Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergeman Co-Star in 'For Whom The Bells Toll'

At long last, the much heralded, eagerly awaited picturization of Ernest Hemingway's great novel, "For Whom The Bells Toll" will be seen Friday and Saturday at the Palace Theatre. Filmed in what critics call the most beautiful Technicolor ever seen, Paramount's three year in the making movie is said to be everything Hemingway fans and movie fans have hoped for.

The search for the man and girl to play the two leading roles of Robert Jordan and Maria was equal only to that for the girl who played Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With The Wind." The final winners of the acting plums of this, or any other season, were Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergeman, and their Robert Jordan and Maria have won for them paean of praise wherever "For Whom The Bells Toll" has already been seen.

In "For Whom The Bells Toll" Paramount seems to have outdone itself in every department; it is no wonder that film fans of Burkburnett are looking forward with so much interest to seeing it when it arrives Friday at the Palace Theatre.

There is no advance in prices.
Two Burk Senior Nurse Graduates at Fort Worth on April 27th at Hemphill Street Presbyterian Church were Rosanna Shoefstall and Frances Crabtree. JOB AHEAD

Announcement has been made by the U. S. Treasury that the quota for "E" Bonds in the 7th War Loan has been set at $4 billion. That's a mighty big quota for the War Bonds that the average American buys and it's going to take some digging to make it. But we've never missed an "E" Bond goal yet and were not going to miss this one.

A big chunk, $2 1/2 billion, has been assigned to Payroll Savings, that means American workers. Right now there are about 26 million of us buying shares in the greatest nation in the world by regular voluntary allotment from our pay and extra cash investments.

Through our War Bond investments we are helping to pay for the superior arms and equipment that has made our Army and Navy the greatest fighting force in history, that has given our fighters the best possible care when they have fallen wounded or sick. Our War Bonds are helping to pay the necessary price of ultimate victory and lasting peace. We're all glad to have a real share in this critical struggle.

But don't let us forget our War Bonds are the soundest investment in the world today; that they are as strong in peace as in war. In a message to all Bond owners Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., stated that the E Bond is a "security in the history of Government finance . . . especially designed for your protection—it has special privileges such as joint ownership, the right to make a beneficiary, guaranteed values—and if held to maturity will pay a rate of return not obtainable in any like security anywhere."

Our War Bonds give us a working share in our Government and in our national economic balance. Never have the American people held the check reins on inflation so firmly. Never has the American worker had such a backlog of savings to cushion him against unavoidable temporary lay offs, to educate his children, to see him through sickness.

A nation founded on the thrift of its individual citizens is a strong nation. Our War Bond programs have given each one of us the opportunity to practice the kind of thrift that will give us the full sense of democratic independence for which our sons and brothers have died and for which we have toiled. Let's not forget it when we sign our Pledge cards in the Advance Payroll Savings Drive for the 7th War Loan.

CENTENNIAL TWIN GOALS

Revitalization of Texas rural life and resettlement of soldiers on the land or in productive jobs, as announced by Karl Hohlitzelle as the twin objectives of the Centennial of Texas Statehood Commission, should arouse widespread interest. At a time when postwar planning is occupying the attention of various important groups in the state there could be no finer goal than making farm life more profitable and attractive, either for the present occupants on the land or for our returning veterans.

Instead of rearing some huge monument of stone, steel or concrete, Chairman Hohlitzelle would commemorate the century of Texas statehood by setting in motion a program which would improve the lot of those who till the land. Realizing that the normal drift from farm to cities of rural young folks, if unchecked, will continue to rob the farms of their best stock the leaders of the rehabilitation movement will seek to lay the foundations for a movement which will bring to our farms the facilities and comforts of city life. It will require the united effort of many existing agencies, working harmoniously together towards a common objective, to achieve the desired results.

Persons sincerely interested in rural welfare often have wondered why, along with the widespread agitation for obliterating the slums of our cities, we long ago have not launched a campaign to wipe out those equally undesirable slums in our farming areas. The twin goals of the Texas Centennial of Statehood Commission are worthy of careful study and strong support.—Dallas News.

They're giving their all . . .
back them up with YOUR dollars!

AS THE battle lines approach the heart of the enemy's homeland, the fighting grows fiercer . . . and more costly in men, materiel, and money. That's one reason why every red-blooded American must back this mighty 7th War Loan with every dollar he can lay hands on.

Another reason is that this is two drives in one. In the riot last year, you were asked to invest in two war loans, as against one this time. No need to tell you that War Bonds are the safest and best investment in the world. So pour out your might, Americans, in the MIGHTY 7th War Loan. Let's show our valiant Fighting Men that we're backing them to the limit of our means . . . 100%.

