Queen's illness diagnosed

Hostage has multiple sclerosis

NEW YORK (AP) — The stress of captivity in Iran may have helped set off Richard Queen's attack of multiple sclerosis but it is likely he eventually would have developed the disease anyway, a spokesman for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society said today.

"Stress is often times an exacerbation. We find that the multiple sclerosis patient has to be very careful in his daily living," said Bard Lindeman, science editor for Queen, 28, was released Friday by militants at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, where he had been held captive for 250 days. He is now being treated at the U.S. Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany.

'We don't really know enough about the disease to say this. But what we've seen is the stress of an auto multiple sclerosis surface for the first time," Lindeman Lindeman said it was "very likely" the stress of captivity contributed to Queen's condition. But he emphasized that current theories hold that the infectious agent probably enters the body years before symptoms appear. so that "the supposition is that it would have surfaced later anyway," he said.

No one knows what causes multiple sclerosis, a chronic and often disabling nerve degeneration that afflicts some 500,000 Americans.

The symptoms - dizziness, weakness, numbness, paralysis - usually appear between the ages of 20 and 40. There is no cure.

It is an unpredictable disease, flaring up with symptoms that may put a person in the hospital, then halting or even reversing course for months or years.

"Many people can go 30 to 40 years without suffering serious neurological damage. Other patients have a more serious course," said Dr. Fred Plum, chairman of neurology at Cornell Medical Center and editor of the journal Annals of Neurology.

Plum said neurologists probably suspected multiple sclerosis last week when it was first announced that former hostage Richard Queen was suffering from numbness in one arm and bouts of dizziness but remained men-

Doctors would then have established the diagnosis by eliminating other possible causes, such as stroke, anemia. brain tumor and spinal damage.

21 killed, 35 injured in nursing home blaze

MISSISSAUGA, Ontario (AP) -Twenty-one people were killed and 35 injured in a nursing home fire that spread rapidly through the top floor of the three-story building where most of the chronically ill patients were housed, police said.

Initial reports indicated a careless smoker was responsible for the fire, but there was no official ruling on the

The fire broke out on the third floor of the Extendicare Ltd. nursing home shortly after 9:30 p.m. Monday, and fire trucks were on the scene in about two minutes. But Fire Chief Gordon Bentley said by the time his men got there, the flames had spread across the entire third floor.

"Either the fire went undetected for a considerable length of time or spread very quickly," said Bentley. However, he said the 202-room

Reagan holding meetings on VP

DETROIT (AP) - With everything going his way on the Republican convention floor, Ronald Reagan invited party leaders to his hotel suite today for private chats to solicit their advice on a winning vice presidential candidate.

While there was hardly a ripple of public controversy at the convention sessions on Monday, the first of four days of meetings in Joe Louis Arena, some prominent party figures expressed disagreement with the conservative cast of the party platform to be presented to the delegates for approval tonight.

Betty Ford, former first lady, said in an ABC-TV interview today that platform planks dropping endorsement of the Equal Rights Amendment and supporting a constitutional ban on abortions were threatening to carry the party toward the sort of election disaster that Barry Goldwater suffered as the GOP nominee in

"We're treading on dangerous ground just like 1964," said Mrs. Ford, a strong supporter of ERA. "... hope we correct some of these

In an appearance on the CBS Morning News, former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger sidestepped a question whether he agreed with the platform's opposition to the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union. The arms limitation pact, strongly opposed by Reagan, is stalled in the Kissinger replied that "at this moment the big problem in national de-fense is catching up with the Soviets." Then he added that "I support the many directions of the platform."

Kissinger was on Reagan's guest list today along with former Presi-dent Gerald R. Ford, ERA supporters and, quite likely, some of the men mentioned as leading his list of vice presidential possibilities.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post quoted an unnamed Reagan intimate as saying the candidate was "90 percent of the way toward choosing" George Bush as his running mate.

Speculation about Reagan's vice presidential choice remained the favorite sport at this convention.

