

CARE line expands two-way communication

"Commander's CARE Line", a 24-hour message recording service, has been installed in wing headquarters as part of a continuing effort to provide open communication with the Wing Commander.

The service is designed for use by all Reese personnel, their dependents and all civilian employees. It is intended as an avenue for expressing complaints or commendations and for stating questions or recommendations for the improvement of programs or facilities at Reese. All messages will be presented to Col. Walter H. Baxter III, wing commander.

Identification Urged

While a caller may choose to remain anonymous if he insists, each caller is encouraged to leave his name, rank, address and telephone number so as to insure his receiving an answer. No action will be taken against anyone regardless of the question he might raise through the use of the recording service.

Questions and answers which do not have base-wide application—those which are of a personal nature or which might apply to only the caller—will not be printed in the Roundup to give the caller his answer. In these cases, it is easier to contact the individuals directly to answer these rather than use vital space in the Roundup to answer these questions without base-wide interest. By the same token, callers who do have questions of base-wide interest and which might appear in the Roundup may choose to have the replies kept in confidence or they may choose to have them printed without names being used.

Dial C-A-R-E

Anyone may call the Commander's CARE Line by dialing C-A-R-E (2273). The phone will be answered with a brief recorded explanation of how the system operates. A beep tone will follow at which time the caller should state his name and rank or the fact that he wishes to remain anonymous. The comment or question should then be stated.

Commenting on the value of the new message system, Colonel Baxter remarked, "I strongly urge the people at Reese to take advantage of this opportunity to express themselves. There are no formalities involved, those having questions don't even have to write anything down.

Comments Invaluable

"Questions, comments or constructive criticisms about things can be invaluable", the colonel added. "They sometimes bring to light problems, errors or different ways of doing things that can help Reese do its job better and make our people happier."

Colonel Baxter concluded, "We're not forgetting about the other channels of communication we have here—they're still vital. But we are concerned that we establish as many communication systems as we can. This Commander's CARE Line is a valuable addition."

Hospital's services overcome limitations

Each month Reese physicians, dentists, nurses and technicians care for more than 6,500 persons through appointments, emergency services and sick calls.

Though the Reese USAF Hospital is limited in some areas, most illnesses can be treated.

Outstanding Manner

Lt. Col. Clarence K. Whiteside, hospital commander, explained, "Obviously along some lines we don't have the capability to take care of people. But for what we are set up to do we can do in an outstanding manner."

Capt. John R. Beaty, hospital administrator, said the most efficient way to see people with so few doctors is on an appointment basis, though emergency services and sick calls are available.

Problems Realized

He identified two particularly acute problem areas concerning hospital operation—unrealistic expectations by patients and the myth that military doctors are inferior to civilian doctors.

"Our experience indicates fewer irritants in military hospitals than in civilian hospitals," Captain Beaty explained. He cited less waiting time for treatment and less cost among the numerous advantages of the military medical system.

Quality of work by doctors does not change from military to civilian life because of the nature of medical training and practice.

Captain Beaty, in citing unrealistic expectations of patients as a source of irritants, said, "People have a natural tendency to take their medical benefit for granted. For example, they have erroneously viewed emergency rooms as 24-hour clinics and have felt that patients must be seen immediately at all hours of the day or night regardless of the nature of their complaints."

Evaluation Recommended

"In this regard we would ask people to more sensibly evaluate the severity of their illness. Just because the service is free and available, don't overuse it. It is not an unlimited resource," the Captain said. Many people do not understand that a doctor who works nights as Medical Officer of the Day (MOD) is doing so after he has worked a full day; and after the night MOD shift, he is expected to have regular office hours the next day. For this reason, the MOD is expected to get a full night's sleep unless he is needed for a legitimate acute emergency. Our capabilities are limited; our resources are not inexhaustible," he added.

When our hospital does not have the capability for a particular kind of service, it provides military members with the care either through another Air Force hospital or civilian services.

frame of reference

"... the principal reason for being here is to efficiently train quality pilots for the Air Force"

By Col. Walter H. Baxter
Wing Commander

The mission of the United States Air Force is to fly and fight. Our mission here at Reese is to train those who do. We, of course, must do this efficiently with great concern for the quality of our product.

