tional background.

Each eligible officer will be interviewed and encouraged to enroll in AFIT, as a move is made to increase interest in scientific and other programs and to secure trained officer specialists to contribute to important programs.

Vacancies exist in these AFIT programs, with early enrollment possible for eligibles: aeronautical engineer, air weapons, graduate; electrical engineering, undergraduate and graduate; mechanical engineering, graduate; geodetic sciences, graduate; advanced logistics; astronautical and space vehicle programs; project management (training-with-industry); and meteorology, undergraduate.

In general, each of the programs is designed to provide officers with the academic background for subsequent professional development in the related career field, J. F. Reeves, educational specialist, commented. The academic pre-requisites for undergraduate engineering programs include completion of 30 semester or 45 quarter hours of college credits with mathematics through calculus. For undergraduate meteorology, mathematics through plane trigonometry is required as part of the 30 semester or 45 quarter hours. For graduate programs, the academic prerequisites are primarily a bachelor's degree with a major in an appropriate field, Reeves said.

Fire Hazards On Increase

It is not necessary to be an expert inspector with many years of experience in the field of fire prevention to know how to recognize the common fire hazards usually found in the average American home.

Let us consider these hazards in the order in which they rank as contributors of fire.

Failure to properly dispose of used matches, and careless smoking habits, are responsible for more than one-third of all our fires in America.

The match is perhaps the most valuable and the most dangerous article made by man. Some matches are designated as "safe," but no match can be considered safe from the standpoint of fire hazards. There is the chance that it may still be burning after it is discarded, or the head may fly off when struck and land, unseen, in curtains or some other easily ignited materials.

Every match must be treated as a possible source of fire damage. The match has the power to destroy your home, your loved ones, and even your own life.

Someone has said that "Matches have heads, but no brains to think with." Users of matches have to do the thinking.

Always strike a match away from the body on the side of the box provided for that purpose. Should the head fly off, it would not hit your skin or land on your clothing, or some nearby burnable substance. After you finish with the match, break it between your fingers as a double assurance it is no longer burning.

Matches should be safely stored in a metal or earthenware container and away from all sources of heat.

Mice and rats do not nibble on the match head. In building their nests, these rodents may pick up a live match with their mouths, usually with the head toward a wall or some rough object near which they may be moving. If the match ignites, it may be dropped on some combustible substance, causing a fire. The nests are often built near chimneys, hot water closets, central heating units, etc, for warmth. These areas should be occasionally checked for the removal of nests that may be found.

Above all else, keep matches away from small children. Many of these little tots have been seriously and fatally injured because of their curiosity with matches. All children should be taught the dangers of playing with matches and fire.

Careless smoking habits are ranked as the No. 1 fire hazard in the nation, in homes, factories, military installations, etc., causing about one-third of all fires. This is extremely dangerous because one billion factory-made cigarettes are lighted daily by the American Smoking Public. This does not include hand-rolled cigarettes, cigars, and pipe smoking. Virtually, every one of those smokes is an incendiary agent, and all careless smokers are unintentional arsonists.

Fires from the burning embers of carelessly discarded cigars, cigarettes, or pipe ashes are not accidental fires. The thoughtless smoker must take the entire blame. It was a careless smoker, not an accident that caused the holocaust in Texas City which cost 468 lives and 67 million dollars. Twenty seven firemen of the local fire department were killed in this disaster, and several hundred citizens seriously injured.

Careless smokers and thoughtless campers, not accidents, are responsible for the destruction of our vitally needed forests. It is not an accident, when unsmuffed smoking materials are thrown out of office and hotel windows or from motor vehicles and a fire is started.

Is it an accident when a person lies in bed with a lighted cigarette? This smoker usually promises himself that only "One last puff is needed before bedtime," and often it is his last puff.

What should we do about this? Never smoke in bed, in gasoline stations, near aircraft, hangers, hospital operating rooms, or in any area where smoking is prohibited or there is the possibility that a fire may start because of your careless habits.

Have plenty of ashtrays in all locations in the home where there may be smoking. Insist that everyone snuffs out the embers of all his smokes. Never drop a lighted cigar, cigarette, or pipe ashes into the waste basket. Inspect every room in your home on going to bed or leaving the house and be sure that all live embers are extinguished.

Remember! Your life and possessions depend on your alertness. Those valuable and sentimental items cannot be replaced—pictures of children, family and loved ones, heirlooms, valuable papers, documents and money.

Always remember: THE END OF YOUR SMOKE CAN BEGIN A FIRE and A MATCH MAY BE DOWN BUT NOT OUT.

REENLISTMENT FOR BASE OF CHOICE RULES EASED. An airman re-enlisting upon expiration of term of service is no longer required to possess a Foreign Service Selection Date within 24 months prior to his date of separation. Airmen will not be denied the opportunity of re-enlisting for base of choice because of Foreign Service Selection Date. However, if dislocation allowance has been received during the current fiscal year, airman is not eligible for base of choice.

RESTRICTIONS FOR VOLUNTARY RETIREMENTS. Commitments of the Air Force dictate that officer and airman assignments be stabilized to the maximum extent possible worldwide. As a part of the program to obtain this stability and to economize on PCS movements, applications for voluntary retirement must be restricted under certain conditions. Accordingly, applications for voluntary retirement normally will not be approved by the Secretary of the Air Force until:

a. Commissioned Officers: (1)

Complete one year active duty subsequent to completion of Z-I PCS, or; (2) Complete one year active duty overseas, or the prescribed overseas tour when dependents join him overseas.

b. Warrant Officers: (1) Complete one year active duty overseas or the prescribed tour when dependents join him overseas.

c. Airmen: Applications for voluntary retirement from airman will be approved by headquarters, USAF. However, airman will be recalled to duty in the grade in which retired when he: (1) Has not completed one year overseas duty or the prescribed tour when dependents have joined him overseas; (2) Has held grade E-5 or higher for a period of less than six months since effective date of promotion to such grade; (3) Is promoted to grade E-5 or higher during processing of retirement application.

