Shah Panel Departure Delayed

By The Associated Press

The U.N. panel formed to investigate the ex-shah of Iran delayed its scheduled departure for Tehran today and a U.N. spokesman said "clarifications" were being sought from the Iranians on their terms for accepting the mission.

The spokesman did not disclose what new problems may have cropped up.

One of the five U.N. commission members, meanwhile, said there is a "gentlemen's agreement" the American hostages will be released. But he denied reports that a deadline for their freedom had been set.

Control Supply Route

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP)—Anti-communist Moslem rebels are virtually in control of Afghanistan's main supply route from Pakistan, attacking civilian traffic at will and outmaneuvering the ill-trained Afghan soldiers sent to "pacify" the area.

Cheap Food Policy Blasted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "cheap food" policy of President Carter and the six presidents before him has fueled military confrontations in the world, the chairman of the activist American Agriculture Movement says.

"This administration and all administrations since 1950 should be put on trial for treason," says Marvin Meek of Texas.

Despite soaring prices for other goods, America continues to export its agricultural products at prices well below their value, denying farmers a fair profit and enabling foreign countries like Russia to spend more for weapons, he said.

Vance Meets With Schmidt

BONN, West Germany (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met for more than three hours today with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt in an effort to coordinate a response to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, but Schmidt refused to commit his nation to the proposed boycott of the Moscow Olympics.

Oil Savings Reported

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission noted today an $11 million savings in the importation of foreign oil.

Poerner said crude and petroleum products imports into the United States totaled 8,462,000 barrels a day for the four-week average ending Feb. 1, a decrease of 373,000 from the same period in 1979.

He said a commission staffer had figured this decline saved the United States $11 million — "certainly a significant savings."

Faces 6th Day Of Storms

By ERICKRAMER

Associated Press Writer

A Malibu home toppled into the Pacific Ocean and others were overrun by mud or threatened by pounding surf as Southern California braced today for its sixth rainstorm in a week and the toll of property damage from foul weather in the West climbed past $300 million.

More than 4,000 persons were forced to flee as mudslides and walls of water up to 15 feet high destroyed or threatened homes. Nearly 100,000 in Northern California were without power.

What are friends for?

That's a question you see once in a while as someone does a favor for a neighbor—usually on a television program, or perhaps in a book.

But friends are among our most valuable assets and they play an important role in such things as foreign policy for our government. Sometimes it is difficult to differentiate between friends and enemies, and today's friend may be tomorrow's foe, or vice versa. It usually depends on what the problem is at the moment and what the objective of a project may be.

It is heart-warming when friends step in to help with a problem, such as the incident which came to light recently concerning Canada's help in getting some of our diplomats safely out of Iran. They had been involved in this project for months, but quietly went about their business until the time was ripe to implement the escape.

Too often, friends stand around on the sidelines and sympathize but take little action. Like the minister who was playing golf with some businessmen of his congregation. The minister found himself flailing away at his golf ball trying to get out of a difficult sand trap. Finally, his patience was exhausted and he turned to those playing with him and with clinched teeth asked, "Won't one of you laymen say a few appropriate words?"

Diplomacy still has its place in world affairs, however, and despite the efforts of various organizations such as the UN, NATO, SEATO, etc., there is no substitute for it. But even the best in the business find the going rough sometimes. Take the case of Charlie Grimm, a famous major league baseball player who became manager of the Chicago Cubs. Grimm attained a reputation for umpire-baiting, but he also developed some tact. Once, as one of the Cubs had a third strike called, Grimm came charging out of the dugout. But he didn't say a single word to the umpire. Instead, he addressed the Cub player who had just struck out.

"Keep your tongue in your head, son," he cautioned. "If you say a word to hurt the feeling of this poor, blind old man, I'll fine you fifty dollars."

Announces Hodding Carter...

No Americans In Olympics

BONN, West Germany (AP)—The United States will not participate in the Moscow Olympics since there is no sign the deadline imposed by President Carter for a Soviet troop withdrawal from Afghanistan will be met, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said today.

The administration's position must be ratified by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

During an interview on NBC's "Today" program, White House counselor Lloyd Cutler noted that the USOC said it will "of course" abide by the president's decision, and he added: "We expect the USOC to proceed to formalize what they said last week."

"We don't think the question of the government's power to force the athletes not to go will ever come up," Cutler said. "We're quite clear in the light of what the US committee said—that they, like the athletes, will abide by this very strong showing of public and congressional opinion that they should not go."

In Bonn, the State Department spokesman told reporters: "The United States set a deadline for its decision on whether to participate, a decision to be contingent on the withdrawal of Soviet troops. Today is the day on which that decision was going to be based. It is clear there is no sign of a Soviet withdrawal."

He continued: "The president has made clear that our decision is therefore irrevocable. We will not participate in the Olympics in Moscow."

Carter made the anouncement following talks between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher on the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The deadline imposed by President Carter passed without comment in Moscow, and there was no immediate reaction to the State Department spokesman's announcement.

On Tuesday, White House spokesman Jody Powell told reporters in Washington, "We have made our position very clear. The question now addresses itself to the United States Olympic Committee. We would like for them to reach a decision as soon as they can."

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Webb Seeks Place 6 On City Council

Another contested race developed this morning on the city council ballot when Jerry D. Webb filed as a candidate for Place 6 on the council.

Webb, district superintendent for Mobil Oil Co., joins Charles Anderson in the race for the Place 6 seat on the council.

Place 2 also has two candidates, with H.D. Hines and Bryce Booker, the incumbent, both seeking the post.

Milton Ham is unopposed for mayor and Donald P. Gressett is unopposed for the Place 4 council seat.

The election is set for April 5 and the deadline for candidates to file is March 5.

Lanny Wadleigh Heads Foundation

Five new directors and a new slate of officers were elected Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation.

Elected as directors for three-year terms on the board were Ernest Sears, John Greene, Mal Donelson and Don Wolfe. Don West was elected to fill a two-year term.

Lanny Wadleigh, president of Wadleigh Construction Co., was elected president of the Foundation for 1980. Chosen vice president was Truett Bryan and selected as treasurer was Bill Wilson III.

Holdover directors are Rex Fields, John Reed, Bill Ziske, Daryl Lambert, Wadleigh, Fields, Wilson and Bryan.

United Way Session Set

A meeting of the Scurry County United Way board of directors has been set for 2 p.m. Thursday at city hall, Mike Reed, president, has announced.

The organization's nominating committee will make its report at the meeting and all board members have been asked to make a special effort to attend the meeting, Reed said.

Economy Grew At 2.1 % Rate In Final Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Economy grew at an annual rate of 2.1 percent in the final quarter of 1979, a stronger showing than earlier data had indicated, the government reported today.

The growth in real gross national product—the value of the nation's goods and services, adjusted for inflation—initially had been estimated at 1.4 percent. A final revision will be made next month.

The stronger showing was attributed to higher business investment, which was $380.8 billion before inflation adjustment and $3.9 billion higher than original data had shown, according to the Commerce Department. Federal purchases were revised upward by $1.4 billion to $178.4 billion, and consumer spending went up $800 million to $1.6 trillion. Net exports, however, were revised down by $2.8 billion.

"I would suppose business is looking over the valley," said a Commerce Department analyst who asked not to be identified. "They're saying that if there is a recession, it will be mild, so they are proceeding with their investment plans."

Many economists had predicted the economy would fall into a recession last year, but growth continued, mainly because consumer spending was higher than expected.

The Carter administration is predicting a downturn in the first half of this year, but industrial and retail sectors—except auto and housing—have remained strong.

Flood Insurance Program Outlined

Federal flood insurance program plans for Snyder were outlined Tuesday afternoon at a special session of the city council. Presented was a map prepared for establishing three zones for computing premiums for flood insurance in the city and establishing the 100-year flood level.

The plans will be published later, after which the public will have an opportunity to comment. Then, an ordinance will be presented to the city council setting up the program. Estimates are that the ordinance could be ready by late next fall.

Also during the special meeting Tuesday, the council authorized contracts for the city to provide data processing service for the Scurry County Appraisal District and for the Scurry County Tax office. The appraisal board is scheduled to consider the contract proposal at a special meeting set for 7 p.m. Friday in the Snyder Public School Administration Building, and it is due to go to county commissioners for consideration Monday.

180 RV Hookups Near Completion

Approximately 180 hookups for recreational vehicles are due to be completed within the next few weeks on the Scurry County Coliseum grounds and at least five rallies already have been scheduled, the Scurry County Board of Development was told at a meeting

Tuesday.

Phil Ragland, coliseum manager, said the area for the hookups has been paved and fenced and that installation of utilities is next on the schedule. These are expected to be ready in time for the first rally of recreational vehicle owners scheduled for April 11-12-13.

Bill Warner, chamber of commerce manager, said other rallies have been scheduled for July 11-12-13, for Sept. 26-27-28, Oct. 3-4-5 and Oct. 17-18-19. The September event is a Winnebago rally which likely will be one of the biggest ever held here, Warner said.

C.A. McCown gave a report on special events sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce which require local agency deficit funding. Such events as playoff football and basketball games, rodeos, etc., are included, and he said any help the BCD could give on these projects would be appreciated. Guy Sullivan, BCD chairman, said the board would discuss these activities further and that the BCD is interested in cooperating in any way possible.

Ruth McClurg, BCD secretary, reported that 46 of the souvenir belt buckles acquired by the organization had been sold.

Ask Us

Q—Since a school teacher who wanted to run for city councilman several years ago was given a choice of being a teacher or a councilman, what changes have been made in such situations?

A—Until recent years, most entities had policies which prohibited their personnel from serving on governing boards of other entities. However, civil rights decisions in courts have ruled this out. So far as we have been able to determine, the only thing prohibited now is a person drawing salaries from two entities and since city councilmen are not paid, this is of no significance.

DISTRICT CHAMPS—Resembling a scene more common to a baseball field than the basketball court, Snyder's Thomas Selmon gets tangled with Brownfield's Jim Smith during early action of their District 3-AAA game held last night. The Tigers went on to defeat the Cubs 53-45 and earn Snyder's third district championship of the season. Also in the photo, left to right, are Mark Preston and Kyle Short for Snyder, and Scott Brock of Brownfield. See related story, page 11A.

The stamps, designed and painted by British bird-life artist Michael Warren, include the Kingfisher, Dipper, Moorhen and Yellow Wagtail, some of the protected inhabitants of the streams and marshes of the English countryside. The BPO's first stamp issue of 1980 marked the centenary of England's Wild Bird Protection Act of 1880.

East took his queen and South claimed the rest of the tricks, since East had been thoroughly end played.

At the other table, West took time to count out South's hand. West saw that two tricks in the red suits would be necessary if he wanted to set declarer. If East held the king of hearts and a winning club, any lead back would work; if East held both king and queen of hearts, an immediate heart lead was necessary to stop the potential end play.

So West led a heart and declarer was walking around dead.

HEW Acts To Provide More Free Abortions

TON (AP) — A court order that carries out a congressional order that at least temporary pay for all necessary services for poor women is being restored Tuesday. The government took action to restore payments for a broad range of abortion services. "Medicaid will pay for all medically necessary abortions," the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said in a notice sent to regional offices and individual states. The notices, sent in English and Spanish, tell women to ignore previous restrictions based on congressional guidelines. The court plans a full hearing later this year on Congress' authority to set limits on the kinds of abortions that can be financed with federal money. The court voted 6-3 not to overturn a decision by U.S. District John Dooling in New York City, who had ruled that the congressional restriction on abortion payments was unconstitutional. The court also voted 6-3 to consolidate the New York case with another abortion case it accepted for review last November. The court ordered that all briefs in the New York case be submitted by April 10, setting the stage for a definitive ruling possibly by the end of June. The old restriction, called the Hyde amendment, allowed Medicaid abortions only for women whose lives were endangered by their pregnancies or who were the victims of rape or incest. After Tuesday's ruling, HEW said the determining factors in a Medicaid abortion will include the woman's physical, emotional and psychological conditions. Teenagers and women over 35 would more likely be considered eligible. The ruling was praised by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Center for Constitutional Rights as "a great day for liberty. Poor women all over the country can once again get Medicaid-funded abortions." But Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., who sponsored the amendment, accused the justices of usurping congressional power and restoring "abortion on demand." Looking ahead to the court's definitive ruling later this year, Hyde said, "I don't see a great cause for optimism when a majority of the justices reversed the status quo before a full hearing was held." But he predicted the ruling would spur anti-abortion groups seeking a constitutional amendment to limit abortions. The ruling, however, won't have much impact in 26 states, which already have been providing abortion payments. Another 23 states, however, will now have to make financed abortions available. One state, Arizona, does not participate in the Medicaid program.

The recently formed Snyder High School High Adventure Explorer Post No. 242 returned Sunday, Feb. 10, from a ski trip to Ruidoso, N.M. The group, sponsored by coaches Rick Howard and Jim Mavroulis, left Friday Feb. 8, after school giving them one and a half days of skiing. Those making the trip were: Britt Vincent, David Nicholson, Johnny Welch, Neil Evans, William Steele, Whit Parks, John Igo, Jim League and Shawn

Ragland. Snow conditions were good with the area receiving six inches of new powder Friday night. The club meets on the third Monday night of each month in the student center at Snyder High School. Members are still being accepted with the current membership being around 30. Boys and girls between the ages of 14-21 who are interested in outdoor activities are encouraged to attend the next meeting, March 17.

Man Pleads Guilty Second Time

DALLAS (AP) — If at first you don't succeed, try again. That's what Charles Anthony Ivey did Monday when he again pleaded guilty to charges he robbed an armored truck of about $630,000. He was sentenced to 40 years in prison by District Judge John Ovard following the guilty plea.

Dallas. The first attempt at pleading guilty ended in a mistrial when during the punishment phase a tape recording was played mentioning his possible involvement in other armed robberies. Judge Ovard declared a mistrial because he has not been charged in the other robberies and the evidence should not have been presented to the jury deciding his punishment.

Tim Carr, Ivey's lawyer, said his client entered the second guilty plea because the state was attempting to obtain a life prison term and he chose to plead guilty in exchange for the 40-year term.

Upcoming activities include another ski trip in March, a fishing and camping trip in April and numerous water skiing trips during the summer. The club is trying to raise money for these activities with a fund raising project set for March 6.