The highlight of the opening day occurred Monday night when Ford received a warm emotional welcome from the delegates and pledged that "this Republican is going to do everything in his power to elect our nominee to the presidency of the United

It was Ford's 67th birthday and when he finished speaking and cheers had died down, the delegates sang "Happy Birthday" to the former president.

On the floor after the Ford speech, William Casey, Reagan's campaign manager, said a Reagan-Ford combination "would be a great ticket."

But Ford has made it clear he would not accept the vice presidential nomination and Casey said he doubted there would be any effort to try to draft Ford.

Kissinger was interview Monday night on CBS and when asked if he thought he might be offered his old job as secretary of state in a Reagan administration, he replied that "I have no expectancy one way or the Reagan aides, while acknowledging that much of the candidate's day would be devoted to the vice presidential decision, refused to say which of the potential choices might be invited to his suite for a chat.

The convention reconvenes at 5 p.m., EDT, today; with the speakers to include Kissinger, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Reps. Jack Kemp of New York and Guy Vander Jagt of Michigan, both vice presidential possibilities, and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally.

Betty Boop runs as 'anti-frownie'

DETROIT (AP) — Detroiter Les singer and songwriter from San Fran-Bowman didn't want to be left out of all the excitement.

So before he went into the convention headquarters Plaza Hotel for a bit of celebrity watching, he pinned onto his shirt a piece of cardboard on which he'd written: "Official Pass. I Live Here. Admit Bearer.'

Bowman was one of thousands of people out Monday on Jefferson Avenue between Joe Louis Arena and the futuristic Plaza, where Ronald Rea-gan is staying. That stretch of the street has become a promenade where Republican delegates, Detroit residents and all kinds of others ogle each other and street vendors offer everything from water colors to souvenir beer mugs.

At an information booth, volunteer Dorothy Ferguson says, the three most common questions are: "What's going on today? Where do I find my bus? Where can I get a button like yours?" (Hers carries the official slogan: "Detroit Loves A Good Party.")

A few other sights and sounds from the streets:

Few Uncle Sams on stilts or bearded Abraham Lincolns have shown up here, but there's a presidential candidate running against "the frownies."

She is running under the name Betty Boop. It is a gag, of course, Betty Boop being a cartoon character of the 1930s.

Dressed in a silver halter, red and silver shorts and a red garter, the reincarnated Miss Boop sat atop a trailer across from the convention

"There's a disease going around called the frownies," she called down to an inquirer. "The frownies can make you sick and the scowls can kill you."

called, blowing a kiss, "Have it my way, see if I care.

"We are not going to rain on their parade," she said firmly. "The Reagan people," she said, "have been very gracious."

For $5, convention visitors can get what looks for all the world like a photograph of themselves standing arm-in-arm with Ronald Reagan.

The trick is a lifesize Reagan cutout. A group of Michigan Republicans are selling the photos as a fundraising technique.

Three die in Houston bowling alley shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — The bowling alley had been robbed just the night before, so four young people volun-teered to spend the night and guard against burglars. When they were seen again, three had been shot to death execution-style.

Investigators speculated that robbery was the motive for the bloody break-in. About $800 was taken from a cash register near the bodies, police said. The four were apparently told to lie on the floor and then each was shot

ERA supporters gather in Detroit

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS

DETROIT (AP) - About 11,000 backers of the Equal Rights Amendment demonstrated outside the Republican National Convention Monday as GOP delegates supporting the ERA vowed to make a final effort to add the amendment to the party's platform. The march, swelled by lunch-time as it moved through downtown Detroit to the convention center. The chanting, sign-carrying men and women shouted, "Hey, hey, what do you say? Ratify the ERA" as they Some carried placards that read "Abort Reagan," "Wake up GOP it's 1980," and "ERA — a people's Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., William Green, R-N.Y., Pete McCloskey, R-Calif., and Jim Jeffords, R-Vt.; and Helen Milliken, wife of Michigan Gov.

