get-writers, chopping $16.5 billion from President Carter's original 1981 budget, are recommending that the full House approve the first balanced Judget in 12 years.

The House Budget Committee approved the package late Thursday night on an 18-6 vote that pitted Republicans and moderate Democrats against liberal Democrats who were upset with cuts in social programs.

Although Carter called last week for a balanced budget, the president has yet to submit a revised version of his 1981 spending plan. The budget he proposed in January called for a $15.8 billion deficit

Buoyed by the unusual show of Republican support, Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., committee chairman, said Thursday he hopes to bring the budget to the House floor next

The committee-backed 1981 budget, covering the fiscal year starting Oct. 1. recommends $611.8 billion in spending, $613.8 billion in revenues and a $2

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, one of the panel's two black members, said the proposed budget made him 'ashamed of the Democratic Party.' He vowed that all 17 members of the Congressional Black Caucus would oppose the package.

Giaimo assured Republican support for the budget when he and other Democrats supported a GOP plan to earmark the $10.3 billion from Carter's import fee on gasoline for a $20 billion "productivity" tax cut, to take effect Jan. 1, 1981.

Russian explanations raises some U.S. doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) - Several State Department officials say they are skeptical of the Soviet Union's explanation for an outbreak of anthrax last year in the Ural Mountains

The Soviet explanation, tendered Thursday, said the outbreak in the city of Sverdlovsk was due to natural causes, perhaps traceable to improper food handling. That was deemed a "satisfactory initial response" by department spokesman David Passage shortly after it was received.

But several hours later, officials said privately that the Russians' story was not compatible with what the United States knows about anthrax and thinks it knows about what happened in Sverdlovsk last April.

Based on what officials call reliable intelligence reports from emigres who were there at the time, the officials believe several hundred people died in the

The Soviet response, the officials said, gave no details of how many people died or how many were affected.

That is a critical factor in the puzzle, because natural anthrax, at least as it is known in the United States, is not the type of disease to spread rapidly through

According to Dr. Billy Johnson, an Agriculture Department specialist, anthrax is a bacteriological disease that affects primarily cattle and some other types of livestock.

Sliding through the introductions by listing their qualifications, candidates for various city offices finally reached the meaty issues of the races Thursday during a League of Women Voters forum held in the Community Room at Commercial Bank & Trust

Issues in the mayoral and Midland City Council races boiled down to acceptance of federal funds for housing, annexation of land north of the city limits and streets.

For the Midland Independent School Board trustees' two races, the issues were compressed into salaries for teachers, better discipline of students and more cooperation from par-

DWI violators can expect having licenses suspended

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans convicted of drunken driving after April 1 can count on having their licenses suspended even if their sentences are probated, the Department of Public Safety says.

DPS director Jim Adams announced the policy Thursday.

A law that took effect Aug. 27, 1979, says a probated DWI conviction is a final conviction, meaning a convicted driver's license can be suspended.

Before the new law was passed, a conviction with a probated sentence was not considered final, and the mandatory one-year suspension did not apply. Attorney General Mark White held on Jan. 29, however, that a person convicted of a misdemeanor DWI and placed on probation is subject to automatic license suspension.

Adams said he has asked White whether the Jan. 29 opinion applies to all DWI convictions since Aug. 27, or only to those convictions occurring after Jan. 29

Adams said the DPS is delaying action on approximately 6,000 cases until it receives White's second opinion. DWI convictions that become final will be controlled by the pending opinion. Convictions after April 1 will be controlled by the new law, which provides an automatic one-year suspension on final conviction in a misdemeanor DWIkase.

Roses to be planted in city garden Saturday

ing, the members will serve as supervisors, she explained

While the garden is a project of the Rose Society, it is being planted in a city park for the benefit of the community. That spot in Crier Park behind the Central Fire Station — was at the point it needed to be landscaped when Mrs. Butts came up with her idea.

She went to the Parks and Recreation Department where they embraced the idea eagerly and eventually suggested Crier Park as the location. Mrs. Butts designed the garden and, with the support of Parks and Recreation, presented it to Midland City Council.

The council, at a loss as to how the park could be developed to please the surrounding neighbors, gave its full support to the garden.

'The city crews have been super," said Mrs. Butts of the employees who dug the rose beds and poured the concrete sidewalks. "They have worked eagerly and as fast as possible to get the beds ready."

She designed the rose garden to accommodate any and all types of people, including handicapped and the blind. The sidewalks are at least five feet wide for wheelchairs. And one area for the visually handicapped will have roses planted near the sidewalk where it will be easier for them to smell and touch the flowers, she said.

Benches will be located near two fragrance beds where the south winds will blow across the garden, bringing the sweet smell to the garden's visitors and the surrounding neighborhood.

Other features include a gazebo that can be used for weddings and trellises covered with miniature

Jackson and Perkins Co. - which Mrs. Butts describes as the largest rose growers in the world - has donated 655 rose bushes to get the garden started this year. In addition, the garden has been color-coordinated by an employee at the Medford, Ore., business.

One interesting aspect of the venture, said Mrs. Butts, is that one of the men involved in selecting the roses and getting them to Midland, is Bob Spoonts, whose parents live in Midland County

Mrs. Butts recalled that the company first had offered 300 rose bushes. But when they heard how well the city had responded to the garden idea, the firm upped its offer to 655.

According to Mrs. Butts, there isn't a similar rose garden in this area. Jackson and Perkins will be looking at it as a test garden to see how various varieties of roses take to West

That donation includes replacing bushes under a continuancy plan, she said. "Every spring they will check with us (Rose Society) and see how many rose bushes we need to keep the garden filled and attractive."

The Rose Society will take the responsibility of maintaining the garden. A separate fund is being established by the Parks and Recreation Department to accept tax-deductible donations for upkeep. Also from that fund will come the money to pay a part-time person for daily watering and gardening, she Citizens can begin to see the result of the Saturday planting in about 60 to 70 days. And by fall, all rose bushes should be in full bloom, she said. "We truly want this to be a community project.

Officials said they would be charged with "desecration of a venerated object," a misdemeanor carrying a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $2,000 fine. They were arraigned late Thursday by Magistrate Mary Elizabeth Ladd, who set bond at $1,000 each.

Three other persons, identified as associates of the trio, also were arrested, and police said they would be charged with disorderly conduct.

While several tourists were inside the mission, the protesters began scaling walls at the side of the building about 2 p.m., easily reaching the 20-foot-high roof.

After unfurling a banner that said, 'Revolutionary May Day 1980. Take History Into Our Hands," they tossed leaflets and shouted slogans over a bullhorn until the roar of a police helicopter drowned them out. When police in the helicopter confirmed the trio had no arms, officers dimbed a ladder at the back of the 226-year-old building and arrested the protesters.

The Houston-based protest organization is seeking support for protests on May 1, according t man who declined to give her name. The protesters said the Alamo and the Texas Revolution led to the Mexican War and the "theft" of Texas and other Mexican land in the Southwest.

Cigarette tax may fund health insurance plan while another officer handcuffs an-

red flag. (AP Laserphotos)

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Finance Committee is eyeing the possibility of a new federal tax on cigarettes and luxury items to help pay for a plan to insure all Americans # against catastrophic illness.

The committee is looking for a way to finance the federal government's share of the national health plan, which is in deep trouble because of renewed efforts to balance the federal budget.

Senate budget cutters are expected to take a dim view of any request for large amounts of money for new health care initiatives when they begin work next week

With that in mind, finance chairman Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., directed his staff Thursday to continue writing details of the health program, but at the same time explore new taxes to finance it.

Even if the proposal makes it out of the Finance Committee, there is only a slim chance it would be passed by the Senate and House. 'We would like to recommend a program along with a tax to pay for 'Long said at a committee meeting Thursday.

The Louisiana senator recalled that Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., has in the past suggested raising the eight-centa-pack tax on cigarettes to 18 cents, and using the new revenue to finance health projects.

Danforth said the added cigarette tax would yield $2.9 billion a year.

When Danforth offered the idea to the committee last year it was greeted with uncomfortable chuckles from his colleagues, all very aware of the lobbying muscle of the tobacco indus-favor of accepting federal funds for Midland's housing problems. But Akins advocated the move with exceptions, and those were to eliminate the Section 8 rental subsidy division in the Community Development funds application

THAT SECTION HAS been a sore spot for the City Council for at least three years with Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. opposed to it. For the past two years, the council vote to apply for CD funds with rental subsidy has failed on a tie vote of 3-3.

Allday and Hollums said without a doubt they are in favor of taking the funds, in spite of the federal red strings. Akins said he would apply for CD funds, but without Section 8.

'The ends do not justify the means," said Akins who added that a U.S. senator claims it has created slums across the United States.

Allday countered that the CD funds could assist the elderly and handicapped. And if any city could operate a rental subsidy program in a positive manner, Midland can, he added.

Candidates for the council were split on the issue. Bailey is in favor because the funds Midland doesn't accept "don't go back to the government. They go to other cities.'