New AAM Tactics Welcomed By Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers seeking higher crop prices and continued incentives for gasoline are approaching Congress without the tractors or the anger that marked last year's visit — and it's paying off.

"They're glad to see us, come just with our hats and nothing else," Marvin Meek, chairman of the American Agriculture Movement, said Tuesday.

"We put 50,000 farmers up here the first year and 30,000 farmers and 1,200 tractors last year," Meek reminded hundreds of AAM members at the opening of their two-day convention.

Meeks said the tractors, which snarled traffic and caused about $3.6 million damage to the Mall between the Capitol and the Washington Monument, got the attention of the public.

"But they (the congressmen) haven't listened," Meeks said. "So now we're going to try to slide in. We're going to work with them, lobby them, answer their questions."

The two-day meeting at the Commerce Department ends today, and will be followed by weeks of lobbying on Capitol Hill.

AAM is seeking support for extension of the four cents-a-gallon federal fuel tax exemption for gasoline, a mixture of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline.

But the organization's primary goal remains the same as when AAM was founded three years ago — crop prices equal to 100 percent of parity. That would give farmers the same buying power they had between 1910 and 1914.

In the early 1970s, Meek said, a bushel of wheat and a barrel of oil sold for about the same price.

"Now we're importing $30-a-barrel oil, turning it into wheat and exporting it at $4 a bushel," he said. "How asinine can we be?"

Meanwhile, House and Senate conferees agreed Tuesday on a package of price supports and disaster aid for grain farmers that would cost about $690 million this year.

The measure, for most part modeled on an earlier version passed by the Senate, must be approved by both houses before going to President Carter. The administration is supporting the program.

The bill raises the price support for the 1980 corn crop from $2.20 to $2.35 a bushel, and from $3.40 to $3.63 per bushel of wheat.

The price supports guarantee farmers a specified amount by making up the difference between that and any lower actual market price.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated the price supports will cost $127 million for this year's crop. The bill also would provide $563 million in subsidies to farmers who suffer losses through disaster to crops of wheat, feed grain, upland cotton and rice.

The Senate-House conference also reached a compromise Tuesday on eligibility for loans and payments in the event the administration asks farmers to set aside or divert land and keep it idle.

The measure would penalize farmers who plant crops not approved under the program by making them ineligible for loans or payments at the proposed higher price support levels.

The bill also gives the secretary of agriculture power to increase price supports under a set-aside program if he considers it necessary to compensate participating farmers.

Major Quake Every Year

MANILA (AP)—Southeast Asia experiences at least one severe earthquake a year and a blockbuster tremor every decade.

According to seismology experts, the region extending from Thailand to Papua New Guinea is one of the world's most seismically active areas. The lives and property of some 200 million people are liable to sudden destruction.

Disappearance Baffles Police

MIDLAND (AP)—Police admit they are baffled by the disappearance of a 19-year-old woman whose parents believe she was kidnapped.

Kristy Booth was last seen dancing with a man at a disco Feb. 2. But her father, Tom Booth, said she always let them know where she was, and he's convinced she has been abducted.

"I always open the mailbox expecting to find a note saying, 'We've got Kristy' and with instructions on what to do," said Booth.

Miss Booth, a waitress, left home about 7 p.m. on Feb. 2 and was last seen about 10:30 p.m. at the Dimensions Club, Police Capt. Billy Ray said.

The teen-ager left her shoes and her coat at the table with friends when she got up to dance with a stranger, a muscular man with a goatee and moustache, Ray said Tuesday.

"She was seen dancing on the floor one minute, and a minute later she was gone — that's it," Ray said. "At first her friends thought she had just stepped out for a breath of fresh air."

Ray said five of his detectives were working on the case with the assistance of sheriff's deputies and the Texas Rangers.

A search has focused on a wooded area near the disco which Ray described as a "local lovers' parking place." So far officers have not found many clues, and the man she was dancing with has not been identified.

"The situation is looking rather bleak. I don't know what her chances are at this point — they're slim," the captain said.

Officers have even placed friends who were with her that night under hypnosis trying to discover details about the last few minutes Miss Booth was seen.

HEW Acts To Provide More Free Abortions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is moving quickly to carry out a Supreme Court order that it ignore congressional restrictions, at least temporarily, and pay for all medically necessary abortions for poor women.

Within hours of the one-sentence order Tuesday, the government took action to restore payments in a broad range of abortion cases. "Medicaid will pay for all medically necessary abortions," the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said in a notice sent to regional offices and individual states.

The notices, sent in English and Spanish, tell women to ignore previous restrictions based on congressional guidelines. The court plans a full hearing later this year on Congress' authority to set limits on the kinds of abortions that can be financed with federal money.

The court voted 6-3 not to overturn a decision by U.S. District John Dooling in New York City, who had ruled that the congressional restriction on abortion payments was unconstitutional.

The court also voted 6-3 to consolidate the New York case with another abortion case it accepted for review last November. The court ordered that all briefs in the New York case be submitted by April 10, setting the stage for a definitive ruling possibly by the end of June.

The old restriction called the Hyde amendment, allowed Medicaid abortions only for women whose lives were endangered by their pregnancies or who were the victims of rape or incest.

After Tuesday's ruling, HEW said the determining factors in a Medicaid abortion will include the woman's physical, emotional and psychological conditions. Teenagers and women over 35 would more likely be considered eligible.

The ruling was praised by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Center for Constitutional Rights as "a great day for liberty. Poor women all over the country can once again get Medicaid-funded abortions."

But Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., who sponsored the amendment, accused the justices of usurping congressional power and restoring "abortion on demand."

Looking ahead to the court's definitive ruling later this year, Hyde said, "I don't see a great cause for optimism when a majority of the justices reversed the status quo before a full hearing was held."

But he predicted the ruling would spur anti-abortion groups seeking a constitutional amendment to limit abortions.

The ruling, however, won't have much impact in 26 states, which already have been providing abortion payments. Another 23 states, however, will now have to make financed abortions available. One state, Arizona, does not participate in the Medicaid program.

Adventure Club Ski Trip Success

The recently formed Snyder High School High Adventure Explorer Post No. 242 returned Sunday, Feb. 10, from a ski trip to Ruidoso, N.M. The group, sponsored by coaches Rick Howard and Jim Mavroulis, left Friday Feb. 8, after school giving them one and a half days of skiing. Those making

the trip were: Britt Vincent, David Nicholson, Johnny Welch, Neil Evans, William Steele, Whit Parks, John Igo, Jim League and Shawn

Ragland. Snow conditions were good with the area receiving six inches of new powder Friday night. The club meets on the third Monday night of each month in the student center at Snyder High School. Members are still being accepted with the current membership being around 20. Boys and girls between the ages of 14-21 who are interested in outdoor activities are encouraged to attend the next meeting, March 17.

Man Pleads Guilty Second Time

DALLAS (AP)—If at first you don't succeed, try again.

That's what Charles Anthony Ivey did Monday when he again pleaded guilty to charges he robbed an armored truck of about $630,000. He was sentenced to 40 years in prison by District Judge John Ovard following the guilty plea.

It was Ivey's second attempt to plead guilty to the armed robbery last year of a Security Transport Co. armored truck in north Dallas.

The first attempt at pleading guilty ended in a mistrial when during the punishment phase a tape recording was played mentioning his possible involvement in other armed robberies. Judge Ovard declared a mistrial because he has not been charged in the other robberies and the evidence should not have been presented to the jury deciding his punishment.

Tim Carr, Ivey's lawyer, said his client entered the second guilty plea because the state was attempting to obtain a life prison term and he chose to plead guilty in exchange for the 40-year term.

C-City Church Plans Fish Fry

COLORADO CITY—The Assembly of God Church, 17th and Watson, plans a fish fry from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Proceeds will be used to buy cushions for church pews. Prices per plate will be $3 or $3.50 for a carry-out plate.

Upcoming activities include another ski trip in March; a fishing and camping trip in April and numerous water skiing trips during the summer. The club is trying to raise money for these activities with a fund raising project set for March 6.

New AAM Tactics Welcomed By Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers seeking higher crop prices and continued incentives for gasohol are approaching Congress without the tractors or the anger that marked last year's visit — and it's paying off.

"They're glad to see us come just with our hats and nothing else," Marvin Meek, chairman of the American Agriculture Movement, said Tuesday.

"We put 50,000 farmers up here the first year and 30,000 farmers and 1,200 tractors last year," Meek reminded hundreds of AAM members at the opening of their two-day convention.

Meeks said the tractors, which snarled traffic and caused about $3.6 million damage to the Mall between the Capitol and the Washington Monument, got the attention of the public.

"But they (the congressmen) haven't listened," Meeks said. "So now we're going to try to slide in. We're going to work with them, lobby them, answer their questions."

The two-day meeting at the Commerce Department ends today, and will be followed by weeks of lobbying on Capitol Hill.

AAM is seeking support for extension of the four cents-a-gallon federal fuel tax exemption for gasohol, a mixture of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline.

But the organization's primary goal remains the same as when AAM was founded three years ago — crop prices equal to 100 percent of parity. That would give farmers the same buying power they had between 1910 and 1914.

In the early 1970s, Meek said, a bushel of wheat and a barrel of oil sold for about the same price.

"Now we're importing $30-a-barrel oil, turning it into wheat and exporting it at $4 a bushel," he said. "How asinine can we be?"

Meanwhile, House and Senate conferees agreed Tuesday on a package of price supports and disaster aid for grain farmers that would cost about $690 million this year.

The measure, for most part modeled on an earlier version passed by the Senate, must be approved by both houses before going to President Carter.

The administration is supporting the program.

The bill raises the price support for the 1980 crop from $2.20 to $2.35 a bushel, and from $3.40 to $3.63 per bushel of wheat.

The price supports guarantee farmers a specified amount by making up the difference between that and any lower actual market price.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated the price supports will cost $127 million for this year's crop. The bill also would provide $563 million in subsidies to farmers who suffer losses through disaster to crops of wheat, feed grain, upland cotton and rice.

The Senate-House conference also reached a compromise Tuesday on eligibility for loans and payments in the event the administration asks farmers to set aside or divert land and keep it idle.

The measure would penalize farmers who plant crops not approved under the program by making them ineligible for loans or payments at the proposed higher price support levels.

The bill also gives the secretary of agriculture power to increase price supports under a set-aside program if he considers it necessary to compensate participating farmers.

Disappearance Baffles Police

MIDLAND (AP)—Police admit they are baffled by the disappearance of a 19-year-old woman whose parents believe she was kidnapped.

Kristy Booth was last seen dancing with a man at a disco Feb. 2. But her father, Tom Booth, said she always let them know where she was, and he's convinced she has been abducted.

"I always open the mailbox expecting to find a note saying, 'We've got Kristy' and with instructions on what to do," said Booth.

Miss Booth, a waitress, left home about 7 p.m. on Feb. 2 and was last seen about 10:30 p.m. at the Dimensions Club, Police Capt. Billy Ray said.

The teen-ager left her shoes and her coat at the table with friends when she got up to dance with a stranger, a muscular man with a goatee and moustache, Ray said Tuesday.

"She was seen dancing on the floor one minute, and a minute later she was gone — that's it," Ray said. "At first her friends thought she had just stepped out for a breath of fresh air."

Ray said five of his detectives were working on the case with the assistance of sheriff's deputies and the Texas Rangers.

A search has focused on a wooded area near the disco which Ray described as a "local lovers' parking place." So far officers have not found many clues, and the man she was dancing with has not been identified.

"The situation is looking rather bleak. I don't know what her chances are at this point — they're slim," the captain said.

Officers have even placed friends who were with her that night under hypnosis trying to discover details about the last few minutes Miss Booth was seen.

Actress Declares She's Not Spoiled

NEW YORK (AP)—Jill Clayburgh says at age 35 she is too old to be spoiled by her success in "An Unmarried Woman" and "Starting Over."

"People talk about fame destroying your sense of proportion, but I'm too old for that," she said in an interview published in the March issue of McCall's. "I didn't get this acclaim for no reason or for something that's going to disappear tomorrow."

She said she learned a lot about dealing with the problems of fame by living with Al Pacino for five years. "He had his ups and downs with fame at first. I learned a lot from it all."

She is now married to playwright David Rabe and plans to have a baby. "I've decided I'm going to just go ahead and have a baby and not think about it any more. We're so awfully good at finding reasons not to have children today."

Lassen Peak, the most recently active volcano in the continental United States, is located in Lassen Volcanic National Park, Calif.

Clements May Cancel Session

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Bill Clements says he may cancel his plans for a special legislative session as a result of the "turmoil" over Speaker Bill Clayton's acceptance of $5,000 from a labor leader.

Clements told reporters Tuesday he was having second thoughts about calling a special session for August because he doubted lawmakers could keep their minds off Clayton and the FBI Brilab investigation. Clayton has admitted accepting $5,000 from L.G. Moore of Houston, who brought a man posing for the FBI as a Prudential Insurance Co. representative to Clayton's office.

The speaker said the man discussed the possibility of landing a state employee group insurance contract, but he has denied any wrongdoing and said he had no intention of keeping the $5,000.

Clayton will appear before a federal grand jury in Houston in March. Some friends believe he will resign as speaker if indicted.

If he should resign, the first business of a special session would be to elect a new speaker. Clements stated earlier he would call lawmakers into session to deal with proposed wiretap legislation and methods of bypassing the Legislature in enacting laws.

In response to a question, however, Clements said he was "having some second thoughts" about the wisdom of a special session as a result of the Brilab investigation.

Clements told an impromptu news conference he is conferring with legislators and "outside people" such as editors and publishers.

He said House members' preoccupation with Clayton and a possible speaker race would divert attention from issues the governor wants legislators to consider.

"Everybody's still in a state of shock" over Clayton, the governor said.

Clements said he still feels wiretapping in drug cases is an "absolute necessity if we're going to curb this very insidious situation."

Asked what he thought of the FBI's "sting" operation, where the FBI informer posed as a representative of Prudential, the governor said undercover agents "are nothing new."

