The city panel decided to move ahead with condemnnation proceedings on a parcel of land needed for Loop 250 if the owner doesn't accept the city's offer for right of way.

City Attorney Joe Nuessle said the land was appraised at $9,150 which works out to be 47.5 cents per square foot. The owner wanted 75 cents per square foot. Nuessle said the owner compromised at 52 cents, but recently changed his mind and upped the figure about another 10 cents.

"This has been going on for 18 months," Nuessle said of the problem the city is up against in trying to purchase rights of way for Loop 250.

A woman and a baby girl died Tuesday when a tornado hit a Kentucky trailer park. Earlier, a man in central Texas was killed when his home collapsed around him, and a boy in Oklahoma drowned when his boat capsized. In Michigan, 80 mph winds were reported, three tornadoes touched down late Tuesday, and a Kingsley woman was struck by lightning as she talked on her telephone. Kathryn Brooks was hospitalized in good condition today with burns on her chest and back after the freak accident.

In Ohio, 15 persons were injured as violent storms flipped over dozens of mobile homes, tore roofs from houses, flattened barns and downed trees and utility lines.

tween N and Garfield streets will be closed. The council approved the action and will make the north half of that street one-way going west. The south half is being purchased by Midland Memorial Hospital to make room for parking at the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center.

The request from Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church for street closings and a beer license for the family fair was approved only after more police officers were required by the council.

Despite an unfavorable recommendation from the Planning and Zoning Commission, the council approved on first reading a zone change to local retail district on Lamesa Road between Cuthbert Avenue and Cherry Lane.

Eddie Garza said his client, Joe Hernandez, planned to put in a small restaurant in the location. But the planning body denied the request on the basis spot zoning for retail wouldn't fit in the area.

Garza pointed out the land in that area has been vacant for many years' and home builders wouldn't want such a location.

Militants threaten to 'burn' hostages if U.S. acts militarily

By The Associated Press

The Moslem militants occupying the U.S. Embassy in Tehran today threatened to kill their 50 American hostages - "burn them into ashes" if the Carter administration takes any military action against Iran.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, meanwhile, declared Iran has 'decided to overthrow" the regime in neighboring Iraq.

The militants' grim threat came as U.S. officials were hinting at a naval blockade or mining of Iran's ports if President Carter's new economic and diplomatic sanctions fail to free the hostages, who were in their 158th day in captivity today.

"In the name of God the avenger we plainly warn the criminal government of the United States that if it undertakes even the smallest military intervention in Iran we will kill all the spies-hostages together and we emphatically warn the respected U.S. nation that the criminals of the U.S.

A Western reporter who called the embassy for clarification of what was meant by "spies-hostages" was told the militants meant all the hostages would be killed, and that they were not making any distinction between alleged spies and the other captives.

In the early days of the crisis the militants said they would kill the hos-tages if the United States made a military attempt to rescue them. They said they had rigged the embas sy compound with explosives Later today, Iran's official news agency Pars carried another militant statement declaring, "We will burn into ashes the spy hostages and the building they are living in if we see any suspicious military move or the least military attack by the U.S. against the territory of Iran.

Ghotbzadeh, interviewed by American television networks this morning, said he doubted that the Iranian government could stop the embassy militants if they decided to carry out their threat, "but I hope we never go to that

In Washington, Carter administration officials declined to make immediate comment on the threat. In the past, Carter has warned of severe retaliation if any hostages are harmed.

Ghotbzadeh's announcement on Iraq was carried by Tehran Radio, which quoted him as saying: "We have decided to overthrow the Baathist regime of Iraq." There were no further details.

Hostility between Iran and the pro-Moscow government of the socialist Baathist Party in neighboring Iraq has been growing in recent days.

He refused to specify what action is contemplated, saying to do so would not be productive. But he emphasized that whatever Carter decides would not have to have unanimous support of U.S. allies, who have resisted cooperating with trade sanctions first imposed against Iran months ago.

"To the extent that they support us in these efforts, the crisis is more likely to be resolved without the necessity of additional wctions which could involve additional risks for all concerned," Powell said.

He said the reference to additional action was "a clear statement of policy" and advised European and Japanese allies heavily dependent on Iranian oil to consider carefully what the next move might be.

In addition to ending diplomatic relations, actions announced by Carter Monday included trade sanctions, allowing claims against Iran's frozen assets in the United States and invalidating visas for future entry into the country by Iranians.

