Polls open in Illinois

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois, billed in advance as the showdown state, held its presidential primary election today, with Rep. John B. Anderson trying to detour Ronald Reagan's drive toward the Republican nomination and President Carter out to derail Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The polls opened at 6 a. m. CST for 13 hours of balloting, with as many as 2.5 million voters expected to turn out on a brisk but sunny day.

The stakes were high: 152 votes for the Democratic presidential nomination in a state Kennedy once said would prove Carter's vulnerability to his challenge for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The senator from Massachusetts now says he'll beat the public opinion polls, which show him trailing Carter by a margin of more than 2 to 1, but doesn't claim he can beat the presi-

Anderson woos independents to 'start fire'

CHICAGO (AP) — Rep. John Anderson, wrapping up his campaign for today's Republican presidential primary in Illinois, urged political independents to "make this prairie fire you've started spread across the nation."

The Illinois congressman finished his home state campaign with an election eve rally in Chicago's 43rd Ward, the heartland of the independent political movement that erupted in this city after the tumultuous 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Standing in the pulpit of the Lincoln Park Presbyterian Church, Anderson asked supporters for 24 hours of concentrated work to turn out the vote in his tight race with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. He stressed again his goal of building a "new coalition of Republicans, independents and Democrats."

Former Sen. Edward Brooke, R. Mass., urged the crowd earlier to work for Anderson. The white-haired candidate was late for the rally after spending the afternoon flying around downtown states with major television stations.

At every stop, Anderson attacked Reagan, who led him by 2 percentage points in a poll published in Monday editions by the Chicago Tribune. In an earlier survey, Anderson had led by 2 percent. The newspaper said the polls had a margin of error of 5 percent either way, meaning that Anderson and Reagan were virtually tied.

Teddy hopes for delegates

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his aides would be quite happy if everyone ignores the popular vote results in today's Illinois presidential primary, a contest they concede they will lose.

Instead, they want to focus attention on the election of 152 Democratic National Convention delegates, a separate ballot question on which they say they have at least a chance of success.

And there's one more part of their message: Don't look back to Illinois. Look ahead to next week's Democratic primary elections in New York and Connecticut.

Kennedy wrapped up his Illinois campaign on Monday, marching at the head of Chicago's St. Patrick's Day parade. Obviously enjoying himself, he walked from one side of State Street to the other reaching out eagerly for the hands reaching out for him.

dent. Republicans were choosing 92 convention delegates.

There are two primaries in each party, one for delegates, one for popular votes. Kennedy said he was "most interested in the delegate selection," and hoped for a strong showing there.

Absorbing earlier defeats, Kennedy had said Illinois was the state where he'd turn it around. Now he is saying that he will press the challenge to Carter no matter what the outcome here, or in the New York primary one week from today.

He was campaigning for that one while Illinois Democrats cast their ballots today.

Anderson invited the Democrats, and independent voters, to make those ballots Republican, and mark them for him against Reagan. He campaigned until late Monday night, saying "the tide is rising, I've never felt more optimistic about an election in my life."

Independents and crossover Democrats enabled Anderson to come close to upsets in the Massachusetts and Vermont primaries, and in Illinois those voters can also cast GOP ballots if they wish.

Former U.N. Ambassador George Bush all but wrote off the primary he once said would establish him as the only alternative to Reagan. Bush said he'd gain comebacks next week in Connecticut and a week later in Wisconsin, where he was campaigning today.

Reagan wasn't speculating. "Tom Dewey, President Dewey, told me never to listen to the polls," the former California governor joked as he left to begin campaigning in Connecticut.

Actually, the Chicago Tribune poll shows Reagan and Anderson in a virtual dead heat in Illinois, with Bush trailing far behind.

Bush once had said that if Reagan couldn't be stopped by Illinois, he probably couldn't be stopped. But he now says he will keep trying.

He said Anderson is "over to the left of the spectrum — out of step on where the country is and where the party is."

Reagan also has questioned Anderson's party standing, and Monday night the liberal congressman from Rockford responded by calling Reagan's own Republican credentials less than perfect.

He contended the conservative Californian didn't do much for the GOP ticket in 1976 after then-President Gerald R. Ford narrowly defeated him for the nomination. Ford, who said Saturday that he will not run this time, easily beat Reagan in the 1976 Illinois primary.

Anderson said Monday that he might support the ticket if Reagan was the GOP nominee, but he wasn't promising. "He'd have to moderate his views," Anderson said. "If he does, sure, I can consider him."

Rep. Philip M. Crane of Illinois, the other surviving campaigner on the Republican ballot, said he thinks Reagan will win. Crane, who has lost his federal campaign financing for lack of primary election support, said he will remain a candidate until convention time.

"I do not intend to formally withdraw," he said. He also said he'd be interested in the vice presidential nomination.

The other Republicans on the Illinois ballot are Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, and former Gov. John B. Connally of Texas, all of whom have withdrawn as candidates, and a mule driver from Oswego named V. A. Kelly.

Reagan now has 167 of the 998 delegates he would need to win the Republican nomination. Bush is second in delegate strength with 45 and Anderson has 13.

Clayton faces Federal jury again today

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton, after more than six hours of testimony Monday before a federal grand jury investigating an alleged insurance kickback scheme, will be back today for more questioning.

Clayton, on the advice of his attorneys, dodged newsmen before his appearance Monday and then declined to answer any questions after he left the all-day session.

A central figure in the FBI Brilab operation, Clayton has acknowledged he accepted $5,000 from labor leader L. G. Moore in the presence of FBI informant Joseph Hauser.

But, Clayton insisted he thought the money was a campaign contribution and planned to return it to Moore.

Roy Minton, one of Clayton's lawyers, said the stack of $100 bill had been brought to Houston and would be given to the grand jury on its request.

The federal panel, along with Clayton, listened to at least three tapes of conversations involving the speaker, Moore and Hauser.

Minton said the tapes were played before the grand jury with the House speaker listening, then answering questions.

One tape involved a telephone conversation Jan. 15 of this year between Moore and Clayton.

Another was made during a Nov. 8 meeting in Austin when Clayton, Moore and Hauser discussed the state employees $70 million insurance policy.

