Barbara Bush the campaigner is nervous but excited

HOUSTON (AP) — Two years of non-stop campaigning for her hus-band George has transformed Barbara Bush into a nervous but excited party spokeswoman with a penchant for jogging. And with the general election only two months away, the wife of the Re-publican vice presidential nominee says she'll be relieved when it's over.

"I'm counting the days," she says. "But don't kid yourself, this is the most exciting thing I've ever done." Mrs. Bush begins her new role today in Louisiana as a spokeswoman for the Republican ticket — a role she says she's still unfamiliar with.

"I'm a little nervous because I haven't campaigned for the Reagan-Bush ticket before," she said in an interview with the Houston Post.

"I am not an authority on Gov. Reagan's programs yet, but I'm fast becoming an authority. The thing that is going to make campaigning very easy is that Jimmy Carter is a failed president."

Rigorous campaigning and "political necessity" have turned the slender, silver-haired Texas woman into a dedicated jogger.

"You can't campaign and keep up a tennis or golf game," said Mrs. Bush, who runs daily, most recently on the three-mile track at Houston's Memorial Park. Her time: 10 minutes per mile.

Friends have said Mrs. Bush is never one to mince words.

And she freely criticized the media for its coverage of the Bushes' recent trip to China. She said her husband went to China not as a government representative but to tell Chinese leaders about Reagan and to hear what they had to say.

'And that was accomplished in spades," she said.

The trip received a lot of attention when Reagan and Bush apparently made conflicting policy statement regarding China and Taiwan.

The Chinese Communist Party newspaper accused the former Californai governor of "shocking interference" in China's internal affairs about statements Reagan made supporting an official government relations with Taiwan.

But Mrs. Bush said the Chinese rhetoric was a result of internal politics, similiar to political talk that occurs in the United States.

Closer to home, the mother of five contends one would be hard-pressed to find any conflict in the Bush household.

She said a magazine reporter followed her for three days - from the convention in Detroit to Houston to their summer home in Kennebunkport, Maine.

"When they were finished, they could only do two pages on me, they found me so boring. I know we are boring. I like husband, I like my mother-in-law. I like my children and they like me. I like Houston. I know that's boring, but that's too bad." If her husband becomes the nation's

No. 2 man, Mrs. Bush says that as "second lady" she'll promote the ad-vancement of reading programs.

"A great many American chidren are cheated because they haven't learned to read in the classroom. It's something I can put all my energies into - and I've got lots of energy."

And what happens if the Reagan-Bush ticket loses "That's sort of exciting, because we have no idea," she said.

Reagan says Carter should make apology

By LEE BYRD Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan, buffeted by outraged southern govenors, says he meant no harm by his wrongful claim that President Carter visited the birthplace of the Ku Klux Klan. But Reagan insists that it is the president, rather than himself, who should apologize "for using this issue." Indeed, Reagan and other Republican leaders took the offensive Tuesday over his Labor Day gaffe, in which he chided the President, who appeared at a huge picnic in Tuscumbia, Ala., for "opening his campaign down in the city that gave birth to and is the parent body of the Ku Klux Klan.

Reagan found himself apologizing to the South, the state of Alabama. and to Tuscumbia. But not to Carter, who said in Missouri that "I resent very deeply what Ronald Reagan said . when he pointed out erroneously that I opened my campaign in the home of the Ku Klux Klan."

Carter declared that "anybody who resorts to slurs and innuendo against a whole region of the country, based on a false statement ... is not doing the South or our nation good service.

With that, Reagan was back on the attack, saying Carter had "delibera-tely distorted the intent of my remarks," even though those remarks were false on their face and he has yet to spell out what his real purpose otherwise was in making specific reference to the Klan.

The flap cast a shadow over debate of the issues, though the president, while in Harry S. Truman's home-town of Independence, Mo., said he and Reagan differ "in almost every basic element of commitment and experience and promise to the American people.

Carter said Reagan is unlike other Republican leaders dating back to Dwight D. Eisenhower, in that they were committed to controlling nuclear weapons, and "not launching a nuclear arms race against the Soviet Union which no one could win." Reagan, in Detroit, blamed Carter for allowing a huge deluge of foreign cars into the country. "The government has a responsibility it has shirked so far," he said. "That is to convince the Japanese that in one way or another ... that deluge of their cars into the United States must be slowed while our industry gets back on its feet."

China's Hua quits his post as premier

PEKING (AP) — Communist Party Chairman Hua Guofeng has resigned as he promised from his second post as premier, and the National People's Congress will vote on the nomination of Vice Premier Zhao Ziyang to succeed him in the next week, Hua told visiting Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ito of Japan today.

Hua and Senior Vice Premier Deng ambitious modernization drive, told Western interviewers earlier this summer that they would transfer direction of day-to-day government op-erations during the session of the rubber-stamp congress, which began last weekend and ends on Sept. 10. But they are retaining their more power-ful posts of party chairman and first vice chairman.

Anderson also courted the Detroit area, but he, too, took Reagan to task for the Klan remark, saying it was typical of the "flip, off-hand" statements which have gotten Reagan into trouble

At mid-afternoon, Reagan issued a two-page statement in which he said that the "Klan is not an issue in this campaign, although President Carter is attempting to make it one regard-less of the embarrassment it causes the people of Tuscumbia." While there, Carter denounced the klan But as half the world aurolu

Klan. But as half the world surely knows by now, Tuscumbia is not the birthplace nor the "parent body" of the racist organization, though one Klan faction did move its headquarters there only last month. It is the birthplace of Helen Keller, whose memory, according to Alabama Gov. Fob James, Reagan had demeaned with his remark.

Reagan did not acknowledge his error in his lengthy statement. According his own recount of what he said the night before, he had said "that Mr. Carter was speaking in the locale of the Ku Klux Klan headquarters, which statement had been included in a network newscast the evening before.

That version hardly jibes with his choice of words Monday. In any case, Reagan said "I intended no inference" that Mr. Carter was in any way sym-pathetic to the Klan and in no way did I intend to disparage the city of Tu-scumbia or the state of Alabama."

Reagan went on to say he had telephoned James and Tuscumbia Mayor Shuby Sparks "to express my disap-pointment that the Carter campaign has deliberately distorted the intent of my remarks."

