FRANKLIN SAID IT

On January 17th, this nation celebrates the birthday of the famed Benjamin Franklin. We use his own words, which were always so forceful, in reminding our Burk Burnett readers of what he had to say about winning this war.

"When the government finds it necessary for the common benefit, advantage and safety of the nation, for the security of our liberties, properties, religion and everything that is dear to us, that certain sums shall be yearly raised by taxes, duties, etc. Today the etc are WAR BONDS—and paid into the public treasury, thence to be dispensed by government for those purposes; ought not every honest man freely and willingly to pay his just proportion of this necessary expense. Can he possibly preserve a right to that character, if by, any fraud, stratagem, or contrivance, he avoids that payment in whole or in part."

START RIGHT

To have it in our power to restore life and to refuse, is past thinking. No one in Burk Burnett would knowingly refuse. BUT THEY HAVE. Blood donors are needed today as they were needed yesterday and will be called for tomorrow. The battle fronts of the world need this miracle that it is possible for us, back here in our comfortable homes amidst our loved ones and enjoying our material benefit, can send them. Casualties mount as wars are waged. We slack up in industry that is vital for victory, can we afford to do so in donating blood. Get off to a humanitarian start in '45.

THEY PUT IT ON THE LINE

A few years back, when the automobile companies were making autos instead of war goods, there came a time every so often when attention of production men was given to preparing for new models or adjusting for changes in those currently in manufacture, so as to get the best possible results out of an assembly line.

It was a period of worry, hurry and intense application, until that assembly line was at full output once more. Well, the boys have done it again on a war job.

Chevrolet Division of General Motors recently announced its success in achieving production of two sizes and three models of Pratt and Whitney aircraft engines on a single assembly line, with the same technique formerly used in turning out various models and sizes of cars and trucks, and comparable quantity output.

It means coordination to the last degree, and entails use of a number of complex processes of control, spacing, scheduling and checking along the various supply lines that bring all the parts together at the right spot and at exactly the right time. It's a process that only the specialists in assembly organization understand. But it's one that America should salute, even if most of us do not understand just how it is done.

WE WASTED OUR TIMBER

Lumber production in 1945 will be about ten per cent below 1944, according to a statement by the U. S. Department of Commerce. Forty years ago the United States was warned by a great conference of businessmen who gathered with President Theodore Roosevelt in the White House that eighty-five per cent of the standing timber of the country was wasted in logging, or destroyed by unchecked forest fires. But the press and the people merely commented: "What of it, there is standing timber enough to last forever."

THE PRICE OF FARM LANDS

Farm land values in many parts of the United States have been approaching boom levels. The Farm Security Administration has been trying to regulate prices by stimulating loans to enable buyers to make a living and pay for their farms—over an almost unthinkable period of forty years.

Big business has been done in "staking" tenant purchase loans, the average amount of the loan being up to $2,000.00.

The government reports indicate that inflation in the value and sale of farm lands is far less than was anticipated—judged by experience in World War I when prices were blown through the roof, and farms were sold in the wheat and corn belts at $400 to $700 an acre. Most of those lands had been held at prices before the war, 50 to 70 per cent less. That was inflation at its worst.

Another Christmas has come and gone—and by this time, Dad has probably grown weary of playing with the toys and turned them back to the kids. Most Texan's enjoyed a prosperous and reasonably happy holiday, despite the absence of the boys overseas. But I wonder how many have stopped to give thanks for our really finest Christmas gifts?

Our best gifts were not the ones so prettily wrapped and placed under the tree. These are the Christmas gifts that deserve our most profound thanks:

France, given back to a free world by our fighting men—Belgium, where thousands of Americans died in the true spirit that Christmas commemorates—a few thousand feet of ground gained in Italy, or Burma or China—a few more islands occupied by American fighting men in the Pacific.

A battle fought and won thousands of feet in the sky over Germany, where Christ is forgotten—a Jap ship sent to the bottom, at a cost of American lives, a deed of heroism performed silently and unseen in the dead of night—a life given gladly, so that others may live in freedom and decency.

Those were our real Christmas presents—gifts bought with the blood and the lives of our sons and brothers and husbands. The price that was paid for them was so great that every Texan, and every American wherever he is, should bow his head in solemn reverence at the thought that mere man can make such sacrifices in the name of Humanity.

We should be thankful that our men abroad have given us so much, and that we are a year closer to final victory.

We should be grateful that we are citizens of a nation that believes that freedom, and honesty and decency are worth fighting for—and dying for.