GOP's Bush criticizes Reagan's

wishy-washy stance on boycott

By LEE BYRD Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan's flip-flopping on whether the United States should boycott the Moscow Olympics has earned him a score of zero on George Bush's scale of political sportsmanship.

"I'm appalled," said Bush, "that my principal opponent for the Republican presidential nomination, Gov. Ronald Reagan, has taken a wishywashy position on this issue.'

Reagan, who espouses a generally hard line on foreign policy, including stronger threats against Iran and sending U.S. arms to Afghan rebels, said Tuesday that American athletes should be free to go to Moscow if they choose that course.

Bush, campaigning in Pennsylvania, told the World Affairs Council in Philadelphia that he fully supports President Carter's call for a total boycott of the Summer Games and "I find it outrageous that this nation has not rallied behind our president."

"Today," said Bush, "I am urging the president not only to stand firm but to take additional action that will ensure the finality of his decision and put an end to the public debate over the participation of our athletes."

Reagan, who has changed his mind several times on the issue, told the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington that "I would rather see the athletes and, of course, the Olympics Committee - they're prudent men — I would rather see them persuaded and make a decision themselves not to go'

"But I can't bring myself, I must confess, to say we're going to be the only country absent, that the president should be able to say to a group of Americans ... that you can't leave the country.'

Carter has appealed to the athletes and their parent organizations to boycott the games but has stopped short of declaring a flat prohibition on travel to Moscow

Reagan first supported a boycott, then withdrew his backing on ground that few other countries would join.

Early this month, he endorsed the boycott again. He said also that the Olympic Games should be moved back to their original home in Greece, but he dropped that position in his latest statement

Elsewhere Tuesday, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy acknowledged in Pennsylvania that he trails President Carter for that state's critical primary on April 22, but he insisted "It's still a long road. We're in it until the end. I'm not in it to lose, and I'm very hopeful we'll gain the nomination.'

Kennedy denied a report in the Washington Post that he and Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., last month discussed, and then rejected, the idea of having Udall supplant Kennedy as Carter's principal challenger. Kennedy said the report "has no basis in fact whatsoever.'

In California, Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., called for "dramatic new means" to solve the Iranian hostage crisis by enlisting the support of Japan and Western Europe in the exercise of economic sanctions.

Reagan reveals his support for Olympics boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ronald Reagan, dogged by questions about whether he supports boycotting the Moscow Olympics, stands accused by Republican rival George Bush of tak-

The only way the Russian that you can't leave the country, people will learn of the tragedy in Reagan said. Afghanistan is if we stay with the president's decision.'

Reagan, questioned at a meeting here of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said "I would rather see the athletes and, of course, the Olympic Committee - they're prudent men - I would rather see them persuaded and make a decision themselves not to go.

"But I can't bring myself, I must confess, to say we're going to be the only country absent, that the president should be able to say to a group of Americans, to set that precedent,

A Texas Advisory Council on Arson (ATAC on Arson) had recommended the rule at the board's property insurance hearing in February.

Spokesmen for the organization said 60 days does not allow a company long enough to investigate a new risk and as a result, "the company must remain on a recognized time bomb."

After the cancellation deadline passes, a company must continue to insure a house or other building until the policy expires - usually for a year after it is written.

G.J. Jones, the board's property actuary, opposed the recommendation, saying "60 days is ample for companies to underwrite their busi-

New force added to traffic jams

NEW YORK (AP) - With tr. affic already near the saturation po int, more-than 1 million public school students and teachers today are joi ning New York's commuter jam. But striking unions say $1 million in fine: will not force an end to a nine-day shutdown of buses and subways.

City officials feared today's return to school, coupled with the increase in business of a "matinee Wednesday," could create a "grid lock" of total traffic paralysis.

The saturation point could be reached when 300,000 vehicles try to move in Manhattan, experts believe. Officials estimated 250,000 cars entered the central business district Tuesday for what police said were the worst traffic jams since the strike

The morning commuter rush began to peak today at the previously unheard of hour of 6: 15 a.m., the traffic department reported. On Tuesday, traffic increased dramatically at 6:30 a.m. with the peak lasting from 7:10 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Bumper-to-bumper tieups were reported before 6 a.m. to the approaches to both the Brooklyn and Manhattan bridges.

Some 957,000 students and nearly 90,000 teachers were to end spring vacations today. Some students were told to report an hour later than usual to keep down the impact on overcrowded streets and sidewalks.

