Michigan, Oregon lead campaign today

AP Special Correspondent

President Carter and Ronald Reagan took another step toward the top of their presidential tickets today, but you couldn't tell it to listen to their Michigan held its Republican primary today, along with a meaningless Democratic vote in which neither Carter nor Sen. Edward Kennedy was entered.

Oregon voters apportioned nominating delegates in primaries in both parties. The state's election, a quadrennial centerpiece before the calendar became crowded with primaries, drew little campaign activity and no

GOP challenger George Bush pinned his dwindling hopes on Michigan, conceding a victory will be tougher in Oregon. Kennedy sought headway in the Northwestern state as a prelude to the final, big round of primaries June 3rd. Carter emerged from the White House Monday for a tour of his campaign headquarters where he told staffers, "I do not intend to lose," not at the convention and not in next fall's general election.

"I will be out campaigning between now and the end of the primary season," he said. "And then we will be preparing eagerly to meet Ronald Reagan or whomever the Republicans choose."

Kennedy dismissed Carter's state-ment as a "smokescreen" aimed at obscuring the senator's own efforts to raise economic issues. And Kennedy hardened his vow to maintain his

Like clockwork, every Monday,
Kennedy and Bush sing a familiar duet, voicing weekly declarations that they will continue their campaigns to overtake the virtually certain nominees. Bush, who earlier said Michigan and Oregon represented his only chance to fashion a comeback, hedged his bets and declared that he will go on no matter what happens.

Carter was the pollsters' favorite in Oregon; Reagan held the advance public opinion edge in both states. But the contests were in unpredictable territory. Michigan's was an open primary and the outcome of the GOP primary could hinge on normally Democratic voters. There wasn't much to lead a Democrat to that party's ballot since delegates were awarded in caucuses last month, with Kennedy winning 71 and Carter 70.

Neither Carter nor Kennedy entered the "beauty-contest" primary, leaving the ballot to California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., a campaign drop-out, and minor candidate Lyndon LaRouche. With 22 of 35 primary elections over, Reagan and Carter seem to have little to do now but run out the primary clock.

Reagan needs only 20 percent of the Republican delegates still to be chosen in order to wrap up a nominating majority. Carter needs 26 percent of the Democratic delegates the rest of

Kennedy and Bush will have to try and woo away delegates so as to hold ating majority in the votes that count, the roll calls at the Republican and Democratic national conventions. There's not much chance they can do

The Oregon primary will apportion 39 Democratic delegates and 29 Republican nominating votes. In Michigan, 82 GOP delegates are at stake.

Reagan has 841 of the 998 delegates that will make a GOP nominating majority; just 157 more will put him over the top. Bush has 192 delegates.

Carter is 302 votes away from a majority. He has 1,364 delegates, Kennedy 771.

That AP count is based on binding commitments or the declares preferences of delegates. Other surveys project additional strength for Carter Listed on Tuesday's GOP ballots are Reagan, Bush and Rep. John B. Anderson, who has quit the Republi-can race to run as an independent. The vestige of Anderson is a problem for Bush, who fears votes that other-wise would be his will go to the con-gressman. "A vote for Anderson is a vote for Reagan," he said Monday.

In Maryland a week ago, Bush lost by 7 percentage points, and Anderson drew 10 percent of the vote.

Reagan narrowly lost the 1976 Oregon primary to then-President Gerald R. Ford, and Carter lost the last Oregon primary to Idaho Sen. Frank Church, running narrowly ahead of the write-in vote for Gov. Brown.

Deadline has come and gone: Land for postal facility sought

It's looking for a piece of land in west Midland to build a new substation. But even though the deadline for offers has come and gone, not one Midlander has stepped forward and offered to sell his land to the federal

On April 16, the Postal Service advertised that it was looking for a site to construct a new Village Station Post Office. Those site offerings should have been in the Dallas office by last Friday, said Carl Hyde.

But on Monday, Robert J. Blaes, realty management and acquisition specialist in Dallas, advised Hyde he had received nothing from Midland.

"We weren't even talking about money yet," said

The site must be 250 feet by 300 feet with 130,000 square feet minimum, almost the size of a city block. The land must be in an area bounded by Golf Course Road on the north, Big Spring on the east, Powell Street on the west and Wall Street on the south.

Blaes has extended the deadline for the next two weeks.

said Hyde. Mailing address is Blaes, Field Real Estate and Buildings Office, U.S. Postal Service, P.O. Drawer 239, Dallas, 75221, telephone 214-767-5492.

After that, Blaes will come to Midland in search of a site. If he finds a spot, said Hyde, Blaes will look up the owner and talk with him about selling the land.

This is the first time Hyde can recall not getting an offer

'Surely, there's someone with property to sell," said Hyde in expressing his puzzlement over the lack of offers. 'Or, even if there's a few houses on the land we would be willing to move them. Apparently, people would rather have their land right now than money, or maybe no one owns that much property.

"Even if they have a piece of gold on it (the land) we (Postal Service) would be willing to talk," Hyde added. The current Village station at 2309 W. Louisiana Ave. has become too crowded and that section of the city has outgrown the facility. Plans show the new facility would be about three to four times larger than the current

Odessa physician-surgeon files suit against doctors, hospital managers

An Odessa physician-surgeon, who claims that his professional standing, practice and reputation have been damaged by fellow physicians who discriminated against him on the basis of his race and national origin, India," has filed a $600,000 suit against eight doctors and six members of the Odessa Medical Center Hospital's board of managers.

The plaintiff-surgeon, Dr. Inayat I. Lalani, is demanding a jury trial in federal court in Midland to exact actual and punitive damages from the eight "doctor defendants," who were on the hospital's medical staff when Lalani alleges he was caused to be suspended from surgical privileges.

Lalani, in the suit-petition filed in his behalf by Andrews attorney Dan Sullivan, claims that the "doctor defendants...tortuously" interfered with his business and professional relations and "entered into a conspiracy to boycott" him. The hospital is operated by Ector County.

Defendants named in the suit are W.I. Allen, Narita Holmes, James Haiduk, Nell Geers, Ignacio Cisneros and Rudy F. Juedeman, all members of the hospital's board of managers, and Dr. Paul J. Edmondson, Dr. Nathan C. Galloway, Dr. William H.

