Loose is lovely, these days. The droop seat is still hanging in there.

AT LAST we closet collectors of favorite garments can come out of the closet. Halston, Calvin Klein, Givenchy and others have given their blessing to the rumpled, crumpled

Now, like Margaux Hemingway and Jackie O, we can go about in broad daylight without snickers in form-free, loose-fitting old tweeds, slightly sagging in the stern and decidedly more blouson than tapered at the cuffs.

When Courreges brought back the Eisenhower battle jacket a few seasons ago, I still had mine mothballed in the attic. It is perfectly preserved, authentic right down to the three hash marks on the sleeve and the 106th Infantry Division patch on the shoulder (a golden lion's head that resembled a door knocker). I could have cut a classy figure in it on the boulevard as soon as the style was unveiled. The wardrobe was willing but, alas, the waistline couldn't hack it anymore.

BUT WHEN JIMMY Carter turned down the White House thermostat and donned a cashmere button-up cardigan for his first furnace-side chat on energy conservation, I was right there with a favorite old sweater relegated years ago to a hook in the garage for snow shoveling chores.

When jump suits and boiler suits were all the rage just a few years back, I still had my canvas coveralls left over from an adult education class in automobile mechanics that I never did finish. I was into bib overalls long before Studio 54 discovered their sensuous qualities under the strobe lights. I wore one of those white plantation suits in my formative years as a journalist down in New Orleans, light years before Tom Wolfe became the arbiter of radical chic. When the recent and still raging fashion fever for corduroys and blue denims ushered in the "age of youness," also known among fashion writers as "dressing down to kill," I was the readiest and the you-ness-lest person on the block. These have been my weekend uniform for decades.

There must be something innate and hereditary about this keen fashion sense of mine. The name Mulligan originally was Molyneux before the Norman invasion, so Capt. Molyneux, the Parisian designer, must be a distant relation.

Anyhow, I can't help thinking that he and Yves St. Laurent and Oscar de la Renta and some of the other big designers have me followed every time I go to Paris or perhaps have spies tailing me on this side of the ocean to find out what new style will emerge next from those old steamer trunks in my attic.

FASHIONABLY RUMPLED seersucker suits like Louisiana Gov. Earl Long always wore on the campaign trail are bound to make a comeback. These were the first of the wash and wear miracle fabrics that needed no pressing because they came naturally wrinkled. Mine still fits. It was fashionably too big when I bought it.

Also, in the coming decade, look for shaggy wool sports jackets with leather elbows to make a comeback. Ditto, high water cuffed trousers, argyle socks, button down oxford shirts (already on display in some smart Madison Avenue shops) and two tone brown and white walking shoes. My wardrobe is loaded and poised for Dame Fashion's next edict.

Also, if a depression hits us hard again as some economists are grimly predicting, I still have my old Army overcoat with the original brass buttons, which is de rigeur for peddling apples on the boulevard.

Pregnancy demands well-balanced diet

Dear Dr. Solomon: What sort of diet should a pregnant woman follow to insure a good start for the baby? I am 25 years old and in good health, and this is my first pregnancy. - San-

Dear Sandra: During pregnancy, it is doubly important that you have a nutritious, well-balanced diet. I advise my pregnant patients that their diet should provide proteins, carbohydrates and fats; minerals that include iron, calcium and phosphorus, and vitamins that include A, C, D and the B vitamins. In addition, folic acid, which is found in green, leafy vegetables and in liver, is essential during pregnancy.

To insure getting the nutrients you need, try to vary your diet. Junk foods, often high in calories but with little nutritive value, are best avoided. You can be helped in planning menus by the nutrition labeling carried on many foods. This will show you the amounts of proteins, carbohydrates and fats, as well as the minerals and vitamins contained in each serving.

The labeling will also show you the number of calories in each serving. In general, a pregnant woman should consume about 300 calories more each day than she ordinarily would. Your obstetrician will advise you as to the amount of weight you should gain during your pregnancy, since this varies greatly with individuals. The weight should be gained gradually.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My daughter is on a strict reducing diet. Lately she has developed an orangish color on her hands, although she feels well and has no other disturbing symptoms. Do you have any explanation for this? -Mrs. E.K.

