Two enlisted men, one now retired, received Silver Star Medals in ceremonies Tuesday at wing headquarters.

The coveted third highest combat decorations went to SSgt. James A. Bowers, Detachment 13, Western Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center (MAC); and to W. B. Riley, SSgt., USAF Retired. The medals were presented by Maj. Gen. Leo F. Dusard Jr., vice commander, Air Training Command.

For Sergeant Bowers, it was his second Silver Star. He only recently received his second Distinguished Flying Cross. (See story this page.)

Both men served as flight engineers in Vietnam.

Mr. Riley's citation stated that on July 6, 1967 "while performing duties at the spray console of an aircraft performing defoliation operations in a valley near Tuy Hoa, RVN," he ignored the protection of his console armor to give information to the pilot of the aircraft.

Sergeant Bowers' citation read that on May 21, 1968, while a flight engineer of an HH-3E helicopter he effected the rescue of a forward air controller whose aircraft had been shot down by hostile anti-aircraft fire by exposing himself to hostile fire to operate the hoist and recover the pilot.

Suds Available For Sale Soon At Mathis Club

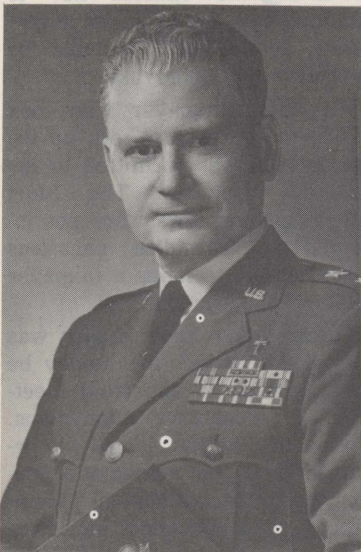

Beginning March 1, beer of a low alcoholic content will be sold in the Mathis Service Club through a dispensing machine.

Maj. Charles C. Gaylord, Personnel Services officer, said regulations provided for the sale of beer in service clubs in the absence of an airmen's club, but that such sale is regulated by Air Training Command.

Because of this, the alcoholic content of the beer must not exceed 3.2 per cent in alcoholic content. Furthermore, the regulations require that this beer not be sold to minors. In effect, it limits the sale to military personnel 17 years of age or older and to dependents and guests 21 years of age or older.

In order to safeguard this part of regulation, a person purchasing beer at the service club must first contact the service club attendant who will accompany the purchaser to the dispensing machine and witness his purchase. Beer will be confined to designated areas within the service club and under no circumstances will beer leave the service club.

Current plans call for the machine to offer four brands of beer with the anticipated price being 25 cents per can. In addition, plans call for a pinball machine and perhaps other entertainment devices in the areas reserved for beer drinking. Fifty per cent of the proceeds from these machines will go to central base fund along with the profits from the sale of beer.

PAST CHIEF—Former chief of chaplains, Robert F. Taylor, Maj. Gen. USAF Retired, will be at Reese AFB tomorrow as principal speaker for the Student Dining-In at the Officers Open Mess. He is currently director of institutional resources at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex. Mr. Taylor is a survivor of the Bataan Death March and holds the Silver Star and Bronze Star Medals.

AFA Initiates Annual Drive For Members

The kick-off of the annual membership drive of the Lubbock chapter of the Air Force Association (AFA) was announced by Tom Ireland, chapter president and chief of civilian personnel, here Monday.

According to Mr. Ireland, emphasis this year will be on encouraging Air Force civilian personnel to join and support the organization.

An independent, non-profit, organization, the AFA was organized to assist in obtaining and maintaining adequate aerospace power for national security and world peace. According to Gen. John P. McConnell, chief of staff, "The efforts of the association in behalf of Air Force people and their families, particularly in the areas of pay, promotion, medical care, housing, retirement and survivor benefits, etc., are outstanding."

Composed of 98,000 members, the association is currently supporting legislation to add sick leave credit to service at the time of retirement before computing annuity, upward adjustment of per diem rates and full support for the comparability principle in civilian pay.

