Terrorists shoot Salvadoran prelate

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A dozen bomb explosions wrecked a number of buildings and storefronts and damaged factories early today while Salvador's civilian military junta vowed to track down the killers of Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, assassinated Monday night as he celebrated Mass.

A junta spokesman said the government ordered three days of national mourning for the Roman Catholic archbishop, an outspoken advocate of social reform in this Central American nation plagued by violence.

A police spokesman said a dozen or more bombs went off, damaging an undetermined number of buildings, business offices, banks and factories.

Pope denounces assassination as 'attack on dignity of man'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II today denounced the assassination of Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero of San Salvador as a "sacrilegious murder and an attack on 'the dignity of man'."

Romero, slain Monday evening as he celebrated Mass in his Central American diocese, had met with the pope at least twice in the past 14 months, most recently a month ago. At the time, the archbishop told a reporter he was extremely concerned about events in violence-plagued El Salvador.

In a telegram of condolence to the president of the bishops' conference of El Salvador, Bishop Jose Eduardo Alvarez Ramirez, the pope noted that Romero was killed on the altar.

Pope John Paul said he was personally wounded by the "sad news of the sacrilegious murder."

"I can't but express my most profound rebuke before this crime ... which he said 'struck the dignity of man in the crudest manner.'

The pope said he was praying for El Salvador and for an end to all feelings of violence and mean vendettas."

The pope offered special condolences to the archbishop's family and members of his diocese.

In Britain a spokesman said the new Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, remembered Romero in his prayers during Holy Communion at Canterbury Cathedral this morning, just a few hours before Runcie's formal installation as religious leader of the Anglican Communion.

Afghan rebels no match for Soviet 'flying tanks'

BALAUR, Pakistan (AP) — The Russians have flying tanks. What can we do against them with these?" the bearded Afghan rebel tribesman said, patting his World War I vintage rifle.

"When we shoot at them nothing happens. They keep pouring rocket and machine gun fire against us," he added.

The rebel, Halid al Rahman, 30, was referring to the deadly Soviet helicopter gunships used increasingly against them since an estimated 80,000 Russian troops entered Afghanistan in December to help the communist regime crush the Moslem rebellion that broke out 23 months ago.

Rahman had just reached an Afghan refugee camp near here with other fleeing rebels after crossing the barren, snow-covered mountain range whose crest divides Pakistan from Afghanistan's eastern Khorasan province two miles away.

For the past three weeks since the Russians launched their attack on Khorasan province, the helicopters have been overhead all the time, firing at anything that moves. —Shakir Brasul, another rebel in Rahman's group said.

The rebels said they crossed into Pakistan when they ran out of ammunition.

We had nothing but rifles and bullets against jets and armored helicopters in the air and tanks on the ground," Rahman said.

The Soviet airpower, particularly the helicopter gunships, appears to have nullified the traditional advantage of the fabled Afghan mountain warriors.

Bonds contain what officials deem as 'bare bones'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a three-part series examining the $3 million school bond issue for repairs and maintenance in the April 5 election.

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Midland voters will decide April 5 whether they want to pay for school repairs with a two-cent increase in bond indebtedness or a 10-cent increase in their school taxes.

Most of the items the bonds will address April 5 were presented to the voters Oct. 23, 1979, in a $10.2 million bond proposal which was turned down.

After the defeat of that "bare bones" bond package, school officials pulled out those items they felt were "absolutely necessary" for a second try with the voters.

Of the $3 million in the April 5 bond issue, $951,450 is allocated for Midland High School to repair and help provide "two equal high schools in the Tall City."

The remainder, $2,048,550, would be allocated to Lee High School and other schools in the district for "critical" repairs.

The big money item for Lee High School is the replacement of boiler and air conditioning equipment, which is expected to cost taxpayers $313,000.

"The walls of the boiler have weakened from constant expansion and contraction," Garland Chapman, assistant superintendent, said, "and it needs replacement for good maintenance reasons."

Another notable need is re-roofing several school buildings.

Lee High School, Alamo Junior High, Midland Memorial Stadium Fieldhouse and six elementary schools are due for re-roofing work costing $613,125, according to school district figures.

The school district plans to replace incandescent lights with fluorescent fixtures, which will help reduce utility costs incurred during normal operating hours.

Installing the fixtures would cost the district $159,500, the assistant superintendent said.

These measures would incorporate energy saving concepts in 16 elementary schools, Chapman said.

Another expenditure he noted are new athletic lockers for the three junior high schools and Midland Freshman High School. The lockers would provide more security for the students belongings.

Total cost for installing the lockers is $128,370, he said.

Parking lot resurfacing at Midland Memorial Stadium would prevent future pothole problems resulting from changes in the climate, Chapman said.

Also, 6,580 fiberglass seats at Midland Memorial Stadium would be recovered, he said, at a cost of $41,125.

Tennis court resurfacing at Midland Freshman High School, Goddard Junior High School and San Jacinto Junior is expected to cost the district $12,570, Chapman said.

Language equipment at Goddard Junior High School and Midland Freshman High School would be replaced at a cost of $26,000, he added.

A contingency fund designed to handle the effects of inflation is incorporated within the budget at a cost of $183,000, according to Don Furgeson, MISD business manager.

If the bond issue is passed, the district should have no trouble selling its bonds, Furgeson said.

Despite the present situation in the bond market, school officials say they feel confident Texas financial institutions would buy the school's bonds.

Two weeks ago, Furgeson noted, Ector County school district officials were able to sell their bonds.

One school official said bond problems occurred in northern cities because people are not willing to invest money in those areas.

However, most bonds sales are doing well in this region because of the better economic climate, he said.

Iranians demonstrate Shah, Carter, Sadat vilified

By The Associated Press

The shah's move to Egypt will make resolution of the American hostage issue "extremely difficult." Foreign Minister Sadeq Ghodzadeh said today as thousands of fist-waving Iranians demonstrated outside the U.S. Embassy.

Ghodzadeh told a news conference in Tehran that the ousted monarch's flight from Panama has undermined trust in the hostage negotiations and may make the new Parliament less favorable to a settlement.

But he said the move to Egypt was a moral victory for Iran because it showed Iran's extradition case against the former monarch was strong.

Ghodzadeh also said Iran will not try to extradite the shah from Egypt because Egyptian President Anwar Sadat is a "puppet of Israel and the United States."

He predicted a "tremendous amount of unrest" in Egypt because of the shah's presence.

The foreign minister said the reason the ruling Revolutionary Council has not issued an official statement on the shah's transfer to Egypt is because the new circumstances are being debated among council members.

Meanwhile, thousands of Iranians filled the streets around the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, shaking clenched fists and chanting slogans condemning the United States and Sadat because Egypt took in the shah. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin also was vilified.

A commendable choice

Jim Patten of the University of Nebraska journalism faculty has been selected to head the department of journalism at Midland College.

Patten, currently professor of journalism at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, was appointed last week during a meeting of the college's board of trustees. The appointment becomes effective with the 1980 fall term.

The Allison Chair of Journalism was made possible via a generous endowment of $750,000 made to the college in September 1979, by Mrs. Helen Y. Allison in memory of James N. Allison Sr. and James N. Allison Jr., late publishers of The Midland Reporter-Telegram and the Plainview Herald.

Establishment of the Allison chair brings about a new era for journalism both at Midland College and in Midland in general.

Patten's credentials are impeccable. He will bring to the college a unique blend of journalistic expertise from both the standpoints of education and "working journalism" experience.

The professor has outstanding experience for both areas, having served as an educator for several distinguished colleges and universities, and as a working journalist for some of this nation's most prestigious newspapers.

Experience in both areas is essential to providing prospective journalists with the knowledge required to keep this nation's readers, viewers and listeners adequately informed of international, national, state and local events.

The journalists of today are required to do more than merely report news events. In most instances they are expected to interpret the events, thus bringing them into context for the public.

It's a big job, one that necessitates well-informed, highly educated journalists.

The importance of that job today cannot be overemphasized because in today's rapidly changing, mobile society strong emphasis is placed on getting the news to the public as quickly and accurately as humanly possible.

That's why today's prospective journalists must be taught not only the theory of journalism, but also the mechanics of actually preparing news accounts and disseminating them to the public.

For that task, Patten is well qualified. His expertise in the field of journalism will be invaluable to Midland College's journalism department.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan supporters don't want Baker as running mate

By ROLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The hottest prospect to become Ronald Reagan's vice presidential running mate is Sen. Howard Baker — a prospect that tempts the conservative movement's joy over Reagan's runaway campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Baker remains anathema to the right, mainly because of his support for the Panama Canal treaties but also because he backed such domestic proposals as the federal Education Department and President Carter's welfare reform bill. However, his moderate image and Southern background are prime assets in the view of many Reagan insiders.

