For Bush, Kennedy races, 'it's working'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy squeaked past President Carter early today to capture a Pennsylvania presidential primary so close that the winner and the loser wound up almost evenly splitting the state's Democratic nominating votes.

George Bush beat Ronald Reagan, 54 percent to 45 percent, in the Republican primary and said of his catchup campaign: "It's working." Reagan said he couldn't envision circumstances that would enable Bush to over-

The victory was crucial for Kennedy to nurse along his shaken, big-state strategy in the challenge to Carter. Even White House Secretary Jody Powell said it would "certainly be a boost to him."

In Washington today, Powell extended President's Carter's congratulations to Kennedy "for a fine campaign" in Pennsylvania. But, Powell did not formally concede Carter's defeat.

Kennedy and Carter were deadlocked at 46 percent of the vote, but the tie did nothing to shake the president's firm command in the competition that counts most for delegates. Kennedy got 94 Pennsylvania delegates; Carter 91.

Carter emerged from Pennsylvania with 1,038 of the 1,666 votes it will take to win the Democratic nomination. Kennedy had 569.

Kennedy's slender victory was built in Philadelphia; almost everywhere else, Carter was the leader. Reagan called the Republican preferential primary primary "a meaningless horse race." The former California governor said he won what he sought, nominating

So, said Reagan, despite Bush's popular vote victory, Pennsylvania "moved us even closer to the Republican nomination." Reagan's managers claimed he picked up at least 50 of the state's 83 GOP delegates, but they could identify only 24 firm supporters.

GOP delegates were not identified with candidates, but Reagan's managers claimed he had picked up at least 50 of the state's 83. Rep. William Goodling, state chairman for Bush, scoffed at the claim, saying all delegates will go to the convention uncommitted.

Bush, trailing by a margin of more than 4-to-1 in total delegates, said he doesn't believe Reagan is too far ahead to be beaten.

The former U.N. ambassador said his effort to contrast his views with Reagan's is starting to register with GOP voters. Bush said that will be his strategy tonight, when he and Reagan meet in a televised campaign debate in Houston, Tex.

At the White House, Powell said Kennedy would have to capture almost 70 percent of the remaining Democratic delegates to catch the president.

Robert Strauss, Carter's campaign manager, said the president would gain 60 of the 77 delegates from Missouri, which held its Democratic caucuses on Tuesday.

With 96 percent of the precincts counted, the vote

Kennedy 710,218 or 46 percent. Carter 702,676 or 46 percent.

Six percent of the vote was uncommitted, 2 percent went to California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., no longer a candidate.

In the Republican primary, the numbers read: Bush 584,548 or 53 percent.

Reagan 498,099 or 46 percent.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois was getting 1 percent of the GOP vote on write-in ballots.

Council approves effort to expand MidTran service

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

MidTran will be adding a new dimension to its service sometime in June, after gaining the approval Tuesday of Midland City Council.

The council, meeting in regular session at City Hall, backed the concept of adding checkpoint service between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. to its already existing demand-responsive service.

Before the new type of delivery can begin, a public hearing will be held in late May, according to Joyce Fisher, director of the public transportation council the routing system "will allow us to provide transportation to a broader base of the community. We're finding that a lot of people want subscription service during the demand-responsive hours."

MidTren buses run subscri routes in the early morning and late afternoon hours to take employees to and from work. The middle of the day has worked on a dial-a-ride system.

But Ingram pointed out that of seven buses, only three are available for dial-a-ride service. A fourth bus is used for trips to Midland Regional Airport and the other three buses are in the shop for maintenance and

Ms. Fisher said she came up with the idea for the checkpoint system and a MidTran employee, Bill Stribling, designed it. The farthest anyone will have to walk to catch a bus is four blocks.

sponsive, she stressed. Persons wanting to be picked up at their door and brought back there still will have that service, only the cost will be slightly

The checkpoint service differs from fixed route in that the buses will not stop at the particular bus stop if no one is there, Ms. Fisher noted. The buses will be able to deviate from those routes to pick up demand-re-

To get from one side of Midland to the other, riders will be able to transfer at no additional cost, she added.

While the three buses can serve about 125 demand-responsive calls a day. Ms. Fisher said with the checkpoint system they can carry a maximum of 500 passengers. And the service should help in the summer when youths want to go to a movie or some other part of town and have no trans-

Unanimous approval of the change didn't come without some questioning by council members as to MidTran's operations, especially concerning its new airport service. During that part,

Ingram locked horns with Col. Wilson Banks, director of aviation, in a brief clash over solicitation of service at the airport.

Ingram advocated the idea of letting MidTran drivers get out of the bus at the airport and announce the bus service is available.

Banks pointed out that cab drivers do not actively solicit customers and added that it is the policy of the City Council not to allow solicitation.

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. commented that the council needs to look at procedures used by all transportation systems at the airport "and if MidTran needs boosting we need to look at what to do without infringing on the others (cabs)."

However, Banks and Ingram continued their heated argument outside the Council Chambers for a few minutes until they both agreed they were in support of MidTran.

Ingram later attributed the disagreements to "misinterpretations and added that "cabs have no reason to be concerned about us."

