FORCES FOR FREEDOM

REPORT TO THE NATION

Reesites In Midst Of Reconstruction Period

May and June are scheduled to be busy months of construction on the base with almost $60,000 in paving and roadwork as well as new roofs on several buildings.

Paving will begin Monday on the major roads, with the Security Police daily blocking off sections to be worked on. The asphalt paving is expected to be completed within two weeks, with approximately eight miles of street being reworked. The $27,416 job will be handled by Turner Construction Company of Lubbock, Tex.

At the same time a $32,527 contract to rework inside runway B and taxiway 1 will begin. The jobs should be completed by May 30.

Other projects in May include a joint seal on apron, to begin May 15; taxiway lighting, beginning May 7; seal coat job on runway at Terry County auxiliary field, May 19; repair of roofs on various warehouses and hangars, May 20; maintenance on aircraft parking apron and replacing 40-foot wide strip on east edge, Monday; new ceiling for base theater to begin May 27.

June will also see street paving and repair work with bids to open for work on secondary streets in mid-June. Included in the project is reworking of several parking lots and repair of east-west runway. The work may possibly get under way in July. Finally, beginning June 2, construction will be started on new air conditioning and heating systems in the 800 area of the bachelor officers' quarters.

3500th Captain Selected As Resse AFB IP Of The Year

An instructor pilot from the 3500th Pilot Training Squadron has been chosen as the base's Instructor Pilot of the Year.

Capt. Henry L. Carl, a native of New Mexico, has been assigned to Reese since May 1966. He was graduated from Alamogordo

High School, Alamogordo, N.M., and attended the University of Texas, Austin, Tex. Receiving a bachelor of science degree from New Mexico State University at Las Cruces, N.M., Captain Carl entered the U.S. Air Force in November, 1964.

The honored pilot and his wife, Doris, have one son, Henry Leonard Carl, 3½.

Money, Benefit Records Set By Two Employees

The largest cash award ever presented at Reese AFB went to two civilian employees of the base May 1.

Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, presented a check in the amount of $985 to J. D. Dowdy, aircraft welder, and F. E. McWilliams, aircraft welding shop foreman, bringing the total amount received by the two men for their suggestion to $2,010. The pair had been paid initially $15 and the check presented by Colonel Morganti May 1 brought the total awarded by the Reese AFB Military - Civilian Incentive Awards Committee to $1,000, the maximum allowed the base. Air Training Command has been requested to authorize an additional award of $1,010 bringing the total to $2,010—a record at Reese.

In 1964, Mr. McWilliams, who was a welder at that time, felt that Northrup T-38 Talon engine mechanics were sending in too many J-85 nozzles to the welding shop for repair. He learned the nozzles were being damaged for the lack of an adequate tool when mechanics removed the nozzles from J-85 engines.

Mr. McWilliams enlisted the aid of Mr. Dowdy in designing a tool that would remove nozzles without damage. Their design was manufactured with the assistance of local machinists and the tool worked quite well. They were paid the initial $15 for submitting the idea on May 15, 1964. For the past five years the suggestion has been under review by officials at Air Training Command and Air Force Logistics Command. The design has been accepted and tools manufactured for all Air Force bases with J-85 engines.

Air Training Command estimates first-year material savings to be $959,670. This savings warrants an award of $2,010. Both the award and the first-year benefits set new records at Reese.

Mr. McWilliams had previously earned $425 for 22 of his suggestions and Mr. Dowdy had earned $75 for six of his suggestions.

Eight Base IPs Given Awards

Flying proficiency awards were given to eight instructor pilots of the 3500th Pilot Training Squadron during April.

Doctor's degrees of Instructor in Flying Training were awarded Maj. Thomas E. Morris and Capt. Gary F. Dickinson. Each have logged 1,800 hours of accident-free flying time, including 1,300 hours as instructor pilots.

Certificates of Master Instructor were awarded six others for 800 hours of flying time in the Northrup T-38 Talon aircraft as instructor pilot, 500 hours of which have been accrued at Reese AFB.

They are: Maj. Richard E. Fraser, and Captains Newton I. Carpenter, Charles A. Givens, Thomas A. Thompson, Gary W. Spence and Roy N. Suzuki.