This seems like an over-simplification of a difficult mission to many of our people but actually it isn't. The complications begin when the human factors of motivation, desire and professional performance enter the picture.

Everyone at Reese AFB is engaged in the fulfillment of that mission. Whether a job is directly tied to it as with our instructor pilots, or indirectly, as with our maintenance forces, the fact remains: the principal reason for being here is to efficiently train quality pilots for the Air Force.

Reese is one of 10 bases in Air Training Command currently supporting this most important mission. It is a matter of pride that we want Reese to rank as the best, as number one, in mission performance in ATC. If we are to achieve this goal we must re-examine and re-evaluate the individual human factors so vital to the accomplishment of our mission.

Motivation is a word we have heard so often that it tends to become trite, but motivation is the first step toward success in any endeavor. Every commander, supervisor and worker at Reese must have the motivation to make our mission accomplishment number one. Unless all our people are properly motivated we will lack the teamwork necessary to fulfill our mission in a professional manner and it is our commanders and supervisors who must insure that our people are motivated.

We must also have desire—a work often mistaken for wishing. A person who sits around wishing for success isn't likely to find it. However, a person who has been motivated and whose desire is great enough can accomplish almost anything. You can wish to fly an airplane but only strong desire and work will put you in the cockpit. You can wish to be a leader but only strong desire and work will make you one. You can wish to be number one, but only strong desire and work will make it so.

Professional performance is the culmination of motivation and desire. It is, in effect, the ending aim and final test of all we do. If we have been properly motivated and if the desire is strong enough we will become professionals. That is true and whether your field of endeavor is sports, business, engineering or training pilots. There are a myriad of human factors that go hand-in-hand with professional performance—pride being the forefront. If cold is the absence of heat and war is the absence of peace then surely amateurism is the absence of professional performance.

We can make Reese the number one UPT base in ATC. We can start with motivation, then instill the desire—desire strong enough to make us work at being professionals in what we do, whether the job be as an instructor pilot or flying a desk in wing headquarters. Whatever your job, it is vital to our mission. Do it well and your reward will be pride and satisfaction that money can't buy.

To all Reese personnel:

I would like to express my appreciation to those who worked so hard for the success of our Spring Clean-Up Campaign.

That hard work, along with the diligence and efficiency displayed by all concerned, paid handsome dividends Tuesday during the visit of Lt. Gen. William V. McBride, Air Training Command commander, who made repeated comments to me complimenting the appearance of the base. I was justifiably proud to receive these comments just as I know you will be.

Now that we have Reese looking in tip-top condition, the job of maintaining that appearance should be easy if we maintain our interest and pride. Again I want to thank all of you for your fine support in this vital area.

Col. Walter H. Baxter
Wing Commander

To Col. Walter H. Baxter,

We recently had the opportunity of showing some friends from Houston and North Carolina Reese AFB. The man at the gate was Sgt. Howard C. Gibbs. He was very helpful and very cordial and we greatly appreciated the guidance and materials that he gave us.

The men that were with us (both former servicemen) were very impressed and commented a number of times after we left the base on Sergeant Gibbs' efficiency and friendliness. We all felt that he was the type of person we like to have representing us to the public.

Sincerely,
W. O. Bath, Pastor
First Church of God, Lubbock

To All Reese Personnel:

I think Reverend Bath's letter expresses the feeling of all who have seen Sergeant Gibbs at the main gate in the performance of his duties.

Thanks, Sergeant Gibbs, for a job well done.

Two Reese NCOs earn AECIP slots from AFIT

Two NCOs at Reese were recently accepted for the Airman Education and Commissioning Program (AECIP) by the Air Force Institute of Technology (AFIT).

The two were the most recently selected minority members to be sent to college to finish their bachelor degree and then on to the School of Military Sciences,

Officer (SMSO) for their commission.

Same Name

The most unusual aspect of the dual acceptance is that both men are staff sergeants and both are named Reginald. SSgt. Reginald Ellis and SSgt. Reginald Thomas have the Education Officer, Bill Trafton, confused.

Trafton remarked, "I have to stop and think twice every time I counsel either of them. I often catch myself saying, 'Reggie' . . . and then stopping to think about which one I was talking to before I was able to go on."