William G. Milliken. Detroit police estimated the crowd at 11,000 although organizers of the march put the number at 12,000 to 15,000. Speaking before the pro-ERA march, Green said he was seeking majority support from six state delegations so he can move to have the platform opened for an amendment endorsing the ERA.

Last week, the Republican platform committee, dominated by conservative back ers of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, dropped the party's longtime endorsement of a constitutional amendment guaranteeing equal rights for women.

'It's an uphill fight," Green said. "I don't want to pretend to you that we have them (the six delegations) lined

Meanwhile, Reagan, the party's expected nominee, planned a meeting on Tuesday morning with nine Republican women who support ERA. The women hope to convince Reagan to soften his opposition of the proposed amendment.

Edwin Meese III, Reagan's chief of staff, said that Reagan did not deliberately exclude men from the sescrowds, extended for several blocks sion, but that "the principal people who wanted to meet with him were women.

Meese told repoerters that the intention was to keep the session a 'small, intimate gathering.

Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women and an organizer of the pro-ERA demonstration, said Reagan already was being hurt among voters because of the party's platform stand.

"I think this convention has hurt him on this issue without question," she said. "It gave a signal to a lot of people about how extreme he and his supporters are. There is no question in my mind that this for many people is the final straw.'

Ms. Smeal also said a GOP platform without an ERA endorsement would remove a ny chance that Reagan could win her organization's endorsement. The demonstration began shortly after the convention was formally convened Monday morning. Before the demonstration began, Republican ERA activists told reporters they were dismayed at seeing their party abandon a stand in support of a Equal Rights Amendment first taken in 1940.

"I'm afraid that our party has a made a profound mistake and sent a signal to the women of our country that they (the platform drafters) probably did not understand the ramifications of," said Jill Ruckelshaus, now a member of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

She said by failing to take a stand favoring ERA, the party was hurting its ability "to attract women when it holds up a standard that is not acceptable or attractive to 52 percent of the population.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - A "major shortfall" in state and local response to last year's nuclear accident at Three Mile Island will be corrected during a simulated emergency this week, officials say.

"The kind of information that we passed down to the counties was not sufficiently thorough," Oran Henderson, chief of the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency, said Monday.

But Henderson said local officials will receive the information they need

- on such things as radiation levels and evacuation plans - through the revised state response plan. The plan will be tested Wednesday in an eight-hour drill that involves 18 state agencies, seven counties, two towns and two hospitals. The simulation, set to begin at 6:30 a.m., revolves around a series of simulated emergency developments at the closed power plant, where the nation's worst commercial nuclear accident occurred last year.

Henderson said the exercise, while planned around hypothetical malfunctions at Three Mile Island, applies to the entire state. "This is a test of the machinery that would be employed in the event of an accident at any one of our nuclear facilities," he said.

'Mystery flash' over Atlantic Ocean was nuclear explosion, source says

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Pentagon study says the much-discussed "mystery flash" last year over the southern Altantic Ocean was probably caused by a secret nuclear explosion, say sources who have seen the report.

The conclusion of the Defense Intelligence Agency report would conflict with a White House-sponsored committee of nongovermental experts who generally decided that the Sept. 22 flash came from natural causes. The flash was caught by a U.S.

nuclear test detection satellite. U.S. intelligence sources said that South Africa may have tested a nuclear device, but that nation denied conducting any test. There was also speculation that Israel may have secretly tested a nuclear weapon In the months since the flash, no other evidence has come to light, such as traces of fallout.

The result of the debate is that there seems to be no firm conclusion about what caused the flash. The VELA satellite which registered the flash is aimed at the northern hemisphere because that is where atomic tests are done by the Soviet Union and China.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices, as measured by widely watched Dow Jones industrial average, broke past the 900 "psychological bar-rier" for the first time in five months Monday and closed at the highest level since late

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 14.42 points to 905.55. That was the highest close since Sept. 11, 1978 when it closed at 907.74.