Reagan's running mate, George Bush, said in Florida that it is the Carter camp which is conducting a "groin-kicking" campaign, but he re-fused to say whether the furor over Reagan's Klan remark was an example. And GOP National Chairman Bill Brock echoed Reagan's charge that the real blame lay in Carter's "misin-

Law enforcement projects saved

'Leftover' funds found for another. year

By KAY CRITES Staff Writer

All continuing projects in the Per-mian Basin funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration have been given a reprieve, according to Richard Kleinhans, law enforcement coordinator with the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

The state has scraped together "leftover" LEAA grants and used them to fund continuing grants for another year.

Continuing projects in this area include the Big Spring major task force, Winkler County assistant district attorney, Midland Independent School District on-campus suspension centers, the Permian Basin Law Enforcement Academy in Midland, the Rape Crisis Center in Midland and the Lamesa Police Department juvenile department.

LEAA funds were threatened in May when the Budget Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives recommended that the funds be cut in an effort to balance the federal budget

Currently, the fate of those funds rests with the Senate. The House, according to Richard Hancock with the Texas Office of the Governor's Criminal Justice Department, has approved the cut.

The funds for the next year are spare monies being administered by the Office of the Governor.

"We allocated each region X amount of dollars, and told the Council of Governors to set priorities on funding. Once they've gone through that money, that's it. We had enough money in the treasury to fund continuing grants, but we are not funding any new grants," said Hancock.

These monies are only for one year, September 1980 through September

"Beyond September 1981 there is no commitment to fund these projects." Hancock added.

Ernie Crawford, director of the PBRPC, verified they had received notification concerning the money. One of the major concerns, when the LEAA funds were threatened, was the law enforcement academy which trains new officers in a 17-county region.

Officers must be certified by the state, thus putting area law enforce-ment officials in a quandary over whether to send their officers to other cities or colleges for training at great expense or whether to try and continue the local academy.

The PBRPC's law enforcement advisory commission, consisting of police officials from the counties and cities involved, recently decided to recommend a regional academy to their city councils and county commissioners, with participating agencies paying a $500 membership fee basic training.

permission to use the Army Reserve armory at Air Terminal to house the new academy. "Of course," said Crawford, "we have always said we thought it (the academy) would be funded for another year at the same level it has been funded. If they (law enforcement officials) still want to move to Terminal, and I assume they do, the cities and counties will have to pay the difference instead of the full cost.

The funding approved for the next year is only about $24,000. The budget necessary for the academy at Terminal is about $60,000. However, the plans for the new academy are on hold until the PBRPC receives permission to use the armory.

"The new academy," said Klein-hans, "is really dependent on getting into the Army Reserve Building.'

Polish miners win strike

striking coal miners stand inside the gate of the Lipcowy Mine in Katowice, Poland. (AP Laserphoto)

JASTRZEBIE, Poland (AP) - Polish coal miners won their strike today and prepared to return to work Thursday, promising the end of the nationwide labor rebellion that wrung unprecedented concessions from a Soviet Bloc government.

Deputy Premier Aleksander Kopec and the miners' strike committee signed an agreement before dawn today promising the miners an end to weekend work shifts, other safety improvements and better pay as well as the social and political rights won last weekend by the strikers in northern Poland.

"It is an act of historical importance....Go with God," said Kopec after the pact was signed just before dawn in a smoky auditorium in this mining town near the Czechoslovak border

"I declare the strike over," said Miroslaw Siemiewill, chairman of the strike committee, "We will resume work on the fourth of September and make up for losses suffered by the national economy."

Other members of the strike committee said some men would return to the mines this afternoon to resume maintenance work.

There were cheers and applause from the 500 members of the strike committee, and many hugged and kissed each other. On the wall a map showing the 17 countries to which Poland exports coal was draped with a black banner and red carnations, honoring eight miners killed in an underground accident on Monday.

The miners, Poland's most favored workers because their output is the country's chief export, did not strike until last Thursday, when the vast strike wave that began Aug. 14 at Gdansk, in the Baltic industrial region, was nearing its end in northern and central Poland.

Most of those strikers went back to work Monday, after the government in an agreement signed Sunday in Gdansk promised a new labor law giving the right to strike and organize free, independent trade unions. But by Tuesday, the miners' committee said, a total of 250,000 workers were on strike at 31 mines.

Hua's conversation with Ito, reported by members of the foreign minister's party, confirmed that there had been no change in plans. Approval by the Congress of the changes is a certainty. The sources said Hua, who is 59, described his 61-year-old successor as a "very talented man." He also repeated previous reports that Deng, 76, and four other vice premiers will resign. The others are Li Xiannian, Chen Yu, Xu Xianian and Wang Zhen.

The Japanese said Hua told Ito he was informing him of the impending changes because China and Japan are "old friends."

Zhao, a Deng protege, is the party's former first secretary in Sichuan, China's most populous province.

He is known as a pragmatic, creative economist who has experimented with capitalist methods in industry and agriculture and is credited with engineering the Sichuan "miracle," restoring production in the province after the 10 tumultuous years of the Cultural Revolution.

"He is a very able man and accom-plished many feats in Sichuan and the central government," the sources quoted Hua as saying.

Previous reports have said the shakeup was designed to bring new faces into the Chinese leadership and move China away from the one-manrule exercised by the late Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Hua's statement, formally confirming past press reports, was considered a formality and a courtesy to the visiting Japanese minister. Hua was quoted as saying he made the decla-ration because China and Japan are 'old friends."

The Communist Party Central Committee, China's most powerful body, already has decided that Zhao will be the new premier, and the ac-ceptance of Hua's resignation is considered a foregone conclusion.

terpretation," which he said "foretells a campaign of slurs and innuendo" by Democrats.

Earlier, James had fired off a telegram to Reagan which said: "You owe us an apology; I demand it." And James and six other Southern governors declared in a statement drafted by Gov. William Winter of Mississippi that "We decry Mr. Rea-gan's callous and opportunistic slap at the South. American cannot afford as its president a man who has such a limited, uninformed and simplistic view of this great region of our united country.

The signers also included Govs. George Busbee of Georgia, James Hunt of North Carolina, Bob Graham of Florida, Bill Clinton of Arkansas and Richard Riley of South Carolina.

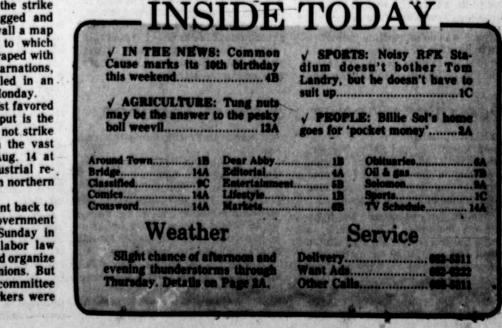

Sweetwater man killed in I-20 wreck

BIG SPRING - A Sweetwater man died Tuesday night when his International truck-tractor semi-trailer ran off the road here about 11:45 p.m.