Minton said his client was answering all questions and had not at anytime taken the Fifth Amendment.

"And the grand jury is asking him about everything."

Asked if there was a possible criminal case against Clayton, Minton answered, "Hell no."

The federal grand jury began its probe in February and questioned 14 witnesses, including several labor leaders and three Houston city councilmen.

Moore, the regional director for the Operating Engineers International Union, was subpoenaed but his appearance was delayed by several legal actions.

Sources now say Moore may not be called because the grand jury has enough information in the tape recordings.

The Brilab undercover operation began in Louisiana and spread to Texas. Documents filed in a Los Angeles federal court indicate government agents posed for 10 months as insurance agents and paid thousands of dollars in bribes in an investigation they called Brilab for Bribery-Labor.

Some exports may be limited To keep Soviets from getting defense items

WASHINGTON (AP) — The export to the Soviet Union of a wide range of industrial knowledge would be limited under a new Carter administration policy, according to an administration source.

The new policy is designed to restrict the Soviets from obtaining items that could be used to strengthen their defenses and is part of effort to show American displeasure at the Russian military moves in Afghanistan.

The new ban, which may be formally announced today, would impose restrictions beyond the new controls announced in January by Carter and would limit the sale to the Soviets of computers, including computer processing techniques, or software. Also affected would be tiny electronic semiconductors, the basic building blocks of computer hardware.

President Carter announced a limited halt to exports in January and said at the time that a study of American exports to Russia would be conducted by the White House and the Departments of Defense, Commerce and State.

That study is finished and will result in the newer, more stringent guidelines, according to the source, who asked not to be identified.

In the wake of the January guidelines, more than 400 licenses permitting American exports to the Soviet Union were suspended along with about 300 license applications that had not yet been processed.

Those 700 licenses will now be reviewed anew to see if they meet the new guidelines.

In addition to the American ban on exports, the source said, the United States also will propose that NATO nations and Japan limit their exports to Russia according to the same new restrictions.

About $200 million worth of high technology items were sold to the Soviet Union annually before the Afghanistan intervention. Of that total, about 70 percent had to be exempted from export controls observed by NATO and Japan. Most of that 70 percent would be cut out under the new U.S. restrictions, the Carter administration source said.

There have been no decision yet by those American allies on whether they will go along with the new U.S. policy.

Soviets may be increasing troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union may be sending ground assault troops to the Indian Ocean aboard ships, U.S. intelligence sources say.

More than 400 naval infantrymen, the Soviet counterpart of U.S. Marines, are known to be aboard a Russian amphibious assault ship now steaming south along the Chinese coast, these sources said.

Although the amphibious combat forces involved are relatively small, the dispatch of U.S. Marines and the possible deployment of Soviet naval infantry is another escalation in the Soviet-U.S. military rivalry in that vital region.

The Soviet troops are on the 13,000-ton Ivan Rogov, the biggest amphibious ship in the Soviet navy, which also is reportedly carrying armored personnel carriers and air cushion landing craft.

The intelligence sources, who declined to be identified by name, said the Rogov and an escorting destroyer may be bound either for the South China Sea off Vietnam or for the Indian Ocean. They believe the latter is the destination.

The ships have been under observation since leaving Russia's Far East naval base at Vladivostok last week.

This was learned as an 1,800-man U.S. Marine reinforced battalion sailed through the Indian Ocean in the direction of the Arabian Sea. They were aboard a Navy amphibious warfare task force.

The Marine battalion is the first such unit ever to be sent into the Indian Ocean-Arabian Sea area by the United States.

The arrival of the six-ship American Navy amphibious task force in the Indian Ocean Sunday raised U.S. naval strength in those waters to a record 31 ships.

The Soviet navy now has 29 vessels in the Indian Ocean-Arabian Sea area, three fewer than its peak force in late February.

The number of warships committed there fluctuate from time to time, but the trend has been upward since last fall.

Many of the ships of both the U.S. and Soviet navies are stationed within striking range of the entrance to the Persian Gulf, one of the chief sources of oil supplies for the United States, Western Europe and Japan.

Soviets to hold Olympics, despite Western 'intrigues'

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda declared today the Summer Olympics in Moscow will take place "as scheduled, despite the intrigues of the enemies of the Olympic movement."

The Communist Party newspaper denounced Western plans for a "counter-Olympics" and said any attempt to deny U.S. athletes passports for the Moscow Games would violate President Carter's human rights policies.

Pravda charged that opponents of the Olympics were trying "unpardonably" to please the personal ambitions of President Carter, who launched the boycott campaign because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

It accused Lloyd Cutler, who heads the White House Olympic task force, of intentionally deceiving athletes into believing that a counter-Olympics can be easily organized.

Noting U.S. press claims that the Lake Placid Olympics were an organizational failure, Pravda expressed doubt that the Carter Administration "scheme can in any way replace participation in the Moscow Games."

The editorial followed an unusual reference by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to Carter's boycott plans.

Breaking the near-complete silence on the issue by Russia's top leaders, Gromyko said Monday that Washington's anti-Olympic campaign was an "obvious example" of American efforts to sow worldwide confusion.

Playboy photog gets only one threat at Baylor

WACO (AP) — Playboy photographer David Chan has come to Waco with an armed guard and an offer to help any Baylor University student expelled for posing for the magazine.

But despite a furor which resulted in the firing of student newspaper editors, the only threat so far has been a telephone call, says Playboy spokesman Dan Sheridan.

"We did not come here to challenge anyone, to fight anyone or to antagonize anyone. David just wants to do his job," Sheridan said Monday, adding that the guard, who packs a 45-caliber pistol, is "more than adequate at the moment to take care of anything that will happen."

Chan said he had been planning to bring the guard since Playboy's plans to photograph coeds — in the buff and otherwise — created an uproar at the Southern Baptist university.

Baylor President Abner McCall threatened to expel any student who posed for the pictorial essay, "Girls of the Southwest Conference." When the student newspaper published an editorial advocating free choice in the matter, McCall imposed editorial guidelines and three editors of The Lariat were fired when they protest-

A journalism professor, Don Williams, resigned in support of the students. The publications board plans to meet this week to name new editors but, in the meantime, The Lariat has suspended publication.

