U.S. advances initiatives to free hostages in Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) - With six American diplomats back in the United States after a high-risk escape from Iran, the Carter administration continued work today on a series of initiatives to win freedom for 50 other Americans still held captive in

The immediate administration concern was that the Americans left behind might be the target of harsh treatment by Iranian authorities in retaliation for the Canadian-sponsored

At the same time, there were signs that the administration's three-month quest for the safe release of the 50 hostages may be making progress.

After a briefing on the Iranian situation Wednesday by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told reporters, "There is some ground for hope we can find a way to secure the release of the hostages.'

Hours earlier, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter declined to rule out the possibility that the hostages might be released to a third party, such as the Red Cross, if agreement can be reached on the opening of a U.N. tribunal on the reign of the former Shah of Iran.

Other officials, who asked not to be identified, said the administration is working on a number of initiatives to end the hostage crisis, now in its 89th day.

However, Iranian delegates at the meeting of Islamic foreign ministers in Pakistan had said on Tuesday that Iran was standing by its demand that the deposed shah be returned as its price for the release of the hostages.

Meanwhile, at Dover Air Force Base in Delaware, relatives gathered to greet the six diplomats on their arrival from Frankfurt, West Germany, shortly after nightfall Wednesday.

The diplomats were to remain secluded at the base today and then fly to Washington for a news conference Friday afternoon. Since their escape from Iran this past weekend, the diplomats have been meeting with U.S. officials, discussing just how much they should say publicly about their experience.

"There are extraordinarily sensitive matters involved," spokesman Carter told reporters.

Relatives of the returned diplomats said they were elated the long ordeal was over but several turned their thoughts to those Linda Anders, wife of escaped consular official Robert G. Anders, 34, said in Port Charlotte, Fla., "He is very lucky. We're sorry it's not everyone. I hope it will soon be everyone - that all the people will be out soon.

That sentiment was echoed by Setsuko Amurn, whose daughter, Cora Lijek, and son-in-law, Mark Lijek, both 25, were among the six who returned.

"I wish something could be done to bring the other people home," she said from her Oceanport, N.J., home.

The diplomats had been sheltered for weeks at the Canadian Embassy and made their escape last weekend with the help of Canadian passports and forged Iranian visas. Canada simultan-

The plaudits for Canada's role in assisting the Americans continued to pour in Wednesday. Senate and House resolutions commending Canada were approved overwhelmingly.

At the Canadian Embassy in Washington, the switchboard was jammed with calls all day from grateful Americans. Next door, a huge "Thanks Canada" sign went up on a wall of the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Flora MacDonald shrugged off her government's role. "We happen to be closest neighbors, best friends. What else would one have done?

She also seemed unconcerned by Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh's comment that "the Canadian government will sooner or later pay" for helping smuggle the Americans out

Carter administration officials, however, expressed concern over another remark by Ghotbzadeh that the approximately 50 American hostages "most probably" will be treated more harshly because of Canada's "duglicity and cheating."

But the militarits occupying the embassy refrained from immediately endorsing the foreign mihister's threat.

At the State Department, spokesman Carter said any reprisals against the hostages would be "irrational."

New fighting is reported in rebellious Kurdistan, in western Iran, along with clashes at Tehran University. At least 10 persons were killed and 20 injured Wednesday in battles between Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary guardsmen and Kurdish rebels, reports reaching Tehran said. Pars, the official news agency, said the rebels killed two army officers they had been holding hostage since Monday in the town Kurds and other ethnic minorities in Iran have been battling the central government for more autonomy for centuries, and Khomeini's regime has been plagued by the same insurrections since his revolution ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi nearly a year ago.

Tehran Radio reported clashes at Tehran University Wednesday afternoon. Officials of the revolutionary regime said friction has been building up in the capital for some time, "leading to disorders and disturbances.'

The broadcast did not say which groups wer5 fighting, but Marxist and anti-Marxist factions have battled each other in Tehran's streets off and on since the revolution.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Minister Abbas Sheibani ordered rationing of fresh meat. He cited high prices, short supplies and a ban on imports of frozen meat. Tehran Radio said the quota for families in southern Iran would be up to 4.4 pounds each week, and families elsewhere would get 8.8 pounds

Khomeini, still hospitalized after suffering a mild heart attack last week, was reported in "entirely satisfactory" condition by his doctor today, the government radio said. The medical bulletin said the 79-year-old revolutionary leader's recovery was that he was able to take a bath Wednesday night.

Highway north and east to Lamesa Road. Midland County and the city of Midland are "coming along pretty good" on acquiring necessary rights of way for the Loop project, said

At one point, escalation in land prices along the proposed new route placed city and county officials in a quandry as from where the money for rights of way would come, causing a delay in starting the project. But the state came through with $3.5 million to be split among Midland city and county governments, Ector County and the city of Odessa.

"Acquisition of rights of way won't slow anything down now," said Muery. The problem now will be removing improvements and utilities from those rights of way.

Also at the chamber luncheon, Rocky Ford reported the county had agreed to participate in the Midland Industrial Development Corp. As set up under a law passed by the last State Legislature, this corporation may sell tax-exempt revenue bonds for financing industries, said Ford. "This is a less costly method of financing new businesses within Midland," Ford explained. Harrell Feldt will head the corporation.

Ford also pointed out an article in the Jan. 21, 1980, issue of Business Week magazine on Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. In this article, L. Stanton Williams, chairman and chief executive of PPG, noted that his company plans to spend $1.5 billion over the next five years, with a fourth of that going to the Midland plant. This will be about $400 million going into the fiberglass-producing plant here, said Ford.

MidTran to begin rolling Monday Ceremonies marking beginning to be held Friday

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

It's not a shining high-rise structure or a new business that's opening its doors. But with the snip of a ribbon during a ceremony at 10 a.m. Friday at Midland Center, one of the more unique transportation systems in the country - known as MidTran gets rolling.

With all the fanfare befitting a longterm project, the ceremony for Mid-Tran will include Chamber of Commerce officials, a representative from General Motors Transportation Engineering Department, city officials and others who have been involved with the transportation system since its inception 21/2 years ago.

Getting more buses will be a matter for the Midland City Council to wrestle with, according to the director. If more buses are ordered in the near future, it will take at least six months before they are delivered.