"For the $7 annual dues, members are kept up to date on Air Force technology by the Aero/Space Digest, invitations to quarterly programs of the chapter, and reduced premium rates for hospitalization and life insurance," Mr. Ireland reports.

The Lubbock chapter has 199 members, including military and civilian personnel, retired Air Force personnel, reservists and many Lubbock civic leaders.

SECOND DFC—Col. Allen R. Vetti, Inspector General's Office, Scott AFB, Ill. (right) congratulates SSgt. James A. Bowers, flight engineer for Detachment 13, Western Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center (MAC) after presenting the sergeant his second Distinguished Flying Cross. Another recipient, Sgt. Joseph L. Coburn, was also presented a DFC by Colonel Vetti during the same ceremony. See story below. (USAF PHOTO)

Two Rescue Crew Members Receive DFCs In Ceremony

A pair of enlisted helicopter flight engineers at Reese AFB have received Distinguished Flying Crosses for heroism while serving in a similar capacity in Southeast Asia last year.

For one of them, SSgt. James A. Bowers, it was the second such DFC of his Air Force career, and furthermore he has two coveted Silver Star Medals. (See story, Col. 1). The other DFC was presented to Sgt. Joseph L. Coburn. Both are members of Detachment 13, Western Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center (MAC).

The citation accompanying Sergeant Bowers' second DFC tells of his part in the rescue of a downed pilot on June 9, 1968, while Sergeant Bowers was a flight engineer aboard an HH-3E helicopter. "With complete disregard for his own personal safety, Sergeant Bowers exposed himself to the hostile ground fire as he stood in the open helicopter doorway and effected the rescue of the downed pilot," the citation read.

Sergeant Coburn's citation told a similar story — of his role in the rescue of a downed pilot on April 26, 1968, while a crew member of a CH-3 helicopter. The citation read, "Despite withering ground fire from close in at all quadrants, Sergeant Coburn hoisted the pilot to the helicopter and pulled him to safety."

Sergeant Bowers logged 232 sorties on 123 combat missions and is credited with 17 combat saves and seven non-combat saves. In addition to the Silver Star Medals and two DFCs, he has been awarded Air Medals (11 Oak Leaf Clusters). He was assigned to Reese Nov. 4, 1968.

Sergeant Coburn was assigned to Reese Nov. 1, 1968. While assigned to Southeast Asia, he flew 316 sorties on 152 combat missions and is credited with two combat saves on rescue missions and numerous saves through emergency evacuation of personnel under combat conditions.

NCOA Chapter Board Names Committeemen

The newly elected five-man board of trustees of the Kuykendall (Reese) Chapter of the Non-commissioned Officers Association of America held its second meeting in as many weeks and the first official meeting since its election Feb. 10.

With its chairman, MSgt. Jim Ishee presiding over the luncheon meeting Monday at the NCO Open Mess, the vitally important job of secretary was filled with the acceptance of the job by Bob Pendleton, MSgt. USAF Retired, who had already been appointed as treasurer of the 250-man organization.

Also filled was all chairmanships of existing committees. Sergeant Ishee was appointed to head the program committee, Sergeant Pendleton to the awards committee, and Jim Comeaux, MSgt. USA Retired, to head the publicity committee.

Named to head the important and prestigious membership committee was TSgt. L. Birkla. Sergeant Birkla immediately appointed the other four board members to his committee and will work with them on the job of enlarging the organization.

New Time Set

Another key change came out of the meeting. That was the time of the monthly meetings. In the future, beginning with the March 3 meeting, the NCOA will meet at 5 p.m. each second Monday of the month. It was reasoned that this allowed members 15 minutes after getting off work to make the meetings which will be drastically altered in the future.

Chairman Ishee said it was the consensus of the board that too much time was being spent on items that could be worked out in executive session, and which were not a subject for the general meeting. In the future, Sergeant Ishee explained, these will be worked out with a committee before the meetings begin. In general, the business portion of the meeting will be limited to 30 minutes — from 5 to 5:30 p.m., and then at 5:30 p.m. turned over to the program committee chairman for the remaining 30 minutes. The program will — except in rare cases — end at 6 p.m., which will be adjournment time.