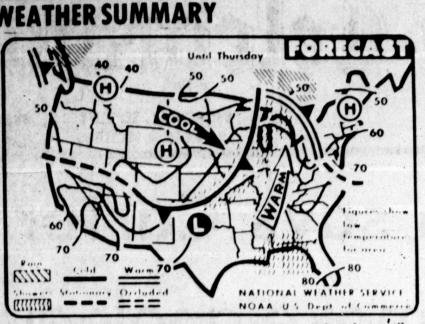

A spokesman for the Department of Public Safety said James William Phillips, 51, of Sweetwater was westbound on Interstate Highway 20 when he either fell asleep or had equipment trouble. His vehicle went out of control, ran through a bridge railing and into a dry creek bed about 15 feet below road level.

Phillips was pronounced dead at the scene. His body was taken to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home here.

The accident, which occurred with-in the city limits of Big Spring, was investigated by Trooper Dean Richardson.

Troup allowed to apply for visa extensions

HOUSTON (AP) - Members of a South African troupe embroiled in a heated contract dispute after refusing to perform its final show may apply today for visa changes or extensions, the Immigration and Naturalization Service said.

INS officials had said Tuesday the 23 cast members faced deportation because their visas expired Aug. 30.

"They may ask if they can stay here as students or continue dancing in this country under extended visas," said Robert Schultz, deputy director of the INS office in Houston. "We won't pick them up for deportation in the meantime. We know where they are.

The company's troubles began Sunday night after cast members refused to go on stage for the final performance of a six-week run at Houston's Tower Theater. Members claimed the production company had failed to provide airline tickets back to Johannesburg.

South Africans Tseko Tsotetsi, left, and Vusumuzi Ndlovu are currently in the U.S. illegally as their visas to perform with an African dance troup expired August 30. Due to the dispute over plane tickets home, the group did not put on its final performance in Houston Sunday night. (AP Laserphoto)

Four more executed in Iran

By The Associated Press

Iranian firing squads today executed four men convicted of conspiring to overthrow the Iranian revolutionary regime, Tehran Radio said.

The four were shot at the Ahvaz 92nd Armored Division garrison after sentencing by the Ahvaz Islamic Revolutionary Court on charges on "participation in the recent treacherous coup plot," the radio report said. Iranian officials said in July they had uncovered a plot backed by the United States, Israel and Iraq and arrested more than 500 people, mostly military men. Since then nearly 100 have been executed.

In other developments, Tehran Radio said Iran's leaders concluded two days of talks Tuesday with an agreement on "important state questions," including President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr's opposition to the appointment of some new Cabinet members.

PECOS, Texas (AP) - The mansion and guest house where one of Texas' most famous wheeler-dealers, Billie Sol Estes, once lived has been sold at auction for $61,000 - pocket money to the onetime confidant of power brokers.

Iran's new Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and Bani-Sadr have been at odds over the appointment of some hard-liners to the new cabinet, Iran's first since Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan and his government resigned shortly after the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4.

The appointment of a Cabinet Sunday was a hopeful sign to U.S. officials that the Majlis may have finished its organizational phase and could begin debating the fate of the hostages, in their 305th day in captivity today.

The revolutionary regime directed by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has said only the Majlis can decide the fate of the hostages.

The Tehran Radio dispatch suggested that Bani-Sadr and Rajai had reached an agreement favorable to the Islamic Republican Party which holds a majority in the Majlis and the allegience of most of the new Cabinet appointees.

A top Iranian government official said "a broad agreement had been reached, since everyone was following the Islamic path and working to consolidate the Islamic republican regime," Tehran radio reported, adding that the official said "outstanding questions of a secondary nature would be solved shortly, God willing.

City charged with 'strike-breaking'

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) - A plan to hire private companies to make emergency street repairs in Grand Rapids is a "strike-breaking tactic," according to the leader of 850 workers on strike for the 26th day today.

And Edwin Muste, president of Local 1061 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said city officials' plans for hiring private companies to complete repairs halted by the strike would hamper a settlement. When the strike began Aug. 9, city crews had removed curbs from a portion of Alpine Avenue, one of the major thoroughfares in Michigan's second-largest city. With the curbs out, a gully formed along the side of the road, washing out lawns and blocking some driveways. according to city engineer John Hornbach. "It's kind of a dangerous situation over there," Hornbach said, adding the city could be held liable if a car accidentally drove into the gully. The engineer said the city would use emergency bid procedures to finish that project and "possibly a few others.

ple - some of them sympathetic members of other unions - showed up for a rally outside the building where city commissioners were meeting for their regular session.

Instead of holding the rally, Muste led crowd into the building. They carried signs with slogans like "Po-land Can Settle, Why Not G.R.?"

A city spokesman said Grand Rapids officials expected the crowd, but added that the commission did not plan to discuss the strike. Picketing, which had stopped during the Labor Day weekend, resumed Tuesday at several locations. There were no reported incidents at construction sites of the city's new convention center or sewer plant, both of which have been the scene of policestriker confrontations. No new negotiations are planned. The union is demanding double the 10 percent wage-and-benefits package the city is offering.

Dock worker is killed by terrorists in Spain

BILBAO, Spain (AP) - Terrorist gunmen shot and killed a dock worker today, raising to 80 the number of persons killed so far this year in a wave of political violence sweeping Spain.

Police quoted witnesses as saying Antonio Fernandez Guzman, 35, was shot in the back as he walked to work in the northern town of Santurce.

There was no immediate indication of a motive for the slaying, the fifth in the past seven days, but investigators said the bullets used to kill Guzman were of a type favored by Basque separatist guerrillas.

Today's shooting came amid preparations for the burial in Barcelona of assassinated Brig. Gen. Enrique Briz. The general was killed Tuesday in Catalan province by three gunmen, believed to be members of the antigovernment Maoist GRAPO guerrilla organization. The general's driver and a bodyguard were seriously wounded in the attack.

Guerrillas, Moslems

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Palestinian guerrillas and Shiite Moslem militiamen battled for a third straight day today in the southern Lebanese town of Ghaziyeh. Police reported four persons killed and 19 wounded.