Davidson is studying a report on rental subsidy by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and hasn't reached a decision. Lynch said he opposes any idea of accepting federal monies.

DESCRIBING THE funds as "our tax dollars," Sloan said he would and has in the past - voted to apply for the money.

Annexation of a tract of land north of Midland brought favorable reaction from most of the mayoral and council candidates. But they stipulated the annexation should be done when necessary, in an orderly manner and not just to increase the city's tax roll.

Hollums said he was still undecided and Lynch charged the city is trying to do it in a "rush." Sloan, however, explained the city has been studying the issue since 1976.

"It's a foregone conclusion that annexation will have to take place,' Sloan said. "We can't stifle the city's growth. But we can't do it under ordinances that would change the lifestyles of people living in that

While all council and mayoral candidates advocated one-way streets, Hollums stressed the need for more patrolling of school zones and street improvements.

Candidates for the school board backed the proposed $3 million school bond issue that will be on the April 5

For Gilbert, the major problem with the school district is that it can't pass a bond issue that is needed. Jackson feels the problem is the community won't back the school board. Britton sees lack of discipline of children by parents as a drawback while Ramsoure wants to restore confidence of the parents in public

"The problem is with parents who let their kids get away with things," Britton pointed out. "You've got to give teachers and schools your support. The teachers are almost afraid to discipline students.

Ramsoure explained that under a state law, the teachers will get about a 9 percent pay increase "but we know that's not enough today."

Britton pointed out that enrollment in private schools is up, and attributed the increase to a poorer public education school system. Ramsoure rebuffed that remark, saying that "in a democracy you have a choice.

"Enrollment in private schools went up as an objection to busing. But those students have to come back into secondary public schools. The private schools get to pick their students; we don't," he added.

Neill, although unopposed, explained his reason for seeking the hospital district position is to "continue efficient operation of the hospital. It's certainly not for personal gain." Another forum sponsored by the KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Hilda Jean Lawson, left sterile by earlier birth complications, promised her boyfriend she would have a baby for him - and delivered, officials say. She's charged with kidnapping a 5day-old girl as the infant was nursed in a hospital maternity ward.

Curly-haired Erica Elaine Adams was back in the arms of her mother at University of Tennessee Hospital on Thursday, 22 hours after a woman took her away to change her diaper.

Pouring Allison Center walls will be 'an event'

Midland Memorial Hospital officials plan to make "an event" of pouring the seven-foot concrete walls on the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center.

The announcement was made at Thursday's meeting of the Midland County Hospital District board of directors. Hospital officials expect the major pouring to begin Thursday morning and plan to invite hospital directors, trustees, employees and others to watch the event from the roof of the hospital.

The cancer therapy center is currently under construction adjacent to the hospital. It was made possible through a $2 million donation by Helon Y. Allison.

In other business the directors met with Walter Holton, the board's representative to the Midland County Tax Appraisal Board. Directors basically agreed with the appraisal board's decision to put off appointing a chief appraiser for the county until they have more information.

Hospital board president Ed Magruder, however, told Holton, "If I had wanted the county to assess and collect our taxes, I would have voted for that when we started this district. I don't want it any more now than I

The hospital district's tax appraisals, assessments and collections are handled through the city tax office currently.

The tax appraisal board has three options in choosing a chief appraiser. They may appoint either the city tax assessor, the county tax assessor or set up a third agency to handle tax assessment for property in the coun-

Taco Bell loses $400 to telephone robbers

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -Most fast food restaurants take "call in" orders, but it cost one in Fort Worth about $400 to fill a customer's Cheri Moore, 25, manager of a Taco Bell restaurant, said she and another employee were about to close the establishment early Thursday when a man telephoned.

"This is a telephone robbery," she quoted the man as saying.

She said the man accurately described her and the employe and said another man was across the street with a rifle aimed at them.

"This guy is an ex-con and he is not afraid to shoot to kill," the manager quoted the man as saying.

She said she took about $400 and placed it outside where the man told

Moore said she never saw the robber or robbers. "I'll be honest with you, I didn't even look. I was afraid that if they saw me looking they'd shoot," she said.

The woman said the robber stayed on the telephone, giving her permission to lock the establishment after she placed the money outside. He said he would come back to the telephone, but he never said anything

Police theorized the call came from a nearby pay telephone.

Mayor drowns in waste tank

BETTERTON, Md. (AP) - Mayor Monica Myers probably never had a chance when she fell into a sewage tank in her town's biggest municipal facility and drowned, officials say.

"It looks to me like she was up on the catwalks over top of the tank and slipped and fell into human waste," said chief Deputy Buster Blackiston. "It's just like putty, and she didn't have a chance to get out. It's like quicksand.' Karl Gustafson, the town engineer, found the body of the 70-year-old woman when he arrived at the Betterton treatment plant early Thurs-

He said Mrs. Myers often brushed the tanks and took tests for chlorine and sediment, and her testing equipment was inside when he arrived.

When he climbed to the catwalks where Mrs. Myers would normally stand to clean the edges of the tanks and perform tests, Gustafson said, he found her body floating face-down in the 15-foot-deep aeration tank four-

"I went to her and turned her over, and seen there was no point (in attempting a rescue) - she was gone," he said.

A coronor's examination was scheduled to determine the cause of death. Blackiston said Mrs. Myers' family reported no history of heart disease and his investigation had turned up no signs of foul play.

Mrs. Myers; a widow and former nurse, often worked around the plant in this Chesapeake Bay community of 125 residents.

She became mayor last April when then-Mayor Charles Clark was killed in an automobile accident. Before her appointment, she had been a member of the Betterton Council for about six

Have we gone too far?

The fact that masked terrorists wielding guns raided the headquarters of two presidential candidates last weekend raises the question of whether our desire to protect our civil liberties is proving counterproductive.

The terrorists raided the Chicago headquarters of President Jimmy Carter and the Manhattan offices of Republican George

They tied up campaign workers. searched the offices, scrawled Puerto Rican nationalist slogans on the walls and then left.

Some of the raiders claimed to be members of FALN, a Puerto Rican terrorist organization.

Fortunately, none of the people present in the offices was injured in the incidents. But it was too close a call and should be considered a warning of things to come. The fact that it happened necessitates action.

What is needed, we believe, is a re-examination of our libertarian values. We must determine which is more important in some areas - protection of our civil rights and liberties or protection of our society against terrorists.

For several years this nation rocked along with libertarian concerns gaining by leaps and bounds at the expense of our intelligence gathering agencies, both domestically and internationally.

Wiretapping became a dirty word during the 1960s, but with that change in philosophy our intelligence gathering organizations also lost some of the ability they possessed to protect us.

It may be true that Jimmy Carter, George Bush and other politicians know and accept the dangers they face when they run for office. But that doesn't - or shouldn't - mean that they become fair game for all the subversive, radical organizations around.

Many Americans profess a zealous disbelief that the United States could be taken over by communists or some other variety of totalitarians. Such confidence is based on ignorance, especially of the mechanics of

It really isn't that difficult for a minority to control a majority. There is one major and two minor elements necessary. It's a good idea to keep them in mind, for they are related to a number of current political issues.

The major element in controlling people is to have a monopoly on weap ons. A few men with weapons can control hundreds who are disarmed. This is one of those deceptively simple concepts which is easy to understand intellectually but difficult for most Americans to relate to their own

For one thing, never in our history have we allowed the government to hold a monopoly on weapons. The Second Amendment to the Constitution, a part of our Bill of Rights, guarantees the right of citizens to own

This is a right which is increasingly under attack and increasingly misunderstood, but just think about a situation in which the government possessed all of the guns. No problem so long as the government is benign. People today who own no weapons feel comfortable and secure. The government is on their side; there are laws to protect them. True, but suppose the government goes bad.

which is brute force. The power of the law is dependent on the brute force available to enforce it. The power of ideas is the power to rally and direct brute force. No tyranny has ever been overthrown by laws, votes, or words; only by physical force.

Most Americans have not experienced a government gone beserk and unrestrained by law so they cannot appreciate the terrible helplessness of a disarmed populace. It is a fate we must avoid by guarding our right to keep and bear arms. You can see, then, that to control the U.S., you would have to disarm the population and control the police and the army. This may seem unlikely, but it's been pulled off in a number of countries. Whole armies have been surrendered by their leaders.

This is conceivable if we allow our ilitary posture to continue to deteriorate. It is possible a President, confronted by the Soviet Union with an ultimatum, might surrender in lieu of a nuclear holocaust.

In such a crisis, our army would assume a role it has never played before in our history. It would become a political factor. Would it obey the President and surrender or would it seize power? Most of us don't think about it but the American military establishment has the power to take over our government any time it chooses - provided the troops remain loyal to the commanders.

