Will hostages become wards of Council?

By The Associated Press

The Iranian government may announce new steps in the hostage crisis as early as tonight, perhaps including transfer of the 50 Americans to government custody, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said. But revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini made a new broadcast attack on the United States, accusing it of threatening force.

President Carter postponed a scheduled speech and set a conference with national security advisers, shortly after reports from Iran said transfer of the hostages was being considered. It also was learned in Washington that a message Carter sent to Iranian officials warned that stance. "Even now it is all just words. break in the hostage situation.

In Cairo, a doctor said the deposed shah of Iran's cancer had spread to his liver. Doctors last Friday removed the shah's dangerously enlarged spleen. It was the shah's admission to the United States for treatment of his cancer, despite the opposition of the new regime, that triggered the Nov. 4 embassy takeover in Tehran.

In a Tehran Radio broadcast today, Khomeini attacked the United States for what he called threats of military force to free the American hostages. "It was all words," he said of the U.S.

the United States would order further. Never be afraid of such words beretaliation against Iran if there is no cause they are not followed by action," he said in the London-monitored broadcast.

He also condemned the Soviet Union's intervention in Afghanistan and predicted the Russians would "eventually be defeated," saying no power can impose its will on the world. The Soviet news agency Tass today reported that Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev sent Khomeini congratulations on the first anniversary of the Islamic Republic of Iran. A Foreign Ministry spokesman contacted by a Western journalist in Tehran said the subject of a hostage transfer was taken up by the ruling Revolutionary Council and that President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr would discuss the matter tonight with Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary leader who would have the final word.

The student militants holding the hostages at the U.S. Embassy have rejected previous demands to turn them over to the government.

After a Sunday council meeting, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said the members had discussed proposals made by Irish diplomat Sean MacBride, and Ghotbzadeh said Mac-Bride had declared U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. A spokesman for the militants dismissed reports the council had issued an order to turn over the Americans. ### Salvadoran troops clear streets following killings

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Troops cleared the streets of San Salvador to maintain order after dozens of persons were killed and more than 250 injured at the funeral of El Salvador's assassinated archbish-

Morgues and hospitals reported at least 40 persons killed in the violence in front of San Salvador's Roman Catholic cathedral on Palm Sunday. Church sources confirmed 26 dead, indicating some of the victims may have been counted twice.

The outdoor funeral for Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, an outspoken critic of military repression and political violence, was brought to a hurried conclusion after an explosion and then gunfire erupted about noon as the throng of mourners filled the square in front of the

There were conflicting reports on how the firing started, but armed leftists who had taken up positions in the square began shooting, and the crowd stampeded.

Within minutes, 3,000 to 4,000 people, many of them leftists, rushed into the cathedral for safety as other leftists took up positions around the church and apparently blasted away at anything that moved outside.

Many of the casualties were victims of the panic, not of bullets. There appeared to be at least as many casualties from trampling or suffocation as from gunfire.

The archbishop's coffin was hurried inside and put in a crypt People huddled together on the floor of the cathedral. Priests urged calm. Nuns prayed. Leftists among the crowd chanted of the struggle that "the people" would win.

After an hour, when the army still remained in its barracks, the atmosphere inside the church calmed. People began walking out and cautiously crossing the square with their hands above their heads.

The troops did not appear until 4½ hours after the trouble was over. Then they stopped minor looting and ordered everyone off the streets for the night

Reporters near the front of the cathedral when the violence started heard a loud explosion followed by gunshots. A few seconds later there was general gunfire from several directions.

One leftist said the first shots were fired by three armed men in a jeep who drove by and opened fire. Others who were near that point in the square said they saw no such thing

There also were unverified reports that some firing came from nearby buildings, and that some troops had been only a few blocks away from the square in armored vehicles but did not open fire.

The ruling military-civilian junta said the shooting was an attempt "to create a great commotion with violence to close the doors to a peaceful and democratic solution" to the political terrorism that has taken 900 lives since the Oct. 15 coup.

Some Texaco workers ratify two-year OCAW contract

PORT NECHES, Texas (AP) - Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers at two plants here have ratified a 2-year January. contract with Texaco, but another 4.000 at Texaco's largest refinery have refused to approve the pact until a local issue is settled.

According to OCAW's national spokesman in Denver, the 4,000 OCAW workers at Texaco's "flagship" refinery in Port Arthur comprise almost half the organized Texaco workers in the country

"The largest group of OCAW refinery employees - about 8,900 workers - are employed by Texaco and its subsidiaries," said Jerry Archuleta. More than 500 members of OCAW Local 4-228 in Port Neches voted "unanimously" to accept the new contract Sunday, said J.D. Pete, chairman of the OCAW workman's committee at Jefferson Chemical Co.

There are about 340 OCAW workers at Jefferson Chemical and another 200 at the Texaco Asphalt plant in

Port Neches, Pete said Workers at Jefferson Chemical were to begin returning to work late Sunday and those at Texaco Asphalt were to return today.

Union employees at both plants joined a nationwide OCAW strike in Jefferson Chemical was a wholly owned subsidiary of Texaco until a merger last week. Jefferson officials said the company should undergo a name change in the near future.

The new contract calls for establishing a dental plan with an insurance carrier of the union's choice, and increased medical contributions. It also allows for an average $1 an hour increase in 1980. The average national chemical worker's salary is $9.55.

A union spokesman at Local 4-23 who asked not to be identified, said members there were in agreement on the contract offer, but would not ratify it until the local issue is settled. "They got one of our people discharged, and until they put him back to work, we're standing firm," he said late Sunday night. "They claim there was violence on a picket line (contrary to a federal court injunction against both Texaco and the local).

Martin Allday calls himself a "compassionate conservative."

That type of thinking will be brought into policies of city government if he is elected mayor, said the 53-year-old attorney.

To paraphrase a quote of Thomas Jefferson, Allday said he believes "government ought to do for you what you are completely unable to do for vourself.

"We can't pay for schools, hospitals and police protection out of our pockets. We don't make contributions to build courthouses or pay salaries of policemen," he explained.

That reasoning is the principal behind why Allday also believes the city should apply for Community Development funds with a rental subsidy program. The City Council in the past has turned down a move to apply for the money on a 3 to 3 vote.

"Housing is one of our most pressing needs," said Allday.

Rental subsidy would assist low income people living in the south and east sections in their housing costs. Other cities which accept the federal monies eventually get funds to build rent-subsidized housing. Allday said he has been studying aspects of the CD funding. In his checking, Allday said he has been told "the rental subsidy part would be administered under guidelines by local folks. Using Hillcrest Manor as an example, I'm convinced we can run a decent, well-managed, honest

By agreeing to a rental subsidy program in Midland, Allday said the city in turn would receive the $1 million in CD funds it hasn't gotten for four years. Those funds come from tax monies paid the federal govern-ment by each city.

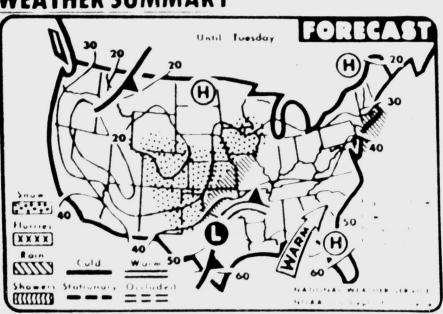

Allday remarked that if he turns down the funds, "I can't look people in the eye and raise their taxes to make up that deficit. The council for the past three years has prevented us from having the option of helping needy people. South and east Midland, where the money would go, already are slum areas, he said, "and I want to clean it up as best we can.' Midland should be making a stronger push for more diversified economy in the near future, said Allday who lists it as one of his major goals. Through his participation in the In-dustrial Foundation of Midland, All-administration hasn't a ow to free the Ameriseages in Tehran. The limited economic sanctions long since imposed have been ineffectual. Conciliation and compromise have produced nothing.

The current policy, stripped of State Department mumbo jumbo, comes down to this: The administration is willing to wait until the snarled domestic politics of Iran unravel sufficiently to permit release of the hostages, however long that takes. The apparent victory of hard-line revolutionaries in Iran's parliamentary elections renders even this hope doubtful.

But what if the occupation of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran has more to do with international politics than with the twists and turns of the Iranian revolution?

The several hundred armed men and women under whose guns the hostages still sit have been variously described as students, Islamic revolutionaries, leftists, Marxists, pro-Palestinians, and, just recently, paid agents of the Soviet Union.

So far as we know, the evidence for any of these labels is less than incontrovertible. But labeling the hostage takers is less important than understanding what they are accomplishing and whose purposes are being served by prolonging the crisis.

Clearly, those who occupy the embassy have become, and probably always were, a force unto themselves. By their actions, they have demonstrated that they owe no allegiance whatsoever to President Bani-Sadr, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, the Revolutionary Council, and, despite protestations to the contrary, to the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Bani-Sadr and Ghotbzadeh plainly desire an end to the hostage crisis. The hostage takers have frustrated these hopes at every turn. Similarly, while professing loyalty to Khomeini, the perfectly apparent that militants have skillfully undercut the ayatollah on those few occasions when it appeared that even he might be groping for a facesaving way out of the present

> Nor has the Revolutionary Council succeeded in asserting its authority over those who occupy the embassy.

Obviously, the militants are more than willing to defy the major public figures in Iran who represent the Islamic revolution. And it follows that they are just as willing to hold out against the revolution itself should it move in directions they oppose. Indeed, they are already doing so.

The crowds in Tehran have long since lost interest in the street theater played out in front of the U.S. Embassy. No doubt most Iranians are preoccupied these days with returning to a normal life and consolidating a revolution that has already achieved its prime purpose, the establishment of an Islamic republic.

Yet, the hostages remain prisoners in their own embassy. To Both President Bani-Sadr and Foreign Minister Ghotbzadeh have made the remarkable charge that the embassy militants are, in effect, serving the interests of the Soviet Union. And so they are.

Instability and turmoil in Tehran represent opportunity for the Soviet Union. And, inasmuch as the United States is the sole power capable of deterring a Soviet move into Iran, Moscow must be delighted with the job the militants are doing in driving Americans and Iranians as far apart as possible.

If this is indeed the grim game under way in Tehran, those who hold the hostages may be impervious to any political compromise, not only with the United States but with the Iranian government as well. Thus, a U.S. policy of infinite patience may in fact be infinitely

Carter's inflation fight just a campaign ploy

President Carter's inflation fight is a fraud. He is like the housewife in the joke who tells her husband she has saved him $50 because she bought a $100 coat for half price.

President Carter's budget cuts are cuts in proposed increases in spending. Outlays in fiscal year 1980 totaled $568 billion and outlays in fiscal year 1981 - after Carter's proposed cuts are made - will be $612 billion, according to the Wall Street Journal.

So, you see, the net effect, despite the rhetoric, is an increase in federal spending. There is only one conclusion possible when you compare these figures to President Carter's statements: either he is engaging in deliberate deception or he hasn't the foggiest notion of what he's doing. Sometimes I think our government has grown so grotesque that we are numbed by the magnitude of the silliness. Are we really going to sit like dumb sheep while a government which has already imposed the highest peacetime tax increase in history balances the budget by levying even more taxes on us?

Do you really believe that in a $612 billion budget, you have to nick the school lunch program or summer jobs for kids in order to cut it? Come on, don't you' see the game? They're picking the cuts that will produce the oudest yells so they can come back and say, "Well, we tried to reduce spending but you didn't really want us

I wonder how long the American people are going to put up with this nonsense on the Potomac. Neither the Carter Administration nor the Federal Reserve Board are serious about controlling inflation. Look at the evi-

There is the net increase in federal spending. There is the Federal Reserve's promise to keep expanding bank credit at an annual rate of six to nine percent. There are the off-budget federal agencies which make direct loans or issue loan guarantees. They plan to make new credit commitments in 1981 totaling $162 billion.

You have to remember, too, that in this age of multinational corporations and multinational banks, the Federal Reserve has no control over the billions of Eurodollars, those U.S. bucks sitting in overseas accounts.

I'm no financial expert, but I can apply police beat common sense. The Federal Reserve looks out for the big banks. High interest rates, aside from hurting small business and small banks, help big banks attract deposits from foreigners. That's the meaning of news stories about the strengthening of the dollar.

