Silver Wings Ball event marked a success

BY AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

The 2019 Silver Wings Ball was nothing short of an A-list event, with the red carpet experience welcoming attendees, to live jazz music, a three-course meal, and diamonds.

"All the money raised, during the event, will go towards continuing the mission of Hangar 25 - preserving the history of the bombardier school and Webb AFB for future generations - through the continuation of the Veteran Recognition Program, the addition of family-friendly events and more," Emily McCann, Silver Wings Ball planning committee member, said.

The annual tradition has grown over the years, by attendance and with added features throughout the evening. One of those additions is "Diamond in the Bubbly," which offers one lucky attendee to take home a diamond.

"This year Mead Robuck was the winner of the diamond and he graciously donated it back to the Hangar," McCann said.

In addition to a chance at a diamond, those attending were able to bid on several unique items donated from local artists, high tech gadgets provided by local businesses and more.

"It was a beautiful night and it could not have happened without the wonderful ladies of the Silver Wings Ball Committee, the Hotel Settles staff and all those who attended the event. A special thank you is extended to Expedition Royalty for providing the Red Carpet experience," McCann said. "The support that has been shown by the community, year after year for Hangar 25 is amazing."

Now that the event has wrapped up for the year, the committee will start planning for an ever more successful event next year, according to McCann. She said the committee members will continue to look for new and exciting ideas to make next year's event a must attend event.

Committee members for this year's event included: Bond Ryan, Deanna Burnett, Shonda Folsom, Stormy Brandle, Amber Stokes (museum director), and McCann.

To find out more information about how to support the efforts at Hangar 25, call Museum Director Amber Stokes at 432-264-1999.

 Silver Wings Ball attendees enjoyed an evening filled with cocktails, live jazz music, silent and live auctions, and had an opportunity to win a diamond. A Red Carpet experience welcomed guests and set the tone for the formal event. All funds raised during the annual event will benefit Hangar 25 by aiding in the continuation of family friendly events and programs created to honor veterans, while preserving the history of Webb Air Force Base.

AARP Driver Safety Course

By ANNA GUTIERREZ
 Staff Writer

AARP will be offering their Smart Driver Course on Wednesday, Feb. 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The class will be held at the Dora Roberts Community Center, 100 Whipkey Drive. This course is designed specifically for those over 50 years of age, and, best of all, this class is free to all who attend.

Many of today's drivers have never taken any refresher courses since first obtaining their driver's license, but even the most experienced drivers can benefit from refreshing their driving skills. As we are all too familiar here in West Texas, the oil and gas business brings in countless new people to the area, which, in turn, increases the amount of traffic on our streets. This refresher course will go over the current traffic laws, defensive driving techniques, and will teach you how to operate your vehicle safely in today's challenging driving environment. You'll learn

City offering free meals to federal employees

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer

The shutdown might be on a three-week hiatus, but the city of Big Spring is still offering free meals to federal employees whose paychecks were withheld during the closure.

According to a press release: "The Big Spring Senior Center will be providing free meals for federal employees in our community. Meals are served at the center Monday through Friday, from 12 p.m. to 12:20 p.m."

The Senior Center is located in the Dora Roberts Community Center at 100 Whipkey Drive. Guests are asked to make a reservation in advance as supplies at the center are limited. Guests will need to show their federal employee identification to receive a free meal.

According to City Manager Todd Darden: "We will remain offering our services until everything is back to normal."

For more information or to make reservations, call 264-1288.

Trump doubts negotiators will strike budget deal he'd accept come into the country. "We're willing to invest in personnel. We're willing to invest in additional technology. ... In the past, we have supported enhanced fencing and I think that's something that's reasonable that should be on the table," he said.

Trump has asserted there is a "crisis" at the southern border requiring a wall, blaming previous presidents and Congress for failing to overhaul an immigration system that has allowed millions of people to live in the U.S. illegally.

President Donald Trump listens during a meeting with Hispanic pastors in the Roosevelt Room of the White House in Washington, Friday, Jan. 25, 2019.