Both of these men have had to overcome large obstacles to be accepted into AECIP. Sergeant Thomas was almost excluded by age and Sergeant Ellis was almost excluded due to the fact that his term of enlistment is almost up.

Leaving Lubbock?

Sergeant Thomas has been in the Air Force for 10 years. He has spent nine years and four months of his 10 at Reese. Commenting on his acceptance into AECIP, Sergeant Thomas commented, "At last I'll finally get to leave Lubbock." AFIT notified him that his dream would not come true just yet. He will be attending college at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Sergeant Ellis expressed his appreciation to all the personnel in the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron (OMS) who encouraged him, especially TSgt. Charles Bond.

The Education Office wishes to express its congratulations to both men for their effort and results. At the same time, they also wish to urge all other interested persons to apply for AECIP and other commissioning routes.

Reese pursues actions program

People at Reese and throughout Air Training Command (ATC) are getting involved in a big way in the Department of Defense Domestic Actions Program.

A summation of September 1972 through March 1973 activities reveals that while established ventures—cleaning up and restoring facilities at playgrounds, civic centers and the like—continued, many projects surfaced.

The Black Culture Club '73 here raised money for sickle-cell anemia, needy families and other charitable groups. The Reese Mexican-American Club has held a number of charity dances and fund-raising activities to benefit local needy organizations.

Command Highlights

Other highlights include: Twice-weekly meetings at Columbus AFB, Miss., sponsored by the Social Actions Office and the Afro-American Cultural Workshop. These focus on drug (including alcohol) education, human relations, health and black history. They are attended by youth from "Project Help, Inc.," a non-profit, charitable organization, chartered by the State of Mississippi to serve the youth and aged of the community.

Volunteers at Craig AFB, Ala., provide free supplementary tutoring, counseling and coaching to 49 community and dependent children with learning and behavioral problems (funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare).

Keesler AFB, Miss., volunteers show movies with subtitles for deaf children; also, training was conducted for 12 nurses' aides in cooperation with the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Basic trainee volunteers (bona fide) from Lackland AFB, Tex., helped to renovate and restore two Spanish missions and an 18-room house in San Antonio used for the emotionally disturbed. Officer trainees from the same base are working at the San Antonio Free Clinic doing janitorial work, sanitizing the clinic and beautifying the outside.

Teaching Aid

At Laredo AFB, Tex., 26 ATC wives tutor children with learning deficiencies—teaching English, math and speech.

The Brotherhood Awareness Association at Laughlin AFB, Tex., is helping to renovate an old school in nearby Del Rio—to be used as a youth center;

Seventy-eight Job Corps workers participated in work experience jobs at Randolph AFB, Tex., facilities.

The Social Actions Office at Sheppard AFB, Tex., trained 50 counselors to man the "crisis phone" in neighboring Wichita Falls.

Personnel at Vance AFB, Okla., hosted 3,000 Boy Scouts in a Scout-O-Rama. Also, an ecology-minded group started a paper recycling project.

Williams AFB, Ariz., provides movies and dances for youngsters from Arizona Boys' Ranch.

Facilities and transportation are furnished for Youth Unlimited, a choral group of underprivileged children, at Lowry AFB, Colo.

Project Timeshare at Webb AFB, Tex., invites anyone who wishes to donate time to the Boy Scouts, Boys' Clubs, Little League or other worthy organizations to call its number. There—from a coordinated master list—volunteers are steered to where help is needed.

PMOC, bank present pig

A pig stole the show Tuesday at a presentation that took place on the Sherman Nelson farm near Reese.

The pig was a gift to the Great Plains Boy's Ranch. The ceremony was presided over by Dan Wilbanks and Lt. Colonel Norman N. White, representing the Lubbock National Bank and the Reese Protestant Men of The Chapel, respectively. Accepting the 350 pound "expectant" sow on behalf of the Boy's Ranch were Larry Ricks, activities director and James Heistand, house parent.

The sow is expected to farrow in about two weeks, meaning the gift will expand into one of multiple proportions. We have been promised a full report on the progress of the expectant mother-to-be.

On hand at the presentation representing the base chapel was Chaplain (Maj.) Martin McEntarfer, giving aid and comfort to the soon-to-be-mother.