Psychic vouches for Kelly's strange story

WASHINGTON - Rep. Richard Kelly's explanation of his role in the ABSCAM operation has always had a certain ethereal quality to it. The latest evidence I've seen makes his story downright spooky

The eccentric Florida Republican, who was videotaped taking $25,000 in cash from undercover FBI agents posing as Arabs, explained that he had been conducting his own one-man investigation of "shady characters." Kelly's bizarre tale was greeted with general hilarity.

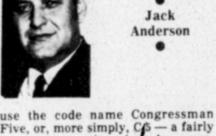

But my associate Gary Cohn, who has been investigating the ABSCAM scandal, has obtained some confidential files that lend a weird credence to Kelly's incredible story. The files, now in the possession of the FBI, show that on a number of occasions — after he was approached by the undercover agents, but long before the ABSCAM story broke -Kelly contacted a noted Florida psychic for help in his investigation of some very dangerous people." Not only that, the psychic warned him at the outset that he was involved with

The psychic, Robyn Jameison, noted in a confidential memo for her files, dated Dec. 1, 1979, that Kelly's reaction to her warning was skepticism, which he expressed with characteristic bluntness. The congressman told her "he thought I was off my rocker and way off in left field with my visions, and that those shady characters with whom he was dealing could not possibly be FBI or agencyconnected.'

According to Jameison, Kelly first contacted her on Oct. 3, 1979. "I do not remember the specifics of our conversation," she recorded in one memo, "other than that he was involved with some sort of secret investigation involving some very dangerous people, and that he felt his life was presently in danger.'

The suspicious Kelly was advised to Five, or, more simply, C5 — a fairly transparent cover, since he represents Florida's Fifth District. He phoned next on Nov. 28 and asked for 'weather report" - trade jargon for a psychic evaluation. "I advised C-5 he had every right to Jameison wrote. "I saw deception, embezzlement, fraud, corruption on a variety of levels. My vision revealed the involvement of the FBI and-or ex-FBI agents. I psychically received the word 'Scam' a number of times during our conversation. The memo continues: "I also saw

C-5 being ensnared in these activities by being presented with a large sum of money or perhaps gold. I told him of my vision and advised him ... (that) I could physically take whatever was offered to him, 'money, mar-bles or chalk,' tune in on it and give him a psychic road map to follow

Kelly next called on Jan. 12, 1980, and told Jameison that a payoff had been made. "He commented several times that he was on to something really big and that I would be shocked at what he had stumbled onto.' The psychic and the congressman made plans to meet in Washington, but the ABSCAM story leaked out before they could get together. Jameison is a nationally known psychic who has had considerable success in helping policy investigators crack tough cases. Last year, for example, she astounded Florida police by telling them where the body of a murder victim would be found.

Whether one believes in her psychic powers is, of course, beside the point. What's important — and amazing is that her testimony corroborates Kelly's fantastic story. She confirmed that the memos in our possession are authentic and the information in them is accurate. The memos show that the congressman told her his version of his ABSCAM involvement months before he accepted the incriminating payoff on Jan. 8.

Furthermore, the one-man investigation that provoked such mirth is. perfectly in keeping with Kelly's attitude and antics. The 55 year-old, arch-conservative maverick has been described as a crusading Don Quixote with the temperament of an irascible Captain Queeg. Almost nothing he might do would surprise those who know him.

As a circuit court judge in 1963, Kelly's outspoken eccentricity on the bench got him impeached by the Florida House, but he won acquittal by the State Senate. And in 1969, attorneys and his fellow judges charged that he was mentally incompetent. Kelly's response was to get a certificate of sanity from a psychiatrist - a movethat has enabled him to boast that he is the only member of Congress who has been certified sane.

Kelly's weird explanation of his ABSCAM involvement led one reporter to ask if he intended to plead insanity as a defense. But the documentary evidence of his dealings with the Florida psychic shows that Kelly may, in the end, prove to be crazy like

INSIDE REPORT:

Washington not watching, but West Coast tax revolt alive

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

LOS ANGELES - Opening shots in the campaign over the newest tax-cut referendum show that not only is the tax revolt alive and well in California but that the real stake is redistribution of income. Contrary to a view widely held among politicians that the revolt subsided even here at home after tax crusader Howard Jarvis' deep property tax cut (Prop. 13) was adopted by California's voters in 1978, an even more radical cut in state income taxes proposed by Jarvis (Prop. 9) is overwhelmingly favored to pass June 3. The consensus is that it is leading, 2-1, statewide.

Mickey Kantor, a skilled Democratic politician who heads the anti-tax cut campaign, was well aware of prevailing sentiment as he ap-proached his first televised confrontation with Jarvis recently. Instead of predicting ruin for state government services (the anti-Jarvis weapon used in 1978), Kantor that night took a different tack: Prop. 9 - called Jarvis II, or "Jaws II" by its foes - is biased toward the rich.

While cutting state income tax rates in half, the relief would be unevenly distributed: 5 percent of all taxpayers would get 33 percent of the relief; 80 percent would get only 40 percent. For that reason, Kantor told us, "I would be opposing this even if it meant no reduction in government

With that, he uncovered the secret of what lies behind the passion of tax-cut foes. It is less a question of undermining government programs because of reduced revenue; it is, rather, the threat to undermine redistribution of income through progressive taxation by narrowing the gap between top and bottom rates. Under Jarvis II, California's top-bracket rate of 11 percent (put that high, ironically, by Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget-balancing efforts) would come down to 5.5 percent. That is the real bite of "Jaws II."

Novak

There persists scare talk of greatlydiminished government service in the wake of the new cut, even though no such crisis followed the 1978 property tax reduction. Conservative economist Milton Friedman, who supported Jarvis I, opposes Jarvis II out of fear the lost revenue will be picked up through new taxes on business (which, in fact, would require an unobtainable two-thirds vote of the legislature).

Friedman rejects the theories of a younger conservative economist. Arthur Laffer, who has argued that lower tax rates invariably generate more revenue as they did here after Jarvis I. Jarvis himself is a confirmed Lafferite. How much revenue loss would result from his proposition? "I don't really think it would be any," Jarvis told us. Even opponent Kantor concedes the revenue loss would be limited "if the economy keeps booming" (of which he personally is skeptical). Booming economy or not, Kantor is a good enough politician to know that gloom-and-doom prophecies lost their credibility when rising prosperity followed Jarvis I. But in switching the argument to distribution of the tax burden, Kantor runs up against the classic political problem for liberals: Taxpayers care more about how much they pay than about how little their rich cousin pays. Preliminary surveys show substantial support for Jarvis II - far more than for Jarvis I - in the brown and black communities. That is one reason why even many Democratic politicians are reluctant to do battle now as they did then.

Jarvis actually thought that Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., a dedicated foe of Jarvis I before he saw it would win, would endorse Jarvis II. On a recent visit to California away from the presidential campaign trail, Brown maintained his liberal credentials by announcing opposition to the new tax cut, but only in perfunctory

Some politicians burned by the issue in 1978 have changed sides. Mayor Pete Wilson of San Diego, a highly-regarded moderate Republican who self-destructed his 1978 primary campaign for governor by opposing Jarvis I, has endorsed Jarvis they say diminished state tax payments will mean higher federal taxes because of reduced deductions, somewhat diminishing the Laffer effect here. This state's share of the $60 billion in new taxes put forth by President Carter's new budget (Social Security, windfall profits and others) also files down the sharp edges of "Jaws II." The tax revolt, waged with vigor by California's populistic referendum system, is being largely ignored by elected representatives in

Dole favors Reagan; Anderson looks Independent

By LEE BYRD Associated Press Writer

Kansas Sen. Robert Dole, who once exhorted voters to make him president "if you want a younger Ronald Reagan," is now rooting for the elder one in an effort timed to bolster the Republican front-runner in Tuesday's farm-state primaries.

Dole turned up at Reagan's side Sunday night and declared to an audience in Overland Park, Kan., that it is time for the GOP to unite behind the 69-year-old former governor of California. "More than ever," said Dole, "grass-roots Republicans want Ronald Reagan.'

He added that Reagan has "a virtual hammer-lock on our party's nom-

Rep. John B. Anderson, meanwhile, indicated he is closer than ever to offering himself as an independent alternative should Reagan head the GOP ticket and President Carter wins Democratic re-nomination. The Illinois Republican said on national television that many of his supporters "simply would be unhappy" with a Carter-Reagan choice, and "I am not going to let down the people who have put their faith and trust in me."

Every major candidate of both parties — except the president himself focused on Wisconsin today. That state will chose 75 delegates to the Democratic national convention and 34 to the GOP convention in Tuesday's balloting. Kansas will pick 37 Democratic delegates and 32 Republicans.

Anderson and former U.N. Ambassador George Bush both took swipes at the burgeoning confusion over U.S. contacts with Iran. Bush declared in Madison, Wis., that "It's time for Jimmy Carter to level ... the American people are getting silence or doubletalk.

Similarly, Anderson said the administration should immediately "come-clean on the whole question." He added that if it is true, as reports from Iran insist, that Carter has communicated with the government there in an apologetic tone, then it amounts to the "latest example of inepti-

White House press secretary Jody Powell admitted in Madison that Carter sent messages last week to Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, but denied that they admitted mistakes in past U.S. policy.

In Kansas, Reagan repeated his recent declaration that had he been president when the American Embassy and 50 hostages were seized in Tehran, he would have allowed only 48 to 72 hours to explore a diplomatic solution. "There's no need to take any longer than that," Reagan said. If diplomacy had then failed, he said, he would have privately told the Iranian government to release the hostages to a neutral government by a specified deadline "or on that date something very unpleasant is going to happen to your country.'

Democratic challenger Edward M. Kennedy, meanwhile, scored the president once more for his handling of inflation and demanded that Carter "come out of the Rose Garden and talk with the people of Wisconsin, on their farms and in their factories."

Campaigning in a state he had virtually conceded to Carter before an upsurge in his fortunes last week, Kennedy also took heated issue with the president's use of the words "demagogue" and "misleading" while referring to the Massachusetts senator's economic strategy.

Carter had said in an interview with the Milwaukee Journal that Kennedy was "not being completely frank with the American people on inflation" and had failed to present counter-proposals in legislative form. "I am not a demagogue — I am a Democrat," Kennedy said.

In other developments: -Carter emerged from the Democratic county conventions in Oklahoma over the weekend with assurances of picking up at least 34 of the state's 42 national delegates.

-Kennedy edged Carter in a straw poll of delegates to the Oregon Democratic convention, 49.5 percent to 43 percent, but the results have no bearing on the makeup of the national convention delegation, which will be determined in a primary May 20.

Private Practice criticized for publishing attempt to rank medical schools

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Some medical schools that ranked poorly in a controversial survey by a physicians' magazine have tagged the ratings "a big joke" despite contentions by the author of the poll that it could

Terri Burke, editor of Private Practice, an Oklahoma-City based journal received by more than 180,000 private physicians, said her editorial staff wanted to poll what it believed to be the "most enlightened people in medical education" to choose the 10 best and 10 worst medical schools.

A questionaire was circulated to the deans of the nation's 126 medical schools. Forty-four questionaires were answered, about a 30 percent return, before the study was discovered and censured by the president of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

"I hope the deans would not respond to this survey...there is no way, because of the diversity of our medical schools, with each making it's own contribution in educating physicians, conducting biomedical research and improving health care, to intelligently determine which is the best and which is the worst in the country," Dr. John Cooper, AAMC president, said in his weekly report to members.

When the replies stopped abruptly after Cooper's letter, the editors decided they needed to publish the results despite the low returns.

'We regret Dr. Cooper's decision to try to have our survey boycotted, although we agree it's not simple to rank medical schools," an article in the March issue of the journal said. "But one should not confuse the difficult with the impossible as we believe Dr. Cooper has in this case."

The top 10 medical schools according to the responding deans were:

Johns Hopkins Medical School, Harvard University, Duke University, Yale University, Columbia University, University of Chicago, Washington University at St. Louis, Stanford University, UCLA and the University of Michigan. The bottom 10 listed the Meharry Medical College, University of Puerto Rico, Howard University, College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, Southern Illinois University, Creighton University, Loyola University, Texas Tech University, Hahnemann Medical College and the Medical College of Ohio. On Friday, Kenneth A. Shaw, chancellor of the medical school at Southern Illinois University, called the survey "a big joke."

