Puerto Rican voters

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - President Carter narrowly defeated Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in a Democratic presidential primary touted as a vote of confidence for Puerto Rican statehood

But charges of stuffed ballot boxes and the margin of only 5 percent between the candidates raised doubts that there was a clear winner

With almost all the vote counted in the Sunday primary, Carter had a 52 percent to 48 percent edge over the Massachusetts senator in the vote for delegate slates and also in the separate "beauty contest" - a non-bind-

That gave Carter 21 delegates to Kennedy's 20 and a 304 165 overall lead in the national delegate count. The 152 delegates at stake on Tuesday in Illinois is the most in any single primary so far It takes 1,666 to win the Democratic nomination

Kennedy, campaigning in Chicago, attempted to discount another loss calling the slim Puerto Rico defeat 'very encouraging," adding "I think our campaign is on the move and we wait for the returns from Illinois.

Former Puerto Rican Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon, who campaigned hard for Kennedy, said the Carter campaign had been guilty of voting fraud that would eliminate that final margin of about 35,000 votes.

Hernandez Colon pledged to contest the outcome, charging that the Carter campaign had stuffed ballot boxes, gave voters already completed ballots and denied Kennedy poll watchers access to voting places Democratic party. I have not the slightest doubt that we ling vote and 251 on the delegate voting. He won no shall prevail," the former governor said.

But Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo, who stumped the island from end to end for Carter and urged Puerto Ricans to vote as a first step toward gaining statehood, applauded the outcome.

Although their proxies made statenood an issue, neither Kennedy nor Carter has taken a stand on Puerto Rico's future status.

The turnout of more than 830,000 voters on the island commonwealth was "a loud and clear voice saying we want to participate in the electoral process of the nation a loud and clear voice for statehood," Romero

Less than half the island's 1.9 million registered voters took part compared with 86 percent participation in the last island-wide voting in 1976.

Puerto Rico is a Caribbean island with a population of 3.3 million. Its residents are U.S. citizens who participate in the selection of party candidates, but do not have a vote for president in the November election. As a U.S. commonwealth, it is largely self-governing. Residents are exempt from federal income taxes.

In the voting for slates of delegates which translate to convention delegates, with 98 percent reporting, Carter had 439,374 or 52 percent and Kennedy 403,888 or 48

In the non-binding or "beauty contest" popular vote, with 99 percent of the precincts counted, Carter had 445,-656 or 52 percent; Kennedy 416,103 or 48 percent.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who waged only If there is justice in the processes of the national a nominal campaign here, got 1,412 votes in the non-bind-

Carter, Reagan hear good news as Illinois primary approaches

Carter and Ronald Reagan as they look for another big boost toward their party presidential nominations in the Illinois primary on Tuesday

A poll published today by the Chicago Tribune showed Carter with a large lead over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, while Reagan was running in a virtual dead heat with Rep. John Anderson of Illinois.

Carter also got a push by winning the popular vote in Puerto Rico's presidential primary Sunday, gaining 21 of the island's 41 delegate votes at the Democratic National Convention.

And it appeared the president would pick up at least 64 delegate votes in victories over Kennedy in Democratic party caucuses over the weekend in Mississippi, South

The latest Illinois poll gave Reagan 36 percent, Anderson 34 percent and George Bush 12 percent among people who said they intended to vote in the Republican presidential primary. A week ago, Anderson led with 33 percent to 31 for Reagan and 20 for Bush.

However, the Tribune poll carries an error factor of plus or minus 5 percent, meaning that Reaman's and Anderson's positions could be reversed or Reagan could be farther ahead

On the Democratic side, Carter had 56 percent and Kennedy 23 percent. Carter's percentage dropped from 61 a week ago while Kennedy's support was unchanged.

With the exception of Carter, who is continuing off the campaign trail, the major candidates were in Illinois on the final day before this first test with the voters of a large

Reagan was addressing the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, while Kennedy planned to March in Chicago's St. Patrick's Day parade. Bush and Anderson were to visit several cities across the state.

With 98 percent of Puerto Rico's precincts reporting, Carter had 52 percent of the vote to 48 percent for

Based on preliminary percentages from caucuses Saturday, Carter is expected to gain 30 of Mississippi's 32 Democratic convention delegates and 27 of South Caro-

Carter's victory in the Wyoming caucuses should give him 13 of the state's 18 delegates and Kennedy the other five. But since Wyoming actually will have only 11 convention votes -- as opposed to delegates -- this means something like 7.9 votes for Carter and 3.1 for Kennedy. While Reagan has opened a sizeable lead over the Republican field as a result of two primary victories in two New England and four in southern states, he is locked in a battle in Illinois with Anderson

Anderson, whose views are in snarp contrast to other GOP candidates, has attracted support from independent and Democratic voters crossing over to vote in Republican primaries. But Anderson's reluctance to declare he would support any GOP nominee, including Reagan, has drawn fire for alleged disloyalty.

Reagan told a news conference Sunday he thought Anderson ought to ask himself if he might be more comfortable as a Democrat. Reagan, himself a former Democrat, said he wasn't going to "read anyone" out of the party but noted:

"An individual must take a look and say, 'Am I more sympathetic to the views enunciated by the people in the other party.

Anderson responded by saying at one campaign stop, "I am proud to be a Republican.

Reagan also got good news over the weekend when former President Gerald R. Ford announced he would not enter the presidential race. Ford had said he was considering running because he feared Reagan was too conservative to win the general election in November. Ford's decision must have been a "very hard" one, Reagan said, adding, "He wanted to get in, I know

The California governor also hinted that he expects soon to have the support of John B. Connally, who dropped out of the race for the nomination after losing to Reagan in

At an appearance in Schaumburg, a questioner asked Reagan if he expected to have Connally's help in the Texas primary. "I believe 'Big John' is going to cooperate quite warmly," Reagan replied.

