Oil-producing states reaping windfall from higher prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - Governments of oil-producing states in this country are reaping a continually increasing harvest of revenue because of rising oil prices

Treasury Department figures indicate that since 1973, state revenues based on oil and gas production have almost tripled, increasing by more than $2 billion a year

And the department estimates that future price increases - oil prices will be freed from federal limits next year - will add about $127.6 billion to state revenues over an 11-year period.

From 1973 to 1979, foreign oil prices soared tenfold, from around $3 per barrel to about $30. Oil produced in the United States during that time remained under price controls which let its average price quintuple to about' $15 per barrel, according to Energy Department figures

Similarly, natural gas prices, despite interstate federal regulation, also went up fivefold, from an average of 21.6 cents per thousand cubic feet in 1973 to $1.14 per thousand in 1979, the Energy Department says

Thus, the effect of federal regulation and price controls in the United States has not been to freeze oil and gas prices, but only to restrain their rise to five times the 1973 level while the world price multiplied 10 times.

State governments have traditionally raised revenues - often large proportions of their total budgets - through taxes, rents and royalties on the production of oil, gas and other mineral resources.

And those revenues, particularly severance taxes and royalties, often rise and fall in proportion to the value - the price - of the resource.

The Treasury Department reports that such revenues, mainly from oil and gas production, totaled just over $1 billion in 1973 in six states: Alaska, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, and Wyoming

In 1979, those revenues totaled more than $3.1 billion, about triple the 1973 level. And those states will receive even more money as federal price controls are removed.

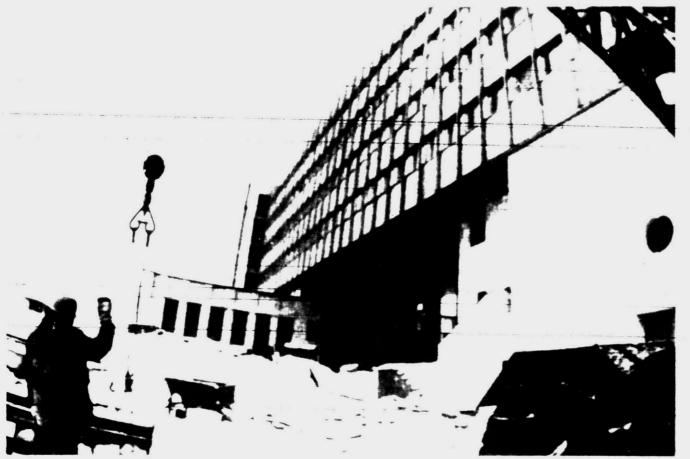

In 1977, Congress passed a law ending oil price controls on Oct. 1, 1981. The prices were to be gradually increased through May 1979, and it was up to the president to get the prices up to prevailing world prices by October 1981. President Carter chose to raise oil prices in stages rather than freeze them at 1979 levels and then hit the nation's economy with one big leap.

Carter also proposed a "windfall" tax on oil company revenues generated by the removal of controls, a measure nearing final passage in Congress. The Treasury Department estimates that from 1979 through 1990, rising oil prices will increase state and local taxes and royalties by some $127.6

billion if the windfall tax is adopted. Without a federal windfall levy, it said, state and local revenues might rise some $136.7 billion. Sometimes called a "windfall profits" tax, the levy would not be on company profits per se, but on that portion of gross income resulting from removal of federal price controls on oil.

The $127.6 billion estimate covered all oll-producing states, not only the six states whose mineral revenues were reported separately. Those six states alone would get an estimated $92.3 billion over 11 years as a result of decontrol

Carter, Reagan Illinois winners

CHICAGO (AP) - Ronald Reagan took a giant stride toward the Republican presidential nomination with a convincing primary victory in Illinois, while President Carter trampled Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Demo cratic challenge. Their victories were matched by landslide leads as votes were counted today in competition for national convention delegates.

Reagan's easy win over Rep. John B. Anderson, with former U.N. Ambassador George Bush a distant third. left the former California governor with no formidable challenger in view. "They'll find someone," Reagan smiled. He said he wouldn't claim the nomination just yet for fear he'd jinx himself.

Reagan's victory in the industrial Midwest provided geographical breadth to a string of wins that included two of three New England contests and four triumphs in the South

Carter was rolling in the same direction as Reagan, defeating Kennedy by a margin of more than 2-to-1. The Massachusetts senator promptly pronounced the New York primary next Tuesday to be the big test which is what he used to say about Illinois

Reagan 523,944 or 48 percent. Anderson 400,454 or 37 percent. Bush 120,706 or 11 percent. Crane of Illinois 23,832 or 2 percent Reagan called it a great boost, and said he would press on with his campaigning "to build toward the main contest" in November.

Campaigning in Connecticut, he noted that some of his rivals already have folded and othe borderline situation." He didn't name names, but the de-benind that he'd have to win landslides the rest of the way to overtake the president. "It is difficult to do," F well said.

The Associated Press count of delegate commitments showed Carter came to Illinois with 313 of the 1,666 votes he needs to win nomination, while Kennedy had 168. Powell claimed the president had more than that, saying 496 delegates already were in his column.

Kennedy somberly accepted the lilinois defeat, saying that his is still a viable candidacy. He already was campaigning for the New York primary, which will award 282 Demo cratic delegates next Tuesday.

"I believe that we can make a very strong showing here in the state of New York," he said. But he said h will go on, whatever the New York results

Leaders to hold separate talks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel autonomy negotiations for the West and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt will visit Washington for separate talks with President Carter in April, White House officials announced today

Israel, Egypt and the United States have agreed to accelerate the pace of the negotiations on self-rule for the 1.2 million Palestinians of the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and Gaza Strip

But it appears doubtful that agreement will be reached by the May 26 deadline spelled out in the Camp

The president now has defeated Kennedy in 17 states, losing twice. But Kennedy said "I will continue," even if Carter beats him in New York

Tuesday's Illinois primary was a two-phase contest, with presidential candidates competing for popular votes while supporters ran separate races for seats at the Republican and Democratic conventions. In returns from 88 percent of the precincts, Carter led with 164 delegates and Kennedy had 15.

Tuesday, with 27 more to be named at the state Democratic convention. Under party rules they are to be apportioned to candidates in line with the outcome of Tuesday's competition.

On the Republican side, 89 percent of the precincts had tallied delegate votes. Reagan led for 42, Anderson for 24, Rep. Philip Crane for 4, Bush 2, and 20 were uncommitted

The Republicans elected 92 delegates, with another 10 to be chosen at their state convention. Reagan entered Illinois with 167 delegates; Bush was second with 45. It takes 998 delegates to win the nomination With 97 percent of the Illinois precincts counted for the Democrats and 96 percent for the Republicans, the popular vote read:

Largest OCAW local rejects Gulf's newest contract offer

OCAW President Robert Goss .his recommendation ignored

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) - Members of the Oil. Chemical and Atomic Workers largest local have ignored their national leadership and unanimously rejected a contract offer made by Gulf Oil Co.

'There's no problem with the issues that caused the strike," OCAW District Four Director H.J. "Mac" McClain said Tuesday, adding that members rejected the offer because they were angry at alleged "disciplinary" action taken by Gulf.

There are some problems with matters that came up during the strike," he said, " that we've got to get worked out before the people come back to work."

McClain said Gulf had sent letters of termination to two striking union members and wanted to suspend or fire about 12 more

'We feel strongly that this issue of disciplining the (striking) workers be cleared up before a contract is ratified," he said. "We're very sincere when we say our members were provoked."

Gulf spokesman Kirk Vogeley said the company was "hopeful that the union membership separates the issue of disciplinary cases from the issue of contract terms by ratifying the contract and returning to work."

In rejecting the offer, which covers about 3,500 OCAW members, the Port Arthur workers ignored the recommendation of the OCAW policy-making board and OCAW president Robert Goss.

Goss had said he hoped the Gulf offer would set a national standard, while the policy board had already approved the offer.

A similar offer by Cities Service Corp. in Lake Charles, La., was ratified by OCAW members who returned to work Monday.

Soon after Goss announced the Gulf contract last Friday, three more major oil firms - Texaco, Mobil and Atlantic Richfield - made similar offers.

The OCAW's national bargaining committee is expected to approve the Gulf offer this week.

The strike began Jan. 8 and effects about 60,000 workers at more than 100 oil companies. More than 20,000 of the workers are located on the Gulf Coast.

In Denver, contract offers from 11 oil companies are still being considered by the national policy committee of the striking Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union meeting there.

The two latest proposals came late Tuesday from Shell Oil Co. and Exxon Corp. But OCAW president Robert Goss said talks would continue on the offers today.

Union spokesman Jerry Archuleta confirmed the two latest offers from Shell and Exxon. Archuleta said the companies involved in the latest two offers employ an estimated 25,000 union members.

Midlanders sue over early-morning explosion that leveled their home

A couple who lost most of their possessions in an early-morning explosion that leveled the home they were just moving into filed suit Tuesday in 238th District Court against the owners of the home and Pioneer Natural Gas Co

Matt Daniel Wells, his wife Janet and their 18-month-old son Jacob were in the house at 1406 S. Lorraine St. at the time an apparent gas leak caused the house to explode March 11.

The family had moved into the house Sunday, and had utilities connected Monday

Although the Wells recovered most of their clothing, which the couple had not yet unpacked from moving boxes, most of their possessions were destroyed.

Wells was admitted to Midland Memorial Hospital with burns, Mrs. Wells was admitted for observation and their child was treated and released after the incident.

In their suit, the Wells contend Manuel Carrasco and Ike Coats, owners of the house, were negligent in renting the structure without proper inspections.

A Pioneer Natural Gas employee "looked around" the residence and turned off the gas water heater before connecting the gas meter, the suit noted, but left without making "a check or proper check for leaks in the gas lines.

The suit asks for $750,000 in punitive and exemplary damages from Pioneer Natural Gas for negligence.

In addition, the suit requests $6,000 for loss of property and $105,000 for injuries and physical pain and mental anguish of the family from all three defendants.

The suit also asks that Coats and Carrasco return $275 paid them in rent and deposits when the Wells moved into the structure, plus penalty, interest and treble damages.

None of the defendants contacted early today chose to comment on the suit.

firemen to be dismissed KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - City

Kansas City's striking

officials were preparing dismissal notices for more than 140 of Kansas City's 900 striking firefighters today while National Guardsmen and police helped douse blazes and guard stationhouses against sabotage

"It's another sad commentary when the firefighters choose to illegally strike," Gov. Joseph Teasdale said Tuesday as he called out the Guard. "Despite any beliefs that what they are doing is right, this is intolerable and we won't allow it.'

Some 250 Guardsmen were called to this city of 500,000 as a makeshift battalion of non-union fire department officers and police worked 12hour shifts to fight an unusually high number of arson cases and grass fires

No civilians have been injured in fires since the strike began Monday over the city's refusal to reinstate 42 firefighters dismissed for failing to report to work-during a 12-day slowdown in December 35 11 cdy 33 01 cdy 38 m 440 cdy

City Personnel Director Thomas F. Lewinsohn said notices of termination would be processed today for 143 firefighters who walked off the night shift Monday and did not return as or dered.

Local President John Germann told Mayor Richard Berkley that reinstatement of the 42 firefighters would edy end the action.

"I told him there was no way I could legally guarantee what he requested," Berkley said. He said the city had a "very high level of protection," but Deputy Chief Louis Hansen said Kansas City was "just hanging by a thread '

Officials said the Guardsmen were called primarily to provide security at the city's 31 stations Fire Chief

John Waas said wiring had been ripped from equipment and sugar poured into gas tanks since the strike began, and Guard spokesman Capt. John Warren said the troops would not fight fires unless "push came to shove

A force of 35 fire department officers and 175 police officers had handled 90 calls, including six cases of arson, by Tuesday night. Ordinarily, firefighters handle an average of 11/2 arson cases per day.

Police Sgt. Steve Straffer said police also battled 27 grass fires during the period, a number "way, way higher than normal. Fire erupted Tuesday in an abandoned warehouse in north Kansas City. Flames engulfed the three-story building and spread to an adjacent warehouse, but police and battalion chiefs were able to bring it under control before it spread further.

Two batallion chiefs received minor injuries fighting a fire early. Tues day

Meanwhile, 335 firefighters were ordered to appear today before Judge Laurence R. Smith of Jackson County Circuit Court to show why they should not be held in contempt of a court order issued during the December slowdown

That order prohibited all future job actions. Under state law, a strike by firefighters is illegal Leaders of two religious groups based in older sections of Kansas City called for the resignation of City Manager Robert Kipp if the 42 firefighters were not reinstated. However, the strike did not draw the support of one of the most powerful labor organizations in the area. The Teamsters Joint Council No. 56 called the walkout illegal.

By The Associated Press

An Iranian diplomat who met with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said today the U.S. Embassy hostage issue will not be resolved before May 15. He said he was told the Americans' fate will not be a "priority" item on the agenda of the new Iranian Parliament

At the International Court of Justice in the Netherlands, the United States charged that the Moslem militants holding the embassy had treated their American captives harshly during the first weeks of the takeover

In one instance, it was alleged, a militant pointed a pistol at a woman hostage and pulled the trigger repeatedly, Russian roulette-style. It was the second day of a world court hearing in the U.S. case against Iran.