NCOA To Meet Monday

The Kuykendall Chapter of the Noncommissioned Officers Association of America (NCOA) will meet Monday at 5 p.m.

Observe Deadline For Next Issue

The deadline for next week's issue of the Roundup will be strictly adhered to.

It is anticipated that the issue of May 16 will be larger (more pages) and therefore necessary to have more copy to the printer on the times allotted through contract between the base and the publisher.

Therefore, all persons with columns or with standing articles to submit must have these into the Office of Information by 2 p.m. today. News occurring over the weekend will be accepted Monday no later than 1 p.m. Under no circumstances will any news be accepted for the issue of May 16 later than 1 p.m. Tuesday, and then only news occurring after noon Monday.

Static Display Of 12 Aircraft Slated As Top Attraction Of Base Armed Forces Day Activities

An open house, flyovers, displays and exhibits will highlight Reese Air Force Base's 20th observance of Armed Forces Day, May 17.

The open house is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. and end at 5 p.m. In between, some 10,000 persons from the South Plains area are expected to visit the base for the annual event honoring the men and women of the country's armed services.

Maj. R. D. Rasmusson is project officer for this year's observance assisted by Capt. R. B. Cocke Jr.

Top attraction this year is a static display of 12 different armed force's aircraft. It is believed that this is the largest contingent of different aircraft ever assembled at an Armed Forces Day observance at Reese AFB.

The day will be used to officially break ground for the base's new hospital facility, an approximately $2 million project to be constructed north of the present location.

C. L. Kay, assistant president of Lubbock Christian College, will be guest speaker at the Armed Forces Day noon luncheon.

Of special interest to visitors will be flyovers of training aircraft used at the base including the supersonic Northrup T-38 Talon and the Cessna T-37 Tweetie Bird.

Other events planned include parasail demonstrations, an air rescue demonstration, small arms fire power demonstrations and a number of indoor displays in Hangar P-82.

The recently completed 3501st Pilot Training Squadron building and the 3501st Student Squadron academics building head a long list of base facilities which will be open to visitors.

Transportation Your Servant, Protector

(An AFNS Feature)
Transportation is so much a part of everyday living that we tend to take it for granted. It is so close to us that we cannot see it in its entirety—big, alive, never at rest. Trucks rumble through the night over our expressway systems carrying produce to markets; barges push up the Mississippi hauling tons of salt and sugar; cement, coal and steel pour from railroad cars feeding America's vast manufacturing industries; and everywhere you look, you see people, people on the move in cities, between cities, traveling everywhere—sometimes at over 600 miles per hour.

Transportation is America's "moving factory" spewing forth tons of goods of all kinds, day and night, seven days a week, during all seasons. Right now the dinner you'll eat tomorrow, the new clothes or television set you'll purchase; the medicines you'll need, the magazines you'll read and the movies you'll see are all en route to you. Some are on the move, some are in storage, some are still being grown or built but all of them will be brought to you when and where you need them or want them, wherever you may be, by some form of transportation.

Transportation is your servant, yes, and your protector. Transport systems can move armies to troubled areas within hours. Trucks, trains, ships, barges and planes build the bridge from the United States halfway around the globe in order to keep these armies supplied with food, weapons and ammunition.

Getting this transportation job done requires the time and talent of over 10 million people or 15 per cent of the civilians employed in the U.S. Billions of dollars of equipment are involved. Since 1958 about 20 cents out of every dollar that Americans spend on goods and services are spent on transportation. This amounted to $156 billion in 1967.

Over $22 billion a year is paid in Federal taxes by transportation. No less than 34 per cent of state taxes derive from transportation sources.

To pay tribute to this vast and vital industry, the President of the United States each year issues a proclamation calling on Americans everywhere to "recognize and appreciate fully the role our great and modern transportation system plays in their daily lives and in the defense of the Nation."

America's population is growing, the economy is expanding, trade with other nations is increasing. Within twenty years, the U.S. must be ready to meet a demand for transportation that will be at least twice what is required today.

You can easily appreciate how important transportation is to you, your work, your welfare and your well being. Today is the day to remember that transportation protects the nation.

