

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, TEXAS--Gov. Dolph Briscoe released an eight-volume Texas land use study which he said will serve as a starting point for discussion of a major modern program.

He first made clear that it does not necessarily represent his own policies.

The bulky, five-pound report was ordered by former Gov. Preston Smith in 1972 at a cost of $39,500. A lawsuit was filed to force Briscoe to release it (the report was completed 8 months ago), but the governor made clear at the time he would make it public when his office had reviewed it thoroughly.

Three alternative approaches are suggested:

- * Delegation of local governments of responsibility for land resource management.
- * Recognition that the state must play an active role in managing its resources, but making the role limited and well defined.
- * Placing the state in the central position of regulating land use through statewide controls of all lands rather than specific areas or types of development. This alternative, conceded the report authors, would scarcely be "politically palatable," since it would put the state in position of issuing permits for land use rather than simply taking the lead in planning.

The report states federal regulations will be imposed in the land use field if states fail to assume more leadership. Designation of a statewide agency to coordinate changes in handling of land resources is termed essential.

ANTI-CRIME PROGRAM PUSHED - A $605,416 crime prevention program aimed at reducing burglaries in six cities by 18 per cent in a year was unveiled by Gov. Briscoe. Burglary accounts for 45 to 70 per cent of major crimes in Texas. The program, patterned after one in England, concentrates on security rather than apprehension after a break-in.

Cities participating will be Abilene, Amarillo, Beaumont, Odessa, Waco and Corpus Christi. Midland has had a similar program for a year and a half.

Specially-trained units in the cities will analyze crime statistics, train police in prevention, make citizens aware of importance of crime prevention, provide security inspection services and implement a statewide prevention campaign.

Each local project director already has attended a four-week school at the National Crime Prevention Institute in Louisville, Ky. At least five hours' in-service training in crime prevention techniques will be given all police personnel in the six cities.

OIL ALLOWABLE AT 100 PER CENT - For the 21st straight month, the Texas Railroad Commission continued oil production at 100 per cent of market demand.

Commission Chairman Jim Langdon commented that stocks of crude oil are "alarming when coupled with the fact that Middle East crude oil supply is disrupted and Texas is producing crude oil at maximum rates without creating waste."

Langdon further accused the federal government of doing nothing to increase sources of fuel. He said allocations of all petroleum products is to be expected.

The December order will allow production of about 3,480,000 barrels a day.

Letters to the Editor

Scrooge is alive and well and living at the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce! The November 15 issue of the Informer/Star states that the C of C has decided to have no Christmas lights or DECORATIONS this year in response to the current energy crisis. Just how much energy is used in placing the decorations around our city streets (except for physical energy, of which there seems to be a shortage, also)? Surely even the merchants would agree that decorations encourage Christmas shopping, if we must be mercenary. How many youngsters are delighted and fascinated with the decorations? How many of us all enjoy seeing and admiring the season's trimming? Have we lost all our spirit and energy? Are lights or the lack thereof the entire meaning of Christmas? How did our forefathers display their job without electricity?

Citizens of Burkburnett, even though our city may have spiritless attitudes, let us have the time and energy and love to share with each other our spirit by providing symbols of the season for all to enjoy, even without lights. Perhaps we can, united, fill the void left by the

ROUND the TOWN

By Sylvia Lohoefer

Your correspondent for this column apologizes for missing a couple issues of the Informer/Star. The reason-- a trip with friends on the foliage trail in Oklahoma and a visit in San Antonio and Ft. Worth with relatives. Both were simply grand.

B.T. HAWS

The production of high quality food and fiber is a modern day miracle. During November, which is Food and Fiber Appreciation Month, Texans are invited to take a close look at the agricultural industry of their state.

Agriculture is a $10 billion industry in Texas. It employs 30 per cent of the state's labor force. Of the state's 168 million acres of land area, 142 million are devoted to agriculture. Texas leads the nation in producing cotton, grain sorghum, rice, sheep, cattle, goats, wool and mohair.

Egg prices will probably strengthen as usual as the holiday season approaches. Most producers reduced their laying flocks earlier this year due to rising costs, and egg prices increased with low supplies and increased demands. Producers are expected to expand their flocks some this winter and next spring if feed costs ease a bit.

Despite higher prices, eggs are still a good buy. For a dozen large eggs weighing a pound and a half and costing 75 cents, that's only 50 cents a pound for a high quality protein food.

