Scholarship Competition Date Nearing

Reese dependent children desiring to compete in the Air Force Merit Scholarship Program were advised this week to not delay in applying for the March 6 test which will be given in Lubbock and Monterey High School in Lubbock.

Dependents who plan to complete their high school work in 1963, either in January or June, and to enter college in 1963 are eligible to take the test. Students competing in March will be eligible for Merit Scholarships available for the school year starting in September, 1963.

A student cannot compete for a scholarship without a National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test and it is essential that all interested students take the test.

Test scores also are necessary to qualify for the Air Force Educational Assistance Loans. All high school juniors or first semester seniors who will be eligible to apply for loans or who may later apply for loans are encouraged to take the March 6 test.

The test lasts three hours and begins at 8:30 a.m.

Registration fee of $1 should be paid to a school counselor soon in order to obtain a booklet explaining the nature of the test and samples of the examination.

The Lubbock High counselor is Mrs. Ethel K. Short, while the Monterey High counselor is Mrs. Doris Webb.

Scouts Advanced At Honor Court

Fourteen members of Boy Scout Troop 548 were advanced in rank or received merit badges Monday night at a formal Court of Honor marking the 52nd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Receiving Tenderfoot rank were Clarence Hughes, William J. Setnor, Hank J. Brewer, Joseph Correia, Stephen R. Patterson and Brent T. Lawson.

Steve McGrady received his second class badge, Ray Barber advanced to first class and Charles Hill was awarded his Life Scout badge.

Merit badges were earned by Charles Hill, Robert Batey, Ray Barber, Barry Patterson, David Tate, Terry King and Bobby Yordani.

Following the ceremonies, Maj. Alton Skinner showed slides of many places near where he has been stationed. Williams Lake, San Juan National Forest, Colorado was of special interest since the boys are planning a summer encampment there.

The troop will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday to prepare equipment for an overnight hike on Feb. 23.

Air Force Highlights

WEBB GETS T-38

WEBB AFB — Training in the T-38 Talon supersonic jet has started and the phaseout of T-33's is underway. Class 63-A is the first class to train in T-38's. Webb has 28 Talons and more are coming.

FACILITY ADDED

MOODY AFB — Formal opening of the new parachute facility at Moody gives the base one of the most modern parachute shops in the Air Force.

UNION REPORTS

WEBB AFB — The annual report of the Webb credit union showed another year of progress. The facility recorded $2,409,321 in loans to 5,246 borrowers in 1961.

ESCAPED—Major Russell Hainline, test pilot, cuts his way through a T-33 canopy to escape from a "burning" aircraft on which mechanical equipment failed. He demonstrated a new escape technique.

New Technique To Preserve Life Of Pilot Demonstrated

A new technique aimed at saving lives of pilots was demonstrated to Reese personnel Wednesday. And it took the pilot less than 20 seconds to escape from a simulated burning T-33 when all mechanical means of raising the canopy failed.

Instructor pilots and students were clustered around as Maj. Russell Hainline, maintenance officer and test pilot, closed the canopy of a T-Bird on the ramp and simulated crash conditions.

Then he took a specially constructed short knife and whacked his way through the plexiglass and other materials to freedom.

Major Richard B. Condrick, Reese flying safety director, pointed out to the assembled crowd that aircraft could be forced to land at times under conditions and in places which may cause mechanical devices, including those to open the canopy for pilot escape, to become inoperative.

The new knife device was originated last summer in the Air Defense Command and is being adopted at Reese AFB for use in all aircraft. It consists of a specially built short-blade knife, made of extra hard steel.

Each aircraft will be equipped with the knife, attached to the plane in easy reach of the pilot. Tests have shown that the pilot within seconds is able to hack and cut an opening in the canopy large enough to escape.

At Reese Wednesday, Major Hainline showed how quickly he could hack a hole and escape. One watch timed him at 17 seconds, another at 18 seconds, a third at 19 seconds. The canopy used was an inoperative one of no value to the Air Force.

"Reese is the first base in Air Training Command to produce its own escape knife," said Major Condrick. "We feel this instrument provides another means of saving lives of our flyers. After all, you can replace an aircraft, but you cannot replace a life."

