Debate ended by call for annexation ordinance

Midland City Council put the debate to rest by voting unanimously Tuesday to have an ordinance prepared for annexing land north of the current

Residents from the area proposed for annexation - which ranges from Holiday Hill Road on the west to Lamesa Highway on the east packed into the Council Chambers at City Hall for the 4 p.m. public hearing Despite the objections and proover the proposed move, the council cited a need for orderly development of Midland's future growth, which only annexation could give. Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. was out of town and missed the meeting.

THE PRESENT MOVE for annexation was brought before the council in October 1979 Protests from residents that they would have to give up their lifestyles if annexed prompted the council to have the animal and fowl ordinance studied and changed to fit characteristics of the landowners.

Those changes were outlined Tues day by Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community develop ment, with the council setting a public hearing on the item for April 22

Midland's growth since primary reason behind the move for annexation, explained Hennessy. In 1974, Midland's population was estimated at 61,500. Today, it's put at 75,000 while some optimistic people up that figure to 80,000.

In 1974, the city was developing slowly. Today, that picture has changed with Loop 250 about to go under construction. In addition, said Hennessy, Midland Park Mall and Midkiff Plaza are being constructed on the north edge of town, and the general growth of the city is north of

School board candidates dispute 'discipline problem'

By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

Is there a discipline problem in Midland schools?

That question may become the battleground for James Ramsoure and Ronald Britton in the April 5 election for Place 1 on the Midland Independent School District Board of

"I think we have a very strong discipline problem in the school district," said Britton, "which directly affects teaching.

However, Ramsoure, the incumbent, has said he thinks "that may be blowing it (the discipline issue) a little bit out of proportion.

Those incidents were never report ed to the public, Britton claimed, adding that "the school board buried

"Now if that isn't a discipline problem," the challenger charged, "I don't what is."

Ramsoure contends that if there is a discipline problem, it is not the responsibility of the school — but of the home

then when they come to school, we can't expect them to exhibit desirable behavior

That is what 100 of our top leaders have said, and the problem needs to be addressed," he added.

Regarding teacher salaries, Ramsoure said he does not propose to go below what the school district presently pays - about 25 percent above the state average. But, the district has only so much money and they (board members) must operate within the limits of the budget, he explained. If the money could be found in the budget for higher teacher salaries, he said he would support the salary increase

A motion by Trustee Ed Runyan suggested that the district raise the salaries to 30 percent above the state average, he noted.

Fed sabotaging inflation measures?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A longtime supporter of tighter credit controls says the Federal Reserve Board appears to be intentionally sabotaging the president's inflation-fighting plan by tightening credit unfairly.

Those recently imposed controls are beginning to stir up what could become a storm on Capitol Hill and one House subcommittee today was beginning hearings on the Federal Reserve actions. Two other House panels reportedly are considering similar inquiries.

The House Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs was scheduled to hear from Nancy Teeters, the Federal Reserve Board governor responsible for consumer credit.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., is upset because the Fed's new controls reportedly will mean consumers will be charged higher interest rates not only for future credit card purchases but also for purchases already made.

This means that people whose budgets take into account present payments could find themselves paying out more than had been expected and being charged higher-than-anticipated interest rates.

The Fed never wanted credit controls and it is doing everything possible to mess up the president's program," Annunzio said. "I don't know if this is being done on purpose, but the Fed's actions certainly make it

Curtis Prins, the subcommittee staff director, noted that Annunzio has long favored tighter credit but objected to the Fed's rules allowing the tighter credit to be retroactive.

'That's what bothers us," he said. "If the Fed said as of April 1, there will be no more borrowing, we could go along with that.' "We're trying to unload the gun the Federal Reserve is putting at the head of consumers," he added. Prins said the subcommittee already has received numerous calls from people concerned that $30 a month payments on credit card purchases could suddenly become $90 a month or more. He said the subcommittee was concerned that consumers and businesses would become so angry at the new controls that Carter would have no choice but to remove them.

