Guidelines of Life

Rev. Jimmie Wright, Pastor
Church of God

HOW FAR HAVE YOU GONE?

With all the cares of life ahead, we so often forget where we are. So many times we travel down the highway on the wrong road and have to cut through to the right road by another road or back track.

The oil company where we trade has maps to go by. If we go by them we will not get lost.

If we go by God's Word and not by someone's theories, we will not get lost.

In the third chapter of Matthew and Acts 1:19, we will find the beginning to the right road that leads home. In Luke 14:47-49, we find that home base, Jerusalem, is where this road begins.

If you plan to speed eternity in Heaven and you're not headed in the right direction, now is the time to get onto the right road. In II Cor. 6:2, the Bible says, "... behold, now is the accepted time; behold now is the day of salvation." We cannot know when we will reach our point of no return.

While pastoring a church in the State of Georgia, I had the privilege of seeing the mountain mentioned in the following paragraph, which illustrates the imperceptibility of our point of no return.

"The scene of this awesome tragedy was in Georgia at Stone Mountain, the largest boulder in the world. Atop the mountain, a young man walked unsuspectingly along, oblivious of the gradual and almost imperceptible downward curvature of the dome-like mountain. Suddenly he became aware of the fact that he was powerless to retrace his steps to safety. He had gone to the point of no return. Frantically he cried, 'Help! Help!' His pitiful plea was to no avail. Horrified spectators saw him tumble to his death below."

The shores of time are strewn with moral and physical wrecks who vainly boast, "I know how far to go! I know where to draw the line!" They didn't, however, "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

Memories

by Laxson

Perhaps you, too, have had the rather dubious honor and pleasure of cranking a cream separator for a 20 to 30-cow dairy.

If you have, there is a good chance that your memory still feels how hard it was to get that handle started in order to build up the centrifugal force necessary to separate the heavier part of the liquid from the lighter.

And this went on and on, twice each day, seven days each week, every week of every year.

Your memory probably can still get the separator's sound revolving and registering in the portion of your brain that records tones and pitches.

And there is another computer area in the brain which causes anyone who has turned that almost extinct hand-crank separator to remember how much more slowly the cream bucket filled than did the bucket catching the milk.

Burk Youth To Sing At NTSU

DENTON -- Douglas Alan Eastman of Burkburnett is singing this year with the North Texas State University A Capella Choir, which is in the midst of making its second commercial recording. Under the direction of Frank McKinley of the NTSU School of Music Faculty, the 40-voice choir is recording two large works by contemporary composer Dr. Herbert Fromm for Lyricord Records of New York. The recording, which will be for general sale, is being made in the NTSU Music Recital Hall. The choir's first recording, in 1949, was made with the Dallas Symphony for RCA Victor's Red Seal Label. Fromm's "Six Shakespeare Songs" will fill one side of the upcoming record, while "Transience," a three-part work based on a poem by Robert Herrick, will occupy the second side. Fromm, who is sponsoring the recording, is associated with the Fromm Foundation, a philanthropic organization that sponsors composers and deserving organizations. Eastman, a senior music major, is the son of Venita J. Eastman, 710 Magnolia, Burkburnett.

Sp 4 Goossens Participates In Exercise Reforger 111 In Germany

Army Specialist Four Lawrence Goossens, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Lawrence, 1204 Sheppard Drive, is participating with more than 11,000 troops in exercise reforger 111 in Germany.

He is serving with Company C, 1st Infantry Division at Ft. Riley, Kansas.

The 'Big Red One' division consists of three brigades. The 3rd Brigade is permanently stationed at Augsburg, Germany.

The men of the 1st and 2nd brigades, with support units, flew to Germany to join the 3rd and move to the exercise area extending from Munich to near the Czechoslovakian border. Emphasis in the exercise was placed on testing procedures for receiving, assembling and deploying Army units once they arrived, rather than on rapid air transport from the U.S.

In the field maneuver phase of the exercise, units of the 1st Infantry Division and the Canadian 4th Mechanized Brigade Group engaged in simulated combat with the 'aggressor forces' of the U. S. 1st Armored Division (regularly stationed in Germany) and the German 35th Panzer Grenadier Brigade.

Exercise Reforger III is the third annual operation in the series. The exercises are designed to fulfill U.S. commitments to NATO and those made in the 1967 trilateral agreement between the U.S., the United Kingdom and the Federal Republic of Germany.

