

'Which tax form do I file?'

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—“Which tax form do I use?” Is the question the Internal Revenue Service can help answer. The basic choice is between the “short” and the “long” form, IRS officials explained.

The new 1040EZ “short” form is an 11-line form for those who don't,” say IRS officials. That is, those who don't own a house, don't have a wife or husband, and don't have children. Of about 90 million Americans filing tax returns last year, 15 million used the 1040EZ.

Generally the 1040A “long” form is used by people who don't own a house but do have deductions.

For taxpayers with a detailed tax situation, a form 1040 should probably be used.

Although anyone can use it, the advantage is that allowable expenses and credits can be deducted using the form.

To realize a tax savings through itemization, those filing income taxes should have at least $2,300 worth of deductions if single or head of household; $3,400 if married filing a joint return; and $1,700 if married and filing a separate return. If the taxpayer has these kind of deductions, it would then be to their advantage to itemize, said officials.

They also explained that different people have different tax situations. Those taxpayers with special deductions, tax credits, investments or other specific items should consult a tax expert. April 16 is the filing deadline.

Two earn 'Gold Quill' honors

Sergeant Hall

SMSGt. Robert A. “Pete” Pike, chief, control tower, and SSGt. Benjamin Hall, NCOIC, materiel control, have been awarded the Gold Quill Award for the fourth quarter of 1983 and the year, 1983.

The Gold Quill Award is presented to the communications unit public affairs representative that demonstrates “public affairs excellence.”

The two Gold Quill Awards that went to 1958th PARs are not the first for 1983. The 1958th's public affairs representatives earned the quarterly awards for the second and third quarters of 1983, too. The unit won the annual award during 1981, too.

The Gold Quill Award is presented by the Continental Communications Division, Griffis AFB, N.Y. The award is given to the unit which releases the most quality news releases, contributes highly to the Hometown News Release Program, sends out letters to parents for such items as promotions and medal presentations, and news stories about their unit in the “Events of the Times” column in the Air Force Communications Command newspaper “InterCom.”

Being the 1958th Communications Squadron public affairs representatives is not their only work, Sergeant Pike is a member of the BEET, his section safety supervisor and control tower building manager. Sergeant Pike is also the president of the 1958th's top four and Sergeant Hall is the Top Four's treasurer.

“It's absolutely superb! I mean they worked hard to earn the three quarterly awards and the annual award for 1983,” said Capt. Jon Gardner, 1958th commander, “and, they got the appropriate recognition for it.”

Sergeant Pike plans to retire this summer at which time Sergeant Hall will become the unit's primary additional duty PAR.

ATC earns almost $4 million for CFC

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (ATCNS)—Three million nine hundred two thousand three hundred ninety dollars were contributed by people assigned to Air Training Command's 13 bases to this year's Combined Federal Campaign.

That figure represents 139 percent of the combined goal of $2,846,515 for all ATC bases.

Laughlin AFB, Texas, for the second consecutive year set the pace for the command with the highest percent of goal collected. Laughlin people gave 187 percent of their target. In terms of dollars, they gave $112,481 with a goal of $60,000.

Lackland AFB, Texas, had the second highest percent of goal with contributions totaling 175 percent. They also have the distinction of giving the highest dollar amount of $1,410,014. Lackland is the only ATC base that topped the $1 million mark.

All ATC bases exceeded their goals and the total amount collected this year exceeds last year's donations by $191,000.

THE ROUNDUP is an unofficial newspaper published under exclusive written agreement with the 64th Flying Training Wing Commander in the interest of personnel of Reese AFB, Texas, of Air Training Command. It is published by Barron Publications, Inc., a private firm, in no way connected with the Department of the Air Force. Opinions expressed by the publisher and writers in this publication are their own and are not to be considered an official expression of the Department of the Air Force. The appearance of advertisements, including inserts, in this publication does not constitute an endorsement by the Department of the Air Force of products or services advertised.