Lalani, who had "enjoyed full sur-gical privileges at Medical Center Hospital from 1974 until May 18, 1978, said he was suspended "on improper and unfair grounds" after he "had engaged in a lengthy operation without an assistant.'

He alleges that other surgeons had "engaged in similarly lengthy 'solo operations' (and) with less justification than Dr. Lalani," and those doctors "were not suspended or repri-

Dr. Lalani, who the defendant doctors wished to oust from their midst," because he was not subservient to the Anglo clique, as are "these house Indians" whom the white doctors "tolerate" as "security against claims of anti-Indian discrimination," the petition charges.

Lalani, who deems himself a "highly skilled and successful surgeon of Indian origin," alleges that his civil rights, guaranteed by the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, and his right to due process were violated in the following manner:

-"The doctor defendants were from the start hostile to Dr. Lalani on account of his race and national origin."

-"Defendants have traditionally tolerated...Indian doctors as security against claims of anti-Indian discrimination. These 'house Indians' have traditionally been docile and subservient to the clique of white Americans which effectively governs the hospital.... Dr. Lalani was admitted to (hospital) privileges that he would prove equally subservient and that his practice would not outstrip that of his Anglo competitors, particularly defendants Edmondson, Meek and Zeeck, who specialize, as does Dr. Lalani, in surgery.

-"Dr.Lalani did not prove to be sufficiently docile..., and he took umbrage at the examples of anti-dis-

-"Defendants jointly determined to have his career in Odessa cut short...by reason of their hostility. To this end, the doctor defendants systematically refused to send any referrals to Dr. Lalani and embarked...upon a program to cause Dr. Lalani to be deprived of his surgical privileges in the hospital."

Lalani practiced general surgery in Andrews from 1972 to 1974, when he established a practice in Odessa.

Big Spring woman released on bond in death of girl

BIG SPRING - A 51-year-old Big Spring woman, Nelta Thompson, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of 10-year-old Kay Lee Thomas, has been released on a $75,000 bond set shortly after the girl was mortally wounded early Saturday, said Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard.

The girl, an apparent acquaintance of Mrs. Thompson, died Monday morning in a Lubbock hospital of a .38-caliber wound to the temple, the sheriff said.

The sheriff said the pistol Mrs. Thompson was carrying discharged and med into a car, where the girl was sitting, as the woman apparently was getting into the car. She was leaving her son's residence, where a family argument was taking place.

Charges of aggravated assault against Mrs. Thompson were filed with Peace Justice Lewis Heflin of Big Spring on Saturday and bond was set then. Murder charges were refiled with the justice after the girl died Monday morning.

Lubbock Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled that the death of the girl was a homocide. The shooting occurred in the Hilltop housing addition just northeast of Big Spring.

Arraignment set Thursday for former Midland banker

Lonnie Bartley, former Midland banker charged with embezzling andor misapplying $22,200 from two banks in 1978 and 1979, is to be arraigned before Federal Judge Lucius D. Bunton at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in federal court in George Mahon Feder-

Bartley, 39, accused by information rather than by indictment, is alleged to have fraudulently "misapplied" the money. The government alleges he loaned the money to an R.R. Moore, whom Bartley knew to be a "fictitious person and a non-existent client" at the banks, The First National Bank of Midland and Commercial Bank & Trust Co.

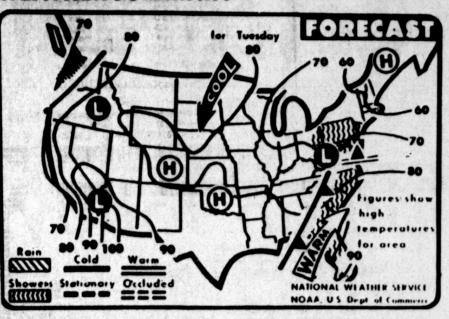

Bartley was a First National Bank assistant vice president-loan officer in 1978 when he allegedly made two loans — for $7,300 and $5,700 — to R.R. Moore. He was serving in a similar capacity at Commercial Bank & Trust in 1979 when he allegedly made an additional two loans - for $4,200 and $5,000 - to R.R. Moore

Maximum punishment which could be exacted for the offense is a fiveyear prison sentence and a $5,000

Bartley's Midland address was listed as 1002 W. Secan Ave.

Love Canal residents hope message received

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) -After detaining two federal officials for about five hours, angry residents of the Love Canal area say they hope they got their message across to the Carter administration.

If not, "what they've seen here today is going to seem like a Sesame Street picnic," said Lois Gibbs, presi-dent of the Love Canal Homeowners Association.

The residents want the Carter administration to declare their neighborhood a disaster area so the remaining 700 families can be moved away at federal expense.

Mrs. Gibbs said she had received no assurances that their demands would

The two Environmental Protection Agency employees, Frank Napal, a public affairs officer, and Dr. James Lucas, deputy director of an EPA health effects research laboratory, were in Niagara Falls to answer homeowners' questions about the chem-

After the five hours, the two men were led through a booing, jeering crowd of about 200 people in front of the association headquarters.

As lights for television news cam-

Police car hits Midland woman

A 63-year-old Midland woman was listed in critical condition and transferred to Odessa Medical Center Hospital this morning after a car-pedestrian accident involving a police car.

According to reports, Ingrid Hays, of 2602 Country Club Drive, was walking across Cuthbert around 4 a.m. today at the intersection of Cuthbert Avenue and Ward Street.

Lt. H.M. Wicker, head of the traffic division, said the woman had been to Albertsons and was apparently walking from the south side of the street across to the north side.

Death penalty overturned by high court

WASHINGTON (AP) - Laws defining "outrageously vile, horrible, or inhuman" murders as capital of-fenses cannot be the basis for imposing the death penalty unless the victims actually suffered "serious physical abuse" before death, the Supreme

In striking down a Georgia death sentence Monday, the nation's high-est court put all states on notice that their capital punishment laws must avoid vague or open-ended phrasing.

"A capital sentencing scheme must...provide a meaningful basis for disginuishing the few cases in which the penalty is imposed from the many cases in which it is not," Justice Potter Stewart wrote.