Computer and business machine stocks were actively traded and strong. International Business Machines gained 21/8 to 641/8 after issuing an improved quarterly earnings report late last week. Xerox gained 3 to 60. National Semiconductor gained 1% to 28% as the most active issue as of the 4 p.m. close of the New York Stock Exchange

Overall gaining issues outnumbered losers by a margin of more than 3-to-1 on the NYSE. Big Board volume came to 45.50 million shares, up from 38.31 million in the previous session.

The NYSE composite index of all listed common stocks gained 1.24 to 68.68. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 3.52 to a record high 310.12. In over the counter trading, the NAS-DAQ composite index also hit a record high of 166.52, up 1.70 from the previous ses-

Standard & Poor's 400 industrial stock index gained 2.62 to 135.31. The S&P 500composite rose 2.17 to

Majority interest in 12th largest bank to be sold

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Majority interest in Crocker National Bank, the nation's 12th largest, will be sold to a British bank, a Crocker official

Ward Stevenson, Crocker's senior vice president, said final arrangements for the sale were reached late Monday between officials of Crocker National Corp., the bank's holding company, and Midland Bank Ltd. of London, England's third largest bank with assets of $47 billion.

Under the agreement, Midland would acquire 51 percent of Crocker's stock by buying $495 million in new common stock from Crocker, or 3½ million shares at $90, and tendering another 61/2 million in existing shares at book value, subject to approval by both banks boards and stockholders and U.S. banking authorities.

Midland will pay no more than $50 a share for the 61/2 million existing common shares, Stevenson

The bank sale will not be completed until after the tender offer is made, which could take as long as 12-15 months, he said. Crocker, California's fourth largest bank, has assets totaling $16.9 billion and 370 branches in "The significant thing is that we get the proceeds of 31/2 million shares right off the bat, as soon as the existing stock is tendered," Stevenson said. "The key is the infusion of capital to Crocker.' The New York Stock Exchange suspended trading of the San Francisco-based bank holding company's stock Monday after Crocker officials said they would have an announcement. Rumors were widespread that a European bank had purchased more than half the stock. Midland was among several potential buyers. Others includ-ed Dresden Bank of Germany, the world's eighth largest bank, and the Deutsche Bank of Germany, ranked fourth in the world in terms of deposit

Last week, Crocker's stock traded heavily, closing Friday at 36%, up 3%, on a volume of 146,000 shares. At one point, it traded for a 52-week high of 36%.

Federal grand jury investigating bank

BALTIMORE (AP) - A federal grand jury is investigating the National Bank of Washington and alleged interference in its affairs by the United Mine Workers, the Baltimore Sun reported today.

Subpoenas were issued last week for numerous bank records of loans and other internal transactions, sources told the newspaper. An unidentified spokesman for the capital's third largest bank confirmed that NBW had received a subpoena from the U.S. attorney's office in Washington, the Sun reported. "Counsel has been instructed to co-operate with the authorities," the spokesman said, adding that the bank would have no comment at this time. "As far as I know, the union is not aware if it (the subpoena)," said Eldon Callen, a spokesman for the Sources said the investigation centers on questionable practices that include the issuance of millions of dollars of loans allegedly made under the influence of the coal miners union, which owns three-quarters of the bank's stock, the Sun said. The bank is already under scrutiny by federal and internal examiners. A team of federal bank examiners is finishing an investigation of the bank's practices for the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, which regulates national banks. The NBW also is in the midst of an internal investigation, prompted by its discovery that Ronald Nathan, its general counsel who helped in the election of current union leaders, allegedly had failed to disclose his investment in a gas well venture to which the bank had loaned money.

The internal inquiry, directed by a committee of the bank's board and staffed by lawyers from a Washington firm, began last spring. The lawyers have interviewed dozens of bank officials, former bank officials, union officers, NBW customers and government officials.