As winter approaches, a major concern of most folks is how to keep warm while conserving fuel and keeping the heating bill down. There are numerous tips that can be followed. One of the first steps in conserving fuel is to maintain your furnace at high operating efficiency. Have the system checked thoroughly before cold weather hits. Then keep air filters, radiators and heat openings clean and free of dust and lint throughout the winter. Warm air leakage and cold air infiltration can be the cause of 15 to 30 percent of a home heating bill. Any cracks between windows or door frames and walls should be sealed with rope putty or caulking compound from the outside. Weatherstripping on doors and windows can save enough heat to keep an average home warm for 14 hours.

Storm windows, drapes, blinds and shades can also cut heat loss from windows. On sunny days be sure to open window coverings to let the sun's free energy help heat the house.

Another source of considerable heat loss is through attic openings and open fireplaces. Since warm air rises, all attic openings should be kept closed and well sealed or weatherstripped. If you do not have a damper on your fireplace, a piece of insulation board or plywood over the opening will block air loss.

Proper setting of the thermostat can also reduce heating bills. The higher the thermostat is set, the more your bill will be. Each degree that the thermostat is set above 70 adds about three per cent to the heating bill. Once the thermostat is set, the setting should be left alone for greatest efficiency. Turning it higher than the temperature you want to achieve will not make the house warm any faster. Lower temperature settings can be made more comfortable by moisture in the air. House plants or venting air from an electric dryer to the inside will raise the humidity level. A nylon stocking over the vent will act as a filter to catch lint from the dryer.

Livestock producers in Texas can take the guesswork out of hay quality with forage tests. When animals receive adequate nutrition, beef gains, milk production and general health are improved. So, it is important for producers to know the nutritive value of their hay. And the most accurate way to determine nutrients in hay is by a protein analysis test.

The two main factors influencing hay quality are the amount of fertilizer applied and the state of growth when cut. Adequate amounts of fertilizer will improve protein, enhance rapid growth and produce lush, leafy forage, while harvesting before hay matures will preserve the nutrient content.

Hay and livestock producers should examine hay closely for soft, pliable stems, plenty of leaves and an absence of seedheads.

The Forage Testing Laboratory at Texas A&M University and other labs throughout the state can determine the amount of protein, energy, and other quality components in hay. The service costs $3 per sample at the A&M lab. Forms and information for gathering hay samples are available at the County Extension Office.

Rust seems to be relatively free from rust and needs rest to recover part of the damage done by rust.

Rust seems to be relatively free from rust and needs rest to recover part of the damage done by rust. If you failed to put nitrogen down pre-plant and can find it available, this would be a good time to topdress the infected field.

At this time of year greenbugs will be highly concentrated in small areas of the field. One might consider spot treating those infected areas.

I have had several calls this past week concerning the possibility of greenbugs in wheat. The damage I have checked in the fields was caused by rust. I found a few aphids, but not enough to do damage. A good management practice with rust is to graze off the infected field, then move the livestock to another field. The new growth will then be relatively free from rust and needs rest to recover part of the damage done by rust. If you failed to put nitrogen down pre-plant and can find it available, this would be a good time to topdress the infected field. At this time of year greenbugs will be highly concentrated in small areas of the field. One might consider spot treating those infected areas.

Your first quail or pheasant this season can be a feast addition to a fall meal if you draw and cool the bird at once after killing it.

Mild weather can spoil game birds rapidly unless they are drawn soon after shot. The following suggestions should be followed for top quality meat:

1. Draw and cool birds at once.
2. Store drawn birds in an ice chest in the trunk of your car—especially if weather is warm.
3. If ice is not available, spread birds on the floor of the car with room between them so air can circulate around each bird.
4. Do not leave birds in a heated car, sack or hunting jacket pocket since they will soon spoil.

After bringing home quality game meat, use a good recipe so you can serve a tasty dish. The strong taste many people object to will not be present if you will clean and cook quail birds as recommended.

Oklahoma cattlemen are urged to use a new guideline for determining relative values of urea in range supplements. The guideline is based on several years of research at Oklahoma State University.

If a tag on a protein supplement bag reads "Crude protein not less than 20%", includes not more than 8% protein from non-protein nitrogen," determine the adjusted protein value in this way:

Subtract 8% from 20% to get the true protein value of 12%. Multiply 8% times .25 to get the value of non-protein nitrogen or 2%. In this example, the adjusted protein value is 14%.