The 50 Americans at the embassy were spending their 137th day in captivity, and Iran's ambassador to Kuwait, Ali Shams Ardakani, said they face at least 57 more days in the hands of their young captors.

Ardakani, just returned from Tehran, told the Kuwait newspaper Al Siyasseh, "There will be no solution to the hostage question before May 15.

"I understood during my meetings with Imam Khomeini and President (Abolhassan) Bani-Sadr that all issues relating to political questions including the problem of American hostages will not be dealt with until the completion of the Consultative Council (Majlis) election and formation of a new government. 'But the hostage question is not the only one on the council's agenda, so we are not going to give it priority on some domestic problems.

Khomeini says the Majlis, Iran's Parliament, must decide whether and when to free the hostages. Ardakani's report reaffirmed an earlier statement by Avatollah Mohammed Beheshti, first secretary of the Revolutionary Council, that the debate could not start until May.

The second round of elections for the new, 270-seat Parliament are scheduled for April 4.

The vote count from last Friday's first round was continuing today. The leaders back the embassy militants' demands for return of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his fortune to Iran in exchange for the hostages' freedom, has won 34 of the 79 seats decided so far. Supporters of Bani-Sadr, who wants to resolve the hostage issue without delay, have won 16 seats, while independents and minorparty candidates have 29. In the other 191 districts, the results are incomplete or the outcome must be decided by runoff in the second round. Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said after a meeting of the ruling Revolutionary Council on Tuesday night that a commission of five to seven members would conduct a thorough probe of charges of fraud in last Friday's voting.

Most of the allegations are against the clergy-led IRP, so it was considered unlikely the investigation would lead to new balloting in many of the 270 parliamentary districts.

The Interior Ministry, which is in charge of the elections, said on the whole the first round of voting Friday was held "in a satisfactory manner, despite pressure and violation of reg Islamic Republican Party, whose ulations by some political groups.

At the world court session in the Hague, U.S. State Department legal adviser Roberts B. Owen charged that the hostages were treated harshly during the first 21/2 weeks of their captivity. Citing affidavits from the 13 Americans released Nov. 20, he said they were repeatedly threatened with guns and other weapons.

"On one occasion, a student who was interrogating a woman hostage cal prisoners, except those accused of showed her his revolver to let her killing, torture or misuse of public know that one of its several chambers funds and property. was loaded and then proceeded to intimidate her by pointing the gun at her and repeatedly pulling the trigger," he said. U.S. cites treatment of hostages

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) -The United States told the International Court of Justice today that American hostages held in Tehran received harsh treatment during the first 21/2 weeks of their captivity.

Citing affidavits from the 13 Americans released on Nov. 20, State Department legal adviser Roberts B. Owen said they were repeatedly threatened with guns and other weapons.

The court, the main judicial arm of the United Nations, issued an interim order last Dec. 15 calling for the immediate release of the hostages, which now number 50. This was pending a final decision on the U.S. case, which accuses Iran of violating international law and diplomatic immunity by permitting the U.S. Embassy to remain occupied.

Owen spoke on the second day of public sessions called by the court to hear the U.S. case. Iran is boycotting the proceedings.

Court officials said it may be several weeks yet before a final verdict, which carries moral weight but is not enforceable, is reached.

During his presentation today Owen said:

"On one occasion, a student who was interrogating a woman hostage showed her his revolver to let her know that one of its several chambers was loaded and then proceeded to intimidate her by pointing the gun at her and repeatedly pulling the trigger. Happily he stopped in time but the experience must have been terrifying."

Owen added that female hostages were tied to straight-back chairs facing a wall and kept in that position for normal diplomatic mission operating 16 hours at a time, that. Embassy windows were boarded up and interior lights kept burning 24 hours a day, and that the hostages were bound or handcuffed at night. Some were required to sleep on the cold, bare floor with their hands tied and without blankets, he said.

The U.S. counsel did not publicly identify the hostages who had given affidavits by name.

Owen rejected Iranian charges that the Embassy had been a center for espionage. "The response of the United States is that the charge is untrue. The U.S. Embassy in Tehran is a as such missions normally do.

The collection and transmission of information about a host country, was a normal diplomatic function, the counsel said, adding that a unanimous reaction by the countries of the world corroborated "the indefensibility of Iran's conduct."

Stephen Schwebel, deputy legal adviser at the State Department, earlier called for a declaration by the court that "will leave no possible ambiquity" on the rights of the United States and the duty of the Iranian Government to restore a normal situation at the Embassy.

The judgment, he added, should call on Iran "not only to terminate but never to repeat such violations of its international obligations."

"There is not a single country on the face of the globe which has suggested in any way that Iranian conduct in seizing the Embassy and the hostages was justified within the framework of international law," Owen said.

"Unless the world community takes every possible step toward condemning and discouraging such conduct, the rule of international law will be gravely imperiled," he declared. The court will meet again Thursdav

Scott loses Senate bid, awaits verdict in income tax fraud trial

CHICAGO (AP) - His U.S. Senate bid in shambles, Attorney General William J. Scott waited today for the vote of jurors deliberating a verdict in his income tax fraud trial.

The jury ended its fifth day of deliberations Tuesday as election returns began coming in. Scott, who had hoped for a verdict before the election, lost his bid for the Republican nomination to the Senate to Lt. Gov. David C. O'Neal.

Scott, charged with filing false income tax returns, expressed confidence as the jury went over 1,100 exhibits that he would be acquitted in the 10-week trial.

"I haven't done anything wrong, I plan to win this case," he said. "I don't think there's a chance I'm going to be convicted.'

The 53-year-old Scott, Illinois' attorney general since 1969, had long been the biggest Republican vote-getter in the state. He had done little campaigning since the trial began Jan. 8.

O'Neal won about 41 percent of the vote against Scott's 35 percent to gain the GOP nomination. O'Neal will face Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon, who defeated four opponents to win the Democratic nomination, in the general election. Sen. Adlai Stevenson III is not seeking a third term.

Scott was tried on five counts of filing false tax returns for the years 1972-1975. A conviction on all five counts could mean a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and fines of up to $25,000.

Scott, elected attorney general four times, would have to forfeit his office if convicted on any of the five counts. He has said any adverse verdict would be appealed.

"I've never quit any battle ... in my life and I don't intend to quit this one," he said.

Committee chairman proposes 1981 budget with $5 billion surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Budget Committee today proposed a fiscal 1981 budget that calls for a $5 billion surplus and goes beyond President Carter's request last week for federal spending cuts.

Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., said his proposal, which goes before his panel today would balance the budget largely through $15.9 billion in new spending cuts for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1

However, in a surprise announcement, Giaimo added that he would seek a $3.5 billion increase in fees for use of government facilities such as airports

Speaking at a news conference, Giaimo also recommended "modest tax reductions" to rebate to business and consumers $11 billion expected to be raised from the president's import fee on gasoline.

Giaimo's proposal calls for spending of $612.4 billion, revenues of $617.3 billion and a surplus of $4.9 billion.

Last week, Carter called for $13 billion in spending cuts to balance the 1981 budget as an inflation-fighting move.

But Carter has yet to submit a formal proposal to Congress, and that delay means that Giaimo's proposal could become the framework for congressional action on a revised budget.

Normally, the president's proposed budget, submitted in January, establishes the framework for congressional action, although Congress retains final control over the budget. The president's original spending plan called for a $15.8 billion deficit.

Meanwhile today, Labor Secretary Rny Marshall disclosed that the ad-get cuts in the politically popular public works projects. summer youth jobs program.

The Labor Department had suggested earlier that the administration could save about $400 million in its 1981 budget by chopping the job program in half, from 1 million summer House subcommittee that the program would remain intact. The program has been very popular with members of Congress, who reportedly have been reluctant to cut it. However, substantial cuts in other public jobs and training programs appear certain. Giaimo noted that a balanced 1981 budget would be the first for the federal government in 12 years and only the second in the last 21 years. "Runaway inflation, which in the first month of this year stood at annual rate of nearly 18 percent and which threatens the security of every American and the foundations of our system makes a balanced budget imperative," he said.

Administration officials say Carter's budget-cutting proposals will not be ready until the end of the month

By then, the House Budget Committee expects to have completed work on its own version of the budget for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1. The Senate Budget Committee also will have started work on its version by the end of the month.

Giaimo's budget proposals recommend $15.9 billion in new spending cuts plus $5.5 billion in savings - such as hospital cost containment - included in Carter's January budget.

Giaimo's proposed new cuts included elimination of the $1.7 billion state share of federal revenue sharing, the $1 billion anti-recession aid program,

Hard pill to swallow

President Carter has announced his new inflation fighting plan, designed to bring this nation's escalating inflation rate into check.

The president's plan includes some unhappy news, some unpleasant visions of tightening the belt to regain some of our financial security.

Included in Carter's outline, presented to the public Friday, are plans to curtail federal spending and to create the first federal budget surplus in more than 30 years. That's a commendable step and one that's long overdue.

Already Carter has acknowledged that his $616 billion budget for fiscal year 1981 - submitted to Congress only six weeks ago includes deficit funding that would feed the inflationary fires gripping the United States.

So what the president has proposed is a virtual rewriting of the 1981 budget to remove that deficit spending.

But there's more.

Going hand-in-hand with the budget trimming proposal will be a move to limit consumer credit and to increase gasoline prices by 10 cents a gallon through means of a tax on imported oil - a move the president hopes will make the gasoline consumers of this nation cut back on their thirst for gasoline and, thus, foreign oil.

If the full plan is put into effect, the results will not be immediate. Carter acknowledged that in his address, saying inflation likely will remain high for several months before the steps being taken can start reducing it.

JAMES N. ALLISON JR. (1931-1978)

The fact of the matter is there are no easy roads out of the economic pains now being experienced. We did not get ourselves into this situation overnight and we cannot get ourselves out of this situation in that period of time.

Fortunately, Mr. Carter is moving in the right direction by striving for not a balanced budget this time around, but a budget in the black. For too many years now this nation has plodded along spending money it didn't have and printing more, less valuable, money to pay for the purchased goods and services.

The bill was bound to come due and payable - and now it has.

So for awhile we must all suffer the consequences for our freespending ways.

There was another bright point, in a manner of speaking, to Carter's address. His plan leaves defense spending virtually untouched.

In light of the recent developments in Afghanistan that is a wise move. We have found that we are on the verge of being surpassed militarily by the Soviet Arab cause surround the president. Union and are taking steps to make amends for our shortsightedness

It would have been extremely unwise to have trimmed defense spending in light of those facts.

THE ECONOMY

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19, 1980

WASHINGTON - President Carter's recent United Nations gaffe - first ordering a vote against Israel, then disavowing the vote - has been attributed to the ineptitude that has characterized his leadership.

But there may have been a deeper cause. Sources with access to the Oval Office have heard Carter privately express annoyance with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin. They also say that advocates of the

ART BUCHWALD Carter didn't get roses for his foul-up candor

WASHINGTON - The reason Pres-ident Carter has been staying in the White House is to take care of the Rose Garden. The Rose Garden, as everyone knows, is in bad shape, and until he's able to rectify this, Mr. Carter has no plans of campaigning for the Presidency.

The other day, the White House landscaper presented the President with a resolution for the Rose Garden. Mr. Carter looked it over and said, "It looks all right to me, except take out all references to dandelions

The President thought he had the problem resolved and went off to Camp David for the weekend.

While he was away, the landscaper told the gardener to replace all the roses with dandelions. The gardener argued this might be a mistake, but the landscaper said that was what the President wanted. The gardener was also instructed to say, if anyone asked him, that although they were replacing the roses, this did not mean the White House was changing its rose policy.

Well, when Mr. Carter returned from Camp David and saw all the rosebushes gone and dandelions in their place, he was absolutely furious and demanded to see the landscaper immediately.

"What did you do the Rose Gar-den?" he demanded.

"You told me you wanted dandelions instead," the landscaper said.

EDITORIAL

"I did not. I told you to take out all the dandelions and, if the gardener would not do it, to leave the Rose Garden as it was.'

"I'm sorry, sir. It must have been a foul-up. I thought you said you wanted dandelions.

"Do you realize what this will do to me politically?" the President said. "The rose growers all over America will be furious. Is it too late to tear the dandelions out?"

"We can't do that, sir. The dandelion lovers will say you bowed to the pressure of the rose lobby."

In the meantime, Teddy Kennedy got word of the Rose Garden flasco and, in a major address to the Men's Auxiliary of the Garden Clubs of America, denounced the Carter back yard blooper.

All the Republican candidates said they were appalled.

Carter met with Vice- President Mondale and Robert Strauss to discuss the political implications of the disaster.

Both men reported the heat was on, and rose supporters all over the country were angrily calling the White House. Strauss thought the blunder could cost Carter New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. Mondale said even Minnesota rose growers were up in arms.

The President decided there was only one thing to do. And that was to issue a statement saying that he had made a mistake, and due to a communications problem between himself and the landscape department, all the rosebushes had been torn up.