CARE Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. John R. Hullender, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885- (Ext.) 3273.

A caller asked why the stocking cap is not authorized to be worn on base east of Hangarline Road. The watch cap may be worn with the fatigue uniform and other functional uniforms anywhere on base from Oct. 1, through March 31. It may also be worn when traveling to and from base, however, other headgear must be worn if the individual is making authorized essential stops off-base. In addition, the installation commander may authorize the cap to be worn when extreme weather occurs outside the authorized wear dates.

The safety of Reese Village residents was the concern of a caller who complained that contractors were speeding through the housing area.

The project managers of all base contracts are thoroughly briefed on base regulations, including the speed limit, prior to beginning the contract work. They understand that violations of the regulations could jeopardize their contract. The project managers place as much emphasis on safety as we do and are responsible for enforcing the regulations among their employees and subcontractors.

If the caller had given a description of the speeding vehicle, a license number, or even the area the individuals were working in, our contracting division could have pinpointed the problem. As it stands, a contracting division representative notified the project managers of the complaint and requested they re-emphasize the speed limit to their employees and subcontractors.

Security police patrol Reese Village and issue tickets to anyone, military or civilian, violating traffic laws on base. Selective enforcement is periodically conducted in the family housing area to identify speeders.

Complaints about base housing contractors may be directed to Sherry Nance, Ext. 3822. Callers should provide as much information as possible about the incident and contract workers involved so the problem can be handled effectively.

Energy

More individual support is needed to make conservation here work

by Sam Lanham
wing energy conservation manager

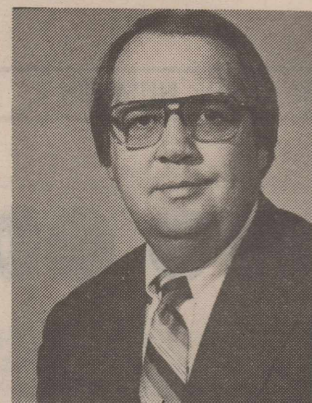

The 1983 Energy Conservation Incentive Award Program ($100,000 for first place and $50,000 for second) has ended with Reese finishing well out of the money for our category in fifth place, ahead of only Goodfellow and Laughlin.

Reese missed its facility energy goal for fiscal 1983 by 5.8 percent finishing the year with a 9.2 percent savings versus a goal of 15 percent. A portion of our failure to meet our goal can be blamed on record-breaking weather and the failure to complete any major energy conservation projects in fiscal 1983. If we really want to find the biggest culprit, however, we have to look no further than ourselves. Each and every individual that is a part of Reese can look back on fiscal 1983 and remember instances when we didn't turn out or disconnect unnecessary lights, correct erroneous thermostat settings, or report obvious energy abuse and misuse. We can also look back and see many instances where we treated the symptoms with stop-gap fixes (electric space heaters, etc.) rather than submitting proper paperwork to civil engineers to identify and correct the real energy problem. Reduction of energy consumption has never been, and never will be, easy. West Texas weather will continue to set records in all seasons. Energy conservation projects will continue to be approved and implemented and will continue to help reduce consumption as newer, better energy conservation processes are applied to our energy uses. However, in the midst of all these different areas of change and technological advances, there remains only one constant in the entire energy formula.

That constant is you and me, the individual energy user. After more than two years experience in the energy conservation business, I am convinced that our energy program will never be any better than the individual who uses it each day. Each of us holds the key to success and must be an integral part of the Reese Energy Conservation Program.

Reese has again begun a new fiscal year in the hole in the facility energy area as a result of record breaking cold weather in December. Our facility energy goal for fiscal 1984 is a 17.5 percent reduction in energy usage from the base year of fiscal 1975. Our cumulative reduction through the first quarter of fiscal 1984 was 9.6 percent or 7.9 percent short of the fiscal 1984 target. Individual involvement and participation is an absolute must if we are to make up the current fiscal 1984 facility energy deficit. Please begin now to become involved in the Reese Energy Conservation Program for fiscal 1984. Today becomes tomorrow, and yesterday's missed energy conservation opportunities are gone forever. No one else can do your part in the daily battle to conserve energy. I will be happy to assist all personnel in any area of energy conservation. My office is in Room 312, Building 800, or call me at Ext. 3310.