Dear Mrs. K.: The most common cause of an orange skin coloration which I see in my patiets is overindulgence in carotenoid-containing vegetables, fruits and fruit juices. The condition also may develop in some people who have a normal vegetable intake, but who seem to lack the genetic ability to convert carotenoids into vitamin A, as people normally do. Other conditions in which the sumptoms you mention may occur include hyperthyroidism, diabetes and, occasionally, renal failure.

Where a person's diet is found to be at fault, the remedy is simple; the orange color should disappear within several weeks of the time the diet is modified to exclude excessive intake of the vegetables. If any of the other conditions, such as diabetes or hyperthyroidism, are the cause, control of the disease should relieve the orangish color. For those who cannot convert carotenoids to vitamin A, the vitamin may be prescribed if its serum level is found to be below the range of normal.

If modification of her diet does not correct the condition within a few weeks, your daughter should be checked by her physician to rule out more serious causes.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.) column.)

Clonidine would be effective in treating physical addiction to all drugs derived from opium, including heroin, morphine, codeine, and the synthetic narcotic methadone, Gold said.

The article reported on the treatment of 10 patients at Fair Oaks Hospital in Summit, N.J. Gold said in an inter-

Rams valiant, but Steelers live in another world

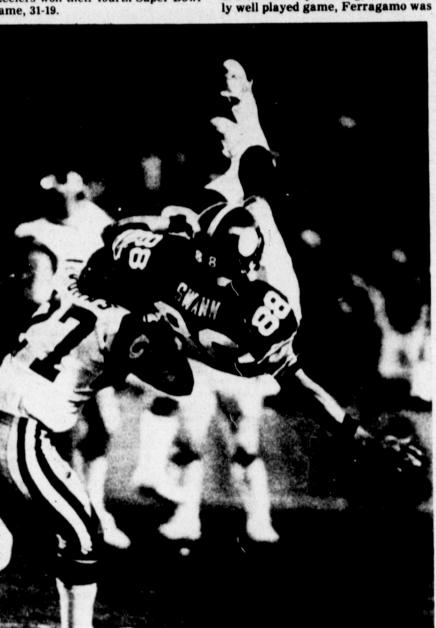

By BOB OATES

The Los Angeles Times PASADENA, Calif. - For the last several years it has sometimes seemed that there is one league for the Pittsburgh Steelers and another for the rest of those who play pro

And in the end on Sunday the Steelers won their fourth Super Bowl game, 31-19.

But you can now put another team on that top shelf. With an extraordinary performance by young quarter-back Vince Ferragamo, the Rams often outplayed the champions, coming from behind to take the lead three different times — once in each of the first three quarters.

Moreover, in the tense last quarter of a consistently exciting, marvelous-on the verge of overtaking them once more when Pittsburgh linebacker Jack Lambert stopped him with the turning point play, an intercepted

There were only 51/2 minutes left and the Steelers were only five points in front, 24-19, when, after Ferragamo had moved the surprising Rams 52 yards to the Pittsburgh 32, Lambert stepped forward and beat him.

Thereupon, the Steelers countermarched 70 yards (with the help of a close but probably correct interference call) to score their last insurance

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, always interesting, often brilliant, sometimes erratic, made the big plays that won again for Pittsburgh, which scored two touchdowns in the last 12 minutes after the Rams had led for three quarters, 19-17.

But you always expect that of Bradshaw. He played as he has almost always played in the big games of the last six years and because he did, the Steelers have twice won back-to-back Super Bowls in those six years.

THEY WON first with their 1974-75 teams and again with their 1978-79 teams to make Coach Chuck Noll by far the most successful football leader on the planet. No other club has won more than two of the first 14 matches of this series for the championship of the National Football League.

In Noll's football, the Steelers can usually do one thing well when an opponent shuts down most of their offense; and in the drama of the second half, the Rams took away everything except Pittsburgh's long

So Bradshaw beat them with that, throwing two touchdown bombs to Lynn Swann (49 yards) and John Stallworth (75 yards) to end the Ram dream in the last 30 minutes after they had led for 30, 13-10.