Baylor is the last of the nine SWC schools Chan has visited for the feature, planned for September's issue.

Chan said he photographed one of four applicants Monday and had received numerous calls for appointments. He said he expected a larger turnout later in the week.

Playboy will offer to help any student who is kicked out as a result of the sessions, Sheridan said.

"We'd provide legal counsel and we'd try to assist them in getting to another university," he said.

Sheridan offered to meet with McCall in the matter.

"What I'm suggesting is that it's silly and unnecessary that students should get hurt by the university," Sheridan said. "I certainly respect Dr. McCall. I respect his religious convictions. And I think there ought to be a way for reasonable people to sit down and find some common sense solution so the kids won't get hurt."

McCall said he had not heard from Playboy and he had "nothing to meet with them about."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Warmer weather is expected today through Wednesday for the south-central and southeastern areas of the nation, according to the National Weather Service.

Franco aide not seriously hurt in blast

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A top aide to the late dictator Francisco Franco narrowly escaped an assassination attempt today when a bomb exploded a short distance from him outside his downtown Madrid home.

Police said the bomb, which had been placed under the seat of a motorbike, exploded about 10 yards from Gen. Fernando Esquivias, a supply officer and former aide-de-camp to Franco, as he walked toward his car.

But police said Esquivias' armed escort, Pvt. Jose Ramirez, 19, who was walking a few yards ahead of the general and was closer to the motorbike, was killed instantly.

Esquivias' son told reporters, "My father certainly would have been killed if he had taken only two steps more."

The shock wave made the general's ears bleed. The driver of the general's car parked 40 yards from the blast site was not hurt.

The general said later he had not been threatened, but he added, "All military men are more or less threatened nowadays."

No group claimed responsibility for the blast, but suspicion centered on the Basque separatist organization, ETA, which has been blamed for the assassination of more than 20 persons including two military men this year.

Today's bombing recalled the 1973 assassination of Franco's premier, Adm. Luis Carrero Blanco, who was killed when a bomb exploded under his car in a Madrid street.

Tito's condition still deteriorating

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Doctors treating President Josip Broz Tito said today the 87-year-old Yugoslav leader had developed extensive stomach hemorrhaging and his very grave condition had declined further.

"Things are becoming worse," said government spokesman Tone Vahen. "This is how the bulletin reads and we cannot really add anything to it."

Tito's eight doctor medical panel said it was continuing intensive treatment to keep him alive at the Slovenian hospital he entered 67 days ago.

"During the past day the health condition of President Josip Broz Tito deteriorated further," the doctors said in a midday medical advisory reported by press officials in Belgrade.

Still no suspects seen in shooting

Det. Capt. Billy Ray said they still have no suspect in the Saturday night shooting of a Midland man just outside of a laundromat.

George Morgan, 26, of 1907 W. Jax Avenue was listed in satisfactory condition in Midland Memorial Hospital this morning after undergoing surgery Saturday night to remove a 22-caliber slug from his abdomen.

According to police, Morgan, his wife and his daughter were in the laundromat when someone threw a rock through an open door. Morgan went out into the parking lot and got into an argument with two people.

As the argument became more heated, one of them shot Morgan with a 22-caliber rifle.

Officers are searching for two men, one who wore a sack with eyeglasses in it over his head, according to witnesses.

The second man is black, 17 to 20 years of age, about 5 feet 10 inches tall and 175 pounds.

Police do know the two are about the same build and one was wearing a green army jacket.

Republicans Bob Monaghan, left, and Ernest Angelo Jr. were anything but shy Monday in their endorsement of Ronald Reagan as GOP candidate during opening ceremonies at the Midland Reagan headquarters, 3320 W. Illinois Ave. Monaghan is a senatorial and congressional committeeman, while Mayor Angelo is the Reagan state chairman for Texas and also a Republican national committeeman. Kansas City firefighters strike

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City officials, surprised by a sudden firefighters strike, are warning those who walked off their jobs they will be dismissed if they fail to report for the evening shift today.

The firefighters' second walkout in four months came Monday after City Manager Robert Kipp refused to overturn the dismissal of 42 firefighters fired during the December job action.

Police and Fire Department supervisors manned about half of the city's fire stations after nearly 200 firefighters, the usual number for each shift, deserted their posts without warning Monday at 6 p.m.

No union firefighters reported for work at the 11 p.m. shift, said Deputy Chief Louis Hansen.

"We're just hanging by a thread," he said. "Fire protection is almost nil. There's token protection, but that's all."

No serious fires were reported in the early hours of the strike, but three fires destroyed or damaged vacant buildings, authorities said.

Mayor Richard L. Berkley, after meeting with the City Council and Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale, said telegrams would be sent to 200 members of Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters.

"They will be urged to report at their shift at 3 p.m.," Berkley said. "If they don't, they will be terminated."

He said each of the other two shifts would be examined before any more dismissals threats are made against the remainder of the city's nearly 900 unionized firefighters.

Berkley said authorities will assess fire protection needs today before deciding whether to request assistance of the Missouri National Guard.

"If the National Guard is needed I want to get the machinery in action as quickly as possible," Teasdale said.

Police inherited the bulk of the fire duty. They manned 15 of the city's 31 fire stations early today. About 30 non-union battalion chiefs and fire department supervisors were on around-the-clock duty.

Nineteen pieces of equipment were manned and operational to protect the 316 square miles of the sprawling city of 500,000. Normally, about 50 pieces are manned, said police spokesman Sgt. Jim Treese.

Missouri law prohibits firefighter strikes, and by walking out union members were acting in defiance of a Dec. 24 circuit court order, which bars all forms of job action by the union.

SCLC publication defended

ATLANTA (AP) — The CBS TV "60 Minutes" report on the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's fund-raising activities was a "biased and slanted report," the president of the civil rights group has charged.

SCLC President Joseph Lowery said the report, televised Sunday, showed an SCLC magazine advertising program as a fund-raising project.

"That is not a fund-raising project. It is a magazine that is a communications tool of SCLC and we have contracted with this organization on the West Coast to publish the magazine," Lowery said Monday.