The explanation was issued but did not placate anyone. The rose growers couldn't believe that Carter hadn't deliberately changed his policy on the roses, and the dandelion lovers said he had changed his mind for political expediency

What depressed the President the most was that no one gave him any Stapleton came back persuaded that the Palestinians "have got to have recognition in some way." One of her traveling companions, Cliff Custer, also quoted her as being 'confused'' about Begin's statements. "She has a gut-level question mark about where he's coming from," said Custer.

Mrs. Stapleton was careful to disassociate her views from those of her brother. "My brother knows I travel and am interested in politics," she said. "Early in his presidency, he reminded me that I was not appointed as his private ambassador to the world.

Nonetheless, she had private audiences with several Arab leaders who spoke to her about the Palestinian problem. She communicated their views to the president by overseas telephone. He responded to the call, she said, by reassuring her: "You really did the right thing, and I'll follow through right away.

After her trip, the president's ster dropped by the White House to brief listening and weighing everything I say."

The president's brother Billy Carter has developed a close relationship with the Libyans who are militantly anti-Israel. He has exchanged visits and accepted gifts from the Libyans. But it is unknown ians whether he has tried to impress Libyan views upon his brother.

However, the president's former banker and budget director, Bert Lance, reportedly has discussed Arab issues in the Oval Office. It is also known that some Arab friends tried to Pharaon, came to the rescue and purchased Lance's bank stock at a generous price. Pharaon happens to be the son of Saudi Arabia's top adviser on American affairs.

Within the White House, Carter is also surrounded by advisers who have been accused of having a pro-Arab bias.

The most important of these is

On his recent trip to Israel, McHenry conferred with Arab mayors from the West Bank who told "You're negotiating with the him. PLO. We are the PLO." McHenry told the mayors that the Camp David accords were failing "because of the settlements issue," and later complained to an aide that "our failure to make some progress on the settlements issue is draining our reserve of no great concern for Israeli good will. On four separate occasions, the U.S. Embassy asked McHenry to lay a wreath at Yad Vashem, the memorial to the 6 million Jews who died in the Nazi holocaust. McHenry refused this traditional diplomatic gesture on grounds that he was afraid of Arab reaction.

With advisers like these surrounding the president, it's small wonder that the White House story of a "mistake" on the U.N. vote has found few buyers.

SICK TRANSIT: Former Energy Czar James Schlesinger evidently finds it hard to give up the perks that he enjoyed for years in high government posts. Twice last month he checked into the emergency room at the National Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Md., for treatment of undisclosed ailments.

Both Schlesinger and the hospital staff were under the impression that their illustrious patient was entitled to free treatment as a former secretary of defense. After a couple of calls from my office, however, the Navy researched the matter and came to a different conclusion.

"Upon further checking, the center determined that former secretaries aren't automatically designated to receive such care," a Navy official explained a bit sheepishly. "Dr. Schlesinger will be billed for the services he received."

WASHINGTON - Every election season, all presidential aspirants seem to protest too much in declaring their undying support of Israel. It's like being for paved roads, free milk . Nick in the schools and health care for Thimmesch Currently, Jimmy Carter, the Rose Garden candidate, catches hell from all manner of Jewish groups, though it was his dogged persistence that brought Israel the best news in its > Carter's diplomatic wires got crossed. But enough is enough, and as Klutznick tells Jewish audiences, "Do your homework a little better."

This Administration, and every one before it, has been unabashedly pro-Israel. Put aside the trite rationale about that little bastion of freedom in the Middle East and the guardian of our strategic interests in an explosive area. There is only one good reason for U.S. support of Israel: to protect the Jewish people. The United States has taken that responsibility and should live up to it.

We can live up to the responsibility and still conduct a foreign policy serving the national interest. That's why four U.S. Presidents and their Administrations have supported U.N. Resolution 242 which calls for "withdrawal of Israeli armed force from territories occupied in the recent (1967) conflict."

Ambassador McHenry, a first-rate diplomat and American, was doing just that when he voted for the controversial resolution condemning Israel for allowing Jewish settlements of occupied territory. The United States has been saying that for a long time. Nothing new in it. The question of including Jerusalem is another matter. While East Jerusalem is occupied territory, Jerusalem itself is no longer a divided and strife-torn city, and the United States wants it to continue that way. So the mistake was in not including this U.S. reservation in the resolution. The bottom line here is that U.S. policy is to promote peace in the region by ensuring Israeli security while working for Palestinian justice. Many, many Israelis share these same goals.

The best thinkers in Israel know that the West Bank and Gaza cannot continue indefinitely with Israeli soldiers lording it over the Arabs. Those are Arab areas and the whole world knows it, no matter what Prime Minister Begin argues. The goal is to grant autonomy to these Arab areas and work so that one day Arab and Jew can live side by side on these historic lands. Jewish settlements, in such a situation, might be welcomed instead of resented as a provocation.

However much enlightenment, independent thought and common sense are found among Israelis, the Begin government seems bent on showing itself as the Prussia of the Middle East. To taunt the restive Arabs on the occupied West Bank, sometimes abusing them; to audaciously seize Arab land east of Jerusalem for Jewish interests; to appoint a one-time terrorist and always hawk, Yitzhak Shamir, as foreign minister to succeed Moshe Dayan, who wanted to make peace with the Arabs - well, Begin is asking for the disfavor Israel now receives from most nations.

Begin's political opposition, the Labor Party, said Shamir was the wrong man in the wrong place at the wrong time, adding: "When government policy is in shambles, it is a grave error to appoint a foreign minister with such extremist views that even Camp David was too much for him." (Shamir refused to vote for the Camp David accords.)

American Jews don't have to back every Israeli policy any more than, as American citizens, they had to back the Vietnam War or the Great Society or Gerry Ford's "Operation WIN." It is understandable that fears about Israel and painful memories of persecution make it difficult for many American Jews to overcome their emotional feelings in making judgments about candidates. But it is just as important for American Jews, who are first-rate citizens in fulfilling their duty to vote, to exercise the power and gift of sweet reason.

I like the Republican Party. A lot of very intelligent people are Republicans. Another thing about an awful lot of Republicans is this: They have strong beliefs and vote on principle and/or for principles. It's too bad they get so worked up about degrees and minor issues, splitting hairs over who is more conservative than whom.

Whether art, or craft, or business, politics is practical. Why, oh why, are we so impractical? Reagan probably had a good chance in 1976. He was younger then. He could not be saddled with responsibility) for "the Nixon-Ford administration," which Carter milked for all it was worth. But, not Reagan now, please! Reagan is getting ALL the votes he can get anywhere, right now, in the primaries.

And, for heaven's sake, why try Ford again? He couldn't win, when he was right there in the White House, running against Jimmy Who! Do you think he could win against President Carter? I don't.

Anderson is both smart and clever. He may even be kind of cute, sometimes. But, to sit back and smile, while quite a few Democrats vote for him in Republican primaries, is stupid. Democrats will vote for the Democratic nominee in November.

What's wrong with a nice, knowledgeable, active man who has had quite a bit of varied government experience? I mean Bush.

It would be nice to have a Republican President. M.A. Bonnar

Right to smoke

To The Editor: To D. Kurtz and others who yell about non-smokers: I'm for the idea of public buildings providing a separate area for smokers of tobacco. A lot of people are complaining about their rights. The only "rights" I'd like to defend are those of the children. There are many children, mine included, who suffer through the smoke coughing, sneezing and wheezing all because it would've been fun to enjoy some of the "public" places and activities available to all. The cigarette business irritates me most not because of the smoke, although I'm not belittling the harm it does, but because of the filth "people" create in order to "enjoy" their habit. The butts dropped and left anywhere, the ashes dropped, the wrappers tossed all over, the burns and scars left by unattended lighted cigarettes, to name some.

Sure, living in the U.S. means freedom in many ways, but most importantly, not at the expense of others, including their right to a healthy life.

Smoke signals

To The Editor:

In the rebutttal letters to mine, published March 2, one made incorrect remarks: - to Ms. Wilson, I am not a Ms., but a Mrs., and have been for over 41 years.

I did not say that NO SMOKING signs had taken my freedom away; I did say, and I quote, "I am sure that" most smokers do respect NO SMOK-ING signs.

All the letters I have read from non-smokers have been about their rights being violated, and how laws should be passed so that smokers could only smoke in their homes. Career Days

To The Editor:

I enjoy your "Letters to the Editor" column very much. It is wonderful to have an opportunity to express one's opinions

My reason for writing is to express a big thank you to all the great citizens in this community who helped with the Freshman School Career Days this week. Fifty-two speakers came to each Freshman School campus to tell interested students about their field of work. We tried to emphasize the work roles of women in non-traditional occupations.

The students very much enjoyed the opportunity to hear three different speakers, and will no doubt have more realistic ideas of what is involved in these careers.

"The grand jury was very fair. I heard the tapes and I was questioned extensively about them. I hope we were able to tell our story in such a way that they can see our innocence.'

If you have not yet filed your 1979 Federal Income Tax return, you could be on your way to securing your own retirement as well as deferring until your retirement up to $1500 of your 1979 income tax. How? By opening or adding to your Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at First Savings and Loan in Midland. IRAs permit employees not now covered by a company retirement program to contribute to their own retirement up to 15% of their annual salary not to exceed $1500 each year. The amount you set aside each year can be deferred until age 591/2 or until you retire.

But to take advantage of the tax deferment for 1979, you must open or add to your IRA at First Savings before you file your tax return. Don't miss this golden opportunity to benefit from First Savings high interest savings and a deferment of your federal income taxes. Their study is part of a continuing scientific effort to explain the great Tunguska, Siberia, blast. In a telephone interview, Ahrens said the puz-zling explosion of June 30, 1908, flattened trees over hundreds of square miles and was heard 700 miles away. "It was a really tremendous explosion," he said. "It acted with the force some say invalidates - the common explanation that a huge meteorite caused the Tunguska explosion.

The missing crater complicates -

The famous Meteor Crater in Arizona is three-quarters of a mile wide and 150 yards deep. Yet, the meteorite that caused it hit with less than half the force of the Tunguska crash. Ahrens and O'Keefe designed a computer model to consider the crash of a very large snowball-like comet with a half-mile diameter traveling 10,000 to 100,000 mph.

"The interesting thing in our results is that it doesn't make a crater. It just perturbs the ground," Ahrens said. The force of impact would send shock waves through the comet, causing it to vaporize in a flash of steam that could level a forest, he said.

Most comets are believed to be largely solid ice spiked with small, rocky debris.

See the white this spring

By WANDA MOUTON Lifestyle Editor

As warmer winds blow in, Midland sheds its winter coat and comes out of hibernation.

You can see it every morning downtown. Secretaries, female executives, businesswomen-they all have a springier step.

And with the season comes a new summer color. White is making a comeback

Already glimpsed at several luncheons, teas and meetings throughout the city have been crisp white business suits, topped with a snappy blazer.

The skirt in a slim silhouette and white blouse has been seen in increasing numbers. White pants with blouse and blazer haven't been overlooked, either.

The silhouette is slimmer, with a closer fit. Fabrics are in open weaves, woven fabrics, good cottons and knits.

Popular color for the accompanying jacket or blazer is navy blue, blue and white pin-striping, or bright red.

Another variation on the "white" theme is the oriental motif in white with jungle prints on a white background running a close second. This is popular for casual work days, active sportswear or for a day of shopping.

Look for feminine dresses which will show up in handkerchief linen and batiste in white, off-white or light pastels, such as pinks in all shades. lilac, mauve and light blue. The pastels will also accent the whites.

The color is popular everywhere-for business suits, work clothes and even casual wear-especially white jeans. Even swimsuits have white backgrounds with bold color prints.

Economic jitters affecting styles

NEW YORK - It would appear that inflation and recession are finally having their way with the fashion industry.

At the American Designer Show ings at The Plaza, fashion editors were told repeatedly by designers. that they are holding the cost line for the 1980 spring clothes

He brought back the smock with a wider, rounded shoulder and went to triple layers of chiffon for after-five dressing.

For spring-summer 1980, Philippe Guibourge. designer of Chanel Ready-To-Wear, sees a woman that is, above all, pretty, elegant and contemporary. He outlined a few tips for fashion-conscious women planning their spring wardrobe.

"A slender slhouette is the key," said Guibourge 'The waist is back. Short, straight, squared-off jackets and gathered skirts are de rigueur. Cardigans or redingotes are also practical, wearable additions to a woman's wardrobe.

"Luxurious fabrics have always been a Chanel forte," Guibourge added, "and this year's light, hand-woven tweeds, voluptuous silks that reveal the body, white pique and white chiffon are among our favorites.

True pastels - blues, violets, yellow-golds and roses --- are also a very dominant color-story for the new season, Guibourge said. Bright tones, offset by black, candy-pink and periwinkle are among the newest shades.

However, black and white houndstooth, black and white check - in fact, any combination of black and white -- "is a must for spring, '80," said Guibourge.

According to the Chanel designer, "Accessories are part of the fun of fashion, they're the most effective way a woman can make an outfit project her own personality. The right bracelet, necklace, blouse or shoe can change a daytime look into

Skin care includes facials, massage

By PATSY GORDON Lifestyle Writer

In Paris, a woman thinks of her face and body as her most precious possessions. She protects and cares for and learns about her skin, as if it were an irreplaceable treasure.

