AF to merge wives', husbands' paychecks

IT'S NOT THERE!—Mrs. Terry Rivera searches in vain and shows her disappointment because she didn't receive her monthly allotment check. She won't receive any more as the Class Q allotments were discontinued June 30. See story at right. (U.S. Air Force Photo by Sgt. Terry Rivera)

Married first term airmen at Reese and throughout the Air Force will soon be getting their wives' allotments in their own paychecks.

Air Force Accounting and Finance Center (AFAFC) sources have informed Reese Accounting and Finance Office (AFO) officials that these allotments (the Class Q allotments) ceased, effective Saturday at midnight.

Law Expires

The provisions of the Dependents Assistance Act of 1950 explained that first term married airmen were not eligible for higher rates of Basic Allowance for Quarters (BAQ) unless they had an allotment payable to the dependents on whose behalf the allowance is claimed. This law expired June 30 at midnight and Air Force officials have announced that no attempts will be made to extend or renew it.

What this change will mean to the average airman is that his wife will no longer receive a separate allotment check each month. Instead of receiving a payment of $145 each month for wives of E-1 through E-3 and or $161.50 for wives of members in grade E-4, all with less than four years service, the entire amount will be split into two equal payments and included in the husbands' checks at the middle and at the end of each month.

Change Seen Soon

The paychecks for the period ending July 15 should reflect the change, according to AFO officials.

The AFAFC at Denver, Colo. will mail a notice to all concerned individuals about the allotment change. The notice will explain how the payments are being made and airmen may expect the notices around July 20.

No Allotment Required

Members desiring to reestablish their allotments must initiate a new allotment form. This action is not required but is up to the individual's discretion. A new allotment may be granted if it is practical or if it is the result of a court-directed decision or if it is a result of geographical separation from the dependents. The new allotment will be a standard type allotment.

"Reese is a first class . . . base and you Reese people are making it that way"

Colonel Baxter

By Col. Walter H. Baxter III
Wing Commander

Very recently a colonel from the Tactical Air Command was visiting with me on his way to a new assignment. He commented on the appearance of Reese people and base facilities in an interesting way.

His question was, "Have you just had an ORI?" (TAC has Operational Readiness Inspections, which are like our IG inspections.)

My answer was "No".

"Then," he said, "are you expecting one?"

Again I said "No".

He said "You mean you always keep the base looking like this?"

Again I had to reply in the negative, for the base wasn't really as pretty as it usually is.

The colonel is a fighter pilot and travels all over the world. He has seen dozens of USAF bases, and even his critical eye was impressed with our base. Reese is a first class, moving, improving base, and you Reese people are making it that way.

I simply want to tell you of his comments, in order that you might share my pride in the unsolicited critique and praise of our base. I know our people and facilities don't get to looking first class by accident—it takes hard work and personal concern.

Thanks for the good work. Keep it up!

Ever-present standards determine good, bad

How do you know when something is good or bad?

Someone mugs a 70-year-old woman, takes her purse, and puts her in the hospital. Most of us can handle that one all right. It's bad.

How do we know? By applying a standard. It might be our own personal standard . . . or one established by law . . . or taught by our church . . . or practiced by our friends.

But we do apply a standard.

Some people say we shouldn't. What they're really saying though, is just that they don't want to accept our standards. They promptly establish their own. Dress, for example. Blue jeans, beards, granny glasses . . . all standards adopted by groups some people want to be part of.

Some other people find those standards offensive . . . even revolting. But they're free to live by those standards with which they feel more comfortable.

Some standards, of course, have to apply equally to everyone—like speed limits, safety precautions, requirements for voting, etc. Since they affect other people, some authority sets those standards in a way that will best serve all the people.

Those of us who wear the blue suit find many standards set for us by the Air Force . . . for the same reason . . .

to best serve all blue suiters, as we live with each other and with the civilian world around us.

Just as certain civilian speed limits may seem wrong to us, certainly some Air Force standards will not suit us either.

But just as we're expected to obey the speed limit with which we may not agree, so we must live by Air Force standards. They've both been set to best satisfy the needs of all the people.

Commander's CARE Line

Editor's note: The Roundup will continue to publish Commander's CARE Line inquiries as long as they are of base-wide interest. Reese personnel are encouraged to use the CARE Line to air any questions or comments they may have about services or situations at Reese.

Sir,

My name is Mrs. Madison, I am representing a group of 11 overweight women who belong to a club on base and we are interested in having the base gym open on Monday nights from 6:30 to 8:30 or so for women only.

Most of us are working women and cannot go to the gym on the morning that it is open for women. Thank you.

Mrs. Madison,

The base gymnasium announced in the June 21 edition of the Reese Bulletin that their summer hours had been changed to facilitate the working women only from 5 until 7 p.m. on Mondays.