Conservative leaders would much prefer George Bush if Reagan wants a moderate-appearing running mate, but Bush's poor campaign performance the last months has reduced his desirability. Other possibilities acceptable to the right include Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana and retired Gen. Alexander Haig.

REAGAN AND PRO-LIFE

Complicating Sen. Howard Baker's vice presidential prospect is a pledge from Ronald Reagan to name only a "pro-life" running mate.

Reagan made the pledge in a Feb. 15 telegram to Father Charles Fiore of Chicago, chairman of the National Pro-Life Political Action Committee — an organization that has endorsed Reagan for president.

In ruling out possible running mates widely regarded as not pro-life — that is, who favor some form of legalized abortion — Reagan may have blackballed several vice presidential prospects with powerful backing, including Baker, Gov. James Thompson of Illinois and possibly George Bush.

Reagan himself, although under attack in the past for some of his abortion policies as governor of California, promised the NPLPAC that he is definitely pro-life.

CARTER'S TEDDY FEAR

Fear of Teddy Kennedy inside the Carter White House has little to do with his chances to beat Carter for the nomination (regarded as zero), but everything to do with preserving or sweetening Democratic majorities in Congress and avoiding losses in lesser state elections.

The connection between Kennedy's continuing blasts as Carter, despite his impoverished showing in the primaries, and the congressional and state elections is — money. As long as Sen. Kennedy battles Carter, already scarce party funds are siphoned away from the critical statewide and local elections. The Republican war chest is now close to $20 million, adding together the Senate and House campaign treasuries and the national committee's. The Democrats claim virtual bankruptcy.

The Republicans, on the short end today of a 59-to-41 Senate lineup, could conceivably win control for the first time since the 1952 election. With Democratic contributors continuing to pour money into the presidential contest the Republican prospect for picking up congressional and other elective offices is enhanced.

CARTERITES VS. STRAUSS

The concealed resentment of long-time Carterites toward the president's campaign manager, Robert Strauss, is reflected by their secret codeword for him: "The Eagle."

"Strauss is like an eagle," explained one campaign operative, "who soars over the country to find a primary state where we're sure to win and then lands there." That reflects feeling by the Carter old guard that Strauss, a relative newcomer to the president's camp and a neutral in 1976, takes undue credit for Carter successes against Sen. Kennedy.

Actually, the charge is unfair. Strauss put together Carter's campaign in New York last fall when the president was a distinct underdog against Kennedy. But the "Eagle" codeword reflects the underlying tension between Strauss and Tim Kraft, Carter's longtime political operative.

MEL LOWERS SIGHTS

The resurgence of Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign has led former Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire to reconsider his fading.

right-wing independent campaign for president in favor of a race for the U.S. Senate — a prospect that generates mixed applause.

Thomson tentatively will dine the first week in April at the Massachusetts estate of the reigning conservative power in New Hampshire: William Loeb, publisher of the Manchester Union-Leader. If Loeb asks him to join the crowded Republican field challenging liberal Democratic Sen. John Durkin, Thomson may well say yes.

ON NAME IDENTIFICATION

Thomson probably would finish first in the Republican primary. Some New Hampshire conservatives regard him as the strongest prospect against Durkin. But right-wing political operatives in Washington have learned of Thomson's interest with dismay; they consider the former governor to be too controversial, and hence the one Republican surest to lose to Durkin.

Communists thrive on death and destruction

Charley Reese

One of the quirks of the liberal mind which continues to puzzle me is the anti-anti-communist syndrome. Liberals tend to view an anti-communist with about the same amount of warmth and compassion as the PLO shows for Israel.

It's really hard to figure. After all, to be an anti-communist, you don't have to be a Christian or a conservative Republican; all you have to be is informed about communists. Perhaps liberals are just ignorant white necks.

But before I remind you what communists are, let me tell you what they are not. They are not people who practice the economic theory of Karl Marx. About the only people who do that are those who live in communes or kibbutzim. The economic theory of Marx doesn't work but it is a threat only to the standard of living of those who try to put it into practice.

Communists are those individuals who practice Leninism which is just a variation of Hitlerism. They are generally divided into two groups: those loyal to the thugs in the Soviet Union and those loyal to the thugs in China. Both are equally repulsive to the civilized human being.

If you love life, you must hate communists for they have no respect for it at all. If you love freedom, you must hate communists for they despise and fear it. If you love tolerance for differences in beliefs, you must hate communists for they are the most intolerant bigots on earth. If you love religion, you must hate communists for they are atheistic and militantly so. If you love freedom of expression and inquiry and have respect for truth, you must hate communists for they are enemies of all three.

I'm not just pulling your leg. In all of these things communists are consistent in both their theory and their practice. Listen to the godfather of modern communists, V. I. Lenin.

Our morality: "When people talk to us about morality, we say: for the communist, morality consists entirely of compact united discipline and conscious mass struggle against exploiters."

On fair play: "We must be ready to employ trickery, deceit, law-breaking, withholding and concealing truth. We can and must write in the language which sows among the masses, revulsion, scorn and the like toward those who disagree with us."

On freedom of the press: "Why should freedom of speech and freedom of the press be allowed?" Why should a government which is doing what it believes is right allow itself to be criticized? It would not allow opposition by lethal weapons. Ideas are much more fatal things than guns."

On freedom of discussion: "The press should not be only a collective propagandist and a collective agitator, but also a collective organizer of the masses."

On subversion (many liberals deny its existence): "There can be no question of only utilizing bourgeois state institutions with the objective of destroying them... The Communist Party enters such institutions not in order to do constructive work, but in order to direct the masses to destroy from within the whole bourgeois state machine and parliament itself."

Well, you have to give Lenin credit for speaking plainly, and, as I pointed out, there is a perfect match between what he preached and what communists today practice.

Since liberals tend to dominate the media, according to Walter Cronkite, most Americans are like the U.S. Government's Soviet experts: they have accepted the communist propaganda as the correct version of his story.

I've heard many a guy repeat the bromide that the people of the Soviet Union or China are at least better off than they were before. This is simply not true. Lenin's gang, for example, did not overthrow the Czarist government; they overthrew the democratic government which had overthrown Czarist rule. The communists just gratuitously murdered the deposed monarch and his family.

Alexander Solzhenitsyn has pointed out that in the 80 years preceding the communist takeover, despite unrest and attempted revolutions, the Czars executed about 17 persons a year. Once the communists were in power, they executed about 1,000 persons a month and gradually ran the numbers up to 40,000 a month. The death toll of all communist governments has been estimated from a minimum of 60 million to 120 million people.

To paraphrase Gen. Phil Sheridan, the only good communist is a dead one.

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Can this be the Messiah?

Then the woman left her waterpot beside the well and went back to the village and told everyone, "Come and meet a man who told me everything I ever did! Can this be the Messiah?"

So the people came streaming from the village to see Him.

Meanwhile, the disciples were urging Jesus to eat.

"No," He said, "I have some food you don't know about."

"Who brought it to Him?" the disciples asked each other.

Then Jesus explained: "My nourishment comes from doing the will of God who sent Me, and from finishing His work."

Do you think the work of harvesting will not begin until the summer ends four months from now? Look around you! Vast fields of human souls are ripening all around us, and are ready now for reaping.

The reapers will be paid good wages and will be gathering eternal souls into the granaries of heaven! What joys await the sower and the reaper, both together!

For it is true that one sows and someone else reaps. I sent you to reap where you didn't sow; others did the work, and you received the harvest."

Many from the Samaritan village believed He was the Messiah because of the woman's report: "He told me everything I ever did!"

When they came out to see Him at the well, they begged Him to stay at their village; and He did, for two days, long enough for many of them to believe in Him after hearing Him.

Then they said to the woman, "Now we believe because we have heard Him ourselves, not just because of what you told us. He is indeed the Savior of the world."

Chevron energy report:

Compared to all U.S. industry—

Chevron's nickel profit makes us just average.

The average profit for all major U.S. industries last year was 5.5¢ on a sales dollar.

By comparison, in 1979 Chevron made about 5.1¢ on each sales dollar of U.S. petroleum sales—a little less than the average of U.S. Industry.

Even on our worldwide sales, we still made less on a sales dollar than the average of all U.S. industries.

Like most companies, we reinvest most of our worldwide profits after dividends plus cash from operations (including depreciation). In 1980, Chevron's reinvestment in energy development in the U.S. will be a record for us—more than twice our '79 U.S. profit.

Investment in U.S. energy development is the best way to help move America toward energy independence. But, we must all continue to conserve as much energy as possible.

A young American, Bob Richman, who emigrated some eight years ago, is making quite a name for himself in bridge circles. Down Under last year he was a member of Australia's team that challenged strongly for the world championship. Here is an example of his play, taken from a rubber bridge game played during a visit to the United States a while ago.

The opening bid was the weak variety that is growing increasingly popular even in rubber bridge circles. North's raise to game meets all the textbook requirements.