Girl Scouts Plan Halloween Parties

Halloween parties are the fun thing at this time of the year, and some of Burk Burnett's Girl Scout troops will be sharing their next meetings with the "ghosties and ghouls."

Brownie troop #40 and its sister Junior troop #25 will have an old fashioned Halloween party, and celebrate the event with a trip to the "Haunted Green House."

Brownie troop #52 and sister Junior troop #45 will have a different type of party -- a "sing-in" Halloween party. A wicker roast at Mrs. Chavis' house in Dean, Tex., will serve as Brownie troop #87's ghoulish splurge.

A very special turnabout is the birthday party for Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, given by troop #59.

All the troops are engaged in collecting canned food for the day care center. Investments were recently held by some of the troops. Brownie troop #52 had their girls act out the "Brownie Story," and pinned 9 new girls. Brownie troops #87 and #121 also brought new girls into their groups.

Brownie troop #87 held a Mother's Meeting, with ten moms present. Necessary business was discussed, including moving the troop from the Assembly of God Church to Central Baptist Church, due to a need for more space.

Brownie troop #121 held the Flag Ceremony for the regional PTA workshop the morning of October 22.

Last Monday, Junior troop #59 picked up trash in Royal Park, working on their "ECO-Action" patches.

Cadet troop #48 had a "super-rap" type meeting October 19, in which the girls were able to voice their gripes and delights as to the goals and objects of the group.

The Mariners' and Explorers' Road Rally saw 13 cars, with 30 participants registered, leave the Youth Center at 2 p.m., cars leaving one at a time at intervals of 5 minutes. The course was approximately 40 miles long, covering backroads of the surrounding Texas countryside.

A lucky Explorer Scout came in first, and received the first place trophy presented at the box supper later that afternoon.

At 7:30 p.m. the council fire was lit, and the "Order of the Arrow" Indian dancers performed a "fluff" dance and an eagle dance. A choosing of new "Order of the Arrow" dancers was ceremoniously presented.

The evening ended with a dance, where the Hedge Hogs provided music and entertainment.

Mrs. Shrum Hosts Univ. Study Club

The University Study Club met Oct. 20 in the home of Mrs. Sam Shrum.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Joseph Janake, attorney, who spoke to club members about Texas laws pertaining to women.

Mrs. Crane, club president, conducted the business session, which was opened with the members reading the club collect and the "Salute to the Texas Flag" in unison.

Mrs. Bill Crosley, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, announced that the club was planning a bake sale in the near future, with time and place to be announced at a later date.

On Nov. 1, club members will join with other local study clubs in providing pies for the Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting, to be served cafeteria style at the Burk Burnett Oil Park.

The public is invited to the luncheon, for which tickets will be $2.00. Profits from the luncheon will be used to help pay the debt still owed on the restoration of the MK&T Depot.

In other business, plans were made to assemble a Thanksgiving basket to give to a needy family.

Club members voted to give $15.00 to the Red Cross, SAFB Community Service Council, to aid them in buying Christmas gifts. Members will also furnish the Red Cross with three cakes for Christmas.

Members also turned in reservations for the Federated Banquet, to be held Nov. 4 in the Hardin School cafeteria at 7:00 p.m.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Crosley, J. H. Rigby, Joy Sessums, Bill Cauthorn, A. R. Danstine, Blake Browning, Lewis Brooker, J. M. Pogue, Fletcher Baber, J. B. Morris, J. D. Majors, E. R. Burns, and Newt Crane.

12 Volunteers Are Needed By The Red Cross

The Red Cross is calling for twelve volunteers who are interested in working with pre-school children between the ages of three and six, Jon Ayres said today.

There is a real critical need for people who can work a few hours each week. These are children from lower economic levels who have not had the advantages of other children to prepare them for first grade.

Volunteers of all ages are welcome, if they like working with children. This is certainly an area of volunteer service in which high school and college students could do a great job.

Call the Red Cross at 322-8686, or come by the Chapter Office at 1809 Fifth Street in Wichita Falls. The volunteers will be given orientation to enable them to do the most effective job.

Church Holds A Fellowship Supper

Fellowship Hall of the First Christian Church was nearly full Sunday night for a church supper.

Decorations for the dinner were based on a Halloween theme, and the buffet tables were loaded with good food.

The church plans to have more of these suppers during this fall and winter.