The French woman begins this skin care at the tender age of 12, said Josee Parys, an international training directoress for Payot, a skin care system formulated by a woman who was both chemist and doctor — Dr. Nadine G. Payot, a native of Russia.

Dr. Payot owns and operates the Payot Institut de Beaute in Paris. Ms. Parys, originally from Paris, was in Midland recently to visit Susan Suggs, a local salon operator, and her aesthetician, Dorothy Vaught.

It is the Payot philosphy that in order for skin, whether it is a woman's or man's, to remain healthy and vibrant, two things must happen. Facial skin must be protected from moisture loss in some way comparable to the protection bodies get from clothing, and facial muscles must be protected from premature deterioration by proper massage and exercise. "In Europe," said Ms. Parys, "it is important to go each week for a facial and purchase skin care products each month. The European woman prefers to have regular skin care rather than buy a new dress."

She recommends fresh vegetables in the diet and says "water is the best friend of the body."

Ms. Parys describes what happens to the face that lacks moisture by likening it to the difference between a prune and plum. A moisture cream that took five years to be developed contains protein, oil and water. "Payot is the only company to have this cream," according to Ms. Parys.

In Europe, aestheticians are trained in dermatology as well as cosmetology. An intensive two year course of study enables them to understand and treat skin, said Ms. Parys, who is based in New York City after being associated many years with Dr. Payot.

"I hope they will change laws in United States and have schools for aestheticians," said Ms. Parys. In U.S., aestheticians are trained only in cosmetology and not how to treat skin.

Hands are used in Europe to massage skin, said Ms. Parys. "In America, they use machines," she added.

As a woman, Dr. Payot knew the needs of a woman's face and body and psyche. Her practical nature demanded visible results from skincare preparations; her medical skills enabled her to explore every vista of possible rejuvenation from amniotic fluid to cell therapy.

According to Ms. Parys, it was not until she had a chance meeting with her fellow countrywoman, Anna Pavlova, the foremost Russian ballerina, that her system, as it is known today, was perfected.

Dr. Payot was struck by the curious difference between Pavlova's face and body. The dancer's body was still young and lissomme and firm through daily exercise and lack of exposure to the elements, while her face was severly marked by age.

This is when she realized that facials and massage were important. She developed a series of physiologically correct exercises and massage techniques for the face from observations about the difference between Pavlova's face and body.

The benefit results of both massage and exercise warm and relax the skin, increase blood circulation, oxygenate and help slough off old used cell debris and aid in reviving muscle tone.

This same technique is applied to the face.

Some people, said the directoress, "think massage is hurting the skin by stretching it, but it is not."

There are 47 movements of massage involved. Ms. Parys hopes to open a clinic in Midland in the future.

Makeup techniques: Maximize best features

By LOIS L. LINDAUER Copley News Service

People notice your face before they really look at you totally. Your first and best way to appear slimmer is with a happy, smiling appearance. After that, there are skills of makeup you can easily acquire that will serve to put your best face forward at all times.

Good makeup begins with good skin. Interestingly enough, fashion models worry more about the state of their skins than they do about the state of their figures. There are three skin types: Oily, dry and combination. Each of these requires special treatment.

Oily Skin: You can't be too clean. A deep pore cleaner used morning and night is essential. If you are bothered with blackheads, one of the scrub preparations will help remove them and the ugly oil plugs that form them. After cleansing, close your pores with an astringent and apply a moisturizer made for oily skins.

Dry Skin: The owner of a dry skin needs cleanliness plus extra moisture.

Never go facially bare — use moisturizer morning, noon and night, applying it whenever you wash your face or change makeup. Before you re ready for bed, apply a night cream.

Combination Skin: Use equal parts of the advice above, applied to the proper places. The nose and forehead are generally the oily parts, the ones that require an astringent before moisturizing. Pamper your checks and chin with extra moisture.

While fashions in makeup like fashions in clothes come and go, there are certain basics that remain whether the lips are lipsticked pale pastel or vibrant red. That is because the basics are based on the structure of your face. When you apply makeup, you draw attention to the best features and minimize the less attractive ones.

Do you have a round face? Select a foundation that matches your skin tone. Arch your eyebrows up and out — you can permit them to be slighty thick. If you use eyeliner, apply it in an oblique sweep and give your eyes further emphasis with eye shadow over the eyelid, continued up and out to the end of the brow.

For your hair, a slightly lifting at the crown for extra height and keeping short hair just below the ear will avoid the chubby-faced look. Do you have an oblong face?

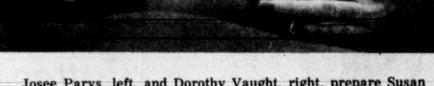

Match your foundation to your skin tones. If your nose is long, try a darker shade at the tip. Start with your eyes and apply your eyeliner and eye shadow in a horizontal line out to the corner, with the eyeliner extending just a bit beyond.

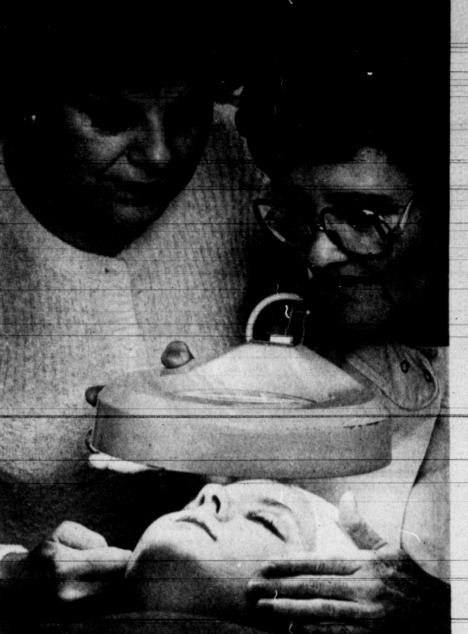

Do you have a square face? When you apply your foundation, apply a darker tone than skin at the jaw with a lighter, skin-matched tone on the rest of the face. Your eye shadow begins at center of eye, goes up to the browline and blends outward. Arch your brows delicately and use eyeliner very definitely in an oblique line.

Your angular jaw dictates your hairdo, which should be soft, loose and full on the sides. Waves curving along your face detract from the angles of the square. Never, never pull your hair back in a severe ponytail or chignon.

Do you have the perfect oblong face? Just go over your own features and perfect the lines with your makeup. Whatever you apply, follow the lines that nature has established.

Draw attention to your face with a center-part hairstyle, and if you have been blessed with a widow's peak, be certain that your hair is combed so that everyone can see it! Josee Parys, left, and Dorothy Vaught, right, prepare Susan Suggs for a facial. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

Do not arch your brows too definitely. Begin low on your cheekbones to apply blush and blend in small triangles, ending at the outer corner of the eyes. An off-side part and a hairdo that is low on the crown but wider at the sides compliments the oblong face. Fullness around the ears will give you a nice, soft look.

Redoing clothes helps with wardrobe budget

By KAREN MEREDITH Copley News Service

If you yearn for some snappy new knee-length spring dresses, but have trouble fitting everything into your budget, here's a plan that can help: Don't buy any new replacement pants, shirts or other classics, so you can spend all your wardrobe money on exciting 1980 looks

How can you avoid replacement purchases? Shorten, mend and trim. Spring skirts and dresses circa 1978 may be as much as 10 inches too long get rid of the excess fabric, slim them down a bit, and they can have a whole new life.

Longest name is Indian

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — An Indian name for a New England lake wins the prize as the longest name among all the more than 66,000 towns and physical features identified in the 1980 Rand McNally Road Atlas.

It is labeled "Lake Chaubunagungamaug" on the Massachusetts map near the point where Connecticut and Rhode Island meet at the Massachusetts border. But that is only a shortened version of the 44-letter full name which is virtually impossible to squeeze in on a heavily detailed road map in readable form.

The complete name is Chargoggagoggmanchaugagoggchaubunagungamaugg, and translates as "I fish on my side, you fish on your side, and nobody fishes in the middle.

The shortest town name in the atlas is Ti, Okla. It was coined from the initials for Indian Territory spelled backwards.

We have two problems to deal with her - fitting and construction.

First, construction: Because the upper and under collars are cut from the same pattern piece, the under collar often will roll to the top. This can be corrected by trimming one-eighth inch from all EXCEPT neck edge of under collar piece. When stitching upper and under collar together, bring raw edges even. This makes under collar slightly smaller than upper colfar, and will help prevent the rolling.

When attaching collar to neck edge, pin, then hand baste. To machine stitch, begin at center back and stitch toward one end. Then start, again at center back and stitch toward opposite end. This will prevent the corner-turn-up you mentioned. If we stitch from one end, all around to the other, the colliar is pulled out of line and will not behave.

Fitting: Rounded shoulders or back will cause the fitting problem you describe. Lowering the neck edge only creates other problems for you. We need to correct the problem where it exists -- at the roundness - by creating more room over the rounded part of the back.

T-shirts: A new glow in fashions

By LUCRETIA STEGER Copley News Service

Take a T-shirt, add a glittering design, jazz it up with flashing lights something like those tiny Christmas blinkers, and what have you got? An electronic T-shirt, says Bob Switzer, who claims to have the only two such battery-operated shirts in San Diego, Calif., great for attracting attention in discos.

Switzer, 27, a partner in Peer Amid Graphics, a design communication company, says such shirts are popular on the East Coast, but as yet undiscovered in California.

"The disco scene is not as highly developed here as on the East Coast and in Chicago,"he says,"And whatever happens in New York, they seem to regard it with suspicion in California.

But glowing and flashing is getting bigger than ever in New York, according to other reports. Introduced in New York recently were highheeled sandals for women with lights that flash off and on at every step. Tiny lights wired into hairstyles put flashing up on top, and electronic blinking jewelry is commonplace.

In what may be a futuristic makeup trend, one cosmetic firm is working to rouges and lipsticks which reflect light, like mirrors, for additional glow. Also planned are light-up belts, vests and jackets.

Peer Amid's electronic shirts are created by installing tiny LEDs, or light-emitting diodes of mylar inside a T-shirt along with a pencil-slim capacitor, or blink-setting circuit, with a patch cord running down to a 9-volt transistor battery, smaller than a matchbox, near the hem. The or she fell into a swimming pool while blinking, Switzer says, due to the minutes to install the blinker system once the heat transfer design is on the shirt, Switzer says. He expects the finished product to sell from $15 to $40.

Diamond studs: A wardrobe basic

By ANN MARSHALL Copley News Service

Last year, diamond stud earrings became an undisputed fashion clas-

For spring 1980, designers are turning the diamond studs into a fashion basic around which today's sophisticated dresser can build an entire wardrobe of earring looks. One good pair of diamond stud earrings can go anywhere, with a little help an intriguing array of add-on acc ries.

For a tailored "big earring" look, gold circles jacket the stud with an array of designs from swirls or braids of gold to gold with small diamonds or diamond pave accents. The stud slips into a hole in the center of the jacket and the post securely holds the new look in place.

The current hot look in earrings is the dangle - and diamond studs readily convert to casual daytime dangles or glittery evening looks. Gold, gold and diamond or all-diamond designs can be teamed with he stud in the front of the lob behind it to mysteriously drop from the back of the ear. Like loops better than drops? Some beautiful new designs by Kurt Wayne of New York attach to the stud behind the lobe and wrap around the ear to give the impression of a second pierce - and build an entire collection in each ear or a continuous band running through the lobe in a graceful symmetry that complements the singular beauty of the stud.

The loops are also available in a wide variety of styles and sizes, from simple gold to small gold with baguette diamonds, to larger evening looks with forward-faced diamonds set to glitter from around the full circle of the design.

The illusion of two pairs of earrings on one ear is further illustrated by a second wraparound stud, which again attaches to the back of the stud post and with the assistance of a subtle wire, pairs up with the "real" stud for a knockout look. This up-and-coming concept can be seen in diamond pave crescent shapes that sparkle on the side of the stud, and in a larger two-earring look of brilliants flanked by several baguettes.

The diamond stud as a wardrobe basic for a fine earring collection is an extension of the investment dressing idea that today's fashion-conscious female is embracing.

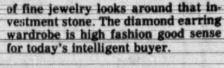

It's a sound investment to purchase

NEW YORK (AP) - It is no coincidence that the spectator shoe is back in style for spring if shoes are, in fact, an indicator of things to come, says Harold B. Gessner, executive director of the Footwear Council.

"The sensible but style-conscious mood of the country demands a revival of the spectator," says Gessner. "The spectator is a classic bicolor shoe with clean crisp lines. It is pretty and feminine - but, at the same time, geometric and futuristic."

The 1980s version of the spectator is a fresh interpretation of the bicolor shoe which includes the traditional white and black or navy, as well as the new brights or pastels, Gessner reports

The styles of hair and shoes are the first indication of things to come things like overall sociological trends as well as fashion, according to Gladys Toulis, as expert on the social significance of dressing and head of the fashion department at Pratt Institute in New York City.

"We are seeing a return to good proportions and the principles of good design. This spring shows beautiful styling that is not faddish and will never be dated," said Ms. Toulis.

"Hair styles are getting away from the looseness of the permanent toward a more precise, geometric, blunt cut," she adds. "Likewise, the spectator is a classic, sensible but feminine shoe - somewhere in between the heavy, chunky platform shoe of the '60s and the spiked heel and the strippy sandal of the '70s."