Friendly Hardin H.D. Club Announces Dec. 4 Christmas Party

The Friendly Hardin Home Demonstration Club met Nov. 14th in the home of Mrs. J.G. Cheney. The opening exercise, a Thanksgiving story, was given by the hostess with each member adding bits of history from the first Thanksgiving.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W.E. Goins. The Council Chairman announced Dec. 4th is the date for the annual Christmas Party for Home Demonstration Clubs at the First United Methodist Church in Wichita Falls. The meal will be catered. Ruth McBride presented the program on how to organize bills. The district meeting will be January 29th in Electra Community Center. Hosts will be members of three Electra clubs.

Those present were Mesdames W.E. Goins, Vada Bollin, Pearl Draper, Ruth McBride, Nora Williams, Jane Latour, Judy Porter, and Sandra Rutledge.

When urea is used with standing winter forage, the urea has a value of about 25% that of natural protein. When evaluating cubes containing NPN, the buyer must take this into account.

Cattle get about 25% protein value when fed range forage and dry supplement with urea. However, with high quality harvested forage and the same supplement, cattle get about 80% protein value.

With liquid supplements and range forage, cattle get 50% equivalent crude protein from non-protein nitrogen or 80% when on high quality harvested forage.

Urea is not a protein and has no value for protein unless organisms in the rumen use simple nitrogen compounds furnished by urea to grow plants which are sources of protein. Urea used as part of the source of protein in a grain ration for fattening cattle often equals natural protein. Generally urea should not provide over one-third of the protein needs.

When cattle are fed grain along with urea and forage, the animals are able to convert more equivalent crude protein to true protein than when fed only winter forage and a protein supplement containing urea.

WEEKLY MARKET REPORT

COLLEGE STATION - - Although there's been a brief drop in beef prices, expect a slow rise during the next few weeks.

This prediction comes from Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas A&M University System.

"Look for best beef buys on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef and round steaks and roasts."

"Pork prices, in contrast, will remain at or near current levels. Values include pork loin roasts, boneless hams and pork shoulder roasts and steaks."

Fryer chickens present bargains in most markets -- offering outstanding value in nutrition, the specialist continued. "A three - ounce portion of broiled, boneless chicken supplies 23.4 grams of protein.

"Egg prices are reasonable with some specials on Grade A large - and medium-sizes."

With 25 different fruits and vegetables in abundant supply during November, Mrs. Clyatt suggested buying a new item each week.

"It's a shame to stay in a rut each week--cooking and eating the same things the same way. Rutabagas, for example, are inexpensive, tasty, nutritious and versatile."

"Other fruit and vegetable items in best supply at the most economical prices include apples, oranges, grapefruit, bananas, cranberries, avocados, tangerines, tangelos and pears."

"Also potatoes, head lettuce, celery, sweet potatoes, cabbage, carrots, dry yellow onions, Hubbard and banana squash, mustard, collard and turnip greens," she concluded.

The Annual Home Demonstration Council Christmas Party will be held December 4, 1973, at the First United Methodist Church, 10th and Travis Streets in Wichita Falls.

Trying to find the right toy for your child? There are some basic guidelines in selecting toys. Toys are of vital importance to children. Because children learn size, shape, color, sounds and numerous other important concepts, one should be aware of the child's age or developmental stage when selecting a toy. An example of this is the selection of a ball that the child can handle. The one year old child cannot gain as much from the large ball as he can a small ball he can grasp in his hands.

Two other factors to consider are safety and durability. A child needs a toy that does not shatter if treated roughly or a toy that has small pieces he can swallow. Toys should be durable because they may become favorites that can be used for several years and perhaps passed on to another child. Children learn by doing, so the toys that cause activity are good for the older child. The educational toys are helpful if the child is not forced to learn, but given the opportunity to discover and learn on his own. The blocks that have colors, shapes and the alphabet on them are excellent for learning.

Dolls give the child an opportunity to create situations in which the child is living and even talking out problems.

Ping, Pang and Pong are NOT sounds from a table tennis game, Encyclopedia Americana points out. They are characters from Puccini's famous opera, Turandot; the grand chancellor, general purveyor and chief cook, respectively.

Sheppard AFB Notes

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Roast turkey, pumpkin pie, and all the trimmings. This was part of the menu planned for the 34 kids at the Fowler Home for Children in Wichita Falls.

The home operated by the Children's Aid Society of West Texas, feed the children who, for some unfortunate reason, can't be with his or her parents on this traditional family holiday.

