One Man Has No Fear Of Hot Weather

When Old Sol sends the thermometer soaring near the top, one Burk man will probably be shivering and wondering why everybody else is complaining about the heat.

A. M. Reynolds at the Modern Barber Shop has just completed one of the largest coolest systems we have seen for such a small building. On top the building is a huge circular cooler, 4 feet high and 19 feet in circumference. Air is drawn through moistened excelsior and forced into the building by a noiseless, blower type fan. Wednesday morning the temperature in the shop was well down in the 70's, yet there was no stiff draft, and everything was quiet as a mouse.

Barbecue At Baptist Church Last Thursday

Last Thursday night the First Baptist Church was the scene for a barbecue. With plenty of Beef, Pork, etc the 125 people present seemed to have a great time.

Yet the fine eats were not the only attraction for there was fine fellowship and fun in general.

Then, saving the best for the last—Burk's old friend, and a friend to all—Pat Morrison, known and loved by all of Burk people was the speaker. Pat proved to be equal to the occasion, and received much applause.

This occasion was sponsored by the Men's Bible Class of the First Baptist Church—with 51 present Sunday, May 14th. Mr. O. L. Clark, is the splendid teacher of this class. If you are a Baptist, or do not have a regular Sunday School home, this class gives you a special invitation. Each Sunday morning meeting in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church with O. L. ## Sellers Announces For Attorney General

Grover Sellers

Grover Sellers, Attorney General of Texas, has announced he will be a candidate for a second term in that office in the 1944 primary election.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Sellers declared: "I am grateful to Gov. Coke Stevenson for appointing me attorney general, following the resignation of Gerald C. Mann, with whom I had served four years as first assistant.

"To the people of Texas I now submit my candidacy. When elected my one effort will be fair and impartial administration of all laws and the constitution as written by the people. I shall continue to work in complete harmony with other officials and state departments in the efficient operation of our state government.

"All Texans have one common thought today—winning the war as quickly as possible. This department, as in the past, shall continue full cooperation with military authorities in prosecution of the war. During the absence of our men in uniform, their welfare always shall be my first concern. In fact, I am the first ever to hold that Texans in uniform can vote.

"I base my candidacy on a background of experience gained as your Attorney General, first assistant Attorney General, judge of the Eighth Judicial District and as an associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals."

SAVE KITCHEN FATS

Governor Coke Stevenson last week issued an appeal to Texas housewives to save more Used Household fats. Texas, he said, was lagging by about 34 per cent in producing its quota of this vital salvage.

Almost all of our import sources of fats and oils were cut off when the Japanese occupied the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies. This stoppage presented the nation with a crucial problem in the manufacture of explosives, synthetic rubber, military medicines and countless other war-time necessities.

The Governor urged every Texas housewife to save at least one teaspoonful of fat a day and help bring Texas to the top of her production quota.

The Burk Burnett Star joins the Governor in urging each and every housewife in Burk Burnett to back this Fat Salvage drive to the limit. Don't just save one teaspoonful a day but every drop that is not necessary for your own cooking needs. Keep a tin can in your kitchen at all times. Pour your grease in it and when full bring it to your butcher.

by Boyce House

Whatever has become of the "human fly"? You know—a man who made his living by climbing up the side of the town's tallest building with his bare hands while the crowd gaped, got stiffness in the neck and had a near heart attack when he purposely "almost" lost his hold on the ledge near the top?

I never missed any free attraction that came to town during my boyhood—the expert marksman who put on an exhibition to advertise Peters' cartridges; the cyclist who rode a single wheel standing up by way of directing public attention to the superior qualities of one particular brand of bicycle; and the medicine show, with the gasoline torches luridly lighting up the platform, the "professor" with his long hair, high top hat, long tailed coat and marvelous flow of language; and Sambo, who entertained with numbers on the banjo.

And did Buster Brown ever visit your town? He was a mid-get who looked like the once-popular comic supplement boy with the odd suit and the bobbed-hair. (He was publicizing a product.)

Sometimes, the merchants would bring in a special event for trades' day—a slack wire walker or a daredevil, who leaped into little more than a tub of water.

Whenever a minstrel show came to town, there was always a free concert in front of the tent or the opera house.

But of course the biggest event of all was the circus parade. Folks lined the streets for an hour ahead of time—why, I never knew, because no parade ever started on time. But it was a real thrill from the beginning—the proprietor in a rubber-tired buggy who (the proprietor or not the buggy) bowed smilingly to right and left; then the many wagons, a few of which were open to show the lions and monkeys; the beopanged ladies on the elephants; the clowns—on the very end, the calliope (the boys called it "tlay-ope") tooting out noises amid which could occasionally be detected a couple of notes that suggested "In the Good Old Summer Time." There was the days!