The report dealt with funds raised by about 20 telephone salespersons employed by West Coast fund-raiser Stephen W. Blood to sell advertisements.

Candidate Forums slated before Midland elections

Midlanders will get an opportunity to hear the issues discussed concerning the upcoming city elections when the Midland League of Women Voters sponsors two Candidates Forums.

The first session will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Community Room of Commercial Bank & Trust Co. The second will be at 11:45 a.m. March 26 in the Senior Citizens Center at the First Christian Church.

Candidates for mayor, city council, school board, Midland College trustees and Midland Memorial Hospital board will attend to present their views on various issues.

The League of Women Voters is urging persons to attend the sessions and inform themselves about the candidates.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning Charleen Rosebery, 685-0564.

ments in the SCLC magazine.

About 90 cents of every dollar raised by Blood for the SCLC goes to salesmen and overhead costs, the "60 Minutes" report said.

Lowery said that figure was not correct. "We get more than that, but I don't know exactly how much more," he said.

"I think it was a biased, slanted report," he added.

"I spoke with Mike Wallace for about 40 minutes, yet only about 30 seconds was on the air," Lowery said.

"On the other hand, it was very interesting that Mike Wallace and '60 Minutes' have so much interest in SCLC," Lowery said. "It's very difficult to understand why that was the first time we've been on the program when we have been dealing with many important issues during past years."

An official for CBS rejected Lowery's charges. "We stand by our story," said Robert Chandler, vice president of CBS news and director of public affairs programming.

Lowery said the contract between Blood and the Atlanta-based civil rights group, which was founded by Martin Luther King Jr., expired Dec. 31.

"Our accountants will make a report at the board meeting in April, (when) we are to review the contract to make a decision on whether to renew, revise or cancel it," he said.

The CBS report quoted a former Blood employee who said Blood's salesmen receive a 30 percent commission for funds they raise, 30 percent covers overhead costs, 30 percent goes to Blood and the remaining 10 cents goes to the SCLC.

The civil rights group receives $150,000 a year from the magazine operation, according to the report.

Lowery said that figure was only about 15 percent to 20 percent of SCLC's 1979 budget of $700,000. He said the group's major fund raising comes from mail appeals, churches and local chapters.

Aspirin should be avoided by some

Dear Dr. Solomon: Since aspirin is sold without a prescription, I figure it must be harmless. My mother-in-law disagrees and says aspirin is dangerous for some people to take. Is this so? — Marge

Dear Marge: Although aspirin is our most widely used drug, it is not completely innocuous for everyone at all times. Some individuals are sensitive to aspirin and should be careful about its use or avoid it entirely.

People with stomach ulcers or gout, and those who have experienced episodes of bleeding, should avoid aspirin, as should women who find that it increases their menstrual bleeding. Since alcohol irritates the stomach lining and increases the potential for internal bleeding, aspirin and alcohol should never be mixed. Neither should aspirin be used — except with a physician's approval — for the treatment of fever in a child who may be dehydrated; dehydration sometimes occurs when there is vomiting or diarrhea.

To prevent bleeding problems in both mother and child, pregnant women should avoid the use of aspirin, except under medical supervision, particularly during the last three months of pregnancy. Because aspirin can increase blood loss during an operation, it should not be taken within a week of scheduled surgery without the advice of the doctor.

Finally, there are some people who are simply allergic to the drug. For some of these people, aspirin may even be life-threatening.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My son recently broke an arm while using a skateboard. Shouldn't dangerous products like this be kept off the market? — Mrs. M.N.

Dear Mrs. N.: The United States Consumer Product Safety Commission has denied a petition recently filed by the Consumer Affairs Committee of the Americans for Democratic Action, which called for a ban on the manufacture and sale of skateboards. The Safety Commission based this decision on statistics showing a decline in skateboard injuries from about 140,000 in 1977 to 87,000 in 1978. Reasons for the decline probably include a decreasing popularity of skateboards, the increased use of facilities specifically set aside for skateboarding, which often require the use of special protective equipment, and the effectiveness of safety campaigns by various interested groups.

The Commission noted that injuries associated with skateboards usually result from their misuse, rather than any built-in defect in the product. It concluded that banning their manufacture and sale might encourage a do-it-yourself trend that could lead to more injuries as a result of hazardous equipment.

An educational program for schools is being developed by the Commission to promote greater safety in the use of the product.

Woman robbed on street

Donna Gibson, 26, of 1702 E. Maple Ave. was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon after being struck during a robbery.

Ms. Gibson told officers she had gone to a grocery store and was walking home on Mineola Street between 2 and 2:15 p.m. when a man approached from behind and grabbed her purse. When she tried to resist, the man struck her in the eye, knocked her down, grabbed her purse, removed about $35 and then fled on foot, according to reports.

The woman then took a cab home, and a neighbor drove her to work at the hospital. After talking to her supervisor, Ms. Gibson went to the emergency room, where she was treated.

Police are looking for a Mexican male 20 to 22 years of age.

TP&L wants customer to pay conversion costs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The president of Texas Power & Light says electric customers should pay the increasing costs of converting from gas to lignite and nuclear power plants.

Those inflated construction costs make up a large portion of TP&L's $124 million rate request that includes a 20.6 percent rate increase for residential customers.

TP&L President Robert Campbell was the opening witness Monday as the Public Utility Commission began hearing testimony about the rate hike request. Campbell was cross-examined by a platoon of lawyers representing some 20 intervenors contesting the TP&L request.

"We really stayed away a little too long," Campbell said, referring to the two years since TP&L's last appearance before PUC. "We could have come about six months sooner."

He said if the full rate hike is granted, "we ought to be able to stay away at least a year."

The electric company which serves 51 North, Central and East Texas counties is well into its expensive fuel conversion program. Seven lignite-fueled plants are now on line and generating about 49 percent of the 1980 energy requirements.

Five additional lignite plants will open in the 1980s. A nuclear plant under construction at Comanche Peak is scheduled to go on line in August 1981.

