Fur Trappers Travel Near Yellowstone Park Area

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles entitled 'A Fur Trapper' and written by Mrs. Syd Davis. The articles are about Warren Angus Ferris, the grandfather of Mrs. Allie Ferris Pounds of Newcastle.)

By Mrs. Syd Davis

In July, 1832, the rendezvous was at Pirres Hole, a lovely valley southwest of the Yellowstone area. The members of 3 fur companies and a large group of Indians were gathered, when they were attacked by a party of about 400 Blackfeet Indians, the fiercest of all mountain Indians. It is said that the hands of all Blackfeet were against all men, both red and white. This is perhaps the best known battle that took place between Indians and trappers. Both sides lost a number of men, but the Indians slipped away during the night. The trappers fired so many bullets, that the next day it was necessary for them to dig the led out of the trees or else be short of bullets.

In the fall of 1832, William Henry Vanderburgh, the leader of the American Fur Co., was killed in battle with the Blackfeet. He had been educated at West Point and was considered an excellent leader of men. In this same battle Ferris was wounded in the shoulder. With blood gushing from his nose and mouth, and thinking he was "done for", he spurred his horse toward camp. Reaching it, some of his comrades took him from his horse, and proceeded to give him the medical attention needed. To his surprise, he recovered and was able to work again in a month, though he had a crippled shoulder the rest of his life.

Ferris was made clerk for the company, which involved keeping the books, handing some of the trades with the Indians, as well as raising the furs from the caches and transporting them to the rendezvous. On one occasion he was ordered to take 5 men and 10 pack animals and raise a cache about 300 miles distant. The course lay directly through the country occupied by the Arapaho Indians who were hostile at this time. The value of the furs to be transported was about $15,000. Ferris choose 2 Dele-

Charges Filed After Shooting Monday Eve

Charges of assault with intent to murder were filed Tuesday against Mrs. James Stafford following a shooting Monday evening.

According to investigating officers, Mrs. Stafford shot her husband twice, once in the foot and once in the stomach with a .25 caliber Colt automatic pistol.

Stafford was taken to Hamilton Hospital where surgery was required to remove the bullet in his stomach. He is reported not to have been seriously injured.

The incident took place in the couple's home at 408 South Ave. A and was reported to police at 8:45 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Stafford was placed in the county jail at Graham where bond was set at $1000.

Deadline for signing - up for the Fort Belknap Water cooperative association has been set for July 10 by members of the board of directors of the body. Prior to the deadline, memberships will cost $50 and thereafter the memberships will be $200 plus installation.

A spokesman for the board said it was impossible to contact everyone personally. Persons interested in having "good treated water" should contact either Clarence Daniels, John R. Bullock, Roy Veal or Gene Williamson.

Hospital Has 43 Medicare Cases Since July 1

At noon Wednesday a total of 43 Medicare patients had been admitted to Hamilton Hospital in Olney according to Richard Higginbotham, hospital administrator. He added that 10 of these patients have already been dismissed.

The Medicare program for the elderly began on July 1.

The local hospital facility is completely filled with 101 patients as of Wednesday noon. Three of these are bedded down in the halls and one has been placed in the old delivery room.

Higginbotham said it was too early to tell if the crowded condition presently at the hospital is a result of the Medicare program or not.

Bloodmobile Due In Five Weeks

By Blood Program Reporter
Five weeks from today the Red River Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Olney Community Center for the purpose of collecting blood.

Blood is vital to life, and a gift of blood is perhaps the most precious gift one person can bestow upon another.

Emergency blood needs are like automobile accidents or serious illness . . . they always seem to happen to someone else. But they can happen to any of us. Every day emergency blood needs for the ill and injured are filled through the American Red Cross Blood program.

There is a simple, satisfying way to help these people in sudden need of blood (and yourself should the need arise.) The donation of a little of your time to give a pint of your blood will help to assure a sufficient quantity of this precious commodity on hand when the need is critical.

The advent of summer finds people planning vacation and other activities and sometime forgetting about the continuing need. Summer is a crucial period for blood needs, so put it on your list of things to do before you leave on your vacation.

The bloodmobile will be in Graham on July 22 and in Olney on August 11. If your vacation falls during the bloodmobile's visit to Olney, please make your vacation more enjoyable by helping to save a life and giving either at Graham or at the Center in Wichita Falls if you are there. Wherever you give, can give Olney credit. Remember BLOOD is the magic gift of life.