In other action, the council approved a contract between MidTran and the Human Relations Council to transport Medicaid recipients. The council recommended MidTran push on getting contracts with similar agencies who, they said, are providing the services at twice what it would

887 persons rescued from sinking island ferry

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - A Philippine oil tanker rammed and sank an inter-island ferry-freighter with at least 960 persons aboard in the central Philippines, but the commander of the Philippine coast guard said tanker and other craft rescued

Commodore Simeon Alejandro reported 14 bodies were recovered and 59 persons were missing following the sinking Tuesday night of the 1,372-ton motorship Don Juan.

Jose Reyes of the rescue coordinating center in Manila said American military flight crews had sighted survivors in the water as late as midday today, 131/2 hours after the collision. Several passenger and cargo vessels were in the area, and officials said it was possible that many of the missing could have been rescued. But some rescue officials said they feared a number of first-class passengers who were asleep in their cabins might have gone down with the ship.

Reyes said the Negros Navigation Co., owners of the ferry, reported it carried 878 passengers and a crew of 85, a total of 963 and three more than Alejandro accounted for.

There was no indication any foreigners were aboard the 300-foot ship, which had a capacity of 971

"We heard a noise like the ship bumped into something," Sonny Carpio, 30, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from Batangas City, 60 miles south of Manila, where most of the survivors were taken.

There was a commotion. Everybody started to panic. Before we knew it water was rushing in.

"It took the ship exactly 14 minutes to sink. I looked at my watch. I was just able to get my head out of the window and started to climb up to the upper portion when I went in the water.'

Democratic candidates agree on rewards of peace justice post

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a two-part series on the candidates for Justice of the Peace Place 1 in the May 3 primary.

> By DAVID CAMPBELL Staff Writer

Why are Democrats Leroy Stewart and incumbent John Biggs, as well as three Republicans, campaigning for justice of the peace Place 1 in the

May 3 primary? According to the incumbent, they are running because the salary for the position is enough to make a decent

'Since Judge (Robert) Pine and I built up the prestige of the court and raised the salary, everybody wants to be in the office," Biggs said, recalling a time when the justice's salary was low.

"This so-called recession (has) some running for the salary," he added. "People need a job, so they run for the office.'

Midland County upped the salary this year for justice of the peace from $15,000 to $16,500, according to the County Treasurer's office.

Biggs' opponent, Midland Realtor Leroy Stewart, makes no bones he wants the position for the salary. "Real estate is an exciting business," Stewart said, "but because of the tight money market, it's frightening not to be on a payroll.

But there are other reasons he decided to run for the position.

"I heard out on the street, and not directly from Mr. Biggs, that he announced for the job because nobody ever ran against him," Stewart said, "He has had no opposition since the first year he held the position.

"I was encouraged by some friends to run, thinking that perhaps he would withdraw if he had the opposition," he said.

Stewart noted that his opponent's age also had something to do with his running for the court position. "If my dad was as old as Mr. Biggs, I wouldn't want him to get out at all hours of the night and be exposed to what the JP is being exposed to," he Biggs, 74, says he will retire after serving another term, should he be re-elected.

Regarding experience, Biggs said, "After 19 years (of experience), I see no reason to give it up to someone who has no experience at all."

However, Stewart sees those 19 years as a justice of the peace as a disadvantage. "Sometimes we don't recognize a stepping down place in life and letting somebody else step in," he said.

In reference to his own age, Stewart, 54, said he feels he is at a healthy and mature age to do the job a justice of the peace needs to do.

However, the incumbent said his health is good enough to continue performing the duties of the office.

Three years with the police department has given Stewart, in his opinion, the necessary legal background to perform the duties of the office. Also, he claims his work as circulation manager with The Midland Reporter-Telegram has provided direct (See DEMOCRATIC, Page 2A)

U.S. allies take token actions against Iran

By The Associated Press

America's major European allies ordered token action against Iran now and threatened strong sanctions May 17 if the release of the 53 U.S. hostages SPORTS: Midland High is not in sight by then. The foreign ministers of the nine Common Market countries announced after a two-day meeting in Luxembourg Tuesday their governments were banning new export and service contracts with Iran and all military sales to Iran, were reducing their diplomatic staffs in Tehran, were cutting Iranian diplomatic staffs in their capitals, and reimposing visa requirements for Iranians

The ministers said if there was not lease of the hostages" by May 17, their governments would impose the economic sanctions called for in the U.N. Security Council resolution vetoed by the Soviet Union in January.

Such action would halt all exports from the nine countries to Iran except food and medicine, cutting off an estimated $7 billion in sales annual-

The foreign ministers' communique made no mention of stopping purchases of Iranian oil, now running about 650,000 barrels a day. But they reportedly agreed to ban buying of Iranian oil at prices above the levels of the rest of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Since Iran is now demanding $35 a barrel, $2.50 above the highest other OPEC prices, this amounts to a ban on new oil contracts or spot sales.

Iran on Monday suspended shipment of the 530,000 barrels Japan imported daily because the Japanese refused to pay the price. The Japanese government is to decide Thursday what steps it will take to help get the hostages freed, and Tokyo's leaders have indicated they will go along with the Common Market's plan.