Veryone would wish, of course, that the excellencies of life could be less costly. But superior materials, unsurpassed skills, profligacy of time, and patient attention to detail preclude this. Still, Petronius' advice to his son, "Costly thy habit as thy purse can bear," remains good advice today. Clothing lacking in quality creates an unsavory impression that is often impossible to repair. Those who can afford the best know this. Sensibly, they prefer to avoid the risk. Everything for Spring

The shirts are washable and wouldn't injure the wearer even if he or she fell into a swimming pool while blinking, Switzer says, due to the small battery used.

" And while these shirts are so new they're not even in production yet, they may be obolete. In the future, a tiny timing chip will be added to program the diodes to blink in time with the music being played, much as light boxes hooked to stereo systems today provide light shows in tune

Diamond jewelry adds elegance

By SHARON KARNEGY Copley News Service

A new decade signifies a fresh start and fashion is beginning the '80s with its freshest statement in a long time. Simple, pure, ladylike elegance from head to toe is making the headlines, and diamond jewelry is the most crucial part of the whole look. Without diamond jewelry, the black and white suit, pastel knit or ruffled evening extravaganza just misses the mark.

The big news in clothing this spring is the re-emergence of knitwear. The new knits are soft and clingy. The color palette is palest pastel to purest white.

Diamond jewelry can dress a knit on its own simple level or can add extra zip by the use of elaborate pieces.

Midland Texas

Rest of nation finally catching up with Texas

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, WED., MARCH 19, 1980

By ANNE FLAHERTY-BOYETT Copley News Service

AMARILLO, Texas - What's chic in New York may be shock to west Texas. Designers are accessorizing heir elegant creations with cowboy

On posh Fifth Avenue in New York City, boutiques stocked exclusively Texas-bred cowboy boots are with springing up faster than flies in a pasture.

Designer Ralph Lauren pioneered the Western trend. Gloria Vanderbilt introduced a line of silk shirts with Western detailing to team with status eans and cowboy boots.

"The best way to be current this ear is to be a Texan," notes innovaor Diane Furstenberg, as she sprints around Manhattan in her Dallasbought-boots.

But it's a long ride from corral to outurier. You can't climb into just any old pair of kickers and expect to be in high style.

As it is with fashion designers, some cowboy boots are more status than others.

And if you think an interpretation cowboy boot (translate: imitation) from the department store will put you in tall cotton, you're wrong. Authentic Western boots are a breed all their own. Almost all genuine cowboy boots manufactured in the United States come from El Paso. The "in" label to own is Tony Lama. Other popular boot makers include Hondo, Larry Mahan, Justin, Sanders and Nocona (named for the town).

Ultra-flashy, special-order rodeo boots are crafted by Luchesse in San Antonio, and Rios in Mercedes, Texas. Lama and Justin are the senior boot makers, and the prices run accordingly. Expect to pay at least $100 to $150 for a plain pair of calfskin mark. Western boots are stitched in all colors, from virtually every hide you can skin from animal or reptile. There are dress boots in suede, lizard, ostrich, caribou, eel, anaconda, antelope and alligator. It is not unusual to find a combination of two leathers on a pair of boots, for exampe calfskin boots. Exotic leathers will top the $200 uppers with an ostrich vamp. The more exotic the leather, the more expensive the price tag. This year, a pair of Tony Lama lizards will cost upward of $250, ostrich boots will top $450 and snakeskin boots will easily be $250-300. Alligator boots are the priciest:

about $1,200 a pair.

Although cowboy boots are most commonly available in basic shades of black, brown and tan, they are stitched in white, ivory, red, gray, green, blue and orange. Special orders for unusual color combinations are not uncommon (for example, purple and orange, red-white-blue).

Cowboy boots - as most people think of them - are tall-topped with a funny slanted high heel and needlenose toes.

From a fashion standpoint, the boots to buy will have a mid-calf or lower top, a riding heel, and a pointed or U-toe

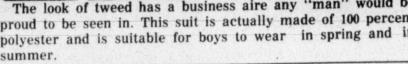

Ready to try a pair? Make sure to wear the socks or stockings you plan to wear after purchase as you try on boots. Remember, Western boots are sized smaller than shoes. Women with a size 8 shoe will probably wear a size 6 or 6.5 cowboy boot Widths are also different. Ladies' boots are sold only in A-B-C widths. Women with narrow feet may have to special order boots, although some boot makers' "lasts" are traditionally narrower than others. Lama lasts are the narrowest on the shelves.

hear reasons such as "rising in-vestment value" and "the psychologyogy of scarcity." It is true, after all, that cultured pearls have become scarcer due to fewer suitable pearl oyster growing areas, and that cultured pearl values are five times higher today than in 1972.

But regardless of reasons, the fact is that cultured pearls today are greatly in demand along all points of the fashion spectrum, from the elegantly formal to the playfully casual. Pearls are as right on ball gowns as on casual sweater sets.

To give you some idea how these lustrous jewels are used, both fashion superstar Oscar de La Renta and a rising young design talent, Tadaomi, plunged long shimmering ropes of pearlsdown the low-cut necklines of their gowns and cocktail dresses, or wrapped them dog-collar style high around the patrician necks of their models. Ralph Lauren, on the other hand, captured a romantic, old-fashioned look with modest strands of small cultured pearls peeking out rom lacy collars.

According to the Cultured Pearl Association, there is a wide choice of pearls available to complement any fashion look. The association provided these guidelines:

First of all, there are three types of pearls and each must be accurately identified by the seller. Natural and cultured pearls are real pearls because they are produced by pearl oysters. Natural pearls result from an accidental intrusion of an irritating object - such as a grain of sand or a piece of shell — into a pearl oyster. The oyster surrounds the irritating object with layer after layer of a smooth crystalline substance called nacre, which builds up year after robe annually, that's year to form a pearl. Spring is in the air - and unfortunately, so are most fashion prices.

But don't be dismayed. Dual-purpose accessories are in vogue this season. With a little planning, they'll help you keep an eye on styling and costs - both at the same time!

To move from day wear to dress wear to sportswear - easily and economically - designers this season recommend those accessories which work well in many outfits and combinations.

One of the most popular and functional items is the wristwatch. It's also one of the most visible accessories.

To make a sensible purchase, follow these tips from the Citizen Watch Co. Consider:

CURRENT WARDROBE: Are you a casual dresser? Think about a strap-on or stretch band model. However, if your day calls for sportswear and evening wear all in a matter of hours, choose an elegant bracelet watch that can be dressed up or down. One watch can look great with both types of clothing. BODY SIZE: Keep in mind your body and wrist shapes.

If you're a dainty person, select a watch with an oblong or rectangular face with a tapered, sleek bracelet band. Larger-wristed women look great sporting a bold-style watch with a thick leather or stretch band. COLORING: Bear in mind your skin tone as well as key colors in your wardrobe. Silver always looks classic with black and cool colors, while yellow gold complements warmer colors

STYLING: Decide on a time display format you find easiest to read. Traditionalists prefer the analog style, with conventional face and hands. Modernists are opting for digital style watches with multi-functional formats. Remember that the watch you choose and wear regularly helps you to make a personal statement. Pick something that will reflect you as an individual

PERFORMANCE: Look for durability and quality performance. Check to see if the manufacturer offers a good warranty and convenient service centers with ample part supplies. Is the watch you've chosen waterproof? Shock resistant?

You should purchase a quartz watch for several reasons - high accuracy timekeeping and year-round dependability. In addition, quartz watches run on battery cells, thereby eliminating the daily chores of rewinding and resetting.

This season, think "function" when you hear the word "fashion.

With today's soaring costs, few people can afford a purchase which amounts to little more than a spring fling. A dual-purpose watch - one that can meet all your needs - can be a fashionable and practical investnent over the years.

fish scales and lacquer. The lacquer provides the shine, the fish scales the iridescence. Because of their crystalline composition, natural and cultured pearls have an inner glow termed luster or orient. Imitation pearls only have a surface shine, and no inner glow.

There are many types of real pearls, ranging from large 15 millimeters pearls grown in South Seas oysters to seed pearls hardly bigger than a grain of sand. The vast majority of pearls range from three millimeters to nine millimeters in size.

The most valuable pearls are those with the greatest physical perfection: perfectly symmetrical, perfectly smooth, with a deep luster and clarity of color. These are termed gem quality and are very rare.

More common are pearls with some slight imperfection, such as less

Even men who make a living as fashion models have imperfections they have learned to hide. And, that's the se-

To help men achieve that result, two of the naton's better-known designers — Nino Cerruti and Luciano Franzoni have some tips. Perhaps the figure

Franzoni, a stylist for Hart Schaffner and Marx, says, "It's just a matter of adjusting — a man must realize that it is there to stay and he must learn how to live with it and adapt his wardrobe to the physi-cal condition." Here are some of the

That paraphrase of a famous line by some anonymous punster very aptly describes a new trend in fragrance preferences, say some perfume industry experts. More and more women exotic scents worn in winter.

Not all women will desert their year-round favorite fragrances, of course, but in these mo-bile times the trend is significant and has been encouraged by modern chemical technology. $15, a woman can sally forth wearing a perfume which is almost a perfect match for prized high fashion scents costing as much as $80 per ounce. A big plus for those of us who don't live on "jet set" incomes.

This is no small achievement. We've had an extraordinary fascination with perfumes for centuries but the historical natural ingredients are expensive and resources are limited - hence the high cost of designer perfumes. Spectacular advances in organic chemical research have changed this Perfume's influence stretches back into antiquity, touching upon religion, medicine, mythology and anthropology. Religion is the first link, with records dating back 25,000 years indicating that sects in India utilized incense as an offering to the gods.

But it was centuries later that the name "perfume" was coined from the Latin "per-perfumun," translated as "through smoke," and relting to the perfume fragrances of incense emanating from the smoky vapors.

The first components of perfume - the essential or volatile oils - were extracted from buds, bark and flowers and from plant excretions such as resins and balsams.

Today, as a result of the advances made in organic chemistry, science has been able to identify the constituents of perfume oils and match the active ingredients to synthesize super perfumes. But identifying the ingredients is only part of the puzzle of duplicating designers' fragrances. Perfumery is both an art and a science and after 'successfully identifying and duplicating them, the ingredients must be "blended" to match the fragrance of the great perfumes.

Blending is an art like painting - like the artist, the perfumer begins with a basic idea or scent and around this are blended the harmonizing colors or fragrances. The painter seeks to balance his light "In the spring a girl's fancy lightly turns to contrasts so that even a sharp image blends naturally into a scene. Blue jeans come back for the '80s

By NATALIE BEST Copley News Service

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. - Blue jeans are dead? Not on your fashion life.

The all-important influence on the fashion dress of the '60s is making a bid to dominate the fashion field of the '80s - for both men and women. Appearing in new fabric designs and blends, blue jeans are making a comeback. The Levi Strauss Co., the world's largest apparel manufactur-ers, hopes to fill the void between high cost, natural fabric garments and low-cost synthetics, with blended fabrics that will have the look and feel of natural fabrics, plus the wash-and-wear qualities people have learned to enjoy, yet at a moderate price.

Peter Haas, president of Levi Strauss and Co., speaking at the Sheraton Newport hotel before marketing and sales management per-sonnel at their fall preview showings explained the new Levi's concept.

"Traditional Levi's, the heavy-duty riveted britches, produced by my great-uncle (Levi Strauss) in 1850 for the California gold miners, had their great acceptance after World War II when blue jeans caught on with aircraft plant workers and students at Berkeley (University of California). Then Levi's became the order of the day for young people throughout the Sixties after they were perma-press and made for women. Today, the new, finely designed Levi's are for both sexes and all ages. And the Levi's now have tops to complete the outfit, including yarn-dyed flannel shirts from Portugal, and blouses, sweaters and jackets in matching colors. It is our fervent hope that, like my uncle, we have produced the right, the sensible, the attractive garment for the period -the new blue jean look for the down-to-earth '80s.

To point up the company's faith in the blue-jean-'80s Haas stressed the growth of Levi Strauss and Co.

"In 1945 when I joined the company we had an $8 million volume with over $6 million of that in pillowcases and blankets and only the $2 million in apparel," he said. "Today we have a worldwide company with 40,000 employees in five divisions and expect to have a sales volume of $2 billion this year and $3 billion this coming year."

Levi Straus also plans to acquire two new factories per year for the next five years

At present the blue jeans king is building the world's largest distribution center, a 1-million-square-foot double shipping area at Waco, Texas

Pat Gerber, a marketing representative, credited the updated styling, including good finishing, matching buttons and long-wearing, seasonless. fabrics for the increasing success of Levi's.

"The appeal of Levi's is growing since we started producing Bendovers-stretch gabardines and denims-for the ladies, from small to medium to larger sizes. It has always been a youth item with the young misses division-now called the Green Berets-accounting for the majority of women's sales. Styles now appear for other ages.

"Now we expect to appeal to the older lady who has never worn blue jeans in her life. Our new classic line styling will make her feel fashionably elegant, girdle her waist and hips becomingly -- and effectively, and offer her coordinated and matching colors she has formerly found in the high-priced designer clothes."