By DEB RIECHMANN

Associated Press
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Donald Trump said the odds congressional negotiators will craft a deal to end his border wall standoff with Congress are "less than 50-50." As hundreds of thousands of furloughed federal workers prepared to return to work, Trump told The Wall Street Journal that he doesn't think the negotiators will strike a deal that he'd accept. He pledged to build a wall anyway using his executive powers to declare a national emergency if necessary.

until Feb. 15. It's unclear if the Democrats will budge. Trump seemed girded for battle over the weekend, sending out a series of online messages that foreshadowed the upcoming fight with lawmakers. "BUILD A WALL & CRIME WILL FALL!" he tweeted. Is Trump prepared to shut down the government again in three weeks? "Yeah, I think he actually is," acting White House chief of staff Mick Mulvaney said. "He doesn't want to shut the government down, let's make that very clear. He doesn't want to declare a national emergency."

do it right." He also said he'd be wary of any proposed deal that exchanged funds for a wall for broad immigration reform. And when asked if he would agree to citizenship for immigrants who were illegally brought into the U.S. as children, he again replied, "I doubt it."

California Rep. Kevin McCarthy, the leading Republican in the House, said Democrats have funded border barriers in the past and are refusing this time simply because Trump is asking for it. "The president is the only one who has been reasonable in these negotiations," he said.

Last month, he put that number at 35 million, while on Sunday he pegged it at 25.7 million-plus — figures offered without evidence. "I'm not exactly sure where the president got that number this morning," Mulvaney said. Both are higher than government and private estimates. His homeland security chief cited "somewhere" between 11 million and 22 million last month. In November, the nonpartisan Pew Research Center reported 10.7 million in 2016 — the lowest in a decade.

The president also tweeted Sunday that the cost of illegal immigration so far this year was nearly $19 billion; he didn't cite a source. Compare that with research in 2017 from a conservative group, the Federation for American Immigration Reform, which advocates for less immigration: $135 billion a year or about $11.25 billion a month — a figure that included health care and education, plus money spent on immigration enforcement.

Sen. Roy Blunt, R-Mo. said that he thinks a compromise is possible. "The president went from talking about a wall along the entire southern border at one point during the campaign ... to let's have barriers where they work and let's have something else where barriers wouldn't work as well," Blunt said.

The partial federal shutdown ended Friday when Trump gave in to mounting pressure, retreating from his demand that Congress commit to the border wall funding before federal agencies could resume work. The bill he signed did not provide the money Trump wanted for a barrier, which House Speaker Nancy Pelosi has called "immoral" and has insisted Congress will not finance.

Mulvaney said Trump agreed to temporarily end the shutdown because some Democrats have stepped forward, publicly and privately, to say they agree with Trump's plan to better secure the border.

Mulvaney said they told Trump they couldn't split with Pelosi and Senate Democratic Leader Chuck Schumer, and work with the White House if the government remained closed.

"Everybody wants to look at this and say the president lost," Mulvaney said. "We're still in the middle of negotiations."

"I personally think it's less than 50-50, but you have a lot of very good people on that board," Trump said in an interview Sunday with the newspaper. The president was referring to a bipartisan committee of House and Senate lawmakers that will consider border spending as part of the legislative process.

But Mulvaney said that at "the end of the day, the president's commitment is to defend the nation and he will do it with or without Congress." The linchpin in the standoff is Trump's demand for $5.7 billion for his prized wall at the U.S.-Mexico border, a project Democrats consider an ineffective, wasteful monument to a ridiculous Trump campaign promise.

Rep. Hakeem Jeffries of New York, a member of the Democratic leadership in the House, said his colleagues are looking for "evidence-based" legislation. "Shutdowns are not legitimate negotiating tactics when there's a public policy disagreement between two branches of government," he said.

The president also tweeted Sunday that the cost of illegal immigration so far this year was nearly $19 billion; he didn't cite a source.

Pope: Terrified of bloodbath in Venezuela, won't pick sides

ABOARD THE PAPAL PLANE (AP) — Pope Francis says he is "terrified of a bloodbath" in Venezuela but doesn't want to pick sides in the political standoff because it's not his role as a pastor. Francis told reporters travelling home from Panama on Sunday that he supports the entire Venezuelan population. He said: "If I were to enter and say 'Do this' to those countries, or to other countries, I would put myself in a role that I do not know. It would be a pastoral imprudence on my part and would do damage."