San Antonio to host AFA meet in June

Members of the Lubbock Chapter of the Air Force Association (AFA) are being urged to attend the state-wide AFA convention being hosted by the Alamo Chapter of AFA in San Antonio June 29-30 and July 1.

Tom Ireland, president of the Lubbock Chapter of AFA, says the convention promises to be the most interesting and meaningful ever held. To back this up, he points to the list of speakers during the three-day convention: Lt. Gen. George S. Boylan Jr., chief of staff for programs and resources, Headquarters, USAF;

the Honorable John G. Tower, senior senator from Texas; and the principal speaker for the evening session of June 30, Gen. John D. Ryan, chief of staff of the U.S. Air Force.

Headquarters for the state AFA convention will be historic Menger Hotel, located next to the Alamo and the beautiful River Walk area of downtown San Antonio. Registration blanks and other detailed information may be obtained from Mr. Ireland, Civilian Personnel Office, or from Jim Comeaux, Information Division, both located in Building T-1.

Increment list sees 35 new promotions

Denver L. Parrett, 2053rd Communications Squadron, was promoted to the grade of senior master sergeant Tuesday, according to the recent increment list released by the Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO) here.

The list had Fred L. Schulz of the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron (FMS) promoted to master sergeant on that date.

Promoted to the rank of technical sergeant were Michael F. Oliveri of FMS, and Oscar R. Ireland of the 2053rd Communications Squadron.

To Staff Sergeant

Recently promoted to staff sergeant were Robert P. Restelli and Jerry L. Wall II of the 64th Air Base Group (ABGp); Peter N. Mole Jr. of FMS and James M. Galloway of the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron (OMS).

Sergeant's stripes have been sewn on the sleeves of Larry A. Banks, Rodney L. Clagg, Michael

L. Downing, Phyllis A. Lovelace, James R. Meer and Jon C. Swartwood, all of ABGp.

FMS Promotees

Promoted to sergeant in FMS were James P. Herzog, John C. Krig, Joseph D. Leach Jr., Wendel J. Lucas, Raymond D. Metzger, Murray C. Mortrud, Eugen J. Nachreiner, Robert L. Strand, Alex C. Wilkerson, Randall E. Rowan, and Robert R. Webb.

USAF Hospital personnel Stephen R. Geil and Michael D. Pruitt were also awarded their third stripe.

Jerry W. Ashmore of OMS, Hugh R. Spillan Jr. of the 64th Student Squadron, and 64th Supply Squadron personnel Bobby J. Johnson, Stephen E. Judd, Ronald L. Kurz, Frank Valle and David L. Weaver were promoted to sergeant.

2053rd Communications Squadron's David M. Ruthstrom was also awarded his third stripe.

UNC program offers masters to Reese, Lubbock residents

Headquarters, U.S. Air Force has approved a unique University of Northern Colorado (UNC) masters degree program to be offered to Reese personnel and Lubbock area residents, on base.

The UNC program lacks the normal grade point average and Graduate Records Exam prerequisites for admissions, and has seminar scheduling and liberal transfer policies. "Strict final comprehensive examinations are a vital part of the program," according to Bill Trafton of the base Education Office. The school is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Universities.

Robert Lee, associate director of the UNC/Center for Special Advanced Programs will be on base to counsel interested persons. Counseling sessions will be held at 1 p.m., May 11 at the base theater. UNC Business Department and Psychology Department counselors will be available for appointments beginning at 9 a.m. on that date.

Two four-quarter-hour seminars per quarter will qualify military personnel as full-time students for Veterans Administration educational benefits. Scheduling of seminars on two separate weekends will be determined by student needs.

Anyone wishing further information about the program is invited to contact the Education Office, ext. 2634. Lubbock residents may call 885-4511, ext. 2634 or 792-9961.

Kadima IMPORTS

Kadima, translated in Arabic, means antique. To us, Kadima represents an age when quality was more important than time. Our idea in having this store is to help preserve the skilled craftsmanship that is disappearing in the wake of modern technology. In search of the unique, antique and exotic we have traveled from the kadima markets of Marrakech to the Grand Bazaar of Istanbul.