One of the surprises on a day of surprises was Bradshaw's passing against the Ram defense. Completing 14 of 21 attempts for 309 yards, Bradshaw set up two of Pittsburgh's four touchdowns with well-thrown balls and got the other two with bombs.

For three quarters, nonetheless, Ferragamo matched him pass for pass and almost yard for yard to convert the expected defensive struggle into a game of surpassing excitethere have now been two big ones, thanks, probably, to the newly found daring of the coaches: Noll, the Rams' Ray Malavasi and, last year, Dallas' Tom Landry.

This time, Malavasi opened up the Los Angeles offense with a successful gambling pass on fourth-and-8, a halfback scoring pass and other allout plays to stay in sight of the Steelers for most of an afternoon that began disarmingly enough with a Pittsburgh field goal.

BEFORE A record Super Bowl crowd of 103,985, the first of a series of electrifying runs by halfback Wendell Tyler - the top ballcarrier on the field - enabled the Rams to take a 7-3 first quarter lead.

Then after a Pittsburgh touchdown, Frank Corrall's two field goals gave the Rams a 13-10 halftime lead.

Finally, after Pittsburgh's second touchdown, Malavasi's free-wheeling pass offense produced a 19-17 third quarter lead for the Rams with six points set up by a 50-yard bomb (Fer-ragamo to Billy Waddy) and scored on a first-down, 24-yard halfback pass (Lawrence McCutcheon to Ron Smith).

But an ominous thing followed that touchdown. Corral missed the extra point, and, although the Rams twice intercepted Bradshaw in what remained of the third quarter, they never scored again.

Bradshaw was to strike with one last pass — to Stallworth for 45 yards - setting up the touchdown that made the Steelers a 12-point winner. They had been favored by 101/2

Stallworth's remarkable, leaningbackward, downfield catch that time planted the Steelers on the Los An geles 27 with 4 minutes left.

As of that instant the Rams had been guilty of only one turnover with a young quarterback playing only his eighth NFL game - and one penalty.

Their next, and last, penalty was to kill them. On second-and-10, still on the Ram 22, Bradshaw threw toward wide receiver Jim Smith at the goal line, where the field judge, Charle Musser, flagged Los Angeles cornerback Pat Thomas for interference.

This advanced the Steelers to the Los Angeles 1-yard line, whence fullback Franco Harris scored his second short-yardage touchdown.

Thomas' infraction, if any, was mild and insignificant — hardly com-parable with two earlier defensive plays by Pittsburgh that seemed uncalled for and at least dirty pool if not

The officials, however, didn't see anything wrong with either after, first, Pittsburgh linebacker Robin

Although MC coach Jerry Stone wasn't too pleased with the showing of his charges Thursday night, there were some bright spots. First, the Chaps played badly and with lapses of concentration, yet hung on to win. Second, Ernie Tate, playing in just his fourth college game, showed he was still improving and his 6-foot-7 frame got high enough to block five shots. Third, sophomore letterman Chucky McGill returned to action after having been sidelined since Nov. 30 with a fractured toe.

Chaps to host | Games reaction sharply divided

The U.S. Olympic Committee, facing an appeal by President Carter and sharply divided opinions from American athletes, will meet next weekend to consider the possibility of not sending a team to Moscow for the Summer Olympic Games.

"That will be one matter discussed, among others," says Col. Donald F. Miller, executive director of the USOC. "All options and alternatives will be properly discussed."

At this time as well, the USOC will poll thousands of prospective American Olympic athletes in hopes of getting a feel of the national pulse on the

In addition to the USOC affair in Colorado Springs, Colo., on Jan. 26 and 27, Miller said Sunday that he has arranged a subsequent meeting between representatives of his organization and Ireland's Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, to discuss "all aspects of this difficult and sensitive situa-

"The USOC has a trust in representing our American athletes in the international Olympic movement both the athletes of this generation and those of future generations," said Miller. "We believe that the President of the United States recognizes that trust.'