We should be glad that, as Americans, we still believe in helping others—that we still possess the idealism that makes us take the side of the weak and the persecuted and the down-trodden.

We should be forever grateful that it is our privilege to do more than merely fight and win a war. We should be happy in the knowledge that during 1944 we have made life a little better, a little easier, and a little finer for those who are not so fortunate.

We should be grateful for the National War Fund, which gave us the opportunity of helping so many millions of suffering war victims, which made it possible for us to send aid direct to our fighting men on every front and even behind the barricades of enemy prison camps. We should give solemn thanks that in America there still lives the spirit that could conceive and put into being such an organization, dedicated unselfishly to Humanity.

And we should forever be grateful for our national, state and local leaders who gave so generously of their time and energy toward success of the great War Chest program.

Yes, it was a swell Christmas, if we truly evaluate our great gifts. And next Christmas can be even greater, if we all strive throughout the coming year to do everything in our power to support the fighting men whose sacrifices will bring final victory and peace.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"When this war is all over, Judge, there will be some mighty interesting books written about it. Expect we'll learn a lot of things we didn't know before."
"Yes, Fred, when the record is finally written we'll realize what a gigantic operation this war really was and how important to final victory many factors really were."
"Take, for example, just one industry. Few people realize the importance of the great work done by the beverage distillers during the war. A high government official called it 'an almost unparalleled example of the overnight conversion of an entire industry from peace to war.' He also said not so many months ago, while speaking about synthetic rubber, 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.' That's the type of thing I have in mind... the way great American industries at home cooperated to help our brave fighting men abroad."

"I see what you mean, Judge... a complete history of American teamwork."

Hoosier Hot Shots Sizzle In Musical

One of the highest-paid novelty acts on the air is featured in Paramount's hilarious hit "The National Barn Dance," which will open at the Palace Theatre January 19. The act is the Hoosier Hot Shots which means the equivalent of fun, music and comedy.

The Hoosier Hot Shots are the gilt-edged harmony boys of the old hayloft gang who are known to millions of radio listeners on the National Broadcasting Company's National Barn Dance Saturday night program.

The broadcast, which originates from Station WLS, Chicago, has been a coast-to-coast hit for ten years. The Hoosier Hot Shots represent just one important adjunct of the show which includes the homespun harmony and hilarity of Lulu Belle and Scotty, the Dinning Sisters, Arkie, the Arkansas Woodchopper, Joe Kelly and Pat Buttram.

"The National Barn Dance" is homespun humor that every American should love. In addition to the National Barn Dance radio cast, who play themselves, the picture includes that Time Square hill-billy Robert Benchley, Jean Heatter, star-discovery of "Double Indemnity" and "Going My Way," and Charles Quigley, who plays her big-city boy friend. The picture was directed by High Bennett.

Background For Farm Draft

Background of the selective service action requesting draft boards to reclassify and induct to the full extent permitted by law, men in the age group 18 through 25 years who hold agricultural deferments is contained in a letter written to Major Gen Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service by the Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, James F. Byrnes. Pointing out that the Tydings Amendment to the Selective Service Act does not give the agricultural worker absolute exemption, and was not intended to, Director Byrnes states: "The Secretaries of War and Navy have advised me jointly that the calls from the army and Navy will be met in the coming year will exhaust the eligibles in the 18 and 25 year age group at an early date. The army and navy believe it essential to the effective prosecution of the war to induct more men in this age group—other than the men becoming 18 years of age the only remaining substantial source in this age group is in the 364,000 men now deferred because of agricultural occupation. You have further advised me that if this group is not available, you must call into service occupational deferred men in the next age group—26 years and older, most of whom are fathers. The Chairman of the War Production Board, Mr. Krug, advises me that the loss of these men would make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to meet critical war demands. Moreover, these older men would not meet the expressed needs of the army and navy."

South Plains Army Air Field, Lubbock. Bond buying by military and civilian personnel at this advanced glider school came within an ace of topping the million dollar mark during 1944. A highly commendable total of $966,000 in war bonds was invested at SPAFF during the year.

Of this amount, slightly more than $240,000 in bonds was purchased during the two month long Sixth War Loan drive which ended December 31. This means that SPAFF doubled its quota for the second time in three war loan drives.

In each drive the quota was set at $100,000. In the Fourth War Loan Drive SPAFF bought $212,000 in bonds. In the Fifth the field's total was $192,000.

SPAFF has been one of the leading stations of the Eighth Service Command in bond-buying for many months.