Inspection team due

A five man inspection team headed by Brig. Gen. Gordon P. Masterson, the Air Force director of maintenance and supply, will visit Reese to evaluate our maintenance operations for the U.S. Air Force Daedalian Maintenance Award Feb. 15-17. This is the highest honor for which an Air Force maintenance organization can be considered.

Maintenance will do well on this inspection, but we also know that we can't do it alone. None of the great inspection results that were compiled at Reese during the past two years were won because of one organization alone. Our recent successes have been the result of teamwork, wing esprit de corps, military bearing and personal professionalism.

First impressions are important! When the Daedalian inspection team arrives at Reese next week we want to show them the positive attitude and outstanding appearance of both our personnel and facilities. A clean, sharp looking base reflects positively on the unit. While the team is here every individual should keep dress and appearance standards foremost in mind at all times.

It will take the cooperation of each of you—operations, supply, services, and other support organizations—working at Reese to make this a successful maintenance inspection evaluation. Carry on as you have during recent inspections and we will be able to take pride in another great accomplishment.

Black history month is here

During the month of February, Reese will be observing Black History month. As in the past, the programs will focus on the contribution and achievements of Blacks in America.

A variety of social events have been planned to celebrate this special occasion. I give all these programs my full support and solicit everyone at Reese to do the same. We must bear in mind, however, that these Black History activities are not solely for Blacks, they are for everyone. These programs should be viewed as a device to develop a better understanding of the Black ethnic groups in the United States.

Let's make this year's Black History celebration the best Reese has ever hosted.

ATC commander presents award

"Jan. 20, was a great day for the 64th Flying Training Wing maintenance complex," said Lt. Col. Gerald Smith, assistant deputy commander for maintenance.

Gen. Andrew P. Iosue, Air Training Command commander, presented the ATC Maintenance Effectiveness and Efficiency Award to Col. John D. Herbert, deputy commander for maintenance, on behalf of the maintenance complex.

General Iosue also presented a plaque for the award to the maintenance commander. The trophy will remain at Reese until next year, but the plaque is Reese's.

With the award comes the honor of Reese's maintenance complex being named ATC Daedalian Award nominee. The award is for the Reese complex's superior maintenance performance during fiscal 1983.

Several major accomplishments played a part in helping the Reese complex earn the Daedalian nomination. As noted during the presentation ceremony, the wing generated more than 94,000 accident-free hours, but beyond all the flying hours, safety and aircraft repairs, something quite significant stood out—something not in the daily job, it took initiative, sweat and many overtime hours—maintenance self-help projects.

The 1983 Management Effectiveness Inspection team indicated that these self-help projects greatly improved the facilities. Field maintenance was praised for its renovation of offices, shops and squadron conference room. There were numerous self-help projects completed by organizational maintenance, too.

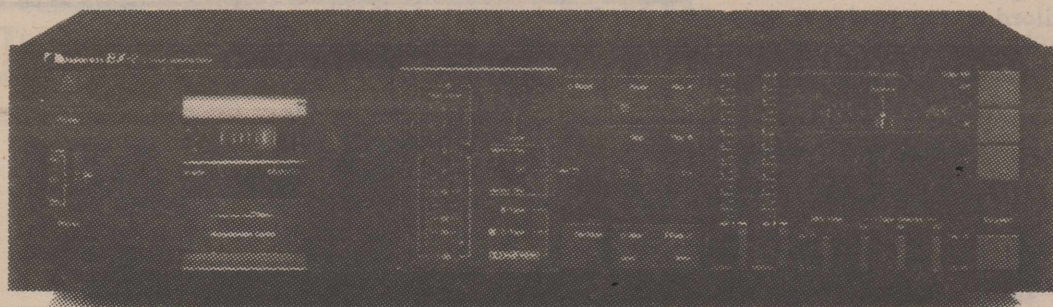

Accompanying the honor of being ATC's Daedalian nominee came the responsibility of competing against each of the other major commands' best maintenance complexes.