Reagan also won Alaska's GOP caususes over the weekend, gaining 166 of the 285 delegates to a state convention to 14 for Bush and 19 whose allegiance is not

Afghan rebels claiming victories

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Af ghan rebels today claimed to have inflicted considerable losses on Afghan government troops in fighting in three provinces

A statement by the Afghan National Liberation Front Issued in Islama bad, Pakistan, said the government forces and the Soviet troops helping them suffered 50 dead and an undisclosed number of wounded in a rebel attack on a military base at Barri in the eastern province of Paktia on the Pakitan border

The statement said the base was still under siege and claimed rebellosses in the fighting so far were two killed and nine seriously wounded.

W.Germany leads inflation battle

By CHARLES HANLEY Associated Press Writer

phase in its fight against inflation, here is a look at how a handful of other countries are grappling with the problem, including two nations Britain and Canada - with recent experience in wage and price con-

WEST GERMANY

Many economists regard this highly industrialized nation as a model of the anti-inflation war. The cost of living rose by only 4.1 percent last year, in contrast to 13.4 percent in the United States, and is currently running at 5.5 percent, against 18 percent in the United States.

Two major reasons that prices have risen as much as they have in West Germany are the increase in the cost of imported oil and a boost in the sales tax. That they have not risen higher is attributed to a great extent to the tight rein Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's government keeps on the growth of the money supply.

Interest rates have been raised, though they remain at only half the U.S. level. The government is determined to hold down the growth of the budget deficit, but it does not strive for a balanced budget, as President

Runaway inflation is an ever present reality in this South American giant. Consumer prices soared 77.3 percent in 1979, and at an annual clip of 62.4 percent in the first two months The price surges are a product of the economic growth of fast-developing Brazil and the burden of oil price hikes. Brazil imports 80 percent of its oil Government-controlled gasoline prices were jacked up 58 percent last November, for example, pulling overall inflation up by 4 percent.

The military government has tried a myriad of inflation-fighting tactics over the years. Currently it is trying to hold the growth of the money supply and cut its own spending and budget deficit. Recently it reached agreements with the biggest supermarket chains to freeze the prices of some essential products for up to four

Brazil has not had across-the-board wage and price controls, but the military men who lead the country can and do pressure unions and companies into restraint.

BRITAIN

The recent rise in consumer prices has paralleled U.S. inflation — 13.4 percent for 1979 and 18.4 percent currently. The 1979 inflation was spurred by such factors as richer wage settlements, rising oil prices and almost a doubling of the sales tax to 15 per-

The strategy of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government is to attack inflation at and the dependence on imported oil what it believes are the roots - too much money in circulation, too much pay for too little production, too much government spending.

CANADA The Canadians have had a more recent experience with wage-price controls, in 1975-78. At the outset the inflation rate stood at 10.6 percent, and the government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau predicted it would fall to 4 percent by 1978. Instead the 1977 rate was 9 percent and the government lifted the controls six months early. Economists said the program was a success in limiting wages but not in holding down prices. The rate remained steady at about 9 percent last year but is expected to rise over 10 percent this year.

Inflation is lower than in the United States in part because energy prices are kept low — a gallon of gasoline is still under a dollar.

Many economists say the key problem with the economy in resourcesrich Canada is that so much of its industry is owned by foreigners, primarily Americans. The flow of profits out of the country weakens the Canadian dollar, which in turn makes imports from the United States costlier.

YUGOSLAVIA

President Tito established a unique system of "market socialism" in his communist land - in effect a kind of capitalism without capitalists, complete with competition among worker-run enterprises and pricing according to market forces.

But it is not a capitalism without inflation. Last year consumer prices rose 24 percent, and currently they are rising at a 36 percent annual A severe imbalance in trade — too

Pensions, Social Security stay ahead of inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) - While many Americans watched their buying power dwindle in the 1970s, those receiving Social Security benefits and government pensions actually kept ahead of inflation.

A check by The Associated Press showed that increases in Social Security benefits totaled 140 percent and military and civil service pensions were raised an average 126 percent in the last decade. Injured man transferred

A 49-year-old Midland man was transferred to Odessa Medical Center Hospital Sunday after being injured in a motorcycle accident about 1:45 a.m. Sunday

Gene S. Holcomb of Route 1, Box 171-A1, was listed in stable condition this morning in Medical Center Hospital with head and internal injuries. His wife, Joyce Maye Holcomb, 50, was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital Sunday.

According to the Department of Public Safety, the Holcombs were on a motorcycle eastbound on Interstate 20, approximately five miles west of Stanton. A car driven by Jerry L. Slates of Terrell also was eastbound

A DPS spokesman said Slates' vehicle was in front of the motorcycle and attempted a U-turn. Holcomb "laid the motorcycle down" to avoid hitting the car. The two vehicles did not collide, according to the DPS.

The accident was investigated by Trooper Tim Baker.

Shah leaves hospital; Surgery delayed 'for weeks'

Dr. Michael DeBakey, the famed Texas surgeon and a key member of the shah's medical team, said Sunday the surgery would be delayed "for weeks." He said the deposed monarch "was no worse than he was in January" but "any man with lymphoma is severely ill.

The medical team of 15 Panamanian and five American doctors said that after extensive tests on the shah, they decided to put off any surgery until his condition was "optimal." This indicated they were waiting until he was stronger

The latest victim is a 2½-year-old boy who lived on the Fort Bliss Army reservation at El Paso, Texas, the national Center for Disease Control

The disease, a rare form of amebic meningoencephalitis, is caused by amoeba, organisms which are found in lakes, ponds, the air and soil The microbes are ubiquitous, occurring throughout the world, but the infections are exceedingly rare, said Dr. G. Alexander Carden, a medical

Carden said it has not been proven, but a brain biopsy indicates that the He said tests indicate that the 21/2-year-old boy is believed to have been killed by Acanthamoeba, listed as the cause of death for only 20 persons in 32

A more familiar kind of amoeba, known as Negleria, has killed more than 100 persons in the same period, he said.