—COMMANDER

Clayton A. Scott, wing executive officer, to all unit commanders laid additional emphasis on leaves.

It said persons going on holiday leave will not depart prior to 6 a.m. Saturday if they plan to drive. Persons going by common carrier may leave any time after 5 p.m. today.

Safety was discussed at Commanders Call of all units. Letters are going from each squadron to parents, wives, or girl friends of personnel going on leave, asking cooperation in bringing safe driving for safe return.

In M&S group, everyone going on leave has been counseled to be alert to avoid accidents. Personnel driving on highways were required to have their vehicles inspected prior to departure.

Hospital people going on leave also received the same counseling and action, while each leave was stamped in red "Drive to arrive alive."

Installations group personnel traveling considerable distance on leave were supplied with tour information, as well as counselling and advice.

The auto inspection line maintained by the motor pool and hobby shop was a major contribution to safety efforts. About 125 cars were inspected prior to take-off on long holiday trips, and upward of 20 percent were found to have defects which needed correction before leaving, Maj. Erceal Doty, Transportation squadron commander, said.

In the Air Base group, also, each military person taking Christmas leave received personal briefing on safety from Lt. Col. Homer L. Parsons, squadron commander.

Pilot Training group personnel were restricted in their departure time so as to avoid heaviest traffic. Each was briefed on safety thinking and each received letters urging caution.

PTW headquarters squadron personnel were counseled to drive defensively and their parents were urged by letter to cooperate in seeing such action was taken. Special instructions were given everyone going on leave as to proper procedures in emergencies. Posters also stressed safety.

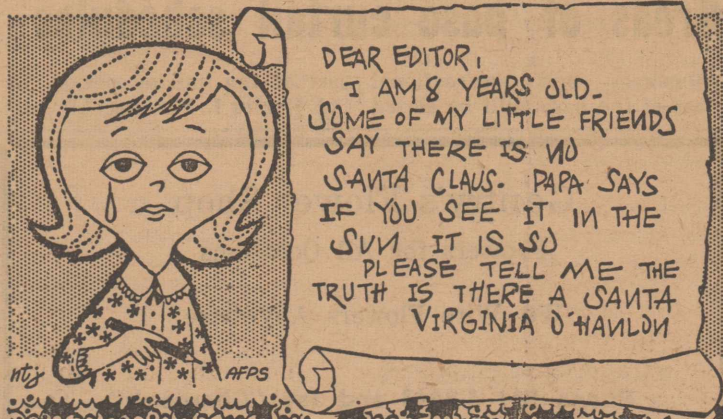

"Our holiday safety record in the past has been good; we just hope we can have another Christmas-New Year period without accident," Joe Lopez, ground safety director, declared.

Space decorations in the space age are being featured in the library as "something new and different." Helen K. Fuller, librarian, said.

"We invite all personnel to come in to see them," she said. "While visiting at T-421, pick up a set of our Christmas book marks. We are featuring Suggested Book Lists for Dad, Mom, and the youngsters."

Assistance in selecting the proper Christmas gift also is offered at the library.

DEAR EDITOR:
I AM 8 YEARS OLD.
SOME OF MY LITTLE FRIENDS
SAY THERE IS NO
SANTA CLAUS. PAPA SAYS
IF YOU SEE IT IN THE
SUN IT IS SO
PLEASE TELL ME THE
TRUTH IS THERE A SANTA
VIRGINIA O'HANLON

(In September 1897, a little girl named Virginia O'Hanlon wrote a letter to the editor of the New York Sun, asking: "Is there a Santa Claus?" In reply Francis P. Church wrote an editorial article that pleased so many readers that the Sun printed it every year at Christmas.)

VIRGINIA, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

Re: Ad in "The Roundup" for Friday, November 28, 1958.

Dear Mr. Stewart:

It has come to the attention of the Better Business Bureau that some of the statements contained in your ad in "The Roundup" for Friday, November 28, 1958, deserve clarification and interpretation. In particular, that part of the copy which reads "... can offer you NEW CARS of ANY MAKE or MODEL with the same warranties, service policy, privileges, etc., as from any authorized dealer." We have been informed that certain warranties and service policies are not honored by authorized dealers unless the warranties and service policies have been issued by an authorized dealer. We will appreciate having a statement from you on this matter as soon as possible.

Re: Ad in "The Roundup" for Friday, November 28, '58

Dear Mr. Watson:

In regard to your letter of December 2, 1958, requesting a statement on "warranties, service policies, privileges, etc." I can only repeat "... can offer you cars of ANY MAKE or MODEL with the same warranties, service policies, privileges, etc."

These benefits are given because anyone purchasing new cars from me will be purchasing indirectly through an authorized dealer.

Apparently your "informer's" have misinterpreted the true meaning of the term "broker." The distinctive character of a broker is that he acts as an agent for another. In the merchandising field, brokers can handle a wide variety of commodities ranging from citrus fruit to scrap iron.

If there is further question in regard to this matter, do not hesitate to reply; otherwise, please rectify this at once.

Bill Stewart