Monday afternoon, the Reese maintenance complex was told that it had been selected as one of the three finalists (out of 19 major command level nominees) in the Air Force Daedalian Maintenance Trophy Award contest.

The Best

General Iosue presents the ATC Maintenance Effectiveness and Efficiency Award to Colonel Herbert during a special presentation ceremony Jan. 20. The Reese maintenance complex moved into the ranks of the top three Monday when it was announced that ATC's nominee was one of the three Air Force finalists.

Chaplain McGraw

New chaplain arrives

The installation staff chaplain position will change hands this May when Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Philip E. Grimmett retires. Chaplain Grimmett's replacement is Chaplain (Lt. Col.) William M. McGraw Jr.

Chaplain McGraw, a Georgia native, came to Reese earlier this year from an assignment at Andersen AFB, Guam. The new Reese chaplain entered the Air Force in April 1965.

A Southern Baptist minister, Chaplain McGraw enjoys jogging and gardening. He and wife, Thelma, have three children; a son and two daughters. Dawn, 15, is the only McGraw child still at home.

Chaplain McGraw served as an Army infantry officer from 1953 to 1955, afterward he left the service life to attend the seminary.

JAG says security deposit is not the cost of renting

by Maj. Edward Kingsford
staff judge advocate

A security deposit is not the price you pay for leasing a residence. It is the money a landlord holds to protect him against the damage you may purposely or accidentally cause to his property. If a tenant does not cause any damage to the lease property, and fulfills his legal and contractual obligations, the landlord must report the tenant's security deposit. That's the law.

Article 5236e of the Texas Revised Civil Statutes sets out the legal rights and obligations of the landlord and tenant regarding security deposits. Before moving, a tenant must:

- Give the landlord proper notice of termination in writing;

- Fulfill the lease agreement and cause no damage over "normal" wear and tear;
- Leave the lease premises cleaned;

- Give the landlord a forwarding address in writing;
- Return the key.

A landlord is obligated to return your security deposit and give you a written itemized list of the deductions for repairs and cleaning within 30 days after you move out. If you have provided a forwarding address, and the landlord fails to send you a written list of deductions within the required time, he must return the entire deposit without deducting anything and cannot collect for damages.

If the landlord refuses to give you your deposit back, or if you do not agree with the amount or reasons for his deductions, you can sue for your deposit. If the landlord keeps the deposit in "bad faith," you can sue for $100 plus three times the amount of the deposit wrongfully withheld and attorneys' fees.

The best way to protect yourself is a check-in, check-out list, witnessed by someone not living on the property, or the landlord or manager. Let the manager or landlord know what damages there are to the property when you're ready to move out, and even take pictures if you want to have extra proof.

If you should have a landlord-tenant problem, contact the Lubbock Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office.

Commissaries to test new Reserve program

WASHINGTON (AFNS) —More than 20,000 Air Force Reservists will have more flexibility to use commissaries this year under a Department of Defense test program.

For the first time, selected Reservists in test areas will be allowed to shop for up to 14 days anytime during the year.

Reservists and their dependents near test areas in New England, Texas and California will be authorized a number of shopping days based on active-duty time. Before, members could only shop while on training status.

More than 106,000 Guard and Reserve members

Department of Defense-wide will be eligible under the test.

"Oftentimes Guard and Reserve members had a hard time using commissaries while on active duty because they were occupied with training," Col. Frank Rush of the office of Air Force Reserve Affairs explained. "It was a major concern that the commissaries could be better used. That's what this program will evaluate."