THINGS HAVE CHANGED a lot in the past two years since the system was first designed, she noted.

During the summer of 1977 the seeds for Midland's first public transportation system were planted by the Chamber of Commerce. That agency assigned a task force to study the Tall City's problems and needs, and to come up with a solution.

Those seeds were nurtured by a GM transportation study team which designed the concept of MidTran, and Police end search for suspect with unusual chase scene

In a bizarre chase Wednesday night, Midland police ended a concen-trated search for a man wanted on warrants for forgery and aggravated robbery out of Midland and for forgery out of Kermit.

According to police, detectives discovered the man's telephone number and, by crosschecking with the city directory, discovered the man's address, too.

However, the man moved two weeks ago, taking his telephone number with him

Police late Wednesday night surrounded the empty house where he used to live, then called the telephone number and told him to come out and surrender.

He did. But no one was there. He was at the new address, while police were contemplating using tear as since no one was coming out of the house at the old address. Police soon discovered the house was empty, rechecked and found the new address. In the meantime, though, the man had left that address and gone to an inn. Police arrived at the new address, found where the man had gone and subsequently arrested him.

Police believe the man to be re sponsible for an armed robbery Jan. 25 at 2100 Wadley, in which a 23-yearold Midland woman suffered powder burns to her face and eyes. According to police at the time of that robbery, the man approached the woman from behind as she was getting into her car one morning and demanded her money. As the woman turned to look, the man fired. The woman fell over in the seat and threw her handbag back towards the man, who fled on foot.

The man is also suspected of being responsible for an attack on a security guard at the Midland Hilton earlier

Police said the guard saw a man about 3 a.m. Monday near some cars in the Hilton parking lot. When the guard asked the man what he was doing, he reportedly swung at the guard with a knife.

Canada's action "has shown the entire world that...honorable commitment toward civilized ideals of international conduct cannot be shaken by terrorist threats," the resolution said

The six Americans, who eluded militant Iranians when they stormed the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4, went into hiding with Canadian help. They left Iran posing as Canadian diplomats before Canada closed its embassy in Iran on Monday.

the plan was accepted by the chamber and City Council. In April 1978 MidTran was born as a non-profit corporation and the work of implementing the system began. For 11/2 years, MidTran's board and transportation coordinator have worked on getting the necessary state, local and federal funding, sought bids on equipment and waited for the buses to arrive.

Friday's ribbon-cutting will be a coming-of-age ceremony for the city's newest department, which will officially be adopted later that day in a special session of the City Council.

DURING THE TIME it has taken to implement MidTran, gasoline has gone up from somewhere near 50 cents to more than $1 a gallon. Gas shortages have caused lines to form and service stations to close early, even in Midland, a petroleum center for the country

And because the Tall City is a petroleum center is exactly why the people involved with MidTran felt it important for Midland to take the lead in conserving energy, said John Ingram, president of the board.

'In an area where 35 percent of the oil in the U.S. is produced, we normally should be the least energy conservation conscious," Ingram remarked of the board's unusual

One aspect of MidTran's uniqueness is the plan to pick up people at their doors, not at a bus stop several blocks down the street.

Another unusual point of the program is MidTran's "total comprehensive look at the transportation needs in the community," Ingram said. "It's not just a bus system. It is extremely complex and will address all needs in the community.'

HENRY PEARSON, district engineer with the State Department of Highways and Transportation, conceded the system "is different from any I know about in Texas. It combines three or four different ways to handle transit.'

One way of handling Midland's needs is through subscription by delivering workers to their job and, later, at home.

The second important part is called demand-responsive and is based upon citizens making arrangements a day ahead when they need to go somewhere. During the late morning and early afternoon, MidTran buses will be used to take people shopping, to doctors' offices or even across town to visit friends.

In the future, MidTran will coordinate transportation for all senior citizens and rides already provided by United Way agencies, according to A member of the Michigan-based GM study team, speaking of the combination subscription with demandresponsive service, said "there is nothing that has been in that form in another area of the country.'

BY SPLITTING THE system, Mid-said the GM man. "It makes the best utilization of vehicles and is cost-effective. The buses only respond to user request. If there is enough request to operate only two buses during the afternoon, the other buses will stay at the garage."

Even as the first MidTran bus rolls out of the city garage about 6 a.m. Monday, work on the system won't

Senate panel wants explanation of Carter's registration request

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Senate committee has asked the White House to explain President Carter's request that Congress eliminate a littleknown barrier to the military draft.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said the proposal "reinforces that registration is but the first major step toward reinstitution of the draft."

The White House denied the claim. Meanwhile, representatives from several diverse women's organizations suggested Wednesday that women should be included in President Carter's draft registration pro-

Carter has not said whether his registration plan will include women, but a decision on that issue is expected soon.

In his State of the Union speech last week, Carter, citing an increased threat from the Soviet Union, said he plans to reinstate registration for a possible military draft. He can resurrect registration without Congress' approval, but congressional action would be required to resume the draft. The issue raised by Hatfield concerns an administration request that Congress delete a section of existing law that says none of the money appropriated for the Selective Service System "may be expended for, or in connection with, the induction of any person into the armed forces of the United States.' The deletion request was made in an appendix to Carter's proposed budget for fiscal 1981. Administration officials say even if the provision were removed, Carter still would need specific authority

The Odessa League of Women Voters had protested the Carlsbad site on the basis that it was too near several aquifers which supply 40 to 50 percent of the water for Ector, Ward, Winkler and Pecos counties. And, though not currently in use, Midland owns water rights under the T-Bar Ranch, approximately 40 miles from the WIPP site.

The League felt that insufficient studies had been conducted to guarantee the safety and purity of these aquifers and had requested a study by the Environmental Protection Agency

'We are pushing harder than ever now to get the EPA to set a priority for our study. EPA gives a priority status to the studies they are considering, and hopefully, this will encourage them to give us a priority and do a top-notch job. This decision will make it easier for us to get what we need done done," she said.

"Then, when we get back to re-evaluating, we will have the information we really need to make the decision we need.

IRA and KEOGH Retirement Plans at First Savings are the sure way to build for a secure retirement, and get a tax break at the same time.