The fixings for the Thanksgiving dinner were provided by the members of the power production branch of the Department of Civil Engineering, School of Aerospace Sciences at Sheppard AFB.

Members of the branch, which include the Electrical power production course, carpentry specialists course and the site development course, and their wives, raised the money to provide the Thanksgiving dinner for the children at the home.

Providing the Thanksgiving meal for the Children's Home has been an annual project at the school since 1963. It was organized by the late Chief Master Sergeant Guido Mambretti, a long-time member of the power production branch of the school, who wanted to share the blessing of the day with those less fortunate than his family.

Members of the three courses or their wives who attended the presentation were: Chief Master Sergeant Jerry G. Robinson, Mr. Raymond Haynes, Mr. Robert White, Technical Sergeant and Mrs. Frederick W. Brooks, Staff Sergeant David R. Noak, Mrs. Andrew J. Turner and Mrs. Dennis L. Goodman.

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Members of the Comptroller Division of the 3750th Air Base

Group at Sheppard AFB, helped make Thanksgiving day just a little bit happier for four families in the community.

The division of nearly 200 people provided baskets of food for the families' Thanksgiving dinner.

This is the second year of the division's gift, and they intend to continue it annually. The division consists of the data automation branch, the accounting and finance branch and the management analysis branch.

Heading the effort this year were Captain John Coleman, Sergeant Cathy Cody, Sergeant Pete Rivera and Joyce Cole.

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Major General Robert L. Pettit, commander Sheppard Technical Training Center, recently received a congratulatory letter from Lieutenant General William V. McBride, commander Air Training Command, for Sheppard's efforts in the Resource Conservation Program (RECON).

In this money saving program, Sheppard has consistently been among the most successful bases Air Force wide. This year Harold O. Blow, RECON program manager, reported a base savings of $5,976,100, which is 409.6 percent of its goal.

Because of this, "Sheppard was selected as one of two Air Training Command nominees to the United States Air Force for the Presidential Management Improvement Award," stated General McBride, "and one of three Air Training Command nominees for the USAF Resources Conservation Management Award."

"Congratulations to you and your staff for these significant contributions to better management of resources."

Responding to the letter, General Pettit added his "heartiest congratulations and appreciation to all those who have done such a magnificent job to insure the success of this vitally important program."

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Energy conservation measures have been intensified this week at Sheppard Air Force Base. Teeth have been put into the program as promised last week by Colonel Robert G. Rogers, deputy base commander and chairman of the Utilities Conservation Committee.

Conservation monitors have been assigned to oversee each building on base, a policy letter has been issued by Brigadier General David W. Winn, Sheppard Technical Training Center vice commander, and Colonel John H. Allison, base commander, has sent a letter on the subject to all family housing occupants soliciting their cooperation.

These actions are the result of recommendations from the base Utilities Conservation Committee which met Nov. 15 and again Nov. 20.

"Conservation measures have been largely volunteer up to this point," Colonel Rogers explained, "Now they will be enforced."

"The key to the program will be the individual building monitors. They are the people who can make it work."

In his Policy Letter No. 1 on Utilities Conservation, General Winn notes that all military installations have been directed to take immediate action to reduce the amount of electricity and gas consumed.

In order to comply with Air Force instructions and further reduce energy consumption, the following procedures will be enforced:

... Air conditioning will not be operated except for hospital facilities, computer rooms, and areas where communications or other equipment could be damaged due to excessive heat.

... Heating thermostats will be set to produce a temperature of between 65 and 68 degrees Fahrenheit in occupied buildings except hospitals.

... Thermostats will be set back to the minimum at night and on weekends. Most thermostats cannot be set below 55 degrees but in no case should they be set below 45 degrees.

... All outside lights are to be turned off during the day.

... Inside lighting is to be held to a minimum. ... Corridor lights will be turned off where possible. ... Portable electric heaters will not be used in buildings that have heating systems. ... Lights will be turned off during lunch breaks or any time the room is unoccupied for more than 12 minutes. ... Christmas lighting will be restricted. No external lighting will be permitted with two exceptions. Organizational outside decorations may be illuminated from darkness to midnight by a single spotlight of not more than 250 watts. Family housing front doors may be illuminated by the porch light.

Group commanders or the ranking member of each base organization will be held directly responsible for appointing building monitors and performing staff surveillance checks to insure compliance.