FOR THE COMMANDER

Maintenance Is Life Of Air Force Base

Col. Clyde J. Morganti
Wing Commander

By Lt. Col. Marvin S. Buckberry
Chief, Civil Engineering Division

Maintenance is the life of any man-made physical structure or equipment. An Air Force base is no exception. No matter how well a base has been planned, nor how well it has been constructed, it cannot long survive without maintenance. There are three general types of maintenance:

(1) Preventive Maintenance—This is a servicing type maintenance and is performed to prevent the deterioration or breakdown of structures, equipment or grounds. Some types of preventive maintenance are painting, mowing grass, lubricating machinery and policing trash and debris from an area. Preventive maintenance is most important because it can prevent deterioration or breakdowns with the resultant loss of time, effort and money required to place the structure, equipment or grounds back to operational status.

Col. Marvin S. Buckberry

(2) Repair Maintenance—Required when structures, grounds or equipment are damaged or deteriorate to where they fail to do the job for which they were designed; i.e., a broken window, a burned out motor on an air conditioner, a dead tree, etc.

(3) Constructive Maintenance—Improving, changing or adding to structures, grounds or equipment in order to prevent deterioration or breakdown. Such things as adding a rain gutter to a building, installing new storm drains in a street or planting new shrubs by a new building are constructive maintenance.

Maintenance effects life on an Air Force base in several ways. A well maintained base is highly operational, everything about the base seems to work properly.

Cleanliness is certainly a factor of maintenance. A well maintained structure, grounds or piece of equipment always has a clean, neat appearance which indicate that it is ready to perform the function for which it was designed.

Last, but not least, maintenance reflects character. A well maintained base shows that the personnel there have a pride in their place of work, in their jobs and in themselves.

Civil Engineering takes pride in being a major part of the maintenance of Reese Air Force Base. But it takes the help and cooperation of all of us to keep Reese maintained so we can be proud of our place of work.

Lease Contract Guides Parties

(An AFNS Feature)

In most states, leases such as a month-to-month tenancy need not be in writing. After the tenant moves in, with the owner's consent, the law sets out the rights and duties of each party.

For example, the landlord normally may not interfere with the tenant's possession. The landlord must defend that possession against interference by others. The tenant may be entitled to products of the land, unless the parties agree otherwise.

In turn, the tenant must pay his rent on time, take care of the place, and move out when his tenancy expires.

In ending the arrangement, each party has certain rights. If the landlord doesn't give proper notice, the tenant may remain; if the tenant doesn't give proper notice, the landlord may demand rent.

Despite the general law, both landlords and tenants find advantages in written leases under the term of which one may do things for you that you could not easily do otherwise.

An owner may have a written agreement with terms to bind the tenant for more than one year; require the tenant to make repairs; limit the tenant's right to assign or sublet the premises.

Pilot's Epitaph

By Lt. Col. Albert L. Melton

Deputy Commander, Operations, Laughlin AFB, Tex.

(The following tribute to a former Laughlin AFB, Tex., instructor pilot, Maj. Vince Colasuonno, appeared in the March 28 issue of the Border Eagle.)

"War is all those horrible things a human being can do to another human being because he has not learned to love."

These were the words of a former Laughlin instructor pilot and flight commander who was killed in action in Vietnam in February while on a Republic F-105 Thunderchief combat mission. It was his answer to a query from a fourth-grade class of students, of which his son was a member.

His son's fourth-grade class had written and asked, "What is war?" His answer, read to the class after his death:

"I'll tell you what war is not. It is not a glamorous, daredevil existence where the 'good guys' always win. It is not a fearless fighter pilot jumping into his aircraft to shoot down the enemy. It is not a game which you play (and which I played as a child), where you go home to a good supper and a warm bed after it is over.

"War is fought by real human beings, not Hollywood stars, men like your daddy and perhaps older brothers.

"We all face a moment of truth when we must overcome our fears and do what must be done, no matter how difficult.

"War is a time of tears when we must overcome our sorrow for our fellow comrades and do what has to be done, no matter how difficult.

"War is the curse of mankind because he will not listen to God's will. War is the agony of mankind because he will not love his neighbor.

"If man would learn to love, there would be no wars, for man does not hurt what he loves.

"Perhaps your generation can accomplish this. It seems that mine has failed.