Plans call for placing two escape knives in each T-33 aircraft and one in each T-37 jet trainer on the base.

Officers Elected By Little League

The 1962 Reese Little League activity is underway with Maj. Joseph B. Burdick elected president, succeeding Maj. John L. Johnson, who will be unable to continue this summer in the post.

Named vice president at the meeting last Friday were TSgt. William A. McElroy, while Capt. James R. Tanner is secretary-treasurer. SSgt. Victor Zarembo and Capt. Howard D. Roberts are player agents for this year.

Major Johnson officiated at the election and expressed confidence in the new board to carry out a good program for this summer.

Major Burdick outlined his general plans for the season and stressed the immediate requirements for coaches and officials. He indicated that with hard work and cooperation of everyone the approaching season will be another major success.

Freedom is our heritage. To help preserve and strengthen that freedom is the duty of every American today.

CAPTAINS SELECTED

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — A promotion board that met here in mid-December has selected 1,727 of the 1,894 active duty Reserve and Air National Guard first lieutenants considered for permanent reserve promotion to captain. Only 256 of those selected will change insignia. For others it takes a temporary promotion to move up.

RANGE INCREASED

CHANUTE AFB — The 'hound dog' (GAM 77) missile training conducted at Chanute considerably increases the range of SAC B-52 bombers and enhances their mission of deterring aggression against the free world.

Reese Cub Scouts

Enter Scout-O-Rama

Reese Cub Scout Pack 548 is entered in the Scout-O-Rama, a Boy Scouts of America, South Plains Council panorama of scouting activities to be held in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum on Saturday, March 10.

The pack is conducting a ticket sales campaign and the Pack Committee composed of officers and airmen is urging all personnel to do their part in supporting scouting, and Pack 548 in particular, by purchasing the 50 cent tickets when asked.

Units Of Base Record Strong Safety Marks

Outstanding safety records have been set by Reese units, Joe Lopez, ground safety director, reported this week.

He said that there have been no chargeable disabling accidents for 18 months in the 3500th Pilot Training Squadron and for 13 months in the 3501st PTS. The Hospital has had no chargeable accidents in eight months, the Civil Engineering Group in four months and the Maintenance and Supply Group in three months.

"That is a real good record and one which we hope will be extended to add many more months for each unit," Lopez commented.

He pointed out that off-duty accidents continue to be the major cause of bringing temporary disability to Reese people and that progress is being made in this field.

Throughout the Air Force this year emphasis is on on-duty safety and "Reese is going all out to do its part in the program."

Major attention is being given to review of government vehicle accidents and to the physical training program. Success of the program, Lopez said, rests with the supervisor.

Attention in physical training is being given to supervisors of conditioning programs and to officials of intramural contests. Conditioning of athletes is being stressed and officials are being counseled to see that members of intramural teams are not permitted to play if not "in shape" and that rules to protect competitors from injury are enforced.

TV Show Highlights

Thunderbirds Work

The USAF Thunderbirds and the "William Tell" meet at Tyn-dall AFB will be featured in "Air Show" on the Sunday Sports Spectacular from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Sunday on KDUB-TV, Lubbock.

Jack Whitaker will describe the Thunderbirds' specialties at Tyn-dall and the sky maneuvers by civilian aces at the National Air Show, Crawfordsville, Ind. The program is to spotlight "William Tell," underscoring the serious and intense competition.

Extensions

Termination

Seen By June

(AFNS) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told a Pentagon news conference that he hopes to eliminate involuntary tour extensions for all the Armed Services by June 30.

"This would not indicate in any way a lessening of tension but rather our ability with present planning to have obtained the necessary skills represented by those men through other means," McNamara explained.

The Defense Secretary elaborated that such release actions will be taken primarily to equate the load of sacrifice of one man with that of others.

Asked if reserve forces called to active duty could shoot for a specific target date to return home, McNamara said: "No, I cannot, (say) and I am sorry I can't, because I know that their individual lives were upset by the call and that they would be aided by information as to when they might return to civil life."

He pointed out that the call-up of Reserve Forces last year has done much to show America's firmness of will and strength of purpose.

"Surely, at this time, in a period of tension and crisis, we cannot give any specific date as to when these men who were called for that purpose would be returned to civil life," McNamara concluded.