Olympics Shove ABC To Top Spot

NEW YORK (AP)—ABC set aside two-thirds of its prime-time schedule in the week ending Feb. 17 to Winter Olympics coverage, and the tactic helped push the network into first place in the networks' weekly ratings race, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The No. 1 finish for ABC in the most recent survey pulled the network even with CBS for the season so far. CBS had challenged last year's winner in recent months, but most industry experts forecast the Olympics coverage would shift the momentum back to ABC.

ABC broadcast six Olympics reports in prime-time during the week, and four of them were among the 20 highest-rated shows. All six were in the week's Top 30.

"Three's Company," one of the few regular programs aired by ABC in the week, was first in the ratings, with the Saturday night sports report from Lake Placid, N.Y., fourth. "Three's Company" had a rating of 27.6. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 27.6 percent saw at least part of the show.

ABC's rating for the week was 22.3 to 19.8 for CBS and 17.9 for NBC. The Networks says that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 22.3 percent of the homes in the country were tuned to ABC.

CBS kept the race close with three of the week's 10 highest-rated shows, including "Little House on the Prairie" in fifth place. "60 Minutes," the season's No. 1 show, finished 11th in the ratings, its lowest position in some time, but was victimized by some very active competition in its Sunday night timeslot, with the Olympics on ABC and a Walt Disney film, "Escape to Witch Mountain," on NBC. "60 Minutes" was first for the period.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows:

"There's Company," with a rating of 27.6 representing 21.1 million homes, and "Happy Days," 27.5 or 21 million, both ABC; "M-A-S-H," 26.6 or 20.3 million, CBS;

Winter Olympics, Saturday, 26.1 or 19.9 million, ABC; "Little House on the Prairie," 25.7 or 19.6 million, NBC; "Dallas," 25.4 or 19.4 million, CBS; "Goodtime Girls," 25.2 or 19.2 million, ABC; "Dukes of Hazzard," 24.6 or 18.8 million, CBS Movie "The Deep," Part II, 23.9 or 18.3 million, ABC and "Real People," 23.7 or 18.1 million, NBC.

2nd Priest In Rhodesia Killed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—Attackers shot and bayoneted to death a Swiss priest, the second missionary to be slain in Rhodesia since the cease fire went into effect Jan. 4.

Authorities said the Rev. Kilian Huesser, 38, a member of the Swiss Mission Society of Bethlehem, was killed Tuesday by 15 armed men who attacked his mission 40 miles south of Fort Victoria and led away several hostages.

Another priest was killed in the area two weeks ago, allegedly by guerrillas loyal to black leader Robert Mugabe, whose party is expected to take most of the 80 seats reserved for blacks in parliamentary elections next week.

The other seats are expected to go to followers of former Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa and Joshua Nkomo. Mugabe's co-leader in the guerrilla alliance that fought Ian Smith's white minority government for seven years.

Smith's party took the 20 parliamentary seats reserved for whites in voting last week.

Britain's interim governor in Rhodesia, Lord Soames, so far has been unsuccessful in his attempts to end political violence as the former colony heads toward black-majority rule and independence from the crown.

In neighboring South Africa, the Rand Daily Mail newspaper quoted South African military experts as saying South African troops would be sent into Rhodesia after the Feb. 27-29 elections if the South African government believes this is warranted.

"In the event of a complete breakdown of government and chaos in Rhodesia, South Africa will feel duty-bound to intervene militarily," the paper quoted the experts as saying.

"There might be pockets of refugees cut off from South Africa, and if they want to come here, South Africa will be forced to take a hand—we will not wait to be asked," one expert said.

He said the others said two developments in Rhodesia could cause South Africa to send in troops: the "massacre" of fleeing refugees, and incursions into Rhodesia from frontline states sympathetic to Mugabe.

A collection of the world's rarest postage stamps would have an estimated value of half a million dollars or more, and yet the entire accumulation easily would fit in a man's wallet.

Coach Urges Support

Coach Nolan Richardson is sending out an appeal. "I've been trying to tell people we caught Frank Phillips College at the worst time in basketball history. They had just upset Amarillo and were on cloud nine. We caught them flatter than a door-nail."

Richardson is concerned that local fans may not bother to come out Thursday and watch Western Texas take on the Plainsmen, figuring on another repeat of last time's 104-60 stomp.

But as the Westerner coach points out, that rampage was after Frank Phillips had upset a highly-touted Amarillo team, and just wasn't prepared for a similar display only two nights later.

Showing its capabilities, however, Frank Phillips upset yet another WJCAC team on Tuesday. Midland The Plainsmen knocked off the Chaparrals 65-63 in Borger, and Richardson figures this time Frank Phillips will be blowing steam coming into Scurry County Coliseum.

"They proved they are capable," Richardson said. "They are fighting for the lives, too. It's a very important game for them. Heck, they want to get into the Regional Tournament."

Only the top five WJCAC teams can make it to the annual tourney, and Frank Phillips, 8-7, is currently tied for fourth with Howard County College (Big Spring). But Amarillo and New Mexico Military Institute are only a game back at 7-8.

"It's going to be the best show in town, regardless of the outcome. I keep saying that, but really, where else can you see this kind of excitement for the money?"

Fan support is what Richardson is urging.

call the other day and ask if we were going to play in their area. He said he had gotten a half-dozen calls asking about this team from Snyder that was ranked No. 1 in the nation," he noted.

"Well, we aren't going to be over by Austin, but we are going to be right here in Snyder, and we'd sure like to have a big crowd to cheer us on. The regional tournaments are coming up, and we need all the momentum we can get going into them."

Aggies Sign Blue Chipper

By The Associated Press
The Texas Aggies struck again - this time on national signing day - as bluechip tight end Mark Lewis of Houston Kashmere signed with Coach Tom Wilson.

Lewis was one of the top 16 rated players in the state in the Dallas Times Herald's bluechip poll of Southwest Conference football coaches.

The 6-foot-3, 225-pound Lewis did not sign with anyone a week ago on SWC letter-of-intent day.

The Aggies also said they will sign bluechip lineman Keith Guthrie of Tyler John Tyler tonight.

If the Aggies sign Guthrie then they will have landed 6 of the top 16.

Texas was having trouble signing running back Terry Orr of Abilene Cooper. Orr was being heavily courted by Southern California.

The Aggies also announced the signing of three junior college stars, offensive lineman Tommy Thompson of Contra Coast Junior College, tight end Jim Bautrow of Santa Barbara City College, and receiver Larry Edmonson of Ranger Junior College.

Snyder Can't Get Going, And...

Ramettes Sink Felines Hopes

By BILL MCCLELLAN
ABILENE — Mineral Wells, ranked No. 3 in the state in at least one poll this season, rode a leaping, twisting Regina Kimbrough to a second consecutive bi-district championship here last night, defeating Snyder 59-38.

The victory sets the Ramettes in regional play against Dumas in what looks to be a repeat of last year's thriller. Dumas' Demonettes, who won their bi-district game against Monahans on Monday, defeated Mineral Wells 68-66 in double-overtime a year ago.

Snyder's Felines, experencing their first time ever in post season play, gave a good effort, but it was obvious from the start it would take an exceptional performance to upset the much taller, veteran Ramette squad.

Though the Snyder bunch was trying hard, it was never able to get untracked until the second half, and by then the Ramettes were butting with force.

Kimbrough, a 6-0 junior, scored 18 points to lead all players. The second-team all-state selection was a too-familiar figure on the Ramette-dominated boards. She got help in the scoring department from senior guard Laurie Lampkin, 14 points, and further aid on the boards from 6-2 Marlea Simon-ton.

Both teams appeared tense at the start of the game, especially Snyder, which managed only a free throw in the first quarter. The Felines, who remained tight throughout the second period also, hit only one of eight tries from the charity stripe in the first half, and shot in the below freezing range from the field.

Some of those would-be free throws - four misses in the first half - were the front ends of bonus situations - and a handful of layups that just didn't fall could have put the Felines in good shape going into the dressing room at intermission. Despite Mineral Wells' domination of the boards, the Ramettes were suffering under Snyder's tight press, and made a number of turnovers.

But those second and third shots Mineral Wells was receiving via rebounding strength, began to tell, and the Ramettes were happy to take a 21-9 lead at halftime.

Both teams played well in the third quarter. Snyder got six points from Tracey O'Day and four from Brenda Anderson to whittle the Ramette lead to 10 points on several occasions, 23-13, 27-17 and 31-21, but was never able to break it lower than the decade mark. With two minutes left in the quarter the Ramettes began to stretch the margin again, hitting for seven straight points to take a 38-21 lead.

Again Snyder worked on the Ramette lead, though only briefly, before Mineral Wells rattled off a dozen straight points, including eight consecutive by Lampkin. The Ramette advantage grew to 52-24 and 57-29 before Snyder retaliated with some points to cut the margin to nearer 20.

No single Snyder player had more than three points in the first half - a fact which attests to the Feline's cold shooting. But Anderson, after switching on offensively in the second half, hit five of six free throws in the fourth quarter, and managed 14 points for the night. O'Day added 11, while Sandy Sewell picked up six.

The 19-10 finish is Snyder's best ever in the five-year history of Feline basketball. Highlights of the season included a first-ever win over rival San Angelo Lake View, and a district championship.

Fame For A Toe? Managers Deny It

SAN MARCOS (AP)—New Orleans Saints place kicker Russell Erxleben says a deal is in the works to trade him to the Dallas Cowboys for Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson, the San Marcos Daily Record reported today.

However, officials of both teams denied the report.

"They're trying to get Henderson, so it looks like they might trade me for him," Erxleben told Daily Record sportswriter Gregg Echols in Austin during the weekend.

"I don't know if it would work out, though," the former All-America kicker at Texas said. "Dallas might not want me since I make about three times what most kickers are paid. They might not want to pay that much for a kicker."

However, if veteran quarterback Roger Staubach decides to retire and punter Danny White moved into the starting job, the Cowboys would need a punter to replace White. Erxleben had a 45-yard punting average one season at Texas.

Cowboys General Manager Tex Schramm said: "I don't know of any background to this report. I don't know of any substance to this matter either."

Housden Praises Felines, Looking To 1981 Already

Coach Ken Housden was mulling over last night's bi-district game, and already planning ahead for next year this morning.

"We were doing pretty good on our press early," he said. "If we could have scored we possibly could have rattled them," he mused.

Snyder couldn't get going offensively, fell behind 8-1 at the first quarter and eventually lost the playoff game to Mineral Wells' Ramettes, 59-38.

"We were just tight. Extremely tight," he added. "We knew they were tall and all and that we'd have to press them a lot. I thought we did a pretty good job on that, but we just couldn't get any points."

Snyder hit only 10 of 22 free throws for the night and missed at least seven shots from directly under the basket.

But Housden had a lot of praise, too.

"Of course we would have liked to had this one, but still it has been a good season for us. We had a very good group of girls, both ability-wise and in attitude. I'd like to thank them for their efforts, and thank the fans and the student body for all of their support this year. It's been great."

Among the better things that occurred during the season were a best-ever 19-10 record, and a District 3-AAA championship.

Prospects for next season look good, too.

"I'm looking forward to it," Housden said of the 1980-81 campaign. "Of course we lose some good players, but we'll get a lot back, too. And this playoff game will surely help those kids that are coming back next year. We'll be in a lot larger district. I'm looking for us to do real well in it."

Snyder loses Sandy Sewell, Jamie Hataway, Suzy Fisher, Tania Barrett, Kim Harlin and Billie Owens to graduation.

Returning will be, among others, Theresa Browning, Sam Halford, Pam Gray, Brenda Anderson and Tracey O'Day.

A good junior varsity group will also move up.

COLLISION—Brownfield's Dirk Bush (32) collides with Kyle Short in District 3-AAA competition last night, as Eric Arnold looks on for the Tigers. Snyder won the contest, sealing up a second consecutive conference title. See related article.

Claim SHS's Third District Crown... Tigers Lock It Up!

BROWNFIELD — Snyder's Tigers wrapped up a second consecutive District 3-AAA championship here last night, taking down the Brownfield-Cubs 53-45.

The Tigers put nine players on the scoreboard, led by Eric Arnold's 12 points, to outgun the Cubs and nail out an early title with one game still remaining on the loop schedule.

However, school officials reported this morning that a Snyder-Sweetwater makeup game, slated for Friday evening, has been cancelled. For Snyder High School, it was the third district crown of the 1979-80 school year. Tiger teams had already recorded titles in volleyball and girls basketball.

The victory here was almost a ho-hum affair, and expected by almost everyone.

"It's nice to have it in the bag," said Tiger Coach George Byerly of the championship. "It was sort of anti-climatic after our win over Lamesa the other night. It wasn't the typical game you win championships on. You think of big crowds and all, but it was just like any other game."

Just like any other game means Snyder won its 15th straight decision in a season which has the Tigers ranked No. 2 in the state and 25-4 on the year.

Snyder will enter playoffs next week, against a Weatherford-Mineral Wells champion. Weatherford and Mineral Wells will meet Thursday at 7:30 in Boswell (Fort Worth) to determine the 4-3A title.

According to Snyder athletic director John Gary, there will not be a regional tournament, meaning that Andrews and Borger will fight it out in a separate bi-district game. Eventual bi-district winners will then meet for the regional crown.

Though Gary noted, "We are still in the middle of negotiations," he added that the bi-district playoff involving Snyder has been tentatively set for Abilene, possibly at Moody Coliseum.

Arnold hit six-for-six from the line and added three field goals to lead the Tigers, but he was followed closely by Kyle Short with 11 points and Kris Seale with 10. Short hit seven of eight from the line as Snyder went 17 of 24 from the stripe for the night.

Both teams scored nine in the first quarter, but Snyder took a 24-19 halftime lead and stretched it to 36-28 going into the final period.

Byerly praised the efforts of Arnold, Seale and Dayton Robertson especially, and added, "Dayton came off the bench and played almost the entire second half. He did a good job for us."

Dirk Bush's 14 points guided the Cubs. Tommy Fisher added eight.

In earlier play here last night, Brownfield junior varsity nipped the Tigers 57-53. Snyder managed a 15-12 lead in the first stanza, but the Cubs tied the score by halftime 30-30, and went a point in front entering the final eight minutes, 40-39.

Nolan Richardson hit 21 points for the Tigers. Tommy Gressett scored 15. The Tigers conclude their season with a 13-12 record.