With an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at First Savings you can save for the future at the impressive rate of 8% (effective annual yield 8.33%). Deduct whatever you save - up to $1500 - from your gross income. And defer every penny in taxes on your IRA until you withdraw it, normally after retiring. Then, you'll probably have less income and possibly be in a lower tax bracket. (NOTE: There are severe penalties for early withdrawals.)

Here's an example of what an IRA can do for you. If you start an IRA at age 30, and deposit the maximum of $1500 per year until age 65, at the current interest rate, your IRA will be worth over $300,000. That's a tidy sum to start retirement, if you want to retire that young. By the way, your IRA is in addition to standard social security benefits. But remember, the deadline is the date your tax return is due in order to get your full tax deduction.

A Keogh Plan works much the same as an IRA except that it is designed for the self-employed individual, whereas the IRA is designed for the individual not covered by a pension or retirement plan. A Keogh Plan permits an annual deposit of up to $7500. With a Keogh Plan, you get the same tax advantages and interest rate as an IRA. However, the deadline for starting a Keogh is December the 31st, and you can make your final deposit on the day you file

So stop by the First Savings offices downtown or San Miguel Square and let the "FISCAL FITNESS PEOPLE" show you the sure way to save for your retirement. It's getting later than you think . . .

We all know, including the Midland City Council and Police Chief Wayne Gideon, that the crime rate in the Tall City is rising daily.

What, then, will it take the council and Chief Gideon to realize that a twoman Crime Prevention Unit of the Midland Police Department cannot take care of a city that is growing like Midland?

It's all the two officers can do to take care of the schools (26) and their

Will you find out for me from Chief Gideon, since he is a law enforcement official, if he favors crime prevention or does he not care about the people? Would he stand before the City Council and tell members that he supports crime prevention in this city? Thank you. P.G.

ANSWER: Police Chief Wayne Gideon responds that he has in the past gone before the City Council to request more assistance with crime prevention, but the council has to consider priorities and requests as related to the budget from the departments of the city.

If I mail a traffic ticket with a check sufficient to pay the fine for a traffic offense, does this admit guilt? - Mrs. R.H.

The State Bar adds that in a personal injury suit, a plea of guilty in a traffic offense is admissible as evidence to determine who was legally at fault in an accident.

Israeli drivers said among most dangerous in world

By CHRIS CELEK

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Drivers in this small nation rank among the world's worst, but traffic-safety officials have yet to find out why Israelis are such a motoring menace.

The safety experts say errors by hot-rodding Israelis cause 90 per cent of all the accidents, in which about 50 persons die each month. Why Israelis are so reckless puzzles the traffic policemen and safety-council re-

The problem is clear: half of Israel's 900,000 licensed drivers will be seriously injured during their motoring lifetime, according to the Technion Road Safety Center in Haifa. Last year, 640 Israelis died in traffic accidents, nearly half of them pedestrians. Figures for the first nine months of 1979 show 442 fatalities, compared with 428 for the same period last year.

"We've got a new battle front for Israelis to die on, the driving front," says Maj. Josef Wasserman, of Tel Aviv's police traffic division.

A 1977 study done by the Technion Road Safety Center ranked Israel far above seven European nations in the rate of traffic accidents causing deaths or injuries. And a 1978 survey by the center showed that, in the United States, 2.13 persons died for every 100 million kilometers (62 million miles) driven, while in Israel 6.16 persons perished.

Traffic-safety officials cite numerous factors contributing to the high accident rate: most Israelis are firstgeneration drivers with little formal driving training; stiff import taxes on new vehicles make buying a late model car nearly impossible and repairs on older cars and trucks often are neglected; poor road conditions and few modern, Western-standard highways, and the drivers' temperament, which the safety experts say is

"If a foreign driver comes to Israel, he'll see the impatience and the risks people take. You don't know what to expect out on the road," says Technion's Dr. Moshe Becker.

Nathan Tel-Nir, secretary-general of the National Council for the prevention of Road Accidents, points to stunts such as passing on the right, jockeying from lane to lane just to advance a few feet before traffic lights change from red to green, and speeding through stop signs at busy intersections, as carelessness that can be seen daily on Israel's crowded

Wasserman simply says, "the drivers here are not too polite.'

Safety education programs for grade-school children and once-aweek radio shows warning Israelis of highway dangers have been started to fight the high mortality rate. The national police force began in September a massive crackdown on trafvolunteer observers who help the police spot speedsters.

These efforts have apparently caught the public's eye, Tel-Nir says. While the number of fatalities increased during the first nine months of this year over the same period in 1978, the total number of accidents dropped from 17,500 to 16,991.

U.S. mayors meet, don't like domestic spending freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Conference of Mayors has said it does not like the domestic spending freeze in President Carter's new budget, but fears it may be the best the cities can hope for because of national preoccupation with defense and inflation.

A critique of Carter's fiscal 1981 budget said the document will cost the nation's cities in loss of services and will increase unemployment without doing much about inflation.

But John Gunther, executive director of the conference which represents most of the nation's big cities, said the mayors nevertheless would back Carter, "to achieve at least the budget levels set forth by the presi-

Gunther said there were important gains for cities in the budget, including presidential support for some programs dear to the mayors. "But after adjusting for inflation, there's also a cut in domestic spending which the cities are expected to absorb," he said.

The mayors' budget analysis praised Carter's decision to continue federal revenue sharing for state and local governments and plans for "countercyclical" aid to help cities if a recession hits.

But it claimed a disparity with defense spending. "While local governments fall behind being in the race against inflation, the Defense Department will realize an increase of 14 percent in budget authority and 12 percent in outlays, on top of a substantial increase in fiscal year 1980," the mayors said.

The entire $52 billion increase in the new budget is taken up by the Pentagon and uncontrollable spending, such as Social Security and interest on the public debt, the analysis said.

"Given the 13 percent inflation rate, domestic programs and service levels in the fiscal 81 budget will be cut significantly in real terms," the mayors said.

The analysis said Carter's budget is expected to raise unemployment to 7.5 percent this year and keep it high throughout 1981.

It also said inflation will remain in the double digit range despite budget restraints and "this continuing high inflation threatens to impose significant burdens on local governments.'

"The Conference of Mayors recognizes the seriousness of the nation's inflation problem," the budget analysis said. "We bore a heavy burden last year because of inflation.