West led a trump, and when dummy came down, it seemed that there would be no way to avoid two losers in each minor suit. A long diamond could eventually be established, but declarer would first have to surrender two diamond tricks, and by then the defenders would surely have cashed their two club tricks.

Even looking at all four

Declarer led another trump, discarding a diamond from the table. West could let go a club, but East was in trouble. He had to hang on to four spades, and three diamonds, so was forced to part with his low club. Now declarer ducked a club to his partner's ace. The best East could do was to exit with a diamond. Declarer won the ace and put East back in with a diamond. The suit was established for a discard, and West had no way of regaining the lead to cash the defenders' second club trick.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. MCSSC conducting annual TASC meeting

The Midland College Senior Service Center Department is conducting the Fourth Annual Conference of the Texas Association of Senior Centers (TASC) which started Sunday and will end Wednesday on the MC campus.

Joyce Leasne, director of the National Institute of Senior Centers and associate director of the National Council of Aging in Washington, D.C. presented the keynote speech to the 300 delegates.

The topic of Leasne's speech was "So You Want a Multi-Purpose Senior Center."

Today's agenda was to include morning and afternoon workshops dealing with topics regarding senior citizen centers.

Following the workshop session a noon salad luncheon was served in the Chaparral Center.

After official TASC business in the afternoon, the slide presentation "Barrier Free Facilities" was to be presented by Gordon B. Arnold and Andrew Hemphill, Midland architects.

Tonight, participants will be transported to tour the new Ector County Senior Center.

Wednesday morning activities will be devoted to additional workshop sessions prior to closing activities at 10:30 a.m. conducted by John Paul Jourard, president of TASC and assistant director of Senior Community Services, Inc. of San Antonio.

Jane Tecklenberg, TASC vice president and chairperson-elect of the National Institute of Senior Centers, will introduce the final speaker, Mary Ann Stephens, a social environmental psychologist from the University of Houston.

Prior to today's activities, conferees were treated to barbecue and three hours of entertainment and dancing in the Chaparral Center.

Entertainment was provided by the Swinging Rhythmettes of Odessa, Fun Bunch Rhythmettes of Andrews, the Over 55 Dance club of Midland, Swinging Senior Citizens of Seminole and Katie's Kitchen Band from Lovington, N.M.

Workshops involved in the conference included:

Redo-Makedo: Creative Use of Space. Lavinia Lohrman, director of Stephenville Senior Center, and Jeanette Bowers, director of the Alpine Senior Center, were the topic leaders.

Sue Bornstein, assistant director of the Jewish Home for the Aged in Dallas, presented "Seniorizing Professionals in the Aging Process."

"Motivational Settings and the Creative Use of Space" was the topic presented by Dr. Richard L. Cookson, staff development training board of discipleship of the United Methodist Church.

"Expanding the Continuum of Care Through Senior Centers" had Dr. Thomas J. Fairchild, center for studies in aging at North Texas State University in Denton, presenting that workshop's program.

Coordinators for the conference included

Mary Ann Board, Norma Helm, Jan Reed and Sue Craig.

Members of the Midland Conference Arrangements committee included Ada Slaton, Marge Holland, Madeline Blair, Faye Biggers, Pat Summers, Carolyn Ford, Joy Decker.

Also, Carolyn Lindsey, Ruby Johnson Williams, Louise Massey, Bernice Henderson, Dixie Atwood, Shirley Archer, Ophelia Welch, Gloria Singleton, Em Carnett, Stan Jacobs and Judy Williams.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Many obstetricians use
ultrasound in childbirth

Dear Dr. Solomon: My obstetrician has informed me that he will be using ultrasound to assure a safe delivery of my child. I would like to know what ultrasound is and how it is used during pregnancy. — Mrs. A.C.

Dear Mrs. C.: Ultrasound is a diagnostic tool that uses high-frequency sound waves to form images which can then be evaluated by a physician. The sound waves are directed into the body by a transducer, which is a device that converts electrical energy.

The sound waves make contact with structures within the body and are reflected back to the transducer, where they are converted electronically into a picture. The technique can be compared with that used by sonar to locate submarines during time of war.

Doctors use ultrasonography in pregnant women in order to predict multiple births and to detect a variety of abnormalities. The procedure also is used to show the exact position of the fetus before a cesarean delivery is attempted.

Ultrasound is a painless diagnostic tool; it does not involve radiation from X-rays and may help avoid the need for surgery. Further, ultrasound is a particularly useful procedure in emergency rooms where prompt diagnosis is required.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My aunt is a terminal cancer patient in a large hospital, and she has been informed of her condition. Her daughter tells me she is now being seen by a social worker, and that the counseling appears to be helpful. What can anyone possibly say to a person, who knows she is dying, that will make any difference? — Ms. B.G.

Dear Ms. G.: A person who is aware that he or she is close to death has some special needs, and personal counseling is often effective in meeting them; apparently, this generalization has been true in your aunt's case.

Dr. Margaret Linn, associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Miami School of Medicine, studied 120 such patients, 40 to 80 years of age, in a Veterans Administration hospital; half the group received counseling, while the other half did not. Dr. Linn reports that those who received counseling appeared to be happier during the time preceding their death. They less often felt depressed or alienated, demonstrated improved self-concepts and found greater satisfaction in their lives.

All 120 patients had cancer and had been told they had a year or less to live. Discussions often focused on the patients' feelings as they reflected upon their lives and past accomplishments; clearly these discussions aided in reinforcing their patients' self-esteem.

As well, the patients were able to discuss with the counselors various things which the patients would like to do before they died; these often included making financial arrangements or planning for their children's education.

London (AP) — The thieves who made off with 10 tons of silver bars valued at $8.8 million probably will melt them down, but how they will fence the loot may be a problem, experts said today.

Scotland Yard circulated details of the 321 stolen ingots and their identifying marks to all sea and airports, and a dealer on the London metal market said the first thing the crooks were likely to do was melt the bars down.

"They would have to alter the marks that every bar has stamped on them, and the easiest way would be to melt them down and make new ingots," he said.

Museum nets record amount at Auction '80

By WANDA MOUTON
Lifestyle Editor

The bidding was spirited. And within the space of just a few hours, the Museum of the Southwest had netted over $200,000—a record amount—at Auction '80.

The event, held every three years, is the major fund-raising project for the Museum. Saturday's affair was held at the new Midland Center.

There was plenty of food and drink to satisfy the 550 or so guests attending. At one booth, a group was eagerly testing the freshly cracked oysters while another long line formed at the buffet table where hundreds of shrimp crepes were being dished out.

Don Strange and his San Antonio staff outdid themselves in preparing avocados on the half shell filled with caviar and sour cream, in serving the giant leg of corned beef and preparing the gorditas on the spot.

ALL THE WHILE, items available for the sealed and posted bid auctions were exhibited throughout the hall. There were jewels, luggage, paintings, cameras, crystal, clothes—an endless display of beautiful and expensive items.

The real action didn't begin, though, until 9 o'clock at the live auction.

Organizers of this year's event went all out in efforts to obtain unusual items for sale. First item up was an autographed football signed by Dallas Cowboy Quarterback Roger Staubach. And that was only the beginning. Throughout the course of the night, some of the items sold were a trip to the Ruidoso Downs horse races, a lunch with Governor William Clements, a scuba diving course, a week of tennis at a resort ranch, an editorial in The Midland Reporter-Telegram, a shopping trip to Salado and Grace Jones boutique, a cooking school special, and a week for two floating down the Salmon or Snake Rivers in Idaho.

Gene Monroe, who won the rafting bid, said that he wanted the trip because he has never been on either river and was looking forward to the challenge.

"I've been on two raft trips before, but this will be a first in Idaho," said the sportsman. He immediately asked Mrs. Monroe if she would like to accompany him, "but she decided from the start that she wasn't going to go down that river of no return," added Monroe.

JOHN REDFERN JR., repeated himself by purchasing the baseball package which had been available at the last auction three years ago and was again available Saturday night.

As one of the original founders of Little League in Midland, he has a special interest in its purchase, he says. He'll treat 15 kids to batting practice with the Midland Cubs, followed by hamburgers and fries at McDonald's and a gift of baseballs. And one of those 15 will sit with the Cubs in the bull pen at one of their scheduled home games.

"I've had an interest in baseball for almost 30 years, ever since my son played on the first Little League team here," he said. "My grandson will for sure be one of those to enjoy this baseball package."

Christen and Meghan Scharbauer, 2 1/2 years and 1 year old respectively, will have a most unusual Easter gift this year with the present which their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Scharbauer, purchased.

The youngsters, along with 48 friends, will be treated to an Easter egg hunt on the Museum grounds. The package included eggs and goodies to search for, prizes to win and ice cream cake to eat. Plus, the appearance of a giant pink rabbit.

"I thought it would be fun for them," said Mrs. Scharbauer.