By 1984 Levi Strauss blue jeans may even go formal. They're working on it.

Gold jewelry continues in popularity despite high prices

The popularity of Christmas selling season of other gold finishes and

Related separates replaces the suit By CHRISTINE MUELLER Copley News Service

After working a 40-hour week, paying for food, shelter, gas and taxes, the average working woman has little time and discretionary income left to shop for her working wardrobe.

Recognizing the existence of this problem has led to a new concept in dressing—a collection of related separates for spring by the new Present Co. division of Bobbie Brooks cost less than coordinate ensembles such as the traditional three-piece suit - and, because they are a 'collection' it isn't necessary to waste precious time going from department to department or from store to store to match a blouse to your skirt," says Babette Stern, merchandiser for Present Co. The spring line collection is entirely color-related.

Related separates are individual items - T-tops, jeans, terry, pants, trousers, blouses and skirts that can be mixed and matched to make several outfits.

Although the fall and winter season saw the resurgence of the suit, this spring a suit does not make a wardrobe. Related separates can add that needed variety. Upbeat styles, in colors from pastels to brights, in fabrics from French cotton to interlock knits, are the keys to the 1980 Present Co. line. There are baggy jeans, trousers, and pleated styles in pants. There's a full gamut of T-tops, and terry, including double V necks, capped sleeves, mitered stripes and snap fronts.

In blouses, there are puffed sleeves, bowling shirts, shirring, notched and convertible collars. And, skirts feature side slits, softened slimness and trouser pockets.

The working woman looks for individuality and distinctive style in her wardrobe. She is making a statement about herself in the way she dresses, but she needs to make that statement economically. Convenience in shopping for the wardrobe is equally important. Moderate prices, distinctive style and related separates.

Excessive use of vitamins can be harmful

Copley News Service

Did you know that there is virtually no scientific proof for the miraculous claims made for vitamins?

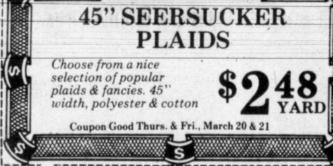

The Food and Drug Administration warns that "vitamins are essential for good health, but excessive amounts are unnecessary and can be harmful."

Elaborate testimonials and claims result from guesswork, confusion and often fraud, the FDA warns. Claims for vitamin E, for instance, say it enhances sexual potency, prevents heart attacks and slows the aging process. But its use, we're told, is generally limited to helping prema-ture babies and persons with intestinal disorders.

As for vitamin C, studies show large doses of C are associated with kidney stones, severe diarrhea and problems for diabetics, though proper amounts help tooth and bone forma-tion and help heal wounds.

Vitamin A is important to skin and skeletal growth but excessive amounts cause the same symptoms as a severe deficiency.

Vitamins taken with mineral supplements in their proper amounts are beneficial to the diet. But a variety of healthful foods is the best way to receive adequate nutrients, contrary to the vitamin myth.

I've always hated being short. There are a lot of reasons for it.

All the short guys who were supposed to feel secure around me and buzz my house every weekend didn't and never did.

People feel a compulsion to hug you because you remind them of a stuffed animal they had as a child.

And every kitchen I've ever owned was built to accommodate Julia Childs (6-2).

It's a tall world and to reinforce my theory, there's a new book coming out next month called "The Height of Your Life," written by Ralph Keyes. He writes that our height is our destiny and there is a strong and pervasive bias in our society in favor of tall people.

It's true. The more successful you become, the taller people think you money you make. Tall women are even more fertile. (Two advantages out of three isn't bad.) One of the things I never considered until I saw it in print was the relation between height and jobs. If you're

So what are the job opportunities left for short women? According to Mr. Keyes: ballclub mascots. Short people are always needed to fit the chicken outfits.

Psychologists. Rock stars, radio and TV reporters, and military heroes. (No wonder they wantus for the draf.)

Theatrical agents are usually short, and saints are notoriously built close to the ground. And we all know how many openings here are for saints.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - A federal court jury was ordered back to court today for a third day of deliberations on a $10 million damage suit after admitting it was confused about testimony linking the morning sickness drug Bendectin to birth deformities.

The four men and two women of the jury sent a note to the judge late Tuesday saying they had been unable to reach a verdict because they were confused by testimony that said any drug can cause birth defects if taken during a critical period during pregnancy.

Michael and Elizabeth Mekdeci of Orlando sued the makers of Bendectin, Richardson-Merrell Inc., for $10 million in damages, alleging that their son David was born with deformities of the chest, right arm and hand as a result of Mrs. Mekdeci having taken Bendectin in the early stages of pregnancy.

"We have failed to reacn a consensus as to whether Bendectin had a better than even chance of causing the birth defects in David Mekdeci." the panel wrote to U.S. District Judge Walter E. Hoffman. "The difference of opinion stems from the fact that there was testimony presented which indicated that any drug or chemical has a slight chance of causing birth defects if ingested during the critical period of pregnancy.

The jurors did not name the witness whose testimony they were referring

The judge told lawyers that since the jury note merely stated there were differences among the jurors and raised no question, he would send them home and have them resume deliberations today.

He had earlier told the opposing attorneys that "with a long case such weeks. The case is expected to have widespread effects because the drug is sold in 21 countries and has been taken by some 30 million pregnant women since 1957. It relieves morning sickness.

Company witnesses testified the firm had received some 200 "adverse reaction reports" from physicians, detailing limb deformities of their patients taking Bendectin and asking the company for more information on the drug.

But defense experts said that number was "statistically insignificant" because of the many birth malformations occurring spontaneously, plus those linked to Thalidomide in the

Reagan talking more like presidential nominee

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - With his victory in Illinois, Ronald Reagan, normally cautious, finally is willing to talk like a man who has the Republican presidential nomination in his pocket.

"I'm relieved and I'm delighted," the former California governor told a news conference late Tuesday after the returns from Illinois showed him with a solid lead over Rep. John Anderson and George Bush.

Pressed by reporters about whether the Illinois result signaled the end of any real contest and that he indeed would be the GOP nominee, Reagan replied:

"You know me and how I'm afraid to say something for fear I'll jinx myself. Let me just say there's a possibility that I will be and I shall conduct myself on the possibility that I shall be.'

However, Reagan said he would continue campaigning in the primaries, adding that several key states remain, including Connecticut and New York next Tuesday.

While waiting to hear the results from Illinois, Reagan campaigned all day in Connecticut, making appearances in Norwich, Stamford, Waterbury, Bridgeport and New Haven.

His principal competition in Connecticut will be Bush, who was born in the state and whose late father, Prescott Bush, served as a Republican senator from Connecticut.

Asked why he was so cautious about the outcome of the presidential race and when he would join so many others who now view him as a certain winner, Reagan smiled and replied, "I'll wait until I have 998 delegates," the number needed for the nomination at the Republican National Convention in Detroit next July.

As for a possible running mate, Reagan repeated his often stated po-sition that the vice-presidential nominee should be "someone who would subscribe to the same things.

Would he consider a woman?

Reagan said he always has been willing to consider a woman, but that polling done in 1976 determined that the country would be resistant to the

He indicated that if a similar poll produced the same result, he once again would reject the idea of a woman as a running mate.

Reagan also said that based on the Illinois results, there is "no question" in his mind that President Carter will be the Democratic presidential nominee

A short time earlier, in a television interview, Reagan, referring to Anderson and Bush, his only remaining major opponents, said the Illinois victory came "at a time when some candidates have pulled out and others are in a borderline situation."

However, he added that both Anderson and Bush have said they would remain in the race through the GOP convention.

Kennedy says strong showing needed in New York primary

NEW YORK (AP) - A defiant Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is vowing anew to stay in the race for the White House category of voter, including blacks, despite a landslide defeat in the Illinois Democratic primary and comewhat-may in next week's election in New York.

But Kennedy, in conceding his big loss to President Carter on Tuesday night, said "a very strong showing" in the New York primary was "essential" to his campaign.

Pledging to conduct a "strong and vigorous" campaign for the next seven days, Kennedy decided to get up today in time for an early morning subway ride in New York City before flying to Rochester and Buffalo.

Illinois, a big industrial state and the largest to hold its primary to date, was once the place Kennedy and his strategists hoped to deal Carter a crippling blow in his bid for a second term.

early polling results showed he trailed Carter among virtually every Jews and union members.

Despite his loss, Kennedy insisted that his candidacy remains viable. "I believe that we can make a very strong showing here in the state of New York," he said. "I believe it's essential that we do, but I believe we will."

He did not say what he meant by a 'very strong showing," but vowed "I will continue" when asked if he would quit if he didn't do well next week.

Kennedy coupled congratulations to the president with a new blast at Carter's economic policies, which he said have failed abysmally, and his foreign policy.

He said it would be "unfortunate indeed" if the president's victory is "interpreted as a referendum on the Carter economic policy or the Carter

foreign policy

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's chief spokesman has suggested, at least indirectly, that it's time for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to abandon his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

After declaring twice that Kennedy would need consistent landslides in remaining primaries if he is to grab the big prize, White House press sec-retary Jody Powell pointedly cited Tuesday what he said was an editorial suggestion that the Massachusetts senator bow out if he lost Tuesday's Illinois primary, which he did.

Powell quoted the Boston Globe, which he described as Kennedy's most consistent editorial supporter, as saying on Feb. 28 that a loss in Illinois "would almost surely sound the death knell" of the senator's 1980 hopes.

The Carter spokesman further quoted the Globe as saying that if Kennedy continued as a candidate after a loss in Illinois, he would "run the risk of assuming the mantle of party spoiler" and undermine his credibility as a spokesman for liberal policies.

The Carter spokesman's repeated citing of the editorial seemed to point to a calculated effort to encourage a Kennedy withdrawal.

Of course, Powell twice said, "That obviously is a cision the senator must make:

But the Carter aide volunteered assistance with Kennedy's campaign arithmetic, arguing the senator would have to claim about 60 percent of the delegates in all future contests in order to win the Democratic nomination.

"It is difficult to do," Powell said.

delegates to Kennedy's 168 according to tabulations made by the Associated Press.

But Powell claimed the president had won 496 delegates to Kennedy's 198, and that the senator's own aides agree "almost exactly" with the Carter

Kennedy has defeated the president only in his home state of Massachusetts and in Alaska and has been defeated in more than a dozen states

The Massachusetts senator insisted there was one bright spot in Illinois: what he said were indications that voters who made up their minds in the final days before the election "voted significantly" for him.

But his loss was bigger than his aides had predicted privately and

New York will send 282 delegates to the national convention. Connecticut, which also holds its primary March 25, will have 54 delegates.

Although he is low on campaign funds, Kennedy said he would use television advertisements to carry his message in New York. Asked how much money he has to buy air time, Kennedy relayed an answer from his campaign manager and brother-inlaw, Stephen Smith.

"Enough," he said. Before the Illinois election, Kennedy's aides expressed optimism that he could score a victory in New York that would perk up his campaign and its treasury.

Lu Hsiu-lien, a 35-year-old graduate of the University of Illinois and Harvard Law School, broke down and started to cry as she recalled the incidents. The presiding judge told her to take a rest and she was given a cup of tea. The judge then said the tribunal would investigate her allegations.

She said she was interrogated intensively night and day and was in a state of exhaustion and poor health when she signed the confession.

Sitting before a five-judge panel, Ms. Lu testified that investigators also used obscene words during her interrogation and threatened to make her strip so they could embarass her enough to tell the truth. The threat was never carried out, she said. Ms. Lu also testified that she was forced to stand for two days and not given any food on another day. Otherwise, she said, she was not tortured during her 100 days of detention.

Responding to questions from the presiding judge, Ms. Lu said she never advocated the use of violence to seize power and was not a member of the Taiwan independence movement. She said she favored democratic elections and greater participation by the people in government.

Earlier in today's proceedings, an-other dissident, Lin Hung-hsuan, 38, etracted part of his confession and denied he ever advocated using force to overthrow the government.

Lin, the manager of Formosa's Kaohsiung office, and two other defendants are accused of links with leaders of Taiwan independence groups in the United States who fanned their "treasonable intentions.

Lin testified that he met with some Taiwanese in the United States and talked about human rights and a suggestion that Taiwan be made "a new and independent country." He said he sympathized with the idea but didn't necessarily favor a change of government and never joined any Taiwan independence group after returning to the island.

Huang Hsin-chieh, 52, a member of the national legislature and publisher of Formosa, testified Tuesday that the dissidents never conspired to overthrow the government but that security officials duped him into signing a confession to that effect. The defendants are accused tion and inciting a riot in the Southern city of Kaohsiung on Dec. 10, in which the government said 183 policemen and soldiers were injured. If convict ed, the defendants could be sentenced to death.

The rioting took place on World Human Rights Day, and international human rights groups have expressed concern about the mass arrests that followed. Observers from Amnesty International and the Presbyterian Church are attending the trial, which is expected to last a few more days.

All F-15s grounded

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) - The Air Force grounded its entire fleet of 420 F-15s to look for accumulations of fuel vapors in the wings that could cause explosions in the late-model, twin-engine jet fighters, a newspaper reports.

About half the planes were inspected and cleared to fly by Tuesday, the Newport News Daily Press said in today's editions.