'At the same time city budgets were escalating because of inflation, we were asked to absorb heavy cuts in federal programs," it said. "While the fiscal year 81 budget represents an improvement over fiscal year 1980, we are concerned that we will not be asked to assume more than our economic share of the federal government's economic policies and prob-

Buy steaks now to avoid higher costs later this year

By MERLE ELLIS

It may seem a little early to be thinking about it, but if the thought of a steak sizzling on the barbecue as you sip a beer on the patio sounds good to you, now is the time to buy that steak. The beer is not likely to go up in price much as the barbecue season approaches, but the cost of the steak almost certainly will.

Beef prices have remained fairly steady for the past few weeks. They have actually dropped 2 cents a pound on the wholesale market. That drop is not, however, an indication of any trend. Predictions from informed sources are that beef prices could, and probably will, go up by as much as 15 percent in 1980.

The beef industry is still in their up on steaks. Pork and poultry proba-"rebuild-the-herd" stage, which means that the female of the species is being kept off the market for breeding purposes and the supply of beef for steaks is likely to be limited until well into 1981.

So if you're thinking steak for the summer of '80, now is the time to buy. Those cuts of beef that make great steaks are always less expensive in January, February and March than they are in June, July and August. That fact has been recognized by the restaurant industry for years. That is why they are filling their freezers today with loins and ribs that probably won't be served as steaks until from the packer in boxes as "boxed beef." More and more markets are switching to boxed sub-primals, and you can take advantage of that fact to save yourself some money.

The rib-eye roll and the strip loin are two sub-primal cuts that are readily available, easy to work with and perfect for stocking up on steaks at better than summer prices.

The rib-eye roll is just the meaty heart of the primal rib. It's the tender muscle from which the butcher cuts what he calls "Spencer steaks,"

"Delmonico steaks" or "market steaks," depending on which part of the country the market is in, or sometimes which side of the street the They are the coming trend in meat market is on. Check the price of "ribmerchandising - boneless, vacuum- eye steaks," or whatever they are packaged pieces of meat, shipped called, in the market where you shop. Then ask the butcher how much you can save if you buy a whole rib-eye roll and cut your own. You may find it well worth it to do a little cutting-upin-the-kitchen.

The rib-eye roll will-weigh between 8 and 12 pounds, depending upon the size of the animal from which it came, and may easily be cut into steaks as thick or as thin as you like. Since it contains no bone and little, if any, excess fat, it is as simple as slicing bread to cut one into steaks. The strip-loin is another sub-primal that is vey easy to cut up yourself, and one that provides some of the best steaks the steer has to offer. This is the boneless top loin muscle of the primal short loin. Steaks from this section are variously called New York steaks, Kansas City strips or strip steaks. Whatever you choose to call them, you can very likely save some money if you buy the whole strip-loin and cut your own. Properly wrapped and frozen, the steaks you buy today will be just as juicy and flavorful as those you buy this summer. The major difference probably will be in the price. Now's the time to stock up on steaks.

Eat your heart out

ROCHESTER, N.Y. - This Valentine's Day you might like to make an edible Valentine to use as a centerpiece for a party. Heart O' Gold Cheese Spread will help you set the theme. It's a sweetheart of a recipe, ideal for teenage or adult par-

This savory cheese heart gets a special nip from worcestershire sauce while prepared yellow mustard adds a golden yellow color and mellow flavor. You can make this spread shortly befoe a party, or well in advance.

To make the shaping easier draw a heart about 6 to 8 inches across on a piece of cardboard. Cut it out and cover with foil or plastic wrap, then shape the cheese mixture right on top. Whole unblanched almonds make your valentine pretty as a picture.

Zesty Beef Dip adds a tasty contrast to the cheese spread. It can be prepared in minutes right in a chafing dish or fondue pot.

HEART O' GOLD CHEESE SPREAD

1 pkg (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened 1 cup shredded Swiss cheese 1 tbsp. prepared yellow mustard 1 tbsp. worcestershire sauce 1/4 tsp. garlic powder unblanched almonds, if desired assorted crackers

Beat together all ingredients, except almonds and crackers, until smooth. Refrigerate 30 minutes, or until firm. Form into heart shape on serving platter; Location Desired garnish with almonds. Serve with crackers. Makes about 2 cups.

Report of investigators accuses refiners

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional investigators say U.S. refiners took more than $3 billion in unwarranted profits last year through unjustified price increases for heating oil and diesel fuel.

The increases will add about $130 to this winter's fuel bill for the typical

American family using heating oil, the investigators say. An industry group said the rising cost of crude oil was responsible for higher fuel prices, and a leading supplier said prices had not kept up with industry

The investigators' report, released Wednesday by the chairman of the House Government Operations commerce subcommittee, prompted new calls for price controls on heating oil. A coalition of citizen and labor groups filed a petition with the Energy Department seeking a return to price ceilings. Controls were lifted in 1976 after the Ford administration assured Congress that competition would hold profit margins to their historic 1- to 2-cent-per-

While profit margins for heating oil were still at 1.6 cents per gallon in September 1978, the new study said, they rose over the next 13 months to an average 14.5 cents per gallon. Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chairman, said the study "provides confirmation that U.S. oil refiners are indeed guilty of

He blamed the overcharges on "profit-hungry refiners and lax governmental enforcement of the price standards for refined petroleum products."

Rosenthal named no companies, saying the practice was industry-wide and none should be singled out. However, Exxon Corp., a leading supplier of heating oil, said in response to questioners that the charges were baseless. And the American Petroleum Institute said Energy Department figures show that price controls would have shaved the retail price by only seventenths of a cent per gallon had they been in effect last winter

The congressional study said that domestic oil refiners' profits increased by more than 800 percent from September 1978 to September 1979. Profits on diesel fuel increased by more than 700 percent during the same period, the study said. For both fuels, the increased profits amounted to $3.4 billion, the

Rep. Anthony Moffett, D-Conn., who accompanied Rosenthal in releasing the report, said he will hold hearings Feb. 12 on why the administration has not acted to stop the huge price increases.