The test, which ends in December, will help congress determine whether the program should be implemented throughout the United States, said officials.

South Plains coordinator helps adults build academic futures

Betty Treadway, South Plains College coordinator, is available at the Reese education office Monday through Thursdays from 2-4:45 p.m. to counsel Reese individuals seeking higher education.

Treadway has taught at South Plains since 1966 and at Reese, off and on, since 1971.

She is a native of Iran, Texas, and according to Bill Trafton, education services officer, she has attracted a following of sorts through her teaching. Trafton explained that many of the senior enlisted corps who have taken the first term of freshman English with Treadway, are often eager to get into her second term freshman English class.

"Betty is genuinely concerned with adult education and goes out of her way to help her students," Trafton said. She, herself, is the product of adult education. Treadway was married and rearing a family before she began at South Plains as a student.

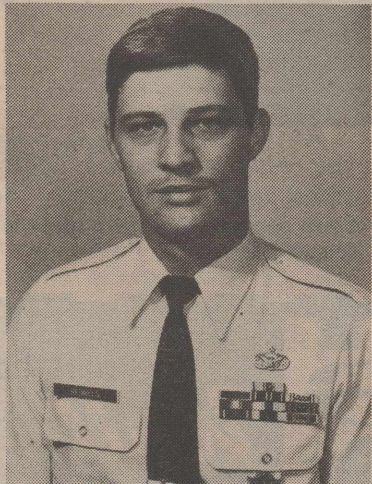

At South Plains, she earned her associate degree and transferred to Texas Tech University in Lubbock to earn her bachelor's and master's degree.

The South Plains educator now lives in Lubbock and will

Generators get good, bad marks

It's been 25 months since Reese began testing the potential of electric wind generators on the West Texas plains. The results of the test period reflect good and bad.

The pair of generators, the wind velocity meters and the kilowatt output coordinator cost around $87,000, according to Joe Hassell, the project engineer. For the test period, the generators siting and in-house maintenance capabilities were of key interest.

When deciding where to place the generators, engineers had to consider the clear zones and the fall zones (clear of the Reese flight pattern, yet in a position that if knocked down they would cause no damage). "We've found that these machines can be easily maintained with minimum in-house training," Hassell added.

In production, the electric generators have not deviated more than 20 percent from the rated output specified by the manufacturer. The electricity that is produced by the modern windmills is fed back into the Reese electrical grid and then the base electrical system.

In an average month, the devices generate approximately 3,200 kilowatts of electricity—enough to "maintain the golf course club house and its maintenance area or the base bank," explained Hassell.

Looking at conservative figures, Lomas Freeman, chief of system management, said that amounts to a savings of $160 a month.

Air Training Command officials have not decided to proceed with the wind generator program because of the lengthy "pay back" period, said Hassell. "They probably won't either, unless electricity prices go up substantially."

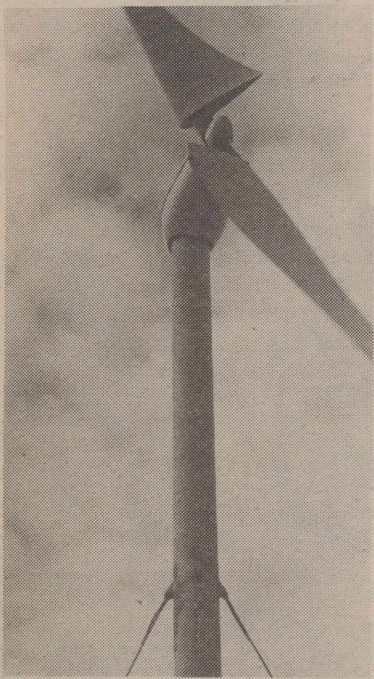

The program was intended to save Air Force energy dollars, but because they are so expensive they probably will not be used, Sam Lanham, Reese energy conservation manager, pointed out. "I'd like to have many, many more of them (the generators), because they are a viable option if their cost was not so high."