A police spokesman said the fighting was touched off Monday by a traffic quarrel between a Palestinian patrol and a militiamen manning a Shiite checkpoint in Ghaziyeh, 30 miles south of Beirut.

> commands in Beirut, the spokesman said. Today's casualties brought the death toll to six. The pace of Shiite-Palestinian clashes in Lebanon appears to be quickening. Shiites resent the Palestinian presence in southern Lebanon because they believe it invites Israeli attacks, diplomatic sources say. An estimated 120,000 Shiites, who make up Lebanon's largest single sect, have abandoned their southern Lebanese homes in the last two years because of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

Service appraised it at $57,500.

When Estes, 55, now an inmate in the federal prison at Big Spring, built the home after moving here in 1951, it was the largest and finest in town

The 1½-acre estate has since been damaged by vandals, scorched by fire and ravaged by years of neglect. Estes moved to Abilene in 1963 after his empire collapsed in a flurry of federal fraud indictments.

The home was bought Tuesday by a privately sponsored home for such troubled women as battered and deserted wives and unwed mothers. The home has occupied the property for the past three years.

"It would take another $40,000 to $50,000 to repair it to anywhere close to what it was," said a Pecos building contractor who asked that his name not be used. "I wouldn't have bid more than $35,000 for it. They were lucky to sell it for what they did."

Estes was first convicted of fraud in 1963 in connection with a multimillion-dollar scheme involving mortgages on non-existent fertilizer tanks. He served a prison term and was paroled, but the parole was revoked and Estes is now in prison after convictions on fraud and concealing his assets from the Internal Revenue Service.

There's little left in the rambling eight-bedroom, six-bath tri-level home to remind folks in this West Texas town of days gone by.

The tennis courts, where weeds now grow through cracks in the concrete, serve as a playground for children of the residents. The backyard swimming pool has been filled with dirt and turned into a vegetable garden.

In Abilene, Estes' wife, Patsy, said she was pleased with the outcome of Tuesday's sale.

"I'm glad. I'd rather see the house used by those girls than anything else," she said, expessing surprise that it sold for only $61,000. But "I knew it was run down. I went through it a few months ago and it looks pretty sick.

However, the women living there and backers of the home cheered when their bid went unchallenged as a crowd of about 75 spectators stood on the steps of the Reeves County Courthouse.

"Praise the Lord," the women shouted. Some of them wept.

"It's our home," said Doylene Norman, one of the temporary residents. "It's our family home.

Toxic gas may be blame in deaths of two workers

NATIONAL CITY, Calif. (AP) -Argon gas used in welding may have been to blame in the deaths of two workers who apparently inhaled toxic fumes at the West Coast's largest shipyard, says an official of the National Steel and Shipbuilding Co.

Six other workers were forced to seek medical treatment in the incident Tuesday, according to authorities. The accident occured as the victims, all machinists, were working in the hull of the destroyer tender USS

The source of the fumes was under investigation, according to the Fire Department.

NASSCO senior vice president Sam Timmons said escaping argon gas, used in helio-arc welding and in testing pumping systems, was the "most likely explanation" for the deaths and injuries.

Fire official Bill Pitts described argon as a heavy inert gas that tends to replace oxygen in a closed area. It is not easily detected by smell and can overcome a victim "quite quickhe said.

Three men and a woman were hospitalized in "fairly stable to satisfac-tory" condition at Mercy Gospital, according to a spokeswoman. Another was treated at Community Hospital and released.

Two other people were treated at the shipyard.

The incident came less than a month after launching ceremonies for the Cape Cod, when members of Iron Workers Local 627 staged a protest against the firings of a union activist and what they contended were unsafe working conditions.

The shipyard was the site of a fourday wildcat strike by iron workers four weeks ago after 17 workers were fired following the demonstration at the launching.

Authorities said Michael James Beebe, 23, and Kenneth Robert King, 24, both of San Diego, had been dead for 11/2 hours before their bodies were found Tuesday night. Co-workers began a search when the two men failed to come out of the ship at the end of their shift.

The woman worker collapsed after discovering the two bodies deep inside the ship's hold. Two other workers who went to her aid also were overcome

County police stage sick-out

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) - Although the Allen County council has raised its salary offer to county policemen, their union president said the police sick-out would continue today.

"We're staying out tomorrow (Wednesday). We are sick," Dan Bollinger, president of the Allen County Police Officers Association, said Tuesday night.

The 110-member group voted Monday to stage a sick-out after the council offered a 5.5 percent wage increase for next year

The council agreed Tuesday to give all county employees, including the 122 policemen, a 7 percent salary hike for 1981.

But Bollinger said police were seeking a 9 percent raise.

County police now receive an average base salary of $14,766.

The association also wants the council to approve some of the five additional officers requested by Sheriff Charles Meeks. The council agreed last week to add 11 members to the sheriff's department, but Meeks was seeking five more appointments.

Meeks said that 27 of the first shift's 34 employees failed to report on Tuesday

State police and Fort Wayne city police were standing by, but the sheriff said he had not needed any help.

City officials say that even a 10 percent increase will cause some layoffs of municipal workers.

Few services in the city of 200,000 residents have been affected, since the strike does not include police, firefighters or bus drivers. Supervisors are operating water and sewer departments and driving garbage trucks.

vacation homes near this luxury resort as it swept across 28,250 acres, officials said

The fire atop Mount San Jacinto was 50 percent controlled Tuesday and full containment was predicted for Thursday if favorable wind conditions hold.

Last week, 45 mph gusts had fanned the flames, but by Tuesday a breeze of 10 mph to 20 mph was blowing the fire "back on itself," said Capt. Stan. Wyman of the California Department of Forestry.

The blaze reportedly was started Aug. 26 by boys playing with matches. Six summer homes in Andreas Canyon south of here have been destroyed, at an estimated loss of $250,-

The fire has not directly threatened Palm Springs, but it has destroyed valuable timber and watershed that prevent flooding during the rainy sea-

Quakers need help sponsoring second Cambodian family

The Midland Friends Meeting (Quakers) is sponsoring a second Cambodian family, but is needing some assistance, according to a spokesman.

The new family, which is scheduled to arrive in Midland in the near future, will consist of Yeng Lim Tear; his wife, Hieng Ny; and their chil-dren, Bouay, 6, and Kaug, 2. Housing has been arranged and clothing and household effects have been gathered.