If a death penalty is based on a finding that the crime was particularly outrageous, then "evidence of serious physical abuse of the victim before death" is required, Stewart

The decision does not represent any substantive backing away from the Supreme Court's endorsement of capital punishment's constitutionality when properly imposed. But it is sure to influence future state court rulings on whether life imprisonment or death is the proper punishment in individual cases

Under Georgia law, one of the categories under which a convicted murderer may be sentenced to death is if the crime is found to be "outrageously or wantonly vile, horrible or inhu-man in that it involved torture, depravity of mind or an aggravated battery to the victim.'

Stewart said no such proof of outrageous acts was present in Robert Godfrey's 1977 shotgun slayings of his wife and mother-in-law. Godfrey's death sentence was overturned by a 6-3 vote of the justices.

It remains to be seen whether Godfrey must face another possible death sentence under new proceedings or whether he will be resentenced to life imprisonment.

Also unclear is just how many death row inmates in Georgia and across the nation will be affected by Monday's ruling.

It appears that only nine of the 98 persons on Georgia's death row, as of April 20, were sentenced on the basis of circumstances similar to those overturned in Godfrey's case.

In a friend-of-the-court brief supporting Georgia's sentencing Godfrey to the electric chair, Missouri state officials said their death penalty law contained a section identical to the disputed section of Georgia's law.

Betterton gets 20 years

By ED TODD

A 20-year-old Greenwood man, charged with the shooting death of his stepbrother while he was asleep at his Greenwood home and with wounding his mother, was sentenced to 20 years in prison Monday after the man, David Betterton, pleaded guilty to murdering his stepbrother, William Dean "Billy" Clark, 24, on Feb. 28.

Judge Vann Culp of the 238th State District Court imposed the sentence following plea-bargaining agreements between defense attorney Mark Withrow and Distict Attorney Vern Martin and his assistant, David

"Mr. Withrow negotiated a pleabargaining agreement with the District Attorney's Office," Judge Culp said in open court Monday afternoon. Maximum sentence for the offense could have been 99 years or life in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

There is a very slight chance of thunderstorms in the Midland area tonight, but Midlanders can expect fair weather conditions Wednesday.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport is predicting Wednesday's high should be in the upper 80s, with tonight's low expected in the upper 50s.

The record high for Tuesday is 100 degrees in 1939 compared with Tuesday's 6 p.m. high of 75 degrees. The overnight low of 52 degrees fell short of the record low of 46 degrees set in 1931.

Southeasterly winds tonight should be 10-15 mph. However, the weatherman is predicting a 20 percent chance for thunderstorms tonight. Precipitation totals for the month and the year are close to normal. Although there was no precipitation within the last 24 hours, the monthly amount is 1.68 inches and the yearly total so far is 3.32 inches. By the end of May, the normal monthly total of precipitation for this area should be 2.60 inches.

Scattered thunderstorms rumbled across the northern Panhandle today, and a patchy blanket of fog enveloped the Coastal Plains. Elsewhere, Texas skies were mostly fair. Westerly winds swept across the western half of the state at 10 to 15 mph, while light northerly winds blew in the central and eastern regions. The National Weather Service predicted highs generally would range in the 80s and 90s through Wednesday, with the mercury climbing near 100 in the lower elevations of Big Bend.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 52 degrees at Marfa to 74 at McAllen.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market recovered from a mild early spell of selling to record its fifth straight gain in a relatively quiet session Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 2 points in early trading, was up 4.01 at 830.89 by the close. The average climbed more than 20 points last week.

New York Stock Exchange volume totaled 30.97 million shares, against 31.71 million Friday.

Businesses find cheaper loans

NEW YORK (AP) - The cost of business loans has fallen to 16 percent at some banks, but an increasing number of corporate treasurers are finding far lower rates elsewhere. Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the country's fifth-largest bank, cut its prime rate ½-percentage point to 16 percent Monday and some smaller banks matched the lower rate.

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, lowered its rate to 161/2 from 17 percent.

The moves, however, probably sur-prised few of the nation's big companies. They have been borrowing at a 91/2 percent interest rate lately in the commercial paper market. In recent weeks, this market, in which large companies issue shortterm IOUs to other companies and large investors with idle cash, has grown as interest rates there have fallen more rapidly than the rates charged by banks.

Business borrowing at banks, for example, fell $1.37 billion in the week ended May 7 to $154.43 billion, while commercial paper outstanding in the U.S. jumped a record $3.85 billion to $126.3 billion in the same period.

the commercial paper market," said David Jones, an economist for Aubrey G. Lanston & Co., a New York investment firm. "For the larger companies, banks are not the place to borrow because the prime is simply

Jones called Morgan's reduction to 16 percent a "catch-up move" to close the gap between banks' shrinking cost of acquiring funds and their lending

The prime is the interest rate banks charge on loans to their best-risk corporate borrowers. Most other businesses pay at least one percentage point above the prime. The prime is not tied to interest rates on consumer loans but is considered a key indicator of interest rate trends because changes in the prime often signal changes in other rates.

Retail earnings figures down

By The Associated Press

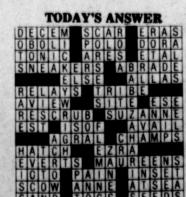

A cutback in consumer spending and high interest rates combined to produce a troubled first quarter at some of the nation's largest retailing

Sears Roebuck and Co. of Chicago the nation's largest retailer, and J.C. Penney Co. of New York each reported earnings declines of close to 60 percent from profits levels a year earlier F.W. Woolworth Co. of New York also reported a sharp drop from $13.8 million to $1 million in pre-tax earn-ings on its companies in North America but posted an overall profit increase because of a tax refund on its

British operations. "Sales were below budget in virtually all segments of our busi-ness,"said Edward Gibbons, Woolworth's chairman and chief executive officer. While he said signs of declining short-term interest rates may alleviate one source of pressure on profits, "we do not see any indicaton of imminent improvement in the economies of the U.S. and Canada."

Donald V. Siebert, chairman of J.C. Penney, told reporters after the company's annual meeting in San Francisco on Monday that he anticipated any recovery in consumer spending would be gradual and slow. He said it would not begin before the first or second quarter of 1981.

New figures expected to indicate recession

WASHINGTON (AP) - Evidence is mounting that the nation's economy has fallen into recession, with personal income and factory use becoming the latest casualties.