Let's raise the money in the MIGHTY SEVENTH

OUR FLAG flies once again over Corregidor. The cost was great in blood and pain, but our fighting men did not turn back. And on Iwo Jima, four thousand men—more and more—died to take the long step forward to Victory. Twenty thousand others suffered wounds. Yes, we're on the way to Tokyo!

At home, your contribution to Victory is measured in dollars. The Seventh War Loan is the biggest in America's history because seven billion dollars must be raised from individuals alone. That means you must buy more and bigger War Bonds.

This is really two great loans in one; for this time last year you had been called upon twice to subscribe in War Loans. As our fighting men raise Old Glory all over the world—let's raise the money back home!

School Lunch Room

Teamwork by community leaders accounts for successful operation of the school lunch program in West Texas this year, according to E. C. Munro, Acting District Representative, WFA's Office of Supply, Amarillo.

Under local leadership, 368 school lunchrooms throughout West Texas and the Panhandle have been serving approximately 48,190 lunches daily, marking a new high in lunchroom operation in this section of the state. Only through initiative and hard work by local people was this year's high mark reached, Munro said.

Community leaders forged ahead despite many wartime handicaps and accomplished almost the impossible in keeping lunchrooms in full speed operation, he continued.

Aim of the school lunch program is to provide school children the right amounts and right kinds of food at the noon-day meal and aid local farmers in the long-time development of better markets for agricultural products. Each lunchroom is a community affair with community leaders assuming full responsibility for its operation.

Through agreement with the War Food Administration, school lunch programs are reimbursed up to certain specified amounts, depending on type of meals served and need for financial assistance. WFA reimbursements to all schools and child care centers in this part of the state for the current year ending July 1, 1945, will be approximately $642,037 less than half the amount received from local sources, Munro said.

Throughout Texas about 2,152 school lunchrooms and child care centers have been serving 221,462 lunches daily. Total WFA reimbursements for the current year aggregate $2,889,500, also less than 50 percent of the amount received locally, he explained.

Cotton Under Loan

All 1943 crop cotton under government loan August 1 will be placed in a pool, as provided in the loan agreement, and sold by Commodity Credit Corporation, Dan L. Boyd, District Representative, WFA's office of supply, has been informed.

Meanwhile, producers may repay outstanding loans and redeem their cotton under terms of the 1943 cotton loan program.

After final liquidation of the cotton, new proceeds, if any, will be distributed to farmers in proportion to the number of bales each had in the pool. All advances, accrued costs, including storage, insurance and handling charges first will be deducted before any payments are made, he said.

Average 1943 loan rate for 15-16 inch middling cotton, net weight was 20.06 cents per lb.

EUROPE: At Allied Mercy

"The direction of our fate no longer lies in German hands."

Thus spoke ex-Nazi Minister of Armaments and Production Albert Speer as the final collapse of German armies from the Baltic to the Alps signalled the break-up of the once proud third reich, which had stretched its dominance from the Atlantic to the Volga under the leadership of Adolf Hitler, himself reportedly killed in the ruins of Berlin.

Even as Speer spoke, new Fuehrer Karl Doenitz and Westast Chief Heinrich Himmler reportedly met in conference with Allied officials for the final arrangements for surrender. But as they met, the Germans, striving for the best terms possible, threatened prolongation of the war by a last-ditch stand in mountainous Norway, where 150,000 enemy troops stood entrenched in the rugged country well supplied.

Claiming to have been designated new Fuehrer by Hitler himself before his reported death, Doenitz made an early revamp of the new government in an effort to make it more tasteful to the Allies, with non-Nazi Count Von Kroebing supplanting Joachim Von Ribbentrop as foreign minister. Skilled as finance minister, Von Kroebing played a prominent part in the buildup of German industry during the Hitler regime.

Doenitz's participation in the surrender negotiations followed Himmler's earlier failure to arrange a capitulation to Great Britain and the U. S., the two powers insisting on the inclusion of Russia. Although Doenitz declared that the reich was carrying on the war against the Reds alone, Britain and America again made it plain that they could consider no surrender unless the Nazis also laid down their arms to the Russians.

Germany's end approached with the Big Three powers substantially occupying the reich along lines previously mapped out, with the British holding the northwest portion, the U. S. the central and south, and Russia the northeast. The same condition existed in Austria, where the Reds held Vienna and contiguous territory as planned while U. S. armies moved in to take over the western portion.