"Our medical program stands ready for comparison to any others on the basis of the quality of the output we produce," said Shaw.

Shaw said records show 68 percent of SIU grads are accepted at first choice of residency and 80 percent to first or second choice. The magazine article said the study showed a large fraction of the medical school deans and associate deans felt a need existed "for additional help to upgrade their (the bottom-ranking schools) standards." Charles Fentress, AAMC spokesman, said the survey "just gives a bum rap to a number of schools that are accreditied and doing a good job of training physicians." Ms. Burke says her magazine has received strong criticism of the survey from several of the schools ranking near the bottom of the list and about a dozen subscribers. Most of the criticism discounted the credibility of the poll, citing the low percentage of response, she said.

Fire damaged a wood frame Midland house late Sunday evening.

Four units from the Midland Fire Department responded to the fire at the residence of Jerry Mack Wilson, 611 W. Florida Ave., at 12:48 p.m. Sunday. The house, owned by Paulette Dobbs, 3213 Sentinel Ave., was blazing when firefighters arrived.

The fire was extinguished with 120 gallons of water, according to fire department reports. Probable cause of the blaze was listed as towels near a gas water heater.

Fire department reports indicated the blaze caused heavy damage to a water heater closet, and heavy heat and smoke damage to the remainder of the house.

That advice, given 20 years ago, is as good today as it was then. Anybody who bought a house in 1960 and still owns it has seen its value increase greatly, with a figurative handful of exceptions due to deteriorating neighborhoods. This, despite the aging of the structure and the use of the house all these

What the analysis, then and now, boils down to is that the time to buy a house is when you can afford it without waiting until conditions supposedly are ideal. The trouble is that a better housing market always seems a bit out of reach, allowing for different interpretations of what a better housing market

A prospective buying family that plays the waiting game watches in dismay as that house they had their eyes on increases in value 10 percent or more every year. As it rises in cost, along with others once in their price range, they continue to hope that next month, maybe next year, the housing market will get "better" from their standpoint. Meanwhile, their rent or other form of housing costs also goes up.

We are in an age when some lending institutions cannot afford to lend - which makes mortgage loans more difficult to obtain - and when homeowners often cannot afford to borrow. It is true that, occasionally, waiting may pay off one way or another. Perhaps this is one of those occasions. But if the odds are 20-to-1 that waiting will cost you money, it is good sense to be on the side of action now. But it all comes back to that 1960 advice. The time to buy a house is when you can afford it - without trying to outguess the future. Assuming, of course, that you are able to obtain a mortgage, which you can do if you can

DEAR ABBY

She's not the one who should feel guilty

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old woman, living with my parents. (I am all the family they have.) Last year my mother (64) had a stroke which left her partially paralyzed. She walks with a cane and is confused at times, but she's cheerful and uncomplaining. My father, 67, is a practicing physician, but he is no help at all. Over the years he has paid very little attention to Mother and me. He comes home, eats, reads the newspaper, watches TV and goes to bed. If Mother needs the bedpan he comes looking for me to take care of it. When I go out, he forgets to give Mother her medication. We have a woman come in five days a week to stay with Mother until I get home from work.

I'm engaged to be married this fall. It will be my second marriage and his first. We will be living only 10 minutes from my parents, so it's not as though I'll be deserting them. Although I realize that I do have a life to lead, I can't help feeling a little guilty getting married with the situation like this. I'm not young anymore, and want to have a family while I'm still

Please advise me.-S.O.S. DEAR S.: Proceed with your mar-riage plans, and don't feel guilty. You'll live near enough to your mother to look in on her often. And I beg you to ask your father to please show a little more concern and compassion for your mother. I wish you joy. You

DEAR ABBY: When I was growing up, my mother drummed it into my head that I had bad breaths, so I took to chewing gum because I was always self-conscious about my breath.

I learned how to chew gum inconspicuously. I could keep it in my mouth for hours without chewing it.

I still chew gum (I'm married now) but my husband hates it. He says it gets on his nerves. I never crack it, and I'm careful not to chew it in a lot of company, but he still doesn't like it. He says it's offensive, ill-mannered

What to you think?-LIKES TO

DEAR LIKES: I think it's refreshing, good exercise and a bit of a treat if done in private. But if it irritates your husband, your gum-chewing may not be as inconspicuous as you think it is. Chew in private, and don't stretch your luck.

Machine purchase is a serious business

By BETTY W. KINSER Copley News Service

When I wrote the columns on buying a new sewing machine, I had no idea I would hit such a raw nerve. It seems that buying a machine is not a lark for some, a right-down aggravation for others. To some it is just one thing after another.

Dear Mrs. Kinser: Will you please mail a copy of your first article about buying a sewing machine? I was out of town and missed it. You would not believe the troubles I have had with my sewing machine. The presser bar lifter has fallen off three times, among other things. I sent it back to the factory and the lifter fell off the next week. It is only 4 years old but I certainly don't want to continue to try to use it. So, I want to buy a good machine. E.L. ### Four title fights adorn outstanding boxing card

Larry Holmes will make sixth heavyweight crown defense

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Larry Holmes defends his world heavyweight championship for the sixth time tonight, still fighting in the shadow of Muhammad Ali.

Holmes defends the World Boxing Council title against Leroy Jones at Caesars Palace as part of a four championship-fight television show which also includes John Tate's World Boxing Association heavyweight title defense against Mike Weaver in Knoxville, Tenn.

But most of the talk among the fight crowds here and in Knoxville seems to concern Ali's comeback.

Promoter Bob Arum claims the winner of the Tate-Weaver fight will defend against Ali in a $10 million bout at the New Orleans Superdome in late June

Calling Holmes the real heavyweight champion and Tate "a figment of Bob Arum's imagination," promot-er Don King contended Sunday that no Ali fight was set and that if the retired three-time champion does come back, it should be against Holmes.

King and Arum both have said they have a committment to ABC for a fight to unify the heavyweight championship in the fall.

Holmes doesn't intend to sit around and wait for the fall. He wants to fight again in May or June and a likely opponent could be Scott LeDoux or Leon Spinks.

But the matter of the moment for the 6-foot-3, 211-pound Holmes is the 6-5, 254½-pound Jones.

The smart money guys don't think Holmes should have any trouble despite Jones' size and his 24-0-1 record. Holmes is a prohibitive favorite.

"If he runs I'll catch him," Holmes said. "My plan is to go right at Leroy and make him fight. I predict the fight won't go five rounds. I feel very confident.

It's not who he fights, but when he fights that has Holmes upset. The four-fight show from Knoxville, Landover, Md., and here is scheduled to be televised by ABC from 8 p.m. to midnight EST. Holmes has been told that he could go on as early as 10 p.m. or as late as 11:50 p.m., meaning the champion could sit in a dressing almost two hours. King said he is trying to work something out to make Holmes' wait as short as possible.

room, taped up and ready to fight for

A non-televised title fight, which will be held here, is Marvin Camel of Missoula, Mont., against Mate Parlov of Yugoslavia for the new WBC cruiserweight title.

The 30-year-old Holmes, who has a 33-0 record with 24 knockouts, is getting $1.3 million for his defense of the title he won on a split decision over Ken Norton here June 9, 1978.

Jones, also 30, is getting $150,000. This is 10 times the previous high purse for the former singer from Denver, who recalled that for his first pro fight in 1973 he got $150 and the check

"Many times I felt like quitting, and I came very close to actually quit-ting," said Jones, who despite his record and his No. 2 WBC ranking is virtually unknown outside boxing cir-cles. "But boxing gets in your blood and it's hard to shake."

'The big win on Jones' record came in 1978 when he scored a 12-round decision over Weaver. He weighed 279 pounds for that fight.

Big John Tate vs. 'Hercules'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Big John Tate defends his World Boxing Association heavyweight crown against Mike "Hercules" Weaver to-night, confident of a victory that would set up a possible June bout with former champion Muhammad Ali.

"It's all over now except doing it," Tate said. "I have the fight plan in my mind. I'm not worried.

The Tate-Weaver bout is one of four world championship matches slated on an ABC-TV boxing extravaganza tonight, including the WBA light heavyweight fight between champion Marvin Johnson and Eddie Gregory at the Stokely Athletic Center in Tate's hometown.

The other half of the bill will be filled by the rival World Boxing Council - a heavyweight match between champion Larry Holmes and LeRoy Jones in Las Vegas and a welter-weight title defense by Sugar Ray Leonard against Great Britain's David Green at Landover, Md.

The 38-year-old Ali, hoping to claim the heavyweight title for an unprecedented fourth time, plans to come out of retirement for a $10 million fight with Tate in the New Orleans Super-

Johnson, who captured the light heavyweight crown with an 11thround knockout of Victor Galindez last November, carries a 24-3 record, including 18 knockouts, into his bout with Gregory.

Gregory, who lost a 15-round decision to Galindez in a 1977 championship match, has 29 KOs to his credit in a 35-4-1 ring record.

There's more to nicknames than meets the eye

By JOHN JEANSONNE

Hey, Tiger, chew on this a while: On the athletic fields of the country romp teams christened for their savagery; we are eaten up by wild animals — Lions, Tigers, Wildcats, Bears — and surrounded by natives traditionally painted as wild aggressors — Indians, Warriors, Redskins, Chiefs. Give up? Shucks, no. Nicknames reflect their milieu. When the going gets tough, teams add the word "Fightin" to their nicknames. The University of Delaware Fightin' Blue Hens. The University of South Carolina Fightin' Gamecocks. The Edinboro State (Pa.) College Fightin' Scots. The Chickasha (Okla.) High School Fightin' Chicks. The Lewisville (Texas) High School Fightin' Farmers. Even the Ohio Wesleyan University Battlin' Bishops!

IT MAY SOUND gory, with all those meanies baring their claws. But overall, the nicknames used by most high school, college and pro teams produce only a dulling sameness. So many Eagles and Cardinals, Cowboys and Broncos, Pirates and Bucs, Bulldogs and all sorts of 'Cats. And Tigers (Princeton), Tigers (LSU), Tigers (Memphis State), Tigers (Grambling), Tigers (Auburn) ....

The athletic world is like that, basically conservative. To be named the Rams or the Bruins is a lot like sticking with the off-tackle play. To see a tackle-eligible pass is to hear a nickname as unique as the one of Polo, Ill, High School: The Polo Marcos. A word-play worth a thousand ferocious animals mascots.

Hey, Tiger, gnaw on these: A now-defunct minor-league hockey the Whittier Poets. team in Macon, Ga., the Macon

A semi-pro football team in Ferris, Texas, the Ferris Wheels.

A community college in Topeka, Kan., the Washburn Ichabods.

A college in Memphis, Tenn., the Southwestern Lynx. (And on a bad shooting night in basketball, they can be called the missing Lynx.) A minor-league hockey team in

The Winters (Texas) High School Blizzards. The Venice (Los Angeles) High School Gondoliers. The College of Sequoia (Calif.) Giants. The Southwestern Louisiana University Ragin' Cajuns.

Sometimes the connection is obvious to those who know the region: In Napa, Calif., in the heart of wine country, is Vintage High School. Nicknamed the Crushers. Team colors are burgundy and gold. In New York City is Stuyvesant High School, named after the city's first mayor, a man who happened to have a wooden leg. The teams are called the Peg-

Southern Illinois University calls itself Salukis because a Saluki is an ancient Egyptian dog who guarded pyramids, and the southern section of Illinois is known locally as "Little Egypt." There is even a city named Cairo there, though Illinois natives pronounce it KAY-ro.

Other nicknames demand more elaborate explanation:

Years ago, an elderly teacher in West Plains, Mo., studied the high school's very first yearbook and declared, "What a zizzer!" The team has been known as the Zizzers since. In 1925, a student at Akron University in Ohio modeled a $6 pair of overshoes manufactured by a local rubber company. The overshoes were called Zippers. Akron became the Zippers, until the 1930s, when zippers began to be popular in men's trousers and, fearing puns of questionable taste, the school renamed its teams the Zips. In 1869, the year Boston University was incorporated, a Boston dog-breeder crossed an English Terrier with a bulldog and produced a Boston Ter-rier. BU named itself the Terriers. In the 1890s, a trustee of Tufts University named P.T. Barnum was touring North America with an elephant named Jumbo, billed as the largest elephant in the world.