However, still needed are a refrigerator, a double bed, two single beds, a dinette set, a 30-inch apartment-size gas stove and blankets.

Anyone who would like to help may telephone Allen F. Smith, 683-8561, or John D. Savage, 682-9355.

In August 1979, the local Quakers sponsored the first family to be resettled in Midland under the auspices of the Church World Services program for Far East refugees. There were six members in that family when they arrived. But the number increased to seven on Monday with the arrival of Eva Ia at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Linowitz takes his proposals to Cairo

JERUSALEM (AP) - U.S. Ambassador Sol Linowitz flew to Cairo today with proposals he said should "improve the atmosphere" between Israel and Egypt.

But Prime Minister Menachem Begin ruled out any relaxation of Israel's hold on East Jerusalem and said he would accept President Anwar Sadat's proposal for another summit meeting with President Carter only after Egypt resumes negotiations with Israel on Palestinian autonomy.

Linowitz, Carter's special envoy for the Middle East, expressed hope that his meetings Monday and Tuesday with Begin produced some progress toward a resumption of the stalled autonomy talks. He said they "agreed certain things will be done to improve the atmosphere" and he was taking "some suggestions" to Cairo.

Begin, without providing details, told reporters they "agreed on a certain document" which Linowitz would deliver to Sadat, "and we worked on another document which I believe can be acceptable to all partners.

But he again rejected any Israeli concessions on East Jerusalem, the predominantly Arab sector which Israel annexed after taking it from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

"We are not obliged to make concessions and we did not make them," said Begin.

Sadat broke off the deadlocked autonomy talks after the Israeli Parliament adopted a law in late July formally declaring all of Jerusalem the eternal, indivisible capital of the Jewish state. Sadat then suggested that he, Begin and Carter meet after the U.S. presidential elections to get the talks going again.

"We agree to both resumption of the autonomy talks and consultation with President Carter about the possibility and place of summit talks," said Begin. "Any time, we don't object. But first of all we must resume our talks."

Linowitz also was cool to the summit proposal. He said Carter was prepared to meet with Begin and Sadat any time he believed it would be helpful, but "a summit without adequate preparation, without groundwork to assure maximum prospects for success, would not be a well-advised move.

In Cairo, Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly predicted failure for Linowitz's mission unless Israel repealed the Jerusalem law. He told the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram Israel must assure Egypt that the future of East Jerusalem can be negotiated within the framework of the Camp David accords The goal of the negotiations is a plan for self-rule for the 1.2 million Palestinians living on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, which Israel captured in the 1967 war along with East Jerusalem. But Israel rejects the Arab contention that East Jerusalem is part of the West Bank, saying that its annexation reunited Israel's ancient capital and it is going to stay that way. Meanwhile, two of Israel's Arab foes, Syria and Libya, made plans for talks to carry out Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy's proposal that they merge their two countries to strengthen Syria as the 'last Arab fortress against Israel." But some foreign diplomats in Damascus and Beirut expressed skepticism.

Fire danger continues in Texas forests

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) - East Texas could join north central Texas in an extreme fire alert if no rain falls by the end of the week, a Texas Forest Service spokesman says.

"The fire danger is high — at the very least — and may go to extreme Thursday or Friday," said Lou

As long as the weather forecast remains "hot and dry, and no change," a ban on outdoor burning will remain in effect, he added.

He said 23 fires scorched 154 acres in 52 counties over the Labor Day weekend - an "extremely low" number. Sloat attributed the decrease to the 75 anticipated campers who did not appear during the three-day holiday.

Lightning started seven fires Monday in Trinity County, he said, and 25 percent to 30 percent of the weekend fires were caused by lightning. Sloat said lightning normally starts from 15 percent to 20 percent of the fires.

The worst fire of the weekend was in Wichita County, where a blaze believed started by arsonists blackened 8,000 acres before it was contained.

"It (the fire) jumped a highway and burned all that land" in less than three hours, Sloat said. Ranchers in the Wichita County area have posted a $1,000 reward for the conviction of anyone caught setting fires, he added.

About 75 persons and 11 volunteer fire companies battled the blaze, which was finally brought under control when a firebreak was plowed by bulldozers.

Cancer strikes Canadian runner for second time

NEW WESTMINSTER, British Columbia (AP) Terry Fox cut short his anti-cancer run across Canada after doctors found that the cancer that had claimed his leg had spread to his lungs. But the 22-year-old, fighting back tears, says, "I'm not going to give up my fight.'

His Marathon of Hope, launched April 12 in St. John's, Newfoundland, made him something of a hero. He was mobbed by crowds along his route and collected cash and pledges of $1.5 million to $2 million to support cancer research.

But on Monday, as he reached the halfway point in the 4,100-mile trek to British Columbia, he checked into a Thunder Bay hospital. He had been suffering from nausea and shortness of breath for three days, and he thought he was coming down with a cold.

Doctors revealed Tuesday that cancer, which forced the amputation 3½ years ago of his right leg above the knee, had spread. His left lung had collapsed and was useless, they said. A chartered plane brought him home and he was taken to Royal Columbian Hospital in this Vancouver suburb to begin his second battle with cancer.

"All along I've been trying to set an attitude for people who have cancer," he said. "I'm not going to quit. I'm going to keep on fighting my best.

'We decided the only thing to do is come home to do more tests to figure out the best treatment," said Fox, as he gripped his mother's hand from his hospital bed.

"I'm happy with what I did. I tried my hardest. I did my very best. If there's any way I can finish it off next year or the year after, I'll be there," he said. "I can't do any more right now. I fainted this Silver-lining clouds?

A couple of clouds on the horizon potentially have silver linings for the ailing domestic automobile industry. One of them surely will help.

First is the notification from the Environmental Protection Agency that it has abandoned a new auto emissions control requirement that was due to take effect on 1982 models. Under that proposal cars would have been required to meet exhaust clean-up standards at all possible idlespeed settings of the carburetor instead of the currently required manufacturer's recommended idle-speed.

In making the announcement, EPA noted that it did not believe the miniscule savings in pollution emissions justified the additional cost. That ruling may save automakers as much as $350 million annually.

The other notification came via the distinguished Kiplinger Washington Letter, which keeps thousands of Americans abreast of national and international developments emanating from the nation's capital.

During a recent letter, it was speculated that Congress will order air bags installed on some new automobiles on a test-market basis to determine whether Americans are willing to pay the price for the devices.

It's being speculated that the bags may be options on certain 1982 model cars and that larger automobile manufacturers will offer them as options on at least one 1983 model.

