An Old Fashioned Salt Box and Pan Holder Rack for the Kitch

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

HERE is a pair of gifts that will bring joy to any homemaker. The salt box has the graceful proportions of those used in Colonial kitchens, and the rack with cup hooks screwed in place for hot pan holders is designed to harmonize with the box.

Both box and rack are easy to cut out of plywood or scraps of thin lumber-either by hand with a coping saw or with a jig saw. The quaint stencil design may be applied right on the wood with wax crayon and then shellacked to fix the color.

NOTE-Mrs. Spears has prepared an actual-size pattern for all the pieces of this salt box and the kitchen rack with step-by-step directions for making. A part and color guide with complete direct for the stencil design is also included in the pattern may be used over and for decorating canisters, place mate other attractive gifts. Ask for patter and enclose 15 cents which covers of mailing. Address:

America, Number One Exporter

Many people speak of foreign trade in relation to this country as if it were an academic question. Usually it is spoken of in the future tense, with the implication that heretofore the United States has had but minor interest in world markets. Also, cheap foreign labor is usually thought of as a competitive impossibility, to be avaided at all costs. How abysmally uniformed many of us are on the facts of our own national existence.

The United States, before the war, was the foremost exporting nation of the world. We could live alone without benefit of foreign trade and maintain our standard of living, even if we wanted to. The products of our factories burnett, Texas, is completing his Eidson of Burkburnett. and farms go to every corner of the globe. Who says we are provincial?

Moreover our exports were of an almost limitless variety, ranging from toys to tractors and food. Cheap foreign labor hindered us little. For example, we out-traded Japan in Latin America by thirteen to one. For every dollar of goods Japan sold, we exported thirteen dollars worth to our southern neighbors. In other words, our share U. of total imports into Latin America before the war was cently but didn't get to come Columbia for not writing more 3.01%, while Japan's share was 2.6%.

The question of whether we will trade with the world nearly a year, and is the son and says the going is pretty rough is little short of silly, just as is the question of whether of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Abbott. at times. our mass production and the efficiency of our workers can meet the competition of underpaid producers across the seas. We have done both. Trade barriers at home or abroad will hurt us more than they hurt the other fellow.

Our lesson carries forward the teaching of last Sunday. It tells us and which they ought to support.

No real Christian will evade his duty to his country whether it be to pay taxes, to take part intelligently in its government, to defend it, to pray for it, or otherwise to show his love. One of the blots on the Christian church is the lack of civic righteousness on the part of many of its members.

II. Devoted to Both Brother and Neighbor (Rom. 13:8-10).

The Christian loves his brethren: indeed that love is one of the tests by which we may know that a man is truly born again (I John 3:14). But that love reaches out beyond the circle of the brethren and touches every man who has need of it. The teachers of the Jewish law had sought to circumscribe that word "neighbor," but the Lord effectively dealt with that viewpoint in the story of the Good Samaritan (Luke 10).

All the commandments concerning the vital matter of personal relationship are summed up in the one admonition, "Love thy neighbor as thyself" (v. 9). When love controls, there will be no social dishonesty, strife or ill-will. There will be no violence to the person or property of another, for "love worketh no ill to his neighbor.'

This is the real "good neighbor policy." Even between nations, we need more real love and less effort to impress one another by diplomacy and good will expeditions. Let there be less political manipulation and more loving, and we shall find our neighbor, both personal and national, responding in kind. Love draws out love from another.

III. Submissive to Both the Law of God and Man (I Pet. 2:13-17).

"Fear God" (v. 17); that is, be eager that there is no failure on your part to please Him by obeying His law. That we expect of the Christian. But we expect more; he is to be a law-abiding citizen, obeying the laws of his country "for the Lord's sake" (v. 13).

The believer may, by his godly norant criticism of foolish men who Christian makes a man a weakling, cans." or so other-world'y that he is useless in this world.