Spurs 144, Pistons 124 Larry Kenon poured in a careerhigh 51 points and George Gervin wrapped up his third straight scoring title as San Antonio finished its season at the .500 mark. ### Boston's Zimmer looks for two solid starters

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Don Zimmer said it was a pitcher's day ... and the beleaguered manager of the pitching-poor Boston Red Sox may have found the pitchers he's been seeking.

Zimmer is looking for a couple of starters to go with Dennis Eckersley, Mike Torrez and Bob Stanley. Two of the leading candidates are secondyear right-hander Chuck Rainey and rookie lefty Bruce Hurst and they teamed up on a one-hitter Sunday as the Red Sox nipped the Chicago White Sox 1-0 in an exhibition contest halted by rain after eight innings.

Zimmer liked what he saw, but he wasn't about to go overboard on the youngsters' (Rainey is 25, Hurst 22) performances.

"It was a pitcher's day - rainy, dark and the wind blowing in," he said. "I don't mean to take anything away from the kids, but I said even before the game it was a pitcher's

RAINEY, who was 8-5 in 20 games with the Red Sox last year, allowed the lone Chicago hit - a single by Bob Molinaro leading off the fourth - in five innings.

'When I give up only one hit in five innings I must be doing something right," he said. "Usually I think I do that many innings."

Hurst, trying to make the jump from the Class AA Eastern League, then retired all nine batters he faced.

"Hurst threw some good sinker balls, all around the plate," Zimmer said. ") also liked his changeup. I don't know many 21-year-olds who can get a big, strong hitter (Glenn Borgmann) with a changeup on a 3-2 pitch. Very few pitchers throw a change for a strike. I'd say seven out of 10 pitchers use the change as a waste pitch."

Rainey and Hurst were just the doctor ordered after Boston pitchers were bombed for 22 runs and 32 hits in the two previous games.

The Red Sox were held hitless themselves for five innings by Chicago's Ken Kravec but scored off Mike Proly in the sixth when rookie Reid Nichols singled, raced to third on a wild pickoff attempt and scored on an infield out.

ELSEWHERE, the best-laid plans of Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox went astray. With two on and none out in the sixth inning of the Braves' 7-5 loss to the Cincinnati Reds, Cox started the runners on a 3-2 pitch to try and stay cut of a double play.

The result ... a triple play. Joe Nolan lined to right fielder Heity okay when I give up four or five hits in Cruz, whose throw to Dan Driessen trapped Luis Gomez off first. Driessen then relayed to shortstop Dave Concepcion before Bruce Benedict could get back to second. Ray Knight, who drove in five runs for the Reds on Saturday, knocked in four more, three with a bases-loaded

Rick Langford blanked San Francisco on two hits over five innings and Jeff Newman slammed a 425-foot home run as the Oakland A's edged the Giants 2-1. Willie Stargell's tworun single in the first inning helped the Pittsburgh Pirates defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1 in a game called after 51/2 innings because of

John Ellis' solo homer touched off a six-run second inning and the Texas Rangers handed the Baltimore Orioles their sixth consecutive setback 7-4. Dane Iorg's tie-breaking RBI double triggered a four-run ninth inning that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-2 triumph over the Kansas City

The Chicago Cubs scored all their runs in the ninth, the last three on Carlos Lezcano's homer, and beat the Seattle Mariners 4-2 while Jose Cruz led off the ninth with a homer, giving the Houton Astros a 3-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Is it strike two or play ball?

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) -Strike two or play ball?

That question will almost certainly be answered in Dallas Tuesday, but a bet on at least the setting of a strike date by major league baseball players is as safe as a wager on Spectacu-

Representatives of the Players Association and team owners met for more than nine hours Sunday with Ken Moffett, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. And, in the word of the union's executive director, Marvin Miller, "nothing happened."

The Players Association's executive board will meet in Dallas Tuesday to determine when and if a strike will be called. The "if" no longer seems to apply.

"This was a complete waste of time," Miller said of Sunday's meeting with the owners. "There isn't the slightest basis for their calling the mediation service with no intention of negotiating or listening to our view-

"This entire day was spent on the owners' demands, nothing on the players' proposal." Miller was asked if he anticipated a

"I certainly don't anticipate a short one, not if they have the strike insurance I keep hearing about," he said. "I think they (the owners) are doing everything possible to provoke a strike. It's as clear as can be. They're acting like 4-year-olds."

Miller said there was no doubt in his mind that the owners were trying to break the union. He said there could be no other reason that they would be willing to take such financial losses.

"I think they're successful in terms of provoking a strike," he said. "Wile Stargell would give them a star." Moffett said there would be another meeting but he wasn't sure when.

"I'll be in touch with both sides after Tuesday," he said. "I would have to say the meeting today was basically one where we explored the compensation issue, which seems to be the most important issue on both sides. It's the only issue we really went into.

"We made no progress as far as coming to an agreement on this issue is concerned. A lot of suggestions were made in both private caucuses and in joint meetings. Neither side made any concessions. It's going to take a while; there's about a hundred issues and we only talked about

Moffett referred to a proposal by the owners to adjust the amount of compensation a team receives after losing a free agent. The owners proposed that a team signing a "highly sought" free agent be required to give up a player, rather than an amateur draft choice, in return. The free agent's new team could protect only 15 of its players in that selection

The only other strike in major league history occurred in 1972. It lasted 13 days, including the first nine days of what became a shortened season. The current difficulties seem much more extreme.

Four dates have been mentioned as possible strike days — immediately; on April 9, the scheduled opening day of the 1980 season; Memorial Day weekend and July 10, immediately after the All-Star game.

Miller met with the California Angels prior to Sunday's meeting with the owners and mediator. It was the 26th and final team he had discussed the situation with, and the Angels voted 30-0 for authorizing a strike on or after Tuesday. That made the total vote 967-1.

Flyers are halfway home

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Flyers are halfway home.

Sunday night's 4-2 victory over the Atlanta Flames enabled the Flyers to clinch the National Hockey League's regular-season championship, meaning they will get the home ice advantage as long as they last in the Stanley Cup playoffs ... the other half of their goal.

'Certainly there's a great deal of pride and satisfaction," said Coach Pat Quinn. "We're as good as anyone else out there. Hopefully it's the right time to approach the playoffs with our game back up after it was down.

'The last three weeks we haven't had it together, but we won this year because we had more guys ready to play on more nights than the other teams.'

Elsewhere, the Montreal Canadiens and Buffalo Sabres tied 1-1, the Boston Bruins downed the Winnipeg Jets 3-1, the New York Islanders outlasted the Quebec Nordiques 9-6, the Vancouver Canucks beat the Minnesota North Stars 5-3, the Pittsburgh Penguins blanked the Washington Capitals 4-0 and the Chicago Black Hawks and Colorado Rockies tied 2-2. The Flyers trailed Atlanta 2-1 until Bill Barber's power-play goal at 11:45 of the second period. Then, after Philadelphia survived more than a minute of skating two men short, Paul Holmgren scored the winning goal. Brian Propp added an insurance tally in the third period.

"At the beginning of the year we were very optimistic," said defenseman Jim Watson. "We wanted to prove that we were a hell of a lot better club than we were last year. We just came to play - game in and game out.'

Canadiens 1, Sabres 1

Michel Larocque, a last-minute starter in goal, made 30 saves in helping the injury-riddled Canadiens remain tied with the Sabres for second place in the overall point standings. Larocque was called on when starter Denis Herron was hit by a shot during the warmup and was removed on a stretcher. Montreal's Yvon Lambert scored on a first-period power play while Buffalo's Danny Gare scored his 51st goal of the season in the second period. The Canadiens managed only 14 shots at Buffalo's

'This was the most pressure I ever had going into a game," said Larocque, who only had a minute to loosen up after Herron

Larocque suffered an injury to his arm early in the final period but stayed in the game. Otherwise, the Canadiens would have had to put one of their skaters in the net.

"It was a pressure game to start with, and in the third period the guys knew my arm was sore and they gave a great effort,' Larocque said.

Bruins 3, Jets 1

Second-period goals by Terry O'Reilly and Wayne Cashman enabled Boston to win its fourth straight game since General Manager Harry Sinden replaced Fred Creighton as coach. O'Reilly scored at 12: 28 of the second period to break a 1-1 tie and Cashman, returning to action after missing 19 games with a knee injury, tallied about three minutes later.

Islanders 9, Nordiques 6

John Tonelli scored the game-winning goal at 4:41 of the third period and Butch Goring completed a three-goal game with a pair of insurance tallies. Goring also assisted on a goal by Clark Gillies. The Nordiques got three goals from real Cloutier but saw their playoff hopes suffer another blow. They are five points away from the final spot with only four games left.

Canucks 5, North Stars 3

Ivan Boldirev scored three times and assisted on Vancouver's other two goals as the Canucks tied Washington for 16th place with 64 points. However, the Capitals have two more triumphs, the first deciding factor in the event of a deadlock. Both have three games remaining.

Boldirev scored two goals and set up one by Gary Lupul as the Canucks bolted to a 3-0 lead in the opening period. He also assisted on a goal by Kevin McCarthy in the second period and scored his third goal with 2:40 left after the North Stars closed within 4-3.

Penguins 4, Capitals 0

Goalie Greg Millen stopped 28 shots while George Ferguson scored one goal and set up two others. The triumph assured the Penguins a spot in the playoffs. Ferguson set up first-period goals by Rod Schutt and Rick Kehoe and scored a shorthanded goal in the final period.

Black Hawks 2, Rockies 2 Bobby Schmautz's second goal of the game at 12:46 of the final period gave Colorado the tie. The Hawks, who have clinched the Smythe Division crown, are seventh in the overall standings, one point behind the Islanders and Minnesota.

Cancer defeats Olympic great Owens

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jesse Owens, the black 1936 Olympic track star whose four gold medal victories embarrassed Adolf Hitler's theories of Aryan superiority, died today at a Tucson hospital, authorities said. Owens, who had been suffering from a lung infection and inoperable lung cancer, died at 3:40 MST at the University of Arizona Health Sciences Center, said hospital spokesman Hal Marshall. He was 66

His wife Ruth was at his side, another spokesman Pat Benchik Owens first was hospitalized Dec. 12 in Chicago where his illness was diagnosed as adenocarcinoma, a cancer doctors said usually is associated with heavy cigarette smoking. Doctors said Owens had smoked about a pack of cigarettes a day for In January, Owens began undergoing treatment in Tucson. Early in March he returned to the Phoenix area, where he has operated a public relations firm, but a week ago he was transferred to Tucson for further treatment. Owens was 22 when his record-setting performance in Berlin shattered German leader Adolf Hitler's hopes for Aryan supremacy at the Games.

Owens had recently opposed President Carter's call for boycotting the Moscow Olympics, saying politics have no place in the Such was the magnitude of Owens' Olympic feat in the 1936

Berlin Games that it became a standard, a yardstick by which other accomplishments were measured. When swimmer Mark Spitz won an extraordinary seven gold medals in the 1976 Summer Games in Munich, it was compared to Owens' record. And when Eric Heiden swept five gold medals in speed skating events at the 1980 Winter Games in Lake Placid, N.Y., again it was Owens' name that surfaced for comparison. Perhaps the best indication of his greatness, though, was that it took four decades before the last of his 11 world records in track and field vanished from the record books. "I looked upon them as a part of history," he said in 1975, shortly after his name disappeared from the list of recordholders. "I was proud to be involved in that history-making process, but I have nothing but admiration for the kids coming along

Unlike today's Olympians who, with the help of television and the mass media, have the opportunity to become instant superstars, Owens found that some doors did not open after his

Q.1 - Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♥ A105 ♦ AKJ7 +AK6 +KQJ The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East 3 NT Pass 4 NT Pass What action do you take? A.-First of all, if you thought that North was ask ing for aces, it's time you hauled out the book and refreshed your memory. North's raise in no trump is quantitative! Since the minimum laid down for an opening three no trump bid is 25 points, and that's exactly what you have, you should politely refuse the invitation. Pass. Q.2 - Neither vulnerable, as

South you hold: ◆AJ2 ♥K109853 ◊7 ◆KQ5 The bidding has proceeded: South West North East Pass 2 · Pass Pass 3 · Pass 1.0 2 🛡

What action do you take? A.-North is suggesting a sub-minimum two-over-one response with a long diamond suit. The hand reeks of a misfit, and you have a minimum opening bid that is not improved by your singleton in partner's suit. It's time to get out of the auction before the opponents start doubling. Pass-don't even think about bidding that ratty heart suit another time.