Statistics being released later today today were expected to show that the overall economy grew in the first three months this year — but not as much as preliminary estimates had indicated and probably for the last time in 1980.

The Commerce Department reported last month that the nation's real gross national production — the value of all goods and services, adjusted for inflation — grew at an annual rate of 1.1 percent. An annual rate figure indicates what would occur over the course of a year if economic conditions for a single quarter continued for three more quarters.

The economy had grown at a 2 percent annual rate in the final three months of 1979.

Today's revised first-quarter 1980 GNP figure was likely to be the last positive one for a while, since most economists in and out of government now agree the nation's output is expected to decline for the next three

A recession traditionally has been defined as two consecutive quarters of declining output.

High interest rates in the wake of Federal Reserve action last October to fight inflation by tightening money and credit have sent housing construction and home sales into tail-

Other parts of the economy began turning downward in March, after the Federal Reserve imposed credit controls to take the steam out of business and consumer borrowing.

The result has been the recently reported slumps in industrial production and retail sales, with an accompanying jump in unemployment from 6.2 percent in March to 7 percent in April. The latest statistics show that personal income - whick includes wages, rental income, stock dividends and interest minus Social Security contributions — grew a scant 0.02 percent last month to an annual $2.07 The $500 million increase from March was the poorest monthly performance since the last recession, when income fell $1.5 billion in July 1975, according to Commerce figures released Monday. At the same time, spending fell and savings increased. Both are signs of consumer "retrenchment" in the face of a deteriorating economy.

And the Federal Reserve reported that factories operated at 81 percent of capacity in April, down 2 percentage points from the preceding month and more than 6 percentage points from the peak rate of 87.1 percent in March 1979.

April's operating rate was the lowest since factories functioned at 80.4 percent of capacity in February 1977, the report indicated.

Continued weakness in demand for business loans prompted Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, the nation's fifth largest bank, to lower its prime corporate rate to 16 percent

Most other large banks took a waitand-see attitude and remained at the prevailing 16.5 percent level, al-though some smaller banks — including First National Bank in St. Louis and Trust Co. Bank in Atlanta followed Morgan Guaranty.

The prime rate, which is the interest banks charge their most creditworth business customers, peaked at 20 percent early last month.

Negotiators agree to end general revenue sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) - House and Senate negotiators agree today on the need to end general revenue sharing for states in the drive to balance the 1981 budget, but remain in sharp disagreement on other key issues, such as defense and jobs programs. The elimination of funds for state revenue sharing Monday night reversed last week's Senate vote to keep the $1.7 billion program alive by shifting $700 million from "categorical" grants that a state must spend for ederally mandated purposes. The conference committee's action came as a blow to state and cities which lobbied strongly for at least partial restoration of the program that gives states discretion over how to spend the federal money.

But Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., House Budget Committee chairman, said it was "unseemly" to continue revenue sharing to states — many with budget surpluses - when Congress is cutting social programs in a bid balance

Despite agreement on revenue sharing, the negotiators still face wide differences on Senate demands for sharply higher defense spending and for deep cuts in social programs in the budget for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1. "We're a long way from home," said Giaimo as the conference committee adjourned late Monday night. "I think we're still terribly far

The biggest difference between the two sides remained defense, with the Senate refusing to reduce its $155.7 billion military spending figure more than $300 million. The House side agreed to raise its defense amount from $147.9 billion to $152 billion and indicated it might be willing to go higher.

The House offer meant that Congress will almost certainly exceed President Carter's $150.5 billion request for defense in fiscal 1981. Meanwhile, the House fought to prevent big cuts in jobs programs, food stamps, mass transit and other domestic programs that the Senate demanded. During the defense debate, Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, the Senate Budget Committee's new chairman, accused Carter of weakening U.S. military strength and consistently backing down to threats from the Soviet Union. In a caustic review of Carter's defense posture, the South Carolina Democrat compared the president's policies toward Moscow with unsuccessful attempts by former British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to appease Nazi Germany prior to World War II. Hollings, who succeeded Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie as committee chairman last week, ridiculed Carter for embracing Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev during their summit last year. When he (Carter) kissed Brezhnev last June...he thought just like Chamberlain," Hollings said. "Chamberlain didn't think he was an appeaser. He was reflecting public opinion. Probably Jimmy Carter felt he was reflecting public opinion."

The conferees hoped to finish work on the compromise budget this week so final House and Senate votes could be taken when Congress returns next week from the Memorial Day holiday.

LEE YOUTH CENTER CHATTER

Year-end brings mixed emotions

By MARTHA WENTWORTH and DEBBIE FOSTER

Bright and early Friday morning, the new and old Junior Council members were up at the youth Center to elect their new officers for the 1980-81 school year. The four outstanding members that were chosen for these offies are Debbie Foster, president; Kari Watson, vice-president; Shannon Ashford, secretary; and Cathy Hickman, treasurer. Good luck in leading everyone to a fun and exciting next year.

Tuesday, May 15 in the library, wishes of good luck for the future were exchanged between the old and newly elected Student Council Officers. As the 1980-81 officers were installed, both sad and happy feelings were felt by everyone present.

We would also like to congratulate all those that were chosen for next years President's Cabinet. Good luck in conducting hard working committees next year.

sponsibilities could trig-ger a stress-related illness, these disorders are not limited to executives. Dr. Michael J. Colligan, a psychologist with the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health, says that the ulcer-prone executive is a stereotype, and that ulcers may be found among workers on all levels, executives and non-executives, blue-collar as well as white.

For example, researchers have found that assembly-line workers begin to experience such symptoms as dizziness, nausea, and muscular fatigue as the pace of the line quickens. They also discovered a significant amount of illness among workers who feel they are trapped in dead-end jobs. Possibly your husband feels this way and sees the promotion as an opportunity to do more meaningful

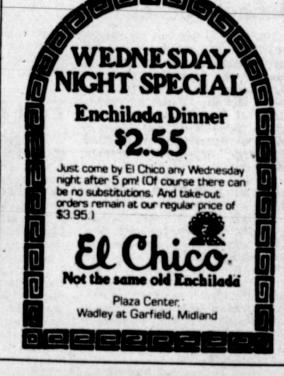

Much remains to be learned about why and how an individual's work may lead to illness, but stress, alone, is not the only consideration. The individual's personality, including inherent genetic factors, and the circumstances surrounding the job also are important

Japanese resume oil negotiations

By JONATHAN C. RANDAL The Washington Post

TEHRAN - Japanese oil companies have resumed negotiations for purchases of more than half a million barrels a day of Iran's high-priced crude, Iranian government oil sources said Monday.