Older Folks Need Regular Examination

In order to enjoy the best possible health at an age beyond, Dr. Geo. W. Cox State Health Officer, advises that persons of this age be regularly examined by their family physicians to discover in time those ailments which are likely to contribute to the ill health of older people.

The principal foes of health confronting the middle years are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, high blood pressure, hardened arteries, apoplexy, diabetes and arthritis. Arthritis is conspicuous among these diseases because it is seldom fatal but is probably the most common cause of suffering and disablement.

Dr. Cox advises periodic physical check-ups, the evidence of overweight during the middle years of life and the observance of the natural restrictions imposed by increasing age. Persons with damaged hearts should learn their limitations and never exceed them. In general, they should avoid excessive fatigue, hard or prolonged exertion, exposure to cold wet weather; they should eat moderately, use tobacco sparingly, if at all, and stop all activity before breathlessness occurs.

Medical care in middle age has two aims. The first is prompt diagnosis of attention to illness which may mean the difference between continued good health and prolonged invalidism. The second aim is as important as the first, and that is prompt attention to any known illness in order that it may not progress and to allow an opportunity for a complete cure.

Despite limitations and complications, Dr. Cox declared that the second half of life can become the better half if close attention is paid to general health and periodic examinations disclosed any incipient illness in time for early treatment.

REPORT TO TELEPHONE USERS

Our job in 1944 was twofold: To do everything we could to keep a steady stream of communications equipment flowing to the army and navy—as much as they needed—and, at the same time, to maintain quality of service as high as possible for the folks here at home.

The Bell System did keep the armed forces supplied with telephone facilities worked almost 100 per cent on their orders. At home there were unavoidable delays on some long distance calls, but local service, on the whole, was good.

Here in the Southwest telephone facilities were stretched to the limit. A total of 260,000 persons asked for service and got it. Some 233,000 of these took the faces of customers who ordered their telephones disconnected. Telephone people squeezed in the additional 27,000 by hard work and ingenuity. Nevertheless, about 185,000 applicants still are on the waiting lists because there just isn't enough equipment to go around.

At the new year, the telephone company's plans hinge upon the demands of war, of course. But certain things will be done, you may be sure.

We shall continue to provide service for those who are waiting just as rapidly as we can. However, in 1945, as in 1944, war demands will be met first and in the average it will be a considerable time before a person may apply for service and get it without delay.

Those employees who are released from the armed services will be welcomed back, and a hearty welcome will be. There will be a lot of work for them, too.

We'll begin to clear the decks for the big telephone job that will come after the war—to plan how improved devices from Bell Telephone Laboratories, and materials and equipment from Western Electric factories will be put to work for you.

That's the balance sheet of what's done and what's to do. Of course, the volume of our business has been greater than ever before, but so are our operating expenses. In fact, our rate of earnings on the telephone property during these peak war years has been less than during the worst years of the depression. There have been no war profits for the telephone company, which is exactly as it should be.

Wool Vest Fitted as Medical Kit Saves Lives of Flyers

Ten lives have been saved and possibly thousands of others will be because of a wool vest designed by an Air Force intelligence officer and sewn together by his wife in their Kansas apartment.

Behind the story of the vest is a saga of incredible heroism which followed the crash of a B-29 in the ocean off India, of torn and mangled men being literally eaten alive by sea crabs, and of ten surviving the ordeal because of the vest.

How the idea of Lieutenant Louis Jones of New Orleans, designer of the vest, resulted in saving the ten men from frightful deaths beneath the pitiless Indian sun is told by Corey Ford in the January issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

When Lieutenant Jones, former Tulane student, read in Intelligence reports that half the men who bail out of planes, lost or forgot their first-aid equipment, he began thinking of a garment that would be right with you when you bailed out.

When completed, the vest contained sulfanilamide, bandages, a morphine syrette, pocket knife, fishing tackle, flashlight, maps and a book on survival. He explained to his wife what was in his mind and she sewed the vest according to his directions, finishing it just before he left for India.

Jones did not go on the first mission of the B-29 but gave the vest to Second Lieut. Joseph E. Phalon of La Crosse, Wis. Returning from their mission over Bangkok, their fuel transfer system burned out and they were forced to ditch the plane in the Bay of Bengal, about an hour's flying time from India.

Josh Billings said, "Remember the poor—it costs nothing." And he also remarked, "There is two things in this world for which we are never fully prepared and them is—twins."

Recently, we told some Cotulla legends about O. Henry, as gathered by Deputy Sheriff John Wildenthal. To him, (we are indebted for an interesting little incident about Will Rogers. He met the cowboy humorist up North somewhere and mentioned what his home town was.