Annunzio is upset not only at the retroactive provisions in the new credit controls but also at what he considers a lack of planning by the board on how the new controls should be administered.

When lenders asked for guidance in putting the controls into effect, the Fed declined to give specific answers and told lenders that in dealing with borrowers they could do 'whatever turns you on,'" the congressman

Milton Friedman and current economic muelson said. Paul Samuelson warn crunch. that the U.S. economy is a recession, but they say my view is that it will re- the national budget. the impact will not be as great as government officials project.

In a rare joint appearance Tuesday, the economists played down the size of the expected recession and took exception with government projections of an 18 percent inflation rate.

"Regardless of what the government does, the inflation rate will lower this year. What distresses me is that the Carter administration will be getting credit for this when it is in spite of and not because of their efforts," said Friedman.

"The core rate of inflation is 10 percent, not the 18 percent currently reported," said Samuel-

Friedman said the rate was somewhere between 10 and 13 percent, calling the 18 percent figure "fakes."

Samuelson and Friedman, two of this country' most highly regarded economists, represent widely differing viewpoints. Samuelson, a Keyenesian economist, advocates government involvement in economics while Friedman is a critic of what he calls "government manipulation" of the marketplace.

worker with three dependents stood at a seasonally adjusted figure of $201.26 last month. But that amounted to only $84.85 in terms of what a worker could buy in 1967.

One year ago, workers' average after-tax earnings stood at $190.38 a week, but that was worth $91.66 in 1967 dollars, the government said.

In the same report, the department noted that over the last 13 years, workers' average hourly earnings have stayed ahead of inflation by only a razor-thin margin. Hourly earnings before adjusting for inflation increased 142.2 percent since 1967. But with inflation taken into account, earnings have risen only 2.1 percent.

Meanwhile, R. Robert Russell, director of the inflation-monitoring Council on Wage and Price Stability, said Tuesday that consumer prices will keep rising at about February's pace for several months as hikes in interest rates and wholesale energy prices show up at the consumer

But Russell told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress he believed inflation had peaked and would begin declining later this year. He based his forecast on an assumption that surging increases in gasoline prices would moderate and interest rates would fall from their record levels.

"I think we won't see in the future any further acceleration in the overall inflation rate," he said, predicting that inflation should slow to 10 percent or 12 percent a year by the end of

Although food prices should begin increasing in the coming months, Russell said the biggest jumps in energy prices likely are past, and prices should be "relatively well behaved" later in the year.

He also observed that the rise in the price of new houses last month was the smallest in almost 18 months, an indication the housing speculation their toll.

But most analysts agree that the message in the slump has been that the economy is headed for some tough times in the months ahead.

"It looks as though there's definitely going to be a recession," said Robert Stovall, an analyst at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc.

His brokerage firm still looks for only a gradual decline in business activity, he said. "But some people are now fearful of a more abrupt one, of the economy running up against a stone wall."

Among the anti-inflation measures prescribed by the government in mid-March, restraints on consumer credit have had the most noticeable impact on Americans' daily affairs.

But in the near-unanimous view of Wall Streeters, tightening of credit by the Federal Reserve at higher levels of the banking system is likely to prove much more important in the long run. The Fed's efforts to reduce the growth of money in circulation have already sent the housing industry into a severe slump and put interest rates at record levels.

The rates on loans for companies start at 19 percent, and all but the biggest blue-chip businesses have to pay well over 20 percent.

Since the Fed started to tighten credit last October, inflation rates have gotten worse than ever — close to 18 percent on an annual basis — 767.83, the average has dropped 136 past weekend also apparently took and economic activity, except in the housing and auto industries, has remained relatively strong.