Here again we confront a political issue. The volunteer army is a misnomer. It is a professional army, something we have historically avoided. An army made up of citizen conscripts is far more likely to remain loyal to the civilian leadership than an army made up entirely of professionals. That's why in the past we opted for a very small (and weak) professional army and relied on the militia in time of war. By abandoning this principle, we are playing a dan-

Since outside circumstances dictate far safer to have it composed of reluctant draftees than men who fight for money.

But nuclear blackmail and military coup are only two scenarios. There exist executive orders, designed to go into effect in a national emergency, that set up a dictatorship. We might foolishly elect a man who would seize the opportunity of an economic crisis to impose a dictatorship. We might, if times got bad enough, even seek out a dictator. It's happened in other coun-

Just keep in mind it could happen here. Seize the military and police, disarm the people, and you've got a country by the throat. The two minor elements easily follow: food supply and communications. Our complex society make seizing both relatively simple

Once more, the cliche proves to be a basic truth. Eternal vigilance really is the price of liberty.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Carter's voluntary guidelines proving futile

WASHINGTON - Jimmy Carter's faltering attempts to deal with inflation have been based mainly on a sort of evangelical approach - appealing to Big Business and Big Labor to moderate their moneymaking tendencies voluntarily

In the case of Big Business, this call for Christian forbearance has fallen on deaf ears. There are few bornagain businessmen when increased profit margins are at stake.

The sad, blunt truth is that the president's voluntary wage and price guidelines are not working. A specific and glaring example is in the home heating fuel industry.

The mercifully mild winter has allowed many of the nation's poor to avoid a drastic "heat or eat" dilemma. But it hasn't kept the oil companies from raking in unconscionable profits on home heating fuel.

The oil companies howl about their increased costs and claim that the skyrocketing price of fuel oil does not reflect a greedy grab for profits. Figures from congressional investigators and the president's own Council on Wage and Price Stability throw considerable doubt on these pious claims, however. In September 1978, a month before Carter's voluntary guidelines were announced; a gallon of heating oil cost, on the average, 36 cents. Of that amount, the refiner paid about 29 cents in crude oil costs, leaving a margin of 7 cents. Of this 7 cents, about 5.4 cents were eaten up by operating costs, according to a National Petroleum Council study. That left a modest 1.6 cents per gallon in profits.

A year after the voluntary guidelines went into effect, a gallon of home heating oil cost an average of 69 cents. (This has gone up to about 90 cents today.) Of the 69 cents, 48 was the cost of the crude oil. That left a margin of 21 cents.

Using the industry's own figures, investigators for Rep. Ben Rosenthal, D-N.Y., estimated the rise in operating costs at about 20 percent, or 1.5 cents per gallon. The remaining 14 cents would be profit.

In a little-noticed study, gressional Research Service found similar data and concluded that "no doubt operating costs have risen (but) it appears unlikely that they rose by 100 percent.'

The study adds: "Any amount of this increase in margins not offset by higher operating costs is likely to be recorded as higher refiner profit ... A clear implication is that refiners' profits have risen significantly. Investigators for the House Energy and Power subcommittee interviewed representatives of Gulf, Mobil, Hess, Texaco, Exxon and Amoco and came to this conclusion: "Contrary to oil company claims in congressional testimony that their price increases bear a direct relationship to their increased costs, the staff has found that costs are not even a consideration in the decisionmaking process for setting prices in the major companies.'

Also contrary to their congressional testimony, "the major oil companies did no marginal cost analysis as the basis for their enormous price increases over the last year," the subcommittee staff found.

Instead, the investigators concluded, the big oil companies "charge what the market will bear.'

INSIDE REPORT:

President Carter caught up in the web of Israel

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Carter was so aggrieved by tough questioning during a picture-taking session with 30 Jewish leaders in the East Room of the White House March 4 that he stalked out before any pictures could be taken - bringing into sharp focus his Israel dilemma.

The dilemma: Jimmy Carter has driven himself into a corner by attempting to reconcile his honest convictions over the future of the West Bank with his contortions to satisfy the important Jewish constituency he needs for re-election. The two are unreconcilable.

Until his retraction of the anti-Israel vote by the U.S. March 1 in the United Nations Security Council, Carter had seemed to be handling the Arab-Israeli time bomb discreetly enough to avoid an explosion. The U.N. vote ended that impression.

On March 4, Commerce Secretary Philip Klutznick arranged to have the president go to the East Room where 30 American Jewish leaders from the World Jewish Congress had been invited to have their pictures taken with Jimmy Carter. Carter was still steaming over the violent criticism he had been taking from Israeli and American Jewish leaders in the U.S. over the Security Council vote.

When he entered, he apologized for what he called the "glitch" in his failure to have understood full implications of the U.N. vote. Then, "warm nd friendly," according to one Jewish leader who was there, he smiled and said that, "If you can stand to have your picture taken with me, now is the time. Instead, Arthur Schneier, a prominent New York rabbi, rose to ask this question: How could Israel be certain that there wouldn't be another "glitch" in the future? That angered Jimmy Carter; he gave a chilly reply, cancelled the picture session, turned on his heel and walked away.

The president's reaction and the question that provoked it were made inevitable by Carter. He has been stretching credibility to convince the Jewish community and Israel that there is not all that much difference between him and them on Jerusalem and the West Bank.

Rosalynn Carter, the president's alter ego on the campaign trail, has been telling Jewish audiences exactly what they want to hear. Even Egypt agrees, she told the international biennial convention of B'nai B'rith here March 12, "that Jerusalem never be divided" - a "commitment'' that, she said, has not changed. Those words make it sound as though Carter is nearly in step with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin on his pledge that Jerusalem never again will be politically parti-tioned. Actually, the official U.S. position is unchanged from 1969, as Carter pointedly told Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in a letter written during the Camp David Mideast summit. The policy is that East Jerusalem "is occupied territory," as are Palestinian lands held by Israel on the conquered West Bank

Rosalynn Carter's formulation is explained by politicians running Carter's re-election campaign as meaning the U.S. will never allow a 'physical" division of Jerusalem division by barbed wire as it was until Israel seized East Jerusalem in the 1967 war. An Arab diplomat friendly to Carter told us: "Technically, Mrs. Carter was perhaps correct. But the 'undivided city' pledge carries much stronger implications to American Jews, who see it as justification of Israel's claim to eternal possession of all Jerusalem."

The dilemma Carter has imposed on himself by pretending to be more in tune with Israel than he is cannot be resolved by flimflammery. He is justly praised for high courage in fighting Begin's "illegal" land acquisitions in East Jerusalem and the West Bank. But Carter's backtracking on the U.N. resolution, to persuade Jewish voters he is really on their side, only intensifies his prob-

Observing the president's conduct, America's European allies are losing hope about U.S. policy and instead are moving to force Israel out of the West Bank as soon as the May deadline for West Bank autonomy passes. That will compel Carter, partly to offset Israel's nearly total isolation, to defend Israeli policies that Carter believes are against the U.S. national interest and to which he himself can never subscribe.

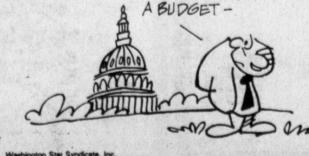

The Israeli issue in American politics has bedeviled many presidents, but none so much as Jimmy Carter. Trapped by his public repudiation of the U.N. vote, the ensuing campaign to convince his Jewish constituency he is truly sorry has made it certain that he will be bedeviled even more in the future, as shown by that unused camera in the East Room.

In a March 11 letter, Barabba said the "paramount difficulty" with Clements' request on counting the alien population is that it 'comes long after basic decisions on the availability of data had Barabba said the final census questions had to be transmitted to Congress in April 1978. "During the period before April 1978, when revisions in questionnaire content were still possible, neither the states nor other primary data users identified the potential importance of including citizenship on the short form," he told Clements.

He said the Census Bureau had rejected the idea of attaching a flyer on citizenship to the short form questionnaire because "this procedure would seriously delay the census and would, in any event, be very unlikely to produce accurate and reliable information, even for total non-citizens."

"It is, of course, impossible now to make any significant alterations in these work plans," said Barabba

"I don't buy that for one minute," responded Clements. He said Barabba's letter did not address the "central point of the Texas Plan: simply stated, only by having a citizen count available as part of its redistricting data will the Texas Legislature, among others, be able to enact a redistricting plan that is constitutional under the Supreme Court's one-man-one vote deci-

The governor said he was sure the bureau could furnish Texas the citizenship answers from the long form by April 1, 1981, for the Legislature's use in redistricting.

"It is time for you to stop making excuses," Clements said. Clements said he was making his letter public because "our citizens deserve to know of your willingness to help Texas meet its redistricting obligations under the Constitution.

Carter wants drivers driving less

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government wants you to drive less during the next three months than you've been doing. But it's being left to the states to set actual guidelines for reaching gasoline conservation targets

The Energy Department announced the targets Thursday, calling for for a nationwide reduction of 6.7 percent in April, May and June compared to the same period in 1979.

The targets for each state are only voluntary and it's up to each of the 50 states to decide how to meet its goal, according to the Energy Department.