Brooklyn state Supreme Court Justice John Monteleone, saying the "devastating effect of a strike" has New Yorkers "hanging on the brink of despair," on Tuesday found the unions and their leaders in contempt of court and fined them a total of $1

Monteleone, who issued an injunction against the walkout before it began, warned more fines might result if the strike continued.

"It will break our treasury," said Transport Workers Union local President John Lawe. "But our union was not built on money but on back-

He said the 35,000 striking bus and subway workers would not return to work "until we have reached a reasonable contract.'

Some 2,500 members of two Amalgamated Transit Union locals were ordered by their international president to return to work on some bus lines in Queens and Staten Island. Local leaders said there would be no comment until after a meeting of executive boards today.

Metropolitan Transportation Authority Chairman Richard Ravitch was to meet today with the local executive boards of the TWU and the ATU to explain why management wants to negotiate work rule changes

.Unless the unions agree to "improvements in productivity, cost savings, and management efficiency, this is going to be a very long, long strike," Ravitch said.

The transit workers, currently paid ai average $18,000 a year, seek a 25 pe rcent raise over two years. The M7'A has offered 12 percent.

In other developments Tuesday: Negotiations continued in the effort to head off a walkout by seven operating unions of the Long Island Rail Ro ad. Some 4,000 workers struck the nation's busiest commuter railroad last week, and union leaders have warned that they will strike again if negotiations do not proceed at a satisfactory pace. - Strikers won a pledge of "all possible aid" from a coalition of uniformed city workers now negotiating with City Hall for new contracts. Included in the coalition are the city police, firefighters, fire officers, correction officers and sanitationmen.

- Police reported major crime was down 28 percent in Manhattan for the first week of the strike and all other boroughs reported decreases except Staten Island - Four colleges of the City Univer-

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, left, laughs with President Jimmy Carter at the White House Tuesday. # Promise of autonomy for Palestinians remembered as Carter toasts Sadat

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has publicly reminded Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin of his Camp David pledge to grant "full autonomy" to the more than 1 million Palestinians living in Israeli-occupied territories.

'It would be inconceivable that we would let this promise (of the Camp David accords) slip through our grasp," Carter said in toasting President Anwar Sadat of Egypt at a White House dinner Tuesday night after the first of two days of talks between Carter and Sadat were to resume their discussions today. Sadat also planned to meet with various administration officials and congressicaal leaders and have a brief evening session with former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Sadat responded to Carter's toast Tuesday evening with effusive praise for the U.S. president and a firm commitment "to pursue our mission until a comprehensive settlement is achieved."

While never mentioning the official May 26 target date for conclusion of the stalled negotiations between Israel and Egypt over the Palestinian question, Sadat insisted: "A real transfer of authority must take place, and a new era of reconciliation should

About 1.2 million Palestinian Arabs live on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in Gaza under Israeli control.

Begin, due here next week for talks with Carter, has offered to relinquish control over some day-to-day affairs but would maintain Israel's hold on the territories, won from Jordan and

Egypt in the 1967 Six-Day War.

Carter, however, in what he called "a toast to peace," recalled that the Camp David accords of September 1978 call for "the organization of a self-governing authority in the West Bank and Gaza derived through free elections held by the people who live in those two troubled areas."

Israel, Carter said, "has agreed to withdraw the military government and civilian administration associated with it and en to withdraw all her troops from the occupied territories (with) the remainder of those troops to be located in specified security locations.

"The people of those two territories are granted autonomy," Carter said, "and as Prime Minister Begin said many times in the presence of President Sadat and me, not just autonomy - full autonomy, 'Full autonomy,' he said many, many

Referring again to the document the three men signed after their 13-day Camp David summit, Carter told his dinner guests: "Prime Minister Begin, President Sadat and I are pledged to carry out all these agreements on our word of honor and on the honor of the nations that we represent. It is a solemn commitment which cannot be lightly ignored or violated."

Begin has maintained that Israel's autonomy proposal fulfills he "framework" he built with Carter and Sadat. Israel fears that establishing a legislative council like that proposed by Sadat would be a step toward a Palestinian state that could threaten Israel's existence.

Bomb material found in FALN hideout

MILWAUKEE (AP) - The FBI found weapons and bombmaking materials in a quaint white dwelling whose peaceful appearance concealed what authorities say was a hideout for associates of a Puerto Rican terrorist group.