But many observers believe the Fed's moves are now beginning to take hold, with results that will begin to show up soon in rising unemployment and declining corporate prof-

"In our opinion, the threshold of pain from Federal Reserve policy is just now being encountered," said Raymond F. DeVoe Jr. of the brokerage firm of Bruns, Nordeman, Rea &

As long as inflation was the biggest economic worry, investments like gold and silver kept rising sharply on their appeal as inflation hedges.

But in the past couple of months gold has fallen from $875 an ounce to around $540, and silver from above $50 an ounce to just above $20.

Such a decline in commodity prices is another portent of a slowing economy, analysts say — and quite possi-bly a period when other economic troubles replace inflation in the news

"The Federal Reserve has set the economy firmly on the road to a recession," Chappaqua, N.Y., business analyst S. Jay Levy said in the current issue of his advisory letter, 'Industry Forecast.''

"The recession, like a bath in the cold surf, is supposed to be good for us. It is the cure that Washington has prescribed for inflation.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service said three more boats arrived Tuesday with at least 140 men, women and children, some guided in by suspected smugglers.

A Norwegian tanker picked up 13 Haitians adrift in a disabled 24-foot pleasure craft about 70 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Tuesday, the Coast Guard said.

No one knows how many Haitians have died in the attempt to reach Florida. However, five children and a young mother drowned 450 yards off West Palm Beach last August, and several others drowned this winter off Fort Lauderdale on a trip from the Bahamas to Florida.

Many Haitians apparently make their way first to the Bahamas, where the government has moved to discourage makeshift refugee colonies. Often they work their way to a jumping-off point such as Bimini, then make a deal with a smuggler for an average fee of $500 each, Metcalf

Though many of the Haitians attempt to claim political asylum, federal agents suspect they simply are fleeing the anguished poverty of their Caribbean island homeland.

The average Haitian earned $212 in 1978. Haiti, 700 miles southeast of Miami, is the size of New Hampshire and Vermont with five times as many Later, Councilman Tom Sloan said he objected to the charge the city is trying to confiscate the land.

THE ANNEXED LAND would come into the city under Agriculture-Estates zoning, which isn't considered as valuable as other zoning, said Councilman Carroll Thomas. That will mean the residents wouldn't have the high taxes they are fearing.

And the zoning would give those residents protection from a developer coming in and trying to put in a commercial or apartment development, said Mrs. Howbert.

Roy Kimsey, who lives on Route 5, lodged his protests over annexation, but found himself questioned as to why he had not paid a pro-rata bill for city services.

Kimsey claimed he never got the bill, then charged that no one has been reading his water meter before

Harrell Feldt, attorney for Saddle Club North and residents along Solomon Lane, told the City Council that until they can provide all the services and protection they boast of, they shouldn't annex any part of the northern segment.

Saddle Club North has been developed in an orderly fashion, he said.

"And the city staff is being taxed to the ultimate to put in city services. Because of this boom, they haven't been able to keep their heads above

'The question is, can you handle it (speaking of providing services), but not do you need it?" he concluded.

IN FELDT'S VIEW, the city shouldn't annex land until there is indication of a development planned north of the proposed annexation

And to believe that area will have traffic or drainage problems in a few years still isn't reason enough to annex the land, the attorney added.

Overall, the residents charged they already have streets, orderly growth, water and sewer services, fire and law enforcement protection. Fire service is being provided by the city on a trade-out agreement with Midland County. And the Sheriff's Department handles law enforcement.

Fred Baker, director of public works, said residents wouldn't have to tie into water and sewer lines if they didn't want to. Those who do pay a pro-rata amount which goes back into a construction fund to pay for more lines.

Drainage will become a major problem in that area as it develops, claimed Baker. Mustang Draw meanders through the area, and the city needs to obtain rights of way to develop a drainage plan.

Problems with the street system already exist as Mockingbird Lane is designated to be a major arterial street in the future. Currently, he said, it exists as a narrow street in one part, doesn't exist in another segment, and is a dirt road in the Police Chief Wayne Gideon said to provide protection to that area would mean two additional men. Fire Chief Raymond Lewis said he expects a fire station will have to be added in that area in about two years, whether or not it is annexed.

