Nobel Peace Prize Recipient Arrested

By STEVEN HURST
Associated Press Writer
MCLEW (AP)—The Soviet government today stripped dissident leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov of a series of state awards, accusing him of "subversive work against the Soviet state." Dissidents said Sakharov had been arrested.

Police guarding his home hinted Sakharov might be deported. The Tass news agency did not make any mention of an arrest or a possible deportation. But it said the 58-year-old Sakharov had been repeatedly warned against making "open calls to reactionary circles of imperialist circles to interfere in the U.S.S.R.'s internal affairs." Sakharov has pushed for human rights in the Soviet Union in appeals to President Carter, Pope John Paul II and other world leaders. After the Tass statement appeared, plainclothesmen at Sakharov's building told reporters "It's all over." They then suggested the reporters go to Sheremetyevo Airport, raising immediate speculation that the dissident was being summarily deported. But in response to a direct question, the officials would not confirm Sakharov was at the airport. Shortly before the Tass announcement, The Associated Press office in Moscow received two telephone calls saying Sakharov had been arrested. The first was from an anonymous caller who said Sakharov's wife, activist Yelena Bonner, soon would be taken into custody as well.

The second was from someone identifying herself as Irina Kaplun, a long-time associate of Sakharov in dissident activities, who said he had been arrested on a Moscow street. Reporter said many plainclothes policemen were milling about in the street near the Sakharov building on the southeast edge of downtown Moscow.

Tuesday update

Gold Keeps Dropping

LONDON (AP)—Gold dropped more than $70 an ounce in Europe today in a bout of profit-taking. The dollar firmed, and dealers attributed the strengthening to President Carter's stand against the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Carter Takes Hard Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter says Americans "must pay whatever price is required to remain the strongest nation in the world." In a written State of the Union message delivered to Congress Monday, the president took a hard line toward the Soviet Union and placed a U.S. military buildup first among American goals for the 1980s.

Soviet Spy Makes Escape

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP)—Christopher Boyce, one of two young Californians convicted in 1977 of delivering copies of classified U.S. defense documents to Soviet agents, has escaped from the federal correctional institution here, a prison spokesman said today.

No Tax Cut In Sight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter says he isn't proposing a tax cut this year because it could worsen inflation, although he held out the possibility of a tax reduction later in the year if the economy goes into a nosedive. "Restraining inflation remains my highest domestic priority," he said in his State of the Union message Monday.

The SDN Column

Few activities escape the claws of politics, regardless of whether they are government-supported. The controversy over the future of the 1980 Olympic Games is the latest example. The United States views the Olympics from a position that is different from that of most other countries. The United States government does not sponsor our Olympic Games teams, and neither does it contribute to their support. This is far different from the situation in the Soviet Union where the top athletes literally are employed by the government, their job being to bring gold medals to Moscow.

So, it is not surprising that some people have worked themselves into a frenzy at the mere suggestion that we boycott the 1980 Olympic Games in protest of Russian's invasion of Afghanistan. They demand that politics be kept out of the Olympics. But politics has crept into the Olympic Games before and likely will in the future. For example, South African athletes were banned from the Montreal Summer Olympics in 1976 for political reasons. And remember 1972 when the PLO zealots literally invaded the Munich Olympics, and what about the plans this year to force the athletes from Taiwan to compete in Moscow under the banner of another nation?

The ideal solution would be for the remainder of the world to agree on a plan to shift the site of the Olympics from Moscow. The Games themselves may not help the Soviets, but the propaganda opportunities are too vast to be overlooked. Nazis Germany was permitted to pull off such an event in 1936 when the Olympic Games were held in Berlin simultaneously with Adolph Hitler's emergence as a threat to the free world. The Moscow Olympic Games could very well develop into a similar farce. Anyway, as President Jimmy Carter acknowledged Sunday, in this country the decision is not really left to the federal government. It can make a plea, but ultimately the Olympic Committee must call the shot.

Ask Us

Q—Isn't it true that in the event of nuclear attack, Scurry County could very possibly be one of the targets?

A—A list of possible priority targets distributed several months ago did not have Scurry County on it. However, the oilfields here undoubtedly would attract attention, and neighboring Abilene was on the priority list (because Dyess Air Force Base is a Strategic Air Command installation) and a miscalculation of only seconds could put Scurry County in a bomb's path. As a practical matter, there is not likely to be a safe place in any inhabited area if there is a nuclear attack, according to various sources.

Tax Board Set To Open Bids

The Scurry County Tax Appraisal Board is scheduled to open bids for the purpose of employing evaluation engineers for oil property at a meeting tonight. The meeting is set for 7 p.m. in the Snyder city hall. The county board is in the process of setting up machinery to handle appraisal work for all taxing agencies in the county. A contract for evaluating oil property is due to be let as soon as contracts with the participating taxing entities are completed.

Voters Must Have White Cards Now

Scurry Countians who have not received their voter registration cards need to drop by the Scurry County Clerk's office at the courthouse and see about it, advises county clerk Beverly Ainsworth. "If you have not received your white voter registration card for the reason you have moved," she said, "you have until the first of March to come by and change the address and have a new card issued." Mrs. Ainsworth said nearly 1,500 cards have been returned to her office, and most of them because of address changes. After the first of March all of those will be cancelled. A person may still be eligible to vote in the primary by registering at the polls if his name appears on a list of those purged, but to vote in the actual election a person must be registered at least 30 days previously. The County Clerk's office is located on the third floor of the courthouse and is open from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Heavy Snowfall Causes Area Travel Advisories