The communique did not define the term "decisive progress," and there appeared to be disagreement what was meant. The British foreign secretary, Lord Carrington, told a news conference the Iranian government would have to do more than take custody of the hostages from the militants who occupied the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4 and continue to hold 50 of the captives there. The three others are held at the Iranian Foreign

But Italian Foreign Minister Emilio Colombo said he believed transfer of control would be enough.

The State Department said it welcomed the Common Market's decision to support the U.S. government's efforts to free the hostages. But Carter administration sources were obviously disappointed in the delay in full sanctions.

This "was a typical European decision," one official who would not be quoted by name said. "It postpones the crunch.'

President Carter has said he may take military measures if the hostages are not freed by mid-May, and U.S. officials said the prospect of European sanctions taking effect at that time would put pressure on him to defer his decision for a while Iran's oil minister, Ali Akbar Moinfar, said any nation supporting U.S. sanctions "would be blacklisted forever and would never get Irah's oil," and Iran's economic affairs minister. Reza Salimi, said the Soviet Union has agreed to let Iran use its roads if the United States blockades Iran's southern water routes.

Powell not conceding Carter defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) - White House press secretary Jody Powell today extended President Carter's congratulations to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy "for a fine campaign" in the Pennsylvania presidential primary without formally conceding Carter's defeat.

Noting some news reports that the race was still too close to call, Powell said as he arrived at the White House at 7: 45 a.m. EST: "I think you have to give credit to Senator Kennedy." But he added, "We're thankful for the resounding victory" in the Missouri Democratic district conventions also held Tuesday.

What is very clear is that Senator Kennedy deserves congratulations for a fine campaign" in Pennsylvania, Powell said. "But it's also clear that the president will wind up with a substantial majority of the delegates selected last night.'

The press secretary didn't mention Vermont, which he had predicted would go to Carter in the caucuses held there. Kennedy won a surprise victory there in the selection of delegates to the state convention, which gates to the state convention, which will pick the 12 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Carter had won a non-binding primary election in Vermont last month

With 96 percent of Pennsylvania's precincts reporting and more than 1.5 million ballots counted, Kennedy held a lead of less than 9,000 votes over the incumbent. The Massachusetts senator held a 94-91 margin in convention delegates won.

Before the final Pennsylvania returns were available Tuesday night, Powell said Carter faces a "difficult several weeks ahead" politically and would be "beat about the head and ears for a while."

"But he's used to that," Powell added.

Animal-fowl code amendment approved by city

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Proposed amendments to the animal-fowl code to allow keeping of livestock on certain tracts of land gained the Midland City 'Council's approval Tuesday after a public hearing. on the matter was held in City Hall Council Chambers.

An ordinance will have to be passed on two readings before the changes become effective.

Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development, explained the code was first adopted in 1963 and wasn't changed until August 1978. Prior to that time, annexation of land into the city was done on the basis of a code which prohibited any keeping of livestock within the

The need for revisions came after the city proposed annexing 6.5 square miles of land north of the city limits. This move - which has been endorsed by the council on one reading will take in numerous property owners who keep horses and other livestock on their land.

The changes would continue the requirement for animals, fowls or birds to be penned no less than 50 feet from another owner's residence and 100 feet from a water well. The requirement would stay in effect for new landowners in that area. seemed to be trying to blunt any claim by Bush of new campaign momentum when he exclaimed: "I believe I'm going to win the nomination.'

"It would have been nice to have it," Reagan said of the popular vote edge in Tuesday's primary. But, he said in the same breath, "the delegates are the name of the game.' So Reagan, who went into Pennsylvania with a more than 4-1 delegate advantage over Bush, saw the setback there as no big deal.

Going into Tuesday's primary.

Reagan had 411 delegates to Bush's 96 and Rep. John Anderson's 57.

Reagan attributed Bush's victory in the popular vote to almost two weeks of non-stop campaigning, and campaign spending of nearly $1 million. He said Bush's victory "especially proved that advertising does pay."

The former California governor said he did not attempt to match Bush's effort because "we already knew the delegate strength that we had and we knew, of course, it wasn't a crossover (election) and in the bulk of my primaries I've had great support from crossover Democrats."

Reagan, who campaigned only three days in Pennsylvania, had added a two-day blitz of the state to his schedule, beginning Sunday, after it appeared Bush was pulling ahead.

In a series of election night television interviews, Reagan insisted that the delegate vote was more important than the results of the so-called 'beauty contest" popular vote.

As he left the interview room and headed for two more meetings with reporters, Reagan turned to a top campaign aide and said, "That didn't sound too cocky, did it?"

Women voters holding forum

The Midland League of Women Voters is sponsoring a candidate'sforum at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the First National Room at the First National Bank.

The forum will feature Democratic Evenings and Sunday and Republican primary election Evenings Only Sunday Only and Republican primary election candidates for county, district and state offices. After opening statements, the candidates will answer questions and comment on issues.

The meeting is open to the public and the League encourages citizens to attend to hear the candidates and ask questions.