The microbe which causes Negleria is generally found in lakes and ponds including many recreation areas, and is ingested into the system through

The history of the boy's illness is reported in the CDC's Morbidity and

The child first became ill in January 1979, while living at Fort Bliss. He died about nine months later at Children's Hospital at Pittsburgh.

"We do not know how he got the amoeba in his system, or even if it came from the Fort Bliss area," Carden said Friday in an interview. "We only know that that is where he lived when he became ill."

Both forms of the disease usually cause death, but unlike Negleria which can be fatal in 10 days, Acanthamoeba can drag on for months, Car-

Deng may yield post

PEKING (AP) — Deng Xiaoping, China's most powerful leader, may soon yield his post of senior vice premier to a protege 15 years his junior, a diplomatic source said today

But the 76-year-old Deng will hold on to his job as Deputy Chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, the wellspring of his power, the source

The informant mentioned Zhao Ziyang, former governor of Sichuan Province, as Deng's likely successor as vice premier.

Observers said the move appeared to be part of a plan to guarantee a smooth succession of power in Peking and avoid the brutal political infighting that followed the death of longtime Chinese leader Mao

It also would be in line with previous statements by Deng that older leaders should step aside and make room for younger men.

The mood in America

There seems to be an interest in American politics this year moreso than that present in past presidential races.

But why would record numbers of American voters participate in this year's primary elections?

To a degree, perhaps, the increase in interest in presidential politics can be attributed to the forces currently at play in the United States.

The American public is concerned. We all are worried with the direction this country is headed. We have a right to be upset.

Americans are frightened by an 18 percent inflation rate. We. watch, unhappily, as insidious inflation devours salaries and nips at life savings.

We've watched as the price of gold, silver and other precious metals has risen sharply, and as the value of the dollar has plummeted on world markets.

Skyrocketing interest rates, meanwhile, threaten to make the American dream of home ownership nothing more than a dream for many young families.

Something has to be done and Americans realize it. But the problem is more than an economic one, although worsening inflation appears to be the prime domestic threat currently ship and view us with respect. That loss of respect on the international level is frightening, sobering change that many voters believe must be reversed.

On the international scene we're confronted with the Soviet challenge in Afghanistan and the unpleasant reality that this nation may be unable to respond to the challenge forcefully because of the decade of the 1980s declining military strength.

But how do we do it? How do we contain and reduce the inflation rate? How do we rekindle the possibility of home ownership? How do we become strong again militarily in a short period of time? How do we regain the respect and admiration of the nations of the world?

Voters are going to the polls throughout this nation with those questions - and countless more - nagging at them.

According to editorial page col umnists, nationally circulated news magazines, opinion polls and other sources, many times the candidates for whom voters are casting their ballots adhere to philosophies of a strong military machine, domestic economic stability and fiscal conservatism.

It's refreshing that the American voter believes strongly enough in the power of the ballot to rely on it as a means to achieve the goal he seeks.

Americans don't want pretty faces that make bold promises, but fail to follow through with meaningful action. The voter in this nation is too sophisticated to be misled by false rhetoric

The United States is looking for leaders, ones with fresh new ideas and the intestinal fortitude necessary to lead this great nation in

CHARLEY REESE

Carter's boycott decision deserves support of all

Despite the delicious delight we shared watching the American hock ey team whip the Soviet Union's professionals, no one should regret for one second the decision to boycott the summer Olympics in Moscow

It's time to stare at the truth. Since the Soviets decided to use sports for propaganda purposes about 1956, the Olympic spirit has been dead. It was a victim of the KGB. The games are political and the Soviets intend to use the summer show as a gigantic propaganda blitz

The Soviet Union is a bandit state run by thugs. They murder and otherwise abuse their citizens with Nazilike ferocity; they invade and brutalize other nations; and they spread murder, terrorism and subversion around the world.

To borrow a phrase from the Su preme Court on another obscenity case, the Soviet government is utterly without redeeming social impor tance. It's ruling elite lie, kill and loot as nonchalantly as hogs eat corn.

But they want to drape their regime with legitimacy and they are hoping the summer games in Moscow will do just that. We should not be a party to this exercise in deception. In fact, we should never have agreed to go in the first place

We are all familiar with the fact the Soviet Union and its satellite states enter professional athletes, trained and subsidized by the state. But did ou know that the communists have also infiltrated the rules committee of the International Olympic Commit-

They shamelessly manipulate the IOC to suit their purposes. If the U.S. does well in swimming events, they lobby to cut back on swimming events. If they do well in gymnastics, they push to increase the number of

On top of that, they cheat. Hobie Billingsley, Indiana University diving coach and diving coach for the U.S. Olympic team in 1968 and 1972, gave the Indianapolis Star an interesting quote recently

"I just got back from Russia in September," he said. "I coached a U.S. diving team in a dual meet against the Russians. We got cheated from the time we arrived until the time we left. I've been there with teams several times before and the same thing happened. And the same thing will happen in the future.

The American people have been misled about the true nature of the Soviet Union by those politicians and businessmen interested in making deals with them. And by Soviet propaganda which is ceaseless, sophisticated and perversive.

years made one wrong decision after another. At last, he's made one correct decision (provided he doesn't back out at the last minute) so, for heaven's sake, let's support him. As for disappointing American athletes, that is the most outrageously absurd and disgusting excuse for participating anyone could imagine. Ham Jordan's night life being scrutinized

WASHINGTON - There's abundant evidence that Jimmy Carter's chief of staff, Hamilton Jordan, and other swingers on the White House staff have attended wild parties that hardly fit the high moral standards set by the Baptist Sunday School teacher in the oval office. Witnesses have placed the fun-loving Jordan at parties in such widespread places as New York City, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C. and Orlando, Fla. He has been accused of pinching girls, spitting liqueur at them and soliciting their favors. A special prosecutor, Arthur

Christy, has also been assigned to determine whether Jordan partook of drugs at any of these parties. Christy has asked both Jordan and his accusers to submit to lie detector tests. The prosecutor wants the lie tests administered before he starts presenting testimony to a grand jury later

Christy is reportedly focusing his efforts almost entirely on charges that Jordan snorted cocaine at the Studio 54 discotheque in New York City on June 27, 1978. The charges originated with attorneys for Steve Rubell and Ian Schrager, co-owners of the night spot.