Q.3-Neither vulnerable, as South you hold: ♦K6 ♥KQ8752 ♦84 ♦K83 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♦ Pass 2 ♥ Pass Pass ? What action do you take? A .- Slam is a distinct possibility because you have an invaluable filler in partner's spade suit. But you have no way to investigate the possibilities with any degree of safety. If you "cuebid" the king of spades, partner might think that your two-over-one response was predicated on spade support. And if you cue bid the king of clubs, partner is sure to read you for the ace. Pass and take your sure profit.

4. - Both vulnerable, as

South you hold: ♦83 ♥954 ♦ AKJ4 ♠ A952 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 ♦ 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now? A. - By making a vulnerable overcall, partner has promised a hand that should produce six tricks with hearts as trumps. Your hand has three sure tricks and several chances for a fourth. Don't put pressure on partner with a pusillanimous raise to three hearts. Contract for game with a firm four hearts.

Q.5 - As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♦7 ♥8742 OAK9 ♦KJ854 The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♦ 1 ♦ 2 ♦ Pass

What do you bid now? A. - Partner's bid should not thrill you unduly. Since most of your strength is in diamonds and partner is probably short in the suit for his cue-bid, your diamond values are wasted. Don't show your anemic heart suit now-you might not be able to keep the subsequent auction under

Q.6-As South, vulnerable, you hold:

+A82 ♥A76 ♦J6 +QJ1054 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West Pass 2 4 Pass Pass 3 7 Pass 4 + Pass

What do you bid now? A .- It looks as if big things are in store. However, you are not in a position to judge how high the final contract should be. It is incumbent upon you now to cue bid the ace of spades to tell partner you are definitely slambound and have first-round spade control.

5,000 meals from one lunch pail

FTER this, Jesus crossed over the Sea of Galilee, also A known as the Sea of Tiberias.

And a huge crowd, many of them pilgrims on their way to Jerusalem for the annual Passover celebration, were following Him wherever He went, to watch Him heal the sick. So when Jesus went up into the hills and sat down with His disciples around Him, He soon saw a great multitude of people climbing the hill, looking for Him. Turning to Philip He asked, "Philip, where can we buy bread to feed all these people?"

(He was testing Philip, for He already knew what He was going to do.)

Philip replied, "It would take a fortune to begin to do

Then Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, spoke up. "There's a youngster here with five barley loaves and a couple of fish! But what good is that with all this mob?"

"Tell everyone to sit down," Jesus ordered. And all of them-the approximate count of the men only was 5,000-sat down on the grassy slopes.

Then Jesus took the loaves and gave thanks to God and passed them out to the people. Afterwards He did the same with the fish. And everyone ate until full!

"Now gather the scraps," Jesus told His disciples, "so that nothing is wasted."

And 12 baskets were filled with the leftovers! When the people realized what a great miracle had happened, they exclaimed, "Surely, He is the Prophet we have been expecting!"

DR. NEIL SOLOMON AT scan described

Dear Dr. Solomon: My married daughter, who lives in another city, recently phoned to tell me that her doctor had recommended a CAT scan of the body. Will you please explain what this is? — Mrs. N.B.

Dear Mrs. B.: The letters CAT stand for computerized axial tomography. This scan provides physicians with images of the organs in the chest and abdomen. The scanning is painless and exposes the patient to no more radiation than that used in the more familiar X-ray procedures.

The value of a CAT scan lies in the greater sensitivity of the scanner in relation to the more traditional X-ray machine, and, as a consequence, its ability to provide a greater amount of information. One very important advantage is that it often eliminates the need for more dangerous tests which otherwise would have to be performed to determine what is going on within a patient's body.

The physician who does a CAT scan may use a number of dyes to help clarify the results of the scan. For example, an oral contrast may be used to highlight the stomach and intestines, an intravenous contrast to highlight the blood vessels, kidneys and bladder, and a rectal contrast to highlight the lower bowel.

An entire test usually takes from 20 to 45 minures and produces no side

Dear Dr. Solomon: A few days ago after I completed some heavy work around the house, my heart began pounding very rapidly. I immediately went to bed and the throbbing subsided. I am still rather shook up by the experience, and wonder whether I should have sought medical attention. I guess I didn't have a heart attack or

I wouldn't be around to write to you now. I have two questions: How does a person know if he is having a heart attack, and what would you suggest I do at this point? - Gary.

Dear Gary: To answer your last question first: Although the symptom you describe is not a typical heart attack signal, why not play it safe and see your doctor for a complete physical examination? If he gives you a clean bill of health, the reassurance will be well worth the time and money invested in the visit.

As for your other question, the more common heart attack signals include a feeling of uncomfortable pressure, a squeezing or pain in the center of the chest, sweating, nausea, dizziness and shortness of breath. The person may experience only one of these symptoms or various combinations of

There will, of course, be times when even a physician may not be certain whether a person is having a heart attack. In view of this, the "better safe than sorry" phrase is an appropriate motto. In the future, if you think you may be having a heart attack, be sure to get help immedi-

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - Stocks prices rose in slower trading today, as traders shrugged off further indications that a recession is imminent.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks which climbed more than 17 points on Friday added another 4.52 points to 782.17 by midday.

Analysts say buying from bargain hunters has helped support a market comeback which started late Thursday after a collapse linked to a plunge in silver prices. Silver prices continued to gain for the second day in today's early trading.

Overall gaining issues outnumbered losers by more than 5-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange at midday.

Big Board volume came to 14.69 million shares, down from 22.95 million the previous session.

The Commerce Department reported a slight decline in February's Index of Leading Economic Indicators. The decline was the fifth consecutive one in the monthly index and underscores the liklihood thata recession is imminent, government economists said. But that report was in line with what Wall Street expected and had little apparent effect on trad-

Oil stocks and some industrial and precious metals producers showed strong gains today.

Asarco, which produces silver as well as other metals, gained 3% to 33% in active trading. Phelps Dodge rose 1 to 29% and Homestake Mining. a gold producer, climbed 11/2 to 421/2 in less active trading. Dome Mines, however, was off 1/4 to 553/4

Among oil stocks, Standard Oil of Indiana rose 11/8 to 991/4; Mobil gained % to 64 %; Exxon was up % to 57% and Texaco was unchanged at 33%. The NYSE composite index rose .50 to 57.32. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 4.34 to 233.23.

CAB determines service needed in Texas areas

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Civil Aeronautics Board has determined how much essential air service should be required for 15 smaller metropolitan areas in Texas. The determination was made under provisions of the small communities program of the 1978 Airline Deregulation Act. A federal subsidy would be available, if necessary, to guarantee that the minimum level of service remains available The Texas areas included in the small communities program are Abilene, Beaumont-Port Arthur, Brownsville, Brownwood, Harlingen-San Benito, Laredo, Longview-Kilgore-Gladewater, Mission-McAllen-Edinburg, Paris, San Angelo, Temple, Tyler, Victoria, Waco and Wichita Falls.

The CAB found that all except Brownwood, Paris and Victoria should receive the maximum essential air service, or 160 available seats per day. At least two daily round trips to Dallas-Fort Worth with 160 seats - 80 each way - are required nonstop for Abilene, Temple, Tyler, Waco and Wichita Falls.

The same service, either nonstop or one-stop, is required for Longview-Kilgore-Gladewater and San Angelo. At least two daily roundtrips to Houston or Dallas-Fort Worth with 160 seats - 80 each way - are required for Brownsville, with nonstop or one-stop service.

For Laredo, at least two daily nonstop round trips to San Antonio are required with 160 seats, 80 in each direction

At least two daily round trips to Houston are required for Beaumont-Port Arthur and Harlingen-San Benito with 160 seats, 80 in each direction, and nonstop service.

The same service is required for Mission-McAllen-Edinburg, but the service can be nonstop or one-stop.

Passover begins

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Millions of Israelis inaugurated the Jewish holiday of Passover at dusk today with a festive meal recounting their ancestors' exodus from Egypt. In Cairo, officials of the month-old Israeli Embassy led a Passover meal, or "Seder," for more than 100 members of the city's small Jewish community. The Seder was held at the Pharoahs Hotel, named for the ancient Egyptian rulers who held the Israelites in bondage.

Egyptian Ambassador Saad Murtada attended a Seder here at the home of Shimon Peres, the Labor Party chief who leads the parliamentary opposition to Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

Markets' wild gyrations lesson to small investor

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - What happened in commodities and securities markets last week shows why small investors should be as wary of speculating as they would be about pitching a tent on Mount St. Helens.

Markets are rumbling with the nervous, even desperate maneuvering of wealthy individuals, investment institutions and businesses seeking to preserve their hides or exploit opportuni-They are harassed by inflation, troubled by deep-down fears about the country's future, worried by what they see as a failure of government to deal with the issues. They are living, fighting for the moment. In such an atmosphere, a rumor is equivalent to shouting "fire!" Wild price swings are to be expected. Spe-culating, such as by the Hunt brothers in silver, becomes more common than generally is recognized. These are big fellows; they can deal in millions of dollars at a time, and they often magnify those big investments by trading on margin. They are alert, informed and quick to act. They give full time to their jobs. While it is hard to prove that they act on "inside" information, a statement the Securities and Exchange Commission will attest to, their information is more direct, more immediate, more accurate than yours.

Their network is swift. Information that you read about in the next day's newspaper is half a day old to them. And half a day, measured by today's frantic pace, is equal to a couple of weeks back in 1930 In just a couple of hours or so last

Thursday they piledrived the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks by about 18 points and then back up about 26 points, and up another 17 points the next day. Only nervous professionals with news instantly available to them (in this instance, the news that the Hunt brothers had failed to meet margin calls on their silver holdings) could have sold so quickly.

And only steel-nerved, well-financed professionals could have jumped into such a maelstrom and expected to stay afloat. But they did; they bought when to buy seemed to be the most imprudent gamble imagine-

Which is to say that speculating over the short term isn't adviseable for small investors any more than it would be smart for a penney ante poker player to nose his way into a big stakes tournament of sharks.

The long-term might be another matter: at least in the view of some of the more credible advisory services. Over a period of years, they say, the current low prices of blue chip stocks might provide good gains.

The trouble, they say, is that so few people today are willing to think in terms of years. The future is probably harder to see today than it ever was in the lifetime of many potential investors. Too many pitfalls, too many unknowns, too many imponderables, too little faith.

But for those willing to take a chance, say some of the long-range investment advisers, such as Value Line and Wright Investors' Service, the risk-reward ratio seems to be in their favor.

Both feel major blue chips are badly undervalued. Both feel that barring a catastrophe prices will adjust to more "normal" levels within several years. Both see the Dow Jones industrial average, now under 800 points, soaring well over 1,000 points in the mid-1980s.

It takes faith to make the commitment and patience to wait that long. The two qualities are noticeably lacking today, for understandable rea-

Columnist uses tedium, trivia to keep wolf away

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) - In New York City, more people are bitten by people every year than by rats.

The New York Department of Health recently reported that in 1977, the last year for which they have figures, 892 people put the bite on each other, while rats got to nibble at only 229 people.

These are the sort of odd facts, statistics and bits of tedium and trivia that a columnist collects to keep the wolf away from the door. Apparently it works with writers in the New York area because there were no reported cases of wolf bite in the Health Department report, although several writers bit each other and a critic here or there.

Did you know, for instance, that our great American institution, the sixpack, was invented by Virgil Browne of Oklahoma City? He died a short while back at 102, having also bankrolled the parking meter, another uniquely American contribution to the world scene.