The talks resumed despite Japan's agreeemnt in principle to apply the same sanctions adopted Sunday by the nine nations of the European Common market. Last month Iranian oil minister Ali Akbar Monifar said Iran would refuse to sell oil to any nation applying Oil purchases officially were exempted from the European sanctions. But a gentlemen's agreement amounting to informal sanctions has discouraged buying Iranian crude for the past month. The main objection has been that Iran's $35 a barrel price was far higher than that charged by other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries for Considerable optimism was expressed by National Iranian Oil Company circles that the dozen Japanese companies now negotiating would be compelled to accept the full Iranian asking price. The price led to suspension of sales negotiations with the Japanese firms in mid-April.

Resuming sales of the 530,000 barrels a day once sold to Japan would amost double Iran's crude exports and provide badly needed foreign exchange to keep the sagging economy going.

Buoying Iranian oilmen were the latest price increases by Saudi Arabia and Mexico, source said. Although Iran says it exports nearly 1 million barrels a day, oil analysts can trace only 611,500 barrels a day in term contracts, and Iranian officials say no more tan 100,000 barrels a day is sold on the spot market . Japanese companies, British Petroleum and Royal Dutch Shell together purchased more than 800,000 barrels a day until March 31. Now about a third of Iran's oil exports are believed to go to communist countries. China, the most recent customer, signed up for a 30,000-barrel a day deal.

Drop in petroleum products use coupled with high price

The Los Angeles Times

"Tell us what you want done, but don't tell us how to do it," the governor of Oregon grumbled when President Carter pleaded with the state to conserve during the gasoline crunch

Gov. Victor Atiyeh was probably justified. The governors of several other states could feel comfortable making the same cocky retort. They are serious about state energy plan-

Ever since the Arab oil embargo, attention has focused on the federal government's efforts to draft and pass energy legislation. The Carter administration, for the most part, has relied on price to encourage conservation. And indeed, analysts attribute much of this year's 10 percent drop in the use of petroleum products to the doubling of crude-oil cost in the last year. In additon, to lessen U.S. dependence on imported oil, Carter has backed the creation of a synthetic fuel

For the states, energy planning has focused on regulation and education. Here the immediate results are not as clear. The conservation benefits of measures, such as building or appliance codes will not show up for several years, and the impact of education is impossible to quantify.

"People tend to divide into camps over the effectiveness of price or regulation," said Daniel Yergin, an energy economist at Harvard. "Really, both are crucial and both can be overdone.

In the rush to pass legislation, the states sometimes support programs that do not save as much money as they cost to pass and enforce, Yergin says. However, he added, "I have really come to believe that what is done at the state and local level is extremely important."

Despite differences in aplroach, the energy planning in the states has not gone unnoticed by the federal government. "We've stolen a lot of our legislation from the states, especially California," said Maxine Savitz, a deputy administrator of the U.S. Department of Energy's state conservation pro-

The Department of Energy has meted out energy funds to the states since 1975 when it distributed $5 milenergy office. This year DOE has allocated a total of $515 million.

In their own self interest, several states have taken the federal offering, thrown in an increasing amount of their own money, and developed en-ergy legislation that is making the federal government sit up and take notice. California, for instance, has added $2.2 million this year to the $3.9 million in U.S. funds.

Savitz says that DOE used California's appliance and building standards as guides in drawing up the federal codes. California has had appliance efficiency standards in effect since 1977. By 1985, the codes will reduce consumption of electricity by 2.2 billion kilowatt hours and consumption of gas by 3.10 million therms. The total dollar savings will be $161 million a year.

The experiments in California were important in pushing the federal government to draft its own codes according to Savitz. She estimates the federal building codes alone will save 100,000 barrels of oil a day by 1985. The General Accounting Office estimates that by the year 2000, the codes will save 1.5 million barrels a day or 21.4 percent of present U.S. crude

The states also pioneered the solar tax credit. Savitz says the early California and Florida solar tax credits virtually "kept the solar industry alive," while it waited on the U.S. credits. Douglas Larsen, executive director of the Western Interstate Agency Board adds: "DOE did nothing in the delivery of solar systems, the states have acted as the delivery

Often the states have taken an energy incentive and pushed it one step

Wisconsin, like 24 other states, offers its own tax credit (24 percent) in addition to the federal tax credit of 40 percent. John Neville, director of the state's conservation program says that before its own tax credit. only 20 solar units were installed in Wisconsin. However, since the state passed its credit, more than 1,200 units have been installed.

To make it even easier for a consumer to use solar power, Wisconsin recently replaced the tax credit with outright grants. Already, Neville says, applications for the grants are coming in at a faster rate.

Another boost to conservation has been weatherization loans, now offered by some 14 states. (The federal government has a weatherization materials program for low-income residents, and a tax credit for upper-income residents.)

Since 1977, Oregonians have been eligible for weatherization loans at 6 12 percent interest. Last year, Oregon's electric utilities began offering interst free loans that are repaid when the weatherized home is sold. Aggressive state programs have shown results. In Oregon, for example, more than 125,000 homes had been weatherized at the end of 1979. In Kansas, however, a state about equal in population that offers just the federal program, only 4,100 homes were weatherized at the end of 1979.

Until now, the state weatherization programs have been voluntary. Minnesota, however, has figured out how to put on some indirect state pressure: In October Minnesota homeowners will be required by law to show a prospective buyer past utility

A recent study by Common Cause estimates that the states have developed more than 700 programs designed to conserve energy and promote the use of alternative fuels. At first glance, some of the programs look a little off the energy According to Common Cause, six states have mandatory laws on returning bottles and cans for recycling. A study by the U.S. Office of Technology Assessment estimates that such a national law would save 30 million barrels of oil a year. Seven states require vehicle emissiosn tests. Rhode Island estimates that its state law requiring the tests saves 6 million gallons of gasoline a year.