Testimony by Rubell and Schrager has been suspect from the start, inasmuch as the accusations against Jordan were made after they had been indicted on income tax evasion charges. They have since pleaded guilty and are serving prison terms.

Their story was supported in part by Barry M. Landau, a New York public relations man, who swore that Jordan.asked him where he could get some cocaine at Studio 54 on the night

Landau also turned over a cryptic personal memo referring to the incident. The note says "Ham. 54 ... C. He told the prosecutor that the "C" was shorthand for cocaine and his staff have interro gated Landau on four separate occasions, totaling more than 20 hours. The grilling was often hostile. Christy had Landau draw a map of the Studio 54 premises and show where he and Jordan were standing at the time of the alleged conversation. Christy also took Landau to the discotheque to pinpont the exact location.

The prosecutor reminded Landau several times that the penalty for perjury is a stiff prison term and fine, and then asked whether he wanted to change his story. Christy's tactics convinced Landau that he, not Jordan, is the target of the investiga-

Sources close to the investigation have told my associate Gary Cohn that Landau, nevertheless, has stuck to his story.

Some sources say that Christy is not pursuing allegations that Jordan alsoused cocaine at a Beverely Hills party in October, 1977. The White House chief of staff has not been accused of specific drug use at the Washington and Orlando parties. He has vigorously denied using illegal drugs.

The White House is understandably alarmed at the potential for embarrassment from the grand jury investigation. In addition to Jordan, Carter's campaign director Tim Kraft and fund-raiser Evan Dobelle are expected to be called before the grand jury to tell what they know about the Studio 54 party. They allegedly were present The prospect of Carter intimates Footnote: Christy refused to discuss his investigation. Jordan failed to return our calls, and his lawyer refused comment.

KENNEDY PROBE - While its Abscam and Brilab scandals have been making headlines, the FBI is quietly digging into another explosive assignment - the assassination of President John Kennedy

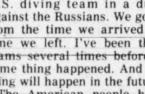

The House Assassination Committee turned over to the bureau its findings that Kennedy was probably killed as the result of a conspiracy, contrary to the conclusion of the Warren Commission 16 years ago. FBI agents have been talking to former committee aides, seeking guidance for use of the committee files in the National Archives. Agents have also asked the authors of some of the committee studies for the location of documents cited in footnotes.

And the bureau has consulted the Central Intelligence Agency on ways of retesting the controversial acoustical evidence suggesting that a fourth shot was fired at Kennedy that day in Dallas.

WATCH ON WASTE - Jimmy Carter's budget-cutting scissors prove strangely dull when they go after his old military service - nuclear submarines. He has asked Congress for $2.6 million to fix up a berth at the Washington Navy Yard for the Nautilus, the nation's first nuclear sub - even though the city fathers of Groton, Conn., where the Nautilus was built, have offered the historic sub retirement quarters at no cost to the taxpayers.

WASHINGTON - The transformation of President Carter from coldeyed critic of the Soviet military takeover of Afghanistan will come into focus in a few days when the world learns his intention to reduce real defense spending from levels established before the rape of Afghanis-The fine print of the new anti-inflation budget will believe much of what Carter told the nation in his celebrated State of the Union address on Jan. 23. Instead of the 5 percent "real" defense increase he pledged then, the budget as now taking shape inside the White House will show a spending increase only about 1 pecent higher than the rate of inflation. "I'm determined that the United States will remain the strongest of all nations," Carter said to rousing applause on Jan. 23. Two days later, Gen. Richard Ellis, top commander of the Strategic Air Command, quietly revealed to the House Armed Services Committee that the U.S. now is on the short side of what he called an "adverse" balance of strategic strength long-range nuclear missiles.

Yet, despite the president's pledge and the general's testimony that Moscow's new strategic margin frees it for military actions without the old worry over U.S. reactions, Carter plans to reduce the real rate of defense spending from the pre-Afghanistan level. He will blame this transformation - from matching or ignoring Soviet power — on the need for a balanced budget, Carter's front-line weapon in the battle against soaring inflation.

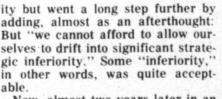

balancing the budget. These Carter critics belive that the president's State of the Union rhetoric rallied the nation around the flag and Jimmy Carter - at immense political cost to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy; that it was more political than intellectual. Kennedy is Carter's only competitor in the Democratic presidential campaign. Supporting the critics are important pieces of evidence that point strongly to this conclusion: Some powerful members of the Carter administration genuinely doubt that the U.S. can match Soviet military power, strategic or conventional, in the foreseeable future, if ever. Indeed, as we reported in the spring of 1978, one of the key technical advisers on Zbigniew Brzezinski's National Security Council (NSC) staff, Victor Utgoff, privately questioned the wisdom of U.S. strategic superior-

Now, almost two years later in an international climate far rougher than then, another White House aide shocked a senator last week during a talk on U.S.-Soviet relations held in the senator's office. This White House staffer said that the Soviet Union is now producing miltary weapons on what is virtually a "mobilization or wartime footing" that is simply beyond U.S. capacity to match.

Carter's apparent willingness to hold down defense spending, on grounds that it is a major budget-balancing tool, flatly contradicts this careful statement made by Defense Secretary Harold Brown last Dec. 13. 'Should our assumptions as to future inflation later prove to have been underestimates, the administration will take appropriate action to preserve the integrity of this program.

The sudden spurt in the rate of inflation is why Carter should be making major additions to his defense budget - if he and Brown really meant what they said. Confidential estimates from the Office of Management and Budget to key congressional committees show no such additions. Just to keep the pre-Afghanistan budget intact, for example, Carter needs to ask about $7.5 billion in new money for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

This display of presidential decision-making has its counterparts.

treaty, the latest on Dec. 23, have

Under this theory, widely held by the president's critics, the transformation of Jimmy Carter was not his move toward military budget-cutting; it was his unaccustomed tough talk right after the Soviet move to Kabul. What is now coming into view, then, is the real Jimmy Carter following a very brief metamorphosis.