As Speer sounded the death-knell of Nazi Germany, he admitted the reich was at the Allies' mercy. Said he: "It lies with our enemies whether they wish to grant the German people the possibilities that lie open to the nation. . . . As far as the enemy allows it or where he orders it, reconstruction work should be speeded up by every means."

'Painful Experience' Of all the prominent German generals who surrendered to the Allies, none was more prominent than 69-year-old Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt, ace strategist who directed the enemy breakthrough in the Ardennes last winter. U. S. BUDGET: Big Cut

Because of the favorable progress of the war, President Truman was able to take axe in hand and pare the budget for the year beginning July 1 by almost $7,500,000,000 to a total of $33,000,000,000, $70,000,000 of which will represent military expenditures.

Biggest reduction of all was a $7,365,000,000 slash in shipbuilding funds, with the maritime commission left $2,242,500 for completing the present construction program and $800,000,000 for future building, reconversion of vessels and restoration of productive facilities.

Because of the expectations of an early victory in Europe, $43,710,400 was cut from the budget of the Federal Security Administration for education and training of defense workers; $13,200,000 from the Office of Scientific Research and Development; $12,100,000 from the Office of War Information for psychological warfare and activities in neutral countries; $8,894,000 from the War Production board for direction over some material controls to be removed after V-E day; $4,800,000 in the Office of Censorship for operations in areas contiguous to Europe, and $3,300,000 for the Office of Defense Transportation for supervision of traffic expected to improve by December 31.

PACIFIC: U-Boat Drive

Operating in air-conditioned submarines, equipped with sun lamps and ice cream machines, daring U. S. raiders are inflicting a heavy toll on Japanese naval and cargo shipping alike, having already sunk 400,000 tons of combat vessels and 4,000,000 tons of commercial craft. Deluxe furnishing of American submarines does not imply any softening of their doughy crews, Vice Adm. Charles Lockwood Jr., commander of Pacific U-boat operations, said. Rather, air-conditioning removes the stuffiness which made the old subs akin to a Turkish bath; sun lamps provide the healthy effects of sunlight, and ice cream helps divert the men from heavier food.

Concentrating on Jap supply routes to each new place marked for American attack and invasion, U. S. U-boats average three or four Jap ships on every trip, with sinkings of 8 and 10 vessels not unusual.

army headquarters, the tall but thinning Junker militarist softly complained: "This is a painful experience for an old soldier. Forty-three years—a very painful experience."

After accepting coffee and cognac, Von Rundstedt then asked for a cigarette, and in answer to his attending physician's protest against smoking because of his heart, he said: ". . . There are few things left now — and the doctors try to keep me from enjoying them."

Commander-in-chief of German forces in the west at the time of the Allied invasion of France, Von Rundstedt said that the American air force's pulverization of railroads and roadways made it impossible for him to bring up reinforcements to counter the landings.

Among the last men to see Hitler, Von Rundstedt said that although the Fuehrer appeared in good health when he bid him farewell in March he shook as if with palsy.

Improved Uniform International LESSON

Lesson for May 20 Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE DEFEAT OF THE SOUTHERN KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 18:1-10, 15a, 17a. GOLDEN TEXT—Come, and let us return unto the Lord.—Hosea 6:1.

History repeats itself. Men never seem to learn from the experiences of others, whether they be personal or national. Judah, the southern part of the divided kingdom, saw the downward path of Israel and its ultimate captivity. The same process went on in Judah, although hindered now and then by good kings who brought about a partial return to God.

Ultimately the day came when Jerusalem was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar's troops and the people carried off to their long years of captivity in Babylon.

Jeremiah ministered as God's prophet during Judah's declining years, bringing them God's word of judgment for their sins and urging them to submit. His voice was unheeded and for his faithfulness he received only their hatred and persecution. God gave him the strength and grace to be true in a very difficult mission.

Our lesson for today tells how God in a graphic object lesson taught the prophet and the people that they were in the hands of a sympathetic but at the same time a sovereign God.

I. The Potter and His Work (vv. 1-4). The maker of pottery took the lump of clay, placed it on his wheel, and with his hand formed it into the kind of vessel he wanted. If it became misshapen or showed a defect, he could moisten and remold the clay into another vessel as it suited him. The clay was in his hand to meet his purpose and his will.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan fittingly suggests that there are three things to be borne in mind here: a principle, a purpose, and a person. And as we apply the truth to ourselves as God's children, we spell the Person of the Potter with a capital "P," for He is none other than God Himself.