Just how much energy have the states saved with their different programs? No one is sure. In 1975 the federal government directed each state to cut energy consumption by 5 percent of what it estimated their needs would be in 1980 without a conservation effort.

Not many states have come close to meeting the 1980 goal. State officials say, however, the best conservation program will take years to show a significant savings.

Slide-tape program set

An American Association of Petroleum Geologists slide-tape projram, Secondary Reservoir Porosity in the Course of Sandstone Diagenesis" will be offered by the Permian Basin Graduate Center Tuesday.

The class will be held from 1:30 to 4:45 p.m. at the PBGC building, 105 W. Illinois St. in Midland.

The program will show participants how to recognize secondary sandstone porosity by textural criteria; quantitatively determine the ratio of primary to secondary porosity by means of petrography, cathode lumescence, and use of the scanning electron microscope, and describe the textural spectrums of secondary sandstone po-

Refugee flow not over until 50,000 more arrive

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — U.S. officials say there's finally an end in sight to the month-old "Freedom Flo-tilla" that has delivered more than 62,000 Cuban refugees. But the end may not come until another 50,000 have arrived here.

"Now it's a war of attrition," said State Department spokeswoman Joanna Capman.

No boats have gone to Cuba in nearly four days, with U.S. Coast Guard cutters firmly turning back the handful that have tried. Cuban authorities have ignored President Carter's call for all boats to return empty and allow U.S. governmentchartered ships to take over transportation - and selection - of refu-

Most returning boat captains say Cuban authorities won't allow them to leave Mariel harbor until their vessels are loaded with passengers, so U.S. officials now are playing a num-

"If we could control the southbound traffic and the exodus continues from Mariel, we would eventually reach a point when there are no boats left," said Coast Guard Cmdr. Samuel Dennis of Key West.

Officials estimate that more than 2,500 boats have left here for Cuba since the first "Freedom Flotilla" boat departed April 20. So far, more than 1,600 have returned.

However, U.S. officials have noted that since the U.S. began preventing boats from leaving here, Cuban authorities are allowing fewer boats to leave Mariel empty.

Of the first 1,500 boaters to return, about two-thirds carried refugees. But about 80 percent of returning boats since last Wednesday have carried refugees.

"It's hard to predict what's ahead," said Allen Lisle of the Federal Emergency Management Agency. "We have no control over the number of people coming. We'll get what they send us."

Federal officials expect as many as 50,000 more refugees before the flotil-

Jorge Gonzalez, a Puerto Rico resident who returned Monday with 34 refugees packed onto his 30-foot boat, estimated about 700 boats remain at

Quebec voters decide today whether or not to secede

MONTREAL (AP) - The voters of Quebec province answer a historic question today — should they stay Canadians or begin the process of

The Quebecers were asked in a ves-or-no referendum to give the government of their mostly Frenchspeaking province a mandate to negotiate "sovereignty-association" — po-litical independence but continued close economic ties - with the English-speaking rest of Canada.

The referendum is the culmination of generations of friction between Canada's two founding peoples.

Generally sunny weather was pre-dicted across the big province. Voting hours were from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. EDT, and a massive turnout of perhaps 90 percent or more of the 4.3 million eligible voters was predicted.

About 3.5 million or 80 percent of the voters are French-speaking, and the ballots were in both French and En-

The last opinion poll showed the "yes" side with a narrow lead, a reversal of previous surveys. Provincial Premier Rene Levesque, whose Parti Quebecois was formed 12 years ago to crusade for Quebec separation, told reporters Monday he felt a late surge in support over the past week, "like a dam breaking."

However, many political analysts believed that most of the many undecided voters in the opinion polls would cast "no" ballots.

Millions across Quebec and Canada had been caught up in the fiery debate over the province's future. Neighborhood "yes" and "no," or "oui" and "non" committees sprang up throughout the province. The Montreal newspaper La Presse printed an eight-page section Monday devoted entirely to letters-to-the-editor discussing the emotional issue.

Israel may reconsider expulsions

JERUSALEM (AP) - The Israeli Supreme Court, expressing criticism of the military's haste in deporting three leading West Bank Palestinians following the ambush-killings of six Jewish settlers, agreed today to consider an appeal against the expulsions by the wives of the deportees.

The court ordered the government to explain within 45 days "why the deportation orders should not be re-voked."

Chief Justice Haim Cohen ques-tioned whether the provisions of the emergency regulations invoked against the Palestinians had not been violated because the Palestinians were unable to exercise their right to appeal the expulsions to an advisory

State's attorney Gabriel Bach said

Duane Sutter of New York and Philadelphia's Jack McIlhargey crash into the boards with linesman Ron Flynn during first period action of NHL

Stanley Cup playoffs in Uniondale, N.Y. Monday night. The Islanders won, 5-2. (AP Laserphoto).

Islanders down Flyers for 3-1 playoff edge boiled down to the third period. The New York Islanders had taken a 2-() lead in the fourth game of their National Hockey League championshipseries, then had watched the Philadelphia Flyers cut it to 2-1 with those 2:0 minutes left to play.

So, while the fans jammed the hallways at Nassau Coliseum, waiting in line at the refreshment stands and rest rooms, the Islanders were in their clubhouse, pondering the period.

"If you can't win one period in your own building, you don't deserve to win the Stanley Cup," thought cen ter Butch Goring.

"When you're in that situation, when you know if you have a good third period you're going to be up three games to one in the series, it isn't too tough to get ready," acided left wing Clark Gillies.

THUS PREPARED, they line I up, walked under the stands to rinks en-trance and played one of their best third periods of the playoffs.

They skated off the mushy ice in a muggy building with a 5-2 victor y and now they find themselves just one triumph from the first Stanley (Cup of their eight-year history.
They did it on a goal and two assists by Gillies, a goal and one as: sist by Bryan Trottier, more solid go altending by Bill Smith and the maturity that kept them from losing; their heads when the Flyers be gan to

"We've done it on a lot of poi se, a lot of conditioning and a lot of hard work," said Bob Nystrom. "We've been well-coached and we've come up big in the playoffs.

"The big story is we play ed awful hard, capitalized on our breaks and Smitty (Smith) played ver y well," said the New York right win g.