In his next-interview, Reagan said Bush's campaign in Pennsylvania 'was a good one and I congratulate him for it." But Reagan went on to say that the past week had been the best of the campaign for him, with endorsements from Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker, Ohio Gov. James Rhodes and others.

under which he can," he replied. As the votes were being counted in Pennsylvania and projections said Reagan had lost, the candidate traveled to a $500-a-person fund-raising cocktail party where he seemed oblivious to Bush's victory.

Reagan spent most of the time posing for photographers in front of a fireplace with contributors.

Reagan, who was flying to Houston for a debate with Bush tonight, devoted most of Tuesday to visits to college campuses, first at St. Mary's College in South Bend and later Purdue University in Lafayette.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Police firing tear gas waded into some 800 colored student protesters today, beating them with clubs and sending several to the hospital, witnesses said. It was the worst incident in a week-long, nationwide school boycott. Colored is the term the white separatist government uses to describe persons descended from Dutch settlers and blacks. The protesters were in two groups, one numbering about 500, the other 300, witnesses said.

A police spokesman denied press reports that a policeman had fired a shot into the air to try to break up the protesters.

A colored woman who witnessed the assault said, "Why did the police hit our children? They weren"t doing anything. They just want their rights. If there is any trouble it will be started by the police just like they did in Soweto four years ago. We don't want everything. All we want are the crumbs from the bread that the whites get.'

Bulldogs explode past San Angelo

Jerry Zachery and Eddie Portillo were something else Tuesday after-

The two junior athletes combined for eight hits and nine runs-batted-in as the Midland Bulldogs overcame four home runs by San Angelo Central to blister the Bobcats, 22-9 at the Memorial Stadium diamond.

The win keeps Midland in a threeway tie for first place with Midland Lee and Abilene High with a 3-1 record in the second half of the torrid District 5-4A baseball race.

Zachery knocked in six runs on three hits with two of those being homers in the same inning. That came in the third when the Pack exploded for nine runs. Zachery powered a two-run homer the first time up during the uprising and then smashed a three-run shot his second time up in the inning.

Midland tied the score, 1-1 in the bottom of the inning on the first of Portillo's five base hits, along with two errors by the jittery Bobcats.

home from second base on an infield hit in the eighth inning after hitting a solo home run in the sixth to provide El Paso's Diablos with the winning 9-8 margin against the Midland Cubs before 2,910 fans here Tuesday night. Randy LaVigne hit solo homers for Midland in the fourth and eighth innings while catcher Mike O'Berry keyed Midland's four run seventh with a two-run double.

Bill Earley, in relief of starter Tom Spino, took the loss, his second, although he gave up only one of the runs while Eric Rommell, the third El Paso pitcher, got the win.

Robert Tate

Robert Tate, a two-year standout for the Midland College Chaparral basketball team, has signed with California State University-Fullerton to become a member of its basketball team for the 1980-81 season.

A native of Chicago, and a graduate of Chicago Crane High School, Tate has been a two-year starter for the Chaps and was their leading scorer this year with an average of 18.4 points per game and 79 percent of his free throws.

The 6-foot-31/2 forward was named first team Western Junior College Athletic Conference, first team Region 5, and Most Valuable Player in two post-season All-Star games, the WJCAC tilt in Amarillo and Region 5-Region 14 Classic in "Robert Tate has certainly been an outstanding player for us for the past two years," said MC coach Jerry Stone. "He ranked fifth in the conference in scoring, fourth in free throw percentage, but first on our team in consistency and team effort. He was listed as a" forward, but also handled the ball like a guard and used his leaping ability to go inside when necessary. Primarily, Robert liked to hit the long jumper from the corner, where our opponents had difficulty in defending against his good shooting."

Tall City thinclads overcome the odds As a combat veteran of that miserable mistake known as the Vietnam War, I still carry with me the thoughts of those who fought and died half a world away. Many were close friends of mine, who shared the seemingly endless rain, insufferable heat, mosquito infested nights and the struggle of life and death itself. I also remember the feats of courage I saw during that year of 1970. There were many, and history will not record them. But I will remember, and somehow that still seems important to me.

Maybe it is because of that experience in my life that I remain keenly aware of an athlete's hope to give an effort that is "beyond the call of duty." At the very least, I feel as qualified as anyone to judge an act of courage or the ability to recognize when someone has given more than was ever expected. I feel that way because I lived for a year with some men who gave dearly.

To me, that is what sport is all about. To achieve more than what was thought possible. To conquer the odds. Actually, you don't see it very often, but when it happens, you feel witness to something special.

I've seen it before from Midland High and Midland Lee athletes, but it was never so pronounced as in the District 5-4A track meet recently. In a matter of a few hours, 12 Tall City athletes gave us a golden memory. This is their story and it is a story of courage and conquering the odds.