A brief filed by Tex-La Electric Cooperative of Texas, Inc., complained the consumers should not pay for the construction work in progress (CWIP). The brief says TP&L wants to include 75 percent of the CWIP in the rate base, with the nuclear plant accounting for most of the cost.

Relatives face assault charges

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Six grief-stricken relatives and friends of a man who died at the Jersey City Medical Center face a variety of charges stemming from a wild melee in the intensive care unit at the hospital, according to police.

Only minor damage was reported at the hospital following the disturbance in which 20 persons allegedly attacked doctors, nurses and police officers, authorities said.

Six persons, including a doctor and a nurse who were not identified, were injured.

The rampage began at 7:30 p.m. Saturday when Samih Haddad, 42, of Jersey City, was pronounced dead, and doctors informed his family, authorities said.

The mourners, believed to be of Jordanian extraction, hurled obscenities at a doctor and charged him with killing Haddad, witnesses said. When hospital security officers arrived, bottles were thrown at them and city police were called, authorities said.

Haddad was admitted to the hospital Jan. 25, complaining of headaches, police said. He underwent brain surgery but died of an apparent heart attack, police said. Hospital officials declined to discuss medical details of the case.

"It was crazy," said a security guard who asked not to be identified. "All of a sudden these people went nuts and were running all around the place, shouting and destroying equipment."

Police officers James O'Brien, Joseph Lardino and Robert Duane were treated for minor injuries at the hospital as were the unidentified doctor and nurse, police said.

Issa Haddad, 20, the son of the deceased man, was arrested and charged with aggravated assault. Police said he also was treated for injuries sustained during the fight.

"The damage was minor and no patients were evacuated from the unit," said Joseph F. Toomey, executive director of the hospital.

"The patient had a large family who loved him. Unfortunately, when he expired, they overreacted," Toomey said. "Often when a patient dies, the family has a certain amount of grief and rage. We often have to calm them down. This isn't unusual. But this situation went beyond normal bounds due to the large numbers of people involved."

Raid Haddad, no age available, of Jersey City, was arrested and charged with aggravated assault on a police officer, resisting arrest and criminal mischief, police said.

Eid Haddad, 24, of Jersey City; Roland Gagnon, 19, and Iman Gagnon, 22, both of Bayonne; and Amal Faknouri, 23, of Jersey City, were arrested and charged with criminal mischief, police said. All were released on bail.

Pennsylvania probing hospital's surgical mix-up

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Health Department is investigating whether laws were violated when two women each underwent the initial stages of surgery intended for the other.

The mix-up at Graduate Hospital was a "million-to-one occurrence" and an "unfortunate embarrassment to a first-class institution," said Hospital Association of Pennsylvania president James R. Neely after the incident was made public Monday.

Virginia Edmondson, 54, who had checked in with a ruptured disc, had a nodule removed from her parathyroid gland in the front of her neck. Annie Robinson, 50, a patient with the parathyroid problem, underwent initial stages of a cervical laminectomy at the back of her head.

Hospital officials refused to say Monday whether the surgery would affect the future health of either woman. They said the mistake was "horribly regretful."

Murray Levin, a member of the hospital board, added, "luckily both patients are in good condition and the patients are understanding of what happened."

Alfred Edmondson said his wife went in the hospital for back surgery last Thursday, but when he went to see her afterward he was summoned to a room down the hall by a staff physician.

"He told me they had made a mistake," Edmondson said. "He said the doctor who was to have operated on my wife operated on the other woman."

Levin said the surgeon who operated on Mrs. Edmondson found and removed a nodule on her parathyroid, but did not remove the gland.

Edmondson, a baking company foreman, said the doctor told him he would not be charged. Edmondson said he was planning legal action.

"You don't just cross people up like that," he said. "This is not going to be just smoothed off the board."

Mrs. Robinson, who was to have had her parathyroid gland removed, wound up with an incision in the back of her neck. Levin said that when a surgeon cut into Mrs. Robinson and found nothing wrong with her disc, "they closed it up immediately."

Neither woman was available for comment.

Shooting continues throughout night

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Troops and police battled guerrillas through the night in San Salvador as a leftist uprising against El Salvador's military-civilian junta went into its second day.

The government reported at least 53 persons killed. But one doctor said there were "many more dead than is being reported officially."

Shooting was heard all over the capital during the night. There was speculation that ultra-rightist guerrillas were joining in to attack leftists.

"Many persons are trapped in their offices downtown because they are afraid to drive home," one resident reported.

Hundreds of soldiers ringed the national university and exchanged shots with militant leftists barricaded inside. The shooting was sporadic but very heavy, witnesses said.

Officials said the soldiers would not invade the sprawling campus since Latin-American campuses are traditionally off limits to government forces. But one officer said, "There are many weapons inside the university," and several persons who escaped from the campus reported "many dead and wounded" inside.

The uprising coincided with a general strike called by the Unified Leftist Movement, which includes the Popular Revolutionary Bloc, the United Popular Action Front, the Popular Leagues of Feb. 28 and the National Democratic Union, the front organization for the outlawed Communist Party.

Most stores and businesses in San Salvador were closed Monday. But one official said it was not clear if the closings resulted from sympathy with the strike call or fear of violence. There was no indication if the strike would continue today.

Col. Marcos Aurelio Gonzales of the national guard, El Salvador's army, said 28 leftists were killed when they attacked an army patrol en route to investigate a disturbance at a large estate recently expropriated by the government.

Canadian legislators seek union with U.S.

REGINA, Saskatchewan (AP) — Two members of the Saskatchewan legislature have quit the Progressive Conservative Party to work for the union of Western Canada, with the United States.

One of the two, Dennis Ham, told the legislature Monday that Canada is a cow grazing on the wheat and oil fields of the West, with its behind in the Atlantic Provinces and Ontario and Quebec milking it.

Union with the United States is one way Western Canada can stop being a colony of the two more populous central provinces, Ham declared. He said oil-producing states in the United States do not have to fight with their federal government to get a fair return on their resources. And he added that his English-speaking constituents are also upset by the equal status given French to appease the French Canadians in Quebec.

"I consider this issue so important to the future of my children and my grandchildren and everyone else's grandchildren that I wish to devote my time and association to this cause," he said.