"Do not allow adults to teach you to hate for no reason and against no man."

And so, these were the words of Maj. Vince Colasuonno, a fellow officer who lived and died for his country—a man who was so intent on conveying words of wisdom to the younger generation.

Mark Of True Professionalism

(An AFNS Feature)

"Everyone of us has to be prepared at some time to lay his career—or at least his ER—on the line for what he believes to be right. This is not something to be done frivolously or impulsively—certainly not to the prejudice of discipline. Knowing when the end justifies a risk of great personal sacrifice—either in combat or in management—is a mark of the true professional." (Lt. Gen. Seth J. McKee, Air Force assistant vice chief of staff, Squadron Officer School graduation, Maxwell AFB, Ala., April 18, 1969).

Something Inside Is Bugging Me!

By Chaplain (Captain)

Clyde F. Pressley, Jr.

"Sometimes I get all mixed up at myself, and something inside of me is bugging me.

Like when I say I ain't gonna do something that's no good. I do it anyway and I hate it and myself too.

So it must be something in me that's making me do it. Like when I make up my mind I won't do something bad, I do it anyway. Sometimes it seems like I can't do anything right, and there are always bad things nearby.

It's just like as if I'm two people fighting. I want to do what God wants me to do. But it's very hard." (Romans 7:15-25).

Taken from "God Is For Real, Man" by Carl F. Burke, the above are words of St. Paul as he puzzles over the power of sin, translated into the language of kids from the city streets. With their simplicity and straight forwardness, these words explain themselves and provide a profound insight into what St. Paul was trying to say.

Indeed, like two people fighting, we struggle with this idea of right and wrong. Doing what we know better than to do, not doing what we know to do, we fight on, not knowing why it is so. "Something inside bugs us."

Is there an ultimate answer to this problem? New sciences have come forward to tell us how we think we act as we do, yet they touch only the mechanics and leave the deeper reaches unexplained. What is the answer?

Man is an enigma to himself. There is no pat and easy answer. St. Paul gives no easy answer, he says that it is the presence of sin in our nature. Nevertheless we are responsible to keep up the fight within ourselves against this lower nature. Only those who resist evil know its power. The secret is wanting to resist. To resist is to be bugged, to surrender is defeat.

"I want to do what God wants me to do. But it's very hard."

'Top Three' Members Attend Two First-Term Reenlistments

Members of the Top Three Committee, made up of top three noncommissioned officers (NCOs), were active this week making themselves available at the reenlistment ceremonies of two first-term airmen.

The committee is concerned with the retention of highly qualified first-term airmen.

Three members of the committee were on hand May 1 for the reenlistment of Sgt. Jerry Ferguson of Minden, La. The oath of enlistment was given by Sergeant Ferguson's commander, Maj. Kenneth Pearson, Organizational Maintenance Squadron commander. Committee members present were CMSgt. James Westbrook, SMSgt. Elmer C. Martin and MSgt. Frank Mollo. Sergeant Ferguson received more than $4,000 in bonus money for his reenlistment.

An hour later, five committee members attended a similar ceremony at the 3500th USAF Hospital where Sgt. Donald Newman, Dunedin, Fla., was reenlisted by his commander, Capt. Norman Hull, Field Maintenance Squadron commander. Sergeant Newman is recuperating at the hospital from an eye injury.

Attending this ceremony were committee members CMSgt. Arthur Thacker, SMSgt. Kenneth Hoekstra, SMSgt. Gayther Moore, and MSgt. William Bishop and MSgt. James Ishee. Sergeant Newman received $3,000 in variable reenlistment bonus money for reenlisting.

Volunteers Needed For Engineer Unit

Volunteer statements are being honored from noncommissioned officers in grades E-4 through E-9 for assignment to the 554th Civil Engineering Squadron (Red Horse) in career fields (except 555XO, which is limited to Southeast Asian returnees.)

Former Red Horse assignees, and those who have completed Red Horse training who volunteer and are selected are not required to undergo Red Horse training a second time. For further information, contact TSgt. Alvin D. Laney, assignments section, ext. 216 or 739.

Survey Results In Management Action Savings

Management action through manpower reduction in Services Division has resulted in an annual saving of $5,476 at Reese AFB. The action has been forwarded to Air Training Command (ATC) for validation.