IN A WAY, MIDLAND HIGH'S David Simmons did only what was expected of him. He won the discus and shot put and he was the favorite. In fact, he is given a good chance of winning a state title in

But David had the thoughts of a year riding on his shoulders. In 1979, he was third in both the shot put and discus, missing a regional berth in both events. The discus loss that year, however, was a real sting. A lefthanders' wind blew at Big Spring and two lefthanders, including teammate James Lary, beat Simmons out of a region berth. He lived with that for

Then going into this year's meet at Abilene, another lefthanders wind blew and that had to add to his anxiety. He went out and won anyway saying afterwards, "I wish the wind hadn't been blowing this year because I wanted a better throw, but I'm glad it's all over. I thought a lot about last

And Lary's story is just as dramatic. A year ago when he won a region berth in district, there were those saying he didn't deserve it. It is no secret that Lary has lived in the shadow of Simmons throughout his high school career. But he never complained and in both district meets he rose to the challenge. He will be in the regionals with Simmons this year after finishing second in the discus for the second year in a row. For the second year in a row, there were those saying Lary couldn't do it again. Simmons and Lary have worked tirelessly together for the past two seasons and now can smile at their critics by overcoming critics and failure alike.

And while Simmons suffered only the pain of a near miss in 1979, Midland Lee's David Piccolo suffered from an image of an also-ran. As a junior in his first district meet, Piccolo missed the start of his qualifying heat in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles. Officials ruled that the heat had to be run again so Piccolo would have his chance to qualify. There were more than just a few snickers

Celtics, Sixers to clash

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The superstars are getting their share of glory in the National Basketball Association playoff series between the Boston Celtics and the Philadelphia

But the key to the best-of-seven Eastern Conference series could be a couple of lesser known players who stand only 6-feet-1, yet control each team's offense.

For the 76ers, it's Maurice Cheeks, a second-year guard who triggers the fast break and is counted on to give Philadelphia the perimeter shooting that keeps the Celtics from clogging the inside.

For Boston, it's Nate "Tiny" Archibald. Archibald, like Cheeks, is the coach on the floor. He starts the offense.

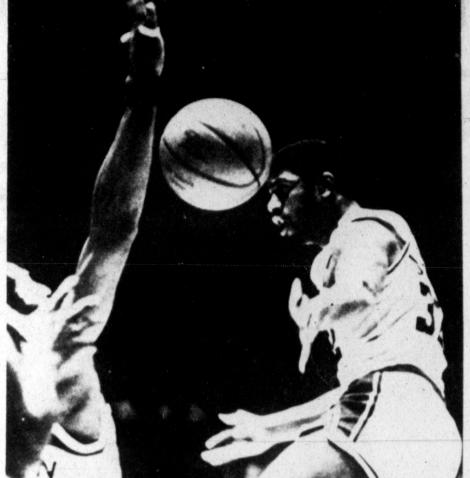

The teams meet here for Game Three tonight, with the series deadlocked 1-1.

Nobody would contest that the scoring prowess and magic hands of Philadelphia's Julius Erving and the Celtics' Larry Bird are vital to the success of their teams. However, coaches Billy Cunningham of the 76ers and Bill Fitch of the Celtics are smart enough to know that the game doesn't turn only on the performance of superstars.

Archibald, for example, has to provide consistent outside shooting to make people like Bird, Dave Cowens and Rick Robey effective with the inside game. So far in the series, which continues with Game Four here Friday night, neither Archibald nor Cheeks has done the job expected of

"I only scored five points in Game One, and we won that one," Cheeks pointed out. "But I think, if we're going to be effective, I'm going to have to score more. Right now, the team hasn't been getting it from me. I hope it will."

Cheeks isn't trying to make excuses, but he has the same problem as Archibald: they're guarding each other. Their concentration on defense has been so consistent it appears to have hurt their offense.

Cheeks said the 76ers were happy to have won one of the opening two games in Boston.

"But that won't change the complexion of the series unless we win the two here," Cheeks said. "If not, it will be just like losing two in Boston. While the Cheeks-Archibald confrontation is important, the 76ers also must find a way to contain the indefatigable Bird, who scored 31 points in Boston's 96-90 victory Sunday.

And by the same token, the Celtics are going to have to accomplish something not many teams in basketball have been able to do - neutralize Erving, the man they call "Dr. J."

Seattle shackles Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Seattle SuperSonics may not have a superstar like Los Angeles' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and their talent man-for-man may rank a notch below that of the Lakers. But the doggedly determined Sonics do possess that special something of which champions are made.

The uncanny knack of finding a way to win gave the reigning National Basketball Association champion Sonics a 108-107 victory over the Lakers Tuesday night. Seattle thus carries a 1-0 edge into the Forum tonight for the nationally televised Game Two of the best-of-seven Western Conference playoffs.

Brown, gunning from long range with radar-like accuracy, scored 34 points. The reserve guard sank 15 of his 21 field goal attempts, including four of seven three-pointers. Center Sikma, overshadowed by the play of Abdul-Jabbar most of the contest, dropped in a free throw with two seconds remaining to snap a 107-107

"It was just one of those nights," said a smiling Brown, who scored eight of the Sonics' last nine points in the final three minutes. "I had the Sikma, who sank the winning free throw after most of the crowd of 17,505 at the Forum thought regulation play had ended in a tie, said he felt completely comfortable shooting with the game on the line.