Each state will submit a plan to the federal government and thus a motorist won't know what to expect until his or her state lays it out, according to Maria Charenko, an Energy Department spokeswo-

Proposed reductions range from 1.1 percent in Wyoming to 17 percent for Alaska.

The targets are part of President Carter's goal of cutting average daily gasoline use to 7 million barrels, compared to a 1979 average of 7.4 million. The 7.4 million average has continued for the first three months of 1980, the department said.

And he said he would accept the No. 2 spot on a Reagan ticket if the former California governor were to ask him.

Crane said he would decide in the next two weeks whether to officially withdraw from the race.

"I've got lines out now to my supporters asking their advice. I hope to make a decision by the end of the month," he said.

Crane said he would decide at that time whether to officially release his four delegates as well, a step he cannot take without withdrawing himself. Those delegates all were won in the recently-concluded Illinois primary. Crane, who worked for Reagan's nomination in 1976, said he felt the GOP front-runner had the

"I begged him in Iowa," Strauss said. "And in Illinois, they pled with us to get him out there." Carter didn't campaign in Iowa, but nonetheless won a big victory over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in

It was one of his strongest statements against Reagan. He referred to the 1964 presidential election when the Republican candidate -- Sen. Barry Goldwater, like Reagan, a conservative - was swamped in a landslide victory by Lyndon B. Johnson.

Show was for romanticists

By WANDA MOUTON Lifestyle Editor

Romanticists would have enjoyed the annual musicale, "Do You Remember?" Thursday at the Midland

Woman's Club. A production of The Musicians Club of Midland and The Woman's Club, the show was filled with musical numbers from "yesterday." Two shows were held, one at 10 a.m. and the other at 8 p.m.

Approximately 200 persons attended the event which benefitted the Instrument Fund of the Fine Arts Department of Midland College, plus the Ways and Means Fund of the Midland Woman's Club, Inc.

The abundance of amateur talent in Midland was evident throughout the show. Approximately 30 performers from both the Musicians Club and the Woman's Club joined together to present both classical and nostalgic

One highlight of the morning show was the presentation of "Will You Remember?" from the movie "Maytime" starring Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald. This opening number was by Romberg and arranged by Dorothy Matthews.

It included solos, a chorus and violins. Presenting this number were Sharon Hyde, soprano; Elaine Berman, contralto; Pam Bristol, piano; Eleanor Evans, violin; Elizabeth Haseltine, violin; Gloria Steelman, violin; Dorothy Matthews, piano; and

DEAR ABBY: You would do a lot of elderly single men a favor if you would tell them to change their line when they go courting. This is the message: Most older ladies hate to

Some may like to cook, but my widowed mother, mother-in-law, and all their widowed friends (in their 60s and 70s) are wary of remarrying because it seems that most men just want a cook. After 40 or 50 years of making meals for a husband and family, these women have had it, and they want to eat out as often as possible.

So, Abby, tell the older gentlemen that the quickest way to turn a woman off is to say, "Gee, I sure would enjoy a good home-cooked meal."

But if they want to turn a woman ON they should say, "I miss having company at mealtime. What time shall I call for you?" - HOOSIER MATCHMAKER

DEAR HOOSIER: Inviting a lady out to dine is better for openers than hinting for a home-cooked meal. But feeding a man is a time-honored expression of love.

Special bottle will honor teaching order

By DAN BERGER Copley News Service

Buy? Sell? Trade? Rent? WANT ADS WORK. Dial 682-6222

The Christian Brothers will release a 1975 Cabernet Sauvignon in a specially designated magnum bottle soon in honor of the 300th anniversary of their religious teaching order, this reporter has learned.

The release is another step in expanding an already widely successful line of table, sparkling and dessert wines that began in 1976 with the first vintage-dated wine. Last year, four vintage wines were released including a fine 1974 Cabernet in a velvety claret style at only $6.

A spokesman for Fromm and Sichel, exclusive distributors for The Christian Brothers wines, said the '75 Tricentennial Cabernet will be released at about $15 for the magnum. He said the wine is relatively ready to consume, yet will develop for a few years in the bottle.

The wine was selected load by load from our own vineyards and from 15 growers spanning the length of the Napa Valley," said the spokesman. He said a special gold foil label will designate it as a 300th anniversary wine. "We had to go to Rome to get approval to use the teaching order

The Christian Brothers is a teaching order of the Worldwide Congregation of Catholic Teachers and is the church's largest religious body of men devoted entirely to education.

The official name of the Order. ounded by St. Jean Baptiste de La Salle in 1680, is Brothers of the Christian Schools. The brothers, Fratres Scholarum Christianarum (FSC) have taken the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience.

Sale of the wines of The Christian Brothers helps support 13 schools in the United States. More than 12,000 brothers teach in 1,000 schools in 80 countries. And 105 of those schools are in the United States.

Two more vintage-dated wines will be released by The Christian Brothers in April, a 1969 Tinta Madeira Port and a 1975 Cream Sherry.

The port, aged 11 years in redwood and oak, has 13 percent sugar and is made in a tawny style, ready to drink. The Sherry, made from Palomino, Grenache and Mission grapes, was not made in Spanish solera fashion, but was aged one year in American oak and four years in redwood.

There are about 5,000 cases of each of the dessert wines, both to sell for about $6. (The Sherry, by the way, is reportedly richer and smoother than The Christian Brothers' excellent Meloso Cream Sherry, which sells for

The new wines are a pleasant surprise for the winery that will celebrate its 100th year of existence in 1982. For years The Christian Brothers wines have been excellent values, but often overlooked by those seeking a "prestige" name.

The 1975 Cabernet magnums will be handsomely packaged six to a wooden box, with printed tissue wrapping each bottle. It brings to mind the late 1960s when the winery issued a lovely cathedral bottle that today is a true collectors' item.

Today Brother Timothy and his aides are branching even further out. Another 1975 Cabernet will appear later this year in fifth bottles (750 mililiters), but it will be a different blend than the wine in the mag-

In addition, The Christian Brothers brandies continue to be among the best available in this country.

The winery produces nearly 2 million cases of sparkling, table and dessert wines and an additional quantity of sacramental wine (under the name Mount La Salle).

Dan Berger will answer your wine questions if you drop him a self-addressed envelope to Dan Berger, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 191, San Diego, Calif. 92112.

comforters go flat? Why did

By BETTY KINSER Copley News Service

I'm in a bit of trouble here. Recently I mentioned that I have a source for books on quilting, tatting, doll houses, crochet, etc. And—honest—that is all I have. Just an address where you can order a catalog and price list for these books. If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will send you an order form. Deal?

Dear Betty: Last year I made four comforters for my grandchildren. I used sheets and polyester batts for the filling. They looked lovely and felt so light and warm. When I visited them recently I felt awful when I saw the condition of those comforters! They had been washed several times and the batts had flattened down until they felt no thicker than two sheets sewn together. What went wrong? I thought comforters were washable. -Mrs. Walter Curry, Oroville, Calif.

I'm sorry your comforters went flat, Mrs. Curry. I can only guess at the reason ... Did you use GOOD quality polyester batting? Did you use ENOUGH batting? Was the comforter washed and-or dried in a HOT unit? Has the comforter been pressed? Isthe comforter tacked or quilted?

Perhaps the answer to the problem lies in one of the above. Or, perhaps it lies in something we haven't touched on yet. Readers, have any of you suffered this same disaster? If so, won't you please send us all the information you have so we can cure this evil before it gets out of hand? Thank

All-female trooper class doing well

SEA GIRT, N.J. (AP) — The nation's first all-female trooper cadet class is shaping up nicely, with no pun - or offense - intended, says New Jersey state police superintendent Clinton Pagano.

The remaining 67 women of the original 104 recruits, now beginning the second quarter of their 20-week course, are "the committed ones," say academy staff members, who include the only two women among 1,931 state troopers. Graduation is Pagano says the dropout rate is normal for recruit classes.

'The people go home over the weekend and reassess things. We get mothers who decide they want to be with their children, we get a variety of reasons.

'It's too early to say if it's the physical training pressure or the discipline pressure," said Pagano, who would not allow interviews with the recruits.

"One said she treated her dog better than we treated her. She wasn't here long enough for a truthful appraisal. The class began Feb. 13, the result of a federal consent order to add more women to the force. 'It's a one-time thing, an all-female class," said Pagano, who now must concentrate on recruiting minorities because of another court order.

Only two of the remaining female includes only 84 non-white males and one black female. The "committed" recruits practice in barracks at night with dummy pistols, reread course material and train hard on heavy punching bags to build strength. They eat quickly because the short time immedately following meals is their own, the only break in a day that begins with exercises at dawn and runs in unbroken military precision through dinner. Demerits for infractions mean extra duty, so recruits learn to keep their collars neat and not to cut a path across soggy lawns. Lt. Joseph Kobus said some adaptations had to be made in the training program for women.