Another bit of speculation is that the government will order that all 1983 model-year automobiles be equipped with safety devices that work automatically either belts or bags.

That makes more sense. It seems that in this time of high inflation consumers should be given the option of whether they want some protective devices that increase the cost of an automobile.

Certainly mandating installation of air bags for all cars would be another of those counterproductive steps that would only push up the cost of American-made automobiles and make foreign imports even more attractive.

And eliminating the silly emissions requirement that the EPA itself admitted would only have been minimally beneficial was another step in the right direction.

Could it be that the federal government finally has decided to untie the hands of U.S. automakers so they can become competitive once again? We hope so.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's highlight in history: On Sept. 3, 1783, the Revolutionary War came to an official end with the signing of the Treaty of Paris between the United States and Great Britain.

On this date:

In 1916, after weeks of long and dreary battle, the Allies finally turned back the Germans at Verdun, France, during World War I.

In 1939, Britain and France declared war on Germany at the start of World War II.

In 1967, nearly 6 million South Vietnamese went to the polls and elected Nguyen Van Thieu to a four-year

Five years ago, a teachers' strike in Chicago kept nearly one million students from returning to school. Last year, Cuba's President Fidel

My associate Gary Cohn has reviewed the voluminous videotapes, which were ordered sealed by a federal judge. In today's episode, a major element of the government's case is laid bare: Criden the unwitting middleman and Laurence Buser, a longtime, trusted associate of Murphy, discuss with Weinberg and FBI agent Anthony Amoroso - the "sheik's" men - a lucrative business deal that is to be financed by the Arab and assured of success by Murphy's influence in Congress.

Unfortunately for the government prosecutors, Murphy himself was not present at the meeting, held in a luxurious Washington townhouse. The government must prove that the deal was cooked up with Murphy's knowledge and approval, and that may not

If necessary, Buser promised, Murphy would see that legislation was passed to protect the company and ensure a fat return for everyone.

Weinberg interrupted the lengthy presentation and got down to the nitty-gritty: "Will he be a partner in this with us?"

Buser: "Well, he'll be a silent partner, I would imagine.

Criden chimed in, explaining that as head of the Merchant Marine Committee, Murphy "can't be anything else" but a silent partner. Weinberg: "The main thing is, do you think that Murphy can make the deal?" Buser: "Murphy can start the deal, I'll finish the deal.

Hollings' staff promised a picture and a statement from an old newsletter. But at the last minute, the staff couldn't get Hollings' OK.

So there was the two-page ad, showing 15 prominent citizens - and an Alaskan Dall Sheep in the spot reserved for Hollings.

The hush-hush treatment is ludicrous, however. Anyone - potential saboteurs or the merely curious can spot the waste shipments easily. The 30-ton containers are carried on open flatbed trucks, and are clearly

Subway scene spawned thoughts of a black fist of hate

WASHINGTON - When I was in New York for the Democratic convention, on two occasions I saw some thing happen in the subway which angered and disturbed me. It was the sight of black youths running to the head of the line at the token booth, pushing the first customer out of the way, buying tokens, darting off, and laughing at those passive people still waiting in line.

Each time, those young bullies had intimidated a dozen urban souls. jaded, perhaps, to such unpleasantries in New York City. Anyone who has lived or spent a fair amount of time there has seen boorish, maybe even violent, behavior. It's a big city with all kinds of people

But the incident in the subway seemed so outrageous that I asked the person in line ahead of me why no-body did anything about it. He casually replied: "Do you want a hole in your head, or your throat cut?"

I subsequently learned that these line-eusting toughs were common in the subways. Token clerks were indifferent to complaints about them. friends told me, and accepted this rude show of force as part of city life. I wondered what satisfaction these young blacks could get from flaunting their muscle this way. Was it a perverse form of racism - black con-tempt for whites?

This disgusting experience came back-to-back with one in Atlanta which was quite the opposite. I was there for the convention of the Tuskegee airmen, the black lots of World War II. To learn about them is to feel pretty good about the human spirit.

There were 992 black pilots trained in World War II, and they had to tend, with a military which, at best, didn't want to believe that blacks could ever be pilots, and, at worst, was outright racist. There were dismal predictions of failure for them and race riots near any base where they were to be trained.

Moreover, the black cadets at Tuskegee were not exactly benefited with the best equipment, and even after winning their wings, were kept in the states for months before being shipped overseas. Once in combat, they performed well enough - despite bad press back home - to win a Presidential Unit citation and the grudging gratitude of white crewmen of bombers that black pilots protected on missions. Of the 450 Tuskegee pilots sent overseas, 66 were killed in action

After being segregated and humiliated and still doing their duty, the black airmen experienced the ultimate insult when they came back to the states after combat experience: being rejected at officer clubs because of their race. The army, in cowardly fashion, tried to avoid this confrontation by designating the black pilots who had returned from overseas as "trainees," since some were to be retrained as bomber pilots.

This was too much for the most patient to swallow and they continued to enter officer clubs until mass arrests were made, and court martials were threatened. The problem was partially resolved by the end of the war, but the black airmen's insistence that they be treated as equals probably made President Truman order the desegregation of the armed forces a little sooner than he had planned. The Tuskegee airmen are a remarkable group. As young black cadets they hoped to prove themselves and to also show that they were patriotic Americans who wanted the opportunity to fight in the war. It's tough enough for any person - white or black - to go through flight training, but the Tuskegee airmen had to also contend with the deeply biased notion that blacks cannot fly planes. These blacks did. Some, like the late Daniel "Chappie" James, the first black to become a four-star general, went on to distinguished military careers. Ten blacks became Air Force generals. There are now three black astronauts, and scores of black airline pilots. One, J. E. Harrison of Denver, is a check pilot for United Airlines

Moreover, most Tuskegee airmen did well in life. Some are vice presidents of major corporations. Several are top officials at the Federal Aviation Agency. Some, like Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, did well in politics. One, William T. Coleman, never won his pilot's wings, but he became President Ford's Secretary of Transportation

These men did not come from advantaged backgrounds. But they had desire and determination, and the obstacles they faced were far greater than any black youth face today.