Ford Motor Co. likely to reject Toyota's offer

DETROIT (AP) - Ford Motor Co. probably will reject Toyota's proposal for joint U.S. production of a small car starting in 1983, a Ford source indi-

The source, who is familiar with the talks and who asked not to be identified, indicated Monday that Ford executives had concluded the car would add nothing new to Ford's lineup. "Another problem is we already have a Japanese partner with a darned fine car," he said, referring to Toyo Kogyo Ltd., 25 percent owned by Ford and Ford's collaborator in a new model for Asian markets this fall.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

He is my brother

We who have been made holy by Jesus, now have the same Father He has. That is why Jesus is not ashamed to call

For He says in the book of Psalms, "I will talk to My brothers about God My Father, and together we will sing His praises."

At another time He said, "I will put My trust in God along with My brothers." And at still another time, "See, here am I and the children God gave Me."

Since we, God's children, are human beings-made of flesh and blood-He became flesh and blood too by being born in human form; for only as a human being could He die and in dying break the power of the devil who had the power of death. Only in that way could He deliver those who through fear of death have been living all their lives as slaves to constant dread. We all know He did not come as an angel but as a human being-yes, a Jew.

And it was necessary for Jesus to be like us, His brothers, so that He could be our merciful and faithful High Priest before God, a Priest who would be both merciful to us and faithful to God in dealing with the sins of the people.

For since He Himself has now been through suffering and temptation, He knows what it is like when we suffer and are tempted, and He is wonderfully able to help us.

Gun control linked to suicide rate

Dear Dr. Solomon: A few weeks ago we heard the shocking news that a friend of ours had committed suicide by shooting himself. We don't know what was troubling him, and that's not the point of this letter. But we can't help thinking that if the gun had not been so readily available, he might still be alive today. Your com-ments would be appreciated. — Mr. and Mrs.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. C.: There is some evidence of a relationship between the ease of obtaining fire- be performed safely and arms and the suicide efficiently in an office? rate. Dr. David Lester of the Stockton State College, Pomona, New Jersey, and Ms. Mary Murrell of the University of, Pennsylvania, studied the relationship between a state's gun control laws and its suicide rates. They found that the states with stricter gun control laws in 1968 had lower suicide rates in the period from 1969 to 1971; the results were valid only for men, who often use guns in suicide attempts, but not for women, who do not use guns as often These findings give some indirect support to the theory that the suicide rate can be decreased if the methods

By signing a consent order agreeing to register Monday, President Carter's outspoken younger brother resolved a civil suit by the Justice Department and avoided any legal penalties or fines.

While denying any wrongdoing, he revealed that he has received $220,000 from Libya as partial payment on a $500,000 loan he said he requested in return for his services during the past two years.

The registration statement said Billy Carter isn't currently involved in any activities on behalf of Libya and has none under consideration: In a complaint filed in U.S. District Court, the government said Billy Carter "undertook a propaganda campaign" for Libya in this country and acted in a variety of ways "to promote Libyan foreign policy objectives."

The younger Carter was unavailable for comment Monday, and White House officials said President Carter would have no comment.

Not that the Grand Old Party is about to be fractured. But a series of issues - from women's rights to farm prices - are causing tensions and strains in what is being touted as a unified Republican convention.

Conservatives are unhappy with the platform's stance on relations with China and are warily watching Henry Kissinger as the former Secretary of State sidles up to Ronald Reagan at a meeting today.

Moderates and Liberals are irate about deletion of support for the Equal Rights Amendment and the anti-abortion plank.

Some farmers are disappointed that the platform does not support parity - a concept Reagan once admitted he didn't understand. Anti-nuclear energy backers are upset over the pro-nuclear stance taken by the platform committee.

And both conservatives and moderates are nervously awaiting the decision by Reagan, due to be formally anointed as the Republican standard-bearer Wednesday night, on whether his running mate will be a philosophically compatible conservative or a party-broadening moderate.

In addition, Republicans associated with the liberal wing once commanded by the late Nelson Rockefeller are uncomfortable at a convention dominated by conservatives. And supporters of Rep. John B. Anderson, who abandoned his Republican bid to seek the presidency as an independent, are acutely aware of their persona non grata status.