'There's a question of broken promises," Moffett said. "This administration and the last administration promised to monitor prices. They promised that consumers would not suffer unduly" from the lifting of federal price con-

"That promise has clearly been broken," Moffett added. E. A. Robinson, Exxon senior vice president, said the congressional analysis was "baseless and ignores the facts. The record shows that Exxon heating oil, diesel and other product prices have not been excessive when considering cost increases and are fully consistent with the Council on Wage and Price Stability guidelines. "In Exxon's case, prices have not kept up with cost increases," he added. The Energy Department said it would have no immediate comment on the studies or the congressmen's remarks. The Council on Wage and Price Stability, mentioned by Rosenthal as one villain, said it does monitor prices and has notified some companies they may be violating the guidelines, although it has made no final determination.

Meanwhile, the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition announced that it had filed a petition with the Energy Department calling for reinstating price controls on home heating oil. Robert Brandon, the coalition's director, said the Energy Department has authority to reimpose controls without further legislation.

Among the members of the coalition are the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the International Association of Machinists, the National Education Association, the National Urban League and the Consumer Federation of

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who is challenging Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination, called for controls as he criticized Carter's handling of the fuel oil situation. 'Nothing short of mandatory controls, including controls of refiner profits, can stop this extraordinary inflationary spiral encouraged by the president's unwillingness to enforce simple economic fustice," Kennedy said.

A separate study of heating oil prices by the coalition came up with slightly different figures, but the same general conclusion. The coalition study said the oil companies increased their profit margins on heating oil from 2.7 cents per gallon in October 1978 to 12.7 cents per gallon a year later, indicating about $1.6 billion in overcharges for heating oil.

The coalition said the extra charge would cost the typical family about $135

U.S. wants sports event in Third World

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration says any alternative to the summer Olympic Games in Moscow should be held outside the United States, preferably in a Third World

However, Nelson Ledsky, deputy assistant secretary of state, told the House transportation and commerce subcommittee Wednesday that the United States would be ready to host an alternative competition if necessary.

Ledsky also said the United States would provide money for alternate games but declined to say how much because, he said, "It is too early to answer this question."

"Much would depend on where the games would be located, how many nations would agree to participate, and what contributions we might be able to obtain from others," he

Ledsky said the United States has "sounded out" nations that have hosted the Olympics in the last 20 years but did not disclose most of their responses. But responding to questions from Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., Ledsky said Mexico, host for the 1968 Olympics, would prefer to send a team to Moscow and that West Germany did not believe facilities are available in Munich, site of the 1972 Olympics.

President Carter has asked that the International Olympic Committee consider relocating, postponing or canceling the summer Olympics in Moscow in retaliation for the Soviets sending troops into Afghanistan.

Carter has said that if the IOC does not support his proposal, American athletes should boycott the Olympics. He also said he would recommend that American athletes participate in alternative games, possibly joined by athletes from nations that support the United States position. The subcommittee hearing was held to receive recommendations for alternatives to the Moscow Olympics. Gov. Brendan T. Byrne of New Jersey suggested the competition be staged in the New York City metropolitan area because nearly all the physical facilities are already in

F. Donald Miller, USOC executive director, said he did not believe an international alternative to the Moscow Games would be feasible this year. He suggested it would take two years to develop an alternative site and would cost between $250 million and $350 million.

Miller has suggested having a national sports festival, similar to ones held in Colorado Springs, Colo., the past two years. He said such an event could be underwritten by private donations and limited to American athletes.

Ledsky said the United States was interested in organizing some form of alternative games this summer or fall because "we want our athletes to be able to compete. They have worked hard, often for years, to perfect their skills."

Miller said the athletes will get a chance to compete because trials will be held to select a U.S. Olympic team regardless of whether Americans participate in Moscow. "I just hope the American people and you (Congress) support our athletes who are being asked to make a great sacrifice," he said. "There is no substitute for participating in the Olympics but I would suggest you consider awarding to the 550 members selected to the U.S. team the Medal of Free-

Dancers still swirl in famed old Roseland

By JERRY SCHWARTZ

NEW YORK (AP) - Melba Status glides through the Roseland lobby, past the "Wall of Fame" that displays the shoes of famous dancers, past the list of 700 married couples who met at the dance palace, into the ballroom awash with red-and-purple

She scans the dance floor for her own Fred Astaire, a partner for the tango and, perhaps, for life.

'I come here two or three nights a week. I come here to dance and to meet somebody, but mainly to dance," said Miss Status. "It makes me happy, and I'm no teen-ager, either. It's better than a singles

Roseland will celebrate its 60th birthday with a gala on Wednesday; Melba Status celebrates Roseland every time she steps onto the dance floor. Miss Status is 36 years old. She wears a red dress and ties back her brown hair with a blue ribbon. She says she is a good dancer, but that many of her

"I try to get them to relax, to enjoy themselves. I pull them along. And even if they're not good, I give them compliments," she says.

Roseland's owners want to dispel the ballroom's

'lonelyhearts" image, but the ballroom has always been a place for singles. Lou Brecker apparently had mating on his mind when he opened the first Roseland in Philadelphia in 1916. The legend goes that Brecker — just 19 — was dating his future wife and wanted a "nice place" where they could go. So he created one.

Three years later, partly to escape Pennsylvania's blue laws, Brecker moved his dance palace to 51st Street and Broadway in New York. It opened New Year's Eve, 1919.

They did the waltz and the tango, but also the black-bottom and the two-step. Briefly, Roseland had hostesses - women who charged 10 cents a dance but could not otherwise "socialize" with

In the '30s and '40s, the Big Bands played the hall - Benny Goodman, the Dorseys, Glenn Miller and Eddie Duchin among them.

In 1956, Roseland took over a skating rink on 52nd Street west of Broadway. It has been there ever Roseland is a cavernous place, with roses on the walls, on the railing around the dance floor and on the rugs, but no live roses anywhere.

Two bands play every night — one playing popular music to ballroom beats, the other Latin music. Brecker died in 1977. By then Roseland's bloom had faded. The crowds had shrunk and the place itself was threadbare. "The crowd was a bit on the elderly side, and because my father knew my mother was ill, his heart was not in doing all the things he normally would have done," says Nancy Brecker Leeds, Brecker's daughter and his successor as head of Roseland. Mrs. Leeds took over just as the movie "Saturday Night Fever" was released, and she made a crucial choice: Roseland would go disco.

The interior was refurbished, the sound system was replaced, and lights and mirrored balls were hung from the ceiling. Roseland now offers "hustle" lessons on Wednesdays, and the half block-long dance floor becomes a disco from 11 p.m. to 4 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights. The result is Roseland's split-personality.