Award Of Merit Is Presented Zero Defects Program Head

The manager of Reese AFB's Zero Defects Program, Maj. Kenneth E. Pearson, check flight section leader, was awarded a pen desk set and certificate for his "outstanding contributions to the Reese Zero Defects Program." The presentation was made by Col. William W. Hosler Jr., deputy commander for Materiel, at a meeting of the Reese Zero Defects Council.

Major Pearson was largely responsible for display posters which were later selected for showing at the Pentagon before such people as the Secretary of the Air Force and Air Force chief of staff.

In other business conducted during the meeting, Major Pearson distributed and discussed an outline for the calendar year 1969 Zero Defects Program at Reese. The major also told the eight other members present that the 1968 annual progress report had been submitted to Air Training Command and that it showed good progress in the Reese program.

It was also revealed that Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, had asked Major Pearson to remain on as manager of the Reese program for another year.

Major Pearson asked the members of the council to submit one objective each month within his own area of responsibility, breaking each down into problem, solution and result. He also asked that they come up with at least one cost reduction item for that purpose.

Other matters discussed were posters, display board requirements, monthly reports, organizational charts and awards.

Wear Your AF Uniform With Pride

By SSgt. John F. Feltenberger
Security Police

People, whoever and where ever they may be, tend to let their first impressions, whether good or bad, guide their actions. Generally speaking, people also judge the group as a whole by the actions and appearance of a few. AFM 35-10 sets forth the guide lines for uniform wear. It defines authorized uniform combinations, tells you how and when to wear your uniform, how to wear ribbons and medals, how your hair should be worn, and many other things too numerous to mention.

Air Force uniforms are designed with care to fit the majority of personnel who will wear the uniform. But you say, "I just don't look good in any uniform." Granted there are a few of us who do not look well in uniform, but the majority will look good in the uniform if it is properly maintained. Ask yourself this question: "Do I, as a member of the Air Force, enhance the uniform I wear?" Are you the type of person who takes pride in wearing and maintaining your uniform, or are you content to wear a dirty, sloppy, or sometimes shoddy uniform?

Are you the type of person who will go to the club, the movie, or some other activity, rather than buy a can of shoe polish or obtain a badly needed hair cut? Are you too tired from your long arduous job to button your coat or to wear a hat? Do you, as a member of the Air Force, take enough pride in your uniform to correct a uniform violation when you see it on another person? Do you, as an Air Force member, know what you can and cannot wear?

Here are just a few of the things you must know: Only personnel on flying status or Security Policemen may wear the flight jacket. Wearing of flight clothing or fatigues off-base is strictly prohibited unless you are performing duties off-base or are enroute either to or from off-base quarters. When wearing the field jacket, name tags, patches, squadron or command patches must not be worn on the outer garment.

Take a long look at this article. If any of these items apply to you, please correct them. The next visitor to the base may pick you as the person by which to judge the Air Force.

FOR THE COMMANDER

Flying Safety Efforts Should Be Rewarded

By Maj. Robert E. Jobe
Chief, Safety Division

During the past, many instances of individual performance in furthering our flight safety efforts have gone by without adequate recognition. To provide this needed recognition and to develop a competitive spirit in aircraft accident prevention, Air Training Command has developed two individual safety awards: the ATC Well Done Award and the TOPS (To Promote Safety) Safety Award.

The Well Done Award consists of a desk pen set with appropriate engraving and a citation from ATC. A nomination for the Well Done Award can be made by any individual who observes an act by another individual who by an outstanding feat of airmanship, superior skill, or exceptional alertness beyond that normally expected, prevents an aircraft accident or minimizes the seriousness of an aircraft emergency. Nomination should be sent to wing Safety within two weeks after the occurrence. Wing Safety must forward the final letter of nomination within 30 days to ATC where final determination is made.