A fresh winter surge brought a heavy fall of wet snow to the Snyder area early today, and travel advisories were posted by the National Weather Service for the South Plains of Texas. Area schools were in session this morning, but Snyder Public Schools planned to dismiss classes at 2:30 p.m. to give buses more time to make their rounds before nightfall. Blowing and drifting snow was reported causing hazardous driving conditions over a big area. The snowfall began in Snyder before dawn and by 8 a.m. had resulted in accumulations of two to three inches, despite the fact that much of it was melting. The thermometer was hovering around the freezing mark, however, and northerly winds were expected to bring colder weather this afternoon and tonight. The snowfall and earlier drizzle had accounted for .36 inch of moisture in the official gauge at the city water plant by 7 a.m. and the snowfall was adding more to the total. Elsewhere, foul weather prevailed across all of Texas and forecasts provided little hope of any rapid improvement. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported along middle and upper sections of the Texas coast into North Texas and East Texas. Scattered thunderstorms were also reported from far Southwest Texas into the Concho Valley and rain and drizzle fell across central portions of the state. Forecasts called for occasional snow in Northwest Texas, rain in South Texas and scattered thunderstorms in North Texas and Southwest Texas. A flash flood watch was in effect in Southeast Texas where heavy rain fell during the night. Highs were to range from the mid 30s in Northwest Texas to near 70 in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Most of the state, however, was to have highs in the 40s and 50s. The heaviest rainfall during the night, according to initial reports, was in San Angelo and Longview where .56 of an inch fell. Many other areas had heavy rainfall, but the reports were not immediately available. Early morning temperatures ranged from the 20s in the Panhandle to the 60s along the coast. Extremes ranged from 29 at both Amarillo and Dalhart to 66 at Beaumont and Port Arthur.

Homestead Claim Should Be Signed

If you are entitled to a homestead tax exemption be certain that you have signed up for it, Ray Peveler, chief appraiser for the Scurry County Tax Appraisal District, has reminded.

Three Killed When Auto Hits Dwelling

ODESSA (AP)—A car ran a stop sign and plowed into a house early today, killing three persons who were asleep in their bedroom, police said. The victims were a young married couple and their infant daughter, who were sleeping in the same bed, officers said. They were found tangled in bedsheets and the mattress, wedged under the front wheels of the auto. The driver of the wayward car fled the scene, but police later took the owner of the vehicle into custody for questioning.

the usual predictions

America enters the 1980s beset with what appears to be some substantial economic problems, many stimulated by the current energy shortage. The economic problems, as frightening as they appear, are not so bad when compared to the woes of other nations. The relative prosperity experienced by Americans, especially in the 25 years following the Second World War, makes the current situation seem all the worse. But now is not the time to listen to doomsayers. They have, with few exceptions, been wrong in the past. This is especially true regarding gloomy predictions about the availability of oil.

Yes, there have been predictions about the final depletion of our oil resources for more than one hundred years. The list includes:

-In 1866 the U.S. Revenue Commission suggested synthetics be produced since U.S. oil availability was questionable.

-In 1885 the U.S. Geological Survey suggested California would not be a major oil producer. In 1891 they made an equally inaccurate prediction about Kansas and Texas.

-In 1914 the U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast that future oil production in the U.S. would be only 5.7 billion barrels.

-In 1920 the U.S. Geological Survey claimed the country had almost reached its domestic production peak.

-In 1939 the Department of Interior predicted domestic oil supplies would last only 13 years longer.

-In 1947 the chief of the Petroleum Division of the State Department stated that sufficient oil could not be found in the United States.

-In 1949 the secretary of the interior claimed that the end of the U.S. oil supply was almost in sight.

Obviously, dismal predictions concerning oil continue to be made. If one believes the experts, gas lines should already be forming at local stations. Statistic-wielding bureaucrats tell us that the United States has only a ten-year supply of crude oil left. The more pessimistic forecasters claim the nation will end the new decade immobile and in the dark. Fortunately, this current batch of soothsayers are likely to be no more accurate than their less-than-optimistic predecessors.

Even by today's data, this nation has about 50 years supply of oil and gas. The United States Geological Survey, the official government source for such data, estimates that America has at least 134 billion barrels of oil left, with a high estimate of up to 222 billion barrels. Natural gas estimates are of a similar magnitude. Importantly, these are the official estimates, and officials estimates have always been low - very low.

Independent oil producers, the genuine entrepreneurs of the industry, believe there is a lot more oil out there than the bureaucrats suggest. Their publication, Petroleum Independent is amazingly optimistic about the possibility of better use, of already discovered oil - better ways of bringing more to the surface - and the potential of discovering new and bigger oil fields. They think that modern technology has made more oil available from deep wells and offshore fields than was thought possible only a few years ago. With a healthy profit motive to spur them on, nothing seems able to stop these wildcaters from getting America the oil it needs.

The hitch is: politicians and bureaucrats are now trying to cut back on the profitability of the oil business. Past dreary predictions were disproven when a vibrant profit-seeking oil industry rushed forth to discover and produce more oil than the politicians dreamed possible. Now, at a time that America should be stimulating its oil production, the government is passing laws that have the opposite effect. Ironically, this may be the first time predictions of disaster come true, but only because the country has turned to the pessimists to formulate a national policy.

hard up for heroes

There will be a postage stamp honoring entertainer W.C. Fields.

It will show the comic in his distinctive top hat performing a juggling act.

It will be issued January 29 of this year (1980) which is the 100th anniversary of his birth.

It will first be issued in Beverly Hills, Calif., in ceremonies sponsored by the American Academy of Motion Pictures, Arts and Sciences in a ceremony at the Academy theater.

I'm having trouble believing what I just said. Are we really that hard up for heroes?

If I wanted purposely to dilute the historic image of the United States so that I might diminish its institutions and turn it into something which is not I will might start by putting pictures of clowns on its postage stamps.

Because if I can get Americans to sit still for that precedent, they will then be unable to protest my next move when I might choose to put the likenesses of anti-American revolutionaries on stamps.

When the so-called Symbionese Liberation Army was manipulating the kidnapped Patty Hearst, its published objective was to profane the "middle-class ethic."

The militants explained, "If you can get a nice, middle-class girl to use language like that to scream out such words at a rally - you then have a much better chance of getting her to throw a brick through a window."

Francis Watson Jr., analyzing the underground media, explains that "the use of four-letter vulgarisms is intended purposely to influence the culture toward greater permissiveness."

Having cursed religion it's much easier to curse patriotism.

Does this suggest that Paul Harvey imagines that putting W.C. Fields on a postage stamp represents a sinister conspiracy to subvert and demean American institutions?

I can't prove that. What I am certain of is that there is something terribly sad about a country so bankrupt that there are no longer worthy recipients for its highest honors.

I may be letting this disturb me more than it should. Already I have heard from some very nice, very sincere, utterly un-subversive people who say, "But W.C. Fields IS a hero!"

Also, I understand the U.S. Postal Service commitment is irreversible so why bother to wax indignant.