WILD WEST SHOW AND PORPOISE ACT NEWEST ATTRACTIONS AT SIX FLAGS

The Overland Stagecoach being attacked by Kiowa Indians is just one of the exciting features of Six Flags Over Texas' newest attraction, the Wild West Show. Visitors to the 2,500-seat, open-air arena see the turbulent days of early Texas re-created as part of the colorful pageant which is presented three times daily throughout the summer.

Arlington, Texas: The size and scope of Six Flags Over Texas continues to expand as the state's most popular single tourist attraction recently added a Wild West Show and a performing porpoise to its entertainment list.

The Wild West Show presented by Six Flags is a throwback to the traveling spectacles of yesteryear. An especially built 2,500-seat open-air arena located in the west corner of the Texas Section provides the setting for a recreation of the turbulent life of the early days of the Old West. Visitors see war-painted Kiowa Indians attacking the Overland Stagecoach, followed by mounted cavalry coming to the rescue. The action-packed show features trick riders, bull whip and rope artists and dance-hall girls among the cast of forty performers.

Produced for Six Flags by pioneer rodeo impresario Frank Rush of Lawton, Oklahoma, the performances are staged at 1:00, 3:00 and 5:00 p.m. seven days a week throughout the summer months. The Wild West Show here is not on the tomahawk and souvenir bead level, but rather places its emphasis on the excitement and historical pageantry of early Texas.

Over on Skull Island, in the Confederate Section of the 115-acre Park, a bottle-nose porpoise named Skipper II now ranks as the favorite of the young set. Put through his paces four times daily by his pretty blonde trainer, Diana Langer of Marathon, Florida, the talented and acrobatic 400-pound mammal frolics in his newly built 25,000-gallon water tank.

Both the Wild West Show and the Porpoise Act are free, as are all the rides, attractions and shows inside Six Flags being covered by the one all-inclusive ticket purchased at the main gate.

FHA Provides Rural Homes

A new house is the dream of most American families. It is a goal many city families can reach because housing credit is available. But in Rural areas housing credit is hard to find. So new or improved housing often remains a dream for rural people. This need not be the case. The Farmers Home Administration has a rural Housing Loan Program designed for rural families who cannot get credit elsewhere. Find out if you qualify for a rural housing loan and the Farmers Home Administration.

County Agent's Corner

By L. M. McCARROLL

The hot dry weather of summer always brings problems. Extra water is needed if plants are to remain green. Water should be applied in heavy amounts at less frequent intervals rather than sprinkling every day or two. Roots are encouraged to come to the surface with the lighter applications.

Fading out of St. Augustine grass may become common in the county, beginning with the hot season.

Some growers incorrectly refer to it as brown patch but this occurs in the cooler weather of spring or fall. Brown patch can be identified by the fact that leaves are easily pulled from the stolons, appear in a circular pattern and the stolons are not killed. The opposite of this is true with fading out.

Certain insects such as chinch bugs may cause symptoms that can be confused with fading out. Presence or absence of insects can be used as a deciding factor here.

Fading out is most difficult to control. Fungicide applications are not usually sufficient for satisfactory control and an attempt must be made to eliminate factors which are reducing the vigor of the grass and thereby leading to the problem of fading out.

The following steps are suggested for most effective control of fading out:

1. Prevent the development of a thatch by catching grass clippings at the time of mowing. Organisms that attack living grass stolons build up to high levels in thatch and make normal development of grass difficult.

2. Proper nutrition of plant helps tolerate disease attack and the balancing of nutrition levels according to soil tests is recommended.

3. Thorough but less frequent watering should be practiced as shallow watering may encourage disease development.

After the above practices have been carried through the fading out should be treated with maneb. Two to three applications should be made at 14-day intervals to protect the grass during the recovery period.

For more information pick up your copy of B-203, "Home Lawns" from the County Agents office.

Outdoor minded Texans suddenly become masters of scratching every year at this time. The activity is not a planned summer pastime. It's simply an on-the-spot reaction to the bites of redbugs or chiggers.

Redbugs are a type of mite that cause intense itching and small reddish welts on the skin. The young or larval forms are the trouble maker. They are parasitic to man and animals, about 1/150 of an inch in diameter, and are orange-yellow to light red.

Chiggers feed by injecting fluid into the skin to dissolve the tissue. Then they suck up the liquified meal.

Anyone who has been on a chigger's menu doesn't need to be told about their feeding sites. This becomes obvious after a few hours. But the main places are those parts of the body where clothing fits tightly over the skin or where the flesh is thin, tender or wrinkled.