But even delegates most disenchanted with the platform soon to be adopted by the Republican National Convention say they'd rather be a little chilly toward Reagan and his ideas than frozen out for four more years by Jimmy Carter.

So, despite the undercurrents of tension, the Republican convention is likely to emerge as a model of solidarity when compared to the upcoming show by

Led by party stalwarts such as Senate Minority Whip Ted Stevens of Alaska, Sen. Charles Mathias of Maryland, and and Reps. William Sedgwick Green, Margaret Heckler and Pete McCloskey, about 11,000 advocates of the ERA marched in protest of that stand Monday

And some ERA supporters say they will attempt to line up enough support to bring the issue to the floor Tuesday, although they concede their chances are DETROIT (AP) - Behind the summer show of slim. The Ripon Society, a group of moderate Republicans, called the platform a "shocking retreat from the Republican Party's historic commitment to the rights of women and minorities.

But the anti-abortion plank, which says only persons opposed to abortion should be appointed as federal judges, also is stirring up some dissent. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., Monday called that stance the worst plank I have ever seen in any platform in the Republican Party.

The Connecticut delegation voted Sunday to back an effort to overturn the anti-abortion plank.

Conservatives, who have been jockeying for months for position to influence Reagan's choice of a running mate, have stepped up the intensity of their campaign. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a leader of the conservative forces, announced Monday he will run as a candidate for that position — a move that could running mate.

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., who leads the American Conservative Union, says conservatives will support Helms if Reagan selects a moderate as his running mate - and particularly if Reagan selects Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., for the post.

Bauman says he could accept George Bush, the former United Nations ambassador and a one-time presidential contender, for the post. But other conservatives say they would oppose Bush. And some groups such as the Conservative Caucus oppose even the most-often-mentioned compromise candidate, Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind.

Conservatives also are closely watching attempts by Henry Kissinger to play a role in the formulation foreign policy. One conservative operative suggested reporters watch for a "spontaneous outbreak" of booing when Kissinger is introduced for his speech to the convention Tuesday night. But put new pressure on Reagan to accept a conservative other conservatives say no orchestrated attempt to

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: Actress Barbara Stanwyck, who shares your birthday, is known for both guarding her privacy and responding with great sensitivity to the needs of her friends. Be alert to new career, business opportunities and you can more than just cope with a rocky economy. Relatives will rally around in times of joy as well as stress, and there could be great excitement within the family circle as the result of certain romantic developments. Stick close to home around the winter holidays and work harder at developing your artistic talents.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Decisive action pays off. Higher-up is impressed by new take-charge attitude. Be careful what you say or do around sensitive loved one.

Listen carefully TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tensions lessen at work and productivity increases. Express ideas as clearly, concisely as possible. A candid talk clears the air. Loved one's problems are not as simple as they may appear.

If, to defeat a contract, you must find partner with a particular card, defend on the basis that he holds that card. If partner could hold one of two cards, it usually pays to assume that he has the weakest holding that would permit you to gain the upper hand - always, of course, providing it is consistent with the bidding. Consider today's hand.

Since he was going to game anyway, South chose to respond in his major suit rather than in his strong minor. North had a natural raise, and South would have been wiser simply to close the auction in the major suit

TO PUT THE WANT ADS TO WORK Dial 682-6222

With book in, East looked around for the setting trick. It did not seem likely that it would come from clubs, and if West held the ace of diamonds it probably wasn't going away. The possibility that West held the king of diamonds was moot, for in that case declarer had the king of clubs and that suit would run. Therefore, it was apparent that the setting trick would have to come from the trump suit. If declarer had nine trumps, he would probably play for the drop and East

would automatically score

the setting trick. But if declarer held only eight trumps, he would rely on the finesse.

East worked out, though. that if West held the nine of trumps, the defenders could assure a trump trick. At trick four, East led the thirteenth spade. If South ruffed high. East's queen of hearts would become promoted. But declarer chose to sluff a club, and West put his nine of hearts to good use by ruffing. Dummy was forced to overruff with an honor, and now East could not be stopped from collecting a trump for the setting trick.