It probably isn't quite right to compare the Tuskegee airmen with those black youth who bullied people in the subway. The black airmen had motivation to improve themselves, and the intelligence and guts to persevere. The black bullies somehow were never blessed with that treasure motivation - and thus were shortchanged. Perhaps they were subjected to an excess of hurt and cynicism when they were younger. It is possible they also heard too many hateful remarks about whites, and thus are

No one understood this problem better than "Chappie" James. He knew how bad it once was for blacks in America, and how much better it is now. He liked to tell skeptical audiences of black youth: "Reach out if a white hand is trying to help. It can't, if the black fist is rolled up in a ball of hate. Don't make a career of being black and not knowing what real suffering is."

afflicted with anger and hostility.

Those black Tuskegee cadets faced a real challenge 38 years ago. Nowadays, with all manner of leaders claiming to speak for blacks, there is an ever greater challenge: Lift the sights of "disadvantaged" black youth, give them some pride and sense of purpose, and don't blame all their bad behavior on unfortunate environment.

The hottest subject in books today is "the coming doom." You could make a fortune with a book called - "Jogging Through the Crash."

The big sellers have titles like -"Making the Right Investments When the Depression Hits a Week From Tuesday." Or, "How to Ride Out the End of the World."

Watch for "How to Be on Easy Street When Your Neighbors Are Eating Gruel."

How about a book for poor people for whom the crash would be an improvement? Such as - "What to Do if David Rockefeller Comes to the Back Door Looking for Scraps."

MENTAL HEALTH UPDATE Mental distress, alcohol and drug abuse creating new social problems

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

The staff of the Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health and Mental Retardation (MHMR) will be writing "Mental Health Update" in the coming weeks. The Update is designed to increase knowledge and awareness of mental health problems, alcohol abuse problem, as well as the professional treatment services that are available in our area.

The field of mental health, alcoholism and drug abuse has gone through a period of rapid change during the past 25 years. Much research is being conducted into the causes and treatment of these problems. New methods of treatment have come on the scene, and other methods have been displaced. The very definition of these problems has been changed to include a wide range of human distress rather than only the severe forms of these problems we traditionally think of as mental illness. The Update will be talking about these issues in the coming weeks, as well as responding to questions and comments from our readers.

The National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) estimates that as many as 20 percent of the general population is affected in some way by a problem of mental distress, alcohol abuse, or drug abuse. In Midland, this would mean that approximately 14,-000 people are touched by one or more of these problems, either personally or by virtue of a relative or close friend being affected.

In spite of the fact that these problems affect so many, there remains a great deal of mystery and a number of unfounded ideas about the nature of mental and emotional difficulties and what can is being done to treat them.

The words "mental," "mental health," "mental illness," "alcoholism" and "drug abuse" often bring to mind mistaken ideas of dangerousness, violence, skid rows and hopelessness. The Update hopes to be able to furnish our readers with the factual information which is currently available about these problems and their treatment

Our next article will discuss what the term "mental health problem" includes. Future columns will talk about specific kinds of mental health problems, their treatment and local resources which provide professional help.

Comments or questions from our readers are encouraged. Although the Update cannot give personal replies or specific advice, we will use as many questions and comments as possible in future columns. Please address them to:

Abbie Hoffman may surrender, sources say

NEW YORK (AP) - Abbie Hoffman, a founder of the Yippies and a fugitive for six years, may give himself up this week, sources say - and go on national television shortly thereafter.

Sources involved in the negotiations for Hoffman's surrender, however, said Hoffman has discussed plans twice before to come out of hiding but each time changed his mind.

'Mafia boss,' nephew to appeal

Abble Hoffman

derground for 10 years following an explosion in an alleged Greenwich

Village "bomb factory" operated by the Weatherman underground group.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Reputed Mafia boss 14-week trial without a jury Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno Sr. and his nephew will appeal their convictions on charges of plotting to interfere with a grand jury investigation of his sons and an alleged money-laundering scheme, lawyers say.

It was the first felony conviction for Bonanno, who allegedly rose from being a gun-runner for Al Capone to boss of all Mafia bosses Bonanno had been arrested many times, including once in the 1930s when he was accused, but not convicted, of transporting guns for Capone. But he was convicted only once, for violating wage laws in 1945, and was fined $450.

Bonanno and Jack DiFilippi were found guilty of conspiracy by U.S. District Judge William Ingram on Tuesday. The record was "replete with the language of agreement between defendants to influence witnesses," ruled Ingram, who heard the

Two weeks needed with casino debris

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) - A bomb that went off in Harvey's Resort Hotel-Casino left so much debris it may take agents more than two weeks to sift it for clues, the FBI says.

'There's so much garbage you really can't see what the damage is," said a construction worker taking part in the cleanup.

Crumpled metal, shattered glass and pulverized plaster littered the area as gamblers shoved their money into slot machines in a reopened section of the casino

FBI agents said they would start examining fragmented rubble today.

Officials said Tuesday they were continuing to develop leads to the identity of the people who posed as computer technicians to plant a the bomb in the 11-story hotel last week. Extortionists demanded $3 million for information on how to disarm the device and officials made an unsuccessful attempt to deliver the money

The bomb went off Wednesday, more than a day after its discovery, as experts attempted to disarm it. The blast caused more than $3 million damage but no one was hurt. Hotel officials say it will be several months before the entire hotel-casino is reopened.

FBI agents said they were still unsure of the number of people involved in the scheme. Agent Daniel Camillo said there were no firm suspects.

One person killed in plane crash

CHICAGO (AP) - A twin-engine cargo plane crashed on Chicago's southwest side early today. hitting two homes and killing one person, police reported.

The propellor-driven plane set the two bungalows on fire, police said, and firefighters extinguished the flames

One body was removed from the wreckage, said patrolman Donald White.

There were no reports of other deaths or injuries. The plane was believed to have been taking off from Midway Airport when it crashed several miles southwest of downtown Chicago, White said.

It was not immediately known how many people were on board the plane.

They were accused of hampering the inquiry by telling witnesses how to testify and plotting to hide records from a federal grand jury.

A sentencing date has not been set for the pair. The two face possible fines of $10,000 and up to five years in jail, and DiFilippi could receive an additional 15 years and $30,000 in fines on three perjury convictions in the case.

DiFilippi's lawyer Frank Ubhaus said the appeal would be based on "fairly substantial" claims of constitutional violations of the defendants' rights during pretrial motions.