Aggies Can Control SWC

By The Associated Press — The most exciting moment in Tuesday's Southwest Conference basketball action came when Texas coach Abe Lemons got into a shouting match with Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers.

As for the games themselves, there was little suspense — the closest contest was a seven-point Rice win over Houston.

Texas A&M moved a full game in front of the conference standings with its 57-48 win over Texas Christian. Texas moved into sole possession of third place with its 76-63 trouncing of Tech, and Rice guaranteed it would not slide into the league cellar with its 81-74 surprise win over Houston.

The Aggies now must get past the slumping Cougars in Houston on Friday to wrap up the regular-season SWC title and gain a bye into the final rounds of the post-season tournament.

The Lemons-Myers face-off erupted when Lemons protested a foul call against one of his players' midway through the second half. Players from both benches crowded around the gang of coaches and officials until an orderly settlement was agreed, and Texas cruised on to the 13-point win.

"This game came close to getting out of hand," Lemons said afterward. "We could have had a real donnybrook out there. But I apologized to Gerald (Myers) and he apologized to me. There wasn't much to it."

Myers, though, believed Lemons' outburst fired up the Longhorn players.

"When we had that little fracas they got emotional," he said. "I didn't want him (Lemons) to intimidate the officials and we both lost our self-control and got to hollering at each other when the game is over it's forgotten."

At College Station, the Aggies slumbered through the opening minutes against TCU until guard David Britton and center Rudy Woods found the hoop and helped A&M scoot away from the outmanned Horned Frogs. Britton later conceded the Aggies might have taken the cellar-dwelling Frogs a bit lightly.

"I think we celebrated a little bit before the game started," he said. "Now we can think ahead to Friday and the championship."

Rice's win at home was its first-ever basketball win over cross-town rival Houston, and the Owls did it at the foul line, sinking 27 of 33 free throws while the Cougars got just eight points on 17 charity tries.

"Yes, I would do some things different," moaned Cougar coach Guy Lewis. "If I could do it over, I'd make some more free throws."

Martin Could Be Yank Again

NEW YORK (AP) — In a stunning turnaround, Billy Martin reportedly has been offered a front-office job by the New York Yankees, the team he has managed twice only to have both terms end in controversy.

Martin's lawyer, New Orleans Judge Eddie Sapir, refused to confirm or deny published reports that Yankees owner George Steinbrenner has offered Martin an executive position with the team.

"I'm not at liberty to discuss that at this point," Sapir told The Associated Press Tuesday night. "I have no comment."

Steinbrenner was unavailable and General Manager Gene Michael said he knew nothing about the report.

"Martin, who was fired as manager of the Yankees last October after a fight in a Bloomington, Minn., hotel bar, also was unavailable.

Golfers Try Lubbock Meet

Snyder High School golf team will compete in the Lubbock Tournament tomorrow and Friday.

The two-day meet will begin at Meadowbrook course Thursday, and move to Hillcrest Country Club Friday.

District 3-AAA play begins March 15 in Sweetwater. Snyder will host two tournaments this season, a non-conference meet-March 7-8, and a district tourney March 29.

Lewis Happy With Effort

ABILENE — Snyder baseball Coach Albert Lewis was satisfied with his team's first performance of the season, a scrimmage with Abilene High School held here yesterday afternoon.

"Overall I was impressed," he commented. "We looked rough in spots, but played them (Abilene) pretty even up, and did a good job defensively."

Pitching seems to be Snyder's primary concern this year, and Lewis noted that, "our pitching showed up pretty well. Their pitchers were a little ahead of ours, but overall I was pleased with what we did," he said.

Lewis also acknowledged the Tigers looked strong in the hitting department.

The Tigers are slated to scrimmage Estacado in Snyder Saturday, at 1 p.m.

Heiden Star Of 1980 Winter Olympic Games

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—Skating with pure power and awesome ability, Eric Heiden has emerged as the unquestioned individual star of the 1980 Winter Olympics, an ice and snow festival that is becoming a one-man showcase of brilliance for the 21-year old from Madison, Wis.

Heiden claimed his third gold medal in as many races and stayed on target for an unprecedented five-event speed skating sweep, shattering another Olympic mark in winning the 1,000-meter test Tuesday.

And while Heiden dominates his events as few athletes ever have, these Olympics also are developing as the Get Even Games — one more chance for champions to claim the gold medals that have eluded them until now.

It was super skier Ingemar Stenmark's turn for vindication Tuesday, and the Swedish star came through, capturing the men's giant slalom with a stirring second run down Whiteface Mountain that propelled him from third place to the gold medal he has been waiting four years to claim.

Stenmark's victory marked the second time this week that Whiteface's frozen slopes have surrendered Olympic gold to a veteran skier. Earlier, Austrian ski queen Annemarie Moser-Proell ended years of frustration by winning the women's downhill race.

East Germany dominated Tuesday's results, claiming three more golds and moving into a 16-16 tie with the Soviet Union in total medals. The Soviets have won seven gold medals, the East Germans six. The United States has three gold medals, five total. Austria has three gold, six total.

Tuesday's East German golds went to veteran Ulrich Wehling, who captured his third straight Olympic Nordic Combined crown, Frank Ullrich in the 10-kilometer biathlon and Hans Riin and Norbert Hahn, who successfully defended their two-man luge title.

The ice dancing gold medal was won by the Soviets' world champions, Natalia Linichuk and Gennadi Karponosov in a narrow and unpopular decision over Kritszina Regoczy and Andras Sallay of Hungary. Irina Moiseeva and Andrei Minenkov of the Soviet Union took the bronze medal.

Colbert Wins Tucson Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Jim Colbert, having proven he's a "good mudder" and also having ended a six-year victory drought, heads west to the Los Angeles Open hoping to make it two triumphs in a row.

Colbert, 38, overcame delays, chilly rain that made his back act up, and a determined Dan Halldorson to win the $300,000 Tucson Open by four strokes Tuesday. Rain had delayed completion of the opening round until last Saturday and extended the tournament through Tuesday. Storms have also ravaged Southern California for the past week, and Colbert and the PGA tour could be greeted by more of the same in Los Angeles.

With a closing 3-under-par 70 that put him at 22-under-par 270 for the 72-hole Tucson tournament, Colbert birdied the final two holes to thwart Halldorson, a young Canadian who had cut Colbert's once-substantial to two strokes with three holes remaining.

"For just a fleeting second, as I stood in the bunker at No. 15 and looked at him on the green," recalled Colbert, "I had that old sinking feeling."

"Then I said to myself, 'Wait a minute, things are going wrong here. You've hit bunker shots before, Colbert, so do it and let's get going.'"

Colbert hit close enough to the pin to make an easy putt and par the hole as Halldorson sank a birdie putt to cut the difference to two strokes. But Colbert, winning his first tournament since 1974, parred 16, then birdied the final two holes as Halldorson took pars the rest of the way.

Slaton Stops Merkel, 70-52

Slaton's Tigerettes defeated Merkel in bi-district playoff action here last night, 70-52.

The Tigerettes found Merkel to be a tough opponent for most of the first half, but came out after intermission and hustled the victory in short order. Slaton, led by Esolita Wraley's 18 points, broke out to a 24-point lead in the third period.

Reye's Syndrome Takes 3rd Victim

SHERWOOD, Mich. (AP) - An eerie silence hangs over Sherwood Elementary School, a five-room schoolhouse in this tiny south Michigan town, where two students have died of mysterious Reye's Syndrome in the last four months.

The unusual child-killing disease claimed at least one more victim in nearby Battle Creek. Officials in Sherwood where two have died of Reye's Syndrome were forced to close schools today because parents refused to send their children to classes.

swelling of the brain, nausea and high fever. There is no universally accepted cure, according to The Merck Manual of Diagnosis and Therapy.

Despite state officials' assurances that it is not believed contagious, Sherwood parents said they would not send students back until they know how to spot Reye's Syndrome and what to do about it.

Meanwhile, 8-year-old Tiphany Wheeler of nearby Battle Creek died Monday, Michigan's third confirmed victim of 1980. Tracy Williamson, 12, died Saturday in Battle Creek, 18 miles from Sherwood, and preliminary pathologist reports indicated the suspected cause of her death was Reye's Syndrome.

There also have been deaths in Minnesota and Ohio, authorities say.

"People are panicky, they're scared," said Kay Golden, who runs the general store in this community of 400 persons.

Only 23 of the 96 students at Sherwood Elementary School showed up for classes Monday and Tuesday after the death Friday of 8-year-old Michael Duttlinger. In November, Holly Jo Burgett and her brother Andrew contracted Reye's Syndrome and 7-year-old Holly died.

Main Campus Students At WTC Show Increase

The "headcount" declined this year when Western Texas College enrolled students for the spring semester.

But headcount doesn't always reflect a true picture. Despite the fact that there are fewer students enrolled, there are more students on the WTC campus in Snyder this year than there were at this time last year.

Figures compiled by Dr. Duane Hood, Dean of Student Services and Registrar, show that there are actually 939 students on the campus, compared to 903 this time last year. Yet, the overall headcount shows 1,122 students enrolled this year, compared to 1,267 for the spring of 1979.

So, it follows that there are actually more students taking full loads of academic and vocational-technical courses than there were last year.

The main campus, of course, is "where it's at" in the permanent college program. The difference between the headcount enrollment this year and last year is accounted for in the extension centers. No extension centers are in operation this spring at Rotan, Ballinger and Lubbock. Last spring, extension centers in these locations accounted for 94 students.

At the same time, enrollment in the student centers at Sweetwater, Crosbyton and Haskell are down from last year, although all three still have significant numbers.

Meanwhile, the main campus has more students enrolled than ever for a spring term, and the total number of semester hours involved are virtually the same as last year, despite the fact that the headcount is down by 145. Semester hours this spring amount to 11,066, compared to 11,204 last year.

Scurry County provided 509 of this spring's student body, about the same as last year's 500 even. Nolan County ranks next with 133, followed by Mitchell with 78, Crosby 63, Haskell 44, Fisher 38, Taylor 29, Jones 24, Garza 18, Dickens 14, Lubbock and Knox 10 each, Kent 8 and Runnels 6. All other Texas counties provide 112 of this year's spring enrollees and there are 26 students enrolled from out of the state.

Parents To Participate In Sex Education

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas school officials say they will have pilot courses ready for 10 high schools next fall to teach parents "how to talk to their children about sex."

"We've gotten a very positive response from parents," said administrator Mary Merki, who is helping develop the program. "The idea is for parents to give instruction in the home in conjunction with what we'll be doing in school."

The Dallas school board approved the pilot project last year, after a stormy public session at which some parents voiced strong opposition.

"Parents will have the option of not having their child participate in class," said Dr. Merki. "However, the district would then send an instruction packet for them to teach the 3-week unit at home."

Oregon became a United States territory in 1848.

University parallel contact hours are up this spring over the spring of 1979 by 161,328 to 156,016, while vocational-technical contact hours are down from 98,192 to 85,072, which reflects a slight shift to more in academic courses and fewer in vocational-technical courses.

In all there are 581 full-time college students and 541 part-time students, of which 543 are males and 579 are females.

Several years ago when Scurry County was trying to get approval for an election to establish a junior college here, a proposal was rejected by the state because officials at the state level doubted that a college here would attract 500 students. The 500 figure was the magic number then in determining feasibility of a successful junior college operation.

YOUTH TOUR WINNERS—Nettie Moss of Snyder and Kevin Huddleston of Ira won the 1980 Rural Electric Youth Tour to Washington, D.C., sponsored by Midwest Electric Cooperative.

Two Youth Tour Winners Named

Nettie Moss and Kevin Huddleston have been selected as winners of the 1980 Rural Electric Youth Tour to Washington, D.C., in a contest held in the Midwest Electric Cooperative office in Roby.

Miss Moss, the daughter of Alfreda Moss of Snyder, is a student at Snyder High School.

Huddleston, a student at Ira High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Huddleston.

Alternates selected in the competition were Heather McPhaul of Borden County High School and Dean Harbin of Rotan High School.

The two winners will receive an all-expense-paid, 11-day trip to Washington, along with contest winners sponsored by other Rural Electric Co-ops in Texas.

The trip will begin June 6, when the Texas delegation of Youth Tour winners will depart from Denton. They will travel to the nation's capital where they will meet with approximately 900 others sponsored by Rural Electric Co-ops from throughout the United States.

Feds Entitled To Profits From Book

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government is entitled to all profits made by ex-CIA agent Frank Snapp on an unauthorized book he published in 1977, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

By a 5-4 vote, the justices ruled that Snapp breached two CIA secrecy agreements when he wrote a book highly critical of the U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam.

The high court rejected

Snapp's arguments against restrictions on free speech.

The secrecy pacts, one signed by Snapp before he joined the CIA in 1968 and another signed when he resigned in 1976, required him to get prior agency approval for publication of any CIA-related information.

Snapp did not seek agency clearance before publishing his book, "Decent Interval."

He also faces the possibility of defending himself from a government lawsuit seeking money damages.

ATTENDS MEETING—Earl Archer, left, of Big Spring; was among those attending a meeting of the South Plains Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts held Tuesday morning at Western Texas College. On hand to greet the visitors and register

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Blood pressure & headache

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Three years ago at age 51 my blood pressure became quite high. My doctor checked me, for six weeks and then put me on Ser-Ap-Es. He said that once I started the medication I would have to keep taking it. He warned me about potassium loss and advised me to drink orange juice or eat fresh fruit, especially bananas. I'm 5 feet 8 and weigh 148 pounds but I'm not really overweight. He also took me off salt.

My doctor retired and moved away and I've gone to a new doctor. He said that my blood pressure was low at 110 over 70 and he didn't think I needed that much medicine. He put me on Aquafesol and so far my blood pressure has been normal.

One thing that bothers me is what our family doctor told me about not being able to quit Ser-Ap-Es once I had started it. Also I now have severe migraine headaches. I used to have a bad one every two or three months but I didn't have a single one during the three years I was taking Ser-Ap-Es. Now I have at least one a week and they're bad and it leaves me so depressed. I am wondering if the Ser-Ap-Es was keeping me from having those migraines. I take Tylenol but it doesn't seem to help. I don't think I can take these headaches much longer.