THE LIVELIEST BIDDING of the night erupted over the playful bidding for the right to fly a flag over the downtown Gulf Building.

The gift was donated by Clayton W. Williams Jr., a Texas A&M graduate, who regularly flies the Aggie flag atop the building.

Getting in the act were Texas Aggie exes who seemed determined to keep their flag flying: Texas-Christian University graduates who wanted to see their alma mater represented; University of Texas exes; and others.

But the ultimate winner was Gordon Knox who, along with friends, will see the flag of his alma mater, Oklahoma University, fly on a particular week of his choosing.

One of the more unusual items bought by Joe Gifford and Bascom Mitchell was a lunch with Governor Bill Clements. It included a flight to Austin for seven. Luckily enough, the winning bidders say they are Republican.

Sponsors which made the charity event possible were Basin, Inc., Mr. and Mrs. William C. Blanks, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Britton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cowden Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Craig Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lynn D. Durham, First National Bank and Mrs. Redfern Glenn.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. John Hendrix, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Isbell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Karcher, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Knox, Magnatex Industries, Inc., and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Marshall.

ALSO, MR. AND MRS. Tony A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel O'Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Redfern Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Starr, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Wagner Jr., and Wilkinson Realty Company.

Contributors were Champion Chemicals, Inc., DA&S Oil Well Servicing, Inc., Dowell, Milchem, Inc., Parker Drilling Co., Runnels Mud Co., Schlumberger Well Services, and The Western Co.

Chairman of this year's Auction '80 was Mrs. James H. Isbell.

Other organizing chairmen were Mrs. Douglas A. Forshagen, gifts; Mrs. Donald L. Evans, secretary; Mrs. Duke Wilson, treasurer; Mrs. C. D. Martin, invitations; and Mrs. George W. Bush, sponsors; Mrs. John A. Woodside, public relations; and Mrs. John Elphick, arrangements.

Also, William A. Gilluly, banking; Douglas A. Forshagen, beverage; Mrs. Robert Koziol, block display; Mrs. Davidson Claiborne, calligraphy; Mrs. John J. Redfern III, catalog copy; Mrs. Bob Koen, catalog layout; Mrs. Douglas Scharbauer, catering; and Mrs. Robert Henry, decorations.

ALSO, MRS. JON SHORT, design; Mrs. Joseph I. O'Neill III, entertainment and personnel; Mrs. G. B. Bailey, lighting; Mrs. Robert Pollard, music coordination; Mrs. Tom Cradick, Mrs. Jerry Barden, Mrs. William Shackleford Reeder, pages and tellers; and Mrs. Jerry Hodgeons, photography.

Also, Mrs. Ralph Arrell and Mrs. Robert Coleman, posted bid auction; Mrs. Bruce McKague, publicity; Mrs. Robert A. Bennett and Mrs. Allen McGuire, recorders; Mrs. Johnson Wilson, sealed bid auction; Mrs. Mike Rhoden, sound system and James H. Isbell, transportation.

Gordon Knox holds the flag of his alma mater. He won the toughest bid of the night, the right to fly his university's flag atop the Gulf Building—replacing the familiar Aggie flag for a week.

"Mrs. Peter Cottontail" hops down the runway, ready for an Easter egg hunt which was auctioned off along with a picnic at the Museum. Behind that cute bunny face is the face of Robert Houser.

Bruce McKague, dressed in fishing gear, represented one of the bigger auction items, a trip of deep sea fishing and other sporting activities. Proceeds from this benefitted the Museum's Acquisition Fund.

Auctioneer was Larry Wooten, left, who discusses an item with William H. Pomeroy, Jr., master of ceremonies. Callers were Ed Anderson, Connie Mack Hood, Jim Salners and Charlie Welch. Music was by Shirley and Friends.

All set to enjoy a week in the Bahamas are Suzanne Brien in a sun hat and Brent Blomquist in yachtsman attire. One of the focal points of the auction was a runway on which participants encouraged bids.

New cancers are connected to treatment

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Radiation therapy designed to cure children with cancer may be contributing to new cancers, growth defects and learning disabilities, a pediatric cancer specialist reports following a study of 200 child cancer patients.

"We are concerned that radiation therapy is not as innocuous as has been led to believe," Dr. Anna Taback Meadows, senior physician at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, told a science writers' seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

"The ethical implications are immense: Do you risk your children's life (by not using 'aggressive' cancer treatment) or do you risk serious problems they will have to live with?"

"All we can do is discuss with parents the chances of producing longer life and what the child can expect later in life," she said.

Ms. Meadows said Monday the study at 13 institutes in the Philadelphia area involved children who were age 6 or under when treated for a variety of childhood cancers, from leukemia to cranial tumors.

She said studies of 200 children who developed a second cancer indicated that in 94 cases the new cancer, which sometimes took as long as 13 years to develop, could be associated with radiation therapy.

Tracking of flu essential for effective vaccine

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The viruses causing influenza may suddenly mutate and so change that the immunity which has been built up in a population disappears, and existing stocks of vaccine become useless.

This makes constant monitoring of influenza outbreaks essential. For this purpose, the U.N. World Health Organization has established a global surveillance system with reports coming from 101 national influenza centers. When an outbreak occurs, the national center obtains specimens of the virus which are rushed to WHO collaborating laboratories — in Atlanta, Ga., or London, England — where the virus is analyzed and passed on to vaccine manufacturers if a new type of vaccine is required.

WHO also keeps national health authorities informed of influenza outbreaks and the type of virus involved.

The most severe influenza outbreak occurred in 1918 when some 20 million people died. Major outbreaks have occurred as recently as 1957 and 1968.

Gulf Coast city officials feel confident after well capped

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — The people who live along the South Texas coast lost count of the times officials predicted an end to the been pessimistic long enough."

The greasy brown pollution last year cost the area millions of dollars in canceled reservations and lost trade, according to tourist industry officials.

Some establishments applied for loans as much as $100,000 from the Small Business Administration, and residents feared a second, similar washout if the well went uncapped.

The crude began rolling in when the Ixtoc I offshore Mexican well, a test hole that discovered an oil reservoir estimated at 33.6 billion gallons, blew out June 3, pumping crude into the Gulf of Mexico.

Engineers said then they hoped to cap the rogue well by October, then November, then January, then February. Meanwhile, crude had begun washing ashore in August.

Officials first pumped steel balls into the well in hopes of stanching the flow, which at 130.2 million gallons was greater than the 1978 spill from the tanker Amoco Cadiz off France.

The U.S. Coast Guard sounded the "all clear" Wednesday, and by the time official word came from Mexico that the well had been plugged with concrete caps, area residents were breathing easy.

Students jammed motels, hotels and condominiums for spring break and many facilities are booked through Easter. But not everything is back to normal.

"I think our credibility is being established but I think we have a long way to go," said McGeehee. "It will take us several months or, in some instances, maybe years before some people decide the coast is clear and they want to come back."

Members of the tourist industry have filed $337 million in lawsuits against Pemex, the national oil mo-

Washington volcano may blow again, scientists say

COUGAR, Wash. (AP) — Mount St. Helens, silent for the last 123 years after erupting in four of the past five centuries, may be about to blow again, scientists say after a series of small earthquakes.

Subterranean quiverings during the past five days have made the mountain seem somewhat like a bear growing during hibernation. There's no harm yet, but it's attracting a lot of attention.

Cross-country skiers have been told to avoid the mountain because of avalanche hazards caused by aftershocks. A quake Monday triggered high-elevation snowslides on the north and northwest slopes.

Mount St. Helens, about 50 miles north-northeast of Portland, Ore., rises 9,677 feet to a symmetrical, snow-capped peak often compared in beauty to Fujiyama in Japan. Layers of pumice from eruptions 3,500 and 450 years ago have been found 50 miles to the east.

The last eruption occurred in 1857. "We know the mountain will erupt again, but we don't know when," said Steve Malone, a University of Washington seismologist in Seattle.

Judy Terreberry, a spokeswoman for the UW Geophysics Program, noted a swarm of small tremors at the mountain since Thursday. Volcanoes around the world "typically display the same type of activity right before they blow," she said.

Since Friday, seismic activity on the mountain increased from what geophysicists call two "events" (or tremors) per hour to 40 per hour by Monday morning.

DALLAS (AP) — Property owners in Dallas County could face tax increases of 30 to 40 percent later this year, a county official has warned.

The drastic hike may be needed to finance raises for county employees and to pay off capital improvement bonds, according to Richard Lewis, commissioners court administrator.

"The 40 percent is an outside maximum figure," he told county commissioners at a meeting Monday.

Commissioners gave no indication what the new tax schedule will look like, but Lewis said the county may be

MIDLAND COUNTY — Larry Howard is as mad as a goat caught between mesquite and barbed wire. Four of his bearded friends — a billy and his three nanny goats — were slaughtered by roaming country dogs which strayed or otherwise climbed under, over or through a fence to do their dastardly deed.