The Christian Women's Fellowship will meet with Mmes. Kincaid and Raines Tuesday, Nov. 2. Mrs. Barger will serve as program leader and Mrs. Morris as worship leader. All women of the church are invited to attend.

"Cats" In Texas Are Rapidly Being Exterminated

"The story of wild Texas cats in general is one of rapid extermination," according to Dennis Russell, wildlife biologist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

In an article in the October issue of TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE magazine, Russell wrote of the fates of the six species of cats which inhabit or formerly inhabited Texas.

According to Russell, the jaguar was found in the mid-1800's along water courses near San Antonio, and General Sam Houston reported it "east of the San Jacinto River and abundant on the headwaters of the Rio Grande, Guadalupe River, etc."

But because jaguars were stock killers and therefore in competition with man, they had all but disappeared from Texas by the turn of the century. Although an occasional straggler may wander in from Coahuila, the jaguar in Texas is extinct as a breeding population, according to Russell.

Three species of small cats are either rare or have disappeared from the Texas scene. The only basis for believing that margay roamed Texas is a specimen taken in Eagle Pass in the 1850's and fossils along the Sabine River dating back to the Ice Age.

Russell said ocelots are still found in small numbers at scattered locations throughout the South Texas brush country north to Kerrville and Rocksprings. The jaguarundi, or red and gray cat, is confined to the native brush tracts in extreme South Texas. In the few remaining areas of native brush, they can be expected to survive for a while, according to Russell, but with the continuation of extensive brush control, the little cat will not exist indefinitely.

Mountain lions once ranged throughout the southern two-thirds of the state, but they are now confined to the rugged parts of the Trans-Pecos and South Texas. A few scattered animals remain along the Balcones Escarpment and the rugged lands of the Edwards Plateau.

"The South Texas brush country probably contains the largest remaining populations in Texas, but each year nine or ten lions are killed, which probably represent more than the yearly increase to a population estimated to contain no more than 50 animals there," said Russell.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials estimate the total number of lions in Texas to range from 95 to 150.

Bobcats are still found virtually throughout the state in favorable habitat. "Their ability to adapt to changing conditions and a wide variety of habitat types makes them unique among the Texas cats," according to Russell.

Russell said the bobcat's shy, nocturnal nature has probably prevented man from seriously threatening its existence.

Land-use practices seem to be the cats' biggest enemy. Brush, needed by many types of wildlife, has been reduced in the following ways: 169,500 acres have been converted to vegetable farming; 90,000 acres to citrus production; 1,878,590 acres to hay and grain; and about 2,500,000 acres to cotton.

"On the remaining 17,250,000 acres in South Texas, which is devoted primarily to livestock grazing, brush cover has been changed by mechanical or chemical methods without enough concern being shown in all cases for the quality or value of the brush type for either wildlife or livestock," he said.

Inundation of bottomlands for lakes and reservoirs in East Texas has destroyed much of the habitat which was the haunt of the Florida panther. "This, with the removal of hardwoods and expansion of pine culture may also have changed the size and composition of the rodent populations, notably the gray squirrel, fox squirrel and Florida woodrat," said Russell.

"Brush clearing, land inundation, the planting of exotic grasses and timber stand 'improvement' throughout the state have so changed the habitat that it appears the chances for the larger cats to make a comeback are remote," he said.

County Agent Is To Be Commemorated

Plans are progressing for the dedication of a historical marker commemorating the first county agent in the nation. Ceremonies will be held at 1:30 p.m., Nov. 11, 1971, on the Courthouse Plaza at Tyler, Texas. The historical marker is sponsored jointly by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association and the Smith County Historical Survey Committee.

The dedicatory address will be delivered by Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Smith County Judge Kenneth Barron will serve as master of ceremonies. The invocation will be given by Dr. Wayne McCleskey, pastor of the Marvin United Methodist Church, Tyler. Members of the Smith County 4-H Clubs will give the 4-H motto, pledge and prayer.

Entertainment, provided by the Tyler Junior College Band under the direction of Edwin Fowler, will begin at 1:10 p.m. The Apache Belles, widely acclaimed for the precision drill routines, will also perform.

Unveiling of the marker, commemorating the birthplace of county agent work, will be done by B. T. Haws, Wichita County Agent and president of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association, and B. I. Boyett, president of the Smith County Historical Survey Committee.