KILLANIN, meanwhile, has reaffirmed his insistence that the 1980 Summer Olympic Games cannot be shifted from Moscow

"There is no question of their being moved to another venue," Killanin was quoted today in The Times of London. "This is a time for cool heads and quiet voices."

He again said, as he did last week, that the 1980 Games were awarded to the Soviet Union in 1974, and unless the Soviets break the terms of that binding agreement, the Games cannot legally be moved.

"This does not mean that I or the IOC are condoning the political action taken by the host country," Killanin, The meeting with Killanin was in a weekend interview in Dublin, said (See REACTION, Page 2D)

Well, maybe they're not back at square one, but there are seven of the eight teams that hope so. The Midland Lee girls, the two-time defending 5-4A champions, already have put the lid on the first half title and need only to win or tie for the second half crown to go to the playoffs for the third year in a row. That's not exactly back to step one. That's a decided advantage for the Rebels.

However, interest is back a peak level for the seven other teams in the loop, hoping to knock off the Rebels. and force a district playoff.

That all begins today, and things should get off to a heated start. Abilene High moves into the Lee gym today at 8 p.m. with the first crack at the Rebels. AHS served Lee with its only first half loss, and finished only a game behind the Rebels in the first half standings. Reaction to Olympics boycott sharply divided (Continued from 1D) of Russia's recent military intervention in Afghanistan. "But if we started to make political judgements it would be the end of the Games.

The reaction from the Olympic chief and his American counterpart came as a result of Carter's nationally-televised appeal Sunday for the Summer Olympics to be moved out of Moscow, postponed or canceled if the Soviet Union does not pull its troops out of Afghanistan in a month. Carter also urged that both the Summer and Winter Games be moved to a permanent site in Greece, where the modern Olympics began in 1896.

Although Carter has no legal authority to block sending American athletes to Moscow, the President said he sent a message to the USOC on Sunday in which he outlined his position and urged that the organization present his views to the IOC, the only group that can move the

IN HIS appeal, Carter was especially careful to stay away from the term "boycott," a fact which was entirely significant to Robert F. Kane, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

"I was very pleased that he did not advocate a boycott, because I think a boycott is a most inappropriate tac-tic," said Kane. "A boycott would take us out of the Olympic movement and we would have no voice in deliberations, no part in decision-making. We would have no chance to watch and see if world tension might be calmed. There is a great difference in deciding not to send athletes for a good cause than to undercut the Olympic movement and the organization we belong to, the IOC, which owns the Games.

In a related development, the Soviet Union's national sports newspaper, Sovietsky Sport, denounced as a 'slanderous fabrication' speculation that Russia would boycott the Lake Placid Olympics. The newspaper also expressed confidence that America's efforts to undermine the Summer Games would fail.

Coincidentally, an American wrestling team sponsored by the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union, arrived in Moscow Sunday despite requests by the State Department that the team stay home. At the same time, the U.S. boxing team was scheduled to go to Russia this week to compete in pre-Olympic competition.

The boxers of the Soviet Union came here a year ago, and we have a commitment to them to return," said Donald F. Hull, head of boxing for the Amateur Athletic Union and also president of the International Amateur Boxing Association, which conducts the Olympic boxing events. HULL ADDED that the decision to go to Russia was being left to each athlete. Two boxers from the Muhammad Ali Amateur Sports Club in Santa Monica, Calif., have already pulled out. Meanwhile, Egypt officially underscored its unhappiness with the Soviet Union and considered a possible

Olympic pullout, if the situation de-Dr. Abdelhamid Hassan, the Egyptian state minister for youth and sports, said Sunday that his country's decision on whether to attend the Summer Games hinges on the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan, and the consequences of their presence there.

"Even if the Soviets withdraw," he told reporters at a news conference, "our decision will depend on what they did in Afghanistan - they may leave it a desert. Our choice will be made in the favor of the Afghan people and basic human rights.

IN AMERICA, there was no fencestraddling the issue among the nation's athletes. They were either strongly opposed or passionately behind the President's stand.

