Seminole Welcomes Newcomers

-SEMINOLE WELCOMES NEWCOMERS--

Emmitt Hopkins and daughter, Karon, are shown with an "after" photo of the Cartercar. It certainly attracts attention. It has a most interesting history.

Many new faces are now in Seminole. The past few weeks have brought a number of new residents who are employed by the R. H. Fulton Construction Company. New teachers are arriving in town. New families are moving in. There will be new faces in the classrooms in a very short time.

We extend a hearty welcome to all newcomers and also to the persons who are returning from vacations and settling into a regular routine.

Some newcomers have the ability to be old-timers in any new environment. The Emmett Hopkins are that kind of family.

Mr. Hopkins is employed by the R. H. Fulton Construction Company and in their job they make frequent moves. They have lived in at least 30 states and many, many more towns in the past 9 years. Seminole is the size and kind of town they enjoy most.

The Hopkins have a real zest for life. They can and do fit into community life. The week they arrived in Seminole, the community affair "Christmas in August" was scheduled and they were there-- in a 1914 Cartercar. If all our civic minded citizens had arrived, there would have been waiting lines and traffic jams.

HUSTLING GRIDDERS IN 2 a-Day WORKOUTS

Sixty spirited 'raring to go' hopefuls showed up for the first practice of football season on Monday. The coaches expressed pleasure with the good condition of the majority of the boys, and especially the good attitude shown. There will be approximately 30 boys vying for varsity spots--the remainder will be on the B-team.

One varsity letterman, Eddie Bright, will not be playing due to a knee injury. This loss will be a big one, as Eddie was being counted on heavily to help the Indians, according to Head Coach, Jake Harrell.

Before Monday, the Freshman team seemed shy of prospective players. Several of last years boys have moved, but 29 reported for the first workouts.

Two-a-day workouts are planned for the teams until school starts with morning workouts planned for Saturdays and Wednesdays. The Wednesday evening workout is cancelled because of planned church activity in the community.

Cardwell, Brownfield and Walter Myrick, IV, 20, of 4206 18th, Apt. 6, Lubbock are in fair condition in the Seagraves Hospital after their 1956 Ford left the highway in the South part of Seagraves, Travelled 225 feet and ended up in the Yucca Motel. Mrs. Faulkner, living across the highway called for help at 12:03 a.m. Monday morning while her husband rushed to give aid. Shortly after the two young men were pulled from the car, it exploded and burned. They were quoted as saying the car caught on fire and they lost control. Damages were estimated at $2000.00 to Motel and total loss of the car. The Motel was uninhabited.

HOW A COTTON PLANT GROWS

Cotton's potential ability to produce valuable food, feed, and fiber products is great. However, soils must have adequate organic matter, plant food nutrients, and moisture to produce maximum yields and profits. When all needs are adequately cared for, an acre of cotton plants is capable of putting on:

- 1) a bale of squares during the first 10 days after squaring begins,
- 2) 2 bales of blooms in 21 days,
- 3) 2 bales of uniformly good cotton in 30 days,
- and 4) 3 bales of uniformly good cotton in a six-week period.

But cotton must be grown in rotation with high-residue-producing crops on level or moderately sloping land, under good conservation management. The crop must receive needed protection from diseases, weeds, and insects. Many growers can increase yields, improve quality of products, and make more profit from cotton by doing a better job of feeding their soils and protecting their plants. Growers should not expect much from sick, hungry, thirsty plants robbed of plant food and moisture by erosion or weeds and their fruit by insects.

To produce a bale of cotton, 80 pounds nitrogen (N), 40 pounds phosphate (P₂O₅), and 60 pounds potash (K₂O) must be available to plants. Higher yields require proportionately greater amounts of these essential plant food nutrients. Properly fertilized soils containing sufficient organic matter (1% for sandy soils and 3% or more for clay soils) to keep them in good physical condition can produce a bale with 10 to 15 inches of available moisture.

Twice as much moisture is needed to produce a bale if soils are low in organic matter, in poor physical condition, and no fertilizer is used. Higher yields require proportionately greater amounts of moisture to produce a desired yield.

Fast start--The first step in getting a cotton crop off to a good, fast start is a uniform stand of healthy plants with good taproots. You want two to four plants per foot of row. High-quality planting seed of an adapted variety should be planted during a favorable period as early in the season as practical.

In areas where it is difficult to get good stands, in-furrow fungicidal treatments should be used to provide needed protection from seeding diseases. Normally, conditions are favorable for emergence and seedling growth when treated seed, with a laboratory test of 80% or higher germination, are planted after the mean air temperature reaches 70 degrees F. in spring. However, growers should consider soil temperatures, moisture, the five-day weather forecast, wind velocity, and all factors influencing stands before planting.

The seedbed should be properly prepared, contain adequate moisture, organic matter, and fertilizer. Pre-planting irrigation applications should be made at least three weeks ahead of planting to avoid lowering soil temperature. The soil and mean air temperature are about the same when soil is dry, but soil temperature is 3 to 5 degrees lower when soil is wet.

Soil and air temperatures above 70 degree F. are favorable for good growth and root development. On the other hand, cool (below 60 degrees F.), wet, cloudy weather encourages seedling diseases, loss of taproots, weak plants, and weak stands. Growth stops and damage from chilling begins when the minimum temperature drops below 50 degrees F. Weak, chilled plants stay weak all season and cannot stand bad weather later on. (con't next week)

FIRST LOAD OF MILO REPORTED IN GAINES COUNTY

Mrs. Billy Bond called the NEWS office at 7:25 p.m. Tuesday to report that Christian's Grain bought their first load of grain from 'E' BAR 'S' Ranch. RANGE MANAGEMENT GROUP TO START IN GAINES COUNTY 4-H

Gaines County is roughly divided into two parts agriculturally, farming land and ranch land. Of the 917, 907 acres in Gaines County approximately 553, 181 acres are improved pasture and native grassland. Thus good range management is extremely important since over one-half of the acreage is in range land. Planning and directing range use to get the highest livestock production and conserving the range at the same time is the goal of range management.

Gaines County 4-H members will be given an opportunity this year to participate in an active Range Management group. This group will collect specimens of range plants and learn to identify them. They will also learn range management practices to gain the best production and conservation of range lands.

Any interested boy or girl, whether a 4-H member or not, should contact the extension office located in the Courthouse of phone 758-2241. Announcements concerning the coming meetings will be made to those interested individuals.

Q & A

Q.-- How can you correct a painting when you get too much paint in area?

A.-- When you have accumulated too much paint in an area and that the color is incorrect, it is better to scrape it off and start anew.

Q.-- Do you always have to do a preliminary drawing of the subject that you are going to paint?

A.-- This will depend if you are drawing from nature. If the subject is fairly simple and dark pattern already clearly defined by nature's lighting, you can often dispense with the preliminary drawing. Then, with just roughly indicated construction lines, you can immediately start to lay in tonal arrangement.

BOOKS
 OPEN NEW HORIZONS

"The House on the Cliff"
 by D. E. Stevenson

A young woman turns from the world of the theater to a new life as mistress of an isolated house overlooking the English Channel. Romance, intrigue, and a fresh Devonshire setting make this one of Mrs. Stevenson's most delightful novels.

"Papa was in a Hurry"
 by Gertrude Stagg Carruth

The author's mother had much in common with today's Corporate wife. She never knew when Papa would tell her to pack up for an immediate move to another farm or small town. Then off they would go with their two children and Grandma. Woven into this tender and often hilarious story is a wealth of detail about rural life and simple amusements in the rice-growing areas of Louisiana and Texas before World War I. It is a story of a family where honor, truth and justice are taught by example.

"The Case of the Queenly Contestant" by Erle Stanley Gardner

Ellen Adair was the queenly contestant, winner of a beauty contest some years before she asked Perry Mason to assure her privacy. But when Perry began to dig into her case he ran smack into a murder trial.

"Undercover Cat Prowls Again" by the Gordens

D. C. Randall, aged five, weight 25, fur black, is rapidly becoming America's answer to James Bond. If you met D. C. in "Undercover Cat" or saw "That Darn Cat" the movie, you already know that D. C. is a fearless operator. In this new chronicle of his war against crime, two people's lives hang by a hair--a cat's hair, in fact. One is an affectionate glamour girl named Shirley. The other is a highly unreliable crook named Memo. This story combines suspense and laughs with a good old-fashioned romance.

LOCAL RESIDENT ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Mrs. Leona M. Warnecke, Administrator, of the Twilite Acre, Inc. in Seminole, Texas, was one of 263 nursing home staff members, welfare case workers, and health department employees who attended a conference in Lubbock, Texas, on August 10, 1967, on the implementation of Title XIX, commonly referred to as Medicaid, of the Social Security Act in Texas.

The one-day meeting, sponsored by the Texas Nursing Home Association, State Department of Public Welfare, and Texas State Department of Health was based on the theme, "Meet The Challenge of Change", and dealt with the responsibilities of the nursing home and state employees under this new program.

Title XIX, being implemented in Texas starting September 1st will replace the current Kerr-Mills welfare programs which have been functioning in Texas since 1962. This new, joint federal-state program, will initially provide the following services to the certain categorical groups of the medically indigent welfare recipients: physician services, in-patient hospital services, out-patient hospital services, skilled nursing home services, and other laboratory and x-ray services. These services will be available to the eligible blind, aged, and totally and permanently disabled and families of dependent children.

Medicaid was the companion legislation to Medicare passed by Congress in 1965 as a part of Public Law 89-97. Since Medicaid is a joint federal-state program, while Medicare is strictly a federal program, each state legislature had to pass legislation enabling the state to participate in the program. Senate Bill 2, passed by the Texas Legislature and signed by Governor John Connally on May 11, 1967, was Texas' enabling legislation.

Conference speakers included Dr. David Wade, Assistant Commissioner for Medical Administration, State Department of Public Welfare; Arthur B. Taylor, President, Texas Nursing Home Association; L. C. Rouse, Director, Public Assistance Division, State Department of Public Welfare; Dr. R. C. Jordan, Chief, Medical Care Administrative Services Section, Texas State Department of Health; Bee Grissom, Director of Finance, State Department of Public Welfare; and John M. Crawford, Executive Director, Texas Nursing Home Association.

Mr. V. N. Keyes attended the T. S. T. A. Executive Council meeting in Dallas last Thursday.

John Ruskin

Some of the best memories of Hawaii are of the nice people there. The first professor on the first day we met classes seated us alphabetically, as he said that made it easier for him to learn our names. I was seated between two pretty Japanese teachers, Mrs. Ellen Watanabe and Mrs. Ethel Yoshimosu. There was only one true Hawaiian, Mrs. Ethel Borges, in the class. Our one Chinese classmate, an outstanding person in the institute, was the attractive Mrs. Anna Chow. She had taught in Michigan while her husband was in school there.

We met some very interesting and attractive people from Thailand who were working for the Peace Corps. Miss Sutira Ariyapongse of Bangkok, Thailand, was over 14 native Thailand instructors who were teaching Thai language to 120 Peace Corps trainees. These young men and women study the language 8 hours a day, and will be going to Thailand this fall.

For names that were strange to us--our neighbors were the Nishiokas, and the Yoshiyaki Haras. One school was the Kapiolani School. The streets were Kahmahama, Laniduala, Wianuenu, Kanoeluhua, Kinoole, and Keawe. Mrs. Yoshimasu told me a good place to eat was the Hukilau. The last Thursday before the Institute was over on Friday, all Institute people and husbands and wives were invited to eat Japanese style at Diafuku's. When we got there all were seated on straw mats on the floor around long low tables that were loaded with all kinds of Japanese foods and fruit.

Three of our Thailand friends took us for a farewell dinner of Chinese food at the Sun Sun Lau. Their names--Bisuddhanaraksh, Ariyapongse and Rojana-viport!

John Freyburger, at 1:25 p. m. stepped on a stink bug and predicted rain by 1:25 a. m. this morning!!

(Editor's Note on Tuesday)

It's news?

John and Maxine Freyburger, Vanessa and Michael, returned home last week end after visiting in Moab, Utah, with John's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith and family.

While visiting, Vanessa was stepping on some 'stink' bugs. "Don't step on the 'stink bugs', you'll cause a flood!" These words of wisdom were from 7 year old, Marcus Smith--and rain it did! It washed out the road in four places, and flooded the Smith basement.

The morning the Freyburger's were scheduled to return to Texas, Maxine was stepping on some of the bugs, and Marcos became upset again and called out the same admonition, "Don't step on the 'stink bugs!!!"

After the Freyburgers returned home, they called Moab and found out that the day they left, it had rained and rained and RAINED! Four bridges had washed out between the Smith home (5 miles from town) and Moab.

Mrs. Smith said that the Indians called the insects rain bugs. It was Indian belief that when the bugs appeared it was a sign of rain.

John regretted failing to box a number of the bugs to bring home. When moisture is needed in Gaines County, it might be interesting to have a few!

While in Moab the Freyburgers watched two movies being filmed, "Blue", and "Fade Inn". They also visited in Santa Fe, Taos, New Mexico, and Pagosa Springs and Durango, Colorado.

MILLIGANS RETURN FROM VACATION IN YELLOWSTONE

The Milligans, Ray and Mary Sue, Diane, Karen, Jeff and Stacy have returned from vacation in Yellowstone National Park. The family also visited Ray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Milligan in Perryton. They visited in Ft. Collins, Colorado, and then went on to the east entrance of Yellowstone.

They were advised to camp outside the park, as camping facilities were filled. An estimated 10,000 campers are in the park each night during the vacation season.

The Milligans' parked outside the park, and during the night they were visited by the bears. The animals helped themselves to the portion of garbage that pleased them and then they made all sorts of efforts to open the ice box-- they rolled it a number of times.

The damp ground showed many bear prints which delighted the children. The following day, the Milligans were sightseeing and when they made a sharp curve in the road they were suddenly confronted by a car. Excitedly Jeff exclaimed, "That scare car-ed me!!! I thought it was a bear!!!"

At another place they found a bear sitting atop a round guard post. The bears and the scenery delighted the children. "Old Faithful" remains a wonderful sight.

The family stayed inside the park two nights.

On their return trip home, they visited Grand Junction and Pagosa Springs Colorado. In Pagosa Springs they visited with Terry and Ruth Robinson, on the Robinson Ranch.

There were many interesting things on the ranch --Jeff found a deer head, complete with antlers and he just had to bring that home. The children gathered eggs and chased chickens.

The Milligans spent a most enjoyable trip, which was planned especially for the children.

"Pop" Hopkins explained that the headlights are of different types of glass. The clear glass is the drivers light, and the frosted is provided to cut the glare for oncoming cars. The car is using the original spark plugs.

Mr. Hopkins enjoys sharing his car with others. He is shown taking a group from the Seminole NEWS on an enjoyable spin around town. He gets good gas mileage. The gas gauge is on the rear of the car, but there is a gas pressure gauge in the front. The door handles are just on the inside!

The Hopkins are very interesting people. They are the owners of a 1914 Cartercar. Mr. Hopkins said that the car was purchased for their pleasure and to be enjoyed by their friends. You feel friendship almost immediately when you meet them. Mr. Hopkins graciously took several from the NEWS office on a spin around town, and Mrs. Hopkins (Margret) even furnished the hats. People stopped and looked and waved--some even turned around in their cars to get a better look!

The story of the car is a fascinating one. In 1962, while in Tabor, South Dakota, the Hopkins heard about a Cartercar in Yankton, South Dakota. They checked out the story but decided against buying it then. In 1963 they checked on the car again. It was still there but the price had gone up by $300.00. The third time (1964) they looked and they bought, even though the price was $500.00 more than the second time. Along with the car came the original papers, maintenance manuals and literature. There were 5014 miles on the speedometer at the time of purchase. The Cartercar ended up in Labanon, Kansas, for the next 18 months, where Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jennings restored the car. They did a complete job. Of course, the most noticeable is the expertly finished exterior--a dark green with a touch of yellow trim. The lovely interior is of black nagahide.

The Jennings did all of the work, except a few of the metal fittings, which were refinished by a Denver Colorado firm.

Even the tires have a story. Governor Rockefeller of Arkansas purchased a tire company in the North and moved it to his state. The Governor has a keen interest in old cars and started making tires for old model cars. The set of tires and tubes for the Cartercar were purchased from the Arkansas firm at a cost of $268.00 for the set.

When the Hopkins move, they load the car on a special built tandem trailer and off they go--where another community will be enjoying the company and conversation of a very interesting family.

WOE BE THE "AVERAGE SPECULATOR"

"If an average new commodity speculator started with $5,000 on January 1, he'd be broke by Christmas and be left with $5,000 in commissions," says T. A. Hieronymus, University of Illinois economist.

A USDA survey of nearly 9,000 speculators in the grain futures market showed that only 25% made a net profit, while 75% ended up with losses.

So those are the odds you have going against you when you trade in the futures market as a speculator. The other side of the coin, of course, is that with low margin requirements and the opportunity to make quick profits, the market also offers opportunities.

LETTERS HOME FROM THE TRAVELING FOLK OF SEMINOLE

The letter below was received from Cindy Woods in Brussels, Belgium.

The country here is beautiful too. It reminds me a lot of Tennessee country, but the greens are different colors of green, and they all blend so beautifully. There are 8-10 gardens and parks within walking distance of our home. The King's Palace and gardens are only two blocks away and they are so lovely. There are enormous lion statues in front of the Palace and many guards march up and down, especially at night. When they have the official changing of the guards, they march right beneath our window in the tall black hats, red uniforms, spears, flags, etc. It causes some excitement. We've seen them 3 times now.

Friday is the King's birthday and there will be some great celebrating going on. The people of Brussels really enjoy things like this.

We are learning to live like the people of Brussels live. I mop the sidewalk like everyone else. It is kind of fun----learning all these neat customs. They eat with their fork in their left hand and knife in the right----and no switching either. I enjoy eating the European way----it is much easier. They also take 2-3 hours off for lunch;----they never, never rush a meal. We enjoy them kissing us 3 times goodbye on the cheek, too. Shopping for bread, butter, meat is down every day at different shops----and everyone walks here too. I can walk 5 times farther and faster than I used to.

Last night we went to little Swiss restaurant for some typical Swiss food. As we entered the restaurant we were greeted by the waiters who were dressed in they full blouse of the native farmer in the Swiss Alps. There was they famous lead cow bell hanging out by the little Swiss -Alp cottage which had a real stream running in front of it with live fish (which one of the waiters caught to cook for a customer). We had the famous "Rocklet" which is melted Swiss cheese with a boiled potato in the center. One wraps the cheese around the potato, (pickles and onions were served with it also). For dessert, I had the famous "dame blanche" but the waiter served the hot fudge separately and I got to pour it myself onto the whipped cream and ice cream. It was so delicious. As we were leaving, we saw a huge St. Bernard in by the fireplace.

Last night, we all went over to the McNeilly's. Mr. McNeilly is in the services here, and they can buy things from the PX. We were all so jealous when we saw their 5 lbs. of sugar since one can only buy one lb. at a time here. Everyone here goes to the store at least once a day. There are no large containers of grease--just in small packages as butter comes in. Sometimes it is frustrating not to be able to stock up on anything like we do in the States. But when we are in Belgian we live as they do, and we go to the stores everyday too.

HOW MANY?

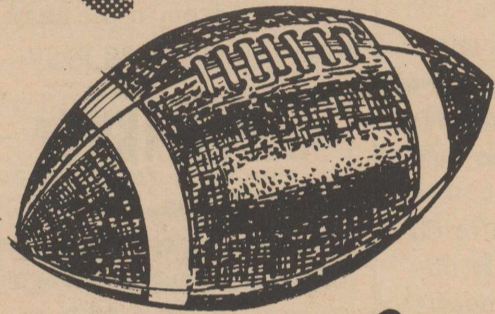

We wonder how many brides can bake their cake and eat it too.

In a free country there is much clamor with little suffering; in a despotic state there is little complaint but much suffering.

Mr. A. P. Hobdy of Lubbock visited in the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Hobdy over the week end.

Mr. V. N. Keyes, Tom and Jo Ann went to Ft. Worth last week to get Mrs. Keyes. She had been with her parents Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Banowsky. Mr. Banowsky is recuperating nicely from surgery.

WHAT IS A BOY?

Between the innocence of babyhood and the dignity of manhood we find a delightful creature called a boy. Boys come in assorted sizes, weights, and colors, but all boys have the same creed: To enjoy every second of every minute of every hour of every day and to protest with noise (their only weapon) when their last minute is finished and the adult males pack them off to bed at night.

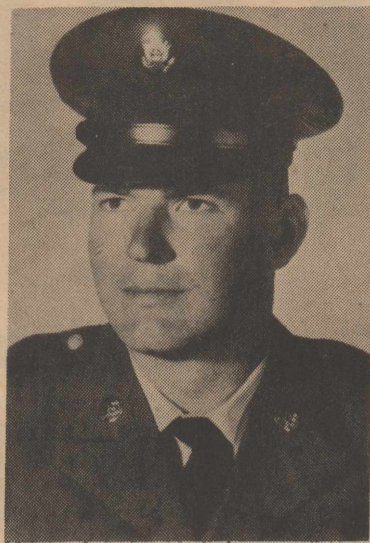

Boys are found everywhere--on top of, underneath, inside of, climbing on, swinging from, running around, or jumping to. Mothers love them, little girls hate them, older sisters and brothers tolerate them, adults ignore them, and Heaven protects them. A boy is Truth with dirt on its face, Beauty with a cut on its finger, Wisdom with bubble gum in its hair, and the Hope of the future with a frog in its pocket.

When you are busy, a boy is an inconsiderate, bothersome, intruding jangle of noise. When you want him to make a good impression, his brain turns to jelly or else he becomes a savage, sadistic, jungle creature bent on destroying the world and himself with it.

A boy is a composite--he has the appetite of a horse, the digestion of a sword-swallower, the energy of a pocket-size atomic bomb, the curiosity of a cat, the lungs of a dictator, the imagination of a Paul Bunyan, the shyness of violet, the audacity of a steel trap, the enthusiasm of a fire cracker, and when he makes something he has five thumbs on each hand.

A boy is a magical creature--you can lock him out of your work shop, but you can't lock him out of your heart. You can get him out of your study, but you can't get him out of your mind. Might as well give up--he is your captor your jailer, your boss, and your master--a freckle-face, pintsized, cat-chasing, bundle of noise. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of your hopes and dreams, he can mend them like new with the two magic words--"Hi Dad!"