FBI spokesmen said agents, armed with a search warrant, searched the two-story frame house on Tuesday and found disguises, propaganda, weapons, wiring and other items that might be used to manufacture bombs

John D. Glover, special agent in charge of the FBI Milwaukee office, said authorities did not locate the owner of the home, identified as Oscar Lopez-Rivera.

Lopez, 34, has been wanted since 1977 on charges dealing with possession and storage of explosives. The FBI described Lopez as armed and dangerous.

Spokesmen said they doubt, however, that the house was a bomb factory operated by members of the FALN, or Fuerzas Armadas de Liberacion Nacional (Armed Forces of National Liberation), as was rumored.

Eleven FALN suspects, arrested Friday in Evanston, Ill., are being held in Cook County Jail in Chicago on $2 million bail each after a raucous hearing Monday on weapons charges.

Among those arrested was Carlos Alberto Torres, 27, who had headed the FBI's list of most-wanted fugitives and who police. identify as an FALN ringleader.

The FALN is blamed for about 100 terrorist bombings since 1974 in Chicago, New York and other cities. Glover said there has been little FALN activity in the Milwaukee area although Lopez apparently had lived in the north-side house for more than

The surgery for Christie Legg, 21, of Longview, began about 3 p.m. Tuesday at Baylor Medical Center and was still under way early today.

The girl was cutting wood with a band saw in class at nearby Denton Tuesday morning when the saw slipped and cut into her arm, nearly severing the left hand just above the wrist. Late Tuesday surgeons told her parents, George and Dorothy Legg no complications had developed. At that time, the surgeons had worked for five hours, painstakingly using microsurgery to reattach

Cuba's stark lesson

For some months now we've been hearing reports that Cuba's economic position was deteriorating. In light of the most recent news event, those reports would appear to be on target.

According to the Peruvian government, more than 10,000 Cubans overwhelmed that country's embassy in Havana, Cuba, seeking to escape the communist rule of Fidel Castro.

The thousands of Cubans reportedly began pouring into the Peruvian embassy compound on Friday after the Cuban government removed its police guard outside the embassy.

Cuban officials said they removed the guards because one of them was killed in a gunfight last tragedy. Those thousands of week when six Cubans rammed a bus through the embassy gate to seek asylum.

The flood of Cubans into the Peruvian embassy is a testimonial to the horrors of a communistic state. A government which has to restrain its people from leaving surely cannot be pleasant and productive.

Fidel Castro has for years maintained his repressive regime in his island state just 90 miles from the tip of Florida. All the while he has maintained close ties to the Soviet Union and made a nuisance of himself throughout the world.

Cuban troops, if you recall, have been involved in the Soviet Union's "proxy wars" in Africa and elsewhere. And Soviet combat troops, it has been reported, are present even now in Cuba:

But things apparently are not as rosy in Havana as Castro would have us believe. Castro accused Peru of giving refuge to "common criminals and anti-socialist elements" after two dozen Cubans had sought refuge in the Peruvian embassy.

What's Castro's response now? Does he call the 10,000 Cubans who flooded the Peruvian embassy "common criminals and antisocial elements"?

The incident truly is a human Cubans apparently represent only the tip of the iceberg of the human suffering in Cuba.

Here in the United States, too often we take our freedom all too lightly, too much for granted.

When we witness an outpouring of human grief and despair like that reported in Cuba, we are reminded that our freedom and our democratic form of government is a rarity among nations. We must forever strive to keep it safe because there are far too many nations that would end our way of life if our guard ever drops.

Invasion of Arab oil fields would doom Israeli state

WASHINGTON - Israel is never dull. Equipped with a perpetually boiling political pot. And always mindful of menacing neighbors, Israel is easily agitated. Lately, despite the peace process, there have been signs that a sense of dangerous desperation may be welling in this vola-

Recently, Dial Torgerson of the Los Angeles Times recounted a dialogue in a Jerusalem cafe in which a U.S. official, his Israeli counterpart, and some journalists, got into it hot and heavy over the possibility of Israel invading Arab oil nations. The Israeli official argued that the U.S. and European nations were pushing Israel around just to please the Arabs, particularly the Saudis. He claimed that it was Israel who lets Saudi oil flow and who could shut it off, thus turning the U.S. and Europe 'into a pastoral society if we wanted

