Rules Of Life Outlined

By Chaplain Willis L. Stowers

1. BE YOURSELF! Don't be an imitation-be the real thing. One of the greatest temptations in life is to be an imitation of somebody else. The trouble is that when we imitate others, we usually imitate their vices rather than their virtues-their failures rather than their successes. To imitate is to follow the lines of least resistance. Be yourself, think for yourself. It is the uniqueness of character that base as activities of the organizamakes people interesting. An old man spoke up and said, "Ain't that so? If it were not so, everybody would want my old lady Sal for a wife." A cynic piped up quickly, "Yes, ain't it so! If everybody thought as I think, nobody would want her." The fact of life is that God has made us all different, with different tastes, emotions, reactions, and senses of appreciation. Therefore, all of life continuously challenges you to BE YOURSELF.

2. DEPEND UPON YOURSELF! Let us start right. No one can do for you what you must and should do for yourself. We are the architects of our own destiny. We are the builders of our own monuments. As you grow in life you discover that the things of which you are proudest are the things you have done for yourself. There is gold at your door, but you must dig it out for yourself. Thomas Edison was asked "What is genius?" and he replied, "Ninety-eight per cent work and two per cent inspiration."

> "Hang on, cling on, no matter what they say; Push on, sing on, things will come your way!

"Sitting down and whining never helps a bit, Best way to get through is by keeping up your grit!

"Don't give up hoping when the ship goes down; Grab a spar or something. Just refuse to drawn!

"Don't thing you are dying just because you're hit; Smile in face of danger and hang on to your grit.

"The kind of man that's needed is the man of ready wit, Who laughs at pain and trouble and always keeps his grit."

3. DEVELOP YOUR BETTER SELF. There is a better self in each one of us. There is no one who is wholly bad, and only one Who was wholly good, and they nailed Him to a cross. Michael Angelo picked up an ugly discarded and seemingly useless piece of marble from the gutter one day. From it he made an Angel in Stone. There of health. is something good in each of us, there is a BETTER SELF in all of usgive it a chance!

The Armed Forces - despite the age-old maxim that a serviceman is on duty 24 hours a day—offers most of their men a substantial amount of free time.

And seldom does a week go by when a serviceman - especially an unmarried one — isn't faced with the problem of what to do with some of this time. You might find the solution to this problem by having a chat with your education officer.

The Armed Forces have not only given their men off-duty hours, they have also established several educational programs, not the least of which is the United States Armed Forces Institute (USAFI), that will put these hours to good use.

USAFI offers courses at all educational levels and in a wide variety of subjects.

Education means many things to many people. For some, it is a means to open doors of employment; others find it a way to satisfy a general curiosity about a particular subject; still others feel it makes them more interesting people.

Education also has a cash value. A recent survey conducted by the US Census Bureau showed that the average college graduate earned $2,100 more each year than a person with only a high school education.

Air Force Aid Actions

Nine types of cases in which the Air Force Aid Society will assist were stressed this week on the tion were surveyed for accomplishment.

First Lt. Bobby J. Hayes, Aid Society officer, pointed out that for more than 16 years the organization had collected and held money to assist Air Force personnel and their dependents in efforts "to better the morale and welfare of our people in time of unforeseen emergencies and personal problems." He cited, also, that the society was formed to assist in the form of non-interest bearing loans, cash grants, and counseling in connection with budgetary and financial matters. Types of cases normally assisted by the Air Force Aid Society, the lieutenant said, cover nine areas: non-receipt of pay, nonreceipt of family allowance, expenses incidental to emergency leaves, emergency medical care not covered by medicare, etc., payment of rent to prevent eviction or initial rent to obtain housing; purchase of emergency food supplies, assistance to dependents upon the death of Air Force personnel; assistance for funeral expenses, and emergency transportation of dependents for reason

Another principal work of the society, it was cited, is administration of the Hap Arnold Education fund which gives assistance to dependents in securing an education. Eligibles are sons and daughters of Air Force personnel, on active duty, deceased, or retired, and members of the Air National Guard and Air Reserves.

SIGNS CHANGED

Stop signs at the intersection of farm roads 1073 and 2255 have been reversed a mile east of Reese, it was pointed out this week. Cars moving on 1073 must stop for cars on 2255 going east and west. Thus, traffic on Fourth street has the right-of-way. Care at the intersection has been urged.

Everyone Adds To Mission

It is important that everyone realize his place in the overall Air Force Mission. This realization is essential to high morale, economy, and efficiency. It is evident that a highly motivated person will do his job better — and be happy at it.

Obviously Reese is doing an important job in training officer pilots. But every individual at Reese also is making an important contribution to our mission. Take for example the line taxi driver. He contributes to flying safety by helping to avoid pilot fatigue and by removing human irritant that might affect the individual pilot's performance of his mission. The irritant: a long walk with a 40-pound parachute.

"There are 5 in our family," says Mrs. Henry, "and they come and go, so you can see that our frozen foods are necessary to make quick meals. We bought our freezer to save work and to save money. We've had it now for over a year and a half. The freezer has our blessing on both counts - it does save work and it does save money. It's wonderful for making use of extra food. That's why I'll cook more than we'll eat at one sitting - I freeze the 'extra' food for later use - you can freeze it and know that the original tasty flavor will remain."