Maj. Jobe

The TOPS Safety award is given to individuals whose contribution to the base accident prevention program is worthy of special recognition. The award consists of a gold lapel pin or tie tack, a letter of recognition from the wing commander, and six embroidered patches to be worn on fatigue or flying clothing. Nominations should be submitted to the wing Safety office where determination is made on the recipients. One award is allowed each calendar quarter in each of the following areas: operations, maintenance and support.

Nominations for the safety awards described above have been rather frequent over the past few months, perhaps some of our individuals could be eligible for more recognition. Certainly an act by a person which prevents or minimizes the seriousness of an aircraft accident or any outstanding contribution toward accident prevention is worthy of special recognition.

Foundation For Career

Military Education Program Is Today's Biggest Bargain

(An AFNS Editorial)

The biggest bargain in education today is the one offered by the armed forces' education program. It gives any individual on active duty a chance to continue his formal education, regardless of his present educational level or duty location.

The program is one of the finest tools available to build a solid foundation for a career, either military or civilian.

What are you doing to take advantage of the program? Are you using your free time to earn your high school diploma or college credits?

Or, are you one of the many who have fallen prey to procrastination and talk about "enrolling in the course next month" or "starting that class next semester?"

The armed forces' education program affords the opportunity to further your education at a fraction of what it would cost as a civilian.

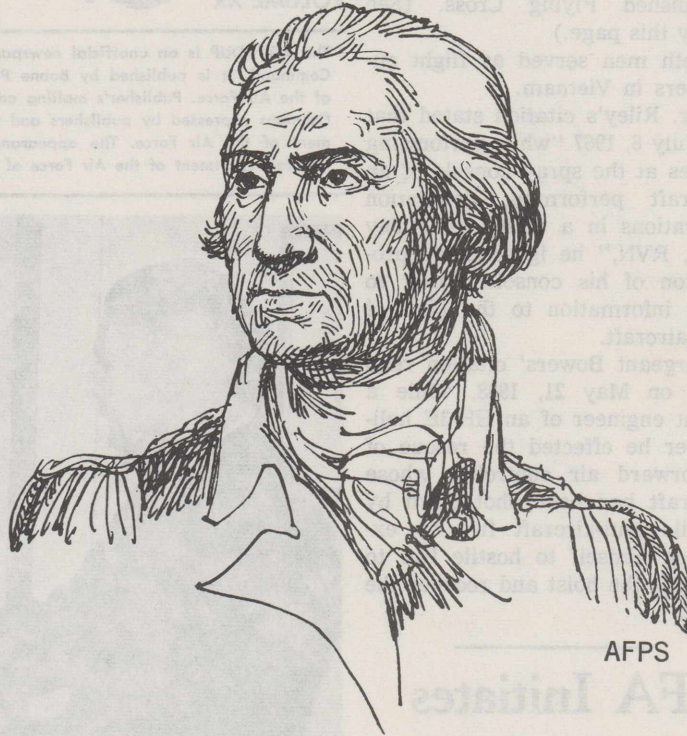

No matter where you are in the world, U. S. Armed Forces Institute (USAFI) courses are available. On-campus courses are available near may installations, while at others courses are offered on the base.

Talking about the educational program won't get you your high school diploma or earn college credits. An interview with the base education officer, class enrollment, hard work and long hours of study can accomplish this goal.

The opportunity is there. It's yours for the doing.

Jokes Can Be Costly

Be Careful Of Remarks While Traveling On Civilian Airlines

(ATCPS Editorial)

Traveling by commercial aircraft? Don't try to attract the attention of the stewardess or other airline personnel by a humorous (?) remark such as "Does this airline go to Havana?" or "Be careful with my bag, it has a bomb in it," or some other careless remark.

For persons who joke about such things it means removal from the aircraft and detainment by the FBI while the incident is investigated. Potential troublemakers are children who point a toy gun at an airline hostess during flight and yelp, "I'm taking over the plane" also may land in hot water. Their journey, too, gets interrupted by a visit by the FBI.

Each Air Training Command member should realize that such joking around or careless talk, regardless of whether or not the remarks are made with serious intent, can be costly and embarrassing to themselves and to the Air Force.