"I actually like the pressure that comes in a situation like that," said the Sonics center, who missed the second of his two free throws. "I think it makes me shoot better.'

Sikma, who finished with 11 points, was fouled by Norm Nixon under LA's basket after a missed shot by Laker Jamaal Wilkes. Sikma got a hand on the ball, Nixon slapped him on the wrist, then Abdul-Jabbar missed a short shot as time ran out on the scoreboard clock. But the referee ruled that the foul occurred with two seconds left.

Wilkes missed at the buzzer on the Lakers' last possession.

Islanders, Flyers tend to business

The New York Islanders and Philadelphia Flyers completed some unfinished business in the National Hockey League playoffs, while the Montreal Canadiens got back to business as usual.

The Islanders, on third period goals from Duane Sutter, Clark Gillies and Denis Potvin, beat the Boston Bruins 4-2 Tuesday night to win their quarterfinal series four games to one.

New York had won the first three games of the series but dropped an overtime decision to the Bruins Monday night before wrapping up the The same formula held true for the Flyers, who won the first three games of their series with the New York Rangers, lost the fourth game but ended the series with a 3-1 victory Tuesday night. The Islanders fell behind 2-0 but drew even in the second period when they outshot the Bruins 15-8 and got a goal from defenseman Stefan Persson. Sutter tied the score at 2:38 of the third period.

"We wanted to put as many shots on goal as we could in the second and third periods from anywhere," Arbour said. "They had to be tired. Look at how many games they've played."

The Bruins were playing in their 10th playoff game in 15 days, and it finally took its toll.

Flyers 3, Rangers 1

Al Hill's 10-foot goal in the final minute of the first period started the Flyers on their way. The play was set up by a backhand pass from the middle of the left faceoff circle by Mel Bridgman as Rangers defensemen Barry Beck and Ron Greschner converged on the Flyers' cen-

Bridgman sets up the Flyers' second goal at 5:09 of the second period, winning a faceoff from New York's Phil Esposito and sliding the puck to Gary Morrison, who fed it to Behn Wilson for a 40-footer.

"On the first goat I was lucky," Bridgman said. "I lost the puck and it bounced back to me. On the second, Phil (Esposito) had been beating me on the faceoff by drawing the puck back to his defensemen. I moved (Gary) Morrison to the corner and got the puck to where he threw it back to the point and Behn (Wilson) put it in.

The Flyers made it 3-0 on a shot from about 15 feet in front of the net by Paul Holmgren. Ron Duguay of New York scored Pete Reeters' shutout bid at 14:27 of the third period.

Canadiens 6, North Stars 2

Steve Shutt scored three goals on assists from linemate Mark Napier as Montreal routed Minnesota. Michel Larocque, who took over in goal for the Canadiens in Game Three, stopped 29 shots in his first playoff start at the Montreal Forum since 1974.

"Nothing has been won yet," cautioned Shutt. "We have to play our same game Thursday night and play with just as much intensity.

SPORTS IN BRIEF Boycott grows

By The Associated Press OLYMPICS - Canada will boycott the Moscow Olympics and will ask Third World countries to follow suit to protest the invasion of Afghanistan by the Soviet Union, External Affairs Minister Mark MacGuigan announced.

The International Sports federations, in a resolution polished up by Prince Philip of Britain, unanimously condemned governments which are putting pressure on athletes to boycott the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow.

The resolution said a boycott is an "improper method" to secure a political end and that athletes are the victims.

TENNIS - Bjorn Borg of Sweden swept Hank Pfister 6-3, 7-5 while John McEnroe edged Stan Smith 6-3, 3-6, 7-6 in the $300,000 Grand Prix of Tennis tournament.

In other matches, Roscoe Tanner defeated Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia 7-5, 6-1; Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat Bernie Mitton of South Africa 7-5, 6-2; Pat Dupre overcame Johan Kriek of South Africa, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, and Brian Teacher ousted John Sadri 6-1, 6-3. ### BUSINESS MIRROR Creative solutions escape president, professor declares

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter has a splendid, rational mind — analytical, logical and observational. But he has a defect too, and it undermines his ability as a leader. So says a student of leadership.

"It is a defect that is seldom offset by experience," said Professor Eugene Jennings, author of "Anatomy of Leadership," a 1960 study of leadership from the days of the ancient Romans to modern times.

The professor, who spends much of his time counseling top executives of major corporations, calls the weakeness "maze dullness," a term he draws from laboratory observations of rats in an experimental maze.

IT IS CHARACTERIZED, he says, by a low level of intuition, in which lab animals show little ability to sense the route to the cheese and instead race down dead ends where, time after time, they are shocked. They fail to learn from experience.

"Jimmy Carter can analyze and break problems into parts, and his conclusions follow logically from premises," said Jennings. "But he lacks the ability to synthesize the parts into a creative solution. He can take apart, but he cannot put together in a new orientation.'

Intuition is the missing ingredient, says the pro-fessor, who besides advising executives and teaching graduate-level courses at Michigan State has written many books on executive mobility and leadership.

JENNINGS MAINTAINS that "in the best business or government leaders the rational mind is challenged by the intuitive mind, enabling them to reach conclusions even with insufficient facts.