Educational Enrollments High Among Base Officers, Airmen

Reese personnel are following the recommendation of Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force Chief of staff, to further their education to better serve the nation, records of the base education office disclose.

Officers and airmen — 85 of them — are enrolled in college courses this semester, taking 103 courses. Enrollments are in Texas Tech and South Plains Junior College at Levelland, in the main. Officers are taking 35 courses, airmen 68.

Studies this semester vary from technical courses such as welding to graduate studies.

J. F. Reeves, base education officer, said he had supervised administration of 83 USAFI tests this year. Enrolled in night on-base group study classes are 110 Reese persons, while 86 others have enrolled this year in Extension Course Institute courses.

Announcement of the base education figures following urging by Col. L. C. Hess, wing commander here, and higher headquarters officials that officers seek to extend their formal education.

"Each officer, regardless of his present educational level, is encouraged to avail himself of every opportunity to further his knowledge and improve his potential as a member of the Air Force team," Col. Hess said.

General LeMay pointed out that technological and scientific advances in years ahead require that each officer take positive action to insure his ability to increase responsibility and authority.

The Air Training Command commander, Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, cited that education has become a larger factor in promotion consideration.

"In the temporary promotion program to major — FY '62 — 190 captains were selected from the secondary zone for promotion," he said. "Of this selectees, 75 have an advanced college degree, 112 have a college degree, and 3 have some college. None were selected from among those officers who have no college."

He urged wider use of AFIT and Operation Bootstrap.

Everyone Invited

All Reese people and their friends have been invited to attend the annual PTA Spring Festival at the Reese Elementary School from 4 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Dinner will be served by the PTA Council from 4 to 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria with all families invited. Adults will pay 60 cents, children 40 cents for the meal.

A variety of entertainment for the family has been planned, with children and adults participating.

Games of all kinds will be played in the classrooms and elsewhere. A Country Store will be operated by some of the children and grab bags, with prizes donated by Lubbock merchants, are being set up. A fortune teller also will be on hand and various dances will be offered.

A highlight will be a talent show at 8 p.m. in which numerous boys and girls will present skits and musical and comedy acts.

The festival is held each year to assist the PTA in financing projects of benefit to the school. Proceeds in the past have gone for expansion of the library, improvement of the school grounds and for other worthwhile projects.

Prayer's Answer

Sometimes Delayed In God's Testing

By Chaplain Leo E. Pesek

In our prayers we should not only ask God for favors, but also to praise and to thank Him and to make reparation for sin. When we ask God for a favor this is known as the prayer of petition.

Sometimes God does not grant us a favor the first time that we ask; He wishes us to continue to implore His mercy. Moreover, we cannot expect Him to grant us a temporal favor if He foresees that it will be harmful to our soul, any more than we can expect a mother to give her child a knife, for which he is crying, since she knows he would hurt himself.

Through prayer we receive many spiritual blessings for ourselves and our loved ones.

The dividends of freedom will determine the dimensions of our American destiny—J. L. Morrill.

From The

COMMANDER'S DESK

By Col. L. C. Hess, Wing Commander

From time to time every Air Force person in a leadership or supervisory position should evaluate himself and his leadership qualities. It is imperative that each Reese supervisor perform his assigned tasks in a manner that will continue to bring benefits to this base, to Air Training Command and the Air Force as a whole.

Each supervisor must know his job so he will have the respect of those with whom he works; he must show confidence and have a sense of humor which will help him through difficult periods.

The good supervisor is patient and understanding, can express himself properly and well, must be fair and decisive, and he must be honest and sincere. He must have tact, be dependable, have imagination and be friendly without fraternizing.

The role of leadership has many responsibilities, it has many, many facets. Mastery of the many elements brings success which has permitted Reese to establish many "firsts" and to win much recognition.

I urge every leader and potential leader to learn and develop the talents needed.

The Bench and Gavel

(From Office of Staff Judge Advocate)

Of the many persons suffering injury while in the armed services, several find that their injuries are deemed to be "not in line of duty . . ." This means that such person, no matter how seriously or permanently damaged will: (1) not be eligible for physical disability retirement; (2) have to make up all bad time lost due to hospitalization or incapacity to be on the job; (3) have to forfeit all pay during absence from duty due to disease for intemperate use of alcohol or drugs; (4) not receive the usual civil service preference given disabled persons; and (5) may well lose Veterans Administration hospitalization benefits.