Howard is as incensed as a madder-than-mad Eddie Chiles and, like the anti-bureaucracy oilman, has a remedy for purging bothersome dogs from his sight and from the whole countryside.

"I've got a suggestion to what to do with these stray dogs," said Howard, a 38-year-old railroad switchman who was aiming to raise goats for milk, cabrito and profit. "There's a lot of (people in) foreign countries that like to eat dogs. And we ought to gather them all up and send them to foreign countries and stop sending them money."

Howard cared for the goats for most of their lives and developed a deep attachment to the billy and the "poor man's cows," which yielded richer milk than a Jersey cow.

"See, I can't put a value on the goats," said Howard, who was groping for something non-violent to avenge the massacre of his pet goats.

"Me and my wife (Harriet) almost got a divorce because I babied them so," he said with more than slight exaggeration. Even their 8-year-old daughter, Mille, misses the critters.

"I'm asking to have the dogs put away," said Howard, who said circumstantial evidence points to some large dogs as the culprits. "If they're not put away (or shipped abroad as food), they'll train other dogs to kill."

Howard mourned over his loss is about over, but his anger is getting well entrenched.

Howard had moved his goats and other farm pets — chickens, rabbits, turkeys, guinea and geese — from a 2 1/4-acre plot to a fenced-in spot about the size of a family-size chicken yard south of town last Saturday. The spot was to be a temporary holding pen for the pets until Howard got relocated in a move across the Midland countryside.

The three red-eye white rabbit were in a cage all their own. The roosters and their hens, the drake and his hens, and the guinea hens were put up in a shed so they wouldn't fly over the fence. The pigeons were caged above the other fowl.

And the goats were tethered with ropes so that they, too, could not escape from a strange environment.

And the goats' being tied to ropes apparently kept them, particularly the 1-year-old Angora billy goat, from waging a counterattack to defend himself and the Nubian milk goats.

More than the others, old horned Billy was badly torn up by the dogs.

Dallas County tax hike on the way?

as much as $20 million short of the funds it needs to continue operating and that a hefty tax hike was the only way out without a reduction in services.

Of the $20 million, he said $8 million would be needed for pay raises for county employees.

Commissioners disagreed the tax increase would be as high as Lewis predicted. County Judge Garry Weber said he expected it to be between 20 and 30 percent.

At present, the county collects $148 on a home assessed at $50,000.

"Oh, it really was a pitiful sight."

"He put up a helluva fight," figured Howard. "He didn't have no chance."

But the mad attack by the dogpack and the restraint of the rope were more than Billy could overcome. "My goats were at a disadvantage."

"The dogs have killed before," Howard speculated. "They're killer dogs, and I want something done with them dogs...."

Billy the buck was a year old; Nanny the doe was 3 years old, and the two kids were about half a year old.

"I'm wiped out" for awhile, at least, he said of his goat-raising venture.

Howard, who said his nature is to get all fired up, is taking the more heady, patient and legal route to control straying, "killer" dogs. And he did not heed his first impulse — to shoot the suspected dogs.

"And I won't let my real emotion take over," he said. "I wanted to take gun and shoot them." But he didn't.

His druthers is to round up stray, vexing and killer dogs and ship them overseas to the dog-eating, hungry masses.

"I'd rather not give foreign aid. I'd rather send them the dogs."

And Howard volunteered to be a dog catcher.

Louisville nails down national basketball title

UCLA frosh accepts loss

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rod Foster, UCLA's streaking freshman guard, feels deep-down the Bruins are winners, and he accepts defeat with a maturity that reaches far beyond his 19 years.

The 6-foot-1 bolt of lightning, repeatedly driving through Louisville's defense to the basket, was the catalyst that carried the Bruins to the threshold of another NCAA basketball championship, falling five points short in the closing minutes.

"No, I wasn't really surprised we made it this far," whispered Foster, sitting quietly in the subdued UCLA dressing room after Monday night's 59-54 loss to Louisville's Cardinals.

"We knew we had a better team than our record showed. We knew from the beginning that later on in the season, through experience, we'd be a better team."

The 10-time NCAA champion Bruins suffered a dismal 8-6 start under first-year coach Larry Brown. They fell to fourth place in the Pac-10 Conference, an unthinkable position in years gone by, and barely made the post-season tournament they dominated for so long under Johnny Wooden.

But a funny thing happened along the way. The freshmen grew up, and the upperclassmen started playing like ... well, like UCLA.

"Everybody realizes the adverse circumstances we had to overcome to get here," said Kiki Vandeweghe, one of just two senior starters for the Bruins, who closed the season at 22-10. "I'm very proud of our team. We don't have anything to be ashamed of."

Lee, Cooper to stage early shootout

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

It's early showdown time in the District 5-4A baseball race.

Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Lee Rebels tangle with the Abilene Cooper Cougars at 4 p.m. today at the Lee diamond.

Both are 2-0 in 5-4A play and share first place with Abilene High, who entertains the Midland Bulldogs in Abilene today. In other games today, Odessa Permian is at Big Spring and San Angelo Central faces Odessa High in Odessa.

LEE HAS polished off OHS and San Angelo and the Rebel pitching staff has been tough, giving up only two runs in the first two league games.

Junior righthander Alan Koonce is Johnson's choice to throw today against the Cougars, who are the defending 5-4A champions. Kirk Russell most likely will start for Cooper.

While Lee has been getting solid pitching and defense, Cooper's bats have pounded out 29 hits in two games.

In the Cougar's last outing, however, they were outhit by OHS, 17-13.

Koonce takes a season record of 3-1 to the mound and he has only given up six earned runs in 28 innings of pitching. He has walked five and struck out 34 opposing batters.

MIDLAND HIGH, fresh from an 11-8 victory over the Big Spring Steers, can stay in the race with a win today over the Eagles. Lefthander Paul Cox will throw for the Purple Pack which stands 1-1 in district competition.

Abilene beat Permian, 5-4, in eight innings Saturday.

choice to throw today against the Cougars, who are the defending 5-4A champions. Kirk Russell most likely will start for Cooper.

Cooper has the best season record with an 8-3 reading while Abilene is 6-3 and Permian 7-5 while Lee is 5-7 on the year and also has a game on Wednesday in Lubbock against Monterey.

OHS is 5-5 on the year while Midland is 4-6, Big Spring 3-9 and San Angelo 3-10. Odessa, Big Spring and Central have yet to win in district play.

Jeff Hicks paces the Rebel hit parade with a robust .462 average while teammate Barry Corley follows with a .375 average.

BIG GUNS for Midland's Bulldogs are Bobby Stovall, Mark Hewitt, Tracy Gann, Perry Bolger, Jerry Zachery, David Zarate and Eddie Portillo. Stovall is hitting the ball at a .571 clip while Hewitt owns a .417 average. Gann, Bolger, Zachery and Zarate, all are hitting .333 and Portillo is hitting .303.

UCLA freshmen, Michael Holton and Rod Foster, with occasional help from another yearling, Darren Daye, Griffith nevertheless tossed in 23 points to lead the game's scoring.

Known as the "Doctor of Dunk" because of his rare leaping ability, he converted most of his field shots from the outside — the most spectacular of them a one-hander from the top of the key which put the Cardinals ahead 56-54 with 2:19 to play. It broke the Bruins' heart. They went 4½ minutes without scoring.

Griffith is one of the "new breed" — a sharer rather than a dominator. He is a dashing dervish, always in the vicinity of the ball, passing as much as shooting, aware of the entire court. He makes shots out of his ears.

Griffith's unselfishness is not confined to the court. Recently one of his schoolboy friends, Jerry Stringer, was found to have cancer in the late stages.

"I won this one for Jerry," Griffith said.

Shredded net gives Griffith royalty

By WILL GRIMESLEY
AP Special Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Darrell Griffith wore a red, white and blue baseball cap for a crown and a shredded basketball net around his neck as a royal robe.

"How does the net feel?" was the first question asked of the sleek, bearded senior guard who had just led the Louisville Cardinals to a 59-54 victory Monday night over UCLA for the NCAA basketball championship.

"Like gold," Griffith replied.

An aide rushed to the dais to inform Louisville Coach Denny Crum that President Carter was on the phone, calling from the White House.

"Go ahead, coach," Griffith said.

"I will take over."

Indeed he did. He is a take-over guy.

Hail to the new king of the college basketball realm, valedictorian of the class of '80, headed for a multi-million-dollar career with the pros.

He conforms to the mold in the highest tradition of past collegiate greats — an inspirational leader, a ball-faking Houdini, remarkable shotmaker and a winner.

"When I came to Louisville, I told everybody I wanted to be a champion," he said. "I predicted we would win the national championship before I was through. Tonight it all came true."

Griffith is not a boastful man. There isn't an ounce of arrogance in his supple 6-foot-4, 190-pound frame. Every other answer to the barrage of questions is threaded with the words:

"I don't mean me individually. I mean the team. All we've accomplished has been as a team."