When the American objected, the Israeli reminded him that while Samson died in the process, he pulled-down the temple, killing all inside. "Let the world remember that," the Israeli warned. "No one should think that we who went through the holocaust would see ourselves sold out for Europe's oil." The bottom line in the dialogue was the Israeli's assurance that all would go well, presumably for the U.S. and ne West, if Israel took over the oil fields, and ran them as they did Egypt's fields in the Sinai for years. I would have regarded Torgerson's piece as just a nicely crafted vignette, were it not for an intense conversation I had a while back with Moshe Arens, Chairman of the Knesset's Committée on Defense and Foreign Relations. Arens, a right-winger, and a strong figure in the Israeli government, startled me that day by declaring that the U.S. would come to realize that it must join Israel in an invasion of Arab oilfields in order to save the West.

I reminded Arens that the oil belonged to those Arab nations, that to invade them would only bring great discredit to Israel and the U.S., and that Israel needed more trouble like a hole in the head. But Arens shook his head, and said that the U.S. would one day see the wisdom in such a military action.

The CBS correspondent also at the table must have felt as incredulous as I, for neither of us reported the conversation in the media. Perhaps we concluded that at that moment Israeli hawks were resentful with Carter Administration talk - and actions concerning the use of Egypt and other

Arab nations for bases to protect U.S. interests in the region. It is sad, but instructive, to realize that certain influential Israelis feel so desperate that they think war and not Certainly they do not represent the consensus thinking of Israeli leadership, political or intellectual. Certainly U.S. officials would reject any scenario involving a joint Israeli-U.S. military action against Arab nations. But oil flows now, and despite the price, bourgeoisie Americans burn it liberally in furnaces and automobile engines, and the Republic goes on. If there was an oil doomsday, however, with no oil flowing from the Arabian Gulf, there would be panic in the U.S. and Arens' plan might sound feasible to anxious U.S. officials.

Such anxiety would not show the better sides of the American and Israeli character. Nor does the statement by one Israeli in Torgerson's dialogue who pointed out that Prime Minister Begin was "outrageous" for putting Jews in the Arab town of Hebron, knowing that "the Americans can't do anything to him because Carter is running for election."

There are rueful conclusions. One is that Carter has lost the confidence of some Israeli officials and Jewish leaders in the U.S., therefore, the surfacing of dangerous scenarios. Another is that the $10 billion the U.S. has given Israel in recent years allows them certain bravado. How brave would Israel be without these billions?

How sure is Israel of itself these days when its own press laments that only 20 percent of Soviet Jewish emigrants remain in Israel, and that thousands of other Israelis have left to live in Europe and the U.S., apparently abandoning the Zionist dream? I hope that the best heads in Israel, and in the American Jewish community, agree that invasion talk and consequent action would be a sure guarantee for the eventual destruction of Israel. GRAFORD, Texas (AP) - Although the town's water supply has dried up, assistance from other communities has begun to pour in abundantly for the 577 residents of this small Palo Pinto County community.

The town began pumping water from a creek below the dam after a small reservoir that supplies the community's drinking water dried up two weeks ago.

Then the creek dried up, it hadn't rained since February, and the town was in its fourth day without water Tuesday when other people responded to reports of the community's desper-

Two trucks, donated by Don Breedlove of Dallas, with two trailers donated by the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., were hauling water to the town by late Tuesday.

A Mineral Wells company, Centron, donated enough pipe to lay an emergency line to a nearby water supply. Graford was hoping to tie into the Mineral Wells water supply 12 miles away, but Mineral Wells "did not have proper connections and deli-

"The public and the people in Dallas, everybody, has been most generous," Mrs. Howard said. "We were in terrible circumstances and couldn't have gotten out by ourselves.'

Although the people of Graford have had water rationing almost every summer, they had never run completely out of water before.

It usually rains in the winter, but this winter, it didn't. We had no measureable rainfall in March. I'd say we're 12 to 15 inches short for the winter," Mrs. Howard said.

Two weeks ago, the town imposed rationing when its small reservoir dried up. The town began pumping water from Keechi Creek below the dam until it went dry Saturday.

On Sunday, residents borrowed farmers' milk trucks to haul water 12 miles from Mineral Wells.

Monday, however, the milk trucks had to return to the milk business, and the town decided it could not afford $500 a day for the imported

Guerrillas kill one wound three in Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - In a spectacman and wounded three others today in the North

The "Belfast Brigade" of the Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the killing and said it used a big M-60 American machine gun. Police said they thought at least three machine guns were used in the carefully planned trap.