Youths' fathers meet set

The Reese Youth Activities branch of Special Services has announced an important meeting at 4:45 p.m. May 17 to be held at the Mathis Recreation Center of fathers whose sons plan to participate in youth basketball during the 1973-74 season.

The purpose of this meeting will be to elect a commissioner and two league presidents for the activity. Four teams will be fielded in each league during the coming season if enough players sign up.

Youth Activities has also announced the need for interested persons to volunteer as coaches and officials for the season. Single airmen, fathers, and other concerned individuals are urged to attend this meeting.

CHAMPIONSHIP EXPRESSION—Mark McCandless seems to be guiding the ball with his expression as he rolls for another strike as do many young kegglers in the Youth Bowling League. The season is coming down to the wire as the final session nears for the junior-senior bracket. See story below. (U.S. Air Force Photo by Sgt. Harry Renick)

Young kegglers see end of season soon

With just one more session left in the Youth Bowling League season, the junior-senior bracket is taking the action right down to the wire.

Team #5 won four points in the Saturday morning competition held in the Reese Lanes. This win added another 3½ points to their first place status. Team #2 remains in second spot even though they lost two games to the third place squad, Team #6.

Tomorrow will be the last session for this season's kegglers action for the junior-senior bracket. The competition will get under way at 10 a.m., at Reese Lanes. Bowling trophies will be presented after the session to the first, second and third place finishers and the other bowlers will receive participation trophies.

For this week's action, high game for the boys was logged by Ken Mele with a 192 for his day's effort and Paul Lewis rolled a 165 game. Lewis also bowled for the high series, logging a 454. High games for the girls were rolled by Julie Benson with her two games of 142 and 140.

The Law Designates the Husband as the Head of the House. It also specifies that the pedestrian has the right-of-way over a truck too.

To all strangers coming to Lubbock, Berl Howington pleads guilty. East 19th Street is not a little bit hard to find—it is almost impossible to find.

Berl suggests you follow the crow to Idalou Road and Quirt, turn right one quarter block, then East at first store on right. If you are coming to Lubbock from any other way he suggests you stop at Idalou Road and Quirt Avenue and ask someone—if no one is around flag a stranger down and ask him the way. If it should be cloudy and cold and the Crow is not flying, you may turn right, left or go straight ahead one quarter block then east; you should have no trouble finding east 19th Street.

P.S. Sorry, I don't have Lubbock Leads the Way printed on my signs. My sign painter is lost, he cannot find east 19th Street. He says he cannot even find the signs. I hope he has not been drinking any of Berl Howington's special tonic (until he gets the signs painted anyway.)

"Across 110th Street" will kick off this week's scheduled slate of features tonight at the base theater.

Effective Sunday, evening performances at the theater will switch from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. showings. The Saturday matinee will continue to be shown at 2 p.m.

Tonight

Anthony Quinn, Tony Franciosa and Yaphet Kotto star in "Across 110th Street", the story of two Harlem precinct cops, one an experienced head-busting captain, and the other a black lieutenant, who investigate a big bank robbery. To their surprise the Mafia is involved, and soon the two opposite-method policemen are more involved than they'd like to be. The film is rated R, patrons under 17 require accompanying parent or guardian.

Matinee Tomorrow

Michael Caine, Trevor Howard and Jack Hawkins star in Robert Louis Stevenson's thrilling adventure story "Kidnapped". The feature tells the story of Scotland's resistance to English domination in an ingenious plot calculated to hold its audience in suspense. The feature is rated G, all ages admitted.

Tomorrow Night

"Carry On Doctor" is a whimsical look at the medical profession in the "Carry On" series tradition. Young Dr. Kilmore seems to be only interested in his nurses, with no patience for his patients. The comedy is rated PG, parental guidance suggested.

Sunday

"The Revengers" is the tale of a Civil War Medal of Honor holder who settles down with his family to ranch, only to have his loved ones slaughtered by horse thieves. He leaves his peaceful valley to avenge his loss, thus leading himself into a myriad of dangerous adventures. "The Revengers" is rated PG, and stars William Holden, Ernest Borgnine and Susan Hayward.