Years ago, the sports department of a big Texas daily had so many important football games coming up that they called on the state editor to write up one of them. He was tall, gray haired, matter-of-fact, and had seen just two football games in his life—and they were so far back that field goal counted four points and a team had only three tries for first down but the distance was only five yards. However, he didn't let on and the story that he wrote was a gem—of its kind. Here's the way it started off:

"The Comanche Indians tied a knot in the San Angelo Bobcat's tail."

A bobcat has a tail about half an inch long and anybody that could tie a knot in that, really would be doing sump'in'!

Reminds me of the two men who were talking on the street and one of them remarked:

"Any man who would hide behind a woman's skirts is a coward."

The other glanced around at the short skirts and replied:

"Any man who can do that is a magician."

And that calls to mind the days of national prohibition. After beer was banished, some company brought out a product known as "near-beer." Two men were trying it out and one of them held up a glass and said:

"The fellow who named this

Oil Industry Taxes Pay One-Fourth Education Expense

Taxes paid by the Texas oil industry meet the cost of educating one out of every four school children in Texas, according to a survey just completed by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association. Total cost of operating the State's public schools in 1943 of the school bill, the expense petroleum industry paid $22,421,262 in direct taxes, not including the gasoline tax, which is paid by the motorists but collected for the government by the oil industry.

There are numerous independent school districts in which oil is paying the bulk of the taxes in two instances, a full 91 per cent last year, and in 14 others (including one entire county) oil paid more than 50 percent. Where oil foots the chief part was $98,988,875, of which the per pupil runs much higher than in the State as a whole. Taking 38 such districts, (including the entire county), the average pupil is $173.38, compared to the State average of $64.38, which by the way—was an increase of $2.88 over the preceding year. The oil industry also aided in retiring outstanding bonds in the school districts, and in one instance, oil's part of the cost was slightly over 364 per student.

Even if a county does not have oil production within its borders, its school children benefit from the school taxes paid by Texas oil for, out of the State apportionment of $37,356,875 in 1943, almost $10,000,000 was paid by oil and of the $8,300,000 for rural aid, $2,975,000 came from the oil industry.

4-H's Help Produce 122 Billion Lbs. of Milk, 1944 Goal

Spurred by the 1944 goal of producing 122 billion pounds of milk to meet wartime needs, legions of rural boys and girls throughout the state are enrolling in the National 4-H Dairy Production Activity. This project is designed to help 4-Hers learn practice and demonstrate the principles of the National 4-H Dairy Production Program. As incentives, awards for the best all-round dairy project records, including demonstrations, are provided by the Kraft Cheese Co. These recognitions include medals to top rating and second place county winners, $25 War Bonds to the four highest rating members in the state who have dairy herds, and the same number to owning milk cows. The latter are eligible to compete for higher awards, which comprise trips to ten sectional winners to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next December, and $200 agricultural college scholarships to six national champions.

Last year's state, national-sectional winner in Texas was R. C. West, Jr., of Midland. "Near-beer was a darn poor judge of distance."

National Farm Leader Hails Johnston Plan

One of America's leading farm figures today hailed Erich Johnston's proposals for harmony between government and business as a means of bringing the golden age of prosperity to every phase of American business life from the farmer to the international industrialist.

Johnston, general president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, predicted in an article in the May issue of Cosmopolitan magazine that harmonious relations between government and business would enable the United States to utilize six economic potentials which would insure unprecedented prosperity for this country in the post war period.

Heavy endorsement of Johnston's business philosophy was voiced by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who said: "I agree with fundamental

In the article Johnston outlines steps which both government and business should take in order to capitalize on the brilliant economic potential which he foresees.

"Whether these potentials become pillars of strength or sources of economic embarrassment depends on our clear vision, unblurred thinking and courage as a nation," Johnston stated.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?"

"Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns have. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces. And, from all reports, they're doing a grand job bringing victory closer every day."

"We folks at home have a mighty big obligation to those 10,000,000 fighting men. We've got to produce the food to keep them well fed. We've got to keep them supplied with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the 5th War Loan drive over the top, Jim."

"And, in addition, we must be sure that, while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."

PAUL ENCOURAGES THE CORINTHIANS
LESSON TEXT—II Corinthians 4:5, 16-18; 5:1, 5:8, 14-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich.—II Corinthians 8:9.