The killers took over a house overlooking a library in West Belfast and held a woman and child captive overnight, officers said. In the morning they lured police to the scene by reporting a break-in and lecturer Mary Daly finds herself standing in the midst of a paradox.

She teaches at the Je- paperback. suit-run Boston College, and on her speaking tours, the lecture hall frequently turns out to be a church. The pulpit is the last place one might expect to find Mary Daly. The fact that she finds herself in this situation says something about the turmoil within the American church today.

Mary Daly, radical feminist and holder of seven degrees including three doctorates, may be the most frightening woman in America today.

She causes anxiety in her Jesuit colleagues at Boston University because she renounces everything they teach and calls for a new order of religion for women.

She frightens women because Daly digs deeper into culture, history, language, religion and philosophy than most feminist scholars, and she upends a rock that squirms with the most terrifying collection of worms and bugs imaginable.

Daly is the author of three books. All of them did well in popular sales and all are used as textbooks at universities. Her first book, "The Church and the Second Sex," set her on her odyssey of radicalism, and put her at odds with the Catholic church and the traditional academic

After a long siege of harassment, during which she lost her teaching position and then was reinstated at the insistence of the primarily male student body, Daly abandoned many of the ideas expressed in her first book. She came to feel that women seeking reformation of the church are "like blacks trying to reform the Ku Klux Klan."

Her second book, "Beyond God the Father: Toward a Philosophy of Women's Liberation." firmly established her revolutionary stance and

Sun making offer for Seagram Co.

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

NEW YORK (AP) - Sun Co. Inc., the nation's 10th-largest oil company, said Monday it was offering $2.3 bilfion in cash and floating-rate notes for substantially all the U.S. oil and gas properties owned by a division of The Seagram Co. Ltd. of Montreal.

The properties are owned by Texas Pacific Oil Co. Inc., a Dallas-based subsidiary of the world's largest liquor distiller, and are largely in Texas and Oklahoma, said Kurt Van Vladren, Sun's director of corporate public relations.

Seagram said in a statement that it would "consider the offer carefully," and would "consider any other offer received." While "other companies have expressed an interest" in the oil and gas holdings, no other bids have been made, Seagram said.

Van Vladren said the offer, which expires Friday, is a "friendly" one. 'We became aware some time ago" that the Texas Pacific properties were for sale, and Seagram "invited us to take a look," he said in a telephone interview from Sun headquarters in Radnor, Pa.

Van Vladren said Sun and Seagram have not agreed on what part of the offer would be in cash and what would be in notes. Floating-rate notes carry interest rates adjusted to moneymarket conditions.

Texas Pacific has some 3 million acres of unexplored oil and gas properties in the United States, Sun said.

While oil and gas accounted for nearly one-quarter of Seagram's operating profits last year, "the oil business is not Seagram's basic business," said Van Vladren, "We can probably devote more money, people and technology than they have available" to developing Texas Pacific's resources, he said.

In a prepared statement, Theodore Burtis, Sun's chairman and chief executive, said its offer is a "tangible expression" of the company's commitment to develop U.S. energy re-

Sun said it "contemplates retention" by Seagram of a 25 percent interest in Texas Pacific's producing properties and a 49 percent interest in "once certain criteria are achieved." Sun did not detail the criteria. The company also said it is offering up to $400 million in capital spending commitments.

Sun said it produced 167,000 barrels of oil and 1 billion cubic feet of natural gas a day in the United States last year. It said Texas Pacific's U.S. oil output totals about 35,000 barrels a day, and its daily gas production was more than 130 million cubic feet.

Texas Pacific also has proved oil reserves of about 120 million 42-gaflon barrels and gas reserves of more than 300 billion cubic feet, compared with Sun's oil reserves of 579 million barrels and gas reserves of 3.2 trillion

NEW YORK (AP) - Japan, which obtains 10 percent of its oil needs from Iran, would be hit hardest by a cutoff of Iranian oil shipments to U.S. allies, industry and government sources

The sources said Tuesday that Western Europe, dependent on Iran for 5 percent of its oil needs, also would be affected if the flow of oil were stopped to allies joining in sanctions against the Mideast country. And one U.S. government source, prices are well above those charged by other exporters. And the New York Times reported today from London that bankers and oil industry experts said a cutoff could create serious problems for Iran. They said it would eliminate Iran's biggest customers - with no alternate consumers likely to be found - and might risk the freezing of Iranian assets in European banks. President Carter has already frozens

Science fiction novelist interested in feelings

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — How did the princess feel when she kissed the

"It may sound curious," says novelist Walter Tevis, "but I'd really like to know. Feelings interest me.