W. C. Stallings of the Dixie Community was hired by the Tyler Commercial Club and the U.S. Department of Agriculture on November 12, 1905, to serve as county agent for Smith County. This was the first time in history that a county agent was hired to serve in only one county.

The public is invited to attend the dedication ceremonies.

The annual Dairyman's Short Course is set for October 28 and 29 at Texas A&M University. Registration will begin at 8:15 a.m. on October 28 in the Memorial Student Center. Dairyman, industry representatives and others with an interest in dairying are invited to attend the statewide event.

Fall is a good time to control weeds as ragweed, groundsel, nightshades, ironweed, and broomweed. Herbicides are effective in the fall when soil moisture is adequate and weeds are storing food in their root systems. Also, after crops have been harvested, there is little danger of damage from chemical drift. Effective herbicides include 2, 4-D, 2, 4, 5-T, silvex, dicamba, picloram and mixtures of these.

Farmers and ranchers are encouraged to spray their cattle for lice in the fall instead of waiting until they are noticeably infested. Treating cattle for lice now is effective because of mild weather, shorter hair on cattle and a smaller lice population, explains the county agent. The low population found now is the source of this winter's population.

Louse control should not be put off until cattle are infested. By winter the cattle have suffered greatly, and a heavy population of lice is more difficult to control than a light one.

The key point in effective lice control is to make thorough applications. If one animal or even a part of an animal is not treated, the lice could be a source of reinfestation for the herd.

Dipping is the most thorough way to treat cattle, but sprays are effective if applied with special attention to the brisket and flanks. The entire body should be wet to the skin. High water pressure and a coarse stream is best for penetrating hair. Spray at close range and treat only a few cattle at a time.

Texas agriculture produces an abundance of food and fiber each year, so consumers are blessed with a plentiful and high quality supply of one product. This, if appropriate to reflect on the agricultural industry in Texas in preparation for Food and Fiber Abundance Week in Texas, November 15-21.

Cash receipts from farm marketing during 1970 totaled $3.1 billion with $1.9 billion coming from livestock and livestock products and the remainder from crops. Total cash receipts are expected to reach the $3.76 billion mark in 1971.

Agriculture is one of the most efficient sectors of the economy. In 1970 each farm worker supplied himself and 46 other persons with food and fiber needs.

Texas generally ranks third in the United States in total crop livestock cash receipts after California and Iowa. Texas is the leading producer of cotton, grain sorghum and several other crops and leads in all cattle, beef cattle, sheep and wool, and goats and mohair.

The Texas horse industry is valued at more than $272 million. Horses rank as the state's second leading animal enterprise, surpassed only by beef cattle, but $30 million greater than the combined value of hogs, sheep, goats and poultry.

The Wichita County Pecan and Food Show will be held in the Lone Star Gas Auditorium in Wichita Falls on December 2 and 3. The food show will be judged at 1:00 p.m. on December 2 and the pecan show will be judged on December 3 beginning at 9:00 a.m. A pecan entry consists of one quart of pecans, but must be at least 50 pecans.

Farmers and ranchers should be cautious when turning livestock out to graze on hybrid sorghum-sudan pastures. Prussic acid poisoning, caused by hydrogen cyanide in the plants perk up and begin fast growth after a droughty period. Hay that is in properly cured can also present prussic acid poisoning problems for a short time. Nitrate poisoning may occur during the late fall on winter pastures when there is a lot of cloudy weather.

Catfish farmers across the state are invited to participate in a workshop and fish harvesting demonstration at Katy on November 10. Discussions will center on disease, water quality, pond construction, economics, feeding, and marketing.

Farmers and ranchers should keep a close eye on their cattle for winter tick population build-ups.

Ticks can cause tremendous losses to cattle through loss of blood, weakened condition, reduced feed conversion efficiency and increased susceptibility to diseases and nutritional disorders. Many troublesome ticks attack primarily during winter months when animals are in their poorest nutritional state, thus creating an extra burden on the animal's defenses.

Effective tick control can be accomplished economically through the use of modern spray and dip materials. Thorough coverage with the insecticidal material is necessary for best control. Dipping assures thorough coverage, but sprays can be effective if careful attention is given to thoroughly wetting the hair coat to the skin. A complete listing of recommended tick control materials is available at the county Extension office.

Before purchasing and applying livestock insecticides, carefully read the label and pay particular attention to precautions and restrictions listed.