SPEAKING OF inventions, the Graham cracker actually was invented by a man named Graham. He was Dr. Sylvester Graham of Northampton, Mass. Some of the locals may have thought he was crackers. Every morning, winter or summer, he took a swim in the Mill River, near the Smith College campus, then ambled along Main Street in his damp dressing gown to his home on Pleasant Emerson, who preferred biscuits, put him down as "the poet of bran bread and pumpkins." In case you are wondering why the president's flight is rarely delayed by what the airlines cryptically call "a mechanical," there is more than one Air Force One. The president has at his disposal a couple of Boeing 707s and a Lockheed Jetstar all identically painted in blue and white with the presidential seal. President John F. Kennedy liked cold milk and hot soup. Lyndon Johnson rarely missed his cocktail hour aloft. Gerald Ford was a two martini man who insisted on two scoops of butter pecan ice cream for dessert. Henry Kissinger, a frequent passenger who sometimes borrowed one of the Ones for his shuttle diplomacy, often consumed an entire bowl of candy in flight. Jimmy Carter is not the first presidential tourist to have peanuts available throughout the flight. Franklin Roosevelt, a white knuckle flyer who was the first president to use a plane while in office - a trip aboard a C-54 from Miami to the Casablanca conference - chomped on peanuts to soothe his nerves. Harry Truman relied on bourbon.

THE UNOFFICIAL office of first lady has progressed some since Abigail Adams hung the wetwash in the East Room of the White House and Dolly Madison first served a delicacy called ice cream.

According to a "Directory of Key Government Personnel," circulated by the public relations firm of Hill & Knowlton for clients who need to find their way around Washington, there is an "Office of the First Lady" with at least eight names on the door or

Besides the first lady herself, there is a "staff director for the first lady," a "press secretary," a "deputy press secretary," a "personal assistant to the first lady," a "personal secre-tary," a "director of scheduling" and, so that the latter listed will have something to schedule, a "director of projects for the first lady." And, oh yes, a "director of advance," who on dull days when not advancing anything, probably has coffee with the vice president's "assistant for issues development.'

Apropos of nothing in particular, Psyche, the naked nymph ogling herself in the water on the White Rock bottle since 1893, has been deported from Saudi Arabia.

MOFFID EIA, a Middle Eastern distributor in an area where booze as well as naked women are banned on the rocks, asked the White Rock beverage folk to "take the naked girl off Company president Al Morgan Jr.

says nothing like that has happened in the fizz biz since 1893 when "soon after we acquired the Psyche trademark, citizens of Milwaukee felt she should be clothed. So we touched up the label in the Milwaukee area and that seemed to settle the matter.' Lastly, the magnificent liner United States, launched in 1952 but mothballed in Norfolk, Va., since 1969 when her government subsidy ran out, will soon sail again as an elegant cruise ship out of Honolulu.

TESCO offers kite-flying tips

Kite-flying season is here again, and Texas Electric Service Co. is urging young kite flyers to follow a few simple rules for safety.

Winston Barclay, TESCO manager, warned of the danger of flying kites in the vicinity of electric power lines. "If your kites should get caught in electric wires, call Texas Electric Service Co," he said. "Someone will be sent to get it down for you." Barclay also recommended the following safety rules for kite flying: —Always use dry string. Avoid wire, anything metallic or any string with metallic threads. -Always use kites made of wood and paper, not wire or metal.

—Don't fly kites on rainy days.

-Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying a kite. -Don't pull on the string or climb a power pole to loosen a kite snagged in

-Always fly a kite far from electric or power lines. -Always fly a kite away from television and radio antennas.

electric wires.

"Posters containing these safety rules have been distributed by the company to all schools," said Bar-clay. "Young people following these rules will get more fun out of flying kites and at the same time will keep them from getting hurt or losing their printers, however, the House Budget Committee had recommended still deeper cuts, totaling $16.5 billion below the original Carter budget. The president, it was learned, wants to cut $1 billion from the defense budget he proposed in January. He also would effect major reductions in spending for jobs programs, the strategic petroleum reserves, federal retirement benefits and revenue sharing for the states, which would be eliminated for an annual savings of $1.7 billion.

Even before the new Carter budget went to the

The list of congressional reductions duplicates many of the areas where Carter wants savings

The president appears not to mind that Congress is ahead of him, however, and administration officials privately voiced pleasure that Congress thus will be sharing responsibility for the cutbacks in some of the government's more popular programs.

Some liberals and representatives of minority groups have accused Carter of balancing the budget at the expense of poor and disadvantaged Americans, a charge the president has denied.

The president has said the pain of the spending reductions will be distributed fairly across the entire population, except for the truely needy, who he says will not be affected.

Carter's new budget also was expected to project that inflation will be almost 13 percent this year, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, significantly worse than the 10.4 percent rate he projected in January. The new budget, like the original, also is expected to project rising unemployment and a mild recession later this year.

Under the banking bill, savings and loan associations will be able to offer a much wider array of consumer services now found mainly at commercial banks, including more consumer loans, credit cards and trust services.

Will hostages become wards of Council?

By The Associated Press

The Iranian government may an nounce new steps in the hostage crisis as early as tonight, perhaps including transfer of the 50 Americans to government custody, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

At the same time, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini attacked the United States for what he called threats of military force to free the American hostages. "It was all words," he said of the U.S. stance. "Even now it is all just words. Never be afraid of such words because they are not followed by action," he said in a Tehran Radio broadcast, monitored in London.

He also condemmned the Soviet and predicted the Russians would "eventually be defeated," saying no power can impose its will on the

A Foreign Ministry spokesman contacted by a Western journalist in Tehran said the subject of a hostage transfer was taken up by the ruling Revolutionary Council and that President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr would discuss the matter tonight with Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary leader who would have the final word.

The student militants holding the hostages at the U.S. Embassy have rejected previous demands to turn them over to the government.

Union's intervention in Afghanistan decided Sunday night, by a vote of 7 to 6 to get the Americans transferred to government custody and presumably use force if the militants balk. But Tehran officials denied any decision was reached.

The Foreign Ministry spokesman today said announcement of a decision on the transfer may be made after tonight's council meeting. Earlier he said Bani-Sadr is expected to make an imporant statement on the hostage issue and U.S. President Carter's latest messages at Tuesday celebrations of the Iranian republic's first anniversary.

The report of the council's deliberations on the hostage transfer came CBS reported that the council had after a White House spokesman said week to Bani-Sadr but denied a report from Tehran that the White House admitted making mistakes in its policies toward Iran.

Presidential press secretary Jody Powell made the statement after the Swiss government confirmed that its ambassador in Tehran had delivered two messages from Carter to Bani-Sadr, early last week and on Sunday. But Powell insisted that his denial of the Iranian announcement of the first message was accurate because of the way he phrased it.

Radio Tehran announced Saturday that Carter sent a message to Khomeini, saying the Carter administration "inherited a very sensitive interof other policies and circumstances and made all of us commit mistakes in the past."

Powell on Sunday repeated the denial he made the day before, that "no message such as the one reported from Tehran had been sent by the president or any other American official to any Iranian official."

"That statement is in fact accurate," added Powell, who spoke to reporters in Madison, Wis., during a brief visit prior to Tuesday's Wisconsin presidential primary.

He gave no information on the contents of either of Carter's messages. But the New York Times reported

President Carter sent messages last national situation which is the result that one U.S. official in Washington said the messages were toughly worded warnings of retaliatory measures planned by the United States unless the hostages were freed. The Times also reported from Tehran that Bani-Sadr said Carter sent him "an ultimatum '

> In a Radio Tehran interview, Bani-Sadr's cultural and press adviser denied an ultimatum had been sent and said, "There has been no such letter; this letter was also delivered by the Swiss Embassy charge d'affaires to Mr. Bani-Sadr. As for this second letter, Mr. Bani-Sadr is to comment on it in his speech tomorrow at Meydan Azadi (in Tehran).

Morgues and hospitals reported at least 40 persons killed in the violence in front of San Salvador's Roman Catholic cathedral on Palm Sunday. Church sources confirmed 26 dead, indicating some of the victims may have been counted twice

The outdoor funeral for Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, an outspoken critic of military repression and political, violence, was brought to a hurried conclusion after an explosion and then gunfire erupted about noon as the throng of mourners filled the square in front of the

There were conflicting reports on how the firing started, but armed leftists who had taken up positions in the square began shooting, and the crowd stampeded.

Within minutes, 3,000 to 4,000 people, many of them leftists, rushed into the cathedral for safety as other left ists took up positions around the church and apparently blasted away at anything that moved outside.

Many of the casualties were victims of the panic, not of bullets. There appeared to be at least as many casualties from trampling or suffocation as from gunfire.

The archbishop's coffin was hurried inside and put in a ypt People huddled together on the floor of the cathedral. Priests urged calm. Nuns prayed. Leftists among the crowd chanted of the struggle that "the people" would win.

After an hour, when the army still remained in its barracks, the atmosphere inside the church calmed. People began walking out and cautiously crossing the square with their hands above their heads.

The troops did not appear until 41/2 hours after the trouble was over. Then they stopped minor looting and ordered everyone off the streets for the night.

Reporters near the front of the cathedral when the violence started heard a loud explosion followed by gunshots. A few seconds later there was general gunfire from several directions.

One leftist said the first shots were fired by three armed men in a jeep who drove by and opened fire. Others who were near that point in the square said they saw no

There also were unverified reports that some firing came from nearby buildings, and that some troops had been only a few blocks away from the square in armored vehicles but did not open fire.

The ruling military-civilian junta said the shooting was an attempt "to create a great commotion with violence to close the doors to a peaceful and democratic solution" to the political terrorism that has taken 900 lives

Some Texaco workers ratify two-year OCAW contract

PORT NECHES, Texas (AP) — Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers at two joined a nationwide OCAW strike in plants here have ratified a 2-year contract with Texaco, but another 4,000 at Texaco's largest refinery have refused to approve the pact until a local issue is settled.

According to OCAW's national spokesman in Denver, the 4,000 OCAW workers at Texaco's "flagship" refinery in Port Arthur comprise almost half the organized Texaco workers in the country

"The largest group of OCAW refinery employees - about 8,900 workers are employed by Texaco and its subsidiaries," said Jerry Archuleta.

More than 500 members of OCAW Local 4-228 in Port Neches voted "unanimously" to accept the new contract Sunday, said J.D. Pete, chairman of the OCAW workman's committee at Jefferson Chemical Co.

There are about 340 OCAW workers at Jefferson Chemical and another 200 at the Texaco Asphalt plant in

Port Neches, Pete said. Workers at Jefferson Chemical were to begin returning to work late Sunday and those at Texaco Asphalt were to return today

Union employees at both plants January

Jefferson Chemical was a wholly owned subsidiary of Texaco until a merger last week. Jefferson officials said the company should undergo a name change in the near future.

The new contract calls for establishing a dental plan with an insurance carrier of the union's choice, and increased medical contributions. It also allows for an average $1 an hour increase in 1980. The average national chemical worker's salary is $9.55.

A union spokesman at Local 4-23, who asked not to be identified, said members there were in agreement on the contract offer, but would not ratify it until the local issue is settled.

They got one of our people discharged, and until they put him back to work, we're standing firm," he said late Sunday night. "They claim there was violence on a picket line (contrary to a federal court injunction against both Texaco and the local).

Lawyer stresses need for housing

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a three-part series taking an indepth look at each candidate for

> By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Martin Allday calls himself a "compassionate conservative." That type of thinking will be brought into policies of city government if he is elected mayor, said the 53-year-old attorney. To paraphrase a quote of Thomas Jefferson, Allday said he believes "government ought to do for you what you are completely unable to do for

'We can't pay for schools, hospitals and police protection out of our pockets. We don't make contributions to build courthouses or pay salaries of policemen," he explained.

That reasoning is the principal behind why Allday also believes the city should apply for Community Development funds with a rental subsidy program. The City Council in the past has turned down a move to apply for the money on a 3 to 3 vote.

"Housing is one of our most press-ing needs," said Allday.

Rental subsidy would assist low income people living in the south and east sections in their housing costs. Other cities which accept the federal monies eventually get funds to build rent-subsidized housing.

Allday said he has been studying aspects of the CD funding. In his checking, Aliday said he has been told "the rental subsidy part would be administered under guidelines by local folks. Using Hillcrest Manor as an example, I'm convinced we can run a decent, well-managed, honest rental subsidy program.'

Hillcrest Manor was built with funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, but is limited to 100 elderly and handicapped persons. It has a waiting list of at least 100 more persons.

By agreeing to a rental subsidy program in Midland, Allday said the city in turn would receive the $1 million in CD funds it hasn't gotten for four years. Those funds come from tax monies paid the federal government by each city. Allday remarked that if he turns

Private Practice critized for publishing attempt to rank medical schools

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Some medical schools that ranked poorly in a controversial survey by a physicians' magazine have tagged the ratings "a big joke" despite contentions by the author of the poll that it could

Terri Burke, editor of Private Practice, an Oklahoma-City based journal received by more than 180,000 private physicians, said her editorial staff wanted to poll what it believed to be the "most enlightened people in medical education" to choose the 10 best and 10 worst medical schools.