"We probably lost around 10,000 kilowatts during the the wind generators operational again was funding—the (almost five months)," Hassell four replacement blades cost said. A big delay in getting $10,000.

New ATC logo shows way

SHOW THE WAY

AIR TRAINING COMMAND

RANDOLPH AFB, TEXAS (ATCNS)—The Air Force needs you to show the way. That's the message for Air Training Command members in ATC's new logo.

The Show the Way logo was designed to remind all

ATC members to demonstrate leadership, according to its originators at Air Force Recruiting Service headquarters.

"Nearly everyone who enters the Air Force starts in ATC, and that places a lot of responsibility on this command," said Lt. Col. Mike Wallace of Recruiting Service's advertising and publicity division.

"Not only is ATC tasked with showing new Air Force members how to perform their duties, but we must also demonstrate leadership in other areas, such as customs and courtesies," he said. "The logo answers the Air Force's

'back to basics' call."

Colonel Wallace said the logo also speaks well of the command and its mission. "It addresses this command's attributes of integrity, pride and professionalism."

The designer, Bill Keen, a recruiting service artist, adopted the torch of "knowledge and opportunity" form the ATC shield.

Research shows this is ATC's first official logo and could possibly be the only command logo in the Air Force.

Plans are now underway to incorporate the art into ATC's letterhead stationary and various other materials.

Keep those teeth; just brush, floss

(February is National Children's Dental Health Month and as such, the Reese Dental Clinic in conjunction with the American Dental Association will provide dental information to all parents and child guardians through articles published during the month.)

If you're a parent, you know that brushing and flossing your child's teeth daily can help your child have healthy teeth and a happy smile. But do you know why?

Inside the mouth, the average person has about 80 different bacteria. Only a few of these bacteria are responsible for dental caries (tooth decay) and periodontal (gum) disease, but that's more than enough to make the incidence of dental disease second only to that of the common cold. These harmful bacteria live in dental plaque, a thin, almost invisible film that constantly forms on our teeth. The sugars and starches in our foods provide food for the bacteria. In turn, the bacteria produce acids and other irritating waste products that attack our teeth and gums.

The idea that the bacteria in people's mouths cause den-bacteria on her teeth. She was not convinced. To prove his point, he took a sample of the plaque on her teeth and let her see the living bacteria under the microscope. The sight so horrified her that the next day she went to the dentist and had all her teeth pulled.

tive methods of brushing the teeth. Here's one that is currently recommended: Put the head of the toothbrush beside the teeth, with the bristle tips at a 45 degree angle to the gums. Move the brush back and forth in short strokes, using a gentle scrubbing motion. Brush the outside surfaces of the teeth, the inside surfaces, and then the chewing surfaces. Tilt the brush vertically to clean the inside surfaces of the front teeth. Finally, brush the tongue to freshen your breath.

But brushing alone can't remove all the plaque from the teeth. The teeth should be flossed daily, to clean out plaque that collects under the gumline and between the teeth. If you don't know how to floss, ask your dentist or dental technician to show you.

You should start brushing and flossing your children's teeth as soon as most of the primary (first) teeth have appeared, around age 2 to 2½. Because children's teeth are more susceptible to decay than those of adults, they should be brushed after every meal with a fluoride toothpaste and flossed daily.

When your child is small, you will have to clean the child's teeth yourself. As he or she gets older, you can teach the child how to brush and floss alone. Children do not have the coordination needed to brush their own teeth until age 4 or 5. They cannot floss by themselves until about age 8. Whatever your child's age, set a good example by caring for your own teeth daily.

Most children start out in life with strong, healthy teeth. With a little effort, you can help make sure your child's teeth stay that way.