Colonel Allison has asked the cooperation of all residents of base family housing in reducing the amount of electricity and gas used.

It is estimated that we waste about one third of our energy resources, making it evident that we can make a great contribution with little disruption in our normal activities.

Although the 65-68 degree restriction on heating applies to family quarters as well as on - base buildings, several other ways quarters residents can help are:

... Before going to bed, set thermostats back 10 degrees. It is estimated that this action will save about nine percent.

... Turn off unnecessary lights.

... Open shades or blinds on sunny days and close them at night.

... Keep air registers and doors closed in unused rooms.

... Turn off radios and televisions when not being used.

... Refrigerator temperature should be maintained at 24-40 degrees.

... Keep freezer at zero degrees.

... Operate clothes washers and dish washers only with a full load.

... Use cold water and detergents in washer when possible.

... Clean the lint filter on clothes dryer after each load.

... Use pots and pans the same size as the burner unit.

... Keep fireplace dampers closed when not in use.

... Keep heater filters clean.

Colonel Allison pointed out that these are only a few of the ways quarters occupants can help save utilities. "There are many more methods and you will discover if you make conservation a part of your daily life."

Identical twins. Except one cost 25% more to deliver.

In November, 1971, the first unit of the lignite coal-fired Big Brown generating plant near Fairfield began producing electricity.

It added 575,000 kilowatts of power to the generating capability of Texas Electric and two other electric utility companies who cooperated in building the plant.

The first unit of the new lignite-fired Monticello plant will become operational in 1974. It duplicates the first unit at Big Brown, right down to the last kilowatt.

But there'll be one major difference — the cost. Equipment for the Monticello unit was ordered only three years after Big Brown. But during that period the cost of the same equipment had increased 25%.

We need these new lignite plants because supplies of natural gas and oil, our traditional boiler fuels, are becoming increasingly difficult to obtain.

To diversify our fuels even further, we're planning to have our first nuclear power plant, near Glen Rose, operational by the early 1980's.

Unfortunately, lignite plants now cost about twice as much as traditional gas/oil-fired plants. Nuclear plants cost more than three times as much.

But, clearly, we have to build them if we are going to meet the increasing needs for electricity. We must spend $230 million on new construction in the next two years alone.

We're working to supply the electricity you need, but it's costing more to make it all the time.

BENT HOOKS, MISSED SHOTS and OTHER TALES

by Jim Alexander

I am writing this story on Thanksgiving day, and as I do so, I can look around and see the many things I have to be thankful for. First I look at my seven-year-old son named Jim Alexander II. He is really the apple of my eye. He likes to hunt, fish, football, baseball, basketball, in fact he likes anything that has to do with the out-of-doors. I have seen the gleam in his eyes when he has caught a bigger fish than "Ole Dad", and the best part of it was he did it on his own. I did not cast the bait for him, nor set the hook, nor reel it in. It was his fish from the beginning to the end. The fish weighed three pounds, but for little Jim it might as well have been three hundred. This I am very thankful for.

"Little Jim" is not the only bright spot in my life. I also have a four-year-old daughter named "Nikki". She doesn't care for the fishing or hunting, or the out-of-doors much. She is very much a little lady. She likes dolls, dishes, long dresses, and her mother. Now don't think that she doesn't love her Papa, because I happen to know that she does. She can make me feel so proud and big when at night she curls up in my lap and tells me what she did that day at school. Whenever this takes place I know what my dad, and his dad, and his dad and so on down the line felt like.

I know that I give my wife a few write-ups that don't really show her good side, but I just don't know how I would get along without her. She may make me sleep on the roll-a-way bed, but she always turns it down for me. I know I probably deserve everything that I receive from her, but still I'm thankful for Jan, Jim, and little Nikki. They mean a great deal more than just someone to make a living for. They are life, and I plan on enjoying them. I plan on taking Jimbo on all of the fishing trips that I can. I will try to see that Nikki has all of the baby dolls that she wants, and I'm certainly going to see that I get home a little early from my next bird hunt so Jan will have a little extra time to clean the birds.

There are many things that we have to be thankful for that we either overlook or just ignore. This may be the year for you to reflect upon the things that you have taken for granted. Where else in the world could you get off work two hours to go fishing. No where on this universe could you get a four day weekend and not lose a dime's pay. We have bird dogs, bass boats, deer leases, shooting ranges, sportsmen clubs, free fishing, concerned citizens, daylight savings time, understanding neighbors, mean mother-in-laws, the free right to purchase arms and ammo at will, nagging wives, and sloppy husbands, and yet there are many of us that have never stopped and realized that the U.S.A. is one of the very few nations that has free religion of the church of your choice. These are only a few of the many facts of American life that so many of us are guilty of not recognizing. I am just as guilty as any of you, and after reflecting on those items, I am going to try and do better the remainder of the year.