At Langley Air Force Base in Hampton, 56 of the 59 aircraft inspected were found to have the fuel vapor problem, the newspaper quoted unidentified sources as saying:

Some officials believe the leaking fuel may have played a role earlier this month in a fire at Langley that destroyed a $25 million F-15.

A spokesman for the Tactical Air Command described the grounding as "a precautionary safety inspection." It went into effect Saturday. "They were restricted from flying," the TAC spokesman said. "But if a war had started, they could have flown."

The problem centers on fuel tanks mounted inside the wings of the fighter. Officials at Eglin AFB, in northwest Florida, recently noticed an accumulation of fuel vapors inside thhe wings.

The planes can carry nearly six tons of jet fuel in internal tanks. Those tanks are vented to the outside to prohibit the buildup of explosive. fuel vapors.

The interior of the wing, however, is nearly airtight.

Military officials fear a minuscule fuel leak could allow a dangerous amount of vapor to build up over several years. Some officials speculate that is what might have happened March 10 when an F-15 caught fire on a runway at Langley. The plane was undergoing a preflight maintentance check with a crew chief in the cockpit. When he started the engines, there was an explosion and a wing burst into flames. The crew chief and three others were injured. That accident now is being investigated by the Air Force

Fixing the problem is relatively simple and inexpensive. The mechanics remove some of the panels on each F-15 wing and insert a sensor that detects fuel vapor.

If the vapor is found, the fuel tank is resealed with a liquid that covers any holes in the tanks and then hardens.

Langley's 1st Tactical Fighter Wing received the first operational F-15s.

more than four years ago. The plane, capable of flying more than twice the speed of sound, is flown from four other bases in the United States and from installations in Japan, Germany and the Netherlands.

Saudi Arabia orders formation of Parliament

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Shaken by the bloody attack on Mecca's Grand Mosque, the royal palace is forming a committee to draft laws for a government system and a consultative council to act as the first parliament in Saudi Arabia. However, the council probably will be appointed by the regime.

The announcement of the committee's formation, carried by the official Saudi news agency Tuesday, was hailed by the government-inspired Saudi press as a bold step toward democracy in the world's largest oilexporting nation.

The basic principle for the future government system will be one of consultation between the ruler and the people," said an editorial in the newspaper Okaz that was broadcast by the Saudi state radio. A decree from King Khaled named the interior minister, Prince Nayef Bin Abdul Aziz, as head of the nine-man committee that was asked to draft the new laws "as soon as possible.

Sources close to the royal family said the attack by Moslem dissidents on Mecca's Grand Mosque, which began Nov. 20 and ended Dec. 4, was among the major motives for the projected reforms.

The assault shook the sense of stability in the kingdom that has been ruled by sovereigns enjoying absolute powers since it was founded by King Abdul Aziz 53 years ago.

The assailants who seized the mosque, Islam's holiest shrine, pro-tested the Saudi dynasty's Western-oriented social modernization and demanded a return to the system that prevailed in the early days of Islam.

Battles to recapture the mosque claimed a total of 259 lives. Sixtythree captured attackers were beheaded in public Jan. 9.

Crown Prince Fahd said in January the projected consultative council probably would be made up of 50 to 70 government-appointed, rather than elected, members.

"Elections will bring only the rich to the council," said the man who runs the day-to-day affairs of Saudi Arabia, which gets $90 billion a year from oil sales.

The consultative council is expected to excercise legislative powers that are vested in the king, who now turns for advice to a government-appointed panel of Moslem clergymen specialized in interpreting the rules of the Koran, Islam's holy book.

Although commoners like Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani and Planning Minister Hisham Nazer play influential roles in state affairs, the reigns of power have remained exclusively in the hands of the Saudi royal family.

New anti-inflation package being tried by Japanese

TOKYO (AP) - Warning that "the price situation has now entered an extremely serious stage," the Japanese government today announced a new anti-inflation package designed to restrain overall demand for months to come.

The program calls for controls on public works spending, closer surveil-lance on price movements, release of commodity stockpiles to ease prices and maintenance of tight money.

The package represented an apparent departure from the policy the government has pursued to date of placing equal emphasis on inflation control and economic growth. It was a signal that from now on the government will tackle inflation even at the risk of slowing down the economy.

By coupling the package with an official discount rate increase the Bank of Japan announced Tuesday, the government is hoping to enhance the effectiveness of its efforts to curb inflation. The central bank boosted the bank rate to 9 percent and decided at the same time to raise the reserve requirements for commercial banks.

The government and the Bank of Japan already have set a series of measures in motion to try to combat prices, including a string of discount rate boosts, controls on commercial bank lending activities and two antiinflation programs, but prices have kept spiraling without letup

Wholesale prices that began edging up in November, 1978, shot up at an annual rate of more than 36 percent in February, spreading fears that retail prices will climb with full force this year unless checked.

Carter's new wage guidelines, announced last week, allow increases of 7.5 percent to 9.5 percent in 1980, but the oil industry plans to cite exemptions in the program to justify its higher increase.

"We do feel this settlement is within the guidelines, which we understand to allow additional increases on an exemption basis," Gulf Oil Corp. spokesman Kirk Vogeley said. Specifically, the oil industry wants the government to allow the higher settlement in recognition of the fact that oil workers do not receive automatic cost-of-living raises under their contracts.

Oil dumped on street

PARIS (AP) - Fuel oil was dumped on the street outside President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's Elysee Palace offices this morning in an apparent protest over the latest oil pollution of the north Brittany coast.

Several garbage can loads of the heavy, sticky oil were spread by a group of men who were aboard a truck registered in Brittany. Five were immediately arrested. The wreck of the tanker Tanio off the Brittany coast earlier this month has coated some 60 miles of shoreline with heavy oil. More than 1,300 troops are cleaning the shores by hand.

The Brittany coast was the scene of the world's worst oil pollution accident two years ago when the supertanker Amoco Cadiz went aground, dumping 1.5 million barrels of oil.

Clouds laced with hope

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Oil and gas executives said today storm clouds on the energy horizon are laced with rays of hope.

Railroad Commissioner James Nugent even had a rare good word for the federal government, stating the Natural Gas Policy Act "may now be due some of the credit for providing additional incentives for finding and producing more gas."

More than 100 oil and gas executives attended the commission's annual "state of the industry" hearing.

The commission routinely set the statewide oil allowable for April at 100 percent. The production factor has been at 100 percent each month except three - for the past eight years.

As usual, the East Texas Field allowable was held to 86 percent to avoid possible waste.

Senior Vice President Annon Card

Special OPEC meet set

of Texaco Inc. said President Carter's import fee on foreign oil would contribute to inflation and add yet another layer of bureaucratic regulation to an "already over-regulated oil industry.

He noted 1979 was the first year since 1964 that Texas oil production dipped below a billion barrels.

However, Card said, there is reason for hope

"Many authorities believe that there is as much oil waiting to be discovered and developed in this country as has been produced over the 120 years since oil was first discovered in the United States," he said.

"Another reason for hope is that older oil and gas fields are now more productive because of improved economics and advanced technology," he said.

Chief Executive Officer Theodore

Burtis of Sun Co., Inc., said the oil and gas industry "must demonstrate that profits are fully compatible with good citizenship.'

The public, Burtis said, "must expect the best possible product, the best possible supply and the lowest possible price. They must not expect unlimited energy at low prices."

Nugent said overall Texas natural gas production was up 529 billion cubic feet last year, which is the energy equivalent of 94 million barrels of oil.

"If we had purchased this energy on the world market at $21.50 per barrel of oil, it would have cost over $2 billion of American money paid to foreign countries," Nugent said.

Major purchasers of Texas crude oil submitted nominations for 2,619,-707 barrels a day in April, a decrease of 12,258 barrels a day from March.

Here are the nominations by the buyers for April, in barrels per day, with any changes from March in parentheses:

Scott Harris and Claire Brown had doubles for the Cougars who are now.7-3 on the season. Central, meanwhile, led by Frank Padilla's double and triple, is 3-9 with the defeat. Tod Fields was the losing pitcher for the Bobcats.

Permian edges Pack

Panthers rally in late innings for win

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

It was a case of who was going to survive Tuesday.

Odessa Permian pushed across three runs in the top of the sixth inning at the Memorial Stadium diamond to topple the Midland High Bulldogs, 9-7, in a District 5-4A baseball opener.

With a strong wind blowing out, extra-base hits were the order of the day as the two 5-4A rivals pounded out three doubles, three triples and three home runs with catcher Jimmy Sample's two-bagger in that uprising being the difference in the contest. Six errors didn't help Coach Tim Whalen's Bulldogs, but it seemed like they would pull the game out when outfielder Perry Bolger slammed a three-run homer in the bottom of the fifth inning to give Midland a 7-6 lead PERMIAN HAD taken a 4-0 lead off starting pitcher Paul Cox in the first inning when leftfielder Jimmy Morris unloaded a grand-slam homer. Two errors in the inning got Cox into trouble along with a single by Richard Hanfield to load the sacks. Morris then hit the jackpot for the 4-0 Mojo lead before Midland was able to take its swings at the plate.

The Pack stormed back and countered with three runs of their own in the bottom of the first to get back into the game. Eddie Portillo singled and David Zarate followed with a double that moved Portillo to third. Catcher Jerry Zachery then powered a tworun triple and he scored on a sacrifice fly to Scott Wynne in center.

The Panthers increased their lead to 5-3 in the top of the third when Mike Fowler led things off with a double and scored on Wynne's triple. Cox settled down to get out of the inning without giving up any more runs. He walked Morris and then got Jerry Hix to fly out to shallow left where Bobby Stovall fired a strike to the plate, holding Fowler at third. Sample popped out to Shawn Mowles at first and Bruce LaRoque skied out to right to end the short rally.

Midland got a single run in the bottom of thr fourth. After one was out, Bolger singled, Mowles walked and Portillo hit one through Hix' legs at short. On the error, the ball rolled all the way to the fence where it stuck test. so instead of two Bulldog runs, only was was allowed to score, making it 5-4 at the end of four in Permian's in the fourth, I told Alan to just try favor. and throw strikes and let the fielders do the work. I told him not to try to SAMPLE SMASHED a solo homer strike out every batter, and he did in the top of the fifth for a 6-4 Mojo exactly what I said and I think that lead to set up Bolger's blast that had showed a lot of maturity on his part. the small MHS crowd jumping up and Every kid likes to have a lot of strikedown outs In the sixth inning, Hanfield led off the Mojo order and Russell Hays, ball after he sat so long in the dugout playing his last game for Midland, in the fourth, but he kept throwing it made a diving catch of a foul ball over the plate and Odessa just down the left field line. (Hays is movcouldn't get anything going against ing to San Antonio today). Fowler him." singled and took second when Hays bobbled the ball. Wynne was safe on Louisville cage fans an error by Portillo at short and promptly stole second and Morris walked. Fowler scored on a sacrifice fly by Hix and then Sample doubled in two runs and that was the difference in the game. Midland only got one baserunner in the last two innings of relief pitcher victory in relief of Doelling. Williams is 4-1 on the year. Doug McLean, who came in to throw for Midland in the sixth, absorbed the loss.

Kevin Williams who picked up the Permian only scored two earned runs off the slants of Cox and McLean and Whalen still saw some light at the end of the tunnel despite the disappointing loss. "We did some things very well, but our defense was not sharp. We still can have a good season and be a contender, " said Whalen. Midland is now 3-6 on the year and 0-1 in league play while Mojo is 7-4 and 1-0. The Bulldogs play Big Spring in Midland Saturday while Permian takes on Abilene in Odessa.

Koonce's 2-hit job tames OHS

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

ODESSA — Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Lee Rebels have had what you could consider a pop-gun offensive attack this season, but that image faded as the District 5-4A baseball season opened here Tuesday at the Odessa High diamond.

The Rebels jumped on two OHS hurlers for 15 hits on their way to an 11-0 stomping of the Bronchos. And in a way, all that firepower was wasted with one Alan Koonce on the mound. With Koonce throwing asprin tablets at the Bronchos, even a pop-gun attack would have been enough.

Koonce was working on a perfect game until the fifth inning when he gave up an Oh-My-Gosh-I-Hit-It single to right by a bailing out Mark Valdez. Then in the sixth, Koonce gave up a solid shot to left by Hector Sanchez. Those were the only two Bronchos to reach base all day.

Koonce started his shutout bid by striking out eight of the first nine batters he faced in the first three innings. But his Rebel teammates went on a hitting binge in the fourth when they sent 13 men to the plate for an eight run uprising. Koonce had to sit in the dugout for a long time and that could have been the difference in perfect game and a two-hitter.

"I was thinking about the no-hitter going into the fifth, but I hung a slider to one batter (Valdez) and he got a hit. I thought I should have had a no-hitter, but it was a good game for me," Koonce explained after the con-

Johnson was also impressed by the effort, "After we scored all those runs

"I think he lost a little on his fast

Johnson was also interested in how many hits his players produced. After all, the Rebs need this kind of punch on a more regular basis, and it didn't hurt coming in the league lidlifter. The Rebels should have a big boost in confidence.

The Rebels scored all the runs they needed in the first when Wade Cartwright scored on a single by Jeff Hicks. Koonce could have done the rest, but the Rebs made sure he didn't have to think about anything but throwing strikes.