Kuwait organization makes offer for 14.6 percent interest in Getty

By LYDIA CHAVEZ The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES - In a move that could make it the first Arab country to own a substantial part of a large U.S. oil company, Kuwait has offered to purchase nearly 12 million common shares, or 14.6 percent, of Getty Oil Co. for $982 million, the Los Angelesbased company said Monday.

The $82-a-share offer, made through the Kuwait Investment Organization of London last Friday, would be the largest single Arab investment in a publicly held U.S. company.

The Kuwaiti government organization would become the second-largest holder of Getty stock. At present, the largest block of stock - 38.7 percent - is held by the Sarah Getty Trust Fund.

The offer was made to the estate of J. Paul Getty and is subject to the completion of a stock purchase agreement with the estate. The offer represents all of the remaining 11,970,340 outstanding shares of Getty's Getty died June 6, 1976. The Sarah Getty Trust Fund is named after his mother.

In a tersely worded statement, Sidney R. Petersen, Getty Oil's chairman and chief executive officer said: "Our preference would be to see that block of stock more widely distributed. We don't think it is in the best long-term interests of our other stockholders to keep those shares off the market."

The executors of the Getty estate, Title Insurance & Trust Co., and Ronald and Gordon Getty, met here Monday to consider the offer.

"We're still at the stage of asking a lot of questions and I HAVE NO IDEA HOW LONG IT WILL TAKE FOR US TO COME TO A DECISION," SAID William Bell, a vice president of Title Insurance Co., the parent company of Title Insurance & Trust. Bell said that for approval of the offer, only two out of the three executors must agree to the stock purchase. "But in a decision of this magnitude I think we would want unanimous agreement," he added.

Morgan Stanley & Co., New York-based investment bankers, is representing the Getty estate and a New York law firm reportedly is representing the Kuwait organization. Morgan Stanley refused to comment

Last April Morgan Stanley represented the Getty estate when it sold 4 million shares in a public offer-

It was unclear why Kuwait, which has a surplus of $40 billion, wanted to make the investment in Getty. Until now, most of the Arab money invested in the United States has gone into real estate.

"For an Arab country to invest in an oil company here would be like bringing coal to Newcastle," said Michael Goodwin, an international economist in the Department of Commerce's office of foreign invest-

The Kuwait organization issued a statement in London saying the government of Kuwait wanted the Getty stock "as a portfolio investment and has no present intention to acquire control of the company."

Some industry sources said that Kuwait's primary interest in Getty might reflect the company's exploration and production activities in the so-called neutral zone that runs along the border between Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Both Saudi Arabia and Kuwait enjoy equal rights to the resources in the zone, which are estimated at 6 billion barrels of crude oil reserves. At present, Getty produces 66,000 barrels of oil a day from three fields in the zone. In the last couple of years, the OPEC countries have also begun to try to enter the refining and marketing side of the oil business.

Kuwait is trying to build up its downstream capabilities and Getty offers the marketing and management capabilities," Ms. Goodwin said.

Getty is an integrated oil company with operations in exploration, refining and marketing in 30 states. In 1979 it earned $604 million on revenues of $5.12 billion. On news of the offer, the price of Getty stock jumped from $79.75 to $81.25 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Kuwaiti government has made other investments in the United States through the Kuwait Investment Corp., including the $7.4 million purchase in 1974 of a 10,000-acre island off the coast of South Carolina. The island is now being developed by Kuwait at a total cost of more than $600 million. The Kuwaiti corporation also has extensive real estate holdings in Atlanta.

In 1978, the investments made by OPEC countries in the United States made up only $325 million of the total foreign investment in this country of $40.8 billion. About $200 million of that OPEC investment was in real

Iran's crude exports hit million a day

Iran is now exporting about 1 million barrels of oil each day, a 25 per cent increase from June, Iranian Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinfar said today at a Tehran news conference.