The gateway to the Handley Cemetery, near the ghost towns of Teville and Cuthbert in Mitchell County, marks "home" for those who had lived, and died, nearby. (Staff Photos by Ed Todd)

Handley Cemetery: As spring takes over, so does sentiment

TEVILLE — Signs of life anew become evident as spring nears. And such omens evoke sentiment — sometimes poignant — when life has given way to death and to hope for renewed life.

Nearby, a marble marker is dedicated to Daniel Smith, whose time on earth ended at age 38 in 1934.

Another link is broken
In our beloved band;
A golden-chain is forming
In a better land.

'Tis the Lord who hath bereft
Us of the one we loved so well

Epitaphs give character not just to the ones remembered in death but to the cemetery itself; they are sure signs of life in the past. The epitaph on the granite tombstone was to James Helton, whose life on earth was finished at age 53 in 1922. Inscribed on the monument to his wife, Lillie Mae, was "She died as she lived — a Christian."

The Handley Cemetery, near the no-longer extant Teville community in Mitchell County, came into being in the 1890s when the community found life. And, like all cemeteries, it is a sanctuary for those who mourn.

The Lord giveth and
The Lord taketh away;
Blessed be the name of the Lord

The marble gravemarker, shaped like an obelisk, bears the name Ora, daughter of W.T. and R.L. McGuire, who died in year of her birth — 1896. The mother and her died before the century was over.

Farewell my wife and children all,
From you a Father,
Christ, doth call:
Mourn not for me. It is vain
To call me to your sight again

Far into the cemetery, but before the wild weeds and shrubs begin, is a rusting iron vault, fatter than a coffin, containing cemetery-gardening tools: shovels and a grubbing hoe, ax, a pick and a T-square.

And across the way, not far from trimmed evergreen trees, were two women — a mother and daughter — hoeing around and otherwise trimming lots where their husband and father and other kinfolks are buried.

"All the neighbors gather on Good Friday and work the cemetery," said one of the women. They were early.

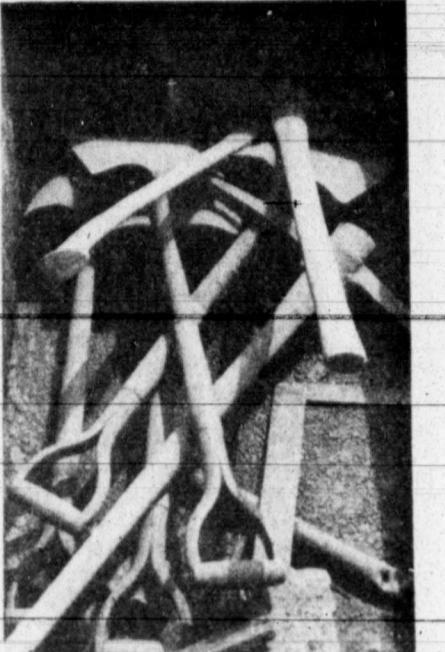

The women, Janie Henderson and her daughter, Ethel Thompson, had parked their pickup truck near a side gate to the cemetery. With them, they had brought a poinsettia shrub in bringing life to the dead.

"A lot of people," said Mrs. Thompson, "think it's nice to bury people in town (Colorado City). But we like it here, because it's close to home." Their old home place is about 1½ north of Handley Cemetery.

But more and more, the cemetery become a home of memories.

Here I lay my burdens down
Changed the Cross into the Crown.

Noted psychologist Fromm dies

LOCARNO, Switzerland (AP) — Erich Fromm, the eminent German-born American authority on psychology, died at his home in suburban Muralto today of heart failure, family sources said. He would have been 80 on Sunday.

Fromm was rated as one of the world's leading figures in the psychoanalytic movement, and was an oft-cited proponent of "alternative" lifestyles. Among his pioneering works were "Psychoanalysis and Religion," "Healthy Society" and "The Art of Loving."

Fromm felt Western man was a product of his culture and that he became estranged from himself in industrial society. His key concern was how man could come to terms with his isolation, insignificance and doubt about the meaning of life.

Fromm was a vociferous critic of what he felt were radical "vulgarized" interpretations of Sigmund Freud's theory of repression of conflicts into the subconscious mind as being at the root of psychoneurotic disorders. These radicals called for abolition of all moral-religious barriers limiting the professed freedom of the "principle of lust."

Fromm held that psychoanalysts, like theologians, should awaken the "voice of the conscience," appeal to a patient's morality. He was saddened at what he felt was a process of self-alienation in Western culture, "indifference toward oneself and toward others" and recommended a return to a simpler lifestyle.

He sympathized with "humanitarian" forms of religion as expressed in the teachings of Jesus and Buddha and in Jewish and Christian mystics, but opposed what he viewed as "authoritarian" forms of religion, citing Lutheran and Calvinist Protestantism.

A native of Frankfurt, Fromm emigrated to the United States when Adolf Hitler launched his anti-Jewish campaign following the 1933 Nazi takeover in Germany.

He lectured at several American universities, including Columbia, Yale and New York University and for several years was professor at the National University of Mexico. He settled in Muralto, outside Lucarno, in the late 1960s, and is survived by his third wife, Annie Freeman Fromm.

And, with inflation, the money you put aside for your children's education may not make the grade.

In fact, your nest egg may be a lot less than it's cracked up to be.

At Midland National Bank, our trust officers will work with your lawyer, accountant or insurance planner to help you protect and preserve what's yours, with professional estate planning.

We can also show you how to set up

Pemex now one of world's biggest crude oil companies

By VICENTE MORALES

MEXICO CITY (AP) — When President Lazaro Cardenas nationalized foreign oil holdings in Mexico 42 years ago today, many predicted that the Mexican oil industry would collapse in chaos.

Today Petroleos Mexicanos, the government monopoly known as Pemex, is one of the world's biggest oil companies, employing more than

The companies boycotted Mexico, refusing to sell it petroleum products or cooperate in any way. But Pemex did not go under. After the beginning of World War II, an agreement was reached, and the companies accepted the compensation.

Pemex's bonanza came in the mid-1970s when, with a new generation of Mexican geologists and engineers trained in modern techniques, the company found huge new fields in the southern part of the gulf.