The action was a result of a manpower utilization study and analysis of the operation of the clothing sales store by Services Division. The study showed that by realigning work elements within this branch the work performed by three persons could be performed by two without impairment of the branch's function.

Family Services Sets Open House

Family Services will observe the 12th anniversary of the founding of Family Services Monday with an open house from 1:30 to 4 p.m. at the Family Services Center. All persons are invited to attend.

Highlight of the open house will be an awards ceremony at about 1:30 p.m. with scores of volunteer workers being honored for their services.

Reese Major Helps Children

An effort on the part of a Reese major has borne fruit in bringing joy to some children in South America.

Maj. Michael R. Marcellino, 3501st Pilot Training Squadron, recently took on the project of raising baseball equipment for children in Caracas, Venezuela at the request of a friend, D. C. Micka, who is living there while working for the Mobil Oil Company.

Major Marcellino appealed to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and other groups to raise used Little League equipment for the project, and in short order a large shipment of the equipment was on the way.

In a letter received this week from Mr. Micka, "... I want to thank you (Major Marcellino) very much for the baseball equipment you gathered for Venezuela. It all arrived here in fine shape and I already have distributed most of it." A picture was enclosed showing a group of boys and the equipment.

Base Soil Sent For Ceremony

A little bit of Reese AFB will go into the fulfillment of a long-standing dream at San Antonio later this month at the groundbreaking ceremony for the Air Force Village Foundation.

At the request of Mrs. John P. McConnell, wife of the Air Force chief of staff, the Reese AFB Officers Wives Club mailed three pounds of sifted Reese AFB soil to Bolling AFB, D.C., which, along with soil from 216 other bases in the Air Force, will be scattered by helicopter over the facility site at San Antonio, May 26. Only half the soil will be so scattered with the other half reserved for display inside the foyer of the main building. The helicopter performing the scattering is being furnished by Ray Ellison Enterprises of San Antonio.

The soil from Reese was mailed

Monday after the newly-elected president of the Reese Officers Wives Club, Mrs. Ronald E. Gauger, and other members collected and sifted the dirt collected at the base. It is all being gathered in Washington and will be flown to San Antonio for the ceremony.

Youth Director Needs Helpers

Hal Green, Reese AFB youth director, has issued a call for persons to assist in the summer program. He urgently needs swimming instructors, arts and crafts instructors and personnel interested in working in the youth center.

Most urgent are the swimming instructors for the "Learn To Swim" program that begins in the second week in June. If you are capable of teaching youngsters how to swim, Mr. Green said he could use at least 10 persons for this task.

Two arts and crafts instructors are needed for that summer activity.

At least one person is needed to aid in the youth center during the summer months.

Anyone interested in helping in one or more of these jobs please contact Mr. Green between 4 and 6 p.m. at the youth center, ext. 443.

'Anzio' Opens Two-Night Run To Lead Base Theater Fare

Tomorrow's matinee is another return engagement, "The Trouble With Angels," starring Rosalind Russell and Hayley Mills. General audiences, 117 minutes long. Here is a reminder concerning the matinee of May 17. The matinee will begin at 9 a.m. because of the special Armed Forces Day program. That is on May 17.

Sunday, still another return en-

The Blue Crystals Win 'Best Performance' As Base Talent Show Names Eight Winners

An instrumental group billed as "The Blue Crystals" copped highest honors Monday night as Best Performance winners in the 1969 Reese AFB Talent Show.

The band won the instrumental group category, besting the "Jazz Company" group, and went on to emerge as best in the show. The combo is composed of John R. Creed, Frank D. Potera, Richard J. Povlich and Louis R. Reina.

Judges for the two-hour show were Miss Marta Pender, a vocal instructor from Texas Technological College, and Doyle Gammill, band director for Monterey High School in Lubbock. The Roy Roberts Combo supplied musical accompaniment for the show once again this year and the awards were presented by Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander. Colonel Morganti was assisted in the presentations by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Isaac M. Copeland Jr., base chaplain, and 1st Lt. Earl McFarland III, Personnel Services.

Driving Range Is Now Open

The golf driving range at the base golf course opened for business Saturday.