I've watched with approval as our postal service honored Albert Einstein and Will Rogers and commemorated Bunker Hill and the '68 Olympics.

I watched with acquiescence as the postal service used stamps to promote football and pottery art.

But if W.C. Fields is next can Dolly Parton be far behind?

A Fluvanna Main Street regular has retired and it is sure going to seem strange without her. Mrs. Esma Kingston, who worked at the post office for 30 years, stuffed her last pigeonhole last week. The post office without Esma is going to be like the Longbranch Saloon in Dodge City without Miss Kitty.

To those who have lived in a big city like Snyder all their lives, this may be hard to understand but in a little community like Fluvanna the people and their jobs meld after a certain length of time. The person becomes the job so to speak and any change in personnel shakes up the senses.

Imagine your reaction if some clean-shaven young dude came riding up to Matt Dillon on a mule and said, "Good day to you Matthew sir. Festus has retired and central casting has assigned me to take his place as your faithful but cantankerous sidekick."

Fluvanna will survive of course and someone else will bring his (or her) own brand of flavor to the post office. Even on Gunsmoke there was Chester before there was Festus.

Remember Chester? The point is that once the person is gone, although the job remains, something is lost forever.

Here are a few more of the Fluvanna regulars that pop out of my memory which dates back, appropriately enough, about 30 years:

SHANG GATEWOOD - He and his loving wife, Lovie, ran the cafe. Shang wasn't fond of little boys who came in the cafe in the dead of an afternoon and demanded a hamburger. But after he fixed it there was always an argument over who was going to eat it.

OLA STAVELY - This cheery dark haired lady ran the merchantile and cautioned us young 'uns about the danger of pine splinters when we came into the huge store bare-footed.

After Ola, J.D. and Lanette Patterson ran the store. They had a boy three years younger than myself and he was duly impressed by the worldly wisdom of my advanced years. We were often in trouble with his mother whose philosophy of correct behavior varied from mine somewhat. Larry is now a successful real estate man in San Angelo so one of us must have been doing something right.

RUBY BENSON - Down the street from the merchantile was Ruby's Drug Store. Ruby is a very gracious lady and didn't mind much when a bored little boy sat in her store reading comic books even though he seldom had a dime to buy one.

THE DOMINO HALL - When things got particularly dull I could always drop in on Dean Ball's Garage and watch the domino players slap the rocks down on the table and complain about the dry weather between hands. This still goes on. I would suspect it is the very same game except a few of the players are missing. Some have passed on and others such as Panch McDonald and Sam Bruner have defected to Snyder. The games got too rough for them I suppose.

There are others who are still doing exactly what I remember them doing as long as I can remember. Travis Beaver, who is pushing 80, is still burning rods in his welding shop. James Stansell is still farming and raising pigs and still has a mob of curly headed kids hanging around the house. Only now they are grandchildren.

Sid Miller will still put up a storm door or panel your home if you approach him right. Hoyt Pylant still refuses to buy a television and succumbs to air conditioning only in August and will still argue with you about any subject you can dream up.

There are many more I could name. Reader's Digest always refers to "unforgettable characters" as the though they no longer exist. Obviously they have not visited Fluvanna, Ira, Hermleigh etc. lately and are under the impression such lifestyles stopped with the invention of the electric ice cream mixer.

Speaking of visiting, Fluvanna has its five-year reunion coming up in June and if you have so much as passed through (even if you were lost) you are invited. Don't wait for a written invitation because if you live in Scurry County you are not going to get one.

And in the words of Orville Mathis, "If you can't come, send money."

property rights eroding

NEW YORK (AP) - The real estate industry is changing: The commission structure is being reshaped, franchising is becoming popular, national firms are competing with local outlets, housing concepts are evolving.

But one change that Ralph W. Pritchard doesn't foresee is a very sharp deflation in single-family home prices. "No way in the world," he said the other day. "Too much of a demand, too much of a shortage."

Pritchard is this year's president of the National Association of Realtors, which claims 750,000 members and describes itself as the country's largest professional trade organization.

What does worry him is what he sees as an insidious growth, one that has the potential of being cancerous a decade from now. It is the erosion of property rights, hidden by seemingly praiseworthy devices. Among them he lists zoning devices, overly restrictive building codes, rent control and unrealistic environmental laws.

"Government bodies at all levels have been slipping regulations into the market bit by bit," he observes. "The effect has been a gradual smothering of privileges upon which our democratic system is based."

It may sound preposterous now, he states, but in 1990 a family might have to apply to a government agency for a license to sell its property. He even has a name for it: the Property Selling Bureau.

It does sound preposterous, a listener commented. Pritchard, who heads a 31-office, metropolitan Chicago concern, Thorsen Realtors, part of the Coldwell Banker chain, was equal to the challenge. Realtor presidents generally are well prepared.

In Washington, D.C., said Pritchard, a seller must first offer his building to the tenants. The tenants have 30 days in which to form an association and another 90 days in which to buy. During this four-month period, the owner may not sell to any other party.

A new bill would add to the limitations, he continued. It would, he said, restrain the owner from selling to the tenants for more than 10 percent above appraised value, regardless of other, higher offers.

"The City Weatherization Program in Portland, Ore., is another example," he said. "Bills recently were passed which give single-family homeowners five years to weatherize their homes. If they don't meet requirements, they will not be allowed to sell."

In Columbus, Ohio, he continued, a bill would permit the city to declare any property 'historic,' and from then on the property could not be altered by the owner without a special permit.

While these might be isolated examples, Pritchard sees them as dangers to be dealt with. Isolated examples, he fears, have a tendency to become the generality. He cites "infringements" that have become so.

Whether they like it or not, the superpowers are too involved with each other for either to act in total independence. And they still have too much in common - much more to lose than either could hope to gain - to permit themselves to be drawn into a nuclear showdown.

These, every bit as much as American interests and Soviet expansion, are the facts of the relationship today. And any doctrine for the '80s, to be valid, must encompass them.

Cadettes Have Ceremony

Six Snyder Girl Scout Cadettes received their first class pins in a ceremony at the Girl Scout Hut Jan. 16. They are Sandra Martinez, Jean and Margaret Anderson, Kim Baldwin, Cissi Deere and Julia Tucker. The meeting opened with the pledge to the American Flag led by Julia Tucker followed by the lighting of the candles for the rededication of the GS promise by Kim Baldwin.