Among the angriest and most outspoken against Carter were Anita De-Frantz, a bronze medalist in rowing in the 1976 Olympics and Steve Lundquist, a member of the U.S. Olympic swimming team.

"Carter said 'we' are going to boycott the Olympics," said DeFrantz, who took a leave from a law practice to train for this year's Olympics. "I don't understand the 'we.' Where was he when I was out there freezing my butt off? I rowed all of last year except when the river was frozen.'

Lundquist, second in the world in the 100-meter breast stroke and third in the 200-meter, said: "The main point is that I have trained for 10 years now, hoping that I would get on the Olympic team. You look forward to that all your life and you train for that goal. Suddenly, they just pull it out from under you, and you don't have a goal

"I feel like we're being used as pawns in a chess game. We're being used for political reasons and I don't think the Olympics should be used for a political reason. I haven't gotten one red cent from the government. I've gotten help from individual people, from donations. If they (the government) can tell us what to do, then they should be willing to help us financially.

Nancy Lieberman, star of the Old Dominion women's basketball team, also takes a negative view of Carter's

Cole roughed up Tyler on the goal line and, second, Lambert went for Tyler's legs on a sideline run.

AS A MATTER of practice, aggressive but clean defensive players push a running back out of bounds when he's that close to the sideline. In going for the Ram's legs, Lambert could have ended Tyler's afternoon if not

Nor did there seem to be any good reason for Cole's actions when, on the play before the Rams' first touchdown in the first quarter, he kept trying to slam Tyler to the ground long after his forward progress had been aborted.

The mystery is that the officials looked the other way when Cole and Lambert were playing that kind of football and then made a borderline call against Thomas.

Field judge Musser thought Thomas was "playing the man instead of the ball" but it didn't seem to be that. It seemed to be a case of Thomas' sticking up his left arm momentarily as Stallworth made to run over him after Thomas had arrived there first. If illegal, it was a barely illegal play, but devastating to the Rams, ending their last chance. They had been outplaying Pittsburgh for much of the second half, restricting Harris to the last of his 46 yards (for a 2.3 average) on a day when Tyler outgained him with 60 and a 3.5 average.

What's more, the Rams took away

Extra to tap for fans

Special entertainment is in store for the fans who attend the Midland College-Odessa College basketball game at the Chaparral Center Monday night. The Midland College Jazz Ensemble will perform before the game and during halftime.

Game time is 8 p.m. and the Jazz Ensemble, directed by Don Haddad, is slated to begin playing at 7:30. This will be the Ensemble's first appearance of the year at a Chaparral basketball game.

"We have some outstanding musicians this semester and a larger number enrolled than we did during the fall. I think the public will enjoy hearing them play," Haddad said.

Early arrivals can see a game at 5:30 between the MC faculty team and their counterparts from UTPB. Last Thursday, the MC faculty, featuring former junior college all-America Archie Myers, now an MC assistant coach, defeated the Midland Lee faculty-staff squad.

Bradshaw's short and medium-range pass offense in the second half.

But the distinguishing thing about the Steelers under Noll is that they have more weapons than anyone else. When defensive teams stop Harris and Bradshaw short, there is always Bradshaw long. And this time the Rams couldn't handle that

THE BRADSHAW-to-Swann 45yard play that put Pittsburgh ahead in the third quarter began when Swann made a move on Thomas at Swann the lead in their footrace and Thomas never caught up.

Ram 3, Los Angeles safety Nolan Cromwell closed in and could have through Swann to get it. On another key play, Cromwell dropped an almost certain touchdown intercep-

Playing superbly against running plays as usual in his first Super Bowl, Cromwell will nevertheless think about those two Pittsburgh passes the rest of the winter.

In the fourth quarter the first of Stallworth's two big catches brought the Steelers their go-ahead touch-

Grabbing Bradshaw's 39-yard peg down the middle Stallworth gave it a 34-yard ride after Los Angeles cornerback Rod Perry, going for the ball aggressively, didn't quite get there.