Tuesday

"Necromancy" stars Orson Wells and Pamela Franklin. The offering of a life in exchange for reviving the dead is known as Necromancy. In this feature, a man whose wife, unknowingly has the gift of Necromancy, accepts a job in a town owned and run by a man with voodoo powers. These powers do not include Necromancy, so the big man in town tricks the couple into helping him restore his dead son to life. The show is rated PG.

Wednesday

Sidney Poitier directs and stars in "A Warm December", a beautiful love story between an American man and an African ambassador's lovely niece. Humor and the building of an intense romance make this film enjoyable and memorable. The feature also stars screen newcomer Esther Anderson and is rated PG.

Thursday

"Avanti" is a comedy with a touch of pasta. Jack Lemmon and Juliet Mills star in the tale of the beginning of a strange romance. An American executive travels to Italy to claim the body of his father killed in a car wreck. To his amazement he finds his father had a mistress who was killed with him, and meets the woman's daughter, who has come to Italy from England to claim her mother's body. The two fall in love and begin carrying on their parents' tradition. "Avanti" is rated R.

at Mathis

Armchair Racing, a new entertainment program, will kick off this week's scheduled activities tonight at the Mathis Recreation Center, beginning at 8 p.m.

The sport is played by "betting" on filmed horse races. There will be no charge for the entertainment.

Today - Armchair Racing gets under way at 8 p.m.

Tomorrow - The weekly pool tournament is scheduled to get under way at 2 p.m. The Kentucky Derby "Pick the Winner" contest will be played throughout the day.

Sunday - The weekly ping pong tourney will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Monday - The Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS) Club will hold their regular meeting at 6 p.m.

Tuesday - Intramural shuffleboard play will begin at 7 p.m.

Wednesday - Ladies Night Out, tournaments for ladies only, will begin at 6 p.m. Featured will be pool, ping pong, horseshoes, bumper pool, snooker, chess and any of over 100 different activities offered at the center. A transcendental meditation meeting will be held at 7 p.m., followed by sports films at 8 p.m.

Thursday - Intramural shuffleboard play will get under way at 7 p.m., while at the same time the Lubbock Chess Club will meet.

at NCO Open Mess

Kicking off this week's entertainment slate at the NCO Open Mess will be a dance tonight featuring Gary Blakley and the Traffic.

The dining room will be open from 5 until 9 p.m., tonight and from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m., tomorrow. Dancing music tomorrow night will be provided by Vern Blair and the Debate.

Sunday and Thursday nights will feature discotheque entertainment with Gerald Lewis. The happy hour at the mess is held each weekday beginning at 5:45 p.m.

Why you should trade in your old speakers on the BOSE 901

- The BOSE 901 Direct/Reflecting™ Speaker System is the only one which radiates the proper balance of direct and reflected energy into your room, the same way instruments radiate sound to listeners in a live performance.
- The BOSE 901 eliminates woofers and tweeters and crossovers. By using 9 identical full range drivers, the 901 eliminates the audible resonances and crossover (phase) distortion of conventional speakers.
- By using reflected sound, the BOSE 901 does not "beam" high frequencies at the listener but distributes them evenly throughout the room. This allows the 901 to radiate a flat power spectrum and to reproduce the correct timbre of instruments and voices.
- The BOSE 901 costs $476 (2 speakers with equalizer). Yet in an industry where several speakers sell for over $1600 a pair, the BOSE has received rave reviews calling it the best regardless of size or price.

Redman takes handball crown

Michael Redman, of the base gym has "single-handedly" taken the handball championship in the recently-completed Air Training Command Handball Tournament at Craig AFB, Ala.

He earned the top spot by winning six of seven matches. His first victory came on the opening day of the tournament, April 23, when he swept both games from Sheppard AFB, Tex. 21-5 and 21-8. Redman's second victory saw him win dual matches over Lackland AFB, Tex. Both of those final scores were 21-8.

He dropped one match to Chanute AFB, Ill., 17-21. He quickly came back and earned a playoff by defeating the Chanute representative, 21-10. He easily won the third match, 21-12.

Redman is now the ATC representative for the Air Force-wide handball competition. The action was held at Kirtland AFB, N.M., from Tuesday until today. Results from the competition were not available at the Roundup publication deadline.