The principle is that God is absolutely sovereign, that He does as He wills for His own glory. Until we recognize that principle, "life will be a failure. If, however, I have discovered this principle alone, then my soul will be filled with terror. I must also see the purpose."

The purpose is the working out of His will for each of us. He knows us, and He has a plan for our lives, and is able to make that plan come to pass if we permit Him to do so.

But, as Dr. Morgan says, "If I know principle and purpose only, I shall yet tremble and wonder, and be filled with a haunting foreboding." But as "I press through the principle and beyond the purpose and discover the Person of the Potter, then the purpose will flame with light, and the principle that appears so hard and severe will become the sweetest and tenderest thing in my life."

God spoke to Jeremiah through the scene in the potter's house, and He also wants to talk to our hearts.

II. God and Judah (vv. 5-10, 15a, 17a). The lesson is plain. God had for His people a high and glorious purpose. He wanted to bless them and use them for His glory. But they were a sinful and rebellious people, stiff-necked and stubborn in their unbelief, and the vessel of honor which God was trying to form was marred in His hand.

God did not act in anger or in disregard of their rights. He was forced to bring judgment upon them because of their own sin. That sin is stated in verse 15—they had forgotten God.

One trembles as he applies that test of God's requirement for blessing upon a nation to our own land. There is a haunting fear that while there are some who truly worship God, and a larger number who profess to worship Him, a great host of the people of America have forgotten the God.

Does our nation remember Him and seek His counsel and blessing in its national affairs? Do we inquire after the ways of righteousness? Are we eager for spiritual revival and increasing grace even within the church?

Judah was to be scattered "as with an east wind"—and who does not know that it came to pass. Where are they today?

But even in the midst of judgment the Lord speaks of mercy. The Lord who will "pluck up, break down and destroy" (v. 7) the people who forget Him, is eager and ready "to build and to plant" the nation when it turns to Him.

The sure promise of God's future blessing upon a repentant Israel and Judah is written large in the messages of all the prophets. The same God, eternally sovereign in His purpose, is our heavenly Father. The man or woman whose vessel of life has been marred by sin and failure need only yield anew to the Potter's blessed hand.

C. Morrow, Pastor.

Christian Science Services

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, on Sunday, May 13. The Golden Text is: "They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God" (Romans 9:8.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive" (1 Corinthians 15:22.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ, as the spiritual or true idea of God, comes now as of old, preaching the gospel to the poor, healing the sick and casting out evils" (page 347.)

CABBAGE

Wichita County meal planners were asked by WFA to step up purchases of cabbage and help make full use of the wartime food supply.

Encouraging increased use, E. C. Murno, District Representative, WFA's Office of Supply, said plentiful supplies now in vegetable bins must be used immediately if waste of a perishable crop is to be prevented.

One of the best ways to balance out wartime meals, he explained, is to use more of the abundant, fresh foods and go easy on other foods not so plentiful on retail shelves.

Gerald Lee Goins reported to San Diego, California for his boot training Tuesday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goins.

A New Way To Can Berries

Wash and cap the berries. Mix 1-2 cup dry sugar with each qt. of berries. More or less sugar may be used according to taste or availability of sugar. Pack tight and full into clean cans or jars. Do not add water or syrup and do not put lids on containers. Place filled containers into a water bath canner, with water about 3-4 up on the outside of cans or jars. If jars are used, the water should be about 120° F. which is not too hot to hold the finger in. If the tin cans are used, the water may be boiling hot. Cover the water bath to hold in the steam. As soon as the water comes to a boil, count time.

Steam: Pint jars 10 minutes. Quart jars, 15 minutes.

During steaming some juice is drawn out, and the berries from the container and refill all the other containers, or one could have a few berries in a small pan which could be on top of the filled containers while they are steaming. These extra berries may be used to refill in order to pack and avoid floating fruit. After the containers have been refilled, seal the cans and seal jars according to type of lid being used. Return them to the water bath canner and add enough boiling water to cover the containers.

The Seventh War Loan Is On

HOW MUCH TO MOVE A WAR?

AS SOON as we can, we'll bring to bear on the Japs all the additional might we've been using against Germany.

What will it cost, this Moving Day of War? Estimate it in these terms: The job of moving millions of men from one front to another. Thousands of ships to carry the supplies of battle. Swarms of new-type aircraft to blast the path into enemy territory.

You can get an idea of the cost from the fact that Uncle Sam needs 7 billion from us in the mighty Seventh War Loan—now!

The Seventh War Loan will call for the greatest bond-buying we have ever done.