DEAR READER—Yours is a complicated problem. Ser-Ap-Es is a combination of Serpasil, a diuretic and a third medicine that some think improves kidney function. Serpasil does act as a tranquilizer and it may be this action that helped prevent your headaches while you were taking it. There are other tranquilizers that could be used that might do the same thing for you.

I am concerned about your depression. I'm sure you meant this in relation to being depressed about having headaches but even moderate doses of Serpasil in some people will cause them to be depressed and sometimes they can have very severe depression. One of the complications of both Ser-Ap-Es and Aquafesol is headache, so either medicine could actually cause a headache as well.

I'm sure you've discussed your headaches with your doctor but if your pressure is low enough, you might ask him to try you without any medicine at all. If your blood pressure stays normal without any medication, then the problem will be to deal with the question of your headaches rather than treating high blood pressure.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, to give you a better understanding of the mechanisms involved and the ranges of normal pressure. Also I'm sending you The Health Letter number 2-9, Headache Man's Most Common Pain. Other readers who want either one of these issues can send 75 cents for EACH issue with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There are other medicines you can take for elevated blood pressure that may also relieve a headache. One of these that works well in some people is Inderal. If you do have persistent elevated blood pressure, perhaps your doctor would like to try one of these medicines instead.

Soft Pedals Sex-Peddle

By Abigail Van Buren
1980 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Why is so much emphasis placed on sex these days? Like eating and sleeping, sex is just another bodily function. Some people require more than others. And there are a lot of folks who hardly ever think about it.

Today, everywhere you look you see articles and books telling you how to have "good" sex. There are even therapists to teach people how to do something that comes naturally when two people love each other. My sainted mother would turn over in her grave if she knew that people are actually going to specialists to get instructions on how to make love.

Let's be realistic, Abby. The average person falls in love once (maybe twice) in a lifetime. Unfortunately, some people never fall in love, but they find other things in life that are equally fulfilling and rewarding.

Maybe if we stopped talking about sex so much, we'd have fewer hookers, rapists and sex crazy people. Right?

LEVELHEADED

DEAR LEVELHEADED: Wrong! Hookers have always been with us. (Isn't prostitution known as the oldest profession?)

And it's time that myth about rape is put to rest. The rapist is more interested in degrading and humiliating women than he is in achieving sexual gratification.

Finally, sex between two people who love each other does not always insure mutual satisfaction nor does it come naturally. Our early training has conditioned many of us to regard sex as nasty and sinful. But thanks to therapy "lessons," if you will, we can be taught to overcome our inhibitions and hangups, and enjoy sex without guilt.

DEAR ABBY: I have some standard answers for nosy people who ask me how old I am. I always say, "Plenty nine."

And when I'm asked how much I weigh, I say, "One hundred and too much."

HAZEL IN PIKETON

DEAR HAZEL: Ain't it the truth!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 31-year-old woman, divorced for four years, and have no children.

The man I've been dating for five months has asked me to marry him. He has already bought the ring. I told him I wanted to wait until I know him better. I think I love him, but I want to be sure my feelings are real.

There are a few things about him that bother me. He is 27, and has had only one semester of college. This certainly isn't going to set well with my family because we are all college graduates and have professions. The age difference isn't going to set too well with them either.

He is mature, responsible, hardworking and earns $35,000 a year, but it's only a job—not a profession.

My parents have met him once, briefly, and they don't know he's only 27, and not a college-graduate.

Something else bothers me: I don't like the ring he bought for me.

VIRGO

DEAR VIRGO: Don't say yes until you don't give a hoot what your family thinks about his age, his non-professional job, or anything else. And should you ever reach that point, if the ring still bothers you enough to influence your decision—say no!

CONFIDENTIAL TO WASHINGTON STAR READER: You can either earn it or marry it. But if you marry it, you will more than earn it.

How far can we go and still be safe? Get Abby's new booklet: What Teenagers Ought to Know: Send $2 and a long stamped (25 cents) self-addressed envelope to ABBY: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

surprising black poll

If the United States were populated exclusively by 40-year-old black high school graduates, Edward Kennedy would be the next president.

If all Americans were college graduates over 50 and black, Jimmy Carter would retain his lease on the White House.

But there is no combination of age or education in the black electorate that would elect California Gov. Jerry Brown, or select any of the Republican candidates over Kennedy or Carter.

These results come from the first survey of black attitudes toward the 1980 presidential candidates. Conducted by Data Black, America's first major black commercial polling organization, the poll shows:

Kennedy would beat each Republican by a greater margin than Carter, except for Howard Baker. Baker would lose by 61 percent to Kennedy and 64 percent to Carter.

In a Carter-John Connally contest, 67 percent of blacks would choose Carter, 11 percent would choose Connally. If Kennedy ran against Connally, 78 percent would vote for the former Texas governor.

Black Republicans favor non-candidate Gerald Ford (33 percent) over Ronald Reagan (25 percent), John Connally (4 percent) and George (2 percent).

One-quarter of upper income blacks, black college graduates and Western blacks haven't made any choice at all.

The peculiarity of the Data Black figures is not a demonstrated preference for the Democrats among black voters (only 9 percent of the survey's respondents are members of the Grand Old Party).

There's no real surprise in the Kennedy lead over Carter either - other polls of all Americans have also shown their black sample favoring Kennedy.

The surprise is that the heavy Carter support from black leaders has not narrowed the gap among black voters between the president and his main challenger.

Carter has captured endorsements from the black mayors of Detroit, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Newark in spite of a perfect rating given Kennedy for urban issues by the National League of Cities. More members of the Congressional Black Caucus support Carter than Kennedy.

those tricky budgets

Fashioning the annual federal budget is a process which, despite its laborious and costly undertaking, frequently turns out to be more dependent upon guesswork than scientific projection. The proof is in the final results at fiscal year end.

As the final red ink results almost always show, the projections are more optimistic than the performance. The 1980 fiscal budget is a case in point. With more than seven months yet to run, the current deficit now is projected as more than $40 billion. Until recently, the Carter administration was holding to its estimate that the deficit would approximate last year's $27.7 billion.

Thus, the 1981 budget proposal - a record $616 billion - can be viewed as a minimum rather than maximum spending projection. By some trick of computation, the administration expects spending to increase by at least $52 billion over the current year's level, but the deficit to shrink to $16 billion.

While the deficit projection is an admission the administration sees no hope of balancing the budget, as it has hoped it could, it also is a projection which could prove seriously understated.

A continuing high rate of inflation, an expected economic slowdown and past performance all add up to a wider gap between income and outgo than the White House now projects.

at wit's end

by erma bombeck

Women have known for years that they are the financial giants of this country.

They regulate the economy, control the purchasing power, and establish guidelines for spending. You want to know how we know it? Because someone told us.

If I seem underwhelmed about the distinction, it's because I just broke my own record for cashing the smallest check ever recorded in the Guinness Book of Records... seven cents.

This marvel occurred at one of those self-service gas stations. In trying to force a leaded nozzle into an unleaded gas tank, I inadvertently spilled a little gasoline on my shoe.

Realizing my error, I quickly changed to the unleaded nozzle and got exactly what I had cash for...$6.32. When I went to pay the girl behind the glass she said, "You owe seven cents on pump No. 34."

She looked up tiredly and asked, "What did you do with it?"

"I poured it on my foot." "Why would you do that?"

"I meant to pour the unleaded."

"On your foot?" "In the car."

"That'll be seven cents. I whipped out my charge card."

"You want to charge seven cents?" "Of course not," I snapped. "I also want to get a windshield wiper, a whoopie cushion for the front seat, and a traffic light dog that lights up for my rear view window when I hit the brakes."

"We only sell gas. Besides, we don't take credit cards. That'll be seven cents cash."

"I have tons of money at home," I said.

She looked at me and I realized I was not exactly dressed for success.

"Then I'll write you a check," I said.

Seconds later, I ripped it out of the checkbook, gave it to her (with two I.D.s) and she said, "Aren't you going to record it?"

My cheeks burned with humiliation as I jotted it down and said, "Did you know that women control 85 percent of the nation's wealth and that if we ever quit buying this nation would come to its knees by noon?"

She snapped her gum. "It must be lonely at the top."

winning stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—About five years ago some Detroit-area gentlemen met in a friendly contest to see who could choose the most successful list of 10 stocks, the results to be measured on Dec. 31, 1979.

The results weren't bad. While no money was involved in the friendly wager, some of the gentlemen either owned some of the stocks or went out and bought them.

The poorest performance was an overall gain of 141.5 percent, the best a soaring 375.7 percent, one share each of the 10 stocks increasing from $71.47 in 1974 to $266.75 in 1979.

The other three winners showed gains of 267.6 percent, 170.5 percent and 142.6 percent, respectively. In the same span the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks advanced 36 percent.

Of 40 stocks selected, only three - Emery Air Freight, American Home Products and Schering-Plough - declined in value during the period. Of the others, only four failed to double in price.

The big gainers: Amcord, 1033 percent; Trinity Industries, 955 percent; Coastal States Gas, 504; Great Lakes Chemicals, 586; Ryder Systems, 507; and Universal Instruments, 555 percent.

The five contestants were and still are members of the stock review committee of the National Association of Investment Clubs in nearby Royal Oak. Despite their differences on which stocks to choose, they were united in one belief, that the market was at or near its low.

The Dow Jones industrial average was then at 616.24, a depressed level when compared with peaks during the past 15 years of between 90 to 1,000, or slightly higher. The investment mood was sour.

At their luncheon, the men made one limitation: The selections must be from among 300 stocks listed in 23 years of "Stocks to Study," a feature of "Better Investing," the investment club magazine.

George Nicholson, a founder of the investment club movement, won with a portfolio that included these stocks:

Amcord, which rose from $3 to a buyout price of $34 a share last December; Great Lakes Chemical, which rose 586 percent to $37.75 from $5.50; Coastal States Gas, which jumped 504 percent to $35.50 from $5.875; Moog, up 427 percent to $10.875 from $2.15; and American Family, which rose from $2.15 to $10.875, or 406 percent.

The rest of Nicholson's list consisted of Owens Corning, up 125 percent to $28.50 from $12.69; North American Philips, up 110 percent to $26.75 from $12.75; U.S. Life, up 133 percent to $23.25 from $10; Detrex Chemical, up 271 percent to $32 from $8.625; and Tiger International, which gained 162 percent to $19 from $7.25 in 1974.

And what do these gentlemen think of the current market, which was more than 250 points higher as the market opened this week?

Thomas O'Hara of the National Association of Investment Clubs 1515 E. Eleven Mile Rd., Royal Oak, Mich. 48067, who came in second, believes "most stocks, when prices are related to earnings aren't overpriced."

Human rights, however, is not the only problem between the United States and Pakistan. There is also the matter of a nuclear-weapons capability Washington believes Islamabad is developing such and in the cause of non-proliferation is discouraging the effort, with no success whatsoever so far.

The Pakistani effort is widely reported to be financed by oil-rich Libya. And it is beginning to be widely suspected that Libya intends to share its eventual fruits - a bomb.

Meanwhile, 3,000 miles to the west, seizure of the strategically situated town of Gafsa in southern Tunisia recently was thwarted by Tunisian forces with significant French assistance. Initially billed as a rebellion against a quietly pro-Western government in Tunis, the thrust turned out to have been conceived in and mounted from neighboring Libya.

Beginning to get the connection? Even in the generally chaotic Moslem world, Libya is a maverick verging on the outlaw. It is under the fanatic fist of Col. Muammar Al Qaddafi, so much the extremist's extremist that he is even feuding with the Palestine Liberation Organization. He has fought and lost a brief border war with Egypt. He backed Ugandan despot Idi Amin with money and, at the last desperate moment, troops. And he is supporting a tribal rebellion in Chad, a wasteland more than a country on Libya's southern border, against a government propped up by the French.

And now Tunisia. As a reward for their contribution to that affair, the

Cuba Has Newsprint Breakthrough

HAVANA (AP)—While some experts predict a shortage of newsprint, particularly in Third World countries, by the early 1980s, an encouraging development has recently taken place in Cuba with the inauguration of a plant to produce newsprint from bagasse, the fibers from processed sugar cane.

Cuba was chosen for the project, financed by the U.N. Development Program, since it is one of the largest sugar producers in the world and accumulates some seven million dry tons of bagasse fiber annually.

connection between the two countries, one that has no difficulty at all spanning the geographical and ideological gap - Libya.

But let's start with Pakistan. This is the plucky little dictatorship, you'll recall, that is watching the ramparts for civilization following Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

Promptly recognizing not only the situation's danger but its possibilities, Pakistani supreme leader General Mufammad Zia ul-Haq a few weeks back dismissed a tentative offer of $400 million in U.S. aid with one well-publicized word - "Peanuts."

But not to worry. Almost as promptly, President Carter's national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski was dropping in at Islamabad with assurances that there was no reason to get excited - or be unexcited - about the figure. It was mentioned only for openers.

Apparently there are to be pecans and cashews as well in Zia's mix. Possibly even macadamias. Almost simultaneously back in Washington, the State Department was delivering to Congress its annual report on human rights conditions around the world - a document that this year singles out Pakistan for special mention - Unfavorable.

Zia is sharply criticized by name for postponing oft-promised national elections, dissolving political parties, expanding military courts, censoring the press and detaining opposition politicians without charges.

Not quite consistent with Brzezinski's chummy performance in Islamabad (this being the capital, by the way, in which a mob stormed and burned the Embassy late last year while Pakistani police stuck close to their barracks) But then, reconciling divergent positions of U.S. foreign policy and policy makers is our problem, not Zia's.

Human rights, however, is not the only problem between the United States and Pakistan. There is also the matter of a nuclear-weapons capability Washington believes Islamabad is developing such and in the cause of non-proliferation is discouraging the effort, with no success whatsoever so far.

And now Tunisia. As a reward for their contribution to that affair, the French got their embassy in Tripoli burned by a mob. Echoes of Islamabad. But the French can't say they didn't have warning. A few weeks earlier, much the same had happened to the U.S. Embassy.

So it goes. But if you look diligently enough at this dismal situation, there is a bright spot. It would appear that Zia and Qaddafi do not yet have their bomb. Otherwise, events might have developed much differently for Tunis. And even Paris.

In tracing the Pakistan-Libya-Tunisia connection, a reference to nuts is certainly appropriate. But in a considerably different context than the one General Zia had in mind.

my turn

Once upon a time, owning a woodstove was all the evidence necessary to indicate you were a rugged individualist living in the backwoods.