THAT WAS it. There were no fancy. complicated explanations this humid night because none could better summarize the contest. The Isla riders had beaten the Flyers for the 121h time - against four ties and just one loss - in their last 17 home games against

Now one more victory on the road, where they have been at their best in the playoffs, stands between the Islanders and the title. "Everybody knows it's just one more win," said right wing Mike

Bossy, "but everyone knows we're not playing that fifth game at home. We're playing in Philly and that makes it a bigger obstacle.' But this year, unlike so many others in their troubled past, the Islanders have vaulted each obstacle cast in their path. Starting Thursday, they have three chances to win o no matter where.

"Right now, they're looking at the Stanley Cup and we're looking at the cat's butt," said Flyers center Bobby Clarke. "They did more things better than we did, so I guess they deserved

FOR THE third consecutive game, the winning team took an early twogoal lead. Bossy scored on a power play at 7:23 and Goring at 13:06, with Goring's tally snapping a string of nine New York goals scored during power plays or shorthanded situa-

John Paddock halved the deficit for Philadelphia, setting up the key third period. Trottier made it 3-1 at 6:06 with a screened 20-foot wrist shot between the legpads of Flyers goalie Pete Peeters, then Ken Linseman brought Philadelphia within a goal at 11:53.

But then the Flyers — pressing for a tying goal that might have shifted the momentum — played reckless, irra-tional hockey.

"WE PLAYED our best game to-night," offered Coach Pat Quinn, "but maybe we didn't play with our heads as well as we could have."

That resulted in a pair of two-on-one breaks that put the game - and the victory champagne — on ice. Bob Bourne fed Nystrom a perfect puss for a 10-foot shot just 42 seconds after Linseman scored, and Gillies ended all doubt with a 20-foot wrist shot at

'We struggled through but we did what we had to do to win," said Coach Al Arbour. "We didn't play superb out there, but we hung tough.

They need hang tough just one more time to finish the eight-year journey they started as one of pro hockey's most terrible teams.

"It's been a long, tough road so far," said Gillies. "To be one game away is what you work for. You better believe I'm excited."

Drillers sweep Cubs

Win series finale in 13 innings, 6-5

By TED BATTLES

Apparently no one told the Tulsa Drillers and Midland Cubs that the marathon was Sunday night. to get the job done.

Midland led 4-2 going into the ninth when Perlman made his only bad pitches of his nine-strikeout, eight-hit 11-inning stint. With one out, Wayne Tolleson doubled and Amos Lewis homered over the scoreboard in left to tie it and force the extra innings.

Perlman was victim of two tainted runs in the early innings, or the Lewis homer wouldn't have made any difference. In the first, Cha Cho Gonzalez singled and then Paul Klimas hit a double play grounder that would have ence meet. The winner will h ost the Central NCAA region al tourney, while the loser will have to hit the road and compete in the Midwest regionals.

Arkansas stayed alive and forced today's 1 p.n 1. showdown game by beating Te :xas 8-7 Monday night on Randal Carter's three-run homer in the bottom of the seventh. That gave both teams one loss in t he meet.

Earlier in the da y, the Razorbacks got two hon zers and five RBIs from Kevin M IcReynolds to hold off Texas Te ch 6-5 in the losers' brack et of the double-elimination tournament.

Texas beat Tec'n and Arkansas defeated Texa s A&M in Saturday's first day of play in the tournament, and the Longhorns became the only unbeaten team on Sunday by defeating Arkan-sas while Tech was eliminating the Aggies.

Arkansas picked up their dual victories Monday despite three errors against Tech and four miscues against Texas. Arkansas outhit Texas 9-7.

The Razorbacks, trailing 7-5, opened the seventh with Luis Zambrana drawing a walk off the Longhorns' first reliever, Doug Laufer. Mike Hamer came on in relief at that point, but Reggie Thomas greeted him with a double that put runners at second and third, and Carter followed with a 375-foot homer over the left field fence.

Bob McHale, 1-2, came in to quell a Texas rally in the se-venth and held on for the victory. He allowed no hits in the 2 2-3 innings he pitched. Arkansas took a 4-0 lead in the first off Texas starter Dave Siler. John Hennell, Ronn Reynolds and Doug McClure each knocked in a run, and another came in on an error as Siler gave up five straight hits with-

NEW YORK (AP) - Former jockey Con Errico, occused of being the key figure in a conspiracy that enable gamblers to win some $500,000 on fixed horse races, has been convicted of bribing jockeys to throw nine races at Aqueduct and Saratoga in 1974 and 1975.

Errico, 58, had been accused of engaging in "a pattern of racketeering activity." He showed no emotion after the jury of six men and six women returned the verdict at 8:47 p.m., CDT, Monday

Laker parade draws big, happy crowd

LOS ANGELES (AP) - For the first time in awhile, the Los Angeles Lakers were stymied. They couldn't get into their own celebration. On "Lakers Day" in Los Angeles, a crowd of some 10,000 jubilant fans crowded around City Hall Monday, preventing the National Basketball Association champion Lakers from making their scheduled appearance on the City Hall steps with Mayor

Tom Bradley. Instead, following a ticker-tape parade through downtown, the Lakers made a brief appearance from the City Hall roof after more than an hour's delay.

As the thousands of fans chanted "Lakers, Lakers, Lakers" and "Magic, Magic, Magic" in a call for rookie star Earvin "Magic" Johnson, the team remained barricaded behind a wall of police officers in the mayor's

"We have never experienced this large of a turnout in anything the city has every done," said Los Angeles police Lt. Dan Cooke. "I don't think anyone anticipated this crowd ... no one in their wildest dreams could have expected that kind of crowd for a basketball team.

'We were concerned for the safety of the Lakers because there was wall-to-wall people in front of the (City Hall) door.

Finally, the Lakers were led by police escort through the crowded corridors to an elevator and onto the

"We're going to change our clothes and put on some dark glasses," quipped Lakers' owner Jerry Buss as he headed for the elevator. Other Lakers were smiling despite the deluge of people.

A huge roar went up as team cap-tain and star center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar appeared at the edge of the roof and held aloft the trophy awarded the team after it won the championship over the Philadelphia 76ers last Friday night.

Bradley spokesman Tom Sullivan said it was the first ticker tape parade in Los Angeles since a similar occasion on behalf of President John Kennedy after his inauguration in 1960.