Francis called for a "just and peaceful" solution to the crisis in Venezuela that respects human rights and avoids suffering. But he didn't say if the Holy See would recognize opposition leader Juan Guaido in his claim for the presidency over Socialist President Nicolas Maduro.

Bulldog powerlifters shine at Coahoma meet

Special to the Herald

COAHOMA — The Coahoma High School powerlifting team showcased their muscles Saturday at their host meet and walked away with six individual medals and a second place finish for the boys team.

Overall, the Coahoma boys earned 33 total points for the runner up position out of a field of 12 schools. Hawley came in first with 34 points in the boys division, Big Spring earned third with 23 points, and Stanton was fourth with 23 points. Snyder rounded out the top finishers with 22 points to snag fifth place.

Individually, Coahoma powerlifter Cailey Glover continued her strong season by placing first in her weight class. Her three-lift total was 710 pounds. She squatted 300 pounds, benched 140, and pulled 270 on the dead lift.

Earning points for the Coahoma girls team were Sidney Rinard, who placed fourth, Madison Rogers and Megan McDonald, who both placed fifth. The girls team finished eighth out of 12 schools. Big Spring took the match in the girls division. The

Bulldogs vs Indians

TUSCOLA — The Coahoma Bulldogs lost to the Jim Ned Indians 34-57 in their second match up of the season Friday.

Senior Gage Clark-Burdell had a game high of 26 points to lead the Bulldogs at the scoreboard. He also netted a three-point goal in the second quarter. Clark-Burdell accounted for 13 of 14 points scored in the second which was the best quarter of play for Coahoma.

Thanks to Clark-Burdell's efforts, the Bulldogs headed to the locker room at halftime down by only 7 points. However, the Indians (8-0) returned for the second half fired up to keep their district win streak alive and salted away the game by dominating the third quarter.

Next: The Bulldogs (3-4) host the Stanton Buffaloes for their second round of District 5-3A play Tuesday. Coahoma continues to stay in the running for a play-off bid. The game is set to begin at 8 p.m. in the CES competition gym. JV Red will play at 5:15 p.m. in the competition gym and JV White will begin play at 6:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

Bulldogettes vs Lady Indians

TUSCOLA — The Coahoma Bulldogettes fell to the No. 6-ranked Jim Ned Lady Indians Friday, 15-56.

The Lady Indians improved their District 5-3A win streak to 10 by scoring in the double digits all four quarters of the game while Coahoma was held to single digits.

Caitlyn Corley led the Bulldogettes at the scoreboard with 6 points. Abbie Lopez netted a three-point shot in the fourth.

Next: The Bulldogettes face the Stanton Lady Buffs at home Tuesday. Game time is set at 6:30 p.m. at the CES competition gym. The JV team will play at 4 p.m.

he next led the king and another diamond to the ace, the diamonds turned out to be divided 5-1.
Undaunted, Belladonna cashed the Q-J of diamonds and ace of spades, producing this position:

The A-K-Q of hearts were next cashed, declarer discarding a club and a diamond. The A-9 of clubs were then played. When East followed with the ten, Belladonna had to decide whether to finesse the jack or play the king. As usual, he guessed correctly, going up with the king to make the slam.

Unfortunately, Belladonna's fine effort proved to be totally wasted! Soon afterward, it was discovered that the hand had been brought to his table in error from the women's championship being conducted simultaneously nearby. So Belladonna's result did not count — but he might have been well rewarded for his effort had he been playing in the women's event!