As soon as the Air Force handball competition is ended, Redman will be traveling to Williams AFB, Ariz., for the ATC Raquetball Championship. He will be teaming up with Skip Balazs for that action.

Other Reese representatives will be going to Laughlin AFB, Tex., for ATC badminton action. That tourney will be held May 9 through 13.

Squadron runners leave record alone

By Capt. Bugs Forsythe

After Saturday's endeavors on the fields of friendly strife, it was a well-established fact that Jim Ryun has little need to worry about his "mile" record.

It was proven again and again that if you constantly keep in shape by lifting 12-ounce cans of liquid refreshment, you can easily run a mile-and-a-half. I am sure that there is a direct correlation between running and beer but you would have never guessed it looking at the strong finished of some of our athletes.

Record Setters

The fastest time of the day was an 8:35 clocking by Capt. Mike McGuire. Mike won a bottle of champagne for his time. The bottle awarded for the slowest time seemed to be nailed down by Capt. Bernie (Speedy) Clark with a record 15-minute contribution. However, unbeknown to the rest of the squadron, P-Qual had been ritually training Capt. Keith Huey for an upset. Keith waited until the last heat and then blazed a torrid last lap to log a 15:25 time to win the "Tortoise Award".

When everyone had finished the run, it was agreed that there was no better way to spend a Saturday morning. The squadron is anxiously awaiting the big race between our Squadron Commander, Operations Officer and Section II Commander. It seems like leave was readily available on Saturday for some of our leaders.

Sharp Troops

No one is owning up to any mistakes that are made anymore so this week's article is without a "Well Done Award". This means either the Tweets are stealing all the flying time or our troops are just too sharp to make any mistakes. I keep hearing rumors about some cross-countries but being the Morals and Couth Representative for the squadron, these tales are best left unprinted.

The last of the good deals is now taking place in Fox Flight. First Lt. Don Parks is selling some pretty fancy stationery down there at a great price. So, impress your mom or girl by writing home on some real Air Force paper.

Party ticket sales hit deadline today

By Capt. Charles M. Thrash

This afternoon will be your last chance to get tickets for the squadron party tonight. Capt. Art Moxon of A Flight has the tickets and he is anxious to take your money.

This should be another of our outstanding gatherings, with the theme being a hail and farewell to our departing personnel. Also, a drawing will be held for some free bottles of spirits.

I would name all of those who will be honored but 19 is a few too many to list in this article. Maybe next week when I have nothing to write about I will name them.

Moves Continue

The movement of personnel continues around the squadron. Captains Darrell Phillip and Dave Smith have taken over as B Flight commander and assistant commander, respectively. Taking their places in A Flight will be Captains Bob Lord and Art Moxon.

Captains Tom Hargraves and John Morris have returned from Squadron Officers School (SOS).

Tom is moving into Flight Test and John is becoming the assistant flight commander of E Flight. The last move to report this week is that Capt. Joe Trullo, Section I assistant commander, will be leaving for the Air Force Institute of Technology (AFIT). Capt. Gary Swigert will be taking Joe's place.

Agonized Cries

Gloom, despair and agony on me! That has been the cry this past week as we have been running the mile-and-a-half for the Air Force aerobics test. Many out of shape souls have put forth extra effort to avoid remedial training in running. There isn't much joy in lacing up your track shoes on Saturday to see how fast you can run.

The Gee-Whiz award this week goes to 2nd Lt. Robert Boot of Class 74-05 Section II, a repeat winner. It seems Bob's wife is expecting—for the third time. Only this time she is supposed to present him with triplets. I wonder when the subsistence allowance is going to increase.

Sports Bug

The VW that's something else.

On rare occasions we blow our minds and put out a limited production run of a real fun car.

This is one of those rare occasions. The Sports Bug. Special paint job. Custom striping.

Rallye bucket seats that hold you when you're cornering. Oversize sports-type radial tires and rims that give you high performance traction. Steering that's nimble. Lock to lock, 2.7 turns.

But the Sports Bug is more than fun-loving. Like all Volkswagens, it's dependable, and considerate of your budget. Because even when we blow our minds, we don't lose touch with reality.

Only one problem. When we said the Sports Bug is a limited production car, weren't putting you on.