Bradley proclaimed Monday as "Lakers Day" in honor of the team that brought Los Angeles its first major pro sports championship since the Lakers won the NBA title in 1972.

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball faces a potentially disastrous player strike at midnight Thursday over stalled contract negotiations, but the issues aren't the traditional ones usually found in a labor-management show-

Salaries and money are not at the heart of the current disagreement. The basic collective bargaining agreement over which the two sides are squabbling sets down the conditions of employment but does not deal with player salaries except for the minimum each major leaguer must be paid. In the agree-ment signed in July 1976, the > and 1979. That item is the only one in the basic agreement dealing directly with money. Individual player salaries are negotiated between players and their clubs and are not a strike issue. There are almost as many contract variations as there are major league performers. Some players are paid over the 178-day season. Others prefer a minimum salary was set at $19,-

000 for that season and 1977 and moved to $21,000 for 1978

12-month salary arrangement and some even take their entire salary in a single payment at the start of the year.

Disastrous strike nearing

deadline on Thursday

Some players have built-in strike protection in their contracts with clauses that call for them to continue to be paid in the event of a player walkout. Pete Rose of the Philadel phia Phillies and Rod Carew of the California Angels reportedly have such agreements.

Also protected during the strike are the major league u.mpires, who will continue to be paid even though they are not working. That provision was included in the settlement of the ir seven-week strike last season.

Managers and coaches share in the pension benefits of the players association but are not members of the union. Ostensibly, they will continue drawing their salaries as will other front office personnel.

Negotiators are near agreement on most but not all of the matters dealt with in the basic agreement. Those issues, besides minimum salary, include player pensions, health and safety questions, salary arbitration language, the disciplinary system and other similiar items.

The issue over which the two sides are deadlocked is compensation for free agents. That simply is a demand by the owners that they receive replacement players for free agents who sign with other teams. The players fear that agreeing to such a provision would put a significant dent in the free agent system and reduce player movement to trade arrangements. Specifically, they fear any limits on their free agency. Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett will make one more effort to break the deadlock Wednesday when he summons the two sides back to the bargaining table, 34 hours before the strike deadline of midnight Thursday.

Only once before in the history of baseball has the game had a general strike. That was in 1972 when the start of the season was delayed 13 days and 86 games were canceled because of a walkout over pension and health plan improvements.

Guidry blanks Tigers

By The Associated Press

Left-handers Ron Guidry of New York and Ken Kravec of Chicago have been struggling for much of the young season but everything fell into place Monday night in a pair of 1-0 victories.

Guidry, whose 4-0 record belies his inconsistent pitching this year, hurled a six-hitter for his first shutout of the season as the Yankees edged the Detroit Tigers.

"It felt like 1978," said Guidry, who won the American League's Cy Young Award two years ago with a 25-3 record. "I haven't lost anything since Kravec, who led Chicago with 15 victories a year ago but hadn't pitched in 12 days, yielded four hits before getting ninth-inning help from Ed Farmer as the White Sox nipped the Minnesota Twins.

"I felt that all I had to do was pitch," said Kravec, 2-3. "I didn't fool around. All I threw were fast balls and curve balls. The warmer weather helped because it was easier to stay loose. All the other times I went out I didn't feel comfortable, but tonight I had my rhythm and I finally felt Second-inning doubles by Reggie Jackson and Graig Nettles provided the only run Guidry needed. Guidry, who has lost only once since last year's All-Star Game, had a no-hitter for five innings and then worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the sixth by fanning Alan Trammell and getting Steve Kemp to hit into a dou"He had a good fast ball, especially in the sixth," said catcher Rick Cerone. "He just reached back. He was just awesome. He moved the ball around tonight. He usually just rears back, but tonight he hit the corners. That made him that much more ef-

Meanwhile, the White Sox scored off Minnesota's Jerry Koosman in the third inning when Bruce Kimm drew a leadoff walk and went to third when catcher Sal Butera threw wildly to second attempting to force him on Harold Baines' bunt. Kimm scored on a double by Alan Bannister, who was mired in a 2-for-36 slump. Royals 6, A's 5

Darrell Porter drilled a two-out single following an intentional walk to George Brett to score Rusty Torres with the winning run in the bottom of the 11th. Torres singled to open the 11th and was sacrificed to second. One out later, loser Dave Hamiltonintentionally walked Brett but Porter singled for his second game-winning hit in three games.

The Royals rallied for three runs in the ninth to tie the score, with Dave Chalk contributing a two-run double and Willie Wilson delivering a gametying single.

Angels 3, Rangers 2

Rod Carew and pinch-hitter Todd Cruz rapped 13th-inning doubles to give California only its third triumph in the last 11 games. Cruz connected off Dave Rajsich after Carew opened the inning with a double off loser Jim Kern, who pitched 51-3 innings in relief of starter Gaylord Perry. Bobby Grich of the Angels tied the score with a two-run homer in the seventh inning.

Orioles 4, Indians 1

Steve Stone allowed six hits before needing last-out help from Tim Stod-dard and was backed by a 15-hit Baltimore attack, all singles. Stone lost a bid for his first shutout in almost two years in the ninth inning on singles by Miguel Dilone, Mike Hargrove and Ron Hassey. Tim Stoddard, who has saved all five of Stone's victories, then retired Toby Harrah on a first-pitch forceout.

Blue Jays 7, Red Sox 2 Otto Velez slammed his ninth homer of the season, a three-run blast in the fifth inning, and Al Woods drove in two runs with a single and a solo homer to back Jim Clancy's six-hit p itching and keep Toronto one-half game behind the first-place Yankees in the AL East. Carl Yastrzemski and Ji.m Dwyer hit solo home runs for Boston. Velez leads the league with nir ie homers and 29 RBIs.

Mariners 4, Brewers 3 Seattle pushed across the winning rur i on 12th-inning singles by Julio Cr. iz, Jim Anderson and Dan Meyer. Me yer also drove in Anderson with the tying run on a sacrifice fly in the eigh th. Home runs by Robin Yount and Larry Hisle staked the Brewers to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Shane Raw ley hurled the final 32-3 innings for S eattle and pitched out of a basesloadeed, one-out jam in the ninth.