Hungry insect pests could be devouring your stored grain. Unless grain was treated with malathion or pyrethrin at the time it was stored, it should be checked every four to six weeks for insect infestation. The possibility of infestation is increased when grain is stored for longer periods of time. Bins should be checked at regular intervals until the temperature of the grain mass is below 20 degrees. Insects become less active at lower temperatures.

Brush, A Real Problem

Brush control is always a problem in Texas; and mechanically clearing this type of land requires several important decisions about what to do following the brush removal treatment.

If revegetation is necessary, the proper type of forage for reseeding is a main consideration for the rancher, says John H. Brock, brush control researcher for Texas A&M University.

Brock is a member of a brush research team based at Lubbock that tackles control problems throughout the state. The question of choosing a proper forage for cleared land is being partially answered by the establishment of six grass nurseries in Texas with the cooperation of other agencies and organizations.

The first nurseries were begun in 1969 at Vernon and Dumont, with subsequent plots at Menard, Kermit, Guthrie and Colorado City.

"The purpose of these nurseries is to allow observation of various grass and forb species and varieties as to their adaptability to a general region," Brock explains. The researchers are studying the grasses in each location for such things as rate of establishment, palatability, production and ability to survive dry and cold weather.

So far, the scientists have found that the proven grasses such as sideoats grama, green spangletop and caucasian bluestem are hard to beat. But Brock says that several new species are promising. These include kleingrass, old world bluestem, cane bluestem and some new strains of sideoats grama and green spangletop.

In addition, several forb and browse plants are surviving the tests, but will require more time to test their regional adaptability.

"After the tests are completed, the most promising strains will be combined into seeding mixtures with small amounts of sorghum alnum," Brock says. The sorghum alnum serves as a nurse crop in the establishment of perennial grasses.

This will allow landowners to make practical, large-scale tests of the varieties and species proven from the nurseries.

Antlerless Deer Permits Issued

Ranchers and landowners in the Trans-Pecos area of Texas will be issued antlerless deer permits in seven counties, according to officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Presidio landowners or their agents may secure Presidio County permits at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department office on Nov. 1 in Marfa.

Culberson County permits will be issued Nov. 1 at the courthouse in Van Horn, and they will be issued the same date at the City Office Building in Alpine for Brewster County and at the Terrell County Courthouse at Sanderson.

On Nov. 2 the permits will be given out by biologists for Jeff Davis and Reeves counties at the courthouse in Fort Davis. Pecos County issuances will be at the courthouse in Fort Stockton on Nov. 2, and on Nov. 3 at the Community Building in Iraan.

Rains came in time to help body condition and antler size on Trans-Pecos desert mule deer, and the huntable crop looks good, according to department biologists.

RANDLETT NEWS

The Daisy Club met in the Community Building Oct. 19, with Mrs. Joe McCluskey as hostess.

The devotionals were given by the hostess, who read Mark 10:14. The Lord's Prayer was then repeated in unison. After the reading of the minutes and treasurer's report, members answered roll call by naming habits of behavior brought about by influence.

This was followed by a program on human behavior given by Mrs. Lynn Barnes.

During the afternoon, the members spent some time quilting. Mrs. Nornie Wilkinson won the white elephant. Cake, punch and cokes were then enjoyed by the following: Mmes. McCluskey, Wilkinson, D. F. Baber, Herman McAdoo, N. R. Kirkpatrick, C. O. Wilson, R. C. Brown, Maud Underwood, C. H. Thompson, B. L. Ressel, Herbert Keisling, B. B. Menz and a visitor, Kathy Hise.

SHEPPARD AIR FORCE BASE

Firearms Accidents Cause Many Deaths

By Sgt. Jim Bernstein
SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Firearms accidents are responsible for more than 2,500 deaths in the United States each year and, tragically enough, most need not happen. Carelessness and thoughtlessness accounted for virtually all accidents but, surprisingly, more than half occurred not on hunting trips, but in the home.

People have been preaching the merits of gun safety for years but, alas, few of us pay any heed. The general attitude of "safety is for someone else and it can't happen to me" is a fatal one which, despite the annual rise in deaths, still prevails.

Home accidents usually occur when playing with guns, examining or demonstrating them and cleaning and repairing. It is such a simple task to check the breech, but, after all, everyone knows that it isn't loaded. Tell yourself that when looking at the body of a friend or loved one who died from your supposedly unloaded weapon.