Moinfar said Iran had boosted production to meet new export contracts. He did not name the customers.

In addition, Moinfar said Iran produces more than 1 million oil barrels a day for feeding its domestic refineries. That indicated total production of about 2 million barrels a day.

The new level of production claimed by Moinfar is still far below Iran's production of as much as 6 million barrels a day before the Iranian revolution last year. In reply to a question, Moinfar said

Iran has not reduced production in fields Iran shares with Iraq and Saudi Arabia. "We are even digging for new oil sources at the Iran-Iraq border,'

TIPRO urges Texans to storm Austin at Thursday hearing

DALLAS - The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association urged Texas royalty owners to attend a United States Senate Finance Committee field hearing in Austin Thursday. In one of the strongest statements yet delivered by TIPRO, the segment of the oil industry presenting small interest holders, its president, Frank L. Pitts, said "The so-called windfall profit tax is robbing royalty owners all across Texas. The federal tax guzzlers have decided that royalty owners, especially retirees, pensioners, and elderly who live on fixed income, are to be punished along with the multi-national oil companies." "Get to Austin," implored Pitts, "to show your support of Senator Bentsen's effort to take this unuustified tax off those who can least afford it. Every royalty owner needs to show that he or she is not going to stand for this governmental confiscation.

> ENERGY OIL & GAS

"Individuals from all walks of life and is forcing this entire nation to will be participating at this hearing. Farmers, ranchers, school teachers, small businessmen and other just plain, hardworking folks will probably be delivering the same basinc message: Alter this tax that is drastically affecting the income of Texans depend on foreign oil," Pitts said. The Senate hearing, chaired by Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, will be taking testimony on his and other proposals to exempt royalty owners from the Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980. Pitts also said, "This nis not just a tax on oil, it is a tax on people, on rural towns, on jobs, and primarily on Texas. This tax will cost Texans $65 billion directly over the next 1- years, and untold billions in indirect economic damage to every segment of Texas.

"If you are a royalty owner or a property owner, you should be in Austin on July 17 at 10 a.m. Every time a penny of revenue from the windfall profit tax hits the federal kitty the economic crunch is felt in Texas.

SIERRA BLANCA, Texas (AP) -A man from Virginia who paid more than $1,000 an acre for five acres of West Texas desert has filed a lawsuit to get his money back, claiming he was misled by a salesman who said the land had great potential for oil Frederick M. Gore of Middletown, Va., said he bought the land, just west of Dell City, Texas, last year for $6,990. The territory is rocky, desert terrain with a few salt flats. Gore said a salesman for the ewners of the Secret Springs real estate development, told him there was "an immediate potential for development of oil and gas resources on the property.' But an oilman said there was no oil production within 50 miles of the Texas oil royalties. Gore filed the suit after making an on-sight inspection of the Hudspeth County land. He accused the owners of "unlawful, deceptive, misleading and-or unconscionable acts."

In Midland, Johnston S. Rowe, an attorney for Texaco, said he has been asked for advice by several persons who were told Texaco was interested in leasing land on the Secret Springs development for oil exploration. But Rowe said, "Generally, there have not been any leases in the vicinity of these places." In fact, he said there has been "no oil production of any kind within 50 miles (of Secret Springs) that I know of." The El Paso Times said Secret Springs is one of several West Texas developments linked to Florida promoters who sell to out-of-state buyers by telephone. The newspaper said at Hammer said the government also should offer tax incentives to utilities and industries to convert their boilers to coal power, saying such a move could save more than 1.5 million barrels of oil a day. President Carter has announced plans to convert half of the utilities to coal, but Hammer insisted that all should be included. He added that shale oil was "a tremendous resource that is right in our own back yard."

Hammer said 1.8 trillion barrels of oil are locked up in the Rocky Mountains in Colorado, southeastern Utah and southwestern Wyoming - 21/2 times the oil reserves of all non-Communist countries. His final proposal was for coal liquefaction, which he conceded "is more expensive and further down the road." But it is "a viable option," he