A Healthy Smile Brightens Everyone's Day

tal disease is comparatively new and was first suggested by Dr. W.D. Miller about 1890. Not everyone believed it at first. The story goes that one dental researcher, wanting to show off his new microscope, told his housekeeper that she—like everyone else—had harmful

She got rid of dental plaque the hard way. Someone should have told her that she could have a healthier mouth and teeth simply by brushing and flossing daily.

Brushing removes plaque from the outside, inside, and chewing surfaces of the teeth. There are a number of effec-

Eye care at Reese

Having difficulty reading those street signs, or how about those routine Air Force forms? A vast majority of Americans have come in contact with corrective lens of one sort or another during their life times—some early, others later on.

The Optometry Clinic can help you. Down the hall through Primary Care, Optometrist Dr. (Capt.) Robert Lemieux and optometry specialist Sgt. Jerry Forsythe can look at your eyes, refer you to eye disease specialist in Lubbock, and fit you in glasses.

The Reese Optometry Clinic handles approximately 90 patients per week. Their duty day begins at 8 a.m. like the rest of the hospital, however for an appointment patients can call in to 885-3338 on the second and last Fridays of the month. Sergeant Forsythe pointed out that patients in need of emergency care did not have to wait to make an appointment.

All together the Reese clinic can get a patient in and out within a half hour. That includes the check-in, determining the patients prescription and allowing the doctor to examine the patients inner eye.

Those with signs of optic diseases are referred to Lubbock specialists when there is an apparent danger to the patient's eye.

(U.S. Air Force Photos by Sgt. Rich Tillman)

Sergeant Forsythe verifies a patient's prescription before phoning the patient that the glasses have arrived.

GET YOUR HANDS ON A TURBO THAT PULLS 30 EXTRA HORSES OUT OF THIN AIR.

To automotive engineers concerned with performance, the air we breathe isn't fit for combustion engines.

It's too thin.

So turbocharging was developed to create a denser air/fuel mixture, which in turn created more power.

But now there's something even more powerful: the new Volvo Intercooled Turbo. And what it does is make the air/fuel mixture even denser by cooling the air in the cylinders by as much as 135°F.

The result? An unbelievable 24% increase in horsepower that delivers 0-55 in 6.8 seconds.*

See us today for full details on how easy it is to add this remarkable innovation to any Volvo Turbo.

But our intercooler quantities are limited, so better get here fast.

We promise you'll leave even faster.

Chapel gets newcomers together for old-time fellowship, dining

Moving from another base and leaving friends behind is an experience that military families go through at various times during their careers.

Reese's chapel has a program that helps new Reese families feel at home. Every six weeks the chapel offers a newcomers buffet for all new arrivals to Reese, single or married.

Members of the Protestant and Catholic parishes prepare various buffet dishes for all to enjoy. The buffet begins at 7 p.m. Singles and couples are encouraged to attend and meet the chaplains and the chapel staff.

Child care is provided to couples with children at the chapel during the buffet.

The next newcomers buffet will begin at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Supervisors are encouraged to bring their new troops and families to the buffet and help them meet new friends.

Getting together

Newcomers to Reese line up to try some of the buffet dishes during the last newcomers buffet Dec. 12.

Register for racquetball tourney

The Reese Junior Officers' Committee, in conjunction with a local beverage company, will present the 2nd Annual High Plains Racquetball Invitational Feb. 24-26 at the Reese gym.

There will be prizes awarded for the first, second and consolation place finishers. The invitational entry fee is $16 per event and the deadline for entry is Feb. 20.

On Feb. 25, there will be a "build your own" taco luncheon for the tournament participants at the officers' club at 11:30 a.m.

The tournament rules will abide by current U.S.R.A. rules and if a division gets less than six entrees, those players will be moved into their next closest division.

The entry fee will cover the cost of shirts, balls, prizes and the taco luncheon. For more on how you can register to play contact the tournament directors Kurt Brandt, 885-3432 or 793-9186, or Ted Needham at 885-3993 or 794-2718.