CITY TAXES, said Tax Assessor-Collector Virgil Jones, should decrease over the next few years.

After six hours of hearing testimony, Councilman Thomas remarked the "community is at a crossroads in its growth."

To provide for the future of Midland, Thomas recommended taking in the maximum suggested by the planning department. But, Green Tree Country Club per se was deleted to put it on an equal basis with the other two clubs. Looking at the packed chamber, Councilman G. Thane Akins said, "It would be a lot easier just to drop it now. But annexation is the right thing to do from the standpoint of good city plannning."

Skyrocketing costs of purchasing rights of way for Loop 250 have been plaguing Midland City Council for months.

But on Tuesday, during the coun cil's regular session in City Hall Council Chambers, Councilman Tom Sloan said those costs are threatening the future of the road.

Listed as an item on the consent agenda was a $500,000 appropriation from a general fund to purchase more rights of way.

Before it was approved unanimously, Sloan commented, "I wonder if its economically feasible to continue this project. It's costing too much for

In a signed letter by Don Furgeson, the minutes of the meeting showed that Britton, as a representative of the taxpayers, said he was in favor of the motion to raise instructors' salaries to 30 percent over the state average and to cut the budget to $24,356,007.

"I MIGHT add that Ramsoure voted against the 30 percent increase and later voted for the 25 percent above the state average," Britton

The number one priority for the school district, in Ramsoure's opinion, is restoring confidence in the school system.

He suggested that the public needs to be made aware of the programs which the school system does well.

of the students don't go to college after graduation. Instead, they find jobs and become part of the working force, he said. Presently the school district has various vocational technical programs with Midland College, Ramsoure explained, which help train these students.

ANOTHER REASON for instituting training programs is the community has a need for particular skills these programs can provide, he added.

Both candidates say they support the $3 million repair and maintenance bond issue. But, Britton said, past school boards have created this problem by not providing enough money for the district's maintenance and repair items.

And the taxpayer really has no other choice except to vote for the bonds which will increase school taxes by two or three cents, he said. Ramsoure noted the $3 million bond

Connally support bouys Reagan

By SHARON HERBAUGH

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) Bouyed by new-found support from former nemesis John Connally, Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan concluded a whirlwind tour of Northeast Texas by pooh-poohing his defeat in the Connecticut primary.

Reagan was edged in Connecticut by Texan George Bush, who spent his boyhood years in that Northeastern state. Reagan he said he hadn't expected to win in Connecticut anway, calling it "George Bush's state."

Reagan said Tuesday night he was pleased with the outcome and added he was happy with returns from New York, where he soundly defeated Bush and Republican John Ander-

Making his first appearance before the May 3 Texas primary, Reagan courted sure-fire support in this con-servative region of East Texas after a brief rally and fund-raiser at Dallas-served three terms as Democratic governor of Texas before switching parties, towered over 69-year-old Reagan, as the two stood arm in arm, posing for photographers. 'This country desparately needs a change," Connally said amid accolades for his former opponent. "I want to be part of the effort that set the course of this change."

At a Longview Chamber of Commerce banquet later Tuesday, he continued to praise Reagan.

'I've always believed if you can't whip 'em, join 'em," he told a cheering crowd of 1,700. "He (Reagan) penetrated the very roots, the very core of the feeling of the American people. I saw it tested in Florida ... New Hampshire, Massachussetts and Vermont. But I said wait until South Carolina and South Carolina came and it went and they spoke and it was still Reagan."

IRA gunman frees mom, infant girl

DUNDALK, Ireland (AP) — A suspected IRA guerrilla freed a mother and her infant daughter today after an appeal by a Roman Catholic priest, but kept the father captive.