Today, you could own a woodstove and be from anywhere. The energy crisis and high cost of home heating have helped make woodstoves status symbols for homeowners. The number of woodstoves has risen considerably.

The look of the woodstoves vary widely to fit any decor. Some models closely resemble the old 19th century Franklin stoves. Others look like miniature furnaces.

The popularity of the woodstove is not hard to understand when you realize they are far more effective as producers of heat than fireplaces. The newer, airtight models are capable of heating a home efficiently without any additional source of heat.

For people who object to losing the pleasure of watching an open fire, they can make a choice of a combination stove and fireplace unit, a kind of combi-stove. We're told the wood stoves use fewer logs than fireplaces. Some newer models can take either wood or coal and some convert to oil heat as well. And some are used to cook on as well as a heating unit.

Everytime I hear the word woodstove, I recall one fixed vividly in my mind, from early childhood days spent with grandparents. Fireplaces and a wood cook stove were the only means of heat for some of the country folk. And in later years they were hesitant in giving these up for gas.

The fireplace was a welcome smell, sight and sound in the early morning hours, since I didn't have to get up and start it. The sound of crackling, burning wood meant the icy cold room would soon be warm.

After arising you could smell biscuits and tenderloin coming from the kitchen where it was being cooked on the wood stove.

Wood stoves can never be the same as they were in the good ol' days when they were the only means of heat, but be it status symbol, providing warmth with the smell of wood burning, or for whatever reason, they are becoming increasingly popular again.

Universe Older Than Believed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Science Foundation has announced detailed new measurements of some of the oldest stars in the Milky Way - and says the date could change theories about the galaxy's creation some 15 billion years ago.

The findings announced recently indicate the concentration of heavy elements - iron, sodium and calcium - in the ancient stars are five times lower than previously believed.

Such decrease mean models describing the origin of the galaxy may have to be seriously and old assumptions scrapped, the astronomers say.

Decker Writes About Area He Knows Best

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Books Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—"All kids want to be cowboys." William Decker says with a smile. "I got to be one."

Lots of children also want to write books. Decker got to do that, too. His novels are, of course, set in the West. The latest is "The Holdouts," an information studded story of life on a large Arizona cattle ranch. Decker describes it as "a contemporary book about the people of my generation and how they have responded to the traditions of the West."

The 54-year-old Decker began absorbing the Western lore he uses in his books at an early age.

"I grew up on cowboying in Texas and Arizona," he says.

"My grandfather was a cowboy, and he was a very important influence on me. He kept telling me about the old days, so when I was just a child I started out working around a ranch. Then, when I got my high school diploma, I just took off and became a cowboy."

Decker's life in the saddle was interrupted by World War II. He served as a flight instructor — "but I don't fly now because flying isn't like bike riding, you've got to keep up with it or you can kill yourself and lots of other people" — then returned to the range after the war ended.

But, says Decker, "I got hurt while roping a steer and I got to thinking while I was lying around. I decided to go to college and study writing. After college I went back to cowboying for a little, but I finally decided to give it up and go to New York City and look for a newspaper job.

"Instead I got a job with a publishing house, and I edited books at various houses for a long time. The trouble with that is that you are so involved with other people's books that you don't have a chance to do much writing of your own. If you've got a stack of manuscripts demanding 'read me, read me' it takes the edge off your own need to write."

Decker did manage to write however, and his first novel, "To Be A Man," was published in 1967. "It's about the old-timers I grew up with in the West," he says. "The heroes of my youth. I learned a lot from them and I felt a responsibility to put all this down."

"The Holdouts" is Decker's second book. "It's not a mythic Western with lots of gunplay and violence," he says. "I suppose this disappoints some people but my mind just doesn't go that way."

"Sure, it's got cattle-stealing in it, but that's a situation I used as a frame. What I wanted to do was write a traditional Western but set in the present and showing what's happening out there now."

"Naturally I had to have some kind of situation, a peg to hang things on, but the story is incidental. I wanted to show how a ranch is run, the relations between humans and livestock and land."

"Sure, I worried about stopping the action to go into these things — telling how an automated packing plant works, for example — but it was a risk taken deliberately. My justification is that there are many things about the West that people are not aware of and I want to tell them about it. If the book is overloaded with information it's because I am endlessly amazed at how little people know."

Decker says he has retired from the publishing field and hopes he won't be so long between books. He now teaches literature and writing at the university level in New York City, where he lives with his wife.

"I'm working on a new novel," he says. "I've got a pretty good start on it although it hasn't run off with me yet. But I think that if I just keep twisting its tail it will get up and run."

"It's set in the West, of course."

Finding Whale Autopsy Site

No Easy Task

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Using the tools of 18th-century whalers, scientists plan to cut open the carcass of a 35-foot whale found in the Delaware River to determine why it died. But first they have to find a place to operate on the smelly beast.

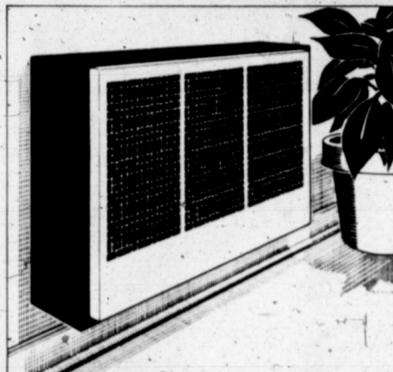

So far, no public landfill where scientists want to perform the autopsy has offered to accept the 17-ton mammal. It's the first whale known to have gone so far upriver in 171 years.

"It's big, it's gray, it's dead and it stinks," said police Inspector Robert Miller.

Fairy Eicke, who has lived in Snyder for 2 years and is originally from Rotan (Fisher County), spent 13 years trying all kinds of different diet programs. "I was a Staff Accountant for a Lubbock CPA firm for 5 years. I was always self-conscious about being overweight and my weight problem increased when I married and quit work. I first heard of Diet Center on a Lubbock television program after I had moved to Snyder. The 17 to 25 pound weight loss in 6 weeks intrigued me because I wanted to lose that much, do it as quickly as possible, and learn how to keep it off. I started the program, not telling anyone but my husband. It didn't take long before people were noticing and commenting. I lost 23 1/4 lbs. and 27 inches in 6 weeks. I have maintained my weight with the occasional help of the one-day controlling diet. My weight loss changed my looks and also my career. I was so impressed with the effects of the diet that I decided to open a Diet Center in Snyder. I wanted the people of Scurry County to have first-hand access to this remarkable program that is growing daily across the United States and Canada."

Everything Put To Use...

No Waste For Japan

By K.P. HONG
TOKYO (AP)—City authorities soon may no longer have to worry about growing garbage disposal problems, a Japanese government technologist says.

Hideaki Takamatsu, staff specialist of the Agency of Industrial Science and Technology, said his research team has developed special technology to process 100 percent of municipal refuse for "resource recovery."

"Since the process, the first of its kind in the world, is free from any pollution problems, plants can be built in the suburbs. The plants will cost less than any conventional garbage disposal means, and will convert industrial wastes as well as household garbage into such resources as compost, pulp, fuel gas and ferrous metal," he said in an interview.

Takamatsu's agency, an affiliate of Japan's Ministry of International Trade and Industry MITI, has been testing the process since last October at plants in Yokohama.

The $30 million plant, called Stardust '80, takes in 100 tons of garbage a day—an amount produced daily by a city with 100,000 population—and turns out 28 tons of compost, 25 tons of pulp, 3 tons of ferrous metal and 7,000 kilocalories of fuel gas, enough for daily gas consumption by 2,000 homes.

"The integral part of our success derives from this cylindrical front-end system which sorts refuse into kitchen garbage, paper trash and steel scraps before being put into the subplants," Takamatsu said.

"Research efforts abroad, some of them large-scale, have so far failed because they tried to recover only one or two specific resources from garbage, producing new refuse to be disposed of."

"The tons of garbage are pulverized into different types while moving through the 'selective pulverizing classifier,' a 24-foot-long processing machine.

Kitchen garbage, with broken glass removed, is put into a pool for compost production while paper trash is bleached and fed into pulp-making equipment.

Steel scraps are separated from plastics by magnets, and plastics are converted into fuel gas with special gasification equipment.

Broken glass, pulverized stone, dirt, ceramics and other such materials are mixed with cement to be sold as artificial pebble-stone to builders.

"Thus the plant produces no new industrial wastes. It employs the latest technology and emits only one-tenth the sulfur and nitrogen oxide discharged from the regular garbage in incinerator," Takamatsu said.

"Japan has the strictest anti pollution laws in the world, and yet the plant has met all air-quality and noise standards."

A number of city and provincial governments across the country now plan to adopt the system in coordination with the MITI, he said, adding that the system has also attracted international interest.

"We have had dozens of city authorities, sanitation officials and students visiting the plant from many countries including European states, the United States and Asian nations," Takamatsu said.

The testing will continue through November to develop complete technical data, he said.

If a full-scale plant is built under the system, about 4,000 yen ($16.73) is estimated as the cost to dispose of a ton of garbage while 7,000 yen ($29.66) is needed in the current landfill and incineration system, he said. The value of recovered materials was taken into account.

Of the roughly 400 million tons of waste and refuse produced in Japan a year, 300 million tons are produced by industry.

Join River Blindness Program

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—River blindness, caused by a parasite which is transmitted by the bite of the black fly, is a major problem in West Africa. An estimated 100,000 people suffer from the disease and many others live in danger of infection.

Seven countries of the Volta River Basin where the black fly breeds—Benin, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Mali, Niger, Togo and Upper Volta—have joined in a long-range program to eliminate the disease. With financial help and equipment from four United Nations' agencies—the World Bank, WHO, FAO and the U.N. Development Program—weekly spraying of the Volta and its tributaries is under way.

The saying that truth is stranger than fiction first appeared in Byron's poem "Don Juan."

Man Gobbles Cherry Pie

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—Machine shop operator Dan Simmons gobbled down a cherry pie in 70 seconds to win the Carthage Washington's Birthday Pie-Eating Contest. Earlier, Simmons finished off a pie in 105 seconds during the first round of the contest, but he blamed his poor time on a cherry pit that got in the way. The second pie "seemed to fall down the right way," Simmons said Monday.

Napoleon Bonaparte was born in 1769.

After 18 Years...

Fall-Out Shelter Still Waiting For Big War

By Tom Tiede

LIVERNE, Ala. (NEA)—When G.T. Miller built his radiation-fallout shelter in the early 1960s, he wondered if he'd missed the bus. A few months after his refuge was completed, relations with Russia stabilized, the Cold War began to thaw, and the threat of holocaustic war faded almost into obscurity.

But unlike thousands of others who dug holes then, Miller did not use the new moderation as an excuse for abandoning his faith in civil defense. While most of the nation's bomb shelters were soon filled in, or converted to storehouses for garden tools, Miller kept his facility open and expecting.

And now he says he's glad he did. "I don't know what's going to happen in Iran. I don't know what's going to happen in Afghanistan. But if worse comes to worse, and the missiles start flying, well, I'm still prepared."

And how. At a time when authorities report a reactivated interest in the techniques of nuclear survival—including some orders for fallout construction—80-year-old George Thaxton Miller could teach us all a thing or two. His shelter here may be the largest privately owned bunker in the United States.

The bunker is dug into a small rise under Miller's middle-class home. It's 90 feet long by 30 feet wide and contains 16 rooms equally distributed on either side of a central corridor. From that hall, the shelter looks rather like a small hotel, and in fact some of Miller's neighbors call it the Luverne Hilton.

NUCLEAR FALLOUT SHELTERS, like the one depicted in the 1961 survival experiment above, were largely converted to storehouses for garden tools when the threat of nuclear war abated. But G.T. Miller has kept his shelter stocked, and now he says he's glad he did.

The Hilton comparison ends with the layout, though Miller built the complex for survival, not luxury. The rooms are 10 feet by 12 feet, and unadorned. The beds are made of iron, and bolted to the walls with chains. There is one central toilet, otherwise each room contains a portable sanitation canister.

Right now the toilet implements need repair. Also the bed springs have collected rust. But in the main the 18-year-old facility is in excellent condition. Its stocks have been maintained, Miller says he has 3,500 gallons of water in storage, as well as groceries, medical supplies and a generator.

Moreover, the fallout protection is still sound. The Luverne Hilton is surrounded by 12 inches of brick and cement, and the ceiling is nearly 3 feet thick. The roof is fortified with 12 inches of sand and gravel, 8 inches of reinforced concrete, and alternating layers of asphalt, steel and earth.

Miller says the roof has been stratified in order to filter falling radiation. He believes the different textures of construction will act to slow and eventually stop the toxic particles. "I know it will work," he insists. "If the war comes I think we'll save some 100 to 150 folks in this shelter."

Those folks would be admitted on an arrival basis, Miller adds. Over the years several visitors have asked if they could buy or rent rooms in the bunker, but Miller has refused to accept reservations. First come, first served, he believes, in time of war the rooms at the Luverne Hilton would be free.

The rooms would also be integrated. This is the South, and some people may object to sharing the refuge with blacks, but not Miller. "I look on everyone the same," he says, "and I think we all need one another. If black people don't make it, white people won't make it either."

There was a time, by the way, when Miller's color blind philosophy was troublesome in Luverne. Two decades ago, when he hired black men to work in the grist mill he owns here, the Ku Klux Klan objected in a violent way. Miller was beaten up, shot three times and his business was boycotted for 10 years.

Now those days are past. And G.T. Miller, the old softy, is considered to be an institution in this region. As for the KKK, many of the members who once terrorized Miller have since mended their ways. In the event of an emergency, some of them would likely seek survival in his fallout shelter.

And survive they could. Local officials who are familiar with Miller's bunker say it is a monument to effective civil defense. Each room is wired for communications, the air system is self contained, and there is enough warehouse space to keep people alive, nourished and comfortable for as long as one year.

Miller paid less than $24,000 for it in 1962. Today he doesn't think it could be duplicated for $100,000. "It's solid as rock," he claims. "In an attack, I'm told it would withstand anything but a direct nuclear hit."

Not that he wants to test it, of course.