The rededication was made by the six Cadettes. Jean Anderson led the closing song, "When're You Make a Promise." Recognition of achievements of the girls were presented by leaders Teresa Scarber and Thelma Deere. Krystol Hunter also assists the troop. Other troop members receiving achievement pins were Marti Martin, Paula Beuerlein and Debra Holmes.

Mother of the six first class scouts came forward to pin their daughters. They included Mrs. Don Tucker, Mrs. Daniel Martinez, Mrs. Clyde Baldwin, Mrs. Larry Anderson and Mrs. Leon Deere.

The girls were congratulated by Service Unit Chairman Mrs. Alfred Vernon Jr., who announced that a senior troop will be formed. The new troop will be Troop 326 and all ninth through 12th grade girls are welcome to attend. Charter troop members are Miss Deere, Miss Martinez and Misses Jean and Margaret Anderson. Their advisors are Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Deere.

Mrs. Scotty Scott, former senior scout, spoke to the new seniors about the adventures of scouting. The meeting ended with a living friendship circle and the singing of "Girl Scouts Together."

Special guests were the third grade Brownie troop from East Elementary and their leaders Eloise Gunset and Cheri Cató, and parents and friends of the Cadette troop.

Girl Scouts is a participating agency of United Way.

Expert play includes all sorts of fancy squeezes, endplays and coups, but most of the time it merely indicates what is known as proper technique. Thus, when Houston expert Dr. Harold Rockaway played today's hand his opponents did not realize that when he made the normal notrump game he had scored some nine points out of a possible 12.

There was nothing to the play. Harold took East's king of hearts with the ace at trick one and promptly cashed the ace, king and queen of clubs.

Then he led dummy's jack of diamonds and let it ride. West took his queen and was caught in an end play at that early point in the play. He made his best escape try by leading the six of hearts, but this gave declarer a trick with the 10.

At this stage of the proceedings Harold could have made an overtrick by cashing out everything but spades and throwing West in with the diamond king, but he was not looking at all the cards. Instead, he tried a second diamond finesse and made just three.

Why was this a very good score? Most declarers failed to cash three clubs before attacking diamonds. This left West with an out card in clubs and a later out card in diamonds after the second finesse, lost and those declarers were down one.

A 1-Karat Millstone

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our very pretty and bright 18-year-old daughter (I'll call her Nancy) graduated from high school last May. She decided to stay home and work for a year before going to college. Nancy met a 29-year-old professional man about six months ago and they started dating. (I'll call him Paul.) They never actually went steady, but Paul gave her a big rush.

Well, for Christmas, Paul surprised Nancy with a beautiful one-karat diamond ring. It came as a big shock to Nancy because she wasn't even considering marriage with Paul. In fact, she told me she hated to kiss him because he had a bad case of halitosis!

When Nancy saw the ring, she told Paul she didn't think she should accept it, but he started to cry, so she kept it because she didn't want to hurt his feelings.

Nancy is sure she doesn't want to be engaged, but every time she tries to return the ring, Paul cries, and talks her into keeping it.

Nancy is very tender-hearted and Paul is very persuasive, so do you think it would be alright if Nancy's father returned the ring to Paul?

POST CHRISTMAS DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: No! Nancy should return the ring to Paul herself, and if he cries, he cries. It's time Paul learned that he can't buy whatever he wants with tears and diamonds. And Nancy needs to learn that people who "give in" in order to avoid hurting someone's feelings, usually end up hurting themselves. (P.S. About Paul's halitosis: Someone should tell him.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband shows a charming, well-mannered personality to others, but not to me.

When we have a social engagement, he always has to be the first one there, so he gets ready early and starts nagging me to hurry up.

If I'm five minutes late, as soon as we get into the car he turns the radio on as loud as he can, then he starts shouting that I had all day to get ready. I'm never on time and he's sick of always being late on account of me, etc. By the time we get to the party, I'm in no mood to have a good time.

It's getting so I hate to go anywhere with him. Is there a solution?

INSTANT HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: The solution is obvious. Get your act together on time and you'll have no problem. And if you can't do that, tell "antsy-pants" to go ahead without you, that you'll take a cab.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 76-year-old aunt to whom I have been very close ever since I was a child. She has a heart condition and is making preparations for her last will and testament.

My problem is that I am not mentioned in her will. She has a lot of property and assets. She came right out and told me that she was leaving everything to her two sons and their children! I know this for a fact because she has discussed it with me.

Abby, since my aunt moved to Florida, I have taken her out to dinner faithfully, once a week. (She is a widow.) I have also taken her shopping every weekend. I handle all her paper work, pay her bills, cash her checks and even look after her home. (I wallpapered her home—I could not have been more attentive to my own mother.)

I am very hurt to think that she is not leaving me a dime. Should I tell her how I feel, or keep quiet? And, by the way, Abby, whom do you think she asked to drive her to the lawyer about her will? You're right—me!

HURT IN ORLANDO

DEAR HURT: Keep quiet. Your disappointment is understandable, but it's her money and she has the right to do whatever she wishes with it.

Do you feel left out? There are secrets to developing the art of making yourself popular. You're never too young or too old to learn. Get Abby's booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Bush Leads Reagan In Huge Iowa Upset

By Donald M. Rothberg
AP Political Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—George Bush led Ronald Reagan in returns from the Iowa precinct caucuses and claimed an upset victory that gave a solid boost to his campaign for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Carter renewed his political love affair with Iowa Monday night and thrashed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in their first official confrontation.

With results from a non-binding straw poll of Republicans showing him leading Reagan, Bush said he would leave today for New Hampshire "and we'll do better there."

The New Hampshire primary on Feb. 26, is the next major test of the campaign.

With 72.5 percent of the Republican precincts reporting, Bush held an 27,926 to 22,724 lead over Reagan in the straw poll.

Sen. Howard H. Baker was third with 11,590; John B. Connally, 8,425; Rep. Philip Crane, 5,749; Rep. John Anderson, 3,355; Sen. Bob Dole, 1,569.

The Republican caucuses chose delegates to represent their precincts at county conventions but the delegates were not bound to candidates by Monday's outcome.

Results from 2,442 of the 2,531 Democratic precincts gave Carter 59 percent, Kennedy 31 percent, uncommitted 10 percent. The Democratic party in Iowa did not release vote totals, just percentages.