"The intuitive and rational minds constantly work against each other in a harmonious set of checks and balances," he states. "It is seen time after time in successful corporate executives."

Those who have it, he says, can sense their way toward solutions and feel confident about their course. And their confidence is contagious. But those lacking intuition, he has observed, create among others a feeling that they they are not masters of events. And for good reason, says Jenning. They are lost in a maze; their followers expect shocks.

Intuition is untaught. It is the ability to trust senses, hunches, feelings, says Jennings. It is the basis of vision and creativity. It is vital to art, he says, and more important to power than is logic.

THE PATH TO PROBLEMS is strewn with rational managers," the professor states. "Good managers are paid not to be rational but to be effective, which is to be masters of events and people. But this is incomprehensible to the logical, rational mind devoid of intuition."

Whatever their admirable characteristics, he maintains that rational minds place insufficient priority on experience.

"They believe in the power of logic to make them masters of their jobs. They decry experience. They do not accept the experience of others unless it matches theirs. They take advice poorly."

The logical mind devoid of intuition may have still another weakness, said Jennings. "One can be logical and not factual," he observes,

'The lack of intuition makes such a person unable to know which facts to accept and which to discard." SUCH INDIFIDUALS, whether the rat in the maze or the executive seeking to run a complex operation, are sensed by others to be victims rather than masters of events, says Jennings. "They create

They do not, however, always get blamed, said Jennings, because those around them often cannot understand or accept the defect and so look else-where to explain their feelings that things are going poorly.

Energy crisis hampers American productivity

HOUSTON (AP) - American companies are having trouble with the energy crisis because they are not putting the situation in proper perspective, according to a national energy expert.

(Business) management systems in Europe and Japan are better because they see energy as part of the system, rather than fuel," Roger Sant of Carnegie-Mellon University said

"Energy is part of the solution, rather than the problem in the next decade," Sant said in a meeting of the President's Commission for a National Agenda for the Eighties. He said American businesses generally fail to seek alternate and more efficient energy uses, relying instead on fossil fuel and passing along the increased energy costs to consum-

"Imports are a symptom of an energy system out of balance," Sant said, adding that because energy-related products now represented 30 percent of the gross national product, 'an incredible investment opportunity" would be available in the coming The commission, formed by President Carter to recommend approaches for dealing with major issues in the coming decade, was meeting for the second day in Hous-

Panelists discussed declining American productivity, a decline economist John W. Kendrick of George Washington University said had occurred because of slower overall growth, a slump in technological advances and an increase in the impact of government regulations. Sant said a lack of research and development funds contributed to the technological decline, but added he felt American businesses "aren't doing too well in getting to the marketplace from research.

Kendrick called for a lessing of capital gains taxes and savings taxes to make ore investment money available and also suggested allowing individuals to hold patent rights from inventions designed under government contract. George Cooper, former head of the National Board of Productivity, said business had become too cautious in its marketing techniques and said "professional myopia" was causing many of the current problems. "There is little product differentiation," Cooper said. "We need to start thinking...when we are willing to sell divisions before trying to fix them." There was even disagreement Tuesday on how far productivity had slipped in 1979. Lane Kirkland, chief of the AFL-CIO, said in a speech read to the conference by an aide that the labor movement does not "look kindly upon requests for help and assistance from those who want to destroy us, or what we stand for.

"I wonder how much increased labor-management conflict contributes to productivity...We are suspicious of across-the-board measures in the name of productivity, which we view as thinly disguised corporate bonanzas."

Kirkland said a balanced federal budget would be an economic disaster and place the burden "on those who cannot afford it, the poor, the elderly, the handicapped and the minori-

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) knows they need to sit - It would cost telephone users $10 a year to flag their directory listings to show they don't want "junk phone calls," a Southwestern Bell official says.

Carlin Brandt, Bell's division staff supervisor, said that's what it would cost to print an asterisk by a name - including the necessary paper-

The asterisk to warn away unwanted advertising calls was one suggestion offered Tuesday at a Public Utility Com-mission hearing held at the Legislature's direction. The PUC will report to lawmakers on what if anything - might be done to control the calls. Brandt said it would cost Bell about $9 million a year - to be recovered from customers requesting the "no junk call" symbol — if half its 1.8 million Texas subscribers sought the asterisk. Rep. Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, a sponsor of the legislative resolution, said 82 percent of his constituents who responded to a questionnaire wanted state action against

"junk calls." Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, said, "People do not like to have their phones used by people they don't want to talk to.'

He said it would not be too expensive to flag directory listings since Bell had redesigned its phone books this year.

Prison site deal delayed

the owner of the farm.

The failure to inform residents near the Lower Rio Grande Valley farm of plans to locate a prison in their community apparently led Gov. Bill Clements to engineer a 30-day delay that the landowner said

"It's off. We all go home," La Casita Farm owner Albert Prevot said Tuesday after the Approval Board for state prison land acquisitions voted

The State Board of Corrections voted 6-1 earlier Tuesday to buy the farm for $7,859,646. Prevot had set a Wednesday deadline for the sale, citing a need to arrange financing for the 1980 crop.