This interest, the 52-year-old Tevis says, may be seen in his new novel, "Mockingbird."

Although the book is a science-fiction tale on the surface, Tevis says he deliberately chose that literary form in order "to deal with spiritual growth. Much science fiction writing doesn't have any great interest in human beings, preferring ideas instead. But I try to deal with the characters and not have the ideas run away with the book."

"Mockingbird" is set in the 25th century, but Tevis is quick to point out that "I'm not all that interested in the future. What I tried to do is write in a fairy tale kind of way about the pres-

The book deals with a society run by robots in which humans have nothing to do but enjoy themselves - primarily by sedating themselves heavily with drugs. Paul Bentley, the protagonist, however, rebels against this way of life and, says Tevis, "what I'm trying to do is show the hero waking up out of his stupor and realizing his

"Mockingbird" is Tevis' third novel. The first two - both made into movies — were "The Hustler" and "The Man Who Fell To Earth."

"The Hustler," says Tevis, was "straightforward, and I can still write that way, but I don't want to. I want to make up the world I write about.

"I started leaching high school English in rural Kentucky when I was 21," he says, "and then I was a professor of English at Ohio University at Athens. I'm now on leave of absence. I had a full career as a

I really turn it out when I'm hot, but I only get hot about every 20 days or so, and I hate to force it. I

Japan's birth rate drops as couples enjoy good life

By JIM ABRAMS Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) - The birth rate is plunging in Japan, an apparent victim of an intensified desire to enjoy the good life.

About 1.54 million Japanese will be brought into the world in 1980, a drop of more than 20 percent since the oil crisis year of 1973, when 2.09 million were born, according to a report by the government's Institute of Population Problems.

If the trend continues, births willdrop by 1987 to below 1.3 million, it

Moreover, the Japanese woman, who on average bore 2.1 children through the early 1970s, now bears only 1.75 children, and the figure is still falling, the report says.

Declining birth rates are common to the industrialized West. Japan's 14 births per 1,000 population is only slightly below the United States and is still no match for the West Germans, whose rate is now down to 9 births per 1,000.

"But demographic experts never expected the birth rate to decline so rapidly," said Kiichi Yamaguchi, chief of the Institute's population policy section.

"Japan has one of the highest marriage rates in the world, and unlike in some European countries, Japanese women are still strongly motivated to have children," Yamaguchi said.

He pointed to a survey by the mass circulation daily Mainichi Shimbun last year which found that 39.5 percent of women would like to have three children if possible, against only 5.5 percent who wanted none or

An additional 43.8 percent said they would be satisfied with two children. "The problem is not that women won't have children, but that modern society puts obstacles in their way," he said

The Institute's report notes that it is now normal for women to attend four-year universities and work several years before marriage. The average woman doesn't marry before age 25, and if the first child is put off because of economic or other reasons, there is a tendency to abandon plans for a second child, it said. A hopelessly cramped housing situation, as more people crowd into urban areas, is another reason for limiting families, and the breakdown of the extended family has reduced the need for a stock of heirs, it said.

But the main reason for foregoing larger families is apparently economic - children are too much of a drain on hard-earned living standards now threatened by oil prices and inflation factors

Public education is still cheap, but Japanese parents, pushing their children up the ladder of educational success, pay the equivalent of $120 a month for private kindergartens and up to $200 a month for private grade schools. Parents must now pay an average of $15,400 to put a son or daughter through a four-year private university. This is about $1,250 below the average annual income of a single household unit in Japan.

"There is a direct relationship be tween the rise in the living standard and the drop in the fertility rate," Yamaguchi said. "Having become accustomed to the amenities in life, many people, if given a choice between buying a car and having a baby, would pick the car."

Yamaguchi said that in 1976 the Institute projected that the population, now at 115 million, would climb to a peak of 140 million in the early 21st century. They now guess the population will peak at 130 million and then drop steadily, returning to present levels around the year 2020.

In a nation as crowded as Japan, a lower population would seem to be welcome, but it's not that simple, Yamaguchi said.