Based on those figures, Iowa's 50 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in August would be divided 29 for Carter, 15 for Kennedy and 5 uncommitted. One is yet to be awarded.

From the earliest Monday night returns, Carter jumped to a two-to-one lead over Kennedy and held it throughout the night.

It was Iowa that gave Carter his boost out of obscurity in the 1976 race and as soon as his 1980 victory was assured, the president issued a statement at the White House saying, "I deeply appreciate the vote of confidence from Iowa Democrats. Their expression of support is particularly welcome in these difficult times."

Kennedy met with supporters at his campaign headquarters in Washington and vowed to remain in the race.

"The reasons I run for president still remain," said the Massachusetts senator, who once led Carter two to one in public opinion polls, a margin that reversed in recent weeks.

"Tonight, according to my count," Kennedy told supporters, "President Carter needs 1,643 delegates more to win the nomination. We need 1,657 and we're going to get it."

Reagan was in California and had no immediate comment on the Iowa results.

HEALTH

Alcohol affects bowels

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm a 50-year-old male and I've been drinking a lot for years. I've always had soft stools but for the last couple of years, I have to go to the bathroom at least three times a day and I do have diarrhea. My rectum also itches terribly. Is it the liver that causes this or what could it be?

DEAR READER—There is a long list of things that cause chronic diarrhea and the only way to find out what's going on is a complete medical examination. You'll need to know that you don't have some chronic parasitic disease. You'll need to know whether you have ulcerative colitis, regional enteritis, are intolerant of milk or have some other intolerance that contributes to it or whether it's just from drinking too much alcohol.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have some questions about hyperventilation I read in a magazine that if a person can learn to breathe properly that he wouldn't panic and have muscle spasms and other symptoms. I'd like to know how to breathe properly. Breathing into a paper bag is mentioned but I would prefer to learn to breathe properly and prevent such frightening occurrences.

DEAR READER—Hyperventilation means overbreathing and when that occurs the best thing to do is to try to breathe very slowly and not breathe very deeply. Slow, shallow breathing will stop the overventilation and will tend to reverse the process. People get into trouble with hyperventilation because they blow off too much carbon dioxide.

Now as far as preventing the problem, you may need some help in finding out why you hyperventilate. There's usually a reason for it. Pilots who ascend to a high altitude overventilate in response to the thin air from decreased altitude pressure. Many people who hyperventilate are responding to something that has caused them to have anxiety. For that reason, professional counseling sometimes helps.

To Boycott Olympics Would Be Devastating Blow To Soviet Union

DENTON (AP)—Economic sanctions against the Soviet Union may have their impact, but a boycott of the Olympic Games would be "almost devastating," a political science professor says.

Milan Reban, a teacher at North Texas State University, was in Russia when the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan began.

"The Soviet people have more money to spend now than ever before, but something like the boycott of the Olympics would be almost devastating, psychologically," said Milan Reban, a North Texas State University teacher who was in Russia when the Soviets invaded Afghanistan.

"It would probably hurt the Russian people more than any other action that could be taken. The people of Russia are looking forward to the Olympics very much. Very much. It is very important to them."

Reban, 46, visited the Soviet Union in late December and early January in a group of U.S. professors and students and said anticipation of the games was obvious.

"You could see it in the proud wearing of lapel pins—Young Russians are obsessed with these lapel pins that point to the Olympics in Moscow," Reban said.

"To the people in Russia, getting the Olympics was a very important statement in terms of their arrival in international respect."

Reban's classes focus on Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. He is a native of Czechoslovakia who came to the United States in the 1950s.

"I felt even before coming to this country how much importance the Russian people assign to international sports and how much they feel achievement in its contributes to their international prestige," he added.

The Soviets are trying very hard to prepare for the Olympics, he said, and the Soviet people proudly pointed out to visiting Americans the various new stadiums and hotels being built to accommodate the Olympics.

Reban said the American party he was with entered the Soviet Union the same day the action in Afghanistan started, but that he only learned of the scope of the invasion by calling a friend at the U.S. Embassy.

"The Soviet media, at least during our presence, did a good job of masking the magnitude of the operation and also the global reaction."

"Among the Russian people themselves, my impression was the majority... probably are feeling a degree of helplessness about influencing foreign policy and probably could care less," Reban said.

The Russian economy is healthy enough to weather economic sanctions by the U.S., Reban said, but such actions would still bother the Soviets.

Drilling Pace Off Slightly

Drilling activity in Permian Basin oilfields declined slightly last week, but still continued well above last year's figures, according to Reed Rock Bit Company's weekly survey.

The count last week showed 313 active rigs in the Basin, compared to 315 a week ago. Last year at this time, there were 255 rigs running in the Basin.

Lea County, N.M., was the leader with 43, while Ward County was the West Texas leader with 16. Scurry County had three rigs in operation last week, compared to five the week before. Figures for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 6 and 4; Dawson 6 and 7; Garza, 5 and 5; Howard 10 and 8; Kent 2 and 1; Mitchell 4 and 5.

Burglary Case Probed Here

Police are investigating a burglary reported to them Monday night.

Reporting the burglary was Stella Tavaroz. She said approximately $120 worth of merchandise, including a citizen's band radio, and an eight-track stereo, were taken from her car at the intersection of 11th St. and Ave. Q.

The report was received by officer Greg Patterson at 9:10 p.m.

Inflation hits your electric bill just as hard as it does your grocery bill.

Every time you go to the grocery store you can see what inflation's doing to your food bill. But because you don't buy electricity by the can, you probably don't realize how inflation affects the cost of electricity.

Fuel costs are going up, particularly natural gas. Equipment costs are up. Power lines, transformers and poles cost us more every day. Just like milk costs you more every day.