'We're finding some differences," Kobus said. "Women need some additional exercises to strengthen their left wrist. They have to qualify firing a pistol with both hands. ... That's in case you get shot.'

Pagano and his staff modified pushup and chinup requirements to compensate for women's inferior pper body strength. "Now we're finding th y might have superior lower body strength," he said.

"Our main concern is to get fully qualified state troopers," Pagano

The recruits are taught that the recruits are black. The force now chest and head are the "maximum kill area" for gunfire and instructed in the basics of constitutional law, communications, sociology and weaponless self defense.

Course recorder graph shows possible collision

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - A course recorder from the Capricorn showed squiggles in a graph that could mean collision, grounding or dropping an anchor, according to a marine expert who traced the oil tanker's movements the night it collided with a Coast Guard cutter.

Capt. William Griswold, who has been analyzing automatic recorder charts for 30 years, testified Thursday in a marine board of inquiry into the accident that claimed the lives of 23 crewmen from the cutter Black-the 180-foot buoy tender hit - it was merely to plot the tracings from the recorder, he insisted. But pressed by both sides for an intrepretation of three distinct hesitations in the graph, he called on experience.

In the 200 such cases he has worked, he said, he's seen the same sort of irregularities in collisions, groundings and dropping anchor. He refused to be committed to intrepreting just which of the irregularities signaled the crash.

That didn't help shed any light on a big point of disagreement throughout the six-week hearing — exactly where the crash occurred. Lawyers - depending on who they represent have put the crash spot on opposite sides of a turn. The crews have testified respectively that the other vessel was off course.

Griswold was hired by the Coast Guard to plot the course and speed of the tanker, using fixes for headings and time from the automatic device.

His calculations indicated the Capricorn was in the wrong side of the 600-foot shipping channel in Tampa Bay, possibly by as much as 216 feet as it made its turn about two minutes before the crash. Ships are supposed Griswold said it wasn't his job to to stay to the right, much as cars do

> Griswold said he knew from the recorder the start of the tanker's turn and the spot where it went aground. Using fixed data, he could calculate some of the tanker's positions as it steamed through the mouth of the Bay. The rest, he said, was "an educated guess."

Griswold made two sets of graphs. The first he plotted several weeks ago. Then on Wednesday, he said, he made an adjusted chart for the Coast Guard, incorporating that night's current in the channel. Under cross examination from tanker attorneys, he admitted error in the second chart.

ASC says annual X-rays unnecessary WASHINGTON (AP) - The Ameri-ness, costs and risks of tests used for ommendations for cancer detection checkups, says annual chest X-rays, Pap tests and breast examinations no longer appear necessary for most people.

In announcing the changes Thursday, the society said it has determined the public can get the same benefits with greatly reduced costs and health risks by using the revised recommendations

However, the society cautioned that the guidelines do not fit all individuals and urged people to consult their doctors about how the new suggestions relate to them.

Many doctors and patients have long used the private group's guidelines in scheduling checkups for the early detection of cancer. No other group, including the federal government, issues such guidelines.

Announcing the revised recommendations in New York and at a news briefing here, society officials stressed that the guidelines apply only to people with no cancer symptoms. Those with symptoms should see their doctors immediately, the officials said.

"About three years ago, the society was asked to update its recommendations because they didn't seem to be current based on the latest clinical and epidemiological data," said Lef-fall, chairman of surgery at Howard University Medical School.

The society revised its recommendations for tests for cancer of the lung, cervix, colon, rectum and breast after a study by Dr. David Eddy of Stanford University, which reviewed data on cost and effective-

As a result, the socjety dropped its recommendation that people with a higher-than-normal risk of lung cancer get annual chest X-rays. These are people over age 40 who are heavy cigarette smokers or who work with known inhaled carcinogens, such as asbestos.

X-rays and sputum cytology tests, which look at mucus from the lungs, do detect lung cancer early. But studies indicate this early notice does not reduce mortality because present treatment isn't very effective, the

Dr. Larry McGowan of George Washington University Medical Center told the briefing that visual examination of the cervix by a doctor, still recommended annually, is the key to detecting most cervical cancer. The Pap test detects a condition called carcinoma-in-situ, which precedes the cancer by as much as five years. This gives time for treatment evenwithout annual tests, he noted.

-That men and women over age 50 have proctosigmoidoscope exams only every 3 to 5 years after negative exams for two consecutive years. Previously recommended were annual exams for everyone over age those over 50 should have them yearly, the society recommended. Women over age 20 should continue breast self-examination monthly, but detailed physical exams by a doctor are needed only every three years for those under 40. This differed from the previous suggestion of annual physical exams for all, a practice now recommended only for those over age

The society noted that in all groups some individuals have a higher than normal risk of cancer because of such things as previous history of the disease, heredity, hormone use or occupation. In these cases, more frequent exams may be needed, it said.

'60s anti-war activists planning anti-draft rally

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some strators scheduled to speak Saturday household names of the 1960s anti-war movement, joined by a new generation of peace activists, are gearing up for another national rally — this one aimed at blocking revival of draft registration.

Rally organizers said Thursday they hope to have at least 15,000 persons march Saturday from near the White House to the Capitol. Hundreds of persons are planning to lobby congressmen individually Monday.

The object of all the attention is President Carter's call last month for the registration of men and women for the draft.

Carter's proposal has run into re-peated trouble in Congress, with prospects of registering women virtually dead. Congressional and administration sources said this week, however, that money to register men is likely to be approved, although the outcome is still uncertain.

Carter, who says registration is needed to send the Soviet Union a signal of America's military resolve. has called criticism by young persons of his proposal "a gross overreaction." Some young people have openly supported registration and three weeks ago it received the endorsement of the country's labor leaders.

A White House official said Thursday night it was not known if the president would be in Washington or at his Camp David retreat in Maryland during the march, which will go past the White House. The president frequently spends weekends at Camp

He was asked whether the talks might have been disrupted by the timing of the U.N. vote.

nomic benefit from surging energy prices — the creation of hundreds of thousands of jobs.

Workers to make and install energy-saving equipment, for example. Or more truck drivers to compensate for lowered speed limits and the slowed movement of the nation's

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall estimates that of the 2 million jobs created last year, between 750,000 and 1 million resulted from employers returning to human labor rather than ever more expensive energy-driven machinery.

"I am seeing it happen all over the country," Marshall said. "If you reduce the speed limit to conserve fuel. you need more truck drivers. If you're putting in more insulation to keep from losing heat, you need labor to do

This is not to say that the more energy prices climb, the more will the American workforce expand. Labor Department economists admit that higher energy prices also contribute to the loss of jobs, including 200,000 currently in the auto industry.

But Marshall, who was trained as an economist, believes a trade-off is occurring. Rising energy prices slow economic growth, which means fewer conventional jobs are being created, but those lost jobs are being offset at least partially by an increase in energy-saving jobs.

Dale Jorgensen, a Harvard University professor and one of the few private economists to have examined this issue, estimates that because of a 60 percent jump in energy prices between 1973 and 1976, the economy should have lost 2.8 million jobs because of slower growth. But he claims 2.3 million jobs were created during that period because of the substitution of labor for energy, producing a net loss of only 500,000 jobs.

Marshall's and Jorgensen's theory has been the subject of little research and most other economists have ANDREWS COUNTY either ignored the issue or expressed skepticism about it.

But if the theory is correct, current forecasts of sharply rising unemployment this year may prove overly pessimistic

Nancy Barrett, a deputy assistant secretary of labor, estimates in rough terms that each 1 percent rise in energy prices leads to an increase of about 33,000 jobs. Using that as the benchmark, last year's 30 to 35 percent price rise translates into about one million more jobs. This explains, she said, why unemployment has stayed at about 6 percent despite economic forecasts last year that the jobless rate would be around 7 percent by now. Each 1 percent change in the unemployment rate equals about 1 million people.

Marshall believes energy prices boost employment directly as businesses substitute labor for automated equipment, or labor-intensive materials - like wood - for energy-intensive materials - like oil-based plas-

However, Labor Department officials were unable to provide any specific examples of direct substitution of labor for energy.

PARIS (AP) - French philospher and writer Jean-Paul Sartre, hospitalized for treatment of pulmonary edema, an accumulation of fluid in the lungs, spent a quiet night in the intensive care unit of Broussais Hospital, his secretary said today.

The blood pressure of the 74-year-old Sartre has been reduced somewhat since he was hospitalized Wednesday night, but doctors are waiting until it returns to normal before transferring him out of intensive care, his secretary said.

The hospital is issuing no medical bulletins on Sartre's condition at the request of his family.

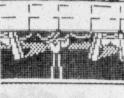

Pulmonary edema strikes persons with hypertension or heart weakness.

Can Bruins stop Joe Barry?

By ALEX SACHARE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - UCLA Coach Larry Brown knows the tall task facing his Bruins if they plan to write another chapter in their Cinderella success story: Stop Joe Barry Car-

"Carroll is a dominating player, certainly the key man on their team," Brown said of Purdue's 7-foot-1, 245-pound All-America center. "The only player on the West Coast who compares to Joe Barry performs for the Lakers.