'The state has cost La Casita $3,000 a day in interest," La Casita attorney William Ladin said. Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong joined Clements in outvoting James Windham, chairman of the prison board, to order the postponement.

Clements, apparently believing the deadline imposed by La Casita was a bluff, said the intent of the delay was not merely to appease Starr County residents. He left open the possibility of picking a

"There would be no point in delaying that if I didn't have an open mind about it," he said.

It was the second time in two years that the Board of Corrections was thwarted in an effort to place a prison in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. In 1978, former Attorney General John Hill held the acquisition of a site near Edinburg was illegal. The 1979 Legislature removed all legal impediments to purchase of land in the Lower Valley for a prison.

Starr County residents lined up to tell Clements and the Approval Board they should have been informed of plans to buy La Casita. County Judge

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State prison officials' Blas Chapa said he did not know of the deal until quietly negotiated deal to buy a 5,293-acre Starr County farm for a new prison is dead, according to Prison officials have said they did not notify local residents because they knew the Starr County residents would oppose the prison.

Board member Harry Whittington of Austin cast the lone prison board vote against La Casita, saying he believed other areas had not been thoroughly studied. He also questioned the cost of transporting produce from the Lower Valley to the East Texas area where existing prisons are located. Clements said the Starr County residents deserved prior notice.

"I think the people down there are entitled to a more careful evaluation of both the minuses and the pluses. To surprise a community with something like that, I don't think that was fair," said Clem-

Israel ups gas price 36 percent

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Israel raised the price of gasoline 36 percent to $3.05 a gallon, a dramatic indication of the nation's problems in paying for imported

The increase was announced just before midnight Tuesday to minimize the last-minute surge of motorists filling up at the old price. But in what has become a ritual every few months, hundreds of Israelis heard the news on radio or television and rushed out to buy gasoline at the old price.

Similar hikes were announced for other fuels, which were certain to set off a new wave of inflation throughout the economy. The Energy Ministry had urged the increase for two months, but treasury officials battling Israel's 117 percent annual inflation delayed the

Another hefty increase is expected by summer as the value of the Israeli currency continues to decline.

"We didn"t want to raise the price. We don't want to spur inflation," Energy Minister Yitzhak Modai said. But he maintained the increase was necessary to meet Israel's oil bill, which will top $2 billion in 1980.

The Jewish state has been totally dependent on imported oil since returning Sinai oil fields to Egypt

Decisions could affect elections

WASHINGTON (AP) - A pair of Supreme Court rulings on the way Mobile, Ala., and Rome, Ga., elect local officials contain important messages for all Southern cities.

In the two decisions announced Tuesday, the court upheld the form of city government used in Mobile for the last 69 years, while disapproving of the way Rome has elected its city commissioners and school board members since 1966.

The two decisions - reported in 11 separate opinions totaling 154 pages — provide a detailed outline of election law lessons directed at Southern

First, election methods intact before 1965 are very difficult targets for lawsuits charging discrimination against blacks.

Secondly, any Southern city that has enacted election changes since Congress passed the Voting $ Rights Act of 1965 must prove those changes had no adverse effect on black voters - even if no. $ discrimination was intended.

The 1965 law requires Southern states and their political subdivisions to submit all proposed election disallow the proposals if any dilution of minority voting power is found.

Mobile's traditional commissioner form of city government, in which three commissioners are chosen in at-large elections by all city voters, was challenged as a violation of black voters' rights. The challenge failed by a 6-3 vote, but the court's ruling provided no clear majority.

Four justices ruled that a city's political system cannot be found in violation of the Constitution's 15th Amendment, which assured unfettered voting rights to blacks, unless there is proof the system was created with the intention of hurting black voters. Such intentional bias is always difficult to prove.

The two other justices voted in the city's favor did so for differing reasons. In ruling that Rome's election changes, made one year after the 1965 law, are illegal, the court voted 6-3 to reaffirm that pre-clearance with the attorney general is required even when no discriminatory intent is charged.

Both rulings sparked strongly worded dissents. In disagreeing with the Mobile decision, Justice Thurgood Marshall called the court "an accessory to the perpetuation of racial discrimination.

Marshall, the court's only black member, said making "intent" a necessary ingredient for a successful lawsuit under the 15th Amendment "may represent an attempt to bury the legitimate concerns of the minority beneath the soil of a doctrine almost as impermiable as it is specious.

F. Powell Jr. noted that a lower court found that Rome had not practiced voting discrimination for at least 17 years.

"Despite this record, the court today continues federal rule over the most local decisions made by this small city," Powell said. "Such an outcome must vitiate the incentive for any local government in a state covered by the (1965) act to meet diligently the act's requirements.

—Strengthened the right to sue for damages when government officials violate a person's constitutional rights. By a 5-4 vote, the justices said governmental officials can escape defending against such suits only after showing that Congress specifically has different requirements for men and women seeking to collect workers' compensation death benefits. The

-Ruled in an Illinois case that a previous conviction cannot be used to increase a criminal's prison sentence if he did not have a lawyer's help in his first tangle with the courts.