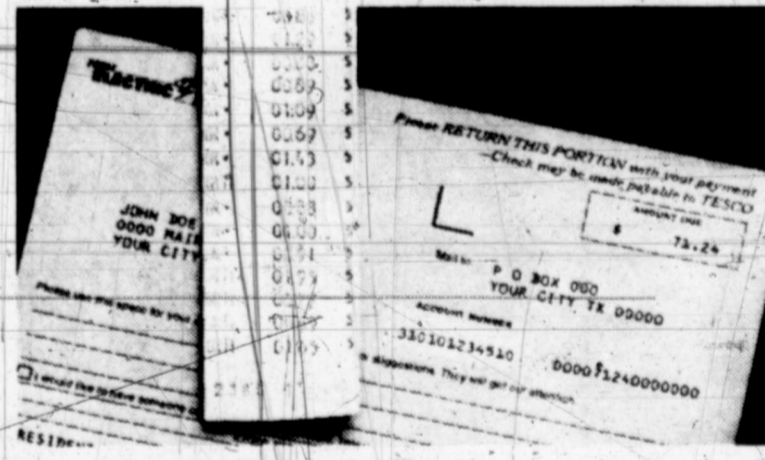

The millions of dollars we must borrow to build plants to ensure your electricity needs in the future are costing us more.

The cost of building these plants is higher, too, because of inflation. And because of the time and money it takes to comply with an ever-increasing number of government regulations. The longer it takes to build, the more inflation takes its toll.

Inflation, overregulation and rising fuel costs are all making your electricity cost you more. But by using electricity wisely you can do your part in keeping that cost down in your home.

At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for.

Boys At 6:15, Girls at 8...

Tigers Try Sweetwater Here

By The SDN Sports Staff
Call it women's lib or just a fair shake for everybody concerned, tonight's District 3-AAA high school games between Snyder and Sweetwater have a new twist to them.

Instead of serving as a warm up game for the boys' show, the varsity girl's groups will play the feature contest tonight, at 8 o'clock. The boys will battle at 6:15.

This evening's agenda begins at 4:30, both at Scurry County Coliseum at the high school gym. Snyder junior varsity girls will take on the Mustangs at the high school; there's always a price for this women's lib thing you know - while the junior varsity boy's group tries Sweetwater in the coliseum.

Those are followed, of course, by the boy's varsity at 6:15 and the girl's varsity at 8, both at the coliseum. Got it?

Tonight's 6:15 game marks the start of District 3-AAA play for Coach George Byerly's Tigers, recently polled at No. 2 in the state (Class AAA). The Cats, 17-4, are slight favorites over the Mustangs, who lost to Brownfield 60-50 in their only district game, and are 6-14 on the season.

It'll be rated as a heads-up battle between Coach Ken Housden's Felines and the Sweetwater Mustang girls at 8 tonight - with a chunk of the first-round loop title on the line.

Sweetwater, 18-3 on the season and 3-0 in conference play, needs only a victory over Snyder tonight to wrap up the round-one crown and thus guarantee a spot in post-season playoffs if necessary.

Coach Housden's crew, 2-0 in loop play and for the season, could clinch no less than a tie for the first round by defeating the high-flying Mustangs. The Felines still have Lake View to play. They'll do that Jan. 25 in San Angelo.

Sweetwater girls nipped the Lake View Maidens in overtime last week, 55-53, to enjoy the position they are now in.

Lakers Zap Knicks; Use Strong Rally

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The New York Knicks had a first-hand opportunity to learn about the explosive tendencies of the Los Angeles Lakers.

It wasn't a loss they appreciated. Los Angeles trailed New York 79-69 midway in the third quarter of Monday night's only scheduled National Basketball Association game, but the Lakers then went crazy, out-scoring the Knicks 43-18 over a 13:07 span en route to a 132-114 victory.

The Knicks had scored 18 of the first 22 points in the second half to take their 10-point lead in the first game between the teams this season, but then the roof fell in on New York.

"The Knicks played excellent offensive basketball but it was only a matter of time until we got our running game going," said Los Angeles Coach Paul Westhead, whose team has now won six straight games and 10 in a row at home.

"Good defense helps our running game, which helps our team because we played much harder when we're running. Our guys are having more fun giving the ball up than scoring." The loss was the seventh straight for the Knicks, who dropped to 22-28. The Lakers, meanwhile, are 22-3 at home this season and 35-15 overall.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led Los Angeles with 25 points and 14 rebounds. He had plenty of help as five other Lakers scored in double figures.

"Although we're playing better, they're too strong and we couldn't defend against their run," said New York Coach Red Holzman. "Kareem is playing his best basketball ever. We tried to double-team him but he has too many other good shooters playing with him."

Williams said he talked with Maravich for three hours Monday afternoon, and that Coach Billy Cunningham conferred with Maravich for three hours Monday night.

Maravich became a free agent when he settled his multi-million dollar contract with the National Basketball Association's Utah Jazz.

"He's interested in coming here," said Williams, "but there are three other clubs interested and one is Boston."

Williams said he sees no problem in coming to salary terms with Maravich.

Maravich To Confer With 76ers, Celtics

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pete Maravich, one of the NBA's consistently high scoring guards, is still looking for a home, but he's definitely interested in joining the Philadelphia 76ers, a team spokesman says.

Pat Williams, the 76ers' general manager, said Monday that Maravich would talk to the Boston Celtics today before making a decision.

Maravich, who suffered a knee injury in 1978, was in Philadelphia Monday for medical tests at Temple University Hospital.

Williams said "our doctors cleared him physically."

Westerners Breeze Past FPC

BORGER—According to Coach Nolan Richardson, shooting, rebounding and all-around defense are three of the key factors for any team in a ballgame.

Taking that theory, it's not hard to guess which team won here yesterday when Richardson adds, "On a scale of one to 10, I'd say we came awful close to 10's on those things last night."

The Western Texas College Westerners shot 62 percent from the field, ripped down 65 rebounds and executed a "devastating press" to zip past hopeful Frank Phillips College 104-60.

"We played with the intensity that we had early in the year," said Richardson. "I think our conditioning is coming back and we were executing our breaks like we did in the beginning."

Six Westerners placed in double figures as all but one WTC player got on the scoreboard. Bill Patterson, back in the lineup after a wrist injury, slammed in 16 points while Phil Spradling had 14. David Brown had 13, Paul Pressey bucketed 12 and Oscar Alvarado and Franklin Bennett added 10 each.

The team's leading scorer, Greg Stewart, scored eight points, though spending most of the game watching his teammates.

"That's one of the greatest things about this team," praised Richardson. "When we do build a lead, the guys on the floor aren't going to get upset about coming out. They'll cheer for their teammates who are out there playing. And everybody we put in the game played like we were even or behind, even when we were ahead by 30-40 points."