It may be exaggerating to rank Carroll alongside Los Angeles Lakers pivotman Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. However, how well the young Bruins meet the challenge Carroll presents will go a long way toward determining the outcome of Saturday's semifinal of the NCAA basketball championship between unranked UCLA, 21-9, and the 20th-ranked Boilermakers,

No. 2 Louisville, 31-3, takes on unranked Iowa, 23-8, in the opener of Saturday's doubleheader before a sellout crowd of some 17,000 at Market Square Arena and a national television audience. The winners will meet for the title Monday

The first game will feature two of the premier guards in the nation, Louisville's Darrell Griffith and Iowa's Ronnie Lester.

The spotlight in the second game will be focused squarely on Carroll, who is regarded by most scouts as the one college senior capable of stepping into the pro ranks and turning a team around. He averaged 22.1 points and 9.1 rebounds per game during the regular season, and has picked those numbers up to 26.5 and 9.8 for his four NCAA tournament games so far.

Ex-Marquette Coach Al McGuire calls Carroll "an aircraft carrier." DePaul Coach Ray Meyer describes him as "a skyscraper, the kind of guy . who scores more points by accident than those little guys score on purpose.

And St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca, whose team was beaten by Purdue 87-72 in the Mideast Regional, says Carroll will need "a Brinks truck" when he turns pro. "Once he gets the ball

Brown knows that all too well, and has designed his game plan accordingly.

"There's no doubt in my mind what the key to stopping Purdue is," he said. "We have to keep the ball from Carroll. Once he gets it, there's not much chance for us to stop him.'

The problem is particularly acute for UCLA, whose starting center is 6-foot-6 sophomore Mike Sanders; one of the shortest regular pivotmen in the major college ranks. But it was Brown's midseason decision to move Sanders, as well as freshman guards Rod Foster and Michael Holton, into the starting Nevertheless, Purdue Coach Lee Rose isn't taking anything for granted. "I'm very impressed with their quickness, especially when they go to the boards," he said.

In the first game, Iowa will seek to extend its unbeaten streak against opponents from outside the Big Ten Conference. The Hawkeyes, who tied for fourth place in the conference with a 10-8 record, were 13-0 against outside foes.

Their success may hinge on the health of Lester, their 6-2 senior guard who missed 15 games because of a knee injury that still bothers him. Iowa was 15-1 this season with Lester,

"Our team plays well without Ronnie, but we play better with him," said Iowa Coach Lute Olson. "There is a feeling of security knowing No. 12 is out there. He is like a security Louisville has a similar player in Griffith, an All-America who like Lester is his school's leading scorer. The 6-foot-4 Griffith averaged 22.6 points per game on .549 shooting and had 40 dunks, many of them flashy enough to explain the nickname Dr. Dunkenstein.

This will be Louisville's third trip to the Final Four under Crum. The Cardinals lost both previous times to UCLA - where Crum served as an assistant coach - in the semifinals in 1972 and the finals in 1975.

As the only highly ranked team here, Louisville must rate as the favorite. And Crum has tried hard this week to lessen that burden.

"We're trying to approach this weekend the same as any other," he said. "It's difficult, though, because of the pressure from students, fans and the media. But some day you've just got to draw the line and say, 'Hey, we've got a basketball game to play.

He was a nobody until he became a big flop

Usually, it's not the way it happens, but I interviewed a guy the other day who was a nobody till he was a flop. He is the biggests flop ever to hit the world sporting scene. He revolutionized an entire athletic event by being a flop at it.

A "flop" is usually something that opens on Wednesday and closes by Saturday. But his is the longest-running flop in history. You might say he flopped his way to stardom - in fact, to immortality.

Sonny Tufts? Hardly. This guy's a bigger flop than that - in fact, the biggest flop since Gary Cooper made a movie wearing a tie, even bigger than Spencer Tracy in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

And nobody was any happier to be in a flop than Richard Fosbury. They even named the flop after him.

I never got to interview the inventor of the curve ball, Candy Cummings. I never saw the perfector of the forward pass, Knute Γockne. I never met Joe Fulks, the i ventor of the jump shot, or Jim Cor ett who pioneered the left jab. But I expect all those guys startled the world of sports with their innovations when first ob-

STILL, NOBODY ever stunned sports more than Richard Fosbury when, one day in 1967, he approached a crossbar in a high jump event at Oregon State University and suddenly turned his back on it as if declining the issue: whereupon, he heaved himself into the air backwards and sailed over the height on his back like a guy being thrown out of a secondstory window.

He broke the school record at six feet 10 inches. The guy on the sidelines with his mouth hanging open was Fosbury's coach, Bernie Wagner. No one will ever know how close

"Very cute-but what does it have to do with high jumping?''

Bernie came to subverting history, how hard he tried to get Fosbury to abandon this kooky style of jumping because he said it would be -- well, a flop. In the little world of track and field, it was as if someone had advised Napoleon to stick to gardening, or Caruso, the railroad.

Fosbury did everything pantsbackward, so to speak. His act was considered a novelty -- no more than that -- rather like the clowns in a rodeo. He would never get anywhere till he went over the bar legs-first like his grandfather did, was the advice. The reaction to his style was "very cute -- but what does it have to do with high jumping?"

Everything, as it turned out.

THE 1968 Olympics is best remembered for a fleeting salute, when Tommie Smith and John Carlos gave the finger - or, at least, the fist - to the American Flag, thus opening a monumental can of worms for the Olympic movement.

But it was, otherwise, a vintage Olympics. Bob Beamon jumped an incredible 29 feet 2 12 inches, breaking the Olympic record by an impossible 2 feet 7 inches. Al Oerter won his fourth gold medal, and the Africans swept everything from the 1,500 to the mara-

But Dick Fosbury set off the most seismic or ground waves in the recent history of track and field when he broke the Olympic high jump record by going over the bar backwards, 7 feet 4 14 inches. He flopped his way to a resounding hit. Phones were ringing in track-and-field clinics all over the world almost as soon as he hit the

The "Fosbury Flop" became the standard for the event in most of the world. The straddle went the way of the scissors and the Western role for every high jumper except the Soviets who, as President Carter will find out, are hard to change. An Estonian won the 1972 Olympics, but by barely a quarter of an inch over the American flopper Dwight Stones. By 1976, the Olympic high jump was a flop from start to finish, and the Polish jumper, Jacek Wszola, broke Fosbury's record by only one quarter of an inch. You might think a revolutionary new design for the event was plotted out by Fosbury, an engineering major in his student days, on graph paper with all the physics and mathematics worked out. Actually, it was as accidental as that apple falling on Newton's head. "I just began taking a curved approach to the bar," he recalls. "I would run five steps straight and then three steps on a curl, like a banana or the letter 'J' to get my shoulders over the bar."

I was miserable in the straddle...so..."

The coaches kept trying to translate this eccentric approach into a scissors cross-over. "But I was miserable in the straddle," Fosbury remembers. "So, in this one meet, the next-to-last, I began to hoist myself over backwards. I improved my best mark by six inches, and the crowd that day in Grant's Pass got such a kick out of it, I began enjoying it, too. The curved approach started turning me until finally I was going over the bar neck-first. It evolved into the Flop."

IT IS still the only Flop that ever made a Star.

And, lest it die out (the Siberian breaking the world's record at 7'8" heights this year is a straddler) Dick Fosbury will be in the company of about a dozen world-famous athletes at UCLA's Drake Stadium this Saturday and Sunday in a clinic for any aspiring young track athletes who want to come out, an event sponsored by the McDonald's Big Mac people. Fosbury will have to convince the kids that when they have something hard to do, they should turn their backs to it --- and try their very hardest to be flops at what they do.

If you're Ali, you make millions for an hour's labor but the price is dear - strenuous training, crosscountry runs before dawn, blows that soften the brain and turn internal organs into a disaster

BUT THE baseball relief pitcher: Take Bruce Sutter ..

Just about the time spring training started, the 28-year-old "fireman" of the Chicago Cubs got an arbitration ruling in a salary dispute that raised his pay from $175,000 a year to $700,- Sutter is a short reliever. That means he comes into a game when there's little time left. In 1979, he pitched exactly 101 innings. If he does approximately the same amount of work in 1980, he will be paid at the rate of $7,000 an inning, give or take a few bucks.

TAKE AL Hrabosky

You know Al. He is a character out of Sax Rohmer. He wears a sinister Fu Manchu mustache that droops below his chin. He tries to intimidate batters with his glowering stares. The St. Louis Cardinals weren't fond of his act and unloaded him. He played two years with Kansas City before being signed as a free agent over the winter by the Atlanta Braves.

Hrabosky works even shorter hours than Sutton. He hasn't pitched 100 innings a season since 1972 when he was with Arkansas. Last year his work sheet showed 65 innings pitched, the year before 75, the year before that 86.