This schedule is now in effect and will remain in effect until it becomes necessary for the student pilot classes to move back into the gymnasium for their winter schedule.

Chief revises 35-10 standards

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The first revision to Air Force male grooming standards in nearly three years was announced this week by Gen. John D. Ryan, Air Force Chief of Staff.

The revision, included in a forthcoming change to Air Force manual 35-10, "Dress and Personal Appearance of Air Force Personnel," is designed to clarify the need for grooming standards, better define terms, and provide clearer guidelines regarding styles and bulk of hair.

Appearance Is Issue

"The issue is the appearance of the man in uniform," said General Ryan. "I have directed a change to AFM 35-10 to emphasize our intent to maintain an appropriate military image."

Key changes to the manual include an explanation of the rationale for grooming rules and the prohibition of extreme styles considered to be incompatible with the image expected of a military man. The new revision also explains that the term "tapered appearance" does not rule out the block cut hair style.

Terms Defined

Bulk of hair is more clearly defined in the change. Bulk does not refer to the length of hair, but rather to the depth of the hair or the distance between its outer limits and the skull. Air Force men may now allow their hair to attain a bulk of one and one-quarter inches.

The revision also specifies when the grooming standards apply. Previously AFR 30-16, "Standards of Civilian Dress and Appearance," required off-duty members in civilian dress to conform to the same grooming standards as when in uniform. This provision is being rescinded and the change to AFM 35-10 states that the grooming standards will apply only when on duty and/or in uniform.

Emphasized Standards

Four standards in appearance are emphasized in the revision for AFM 35-10: neatness, cleanliness, safety, and military image. "The key element of this image," according to the revised manual, "is the appearance in uniform of members of the Air Force. This appearance must instill public confidence and leave no doubt that the serviceman lives by a common standard and is responsive to military order and discipline."

SPs slate annual vehicle registration

Reese Security Police officials have announced that the annual re-registration of vehicles will begin Monday at the Mathis Recreation Center.

The re-registration is required each year by an Air Training Command supplement to Air Force Regulation 125-14.

Hours for the registration will be from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. The registration will be accomplished according to squadrons, with the 64th Student Squadron getting the first two dates—Monday and Tuesday. Both the 35th and 54th Flying Training Squadrons will register their vehicles Wednesday and Thursday. The 64th Air Base Group is scheduled for July 13 and 16, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron and USAF Hospital will register July 17 and 18. The 64th Organizational Maintenance and Supply Squadrons plus all tenant units are slated to register their vehicles July 19 and 20.

Make up re-registration will be accomplished July 23.

Personnel reporting for re-registration are requested by Security Police to furnish the number on their old yellow registration decal. The yellow decal will expire for entrance to Reese June 30, but will be honored until July 31, according to the SP Division.

First woman graduates from mechanic's course

Sheppard AFB, Tex. (ATCPS)—Air Training Command has recorded its first woman graduate of the jet aircraft maintenance course within the Department of Aircraft Maintenance Training here.

A1C Mary Kathleen McGraw completed the 12-week course in only 10 weeks and was an honor graduate.

She has been assigned to the Squadron (Aerospace Defense Command) at Peterson Field, Colo., as an apprentice crew chief.

presently enrolled in the jet aircraft maintenance course at Sheppard's School of Applied Aerospace Sciences.

Airman Basic Linda L. Smith has become the first female student in the school's engine maintenance course. She is expected to graduate in September.

ATC previously recorded its first woman aircraft maintenance officer with the assignment of 2nd Lt. Peggy Martin to the 14th Flying Training Wing at Columbus AFB, Miss.

Lieutenant Martin is one of 34 female maintenance officers in the Air Force. She supervises nearly 90 maintenance technicians who service the wing's T-37 jet trainer aircraft.

Recent changes to Air Force directives have permitted women to enter the previously all-male maintenance field.

LAST RIDE—Maj. Arthur L. Throckmorton has just finished with the last flight of a Cessna T-41 Mescalero Trainer at Reese. The T-41 program has been phased out at Reese, as well as the other UPT bases, and has been consolidated at Hondo, Tex. Meeting the major are Col. Austin R. Bryan, Deputy Commander for Logistics and behind him Col. Alain G. Boughton, acting Deputy Commander for Operations. (U.S. Air Force Photo by A1C Willie Shirley)

Back in the good old days when Berl was young and courting, he was doing his best, loaded down with a washtub on his back, a chicken under his arm, cane in hand and leading a calf. His girl hesitated as they come to the woods, saying, "I'm afraid to walk with you in there, you might try to kiss me." "How could I?" He assured her, "look at all I'm carrying." "But you could stick that cane in the ground, tie the calf to it and put the chicken under the washtub."
 One time Berl called his girl friend to see if she was doing anything that night. She said she wasn't, so he took her out. Sure enough, she wasn't.

flick flack

This week's entertainment slate at the base theater will be ushered in with "Badge 373" tonight.