Federal Aviation regulations require civilian carriers to report any comment pertaining to bombs, explosive devices, weapons or piracy immediately to the local police and to the FBI. Airline employees have been instructed to treat any careless remark as a direct threat to the safety of the passengers and aircraft.

Those military members who may feel like kidding around while traveling should realize that Section 35, Title 18, U.S. Code provides for fines up to $5,000 and/or imprisonment for five years for the behavior offenses mentioned.

Citizenship Has Responsibilities

By Chaplain (Captain)
Larry D. Mosley

I read an article the other day about a young couple who were living in a hippie colony. The girl became pregnant and she and her boy friend had approached a minister asking him to assist them in having the baby adopted after it was born.

When the minister asked them about the possibility of raising the child themselves, they protested that they didn't want the responsibility, and besides that a hippie community was not, the best place for a child to grow up.

"So, you want for yourself," said the minister, "freedom and privileges which are possible for you only because other people choose to live by the rules of decency and a stable society?" The couple conceded that this was true, but that they still wanted to be hippies. After the arrangements were made for the care of the child, they went on their care-free way.

What this couple was looking for was freedom and indulgence and pleasure completely devoid of any responsibility. They proposed to exist as parasites upon the responsible members of society.

Now, not all such attitudes and actions are proposed by hippies. Many people want the freedom and privileges of a free society without any corresponding responsibility. And, I ask you, how long can the great American experiment in self-government stand up under the burden of that kind of thinking?

Internal Revenue Upholds Deduction In Dental Dilemma

(An AFNS Feature)

Filing his income tax return, Johnny's father took a deduction for the cost of the boy's clarinet lessons. When the Government challenged this item, the father explained, "Johnny has a severe bite problem, and his orthodontist said playing the clarinet would be a great help. Therefore, I consider these lessons a medical expense." After a court test, this argument was upheld and the deduction accepted.

The case illustrates that "medical expenses," which are allowed (within limits) as a tax deduction, may take in a wide variety of costs. Authorized deductions have included expenses of a seeing-eye dog to a wig prescribed for the mental health of a girl who had lost her hair. But the expense must be closely related to a specific medical problem—not just "good for you."

A deduction was denied for a telephone which had been installed in a sick woman's home. While the telephone enabled her to summon her doctor in an emergency, it also was available for everyday household use.

An ailing taxpayer who took a trip to Florida, to perk up his morale was not permitted to deduct his expenses. The court ruled that tax laws were not intended to subsidize vacations taken simply to make a taxpayer feel more cheerful.

On the other hand, a man was allowed to deduct the money he spent getting to and from meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous. Noting that he had joined the organization on the advice of a doctor, the court commented, "membership was necessary for treatment of a disease."

Quote Of Note

(An AFNS Feature)

"Allied airpower has denied the enemy any decisive military victory in Vietnam and has provided U. S. ground forces with the most effective close air support in history." (Maj. Gen. Gordon F. Blood, deputy chief of staff for Operations, Seventh Air Force, upon departure from Vietnam for new duties in USAFE.)

Climbing Ladders Requires Safety Precautions

1. Obtain a ladder of proper length and inspect it for cracked or broken rungs and spreaders before it is used. All ladders should be equipped with safety feet to reduce slipping.

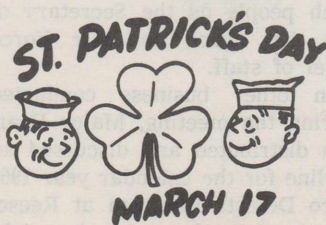

2. Fixed or portable metal ladders should not be used around electrical equipment and facilities.

3. Stepladders should be open fully and locked before being used.

4. Utilize the four-to-one rule when using a straight ladder. Set the base of the ladder one foot for every four feet up to the point of support. Most ladder rungs are one foot apart, so count the rungs up to where the ladder rests. If it is 16 feet, set the base four feet from the wall.

5. If you have the ladder at a steeper angle, shift some of your weight or a gust of wind may topple you over backward. If you have it at a flatter angle, you are putting too much strain on the wood and it may break.