His salary: $1.180 million a year. By recent standards, he will be earning between $13,000 and $17,500 an inning this year. This, statisticians say, makes the Mad Hungarian the highest paid, least worked and most overpaid varsity man in the game.

Hrabosky's contract accents some of the financial peculiarities that have resulted from baseball's loss of the reserve clause and the advent of harrowing free agency

The document is for $5.89 million, which assures the mustachioed reliever an income until 2014 although he is only committed to pitch five Hrabosky has never in his life won 20 games and only once more than 10 (13 in 1975). He deals in "saves.

As such a practitioner, he spends most of his working life sitting in the bullpen, chewing tobacco or bubble gum and occasionally looking up at the scoreboard. He jumps into action only when the telephone rings, maybe two or three

THAT'S when the game gets down to the nitty-gritty. Even then, he pitches usually no more than a half-hour, often less. Maybe he saves the game. Maybe he doesn't. He is rarely held responsible

It's a soft life, especially when the pay is so

By way of comparison, Hrabosky's 40-year-old teammate, Phil Niekro, pitches between 300 and 350 innings a season and gets less pay. Niekro pitched 342 innings last season, won 21 games and lost 20.

Things have really changed," mused Rube Walker, the New York Mets' veteran pitching coach. "Years ago, the bullpen was populated by old, worn-out guys just hanging on. Now it's game of specialists - short hours, fantastic Fidrych, "The Bird" of Detroit, became the talk of baseball four years ago. He posted a 19-9 record and led the American League with a 2.34 earned run average and 24 complete games while winning Rookie of the Year honors.

Fidrych also had a ray of hope. He said Thursday's stiffness was not related to his previous problems.

"When I started out I could feel it," Fidrych said. "It was just stiff and it kept getting stiffer. It had nothing to do with the previous injury. I've never had aything like this. It's sort of a pain in the thrust muscle under my right arm. That's the best way I can describe it. It's painful."

"We can only wait and hope. Maybe it's just some minor thing and he'll be In 1976 they were two of the top able to pitch again in five days. We'll just have to wait and see." The Phillies also got a scare when pitcher Larry Christenson, who suffered three disabling injuries last year, had to be carried off on a stretcher in the third inning after a line drive off the bat of Jason Thompson caught him behind the left knee. However, X rays showed only a bad bruise and Christenson rejoined the Garland's effort against San Diego included a two-run single by the Padres' Dave Winfield.

"I really felt strong today," Garland insisted. "I'm not worried about losing. As long as I get my work in, throw 70 or 75 pitches without hurting, I'm satisfied.'

Garcia has said that Bob Owchinko. John Denny, Rick Waits, Len Barker, Victor Cruz, Dan Spillner and Sid Monge are assured jobs on the pitching staff. "At the present time," he added, "Garland is in the category of one of five or six pitchers fighting for tournament, you couldn't tell the NCAA from the NIT with a program. The NIT final four looked as formidable as the NCAA final four, excusing Lousiville, if you will, and both wound up with two Big Ten teams. NIT winner Virginia can hold its head up in any company and say, "Can you prove we aren't as good as you are?

And, besides, which one of you guys has a 7-4 freshman center?"

I suppose the NCAA's next move is more expansion, but another year like this one and it would serve only to further damage the credability of national rankings and conferences races. But then they would be important anyway, since tournament play would have to start in early Jan-

Cotton, Inc. defends itself against charges

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cotton Inc., a quasi-public organization formed in 1966 to promote the cotton industry, sought today to counter charges that it does not do the job for its industry

The firm issued a report arguing that the industry is doing better because of the promotional group's efforts.

Cotton's share of the retail clothing market is up, the report said. This is "evidence that the future of cotton, and the feasiblity of competing effectively with synthetics, is good," said Cotton Inc.

The organization, which had headquarters in New York and Raleigh, N.C., also defended its policy of concentrating on promotion rather than improving production techniques to lower costs.

A consulting firm, Schnittker Associates here, said last month that Cotton Inc. has spent millions to accomplish minimal improvement in the

The research firm, hired by cotton shippers to conduct the study, said, Even in the areas where Cotton Inc. concentrated its promotional efforts, there have been few tangible results."

Cotton Inc. is financed by $3 million a year from the Agriculture Department and has collected over $150 million from cotton producers who are assessed a fixed amount per bale of cotton.

"The total cost to the farmer to produce a fivepound bag of potatoes is approximately 25 cents," Muskie said. "For his effort, a Maine producer could get about 9 cents for a five-pound bag this week, a loss of 16 cents for every five pounds of

Fall kills woman, 40

CORPUS CHRISTI Texas (AP) - A 40-year old woman fell to her death Wednesday from the 10th floor of a downtown office building.

A medical examiner pronounced Priscilla Young dead at the scene after she landed on a second floor overhang.

A construction worker across the street said he had seen the woman sitting in the window sill before the fall.

"I didn't think any-thing of it. I see people leaning out windows all the time," said Tom Marshall. "She leaned way out, then got up, came back, leaned out again and just let go."

The woman worked for a banking service in the building. Police said she was divorced.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

God isn't mad at me!

God did not send His Son into the world to condemn it but to save it. There is no eternal doom awaiting those who trust Him to save them. But those who don't trust Him have already been tried and condemned for not believing in the only' Son of God.

Their sentence is based on this fact: that the Light from heaven came into the world, but they loved the darkness more than the Light, for their deeds were evil.

They hated the heavenly Light because they wanted to sin in the darkness. They stayed away from that Light for fear their sins would be exposed and they would be punished.

But those doing right come gladly to the Light to let everyone see that they are doing what God wants them to."

Afterwards Jesus and His disciples left Jerusalem and stayed for a while in Judea and baptized there.

At this time John the Baptist was not yet in prison. He was baptizing at Aenon, near Salim, because there was plenty of water there. John 3:17-24

Bloody trail leads law to suspect

MIAMI SHORES, Fla (AP) — A 12-block trail of blood led police to a robbery suspect after a jewelry store theft that netted a single bracelet, officials say. Miami Shores police

Sgt. Bill Koons, checking on a ringing burglar alarm Wednesday, found a large pool of blood below a smashed display window at Shores Jewel-

With his flashlight, Koons followed the trail for 12 blocks until he found a weakened 20-year-old identified as David Lovellette. The truck driver was charged with burglary and theft, police say.

"Most guys would have thrown a brick or something through the window, but he used his arms," said Lt. Michael Zoovas. "He slashed both arms, one above the wrist and the other above the elbow."

The bracelet was valued at $12.50, Zoovas

Abuse in children's home probed

Fountain, during a news conference at the home Wednesday, refused to discuss the charges against him.

By The Associated Press

Authorities in Forrest County are looking into allegations that operators of a second children's home in south Mississippi have physically abused young people at the centers.

Forrest County District Attorney Paul Holmes reportedly is probing reports of alleged abuse at Redemption Ranch near Eastabuchie. Meanwhile, a defender of Bethel Children's Home at Lucedale says marks found on the backs and legs of several stu-dents were a result of corporal punishment policy and not of abuse.

The Rev. Wallis C. Metts of the Christian Law Association of Cleveland, Ohio, spoke at a press conference Wednesday held by the Rev. Herman Fountain, Bethel's director. Fountain and three of his assistants are free on bond after being arrested on charges that included assault and battery and disorderly conduct.

Two runaways from the Redemption Ranch filed an abuse complaint with youth court authorities shortly after a grand jury visited the facilities two weeks ago. Jan Lewis, Youth Services Bureau director at Hattiesburg, said the two said they had been beaten with a board.

District Attorney Mike Moore of Pascagoula said earlier that children who were interviewed at the Bethel youth court hearing had complained of beatings. He said examinations of the youths, ranging in age from five to dren apparently had been subjected to unhealthy and unsanitary condithe legs with a belt or rod.

The 38 children in the home were moved to foster homes in other parts of the state or turned over to their parents after a youth court hearing received complaints that the youths may have been subjected to abusive treatment and forced to live in un-sanitary conditions Some of the children came to the home with stab wounds, Metts said. "They're not out of a Sunday School

He said the state may not interfere in the Bethel home "unless the children are in imminent danger.'

Fountain said he followed the Bible in operating the institution and that the children in his care had received proper medical attention.

Pointing to his Bible, he said, "I use this right here. What the Scripture says is my policy."

Fountain said he was a former heroin addict who was "saved, called to preach, attended Bible school" and eventually went to work as a "soulwinner" for Evangelist Lester Roloff in Corpus Christi, Texas.

He said the staff was giving the children the best education possible, even though they were not accredit-

Tougher pollution rules needed to halt acid rain

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government's chief anti-pollution official says if destructive acid rains are to be stopped, tougher air pollution standards are needed for the nation's older coal-burning power plants.

Older plants, not subject to the same standards as new power plants, are spewing tons of nitrogen and sulfur oxides into the air, Environmental Protector Agency administrator Douglas C. Costle said Wednesday.