The gunman, identified by police as Bernard McGinn, 21, took the family hostage Tuesday. Armed with guns and hand grenades, McGinn is fleeing a 10year prison sentence imposed by a Dublin anti-terrorist court for possession of explosives.

McGinn was convicted last November, but jumped bail on the last day of his trial and has been a fugitive since. The siege began when police responded to a report that he was staying at the O'Reilly's house on the outskirts of Dundalk, a stronghold of the outlawed "Provisional" wing of the mainly Catholic Irish Republican Army.

According to some reports, Mrs. O'Reilly is McGinn's cous-

McGinn asked to see his elderly mother, who was reported on her way to the the house.

More than 2,000 people have been killed in a decade of factional violence in Ireland. The Irish Republican Army seeks to unite the British province of Northern Ireland with the predominately Catholic Irish Republic to the south. The Protestant majority of Northern Ireland opposes union.

Boeing named missile contractor

SEATTLE (AP) - After eight years of development and three years of head-on competition, the Boeing Aerospace Co. has been named prime contractor for the air-launched cruise missile. The new weapons contract could be worth $2 billion for the area's economy.

"Everyone was very tense this morning," project manager Ray Utterstrom said after announcement of the award to the company that a decade ago slumped so badly a billboard asked, "Will the last one leaving Seattle please turn out the lights?'

The Air Force announced Tuesday that Boeing had defeated General Dynamics of St. Louis in the battle for the contract, worth $1 billion to $2 billion depending on how many missiles are built.

Air Force plans call for 3,400 of the computer-guided missiles, designed to be launched from B-52 bombers and to carry nuclear warheads as far as 1,500 miles at low altitudes to avoid radar.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson said the missile would be "a key element of our national defense posture."

In sending her congratulations, Gov. Dixy Lee Ray said 900 Boeing employees had been assigned to the project and that the company planned to add 600 for the project over the next

"That bodes well for this state's economy, not only from the standpoint of wages, but also in the indirect benefits that normally accrue in a major contract of this kind," she Boeing's profit was set at 9 percent, but company officials said they couldn't determine the full economic impact without knowing how many of the $500,000 missiles Boeing would build. Air Force Secretary Hans Mark left open the possibility that other bids might be solicited for further production of the Boeing-designed weapon.

Utterstrom said the initial $141 million contract, to be signed in about three weeks, calls for Boeing to build 225 missiles this year, with an option for 480 in 1981 if Congress approves funding. Nearly 30 subcontractors are

The first missiles are to be ready by December 1982. Mark and Boeing officials' said production would begin "almost immediately" in Seattle and later in a factory to be built in nearby

The initial $141 million represents Boeing's biggest defense contract since the 1970 award of a $170 million pact for the airborne warning and control system.

Even before the announcement, Boeing said soaring sales of commercial passenger jets would bring a 5,000-job increase this year in the Seattle area, where the company is the dominant employer with 78,000 persons on the payroll out of a population of 1.5 million

MX missile program 'rushed,' Nevada's governor says

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market, struggling after its dizzying slide on Monday, finished with a small recovery among blue chips Tuesday but no comparable reversal in overall trading.

bucked the trend, rising 1% to 673

Big Board volume came to 43.79 million shares, up from 39.23 million. The NYSE composite index declined .23 to 56.24.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 4.04 to 237.13. The NASDAQ composite of over the counter trading declined 2.09 to 132.52.

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - More than half of 172 bills passed last year by the 96th Congress, which now seeks to slow the pace of government spending, helped worsen inflation, a panel of business economists has concluded.

Most inflationary of all, said the economists, was the $1.5 billion Chrysler Corp. loan guarantee program, which they felt established anti-competitive precedents that are likely to show up in future

Four other non-appropriations bills were included with the Chrysler guarantees as "significantly" inflationary, while 90 more were deemed "moderately" so. None was rated significantly noninflation-

"Most of the bills judged to be inflationary weren't by themselves very significant," said George McKinney, chairman of the nine-member legislative panel of the National Association of Business Econo-

But, he said, "taken together, these bills, along with similar measures passed in earlier years, are a principal reason why inflation is now out of hand." Still, McKinney said he saw some hope.