Motorists will not pay price

By The Los Angeles

The Long-held belief that American motorists would pay any price to drive is fast proving to be a myth.

In 1974, after the Arab oil embargo and the quadrupling of world oil prices, many in the United States doubted that increasing prices at the American gasoline pump would do much to curb consumption. People would give up almost anything, so the argument went, rather than reduce their driving.

But six years later, those doubts are being dispelled. Americans have cut back their use of gasoline sharply below what analysis were projecting in the midpercent last year and continues to drop in 1980, leading most experts to conclude that 1978 gaso-16.4 gallons per week for each gasoline-fueled ve-

Teach your hubby to sew

By BETTY KINSER Copley News Service

This may be a new idea to you, but give it some thought anyway. ... Have you ever considered teaching your husband how to sew?

Now don't snicker. You would be surprised at how well a man does at the sewing machine, once he takes that first step.

First of all, he is going to understand the workings of the machine right off. Second of all, he has no "but Mother taught me to do it this way" to Think about it.

Dear Betty: I always look forward to your column in the paper. Even though I am not the greatest seamstress, every little hint helps.

My son and daughter-in-law - God willin' - will bless us later this summer with our first grandchild. Since we all are trying to save and watch our pennies, I thought you might have a pattern on converting slacks into maternity slacks — still salvaging them to be used later. Any hints?

Mrs. Reuben Schleifer, Chester,

What a wonderful letter, Mrs. Schleifer, thank you. Congratulations on becoming a grandmother.

There is a very easy way to convert slacks to maternity wear, but I'm afraid the process is irreversible. You can buy maternity stretch panels at most fabric shops. These can be stitched into the front of slacks or skirts. The only way the slacks could be worn later would be with overblouse-type tops such as long sweaters, tunics, etc.

Please let me know when the baby

Second of Ms. Morris' goals is growth, which also means memberparticipation by securing new members of the club. She said that members who were aware of prospects who were qualified and classified, would present these persons as potential members of her club, thus promoting its growth and providing new impetus and new ideas

She also said that Altrusa would continue its fight against illiteracy, particularly on the adult level. She urged the membership to meet club problems by participation and cooperation with its projects.

Governor Morris, who is the mayor of Sherman, was introduced by Myrtlene Bearden, club president.

During committee reports, Beverly Dyer, chairman of community service, reported that the Astra Club forteen-age girls will complete its plans for organization.

She also reported that crime prevention block parties were continuing. She uged members to host these neighborhood parties and noted that it was not necessary for a person to be an Alrusan to host such a meeting but that members would be available to help if needed

Roberta Wornell, chairman of vocational services, reported that the club will again participate in the Christmas in April project.

About two weeks ago I ran into him, and the minute we saw each other we both knew we were still very much in love. We had a long talk, and he told me that he still loves me, but he has a problem. While we were split, he started seeing another girl, and now she's pregnant!

Abby, I feel very sorry for this other girl, but I'm still in love with this guy, I know he still loves me, and I don't want to give him up. I honestly feel that if he marries and the girl he got pregnant, it wouldn't solve anything, and the marriage wouldn't last. Yet it seems the only decent thing to

DEAR ABBY: A very dear man I knew had a stroke while walking down the street. He lay on the sidewalk near a bar for nearly an hour and nobody helped him. Most people thought he was just drunk, so they passed him by, not wanting to get involved.

Ending not as happy for real 'Norma Rae'

By ROGER GILLOTT.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The movie "Norma Rae" has a happy ending. After a bitter struggle, the union wins the right to represent workers in a powerful Southern textile mill.

But for Crystal Lee Sutton, on whose life the movie was patterned, the struggle is far from over.

She says seven years after she was fired as a union agitator and six years after the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union won a representation election at J.P. Stevens' mill in Roanoke Rapids, N.C., the

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Age alters drug reaction in body

Dear Dr. Solomon: How do fruit juices compare with the whole fruit for nutritive value? - Rae.

Dear Rae: Fresh fruit juice is an excellent source of vitamins and minerals; however, the nutritive value of the whole fruit is slightly higher.

Juice should be used as soon as possible after it is extracted from the fruit in order to avoid the loss of vitamin C. If the juice is to be stored, make sure to keep it refrigerated in a covered container; otherwise, vitamin C will be lost through the process

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am a senior citizen plus a few years, with elevated blood pressure. My doctor has been trying to control it with medication, but the pills make me drowsy and sometimes I think that the treatment is really worse than the problem. My son, who is 47 years of age, also has high blood pressure, but he does not seem to be bothered by the drug. Would you have any advice for me?

Dear Gus: Your reaction to the medication prescribed for you may be related to your age. Older people experience adverse drug reactions more frequently than do younger patients. For example, a study of 700 patients at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore showed that 25 percent of those over 80 years of age had adverse reactions to drugs, compared with only 12 percent of those who were 41 to 50 years of age. Other studies completed at various institutions support. these findings.

There are two main reasons why elderly people may react in this fashion. In the first place, older patients frequently take more than one drug at a time because they are being treated for a variety of problems. Moreover, as a person grows older the manner in which a drug is distributed to various parts of the body changes.

The difference in body composition of elderly people affect drug distribution. For example, total body water and lean body mass, two measures of body composition, are decreased in elderly people. In addition, body fat as a proportion of total weight increases with age, while lean body meat as a percentage of body weight decreases. The valume of plasma also decreases slightly with age.

Also, the means by which a drug is eliminated from the body has a bearing on the way in which a patient is affected. In persons 20 to 80 years of age, kidney functions generally decline an average of 35 percent. In elderly people, therefore, a drug that ordinarily would be elimated by the kidneys may tend to accumulate unless the dosage or the interval between doses, or both, are changed.