In order to keep down inflation caused by the huge inflow of petrodollars, President Lopez Portillo has set a production ceiling of 2.5 million barrels of crude oil a day until the end of 1982. Approximately half the production is for export, with most of that going to the United States.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

100,000 workers, producing 2 million barrels of crude oil daily and with a yearly income of $10 billion.

Pemex's exploration programs have located proven reserves of more than 30 billion barrels of crude oil with potential reserves estimated at more than 130 billion barrels, plus half as much natural gas.

Pemex's chairman, engineer Jorge Diaz Serrano, estimates that more than two-thirds of Mexico and the 200-mile offshore belt it claims off both coasts is potential oil-bearing territory. He says only 10 percent has been explored.

"It took a lot of work and sacrifice but we have demonstrated we can administer and develop the oil industry," said Gabriel Lezama, a retired Pemex worker.

Oil and tar were oozing out of Mexican soil before the Spaniards landed in the 16th century. The Aztecs, the Teotihuacanos and other native tribes used it to fuel their pyres and torches.

The Spaniards collected tar balls from the Gulf of Mexico beaches to caulk their ships and weatherproof their roofs.

Dictator Porfirio Diaz granted the first oil concessions in 1901 to Edward L. Doheny, an American, and Westman Pearson, a Briton. By the early 1920s, 15 American, British and Dutch oil companies were operating in the country. They included the Sinclair-Pierce Oil Co., the Richmond Petroleum Co., Standard Oil of California and the Penn-Mex Fuel Co.

The oil fields stretched along the upper coast of the Gulf of Mexico. A study by Jose Lopez Portillo y Weber, President Jose Lopez Portillo's father, estimated that by 1921 the companies averaged 4,000 per cent profit on a daily crude production of 500,000 barrels, then the world's second largest.

Portillo estimated the companies left only 7 percent of their net income in Mexico, mostly in the form of a one-cent-a-ton production tax that had outraged the foreign financial world when President Francisco I. Madero decreed it in 1912. Pemex now pays a 12 per cent income tax, which accounts for 12 per cent of the national government's income.

The 1917 Constitution declared petroleum the patrimony of the nation. But it was only after a decade of growing labor strife in the oil fields that Cardenas, an army general, in a surprise radio announcement on March 18, 1938, ordered the holdings of the oil companies expropriated and the industry nationalized.

Pemex was born by government decree a few days later. Cardenas offered the companies $615.4 million in compensation for their holdings, to be paid over 30 years. The companies, led by Standard Oil and Royal Dutch Shell, rejected it. They were convinced that Pemex, lacking technical skills and experience, would soon collapse.

Tomlinson opens field

Tomlinson Oil Co. has completed its No. 1 French as a San Andres oil discovery in Terry County, 13 miles southeast of Brownfield.

The strike finished for a daily pumping potential of 54 barrels of 33.8-gravity oil and 163 barrels of water, through perforations from 4,884 to 4,904 feet. The gas-oil ratio was not reported, and stimulation, if any, was not reported.

Total depth is 5,000 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented at total depth. The well is 2,120 feet from north and east lines of section 20, block C-38, ps1 survey and 5/8 mile southeast of a 3,300-foot failure.

It also is 1.25 miles northwest of the Welch, North field which produces at 5,000 feet.

Gulf Oil reports tentative agreement

DENVER (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. has reported a tentative agreement with the striking oil workers union that could set a pattern for ending an 11-week strike by 55,000 refinery employees across America.

The Denver-based Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union already had settled with some smaller companies before a Gulf spokesman reported the settlement Sunday. But there had been no contracts with the large companies that traditionally are trend-setters for the rest of the industry.

The union refused late Sunday to confirm or deny that a settlement had been reached, saying only that a news conference was scheduled today by union president Bob Goss.

"That's the only thing I can tell you now. There will be no announcements coming from the union until Mr. Goss appears at his news conference," said OCAW spokesman Jerry Archuleta.

According to sources familiar with the proposal, Gulf has offered a new two-year contract instead of a one-year settlement on wages and benefits for the second half of an existing two-year pact.

Sources said the latest Gulf offer meets the union's demands for immediate hourly wage increases averaging $1 an hour for the current $9.55 average wage, and sets wage increases of 10.5 percent in 1981.

The tentative pact comes closer than previous offers to matching the union request for full payment of medical and dental insurance, sources said.

In Houston, Gulf spokesman Kirk Vogeley said OCAW locals would meet today at four Gulf refineries — Port Arthur, Texas; Cincinnati and Toledo, Ohio, and Santa Fe Springs, Calif. — to discuss the tentative settlement.

"The language difficulty that had arisen over a new proposal has been resolved," Vogeley said, referring to a wording problem that had stalled the OCAW national policy committee's deliberations.

"The situation is positive inasmuch as the major economic issues had already been resolved," Vogeley said.

OCAW contracts are negotiated at the local level, but must be approved by the national bargaining committee, headed by Goss, in Denver before they can be ratified.

Settlements have been reached with 20 independent oil companies since the union went on strike Jan. 8, but talks with the larger companies remained fruitless until Goss went to Houston for two days last week to talk with Gulf officials.

About 55,000 workers still are idled by the strike at domestic refineries owned by more than 100 oil companies. When the strike began, the industry had said it could run its highly automated refineries almost indefinitely with non-union employees, and there has been no significant drop in refinery output.

The two-year contracts negotiated in January 1979 raised wages 8 percent and called for 5 percent wage increases this past January.

The pact allowed for reopening of wage and benefit talks in the second year. The strike came six weeks after those talks began.

Exxon Co. concerned

HOUSTON (AP) — Exxon Co. USA says it will have normal gasoline inventories for higher spring and summer demand but that it is concerned about recent federal orders to supply oil to other refineries.

"The assignments are unfair to Exxon customers," the company said in a prepared statement. "Exxon is pursuing administrative and judicial means to stop such government ordered diversions of Exxon's crude oil supplies."

Exxon placed its inventory at 61 million barrels of crude oil at the end of February, compared with 60 million for January and 54 million a year earlier when the Iranian situation and major equipment breakdowns disrupted supplies.