Those pollutants combine chemically with moisture to form nitric and sulfuric acids that fall in rain and

The worst contributors, Costle told a Senate subcomittee on environmental pollution, are the older coal-burning electric generating plants, which produce two-thirds — some 19.5 million tons - of the sulfur oxides pumped into the atmosphere each

"The new plants are clean," Costle said. "Our problem today is essentially caused by the old plants.'

Costle said acid rain's impact is becoming clearer and more grim as research continues. He gave some examples:

-Fish in some lakes in northern Minnesota and southern Ontario have too much mercury-leached by acid rain from the surrounding soil to be safe for humans to eat.

The level of dangerous heavy metals, like mercury, is increasing in the drinking water of some small towns that don't treat their water.

Civil rights attorney Ruben Sandoval, attorney for the San Antonio Committee for Human Rights, said Wednesday he will meet with President Carter early next month to voice concern over the incident.

Cop cops plea on bank heist

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - A Salt Lake City police corporal has pleaded guilty to bank robbery and has agreed to testify about other robberies in a police crime scandal, authorities say.

Cpl. Craig Rockelman, 32, pleaded guilty Wednesday in the July 30 robbery of the Utah Bank and Trust of $42,000. The U.S. Attorney's office agreed not to charge Rockelman with other robberies. The officer said he had no money from any of the crimes.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Bud Willoughby said his department has been "devastated" by the recent arrests of two officers and a former officer on bank robbery charges. And Assistant U.S. Attorney Francis Wikstrom said a federal grand jury will be given new evidence that he said would lead to other arrests. He did not say whether more police offi-cers would be involved.

ALSO ARRAIGNED in the July 30 robbery is Cpl. Paul F. Brooks, 33, and his wife, Shela. They are also charged in a Feb. 29 holdup in which $51,000 was taken from Continental Bank.

Brooks and his wife pleaded innocent to all counts.

Mrs. Brooks was free on $7,500 bail, but Magistrate Daniel Alsup refused to reduce Brooks' $50,000 bail. Wikstrom opposed any reduction, saying $93,000 in bank loot was still missing.

He said Brooks was likely to face more charges. "It's getting more and more serious ... His conduct has exhibited complete contempt and defiance of the law as a law officer," Wikstrom said.

Trial was set May 5 for the Brook couple. Michael A. Schoen-hardt, 30, an electrician and Brooks' brother-inlaw, was also charged in the July 30 robbery.

On Tuesday, former policeman Richard David Shea Jr., 32, was arrested in connection with the Feb. 14 armed robbery of a First Security Bank branch in which $2,000 was taken. Shea resigned last year following investigation of a University of Utah drug party.

DETECTIVES FIRST said the arrest of Shea, now a private detective, was not related to the other arrests, but now police and FBI agents say they are investigating to determine whether there is a connection.

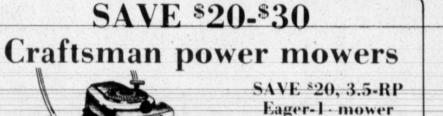

Willoughby, addressing the City Council Tuesday night, said police employees were "in a state of shock that such a thing could happen from within the ranks of their own department."

He asked city officials to maintain trust in the police.

Livestock

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Weekly livestock review. Cattle receipts this week 3,200, last week 4,593 and last year 2,181. Compared with last week: slaughter cows fluctuated mildly during the week and closed steady to 1.00 lower. Slaughter buils under pressure despite a limited supply and mostly 1.00 lower. # State of Union: totally ridiculous

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State of the Union this presidential election year, according to the Gridiron Club and other reliable indices, is totally

And all the candidates, including the incumbent recluse in the Rose Garden, are laughable. Somewhere during the Gridiron Club's 95th annual singeing of the sacrosanct the other evening, the suggestion was made that New York City be merged with the Chrysler Corportion, with the resulting product to be known as "The Lee Iacocca, identified in the seating roster as being from Detroit, Mich., was seated at the end of my table when that shaft landed on target. He took it in good grace, about the way Lord North said King George II received the news of the Redcoats' defeat at Saratoga: "Like a ball in the chest." Unfortunately Teddy Kennedy wasn't on hand to hear himself sing the blues about getting in the race, because "My momma done tole me: RUN," with the plaintive refrain:

"A voter's a two face A worrisome thing

That'll leave you to sing The Blues in the Night... And Jerry Brown, otherwise known as Gov. Moonbeam, wasn't there to see himself depicted as a Hari Krishna disciple in saffron robes or to hear the stage version of Robert Strauss say fretfully: "I knew that boy's Daddy ... another generation of carrot juice and Granola, and they'll Robert Strauss was there in person and almost as funny as his stage alter ego Charlie McDowell of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, who could tread the boards professionally if the political muse ever defected from his electronic keyboard there in the White House west wing. It was the real Strauss who observed that all that failure in communications over the Israeli resolution for which Cyrus Vance took the blame would never had happened "if

Andy Young were still at the U.N. - he never paid any attention to the State Department." Gerry Ford appeared as a gum chewing golfer, John Anderson as a flaky Diogenes looking for an honest man in both the Republican and Democratic camps, Ronald Reagan as a creaky old codger with "years of experience - years and years and years and years," who sang "it's a long, long way from March to November." Jimmy Carter didn't appear at all, even on stage as a character, but his monastic withdrawal from public life was the big joke of the evening, both in the witty tango number "Jimmy's Hideaway" and the crack somewhere during the evening "that Carter ac-tually did go out of the White House, but he saw his shadow and went back for six more weeks.' Like Strauss, George Bush got double billing, appearing on stage as Rhinestone Cowboy from Texas by way of Massachusetts and Connecticut and giving one of those droll speeches in the dark that are supposed to be off the record but always wind up next day in the Washington Post and Washington Star. Bush got off a couple of zingers. some at his own elitist image, like having an alligator on the side of his limousine, but it was he who said Reagan was the only candidate in the race who could "intone four score and seven years ago and remember how it was then." Meanwhile across town at the Shoreham hotel, comic Mark Russell was suggesting that Bush should retire to a "home for the chronically preppie." And up in New York, the City Hall reporters at their annual "Inner Circle" show enacted a hi-larious skit entitled "Sheik Abscam and the Absconders," featuring three well known congressmen who went by the stage names of "Cash Kelly the Congressman from Disneyworld, Harrison High Roller

Williams and Murph the Surf from Staten Island." In Gotham the rhetoric is a trifle rougher than down in D.C., because hides are supposed to be thicker in the Tammany latitudes. One one-liner that brought the house down was blunt as a stockyards' sledgehammer: "There are only two things I don't like about Gov. Carey — his face."

But toward the shag end of the evening, temper tantrums were noted among the sullied cele-brities. Congressman Charles Rangel of Harlem walked out in a huff, saying he'd had enough, during Mayor Ed Koch's rebuttal turn on stage, when with the help of the cast of "Ain't Misbehavin" he satirized some of his administration's racial problems.

Meanwhile, down in Baton Rouge, where since the days of Gov. Earl Long the rhetoric always has been as subtle as a jigger of Tabasco sauce, a local product, the members of the Louisiana Gridiron were preparing for their 29th annual barbecuing of the big poohbahs, and what with the inauguration of the first Republican governor in those parts since Reconstruction, there was plenty to laugh about.

As Will Rogers once expounded the philoso-phy behind all Gridiron shows and the bedrock truth underlying all political satire in a free zinging society: "everything is funny as long as it is happening to someone else."

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Charles Murphy said Thursday he plans to quit as executive director of the Texas Aeronautics Commission, a job he has held for

Murphy, 61, said he had not decided on a departure date but would work out details when the six-member commission meets on March 31. He said he no longer found the job challenging but was leaving without any definite job prospects. Asked if he was quitting because he was bored, the former legislator said, "Yeah, I guess. They say that every 10 years you should try something new." "I'm proud of what we've accomplished at the commission, and my years here have been challenging. But I no longer find that challenge," said Murphy, who has been a Marine fighter pilot, a Bell Aircraft test pilot and counsel of the Texas Aircraft

Dealers Association. The commission currently is up for review under the state's Sunset process and received high marks from the Sunset Advisory Commission's staff.

Coca-Cola won't be official Olympic drink

ATLANTA (AP) — Coca-Cola Co., makers of the soft drink almost synonymous with America, says Coke won't be offered as an official thirst quencher of the Summer Olympics for the first time in half a century.

But the company is not abandoning its toehold in the Soviet Union - and athletes and spectators at the Moscow Games may end up drinking Coke anyway, company officials say.

"The Coca-Cola Co. will comply with President Carter's appeal for non-participation by U.S. companies in the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow," J. Paul Austin, Coke chairman and chief executive officer, said in a prepared statement Thursday.

Carter called for the boycott when Soviet troops failed to withdraw from Afghanistan and the International Olympic Committee voted to hold the Games in Moscow as scheduled.

The U.S. Olympic Committee, responsible for fielding the American team, has not voted on a