The range, approved by the Reese AFB Golf Council earlier this year, was put into operation after the practice golf balls arrived at the course last week.

Reese golf pro Ken McGuire said the operation had been placed in the hands of CMSgt. Gregory L. Ross, Field Maintenance Squadron, who will be assisted by SSgt. Herman L. Chunn, Transportation Division.

The driving range is located where the old practice area had been, with the teeing area near the wooden shack that now serves as the office.

Mr. McGuire said the current charge of a bucket of balls is 25 cents with only one size bucket available—holding between 30 and 35 balls. He also said a few clubs were available to borrow in the event a customer did not have clubs of his own.

There are no mats, as found on most driving ranges, necessitating the golfer using tees, which are available through purchase at the office. Tentative hours of operation of the driving range will be from noon to 8 p.m. on weekdays, except Monday when the driving range is closed. Weekends, the hours of operation will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The introduction of the golf driving range will make it necessary to prohibit the use of privately owned golf balls for practice purposes on the Reese golf course. Also, it was pointed out that the newly acquired practice balls are government property and are not to be taken from the practice area.

Low amateur honors were shared by L. D. Clopton of Reese AFB and Billy Francis West. Both carded 73s. Low professional was Ron Hale, 71.

Qualify Play Begins
For Lackland Tourney

Qualifying play will be held tomorrow and Sunday at the Reese AFB golf course to determine the base representatives in the prestigious Lackland Invitational Golf Tournament being played at Lackland AFB, Tex. later this month.

Ken McGuire, Reese golf pro, said that 18 holes would be played tomorrow and another 18 Sunday to determine the representatives. The four low medalists for the 36 holes will be named to the Reese team while the fifth low medalist will act as alternate. Also to be named are two seniors, for golfers 45 years of age or older, who wish to make the tournament. Other categories are commanders and a women's division, neither of which have produced a Reese entry in several years.

Mr. McGuire said there would be no charge for entry which is limited to active duty Air Force personnel. Those winning spots on the team will get the trip, if approved by their respective units, plus such items as free golf balls, caddy fees and other considerations.

The Lackland tournament will be played May 24-25. It is expected that the Reese people making the trip will go by private automobile on permissive temporary duty. A total of 22 teams will start with half of them eliminated after the first 18 holes on May 24. The final matches will be held May 25. Divisions include the Open, Seniors, Commanders, Women's, and Two-Man Team.

Mr. McGuire said qualified persons wishing to qualify for the Reese team should come out today or tomorrow and sign up. They will be assured of playing regardless of starting times.

Reese Rattlers
Capture City
Softball Meet

Stan McKenzie struck out the final two batters in the last inning to preserve a 5-4 win over Holt's Sporting Goods and win the City Parks and Recreation Department's Pre-Season Softball Tournament Saturday at Mackenzie Park.

The win marked the Reese Rattlers as the team to beat in the league, which is now under way.

Besides McKenzie, the team has as its members Richard Woods, Tiny Laster, Jay Christopher, Jim Hejnal, Willie Holmes, Duane Ortiz, Ronald Chesshir, Frank Karlin, Phillip Scruggs, Anthony Washington, Mike Markowski and Phil Wertheimer.

Foreign Students Visit Old Bar X

Hot branding irons, bawling calves, leather-skinned ranch hands and barbecue eaten on the ground were present Wednesday to introduce 11 Danish and Iranian student pilots from Reese AFB to life in the rugged Caprock area of West Texas.

The foreign officers were visitors to Dr. O. W. English's Bar X ranch east of Crosbyton, Tex., in the Silver Falls area. Dr. English, chairman of the Reese Relations Sub-committee of the Armed Services Committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, gave the officers an opportunity to see first-hand the activities around a working cattle ranch that have been characteristic of spring roundups since the days of jerky and chuck wagons.

The men were taken to a corral where around 30 head of black Angus cattle remained from the past days' roundup. The mesquite-fed fire heated the branding irons and the squeeze chute was put into action. New calves were vaccinated with antibiotics and vitamins, sprayed for flies and released with the "Bar X" still hot on their hips.

Following the branding, the student pilots were served barbecue and beans lunch, eaten in the shade of 70-year-old cotton-wood trees near the banks of the White River.