Gasoline stocks totaled 20.9 million barrels compared with 20.3 million a year ago.

"Barring any unforeseen interruption in crude supplies or unplanned refinery equipment downtime, the company expects end of winter gasoline inventories to be at normal levels for seasonally higher demand in the spring and summer," Exxon said.

In its monthly inventory report, the company again urged customers to conserve the use of all petroleum products.

Home heating oil and other distilled products totaled 14.7 million barrels, compared with 11.9 million a year earlier.

Lea County leads Basin with 45 active rotaries

Reed Rock Bit Co. counted 314 rotary rigs making hole in the Permian Basin of West Texas and southeast New Mexico last week, four more than were counted on the previous survey. One year ago there were only 209 rigs going in the Basin.

Lea County, the perennial Permian Basin leader from the standpoint of rotary rigs in operation, was credited with 45 rigs last week, an increase of three over the previous count.

Pecos County was the West Texas leader with 23. A drop of two from a week earlier.

Eddy County, N.M., the second most active rotary area in the Permian Basin last week, showed 26 units going compared to 28 a week earlier.

Following Pecos in West Texas were Ward with 13, and Andrews, Howard and Winkler, each with 10.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Say, this stuff is good!

TWO days later Jesus' mother was a guest at a wedding in the village of Cana in Galilee. And Jesus and His disciples were invited too. The wine supply ran out during the festivities, and Jesus' mother came to Him with the problem.

"I can't help you now," He said. "It isn't yet My time for miracles."

But His mother told the servants, "Do whatever He tells you to."

Six stone waterpots were standing there; they were used for Jewish ceremonial purposes and held perhaps 20 to 30 gallons each.

Then Jesus told the servants to fill them to the brim with water. When this was done He said, "Dip some out and take it to the master of ceremonies."

When the master of ceremonies tasted the water that was now wine, not knowing where it had come from (though, of course, the servants did), he called the bridegroom over.

"This is wonderful stuff!" he said. "You're different from most! Usually a host uses the best wine first, and afterwards, when everyone is full and doesn't care, then he brings out the less expensive brands. But you have kept the best for the last!"

This miracle at Cana in Galilee was Jesus' first public demonstration of His heaven-sent power. And His disciples believed that He really was the Messiah.

After the wedding He left for Capernaum for a few days with His mother, brothers, and disciples.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠ Good defense often consists of no more than creating an illusion. To illustrate, we offer this hand from the recent Bermuda Regional held at the Southampton Princess—probably the most popular and pleasant tournament on the American Contract Bridge League's yearly calendar.

We approve of North's decision not to respond two clubs, for his hand did not quite measure up to a two-over-one response. However, when he chose one no trump in preference to bidding his weak spade suit, the 4-4 spade fit was irretrievably lost. At spades, declarer should be able to come to nine tricks without much of a problem.

Against two hearts West led the ten of clubs. Declarer won the ace and king, discarding two diamonds from his hand. Then he led a low spade from dummy. East played the king of spades, which won the trick! Now East shifted to a low diamond.

Consider declarer's problem. East was a passed hand, and he appeared to have the ace and king of spades. From the opening lead, it was certain that he also held a club honor. If he held the ace of diamonds as well, he probably would have opened the bidding.

Not surprisingly, therefore, declarer elected to finesse the jack of diamonds.

West won the queen, cashed the ace of spades and returned a diamond. East rose with the ace and gave his partner a spade ruff. Since declarer still had to lose a trump trick, he ended up down one.

East's play of the king of spades might seem like a reckless act, but in fact it stood to lose little. If West held either the ace or the queen of spades, it was most unlikely that rising with the king would cost a trick. And if West held neither, declarer would obviously take the finesse. A play that risks losing virtually nothing but may gain a lot cannot be wrong by any standard!

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Stunning Ursula Anders shares your birthday and is an excellent example of the kind of physical beauty possessed by many born under the sign of Pisces. This year holds good luck and some super opportunities for both Ursula and you. A lack of vision may mar your progress at some point, but success is yours in almost everything you decide to undertake. Your desire for greater career freedom should be realized by mid-year. You gain a deeper emotional maturity, and a romance proves to be as long-lasting as it is exciting. By the fall, you have really come into your own!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Mate, partner may irritate you with a lack of understanding about work pressures. Avoid brooding; it will only inflame matters further. This is not a good period for starting new business negotiations or making a big career change.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your past efforts to increase your financial security could be well rewarded now. Avoid gossiping, or listening to indiscreet speculation about someone with whom you work. Lay foundations for professional growth by taking special class in job-related subject.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You are in reminiscent mood this morning and it could affect your work. Do not be content to observe rather than act. It is a time for teamwork where business is concerned. Politics may hold special appeal for you now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Expect good news via mail or messenger. Distant affairs show potential financial reward. Evening will prove ideal time for intimate chat with your romantic partner. Make certain you really mean what you say to vulnerable individuals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Adopt greater self-control where money and eating are involved. You are inclined to both treat friends to expensive meals and to pay too much for your own groceries. Be dynamic, original when presenting ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be discreet about romantic interlude. Do not confide in co-worker who may be a bigger talker than you realize. Prominent person is interested in your ideas. Showcase your talents in best possible way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get your priorities in order. Be sure you understand the motives of one who may oppose a pet plan. Showing excessive independence is poor strategy now. Take advantage of an interesting invitation this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Someone at a distance could have valuable information for you. Do not be shy about contacting this person or you will lose out. Teamwork is favored today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends could try to pressure you into joining them in a risky project. Resist temptation or your savings are in jeopardy. Stay in background, today and leave office intrigue to others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You receive reward for good deed performed in recent past. Accept it graciously. Serious business negotiations should be put off until next week when signs point in your favor. A short trip is a good idea, but extended travel would not be worth the expense.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Exercise extra caution if you must drive today. Observe all safety rules around heavy machinery. Your schedule could be subject to quick change. Family members deserve more time with you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Flexibility is important to your efforts to advance professionally. Listen more and talk less. You learn much that can help you make big career strides in immediate future.

Protect your most important assets, your human resources.