The Westerners, in fact, almost led by 50 late in the game, but Frank Phillips, led by Curtis Adams' 12 points, held them back. Adams had scored 28 points in an upset win over Amarillo College on Saturday, and Richardson's charges keyed on the athlete all night.

When asked about the Plainsmen's obviously poor shooting night, Richardson gave his Westerners all the credit.

"I don't see how they ever even got anything off we had them covered so well. Everybody played great defense. They (WTC) knew coming into the game that Frank Phillips had barely lost to Odessa and Midland and had beaten Amarillo, and we were up for them. I think it was probably the best road trip we've had since I've been at Western Texas College."

Hopefully, according to the coach, Western Texas can put together one of its best home games Thursday, when 18-1, 7-0 and No. 4 ranked Midland College comes to Scurry County Coliseum. WTC defeated the Chaparrals in the finals of the ABC Classic earlier this year.

"Well, this one's for keeps. It's a lot more involved than winning a trophy at the ABC Classic. This could be for (have a bearing on) the conference championship. There are a lot of things on the line. We'll have to be ready."

WTC 104, FPC 60. WTC-Patterson 80-16, Stewart 32-4, Alvarado 42-10, Rossies 0-3-3, Bennett 4-2-10, Portee 1-0-2, Spradling 6-2-14, Vantres 1-2-4, Brown 5-3-13, Pressey 6-0-12, Warren 2-3-7, Hutcherson 0-3-3, Davis 1-0-2, Totals 41-22-32, 104. FPC-Dalton 2-4-10, Adams 4-4-12, Bijie 3-4-10, Totals 21-18-24, 60. Fouls: WTC 21, FPC 29. Halftime: WTC 48, FPC 29. Records: WTC 19-0, FPC 8-7, 4-3.

Dusters Win Too; Have Little Trouble

BORGER—Coach Joe Cushing's WTC Dusters scored 47, second-half points to bash Frank Phillips College, 75-48 here last night.

The victory was Western Texas' fourth conference win in five tries, and puts them 16-6 on the season.

Three girls landed in double figures for the Dusters, paced by Linda Holubec's 18-point effort. Ginger Peden and Shari Teal nabbed 12 each.

Western Texas held a 28-16, half-time lead and ran into little trouble in the second 20-minute period, though hitting only 38 percent from the field and 50 from the charity stripe.

"We didn't shoot the ball well at all," mused Coach Cushing. "I was disappointed. A lot of it was fast break layups and we just didn't slow down and put the ball in the hoop. Our transition was real good; we moved the ball well and were getting the open shot, but we weren't patient enough."

All in all however, Cushing was pleased with the showing - especially on defense - and overall team effort.

Linda McReynolds led the Frank Phillips Prairie Dogs with 15 points while Pam Ingram and Monica Gage chipped in a dozen apiece. Frank Phillips, 2-9 on the season and 0-3 in WJAC play, hit 26 percent from the line and 38 from the stripe.

The Dusters will leave conference battles aside for the weekend and enter Tarleton Tournament play in Stephenville, beginning Thursday.

Cushing allowed the Dusters were going into the three-day tourney hoping to come away with the championship, but added, "We're going to be ready for South Plains (a conference game Jan. 28) regardless of how we do in the tournament. That (the conference) is our main objective right now. We want to do well in the tournament, but we're going to have fun, too. We're not going to worry too much about it."