A court-authorized wiretap had been granted in the case although a narcotics agent said Bonanno's telephone had been illegally bugged in 1977, Ubhaus said

"We're all very disappointed with the result," said Alfred Donau, a lawyer for the 75-year-old Bonanno. "I certainly would hope (the judge) would consider probation," Donau said, citing Bonanno's health problems. Lawyers said Bonanno suffered a series of heart attacks in recent years. He watched much of the trial on closed-circuit television

Bonanno and DiFilippi, 54, a San Jose commodities broker, were indicted in 1979 by a federal grand jury investigating the Santa Clara County businesses of Bonanno's sons, Salvatore "Bill" Bonanno and Joseph Bonanno Jr., in connection with an alleged scheme to launder money

Evidence at the trial in San Jose included tape-recorded telephone conversations and notes FBI agents said they obtained by piecing together shredded paper found in Bonanno's trash Bonanno has been portrayed by authorities as a former chief of one of five Mafia families operating in New York City before a series of gang wars in the 1960s called the "Banana Wars." The Bonanno family was the subject of Gay Talese's book, "Honor Thy Father," which focused on Salvatore Bonanno.

A FANTASY, A MUSICAL A PLACE WHERE DREAMS COME TRUE

OLIVIA NEWTON JOHN PG

By LORI McVEY Laredo Times. Tempo Editor

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) - Surrounded by pieces of his half-finished fantasies and the work that has become his dream, Rafael Costilla passes his days in the old brothel that is his home and his workshop.

Hallways in the huge house lead to hidden nooks and crannies crammed with more of Costilla's handcarved furniture, sculptures, metal figures, ceramics and glass doodads.

Marking the entrance to his furniture building business is an intricate glass replica of the Arche de Triomphe. Three-dimensional paintings of women saints grace the whitewashed walls where ladies of the evening once leaned to entice their customers.

Secret courtyards lie throughout the building, some accessible only through the windows of tiny bedrooms.

Rafael and his brother, Manuel, rented the building nine years ago when it was the Miranda - a popular brothel and bar a mere skip across the Rio Grande from Laredo, Texas

The former occupants had been moved to La Zona de Tolerencia, the legal prostitution district known as Boys' Town.

WHEN THE COSTILLAS took over the Miranda, all that existed was a bar, the main courtyard and tiny rooms above the first story.

"We changed all that," Rafael said with a sweep of his hand. "We took out the little rooms. We painted. We expanded.'

Slowly, the business, Raphael de Mexico, began to grow within the sprawling house. And Costilla's dreams began to take shape. "The wood in that credenza is 79 years old," he said, pointing to a carved piece in his front show-"It bought it in a house in San Antonio. We use room. the old wood and rework it to make pieces that look like antiques."

In an un-airconditioned shop next to the showroom, six woodworkers stand stripped to the waist, carving and polishing and rubbing their handiwork. Behind them, unfinished chairs are stacked to the ceiling "WE MAKE A SAMPLE here," Costilla said.

"Then we take the sample to our workers in Guadalajara. We cannot get the workmen to come up here. They don't like the weather. in maintenance and reof Costilla's true obsession — a windmill. It sits atop a small adobe building surrounded by bushes and potted plants.

One day, Costilla muses, the windmill will have blades that turn constantly and customers will sit below it in his bar.

"It will be a never-ending windmill," he said, looking toward the staircase that curves up to the half-finished structure. "We have a 6-meter well that has three meters of water in it there from an underground river. When we get the windmill done, water will power the windmill rather than wind. The blades will always turn and we will have the bar ... below.

On a slow afternoon, waves of heat shimmer above the partial structure. Sitting on a wrought-iron chair, Costilla leans on a cool marble table, glancing at the tiny windmill painted on his watch, then at the incomplete fantasy nearby.

We will get it done when things are good," he said. "Right now, we have to buy our lumber and make our furniture better here before we can do anything else.'

Double your savings growth with your own Survival Kit.

State and federal income taxes can take as much as 70% of the interest a person's savings earn. A single person who earns $25,000 taxable income pays as much as 40% of his savings interest in federal taxes alone. This makes planning your financial future, or retirement, almost impossible.

The Survival Kit defers state and federal income tax on the interest your savings earn. Your savings grow dramatically faster, because the interest is left to compound and earn interest on itself

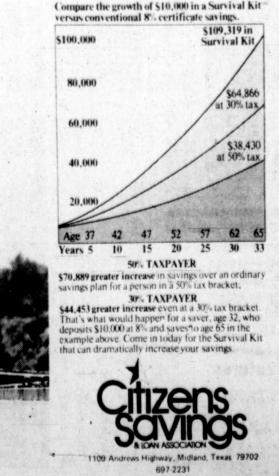

In effect, the Survival Kit lets you use what otherwise would be tax dollars. to build your financial future, or provide for your retirement.

The Survival Kit can offer you this lifesaving advantage in growth because it is a group annuity plan underwritten by American Life and Casualty Insurance Company. But it is nothing like the traditional annuity plan which holds funds at a low, fixed rate of return.

Instead, the Survival Kit combines the advantages of a modern, high-return certificate savings account with the advantages made possible by this group annuity plan. In addition to the allimportant deferral of taxes, you gain surprising withdrawal privileges, a variety of estate-planning benefits, and the option of choosing between lifetime retirement income payments or any other form of withdrawal that meets your needs. Workers kept off wild Gulf operation

PORT O'CONNOR, Texas (AP) -Workers held off boarding the twisted wreckage of an offshore runaway gas well for fear the natural plug that choked of the flow of gas could fail and trigger another fiery eruption.

Three workers are still missing following the early Saturday morning explosion that killed two, injured seven and turned the rig, located 18 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico, into an inferno.

For more than 24 hours flames spouted as high as 100 feet into the air, hindering search efforts with the intense heat. The blaze was extinguished Sunday when the well bore collapsed - "bridged over" - shutting off the flow of natural gas.

Kent Young, a spokesman for Tulsa-based Cities Service Co., said Sunday that the "bridging" was holding.

'Every once in a while there's a little burp of bubbling water, every two hours or so. But there's no gas coming from the well," said Young. However, he said efforts to inspect the burned rig "Ocean King" and search for the missing crewmen would be delayed by the threat of another blowout.

"The potential is there," he said. "That's why we're not having anybody go aboard the 'Ocean King' until several days have passed. There's no sign of the missing men." Young said a water-pumping barge is standing by near the well site "in case it should blow out and catch fire again.

To eliminate the possibility of another runaway, Young said, Cities Service is planning to drill a relief well about 2,000 feet northeast of the current well site.

Young said it could take 60 to 75 days to complete the slant well that will intersect and plug the existing well hole to relieve the gas pressure