A questionaire was circulated to the deans of the nation's 126 medical schools. Forty-four questionaires were answered, about a 30 percent return, before the study was discovered and censured by the president of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

"I hope the deans would not respond to this survey...there is no way, because of the diversity of our medical schools, with each making it's own contribution in educating physicians, conducting biomedical research and improving health care, to intelligently determine which is the best and which is the worst in the country," Dr. John Cooper, AAMC president, said in his weekly report to

When the replies stopped abruptly after Cooper's letter, the editors decided they needed to publish the results despite the low returns.

'We regret Dr. Cooper's decision to try to have our survey boycotted, although we agree it's not simple to rank medical schools," an article in the March issue of the journal said. "But one should not confuse the difficult with the impossible as we believe Dr. Cooper has in this case.

The top 10 medical schools according to the responding deans were:

Johns Hopkins Medical School, Harvard University, Duke University, Yale University, Columbia University, University of Chicago, Washington University at St. Louis, Stanford University, UCLA and the University of Michigan.

The bottom 10 listed the Meharry Medical College, University of Puerto Rico, Howard University, College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, Southern Illinois University, Creighton University, Loyola University, sity, Texas Tech University, Hahnemann Medical College and the Medical College of Ohio.

On Friday, Kenneth A. Shaw, chancellor of the medical school at Southern Illinois University, called the survey "a big joke."

"Our medical program stands ready for comparison to any others on the basis of the quality of the output we produce," said Shaw.

Shaw said records show 68 percent of SIU grads are accepted at first choice of residency and 80 percent to first or second choice.

The magazine article said the study showed a large fraction of the medical school deans and associate deans felt a need existed "for additional help to upgrade their (the bottom-ranking schools) standards. Charles Fentress, AAMC spokesman, said the survey "just gives a bum rap to a number of schools that are accreditied and doing a good job of training physicians." Ms. Burke says her magazine has received strong criticism of the survey from several of the schools ranking near the bottom of the list and about a dozen subscribers. Most of the criticism discounted the credibility of the poll, citing the low percentage of response, she said.

The fire was extinguished with 120 gallons of water, according to fire department reports. Probable cause of the blaze was listed as towels near a gas water heater.

Fire department reports indicated the blaze caused heavy damage to a water heater closet, Burial was in Floydada Cemetery and heavy heat and smoke damage to the remainder of the house.

Four title fights adorn outstanding boxing card

Larry Holmes will make sixth heavyweight crown defense

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes defends his world heavyweight championship for the sixth time tonight, still fighting in the shadow of Muhammad Ali.

Holmes defends the World Boxing Council title against Leroy Jones at Caesars Palace as part of a four championship-fight television show which also includes John Tate's World Boxing Association heavyweight title defense against Mike Weaver in Knoxville, Tenn.

But most of the talk among the fight crowds here and in Knoxville seems to concern Ali's comeback.

Promoter Bob Arum claims the winner of the Tate-Weaver fight will defend against Ali in a $10 million bout at the New Orleans Superdome

Calling Holmes the real heavyweight champion and Tate "a figment of Bob Arum's imagination," promoter Don King contended Sunday that no Ali fight was set and that if the retired three-time champion does come back, it should be against

King and Arum both have said they have a committment to ABC for a fight to unify the heavyweight championship in the fall.

Holmes doesn't intend to sit around and wait for the fall. He wants to fight again in May or June and a likely opponent could be Scott LeDoux or Leon Spinks.

But the matter of the moment for the 6-foot-3, 211-pound Holmes is the 6-5, 2541/2-pound Jones.

The smart money guys don't think Holmes should have any trouble despite Jones' size and his 24-0-1 record. Holmes is a prohibitive favorite.

"If he runs I'll catch him," Holmes

said. "My plan is to go right at Leroy and make him fight. I predict the fight won't go five rounds. I feel very confident.

It's not who he fights, but when he fights that has Holmes upset.

The four-fight show from Knoxville, Landover, Md., and here is scheduled to be televised by ABC from 8 p.m. to midnight EST. Holmes has been told that he could go on as early as 10 p.m. or as late as 11:50 p.m., meaning the champion could sit in a dressing room, taped up and ready to fight for almost two hours.

King said he is trying to work something out to make Holmes' wait as short as possible.

A non-televised title fight, which will be held here, is Marvin Camel of Missoula, Mont., against Mate Parlov of Yugoslavia for the new WBC cruiserweight title.

The 30-year-old Holmes, who has a 33-0 record with 24 knockouts, is getting $1.3 million for his defense of the title he won on a split decision over Ken Norton here June 9, 1978.

Jones, also 30, is getting $150,000. This is 10 times the previous high purse for the former singer from Denver, who recalled that for his first pro fight in 1973 he got $150 and the check

"Many times I felt like quitting, and I came very close to actually quitting," said Jones, who despite his record and his No. 2 WBC ranking is virtually unknown outside boxing circles. "But boxing gets in your blood and it's hard to shake.

The big win on Jones' record came in 1978 when he scored a 12-round decision over Weaver. He weighed 279 pounds for that fight.

Big John Tate vs. 'Hercules'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Big John Tate defends his World Boxing Association heavyweight crown against Mike "Hercules" Weaver tonight, confident of a victory that would set up a possible June bout with former champion Muhammad Ali.

"It's all over now except doing it," Tate said. "I have the fight plan in my mind. I'm not worried.

The Tate-Weaver bout is one of four world championship matches slated on an ABC-TV boxing extravaganza tonight, including the WBA light heavyweight fight between champion Marvin Johnson and Eddie Gregory at the Stokely Athletic Center in Tate's hometown.

The other half of the bill will be filled by the rival World Boxing Council - a heavyweight match between champion Larry Holmes and LeRoy Jones in Las Vegas and a welterweight title defense by Sugar Ray Leonard against Great Britain's David Green at Landover, Md.

The 38-year-old Ali, hoping to claim the heavyweight title for an unprecedented fourth time, plans to come out of retirement for a $10 million fight with Tate in the New Orleans Super-

Johnson, who captured the light heavyweight crown with an 11th-round knockout of Victor Galindez last November, carries a 24-3 record, including 18 knockouts, into his bout

with Gregory:
Gregory, who lost a 15-round decision to Galindez in a 1977 championship match, has 29 KOs to his credit in a 35-4-1 ring record.

There's more to nicknames than meets the eye

By JOHN JEANSONNE Newsday

Hey, Tiger, chew on this a while: On the athletic fields of the country romp teams christened for their savagery; we are eaten up by wild animals -Lions, Tigers, Wildcats, Bears - and surrounded by natives traditionally painted as wild aggressors — Indians, Warriors, Redskins, Chiefs. Give up? Shucks, no. Nicknames reflect their milieu. When the going gets tough, teams add the word "Fightin" to their nicknames. The University of Delaware Fightin' Blue Hens. The University of South Carolina Fightin' Gamecocks. The Edinboro State (Pa.) College Fightin' Scots. The Chickasha (Okla.) High School Fightin' Chicks. The Lewisville (Texas) High School Fightin' Farmers. Even the Ohio Wesleyan University Battlin' Bishops!

IT MAY SOUND gory, with all those meanies baring their claws. But overall, the nicknames used by most high school, college and pro teams produce only a dulling sameness. So many Eagles and Cardinals, Cowboys and Broncos, Pirates and Bucs, Bulldogs and all sorts of 'Cats. And Tigers (Princeton), Tigers (LSU), Tigers (Memphis State), Tigers (Grambling), Tigers (Auburn)

The athletic world is like that, basically conservative. To be named the

Rams or the Bruins is a lot like sticking with the off-tackle play. To see a tackle-eligible pass is to hear a nickname as unique as the one of Polo, Ill, High School: The Polo Marcos. A word-play worth a thousand ferocious animals mascots. Hey, Tiger, gnaw on these:

A now-defunct minor-league hockey team in Macon, Ga., the Macon Whoopies. A semi-pro football team in Ferris,

Texas, the Ferris Wheels. A community college in Topeka,

A college in Memphis, Tenn., the Southwestern Lynx. (And on a bad shooting night in basketball, they can be called the missing Lynx.) A minor-league hockey team in

Binghamton, N.Y., located in Broome County, the Broome Dusters. A college in Southern California,

The West Philadelphia Speedboys. The Thermal (Death Valley, Calif.) Arabs

The Roscoe (Texas) Plowboys.

Sometimes the nickname connection is obvious but still resourceful: The John Jay College of Criminal Justice (N.Y.) Bloodhounds. The Jack Benny Junior High (Waukegan, Ill.) 39ers. The Winters (Texas) High School Blizzards. The Venice (Los Angeles) High School Gondoliers. The College of Sequoia (Calif.) Giants. The Southwestern Louisiana University Ragin' Cajuns.

The Muleshoe (Texas) Mules.

Sometimes the connection is obvious to those who know the region: In Napa, Calif., in the heart of wine country, is Vintage High School. Nicknamed the Crushers. Team colors are burgundy and gold. In New York City is Stuyvesant High School, named after the city's first mayor, a man who happened to have a wooden leg. The teams are called the Peg-

Southern Illinois University calls itself Salukis because a Saluki is an ancient Egyptian dog who guarded pyramids, and the southern section of Illinois is known locally as "Little Egypt." There is even a city named Cairo there, though Illinois natives pronounce it KAY-ro.

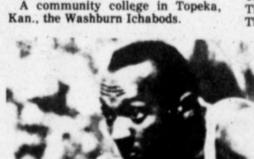

Other nicknames demand more elaborate explanation:

Years ago, an elderly teacher in West Plains, Mo., studied the high school's very first yearbook and declared, "What a zizzer!" The team has been known as the Zizzers since. In 1925, a student at Akron University in Ohio modeled a $6 pair of overshoes manufactured by a local rubber company. The overshoes were called Zippers. Akron became the Zippers, until the 1930s, when zippers began to be popular in men's trousers and, fearing puns of questionable taste, the school renamed its teams the Zips. In 1869, the year Boston University was incorporated, a Boston dog-breeder crossed an English Terrier with a bulldog and produced a Boston Terrier. BU named itself the Terriers. In the 1890s, a trustee of Tufts University named P.T. Barnum was touring North America with an elephant named Jumbo, billed as the largest

Markets' wild gyrations lesson to small investor

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — What happened in commodities and securities markets last week shows why small investors should be as wary of speculating as they would be about pitching a tent on Mount St. Helens.

Markets are rumbling with the nervous, even desperate maneuvering of wealthy individuals, investment institutions and businesses seeking to preserve their hides or exploit opportunities

They are harassed by inflation, troubled by deep-down fears about the country's future, worried by what they see as a failure of government to deal with the issues. They are living, fighting for the moment.

In such an atmosphere, a rumor is equivalent to shouting "fire!" Wild price swings are to be expected. Speculating, such as by the Hunt brothers in silver, becomes more common than generally is recognized.

These are big fellows, they can deal in millions of dollars at a time, and they often magnify those big investments by trading on margin. They are alert, informed and quick to act. They give full time to their jobs.

While it is hard to prove that they act on "inside" information, a statement the Securities and Exchange Commission will attest to, their information is more direct, more immediate, more accurate than yours.

Their network is swift. Information that you read about in the next day's newspaper is half a day old to them. And half a day, measured by today's frantic pace, is equal to a couple of weeks back in 1930.

In just a couple of hours or so last Thursday they piledrived the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks by about 18 points and then back up about 26 points, and up another 17 points the next day.

Only nervous professionals with news instantly available to them (in this instance, the news that the Hunt brothers had failed to meet margin calls on their silver holdings) could have sold so quickly.

And only steel-nerved, well-financed professionals could have jumped into such a maelstrom and expected to stay afloat. But they did; they bought when to buy seemed to be the most imprudent gamble imagineable.

Which is to say that speculating over the short term isn't adviseable for small investors any more than it would be smart for a penney ante poker player to nose his way into a big stakes tournament of sharks.

The long-term might be another matter; at least in the view of some of the more credible advisory services. Over a period of years, they say, the current low prices of blue chip stocks might provide good gains.