Actually, Miller doesn't think it will be tested. He believes events in the Middle East probably worry the Russians as much as the Americans. But, in case they don't, and in case the Russians start something, he contends there will be some people here in the Luverne Hilton who will live through it—and fight back.

No Wooden Teeth, Though...

Dental Problems Dealt Misery To Washington

HOUSTON-Americans may eat cherry pie on Feb. 22, George Washington's birthday, in remembrance of the cherry tree Washington supposedly chopped down, but they wouldn't want to chew the pie with teeth like those of the first president.

"George Washington is really important in dental history because he had so much trouble for so long and he wrote extensively about it in diaries and letters," according to Dr. Ernest Beerstecher, professor and chairman of the Department of Biochemistry at The University of Texas Dental Branch at Houston. Beerstecher is a past officer of the American Academy of the History of Dentistry.

Contrary to legend, there is no evidence that Washington had wooden dentures. But he did have at least six ivory and metal ones made by several different dentists.

Washington's dental problems were not unusual for the era in which he lived, Beerstecher pointed out. Although a large group of professional dentists developed in France under Louis XIV in the early 1700, the profession was set back with the abolition of licensing requirements during the French Revolution.

Not more than a handful of dentists came to the American colonies before the American Revolution. There were no licensing requirements, and many charlatans practiced "toothpulling," Beerstecher noted. A combination of poor dental hygiene and heavy dosing with calomel (a purgative containing mercury) caused many colonists to begin losing teeth before they were 18 years old, according to a special issue of "Dental Management" commemorating the nation's bicentennial.

Fillings were not generally a satisfactory treatment for several reasons, Beerstecher said. Only hand drills were available until 1791 when one of Washington's dentists, John Greenwood, used a foot engine made from a spinning wheel to power a dental drill. There was no further improvement until the invention of the sewing machine in the 1870s provided a better power source.

"It was hard to find the right metal for fillings," Beerstecher added. "They knew gold was good, but even then it was expensive.

Pouring molten metal into a patient's tooth was neither comfortable nor safe. The first silver amalgams used as fillings crumbled in the teeth, and it took a long time for better ones to gain acceptance, he said.

Most of the colonists went to a barber or a blacksmith to have their teeth pulled when the pain of disease and decay became too great, Beerstecher said. Even silversmith Paul Revere handled a dental practice on the side. Extractions were performed without anesthetic and with such crude instruments that sound teeth and pieces of jawbone were sometimes removed along with the bad teeth.

Only the wealthy, like

Washington, could afford dentures, Beerstecher explained. Animal teeth or ones carved from ivory were attached with gold wires to a base of ivory, wood or metal.

OPEN WIDE—If you had a toothache in George Washington's time, your barber-dentist might have used a tooth extractor like this one on exhibit at The University of Texas Dental Branch at Houston. The adjustable hook on the end fit around the offending tooth, and the handle was used to twist the tooth up and out. Some of the barbers became quite skilled at toothpulling, according to Dr. Ernest Beerstecher, professor and dental historian at the Dental Branch. However, since there were no licensing requirements, anyone might attempt the procedure and extract sound teeth and bone as well as the diseased tooth. Washington wrote extensively about his dental problems.

Dolly Signs Vegas Pact

By Murray Olderman

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (NEA) — Tony Zoppi has never met Dolly Parton. This would not be important except that he has signed the blonde, big-busted singer to the most lucrative contract in the history of show business.

Over the next three years, Miss Parton will get $6 million for appearing six weeks annually at the Riviera Hotel where Tony reigns as the vice president for entertainment.

Her total stipend comes out to a whopping $350,000 per week, stupendous even for this high-rolling desert oasis. Previously, Frank Sinatra had been the only performer in the $300,000-weekly class.

This all came about because Zoppi, who had been the hotel's public-relations director for 14 years, got a call from Ray Katz, Miss Parton's manager, saying "Dolly's decided to work Las Vegas. I'm offering her to three hotels."

big bucks for acts when Liberace opened a couple of decades ago for $50,000 a week, which was considered a miraculous sum. Andy Williams at Caesars Palace carried it to the $100,000 plateau, and Neil Diamond jacked it up another $50,000 a week at the MGM Grand.

(Sinatra doesn't figure because he was always in a class by himself.)

Zoppi's first bid for Dolly Parton was for $250,000 a week, which was higher than his hotel had ever paid. Ten years ago, the Riviera had risked big bucks with Dean Martin, and it had paid off.

"You had the low bid," Parton's manager informed Zoppi.

So Tony went to Meshulam Riklis, an Israeli business entrepreneur, who owns the Riviera.

"That was your offer," said Riklis. "Now I'll make my offer." And he upped the ante to $350,000 a week, which was 50 Gs more than either the MGM Grand or Caesars Palace would pay.

Riklis has never seen or met the country and western star. He doesn't even know her name. He calls her "Dolly Who?" or simply "the broad with the big ..."

Says Zoppi: "The fact other hotels are bidding tells you something. Dolly Parton is the hottest concert act in the country."

Her opening (scheduled for June) will be up there with the Fourth of July and Bastille Day. This is going to be the biggest deal in the industry.

Besides the 350 big ones a week, Dolly will also be getting what they call in Las Vegas "the garbage" — the use of a home in fashionable Rancho Circle, a chauffeur-driven limousine, a maid, a cook, rooms for her entourage, complimentary food and beverage.

Putting up these stars often ranks with getting accommodations for the ex-shah of Iran. For Dean Martin, they had to provide 150 bottles of Chateau Lafitte Rothschild wine. He wouldn't ride an elevator, so they built him a $200,000 suite on the second floor with private sauna and Jacuzzi.

Barry Manilow insisted on curtains in the hallway outside his suite. Shirley MacLaine, who suffers from hypoglycemia, had to have food choppers and a special refrigerator, plus 12 telephones.

"Las Vegas is really middle America," explains Zoppi in trying to justify when so much money is being invested in a country and western singer. Headliners such as Bob Newhart and the Mills Brothers regularly sell out.

The show room at the Riviera seats 1,000 people for dinner, 1,100 for the cocktail show. The average take is $60,000 a night for the two shows, or $420,000 a week.

"We'll break even with Dolly," admits Tony. "If we're lucky."

The big Las Vegas earnings, of course, are in the gambling casinos.

Karen Blaker Ph.D.

Murder is on her mind

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — I am desperate for help.

I have a beautiful daughter, who everyone says should have "a perfect life." She has a severe problem, however.

She started to think about killing people when she was 14. At that time she wanted to destroy her father and me.

Those thoughts went away, only to reappear at age 19 when they focused on her first husband.

She was not bothered by the thoughts again until her last child was born. Then she felt she wanted to kill all her children (two by her first marriage and two by her second) as well as her second husband.

Now she wants to destroy the entire population — anyone who is around her.

We have spent many hours with her but cannot seem to do anything to help her with her fears.

She has been to several therapists, some of whom told her they never heard of such a case before. She also had a complete physical examination; the doctor just gave her tranquilizers.

She thinks she could solve the problem by going into an institution. The therapists don't agree, however.

That solution, of course, would be heartbreaking for the whole family.

DEAR READER — Yes, it would be heartbreaking if your daughter entered a psychiatric hospital for treatment.

But it would be disastrous if she didn't receive the help she so desperately needs and actually took someone's life.

Believe what she is saying. Do not wait until she has to prove to you the seriousness of her problem. She is struggling to control her murderous impulses and needs external controls to keep from acting on them.

Tranquilizers won't do a thing in this kind of situation.

Short-term hospitalization, however, could be very helpful.

Take her to a psychiatrist immediately — an M.D., not a "therapist." Anyone who says he or she never heard of this common symptom of mental illness is not qualified to take care of your daughter.

Several months ago a Los Angeles man wrote to me saying that he was about to start killing the people he felt had made his life miserable. He also mailed a letter to Bob Greene, a syndicated columnist based in Chicago.

The man signed the letters "Molded to Murder." You may have read about him in the newspaper.

We independently alerted the Los Angeles Police Department. Greene even flew to Los Angeles, where he established a phone line and wrote newspaper articles telling the desperate man that he could get help if he surrendered.

The man called several times. He really wanted to know if anyone would care enough about him to try to help.

The police finally picked him up just after one of his five pre-dawn calls to Greene. The man expressed relief when he was caught.

Just like him, your daughter is crying out for help. And you can get it for her.

Suicide threats are also meant to be taken seriously. To learn how to cope with them, write for Dr. Blaker's newsletter "When a Loved One Threatens Suicide." Send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Write to Dr. Blaker at the above address. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Military In U.S. Today High In Spirits But Short On Manpower

By Tom Tiede
 FORT POLK, La. (NEA)—Rumors of war may be striking fear in the hearts of a good many Americans, but there is no trembling on this remote military reservation. Commanders at the Fifth Infantry Division say the unit is well trained, well equipped and—by damn—if war comes they are ready for it.

There is one problem, though. If the Fifth Division were ordered into combat today, it would have to go short-handed. The unit is almost 60 percent below its authorized strength. It should have 16,500 men under arms, but there are only 11,500 soldiers, including garrison personnel, in all of Fort Polk.

Rest assured, there is no shortage of spirit. Division officers say the new war will be a "come as you are" affair, which is to say they will have to do with what they have. What's more, even with the gaping holes in the ranks, they insist they have enough to meet and defeat any adversary in the world.

This optimism may be misplaced, however. Machismo is no substitute for manpower. In effect, there is only two-thirds of a division here, and in the event of war it could be expected to do only two-thirds duty. That's not the most encouraging way to approach the hard prospects of combat in the new decade.

And yet this is the accepted approach in the U.S. military today. The Fifth Division is an exaggerated example, but units throughout the services are understaffed and incomplete. At present, only the Navy is at authorized strength, the Army, Marines and Air Force are short more than 50,000 men.

One reason is because the services no longer draft the people needed. When Congress ended conscription in 1973, and created the All Volunteer Armed Forces (AVF), it hoped that services could be filled with people motivated by patriotism or career opportunities. That hope has not been fully realized.

The military has done its best to lure the volunteers, of course. During the 1970s, the entire face of armed service was modified for the better. Recruit pay shot up from $124 to $575 a month. Harassment was tempered. As for living conditions, GIs at Fort Polk now live in rooms with carpets on the floors.

Still, the effort has fallen short. In desperation, some military recruiters have tried to drag emotionally or physically unqualified people into uniform, but even cheating hasn't made the difference. Army recruiters, for instance, have failed to meet enlistment goals in two of the last three fiscal years.

The result is that critics say the AVF has been a failure. Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., is one of many in Congress who believes the underweight military is a "sinking ship." And Gen. William Westmoreland, the former Army chief of staff, says bluntly that "manpower is the weakest link in the military chain."

Westmoreland points out that the military chain includes reserve units that are even more significantly understaffed than the active forces. When the draft was lifted, he says, young people were no longer required to serve in reserve or National Guard components, hence the standby numbers plummeted.

Westmoreland says there used to be more than a million soldiers in the Individual Ready Reserve, but now there are only about 100,000. The National Guard is down 20 percent in numbers, the Army Reserve 15 percent. Currently, there are just eight Army Reserve divisions operating, there were 23 in 1964.

The reserve figures are enormously important, Westmoreland claims. In time of war the mission of the reserves is to sustain active military outfits, in other words to provide them with trained replacements. If they can't do that, Westmoreland says, the nation's combat capabilities could be sorely injured.

Right now the reserves do not have nearly enough people to sustain a war effort. And given the AVF there seems little likelihood the manpower outlook will change. If anything, recruiting military volunteers may be even tougher in the future, because demographers say the manpower pool is shrinking.

The pool is shrinking because the U.S. birthrate is shrinking. In 1957, the peak year for this kind of thing, 4.3 million babies were born in the nation. Last year the figure was only 3.4 million, and by 1990 the number may decline by another 20 percent. Fewer births, of course, means fewer potential soldiers.

In 1976 approximately 2.1 million males reached the age of 18, the first year of military eligibility. By 1985 the figure will be down to 1.7 million, and by 1992 it may be as small as 1.5 million. This means that, eventually, the age group from which the military is formed will be cut by one-fourth.

So the crunch is obvious. Military recruiters who have difficulties now will face far worse odds later in the decade.

TV In The '80s... More News But Less Programs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The three major networks will produce more news and documentaries but provide less overall programming in the 1980s, according to a study conducted by a Massachusetts research firm.

The findings by the Management Analysis Corporation support predictions by NBC President Fred Silverman and others that, faced with increasing competition from alternative video systems, ABC, CBS, and NBC are on the road to becoming international broadcast news services.

Although the networks will be offering less entertainment programs, TV viewing and the number of programs available will increase because of the wide range of new programming sources, such as cable, satellite and home video systems.

Increased viewing in the next five years is also attributable to an increase in the number of household units, which is growing faster than the population itself.

Cable and subscription television in particular will continue to proliferate, with video recordings and station-to-home satellite systems not becoming crucial factors before the end of the decade, according to the study.

Advertising on the so-called "new video" systems, currently almost negligible, will reach nearly $2 billion annually by 1985, the study projected. This suggests that advertisers will be placing commercials on cable systems and subscription TV, and, to a lesser extent, video discs and video cassettes.

If so, the theory that commercial-free viewing is a prime attraction of so-called "pay TV" will soon be put to test.

The Republic of Bolivia was proclaimed in 1925.

Clements Launches New Campaign Against Drugs

AUSTIN—Gov. Bill Clements and the Drug Abuse Prevention Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs has launched a new campaign against the state's drug problems that aims to involve people at all levels of society in Snyder and all across Texas.

T. Spence says, "we want to avoid scapegoating... Drug abuse is not just the problem of the user or the fault of his family. It is a problem to employers who may be losing valuable work hours and personnel, to friends who see valued relationships suffer, to children who see other family members abusing drugs or alcohol, to parents who see children suffering the effects of drug usage, and to society as a whole in the cost of lost productivity of its members. If each individual will ask himself or herself what he or she can do, then real progress will begin."