He is indeed a jewel.

The 43-year-old Crum, delighting in the first national title for a team that many feel has played in the shadow of the more celebrated University of Kentucky, chided newsmen for failing to name Griffith the college Player of the Year.

"You guys don't know basketball," the coach said, referring to the writers' choice of DePaul's Mark Aguirre in The Associated Press poll.

"You coaches didn't pick him, either," a newsman suggested, recalling that the coaches had selected Michael Brooks of La Salle.

"They don't know basketball, either," Crum snapped.

The Louisville coach, disdaining comparisons, called Griffith the best player he had ever coached. Larry Brown, coach of the beaten UCLA Bruins, praised Griffith's remarkable talents and compared him with the former North Carolina State star, later a standout pro — David Thompson.

Others put the high-leaping, phantom-like Louisville guard alongside such pro celebrities as Oscar Robertson, Jerry West and Earvin "Magic" Johnson, the latter a Michigan State player who joined Indiana State's Larry Bird as the National Basketball Association's dynamic rookie duo of the current season.

Griffith upholds commitment

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Darrell Griffith raced to the basket, soared high in the air as the buzzer sounded and pounded the backboard repeatedly with both fists, finishing off his finest moment with typical flare.

"This makes it all worthwhile," said Griffith, the All-American guard whose 23 points and poise down the stretch helped Louisville beat UCLA 59-54 Monday night for the school's first national basketball championship.

"This is the one I wanted," he added. "Four years ago, when I came to Louisville, I said that before I leave we would have a championship. Now I feel I've upheld that commitment."

IT WAS A commitment he shared with Denny Crum, who took over as coach of the Cardinals nine years ago. Although his teams won more than 24 games per season and were always highly ranked, they never won the national title.

Justly or not, Crum had earned a reputation as being unable to win the big one — a reputation that was finally laid to rest Monday night.

"This is the greatest," said the dapper, 43-year-old Crum, who served as an assistant at UCLA before coming to Louisville. "This is the proudest I've ever been. This team has been very special to me because they worked harder than any other. At the end of the game, when the going got tough, they hung in there and did what they had to do to win."

Purdue, getting 35 points from Carroll, beat Iowa 75-58 in the consolation game for third place.

WHAT LOUISVILLE did was score the last nine points of the game, force mistakes with pressure defense and hold UCLA scoreless for the final 4:32 to overcome a 54-50 deficit.

"We missed shots and turned the ball over at crucial times," said Larry Brown, the first-year coach who brought UCLA back from an 8-6 start to within one game of its 11th national title. "They converted when they had to and we got a little out of sync. With a young team, that happens."

"Losing hurts, and when you think you can do more as a coach, it hurts more. But I'm so proud of this team and of being a part of the UCLA tradition."

That tradition — 10 NCAA crowns within 12 years under Coach John Wooden, the last in 1975 — was never far below the surface in this tournament. It was on Crum's mind, even at the moment of his greatest victory.

"But you can't live in the past," Crum reminded. "I felt we should have won in 1975, when we had the best team, but UCLA beat us (in the semifinals). This was our time."

And a tough time it was. The game was a tense, hard-fought struggle in which both teams shot poorly, at least partially because of tenacious defense. Neither club led by more than four points in the first half, which ended with UCLA on top 28-26.

"Both teams were tight," said Crum. "Both had a lot of young players, and the fact that the game meant so much put a lot of pressure on them."

SINCE LOUISVILLE has been a team known for its looseness all year long, Crum decided to shake things up at halftime.

"He told us we were choking," said guard Jerry Eaves. "He was mad and he had a right to be."

The Cardinals, who made just 11 of 31 shots in the first half, responded by hitting 13 of 22 after Crum's comments. And they continued to play the sticky man-to-man defense that had kept them close throughout the first half.

After eight lead changes, UCLA was clinging to a 54-50 advantage when Bruins senior Kiki Vandeweghe threw up an air ball on a drive to the basket.

That was the break — the Cardinals needed Griffith, double-teamed by UCLA's 2-3 zone defense, dished the ball off to Eaves for a 15-footer. After freshman guard Rod Foster, who led UCLA with 16 points and six steals, missed on a wild drive to the basket, Eaves hit on a driving layup to tie the score.

Foster missed a long jumper and Griffith responded with an 18-footer to put Louisville ahead to stay 56-54 with 2:21 to play. Two free throws by Derek Smith and one by Rod McCray in the final minute iced the victory.

THREE UCLA players — Foster, freshman Michael Holton and sophomore Tony Anderson — tried playing Griffith man-to-man, and the Bruins also employed a zone. Nothing really worked.

"He's a great, great player — the kind you need to have to be a winner," praised UCLA Coach Brown.

"We never gave up," said Griffith, who was named the outstanding player in the tournament and joined Vandeweghe, Foster, McCray and Joe Barry Carroll of Purdue on the all-tournament team. "When we got down, we kept our poise and came back."

"I'm real happy for Jerry Stringer," he added, referring to a long-time friend from Louisville who is stricken with cancer. "We dedicated this championship to Jerry. I just hope it uplifts him a little."

It was the lowest scoring NCAA title game in 23 years, since North Carolina beat Kansas 54-53 in triple overtime. And it was Louisville's first victory over the Bruins in four meetings, all in NCAA tournaments.

Louisville, which was ranked second behind DePaul in the final Associated Press poll, drew a first-round bye, posted overtime victories over Kansas State and Texas A&M and then beat Louisiana State and Iowa en route to the final. The Cardinals finished with a 33-3 record, the second-winningest NCAA champion ever behind 1948 Kentucky, which was 36-3.

UCLA, which was unranked and finished 22-10, had beaten Old Dominion, DePaul, Ohio State, Clemson and Purdue in its Cinderella drive which fell one game short.

At last, a champion is born

Midland High, Pat Culpepper escape

exceed 60 minutes. Classes before and after school hours, or during noon hours are prohibited."

"In effect, Midland High is being penalized for having an off-campus off-season program. With this rule, we have only 40 minutes at most to work out. I thought at first that I had 60 minutes. I told my kids not to to hurry to the field house from school because we had been having problems with some of the kids getting traffic tickets. I told them we would start when everyone got there. On Feb. 13, Bartosh noticed us working out and told me then that it was a 'bell-to-bell' concept. We stopped those workouts at that time," Culpepper said. "We feel our off-season program is important because Midland High football players have received far too many injuries the past couple of years. I think they should be able to get full benefit of the rule rather than a penalty. We want to win without filling the hospital wards. No one seems to think about the kids."

The investigating committee did not think MHS had any intent to break that rule. And that was the reason given for giving MHS a warning instead of a probation.

Allegation No. 3 (Working out and showing films on Saturdays): The committee could not find any evidence to support this allegation. There were, however, a couple of incidents on Saturday which could have been misleading.

On three separate Saturdays, members of the Midland High football team voluntarily painted the field house. There were approximately 25 athletes on the first Saturday, 15 on the second and 10 on the third.

Culpepper also told his kids of the importance of the weight program and said that if anyone

Hired hands shape up for Doubleday

By The Associated Press

There's nothing like a visit from the boss to make the hired hands shape up.

And Nelson Doubleday, who has never seen his New York Mets lose, must be wondering what it is about his presence that brings out the best in them.

Doubleday, who bought controlling interest in the Mets for $21.1 million two months ago, flew across Florida from Hobe Sound to St. Petersburg Monday and saw his new troops defeat the Minnesota Twins 6-4 in an exhibition game.

Besides the appearance by Doubleday, the Mets also had a visit from Manager Joe Torre in a pregame closed-door clubhouse session.

"It wasn't anything big," Torre said. "I just told them I didn't like losing, but I wasn't ticked off about it.

I talked about a couple of games we lost last week on home run pitches. I said I hoped we would have those things straightened out before we leave here.

"I told them I think that mechanically they've been playing well. I have no fault with their execution. They're all running hard and playing hard. I just told them that I wanted them to gear themselves for opening day. That physically I had no complaint with their play, but that they must make sure they are mentally giving 100 percent. That's all there was to it."

Also, Doubleday or nothing.

Meanwhile, veteran Tony Perez and rookie Reid Nichols belted three-run homers as the Boston Red Sox oustugged the Cincinnati Reds 12-8. Ray Knight, Cesar Geronimo and Harry Spilman homered for the Reds.

"If I keep hitting like I am, I'll get a chance to play with somebody," said Spilman, who is batting .317 and figures to stick as a backup at first and third base and possibly a third-string catcher.

"Hopefully, it will be with the Reds, but I have to remember that (Dan) Diressen and Knight waited around for their chances too."

Steve Rogers pitched six shutout innings and also squeezed home a run as the Montreal Expos downed the Texas Rangers 5-1. Lee may celebrated his 37th birthday a day late with a women's team won the AIAW national championship last year, while the best finish for the SMU men's team in the past four years has been sixth place in the Southwest Conference.