The trouble, they say, is that so few people today are willing to think in terms of years. The future is probably harder to see today than it ever was in the lifetime of many potential investors. Too many pitfalls, too many unknowns, too many imponderables, too little faith.

But for those willing to take a chance, say some of the long-range investment advisers, such as Value Line and Wright Investors' Service, the risk-reward ratio seems to be in their favor.

Both feel major blue chips are badly undervalued. Both feel that barring a catastrophe prices will adjust to more "normal" levels within several years. Both see the Dow Jones industrial average, now under 800 points, soaring well over 1,000 points in the mid-1980s.

It takes faith to make the commitment and patience to wait that long.
The two qualities are noticeably lacking today, for understandable rea-

But for those who have them, it seems the odds are quite a bit more in their favor than trying to outwit the professionals at their own game over the next few minutes, hours or

Columnist uses tedium, trivia to keep wolf away

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — In New York City, more people are bitten by people every year than by rats.

The New York Department of Health recently reported that in 1977, the last year for which they have figures, 892 people put the bite on each other, while rats got to nibble at only 229 people.

These are the sort of odd facts, statistics and bits of tedium and trivia that a columnist collects to keep the

wolf away from the door. Apparently it works with writers in the New York area because there were no reported cases of wolf bite in the Health Department report, although several writers bit each other and a critic here or there.

Did you know, for instance, that our great American institution, the six-pack, was invented by Virgil Browne of Oklahoma City? He died a short while back at 102, having also bankrolled the parking meter, another uniquely American contribution to the world scene.

SPEAKING OF inventions, the Graham cracker actually was invented by a man named Graham. He was Dr. Sylvester Graham of Northampton, Mass. Some of the locals may have thought he was crackers. Every morning, winter or summer, he took a swim in the Mill River, near the Smith College campus, then ambled along Main Street in his damp dressing gown to his home on Pleasant Street.

Emerson, who preferred biscuits, put him down as "the poet of bran bread and pumpkins."

In case you are wondering why the president's flight is rarely delayed by what the airlines cryptically call "a mechanical," there is more than one Air Force One. The president has at his disposal a couple of Boeing 707s and a Lockheed Jetstar all identically painted in blue and white with the presidential seal. President John F. Kennedy liked cold milk and hot soup. Lyndon Johnson rarely missed his cocktail hour aloft. Gerald Ford was a two martini man who insisted on two scoops of butter pecan ice cream for dessert. Henry Kissinger, a frequent passenger who sometimes borrowed one of the Ones for his shuttle diplomacy, often consumed an entire bowl of candy in flight, Jimmy Carter is not the first presidential tourist to have peanuts available throughout the flight. Franklin Roosevelt, a white knuckle flyer who was the first president to use a plane while in office - a trip aboard a C-54 from Miami to the Casablanca conference - chomped on peanuts to soothe his nerves. Harry Truman relied on bourbon.

THE UNOFFICIAL office of first lady has progressed some since Abigail Adams hung the wetwash in the East Room of the White House and Dolly Madison first served a delicacy called ice cream.

According to a "Directory of Key Government Personnel," circulated by the public relations firm of Hill & Knowlton for clients who need to find their way around Washington, there is an "Office of the First Lady" with at least eight names on the door or doors.

Besides the first lady herself, there is a "staff director for the first lady," a "press secretary," a "deputy press secretary," a "personal assistant to the first lady," a "personal secretary," a "director of scheduling" and, so that the latter listed will have something to schedule, a "director of projects for the first lady." And, oh yes, a "director of advance," who on dull days when not advancing anything, probably has coffee with the vice president's "assistant for issues development."

Apropos of nothing in particular, Psyche, the naked nymph ogling herself in the water on the White Rock bottle since 1893, has been deported from Saudi Arabia.

MOFFID EIA, a Middle Eastern'distributor in an area where booze as well as naked women are banned on the rocks, asked the White Rock beverage folk to "take the naked girl off the label."

Company president Al Morgan Jr. says nothing like that has happened in the fizz biz since 1893 when "soon after we acquired the Psyche trademark, citizens of Milwaukee felt she should be clothed. So we touched up the label in the Milwaukee area and that seemed to settle the matter."

Lastly, the magnificent liner United States, launched in 1952 but mothballed in Norfolk, Va., since 1969 when her government subsidy ran out, will soon sail again as an elegant cruise ship out of Honolulu. On her maiden voyage, she won the blue ribbon for the fastest Atlantic crossing, averaging 35 knots, a record that never has been beaten. Until recently, since she doubled as a troop ship, her speed was a military secret. Now it is known she could zip along at 39 knots or 45 miles

A drag race between her and the nuclear carrier Enterprise would be more exciting than the America's cup

UPTON EXTENDER

Avance Oil & Gas Co., Inc., No. 1 Shirk has been completed as an extension to lower Grayburg production in the McCamey multipay field of Upton County, six miles north of McCamey.

One-half mile north of other Grayburg production, the well finaled for a 24-hour pumping potential of 9.2 barrels of 34-gravity oil and three barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 108-1.

Completion was from open hole at 2,719-2,780 feet. Wellsite is 990 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 15, block 3, MK&T survey and separated from the field by depleted producers.

Investigators allege U.S. being defrauded in lottery

By DENNIS E. CURRAN

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) - "Can you really strike it rich in the Government Oil and Gas Lottery?" asks the Department of Interior in a brochure explaining its federal oil lease pro-

The answer is yes, but federal investigators allege some of those reaping the riches from oil leases have defrauded the government.

A federal task force has been investigating the oil lottery in 15 oil-rich Western states for nearly eight months, and a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph and a Louisiana man have admitted wrongdoing in a federal court in Colorado.

The investigation centers in Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Montana and Utah, where most leases are sold and where the Bureau of Land Management alleges unscrupulous operators have made millions.

'The pattern is very simple," says John L. Deans, a BLM special agent in Denver who heads the investigation. "Various oil brokers are trying to control large numbers of (oil lease) parcels by having friends, relatives and employees submit lots of application cards.

The number of targets in the probe is in the hundreds, he says.

But Deans says to understand how the alleged scam worked, one must understand BLM's "Simultaneous Oil and Gas Leasing System" for awarding the rights to look for oil and gas on public lands.

BLM actually has two leasing sys tems — competitive bidding for lands with proven oil and gas potential and non-competitive leases for lands with no proven potential. At least 95 percent of the leases are non-competitive, and most involve a lottery sys-

The lottery system was started in 1960 to alleviate long lines and an occasional fistfight between those seeking the rights to look for oil or gas on particularly promising tracts, Deans says.

Under it, applicants submit a card and a $10 application fee through the mail, and if they win a monthly lottery may lease the oil and gas rights for $1 per acre per year. Parcels vary from 40 to 2,650 acres, with the average about 800, according to BLM rec-

Many lessees pay $800 or so a year, plus exploration fees, only to discover there's no oil or natural gas on their parcel. But rights to more promising, unproven tracts can be sold for $200,-000 to $300,000, Deans says.

However, most lease winners assign their rights to another party, such as a large oil broker or oil company, because they don't have the money or the expertise to actively look for oil, Deans says. That's legal, but there are two key restrictions in the lottery program applicants can submit only one card per parcel, and they must disclose any prior agreement to assign a lease to another party.

Deans says many lease applicants are actually fronting for big operators oil brokers or companies — trying to control as many parcels as possi-

The most common abuse, he says, is brokers paying friends, relatives or employees to submit multiple cards on a given parcel to increase their chances of winning.

"It doesn't take a lot of brains to figure out if there's a lottery for a turkey and there's 25 tickets and I have 20 of them, I've got a good chance of winning," Deans says.

'Leadership' gets Gravel share of resort property

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Backed by friends and lobbyists who charged him nothing, Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, holds a share of a Colorado resort property that could bring him more than $100,000 in resale income.

Gravel was awarded his share for showing what his partners termed 'leadership' in developing a fancy vacation retreat along the ski slopes of Aspen, Colo.

Aspen real-estate salesmen say the property, known there generally as 'Mike Gravel's house," could fetch as much as $1.5 million on the resale market in the popular mountain vacation community.

Gravel said he agrees with the estimate of potential resale value, but that there is no intention to sell the place. One of the 12 shares in the partnership is on the market for $37,000.

"I'm into it because I like to ski and it's on the way home to Alaska," Gravel said.

Although Gravel made no secret of his involvement in the project, it did not become common knowledge until last month, when the Anchorage Daily News reported details of the financial arrangements of Aspen House's ownership.

Since then, the issue has created a political furor in Alaska involving Nucorp completes Atoka Gravel, his Democratic primary opponent, Clark Gruening, and the Anchorage newspapers.

Among the original investors, both of whom continue as partners, are two Washington lobbyists who have had close contact with Gravel on energy and land-development legisla-

Charles L. Fishman and William C. Foster, both attorneys, were personal friends of Gravel's before they become lobbyists and before he invited them into the partnership for $15,000 each.

Both lobbyists joined Gravel in denying that their business partnership in Colorado has had any affect on legislative matters before the U.S. Senate.

"This is a social venture," Gravel said. "I'm not in it to make money. Nobody is busting a leg to make money off of this. In fact, we lost money last year, and this year, and the partners have been assessed extra. Fishman and Foster were asked into Gravel's partnership after the senator, a real-estate developer before his election in 1968, decided four years ago to build the luxury dwelling in Aspen.

The structure in Snowmass Village. financed by lenders in Alaska, Colorado and Texas, was designed by Gravel as a vacation hideway for partners and as a rental structure when not in use by its owners. Aspen House has four suites, which each rent for $300 a day during the pak of ski season. The suites include hot tubs, saunas, firepices and color televisions, and have attacted such luminaries as Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and wealthy Arabs as

With the $15,000 seed money provided by his friends and partners, Gravel's equity as a general partner has climbed to $37,000. His latest financial disclosure filing with the Senate indicates Aspen House is an asset worth more than $100,000.

"I put up nothing but the design work and the entrepreneurial talent. I love to do that kind of thing. It's therapy. I love it," Gravel said.

"I put up more than $37,000 worth of talent and time. It's worth a damned sight more than that. But I have a liability out of this. Nobody else went on the line. My name is on it for $700,000; my partners' is on it for

The business connection with lobbyists whose job is to win senatorial hearts and minds had become a part of an angry fued between Gravel, primary opponent Gruening and The Anchorage Daily News.

Gruening, a young Anchorage attorney, is the grandson of former Sen. Ernest Gruening. Gravel won his way into the Senate by defeating the elder Gruening in the state's 1968 Demo-

Gravel has accused the Clark-Gruening campaign of "feeding" the Aspen House story to the newspaper. Writer Paul Nussbaum and associate editor Howard Weaver vigorously deny this.

After the Gruening campaign issued similar denials, Gravel produced a defector who was flown to Washington to make a television tape in which he alleged that Gruening aides had gathered information on the Colorado property.

The Daily New's competition, The Anchorage Times, fanned the fire a bit more with an editorial claiming that a Gruening assistant had approached the Times with an offer of information about Aspen House - an offer it rejected.

Even before the new Carter budget went to the printers, however, the House Budget Committee had recommended still deeper cuts, totaling $16.5 billion below the original Carter budget.

The president, it was learned, wants to cut $1 billion from the defense budget he proposed in January. He also would effect major reductions in spending for jobs programs, the strategic petroleum reserves, federal retirement benefits and revenue sharing for the states, which would be eliminated for an annual savings of $1.7 billion.

The list of congressional reductions duplicates many of the areas where Carter wants savings made

The president appears not to mind that Congress is ahead of him, however, and administration officials privately voiced pleasure that Congress thus will be sharing responsibility for the cutbacks in some of the government's more popular programs.

Some liberals and representatives of minority groups have accused Carter of balancing the budget at the expense of poor and disadvantaged Americans, a charge the president has denied.

The president has said the pain of the spending reductions will be distributed fairly across the entire population, except for the truely needy, who he says will not be affected.

Carter's new budget also was expected to project that inflation will be almost 13 percent this year, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, significantly worse than the 10.4 percent rate he projected in January. The new budget, like the original, also is expected to project rising unemployment and a mild recession later this year.

Under the banking bill, savings and loan associations will be able to offer a much wider array of consumer services now found mainly at commercial banks, including more consumer loans, credit cards and trust services.