The mistake wasn't Perry's. The Rams said safety Eddie Brown thought his team was deploying six deep backs that time on third-and-8 whereas there were only five on the field. His responsibilities differ in the nickel defense (five backs) and the dime (six). On a sunny afternoon in the high 60s, perfect for football, the man who may have played the most perfect football was Ferragamo, who completed 15 of 25 for 212 yards and led the Rams on touchdown marches of 59 and 77 yards and a field goal drive of

Bradshaw was to do more in the final reckoning — taking Pittsburgh 53, 61, 75 and 70 yards to four touchdowns - but Bradshaw is so old (31) and experienced (10 years in the NFL) that he's begun to think of Ferragamo has barely begun. Yet he played with more skill and coolness than almost any other Super Bowl quarterback since Joe Namath except Bradshaw and Roger Stau-

Joining forces in the fourth quarter, Ferragamo, Tyler and Waddy were moving the Rams toward what could have been the touchdown of the year putting them in a 26-24 lead with only a few minutes left — when Lambert intercepted. That's how close Ferragamo came to the biggest Super Bowl upset since

Arguello knocks out Castillo to keep title

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) Getting punched in the face is a tough way to make a living, but after he knocked out Ruben Castillo to retain his championship, Alexis Arguello told reporters: "I love my work."

Arguello, 27, of Nicaragua, was trailing on the cards of all three judges in the ninth round of Sunday's bout for the World Boxing Council's super featherweight title.

He and Castillo, 22, of Bakersfield, Calif., traded punches evenly in the tenth round but the champ took control in the 11th and put the previously unbeaten Castillo on the canvas to stay at the 2:03 mark. The scheduled 15rounder was Arguello's seventh successful title defense. After the fight, he said in halting English, "I think he never trained for 15 rounds. I think, physically, he go down and I go up. I am double in shape.

Terry surprised by MVP award

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) -There he stood on a one-foot podium, his bare midriff showing beneath a cut-off un-dershirt, a red baseball cap sitting rakishly on his head and one hand clutching a package of chewing tobacco. Knee-deep in reporters, microphones and clicking cameras, he looked beat but happily relieved and like anything but the Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XIV. "I was surprised to get the MVP," said Terry Bradshaw. "Usually it doesn't go to someone who throws three interceptions."

Then, as if recalling that the honor brings him a new sports car from Sport Magazine, he added quickly: "But I'll take it."

It was typical of the old bald eagle of the Pittsburgh Steelers who as quarterback not only led his awesomely talented, hard-hitting teammates to an unprecedented fourth Super Bowl crown but also matched Bart Starr's consecutive game MVP honors won in 1966 and 1967.

HE BASKED in the victory limelight with dignity and grace. And humility — especially humility.

He didn't thrust out his chest. He refused to gloat. He had nothing but praise for his beaten adversary, the Los Angeles Rams, beaten 31-19 in one of the most exciting slugfests in the 14-year history of the season-end extravaganza, and the team's raw young quarterback Vince Ferraga-forced Castillo into a neutral corner and pum-"This one was the toughest," he meled him for 15 seconds said, looking back over the Steelers' previous triumphs in 1975, 1976 and last year. This one was the most satisfying. I tried to warn all you guys they (the Rams) were going to be hard to beat.

It was a soothing balm for the guitar-thumping, country-singing good ol' boy from Louisiana whose first six years with the Steelers were marked by spectator boos and newspaper accounts putting his intelligence under Bradshaw was particularly pleased with his two long passes to wide re-ceiver John Stallworth in the final quarter - the first a 73-yard guided missile early in the period to take the lead, the second a 45-yarder with five minutes to go that set up the final touchdown.

'The first one was the big one," he said. "The second one drove the nail in the coffin."

It's been an exhausting though satisfying year for the raw-boned, 31-year-old veteran from Grand Crane,

"I AM drained. I am tired of football," he confessed. "I will play in the Pro Bowl in Hawaii Sunday but after that I'm going to settle down on the

"I can't wait. I want to think about football and what it means to me for three months."