Showings are at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday unless otherwise noted. The Saturday matinee begins at 2 p.m.

Tonight

"Badge 373" is a brutally realistic police story based on the real-life career of New York City Detective Eddie Egan. He is suspended from the force and goes outside the law to bring his partner's murderers to justice. Egan himself served as technical advisor for the movie and also plays a key co-starring role along with Robert Duvall and Verna Bloom. The feature is rated R, patrons under 17 require accompanying parent or adult guardian.

Saturday Matinee and Evening

That magical screen combination of children, animals and nature is again brought together in Walt Disney's adventure "Naoleon and Samantha". The unusual tale centers around two youngsters who, rather than part with an old pet circus lion, go on a perilous mountain trek to stay with a recluse friend. The G-rated flick stars Michael Douglas, Will Greer and Johnny Whitaker.

Sunday

Diana Ross stars in the story about the greatest blues singer America ever produced, in "Lady Sings The Blues". The film portrays the gutsy singer as a woman who, despite being an alcoholic and drug abuser, was a terrific success as a blues singer. It also stars Billy Dee Williams and is rated R.

Tuesday and Wednesday

"Fear Is The Key" stars Barry Newman and Suzy Kendall and will be showing both days. It is the story of a man whose wife and son are killed in a mysterious plane crash. The plane, which he discovers contains $8 million in currency, crashes into a body of water, and he spends the next four years becoming an expert in the operation of underwater equipment so that he can recover the money and revenge the death of his family. A fantastic car chase is included in this PG-rated feature, parental guidance is suggested.

Thursday

Walt Disney's "The World's Greatest Athlete" tells about how two failing coaches from Merrivale College who travel to Africa to discover a youth with fantastic athletic ability. Through trickery, the two coaches bring him back and train him as a star in every spot. The athlete's African witch doctor godfather is summoned to watch his godson excel at the national track and field events, but things go topsy-turvy when the witch doctor's black magic takes over the field. This hilarious show is rated G, and stars Tim Conway, Jan-Michael Vincent and Jon Amos.

Communicators continue lead in intramural golf

The 2053rd Communications Squadron golf team is still knocking off all challengers in the Reese Intramural Golf League weekly competition.

This week's action saw the leaders barely edge their opponent but still come out on top as they silenced the Detachment 11, 24th Weather Squadron team, 7½-6½.

Other matches saw the 64th Air Base Group (ABGp) team picking up 14 points from a forfeit by the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, the 54th Flying Training Squadron (FTS) beating the Reese USAF Hospital team, 8-6 and the 35th Flying Training Squadron pulled up in a tie at seven apiece with the Management Engineering Detachment. The 64th Student Squadron and Supply Squadron teams drew a bye for the week.

The week's top golfers were mainly from the Comm Squadron team. Sid Taylor of that organization logged a 74, Bill Benson shot a 79 and George Balog fired an 84 to take top honors for the communicators. The Weather Detachment boasted the effort of Vern Manness with his 85 and Dana Demont and Bob Peterman of the 35th FTS shot 85 apiece.

The standings as of June 28 are as follows:

Team	Points
Comm Squadron	99½
Reese USAF Hospital	76
64th Student Squadron	73½
35th FTS	66½
64th Supply Squadron	58
64th ABGp	54
MOM	48½
54th FTS	48½
64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron	42
Weather Detachment	38½

This week's schedule will host the champions against the 54th FTS and the 64th Supply Squadron will battle it out with the Weather Detachment. In other action, the 64th Student Squadron will host the 64th FMS and the 35th FTS will play against the 64th OMS.

AFN tells of ex-PWs

July's Air Force Now Film is devoted entirely to the homecoming of America's Prisoners of War.

The 27-minute film centers around personal comments of returned PWs and contains a look at many aspects of the homecoming operation—PW receptions, reunions, interviews concerning enemy treatment and PW survival, differences in the society to which they have returned, the family situations they now face and their future expectations.

The film will be viewed at all Commander's Calls during July.

Base golf course gains new sprinkler system

Reese Civil Engineering officials have announced that work began on a new automatic sprinkler system for the base golf course June 25.

The sprinkler system is scheduled to be fully installed in the latter part of July. The system will cover all nine fairways plus the driving range.

Golfers using the course during July may experience minimal inconvenience because of pipe-laying operations, but play should return to normal by the end of July, according to CE officials.