In the third, Lee struck for another run when Cartwright scored from third on a rundown play. But it was the fourth when the fireworks went on display. It was Lee's biggest inning of the year when they scored eight times on seven hits while 13 players paraded to the plate. OHS also contributed four costly errors in the frame. Tom Morrison, Barry Corley, Cartwright, Robert Perez and Scott Collins all came up with run producing hits in the inning

Lee's only other run came in the fifth when Hicks drove home Cartwright with a single to right.

Morrison had a perfect day with four singles in four at-bats while Cartwright had three hits and scored four times. Hicks also had a three-hit day, including two doubles.

Lee now stands 4-7 on the year and 1-0 in loop action while Odessa High fell to 5-4 and 0-1.

enjoying last laugh LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - University of Louisville basketball fans are having the last laugh this year, so far as intrastate rival the University of Kentucky is concerned. Louisville's advance to the NCAA Final Four in Indianapolis - a milestone that Kentucky did not reach has raised anew the debate: Is Louisville denied the respect that automatitory Sunday in the NCAA Midwest Regional finals over LSU - a team that beat Kentucky in two out of three games this season - and that has Louisville fans smiling.

Some of them stayed up virtually all night Sunday to welcome their team home from that triumph, which they saw as evidence that Louisville is underrated in its own home state.

Louisville, 31-3, is not underrated outside of Kentucky. It was No.2 in the final Associated Press poll this season. Kentucky was fourth.

But Charley Jemley, 16, a brother of Louisville basketball student manager Lambert Jemley, said while waiting for the team that he was about the only Louisville fan at Bardstown Bethlehem High School.

"Everybody else cheers for the Big Blue (Kentucky.) I have to take it all the time.

Louisville fan Greg Nefouse was also on hand and speculated that if Kentucky's team was returning victorious after winning a NCAA regional, Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. "would send a special plane down to get them ... but it's typical of the way some people try to give U of L second-class treatment around here."

MC's Stone to take one more look at WTC

You'd think Jerry Stone had seen all he wanted of Western Texas College this season, but this week the Midland College coach is in Hutchinson, Kan., perhaps seeking consoling confirmation of the Westerners' No. 1 national ranking. And as a matter of Western Junior College Conference pride he's pulling for the greyhounds from Snyder to prove what he witnessed during the regular season was no cotton-pickin' mirage.

It had taken a week after what WTC did to MC in the Region V tournament title game, but Stone's faith was restored. Despite that 21-point setback, the sun has been. rising every morning since. It's a comforting thought.

"I honestly thought we could beat them," Stone said. "We had played three close games during the season and I thought we had a chance. Because I said that, some people interpreted it as meaning I didn't think Western was all that good. That wasn't true. I just felt we were good too, although I knew it would take our best game to pull it off."

Stone went on, "The thing about Western is that they steal the ball and score. A lot of teams steal the ball, but don't score.

"For a while, it was as though the roof caved in," Stone said reliving the disasterous stretch when WTC ran off and left the Chaps. "It really demoralized our team. They began snapping at and blaming each other, the only time that had happened all year. We had to call a time, settle them down and assure them it wasn't anyone's fault. We told them to just go out and play their game. "That's why I was so proud of them when they came back to close the bap to nine points near the end. It showed a lot of character."

PERHAPS the sad part of the past season was that Midland College had its best team in its short history, but so did WTC. Finishing 27-6, the Chaps would have won the WJCC in any other year.

"I think the interest of coaches at the tournament in our four sophomores indicates the quality of our team," Stone said, "All four have offers from four-year colleges and the coaches are interested in them as players who will be used, not as just players to fill out the squad."

Stone noted, "We had more quality players than we've ever had before. One reason for our success was the fact that we had fewer losses than usual as a result of homesickness, grades, or players becoming dissatisfied. We had three or four who would have played normally, but, while it bothered them inside, they accepted their roles with the attitude that the team was most important."

THE JUCO nationals provide Stone with a final respite before recruiting begins for next year. With WTC Coach Nolan Richardson (gone to Tulsa) and the heart and soul of his undefeated team departing, who knows where the power will lie in 1981. In JC ball, where players are around only two years, things can change overnight.

"A new coach at South Plains College with a little recruiting luck, could turn them in a contender," Stone points out.

For Stone, the recruiting season lasts three months. We have neither the budget nor the time to recruit ouring the season," Stone explained. "During the holidays I'll hit the big tournaments in Dallas, Houston or Lubbock, but going into the recruiting period, we don't have much to go on."

Mostly it's a question of getting on the phone, contacting Texas coaches and finding out where the players are. Then it's a matter of personal contact. Even then, there's not much that can be done until after the national signing date.

"They all think UCLA is going to call," Stone says, "When they don't, we wait a week until the shock wears off and then go to work."

STONE tries to tell it like it is and "I don't try to run down another program. It results in no good and besides the kids will know. One thing that helps us is that Midland is a city. There are things to do here. Many junior colleges are in small, isolated towns. The lack of dormitories limits the number of players I can bring in, so we sign fewer than, say, Frank Phillips in Borger, which can house players in dorms. However, their at-trition will be higher than ours as a rule because it is somewhat isolated."

Another plus for MC is that "few have a playing facility like ours on campus. A lot of teams play in a big, new coliseum, but they have only limited practice privleges.'

Chicago's Cubs, apparently unhappy with the demands of Cy Young Award winner Bruce Sutter to renegotiate a long term contract, reportedly are talking trade with the St. Louis Cardinals. He'd get traded, sentence. Managers get this little only no one wants him. lump in their throats when they pencil

Which is why baseball was shocked last year when the California Angels made Robert Anthony Grich their No. 8 hitter. On the face of it, he didn't have the credentials. I mean, Bobby Grich once hit 19 home runs and drove in 82 runs in one season. That's a career for most No. 8 hitters.

There's a pecking order in baseball which holds that No. 8 hitters shouldn't shower with the big boys. No. 8 hitters don't hold out, become free agents, and the only after-dinner speaking they get to do is, "Pass the sugar."

Everyone figured Bobby Grich should get one call to his lawyer before he let them lock him away in No. 8. He should have screamed, "I'll take this to the highest court in the land! Why I once led off for the Baltimore Orioles! And I'm an American citizen! You can't do this to me!" It was freely predicted the matter would go to arbitration.

THE TROUBLE with No. 8 is, you come to bat frequently -- in fact, usually -- with no one on base, two outs, and the weakest hitter coming up next. If you see a pitch in the strike zone, it's got hair on it. At contract time, your stocks look like you spent the year apologizing.

You never get to bat till the third inning -- which means you'll never get 200 hits a season. Even Pete Rose needs 650 at-bats to get that. No. 8 hitters are the unknown soldiers of baseball. They would lie in unmarked graves if baseball buried them.

Angels slip foes a Mickey in No. 8 batting position

So, a lot of people were holding their ears when Bobby Grich was thrown into that spot. They expected him to yell, "What am I -- cannon fodder?!"

To everyone's considerable astonishment, Bobby Grich liked the sensation. The poison position was his meat. "For one thing," he explains, 'when I used to bat second, I had to take pitches to let the leadoff man only strikes. I had to foul off good pitches. Now, I can attack any pitch I want. I can be aggressive. No one is saying, 'Now, don't make out because our slugger is coming up next, just try to get on base, please.'

ON THE eighth slot, Bobby is the slugger. Pitchers tend to nonchalant their way through the bottom of the order, to try to get by without touch-ing the principal of their talent, and pitch off the interest. A No. 8 hitter gets a lot of hanging curves -- and no one to tell him to lay off them.

Even the penalty of not coming to bat before the third inning was a plus to Grich. "You get to watch the first seven hitters," he explains. "By the steal or bluff. I had to make sure I hit time you come up there, if you've doubles and five triples to go with his been paying attention, you get an idea 30 homers. Clearly, as a No. 8 hitter, what the pitcher's pattern is and what it's going to be.'

Bobby Grich liked the position so well, he may have batted himself right out of it. He hit 30 home runs last year, which may be a record for No. 8 hitters -- in fact, for a lot of No. 4 hitters.

Bobby Grich batted .294 and had 30 got Bobby Grich batting EIGHTH!"

Rookies spark Indians, Reds to exhibition wins

By The Associated Press Duane Walker and Joe Charboneau are two rookies with little chance to make the major leagues this year despite impressive spring performances

Charboneau, who hit .352 for Cleveland's Class AA Chattanooga club last summer, pounded a three-run ninth inning homer and added a run-scoring single as the Indians pounded the Chicago Cubs 7-2 Tuesday. Walker's second homer of the spring helped the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-3 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In other exhibition games, Toronto outscored St. Louis 11-10, Milwaukee outlasted San Diego 6-5, the New York Yankees blanked the Chicago White Sox 1-0, California nipped Oakland 2-1, Seattle blanked San Francisco 6-0, Montreal shut out Philadelphia 2-0, Kansas City bombed Pittsburgh 8-4, Baltimore nipped Texas 4-3, Detroit held off Houston 5-4, Minnesota defeated Boston 5-2 and a Cincinnati "B" team defeated the New York Mets 7-5.

Jim Kaat and Tommy John allowed two hits apiece, in four and five innings, respectively, and Bobby ninth straight spring loss.

The Expos used Scott Sanderson, Jamie Easterly and Hal Dues to blank Philadelphia on six hits, while collecting only five themselves.

Otto Velez hit two homers and a single to lead a 16-hit attack for Toronto against St. Louis. The final run came in on a throwing error by Garry Templeton.

Elsewhere, Don Money's two-run single in the ninth inning lifted the Brewers over the Padres; Rod Carew doubled home one California run and doubled to set up the other as the Angels slipped past Oakland; five sacrifice flies helped the Royals rout the Pirates; Baltimore's Mark Corey hit a 450-foot homer in the eighth inning to snap a tie and hand Texas its

for Olympic hero Craig

NHL life turns sour

By Associated Press

The National Hockey League is not just a pot of gold for Jim Craig.

After a spectacular performance as goaltender for the gold medal U.S. Olympic hockey team and a victory and a tie in his first two NHL games. Craig's magic was tarnished Tuesday night when the New York Islanders bombed the Atlanta Flames 6-3.

Craig was pulled early in second period after he gave up the first five New York goals while facing just 11 shots. But he received a one-minute standing ovation from the 14,995 fans at Nassau Coliseum as he skated off the ice.

"After the first shot went in (only one minute into the game), it was an indication that it would be a bad night," said Craig. "I had a bunch of 'almost' saves, but I didn't get them and that's what counts.

The first of three assists by the Islanders' Mike Bossy led to a goal by Stefan Persson only 1:26 into the game. Then in rapid-fire order, Denis Potvin, Bob Bourne and Bryan Trottier made it 4-0 in the first period before Duane Sutter scored on a 2-on-1 break at 6:11 of the second to signal the end for Craig.

The Islanders clinched a playoff spot with the victory.

Caps 4, Rockies 1- Mike Gartner scored in his eighth consecutive game as Washington set a club record with its seventh straight contest without a loss. The Caps also broke a tie with Detroit for the 16th and final playoff spot with nine games to play.

North Stars 4, Penguins 3-Craig Hartsburg scored with only 1:52 remaining to spoil a comeback by Pittsburgh, which had rallied from a 3-1 deficit in a 64-second span of the third period on goals by Rick Kehoe and Russ Anderson.

Bruins 3, Blues 3-Dwight Foster scored on a rebound from a goalmouth scramble with 46 seconds remaining to rally Boston into a tie. Blake Dunlop scored a pair of thirdperiod goals to give St. Louis a 3-2 lead, but the Bruins removed goalie Gerry Cheevers with 1:05 left and the gamble worked.

Clifford, the former defense secretary and adviser to presidents for 30 years, said Tuesday the U.S. response to Soviet aggression in the area could come anywhere in the world and could use any weapons in the U.S. arsenal.

"There is just no limitation to it if they engage in an act of war against the United States," Clifford told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee

Many committee members say Clifford and the Carter administration have reacted correctly to meet a serious Soviet challenge, but other persons say the Carter administration seriously overreacted.

Official administration policy, spelled out in President Carter's State of the Union address, is that if the Soviets move toward the Gulf, the United States will repel them by any means, "including military force." Clifford, who holds no formal administration

Jury wants Elvis' autopsy

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - The Shelby County grand jury, in the fourth week of an investigation of Elvis Presley's doctor, has subpoenaed the confidential autopsy report on the late rock'n'roll star.

Assistant Attorney General Michael Neal has asked Chancellor D.J. Alisandratos to hear arguments March 31 on a motion to remove his protective order from the autopsy report. Alisandratos last year ordered County Medical Examiner Jerry Francisco, Baptist Hospital and the University of Tennessee Center for the Health Sciences to turn over copies of the autopsy report to the Chancery Court clerk for safekeeping.

He said the reports would be kept in a vault at an undisclosed bank until he ruled in a suit brought by ABC-TV against Francisco for the release of the reports. Presley's autopsy report has never been made public and ABC filed suit in September contending the report is a public document.

The grand jury is checking prescriptions written by Dr. George Nichopoulos, Presley's personal physician for 11 years before the singer's Aug. 16, 1977, death.