The Bar X, managed by Otis

English, has a history as colorful as the Caprock territory itself.

Having the oldest ranch house still standing in the country, the ranch was part of a huge land-holding established by a British-owned syndicate, the C. B. Livestock Company, occupying the land after Mackenzie's Raiders and the U.S. Cavalry routed the Indians from the land in the late 1870's.

The students had a brief opportunity to ramble over part of the 10-section spread, marked by water and wind carved arroyos, mesquite trees and brush.

To some of the visitors, the cattle and horses were familiar sights, while to others they were complete strangers. But no matter what his background, each student shared a respect for the country and an interest in the way of life. As tokens for the day-long trip, the committee presented each pilot with an arrowhead fashioned by another Caprock country native many years ago.

Project Officer Briefing Begins Bond Campaign

The 1969 "Share In America" Savings Bond/Freedom Share campaign is under a full head of steam at Reese AFB following a meeting of organization project officers May 1 in the wing conference room.

Presiding over the meeting was Lt. Col. Elmer L. Tuck, wing comptroller and project officer for the campaign at the base.

Colonel Tuck called attention to the active support being given the campaign from the President of the United States on down through the lowest echelon of command at the base level. He reminded the project officers that the responsibility of the success of the campaign rested with each unit commander and that the project officer was his appointed representative.

The colonel also said he expects solicitations to be completed by May 23 and he emphasized once again that the campaign was entirely voluntary. He also announced that military allotments covering the bond would not be effective until July 1, date of the proposed pay-raise. Civilian employees can start their allotment at any time.

Colonel Tuck also announced a series of rewards for workers and bond buyers alike. Workers who do an outstanding job will have the possibility of a three-day pass as their reward. Buyers who subscribe will have a special "meal deal" worked through the Officers or NCO Open Messes, but the exact "deal" has not been finalized as yet.

Other speakers included Capt. Don Satori, accounting and finance officer, who explained the use of bond allotment forms: 1st Lt. James Hoffman, data automation officer, who explained the reporting system; and Brendan P. Holland, chief, management analysis branch, who outlined the publicity effort being put out in behalf of the campaign.

Mr. Holland explained that the base itself could win awards from the Treasury Department starting with the top award of a Treasury Flag, an Air Force Minute Man Award, or a Treasury Citation, depending on the degree of participation reached at the base during the drive.

Air Force Seeks Air Steward Men

The Air Force is seeking highly qualified airmen in grades E-4 through E-6 with four or more years of active military service to apply for duty as flight stewards.

Applicants must be a high school graduate or have successfully completed the high school General Education Development test. They must also possess a number of other qualifications, all of which may be obtained through the Reese AFB Personnel Division.

Anyone desiring this type duty is urged to contact MSgt. Bertram Soule, ext. 216, for further information.

Your Child's Teeth!

Now is the time to make Children's Preventive Dentistry Program appointments for children with birthdays in June. Full information is available in Wing Regulation 162-2 available at the base commissary, Air Force Clinic or Dental Clinic.

Civilian Personnel Leads Exodus To Building 815

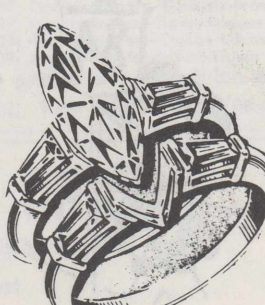

Civilian Personnel Division has led a move that will empty several of the base's older buildings by moving into Building 815, recently vacated by the academic section.

Civilian Personnel began the move Friday and it was completed Monday. The division is now 100 per cent in Building 815. Soon to follow are career motivation, on-the-job training, Supply Services Division and the Information Division. The moves, when completed, will empty Buildings T-1031, occupied by on-the-job training; T-122, formerly occupied by Civilian Personnel Division and T-121, occupied by career motivation, Supply Services Division and Information Division. Two other facilities in T-121, reproduction and forms section and a function of distribution, are due to move to T-91 along with such activities as the Field Training Detachment. That building is being modified to provide eight classrooms for instruction now being carried on in four small buildings in the 400 area. T-91 is being modified at a cost of $8,000 to accommodate the facilities being moved into it.