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Moon Goes Emo

Moving through feelings isn't necessarily hard or easy; it's just necessary. Anyone who doesn't want to be stuck can use the emotional processing tool called the "Scorpio moon" to paddle on through. There's no great technique or secret way that makes it better. You just have to accept the emotion and let it play out. No feeling is inherently wrong or right.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Remember when you accidentally promised more than you could comfortably do and then felt pressured and harried? It's why you're careful to under-promise this week. This way, you'll leave plenty of room for yourself to over-deliver.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). If you don't go looking for trouble, it won't go looking for you. This is a good way to live. And the crazy little knots of the past don't have to be undone. They're not a mess; they're a net, holding it all together.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The glass is neither half-empty nor half-full. There are in fact only a few drops left, yet the eternal optimist would say that there's still something in it. Indeed, one drop of water holds worlds.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). There's a new chapter coming, so you don't have to be afraid to close this one out. Take heart, and have faith. Do it as they do in television; leave some things unsolved. Keep this mystery going.

Annie's Mailbox

Yes, I Can

Dear Annie: Here I am, 78 years old, heading into another New Year's resolution. I'm hoping you will let me share my sentiments with your readers. With all the chaos, craziness and crassness currently occurring in our environment, I have decided to become a drum major for justice, fairness, equality, opportunity and responsibility. Instead of waiting for others, I have decided to make it happen for myself -- and, I hope, others. For me, no more hatred, anger, greed, selfishness, envy or fear. That's a tall order, but I can do this. Why not? I firmly believe that love conquers hate, that light overcomes darkness. I can do it. Yes, I can! As Martin Luther King Jr. so eloquently emphasized, "darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate; only love can do that." Similarly, I know that hating people because they are "others" and "different" can be overcome and eradicated if we try. I fully agree with Nelson Mandela: "No one is born hating another person because of the color of his skin or his background or his religion. People must learn to hate, and if they can learn to hate, they can be taught to love, for love comes more naturally to the human heart than its opposite." I can do all this. I can see those "thousand points of light." I can be a member of that "shining city upon a hill." To those naysayers and disbelievers, I would challenge you to look in the mirror and become all that you can be. It has been saliently espoused that the most powerful force in the universe is an idea whose time has come. Accordingly, it is possible that I can accomplish all this. If I can conceive and believe it, then I can achieve it. All I need to do is to activate and implement those 10 most empowering words: "If it is to be, it is up to me!" I resolve to be kind, generous, forgiving and thoughtful of others. Imagine the positivity and reciprocity of this possibility. I know that I can do all this. I can "talk the talk and walk the walk" when it comes to practicing and implementing this resolution for 2019 and beyond. Simply put, as I progress through this second decade of the 21st century and approach the eighth decade of my life, I can do this for myself -- and for you. In summary, what a fantastic and fabulous New Year's resolution -- for 2019 and beyond. -- John L. Horton

Dear John: I know this is printing a bit late in the month, but your sentiments are so positive and your positivity so contagious that I couldn't pass up sharing your letter with readers. Thanks for writing. Wishing you a very blessed rest of 2019.

Dear Annie: Recently, someone wrote to you about how someone's home was broken into during a family funeral. The burglars knew no one would be home because of the obituary that had been printed in the paper. Our family has a tradition of having someone in the home of the deceased during the funeral to prevent exactly this type of event. Family lore tells of a long-lost relative's showing up during the funeral and laying claim to some prized candlesticks, saying, "Dad wanted me to have these." -- Continually Cautious

Dear Continually Cautious: I commend your cautiousness and lament the callousness of those who would try to take advantage of people vulnerable from bereavement. Thanks for writing.

Aldridge leads Spurs past Wizards 132-119

By RAUL DOMINGUEZ

Associated Press
SAN ANTONIO — Gregg Popovich values every possession, so an uncontested dunk by the Washington Wizards on the opening play did not sit well.

The Spurs coach quickly rose to call a timeout 16 seconds into the game to forcefully reinforce that communication is critical to defense.

LaMarcus Aldridge had 30 points, nine rebounds and six assists, and the Spurs regrouped to beat the Wizards 132-119 on Sunday night to snap a two-game skid at home.

"We played the last two home games poorly and he wasn't going to let us slide with those small mistakes," forward Davis Bertans said of the early timeout.

The Spurs were without leading scorer DeMar DeRozan, but had seven players in double figures. Bertans had a season-high 21 points after missing the previous two games due to personal reasons. Backcourt starters Derrick White and Bryn Forbes added 16 points each.