"What it amounts to is we haven't produced. We can't blame anybody but ourselves," Stewart said.

The lone underclassman golf scholarship athlete, Wayne Morey, was told his scholarship would be honored for the last two years, but Morey said he will seriously consider going to another school.

Potts attended the NCAA basketball championship game in Indianapolis Monday night and was unavailable for comment.

ACU athletic director Wally Bullock said Tate, 44, will be replaced by Mike Martin, head basketball coach at Southeastern Oklahoma State University Durant, Okla.

Anonymous attack puts doubt in UIL process leave the weight room open for anyone who wanted to use it. "There is nothing wrong with painting the field house and no one was made to. I thought it would be good if the kids could take a little pride in their surroundings, and they were proud of the job they did. It sure brightened things up," Culpepper stated. "I got a call from one mother asking why I was making the kids workout with weights on Saturday. I was shocked because someone had misinterpreted what I told the kids. The weight room was open on Saturday, but I never checked role or checked to see if anyone was using it."

The committee felt nothing was wrong with the above activities and also showed that the only Saturday film ever shown was to a prospective assistant coach.

Allegation No. 4 (Using in excess of five-man techniques while working out): Again the committee could find no basis of facts to support this allegation. In fact, Culpepper has workout schedules based on five-man techniques. Bartosh theorized that perhaps some of the groups were working too close together at some point in time and could have looked like a violation.

"Since I had never coached in the high school ranks, I was very interested in what some of the other coaches in Texas were doing during their off-season drills," Culpepper said. "Before I even got to Midland, I had talked to coaches from all over and had adopted some of the five-man techniques that are being used around the state. I might add too that the techniques that we have been using are working like a charm. Our program has been open for anyone to see what we are doing."

Allegation No. 5 (Using contact equipment in the off-season program): The only equipment the investigating committee found in use at Midland High in addition to weights and mats (both legal) were tires, which were used for agility drills.

"We checked with the UIL office on this matter, and they told us that tires were considered as P.E. equipment and not illegal," Bartosh stated.

"I was aware of what happened at Midland Lee under Jim Acree, and that they had used dummies in pre-season drills," Culpepper said. "A man would have to be stupid to violate that kind of rule after knowing what had already happened."

Midland school officials should be given a pat on the back for admitting an error in rules interpretation. We will not now or ever condone UIL rule breaking in any form, but self legislation seems to have worked in this case and it seems a shame that all concerned had to go through this procedure.

Culpepper does not wear a black hat, and should be given our support in building a football program at Midland High.

This whole thing seems to reek with stuff that only the bitter hatred of an "anonymous mind" can conjure up. It was a sick case at best.

Here's hoping the UIL will take all anonymous letters from now on to File 13. A man should have the right to face his accusers. At least, that was what they used to teach us.

Sund owns job of building Dallas

By The Associated Press

Wouldn't it be fun to be able to start a pro basketball team from scratch, to pluck players off pro rosters or from the college ranks and put together your own team?

Rick Sund is getting to live out that sports fantasy. He's the player personnel director for Dallas' expansion franchise that will be joining the National Basketball Association next season, and he's been a busy man lately.

"I've seen about as many players and teams as I possibly can," said Sund, who learned his job under Wayne Embry with the Milwaukee Bucks in the '70s before being chosen for the Dallas job by Norm Sonju, the man who put together the group of 24 investors who put up $12 million for the franchise.

"That's why I haven't moved from Milwaukee yet," Sund added. "I've been able to catch pro teams when they come into Milwaukee or Chicago, and I'm near big colleges like Marquette, DePaul, Notre Dame and the Big Ten schools. But even with that, I've done my share of traveling, too."

NBA rosters will be frozen at the end of the season and each team will be allowed to protect eight players from the expansion pool. Sund will get the list of available players in mid-May, and on May 28 he'll announce Dallas' selection of one veteran from each of the 22 NBA teams.

What kind of players is Sund looking for?

"We really want to concentrate on getting good character people, from good backgrounds," he replied. "We want people who will accept the fact that for a couple of years we'll be struggling. We plan to go the youth route, building our team year by year through the draft. We may struggle for a while, but we feel that's the only way to go."

"Look at the Tampa Bay football team," he added. "They went the same route and they turned it around in three years. They stuck with their game plan even though they didn't win a game their first year."

With each team protecting eight players, Sund knows the pickings may be slim. But he's hoping to find some diamonds in the rough.

"We want some young, aggressive players who will want to come to an expansion club and prove what they can do in the pros," he said. "Look at Michael Ray Richardson of the Knicks. He did very little as a rookie and probably wouldn't have been on New York's protected list, but in his second year he developed into a star. Maybe we can find some young players like that."