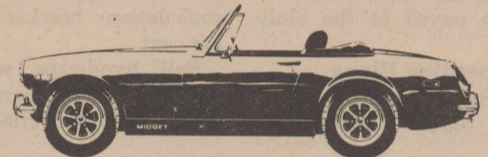

We made a small number, and then, so to speak, we broke the mold. So if you want one, let's hear it. Like, now?

Partnership Tourney

Golf officials urge early entries

Plans for the Reese AFB Partnership Golf Tournament have now been formulated and area golfers are being requested to get their entry in early to avoid being shut out of the prestigious event which is considered "the big one" at Reese.

Reese golf course manager Bob Murio reports that the Reese AFB Golf Council's tournament committee approved the tournament rules much as the same as last year when a full 64 teams were entered.

Entry fee will once again be $40 per team ($20 per person) with play scheduled for June 8-9-10 with a special 18-hole medalist event slated for June 7 for those who wish to try for medalist honors. The opening round of play is set for June 8 after which flights will be made up according to scores shot on opening day on the best ball basis of partnership. Two more rounds will follow on June 9 and 10, again using partnership best ball, to determine winners in each of the four flights.

Each flight will be made up of 16 two-man teams. First-place winners in each flight will receive $100 (to each team member) in merchandise prizes. Second place team members will receive $75 in merchandise prizes and third place team members $40 in merchandise prizes.

In addition, the participants will be treated to a party Friday night (June 8) at which contestants and their wives (or girl friends) will be invited for dinner and refreshments.

Registration deadline will be June 7 but will be limited to 64 teams. Golf course manager Bob Murio said that registration will be taken on the phone but preference will be given to those who pay entry fees at the time of registration. In other words, the first paid 64 teams will be entered with telephone registration (those without entry fees paid) will be accepted as they are paid.

The tournament is open to all golfers. USGA rules, as modified by the local rules of the Reese golf course, will be in effect. Shotgun starts will be used for the rounds of June 9 and 10 with the 3rd and 2nd flights teeing off in the morning and the Championship and first flights teeing off in the afternoon.

Defending champions of the tournament are Dub Malaise and John Etheridge.

Golf tournament season starts with 'Match Play' tomorrow

Base golfers get their initial crack at tournament golf this weekend as the four-week Reese AFB Match Play Golf Tournament opens with first round matches tomorrow.

Today is the deadline for golfers to enter the nearly month-long tournament. Entry fee is $5 and may be paid at the clubhouse.

Competition Plans

Golfers entering will be placed in 16-man flights. Tomorrow's matches will split the flights into two brackets—the winner's bracket for those who win and the consolation bracket for those who lose. Winners in the former will receive 50 per cent of the prize money in merchandise prizes ($40 if the flight is full), the runner-up, 30 per cent and the consolation bracket winner, 20 per cent.

Full handicaps will be used throughout the tournament with match play in effect (by holes rather than total score).

Schedule Emphasized

Tournament committee chairman Brian Prigmore indicated that all matches must be played on the indicated weekend unless there was a valid excuse for not being able (such as TDY or weekend work). "In this case," said Prigmore, "we can arrange a match during the following week, but not after Friday of that week." Prigmore said he would need two days notice for such action.

SMSO gives commissioning quotas

RANDOLPH AFB, Tex. (AFNS) —Fiscal year 1974 quotas for airmen seeking commissions at the School of Military Sciences, Officer, Lackland AFB, Tex.,

have been released by the Air Force Military Personnel Center (MPC) at Randolph AFB, Tex.

A total of 1,538 quotas have been allotted for male airmen and 289 for women.

All of the male allocations are for commissions as flying officers. By category, 789 quotas are for pilot candidates; 58 for helicopter pilots and 691 for navigators.

No nonflying male quotas are available due to a reduced requirement for nonrated officers, MPC officials explained.

Application procedures for the school are contained in AFR 53-27, "School of Military Sciences, Officer (SMSO)."

Reese club announces picnic

The Reese Mexican-American Club will host a family-style pot-luck picnic on the base picnic grounds beginning at noon and lasting until 6 p.m., tomorrow.

Activities scheduled for attending club members and their guests will include potato sack races and egg-rolling contests for children.

All members and their guests are cordially invited to attend.