It is important for you to keep your doctor informed about the side effects which you are experiencing in order for him to monitor the safety and effectiveness of the drugs that he prescribes. Although I cannot tell from a distance, it is possible that a change in dose may be all that is

Female gorillas now on pill

BRISTOL, England (AP) - Samson, Bristol Zoo's romantic gorilla, is too amorous, say his keepers. They have put his four female mates on birth control pills.

In 1971, zookeepers were thrilled when Samson became the first gorilla in captivity to become a father. He followed through with three more offspring. Now two more of his female mates are pregnant.

Zoo officials say they are running out of space for the gorillas.

Samson's fourth offspring was born recently to Diana, delivered by Caesarean section - the first born that way in Europe, according to Geoffrey Greed, zoo director.

Mother and baby are doing fine, Greed said. "All the baby does is eat and sleep, but he weighs five pounds and that's a good weight for a goril-

If partner has control of the unbid suits and the type of spade suit he should have, you should be laydown for slam. Jump to five spades. That denies any side control and asks partner to go on only if he has no two quick losers.

Final Four produces at least three surprises game with foul trouble and stomped third-ranked Louisiana State 86-66 with a blistering second-half assault to capture the Midwest Regional at Houston. The winners only led 31-29 at the intermission The other semifinal will match Purdue, 22-9, and UCLA, 21-9, which posted impressive triumphs on Saturday. Purdue won the Mideast Regional at Lexington, Ky., bumping 14th-ranked Duke 68-60, while UCLA ousted Clemson 85-74 in the West Regional at Tucson, Ariz.

Next Saturday's winner will meet for the NCAA championship on Monday night, March 24. And just in case you're wondering, the most losses ever for an NCAA champion was Marquette's seven in 1977.

Iowa trailed Georgetown 42-32 at halftime and only Vince Brookins' 16 points kept the Hawkeyes that close. It became 46-32 early in the second deficit and nipped 11th-ranked Georgetown 81-80 for the championship of half before Iowa rallied behind 6-foot-10 reserve Steve Waite

He came off the bench with the score 64-54 and scored 13 of his 15 points in the last 11 minutes, including a tiebreaking three-point play - a basket from underneath and a free throw after Georgetown called two timeouts - with five seconds to play that gave Iowa an 81-78 lead.

"My first thought was to pass the ball back to a shooter," Waite said of his game-winning play. Fortunately for Iowa, he thought better of it. "I don't believe in setting up a play for one person at the conclusion of a game," Olson explained. "If the other team goes into a zone, we go into our regular zone attack. If they go man-to-man, we attack that. I just wanted a shot in the last five seconds.

BROOKINS FINISHED with 22 points while Eric Floyd had 31 for Georgetown, which saw the nation's longest winning streak snapped at 15 games. "Any time a team comes out of its region and plays like Iowa, they deserve all the credit," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson. Louiville's Griffith, who picked up his first personal just two seconds into the game against LSU, sat out 14 minutes of the first half, scoring only four points. But he ignited the Cardinals' second-half surge and wound up

A 16-point LSU run lifted the Tigers into a 29-21 lead before Louisville reeled off the last 10 points of the first half. Wiley Brown scored 12 of his 16 points in the first 20 minutes for the winners. LSU's big guns, forwards DeWayne Scales and Durand Macklin, were held to 12 and nine points, respectively, for the game. "Darrell wanted to jump on them (LSU) from the start. I think he got too overanxious," said Coach Denny Crum. "But our team is not a oneman show. We just stayed in our regular offense and worked harder. The other guys picked up for him."

LSU COACH Dale Brown called Louisville "the best team we've played. I don't think anyone can beat them. They just have so many dimensions and that's why I pick them. Their press beat us and they rebounded well and got a lot of second shots."

There's something about this team that I can't put my finger on, said Crum. "I guess they just don't quit and adversity doesn't bother

On Saturday, Joe Barry Carroll, Purdue's 7-1 All-American center, scored 26 points to lead the Boilermakers over Duke while sophomore Michael Sanders and senior Kiki Vandeweghe had 22 apiece in UCLA's victory over Clemson.

"We had to do a lot of shifting about, especially after Carroll got into foul trouble (he picked up his fourth with 8:55 remaining)," said Coach Lee Rose. "We told them to control the ball late in the game. We weren't looking for a shot unless it was a cripple. When we got a five-point lead, we ran three or four minutes off the clock without a turnover. This helped us turn the game around."

UCLA won 10 national championships in 12 years from 1964-75, including seven in a fow (1967-73). But the Bruins' tallest starter is the 6-8 Van-'We don't really need a center," said 6-7 James Wilkes, UCLA's top defender. "We just put our three best guys on the floor. Then you block out And the Bruins' current position is in the Final Four for a record 14th

Georgetown's Craig Shelton takes some laps around the floor as part of a warmup before meeting Iowa's Hawkeyes in the NCAA basketball tournament, but not even a warmup was enough to hold

"Obviously, I'm disappointed," said Nicklaus, who came so very close to ending his 20-month non-winning string Sunday but had to settle for what might have been.

"But the important thing is that I played a whole good tournament. From a mental standpoint, this is going to help me as the year goes on. It's pretty encouraging."

AFTER TWICE holding the lead in the final round, he was a loser again when Floyd capped a dramatic shootout by chipping in for a birdie on the second hole of a sudden death playoff.

"I'm flabbergasted," said the delighted Floyd, who acquired $45,000 and the 12th title of his career. Nicklaus, the once proud "Golden Bear" of golf, was looking at a birdie putt of his own - which Floyd was convinced he would make - when Raymond stroked the delicate little shot from the short rough on the 16th hole on the Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club. "I was sure Jack would make his putt so I had to chip in," Floyd said.

"Fortunately, the ball hit in the area I was looking and went dead in the hole. I thought we'd go on to the next one." But they didn't.

Nicklaus missed and one of the more dramatic finishes in recent years was complete.

'There very definitely were some positive things to it all. I'm definitely taking a positive attitude about it," said Nicklaus, still lacking the victory he needs to confirm his return to a dominant role in the game.