Drug abuse figures show that the pattern of drug abuse in Texas is changing in some areas. Heroin has increased in price, become less readily available and the quality is very poor. As this has happened, narcotic addicts have turned to legally or illegally obtained synthetic narcotics, such as dilaudid. In connection with the shift in abuse patterns, law enforcement agencies have noted a sharp increase in the theft of synthetic narcotics during the past two years. As price and popularity of these drugs increases, so does theft and burglary. At the same time, there has been an increase in polydrug abuse, that is, the use of a combination or variety of drugs. Polydrug users rely heavily on legally or illegally obtained prescription drugs such as sedatives, tranquilizers, barbiturates, synthetic narcotics, analgesics and amphetamines. Although the patterns are changing, Spence believes that it is probable that there are not fewer drug abusers in Texas. "These shifts from one drug to another may be the result of pricing changes in the street, safety and even what is in vogue in the drug community."

While heroin use has declined, the abuse of methamphetamines has risen slightly. Methamphetamines, or speed, can be illegally manufactured and presents serious health and physical hazards to those who use them. Indicator data suggests that there is an upswing in deaths and emergency room treatment of individuals combining different drugs or drugs and alcohol. According to Spence, "we are seeing people who have not traditionally been associated in the public mind with drug abuse. That is, businessmen and women who abuse prescription drugs like tranquilizers, anti-depressants, and sedatives. These drugs, when combined with alcohol, can result in death."

Elderly people who frequently take a variety of medicines may become dependent on them. They may inadvertently or intentionally abuse their medications. While they may not be seen in drug treatment facilities, their diminished capacity will certainly result in a loss or impairment of social, professional and familial relationships. "They are likely to be helped more by prevention than by treatment," says Spence.

Kennedy Finds Now Is No Time To Talk Iran

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Edward Kennedy would like to change the subject — and for good reason.

A foreign policy argument with the White House at a time of international stress is, almost invariably, a no-win argument for the challenger.

President Carter demonstrated that when he rolled out all the White House artillery to rebut, and denounce, Kennedy's criticism of the way the administration has handled the Iranian hostage situation.

Later on, that issue may be one Kennedy can use to advantage; the Carter people acknowledge that once the hostages are free, the president may face criticism for letting them be seized. But not now.

Not while Carter is in a position to say that negotiations too delicate to be discussed may point to a way out for the hostages; held in Tehran since Nov.

These are the kinds of circumstances in which the White House pulpit works best and in which campaigning — which is, after all, what Carter is doing — can be cloaked in all the power of the presidency.

Edward Kennedy

So at a White House news conference Feb. 14, Carter accused Kennedy of making foreign policy statements "very damaging to our country" by criticizing the way the president is dealing with Iran and Afghanistan.

Kennedy retorted that Carter policies "have diserved the national interest," and said the administration spurned an international commission as a way out of the hostage stalemate until he spoke out for that approach.

His forums underscore the problem for a challenger: Kennedy spoke at high schools in Nashua and Exeter, N.H., and failed in a demand for network broadcast time to respond to the president's news conference.

Then he said with movement on the hostage situation, it is time to put economic issues "back on the front burner."

The Challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination has wanted them there all along. While foreign policy has become a rallying point for the Carter campaign, the economy is a weak one.

Carter's own budget points to his vulnerability on that issue. It forecasts inflation of 10.4 percent during the election year, and unemployment increasing to 7.5 percent.

Four years ago, Carter said he would strive to reduce inflation and unemployment to no more than 4 percent by the end of his first term.

So far, Kennedy has failed in his efforts to get the gap between promise and performance put atop the campaign agenda.

Literary Map Lacking In Geographic Aspect

By MARK LISAC Canadian Press Writer EDMONTON, Alberta (AP)—Canada's new literary map was compiled by Morris Wolfe and David Macfarlane. It was drawn by Graham Pilsworth in the washed-out green one sometimes finds on faded school walls.

Americans may not like it: the map assigns the Alaska Panhandle to Canada. It does not show the Red Deer River on which the misfit fossil hunters rafted through southern Alberta in Robert Kroetsch's novel, "Badlands."

But on this map literary history is more important than geographic detail. Basically, it is a list of authors and titles selected by Wolfe and Macfarlane and superimposed on the appropriate regions.

The result is an easy-to-read guide to Canadian literature and regional culture.

Most Canadian readers are acquainted with the southern Ontario villages created by Robertson Davies in "Fifth Business" and Stephen Leacock in "Sunshine Sketches." The map will lead them elsewhere if they succumb to the mystery of the titles.

What praises did Fred Cogswell sing in "Ode to Fredericton?" What did Marius Barbeau tell about northwestern British Columbia in "The Downfall of Temlaham?"

As with any list, half the fun of the reading may lie in arguing with the decisions.

Crowded Manitoba is missing novels such as "Grain" and "Where Nests the Water Hen," while Toronto and Montreal get a special inset to house part of their outsized production.

There is more poetry than most people read and almost no history. Can we have a literary map of Canada — without the Methodist parlors and diplomatic chambers described in Lester Pearson's memoirs, or without the back streets through which Mackenzie King went wandering in C.P. Stacey's "A Very Double Life?"

There is no great masterwork that manages to span the whole thing from sea to sea. The map, consciously one suspects, reinforces the perception that Canada's authors receive much of their inspiration from geography and Canada's literature is largely regional in nature.

Practical Good Living

HOME DESIGN
By Larry Farnsworth

A house like this one is especially well suited for building on a narrow lot, but the practical good living it provides is welcome anywhere at all.

See the economies the designers have used with no sacrifice of living comfort at all. The front door at one corner of the living room guides traffic along its side maintaining its privacy without the expense of a separate entry.

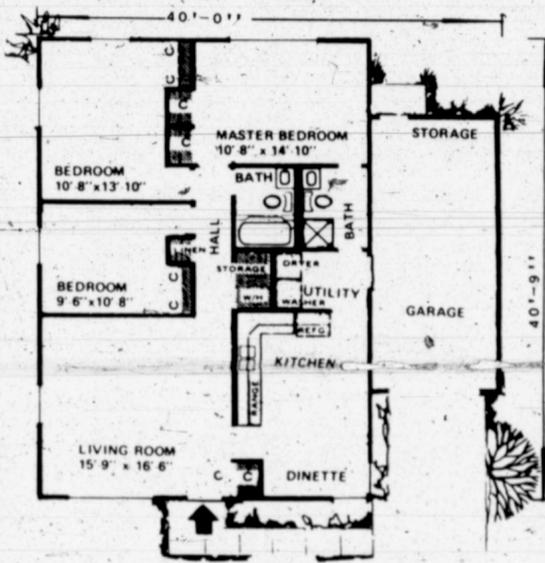

The country kitchen is the largest part of a working core arrangement which includes a good sized utility room and the two baths. Plumbing installation costs are thus kept at a minimum. Note too the utility room's convenient door to the garage and the handy second door in the master bedroom bath.

Note additionally how the kitchen's corner work area allows maximum space for dining and living center activities. Consider finally, the good sized bedrooms and the garage storage room.

Everything here adds up to practical good living.

You may purchase complete working drawings, material lists and plan books from Larry Farnsworth, P.O. Box 1841, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101.

Appeals To Sen. Bentsen For Mexican Wife

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—Texans searching for romance are ready to try anything, apparently, even ask for a senator's help.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, received a letter from a constituent who wanted to sponsor an immigrant to the United States.

"I would like to sponsor a pretty young woman who would like to get married as soon as possible," the letter said. "I don't promise her a bed of roses but I think I can make her very happy."

The Texan said he would like his immigrant bride to be between 18 and 37 years old, have no more than one child and be able to become a citizen.

"When I get word that she is coming, before she moves in with me if that is possible, tell her that I make $7,000 a month. Tell her that I have one son," the letter said.

Madagascar became a French colony in 1896.

RICHARDSON'S HOME CENTER

Famous Fredricksburg Hotel Becomes Museum

The Nimitz Steamboat Hotel, famous on the Texas frontier for hospitality, good food and the gusto of its hosts is again taking shape on Fredericksburg's skyline. But this time, instead of guests such as Robert E. Lee and U.S. Grant it will welcome thousands of schoolchildren, visiting Texans and "snowbirds" retreating from northern winters who stop to see one of the world's most unusual museums, The Museum of the Pacific War.

Born in Fredericksburg on Feb. 24, 1885 Admiral Nimitz agreed to the use of his name provided the Admiral Nimitz Center was dedicated to all who served with him. Researchers at the center have determined that in September 1945, just after the surrender of Japan, as Commander-in-Chief Pacific Nimitz commanded more than 2 million men and women, greatest military assemblage in history. That means that more than 2 million people have a piece of the Nimitz museum dedicated to them.

Dozens of American flags will fly on Fredericksburg's wide main street on Feb. 24 to honor the birthday of Nimitz, their most famous native son, last of our country's five-star admirals, who died on Feb. 20, 1966. In the newly-restored kitchen of the old hotel, local ladies will serve cake and coffee. Some will have donated kitchen tools from early days to add an historic touch to the old kitchen.

Everyone is invited to the Admiral's birthday party. It is expected that many passers-by who have learned that they can visit Fredericksburg, the nearby LBJ Parks and Enchanted Rock State Park on one tankful of gas, will stop for a piece of cake. Admission will not be charged during the party, from 2 to 4 in the afternoon.

NIMITZ HOTEL-The Nimitz Steamboat Hotel in Fredericksburg, famous landmark in early days is pictured above as it appears today. It has been restored by donations from Texas citizens. Within it will be the Museum of the Pacific War.

Meanwhile work continues on the Steamboat Hotel which is more than two-thirds finished on the outside, using money donated by people from all over Texas. Beautiful native rock is being revealed from beneath a veneer of concrete stucco, added when the hotel was "modernized" during the 1920s.

The Museum of the Pacific War will tell the story of four years of island-hopping. Admiral Nimitz assumed command a few days after the attack on Pearl Harbor and continued in that post until the surrender of the Japanese in Tokyo Bay. As "CinCPac" he wielded more military power than all commanders in all previous wars. Historian Samuel Eliot Morison described him as "the most considerate, beloved and accessible" of military commanders, yet his own great modesty kept him from being well known today, even in his hometowns, Fredericksburg and Kerrville.

In addition to welcoming donations to help complete the hotel's restoration The Admiral Nimitz Center is accepting relics and mementoes from the Pacific War to be used in exhibits.

Pearl Harbor Not Forgotten

GARDENA, Calif. (AP)—It has been more than 38 years since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, but the event has not been forgotten.

It was in Gardena that the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association was born, and it has grown to 7,800 members - now in their 50s and older - who were on Oahu or not more than three miles offshore from 7:55 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. on Dec. 7, 1941.

The first supreme ruler of Norway was Harald the Fairhaired who came to power in 872 A.D. Between 800 and 1000, Norways Vikings raided and occupied widely dispersed parts of Europe. Christianity was introduced in 1030.

Sculptor Immortalizes Children In Bronze

By Etta Worthington

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (NEA) — Most people are content to grow old and take it easy when they reach their 70s.

But Jesse Beesley's 70s have been a time of productivity, creativity and hard work as he has gained national stature for his bronze sculptures of children.

Though a lifelong bachelor, Beesley loves children. He recalls that his friends didn't like to walk into Murfreesboro with him when he was growing up because he would stop at every perambulator to play with the baby.

"I'd rather do children than anything else in the world," says the sculptor.

It was a happy discovery, Beesley adds, when he found that the public preferred to buy the subjects that he preferred to sculpt. Although he has attempted other subjects, it's the children that have always sold best.

"If I hadn't hit on children," says Beesley, "I'd still be struggling today."

Some say Beesley has captured "the universal child" in his figures, which are slender and poised to show both motion and emotion.

All his children are engaged in some simple activity — feeding a bird, looking at a frog, picking flowers. All of them are discovering.

Beesley hasn't always been a sculptor. Nor has he always made Murfreesboro his home, although he was born in the house on Main Street where his mother lived for 78 years.

One of his first jobs was editing the town's daily newspaper, which his father had founded. But the paper had to be sold in 1933 because of the family's financial losses during the Depression.

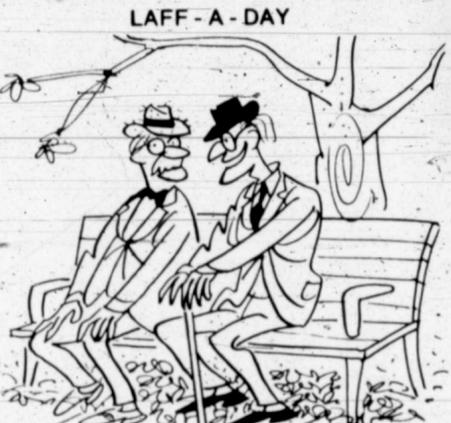

Beesley then left for New York City, where he pursued a career as a writer and editor. He edited "This Week" magazine for 17 years. Later he took an editing position at Prentice Hall.

It was at Prentice Hall that

"I'D RATHER DO children than anything else in the world," says Jesse Beesley, whose sculptures of "the universal child" have brought him national fame and fortune. (Photo by Stephen Workman)

Beesley's work as a sculptor began. He entered an employment art show that was judged by Theodore Rousseau, art curator at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

LAFF - A - DAY

"I bought the Burlington and Texas railroad for $169 million, but they knocked off 10 percent when I showed them my senior citizen card."

Of Beesley's entry, the bust of a child, Rousseau said, "It is a noble coordination of heart, mind, eye and fingertip."

With this encouragement, Beesley began to pursue art while working as an editor. He recalls devoting every night and every weekend to seeking success in his new field.

"When you make it on Madison Avenue against the best, you've got to give time," Beesley says. And make it he did on the avenue that houses many of the city's most prestigious art galleries.

Beesley's easily recognizable children command prices of $10,000 and up. They are included in the collections of such celebrities as Jim Nabors, Patricia Kennedy Lawford and Minnie Pearl.

According to artists' representative Karl Schusnig, Beesley's sculptures sell better than paintings by Pablo Picasso or Max Ernst.

Beesley retired from Prentice Hall at age 70 and returned to Murfreesboro to devote full time to his art.

His sculptures are born in his studio, where he fashions heads of wax and limbs of armatures covered with sculpt metal. The completed pieces are taken to a New York foundry, where they are cast in bronze by the 2,000-year-old lost-wax method.

There is retouching to do because the bronze shrinks. Beesley must supervise the work, making sure it is perfect.

Two cancer operations have taken their toll on Beesley. He tires easily and takes naps some afternoons.