"Cotulla," exclaimed Will. "That's where I'd like to settle down—a place where you don't need a lawyer." And he then related an occurrence when he was in Cotulla about 1906 with a small Wild West show. Two ranch owners, who had been having a controversy about some land, met in the town and a fight resulted. They were big fellows and the scrap was a dandy. When it was over, they shook hands and that was the end of the argument about the land.

That was probably the cheapest settlement of a case there ever was, Will chuckled.

Social Security Benefits To Those Over 65

R. L. Surlis, manager of the local office of the Social Security Board, Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance states that many wage earners who are 65 years of age or older are now leaving employment covered by the Social Security Law. In order that their rights may be protected, and that they will not lose possible benefits, or suffer a reduction in monthly benefits, which many of them are entitled to, they should call at, or write to the Social Security Office, 412 Post Office Building, Wichita Falls, Texas, and request an explanation as to their status under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program. This also applies to survivors of wage earners who have died before reaching age 65.

Qualified personnel will discuss with potential claimants their rights under the law and will assist them in filing claims for monthly benefits.

The object of this service is to protect the beneficiary against possible losses and to render prompt and efficient service to the public serviced by the Wichita Falls Field Office.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their kindness to us at the time of the death of our husband, son and brother. We appreciate the kindness shown us during our great sorrow and each word of sympathy and the beautiful floral offerings.

With sincere appreciation to all,
Mrs. Frank Knox,
Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Knox and family.

Will Freedom Survive Victory?

Another year of war has drawn to a close. Volumes of rhetoric will be written about the awful destruction of the past twelve months. Puny efforts will be made to describe the suffering of the men of the armed forces, who face death day after day, year after year, far from home and loved ones. Actually, there are no words that can adequately sum up 1944, the most critical year in American history.

The astounding thing about the home front is the fact that except for the families of service men, it lives normally and has no conception of the horrors of war. Communiques from Washington on the price of toilet paper or some other trivial item fill countless columns in the press. Social security planning, "full" employment and dizzy talk of a contented postwar world, with all the worries assumed by a benevolent government, arise from the American scene like a haze from a swamp. Clear, unqualified thought on the subject of personal freedom, is almost totally lacking.

As the war moves on, country after country sees the spectre of oppression and government by small cliques loom larger and darker over the world. The United States is no exception to this trend. Much of our post-war planning is a crazy mixture of individual initiative and bureaucratic paternalism. The conflict between those who believe in state socialism and would have the government take over basic industries, and those who believe in the superiority of privately owned enterprise, has led to rash promises. Many of both sides apparently believe that the crux of the issue is a full stomach, with the result that a material value has been put on freedom. Each side has striven to outpromise the other until it has become rank heresy to suggest that there may at times be lean going in the future.

Millions expect government to furnish them jobs, to guarantee peacetime prices, to protect them from the insecurity of competition. They should remember that the more they ask of government the less freedom they will have. If government ends by owning most of industry and employing most of the people as well as regulating the lives of the remainder, freedom will become a mockery. As Robert S. Henry, eminent writer and historian, observes:

"The right of nonconformity is ultimately the most important of human rights, but I doubt if it can long exist independently of the right of private property. After all, the man who owns nothing, and has no hope of owning anything for himself, is under a terrible handicap in expressing untrammelled individuality. He is without a place for his foot to stand upon, in opposition to the conforming forces of the collectivist state."

Come And Bring Your Friends

Our people could lose everything of material value as the price of victory in this war and still have a bright future. However, let too much government destroy the freedom and hope of the individual to build again and there is no future. However, let too much government destroy the freedom and hope of the individual to build again and there is no future. The right of ownership is more important than ownership itself.

CARD OF THANKS

I am deeply grateful and extend my thanks and appreciation to my many good friends for the kindness shown my dearly beloved sister, Mrs. Delia Mary Smith, during her illness, and for the sympathy expressed for us in our great sorrow at the time of her death; and for the kind words spoken. The beautiful flowers were a tribute to her memory and truly a great consolation to us since we feel they bespoke the kindly esteem in which she was held by her friends, neighbors and relatives.

I wish to thank each and every one who assisted us in any way.

With sincere appreciation to all,

L. A. McNeil

Wrapping and Sacking Meat After Cured

If meat is left to air, slow oxidation takes place, causes rancidness, faded color, and flavor. Proper wrapping prevents most of trouble. Wrap separately in chester muslin, then heavy paper and paper bag and keep out insects.