"Nothing is certain but uncertainty," so says the modern philosopher. But man cannot be satisfied with constant change and confusion. That is why, in our day of unheard-of disruption of ordinary life patterns, men and women especially need the message of the gospel, for in Christ we find the answer to our quest for certainty and stability.

Paul writing to encourage the church at Corinth assured them that life may be steady, useful and true because they are Christians. He presents:

The Christian—a Servant of Men for Christ's Sake (II Cor. 4:5). Having—

I. A Vision Which Lightens Affliction (II Cor. 4:16-18).

Any honest person knows that in the temporal world round about him everything speaks of death. All things tend to run down, to wear out, to decay, including the body of man. He sees his mental as well as his physical powers coming to a certain maturity only to go into decline.

At the same time he is conscious of the deep burden of affliction and sorrow which seems to press down on all the world like an almost unbearable and crushing weight. What can he do about it? Shall he try to dissipate the clouds by artificial cheerfulness? It will not work.

Our text gives us the answer. "For this cause we faint not," says Paul. The things which press us down are only temporal—they are of this world. God's world is eternal. The weakness of the physical body only makes the strength of the spiritual life more evident. The affliction which seems so heavy is only a "light affliction" when one remembers the "eternal weight of glory."

Is this just a bit of "escapism"? Is it only some wishful thinking? No, indeed. Have not men learned anew in the war that the only possessions you can keep are those which cannot be bombed to pieces or stolen?

Obviously, that is true in the highest degree of the one who knows Christ, and whose riches are those of eternity. How triumphantly he can meet decay and sorrow! He is of the other world, and nothing here can be more than a light affliction, which seems negligible in the light of the glory of eternal things. Ah, but it's great to be a Christian in such days as these!

II. An Assurance Which Removes Fear (II Cor. 5:1, 5-8).

Of all the fears which afflict mortal man the greatest and the ultimate one is the fear of death. He knows that it is so absolute and final that it terminates everything and separates him from all that he has known and held dear in this world.

That is just the point, death does end everything (except the awful fear of judgment for a wicked wicked life!) for those who live only for this world. Man, however, was never intended for just this present life. He is a being who has eternity written in his very personality.

What if this "earthly tabernacle"—my body—does give up, says Paul. I have a "building of God," something which man did not make with his hands, an eternal home in glory. That gives a man confidence. While he is here in the body, he lives and walks by faith, but when absent from this body, he is "present with the Lord." How altogether delightful and marvelous is the future, even beyond the grave, for the believer. Hence, we "sorrow not as others which have no hope" (read I Thess., 4:13-18).

III. A Hope Which Makes Him a Living Testimony (II Cor. 5:14-19).

Worldly people sometimes wonder what tremendous and tireless motive power keeps Christians working for the Lord in the face of impossible difficulties. We have that motive named in verse 14—"the love of Christ constraineth us."

There is no compulsion about real Christian testimony and service. There is no feeling that one must do this or that in order to please God. No, the compelling force here is the love of a dying Saviour. It is the supremely powerful and all-persuasive influence of love.

Christ died for all, and those who realize that, know that they cannot "henceforth live unto themselves" (v. 15). The social standing, or family connections of our fellow men, no longer control. Christ died for them and we must bring them the word of life.

Notice in verse 17 that it is the born-again-one who has this hope. Many church members whose lives are powerless and sinful are so because they have never been born again. "Except a man be born again" (John 3:3) he is not a Christian. That is the place to begin. Take Christ by faith.

With Ernie Pyle at the Front U.S. Army Based in England Is Strict About Saluting

Proper Uniform Also Very Important; These Two Things Amuse British

By Ernie Pyle

LONDON.—I can't seem to make up my mind about London this trip. Some say that they can see in people's conduct the strain of waiting on the invasion—that tempers are short and nerves taut. Yet the English seem to me just as imperturbable as ever.

Some say the English have been at war so long they've forgotten about peacetime life and are resigned like sheep to the war dragging on and on. But I don't sense any such resignation.

It is certainly true that Britain has adjusted herself to wartime life. But that doesn't mean blind, perpetual acceptance. People have learned to get along. American aid, and years of learning how to do, have eased the meager war life of the early days. There is more food now, and it is better than it used to be. There are more people on the streets, more shopping, more Sunday strollers in the parks.

I had supposed the people would look shabbier than a year and a half ago, but to me they look neater. And the physical city itself seems less dreary than in the fall of 1942.

As for short tempers, I haven't seen any. Maybe it's just because I have been accustomed to the screaming outbursts at each other of the emotional Italians. But from what I've seen so far the English are as kind and polite to each other as they always were.

All in all, my first impression is that England is better, all around, than it was a year and a half ago. Of course spring may have something to do with it.

Every day the London papers quote all the German rumors on invasion. They print the predictions of the German radio, and pieces from neutral countries saying the invasion will have to occur between 4:39 a. m. today and 4:41 a. m. tomorrow, or else be put off for a month. They print pictures of German fortifications, and tell of the sudden regrouping and rushing around of German troops. They conjecture on the thunderous explosions heard daily on the French side of the Channel.

Since the only invasion news we have is what the Germans predict, this echo from Germany has the effect, upon me at least, of a war of nerves.

London is crawling with Americans, both army and civilian. All headquarters cities are alike in their overcrowding, their exaggerated discipline, and what appears to be military overstaffing.

Some say London is as bad as Washington. Some say it is worse. I do know that the section where American offices are most highly concentrated is a funny sight at luncheon or in late afternoon. American uniforms pour out of the buildings in floods. On some streets an Englishman stands out as incongruously as he would in North Platte, Neb. Desk officers and fliers and WACs and nurses abound.

Two things that amuse the British are the "pink" trousers our officers wear and our perpetual saluting.

The American army is very strict about saluting here. Everybody has to salute. Second lieutenants salute other second lieutenants. Arms flail up and down by the thousands as though everybody was crazy. People jab each other in the eyes saluting.

On one short street much traveled by Americans they have had to make sidewalk traffic one-way, presumably to prevent saluting casualties.

A friend of mine, a captain recently arrived from Africa, was stopped the other day by another captain just over from America who bawled the living daylight out of him for not returning his salute. My captain friend said he couldn't because his right arm had become muscle-bound from waving it too much.

They're strict about dress here too. You have to wear your dress blouse and either pinks or dark-green dress trousers. Everybody looks just so-so and exactly like everybody else.

I thought I looked very pretty when I got here, for all my clothes were clean for the first time in months. But I hadn't reckoned with the headquarters atmosphere. I have never been stared at so much in my life as during my first three days here.

For I had on a British battle jacket, O. D. pants and infantry boots. They had never seen anybody dressed like that before. Nobody knew what this strange apparition was, but they all played safe and saluted it anyhow—and then turned and stared belligerently at it. I think sheer awe is all that kept the M.P.'s from picking me up.

Finally, after three days. I dug up a trunk I had left here a year and a half ago and got out my old brown civilian suit and gray hat, and now I'm all right. People just think I'm a bedraggled bank clerk, and it's much better.

The other day I took a trip up to mid-England to see a man from Albuquerque. He is in fact the man who built our little white house out there on the mesa, and who subsequently became one of our best friends.

His name is Arthur McCollum. He was a lieutenant in the last war and he is a captain in this one. He spent 20 years regretting that he never got overseas the other time, and he is very happy that he made it this time. He is attached to a big general hospital in the country.

In January Captain McCollum had a reunion with his son, Lieut. Ross McCollum. Ross was chief pilot of a flying fortress. Father and son had two wonderful weekends together. And then on his second mission over Germany Ross didn't come back. Nothing has been heard from him since. That was nearly four months ago.

Captain Mac and Ross were real companions—they played together and dreamed and planned together. After the war they were going to fish a lot and then start an airplane sales agency together.

Captain Mac says he kind of went to the bottom of the barrel over Ross. For two months he was so low he felt he couldn't take it. And then he said to himself, "Look here, you damn fool. You can't do this. Get yourself together." And having given himself that abrupt command, he carried it out. And today he is all right.

I found him the same kind of life-loving, gay friend I had known in Albuquerque. We rode bicycles around the countryside, celebrated here and there, made fools of ourselves and had a wonderful time.

Captain Mac talked a lot about Ross, and felt better for the talking, and he didn't do any crying on my shoulder. He feels firmly that Ross will come back, but he knows now that if he never does he can take it.

Even though he is an intimate friend of mine, I consider him one of the finest examples I know of what people can and must do when the tragedy of war falls fully upon them.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Milk, or latex, flows from the rubber tree best in early morning. Therefore, rubber tappers start their day's work long before dawn.

An overload which might reduce the life of a crude rubber tire only 25 per cent or even be carried through until the tread was worn smooth, may reduce the life of a synthetic rubber tire 50 per cent or more and result in a blowout while there is still wear in the tread.

Rubber belting, which now plays such an important part in mining and industrial operations, was first manufactured in this country in 1836.

The American contingent in London has many new terms since I left here in 1942. The newest and most frequently heard is "SHAEF." This is the initials of Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force. It is SHAEF that is planning and will direct the invasion. General Eisenhower is head man of SHAEF. I mention it to show how initials grow over here.

are three members of the gallant crew of the "Memphis Belle." Capt. Vin Evans of Fort Worth, Texas, bombardier; Capt. Charles B. Leighton, navigator; Tech Sgt. Robert J. Hanson, radio operator. The other picture shows the fly-over Germany. Memphis Belle is a four reel Air Force camera report of the 25th mission of this bomber over Germany. It is in technicolor and will play at the Palace starting next Wednesday and Thursday, May 31-June 1.

Supply

Neil does not claim to be an engineer, but succeeded where both attempts to find a satisfactory supply for Burkbur-

Neil came to Burkbur- 1917 and went thru working in the oil business for a while he started a plumbing business here, later made Superintendent of water works, a position held for 21 years. The credit for the present system rightfully belongs to McNeill, but when about it, he modestly credit to others who worked on the project.

When the green light to get it into town, out with a helper or began drilling test wells down the river valley. He decided on a location East of town, right had believed from the abundance of water could be had with no expense involved.

He purchased a little five acres of land on which the pump station and the residence of the pump operator are now situated. Wells are located on the plot. They are operated by complete air-lift method compressor pulling 25 ft. air, which is sufficient to raise water from the wells and flow it into storage tanks, also located on the plot. Wells are located on the plot, formerly the A. Dodson, still East of the pump. Two other wells are located on the South-East side of the Preston farm. The city holds a 25 year lease on the Dunn farm wells and a 99 year lease on the Preston farm wells. The wells on the Preston farm were only recently completed.

The wells are about 400 feet apart, each housed in a sheet iron structure set on concrete. Water, which rises in the well to within ten feet of the top from ten feet of water sand, is pumped by 1 1-2 horse electric motors pulling centrifugal pumps. The water is pumped out at the rate of 50 gallons per minute, 24 hours a day, but the water level in the well remains the same, except during prolonged dry seasons, when the level falls only a few inches. These wells are all air-lift type, gravel treated.

Each of the individual pumps at the wells sends the water to storage tanks at the pump station. A new concrete storage tank of 200,000 gallons capacity was completed in 1943. Two 65,000 gallon steel tanks complete the storage facilities at the station.

From the storage tank water is pumped to town into the 65,000 gallon stand pipe beside Town Hall. As the water enters the main line coming to town, it is treated by an automatic Chlorinator which is controlled by the volume of water passing into the main line.

More than adequate pumping facilities for pumping water to town are housed in the pump station. Three centrifugal pumps, one 150 gallons per minute, one 250 per minute, and one 350 gallons per minute. Not all pumps are used at one time, for the main line cannot carry that amount of water. Rate of consumption governs which pump or pumps are used. An auxiliary Fairbanks-Morse oil engine with a 250 gallon per minute pump stands by for emergency use. The last time it was pressed into service was in 1935 when electric lines to the pump station were blown down during a storm.

With an almost unlimited supply of water at hand and plenty of pumping capacity at the station, why were water consumers limited last summer, and why do we face similar restrictions this summer? The peak consumption last summer was 350,000 gallons per day. A certain amount of water must be held in reserve in the stand pipe for emergency use in case of fire. That leaves for consumption only the water that can be pumped through the main line during peak months.

One and one-half miles of 8 inch line runs from the pump station toward town. Then it drops to a 6 inch line on to the stand pipe. With another six inch line branching off from the 8 inch line, no water consumer in Burkburnett would ever want for water, even in the hottest days. Steps to eliminate this bottleneck are being taken, though no promises can be made as to when the situation will be remedied.

The water system has three departments. Waterworks, sewer and streets. Dave McNeill is general Superintendent, with other assistants under him.

Jobie Dunn, with 23 years service, is chief engineer at the pump station and lives near the station. E. H. (Pop) Hood is waterworks repairman, and has had 14 years' service with the department. Mr. Hood did most of the drilling on wells now producing.

O. D. Bernethy with three years' service is alterante in all departments.

Mrs. Mack Curry, with seven years service, is clerk and bookkeeper.

Mrs. Betty Jane Hill Lentz of Burkburnett will receive her bachelor of arts degree in economics from North Texas State Sunday, May 28, in the fifty-fourth annual spring convention, which is being dedicated to Miss Edith L. Clark, retiring Dean of Women. Mrs. Lentz is the daughter of Alvin R. Hill.

M. C. Tucker proves handy at most anything he tries. This week he completed a sign in front of his insurance office on Avenue C. He drilled the holes in the iron post, bolted on the sign, and says he may use the top part of the post for a flag pole.

Mrs. Nora E. Shaw and her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shaw are here visiting relatives and friends. They are from Avenal, Calif. J. E. came back to see what the army was going to do with him. He is 23 and has a brother, S-Sgt. James Shaw, who is overseas.

Biggest Poppy Sale Predicted

The biggest poppy sale in the history of the American Legion Auxiliary is predicted by Mrs. Fred Brookman, president of the local unit, who said yesterday she would not be surprised if more than double the usual number were sold.

A few people know what the arrangements are for making these Memorial Day flowers, Mrs. Brookman explained that the materials are furnished free to the veterans by the American Legion Auxiliary. Volunteer workers teach the disabled men to make the poppies. The entire poppy program, from the supplying of the poppy materials, to the distribution of the finished flowers to the American public, is under the management of the Auxiliary.

"The veterans and their dependents are the ones who benefit from our poppy sale," she said, "not only from the money that results from selling poppies, but also from having something tangible to do instead of having to rest, read or talk. These men in the government hospitals are delighted to keep their fingers busy and their minds occupied with the intricacies of fashioning the poppies. Needy wives and children also reap benefits from the sale of the flowers.

"We have been selling these Memorial Day flowers for twenty four years and each year the poppy becomes more closely identified with the American Legion Auxiliary and with our disabled men. We hope the service will continue indefinitely."

Headquarters for the Poppy sale in Burkburnett Saturday will be at Corner Drug Store. Volunteer workers will be Rainbow Girls and Junior Garden Club girls.

Evening services begin at 7:45 with the young people meeting their Bible study and devotional. This group is challenging the whole Church in good works, and God is saving many among them. Booster Band and prayer groups meet at eight o'clock.

Methodists Increase Charity Giving To Hospital

The Golden Cross offering, which is taken each year on Mother's Day for the Dallas Methodist Hospital, exceeded $117 this year as compared to an all time high of $45 in the past for the local Methodist church. This fund is providing medical aid to several hundred needy people each year through the 200 Dallas Methodist Hospital. The hospital has been adding some $5 for each one dollar contributed by the churches of the North Texas Conference and is doing a marvelous work in the Healing Ministry.

This is a custom of Methodism and every Methodist hospital is operated strictly for service to the needy. There is no other dividend ever to be drawn from the 20 great hospitals of Methodism. Harris Memorial Hospital at Ft. Worth and Houston Methodist Hospital are others in Texas. The San Antonio Mission Home and Training School is operated strictly for unfortunate girls and takes the place of a Methodist hospital in San Antonio for the present.

Sunday School 9:45. Preaching services 11.

Training Union 7:30. Preaching services 8:30. Our attendance was slightly off last Sunday after our special day. However, there was good attendance, for which we were all grateful. Nevertheless, we are wondering why we can't be just a loyal each Sunday as on special days.

Coming up—Beginning on Wednesday night, June 7th; and each Wednesday night of June 7th; and each Wednesday night of June we are to have "2 for 1" service. Two people in prayer meeting for each boy in service. Surely the least we can do, while they are fighting for us is to gather on mid-week night and pray for them. As near as possible each parent will be notified personally about the services. In the Burk Star each week will be a notice, and then throughout the church and town notices will be given. This service will exclude not any one in Burkburnett who wishes to come and meet with us is welcome. Remember the date, June 7-14-21-28th.

Many workers are getting ready for the very best Vacation Bible School we have ever had. Beginning June 5th, Monday morning at 8:30 every child between the ages of 4-16 is invited to attend. Dairy Products To Be Higher If Bill Passes Increased costs to the consumer of 11 2/5 cents a pound for butter and 1 1/4 to 2 1/2 cents a quart for milk would result from proposed legislation being considered as an amendment to the bill to extend the Emergency Price Control Law, Charles Fister, executive secretary of the Dairy Industry Committee, told the Senate Banking and Currency Committee at a hearing in Washington, April 25.

The legislation, proposed by Charles W. Holman of the National Co-operative Milk Producers Federation, would set up a price control system for milk and dairy products separate and distinct from the general procedure laid down by Congress to stabilize prices, Mr. Fister testified.

Pointing out that such machinery would immediately force an upward adjustment of prices, Mr. Fister, who represents more than 6,000 plants processing and distributing milk products, stated: "It seems terribly inconsistent that provisions which would permit almost unlimited price increases should be attached to an anti-inflation bill."

He described the Emergency Price Control Law as a safeguard against inflationary tendencies present and threatening in a wartime economy and called Mr. Holman's proposal "directly contradictory to this objective."

Furthermore, Mr. Fister said, the proposal is unnecessary, since existing legislation provides machinery for the control of prices and for adequate prices to farmers, objectives with which his committee is duly in sympathy.

The Holman proposal would direct the War Food Administrator and the Price Administrator, within 120 days after enactment, to:

Adjust maximum prices on milk and milk products at both the producer and resale level, reflecting changes in farm labor costs, feed prices and other costs since January 1, 1941.

Place the production of milk on a competitive basis with alternative opportunities available to producers of milk; able to producers of milk; Correct inequities between markets, and Maintain and increase milk production.

The legislation was first incorporated as an amendment, which would have banned subsidies. In its present form only minor changes have been made.

The Dairy Committee spokesman pointed out that if, as proposed by this amendment, the prices of milk and other dairy products were taken out of the general procedure laid down by Congress to stabilize prices, other competing commodities would also seek special legislative consideration. If they were successful, he said, higher maximum prices than those now allowed under OPA regulations would result, further wage increases would follow and an inflationary spiral would be generated destroying present 'hold-the-line control'.

"To hold the line on prices to the consumer and to cover the farmers' increased costs, support prices have been established and subsidies and dairy production payments are being made," said Mr. Fister. "If the price adjustment features of Mr. Holman's proposal were to be substituted, the amount of these payments would of necessity have to be added to the prices which consumers pay for dairy products."

"Another very serious aspect of the proposal legislation," Mr. Fister pointed out, "is the procedure prescribed for carrying it out. The measure calls for regional and market hearings within each six-month period to adjust producer prices. Experience with similar hearings under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act shows that the time involved is such that no sooner would one hearing be finished than it would be necessary to start another."

"The highly technical and legal nature of such hearings would require that each interest represented would have to have experienced legal, statistical and operating counsel available in person. The personnel and time required would be out of all proportion to that available in time of war. Such hearings every six months in every area of the United States can only be described as an 'administrative monstrosity.'"

Various price support protections for the producer have already been provided by Congress, Mr. Fister observed. He named the Agricultural Act of 1938, as amended by the so-called Stegall price-support amendment, and later augmented by the Commodity Credit Extension Law.

Adequate prices for the farmer is an objective with which the Dairy Industry Committee is entirely in sympathy, he added. He described its consistent support of Government price policies which would cover milk producers' increased costs and provide the necessary incentive to maintain or increase milk production to meet military and wartime civilian needs. The Dairy Committee's objections to the proposed amendment, he said, are based wholly on the unfavorable consequences in other directions that would inevitably follow its adoption.

"If, for any reasons, Mr. Fister suggested, 'the provisions of the Holman proposal should receive serious consideration, we believe they should be considered at another time, as separate legislation to be passed or rejected on its own merits. Under no circumstances should it be attached to a nanti-inflation law. It surely would be terribly inconsistent to attach to an anti-inflation measure provisions which would result in such large increases in prices.'"

Mr. Fister appeared before the committee representing the American Butter Institute, National Cheese Institute, Evaporated Milk Association, International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, International Association of Milk Dealers and Dairy Industries Supply Association.

Several retired workers who have delayed filing their claims have informed the Board that friends had told them they were not eligible. The best thing to do is to go to the Social Security Board office and secure correct information.

Many workers of retirement age tell us that they did not realize that they may continue to earn credits toward benefits after reaching age 65, or that they may work in covered employment, even after benefits start, without sacrificing their retirement insurance rights.

The true facts are that a worker may qualify for retirement benefits at any age above 65. He merely gives up his benefit for those months in which he earns as much as $15 in covered employment.

Workers 65 and Over Should Contact Social Security Board

Inaccurate advice from well-meaning but inadequately informed friends may be costing some retired workers money in the form of old-age and survivors insurance benefits, R. L. Surlles, manager of the Wichita Falls office of the Social Security Board, said today. The same kind of advice also may be keeping benefit checks from widows, children and parents of workers who die.

Each worker who is 65 or over and has been working in covered employment should get in touch with the nearest office of the Social Security Board as soon as he quits his job. If he is qualified for benefits, the Board will assist him in filing a claim.

Similarly when a worker dies, the widow or other close relative should immediately contact the Social Security Board field office where complete assistance will be given in filing a claim for survivors' benefits. Contacts may be made by personal visit, by letter or by telephone.

Christian Science Services

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientists, on Sunday, May 28.

The Golden Text is: "I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil. And the God of peace shall bruise Satan under our feet shortly" (Romans 16:19, 20).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. Thou shalt be perfect with the Lord thy God" (Deuteronomy 18:9, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God controls man, and God is the only Spirit. Any other control or attraction of so-called spirit is mortal belief which ought to be known by its fruit, the repetition of evil." (page 73.)

Circle Meeting

Circle No. 1 of the WSCS met with Mrs. J. H. Exley Monday, at 3:30 P. M.

High School Bible Class Completes First Year

For a number of years the High Schools of Texas have had the privilege of giving credit on Survey Courses in the Bible when taught according to the state requirements.

The state will not pay any salary of a teacher for the course, but will provide class room facilities. The class locally was requested by the Ministers of the town and was taught by the Ministers this year. Rev. Varner, Harris and DeVore were the teachers and Rev. Perry Williams each substituted a day during the year. There were twelve who completed the course the second semester and about the same number the first semester.

There is a fine spirit in the community with regards to the class and a general feeling it should be continued each year. In many places the class is taught by a qualified teacher who may or may not teach some other class.

The pastors and representative laymen of the community met recently and decided to plan for a qualified lay teacher to teach the class next year. A committee was appointed to make recommendations for a teacher to the school board.

Plans were laid to pay the teacher an amount similar to that paid by the Board to other teachers. The committee plans to ask for general contributions to a fund to pay the teacher. It has been estimated that it will take about $200 to provide for the course.

This is a community project, and it is expected that the community interest in this course will increase.

Delinquency And Public Service To A Community

The time of year is arriving when a young man's fancy lightly turns to things other than school. It is the time of year when a seizure of juveniles are readjusting their daily habits of life from school to time-killing, productive labor, or remunerative employment. In this period of transition there is a seizure of delinquency and moral laxness.

Right now in Burkburnett there is need for some additional supervision and work with the youth. Many groups are doing a good job with a selected few; the churches, the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls, the U. S. O. and others, but there is a great group of young people whom none is supervising. The need should be a challenge to high minded citizens of Burkburnett to put their shoulders to the wheel. The field of opportunities is limitless. There is no limit to the work that can be done through these various organizations already named.

Youth meetings in the churches can be expanded with great profit if leaders are available. Other Scout or Camp Fire girl groups can be organized and the work of those we already have can be made more effective with a little additional leadership, money, transportation etc. We have no right to fold our hands during these weeks and do as near nothing as possible, and then some day, in a few months become all excited when we learn of the delinquency that has taken place in our community. Let the challenge constitute a call to service. Do your part today, tomorrow, and every day for the development of the character of the fine youth of Burkburnett.

This is a community project, and it is expected that the community interest in this course will increase.

Methodist Begin Vacation Bible School Sunday

The Daily Vacation Bible School at the First Methodist Church will begin next Sunday morning at the regular Church School hour and continue each morning throughout the week at 9. Mrs. Thos Boyd has general supervision of the school and some eighteen workers are making final preparations for the teaching and conducting of the A number of others will assist with refreshments, recreation, and other phases of the school.

All children between the ages of 4 and 12 are eligible to attend. The group will be divided into a number of classes and will be divided into a number of classes and will study. The Bible as their main theme. It is expected that each child who attends will profit greatly from the school and will thoroughly enjoy the work together.

Texas 34 Percent Behind Household Fats Quota

Texas has failed by 34 per cent of attaining its quota of salvaging household fats, Governor Coke Stevenson was advised today by the War Production Board. "A greater effort in this direction must be made," the communication stated.

"A large source of our supply of fats was cut off with the Japanese occupation of the Philippines and Dutch East Indies which stopped imports from the far East. This has presented a crucial problem in the manufacturing of explosives for the Allied Nations, and the public will have to salvage almost two billion pounds of grease annually to make up for the deficit in that amount caused by the Japanese conquests," the WPB statement continued.

"In behalf of this vital problem I urge every Texas housewife to save at least one tablespoon of fat daily. I urge every butcher to accept the fats and to see that they reach the nearest renderer." Governor Coke Stevenson said. "In every community there should be a local salvage chairman to answer any questions regarding this collection. In the event there is none, your county judge or mayor can give you the necessary information," he continued.