Union Valley Alumni Assn. Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Union Valley Alumni Association was held November 24 at Furr's Cafeteria in Wichita Falls with 39 members and guests present. Lois Zachary acted as toastmaster, with president, Jimmy Dorton in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Bill (Leola) Kerr, secretary, read the minutes of the 1972 meeting. Dan Eschler offered the invocation.

Since there was no planned program the evening was spent in visitation, recalling events of "good old UVHS days". During the business meeting the group adopted a plan to have a nominating committee composed of the newly-elected officers to present a slate of officers for the Nov. 30, 1974 meeting. The nominating committee will contact those selected as possible officers before the meeting date. Thus, no one will be elected to office without knowing in advance of the meeting. Special recognition was given Lois and Marie Zachary, Mrs. Othello Hooker, Bill and Leola Kerr, Jimmy and Jackie Dorton for their faithfulness in the continuance of the organization. The suggestion was made that the Alumni Association promote a UNION VALLEY COMMUNITY get-together some time during the summer. No action was taken but the officers took the matter under advisement. A committee composed of residents in the Cookietown area to work with the Alumni would be needed if plans are finalized. The plans to go ahead will be determined by the favorable response from residents of the community.

For your ideas and suggestions contact Alumni officers: Lois Zachary, president, 1403 Ruidosa Street, Wichita Falls; Mary Ruth Eschler, vice-president, Randlett; or Odell Karstetter, secretary, 513 Bluebonnet Street, Burkburnett. Mrs. Othello Hooker, Mary

Ruth Eschler, and Leola Kerr were selected to take care of details of the next meeting. Reservations were made to hold the Nov. 30, 1974 meeting again at Furr's Cafeteria, Wichita Falls. Those present included Mrs. Othello Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Briscoe, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin (Sonny) Dorton, E.D. Gresham, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miller, all of Walters; Mrs. Betty Jane Higginson, Lawton; Mr. and Mrs. Max Anderson, Duncan; Mr. and Mrs. Lois Zachary, Wichita Falls; D.S. Fox, Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. John (Ella Lois) Hunt, Hurst, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Garland Rusk, Iowa Park; Mrs. Janie Eschler Cabbage, Dallas; Mrs. Christine Campbell, Norman; Mr. and Mrs. Travis Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Don Eschler, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kerr, all of Randlett; Mrs. J.V. (Louise) Looney. Also Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy

Dorton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kerr, John Karstetter, all of Burkburnett; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Adams, Burmet.

Chamber members are urged to attend their December general luncheon Monday. The program will come from Vernon Junior College officials who will be explaining to those present the various curriculum offered at the college. VJC is presently offering five night courses at our local high school. These college credit courses are hoped to only be a beginning of their program here. They are equipped to offer both college credit and non credit courses, as well as vocational courses in both of those categories.

Be at the Civic Center Monday at noon at our general luncheon and find out more about this exceptional program. They have a fine college and are willing to offer any number of extension courses at night at our high school. Continuing education especially in the area offered by Vernon Junior College is very important to Burkburnett.

See you at the meeting.

It was interesting to note in a recent issue of the Congressional Action one of Professor C. Northcote Parkinson's numerous laws is that "civil service expands by an inexorable rule of growth, irrespective of the work (if any) which has to be done." In a recent book the good professor figured that, if current trends continue, everyone in Britain will be working for the government by the year 2195.

Intrigued by this calculation, the Morgan Guaranty Survey, published by New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., recently applied the idea to the U.S. In the past decade government employment at all levels, excluding the armed forces, has grown 51%, compared with a 19% rise in the total labor force. If things go on like that, the bank said, every American will be working for government by 2049--a century and a half sooner than in Britain.

It's easy to chuckle over some of Professor Parkinson's laws, projections and predictions. In this instance, though, the underlying trend isn't amusing.

On the lighter side though, a little too in church for the first time, watched the ushers pass the collection plates. When they neared the pew, he piped up so everyone could hear, "Don't pay for me Daddy, I'm under five."

See you at the Chamber luncheon Monday.