The rules about gun safety in the home have been heard so often that we rarely pay any attention to them anymore, not because we don't respect them, but it's much easier to just not think about them.

It's a different situation when you're in the field on the hunt. You know your gun is loaded and you're looking for something to shoot at. But why does it so often have to be another human being?

Of course, it's easy to mistake another person for a deer or a bear at dusk or dawn. A man creeping slowly through the brush sounds like an even looks like game in the faint light, and most hunters depend upon the ears as much as the eyes for finding their target.

But shouldn't it be just as easy to hold the shot until one knows exactly what he is about to shoot? The over-excited and too eager hunter are the most deadly things in the field during hunting season.

The unfortunate thing is that there's little that anyone can do to protect himself from this menace. All the education and training in the world won't make any difference to him. His hunting philosophy of "if it moves--shoot it" is the reason that 1,000 hunters each year never return to their families.

You can protect yourself from you. For starters, if you've been drinking, stay at home. You're a menace to others and to yourself. Reactions and recognition are slowed by alcohol. Even though they might not say so, it's a good bet that your buddies won't want you around either.

Carry your gun so you can always control the direction of the muzzle--even if you fall, and make sure the safety is on until you have your target in the sights. Countless accidents can be prevented by following these simple rules.

After you've finished the hunt for the day, unload the gun. Too many accidents occur when a hunter cases a loaded gun thinking maybe he might need it again and places the loaded weapon away, forgetting that extra shell in the chamber.

All the rules and tips come down to the same thing--COMMON SENSE! Use it and you'll discover that safe hunting is really good hunting. Please, don't be a next-year statistic--think before acting.

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS---COLOR MOVIES--Sgt. Ron Stahl, center, operates the new Arriflex motion picture camera recently procured by the television and training film production branch, Training Services Division, 3750th Technical School at Sheppard. With the acquisition of new equipment, the branch can now provide color films and television tapes to be used in training.

Greens And Fairways of SAFB Miniature Golf Course Receives Its Carpet This Week

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Carpet will be installed this week on the greens and fairways of a new 18-hole miniature golf course located opposite the Airmen's Club at Sheppard AFB. The course is a self-help project, designed and built by the Department of Civil Engineering Training of the 3750th Technical School, with funds provided by the Central Base Fund.

During September, a combination of students and instructors of the department installed electrical wiring and lights, began construction of a fence surrounding the course and purchased materials for a patio. They also put up a utility building to serve as a central switching point for electrical outlets and "pro shop," where balls, clubs and course equipment may be obtained. Recently, concrete sidewalks were poured and grounds around the course seeded.

TOPS Names Queen

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Scale Down TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) has named a queen Tuesday night at their weekly meeting, after two weeks of male supremacy as top weight losers.

Jean Neucere lost four and one-half pounds. Apparently out of mild apprehension, the male members seem to be slipping as of late, and the women seem to have a better chance of winning a turkey during the Thanksgiving competition.

Anyone interested in joining the club can attend one of the meetings in Chapel 5 at 7 p.m. Tuesdays. For more information call Mrs. Rodney Smith, 855-2562 after 5 p.m.

Scout Pack 230 Met Recently For An Orientation

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Cub Scout Pack 230 at Sheppard Air Force Base met Friday night for an orientation of new parents and recognition of members.

Parents of new members were recognized during the meeting and given an orientation of the Pack's activities.

Keith Kruger of Boy Scout Troop 31, Den Chief for Den 1 of the Cub Scout Pack, was recognized for his contributions in obtaining American and Pack flags. Col. Thomas B. Miller, commander of the 3750th Technical School, presented a letter of appreciation to him.

The two flags were presented to the pack by members. Obtaining the flags was a summer project of the pack. Members worked to collect bottles and cans and sold them for cash to buy the flags.

A spokesman for the pack also said that membership in the pack has doubled since the pack meeting one year ago.

UP, UP & AWAY

Eddie Laxson

Lately I have been working with some mechanics at a Chevrolet garage. My observations have been, largely, a comparison of the type of work done on car bodies and engines to that performed on aircraft and their power plants.

In many cases there is a wide margin of difference--especially in the safety division.

For instance, a starter was removed from an auto. Three belts held the starter on before removal, but only two went back on in the reinstallation. The reason was that it is a very difficult job to get the top bolt in, and "Two will hold it OK," the head man said.