Newsmen pricked up their ears. 'Does that mean you're thinking about quitting football?" someone asked. "Don't write that in the paper," he corrected quickly. "It would stir up some waves. I just want to get away, from it all for a while." Bradshaw is a home-loving man. He and his wife, former Olympic skating star Jo Jo Starbuck, have a nice spread with a stable of stan-

BORGER, Texas (AP) - A cracking unit at a gasoline refinery explod ed four miles from Borger in the second accident at the site in four months, causing widespread destruction and injuring at least 41 persons.

Flames sprouted 200 feet high Sunday following a series of four blasts that sparked the spectacular fire and demolished part of the refinery. Shock waves collapsed ceilings in nearby homes, shattered plate glass windows in Borger and were felt 30 miles away in Pampa.

"It was more like an earthquake," said Ada Westbrook who lives in a

About 200 residents in the plant-side community of Phillips were evacuated at the height of the fire. They were allowed to return late Sunday, but many opted to stay with friends rather than return to windowless homes in freezing rain and 28-degree tempera-

ANDER

PASADENA, Calif. -Astronomers at the California Institute of Technology have discovered large, wispy clouds of pure hydrogen and heedges of the observable universe, clouds so uncontaminated by other elements that they could only be the remnants from the "Big Bang" that created the universe somewhere between 12

Now the almost unanimous scientific theory of the universe's origins and evolution, the Big Bang model states that there was a stupendous explosion of radiation, along with trace amounts of matter, from an atomic pin-hole 12 billion to 18 billion years

That radiation - visible light, X-rays, ultraviolet and infra-red rays, microwaves and radio waves - expanded outward in all directions and at incredible speeds. But as it expanded, she radiation also slowed and cooled - so much so that by the end of a million years after the explosion, some of that energy began to condense out as hydrogen and he-And as more time passed and that radiation decelerated and its temperatures dropped further, still more of it was transformed into increasing quantities of hydrogen, deuterium (a heavy form of hydrowavelengths had been absorbed gen), helium and lithium. These are the lightest elements. The primordial clouds blew outward, expanding the volume of the universe as they did so, but it was another 3 billion to 4 billion years after the Big Bang before these elements began clumping together to form stars and galaxies. At that, only a fraction of the matter in the primordial, pristine clouds went into the making of

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL MAJOR OIL COMPANIES, IN-

DEPENDENTS AND INDIVIDUAL OPERATORS WHO PRODUCE AND SELL NATURAL GAS IN TEXAS RAILROAD COMMISSION DISTRICT NO. 8: Are you renegotiating gas purchase contracts on high risk gas wells in Railroad Commission District No. 8 as a result of deregulation? If so, do you find it difficult to obtain information on other contracts renegotiated

since November 1, 1979, which could be legally used to establish a base price for your new contract? We, as an independent, are currently faced with this problem. It could be very costly to us and others with the same problem if it is not solved now. How can we or the gas purchaser satisfy contractual requirements to set a new gas price based on the highest prices prevailing under other agreements if we do not know what new gas purchase prices apply to gas sold or purchased in the contract area after deregulation occured on November 1, 1979? There is no reporting agency, either private, state or federally sponsored that provides this information in a complete, comprehensive manner. Therefore, it is up to the operators to provide each other with all such information so that we can effectively renegotiate gas purchase contracts. This information is needed not only to protect our own interests but also the interests of our investors, working interest owners and the mineral owners to the best of our ability. We cannot depend upon gas purchasers to provide this information. FERC rules and regulations not applicable to us as operators may prohibit the gas purchasers from releasing this information. Our company has access to some information on contracts involving other operators which have been renegotiated and executed after November 1, 1979. These use the Pemex base price as the base price for the high risk gas produced and sold in Railroad Commission District No. 8 effective November 1, 1979 on a retroactive basis. Further, we have been informed that there are other contracts now being renegotiated which also use this same base price as the new renegotiated price. If you are interested in receiving information which we have or if you have any information on any contracts for high risk gas in Railroad Commission District No. 8 which have been executed after November 1, 1979, or contracts which have been or are being renegotiated due to deregulation in this same district, please call the following number immediately:
