EDITORIAL

This writer, in 1930 some-odd, was awarded a set of marbles in Peacock, Texas, for being the outstanding marble player of the area. It is most difficult to tell this story as others continuously say they were better even when the marbles were awarded.

Following this article will be a form to fill out in case you would like to contest the above statement. The rules will be restated so there will be a minimum amount of trouble as possible in the tournament.

No. One - The game will be nine marbles.

No. Two - The size of the nine marbles will be 1 1/2 inch in diameter.

No. Three - A player to win - must have all nine marbles.

No. Four - A player can only hit an opponent three times until the opponent has another turn. (The player hit must be able to pay the three marbles to stay in the game.)

No. Five - When all marbles are out of the square ring, opponent must feed or put one in the ring until he is beaten.

No. Six - Turns of shooting will be determined by the closer to the 'leg' line - fifteen feet from the ring.

No. Seven - A judge will be on hand at all times - and if possible, a deputy.

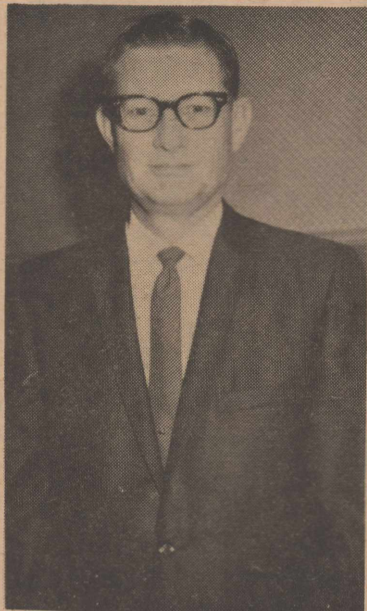

No. Eight - No round nucks or fudging will be allowed.

No. Nine - The shooter marble or taw must be out of agate, crock, or glass.

No. Ten - Age limit from can to can't.

If further rules are needed, this writer will make them.

OUTSTANDING FARM FAMILY

Mrs. Eddie Jameson was presented the plaque as the outstanding farm family in Gaines County for the year 1967. Dave Sooter made the presentation at the Seminole Area Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday night stating that sooner or later it was bound to happen that an award would be presented and all parties concerned would not be there. Mr. Jameson was out of town.

To qualify for such an award a family must be well thought of, leaders in their community, good farmers, and neighborly people. The Eddie Jamesons are all of these.

INFORMATION ON NEMATODES

How to reduce the damage nematodes do to cotton in Gaines County will be discussed by experts at a meeting in Seminole, Thursday. Loop and Higginbotham had meetings last week.

A luncheon will be held at noon Thursday, January 18, at the Raymond Restaurant in Seminole.

The meetings are being sponsored by the Dow Chemical Company to acquaint farmers with the nematode problem and effective methods of controlling this underground pest. All cotton farmers are invited to attend, according to A. Charles Fischer, Lubbock, a nematode control specialist for Dow.

Denver Ford of Custom Farm Services, Seminole, said an estimated 20,000 to 30,000 acres of Gaines County cotton land is infested by nematodes to the point the loss is equivalent to one-third to one-half bale an acre, or more than $1,000,000 a year across the county.

He said the meetings will cover methods of detecting and diagnosing nematode problems and most effective means of control.

Control most commonly is achieved by "fumigating" or dropping chemicals into the soil about two weeks before planting, Fischer said. He added that this practice, which usually costs about $9 an acre at recommended rates, consistently has returned an average of $4 to $5 for every $1 invested on irrigated cotton land where nematode populations have reached troublesome size.

Ford said 65 people, mostly farmers, attended a similar meeting at Seagraves on January 4, and found it "most instructive."

PAUL DABBS QUALIFIES FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

Paul Dabbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Christian, 313 S. W. Avenue I, was one of ten West Texas High School Seniors qualifying for final competition for scholarships from the Educational Fund for Children of Phillips Petroleum Company Employees. These ten West Texans are among a total of one hundred and fifty students who qualified for the final round of competition. Final selection of fifty winners will be made early in May.

A total of fifty scholarships will be given by Phillips and each grant provides $500 annually during four years of college attendance, subject to satisfactory grades by the awardee.

The scholarship fund was established in 1939 for the purpose of aiding children of employees of Phillips Petroleum Company and its subsidiaries in obtaining a college or university education. Approximately 940 young people have received education as Phillips scholarship holders, under awards totaling $1.84 million.

Qualifying students who do not receive scholarships may apply for loans for higher education from a separate educational loan fund.

SPEECH TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD

The Tenth Annual Seminole Invitational Speech Tournament will be held Saturday, January 20. Three hundred students are expected to compete in the tournament.

There are fifteen competing schools ranging from Dimmitt to Fort Stockton and Snyder to Hobbs. This is the largest number to attend a speech tournament in Seminole. Twenty-two schools returned entries but due to the size of the school facilities and the community, the tournament director, Coy Sharp, limited the number of schools and students entering from each school.

There are five divisions in the tournament: Informative Speaking, Persuasive Speaking, Poetry Interpretation, Prose Interpretation, and Debate. Forty-eight debate teams are entered and there are twenty-four to twenty-seven students entered in each of the boy and girl categories of the other individual divisions; hence many judges will be needed and used.

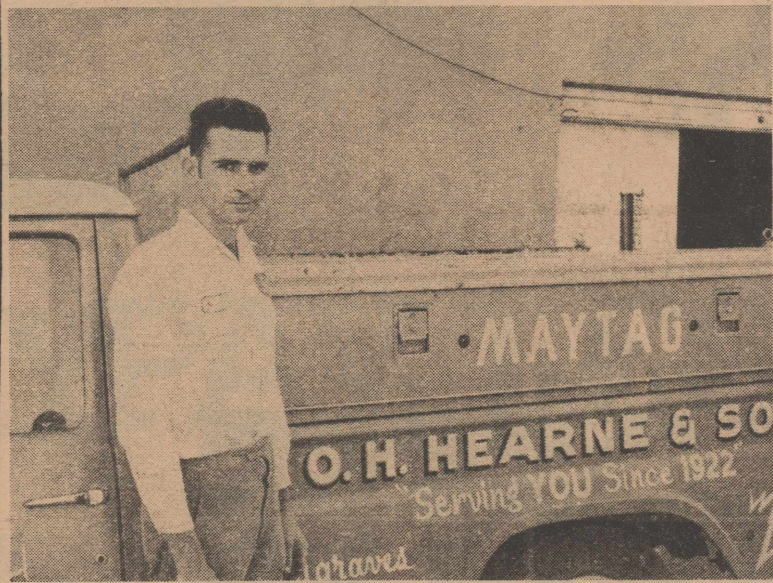

Each division of the tournament is directed by contest speech students. Lissa Northcutt is in charge of individuals, aided by Kathy Hodges, Lavonna Jones, Marie Gowdey in the interpretation division; Joe Coffman, David Thompson, Mickey Williams, and Paul Dabbs in the public speaking divisions. Linda Martin and Laren Holler direct the debate with the aid of other debaters.

The school registration begins at 8:00 Saturday morning in the high school auditorium lobby, and the first round of competition begins at 9:30. The final awards assembly will be at 7:45 that evening. A full day is planned for those participating.

The tournament ran very smoothly last year due to the planning and cooperation of the community, school administration and faculty, and the high school student body. The tournament is expected to run as smoothly this year.

This is the type of play that Spencer pushed on them to foul out two of their men as he drove for the basket.

Cottrell hits for two against the Eagles.

The Seminole Indians went on a war dance Friday night at Ector and Indian medicine man Caffey did the right thing at the right time. Seminole out-hustled, out-shot, and upset the favored Eagles 54-43. Ector was cold in the first quarter and fell behind at one point 14 - 4, but came on to tie it up at 23-23 at the half. Anderson had a hot hand to open the game, but was unfortunate enough to have the whistle blown on him four times for fouls. Indian fans gulped when he went out with less than two minutes to play before the half with five fouls, but Nelson and Shuler came on and worked the backboards well for the Indians for the balance of the ball game.

The Eagles' rejoicing over the loss of Anderson turned to sorrow when they lost one of their stars, Smith, three minutes after the half and another one not long after. Ray scored 9 points with 8 of them coming in the last half. Wall had 13 and Anderson had 5. Spencer came through with only three 2-point plays, but had 10 free throws - six of them in the second quarter - to keep the Indians in the game. Cottrell had 8 and Nelson had 3 to round out the scoring.

The Ector Eagles were surprised and Seminole took every advantage of them.

Our hats are off to the coaching staff of every Seminole team and to that same Seminole hustling spirit. Our boys are short in height but high in Indian fan opinion.

RICHARD D. HUNT RECEIVES AWARD

Airman IC Richard D. Hunt has received commendation by the U.S. Air Force for "fast work and technical ability" on two separate occasions while performing duty as a technician on a mission.

The commendation follows: "On 4 November 1967, while performing duty as a air-borne technician, Airman Hunt's action precluded an abort on two separate occasions. In addition, by constantly making equipment checks he eliminated several problems before they reached serious proportions.

"Shortly after take off, the negative volume and a failure of the AIC. Airman Hunt repaired these malfunctions within fifteen minutes and the mission continued as planned. During the mission, the AIC-1 on both the "X" and "Y" positions failed and the radio magnetic indicator froze. Again Airman Hunt repaired these malfunctions in a short time and an abort situation was avoided for a second time.

"Airman Hunt's fast work and technical ability earned the appreciation of the entire crew and enabled the rest of the crew members to complete a successful mission. The aircraft commander, Lt. Col. Bernier, personally thanked Airman Hunt for his actions."

Airman Hunt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.V. Hunt, Lake Cisco, former residents of the Loop Community. He is a brother of Ed Hunt of Seminole.

FIRST REPUBLICAN ANNOUNCES JOE SMITH Continued from Page I Texas. I was admitted to the practice of law in September, 1967, and am presently practicing at 116 SW Ave. B. in Seminole. I served on the City Council of Seminole having been elected for two terms but resigning prior to the end of the second term to re-enter law school. I served on the Board of Directors of the Seminole Area Chamber of Commerce for three years and was president of this organization for one year. I am 41 years of age and though inexperienced in the practice of law, I feel that I am qualified by reason of age and business experience to care for the operation of your county's legal affairs.

I am politically a conservative, and feel that I must enter this contest making the statement that I do feel very strongly that in all the affairs of our government that we must practice this philosophy, from here on the county level through the highest offices of our National Government.

I ask that you seriously consider your role in our government and I would solicit your support and your vote in this coming election.

Rev. Jimmy Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, announced to his officers on Monday night that he was moving to Odessa to become the pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on February 15. (Jimmy has always been real pleasant and he will be missed in our community.)

NOT ALL promising new educational programs are implemented with the same degree of success, and the nongraded secondary school serves as an example.

Much has been done to upgrade the elementary school, and one does not have to go far afield to find outstanding examples. Such is not the case with the nongraded high school. Very little has been written about it, and very few people have attempted to put the concept into practice.

I have observed two schools which are the best examples of the nongraded high school — one in Seminole, the other a well-known school outside the state.

Both schools have profited from their nongraded enterprise, but Seminole, in my opinion, has reaped a greater benefit than this highly-publicized, out-of-state school. The difference, I feel, lies in the implementation of the program — not in the nongraded approach itself.

First, let us look at critically and objectively as possible at the out-of-state school, which has a student population of 1,700. It is fed by three junior high schools which are only partially ungraded.

The physical plant is quite unimpressive, looking like dozens of others in the state. There are no architectural features especially designed for the curricular organization.

With the exception of student carrels in special reading rooms and the library, there is no furniture or equipment which is unusual. In fact, most schools have more audiovisual equipment than that which is in evidence there.

The faculty numbers 78. It is a very young group with many first-year teachers. The turnover runs, according to the administrative personnel, from 25 to 50 percent yearly. Pre-1958 faculty members are very scarce. To say that the high turnover or lack of pre-1958 faculty members is due to the ungraded plan would be presumptuous.

One finds mixed emotions among the teachers when they are quizzed concerning their attitude toward the curricular organization. Some avidly praise it; others vehemently oppose. The situation could prevail under any type of curricular organization.

THE SCHOOL OPERATES under the philosophy that every high school student who tries should receive a diploma and that every student should be taken at his achievement level and be permitted and encouraged to develop to the maximum of his ability.

The philosophy shifts the major responsibility of the student's welfare from the teacher to the student himself. Much of this philosophy has been, of course, given lip-service for many decades.

The method of implementation usual track system. Students may be in Phase 1 in one subject, Phase 2 in another, and Phase 3 in still another.

The administration states that students are placed in phases according to scores made on standardized achievement tests, teacher recommendation, and student desires — with the student making the ultimate decision. This procedure might be questionable, but certain students when quizzed stated that the ultimate decision was not up to them.

The number of courses and the titles of some of the courses offered are quite impressive. Any attempt to analyze the courses from the curriculum guide proves frustrating, however, because the guide covers approximately 98 courses in only 20 typewritten pages.

There is only one certificated

is the key to the actual carrying out of a philosophy, and this is where the traditional school usually falters. The nongraded curriculum should provide a better vehicle for bringing such a philosophy to fruition.

One might question, however, whether or not there might be danger in forcing the average high school student to assume responsibility for his own planning and guidance to the extent it is done at this school.

The nongraded curriculum as this school has organized it is actually nothing more than a track system, consisting of six tracks in most areas. The redeeming feature of the organization is found in the ability of students to cut across grade lines, a feature not found in the counselor for 1,700 students. When questioned, the administrative staff stated that they felt one counselor was sufficient and that every teacher did an excellent job of counseling. Perhaps they do, but some randomly chosen students who were planning to attend college stated that no one had advised them about preparing for college admission.

The discipline is questionable. I observed students being impudent toward teachers. There was considerable noise in almost every room, and many students were noted leaving rooms and roaming the halls during class periods. Discipline is, of course, a point of view. Other visitors felt that the disciplinary situation was good.

The most glaring discrepancy

MRS. PAUL CONDIT

Mrs. Paul Condit of Seminole has been named one of the nation's "Outstanding Young Women."

The selection of these outstanding young women is sponsored by women's organizations of the world. They are selected on their achievements in the various fields.

Her selection was made by a board of advisory editors on the basis of her achievements and contributions to her family, community, state and country.

She attended Trinity University in San Antonio before entering the therapy branch of Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., where she took her degree.

Mrs. Condit served as a physical therapist at Charity Hospital in New Orleans and at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock before she was married.

Mrs. Condit has served as president of the Junior Study Club and president of the Music Club. She and her sister, Mrs. Kent Denson, conducted a kindergarten for bilingual students last summer. She is also active in church work. Mrs. Condit teaches third and fourth grade students in the Presbyterian Church, where she sings in the choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Condit and their two sons, John, four, and Jim, almost two, live on a farm near Seminole. They have resided in Seminole for 4½ years.

BOY SCOUT

Six men of the twenty county area of the South Plains Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be honored Tuesday evening, January 23rd, at the Scouters' Annual Recognition Banquet. The honorees will not be named until the Banquet.

Davis Armistead and Champ Rainwater, Banquet co-chairmen have planned a gala affair for the 300 Scouters expected to attend. An additional highlight will be a short talk by Jim Cox, Jr., of Ralls. Jim has been selected as the Region IX (three state area) representative in the Report to the Nation ceremonies during Boy Scout Week, February 7 - 13.

lies in the fact that although the nongraded curriculum has been in operation since 1958, there has apparently been no systematic follow-up of students who have graduated. Administrative personnel stated that students had scattered so far that follow-up studies were impossible.

IN CONTRAST to this out-of-state school is the nongraded program in effect in our own state at Seminole High School. As one views Seminole there is no doubt that the nongraded high school, although not the ultimate answer, is the vehicle which can bring the high school curricular organization out of the dark ages of traditionalism.

Teachers, students, and administrators eagerly tell visitors what they are doing and the advantages inherent in it.

The organization of the nongraded program was made in steps:

(1) 1964-65 — English faculty preparation for beginning the program and public relations in school and community.

(2) 1965-66 — Nongrading of English, grades 9-12, and preparation by social studies and math teachers.

(3) 1966-67 — Nongrading of social studies and math and preparation by science teachers.

(4) 1967-68 — Nongrading of science.

Business subjects, vocational subjects, and physical education do not lend themselves to the nongraded approach.

Subjects at Seminole are phased as at the previously mentioned school. English is divided into five phases, social studies into two, and math into two plus advanced math classes.

Two things are considered when a student is placed in a particular phase: (1) scores made on the Iowa Tests of Educational Development and (2) teacher evaluation. Teacher evaluation takes precedence over test scores.

Students may be in different phases in different subjects. The program provides for maximum mobility. A student may begin the year in Phase 3 and end in Phase 4. If so, he receives credit in Phase 4.

It is also possible for a student to spend four years in the same phase, if this is his maximum achievement level, and still graduate. But he does not repeat the same material each year, thus reducing boredom.

Students moving into the school during the year have no more problems than if they moved into a school with the traditional curriculum.

Students in any phase are graded with the traditional A, B, C, D, and F. The grades are given weights, however, so that a C in Phase 3, for example, is actually worth more as far as computing class rank than an A in Phase 2.

Seminole uses a traditional building with no features especially designed for the nongraded program. The one feeder junior high school does the preliminary planning necessary for nongrading.

There is one certificated counselor for the 500 students, and students are given assistance in planning their high school courses, in examining occupations, and in looking at college entrance requirements. Much more responsibility is placed on the students' shoulders than has been in the past, but they are not left to founder.

The discipline at Seminole would please even the most authoritarian principal or teacher. Students are orderly, polite, and eager to express their enthusiasm for their new curricular organization.

A follow-up of graduates is already being planned. This will be a continuous program and will aid in evaluating the effectiveness of the nongraded curriculum. A study of the present student population has indicated that the number of failures has been reduced by 50 percent since the program began.

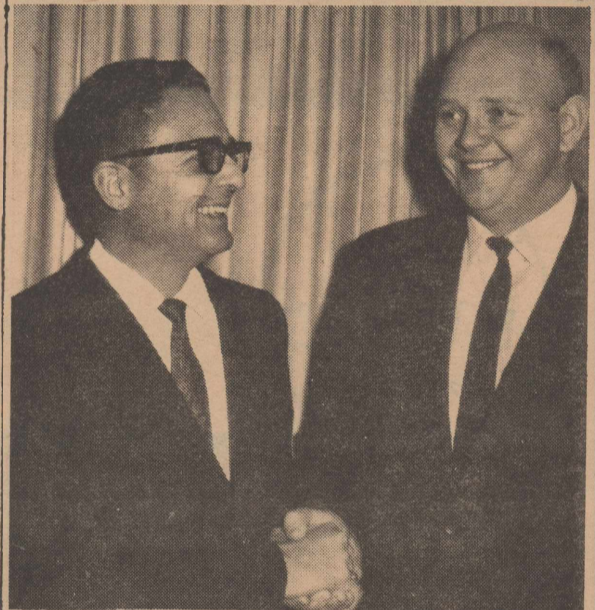

THE NONGRADED PROGRAM has brought improvements to both schools, and an observer is led to make the following conclusions about the nongraded curriculum in the secondary school:

1. It makes possible actually working with the student at his level.
2. It provides the basis for leading the student to assume more responsibility for his own welfare.
3. Strict subject segmentation is eliminated, and subject matter can be presented in a more sensible fashion.
4. It forces the teacher to get

- Comparing this program with one outside the state the author concludes that the Texas school has reaped greater rewards
5. The poorer student, who has always felt out of place, is aided in building a respectable self-image because he is able to experience success.
 6. It can reduce dropouts and absenteeism.
 7. School patrons will accept it.
 8. It can be implemented without adding to the staff or without expending additional money for buildings or equipment.

Even the skeptical person owes it to his students to examine what his school has to offer in comparison to what the nongraded curriculum has. Then, if his conclusions warrant it, he should take action, action which will result in changes which have been too long coming.

And keep in mind that the way the program is implemented is very important.

New equipment has been developed by the Dow Chemical Company to do a better job of fumigating Plains cotton fields to control nematodes. The rig, shown above in action, uses knives to deposit chemicals in the soil before planting. Fumazone 86 soil fumigant flows through tubes to metal pipes at trailing edge of knives. Chemical is dropped into soil at depth of 10 to 12". The Dow Soil Injection Knife rig can be purchased as a complete implement, mounted on its own tool-

FARM MANAGEMENT SHORTCOURSE AIMS AT INCREASING FARM PROFITS

Increasing farm profits is the objective of a five-session farm management shortcourse being offered Gaines County Producers in late January and February, according to County Agricultural Agent, Calvin D. Holcomb.

The two-hour meetings will begin on January 30 at 7:00 p. m. at the court house and will continue on the next four consecutive Tuesdays through February 27.

Topics to be discussed at the series of sessions will include managing the farm inventory, determining costs on major county crops and livestock, balancing labor, capital, water and land for maximum profits--the key to increased income.

Calvin Holcomb asks everyone who plans to participate in the shortcourse to pre-register by January 26 at the County Extension Office or contact Roy Wicker. Because of the in-depth training which will be conducted, registration is limited to the first 25 people, points out the agent.

Registration fee for the shortcourse, including a handbook and graduation banquet, is $10 per person, adds Holcomb.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Coffman were Mr. and Mrs. Van Greene of Morton. Becky and Bob visited the Coffmans while their parents attended the Lions Club Conference.

GO TEAM !!! WIN !!

SEMINOLE B-TEAM

Danley against Ector.

The Seminole B Team Friday night lost a heart-breaker to Ector. Coach Milt Fitts' charges had the desire, the hustle, and the go to win, but gave up too much height and lost to the Ector Bees 55 - 62. McDonald was at his best scoring 21 points. He was followed by Jerry Hatley with 18 points, C. J. Danley with 10, Haley with 4 and Ray with 2. Only two other boys saw action - Whisenhunt and Lewis. They were behind only one point at the first quarter, but dropped six points behind at the half, eight at the third quarter and lost finally by seven. The Bees played well.

The history of the Seminole Bees is spelled out in this picture by the height advantage. Shown are McDonald, No. 13, Jerry Hatley, No. 25, Danley, and Haley jumping.

FRESHMEN

The Freshmen A and B Teams both were victorious Monday night in Kermit. The B team game was close all the way and was good. They jumped eight points ahead in the first quarter and held a like margin throughout the game. Holbrook led all scores with 13 points Satterwhite had 11, Six had 2, Burrell had 2, Baker had 4, and Partain had 4 to win 36 - 29.

It's in now, it's out. Rebound. So goes the Freshman round ball game.

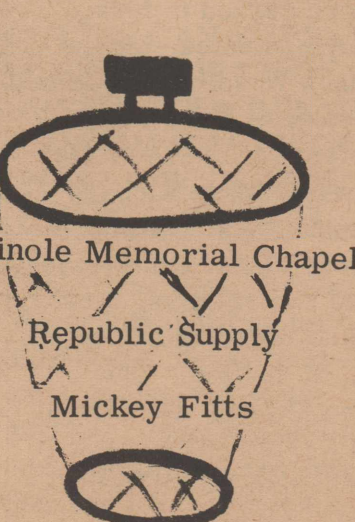

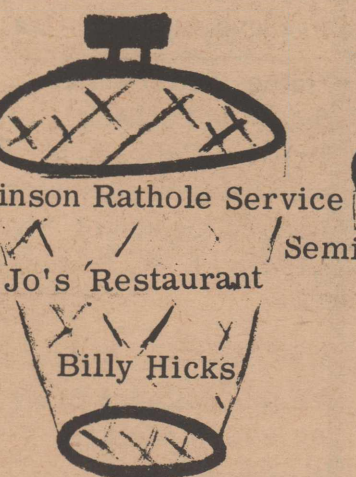

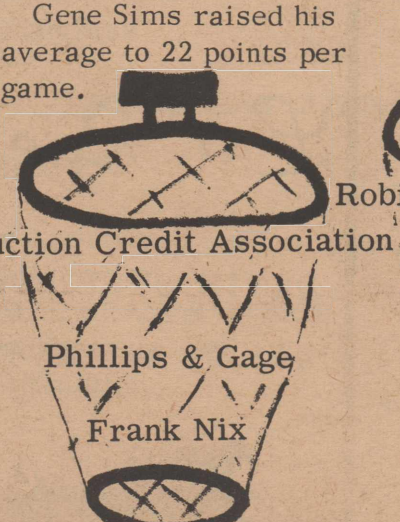

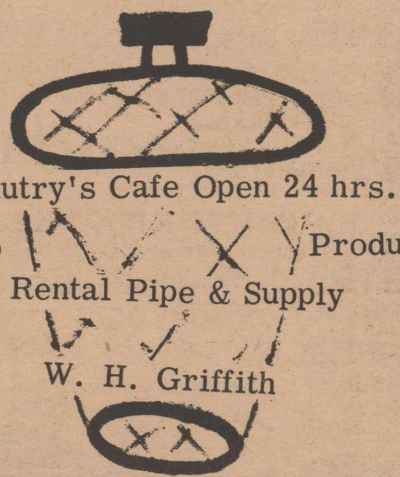

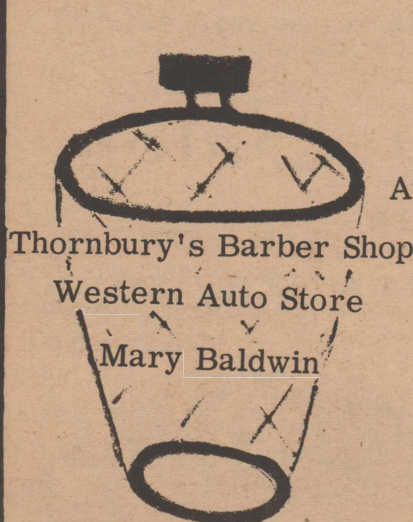

In the A Team game, Sims and Hearne went on a scoring spree of 37 and 28 points each. Gene Sims scored well in every quarter with 10, 9, 6, and 12 for a 37-point total. Following Hearne, Pendleton had 5, Gonzales had 2, Woods had 2, Nelson had 3, and Smith had 2. The final score was 79-63 - with Seminole favored.

Laverne Bennett was sick and did not get to make the trip.

Gene Sims raised his average to 22 points per game.

Six, No. 19, and Holbrook, No. 32, wait for the ball to come down so they can go in for the replay.

On the Johnny Jones farm, three light-producing wells are tied into one system. In this picture a four-inch plastic line is seen being hooked in at another well and then a six-inch line going to the overhead sprinkler system in the distance.

Three wells will pump into the gathering tank in the background. The motor to the right will run the centrifugal pump that will operate the overhead sprinkling system. Continued in a future issue of this paper will be a picture of the system and cost data and how the valves will work in and out of the supply tank to control the four pumps and motors.

GAINES FARMERS FACE WATER PROBLEM

Farmers on the High Plains are faced with decreasing water supplies. Strong wells are getting weaker each year. More small wells are being drilled each year. Farmers may be wondering what they can do with a number of low producing wells.

The Soil Conservation Service technicians have assisted farmers who have had this problem of multiple wells to establish what is known as Collector Irrigation Systems. With this system all the wells are pumped independently to a central gathering tank and a booster pump builds pressure for the irrigation system. This gathering tank is usually a used oil field tank that has the capacity to hold about thirty minutes pumping from all the wells.

The advantages of the collector system are numerous. Each well will produce its maximum output at all times. Usually each well discharges its water into the gathering tank separately and its flow can be observed every day. If one well were to fail for some reason, it does not shut down the entire operation so there is less lost time during the irrigation season.

Another advantage is the lower installation cost of a collector system. All that is needed in each well is a pump and motor big enough to surface the water. Pressure will be built up in the booster pump and motor just to build pressure in the irrigation system. Farmers have found that their power requirements are low in comparison with a high pressure system.

Less skill is required to operate a collector system than a system where several wells are tied together under pressure. Once the wells are adjusted for maximum flow into the gathering tank, only seasonal changes need to be made; whereas with wells tied together, adjustments need to be made frequently.

The greatest advantage of the collector system is that the sprinkler irrigation system can be operated at the desired pressure at all times. The sprinkler system is designed to utilize the combined production of all the wells. This usually gives the owner of several small wells the same capacity irrigation system as he would have with one strong well.

The cost share program of the Great Plains Conservation Program and the Agricultural Conservation Program can be used to install a collector system of irrigation. These programs help on the costs of installing the low pressure pipe needed to bring the water from the wells to the centrally located gathering tank. If a main line is needed for the sprinkler system, cost share is also available. Cost-share payments are available under the GPCP on a new gathering tank, however, most landowners in this area can usually find a used oil-field tank for less cost to them.

Farmers who have more than two wells tied together under pressure, may find that they have plenty of water when they change over to a collector system. Some of their wells may not be pumping to capacity under pressure. Farmers who are drilling more wells to get enough water to irrigate should use the collector system to get the most efficient use of the available water.

Ann Foster, Public Health Nurse, urges mothers to bring their children in for measles immunization if they have not had the measles.

They should have a polio booster if they had the sugar cubes.

There is a clinic here the third Thursday of each month. The next one will be January 18. This clinic is for the people who are unable to go to their private physician.

Dr. Evelyn Smiley, Director of the South Plains Health Unit, will be here to administer the immunization.

Children with fever should not be brought to the clinic for immunization.

Three-in-one shots for whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and smallpox are given in these clinics.

There has been an up-rise in the number of cases of measles and diphtheria in the past year.

LOOP WATER SUPPLY CORP. MEETS

Rural residents of Loop Water Supply Corporation held their annual meeting and election of Directors Tuesday night at the Community Building.

Vice-President R. L. Hunt presided. Secretary-Treasurer Bert Davis reported that a quorum of members was present or by proxy according to December list of members.

There is a cash balance of $710.80 on deposit at First National Bank, Seagraves, at close of business December 31, 1967. Farmers Home Administration has been paid $370.00 per month from sale of water to customer meters to make the annual note payment for drilling and equipping an adequate safe water system with 50,000 gallon storage tank with distribution lines and meters for 80 members.

Five new meters were added in 1967 and 2,000 feet of new 2" water line was installed. Accounts payable include December electric bill and labor to read and bill customers. Accounts receivable include December water used by members that will be collected in January 1968 in the amount of $700.

New Directors for 1968 and their office after the Board Meeting are: President - R. L. Hunt; Vice-President - J. C. Chaffin; Secretary-Treasurer - Bert Davis; Director - Homer Smith; and Director - C. E. Flemming.

Directors authorized payment of operating bills, pay FHA $370.00 per month, Surety bond for office of Secretary-Treasurer, extend or continue with Glenn Martin to read meters, bill customers for water used and supervise the water system to meet Texas Health Department report standards for safe system, that includes more adequate or efficient chlorinator to be installed at well site. The water bills of two members were adjusted. Members are requested to discuss their ideas with the Board of Directors. The Board will hold meetings as needed to conduct business as requested by the President, R. L. Hunt.

Present Directors will serve for one year or until next annual meeting in January 1969. Fire plugs are in place, and a Fire Truck has been obtained to keep at Loop. A Volunteer fire crew is being trained and efforts are being made to qualify for reduced fire insurance on property in the Loop area. The system used almost 8 million gallons of water in 1967. Meters will be read about the 20th of each month, and members are urged to pay their accounts by the 5th to the secretary. Monthly rates are set by the loan agency and can not be changed.

W. P. Stanley, 405 S. W. 14th Street, driver of this 1964 Pontiac, was injured when he ramed the rear of a parked trailer (truck) at Avenue E and 13th. Street S.W. at 7:25 Monday night. Damage was extensive to the front of the car. Mr. Stanley was sent to the hospital and released.

REPORT FROM THE FARMERS HOME ADMINISTRATION

Charles O. Reed, Jr. County Supervisor of Farmers Home Administration, reports $928,500. collections for the 1967 calendar year. These were loans made to farmers with sound plans and rural residents in Gaines County, Texas.

The Gaines County FHA Committee, Roy W. Wicker, Jr., chairman; Dwight Smith Loop, Texas, and Lee W. Bailey, Seminole, Texas, report that during the 1967 calendar year loans were approved for the following loan types; Emergency crop loans 62, equipment and operating type loans 24, Farm Ownership loans 10, Rural Housing loans 8, Soil and Water type loans 2, Economic Opportunity loans 3.

Project Report has been approved for Gaines County Rural Planning Commission for Comprehensive Plan for rural areas and towns of less than 5,500 population in the County.

Loop Water Supply System for domestic water, drill well, 50,000 gallon storage tank with 5 miles of distribution lines to serve 80 water meters in the Loop area was closed in November 1966. The sale of water to the members has paid FHA current on the 1967 installment.

As of December 31, 1967 all rural house loans made in Gaines County by Farmers Home Administration are current on annual payments.

POTATOES BOOSTING GAINES COUNTY ECONOMY

"It takes sixty-two people forty hours a week a piece to load, wash, grade, sack, and ship 5000 to 6000 sacks of potatoes a day," said Buck Neil, working the sales desk at Fred Barrett Potato Farm. "We are shipping potatoes as far away as New Orleans now. We have shipped as far away as Boston and Pittsburgh."

The Barrett Potato Farm is real pleased to report that in the Tabb Potato Service, an international crop and market reporting service for growers, shippers, re-packers, distributors and processors, from Chicago, Illinois, that West Texas potatoes are now listed at times along with Maine and Idaho and other areas. In this report it gives the high and the lows, the weather conditions, and strong and weak points in the market.

"We are real pleased to be listed - - for enlisting us in West Texas is an acknowledgment that we do have a market in the potato business." The Barrett Potato Farm ships potatoes to Affiliated Food Stores, Cashway, Shop Rite, Piggly Wiggly, Furr's, United, Gibsons, H. E. B., Wine Gardens, Safeway, Buddy's, and others."

"We work on a day to day market, as contracts have not proved too favorable. It seems with a contract that if prices go below the contract, it is hard to get shipping orders."

"Fred would probably tell you that we have 200,000 pounds of spuds on hand. I hope we have 300,000. Put it down 250,000. We grew about 400,000 pounds in this crop."

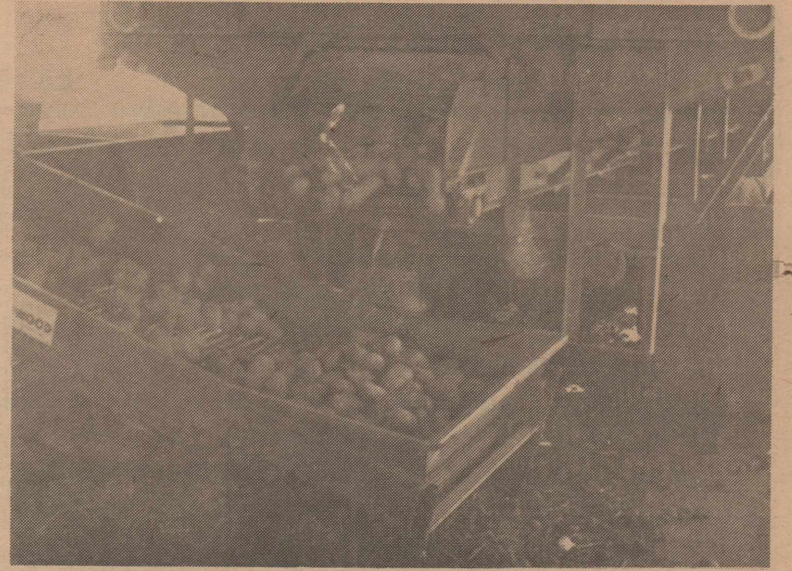

To grow this many potatoes, it took approximately 1500 acres and to mention a small amount of the equipment - nine planters, five combines, and seven diggers. There are 76 electric motors in this building alone. It takes literally thousands of tons of equipment to process thousands of tons of spuds.

"Yes, I keep a schedule of 50 to 60 trucks and buyers that haul potatoes from us. Our telephone bill runs about $700 per month. Some days we load as many as 25 trucks with an average of 425 one-hundred pound bags. On short days we load 12 to 15 trucks. We have four front-end loaders and lifts to help move the potatoes in and out of the trucks."

"There are several things that affect our market immediately. The government can put out a report that we are long or short in the potato storage or that a catastrophe happened in one area or another and a potato crop was lost. If Maine and Idaho have a short crop, it stands to reason that West Texas potatoes will bring a better price.

One of the big reasons that the Barrett Potato Farm has storage in Hobbs, New Mexico, and part of their operation over there is because when they ship some across the state line, they get into interstate commerce, and it makes their collections of bad accounts so easy. It was pointed out a company in San Antonio, Texas, one in Garland, Texas, one in Roscoe, Illinois, and another in El Paso, Texas, were ordered to pay accounts by the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act for failure of non-pay. "This is a big advantage," said Mr. Neil.

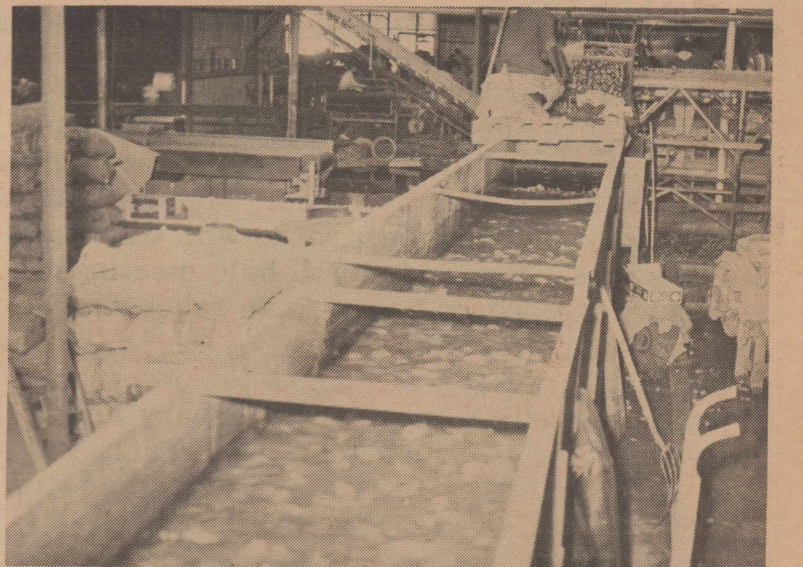

Seminole and Gaines County are indeed fortunate to have in the area operators of the status of the Fred Barrett operation.

New 4-H Council Officers

Johnny Clanton was elected Chairman of the District 11 4-H Council. The district is composed of twenty counties.

Representation from each of the twenty counties in the extension district consisted of two voting delegates from the 1967 district council and two incoming 1968 district council members.

The purpose of the council organization is to form a governing body for 4-H youth and give the 4-H'ers a chance to be heard as well as experience leadership while "Making the Best Better."

Following the election and installation of officers, standing committees and their chairmen were appointed and district responsibilities were divided among the twenty counties.

Johnny is the first person from Gaines County to serve as Chairman of this district. He will attend two state council meetings - one in Houston and one in Dallas. State 4-H officers will be elected at the Houston meet.

Attending from Gaines County were Ronnie Miller, Dana Wicker, Chris Wicker (out-going first vice-chairman), and Johnny Clanton. They were accompanied by Elinor Harvey and Pat Lopez.

As Richard Watts receives the appreciation plaque from Dwayne Herman, he in return wishes Dwayne well in accepting the presidency for the coming year of the Chamber.

"California Western Pumps"

Sequoil Tubeline

"with a 5 YEAR GUARANTEE"

makes WESTERN Pumps
last 3 times longer!

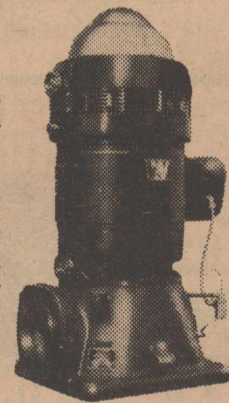

If you are in the market for a pump, be sure to get a California Western with genuine Sequoil Tubeline.

Look for the Sequoil name on every length of Tubeline! Don't be satisfied with imitations!

Pumps installed 40 years ago are still operating with original tube and shaft because Sequoil Tubeline reduces critical shaft wear.

Western's famous Tubeline was developed to reduce shaft wear which occurs when bronze bearings are used. Because Western has found the way of reducing shaft wear, Western can rightfully make the claim: "Sequoil Tubeline Makes Western Pumps Last Three Times Longer."

Be sure the Tubeline you get is genuine Sequoil Tubeline. See your California Western Pump Company Dealer Today.