It brought back to me one incident when it was my job to install a starter on a B-25 all by myself. Have you had that chore? There are somewhere near 10 studs involved, and a nut must be on each stud. I am sure the starter weighed 75 pounds or more, and it was to be installed in a place just higher than my head from the ground.

Getting it on the studs was painful, straining, and almost an impossibility for me. I used wire supports, levers and an assortment of bad words, and after many tries the starter was finally on the studs.

But that was easy compared to getting the last nut on a stud which was located on the top, between two generators. I used a mirror, trying to use first the left hand, then the right hand, then both hands. This process was repeated many times before I was successful.

If I am not mistaken, the job was completed two days later. It was a great temptation to forget the top nut, but there was the ever present final inspection before the plane could be pronounced airworthy.

Those inspectors don't look for the easy places to get to and do your work. They have been through the mill and know the ropes. They also know human weaknesses.

Don't you think cars would be safer mechanically if all work done on them had to be inspected and signed for by the mechanic doing the work and by an inspector?

It is my belief that aircraft mechanics and engine mechanics, working in wooded and mountainous areas are more thorough and particular with their work than mechanics in this area, where most every field and pasture offers a safe landing spot for light draft, should a forced landing be necessary.

Calvary Baptist Church

Calvary Baptist Church was organized in Burkburnett 40 years ago as an old-time missionary Baptist church -- preaching the Gospel of Christ, baptizing believers and teaching the whole Word of God. Although Calvary Baptist identifies doctrinally with all missionary Baptist churches, giving and receiving letters of membership with them, it is independent of any organization over or between the churches. We feel rather that the Bible teaches that the local congregation is the only institution left by the Lord to carry on His missionary work, and that the congregation is responsible only to God. Fellowship and cooperation between the churches is maintained on a voluntary basis. While having adequate building facilities, we don't have a lot to boast of materially, though much to be thankful for. Such as the doctrines of Christ, the glory of the Cross of Christ, and the hope of the coming of Christ. Ray C. Morrow, pastor, assumed the pastorate in March, 1940. Except for two years in Electra, he has been here ever since. The pastor and members would be happy to meet any persons anywhere and anytime to give spiritual assistance by the Word of God and prayer. This is our work and dedication. Everyone always receives a warm welcome to attend all services at Calvary Baptist.

BE WISE in the KITCHEN

Let Your Blender Do The Work Aren't modern appliances wonderful? They make most kitchen work such a breeze! Take the automatic blender, for instance. There's almost no food it can't grind, grate, crumb, puree or chop. And yet there are many home-makers who use their blenders only with "soft" foods like dips, puddings or frostings. They hesitate to use the appliance for chopping solids - fruits, vegetables, fish, even meat and fowl. The blender is great, for instance, to get potatoes just the right consistency for potato bread, pancakes or padding. Just peel the potatoes and cut into cubes; then put the cubes into the blender container and cover with water. Cover the blender, switch to "high" and then immediately to "soft". Empty the potatoes into a colander or strainer to drain off your water and proceed with your recipe! When crushed potato chips are called for, your blender again can do the work. Pour the chips into the container and cover. Switch to "high" for about a second and presto! fine chip crumbs for coating chicken wings or salmon balls, or to use in pie crust or stuffing. Of course, you can still get crushed potato chips even if you're "blenderless." Just punch an airhole in the package and roll it with a rolling pin until the chips are crumbed. Whatever method you use, you'll add excitement to dozens of foods with crushed potato chips. Here's a recipe from the makers of Wise potato chips for zesty appetizer meatballs using blender-crushed chips: Combine 2 cups crushed Wise potato chips, 1/2 cup milk, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. dry mustard, 3 tbsps. chopped chives and 2 tbsps. dried dill in a bowl. Mix well. Add 2 lbs. ground beef round and mix well. Shape into bite-size meatballs. Heat 1 tsp. butter in large skillet. Add about a third of the meatballs; cook until browned on all sides. To keep meatballs round, shake skillet frequently. Remove cooked meatballs to baking pan and keep warm in 250° oven. Repeat with remaining meatballs. Serve in a chafing dish or warmer with hot blue cheese sauce. This recipe makes 5 dozen meatballs. If you own a blender, remember: It's ready and willing for many kitchen tasks - so be wise, and take full advantage!