The result is reddish welts, swelling and the sharpest kind of itching that makes the victim go through all sorts of contortions to get at the bite.

Chiggers can be controlled. Dusts of 10 percent chlordane or toxaphene, 1 percent lindane or sulphur at the rate of 1 to 1 one-fourth pounds per 1000 square feet on lawns and campsites. If sprays are preferred, use dieldrin, chlordane, lindane or toxaphene at the rate of 2 one fourth to 3 quarts of finished material per 1000 square feet. Follow manufacturer's directions carefully.

Repellents are effective on people who must go into areas where chiggers are suspected. Apply to clothing and skin at openings that are buttoned, zippered or otherwise fastened. Cuffs, waistbands, neckbands, hems, and armholes are also good repellent targets.

Delaying harvest of your hay will increase tonnage, but the quality will be lower. Unless, of course, you want to sacrifice quality for quantity, do not put off harvesting hay.

A good general rule to follow is "cut hay before the forage matures and forms seed heads." For best quality, Johnsongrass or sudan sorghum hybrid should be cut in the boot state - just before seed head emerges. Coastal makes few seedheads, so plan to cut coastal when the growth is about 4 weeks old or less.

Cutting hay at these stages gives the highest production of total digestible nutrients (TDN). Delaying the harvest usually increases the tonnage, but the increased production is in the form of increased stalk and fiber.

It's important to conserve at the quality of the hay by baling as soon as possible after cutting. A hay conditioner may be helpful to hurry up the drying process. After baling, topdress with fertilizer immediately for faster, high quality regrowth, if moisture is available.

Enjoyed meeting with the Longhorn Recreation Board of Directors at Lake Travis over the July 4th weekend. As president of the board, extra responsibilities fell my way, including food for about 30 peo-

Hillcrest Highlights

by MRS. D. H. RODGERS

Mrs. Sybil Payne spent two happy days at home this week, with her daughter, Nell and son, Weldon and wife, from Florida. He works for a large construction company and travels all over South America.

Mrs. Payne spent the day at her home and returned to Hillcrest for the night.

Mrs. Laird has resigned her job as head cook, and Mrs. Stringer will assume that position. Mrs. Olen Wright has been hired to help in the kitchen.

Visiting in the home at supper, Saturday, was Father Joseph Weinzapful who cares for the Roman Catholic Churches in Breckenridge, Graham and Olney. Nurse Nellie Vecera introduced him to the people around the tables.

Our young-looking nurses, here at Hillcrest Haven, are continually surprising us. Nurse Nellie Vecera has four children, for instance, three girls and a boy. Ruth, our red-headed nurse, lives near-by and has six children. Lucille has children and grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Sprinkle were visiting in the Home, Monday afternoon.

If necessity is the mother of invention, then luxury must be the father of it.

Most people who marry for money find out they could have borrowed it cheaper.

In this great country you can still get all you want from the best filling station in the world - your own dining room.

Agent Warns Of Chemical Use

All chemicals should be used according to the instructions and recommendations, says County Agent L. M. McCarroll.

Recommendations for weed control with chemicals are based mainly on effectiveness of control. "Suggestions for Weed Control with Chemicals," Esten-sion publication B-1029, lists current suggestions for use of chemicals to control weed and weedy plants in Texas.

The bulletin also has suggestions for safe use of herbicides.
The recommendations for weed control are based primarily on results of the most recent research tests by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and demonstrations by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The publication has information on weed control in alfalfa, corn, cotton, wheat sorghum, turf grasses and in establishing coastal bermudagrass and other crops. Also included in some very good information on sprays, calibrations, etc.

The final responsibility for safe use of any chemical rests with the user. Nearly all herbicides are potentially dangerous, but they likely will not cause injury if used properly. For more information on chemical weed control and safe use of chemicals, the publication B-10-cludes McCarroll.

SAFB Emergency Hospital Set Up In Annual Practice

Many Olney area persons took advantage of viewing the emergency hospital that was set up in the grade school building here Wednesday, according to Lt. Col. Chester Poole, hospital commander.

The hospital unit, which is stored in Olney to be used in the event of an emergency, was set up last year for the first time. Col Poole said the hospital will be installed and all equipment checked each year according to Air Force regulations.

The hospital belongs to the base hospital at Sheppard Air Force Base and is rated as a 36 - bed unit. However, Col. Poole said the single unit could care for as many as 2,000 persons.