"Even this disappointing record," he said, "represented some improvement over 1978, when a similar study show Congress passed five times as many inflationary as anti-inflationary bills."

McKinney, senior vice president and economist of Irving Trust Co., said committee members individually assessed each law and voted solely on the basis of its inflationary potential. No consideration was given to other potentially harmful or beneficial effects of legislation.

This is the second year the economists have graded Congress and its members who, McKinney says, may condemn inflation but vote for it. "Actions sometimes speak differently," he observes.

Along with the Chrysler legislation, PL-185, the economists gave their worst ratings to PL127, continuing dairy product price supports; PL88, creating the Department of Education; PL128, raising disabled paterness, benefit and price supports. bled veterans' benefits; and PL125, authorizing $3.8 billion of military contruction.

The committee didn't stop with rating legislation but offered opinions also on two budget resolutions.

Again, they gave Congress a very poor grade.

The first resolution, in May 1979, approved fiscal 1980 budget outlays of $532 billion, revenues of $509 billion, and a $23 billion deficit. The second raised outlays $16 billion but revenues by only $9 billion. Now that Congress is talking about cost-cutting and budget-balancing, McKinney feels, "there may be reason to hope Congress is beinning to listen to the millions of Americans crying for an end to infla-He sees the possibility of another change, although it is too early to document. Last year, he points out,

Congress passed only half as many bills as in the year before. Could it be the beginning of a trend? While it isn't unusual for the first session to give much time to discussions and relatively less to voting, and to correct the imbalance in the second year, he feels the current mood might alter that The passage of bills, he and his associates observe, usually leads to the expenditure of money, either

Explosion death toll reaches four

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Pennzoil officials say the accident later this week two badly burned bodies have been recovered from a "The seas are running nine gas well rig that exploded and burned in the Gulf of 25-knot winds today," he said Tuesday. "There's not a Mexico, bringing the confirmed death toll in the blast to Pennzoil spokesman Bob Harper said the bodies were recovered about noon Tuesday and had not been identified late Tuesday night.

Officials said Monday four men were missing after the blowout, which apparently came after the well struck a shallow pocket of natural gas.

The missing men were identified as Charles Forbes. 32, of Columbia, Miss., Johnny Lamert, 23, of Prentiss, Miss., Jerry Saucier, 37, also of Columbia and Robert Smith, 22, of Alexandria, La.

Harper said the company will probably start cleanup operations and begin a preliminary investigation into explosion and fire.

"The seas are running nine to 10 feet in the area with heck of a lot we can do right now."

The two bodies recovered Tuesday were near the wellhead, where the fire first broke out after gas came spewing out of the well early Monday morning.

Two other men killed in the explosion have been identified as Richard D. McDonald, 30, of Friendswood, Texas, and Douglas James Sparks, 23, of Houston, according to the Galveston County Medical Examiner's

WASHINGTON (AP) - Opponents of the "windfall profits" oil tax will have one more chance to block a Senate vote

Some opponents of the $227 billion bill want to kill it and others want it sent back to committee for more work.

Under the compromise approved Tuesday, opponents will have a chance to send the bill either to the Senate Appropriations Committee or to the Senate Finance Committee. Such a move would delay final action for months.

But if those moves fail, the other part of the agreement specifies that the Senate may take a final vote by noon Thursday.

The bill is a key part of President Carter's energy program. He proposed it to take back part of the estimated $1 trillion consumers will pay in this decade with removal of federal price controls on domestic crude oil.

Although called a levy on "windfall profits," the tax would not be applied directly to profits. Instead, it would take a portion of each price increase on domestic crude oil above 1979