Of course, having one injury or disease determined to be "not" in line of duty . . . does not affect rights respecting other injuries or diseases occurring before or after.

Injuries or diseases may be found out of line of duty if they existed prior to entering service, or were incurred while in a desertion or AWOL status. Further if the hurt is due to one of the following it will not be in line of duty: (1) Intemperate use of drugs and alcoholic beverages. (2) Gross negligence of the injured party. (3) Aggression or unwarranted participation in affrays. (4) Attempted suicide. (5) Participation in some hazardous recreational activities.

One of the most frequent reasons for service personnel suffering injuries out of line of duty is driving while intoxicated. If DWI is the proximate cause of your accident and consequent injuries, look not to the Air Force for help for you have thoughtlessly brought it upon yourself.

'Little Pentagon' Planned For Construction At Bolling

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — A futuristic look for the USAF headquarters area here boils down to Defense Department plans for greater use of Bolling AFB, D. C., just across the Potomac river from the Pentagon and the National Airport.

Defense Department officials already have drawn plans to construct a so-called "Little Pentagon" office building at Bolling to eliminate the sprawl into various World War I and WW II temporary buildings the government wants to close down.

They have also tabbed the Bolling AFB — Anacostia Naval Station area as one of two consolidated barrack areas for bachelor airman personnel assigned to USAF headquarters.

Although flying activities will be removed completely from Bolling to nearby Andrews AFB, Md., by autumn, on-post family quarters for the Air Force will remain at Bolling.

Current plans call for a new Bolling office building to accommodate 10,000 persons. Actually, Defense Department planners would like to double this figure, but the concentration of 20,000 into the area could bring traffic nightmares to car-clogged Washington whose main traffic arteries already are streets of bad dreams.

Those who have survived "rush hour" at the Pentagon, remember that the Pentagon provides office space for more than 30,000 persons.

Thus, Defense Department plans are subject to change and planners are now coordinating carefully with the National Capital Planning Commission and the General Services Administration.

As it now stands, the projected office building at Bolling would help the Defense Department combat the Pentagon overflow into some 35 to 40 temporary office buildings in the Washington metropolitan area, which includes southern Maryland and northern Virginia.

lain (Lt. Col.) James D. Taylor. The Protestant Preaching Mission will be March 4 to 8.

last weekend at Perrin AFB, as Webb walked away with the title and Lackland finished second.

The Students started out strong in the tourney which until the final encounter failed to give an inkling of the champion.

Reese won over Lackland—the eventual champion—by a fairly easy score of 47 to 39. Big Jim Ulm, former stalwart of the Air Force Academy team, poured in 20 points to lead the victors.

Perrin upset Laredo, 73-64, and Laredo was an easy victim for Lackland in the losers' bracket, 68-44.

Perrin triumphed over Stead, 61-45.

Webb upset Reese, 46-37, to send the Students into the losers' bracket, as Ulm contributed three baskets and six free throws for 12 points.

Lackland then slipped past Perrin, 47-28.

Then in a heart-breaker for the Students, Lackland upset Reese by a single point, 53-52. Ulm, wearing No. 23 on his jersey, scored 23 points in the nip-and-tuck battle which had the fans on their feet most of the way.

In the final game, Webb was not too much extended in whipping Lackland, 53-44, for the crown.

In 1947 the Army and Air Force Exchange Service was established as a joint operation.

Marriage Sermon Scheduled Sunday

Chaplain Jerry L. Rice will preach a special sermon on marriage Sunday at the 11 a.m. Protestant service in the Base Chapel.

The main theme is to show marriage as a sacramental ceremony in that it is not just a legal process whereby two persons unite. The choir will sing special music.

The sermon grew out of Chaplain Rice's experience at the Air Force Seminar of Human Factors, Hogg Foundation, University of Texas. The chaplain will explore the words of the marriage ceremony in order that those who attend the service can be refreshed with the vows they took at the time of their marriage.