"I want to express the deep felt appreciation for the base hospital at Sheppard for the generosity and cooperation of the people of Olney," Col Poole said, "without this such an efficient operation of an Off-base hospital would be impossible."

The hospital unit was declared operational shortly afternoon Wednesday when it was inspected by the base hospital commander, Col. Q. Serenati.

Col. Poole stated that under the new regulations, all drugs and medical supplies stored in Olney are rotated every month so that fresh supplies are stored here at all times.

The hospital will be dismantled beginning this morning and repacked for storage for another year. Col Poole said that while the formal tours ended Wednesday afternoon, persons wishing to see some of the equipment were welcome this morning.

In all, 50 Air Force personnel, including three nurses and three doctors, participated in the exercise. A total of 400 man hours per day was being spent here in Olney, which is one reason the exercise was cut short by one day.

- Cimmaron 37.5

Samples of these were taken to the Agricultural Experiment Station at Chillicothe recently where they were threshed, weighed and yields determined.

The results of the Wheat Variety demonstration plot on the Dwight Hamilton Farm have been determined, according to Young County Agricultural Agent, L. M. McCarroll. Hamilton sowed approximately 2 acres of each variety on his farm near Elbert. Thirty pounds of Nitrogen were put down at seeding time, which according to soil test recommendations.

Yields in bushels on an acre basis were as follows:

- Crockett 24.4

The agent points out that this particular part of the county was extremely dry during the winter and early spring. The plot was completely flooded for about 3 days in April.

Hamilton has several hundred acres of wheat each year in Young and Throckmorton Counties and of several varieties. He serves as president of the Rolling Plains Wheat growers Association and is a member of the Young County Crop Sub-Committee.

Parallel Terraces Aids Farming Slopes

Farming sloping land can be made as easy as farming a level field by installing parrallel terraces. They eliminate many problems that have been encountered with the crooked conventional terrace, according to David Baker, Soil Conservation Service. Spacing parrallel terraces to match the farming equipment gives easier operation of equipment and seeds up farm-

A field needing terraces should be completely planned to locate where waterways are needed to get the most terraces parrallel on the field. Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Upper West Fork Soil and Water Conservation District can help make a detailed parrallel terrace plan. The plan includes locating the waterways and terraces best suited to the needs of the field and the desires of the landowner.

Spacing the terrace to match the farm equipment is the major advantage of a parrallel terrace system, says Baker. Operations such as planting, cultivating and harvesting will be speeded up by eliminating sharp turns and short point rows in the field. In addition, parrallel terrace will eliminate large concentrations of runoff water, thus giving it a chance to enter the soil.

Soil Conservation Service Technicians will prepare a topographic map of your field to locate the best parrallel terrace system. Contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Graham well in advance so that the plan can be developed before establishing your waterways.

Fur Trapper . . .

 ware Indians, 1 Shawnee, and 2 French Canadians to accompany him as they were well experienced in the dangers involved. This group traveled early each morning, stopped in the middle of the day, to allow their horses to graze for 2 hours & traveled again until 2 hours before sunset, setting up camp as though to spend the night, but as soon as it was dark saddling their horses again and covering at least 10 miles before bedding down for the night. This was to prevent any straggling Indians from following them to the cache. They reached the cache, located their furs, and began their return to their camp headquarters. They knew that Indians were ahead of them as game was scarce, but signs seemed to indicate they were several days ahead of them on the trail. They relaxed their vigilance and became a little careless in watching signs. One morning it rained hard and they were late getting started. Crossing a river, they came upon a large herd of buffalo and antelope. After making the mistake of shooting some, they discovered nearly a hundred Indians riding hard ahead. They were so far away that they thought they were undiscovered and were soon concealed behind a mountain. Ferris knew that it was the practice of this tribe to attack just before day-break. Also, he knew it was to his advantage to act as though he had not seen the Indians. He and his companions proceeded to a spring that was known as a regular camping place for both trappers and Indians. In apparent carelessness they threw the packs off of the animals, unsaddled their horses, started a big fire, cooked a good supper, and ate as though there wasn't an enemy in 100 miles. After it was dark, each man cautiously placed sticks under his saddle blanket to give the appearance of a man sitting by the campfire. They then quietly reloaded the pack animals, led them and their horses past the Indians who were camped in a small ravine. They were stark naked around a fire and were already painting themselves with warpaint in preparation for the attack. By the next morning the trappers had covered 30 miles and had completely outwitted the Indians.