The Dusters are pitted against East Texas State

Bradshaw Will Play Some More

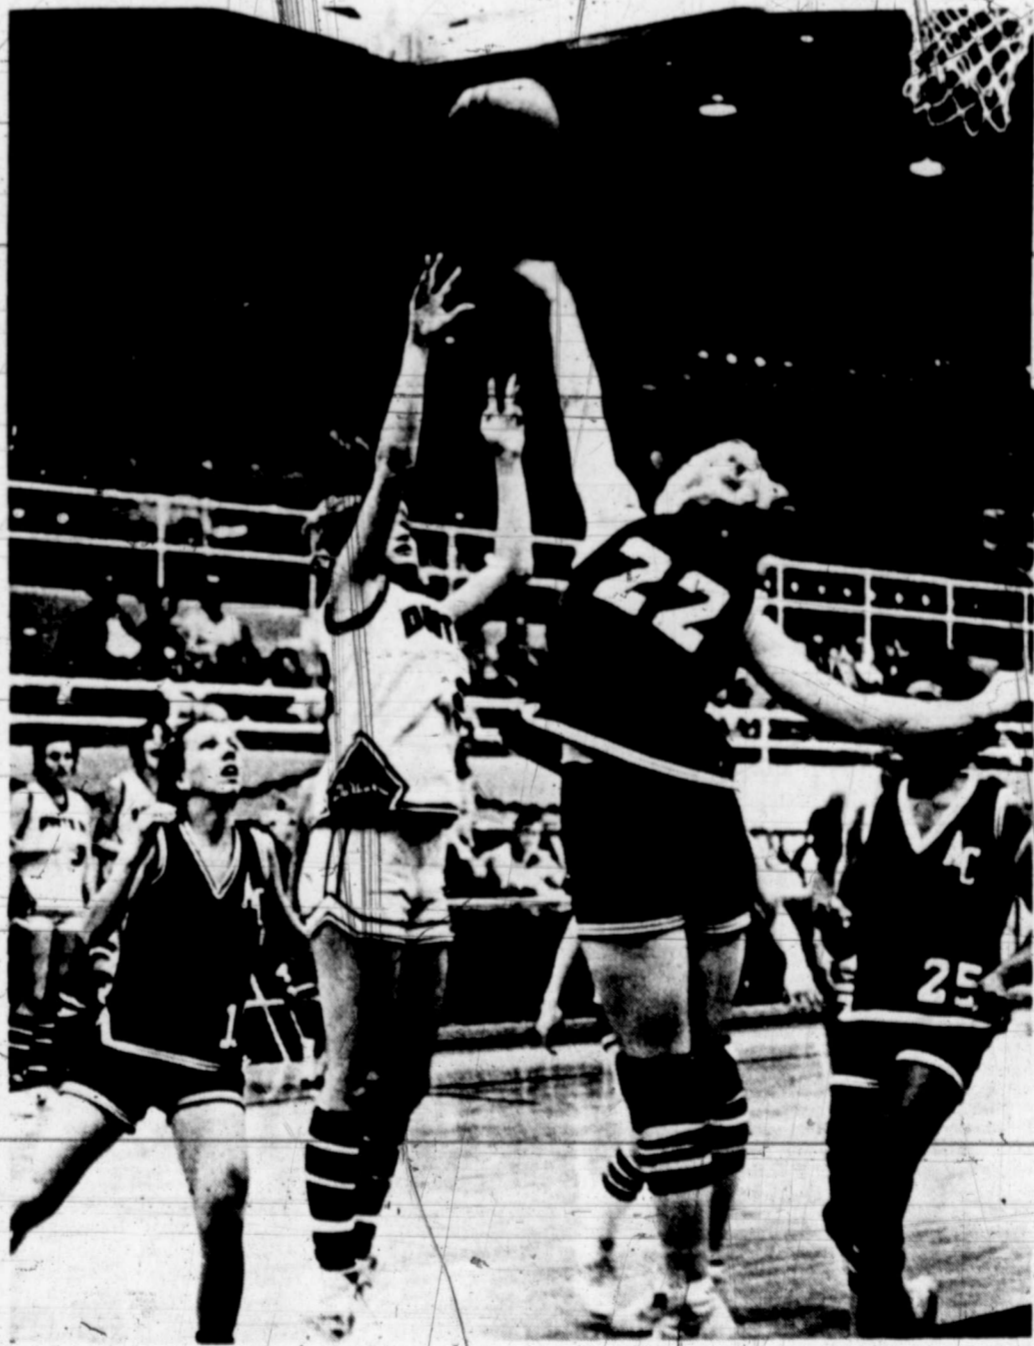

LOS ANGELES—Pittsburgh Steeler fans don't have to worry. It looks as if quarterback Terry Bradshaw will be around for awhile.

Following Pittsburgh's 31-19 Super Bowl XIV victory over the Los Angeles Rams here Sunday, Bradshaw had commented, "Right now I'm just tired of football." He later said he wanted to think about "football and what it means to me," and gave other indications he was pondering retirement. But in an MVP press conference Monday, he said he had no more thoughts of quitting.

"I know I talked about retiring after the game," said Bradshaw, 31. "But later on I had a meeting with Jack Lambert and Joe Greene, and," he continued, smiling, "considering how important my health is to me, I am definitely going to play for Pittsburgh next year and have officially ended all thoughts of retiring."

Although perhaps anticlimactic, there is one NFL game left in the "1979 season", next Sunday's Pro Bowl in Honolulu, with Bradshaw one of the competing all-stars.

UP AND OVER—Western Texas College's Joyce Plagens (in white) shoots over Amarillo player Jessica Wiley as WTC's Dusters defeated the Lady Badgers in recent play 74-69. The Dusters ripped past Frank Phillips College last night 75-48 and will begin competition in the Tarleton State Tournament on Thursday. See related article. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

McDonald Welding Supply Can Also Outfit Farmer, Rancher

You don't have to be a professional welder to benefit from the wide variety of supplies and the expertise of the folks at McDonald Welding Supply. Owner Gayle McDonald says, "We can outfit a farmer or rancher with a portable welding and cutting outfit, mounted on a trailer, for a very reasonable price."

valuable if a tool such as a drill, grinder or saw is needed where no electricity is available. He also noted that the power plant on the welder will run an electric air compressor.

The firm has been custom building and outfitting trailers with welding and cutting units. Also available are tool boxes that can be mounted on the trailers.

McDonald made the point that for no more money than a homeowner would spend for a backup light plant, he can have a Miller welding machine with a generator built in.

The firm makes available the Milwaukee line of heavy duty electric tools and grinders, as well as Williams hammer wrenches and heavy tools, Victor and Uniweld welding and cutting equipment, and Wilton vises.

Safety equipment of all types is stocked including goggles, first aid kit (fills, arm guards, hard hats, liners and fire extinguishers.

In addition, they stock chain, cable, tubing, and a complete line of steel. Chain hoists and blocks as well as all types of pulleys may be added to the list along with medical oxygen and all types of gases.

McDonald's list of supplies goes on and on, so stop by and visit with Gayle or Jack and let them demonstrate the flexibility that the machines offer.

Do You Know What Your Fire Insurance Policy Will Do For You??

Recently, while on a trip, my car was broken into and two pieces of luggage filled with our clothing and essentials for our trip were stolen. Total value of the items stolen amounted to $1190.00. Is this loss covered under my home insurance policy?

During some heavy rains, the sewer line a short distance down the street from my home became clogged and sewage backed up into the house through the commode. The carpeting in the bath, hall and two bedrooms was ruined. Total amount to clean up the mess and replace the carpet was $1296.00. Does my home insurance policy provide coverage for this loss?

My wife shut the car door on her hand and in doing so, damaged the mounting on her diamond ring. It cost $335.00 to have the mounting restored. How much will my home insurance policy pay on this loss?

My daughter's friend was eating a meal with us, and while seated at the table, she accidentally threw her hand back in such a manner that the ring on her finger hit a tooth in her friend's mouth. Dental work to repair the friend's tooth was $426.00. Will my home insurance pay for this?

My two sons were tossing a baseball back and fourth in our front yard. One of them threw the baseball a little too high and it went over his brother's head on into the neighbors yard and hit the windshield of my neighbor's car, shattering it. Cost of replacing the windshield was $236.75. Will my home insurance policy pay for replacing my neighbor's windshield?

The driver of a car lost control of his car and his car crossed over my yard and hit the side of my house. The cost to repair my home was $2775.00. The driver of the car did not have any liability insurance and was unable to pay for the damages. Will my home insurance pay for these damages?

When my home was built, the total cost of construction was $50,000, I was told that I needed to insure it for at least 80 per cent of replacement cost, which was $40,000. I decided that I would insure the home for $50,000. Eight months later my home was totally destroyed. How much should the insurance company pay me for the loss?

These questions were prepared in lieu of regular advertisement by Roy J. McCloskey, State Farm Agent. The answers to the above questions depend on your individual policy—call 573-7266 or come by State Farm Insurance 3904 College Ave. for more information.

IDABEL, Okla. (AP)—A night of 'shooting, rioting and burning' by several hundred angry blacks left one auxiliary police officer dead and four other persons wounded in this southeastern Oklahoma town, authorities said.