Matinees and evenings are popular with middle-age and elderly dancers, but the disco crowd is younger and bigger — as many as 3,000 on a Saturday night, compared with 150 ballroom dancers on Wednesday.

Mrs. Leeds, a dignified, pleasant woman, refuses to compare the Roseland disco with its trendy neighbor, Studio 54.

"We don't try and cater only to the beautiful people. We want people who really want to dance and want to have a good time. We want everybody in, we don't want to keep anybody out. Roseland was here long before, and it will be here long after Studio 54." she says.

Although Mrs. Leeds says she loves disco music she has a portable stereo in her office - her enthusiasm is not shared by all foxtrot fanatics.

"We come up here to dance, not to listen to that," Frank Vaccara, 67, a junk dealer from Passaic Park. N.J., says of the disco music.

Vaccara has thrice married women he met at Roseland. He also has been divorced four times. Vaccara was back at Roseland on a recent week-

"Occasionally you meet a fine lady, you take her out to dinner, and then — well, I needn't outline the whole procedure for you," he said.

On a Wednesday night, there are singles but many couples, too. Some are young, but most seem aged from 40 to 80. Some are good dancers; they sweep across the ballroom floor on a cushion of air. Others try to avoid their partners' toes.

Lee, Midland swim teams impressive in early meets

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

SECTION D

Although the sport in which they choose to participate is relegated to "minor" status by the powers that be, there's absolutely nothing — repeat, nothing — minor about the way the Midland Lee and Midland High swimmers tend to their appointed tasks.

In fact, while football, basketball and talks of an Olympic boycott hog the headlines of the sports section, members of both teams have begun successful seasons. For instance, did you know the Lee boys' team has made mincemeat of the majority of its opponents? Or that Midland High's superlative sophomore Carrie Mayes - in her first varsity season, no less - has rewritten the school record for the 200 individual medley three

Those accomplishments, however, are miniscule when you consider the major part of the season has yet to start. The dates to remember are Feb. 15-16 (the District 5-4A meet at the COM pool) and Feb. 29-March 1 (the regional meet at Lubbock).

'Those are the meets we're pointing for," said Midland coach Jesse Marsh, who, in his tenth year at the MHS helm finds plenty of quality but little quantity. "We've done pretty good," he said, "but overall as a team, we have some outstanding kids but don't have the depth. I think we'll prove stronger than we've shown so

Lee coach David Whytlaw, meanwhile, seems to have found with this year's team his own version of Walden's Pond. "We've had a super year," he said. "The kids have swum well and we haven't had the the internal problems we've had in the past...'

Of course, it's hard to find fault in anything when you win 'em like the Rebels have. For the record, the Lee boys and girls captured their respective divisions in both the Midland Invitational and the San Angelo Invitational, not to mention a sweep of a dual meet with

This weekend, the Lee squads will travel to the Amarillo Invitational, their last tuneup before the stretch drive begins. And, if Whytlaw has his crystal ball tuned properly, "the boys should go undefeated again," while the girls will have a battle with El Paso Corona-

And, while speaking of the Rebel girls, they seem to have a most interesting formula for victory. "Our girls' team is kind of unusual in that they have not won an individual event," said Whytlaw. "Our depth has shown up more than our individual abilities.'

That's not the case, however, with the Rebel boys.

According to Marsh, they've got all the ingredients of a bonafide, dyed-in-the-wool, machine. "Lee will walk away with the boys' (district title)," he said, almost matter-of-factly. "They've got a bunch of real fast kids, plus they've got tremendous depth."

Marsh probably won't get any argument from Whytlaw on either point. "I think we should retain that (district) championship," said the sixth-year Lee boss. Also, Whytlaw said the boys would have a good shot at the region crown, something they haven't won in three years, including last year's third place showing

But playing clairvoyant is easy with people like Robin Franke, Jon Franke, John Kimberly and Cleve Carrens filling the lanes. The brothers Franke and Kimberly give Whytlaw three-fourths of last season's state-placing 400 freestyle relay unit. From Carrens, a promising junior, Whytlaw said "we're looking for good things ...

And, confirming his assessment that Lee's depth "is really great this year," Whytlaw has other talented tankers. Seniors Scott Beatty, Paul Friemel and Mark Solari, juniors Ronnie Black and Lee Hill, and sophomores Mike Alvarado, Richy Mailey, Kenny Jonsson and Craig Stiles give the Rebels all-important numbers.

On the balanced girls' team, which placed third in last year's district and tied for ninth at region, seniors Meg Harrington and Barbara Holmes are joined by juniors Patty Bruton, Emily Murrah, Susan Pare and Sarah Stone, and sophomore Doreen McGookey.

When mention is made of Midland High swimming, Mayes' name keeps popping up. Marsh termed his athlete "super," and her second in the 400 IM and fifth in the 200 IM recently at the prestigious Texas Interscholastic Swim Coaches Association meet leave little doubt she does everything but put the chlorine in the pool. Joining Mayes in hopes of bettering last year's second in district and seventh at regional showings, are seniors Chrissie Faller, Sandy Snelson and Donna Hunter, and sophomores Juli Spaugh and Janie Dowdle.

Tony Gunn, a senior specializing in the breaststroke, and diver Charlie Corbin are the mainstays of the Bulldog boys team that was second last year in both district and region. Bobby Stephens, Billy Worley and Wade Vinson provide extra muscle.

So far, the Bulldogs haven't awed anyone, but Marsh felt his swimmers might sneak-up on a few people. "We've placed, gosh, third or fourth, boys or girls." against members of our district," he said. "But I gotta" hunch we're going to do better than that."

Conversely, Lee's Whytlaw would like to see the great performances continue, but he won't say just how far the Rebels might go in the state meet. He's not going to count his points until his swimmers have finished.

LaSalle surprises Notre Dame

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

A team that plays together usually wins together, says Dave 'Lefty' Ervin in so many words.

"The strength of the wolf is in the pack," said the LaSalle basketball coach metaphorically after a 62-60 upset of eighthranked Notre Dame Wednesday

It was the leader of the pack, however, who helped to fashion the victory - forward Michael Brooks. Continuing his powerhouse season, LaSalle's leading man scored 29 points as the Explorers handed the Fighting Irish only their third loss this season. And they did it in style, leading for all but 24 seconds of the

"Brooks was as pure as he can be," said Ervin.

Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps thought so, too. "He's a great athlete," said Phelps, "as good as any in the country.

The Irish came within one point of the Explorers seven times, the last at 56-55 with 2:39 remaining. The Explorers, however, held on as they converted six free throws in the final 1:40, four of them by Greg Webster, a 44 per cent free throw shooter.

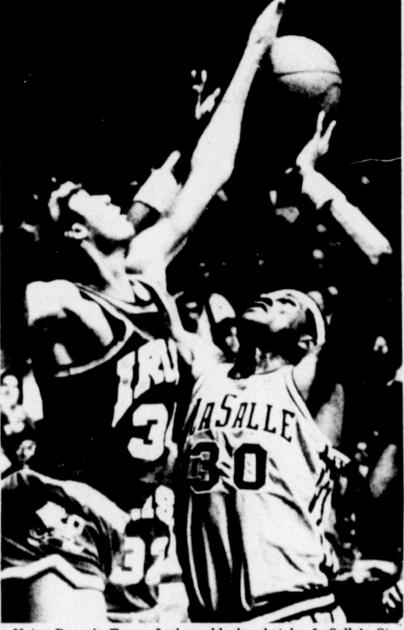

"We knew the kid's average and played the percentages by fouling him," said Phelps. "They just didn't crack under ELSEWHERE, third-ranked Kentucky edged Auburn 64-62: No.4 Syracuse walloped Temple 93-77; No.5 Duke defeated Wake Forest 82-61; 10th-ranked Louisiana State nipped Vanderbilt 83-81; No.12 Maryland turned back No.13 Virginia 63-61 and No.20 Kansas State defeated No.14 Missouri 66-64.

Freshman Dirk Minniefield's long shot with one second left provided Kentucky with its winning points over a stubborn Auburn team. The Wildcats had trailed by as many as 13 points just before halftime before making a spirited comeback. Kyle Macy's 14 points led Kentucky.

Roosevelt Bouie's career-high 30 points paced Syracuse over Temple, the Orangemen's 55th straight homecourt victory. The Syracuse center scored 20 of his points in the first 17 minutes as the Orangemen took off toward their 18th victory in 19 games.

points and Gene Banks collected 28 as Duke coasted past Wake Forest. The Demon Deacons led Duke 31-16 with six minutes left in the first half, but the Blue Devils ripped off 14 straight points en route to their 17th victory in 20 games this season.

"The biggest favor we gave Duke all night was getting a big lead and giving them a chance to run with us," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy. Rudy Macklin scored 30 points and grabbed 13 rebounds to lead LSU over stubborn Vanderbilt. The Tigers had a 15-point halftime advantage and led by as many as 16 with 14 minutes to go before holding off a Vanderbilt comeback in the late stages.

Vanderbilt Coach Rich Schmidt blamed fouls for his team falling behind by 16 points in the second half. The Commodores lost two starters on fouls, including 6-foot-8 forward Ted Young who left the game with 11:13 to play. Ernest Graham hit a 22-foot jumper with five seconds left to lead Maryland over Virginia. Albert King paced the winners with 18 points. Rolando Blackman scored 20 points to lead Kansas State past Missouri. Ed Nealy's two foul shots with 23 seconds remaining provided the winning points for the Wildcats. In other action, Terry Fair's 21 points led Georgia over Florida 76-48; Les Henson and Wayne Robinson teamed for 40 points to lead Virginia Tech over West Virginia 68-64; Ron Baxter's 30 points triggered Texas to a 113-80 decision over SMU; Don Youman's 22 points led Oklahoma State past Kansas 71-67; Mike Naderer's 20-foot jumper from the corner with 10 seconds left gave Nebraska a 59-58 victory over Oklahoma; and Herb Andrew's 16-footer with three seconds left led South Alabama past North Carolina-Charlotte 66-65.

Maverick McGuire best TV analyst

By MARK ASHER The Washington Post

In his third year on network television Al McGuire still considers himself a novice as a college-basketball analyst. He says his voice needs work and he can't wear the sports announcer's earphone, because when he hears something out of it, he stops

But the former Marquette University coach, a street-wise, cunning, conning maverick in his days on the bench, has established himself as television's best sports analyst, because he knows when not to He leaves the chatter to Dick Enberg and Billy Packer. McGuire stays aloof, ignores the trap of hyping his product and draws raves from viewers as a man who psychoanalyzes the coaches and their He is playing to his audience, not to his employers (NBC) or his friends. It's the style that made stepping on someone, but at the end, I don't give a damn. I'm just saying what I would do.

"Dick and Billy come on strong at the top of the show. Then, as the game goes on, you're getting on His playground reaches from the schoolyard in New York, where he started, to the NCAA championship, where he closed out his coaching career. And he plays, to mix a metaphor, hardball. In a game involving North Carolina last season two Tarheels were injured early on, yet came back to play vital roles in a Carolina victory. Dean Smith, the North Carolina coach and 1976 U.S. Olympic coach, is McGuire's close friend. That did not deter McGuire. 'Maybe he faked the injuries," McGuire suggested to his audience. That's something I would do — and have done," McGuire admitted later. "That's not in Dean's arsenal, but I can't just let it slide by. If I start hanky-pankying, it won't do."

NOTRE DAME coach Digger Phelps also has been a McGuire target. The criticism: Phelps made too many substitutions last year. This year McGuire has made note of the problems of Larry Brown, the new coach at UCLA, which won 10 NCAA titles in 12 years before John Wooden retired after winning the 1975 title. Brown is UCLA's third coach since then. 'The main problem at UCLA is that the seniors have had three coaches in their career," McGuire "AT THE start," says McGuire, "I feel like I'm said. "Larry Brown is trying to appease the tradition of UCLA and move in his own style, too. He can't do it both ways."

Packer, a former player at Wake Forest and longtime analyst on the Atlantic Coast Conference ame of the week, usually disagrees with McGuire during the telecasts.

They are legitimate disagreements," McGuire said. "I've been coming on too strong; I've been too tough on him. Nobody told me this. It's a problem iaside coaches, because he never was a coach.