"THIS TELLS me that all the time I've put in, all the work I've put in is .

"I've won an awful lot of golf tournaments playing like I did this week. And that's not playing at my best. When I'm playing really well, I sometimes win by quite a few shots.

"I feel like I'm not that far away from playing really well." He appeared on the verge of it in the dramatic run down the windswept stretch. Both he and Floyd executed some remarkable saves, and some equally remarkable birdies, in one of golf's most exciting finishes in

Both made scrambling pars, Floyd with an eye-opening high hook over trees from deep trouble and Nicklaus from within 18 inches of a bank that dropped off into a pond, on the 72nd hole. That finished off a 69 for Nicklaus and a 66 - the best round of the tournament - for Floyd. They finished regulation play at 279, nine shots under par.

Keith Fergus, a young Texan who now has finished fourth or better four times this year, once had the lead alone. That was after his chip-in eagle-3 on the 10th hole. He finished with a 70 and missed the playoff by a

IT WAS THREE more strokes back to Wayne Levi at 72-283. Ed Fiori played the last 18 in 70 and tied Ben Crenshaw at 284. Crenshaw had a

Even though Fergus was in it until the final hole, it was a head-to-head match between Nicklaus, seeking to regain the form that made him the greatest player the game has known, and Floyd, a former Masters and PGA champion who rarely receives the recognition he deserves.

They played in the same group. And the drama started just as they reached the range of the national television cameras. On the 14th, Nicklaus was traiing by one and got in trouble. He was faced with a 10-footer to save par and stay alive. He made

On the next one, he threw a brilliant shot to within three feet and made the birdie that tied it. On the next, he chipped in from 20 feet for birdie.

Now he led. Floyd birdied the same hole to stay within one On the next, the 17th, Floyd dropped a putt, perhaps 60 feet in length, from the upper tier of the green to tie it. Each had a chance to win, and each had a chance to lose, on the 18th.

They matched pars and went to the playoff. On the first playoff hole, both just missed on birdie putts. On the second, Floyd's chip won it.

"I putted very well, I managed my game very well," Nicklaus said. "When you do that and somebody who starts out three shots back beats you, then he must have played very, very well. 'Raymond did just that.'

Carter to meet with athletes Alternative

By BARRY LORGE The Washington Post

COLORADO SPRINGS - American athletes have been invited to a White House meeting Friday to discuss the Carter administration's call for a U.S. boycott of this summer's Olympic Games in Moscow and plans for possible alternative games.

The athletes say they have been promised they will not merely be briefed on a boycott decision that the administration said is "final and irrevocable." Some athletes say they are prepared to ask blunt questions and present their views.

Despite the administration's opposition to U.S. participation in the Moscow Games, many athletes - as well as officials of the United States Olympic Committee (USOC) - remain hopeful that President Carter will change his position if Soviet invaders withdraw from Afghanistan and world tensions are eased before the May 24 entry deadline for the

The 40-member Athletic Advisory Council of the USOC, elected by their fellow athletes, has been invited. The National Governing Bodies of the various Olympic sports have been invited to send representatives, and 10 former Olympic gold medalists also have received invitations.

"We understand that we will be given an opportunity to ask questions and express views . . . That is very important that this is not just a showcase for the administration to say, This is the way things are," said 1976 Olympic rowing bronze medalist Anita DeFrantz, a member of the Athletes Advisory Council and the USOC Administrative Committee. "Since this thing began, most athletes have said, 'Why don't you talk to us?' This is our opportunity."

Administration officials will be asked to explain how a boycott of the Moscow Games is more than a sym-single shot at 280.

White House counsel Lloyd Cutler, who is spearheading the White House's boycott campaign, is in Geneva for meetings Monday with officials of about 10 western and nonaligned nations regarding plans for "alternative games." this summer that the Carter administration hopes will help rally support for boycotting USOC officials claim that the administration has "vastly overestimated" international support for its position, and has recently discovered that it is impossible to organize meaningful international games without the blessing of the international amateur sports establishment.

DeFrantz and hurdler-bobsledder Willie Davenport, the two active Olympians in the 21-member USOC Administrative Committee, both said Saturday that America's athletes are lukewarm to the idea of "alternative games" because "there is no substibolic gesture. especially if it lacks tute for the Olympic Games."

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) -Hours before the start of a two-day meeting to discuss possible alternative games to the Moscow Olympics, represenatatives from the three sponsor nations - Great Britain, the United States and Australia - held preliminary talks Monday morning to work out the meeting's agenda and schedule.

As spokesman for the three continued to withhold information concerning the exact number of states that will participate in the discussions Monday and Tuesday, Australia's home affairs minister, Robert Ellicott, said the organizers were still hoping for "at least 10 nations" to

with Stabler for QB job HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston-Oakland quarterback exchange projects former Raiders quarterback

Ken Stabler as the Oiler starter but Coach Bum Phillips says it's not automatic.

In the furor of the weekend trade that sent Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini to Oakland for Stabler, Oilers backup quarterback Gifford Nielsen has remained quietly in the background.

He doesn't intend to stay there. "I plan to compete for the No. 1 quarterback job just like I would have done if Dan had still been here," Nielsen said. And Phillips said the quarterbackng job would be wide open when the

'We've got two people who can compete for the starting job. Before last season, it was automatic that Dan was going to be the quarterback. But Gifford proved in the playoffs that he can play." Nielsen helped the Oilers upset San Diego in the second round of the National Football League playoffs last season while Pastorini was sidelined with a groin injury. "Ken Stabler has been a great quar-

"He is coming into a new situation and will have to learn our offense but I have been here and I'm already familiar with what we do."

Phillips confirmed the trade at a Saturday news conference after denying vehemently on Friday that a deal had been made. Phillips explained that news of the trade could have ended the deal.

The departure of Pastorini from the Oilers ends a stormy nine-year era in which the blond Californian was either the toast of the town or the object of Oiler fan disdain.