Volvos have always been pretty sensible.

Now Volvos are sensible and pretty.

The new Volvo 144 does everything that Volvos are famous for doing—except look like a Volvo.

What Volvos are famous for doing is lasting an average of eleven years in Sweden, where it's tough being a car.

Of course, we don't guarantee that the 144 will last eleven years in America.

But we do know it's a Volvo. And 9 out of every 10 Volvos registered here in the last eleven years are still on the road.

So if styling is all that's been keeping you out of a car that lasts long enough to get you out from under car payments, you no longer have an excuse.

Reesites Runners-Up In Youth Hoop Play

The Reese Eagles and the Reese Blues, the base's entries in the Youth Basketball League sponsored by the Y-M-C-A, fell short in their bids of city championships Saturday. Both took home runners-up trophies.

The Eagles, composed of the older boys, fell to St. Marks Presbyterian 28-20, while the Blues lost to First Methodist Gold, 35-29, in the Iddy Biddy Division.

However, the Eagles took home two additional trophies of the five given in each division of play. The Eagles' coach, Terry N. Tyler, was awarded the coach of the year trophy, while the team itself was awarded the coveted sportsmanship trophy as the team displaying the most sportsmanship during the play-offs. It was the second consecutive year the Eagles had won the trophy.

These trophies and others will be formally presented at a banquet for the youth leaguers, parents and coaches Tuesday in the NCO Open Mess ballroom.

In the Peanut Division, the Whites won over the Blues, 11-6.

Riders Set Sights At Meeting

Reese Riding Club members are scheduled to elect a board of governors during their organizational meeting at the Mathis Service Club, 7:30 p.m., Tuesday.

Serving for one year, the board will consist of a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and committee chairman.

In other action by the club, a constitution and by-laws, organizing the riders along Air Force standards, has been forwarded to Air Training Command for review. The club hopes to eventually organize on the base under the auspices of Personal Services. According to MSgt. Michael J. De Rosa, one of the organizers of the activity, plans are being made to expand the facilities to 50 stalls with about 10 horses available for rent by base personnel. All plans are tentative so far, awaiting possible approval from ATC and Reese officials.

The riding club is already active as an off-base activity. Twenty-nine of the members own their own horses, many with several mounts. Utilizing stable and arena facilities leased close to the base, the riders provide such family activities as fox hunts, riding lessons and excursions, and jumping practice. Approximately 49 interested Reesites attended the last meeting in December and interested personnel are invited to attend Tuesday's meeting.

Added Emphasis Slated For Cost Reduction Program

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Describing the Cost Reduction Program as "an effective tool for motivating your managers and evaluating their performance, Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard has called on Air Force officials to emphasize this point to all personnel.

"I am concerned that we get value for every dollar the Department of Defense spends," Secretary Packard said. He expressed particular interest in those who execute Defense contracts and administer logistics programs.

Endorsing Secretary Packard's views on the Cost Reduction Program, Air Force Vice Chief of Staff Gen. John D. Ryan noted that nearly half of all dollar savings and individual actions reported in DoD last year came from the Air Force. "It is more important, however, that we look forward to achieving an even better record in fiscal year 1969," General Ryan said.

Sandra Hicks received a 500-hour guard; Sarah Mosley a 250-hour guard and 100-hour guards were given to Marilyn Benesch, Agnes Jordan, Jenny Livingston, Trudy Soule, Linda Banda and Astrid Ratley.

Uniforms were presented to Charlie Martin, Terry Rasinaki and Cynthia Hammer.

Family Service pins went to Maryann Helms, Lora Ide, Sharon McDaniel, Susan Olson, Nina Taylor, Margaret Wilson, Bernice Wilson, Joyce Youngberg, Jonni Mills, Lynn Mook, Marlene McIntyre and Alason Schomberg. Kay Cowan received a Family Services charm.

Margueritt Wiseman was presented a five-year stripe and Florence McGuire a one-year stripe.

The awards were presented by Lt. Col. Elmer L. Tuck, wing comptroller, who was a special guest at the coffee.