"He probably knows more about Xs and Os than I do. But I know more about motivation and improvising (during the game) as a coach. Billy is whole some. There's nothing devious about him . . . He just seems to step up. He's like a straight man all the

MCGUIRE says his friends in the coaching profession do not like his "off-the-cuff" remarks, but he adds that they accept them. The fact that he retired with the best coaching record in the previous 10 years made them accept McGuire. When McGuire worked a Maryland game for NBC last season, Terrapin coach Lefty Driesell quipped: 'Al, how did you get so smart in one year? To which McGuire shot back: "I can't be their friend and their flatterer, too.' This has always been the McGuire approach from the day Marquette, then a basketball non-presence in Milwaukee, hired him to the day Chet Simmons, then president of NBC Sports, hired him. McGuire has always been his own man. He was a prime mover among basketball coaches in seeking reforms to help the sport. Smith, the North Carolina coach, compares McGuire's style to that of a union leader.

Despite his success, McGuire says he still has technical problems, such as being on cue after a timeout because he isn't wearing that earphone. He credits Enberg with helping him survive the first year, which McGuire described as "the Christians

Chaparrals on road for South Plains tonight

LEVELLAND-Midland College defeated South Plains College, 118-84, the first time around in Western Junior College Conference action, but that was at Midland and Coach Jerry Stone anticipates a more severe test tonight when the teams clash here at 8

The Chaps, 18-2, bounced back from their second defeat at the hands of Western Texas College, the No. 1 ranked team in the nation, to beat Clarendon College. 97-72, at Midland Monday night. However, the loss to Western did cost MC a notch in the national Juco rankings. MC slipped from fifth to sixth. Still, the Chaps are the only team with two defeats in the top eight teams.

"It's always harder the second time and South Plains will be playing at home and before their fans this time," Stone pointed out.
"We have had a whole bunch of touch games recently and had to struggle for a while against Clarendon. But it helped in that everyone is back playing without injuries and we were able to get everyone one in the game."

MC is 8-1 in WJCC play and is 19-2 for the season. South Plains is 1-8. SPC is coming off a 102-84 loss to Western Texas.

After tonight's game, the Chaps return home for dates next Monday and Thursday against New Mexico Junior College, 2-7, and New Mexico Military Institute, 4-4.

Germans are awaiting moves in other countries before deciding what to do themselves. AFRICA - The nations of black Africa decided jointly through their sports council to attend the Moscow

Games. DENMARK - Foreign Minister Kjeld Olesen has said the Danes would go to Moscow unless it turned out that they would be the only Western nation there.

BELGIUM - Raoul Mollet, chairman of the Belgian Olympic Committee, says he opposes the boycott.

AUSTRIA - Chancellor Bruno Kreisky says his government is in no position to give orders to sports organizations about whether or not they should participate in the Games and took a wait and see attitude.

GREECE — A spokesmen for the Hellenic Olympic Committee said Greece will "undoubtedly" participate at Moscow.

MEXICO - Mario Vazquez Rana, president of the Mexican Olympic Committee, said Mexico would not back a boycott of the Moscow Games and intends to send 50 or 60 athletes.

INDIA - Does not support Carter. "Sports and politics should be kept ARGENTINA - Argentina Olympic Committee President Colonel Antonio Rodriguez said Argentina will not boycott the Moscow Games.

LUXEMBOURG - Proposed that Western nations send "second-rate" athletes to the Moscow Olympics. ITALY — Italian National Olympic Committee announced it will take part in the Moscow Games unless the IOC decides otherwise.

BRAZIL - Brazil's top Olympic official accepted the idea of boycotting the Games.

FINLAND. - The Finnish Olympic Federation said it will participate in the Games

PUERTO RICO - Majority party President Rubin Berrios Martinez says he favors sending athletes to the Moscow Games.

Believe it or not, Winter Games only 12 days off

By JOHN NELSON

AP Sports Writer. Arising on a weekday morning and looking out the window across Mirror Lake at the little town of Lake Placid, it's hard to believe that in another dozen days the Winter Olympics will arrive.

The lake, frozen deep enough to drive a truck on it, is covered with an ample blanket of white snow now. Those of us who had the privilege of watching it freeze over can appreciate that.

Somewhere in an office, probably out of sight of the lake, someone must be busily shuffling papers, answering telephones and going about the busi-practice, some seven or eight miles from town. Whiteface Mountain is closed to the public, so there are no lift tickets on their parkas. Those who have spent a lot of time in Lake Placid call the weekend visitors "wuffos." "Wuffo they slide down that mounness of putting on an Olympics. But the town is quiet, maybe the lull ends to watch the bobsleds and luge

A lot of tourists arrive on the week-before the storm.

tain in a bobsled?" they ask. ON SUNDAY afternoon, the town empties into Route 73 toward the Northway to Albany, New York State's capital, or Montreal. It's as though someone turns Lake Placid on its side and pours all the people, except those accustomed to holding on tightest, into the valley.

By Sunday night, the parking lot at Art Devlin's Olympic Inn practically is empty. Dinner at Frederick's is come-as-you-are, no reservations, no waiting.

Around here, they still put pennies in the parking meters. One penny gets you 12 minutes, and three cents gets you enough time to have lunch and buy a newspaper on Main Street. Yet, this town of 2,700 is throwing a $200 million Winter Olympics.

The contrast is hard to get a grasp on if you've spent any time at the Chub River Inn, where some of the more colorful locals go to drink. They are called alternately "woodchucks" or "bark eaters," and they don't like it one bit. It could get you a broken nose or worse at that tavern, where it sits on a branch of the Ausable River.

Some of those guys drive trucks or run heavy equipment. Many more are on welfare or unemployment. The money spent on the Olympics isn't enough to change their way of life, much as they may or may not want it

THOSE WHO are hoping for a new life are the ones who had something to begin with - a restaurant, a clothing store, a souvenir shop, a motel. Some have rented their stores for outlandish prices, some are just charging them.

"There are a lot of people around here trying to get rich," says a state trooper from Newburgh, N.Y. "I guess you can't blame them. If the town stays the way it is, they won't. Some of the locals are wondering if they'll say afterward: "They threw an Olympics and nobody came." It's a funny feeling to look out across Mirror Lake at eight o'clock in the morning, only a dozen days before the Winter Olympics.

It won't be that way, of course. "The people in town will be the ones who stay here at night," says one contractor.