Big wreck mars race

at Atlanta

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP)

One joker said: "I understand they're changing the name from IROC to I-Wreck."

Although it was only an attempt at humor, it pretty well summed up Saturday's nearly disastrous International Race of Champions VII series finale at Atlanta International Raceway.

A savage wreck at the end of the second lap eliminated seven of the 12 cars in the field.

Veteran NASCAR Grand National driver Bobby Allison stayed clear of the accident and went on to win the race. He also took home $75,

000 from the total series purse of $278,000 for winning the IROC point Ray Bourque's goal with 28 seconds title

Allison, the first stock car driver to win the period, four of them in the final nine IROC title in its seven years, said, "I was leading the race at the time that thing started, and that was probably the most fortunate thing to happen to me until I got the checkered flag.

"I was looking in the mirror and I just saw cars going everywhere. I wondered for a second if I'd be the only car left running.

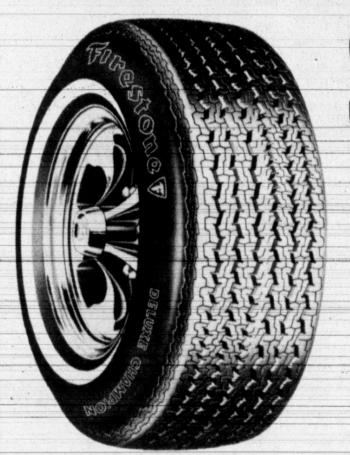

Mario Andretti, near the front of the pack, started the chain reaction. The former Formula I world champion and Indianapolis 500 winner tried to pass on the inside, touched the rear of Darrell Waltrip's car and it was suddenly havoc. "It frightened me," said veteran road racer Peter Gregg. "I was afraid I might kill somebody or that I would get hurt myself. There was just no place to go." There were no injuries, but the crash eliminated Andretti, Waltrip - who went into the series finale with the overall point lead and wound up second - Neil Bonnett, Bobby Unser, Buddy Baker, Gregg and Clay Regazzoni

Don Whittington cleared the first accident, but was later eliminated in a one-car crash. Only four cars

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) - Young men grow up borough's draft to his advantage and the two sliced quickly in the pressure-packed world of stock car

It was the young lions who took the spoils Sunday in the Atlanta 500 Grand National stock car race, with Dale Earnhardt beating Rusty Wallace across the finish line to win the $36,200 top prize.

It was an unlikely daily double. Earnhart, 28, was the 1979 NASCAR Rookie of the Year, while the 23-year-old Wallace, in his first Grand National race, was the top rookie last year on the U.S. Auto Club stock car circuit.

And Earnhardt, suffering from a shortage of horsepower in his Chevrolet Monte Carlo due to a compression problem, started 31st in the 41-car field. said, 'Let's do it." He took a chance, though, and came up with his second Grand National victory.

Top pitchers lose; Porter jumps club

The mysterious whereabouts of Kansas City Royals All-Star catcher Darrell Porter overshadowed humiliating outings Sunday by two of baseball's premier pitchers, Nolan Ryan and Ron Guidry.

"Darrell Porter has left the club. With our permission, he is seeking medical advice, and that's all I can tell you," Royals General Manager Joe Burke said. "It's personal and confidential and I cannot betray his confidence in this situation.'

Burke said Porter first made him aware of the situation on Friday and left the club Saturday.

'We don't expect him back until he has had full treatment for his prob-lem," Burke said. "I've talked with other people and we've made arrangements for him. He's there

Tarkanian is puzzled heading into NIT semis

Vegas owns a 23-7 record, the best of any of the four teams in the semifinals of the 43rd annual National Invitation Tournament tonight at Madison Square Garden, but Jerry Tarkanian, coach of the Running Rebels, is puzzled.

'I'm wondering about the caliber of competition we've faced and whether we've been up against as tough as schedule as other teams," said Tarkanian, whose squad opposes Virginia, 22-10, in the windup of the double-rivals, Minneosta, 20-10, and Illinois, 21-12, battle in the opener. The consolation and title contests are set for Wednesday.

'My team is very young," continued Tarkanian, "and it's only been the last six weeks that we started to put things together.

Firefighters called to wild well site

Oil field firefighters have been called to the location for Getty Oil Co.'s No. 1-12-26 Glen Brunson, a deep project in Loving County which blew out and caught fire Friday morning

Getty officials said this morning that Coots & Boots of Houston were on location 25 miles northeast of Mentone making preparations to extinguish the blaze and cap the wild well.

No one was injured when the project caught fire. Hole is at total depth of 16,528 feet in the Atoka formation. The crew was making a trip to change bits when the project kicked gas. All operations were shut down, according to Getty officials, and the blowout preventers were closed at approximately 10:15 a.m.

It then was noticed that drilling fluid and gas were leaking under the rig floor. The crew was evacuated from the drillsite and at 11:35 the gas ignited

Pacer Petroleum of Abilene reported potential test on a well in the Noodle Creek, Northwest (Canyon) field of Fisher County, 8.5 miles southeast of Sylvester.

It is No. 1 Rex A. Smith Tract 16. It finaled for a daily pumping potential of 60 barrels of 40-gravity oil, no water, through perforations from 4,190 to 4,196 feet which had been washed with 750 gallons of mud acid and fractured with 12,000 gallons.

Scheduled as a 5,000-foot wildcat, it bottomed at that point. Four and onehalf-inch casing is set at 4,241 feet.

Wellsite is 330 feet from north and east lines of section 16, Edward Miles survey No. 219. It is the fourth Canyon 4100 well in the field. The operator also reported potential on its No. 1 Rex A. Smith Tract 17 in the Jones County portion of the pool as the fifth Canyon 4100 well. It finaled for a daily pumping potential of 20 barrels of 42-gravity oil, through perforations from 4,134 to 4.157 feet after 750 gallons of acid and 22,000 gallons of fracture solution.

Location is 330 feet from north and east lines of section 17, E. Miles survey No. 219.