White House turns down Olympic proposal again

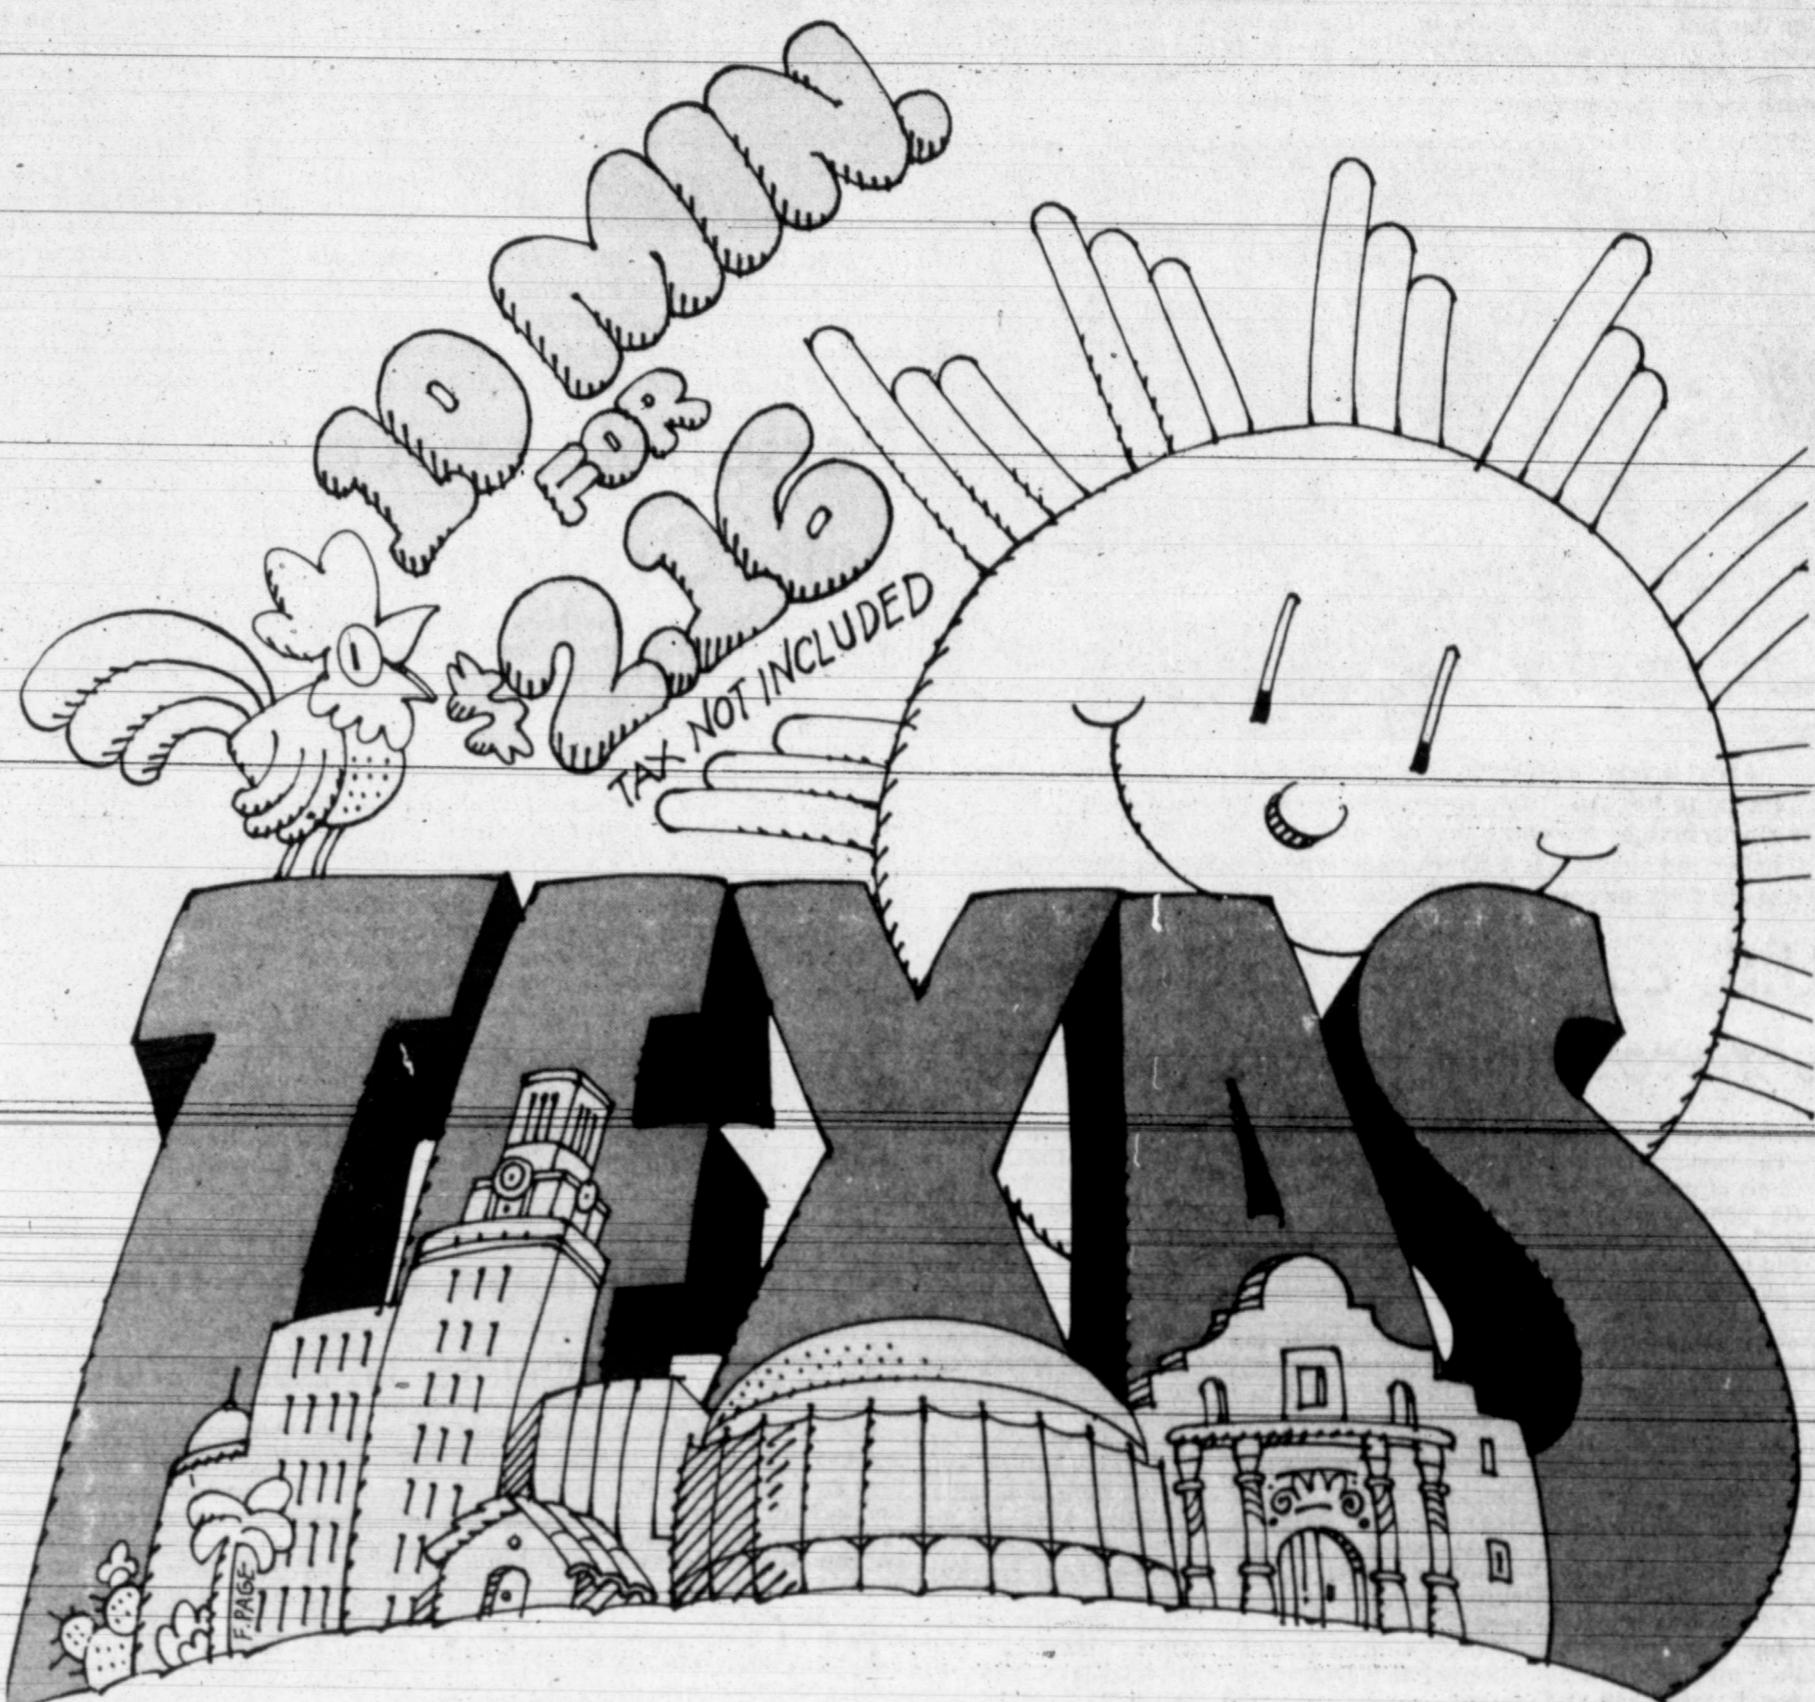

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in two months, a proposal by American athletes to attend the Summer Olympics but protest the Soviet military action in Afghanistan apparently has been turned down by the White House.

Members of the Athletes Advisory Council to the U.S. Olympic Committee met over the weekend to word a proposal by which athletes would compete at Moscow but boycott all formal ceremonies. The athletes also would arrive just before their competition, stay in the Olympic Village or training facilities throughout, not accept any medals, and leave immediately after competing.

They also would not go sightseeing or engage in any tourist activity.

A White House aide, who requested anonymity, said a similar proposal had been considered — and rejected — two months ago.

Simply dial One-Plus between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. and you can talk Texas to Texas 10 full minutes for only $2.16.*

And that goes for anywhere in the state over 105 miles away. (Rates are even lower within 105 miles!)

Which means you can say a long hello to Houston for a mere $2.16. Or talk 10 to San Antonio or Dallas for the same low price.

U.S. consultants paid billions unnecessarily by government

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government pays billions of dollars to private consultants each year for work that often could be done by federal employees or which is of little or no value, congressional investigators have reported.

Despite 1978 guidelines issued by the White House to curb misuse of outside consultants, "there remain serious, pervasive problems," the investigators said.

The report, prepared by the General Accounting Office, was released by Rep. Herbert Harris, D-Va., and Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark. They said they will hold joint House-Senate hearings on consulting contracts March 27 and April 3.

Banks will loan added funds to Ford, reports prospectus

DETROIT (AP) — Banks have agreed to lend an additional $1 billion to Ford Motor Co. if the No. 2 automaker thinks it needs the money, Ford disclosed.

The arrangement was reported in the preliminary prospectus for the $300 million worth of five-year and 10-year notes which Ford's underwriters will place on sale March 31.

The prospectus said Ford had "entered into credit agreements with various banks which provide that Ford may borrow, repay, and reborrow up to an aggregate of $1 billion outstanding at any one time. Any borrowings ... must be repaid not later than Dec. 31, 1984."

Ford also has arrangements with banks to borrow another $1 billion under what the prospectus called short-term lines of credit.

"Short-term" generally means less than a year. Ford borrowed money under those lines last fall when it had shipped new models to dealers but had not been paid for them.

No Ford spokesman was immediately available to discuss the new bank arrangements.

Mary Ann Keller, auto industry analyst for Paine Webber, Mitchell, Hutchins & Co. Inc. in New York, was asked if the new credit line represented a vote of confidence in Ford by the banks. "I don't think voters of confidence have to be taken. Not every corporation is a Chrysler," she said.

Ford said it would use proceeds from the notes for capital expenditures, estimated at $3.5 billion this year and $20 billion between 1978 and 1985.

Chrysler Corp. and its banks have been negotiating for months about new and renewal financing. Chrysler must raise $2 billion from various sources in order to qualify for the $1.5 billion in loan guarantees voted by Congress — a job it hopes to complete by the end of March.

Mrs. Keller said Ford's arrangement had been general knowledge in the financial community even though nothing had been printed about it.

"You can't line up a billion dollars without people knowing about it."

Ford did not mention the agreement in its year-end statement given to reporters.