Washington, which had won five of seven, lost its 19th straight in San Antonio. Tomas Satoransky had a season-high 21 points, which were matched by Bradley Beal.

It was the fifth time the Spurs have scored 130-plus points this season, but it was their early defense that drew Popovich's ire after the Wizards' Thomas Bryant had an uncontested dunk shortly after Washington won the opening tip.

"It all starts with the first play," Forbes said. "That kind of sets the tone for us. I think that's what he's trying to do, set that tone and show how serious he was about the first play and the beginning of games. We just made a dumb mistake to start the game off."

The Spurs would hold the Wizards to 2-for-9 shooting while going on runs of 11-2 and 15-2 in the first quarter and extending their lead to 13 points. But their defense was still absent in the first half.

Washington rallied after each run with crisp ball movement and its final lead came at 69-67 with 1:25 remaining in the first half.

"It was pretty much whoever was going to defend first was going to win and it came out that they defended," Beal said.

A few timeouts and a few choice words by Popovich helped the Spurs turn things around in the second half.

"He didn't even cuss that much, that's a surprise," Bertans said. "He was just kind of talking to us, explaining the situation and asking, 'What the hell is going on?' Just asking us to communicate."

The Spurs held the Wizards to 17 points on 7-for-24 shooting in the third quarter in regaining a double-digit lead.

San Antonio's bench also outscored Washington's 54-27 led by Bertans.

The 6-foot-10 forward from Latvia leads the league in 3-point shooting at 49 percent and continued that hot shooting against the Wizards. Bertans was 5 for 8 on 3-pointers and 8 for 11 overall.

"We had trouble keeping up with Bertans, he was all over the floor," Washington coach Scott Brooks said. "We couldn't catch him on his 3s, he kept going by us on his dribbles. He got everything that he wanted."

TIP-INS

Wizards: Washington has not won in San Antonio this century, last defeating the Spurs on the road Dec. 11, 1999. Mitch Richmond scored 31 points in leading the Wizards to a 99-89 victory. ... Forward Sam Dekker missed the game with back spasms. ... Center Ian Mahinmi sat out with a sprained right thumb. ... Satoransky's previous high was 20 points, which he scored twice with the most recent Jan. 24 against Golden State.

Spurs: DeRozan missed his second straight game and third in two weeks with a left leg injury. DeRozan first sat out with a sore left ankle against Minnesota on Jan. 18 and missed the past two games with a sore left knee. San Antonio is 2-0 without the 10-year veteran. ... Pau Gasol made his sixth start of the season, giving him 1,150 career starts to move past Ray Allen for 19th in league history. ... Bertans has eight career games with at least five 3-pointers.

STILL OUT

Spurs point guard Dejounte Murray appears to be making significant progress in his rehabilitation from right ACL surgery, but will still not return this season.

"Zero," Popovich said of the chances of possible return. "It's an ACL. Unless there's some new deal out there that someone came up with that we don't know about."

Murray was injured Oct. 7 while driving to the basket in a pre-season game against Houston and underwent surgery Oct. 19. The Spurs said at the time that the third-year guard would miss the entire season and have not altered that prognosis since.

Murray tweeted a video Saturday showing his progress in a recent workout. With no sleeve or brace on his right knee, the 6-foot-5 guard shoots a jumper and then makes a series of quick crossovers before tossing up a runner.

"God is great, back perfecting my craft," Murray wrote. "Fall down and get back up always!"

EXCLUSIVE CLUB

Patty Mills became the 13th player in franchise history to play 500 games with the Spurs.

"When I first heard it, I was like, 'That's it,' " Mills said. "It felt like it was a lot more. I don't know if it was the amount of times we get yelled at."

Of the dozen other players, Tim Duncan, David Robinson, George Gervin, Sean Elliott, Avery Johnson, Bruce Bowen and Johnny Moore all had their numbers retired. Manu Ginobili will become the eighth member of the 500-game club to have his jersey retired during a ceremony March 28 and Tony Parker will become the ninth once he retires.
